CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, AUG. 20, 1937

NUMBER 8

Road Work Started

The Saunders Construction Company is moving men and equipment here from Estancia this week and work will begin next Monday, on the several road projects, in and near Carrizozo. The highway will be oiled six miles toward Ancho, eight miles toward Capitan and 28 miles toward Bingham. Fifty or more men will be employed.

Kids' Rodeo

El Paso, Texas, August 19.—More than 150 boys and girls of the Southwest will compete here Sept. 2, 3, and 4 in the fifth annual El Paso Herald-Post Kids' Rodeo—the only rodeo in the world exclusively for children. The boys and girls will compete for 100 merchandise prizes valued at more than $1500.00, for the two big grand prizes—a hand-tooled saddle for the girl champion and a cowboy pony for the boy champion—and $248 in day money and event awards.

There are enough prizes for every boy and girl in the rodeo.

Johnnie Mullens, known throughout the Southwest for his ability in staging rodeos, will be arena director again this year.

Entered in the Kids' Rodeo this year are children from almost every community in West Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Old fiddlers, too, will play the old breakdown range tunes for $85 in cash prizes, and square dance sets are entering a special contest for $75 in prizes.

Communities of the Southwest are sending princesses to compete for Queen of the Rodeo—Jean Hutton of Hot Springs, N. M., Neva Frances Harrell of Van Horn, Lee Glascock of Marfa, Nancy Rawls of Casapiedra, Mrs. Mary Bristor of Dunesan, Ariz., Eva Mae Wilken of Yaleta, and Margie Burris of Las Cruces, N. M. Princesses will be named by Silver City, Lordsburg, Artesia, Roswell, Carlsbad, Deming and Alamogordo in New Mexico and Alpine in Texas.—Herald-Post.

Family Reunion

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodson in Luna on Sunday August 8th. This was the first meeting between mother, sons and daughters since 1905 in Springfield, Missouri, when each went a different way. A very happy day was spent by all those in attendance. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Collier, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Collier, Mrs. E. Williams and Thelma Jean Collier all of Carrizozo; Mrs. Belle Collier, Mrs. L. Leslie Bailey, Norma Jeanne Bailey all of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Collier, Buddie and Lasse Collier all of Grass Valley, California; Mrs. Jack Cleghorn, White Oaks and the host and hostess. Regrets were expressed that four members of the family were unavoidably absent due to business matters and illness. They were T. Leslie Bailey of Oklahoma City, Okla., Jack Cleghorn of White Oaks and Mr. and Mrs. H. Keller of Roswell.

Mrs. Manuel Marquez returned Tuesday from Tularosa where she visited for a few days.

The West Depends On Mining

Recovery has brought with it a substantial revival in consumption of copper. Prices have been reasonably stable.

This is good medicine for Western America. Mining made the West, and mining still does much to maintain it. Increased demand for the base metals especially, means more employment, higher payrolls and stimulated purchasing power in many states.

ANCHO NEWS

HEFKER-DALE

Mr. L. V. Hefker of Strauss, N. Mex., and Miss Effie Dale were married Tuesday at Las Cruces, N. M. Mr. Hefker has for many years been with the Southern Pacific and is well liked by all his brother workmen. Miss Hefker has lived near Ancho since childhood, has many close friends, and will be greatly missed by all, after a short honeymoon in the northwestern part of the state they will be at home at Strauss where Mr. Hefker is stationed at the present time.

We wish them a long happy and prosperous life and will always welcome them back home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Collier and children left last weekend for their home in Grass Valley, California having spent two weeks with their mother, brother and sisters.

Mr. Halley Hall was rushed to the Turner hospital Sunday evening having received a broken ankle where his horse fell with him while driving some cattle after the shower. We hope he will soon be able to return home.

Miss T. Leslie Bailey and little daughter Norma Jenne are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleghorn of White Oaks, this week.

The Straley brothers were Carrizozo business visitors Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. Ted Hefren and baby returned Sunday from Hot Springs where they visited their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Poole Earnest.

Mrs. Bryan Hightower has been on the sick list for several days.

Mr. Edgar Balow is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Balow this week.

Mr. Wm. Gallacher was a visitor Sunday from the Indian Tank country.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris and children were in Carrizozo last weekend.

Buffalos Snort But Auto Horns Turn Them Back

Clayton, N. M.—Authorities smiled when buffalos were reported blocking the Colorado and Southern railroad tracks.

Then a state policeman spotted a buffalo in real flesh—and turned in four alarms.

Big game hunters pursued the beasts—two of them by now—in automobiles. The buffaloes then charged the cars, but were turned back by honking horns.

With the help of a couple of old time cow waddies, the buffalo posse corralled one and then rounded up its mate, which was running with a herd of cattle in Ralph Morledge's cow lots.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Mrs. Manuel Gonzales

Mrs. Manuel Gonzales passed away last Friday night after a lingering illness. She had been bedfast the greater part of the time for several months, but bore her suffering patiently. She was a devout Christian, a member of the Methodist church. During her entire life she was ever mindful of others and tried in every way to lighten their cares.

She was born August 1, 1869, at Cañada Alamosa, now known as Clouderoft. At the age of sixteen she was married to Mr. George Van Syckle. Four children were born to the union, three of whom died in infancy, the fourth, Mrs. Saturnino Chavez, survives her mother. After the death of Mr. Van Syckle she was married to Mr. Manuel Gonzales, in 1889. No children were born to their marriage.

Mrs. Gonzales spent the greater part of her life in Lincoln county where she had many friends, who regarded her highly for her devotion to her family and her Christian life.

A short service was held in Spanish at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chavez, Saturday at 6 p. m. to which neighbors and friends were invited.

Rev. J. A. Bell conducted funeral services at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 1:30. The church was filled with sorrowing friends. Lovely flowers bespoke the esteem in which she was held.

Her favorite hymns, "Rock of Ages" and "When the Roll is Called up Yonder" were sung.

Rev. Bell delivered a comforting message, after which the remains were interred in Evergreen cemetery.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Martinez, Marquez, Ben Sanchez, Lopez, Ortiz and Vega.

Eastern Star Picnic

All Eastern Stars and their families are invited to a picnic at the Keller ranch on Nogal Mesa, Sunday August 28th to honor Robert Morris' birthday anniversary. Bring well filled baskets. Dinner at noon. Remember the date.

Mrs. Jones Entertains

Mrs. Ola C. Jones was hostess Wednesday evening at a chicken dinner at her home here. Members of the board of education and the post office force were honored. Present were: Mrs. Hart, Miss Phillips, Messrs. McQuillen, Herman Kelt, John Kelt, Roy Harmon and Elliott Jones.

Youngs To El Paso

Mr. Chas. W. Young and family will move to El Paso Sept. 1st. The Youngs have resided in Carrizozo about ten years and during their residence here have made many friends who regret to see them leave.

Mr. Andy Padilla was a Tularosa and Alamogordo visitor last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Carpenter and children arrived from Mancos, Colorado the first of this week and are residing at the ranch home of Albert Snow. Mr. Carpenter is the new superintendent of the city schools.

Heavier Rails Pave Way For Streamlines

A lot of steel has passed under the wheels every time you hear the frequent "click" which is a traditional part of railroad travel.

With heavy modern rails now in use on all main lines, every set of clicks means that the wheels have passed over from 1400 to 1700 pounds of steel, according to Southern Pacific.

In 1869 the first transcontinental railroad was laid with rails weighing only 50 pounds per yard. These continued to be standard as late as 1903. But as train speeds began to increase and equipment became larger and heavier, the need for heavier rails became apparent.

Since that time the weight per yard has been consistently increased until today rails on straight track are ordinarily 112 pounds per yard, and on curves, 131 pounds per yard. The old 50-pound rails weighted only 88 tons per mile of track, in contrast to over 197 tons per mile for the modern 112-pound rail, and over 230 tons per mile for the 131-pound rail.

Today's heavy rails, Southern Pacific points out, are largely responsible for top notch safety record of Class 1 railroads which has been maintained even though modern streamliners now travel at speeds around 100 miles an hour and all other types of trains move on greatly accelerated schedules.

Notice of 1937 Antelope Season

The State Game Warden has announced a special permit season for 275 buck antelope from October 1st to 5th, inclusive. The areas where the season will apply are as follows:

On the Captain B. C. Mossman ranch west of Roswell, 50 permits; on the Flying H. or Hendrick's Ranch, and Scarbrough's Ranch, Northwest of Hope, 125 permits, and on the Diamond A ranch just north of Engle, 100 permits.

A five dollar permit fee is required in addition to the regular big game hunting license. Applications should be in letter form accompanied by the $5.00 permit fee. The application should state which area is preferred. Applications will be received in the office of the State Game Warden up to 9:00 a. m. September 20th. If by that time more than 275 applications have been received a drawing will be held to determine which applicants will be granted permits.

Applicants will be assigned to the areas applied for until the permits for that area are exhausted. Thereafter, assignment will be made by the Game Warden to any other area available.

When issued, permits will specify the areas to which permittee is assigned and give complete information as to where and when to check in to the various hunt areas. The Captain B. C. Mossman area is reached via Highway U. S. 880. The Flying H area is reached via State Highway 13 and 88 from Roswell, and the Engle area is reached via Highway 52 from Elephant Butte to Tularosa.

