CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, OCT. 15, 1937

NUMBER 16

Welcome To LINCOLN CO. FRONTIER DAYS, OCT. 15-16

Mrs. J. W. Carter

Mrs. Onie Carter, age 51, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McMillan early on the morning of October 11, after an illness of many months. Mrs. Carter moved to San Antonio, N. M., from her home in Beebe, Arkansas last November hoping that the change of climate would benefit her. She entered the Rathmann hospital last August, where her condition became much improved and she was permitted to leave. She moved to the McMillan home.

Mrs. Carter was married to Rev. J. W. Carter, Jan. 6, 1905. She was a member of the Nazarene church, a splendid Christian and bore her suffering with Christian fortitude. She has joined the choir invisible of those immortal dead who live again, leaving to mourn her passing, besides her husband one son, 19 years old and three little daughters ranging in age from 15 to 10 years, also one brother, Mr. W. L. Burnett, and several sisters.

Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church, Wednesday at 2:30 by Rev. J. A. Bell, who delivered a comforting message. Her favorite hymns were sung, after which the remains were laid to rest in Carrizozo cemetery.

All business houses were closed during the funeral hour. Pall bearers were Messrs. John Harkey, Roy Harmon, Jeff Herron, C. Jones, Frank English and J. F. Petty.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Then after conference he will pay us the last fifty on parsonage debt which is $350.00, then our church will be entirely out of debt. Our first item to close out will be our annual budget of one hundred and forty two dollars. Then in two weeks we will receive the fifty and I will be able to make a 100 per cent report at our conference which meets at Albuquerque Oct. 27th the best report our church has made in years.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Henry Hoffman and Mrs. S. H. Nickels gave a joint birthday party Tuesday, October 12, in the First Grade room, honoring Mildred Hoffman on her 6th birthday. Thirty-two classmates and two special guests, Veda Lou Branum and Barbara Jones, joined in the merry making. In the games played high score was won by C. A. Branum and low score was won by Janet Shafer.

Lorena Sager in New Music Studio

Miss Lorena Sager, teacher of piano has moved her studio to 104 West Manhattan Avenue, corner of Manhattan and Don Gaspar, and has started her fall term for piano pupils in both private and class lessons.

The new studio will provide room for the periodic recitals by her pupils that have been a popular feature of her work. There is a large ante-room connecting with the studio proper and the two may be combined as a concert hall. The two pianos have been placed in the sunny corner room with triple bay windows. Light colored walls and woodwork add to the attractiveness of the new arrangements.

Four classes in the different age groups from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday mornings is a new form of instruction being provided by Miss Sager for her pupils this season, the children playing for each other as they march and take rhythm work.— Santa Fe New Mexican.

Forest News

The Rocky Mountain Mule Deer is the largest deer in this region and can easily be distinguished from the white tail by the white rump patch, the large ears and by the spreading antlers. Instead of sending out supplementary branches from the main beam, as in the case of the white-tail, the antlers of this species separates in the form of the letter Y at each fork. A full head consists of four main points, three separate Y's on each antler besides the eye guard. The number of points does not indicate the age of the animal although ordinarily at one year of age they have only a spike. Even this varies however, for yearlings sometimes have two and even three points and they may have but two spikes at any age.

The age of deer is determined by tooth development, the same as for sheep, is believed to be quite accurate up until the animal has reached three years, but after that the teeth are not reliable but may be used as a relative indicator only.

There are a few authentic records of mule deer bucks without antlers and of mule deer does with antlers. Such phenomena are apparently very rare and accurate records should be made of any such cases.

How To Park

"How to Park Your Car" is the title of a new film recently announced by the Safety Educational Department of The Aetna Casualty and Surety Company. The film, which takes only one minute to project, shows both by photography and animated diagrams the correct method of parking a car.

The film is the first of a series which will be available for instruction purposes in high school driving courses and for use by police and motor vehicle authorities and others interested in improving driving skill as a means of preventing accidents and reducing traffic congestion.

Salvation Army

Baron Auriemma is in Lincoln County on his annual drive for funds. He spent last Sunday in Corona; came to Carrizozo Monday. He spent the middle of the week at Capitan, Lincoln and other points in the lower end of the county. He will spend the week-end in Clovis as he has been appointed song leader of this district for the Kiwanis convention, after which he will return to Lincoln County to complete his soliciting for the army and to make his report. He appreciates the many donations he has received; while they are not so large as in former years, still he has been able to collect a substantial sum and appreciates all the help given the Army, whether large or small amounts.

School Notes

The library wishes to thank Miss Hilda Barnett for the donation of several library books. Our library is improving every day.

The senior class is planning a Carnival for November. Every one should begin to think about the Carnival Queen.

The students are looking forward to Friday afternoon when school will be dismissed because of the Lincoln County Frontier Days. Carrizozo High School will be well represented.

Home Economics Club had election of officers last week. The following officers were elected: Pres-Evelyn Ellison; Vice Pres-Lorena Smith; Sec. Treas.-Hilda Barnett.

Mr. R. J. Mullins, State High School Inspector, visited our High School last Friday. He was well pleased and expressed appreciation for the splendid condition which he found.

More than half of the High School students have had their thumb prints placed upon their permanent record cards. This is a modern step being done by the best of High Schools.

Each Senior was quite fortunate in raising the money for the class rings which arrived last week. The seniors are proudly displaying their rings.

