LINCOLN CO. FRONTIER DAYS, OCT. 15-16

Lincoln County Frontier Days

All Indications Point to Biggest and Best Entertainment Ever Staged in Lincoln County

Lincoln County's first annual Frontier Days' celebration will be held here October 15th & 16th in what is expected to be the most all-inclusive two days' exposition staged locally. The program arranged systematically by the committees, offers the spectators something of interest continuously, including racing, football game, rodeo, dancing and booths for entertainment. All in all, the Lincoln County Frontier days is expected to far surpass anything that has ever been held in the county. The schools and business houses are co-operating with the American Legion posts of Carrizozo, Capitan, Corona and Ruidoso.

On Saturday, October 16th at 10:30 a. m. a parade will be staged that will be as interesting to Lincoln Countians as the royal parade was to Londoners when King George in his coronation garb trailed past Trafalgar square. The parade route will be dressed in holiday array befitting such an occasion.

All the old timers are invited to ride in the parade, and the American Legion will furnish cars, horses or bicycles. Among those listed, to date, who have been in Lincoln County for 50 years or over, are Messrs. Geo. Coe, Henry Lutz, Bill Hightower, Dr. Paden, Paul Mayer, F. J. Sager, Francisco Gomez, Pedro Griego, Alejandro Gallegos, Francisco Trujillo, Francisco Zamora, Mmes. Burleson, Hughes, Klasner Stimmel and a long list of others.

Prizes will be offered for the best decorated front along the parade route.

Attention Singers

Since word has come to us of the meeting of the Otero County Singing Convention at Alamogordo the 2nd Sunday in October and due to the fact that some of our Lincoln County Singers plan to attend, the singing that has been announced for Capitan the 2nd Sunday in October will be postponed till the 2nd Sunday in November.

Notice

Regular meeting of Woman's Club is changed from October 15 to the 22nd on account of Frontier Days' celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Titsworth and Mmes. Hobbs and Howard, Capitan, attended the Business Mens banquet at the Southern Pacific hotel Wednesday evening.

After the regular meeting of Coalara Rebekah Lodge No. 15, on Wednesday, October 13th, a social hour and refreshments will be enjoyed to which Rebekahs and their families and friends are invited.

Business Men's Club

Wednesday evening the Business Men's club entertained their wives and friends at a chicken dinner at the Southern Pacific hotel. Between 50 and 60 were present. President of the club, Mr. F. A. English acted as toastmaster.

In drawing for prizes, Mrs. Finley won first prize for the ladies, a desk clock; Mrs. Hicks won 2nd prize and Mrs. Hobbs consolation prize which was a cigaret lighter. First prize for men went to Bradley Smith, a military brush and safety razor combination; 2nd prize, a knife, to Dr. Blaney and consolation prize, a snake which worked like a jack-in-the-box went to Mr. Geo. Joyce. Favors were caps and horns. Messrs. Huppertz and Carpenter and Mrs. Blaney gave short talks. Immediately following the banquet, all went to the Lyric theatre to see "Personal Property" which was the last picture completed by Jean Harlow before her death.

Sat Chavez and his Gloom Chasers furnished music at the banquet and at the theatre.

N. M. State Fair

Every county in New Mexico is expected to be represented on old timers day at the Eastern New Mexico State Fair to be held in Roswell October 6, 7, 8 and 9. J. F. Hinkle former governor president of the Old Timers, is daily receiving letters from New Mexicans who have been in the state thirty years or longer that they will be here. Old timers program starts at 9:30 on Friday morning with short talks by old timers, and the singing of old time cowboy songs by some of the old timers. This will be followed by the parade in which there will be a way for every old timer to ride. The entire southwest has been scoured for vehicles common in the seventies and eighties, and some novel entries have been arranged. The parade will be followed by the free barbecue and re-union, which is limited to those who have been in the state thirty years or longer. Mr. Hinkle has announced that only those who have been in the state the required time will be allowed to participate either in parade or at the re-union.

More than fifty floats have been promised for the opening parade on October 6, during which the queen of the fair will be selected. The lady on the winning float in the queen section will be the queen of the Fair. In addition to queen section there will be a state section, with decorated cars typifying the native state of present residents, a commercial, community and organization division. The cadet corps of the New Mexico Military Institute will also be in the first day's parade.

Fair directors announced this week that despite the large amount of work necessary to get ready for the largest exhibits in the history of the fair, everything would be ready on the opening morning as it has been for the last fifteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Cathey have returned from a trip to Los Angeles.

Rev. L. D. Jordan, age 53, passed away in Albuquerque, Tuesday afternoon after an illness of many months, although he had been bedfast only a short time.

Mr. Jordan came to Carrizozo as pastor of the local Baptist church in 1930, and made his home here until in 1936, when his health became too bad for him to take care of a pastorate. He was one of the most energetic men we have ever known, and when not busy with his pastoral duties he worked for the Lincoln County News as printer, and was quite skillful.

He was identified closely with every good word and work. He was vigorously opposed to wrong yet he was able to see good many times where others could not. His life was one of service. He placed himself, his means, his influence and his all on the side of good and God.

As a pastor Mr. Jordan placed duty first. He was ever striving to help those in need. And when time shall have been rolled up like a scroll and eternity's morning shall have dawned, he will be among the redeemed of the ages, basking in the radiance of the Lord where neither heartache, nor disappointments can enter.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. L. D. Jordan; two sons, Russell and Heyward; one daughter, Mrs. Jack Hurlley and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in Belen yesterday afternoon at 2:30, followed by interment in Belen cemetery.

Carrizozo School News Notes

"Politeness is do and say, the kindest things in the kindest way". The above quotation appears on the black board of one of our best teachers. This teacher's pleasant disposition, and graceful manners are what makes the students linger in the room after recitation. We students like the atmosphere.

A real initiation for Freshmen took place last Tuesday. The Freshmen were assigned stunts and costumes to be worn for one day. All produced merriment and joy for the upper-classesmen. The Freshmen enjoyed the day also and many Freshmen were heard remarking it was a great day, long to be remembered.

All Freshmen were advised to absent themselves from the streets after dark. This is a most splendid tradition and bears repetition and imitation by all students.

The school is behind our Football team 100 per cent. The accident of last week does not dampen our enthusiasm. Watch us beat Hondo High School today on the local gridiron.

Miss Cole is proving her ability in organizing glee clubs. The Girls Glee Club has seven of the best musicians of the community in the organization. You will hear some good programs in the near future.

When Mrs. C. O. Davis was on her way to the Alamogordo Football game last Friday the car turned turtle; Mrs. Davis had two ribs broken, U. D. Walker received a scalp injury and Manuel Gutierrez received a broken pelvis bone. All are recovering nicely according to latest reports.

Several students are enrolled in the special Violin class being organized by Miss Marie Cole.

Last Thursday evening the Faculty, their wives, husbands and escorts enjoyed an old fashioned wiener roast on the Mal Pais. A happy time was had by all.

The Carrizozo Athletic Association is sponsoring a Picture Show entitled, "SEA DEVILS" for October 6th and 7th.