In making application be sure to write your name and address plainly.

Mrs. Nellie Reily was visiting in town the last week end.

Must Have Certificate By Sept. 1

All motorists should obtain their brake and light certificates for the final quarter of the year by September 1, state police announced today.

There will be no extension of time for the obtaining of these certificates, and failure to get them in the allotted time will result in a fine, the police said.

Low Cost Roads

The only way to build low-cost roads is to use local material. United States Public Roads engineers state that they have figured out this answer for the public benefit. In different sections of the nation there are found wide variations in natural materials such as sand, gravel, top-soil, and clay which make it necessary to adopt construction methods to the materials used. The stability of load-supporting power of a low-cost surface depends upon the content of material that is not softened by water. Sand, gravel, cinders, slag and crushed stone all have this property, but must either contain or have added to them a small amount of binder—clay most commonly. Only enough clay to hold the particles together should be used. An excess causes mud and rutting. A wide variety of mixtures has been successfully used, many of them containing 70 to 80 per cent of hard particles with a clay binder.

Engineers are further improving low-cost surface mixture with plenty of hard particles, either fine or coarse, is a first requirement. It is not worth while to treat a poor soil.

4-H Membership Grows

One of the most hopeful signs for the future of agriculture, the Michigan Farmer points out, is that the enrollment in 4-H clubs passed the million mark for the first time, in 1936. Membership continues to increase.

The young men and women who join the 4-H will be the producers of tomorrow. In their club work, they are instructed in new methods and techniques that make it possible for the farmer to raise larger crops and earn a greater return. They are given an opportunity to develop qualities of leadership that will prove invaluable to them in the future, for example, in the agricultural co-operative movement which is constantly growing in size and economic and social significance. In brief, they are wisely making careers of farming.

BASEBALL GAME

The Carrizozo Cardinals and the Highway Auto Supply of El Paso, will play here Sunday. A big turn-out is expected and a good game is assured.

Married

Mr. Glen Dorsett and Mrs. Oma McCraw were united in marriage last Saturday morning with Judge Chavez officiating. Mr. Dorsett owns the Carrizozo Shoe Shop and is very attentive to business.

The bride is an attractive young woman, and is a sister to Messrs. Lawrence and Howard Barnes who live at Red Hill.

W. E. Gilbert Shot to Death

Roswell, Aug. 18.—Preliminary hearing for Cole C. Agee, 35, on a charge of murdering William E. Gilbert, 22, as a climax of a night club fight last night, will be held here Friday afternoon at 1:30 before Pat O'Neill, justice of the peace. Assistant District Attorney Lake J. Frazier said an inquest would not be necessary.

Agee is bartender at the Pastime night club, five miles south of Roswell, where the fight occurred.

Eight witnesses were examined this morning by Frazier and Attorney O. O. Askren, who will assist with the prosecution.

Agee is quoted as having said William Gilbert followed him behind the bar with a salt shaker in his hand and that he (Agee) warned him to stop or he would shoot. Agee is then said to have backed into a corner and shot when the Gilbert boy continued to advance.—El Paso Times.

Hon. J. C. Gilbert prominent Roswell attorney is the boy's father and his Lincoln county friends regret the untimely death of his son.

Mr. Gilbert Snell of Nogal was discharged from the Rathmann hospital having recovered from an acute illness.

Is Overweight Important?

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THOSE of normal weight and many also who are overweight may have the opinion that too much importance is being attached to overweight—its dangers to health and life. If they were to talk for just five minutes to the actuary of any life or sickness insurance company they would learn some startling facts because insurance companies make or lose money on the types or kinds of risks they accept.

One of the first facts the insurance company actuary will point out is the great amount of diabetes among the overweight. He will back this up by showing the figures of Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, the outstanding authority on diabetes, who tells us that diabetes is the result or penalty of overweight.

The figures for the death rate of diabetic men over forty-five years is as follows: The per cent of overweight to death rate is as follows: five to fourteen, twice the normal rate; fifteen to twenty-four, four times the normal rate; twenty-five and over, ten times the normal rate. These figures tell in most dramatic fashion the penalty for overweight.

As you know, the commonest cause of death after middle age is disease of the heart, bloodvessels and kidneys, because the heart and bloodvessels have the hard work of carrying a large quantity of nourishment to the kidneys to have wastes or poisons filtered out and useful substances retained. Now high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and defective work by the kidneys all accompany overweight, and the simplest method of relieving unnecessary strain is to reduce the weight and size of the patient. Thus when an individual gets down to, or nearly to, normal weight his chances of developing heart, bloodvessel and kidney disease becomes very much less.

British Expert's Views.
Dr. Herbert I. Coombs in the British Medical Journal, in pointing out the importance of overweight in addition to diabetes, heart, bloodvessel and kidney disease, tells us that "arthritis—inflammation of joints—is one of the commonest diseases encountered by the general practitioner, and it is almost always associated with overweight."

Another point brought out by Dr. Coombs, and one that is likely to be overlooked, is the great change in mentality or outlook with the increase in weight. It is generally agreed that overweighters are rather cheerful and good natured but after a period of time this good nature of the slightly overweight degenerates into lack of ambition and a "don't care" attitude toward anything and everything.

Still another point, and one familiar to every physician is the bad surgical results that often follow operations on very fat patients. "Mechanical difficulties of nursing heavy patients and the increased risk of infection when large masses of fat tissue are exposed when the knife is used, are other important factors in working against recovery of overweighters who come to operation for gall stone, diabetic gangrene, and other conditions."

Causes of Diarrhoea.
Figures from private and public hospital clinics show that at least three of four give a history of being constipated. Although these people are on their feet and are not sick enough to be in bed, they can hardly be considered normal.

However, even among those who are normal or not sick, it would appear that at least half, or 50 per cent, are constipated.

It is interesting therefore to read of the other type of cases, that is those who do not appear to be sick, but instead of being constipated are afflicted with diarrhoea.

Of course at times when much fruit is eaten or when something "not fresh" has been eaten, diarrhoea often occurs, lasting for two or more days. But when diarrhoea is present all the time and no excess or over-ripe fruit or other food has been eaten, then the cause must be found to prevent the weakening effects of the diarrhoea.

Dr. A. Richieri, Buenos Aires, in the Argentine Medical Journal, states that diarrhoea occurs very often in all forms of hyperthyroidism (that is when the thyroid gland in the neck is manufacturing too much juice).

As there may be no other symptoms but the diarrhoea (no great increase in heart rate, no enlargement of the thyroid gland, no bulging of the eyes, no trembling or nervousness), it would be difficult to locate the cause as due to an overactive thyroid gland except for the metabolism test.

Crochet Her a Chic Little Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ONE, two, three—here they are, a trio of pretty little crocheted frocks worn by a trio of pretty little girls as pictured. And do little folk of feminine gender love the dresses that dotting mothers and big sisters crochet for them! Well, just show this picture to wee daughter or sister or niece or little girl neighbor and we wager that their opinion on the subject will make elders seek crochet hooks, yarns and books of instructions instantaneously, forthwith and without delay.

These cunning frocks are supposed to be party dresses—that's the way the designers thereof listed them on fashion's program, but for our part charming as any one of them would be to wear to a party, we believe your little girl will be wanting to wear her crochet dress every day. Why not? The idea of general wear will be found perfectly practical, workable and demonstrable for it is crocheted of fast dye mercerized cotton yarn that washes like new and is so much easier to launder than a dress that has to be ironed each time. Serviceable, too—almost no wear-out to it!

Spunking of smart styling in crochet fashions for little folks, never have professionals paid so much attention to this angle as during recent years. The result speaks for itself in the three models pictured. There is the charmingly styled princess worn by little Miss Six-Year-Old (possibly she may be seven); anyway the dress shown to the left reaches a new high in swank so far as children's fashions are concerned. It is crocheted of mercerized cotton, and we leave it to you to visualize it in the color your little girl happens to like best. It has puff sleeves as stylish as can be and is buttoned all the way down the front with crocheted buttons a la smartest mode. It really does not take long to crochet this dress and it is delightful pick-up work to inspire you to "improve each shining hour."

Little Two-Year-Old, who stands

centered in the foreground, has on a fluffy-ruffle type of dress with bows on the shoulders and a ribbon run through the waistline of the very full skirt. It is just the sort of be-ribboned dress that makes an adorable child look more so. Why not make two of 'em, one for Sunday-go-to-meetin' dress and one for everyday service?

Party days for a small girl mean ribbons and lace, cambric tea and ice cream and cake. What could be nicer to wear at such festive times than the lacy dress which the cunning youngster to the right is wearing? It is crocheted of delicate mercerized cotton quite to this miniature queen's taste, you may rest assured. It will also prove a boon to mother for it is dependably serviceable for all its fragile appearance, will wash, of course, and all that has to be done is to pull the lacy crochet into shape here and there carelessly with your fingers—doesn't require the least mite of ironing.

Here's a suggestion or two to mothers who are making over dresses for little daughter's play and school wear. Leading Paris couturiers are combining crochet and various materials. The idea would work out admirably in "fixing over" children's clothes. A cloth or sturdy linen dress that needed lengthening could be made attractive by adding desired inches of plain crochet done either in the identical shade of the fabric it is to trim or contrasting it. Make a matching crochet belt of the mercerized cotton and carry out the idea further with crochet buttons and perhaps decorative pockets of the crochet.