Carrizozo won the game with Vaughn last Friday with a score of fifteen to nothing.

The President of each class has been asked to appoint a program committee to arrange for an assembly program. Let us cooperate and make our program one of the best.

The Junior dance of last Friday night was well attended and all reported a nice time.

Padilla-Sandoval

Mr. Salomon Padilla of Capitan and Miss Viola Sandoval of Carrizozo were united in marriage last Wednesday evening. Judge M. C. St. John performed the ceremony. Witnesses were Mr. Jim Salsberry and Lucia Salsberry.

Their many friends wish them happiness.

Lincoln County School Library

The Lincoln County Board of Education and the County Superintendent thank the people of Lincoln County very much for the nice words of praise they received for their efforts in securing the splendid Rural School Library.

Mrs. Ola C. Jones extends her thanks to the Carrizozo Business Men's Club for the letter they sent her expressing their appreciation of her fine work in starting and putting over this fine library service.

We know this work has meant a lot of planning and directing which takes a great deal of time and when we are in our new building we invite everyone to visit the library and see what has been done for the people of Lincoln County of which they can be proud. We are asking the public to give us if they care to dispose of it, some famous statuary or pottery, paintings, museum articles interesting exhibits etc, which we could put on the top of our book shelves, for educational instruction as well as for decoration. We will be very grateful if you will bring it to the library any time.

We received 285 new dictionaries this week for the elementary pupils and want the teachers to come for them.

1540 CCC Enrollees In New Mexico

Albuquerque, Oct. 13.— Days of demoralizing idleness will end during October for about 1540 youngsters of New Mexico, as they escape the grip of unemployment and join the working crews of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The chance that means a turning point in the lives of more than a few of the newcomers is possible because more than 1500 CCC workers finished their terms of service in this state Oct. 1. They had either reached the top age limit or were in the "local experienced men" group, which is being discontinued.

Opportunity of joining the CCC has widened greatly, since the requirement of being on relief rolls was abolished July 1. It is open now to any young men of 17 to 23 years in age inclusive, who are unemployed and in need of employment, and who can pass physical examination.

Enrollment in New Mexico is still handled, as a matter of convenience, through local branches of the state's Department of Public Welfare.

In the CCC today, an enrollee can be self-supporting and help his dependents, and at the same time receive training and education which will fit him for chance at good jobs when he leaves the CCC. Each camp has an educational advisor, who conducts evening classes where the enrollee can, if he wishes, study grade school or high school subjects.

Outdoor sports and the recreation building with its games and library are among attractions of after-work hours.

I. O. O. F. And Rebekah News Notes

Last Tuesday night the second degree was conferred on Mr. Hugh Bunch.

Next Tuesday night the initiatory will be conferred on two candidates and if Mr. Edward Penfield is able to attend the second degree will be put on for him.

Last Wednesday night the Rebekahs held an open meeting in honor of their anniversary. A fair sized crowd was in attendance. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Mr. A. T. Channell of Visalia, Calif. was a visitor both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The City of Carrizozo presents a very gala appearance with the flags, bunting and other decorations.

The Sourdough Hotel

IF YOU'VE ever been to Alaska you probably thought it was a good joke on your friends to write a letter to them on the stationery of the Sourdough hotel.

The Sourdough hotel is located at 1333 Icele avenue and among the house rules are these: towels changed weekly; spiked shoes must be removed at night; anyone troubled with nightmare will find a halter on the bedpost; don't worry about paying your bill—the house is supported by its foundation.

This hotel was the creation of a young newspaper man named E. J. White who went to Alaska during the gold rush of 1898. The primitive living conditions in the boom camp of Dawson appealed to his sense of humor so he had printed several hundred sheets of stationery for his Sourdough hotel.

The gold seekers, seeing in this a chance to play a joke on the folks back home, eagerly bought this stationery at $2 a dozen sheets. White's clever foolery landed him a job on the Klondike Nugget and started him on the career which has made the name of "Stroller" White famous. He's still a newspaper man, publisher of the Juneau Stroller's Weekly, and tourists in Alaska are still writing letters back home on the stationery of the Sourdough hotel.

"Enigmatical Prophecies"

WHEN purchasers of "Poor Richard's Almanac" for the year 1730 opened their copies of that household necessity, some of them, no doubt, were considerably alarmed when they read in certain "enigmatical prophecies." For "Poor Richard" (otherwise known as Benjamin Franklin) solemnly predicted that during the coming year many of America's greatest cities would soon be under water, that a certain power with which the country was not at war would take great numbers of vessels fully laden out of the seaports of the country, and that an army of musketeers would land in this country to annoy the inhabitants. Furthermore he promised to reveal in the next issue of his "almanac" the proof of these statements if his readers were not aware of these events when they happened.

So they had to wait patiently for a whole year to learn the answers to these enigmas. But, true to "Poor Richard's" promise, the 1737 issue of the almanac did contain the answers.

The water which had covered the great cities was that of the sea and the rivers, raised by the sun in the form of vapor, then descending upon the cities as rain. The power with which the country was not at war was the wind which did indeed "take great numbers of vessels fully laden out of the seaports of the country."

As for the army of musketeers which would land to annoy this country's inhabitants, they were mosquitoes. For "everyone knows they are fish before they fly, being bred in the water; and therefore may properly be said to land before they become generally troublesome."