3. Thou shalt not gloat over winning
4. Thou shalt not be a poor loser
5. Thou shalt not take unfair advantage

7. Thou shalt always be willing to give thine opponent the shade
8. Thou shalt not under-estimate thyself
9. Remember the game is the thing, and he who thinketh otherwise is a mucker and no true sportsman
10. Honor the game thou playest, for he who playeth the game straight and hard wins even when he loses.

Germ Causes Tuberculosis

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

IT IS hard to convince the average man or woman that tuberculosis is not inherited. They look about them on every side and know that a parent, an uncle, a brother, or a sister of a patient with tuberculosis has died of tuberculosis.

Yet physicians, particularly those working close to tuberculosis, tell us that while tuberculosis may appear to "run in families," it is only "because children catch the disease from an older member of the household who has it."

Shortly after I graduated in medicine the superintendent of a large sanatorium told me that he believed that in at least half the adult population evidences of past or healed tuberculosis could be found. Today it is believed that if every part of the body could be examined some evidence of tuberculosis would be found in everybody, which, for the time being at least, was in a "quiet" state.

Caused by an Organism.

Why then, if tuberculosis can be found in practically everybody, do we not all suffer with the symptoms or at least show some signs of it?

"The specific or definite cause of tuberculosis is a germ or organism. If a few tuberculosis germs get into a healthy body no harm is done because the body fights back. But if one lives daily with a careless person who has the disease the danger is great. Kissing, coughing and spitting may be the means of spreading tuberculosis germs. Anything which has touched the sick person's lips may have germs on it."

It would be well for all of us to remember also the first signs—the danger signals—pointing to tuberculosis. These signals may not mean tuberculosis in every case but should cause one to suspect tuberculosis. These signals are (1) too easily tired; (2) loss of weight; (3) indigestion; (4) cough that hangs on.

Overweight and the Failing Heart.

One of the hard tasks for physician and patient is when there is a great amount of fat in and on the body and the patient has a weak or damaged heart.

The most effective method of reducing weight is cutting down on the food intake and increasing the exercise. Unfortunately the overweight patient with a heart condition needs food to maintain his strength and can take little or no exercise owing to the strain exercise puts upon the heart.

In addition to getting out of breath easily many of these patients begin to get a little swelling in the feet which means they must get off the feet more, and keep the feet on another chair when sitting. While this may mean less work for the heart it of course means less work or exercise for the body and more fat accumulates.

Therefore when the physician undertakes the treatment of the overweight heart patient he does so, not with fear and trembling as to what must be done, but with fear and trembling that his patient will not follow his suggestions faithfully; that he will continue to eat more than his body needs.

One of the laws that applies to all the organs or functioning processes of the body is briefly "An organ performing its work with difficulty undergoes a gradual deterioration, if increased activity is persisted in." This doesn't mean that the organs or tissues will not or are not able to do many times the necessary work, but it does mean that if an overload is placed on it, and it has to work with this overload for a long time, the fibers or tissues of the organ lose their strength and elasticity, just as a piece of elastic kept greatly stretched too long will lose some of its power to contract.

It is, therefore, getting these overweighted to lessen the amount of their food intake and thus take the "overload off the heart (due to its having to nourish this extra fat and weight of the body) that the physician so persistently aims at.

The converse or opposite of this rule is: "If the work demanded of a diseased or failing organ be a little less than it is really able to do, a certain degree of power will be restored." In the case of the heart this is known as "heart reserve."

You can see then how important it is to the overweight heart patient that he get rid of his fat and lessen the work on the heart. "When the heart muscle is suffering from any abnormal mechanical handicap (such, for instance, as having to pump blood to a large quantity of inactive fat tissue) and shows signs of failing, it should be given as nearly as possible absolute rest to regain some of its lost power."

"Dickie" Brings Help in Nick of Time

Mrs. Christine Toth, seventy, of Lucaston, N. J., fondling her pet poodle, Dickie, after the dog had been instrumental in saving its mistress' life recently. Ill from leadstool poisoning, Mrs. Toth wrote a note, "Help, I'm dying. Mrs. Toth," tied it to the dog's collar and sent him out of her house. The dog's shrill barking awakened Rev. Harry R. Stockton, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, early in the morning. Noticing the note, he telephoned for a doctor who sped to Mrs. Toth's side, reaching her just in time to save her life.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Our National Bird.

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — Those folks back East who're agitating to make the turkey our national bird are late. Benjamin Franklin had the same notion 150 years ago.

Old Ben pointed out that the eagle was a robber and a tyrant and was the emblem of various European monarchies, whereas the turkey was not only our largest and gamest wild bird, but a native of America.

To be sure, young turkeys aren't so smart. They love to get their feet wet so they may die from it. In dry sections, young turkeys have been known to jump down an artesian well 90 feet deep in order to get their feet wet. But the adult turkey is wise and wily, a noble spectacle in the woods and popular in a cooked state, owing to his magnificent bust development and his capacity for holding stuffing or insertion, and his superiority when worked over into turkey hash.

But if we are going to make a change in emblems, why not choose the worm—the humble, dumb, unresisting worm—as typical of most of the present populace? It could be a one-sided worm, too, which would save costs in modeling, because so many of us are the kinds of worms that never turn.

The Sucker Crop.

PARLIAMENT, next month, will pass statutes to curb stock market tricksters, fly-by-night brokers, and bucket chop operators who, it's estimated, are fleecing the British public to the tune of $25,000,000 annually.

We've tried it and it doesn't work. As Barnum stated, a sucker is born every minute—and sometimes twins. But the crooks who prey on the sucker crop, like the Dionne quintuplets, come along in batches. That breed spawn close to shore and the young all survive.

Thus is the rule of supply and demand balanced. In good times, there are just enough suckers to go around. In hard times, the suckers grow scarce, but, when one comes along, the crooks raffle him off and the winner takes all.

Anyhow, legislation won't save a sucker from himself—at least not in this country. He'll break through the law in order to prove he's a sucker in good standing in the suckers' lodge.

By the way, brother-member, how many degrees have you taken?

Restrained Statements.

A WAYFARER in Oklahoma, who claimed to have starved himself for forty-one days, on being asked how he felt, replied that he felt sort of hungry. Investigation showed the stranger had been cheating now and then to the extent of a clandestine beef stew or a surreptitious stack of wheats, but wasn't it a magnificently restrained statement?

For underemphases, I can think of but a single instance to match it. In my youth, we had a policeman in our town with a nervous mannerism of killing folks.

One night, I was passing Uncle Tom Emery's saloon and snackstand for colored only. A group of subdued-looking customers fetched out the limp remains of a dark person who had been bored thrice through the heart.

"Uncle Tom," I inquired of the proprietor, "isn't that Monkey John?"

"Sho' is suh."

"How did it happen?" I asked.

"Well, suh," said Uncle Tom, "It seem like he musta antagonized Mr. Buck Evitts."

Smoked Glasses for Snakes.

ON THE way here, I attended this year's snake dance. The snake dance has become indeed a strange sight—for the snakes. If the tourists don't modify their wardrobes by next year, I expect to see the snakes wearing smoked glasses. Veteran snakes that have taken part during past seasons are showing signs of the strain. The bull snakes still hiss—as who could blame them?—but the rattlers no longer rattle freely, evidently fearing it might be mistaken for applause.