NEW SLEEK BLACKS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

To all appearances much is "going black before the eyes" of fashion. At any rate there is nothing in the way of a frock so outstanding in early fall style showings as sleek black gowns of either gleaming satin or of slinky, slenderizing, flatter-to-the-figure jersey which may be either a pure silk weave or of synthetic texture. The vogue for this type of frock is pronounced. Doff drape effects predominate in the fashioning of these stylish all-black gowns somewhat after the manner pictured. Top them with a tall draped toque or one as shown.

NEW FABRIC TRENDS FOR AUTUMN SEASON

Trends in the silks and rayons which Paris fabric houses have prepared for the fall costume collections:

New plain silks have a softer, more velvety touch, a duller surface than before.

Rayons of intricate weaving are dull, potted, "crushed," have fine mottled patternings, Ottoman ribs, plain or fancy, and many novelty surfaces obtained by uneven yarns.

Serge or twill weaves appear in delicate silks or rich metals.

Neon lights have inspired a whole group of lames made with colored metal yarn, also new changeable, mosaic, cashmere and jewel effects using the same colored metal.

Novelty velvets are made with pile that is completely dull or has only a medium luster. Also with printed gold backs or satin backs.

Metals and lames are finely patterned or quite plain, elaborate in texture and often have small Paisley, Persian, Byzantine, Oriental and Eighteenth century designs.

Capes Replace Jackets in Fall Early Ensembles for Fall

First autumn ensembles often replace coats or jackets by capes, and are trimmed with sleek, flat furs. One such is Martial and Armand's three-piece costume of brown wool, already ordered by several smart women. The skirt features front fullness and is topped by a leopard gilet which shows beneath a hip-length circular case of the brown wool finished with a tiny flat collar of leopard-skin that is knotted under the chin.

Pleats for Autumn

Autumn will be a season to wear box-pleated numbers with built-up waistlines, and the newest manner of raising a waistline is to build the skirt up at the sides only.

'Way Back When

By JEANNE

FARLEY WAS ONCE A BOOK-KEEPER

NOT everyone can be an individualist and blaze his own trail to fame. Some of us are better fitted for falling into line as part of an organization. James A. Farley's rise in politics is an example of the rewards which may come to the good lieutenant.

Farley was born in 1889 in Grassy Point, N. Y., a small village on the Hudson river. There were five children, and the father was a saloon keeper. When Jim Farley was ten years old, his father died and his mother started a combination saloon and grocery store. The boy often tended bar or worked as grocery clerk on the other side of the store. Through these jobs he learned to meet the public, be friendly with strangers and know sympathy for their problems. He attended the Stony Point high school and the Packard commercial school in New York. Graduating in 1908, he was employed as a bookkeeper. Jim was always interested in politics; and, before he was old enough to vote, he called house-to-house, getting out the Democratic vote in Stony Point.

His first political job was as town clerk of Stony Point. He was courteous to all, jolly, a halo-fellow-well-met sort of man who had a pat on the back for everyone. Through Alfred E. Smith, whom he helped elect governor of New York, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, for whom he was faithful lieutenant in the Presidential campaign, Farley forged steadily ahead. He won the top political plum in the United States, postmaster general.

POET WAS ONCE A LAWYER

READ this story of the conventional lawyer who became one of our most famous poets. Not a dreaming, unsuccessful lawyer, but a man with a profitable and important law practice, important enough to associate with Clarence Darrow at one time. A busy man of commerce who became a writer of songs and poems, sonnets, essays and drama!

Edgar Lee Masters was born in the little town of Garnett, Kan., in 1892. His father was a descendant of old Virginia stock; his mother, the daughter of a Methodist minister and descendant of Israel Putnam of American Revolutionary fame. The family moved to Petersburg, Ill., and later to Lewistown, where Edgar was raised in the typically respectable atmosphere of small town America.

He did newspaper work for the local weekly, learned the printing trade, and studied law under his father, who was one of the leading lawyers in the state. In 1931 Edgar Lee Masters was admitted to the bar and practiced in partnership with his father. The following year he opened his own office in Chicago where he was a highly successful lawyer until 1920.

But even in high school, Edgar Lee Masters was interested in writing and he never forgot his ambitions. He contributed to the Waverly Magazine of Boston and the Saturday Evening Call of Peoria; he wrote poems for a Chicago newspaper. His first book, published in 1913, while he was struggling to establish a practice in Chicago, was called simply "A Book of Verses."

"Songs and Sonnets" followed, but none of them attracted much attention until his "Spoon River Anthology" was published in 1915. Those of you who lament your unexciting lives and yearn for opportunity, look at his dual personality, the poet who has won such high awards in the realms of literature.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Advertising's Value.

VERNALIS, CALIF.—On the train a charming young woman said: "I always read the advertisements whether I want to buy anything or not. Do you think I'm crazy?"

I told her she was the smartest young woman I knew. If I were asked to describe the race in any bygone period since printer's ink came into common use, I'd turn to the advertising in the papers and periodicals of that particular age. For then I'd know what people wore and what they ate and what their sports were and their follies and their tastes and their habits; know what they did when they were healthy and what they took when they were sick and of what they died and how they were buried and where they expected to go after they left here—in short, I'd get a picture of humanity as it was and not as some prejudiced historian, writing then or later, would have me believe it conceivably might have been.

I'd rather be able to decipher the want ad on the back side of a Chaldean brick than the king's edict on the front—that is, if I craved to get an authentic glimpse at ancient Chaldeans.

Running a Hotel.

I'VE just been a guest at one of the best small-town hotels in America. I should know about good hotels because, in bygone days, I stopped at all the bad ones.

The worst was one back East—built over a jungle of side tracks. I wrote a piece about that hotel. It had hot and cold running cockroaches on every floor and all-night switch-engine service; the room towels only needed buttons on them to be peekaboo waists, but the roller towel in the public washroom had, through the years, so solidified that if the house burned down it surely would have been left standing. The cook labored under the delusion that a fly was something to cook with.

Everybody who'd ever registered there recognized the establishment. So the citizens raised funds and tore down their old hotel, thereby making homeless wanderers of half a million resident bedbugs; and they put up a fine new hotel which paid a profit, whereas the old one had been losing money ever since the fall of Richmond.

A good hotel is the best advertisement any town can have, but a bad one is just the same as an extra porthouse where the patients have to pay.

Poor Lo's Knowledge.

SOMETIMES I wonder whether we, the perfected flower of civilization—and if you don't believe we are, just ask us—can really be as smart as we let on.

Lately, out on the high seas, I met an educated Hopi, who said to me:

"White people get wrong and stay wrong when right before their eyes is proof to show how wrong they are. For instance, take your direction that there are only four direction points—an error which you've persisted in ever since you invented the compass, a thing our people never needed. Every Indian knows better than that."

"Well then," I said, "how many are there, since you know so much?"

"Seven," he said, "seven in all."

"Name 'em," I demanded.

"With pleasure," he said. "Here they are: north, east, south, west, up, down and here."

Of course, there's a catch in it somewhere, but, to date, I haven't figured it out.

The Russian Puzzle.

UNDER the present beneficent regime, no prominent figure in Russia's government, whether military or civil, is pestered by the cankering fear which besets an official in some less favored land, namely, that he'll wear out in harness and wither in obscurity.

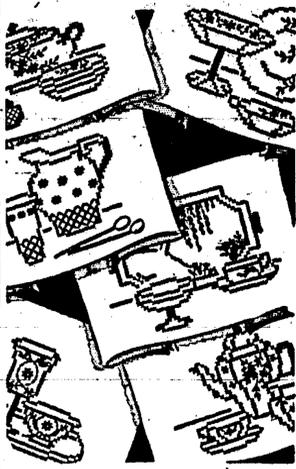

All General So-and-Soski or Commissar Whatyoumaycallowitch has to do is let suspicion get about that he's not in entire accord with administration policies and promptly he commits suicide—by request; or is invited out to be shot at sunrise.

To be sure, the notion isn't new. The late Emperor Nero had numerous well-wishers, including family relatives, that he felt he could spare and he just up and spared them. And, in our own time, Al Capone built quite an organization for taking care of such associates as seemed lacking in the faith. 'Twas a great boon to the floral design business, too, while it lasted.

But in Russia where they really do things—there no job-holder need ever worry about old age. Brer Stalin's boys will attend to all necessary details, except the one, formerly so popular in Chicago, of sending flowers to the funeral.

When Using Soda—To prevent the soda taste in foods in which soda is used as a leavening agent, dissolve the soda in a small amount of liquid called for in the recipe before mixing it with the other ingredients.

Testing Fish—If fish is fresh and has been properly refrigerated from the time it was caught, it will have a little odor. If it has a strong odor do not serve it. Let your nose and eyes tell you whether or not it is usable.

Avoid Tarnish—Silver that is put away in apt to tarnish quickly. But if you put a few pieces of camphor in with it it will keep bright.