"Exaltation," neo "Yes, We Have No Bananas"

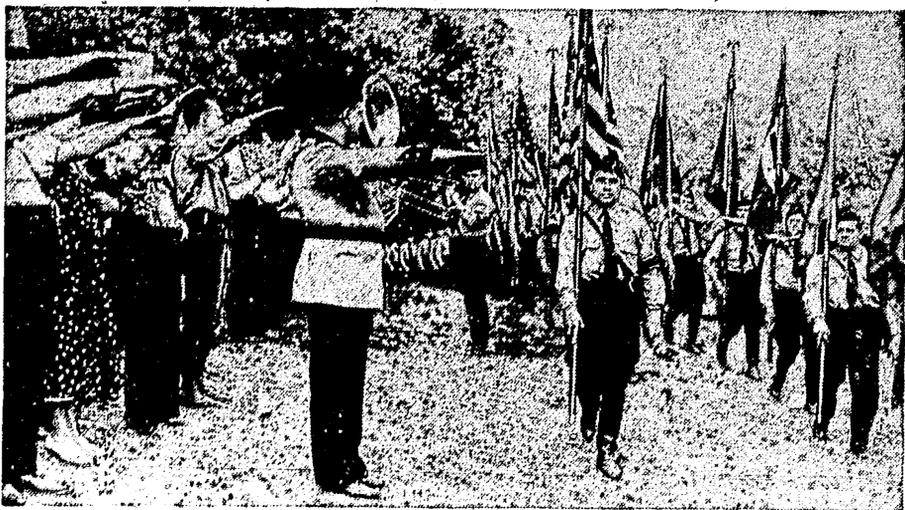

WHEN Mrs. Sarah Smith exhibited one of her paintings at Claremont, Calif., and the art critics dismissed it from consideration as being "distinctly of the old school," her husband, Paul Jordan Smith, an author and minister who considered his wife an accomplished painter, resolved to get back at those supercilious "experts."

Several months later an art exhibit in Boston included four paintings by "Pavel Jordanovitch," who was called the "supreme master of the disubstrationalist school of painting." They were named "Aspiration," "Adoration," "Exaltation," and "Illumination." In the catalogue was this statement by their painter: "To those that realize that real art depicts not what we see, but what we feel, hear and smell, these soul-revealing creations will be sources of ecstatic, moronic rapture."

The ultra-modernist critics looked at his paintings, nodded sagely and uttered many laudatory comments on "the rise of a new star in the art firmament." Critics in New York and Chicago, where the paintings were later exhibited, agreed with them, until

"Pavel Jordanovitch" was revealed as Paul Jordan Smith of California who said that he had borrowed some of his wife's canvases and "just stopped on a lot of paint." For instance, "Exaltation," the most famous of the four, had been called "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and had been used as a fire screen in his home. Smith had produced these ultra-impressionistic pictures, he said, "without the slightest knowledge of painting, just to prove that most art critics don't know what they're talking about." Apparently some of them also didn't know the meaning of the word "moronic."

Fire Menaces Chicago Stock Yards

Flames which swept over a block-square building of one of the major meat-packing plants in the Union Stock yards at Chicago caused damage in excess of $200,000. Nearly a third of the fire-fighting apparatus of the city was called to the yards to prevent a spread of the conflagration. Picture shows firemen fighting the blaze.

THREW FIRST CURVE

Fred Goldsmith, a real veteran of the diamond, is shown as he demonstrated how he threw the first curve ball, originated by him. This "roundhouse" surprised the batter by coming in wide and breaking right across the plate. Goldsmith, as a member of the Chicago White Stockings, pitched the first world series game field between his team and the Cincinnati Red Stockings in 1882. This was six years after the founding of the National League in 1876.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Minding Your Business.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A society is forming in England for the defense of the former Edward VIII, now the duke of Windsor and honorary citizen of all places in this country named for the Simpson family.

This society does not hope to restore the duke to the throne. That would not only annoy the archbishop of Canterbury, he already having things to annoy him, such as Americans, but would seriously upset Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who upsets so easily that it seems strange the British never have thought of calling him Resizable Stan. — Irvin S. Cobb

Besides, the throne would be quite crowded if the duke tried to snuggle in there along with the present occupants.

What some of us over here think—and that goes for many Canadians, too—is that England has a crying need for a society dedicated to the broad general principle of minding its own business and suffering the duke and his wife to mind theirs. We have a rough idea that both of them can better endure long-distance snubs than officious meddling in their private affairs. Just being an ex-king is a hard enough job—even if you can get it to do.

Political Afterthoughts.

MASTER ROLLO, aged seven, and city raised, was visiting relatives in the country. On his first morning he came in wearing a worried cast of countenance.

"Mother," he said, "I've been out under the mulberry trees."

"Yes."

"Mother, do mulberries have hard backs and six legs and crawl around on the ground?"

"Why, certainly not."

"Then, Mother," said Rollo in stricken tones, "I feel I have made a dreadful mistake."

What's the point? Oh nothing, only I got to imagining what the brooding regrets of some members of the administration and a majority of the members of the senate must be when they recall the alacrity with which they moved to fill a certain recent vacancy in a certain very high court—in fact, the highest one we've got.

Hirsute Virility.