The commissioner of Indian affairs wants the Navajoes to grow fewer goats. The Navajoes are balking. Goat hair is a profitable crop; goat meat makes good eating—for an aborigine stomach, anyhow—and goat smell is agreeable for Navajo noses. It seems to neutralize some of the other perfumes noticed during shopping hour in a reservation trading post.

Household Questions

For the Seamstress.—Before stitching heavy materials, like khaki, duck or canvas, rub hard soap over the hems and seams. The needle will then penetrate the material more easily.

Heat-Retaining Tea Cosy.—When next you make a tea cosy, try lining it with chamois leather. The leather retains the heat so well that the tea will keep really hot in the teapot to the very last drop.

Sliding Drawers.—Laundry soap rubbed on dresser drawers that stick will make them work easy.

Salad Eggs.—Hard boil the required number of eggs, then remove the shells. Arrange the eggs in a dish on a bed of fresh, crisp lettuce leaves, then sprinkle with mayonnaise and grated cheese. Garnish with sliced tomatoes and a ring of cucumber. Serve with cheese straws or cheese-flavored biscuits.

Cleaning "Black" Frocks.—Black frocks which have become marked with powder may be cleaned quite easily by being rubbed with crumbed, dry, stale bread.

To Soften Sugar.—When brown sugar becomes hard or lumpy, place it in a shallow pan in the oven for a few minutes.

For Baking Cakes.—The center of the oven usually has the most even heat and is therefore best for cake baking.

Wide Usefulness of Bags Despite the Tin Can's Rise

Paper Lining Prevents Sifting of Contents

By ROBERT D. POTTER

New York.—The tale of the tin can's rise to a well-earned niche on America's family cupboard shelves is well known, but the advances in another packaging method—the bag—are little noted. This is because the bag is seldom used by the average family except as a temporary container from the grocery store and possibly for sugar, salt and flour.

But bags are not "dead" in any sense, for they still help build the homes of America and its highways, as only two examples.

Burlap, commonest fabric for rough bags, was first imported in volume from India just before the turn of the century. With the present 1-cent-a-pound import tax, burlap still is considerably lower in cost than domestic cotton fabric.

Some Modern Improvements.

Bags have now been so improved that manufacturers can claim to offer any degree of protection from air, acid, dust, oil, moisture, odors or vermin.

The crinkled paper linings for bags allow them, to offer serious competition with rigid containers. Materials that formerly sifted through cloth bags can now be shipped satisfactorily and cheaply. These linings permit shipment without contamination of the contents from foreign materials or outside odors.

Multiwalled bags, first introduced only a little over a decade ago, have taken over the greater part of the world's cement output and virtually all the packaging of hydrated lime and gypsum plaster.

Ocean Currents Play Tricks for Mariners

Washington.—Queer pranks and conditions played by localized ocean current rips have been reported to the hydrographic office of the United States navy.

While on a voyage from Balboa, C. Z., to San Diego, Calif., recently, the American steamer Jefferson Myers reported a current rip directly across its path that had water with a temperature of 64 degrees Fahrenheit and deep blue in color, on its south side. On the north side, however, the water was dark green and had a temperature of only 60 degrees. Similarly when the ship passed over the rip the air temperature changed from 84 to 69 degrees.

The British steamer Pentridge Hill reports, while on a voyage from Rotterdam to Rio de la Plata, South America, a current rip in the South Atlantic that, for five miles of length, had the appearance of breakers in very shallow water.

A current rip was described near the equator in the South Atlantic by the American vessel Charles Pratt, which turned the ship's course off five degrees.

Moon Mountain Changes Call for Explanation

Washington.—While astronomical findings indicate that the moon is lifeless and, indeed, probably without an atmosphere, there are some matters of lunar topography that need more explanation. Appearing in the magazine Popular Astronomy, published by Goodell Observatory of Carleton college, are drawings made of mountains on the moon which show changed markings from time to time that must be attributed to something—haze, melting snow, or jets of steam.

Pico, an 8,000 foot peak on the moon, was the mountain chosen for study by G. W. Rawstron, amateur astronomer of Liverpool, England. Some 48 drawings of the mountain, made with a four-inch diameter telescope, show that light and dark areas on the lunar mountains vary from time to time.

Penguins Qualify as Old Southern Family

Washington.—Penguins can easily qualify as an Old Southern Family—very much so, since the place they apparently like best is the chill-watered region surrounding the icebound continent of Antarctica. Little land is theirs, and that mostly stones; but after all penguins need only enough dry space for their family-rearing activities. Outside of that, the more sea, the better, from the penguin's point of view. For the sea means fish, and fish is what penguins live on.

Babylonians Were Fathers of Science, Says Orientalist

Knew Much of Medicine and About Astronomy

By DR. WALDO H. DUBBERSTEIN, The Oriental Institute, University of Chicago

Chicago.—Assuredly the ancient Babylonians deserve the title "Fathers of Science."

Through 3,000 years of documented history we can trace their slow steps toward modern science. We today have no reason to feel smugly superior in our advanced knowledge. The really hard steps in progress are the first ones. Those were taken for us thousands of years ago.

Four thousand years ago, Babylonian surgeons set broken bones, made major and minor body incisions, and even attempted eye operations. A pictorial representation shows the physician with his inevitable case and bandages.

Sicknesses were known by specific names, and symptoms were recorded. Magical and religious elements of Babylonian medicine are easily over-emphasized, while honest medical prescriptions are overlooked. There is a reasonable purpose in Babylonian magic. "Once gods and demons had been accepted, their charms and incantations for their control were also necessary. Had magic been omitted, the patient would certainly have lacked confidence in his physician. It was part of his professional "bedside" technique. But scores of simple medical prescriptions have no magic in them. Some even have real medicinal value.

Mathematics and Astronomy.

Mathematics was obviously practical in a complicated business development such as Babylonian experience almost 5,000 years ago. Ancient textbooks offer simple and complex problems.

In the oldest texts are found addition, subtraction, division, multiplication, and fractional numbers. Square and cube root tables, as well as multiplication tables, were also compiled. Even the theorems commonly ascribed to the Greek Pythagoras and Thales, who lived in the Sixth century B. C., seem to have been known, empirically at least, in Babylonian 4,000 years ago.

Astronomy began its climb toward a respectable science as an assistant to that pseudo-science, astrology. Yet by 2000 B. C. Babylonian astronomy had assumed much of its later form as a practical science. The necessary adjustment between the lunar and the solar year was made by inserting extra months. All this demanded specific astronomical information. The path of the sun through the heavens had been charted through the 12 constellations, whose names still survive in our zodiac.

It was their practical compilation of observed phenomena, as well as their discovery of general truths, that made the Babylonians pioneering scientists.

New York and Los Angeles Centers for Television

Hollywood, Calif.—New York and Los Angeles are the two most logical choices for the beginnings of commercial television broadcasting in America, reports the scientific committee of the research council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences here.

The great need for talented actors is a primary reason for this decision. On the New York stage and radio and in Hollywood's motion picture studios are the best actors in the country.

Geographically Los Angeles excels New York in its facility for television broadcasts on the "line of sight" properties of the television waves, also reports the committee. While New York and its surrounding area can be covered from towering Manhattan skyscrapers the city of Los Angeles has its own, natural high landmarks.