Sparkling Glasses—To get a beautiful sparkle on cut glass, wash in cold water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. Dry and polish with clean tissue paper.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life—life—life—constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function, Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, periodic headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

DOAN'S PILLS

Present, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your doctor, the drug store, or mail order Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Canada Looks to Beavers for Key to Drouth Problem

Their Return May Stem Erosion of Soil, Also

Ottawa.—Comeback of beavers will play a part in solving the drouth and soil erosion problems in Canada. Because of their industrious building of dams and underwater homes, beavers regulate the flow of water, make streams navigable, create reservoirs for time of small rainfall, and so indirectly keep sufficient seepage in the ground to allow trees and grasses to grow.

In charge of the venture is Canada's beaver man, Grey Owl.

Grey Owl likes beavers. He has them in to lunch, he takes them on his travels. Grey Owl feeds baby beavers milk from a syringe, he likes the young beavers wet on his knee. He lets them build their house in his cabin, and delights when they chew the legs of his chairs.

Helps Beavers Build. Grey Owl decided that if the beavers were once more to be numerous they must overcome their fear of mankind.

Here is how he started to cultivate the beavers' confidence. When he saw the animals having difficulties with extra large trees, his axe cut through the timber quicker than their teeth. The beavers found trees chopped down for them ready to use in building their houses. They found a man actually helping them construct dams, plug the difficult places, make their houses waterproof. Grey Owl's wife, Anahareo, taught the beavers to come at her call. Beavers swim out to her canoe. Wherever Grey Owl and Anahareo go for the Canadian government they in this way help the beavers of their new locality, teach them to trust man.

Where they found injured or orphaned baby beaver they nursed and fed them. They found beaver like apples and boiled rice, in addition to their natural food of willow shoots and leaves. Grey Owl found that the beavers cry like humans, that their voice registers feelings with inflections easy to interpret, that beavers have the simpler emotions, show gratitude and affection.

Changes Working Hours. To further aid in studying the beaver, Grey Owl has been able to change the beaver from a night worker to a day worker so that cameras could film the little animals in action. Due to Grey Owl's perseverance with these animals, numerous government films have been made to show the necessity of saving the beaver from constant hunting.

The results are already showing after Grey Owl's few years of work with the beavers for the Canadian government.

Find No 'Psychic' Talent Among University Classes

Minneapolis, Minn.—Tests of a large class of freshmen and sophomore students at the University of Minnesota, here, to discover any individuals that might have special mind-reading or telepathic ability failed to reveal a single individual so talented. Dr. Kenneth H. Baker reported to the current issue of the Journal of Experimental Psychology.

The tests conducted were similar to those made at Duke university in which the subjects attempted to call each card in a special set as it was removed from a deck held face down before them. The results are not conclusive, Dr. Baker warns, but represent only a preliminary attempt to secure subjects who could duplicate the performances reported from Duke university.

Newest Night Comfort Is Air-Conditioned Bed

Cincinnati.—Aid for hot weather sleeping or for patients afflicted with fever is an air-conditioned canopy for beds which is entirely transparent to overcome the dislikes of people with claustrophobia. Most everyone has this dislike of closed spaces in some degree or another. The canopy, made of a trade material known as Pliofilm, is soft, can be rolled up, is lightweight and washable. The canopy is placed over a bed like a mosquito cloth which a mother uses to cover the baby in his carriage, and at the foot of the bed the canopy covers the outlet of a small airconditioning unit.

A lowering of the temperature by ten degrees is claimed for the unit and the excess humidity is simultaneously removed.

X-Rays Predicted Carolina's Quints Before Their Birth

They Only Happen Once in 40,000,000 Pregnancies

Chicago.—The North Carolina quintuplets, prematurely born last November, but who died at birth, will go down in medical history as the first quintuplets ever diagnosed—as such before birth.

An X-ray picture was taken of the mother when she entered the Duke hospital, Durham, to have her baby. The film showed four heads and five bodies.

Next day the babies were born and, like the Dionnes, all were girls. Four were normal and the fifth was a headless freak. Two of the babies survived—as long as 30 minutes.

Doctors Argue, Study. Doctors throughout the country for the first time read and argued over this quintuple pregnancy, which brings the total of reported quintuplets in all medical history up to 35.

Once in 40,000,000 births is the expectancy of quintuplets. Not only were the North Carolina births the first instance of a diagnosis of quintuplets being made prior to delivery, but because the babies died in a hospital it was possible for the physicians to make a complete anatomical study of the fetuses, placenta and membranes.

One Egg or Several? Drs. E. C. Hamblen, R. D. Baker and G. D. Derieux report the case and their finds in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

What will provoke the most discussion among physicians, upon reading this report, is whether these babies sprang from one egg cell or from several. Were they identical or where they not?

The Duke hospital doctors are themselves perplexed, after presenting all their findings, but are inclined to the opinion that the five babies may well have been derived from a single ovum.

Think You Slept Quietly? Aha, You Just Don't Know!

Chicago.—When you wake up after a sound night's slumber you may feel as though your rest was unbroken and continuous all night long.

Really, though, you went through a changing pattern of deep sleep, stirring movement, near-arousal and then sinking down into the depths of quiet sleep again. This pattern is repeated over and over throughout the night, but as morning approaches the depths of sleep become shallower and the sleeper is easier to awaken until the alarm clock finishes the job.

This pattern of sleep was found in the course of experiments conducted at the department of physiology of the University of Chicago with both dogs and humans. By electrical means the tossings and stirrings of the sleepers were recorded and measurement was made of the degree of noise required to disturb them.

Each person seems to have his own pattern of movement and level of sensitivity to noise, and he tends to follow this pattern more or less regularly, the investigators, Drs. F. J. Mullin, N. Kleitman and N. R. Cooperman, said in reporting their findings to the Journal of Experimental Psychology.

The ease with which a person can be awakened is related to the length of time since he last moved, rather than the time of the night.

Individuals differ in both restlessness and soundness of their sleep, but the differences are not always in the same direction for both factors. On the average, the most quiet sleeper is the one most easily aroused, it was found.

During the course of the night, the test subjects sometimes would stir, wake and press a signal key to inform the investigator they had roused, and yet not recall the act in the morning. Some people do this with alarm clocks.

Worse Drouths Would Empty Fertile Regions

Denver.—With climatic changes larger than those that brought the drouths and windstorms of the past few years, there would be a migration of man from the fertile parts of the nation where he now lives, Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois state geological survey, predicted to the meeting here of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

But a more immediate problem than a possible return of the glacial period is the preventing of the drift of America's fertile soils. Even midwestern farmers must conserve and protect their greatest natural resource, he warned. Dust storms take place even in a moist climate if bare areas are exposed to the wind. In more arid regions the balance between erosion and vegetation is so critical that man must actively aid nature.

ADVICE ON HOW TO MAKE PASTRY

Flour and Proportion of Fat First Consideration.

By EDITH M. BARBER

"THAT certainly is a good pie," I remarked to my hostess not long ago when I was spending a week end in Boston. "Well, it ought to be," she returned "You taught me to make it." I remembered then that when I was visiting her a few years previously, she had complained that she just could not make pastry. I gave her a demonstration, then and there, of how easy it was to make what I call foolproof pastry.

First of all there is the flour and the proportion of fat. Bread and all-purpose flour demand one-third cup of shortening to each cup of flour. One cup of pastry flour, on the other hand, will take only one-fourth cup of shortening. As far as the type of shortening is concerned, lard or hardened vegetable fat is usually preferred to butter, which makes a less tender crust.

For large and small quantities the salt should be sifted with the flour and the cold shortening should be cut into it with a fork or with a knife. Perhaps you can use your hands for this purpose, but mine are too warm. The fat should be well mixed with the flour, but should not be too fine. A hole at one side should be made in the mixture and into this one tablespoonful of cold water should be poured. As much flour as the liquid will take should be drawn into it with a knife until you have a small ball of dough. This process should be repeated with the rest of the flour mixture. The balls of dough and any dry mixture left over should then be pressed together with the fingers. A few extra drops of water may be needed.

When making crust for pies you will find it easier if the dough has been chilled in the refrigerator half an hour or so. With custard pies, however, you will have better results if the dough is rolled immediately, your pan lined with it and then the pan itself set in the refrigerator to chill thoroughly.

Pastry.

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup fat
- Cold water

Sift together the flour and salt. Cut in the fat with two case knives. For a large quantity a wooden bowl and chopping knife may be used. When fine, add at one side of the bowl one tablespoon of cold water and stir in as much of the flour and fat as the water will take up. Continue this until you have four or five balls of dough and some dry flour left in the bowl. Press together with your fingers. If all the dry flour is not taken up add a little more water. Chill and roll.

Apple Pie.

- 5 or 6 apples
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon flour

Pare, core and slice the apples. Mix the sugar, salt and cinnamon. Line a pan with pastry, sprinkle with a tablespoon of flour mixed with a tablespoon of sugar, and add the apples and sugar in layers. Dot with butter, cover with an upper crust, and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes, then lower the temperature and bake until the apples are soft. This method of arranging the filling may be used for all fruit pies.

Chocolate Chiffon Pie.

- 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 squares melted chocolate
- 1 cup hot milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup cream, whipped

Soak the gelatin in the water five minutes. Make a sirup of the sugar, chocolate, hot milk and salt. Add the softened gelatin to this mixture, stirring thoroughly. Allow to cool, add the vanilla and as the mixture begins to thicken, fold in the whipped cream. Fill a baked pie shell with this mixture and chill. Before serving, garnish with whipped cream.

Coconut Custard Pie.

- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- Nutmeg

Beat the eggs, add the remaining ingredients in the order given. Pour into a deep pie-pan lined with pastry. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) ten minutes then at a lower temperature thirty minutes or until the custard is firm and the crust brown.

Lemon Souffle Tarts.

- 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 lemon, rind and juice
- 1 tablespoon boiling water
- 4 egg whites

Mix egg yolks with sugar, lemon juice and water, cook over hot water until smooth and thick. Beat egg whites stiff and add to the first mixture. Fill baked tart shells and bake a few minutes in a hot oven.

Here's Planned Prettiness

IF AUTUMN comes will you be left behind with faded summer frocks, Madam? No, no, many times no—that is, not if you will but accept this cordial invitation from Sew-Your-Own. It's the easy way to become frock-o-urs of chic for yourself and your daughters, as well. So Madam, why not sew, sew, sew-your-own!

A Dutch Treat.

It isn't often mother gets a break (it's beauty before age, you know) but this trip she does. Sew-Your-Own has designed, especially for her, an all-occasion frock (above left) that's simply lovely to look at. If father's compliments have become a bit rusty from lack of use, this frock will bring them back to their former brightness. It's pretty in any fabric: gingham, silk crepe, rayon prints, percale, or sheer wool.

It's a treat, too, for mother when she finds a dress for Little Sis that's as carefully planned as the captivating model above center. It gives the growing girl the fluffing out she needs in the shoulders, and the prettily flared skirt offers her graceful poise indoors, plus full freedom for activity out of doors.

Chic for the G. F.

And a treat for all concerned is the frock Sew-Your-Own has created for The Girl Friend. She may be collegiate, high schoolish, a steno, mother's helper, or a young lady of leisure, but whatever she is she'll look the part and prettier in a take-off on Pattern 1327. It is new, novel, and easy to sew. It is

Congressional Reflections

Office of Senator Chavez, Aug. 14, 1937. Senator Chavez was not discouraged when informed that Judge Bratton had not been appointed to the Supreme Court. "I feel confident," he said, "that his qualifications are admitted by all." In the event that there is another vacancy I am sure he will get the call. The Nation needs his services.

Senator Chavez, this week, through the co-operation of Joe Bursey, head of the New Mexico Tourist Bureau, who sent him many attractive booklets about the State, invited his colleagues in the Senate and the members of the House of Representatives to visit New Mexico for their vacation. "Many of my colleagues," said Senator Chavez, "have told me that they plan to visit New Mexico following this session."

Sportsmen of New Mexico will be interested in news of the Pittman Wildlife Bill which provides for Federal assistance in the erection of game refuges and sanctuaries. The bill was up for discussion this week in the Senate. Senator Chavez, at the request of the members of the New Mexico Game Commission, amended the measure by striking out the provisions which gave to the Secretary of Agriculture undue authority over game conditions in the States.

Wednesday, Senator Chavez, in conjunction with Senator Hatch, introduced a measure providing for Federal participation in the Coronado Cuarto Centennial. This action was necessary in view of the fact that the coinage measure, introduced by the two Senators for the benefit of the Cuarto Centennial, had little likelihood of passing in face of a House measure doing away with commemorative coinage bills and the statement by President Roosevelt that he would veto all coinage measures. Senator Chavez, in introducing the measure, elaborated briefly on the significance of the Cuarto Centennial and its importance to the United States in connection with its present Latin-American policy.

The Senate Agriculture Committee reported favorably Senator Chavez's bill, S. 2688, which provides for a survey for flood control and soil erosion needs on the Pecos and Rio Grande watersheds. Senator Chavez hopes to pass the bill before Congress adjourns.

Senator Chavez was advised this week by Postmaster General Farley that J. A. Werner of Albuquerque had been appointed Postmaster of Albuquerque to succeed Roy L. Cook, the appointment to become effective at the close of business August 31st.

Senator Chavez is awaiting completion of the report of Oliver La Farge before initiating steps to correct abuses within the Indian Bureau.

In a public statement released Friday, Senator Chavez opposed State Department plans to lease warships to Brazil. He indicated that the plan was contrary to the good neighbor policies of the Administration.

Ettore Franchini, prominent Albuquerque merchant, visited with Senator Chavez this week. He had come East to assist Nick Napoleon, former Bernalillo County Commissioner in making arrangements for a trip to Italy. Virgil McKnight, Albuquerque, was also a recent caller. While

Notice of Offer of Lands For Grazing Lease

Section 15 of the Taylor Grazing act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1269), as amended by the act of June 26, 1936 (49 Stat. 1976), provides that in the issuance of leases preference shall be given to owners, homesteaders, lessees, or other lawful occupants of contiguous lands to the extent necessary to permit proper use of such contiguous lands, except that when such isolated or disconnected tracts embrace seven hundred and sixty acres or less, the owners homesteaders, lessees, or other lawful occupants of land contiguous thereto or concerning thereon shall have a preference right to lease the whole of such tract, during a period of 90 days after such tract is offered for lease upon the terms and conditions prescribed by the Secretary.

Notice is hereby given that the vacant, unreserved appropriated public lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, and not included in any grazing district established under the provisions of Section 1 of said Taylor Grazing Act, and all lands included in outstanding one-year grazing leases issued pursuant to departmental instructions of October 22, 1936 (Circular No. 1412), are hereby offered for lease for grazing purposes.

Said outstanding one-year leases will expire on various dates and upon their expiration, the lands embraced therein will become subject to new leases without prejudice, however, to the rights of the present lessees to file timely renewal applications.

Any and all persons desiring to lease any part thereof for grazing purposes under the authority of said Section 15 of the Taylor Grazing Act, as amended, or those having adverse or conflicting claims to such lands should file proper grazing lease applications or notice of their claims in the appropriate United States District Land Office or in the General Land Office for lands in States in which there are no District Land Offices. Anyone desiring to assert a preference right to lease isolated or disconnected tracts of seven hundred and sixty acres or less will be allowed 90 days from the date of this notice within which to file proper application for lease.

The holders of one-year leases issued under said departmental instructions of October 22, 1936, should not file new applications to lease lands embraced in their applications upon which such leases were based but instead should file petitions for renewals on forms provided. Said one-year leases will in no way be distributed as a result of this action, nor will the preference rights of the holders of such leases be jeopardized thereby.

Notice is also hereby given that all lands not on the date hereof subject to lease under this section of the act, by reason of their appropriation or reservation, but which become subject to lease at a later date, are hereby offered for lease as of the date they become subject to such appropriation and anyone desiring to assert a preference right to lease isolated or disconnected tracts of seven hundred and sixty acres or less of such lands will be allowed 90 days from the date they become subject to lease within which to file proper lease application.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS TO BE SUBMITTED AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD SEPTEMBER 21, 1937.

Pursuant to the provisions of a Joint Resolution, Section 1, of Article VII; a Joint Resolution, Article IX, Number 17; Section 2 of Article X; Section 1 of Article V; Section 10 of Article IV; at pages 691 to 695 of the Session Laws of 1937, the following Constitutional Amendments are submitted to the qualified voters at the Special Election to be held September 21, 1937.

MRS. E. F. GONZALES, Secretary of State.

Constitutional Amendment No. 1

A Joint Resolution Proposing to Amend Section 1 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico Relating to the Qualification of Voters, School Elections, Absentee Voting and Registration. Senate Joint Resolution No. 3; Approved March 6, 1937.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Section 1. It is hereby proposed to amend Section 1 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico so as to read as follows:

"Section 1. Every citizen of the United States, who is over the age of twenty-one years, and has resided in New Mexico twelve months in the County ninety days, and in the precinct in which he offers to vote thirty days next preceding election, except idiots, insane persons, persons convicted of a felonious or infamous crime unless restored to political rights, and Indians not taxed, shall be qualified to vote at all elections for public officers. The Legislature may enact laws providing for the voting of qualified electors absent from their places of residence on the day of any general election. All school elections shall be held at different times from other elections.

The legislature shall have the power to require the registration of the qualified electors as a requisite for voting, and shall regulate the manner, time and place of voting. The legislature shall enact such laws as will secure the secrecy of the ballot, the purity of elections and guard against the abuse of elective franchise. Not more than two members of the board of registration and not more than two judges of election shall belong to the same political party at the time of their appointment."

Section 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the electorate for approval or rejection at any special election held before the next general election. If no such special election is held before the next general election then this amendment shall be submitted at the said next general election.

Constitutional Amendment No. 2

A Joint Resolution Providing for an Amendment to the Constitution of the State of New Mexico by Adding Thereto Another Section to Article IX, the Same to Be Numbered 17, Which New Section Authorizes Incurring "State Institution Building Bonds" Indebtedness of the State of New Mexico Without Submitting-the-Same to the Electors of the State.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 14; Approved March 10, 1937.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Section 1. That the following amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico as an additional section to Article IX, to be numbered Section 17, is proposed to be submitted to the electors of the State.

"Section 17. Laws enacted by the Thirteenth Legislature authorizing the issue and sale of "State Institution Building Bonds" for the purpose of providing funds for acquiring, improving, constructing and equipping state-owned and institutional buildings and levying an ad valorem tax to pay said bonds and interest thereon shall take effect without submitting them to the electors of the state, and notwithstanding that the total indebtedness of the State may thereby temporarily exceed one percentum of the assessed valuation of all property subject to taxation in the State. Provided, that the total amount of such state institution building bonds shall not exceed $1,250,000. The said bonds shall pledge the full faith and credit of the State of New Mexico for the payment thereof and the Legislature shall levy and impose an ad valorem tax each year in an amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as the same become due, which levy shall be obligatory until the entire principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid.