PARISIAN boulevardiers believe a dense arboreal effect of whiskers is proof that the wearer is indeed a man, without, in all cases, being absolutely convincing about it.

We haven't gone that far yet, but I would like to know whence comes this notion of appraising masculine vigor by the amount of hair along the breast-bone? Morbid, I call it.

Two distinguished authors battle when one intimates the other is scantily adorned in that regard, forgetting that, in the immature summer peltage of his kind, an author has but a scanty growth as compared with the richer winter coat. And then prying reporters ask the new glamor prince of the movies whether he has any fleece at all upon his chest, their tone indicating they rather expected to find trailing arbutus there, or at least some shy anemone.

Years ago in the hospital, when I was being shorn for an operation I remember remarking to myself that here was the only barber who'd ever worked on me without trying to sell me a bottle of hair tonic.

Miss America—1937.

AT LAST some rational excuse—in moral values, anyhow—has been found for a so-called national beauty contest.

The seventeen-year-old New Jersey girl chosen as "Miss America of 1937" is not going into vaudeville, is not going to make any personal appearances, is not coming to Hollywood for a screen test, is not going to accept a radio contract, is not even going to write her life story for publication. She will return to school and to the normal home life of a well-raised normal girl—that is, unless she changes her mind about it all.

If she shouldn't change her mind, she stands out as probably the sanest young person of her age at present residing on this continent, or, should we say, this planet.

If she should change her mind—well, the American populace has been fooled many a time and oft before. Our grandfathers didn't believe human beings ever could fly. Our fathers didn't believe anybody would ever lick John L. Sullivan. Only the other day our United States senators didn't believe their fellow-statesman, Mr. Black of Alabama, could be a Klansman. They thought that low but persistent sound of "Ku-Klux, Ku-Klux" was but the voice of a modest hen.

Household Questions

Knit Those Patches.—Instead of darning large holes in men's or children's woolen underwear, knit a square large enough to cover the hole in stocking-stitch, using thin steel needles and fine wool, and sew it over the hole. It is neater than a darn and wears better.

Bananas as a Garnish.—Bananas make an attractive garnish when they are fluted. Peel bananas, score lengthwise with a fork, then slice crosswise.

For That Nutty Flavor.—Try dropping a teaspoonful of peanut butter into each muffin pan before pouring in the batter. This gives the muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

Cleaning Brickwork.—Brickwork around the fireplace can be cleaned by scrubbing with any scouring powder with only enough water to form a thin paste. Follow by thorough rinsing.

MONEY FOR MILK IS WELL SPENT

Most Valuable Food of All for Young Children.

By EDITH M. BARBER

A NATION of milk sops. We are proud to be classified as such in the literal, although, of course, not in the figurative sense of the term. To the fact that milk production, handling and distribution have kept pace with the growth of this huge country, we can give credit to a large extent for the fine physical development of American children.

Milk production is more than purchasing cows, feeding them and milking them. When milk is produced for market, the state takes a hand and inspects the herds for their healthfulness. There are also regulations in regard to cleanliness and sanitation of cow houses and milk houses. There must be facilities for keeping milk chilled until its distribution is begun. Sometimes it must travel many miles to the city distribution plant. It must, of course, be kept cold on its journey. At the milk plant it is weighed and inspected for cleanliness before it is pasteurized as a final precaution for the safety of your milk supply.

After the pasteurization or heating to 140 to 145 degrees Fahrenheit for half an hour, the milk is cooled quickly and then runs directly into sterilized bottles which are capped by machinery. The crates of bottles then go into a refrigerating room from which they are taken by the milkman who delivers them to you.

The safety of your supply of the most valuable food of all is thus guaranteed to you by both the city and state authorities. The money you pay for milk is well spent.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

ALL her life Anna Lee has wanted a pretty bedroom. And never got it. In the old days at home there was no money to spare, what with the three younger children still in school and the house needing this for the roof and that for the porch. Then when Anna Lee married, the babies came thick and fast for the first few years, and Anna Lee's room was usually a cross between a baby ward and first aid station.

But eventually her littlest one trotted off to school one golden autumn morning. And Robert came home that same night with a raise in his pocket. So Anna Lee breathed a big sigh, cried a tear or two for the babies who were trying their wings, and began to think about that dream room. Of course, through the years she'd changed her mind a dozen times as to just what she did want. But always it was going to be a misty tranquil room that would be balm to a lady harassed with the thousand and one details of making a pleasant home.

Now that the room is actually coming to life, it is just as serene and lovely as she'd always dreamed, even though it is very modern in colorings. The new furniture they bought is bleached mahogany in Adam design and Anna Lee has the walls painted deep old delft blue with a pale off-pink ceiling. A light beige oil-patterned rug was her choice for the floor while she used a pale off-pink nixon at the windows. A monk's cloth in the same blue as that used for the walls makes for a bedspread and the dressing table bench has a top of the same fabric. Beige frames, and mats for the pictures and some extra beige cushions add their accent, while lamps and small accessories are in pale pink porcelain.

Youthful Carefree Charm.

They were a gay pair who didn't know the difference when they furnished their first little place. So it turned out to be something of a hodge-podge even if it did have a youthful, carefree charm. But not at all what they wanted by the time they were thirtyish and on the sophisticated side. So now they're weeding out.