Rattles More Used by Adults Than by Babies

Chicago.—Almost 5,000 years ago babies in the old city of Kish in Mesopotamia were kept happy with rattles, says Richard A. Martin, archeologist, of the Field Museum of Natural History, here. Yet, rattles have been used more by adults than by children, in most lands explored by science.

Soldiers in ancient China were stirred by music of bronze rattles in military orchestras. African tribes devised many kinds of rattles for use in magical rites. Egyptians had a kind of rattle called a sistrum, made of a staff with metal rings dangling at the end, and used in solemn religious ceremonies. American Indians used rattles in religion and magic.

Rattles unearthed at Kish include some shaped like goats and hedgehogs, to catch the babies' eyes, as well as amusing them with the jingle of pebbles inside the hollow toys.

IMPORTANCE OF WATER TO BODY

Look to Source of Supply When Choosing Home.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE most important material which we take into our bodies through the mouth is completely lacking in food value! This sounds like a contradictory statement. It is, however, water which we are describing in these terms. As has been proven many times, man can live much longer without food than he can without drink, which he must have, not only to satisfy his thirst craving, but for use in every body process.

The first qualifications in choosing a place of residence is a liberal and sure water supply. Those of us who live in cities and suburbs take this for granted. This is not the case, however, in the country. It was brought to my attention in Maine when a new well was necessary. Captain Sinnott was called upon to locate the well on one of the veins of water which run at intervals through the region. He came armed with a crooked willow twig, which, believe it or not, turned toward the ground when it found running water. Of course, it would not be so obliging for everyone, although we were all allowed to try our hand at divining. One or two of us actually found that we had the power, although we were scientific scoffers.

To go back to the importance of water which too often we neglect to drink in the proper quantity. At least eight glasses should be taken daily if our body machinery is to be supplied with amounts which will enable it to run efficiently. Some of this may be taken at meals if it is drunk after food has been chewed and swallowed. The rest may be taken between meals. Part of the supply may of course be in the form of any sort of liquid beverage.

Fruit Punch.

¾ cup orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup strong tea
1 pint ginger ale or charged water.

Sugar Syrup

Slices of orange and lemon
Mix fruit juices and tea. Chill in the refrigerator, and just before serving add ginger ale, sugar syrup to taste and slices of orange and lemon. Serve with ice cubes in each glass.

Grape Juice Flip.

1 pint grape juice
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
1 cup water
1 pint ginger ale

Combine grape juice, lemon juice, sugar and water and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour over cracked ice and add ginger ale. Makes six large glasses.

Chocolate Sauce.

1½ ounces chocolate
½ cup cold water
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Salt

1½ cups hot water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cut the chocolate in pieces, add the cold water and cook over low fire until smooth. Mix the sugar, cornstarch and salt together and add to the chocolate. Stir in the hot water and cook until smooth. Add the vanilla.

Cottage Cheese Salad.

½ pound cottage cheese
1 tablespoon minced onion or chives
1 teaspoon paprika
Lettuce or romaine
1 pimiento

Mix the cheese, onion or chives and paprika well and pack in a small bowl to set in the refrigerator to chill. Cut the pimiento into slices. When ready to serve place the mold of cheese in the center of a platter or chop plate. Arrange the lettuce or romaine around the edge in six bundles and hold together lightly with strips of pimiento. Pass spicy dressing with this salad.

Veal Scallopini.

1½ pounds veal steak
Flour, salt, pepper
Olive oil or butter
1 clove garlic
½ cup white wine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Parsley

Have the veal cut thin. Dust with flour, salt and pepper. Brown in the olive oil with the garlic. Add wine and lemon juice and let simmer 30 minutes, or until the veal is tender. Remove garlic. Sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Liver With Cream Sauce.

Slice the liver one-third inch thick. Scald and strip off the skin on edges. Drain and saute quickly with two sliced onions in three tablespoons of butter. Pour in sweet or sour cream to cover, and let simmer five minutes, closely covered. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Baked Cabbage and Tomatoes.

1½ cups well-seasoned tomato sauce
3 cups chopped cooked cabbage
¼ cup grated cheese
½ cup bread crumbs
Salt
Pepper

Put alternate layers of tomato sauce and cabbage in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with cheese and crumbs, salt and pepper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until slightly browned.

Achievement of Peace

YOU may either win your peace or buy it; win it, by resistance to evil; buy it, by compromise with evil. You may buy your peace with silenced consciences; you may buy it with broken vows—buy it with lying words—buy it with base connivances—buy it with the blood of the slain, and the cry of the captives over hemispheres of the earth, while you sit smiling at your serene hearths, muttering continually to yourselves, "Peace, peace," when there is no peace; but only captivity and death for you.

We Humans

In going through life we often bewail our misfortunes but seldom dwell upon our blessings; the illness is reckoned to a day, the bad debt to computed to a cent, the sleepless night is spoken of with deep self-commiseration; but we forget to reckon the many months of our health; we take as a thing of course, and not worth mentioning, that we enjoyed hours of calm and refreshing sleep undisturbed even by a dream. — Wamego Times.

MEANS GREATER VALUE HERE!

COLLECTING LIQUID RUBBER ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From these plantations comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Money saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell first-quality tires at lower prices.

THAT'S WHY YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY IN FIRESTONE STANDARD TIRES

PRICES AS LOW AS

$6.40

FIRESTONE builds a first-quality tire made of top grade materials and sells it for less money because Firestone passes savings along to you in the form of extra values. Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost. Because of these economies—

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber of every cord is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Make your car tire-safe now for fall and winter driving. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by letting your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store equip your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

Loans Wanted

would be a good sign for bank to hang out but for obvious reasons a bank cannot do such a thing. But your bank does want good loans.

A good loan is a loan that will be repaid when due. No bank can loan money without sufficient knowledge that the money will be repaid when due and still maintain that obligation of safety to its depositors. This is why every loan must be thoroughly investigated before it can be made. Your banker does not want to turn you down; but he must protect his depositors at all cost.

State College News

State College, N. Mex., Sept. 24— Miss Wilma Snow of Carrizozo, freshman student majoring in home economics at New Mexico State College, has won the distinction of receiving a scholarship to help defray her school expenses for this year.

Miss Snow is one of the outstanding students at State College both from a standpoint of grades and student activities.

Eighteen scholarships were offered through the generosity of faculty and townspeople. Although financial need is given some consideration, the chief basis for selection is the student's past scholastic record. The scholarships vary in amount from $50 to $100.

Construction of two additional wings on the present Feed and Fertilizer Building at New Mexico State College was authorized yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Regents with President Ray Pife.

The new addition will be of adobe, semi-fireproof construction. Each of the wings, according to present plans, will measure 34 feet by 80 feet. The east wing will be one story in height, but the west wing will have two floors.

Preliminary plans contemplate that work should be completed by the beginning of the second semester at an estimated cost of $16,000. These funds will be raised by using WPA labor valued at $6,000 and by adding $10,000 of insurance funds secured when Wilson Hall burned recently. The present Feed and Fertilizer structure was built by WPA funds.

Demand for additional building space became acute after the Wilson Hall fire, when offices, laboratories, and classrooms were destroyed. The College was forced to discontinue several courses because of a lack of building facilities.

The new wings will house the soil department and other staff members who were left homeless following the fire. Construction will begin as soon as the Board of Regents members, headed by Mr. Dan Williams, have worked out preliminary plans.