Section 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the electorate for approval or rejection at any special election held before the next general election. If no such special election is held before the next general election, then this amendment shall be submitted at said next general election.

Constitutional Amendment No. 3

A Joint Resolution Proposing to Amend Section Two of Article Ten of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico, Relating to County Officers, Term of Office, Ineligibility. House Joint Resolution No. 24; Approved March 5, 1937.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Section 1. It is hereby proposed to amend Section 2 of Article X of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico so as to read as follows:

"Section 2. All county officers shall be elected for a term of two years." Section 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the electorate for approval or rejection at any special election held before the next general election. If no such special election is held before the next general election then this amendment shall be submitted at said next general election.

Constitutional Amendment No. 4

A Joint Resolution Proposing to Amend Section One of Article Five of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico, Relating to State Officers, Term, Ineligibility, Residence. House Joint Resolution No. 23; Approved March 5, 1937.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Section 1. It is hereby proposed to amend Section 1 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico so as to read as follows:

"Section 1. The executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney-general, superintendent of public instruction and commissioner of public lands, who shall be elected for a term of two years beginning on the first day of January next after their election. "The officers of the executive department except the lieutenant-governor, shall during their terms of office, reside and keep the public records, books, papers and seals of office at the seat of government."

Section 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the electorate for approval or rejection at any special election held before the next general election. If no such special election is held before the next general election, then this amendment shall be submitted at said next general election.

Constitutional Amendment No. 6

A Joint Resolution Proposing to Amend Section 10 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico. House Joint Resolution No. 20; Approved March 15, 1937.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

That it is hereby proposed to amend Section 10 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico, said Article being entitled "Compensation of Members of the Legislature" so as to read as follows:

"Section 10. Each member of the Legislature shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of seven dollars for each day's attendance during each session and ten cents for each mile traveled in going to and returning from the seat of government by the usual traveled route, once each session, together with three dollars for each day's attendance during each session for expenses, and he shall receive no other compensation, perquisites or allowance."

This amendment shall be submitted to the electorate for approval or rejection at any special election held before the next General Election. If no such special election is held before the next General Election, then this amendment shall be submitted at the next General Election. Publish Aug. 13, 20, 27, Sept. 3.

Attend Family Reunion

Mr. H. E. Robinson of El Centro, California arrived Sunday last and on Tuesday he and his sister, Mrs. Carl Garrison and Mrs. Garrison's mother, Mrs. W. O. Garrison left for Brooklyn Iowa to attend a family reunion. They will return here after the reunion and pack up, and move to their new location in Bakersfield, Calif. on or about the first week in September.

Statement of Senator Dennis Chavez

Washington, D. C., August 19, 1937. Much as I dislike to oppose the State Department, I find it necessary to refuse to go along with the suicidal plan now being considered. The plan to lease American vehicles of destruction to Brazil in the face of the harvest of friendship and cordiality now being reaped from the good neighbor policy of the present Administration strikes me as the height of folly and inconsistency. I have admired and applauded the quiet, consistent and highly successful efforts of the Secretary of State. Less glamorous than any other New Deal program, and the least appreciated, the good neighbor policy holds possibilities of future good far beyond all the others taken together. In its success it reposes the peace and safety of our Nation. Given commerce and friendship with our natural friends in Latin-America we can definitely turn away from the impending conflicts of a world gone mad. I will not vote for, and will do all in my power to stop, an act which in my opinion jeopardizes the peace and happiness of America.

Further, there is no reason for this Nation to reassume the paternal attitude which brought us so much disfavor in the past. The Senate this session unanimously ratified the five treaties agreed upon at the Pan American Conference, treaties designed to promote peace and co-operation in Pan America. The present plan does little to promote these objectives.

Peiping Gets "Protection"

ALTHOUGH Nanking is preparing to wage a destructive war, do not be afraid.

"The Japanese army will protect you."

Emperor Kang Teh

Torashimo Kawabe marched through the city, taking possession of it in the name of Tokyo.

What would be the result of the new Japanese domination apparently begun by Maj. Gen. Kawabe was a matter for speculation.

Japanese control was extended in Tientsin when the Japanese co-commissioner of the Chinese salt administration announced he had taken over the administration's Tientsin district.

New York's Share Cut

SENATOR ROBERT F. WAGNER'S (Dem., N. Y.) $720,000,000 housing bill was passed by the senate, 64 to 10, but the senator scarcely recognized it when his fellows were done with it.

Senator Wagner and other administration leaders struggled frantically to defeat an amendment by Harry F. Byrd (Dem., Va.) limiting the cost of housing projects to $1,000 a room or $4,000 a family unit.

The bill originally called for expenditures up to $1,500 a room or $7,000 a family unit. Opponents conceded that the Byrd amendment would prohibit the building of the type of houses Senator Wagner had in mind in New York City.

Some senators charged that the Wagner bill was designed to afford the bulk of the housing appropriation to New York. This was prevented by the adoption of an amendment by Millard E. Tydings (Dem., Md.) which limited the share of any one state to 20 per cent.

Where Was John L. Lewis?

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, emerged as the administration's favorite son in matters affecting labor as he was permitted virtually to write his own amendments to the house version of the wages and hours bill.

Southern Democrats in the senate, led by Pat Harrison of Mississippi, bitterly opposed the bill, but their motion to recommit it to committee was defeated, 48 to 36.

The bill, as passed by the senate, would create a labor standards board empowered to set minimum wages up to 40 cents an hour and maximum work weeks down to 40 hours.

which would permit it to deal only with employers who maintain "sweatshops" and "starvation wages" through fake collective bargaining agencies.

The "Green amendments" in brief are:

1. Board jurisdiction over wages and hours in any industry only if it finds that collective bargaining agreements do not cover a sufficient number of employees or facilities for collective bargaining are ineffective.

2. Acceptance of wage-hour standards established by collective bargaining in any occupation on prima facie evidence of appropriate standards in that occupation.

3. Board cannot alter wage-hour standards already prevailing in occupation in community considered, or establish classification in any community which affects adversely the prevailing standards in the same or other communities.

4. Industries are protected against prison-made goods.

5. "Label provision" of original act is eliminated to protect industry from what is considered a nuisance.

6. Government work is removed from the board's control and placed under the Walsh-Healey act.

Chairman Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.) of the labor committee indicated the bill would be brought up in the house under a special rule and speedily passed.

Sonata O. K.'s Court Reform

ALL that was left of the administration's sweeping court reform proposals passed the senate in an hour without a record vote. This was the procedural reform bill for the lower federal courts.

Vice President Garner whipped the measure through, even though Senators McDuffey (Dem., Pa.) and Lewis (Dem., Ill.) loudly protested that they wanted to go on record as opposed to it.

The bill, as summarized by Sen. Warren R. Austin (Rep., Vt.), who wrote most of it, included:

Provision making it the duty of the District court, in any constitutional suit between private citizens, to notify the Department of Justice that upon a showing by the attorney general that the United States had a probable interest the government would be made a party to the suit.

Permission for the senior circuit judge to reassign district judges within that circuit for the purpose of clearing congested dockets. (If necessary, a judge may be transferred from one circuit to another.)

Permission for direct appeal to the Supreme court, if 30-day notice is given, from any decision of a District court against the constitutionality of an act.

Requirement that all suits for injunction against the operation of federal statutes to be heard by a three-judge court, including at least one circuit court of appeals judge.

Memorial for Will Rogers

THE memory of Will Rogers, America's lately beloved gum-chewing philosopher, will be enshrined in fitting manner near his Claremore, Okla., home after the President signs a bill which has now been passed by both houses of congress.

Mrs. Rogers will donate the site for the building. Architects will compete for the right to design it. While nothing has been definitely decided as yet, it is held probable the memorial will be a museum of Indian life. Rogers was part-Indian.

Cutting Madrid from Sea

SLOWLY but determinedly Gen. Francisco Franco's rebels are pressing their campaign to cut Madrid off from Valencia and the sea. Latest advances of well-mobilized and mechanized troops, following up co-ordinated attacks, brought the insurgents near to the capture of Salvacanea, which is only 30 miles from Cuenca.

Meanwhile, other nations were on the point of being involved again. There was a riot among rebel troops at Toledo, and Italian soldiers were alleged to have aided in quelling the uprising. Four merchant ships—one British, one Italian, one French and one Greek—were attacked in the Mediterranean by three "mystery" planes.

Seek Unemployed Count

FOR four years congress has failed to order any serious attempt at finding out just how serious the unemployment problem is. Now the senate has passed a bill, sponsored by Hugo D. Black (Dem., Ala.), which directs the President, with funds from the 1937 relief appropriation, to order a census of the unemployed and partially unemployed on or before April 1, 1938.

Senators Byrnes, Lodge, Clark and others objected that the bill was inadequate, but permitted its passage on the unanimous consent calendar.