"We are refurbishing gradually with Federal American reproductions," wrote Ellen B. "but we can't do it all at once. And we need ideas on how to proceed. So far we are concentrating on the living room where we have a dull gray-green broadloom rug, a Virginia sofa in brown colonial tapestry with small flowers, a mulberry wing chair, a brown chair, a green club chair, a pull-up chair with a black horse hair seat. The woods are dark mahogany and the lamps are white—walls will be refinished in white or cream—which would be best? Would you please make suggestions for draperies and curtains, a new cover for the brown chair, a new slip cover for the green club chair? What type of pictures would you suggest?"

Let's see—you'll be retaining the dull green rug, the brown sofa, the mulberry wing chair, the black horsehair and white lamps. We'd prefer off-white walls with the softest of gray green raw silk for draperies over off-white glass curtains. Then for the two chairs to be recovered, select a Williamsburg type of chintz with a sprawling pattern in parchment colorings, and have drab green welting and for each chair a little round cushion in the same gray green. As for pictures, nothing would be more suitable than reproductions of old portraits, Gilbert Stuarts for instance, in heavy gold frames. And you'll probably want a convex mirror with an eagle presiding over the oval gilt frame. This type of room has a certain formality, so that accessories should have some dignity and poise. That's why silver in the Sheffield type of designs would be so gracefully appropriate.

Making House Taller

By emphasizing vertical lines such as shutters, with dark toned paint, it is possible to add to the illusion of height in a house.

Tea Towels Done In Cross Stitch

Better than a picnic is the fun you'll have embroidering tea towels with these gayer than gay motifs—luscious cross stitched fruits and homey everyday kitchenware. Do the dishes in outline-stitch or applique as you choose. The patch is a simple one to handle and adds a splash of color. In pattern 5891 you will find a transfer pattern of six motifs averaging 5 1/4 by 6 1/2 inches; material requirements; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y. Please write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

"What does a 'better half' mean?" asks a reader. I usually just what she says.
Some people have tact. Others try to tell the truth.
Hundreds of thousands of towels and large quantities of soap are stolen from railroad companies every year. Quite a lot of people must have noticed that cleanliness stands higher than honesty in the list of virtues.

JOYS and GLOOMS

WHAT'S HE SO HAPPY ABOUT? I DON'T LIKE IT!
NAN... NEITHER DO I! LET'S SMEAR THOSE JOYS!

MY KID BROTHER SENT ME TWO TICKETS TO THE GAME TODAY! HE'S QUARTERBACK ON THE OWLS!
SO WHAT? YOU CAN'T TAKE THE AFTERNOON OFF—SO THAT'S THAT! NOW GET OUT— I'M BUSY!

MY GOODNESS, BOB— DO YOU HAVE TO BE SO HARD ON THE YOUNG MAN? YOUR MEANNESS IS RUINING THE MORALE AROUND HERE!
YOU WOULDN'T BE ANY RAY OF SUNSHINE, EITHER, IF YOU HAD MY HEADACHES!

I WISH YOU'D QUIT TALKING ABOUT YOUR HEADACHES AND DO SOMETHING ABOUT 'EM!
THE DOCTOR TOLD YOU HOW TO GET RID OF 'EM!

WATCH 'EM BOYS—THEY'RE COMING BACK!

WHY DON'T YOU FOLLOW THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE— CUT OUT COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM INSTEAD? YOU KNOW YOU'D FEEL BETTER!
IF IT WILL KEEP YOU QUIET— I'LL TRY IT!
TAKE TO THE TIMBER, MEN... WE'RE LICKED!

30 DAYS LATER
I SEE YOUR BROTHER IS PLAYING AGAIN TODAY! WHY DON'T YOU TAKE THESE TICKETS AND GO ON OUT TO THE GAME?
WHAT A CHANGE SINCE HE GOT RID OF HIS HEADACHES!
YEP... SWITCHING TO POSTUM SURE WORKED WONDERS FOR HIM!

YOUR MONEY BACK... IF SWITCHING TO POSTUM DOESN'T HELP YOU!

Postum contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It comes in two forms... Postum Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate... and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Economical, easy to make, delicious, hot or cold. You may miss coffee at first, but you'll soon love Postum for its own rich flavor. A product of General Foods. (Offer expires Dec. 31, 1937.)

would be a good sign for bank to hang out but for obvious reasons a bank cannot do such a thing. But your bank does want good loans.

A good loan is a loan that will be repaid when due. No bank can loan money without sufficient knowledge that the money will be repaid when due and still maintain that obligation of safety to its depositors. This is why every loan must be thoroughly investigated before it can be made. Your banker does not want to turn you down; but he must protect his depositors at all cost.

TEN YEARS AGO THIS OCTOBER

It is interesting to turn back the pages of the years and read the record of a business. For time has a way of testing purposes and policies. The fundamental policy of the Bell System is not of recent birth—it has been the corner-stone for many years. On October 20, 1927, it was reaffirmed by Walter S. Gifford, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

"THE business of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its Associated Bell Telephone Companies is to furnish telephone service to the nation. This business from its very nature is carried on without competition in the usual sense.

"These facts have a most important bearing on the policy that must be followed by the management if it lives up to its responsibilities.

"The fact that the responsibility for such a large part of the telephone service of the country rests solely upon this Company and its Associated Companies also imposes on the management an unusual obligation to the public to see to it that the service shall at all times be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user.