HITS NAZIISM IN AMERICA

Strong Words by Legion Commander . . . President Refuses to Abandon Fight for Court Rejuvenation

American Legion Members From West Reach New York City by Airplane for Their National Convention.

Edward W. Pickard

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Western Newspaper Union

Legion Head Hits Naziism

Four hundred thousand members of the American Legion and their families and friends gathered in New York for the annual convention of the organization which opened with a memorial service for dead veterans.

Colmer declared attempts to subjugate judiciary would destroy the "checks and balances" in government, and he proposed that the American Legion undertake an educational program on the principles set forth in the Constitution.

The commander's warning against perils from without led him to condemn severely German propaganda in the United States and the alleged action of the German government in fostering the organization of Nazi groups and camps in this country.

President on Constitution

All orators on the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Constitution were loud in praise of that great document. President Roosevelt, speaking from the foot of the Washington monument, was emphatic in his expression of admiration for and loyalty to the basic law which his opponents have accused him of trying to undermine.

"I believe that these things can be done under the Constitution without the surrender of a single one of the civil and religious liberties it was intended to safeguard," Mr. Roosevelt continued, "and I am determined that under the Constitution these things shall be done."

Sharply condemning dictatorships abroad, Mr. Roosevelt said there is a crisis in American affairs that threatens our democracy and that if that democracy is to survive, it must meet the demands of the people for economic and social security and improved standards of living.

That the President had not abandoned his fight for "rejuvenation" of the Supreme court was made clear by the tenor of his address, and it was expected that he would continue that campaign on his trip to the Pacific Coast, which he began in a private car equipped with a loud speaker. On his way to visit his daughter in Seattle and on the return trip he was to enter the home states of several senators who were active in opposition to the Supreme court enlargement scheme.

Vandenberg's Battle Cry

"WE HAVE just begun to fight" was the battle cry adopted by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan in a speech at Bay City that was taken as the opening of his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1930. He made it evident that he hopes to be the standard bearer for a coalition party, asserting that a realignment of political parties is inevitable. Indeed, he declared, this probably was the one thing that could save our national institutions. He was not so sure that the opposition to the Roosevelt policies would unite under a new party name. Said he:

"There may be a realistic realignment which will bring like-thinking patriots into common battle front, whether they live north or south of the Marcon and Dixon line, whether they live east or west of the Mississippi."

What Will Hughes Do?

OBJECTIONS to the seating of Hugo Black as a justice of the Supreme court on the constitutional ground that the emoluments of the office were raised while Black was a senator brought Chief Justice Hughes back to Washington before his vacation was ended. Associate Justice Brandeis also returned to the capital and he and Hughes were expected to confer on the matter and to examine the objections. Just what Mr. Hughes or any other member of the court could do was uncertain. Constitutional lawyers agree that Black could not be denied his seat because he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, but many of them thought the court, if it decides to take jurisdiction, could bar him on constitutional grounds. There was reason to believe this solution of the exceedingly unpleasant matter would suit President Roosevelt. Should the President ask Black to resign, the latter might refuse, and that would be most embarrassing for Mr. Roosevelt.

Edon Still Hopoful

ANTHONY EDEN, British foreign minister, hurried from Geneva to attend a special cabinet meeting to which he reported on developments in the Mediterranean situation that is so threatening to European peace. He told of Italy's reiteration of its demand for parity in the "anti-piracy" patrol, and it was believed both he and Prime Minister Chamberlain were hopeful that a rupture could be averted by a partial yielding to Mussolini in this matter. British public opinion was said to be strongly against a complete concession.

Meanwhile events in the Mediterranean were not such as to bolster Edon's peaceful designs. The British aircraft carrier Glorious reported it had been attacked by a submarine near Malta just as it arrived to take part in the patrol of the sea. Also the admiralty announced an unidentified airplane dropped six bombs close to the destroyer Fearless. The British and French fleets began their search for "pirate" submarines.

Spain's premier, Juan Negrin, stood up before the League of Nations and fearlessly presented the evidence of Italian and German intervention in the Spanish civil war, demanding that the league take steps to stop it. He called Mussolini and Hitler "international highwaymen." French Foreign Minister Delbos backed up Negrin's demands in words which were taken to mean that if Italy sends substantial reinforcements to Franco, Spanish rebel leader, or perhaps if she ever refuses to withdraw her forces already there, France would consider her security menaced.

The assembly of the League of Nations voted down the Spanish government's request for re-election as a member of the league council.

Johnson Quits Nanking

RAINING bombs on Nanking for several hours, Japanese airmen were fought desperately by Chinese aviators. Many civilians were killed, and the Japanese officials said this raid was just a rehearsal. Therefore they warned all foreigners to quit Nanking at once. American Ambassador Nelson Johnson at first refused to abandon his post, but later, on orders from Washington, he transferred his embassy staff to the American patrol boat Luzon, which was to move further up the Yangtze river.

The Sixth regiment of American Marines, commanded by Brig. Gen. J. C. Beaumont and comprising 1,435 officers and men, arrived at Shanghai to replace the Fourth regiment.

Biggers to Manage Census

UNCLE SAM is going to make a count of his unemployed nephews in the hope that this will help solve the re-employment and relief problem. Just how the census is to be managed is not yet determined, but John D. Biggers of Toledo, president of the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company, has been named administrator of the undertaking and is formulating his plans. At the suggestion of the President, Mr. Biggers has established his headquarters in the Department of Commerce, and he hopes to complete the tabulation of the unemployed before December 1.

Mr. Biggers said he proposed to do the job without salary.

When Town Dies, Move It

IF THE recommendations of a subcommittee of the President's national resources committee is adopted, there will be a lot of "ghost towns" in the country. In brief, its advice is that every town that is dying economically be abandoned and the inhabitants moved.

Studying the subject of depressed cities and industries, the committee reported: "Generally speaking, the continued existence of a community and an industry cannot be justified if in the long run it fails to afford its inhabitants or workers a minimum level of existence consistent with an expanding American standard of living. Such communities and such industries are liabilities to the nation because they do not make their full contribution to our national life."

This would be recettlement with a vengeance and probably would be deeply resented by thousands of citizens who love their home towns even if they are not very prosperous.

Fatal Prison Riot

SEVEN convicts made a desperate attempt to escape from the Folsom penitentiary in California, and when the battle was over two of them lay dead, Warden Clarence Larkin and two guards were in hospital with serious knife wounds and seven other persons were nursing injuries. Quick work by the warden's secretary prevented the escape of the convicts, all long term prisoners. Though Larkin was held as a shield, the guards did not hesitate to use their rifles, for the warden told them recently, "If I am ever kidnaped and I order you not to shoot and you obey my order, you won't be here the next day. No matter what I tell you, you start shooting."

Green Slams Lewis

DENUNCIATIONS of William Green by John Lewis and of Lewis by Green come almost daily, but the attack on the C. I. O. leader by the president of the A. F. of L. in a speech in Washington was especially vigorous. He declared the beetle-browed Lewis was an opportunist who hopes to gain political power through the formation of a party combining labor and agriculture, and reiterated the opposition of the federation to the organization of such a party.