What will be included in the questionnaire is, under the terms of the Black measure, to be determined by the secretary of commerce, the secretary of labor, the Works Progress administrator, the chairman of the social security board, the chairman of the central statistical board and the director of the census.

Harry L. Hopkins repeatedly has told the President that an unemployment census would be useless. Administration opponents have charged that he only wished to exaggerate the unemployment problem.

See Little Hope for Peace

AS MORE and more thousands of Japanese soldiers poured into North China, the Nanking foreign office held little hope that a real war could be averted.

Chiang Kai-shek

Peiping Japanese and Chinese forces were approaching each other. There were said to be 45,000 Japanese, well-equipped and organized, and 75,000 comparatively inefficient Chinese.

Between the Peiping-Tientsin line and the Yellow river were 150,000 Chinese troops, half of them controlled by the national government, and south of the Yellow river were 200,000 more. It was reported that if the Chinese dictator, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, wanted to fight, he could throw 1,000,000 men, including his crack German-trained divisions, into the field.

U. S. Keeps Naval Pace

INDICATIONS were that both the United States and Great Britain would embark upon unusually large peacetime naval building programs in 1938.

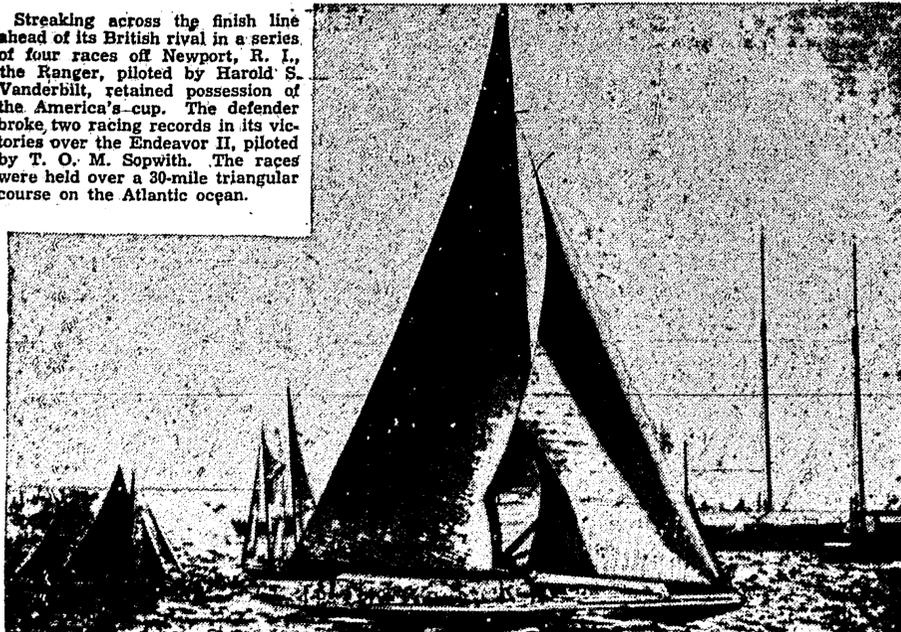

Britain, according to reports in London, will lay the keels for from three to five battleships, six or seven cruisers and a proportionate quota of destroyers, submarines and smaller craft, to surpass the 1937 total of 664,000 tons, a peacetime record. It was also reported that personnel would be increased ultimately by 125,000.

With the placing of additional 1937 contracts, Britain will soon have 110 vessels under construction.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of American naval operations and acting secretary of Uncle Sam's navy, said in Washington that congress will be asked to provide funds for the construction of two battleships and two cruisers in the 1938 fiscal year. The admiral inferred in a press conference that the United States expects to keep pace with other nations which are planning extensive naval building.

Ranger Sets Record in Retaining America's Cup

Striking across the finish line ahead of its British rival in a series of four races off Newport, R. I., the Ranger, piloted by Harold S. Vanderbilt, retained possession of the America's cup. The defender broke two racing records in its victories over the Endeavor II, piloted by T. O. M. Sopwith. The races were held over a 30-mile triangular course on the Atlantic ocean.

Monument to Amundsen Is Unveiled

A monument to Roald Amundsen, the great Arctic and Antarctic explorer who was the first to reach the South pole, as it appeared following its recent unveiling at Tromsøe, Norway. The memorial, costing $4,250, was raised by popular subscription. Its sculptor was Carl E. Paulson. Lincoln Ellsworth, Amundsen's companion on a North Pole expedition contributed $1,000 to the fund for its construction.

The streamlined pontoon below its nose allows it to float the rider in perfect safety, while the stabilizer shield along the tail holds it to a straight course.

Flaming Death Follows Collision on Highway

This happened when a truck carrying four new automobiles and another machine collided on a highway west of Akron, Ohio. The four cars and truck were consumed in the fire. At the right may be seen the auto, also burning. The driver of the truck escaped injury when he jumped from the cab, but the driver of the car was burned to death.

"The Morrissons."
"Oh! Oh, d'you suppose he'd come? He seems so cross. I can't imagine him social and agreeable."
"Sure he'd come. She said today he would."

A second's electrical pause. Then Vicky said without volition exactly what she did not want to say, in exactly the tone she did not want to use—silly suspicious words in a wife's light suspicious tone:
"Oh? I didn't know you'd seen her today?"

"I met her, coming back from my walk." Quentin answered, wondering at the same instant why he hadn't said that he had seen her for a moment at the club.
"In the lane?"
"Yep."

Vicky was silent a moment. When she spoke, it was to say amiably that she would go over to see Serena in a day or two and arrange the dinner. But under her surface serenity she felt a little sick from the sudden jarring awakening, sudden vague fears. So-o-o—that was it—was it? It was Quentin to whom Serena had been talking in the lane.

Quentin kissed her good-night—a careless kiss on the top of her head—went to his own sleeping porch. Almost immediately she heard him snoring. But Vicky lay awake for nervous, restless, unreasonable hours.

CHAPTER IX

Vicky made a point of calling upon her neighbors a day or two later, to invite them to dinner.

Feeling oddly formal in her silk gown, with calling cards in her purse and white gloves carried as a final touch, Vicky sat in the patio of the Morrison house with the injured man and his lovely wife, and talked somewhat stiltedly and constrainedly. She and Dr. Hardisty lived very quietly, she explained: "as indeed a doctor has to do when he is building up his practice, and has six small children!" Vicky ended, with a little laugh.

"Oh, yes, you poor thing!" Serena said so heartily that Spencer Morrison laughed his sinister laugh, and Vicky hated her.

"I didn't know whether coming to dine with us would give Mr. Morrison any pleasure or not," Vicky said later, when she was walking home, and Serena had volunteered to accompany her.

"I beg pardon?"
"I was wondering if Mr. Morrison would think it more bother than it was worth?"

"Oh, he can walk that far," Serena said vaguely.

Victoria did not pursue the subject. They were in the little lane that separated the two properties now, and suddenly she stooped and picked up a small bright object. And as she did so she felt her heart begin to beat faster, and the blood in her face.

"Quentin's cigarette lighter!" she said. "He's been looking for it everywhere."

"Imagine," Serena commented, undisturbed.
"He probably dropped it," Vicky said, suddenly trembling, "when you and he were talking here in the lane last Sunday."

Half an hour later Quentin came upstairs to find Vicky changing her gown for dinner.

"I met Mrs. Morrison—Lord, she is a lovely creature!" Quentin observed, plunging at once into his ablutions. "She'd started to walk to the village, it was too much for her, and she asked me to telephone for a taxi to pick her up. But instead I ran her downtown—it seems he wanted the mail, I guess he gets his own way pretty well—and then took her home. It only took me ten minutes. She tells me—" he looked out of a towel, his hair in wild wet confusion to say in satisfaction—"she tells me you called there today, Vic. I'm glad. She's a lovely woman, and she'll be great company for you."

Victoria, at her dressing table, continued to brush her hair. Once she looked steadily at Quentin, in the mirror, but he did not see her. "I told you they could come Thursday night?" she asked.
"Yep. Whp else are you going to have?"
"Gita and Gwen and ourselves and Mother."

"Quentin turned, his face coloring with amazement.
"Why, my dear, you can't do that!" he said quickly.
"Do what?"
"Why, have those people the first time, and not make an occasion of it!"

Vicky was genuinely astonished.
"How d'you mean, Quentin?"
"Well, I mean that they're important people; his father is Sir Percival Morrison. I do think that if ever—if ever we're going to spread ourselves, this is the time!"
"But he's an invalid, Quentin!"
"He is and he isn't. He's lost an eye, of course, but he's an Englishman, and you'll find them regular sticklers for formality. Oh, no, we'll have to make it a formal affair. I'd ask the Rays and the Sinclairs and Dr. Austreicher."

"I see!" Vic murmured as he paused. Her heart was lead.
"Why do you say 'I see'?" Quentin demanded suspiciously.

"Well, we haven't given that sort of an affair since before the twins were born. We've had nothing but Sunday lunches, and bridge dinners for just four!"
"Why, but there's nothing so formidable about 'it, Vic!'"

He spoke with a sort of amused impatience. It was not amusing to Vic. She understood his mood too well; his unwonted fussing over every detail of the approaching dinner; his strange excited spirits when the night finally came. Quentin, who usually loathed such affairs, was nervous as a young wife over the candles and flowers, and welcomed the guests with a joviality and assurance that seemed to Vicky almost as bad as his usual manner of grim and polite endurance.