"Obviously, the only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety. This policy is bound to succeed in the long run and there is no justification for acting otherwise than for the long run.

"Earnings must be sufficient to assure the best possible telephone service at all times and to assure the continued financial integrity of the business. Earnings that are less than adequate must result in telephone service that is something less than the best possible.

"Earnings in excess of these requirements must either be spent for the enlargement and improvement of the service furnished or the rates charged for the service must be reduced. This is fundamental in the policy of the management.

"With your sympathetic understanding we shall continue to go forward, providing a telephone service for the nation more and more free from errors or delays, and always at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety."

HUGO BLACK CONFESSES

New Justice Says He Was Kluxer But Resigned . . . Rail Strike Averted . . . Windsor Coming to America

Justice Black Delivering His Notable Address by Radio.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Black Joined Klan; Quit

I DID join the Ku Klux Klan. I later resigned. I never rejoined.

Thus Hugo L. Black, now Associate Justice Black of the Supreme court, admitted to an immense radio audience that the charges against him were true.

Black asserted that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it.

He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices. While he apparently repudiated the principles of the Klan, he did not explain why, on receiving a life pass card after his election to the senate, he said to a gathering of Klanmen.

"I realize that I was elected by men who believe in the principles that I have sought to advocate and which are the principles of this organization."

Black emphatically declared his devotion to the principles of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and said that he was "that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic and religious rights of all Americans, without regard to race or creed."

Some of his best friends, he added, were Catholics and Jews, and members of the colored race.

At the outset of his address Black undertook to turn the tables on his accusers by asserting that the "campaign" to discredit him "fanned the flames of prejudice and is calculated to create racial and religious prejudice."

"When this statement is ended," he concluded, "my discussion of the question is closed."

There was a definite note of defiance in Black's address, but it is fair to assume that the American public was not satisfied with his explanation. From all parts of the country came renewed protests against his presence on the Supreme court bench, and various large associations "resolved" about it. Many of the senators who voted to confirm his appointment because they accepted the assertion of his friends that he was not a Kluxer are resentful at the deception practiced on them—but what can they do about it now?

President Roosevelt, up to the time of writing, had maintained silence. One of his aides explained that the President decided some time ago that there was no course of action open to him in the Black case.

When Justice Black took his seat, the chamber of the Supreme court was crowded to capacity. Albert Levitt, an attorney, was on hand to ask permission to file a suit seeking to force Justice Black to show cause why he should not be declared ineligible to sit. The court deferred action on the request. Another motion to the same effect was filed by Patrick H. Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

Special Session

ON HIS way from the West President Roosevelt made a speech at Grand Forks, N. D., in which he declared his intention of continuing his fight to "reform" the Supreme court. He also announced attempts to pass crop control and labor legislation would be made at a special session of congress which probably will be called about November 15.

Rail Strike Averted

THERE will not be a nationwide strike of railway workers. Such a disaster was averted when the five operating railroad brotherhoods accepted an offer of the companies of a flat raise of 44 cents a day. They and the fifteen "non-operating" unions had demanded a 20 per cent wage increase. The latter already had agreed to a raise of 40 cents a day.

For five weeks Dr. William M. Leiserson, member of the national mediator board, had been holding daily conferences with representatives of both sides.

In announcing the terms of the agreement, Leiserson praised the co-operation of both parties, saying in the manner in which they receded from their original positions was the biggest factor in the settlement.

H. A. Enoch of Philadelphia, chairman of the carriers' conference committee, estimated the increase would mean an average raise of 6 1/2 per cent for the 75,000 workers.

A. F. of L. May Expel C. I. O.

WHEN President William Green opened the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Denver, he was not able to present an optimistic picture of the future of unified labor.

The battle with John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. continues unabated, and there are a number of "dogfights" among the unions all over the country, generally concerning jurisdiction disputes or shifting of affiliation.

If the report of the federation's executive council is adopted, the C. I. O. unions will be finally ousted. The council said in part:

"For two years we have pursued a policy of toleration. . . . All of this has failed. . . . Now the executive council feels that the time has arrived when the American Federation of Labor must meet the issue in a clear-cut and positive way. . . . The issue which created the division in the ranks of labor must be made clear."

"In order to accomplish this purpose the executive council recommends that the convention confer upon the executive council authority and power to revoke the charters of the international unions holding membership in the Committee for Industrial Organization."

President in Chicago

CHICAGO put on its best dress to receive President Roosevelt, who spent two and a half hours there. The main purpose of the visit was the dedication of the new outer drive across the mouth of the Chicago river, a project that was partly paid for with federal money. Mr. Roosevelt first reviewed a long and colorful parade and led the way across the structure. Then from the south end of the bridge he delivered an address that was broadcast by radio.

The President was entertained at luncheon by Cardinal Mundelein, a friend of long standing, and soon after proceeded on his way to his home in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Windsor Coming to U. S.

HIS honeymoon being ended, the duke of Windsor intends to take up the really serious things of life, and before long he will come to the United States for the purpose of studying housing and working conditions in this country. This was announced in Paris by the duke's secretary, who said Edward and his duchess would first go to Germany for a similar survey there.

The duke's interest in such matters is no new development, for as Prince of Wales and during his brief reign as king-emperor Edward was notably concerned with the social welfare of his subjects. On many occasions he assailed housing conditions of British workers.