Lewis, said Green, was to blame for the bloody strike in "little steel" plants and for its collapse which he attributed to C. I. O.'s disregard of the rule that the workers themselves should decide when to strike. "Surely those who are to suffer and sacrifice in a strike ought to be accorded the right to say whether they are ready and willing to do so," Green asserted. "The issues involved in any impending industrial conflict ought to be made clear and thoroughly understood."

Czechoslovakia Loses a Saint

THE "little father of Czechoslovakia," Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk, founder of the republic, died in Praha. He was eighty-seven years old. It was the efforts of Dr. Masaryk in the great capitals of Europe during the World war which made possible the creation of his country. Its people revered him as the symbol of their liberty.

Nazis Dump Schacht

NAZI Germany has put overboard the financial pilot who has served her for years. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht has resigned and gone to Italy "on a vacation," and admittedly has no longer any influence in the government. His offices as finance minister have been taken over by Hermann Wilhelm Goering, administrator of the Nazi four-year economic plan, and Schacht will not even function as minister of economics, since he disagreed with Goering on policies.

Plaids Outstanding in Fall Modes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PLAIDS on autumn style program?

We hope to tell you! Facts is, the college-going and the school-going (from kindergarten to high school age) girl that fails to make a right smart showing of plaid in her fall wardrobe simply is not "in it" when it comes to swank in dress. There's no doubt about it, colorful, youthful practical plaids fit into the campus, the office and the great outdoor scheme of things simply perfect.

All sorts of plaids are on the autumn fabric list from high-tone dressy plaids of silk velvet and handsome wool weaves down to the most utilitarian, practical, washable types—the kind that go bicycling along dusty roads and then come out "fresh as a daisy" after each tubing.

Bicycling is a fad so important nowadays designers recognize they must create fashions tuned to the sport. The new sturdy washable plaids are proving most likable for outfits of this sort. The girl on the "bike" as shown in the group illustrated is fashionably and sensibly fracked in a dependable completely chunk washable plaid that gives this rider the look of being keenly style-minded.

The schoolgirl centered in the picture is likewise alertly fashion-conscious in that she also selects plaid for her voguish blouse, and it's safe to say she will be getting a lot of wear out of it besides enjoying that feeling of confidence it brings to be appropriately clad for the occasion.

Another way to subscribe to the plaid rage that is now featuring in every phase of fashion is to wear a true clan plaid skirt and neckerchief with your new fall sweater as shown to the right in the group.

This most commendable outfit is sure to prove an inspiration to the schoolgirl. It was shown at a recent fall style clinic held in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Viewing the new fall fabrics one becomes fully convinced that plaids as a fashion "must" are definitely here. It is interesting to note that the more classic plaids are labeled each with its clan name. Also the many smart ways to wear plaids makes them all the more intriguing.

In enrolling as a plaid enthusiast we suggest that you line your jacket to match your plaid blouse, or wear a plaid dress matched to the lining of your coat, or top a pleated plaid skirt with a bright velveteen jacket, or enliven your fur coat or your fleece coat with a stunning plaid lining. They are showing in the stores darling coats in forest green, radiant autumn browns, and the very new deep sapphire blue with bold plaid linings in giddy contrast.

Plaid velvet dresses to wear under fur coats is another outcome of the present craze for plaids. You can also find cunning jackets of plaid velveteen. Some are bolero versions with plaid belts to match.

If it is just a touch of plaid you favor, buy a dozen or so of the new plaid composition buttons and let them go marching down the front of your dark velveteen dress or coat. You can get all sorts of plaid accessories. There are ensembles of beret, bag and belt. There are belt and triangle-scarf sets to be had in plaid.

FASHION STRESSES FABRIC ELEGANCE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fabrics play a most important part this year, and by their richness explain the apparent simplicity of the styles which are the greatest challenge to the dressmaker. Velvets, laces, brocades, laces, tulle are all in the picture.

Lace becomes a happy medium for day dresses, almost severe in their simplicity. These may be relieved by rich belts, patent trimmings, etc. Lighter laces in silk or rayon are combined with a colored fabric lining for day dresses or two tones used in combination as Worth has done. Lelong takes a heavy white wool lace for a hip-length top of a dress which ends in a simple black velvet skirt, with four rows of the velvet used at the side front from the high waistline to the hip. Patou offers rosepoint collars, cuff or bodice trim with severe dresses—but real rose point. Schiaparelli makes lace of gold cord for three huge medallions on the top of a two-piece effect black marocain. While dresses are simple in effect, fantasy goes into the head-gear.

Style Sobriety Stressed for Chic Daytime Costume

At the height of the vogue for romantic fashions, mutinous murmurs are echoing from the ranks of style leaders who favor simple garments for wear before the sun goes down.

"Sobriety of the best quality" is the formula advanced by a leading French couturiere as the prime requisite of daytime chic.

"Wear tailored suits and little sweaters," she advises, "but have them fitted by a good tailor and made of the finest wool. See that each accessory is equally first grade, for one inappropriate gadget can spoil the entire costume."

BE PENCIL-SLIM BY CHERIE NICHOLAS

This afternoon frock of purple silk jacquard was worn in a fashion preview for the silk parade held in New York which presented outstanding advance fashions created by the foremost designers of the world. To be right up to the mark your new frock must feature the pencil-slim silhouette that fashion demands this season, such as this gown so correctly defines. The handsome firm silks of quality kind that are so characteristically a product of this season's looms have been found ideal for achieving the new pencil-slim styling.

Bestowing Affection

It is useless to demand affection; the thing for us to do is to bestow affection, to serve, to be a friend to others, and let by and by friends come to us.—Merriam.

How Constipation Causes Gas, Nerve Pressure

When you are constipated two things happen. FIRST: Waste build up in the bowels add pressure on the digestive tract. This nerve pressure causes headache, dizziness, fatigue, bilious spells, loss of appetite and drowsiness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach (acid indigestion), and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you spend many miserable days. You can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sear. You feel tired out, groggy and miserable. To get the complete relief you seek you must do TWO things. 1. You must relieve the GAS. 2. You must clear the bowels and GET THAT PHENOLIC OFF THE NERVE. As soon as offending wastes are washed out you feel marvelously refreshed, more vivacious, the weight is gone. There is only one product on the market that does just the DOUBLE ACTION you need. It is ADLERKA. The efficient cumulative cathartic removes that awful GAS at once. It often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No waiting for overnight results. Adlerka acts on the stomach and bowels. Ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerka has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 25 years. No griping, no after effects. Just QUICK results. Try Adlerka today. You'd say you have never used such an efficient biological cleanser.

BEAUTY'S DAUGHTER

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I don't see how it can be that, Johnny. I'm always at home, but I'm not exactly resting."

"How is that little scamp?" Johnny Keats asked, rightly interpreting the sudden softening of her voice, the sudden shadow in her eyes to the thought that was never far from Martin's mother.

"He's adorable. Quent's put a nurse in for a few weeks," Vicky said gallantly. "We have our beloved Brownie back—Miss Browning you know, who's taken care of me with all the children. She's keeping an eye on Mart, just temporarily."

"Good idea!" Johnny said, as Quent came up to claim his wife. He beamed approval on them both. "I've been telling Vic she's getting awfully pretty," he said.

"Vic," Quent said, looking at her unsmilingly. He put his hand under her arm—"how about beating it? I think we've done our duty."