The Morrissons came last; the man, who wore a black patch over one eye, limping a little, evidently glad to drop into the nearest chair; Serena shining in flawless beauty, Vicky herself felt tired; things had not gone any too well throughout the long rainy day, she had small heart in the affair.

The earlier stages of the dinner were not a success. Just why not, Vic was unable to perceive.
Serena sat next to Quentin. Vicky was miserably impressed, from her end of the table, that the guest of honor did not have much to say.

"Doesn't Mrs. Morrison play?" Vicky asked.

Anyone as beautiful as that did not have to have much to say; she made all the other women look plain and badly dressed and sound chatterboxes.

The atmosphere seemed definitely clearer when they had gone. They went early; the bowed, carefully walking lean man with the neat black patch over one eye, and the superbly moving woman with her fair head held high. Everyone could discuss them then, and the contract fanatics could settle down to their game. Vicky and Violet and one or two of the other women turned the lights low in the drawing room, gathered about the fire, and analyzed the Morrissons at their leisure. Quentin had said that he would walk through the garden with the Morrissons, but the night had proved to be still blowy and rainy, and they had had to have the car for the twice two hundred yards.

On the whole, wearily glad that it was over, limping upstairs in her stiff new slippers, Vicky pronounced the affair a drag, a bore, a failure.

It went on and on; he never saw it; she could see nothing else. Vick grew nervous and irritable, wondering about it; wondering whenever he was out of her sight where Quentin was, wondering how often he saw Serena, and under what circumstances.

"I saw Serena today," Quentin said one night, when their acquaintance with the Morrissons was of only a few weeks' standing.
"Oh, that was nice. Did she come to the office?"
"No, I took her to lunch."
"Oh?" A pause. Then the inevitable interrogation, as unwelcome to Victoria as to Quentin, but dragged from her nevertheless by a power stronger than herself. "Happen to meet her?"
"No-o. I spoke of it Sunday. She said that she was going to be in town."
"I see." And do what she would, the pause would seem to have significance, and do what she would, she could not seem to fill it with some casual pleasantry.

Presently Victoria and Quentin had to dine with their neighbors. Quentin, who rarely went to dinners, had accepted this invitation as a matter of course, without consulting Victoria. She knew in advance that the event would hold no pleasure for her, she felt like a rough-headed child in a home-made gown when the night came and she and Quentin walked across the side lawn and past the berry patch and the pasture field, and went through the old gate into the lane, and so on to the Morrissons for dinner. The affair was indeed informal. Only their four selves were at the table. Serena was no such housekeeper as Victoria Hardisty, but she made no apologies for a poor dinner and indifferent service. The winter night was clear and cold; after dinner, there was a fire intermittently replenished by Quentin, and Victoria and Spencer Morrison played backgammon, and then cribbage.

At first they played in the sitting room, but presently Spencer suggested, his rather untidy study, where there was an electric heater. He and Victoria went in there, and she exerted herself charitably to make the games interesting. Nine o'clock, ten o'clock struck; Victoria was overcome with sleepiness, and she felt that she could decently suggest going home. Her heart was not on the game; she felt nervous and distracted. Presently she rose; they really must go now; after all, she had a houseful of small children to consider, and Quentin must make an early start in the morning.

Her host seemed petulant and angry that she should break up the evening, but contented himself with asking her to come over any day, any hour, to get her revenge. "Come tomorrow at about two, if you can," he urged.

"Doesn't Mrs. Morrison play?" Vicky asked, with an inward smile at the idea that she could find time tomorrow, or any day, for an idle afternoon game with a neighbor.

"Oh, yes, plays backgammon very well," Spencer answered, with his characteristic little bitter smile twisting his mouth. "But she gets no particular thrill from playing with me."

The drawing room was almost dark when they reached it, but Serena immediately snapped up the lights. Only one lamp had been burning, and in its light and that of the fire Quentin and she had been sitting in big chairs, at the hearth. Had they been there all these long two hours, Vic wondered?

Serena detained Quentin for a moment at the door.
"Are you working tonight? Sometimes I see your light quite late! Last night you were late."
"Last night I was playing bridge with three men," Quentin told her.
"She watches his light," Victoria thought, disappearing into the outer blackness with a farewell nod over her shoulder.

"If you're working tonight," Serena said to Quentin then, without the slightest expression in her voice or her face, "come over when you finish and I will give you a cup of chocolate."
"Good-night!" Quentin said. He followed Vicky down the porch steps. When they reached their room he said that he thought he would do a little work: fifteen minutes, maybe.

The next morning at breakfast Vic said to him casually:
"You didn't go back to the Morrissons' last night, did you?"
"Well, yes, I did," Quentin answered, looking off his paper. "I'd meant to take her a book and left it on my dresser. I ran over with it, and she was making chocolate. She says she often has a little supper, after he's gone upstairs. We eat in the kitchen awhile."

Well, what was a wife to say to that?
After that night there was another change. And this one, to her sinking heart, seemed to Victoria much more ominous than the first. Quentin was always good-natured and gentle now; absent-minded; uninterested in what went on at home. He no longer defended Mrs. Morrison, or seemed especially to want to exchange family courtesies, dinners, and evening meetings, with the house next door. Whatever his relationship with Serena had become, he was content never to mention it; it was their own affair now, his and Serena's, and needed no apologies, no justification.

From Vic's confused thoughts there emerged surprisingly one concrete fact: she loathed Serena; she would have been glad to hear of Serena's violent and sudden death. And this made it increasingly hard to endure Quentin's simple revelations concerning her neighbor.

"She's always been just a little girl," Quentin would say. "She says she still likes to get a kitten and a plate of apples and a good book on a rainy afternoon and curl up in the attic and read. Imagine it, Vic, this woman who has been adored and spoiled by some of the most famous persons in the world! Rothsays Middleton, for example—you know that every woman in Hollywood is trying to get him? She tells me that when she married Morrison she told him that she had to spend one week every year with Middleton, and no questions asked! She said Spencer almost lost his mind trying to reconcile himself to the idea, but in the end he gave in."

"Not much to his credit," Vic might submit dryly. But, fortunately for her, Quentin was usually too much absorbed in his subject to see anything amiss.

"Well, he couldn't have gotten her otherwise! And when I think what that fellow has put her through—"
"Spencer! How d'you mean 'put her through'?"
(TO BE CONTINUED)

The Miserly Individual
The miserly soul, afraid of dying like a beggar, meanwhile, lives like a beggar.

Victoria, at her dressing table, continued to brush her hair. Once she looked steadily at Quentin, in the mirror, but he did not see her. "I told you they could come Thursday night?" she asked.
"Yep. Whp else are you going to have?"
"Gita and Gwen and ourselves and Mother."

"Quentin turned, his face coloring with amazement.
"Why, my dear, you can't do that!" he said quickly.
"Do what?"
"Why, have those people the first time, and not make an occasion of it!"

Vicky was genuinely astonished.
"How d'you mean, Quentin?"
"Well, I mean that they're important people; his father is Sir Percival Morrison. I do think that if ever—if ever we're going to spread ourselves, this is the time!"
"But he's an invalid, Quentin!"
"He is and he isn't. He's lost an eye, of course, but he's an Englishman, and you'll find them regular sticklers for formality. Oh, no, we'll have to make it a formal affair. I'd ask the Rays and the Sinclairs and Dr. Austreicher."

"I see!" Vic murmured as he paused. Her heart was lead.
"Why do you say 'I see'?" Quentin demanded suspiciously.

"The Morrissons."
"Oh! Oh, d'you suppose he'd come? He seems so cross. I can't imagine him social and agreeable."
"Sure he'd come. She said today he would."

A second's electrical pause. Then Vicky said without volition exactly what she did not want to say, in exactly the tone she did not want to use—silly suspicious words in a wife's light suspicious tone:
"Oh? I didn't know you'd seen her today?"

"I met her, coming back from my walk." Quentin answered, wondering at the same instant why he hadn't said that he had seen her for a moment at the club.
"In the lane?"
"Yep."

Vicky was silent a moment. When she spoke, it was to say amiably that she would go over to see Serena in a day or two and arrange the dinner. But under her surface serenity she felt a little sick from the sudden jarring awakening, sudden vague fears. So-o-o—that was it—was it? It was Quentin to whom Serena had been talking in the lane.

Labor Day Legal Holiday

A proclamation by Gov. Clyde Tingley, released Wednesday designated Monday, Sept. 6, as Labor Day and a legal holiday in New Mexico.

Destiny

Nearly one-third of all traffic deaths occur at night, and most of these are on rural highways-- and this even though not more than one-fourth or one-fifth of the traffic is at night. The safety bureaus tell us that the same speed-hounds who violate all the traffic regulations by excessive speed are the ones most frequently out of luck in trying to make bad curves that are twice as dangerous at night as in daylight.
Besides, human eyes see only half as efficiently at night, and at high speed collisions too frequently occur.

Of course we need more well-lighted highways. But even these improvements will reduce but not stop, the large number of accidents and deaths-- and maybe pull the record of 38,500 for 1936 down a few thousand.

Modern automobiles are as near fool-proof as machinery can be produced. It is the mania to "get there ahead of time" that results in the many luckless drivers and their victims being picked up and delivered to hospitals and undertakers.