In London it was said the government had given reluctant permission for the duke's American trip in order to avoid an open rupture with him. He resented the close restrictions placed on his movements and, it was rumored, had threatened to return to England.

American friends of the Windsors think they may make their temporary home at "Wakefield manor," near Front Royal, Va., possibly arriving there in November. The manor is the estate of Mrs. George Barnett, cousin of the duchess.

Hands Off, Says Japan

JAPAN doesn't like the British plan for an international conference to mediate the Chinese-Japanese war, so Tokyo issued a stern warning to the rest of the world not to interfere with her doings in China.

Japanese government circles were visibly perturbed by the turning of world sympathy to China, and without exception attribute this to successful Chinese propaganda.

The United States government recently told Japan it would be held strictly accountable for injury to Americans or their property in China. Tokyo responded with a firm refusal to accept such liability, and our Department of State didn't know just what to do next.

Member nations of the League of Nations had a plan to raise a large fund to fight the cholera and bubonic epidemics in China. But the Japanese told the British that this would be interpreted by Tokyo as foreign intervention in the war, so the British delegates backed down and persuaded the league council to content itself with a resolution recommending to the assembly an increase in the allotment of money for health work in China.

The League of Nations adopted a resolution severely condemning Japan for the aerial bombardment of defenseless Chinese cities, and Tokyo, indignant, charged the league of acting without verifying the facts. To the protest of five great powers, previously filed, the Japanese government replied with the assertion that the bombing of Nanking was "necessary for our purpose."

The British public is becoming increasingly aroused against Japan and there is a general demand for a boycott of Japanese goods.

Ed Howe Dies

WITH the passing of Ed Howe of Atchison, Kan., the country loses one of its best-known and best-liked philosophical commentators on current events. He was eighty-four years old and died as he had wished, in his sleep after a day's work. The "Sage of Potato Hill" founded the Atchison Globe in 1897 and retired 37 years later. Thereafter he busied himself with the publication of "Howe's Monthly," which he called a "Journal of Indignation and Education."

Red Officials Executed

EXECUTION of the president, vice president and six other high officials of the Adjarian Republic of the U. S. S. R. for treasonable plotting was reported to Moscow from Tiflis. At the same time, reports from Leningrad province told of eight employees of the grain trust there being sentenced to death for allegedly treasonable damaging of grain supplies.

Bar for Free Courts

CONVINCED that the independence of the federal judiciary is still threatened, despite the defeat of the plan to enlarge the Supreme court, the American Bar association, in session in Kansas City, voted unanimously to authorize a committee to keep up the fight to preserve the freedom of the courts, as recommended by a special committee. That committee said: "There appears to be no likelihood that efforts to re-make the courts of the United States will not be renewed. Your special committee is of the opinion that the association ought to maintain itself in readiness to meet such issues as they may recur, rather than to rely upon impromptu organization for the purpose."

The lawyers listened to many speeches, both attacking and defending President Roosevelt's court program and his appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme court. The climax to all this came when Hatten W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the house judiciary committee, arose to talk. He had a prepared address, but shifted to an extemporaneous talk in which he declared the people have lost control of the government of the United States and it has passed into the hands of a million people in its executive department, in which only one man was elected, and which the people could not control.

"What are we going to do about it?" Summers cried. "Are you willing to join a battalion of death to save the Constitution and the government?"

"As we look to the future, we are rapidly approaching a crisis when it will be decided whether our economic system and our government will stand or fall."

"I mean actually. A very serious situation is before the people. It means we have got to do something soon. We have got to balance the budget. We have got to decentralize government responsibility."

Auto Union Shake-Up

SEVERAL times Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, has intimated that there were too many radicals among the leaders of that union. Now, allegedly for reasons of economy, he has got rid of some of them. These organizers have been left out: Victor Reuther, one of the leaders in the General Motors strike at Flint, Mich., last winter; Robert Kanter; Stanley Novak; Melvin Bishop and William Tonn of Detroit; R. D. Richter of Saginaw; Charles Rigby, Ohio; Frank McMullan, Kansas City; Eugene Slaughter, Frank; Barte and Frank Schutz, Indiana.

Hats That Carry a New Message

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Directoire bonnet, a plaid or felt Scotch turban nearby one of the large brimmed hats that are real news in that they are sponsored for wear with the formal dinner suit, their uprising brims mounting far back from the forehead like a full harvest moon. Then there are the newer berets that dash high at one side, dipping low to the opposite; the interesting hats which Agnes creates that bespeak African influence; demure and sweetly feminine wee hats of the 1880 period boasting graceful plumage that sweeps to the nape of the neck; casual felts soft of brim and with tall picturesque pointed crowns; and so the recital might continue ad finitum.

AND if you do not believe that current hat fashions carry a message of startling innovations just please go to your nearest milliner and see! The majority of the hats for fall and winter are that "different" and many go to such extremes that some of us will have to revolutionize our theories in regard to headgear, else fall behind in the fashion parade. However, there's comfort and courage in the thought that it is really astonishing how, after viewing current collections and perhaps "trying on" a few models, we all of a sudden feel a "change of heart" going on within as we become ardent converts to the new order of things.