"She's got him back and pretty smart work, too," Johnny Keats said to his wife. "I wonder what- ever got into the poor old idiot?"

"Got him back?" echoed Violet's inclusive British accents. "She never lost him. He just had one of those fatuous brainstorms that big men get. They concentrate and work and worry and run themselves down, and some flowery by-path tempts them, and they stroll into it! But personally I shall never forgive Quent! Hardisty, never really like him again."

"Come now, Vi, you know you love him for what he did for Kate!" "Ah, well, loving him, Johnny, feeling grateful to him, that's quite a different story! But I'll never admire him again."

Vicky and Quent in the late afternoon drove the 20 miles toward home. There was a sweet spring quality in the air of the April afternoon; a fragrance, softness, a color; husband and wife moved through it as through a dream. The day had almost disappeared behind the western hills; long lanes of mellow sunshine streamed across the new grass and occasionally caught a blossoming plum tree, a pink or white Hawthorn in a globe of light. A thousand little homes, behind their hedges, set in their flower-packed gardens, looked inviting, looked happy; late children dawdled in the shade of oaks, deceived by the lingering daylight into forgetfulness of time. The violets on Vicky's shoulder were wilted; every now and then she caught their exquisite dying breath, mingled with all the other sweet and significant odors: grass and turned earth, lilac and new leaves, the pungent spiciness of the pepper trees, the piny scent of the blades of the tasseled eucalyptus.

"Tired, Vicky?" Quent said, as they turned up their own lane.

"Only comfortably tired. It was worth while, I think. Only, when I get this near home," Vicky said, "I always begin to want to see the children; it's the only time I worry! Just before we see them—oh, God bless them, there they are!"

There they were, at the gate, ready to leap upon the car and be carried the hundred yards up to the porch.

"Oh, it's so good to get home; it's so wonderful to shut it all away," Victoria was murmuring to herself as, somewhat hampered by the scrambling children, she descended and smiled at the nurse, who came down to meet them. "Marty all right?" she asked. Miss Browning nodded reassuringly.

"Sound asleep." But when Vic, trailing sons and daughters like clouds of glory, had fought her painful way upstairs, Harriet Browning turned her good, middle-aged face to Quent. "I wish you'd have a look at Marty, Doctor. I rather think—anyway, I wish you'd just take a look. He's sleeping beautifully, he may sleep like that all through the night. But he had a sort of restless time, about three, and he coughed quite hard."

Victoria saw the shadow on Quent's face when he came to dress a few minutes later. He was tired, poor old fellow; he had been serious and quiet ever since his return, anyway. All very well to say that a man could escape from his sins scot-free; nobody ever escaped scot-free from anything in this world, and especially a man as fine as Quent couldn't escape! Whenever his eyes fell on the Morrison house he'd remember and be sorry. Even when Serena had lingeringly, cloyingly gone away, as of course she would some day, he wouldn't be proud to remember that sickening little interval of kisses and whisperings and presents and stolen hours.

And some day, when Susan was a beautiful eighteen, fresh and sweet and fine, some innocent question of hers about their old neighbors, about Gita or Gita's father or Gita's mother—"You remember the Morrises, Dad; wasn't she terribly beautiful?"—would strike him in his soul, and make him wince, and then the whole thing would seem to him like what Vicky had called it: a fever that had caught mind and soul instead of body.

So his silence at dinner did not alarm her.

After dinner, when Gwen had carried her school books upstairs, and Magda had gone off with old Judge and Mrs. Trimmer to a movie, there was the usual interruption. The clock had just struck ten; Vicky had been conscious of a pleasant conviction that they were not going to be disturbed this evening, when the telephone rang. From Quent's manner as he answered it she knew that the fireside hour was doomed.

"I've got the whole apparatus here; you've got one? Good," Quent said. "I'll be right over. You might get him upstairs."

There was the usual little flurry. Brownie came down to say that Marty was sleeping nicely and his pulse was much better. Quent rushed into the night, leaving the two women in consultation by the fire.

The telephone rang sharply again. For a moment, in the general confusion of her thoughts, Vicky could not seem to make out clearly just who it was.

"Tired, Vicky?"

"Oh, yes, Dr. Cudworth," she said, her face brightening. "And you're at the—oh, yes, at the Morrises? Who is dying? Oh, no, is he really? Oh, I am sorry! He was quite well yesterday! Oh, that's too bad."

She hung up the telephone; stared at the expectant Brownie.

"It's Dr. Cudworth; he's rather excitable," she said, her own face rather pale. "He says that Spencer Morrison's dying; he's been there since seven, and he wants to see me."

"I wonder if he'd like to have Doctor come?"

"If he comes in, I wish you'd send him straight over. Cudworth asked for him, and when I said Quent was over at the hospital, he said, 'My God, this may be life and death!'"

"Button your coat up around your face, Mrs. Hardisty." They were at the doorway now; the chilly spring night rushed at them like a living thing. Vicky went off alone into the dark.

"What's happened?" she asked, when she arrived at home. For it was obvious from a manner of both Serena and the village doctor that something more than ordinary illness was afoot. "Is he gone?"

"He can't live," Serena said in a quick whisper that held a puzzling hint of stubbornness, of defiance in it.

"Why, but he was well yesterday, better than he's been for weeks! At least—" Vicky hesitated, looking at the doctor as one deferring naturally to his opinion. "I don't know anything about it," she said, "but he came to the fence to speak to me and he seemed—"

"Exactly!" the doctor said sharply. "He was better; I saw him Sunday. I was called today, three hours after he first began to complain of violent pain, and I find the man dying!"

He looked at Serena, and Serena returned the look with one that, more definitely than her voice had done, expressed defiance.

CHAPTER XIV

"I'll not sign any death certificate, mark my words!" Cudworth said, in a menacing undertone. Victoria, shocked beyond the power to grasp what all this meant, glanced bewilderedly at the sickroom door. "He'll hear us!" she breathed. "He is—he isn't dead, is he?" "You don't have to sign anything," Serena said sharply, in a voice clear but hardly as strong as a whisper. "I never asked you to sign anything! Dr. Hardisty'll sign it. He knows all about the case!" "Spencer Morrison says he's been poisoned!" Cudworth said shortly to Vicky. Vicky could only stare at him in horror. "Come in!" the doctor directed her, leading the way. She followed him into the sickroom.

A subdued light was burning there; Vicky had never been in Spencer's room at night before, but once or twice, when he had been unusually lame and had stayed in bed, she had come over in the daytime for a chat or for a game of cribbage. Tonight everything was as usual: books and photographs, chairs and rugs and lamps, but she sensed this rather than saw it, for her anxious eyes were instantly fixed upon the man who lay panting, propped in pillows, in the wide, comfortable bed. The worn, deep lines of the disillusioned face were accentuated now by his violent illness. He smiled a ghastly smile as she came in, and stretched his lean hand toward her.

"That dope seems to have quieted things down, Doctor," he said in a hoarse whisper. To the amazement of Vicky, who was now moving about the room Dr. Cudworth turned and said sharply: "While I was out of the room nobody came in? Nobody touched anything on that table?"

The woman shook her head; she looked half sick with fright and bewilderment.

"That's all right then," said the doctor. "Bime-by nurse come. You stay here, watchee all time."

"I not go," the amah said. "I was pretty near done for—did he tell you?" Spencer whispered, holding Vicky's hand. He ignored Serena, looking away from her with a frown.

"You had a bad upset," Vicky said, looking down at him, trusting her face did not betray her appalled thoughts.

"I'll get through this, won't I, Doctor?" the sick man whispered.

"I would be wrong to deceive you, Mr. Morrison," the old doctor said solemnly. "You're already sinking, sir. The absence of pain and the pulse both show it. It's no time for me to say anything else to you. If there are affairs for you to settle—"

"Vicky, can't you get hold of Quentini?" Spencer gasped.

"He's coming, Spencer. He was at the hospital, but I left word. What did you take?" Vicky demanded, in a sort of wall.

"I didn't take anything! She gave it to me. I want you both," Spencer said panting, "to remember what I say! She tried—a week ago she tried to double my sleeping stuff; she brought it to me. I've not been taking it lately; I've been sleeping better. She told me I'd better make sure. She knew I was going back to England; she didn't want to go, and I told her she'd take care of herself if she didn't come! That drove her crazy. I saw it—she's been half crazy anyway, lately. I told Amah to watch everything I ate, and she did, but today I was asleep when she brought me up my lemonade. It was there when I woke up; I ought to have thought that Serena'd been at it—"

Serena, whose face was ghastly, looked from one to the other.

"That's not true!" she whispered sharply in the silence. And abruptly she left the room. Spencer struggled to speak.

Quite suddenly, out of the nightmare, Vicky was awakened by a step she knewounding on the stairs, a voice out in the hallway.

"Quent's here!" she said. Dr. Cudworth turned quickly.

"You stay right here, Amah," he said. "You watch master!" He and Vicky went out into the hall, and when she saw Quent, pale and shocked, but strong and big and adequate and infinitely comforting, Vicky experienced one of the good moments of life; fear turned to confidence, peril to safety, and the horrors of the black night seemed less black.

"What's the matter with him?" Quent asked. Serena began a frantic explanation; the other doctor brushed her aside.

"He's taken poison," he said bluntly.

"Suicide?" Quent whispered, with a glance toward Spencer's door.

"Nothing of the kind," Cudworth answered sharply. "The man no more wanted to die than you do! He told me that he'd planned—he told me that he'd been much better—I tell you, I can't sign it, Doctor," he interrupted himself to say agitatedly. "You may if you like! But there have been things going on here that are against the laws of God and man, sir! I'll not do it, my professional honor forbids it!" Quent, evidently trying to grasp the situation, looked from face to face.

"Who suggested poison?" he asked sharply.

"No one!" Serena said, on a passionate breath.

"Doctor, the man himself told me," the village doctor said, his forehead shining with sweat. "I saw him Sunday in good health. He was talking then of going back to England. He didn't say when; he tells me tonight that it was to be at once, and that he was leaving his wife. I tipped off the Chinese woman—I told her to watch him, I knew something was wrong! He told me that she, the amah, often brought him up lemonade in the afternoon and that this afternoon it was there when he awakened."

Way Back When

FORMER MAYOR WAS A SONG WRITER

THERE were twelve children in our family and it was necessary to have a pretty strict rule about being reasonably quiet in the house and at the dinner table. My father repeated so often, "Children are to be seen and not heard" or "Silence is golden" that just to think of those old adages brings back the echo of his voice. I can't agree with the principle of those sayings. Children who are encouraged to join in the conversation are likely to have more self-confidence and to be more social minded. In some cases, their very talkativeness may be golden. Take Jimmy Walker for instance:

James John Walker, who later became mayor of New York City and was one of the most popular men ever to hold that office, was born in New York's Greenwich Village in 1881. When still a very small boy, he was nick-named "Jimmy Talker" because he could not be kept quiet. His father was running for alderman at one time, and Jimmy was sent to explain that he could not be present at a political rally because of illness. The crowd called for a speech from the young boy, and he did so well that his father was elected.

Jimmy Walker went to school in New York City, and studied law; but for a while it looked as though he might be a professional song writer instead of a lawyer or a politician. He wrote several songs which were published and made a national hit by composing "Will You Love Me in December As You Did in May?" None of his other songs enjoyed the popularity of this one, however, and Jimmy decided upon a more conventional career. He went to work as a clerk for the Union Surety Guarantee company and with his earnings returned to law school. He established a fine law practice, and became more and more prominent in politics. In 1925, he was elected mayor of New York City and enjoyed more mass popularity than any mayor of recent times has known there.

INVENTOR RAN BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP

THE seed of success is ambition, and Orville Wright was ambitious from early boyhood. He was born in Dayton, Ohio, in 1871, the youngest of five children, and as they grew up Orville and one of his older brothers, Wilbur, became inseparable. A highly respectable mid-western family, the father was a bishop of the United Brethren church and later publisher of a religious newspaper; but the family never had a lot of money. Orville Wright started to make money early in life, going about the neighborhood and collecting old bones to sell to a fertilizing plant. When he was fourteen, he published a school paper with a toy printing press. Later he made a press of his own and Wilbur improved it. Next he invented a paper folding machine for his father's print shop. He quit school in the third year of high school and, with Wilbur, started a weekly newspaper which lasted only three months. They then turned to job printing and later started a bicycle repair shop.

At about this time, they became interested in aviation and proceeded to construct the first heavier than air machine large enough to carry a man. As in their previous activities, Orville was the creative genius, Wilbur the perfecter. Their first successful flight was at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, and the success of aviation was assured when Orville made a flight lasting 62 minutes and 15 seconds, in 1908.

The Happiness Trio

PRIDE goeth with Fall and glamor, too, Milady, when you wear distinguished fashions by Sew-Your-Own! Today's trio gives youth a chance to express itself in an individual manner; gives the adult figure an opportunity to display a new high in chic, and last—but we wouldn't say least—a utility model that's as right for daughter as for mother, as attractive on cousin Emma as it is on Aunt Grace.

Swank 'n' Sweet.

Young and inspired is the little two piece that just stepped into the picture at the left. The topper is one that will set a vogue in this woman's town and make you the swankiest of the whole lot of La-La-Lots. If you're asked to picnic in the colorful Autumn woods, wear this number in henna-colored wool for real satisfaction and that perfect harmony that makes picnicking a picnic.

For Kitchen Capers.

And before you go, there'll be sandwiches to make, potatoes to peel, and lemons to squeeze—that's where and when the gingham gown in the center comes in. Of course, its novel yoke-and-sleeve-in-one construction makes it a most attractive model to sew as well as to wear. The skirt has flare enough for cutting those kitchen capers one has to when minutes are few and work plentiful. Make this simple five-piece frock in two versions and be sure of everyday chic at minimum cost.

Style Success.

While we go picnicking and places, don't think Mommy isn't going to swing out in style, too. She's certain of success when she goes to her Club; she's sure of well-groomed elegance for Sunday best in the slenderizing frock at the right. It does wonders for the figure that needs it, and it is equally becoming to sizes 16 and 20.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1336 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size

Use of Books

Books are the best of things, well used; abused, among the worst. What is the right use? What is the one end, which all means go to effect? They are for nothing but to inspire. I had better never see a book than to be warped by its attraction clean out of my own orbit, and made a satellite instead of a system.—Emerson.