To prove that you are entirely won over to the thought of hats as now are, get out the hat you thought so becoming and fit that you packed it away with the feeling it might serve valiantly as a "starter" this fall—just take it out and compare. The answer? We agree with you, quite an "impossible" alongside the dramatic effects fashion is staging for the coming months. Watch the new crowns go towering to dizzy heights, take a look at brims which shoot up at one side so abruptly 'tis breathtaking, or for those youthful enough to wear them, see the new chapeaux, tiny or big of brim, perch perilously on the very back of the head.

Seeing the new hats is like witnessing a gathering of all nations in that collections replete with ideas are apt to display a tall tasseled Turkish fez side by side a charming like a full harvest moon. Then there are the newer berets that dash high at one side, dipping low to the opposite; the interesting hats which Agnes creates that bespeak African influence; demure and sweetly feminine wee hats of the 1880 period boasting graceful plumage that sweeps to the nape of the neck; casual felts soft of brim and with tall picturesque pointed crowns; and so the recital might continue ad finitum.

Generally speaking the emphasis is on extraordinarily high crowns although many flattering shapes with lower crowns are advocated. There are many interesting felt saloons for those who prefer lower crowns.

You can see by the model illustrated below to the left the way the new crowns go high and somewhat pointed. The hat is typical of the new sports trend. It is a gray oxford felt with stitched velvet band.

The youthful skull cap to the right above is a great favorite among college girls. The backward trend here featured in this bit of a black felt bonnet is decidedly a this-season vogue. So is the very tall crown effect.

In the upper left corner milady poses to call attention to the tall quill on her handsome new felt. "A feather on your hat" is fashion's latest decree. All signs point to spectacular feather trims.

The hat that concludes this group is a sophisticated little affair modeled after the quaint tiny shapes that flourished in the eighties.

SMART ALPACA

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It's fabric that counts this season. The trend throughout all fashiondom is for quality-high materials. Many women who can sew and whose budgets are limited are preferring to invest in the best of materials, secure a simple and reliable pattern, and "make their own" dresses and suits. The suit pictured is a simple style that is easy to make at home.

BLOUSES OPULENT NOTE IN COSTUMES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fashion decrees that the blouse become the opulent note in the costume for fall and winter. Some of the materials are as elegant as looms ever produced. There are brocades in Chinese colorings shot with glints of metal. These make handsome jacket blouses fastened with cuff-link studs, glittering jewel buttons or buttons covered with self-fabric.

There is a new fringe weave which is very interesting. It makes up smartly in blouses, boleros and fitted tunics.

Less formal blouses are made of a new satin that has a hammered or rippled effect.

Sealskin Collar and Muff Sets Show Style Elegance

The sealskin collar which adorned dignified shoulders along about the Gay Nineties had nothing on the 1937 fur collar in the way of elegant style. In fact the modernized version is little different from the old, and, like its old-fashioned counterpart, it adds a ball-shaped muff. Sealskin collar and muff sets are displayed by the furriers as interesting novelties. Some of them have the cape-like cut, familiar in the old days—the smaller cape standing up around the ears and the larger one covering the shoulders.

Millinery Is Exciting

If you like extreme hats your longing will be more than satisfied this fall and winter. Toques and turbans go towering above the head at dizzy heights. Brims turn up sharply at one side with a plentiful showing of spectacular ostrich.

Costume Accessories Reptile belts and other costume accessories contribute a striking note to autumn dresses and suits.

A Motto

PUT this motto up in your office and look at it every morning: "Where can I improve my business today?"

I know a man who adopted this motto early in life, and it has been a perpetual inspiration to him. You can see the effects of it upon everything he does. He is always trying to improve on his best. The result is that he has developed more of his ability than any other man I know. There are no fag-ends or half-finished, slipshod jobs about him. Completeness is his trade mark. Nothing else seems to trouble him more than a poor day's work or a bad job.—O. S. M.

Difficult Housecleaning

Buckingham palace in London contains so many pieces of furniture and objects of art that the cleaning staff frequently refers to a set of room photographs to be sure that everything has been put back in its proper place and position.—Collier's Weekly.

Constipated?

It's Nerves Not Poisons That Make You DIZZY and DOPEY

Modern doctors now say that constipation swells up digestive organs causing pressure on nerves in the region of the nerve plexus causes frequent bilious spells, dizziness, headaches, sour stomach, dull, tired-out feeling, irritable nerves, coated tongue, bad taste and loss of appetite. Don't fool with laxatives that give slow action, overnight relief, or are timed to act in 12 to 24 hours. They cause more trouble than relief. GET THAT PRESSURE OFF YOUR NERVES! Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure stops. Almost as soon as you feel marvelously refreshed, blue veins, and life looks bright again. That is why so many doctors are insisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should look for Adolphia. This official intestinal medicine is the only one containing a cathartic ingredient. Adolphia acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. It cleanses the bowels, relieves all constipation and eases removal of bowels containing in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 25 years.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the horrendous experience is wrought by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three decades of life. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Courage to the Task Courage consists in equality to the problem before us.—Emerson.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—its itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headaches, aching joints, grating up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is to turn to medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

"Fix room for nurse," she whispered, and Vicky was glad to go with her to the spare room, help her in the warming human business of making beds and arranging towels. He wasn't dead yet, anyway! Before they had finished, Quentin and Dr. Cudworth joined them.

Quentin looked exhausted; his hair was tumbled, and his operating gown, one of Miss Pierce's aprons put on backward, was spattered with red. He took off the apron, and was in his sleeveless fiber-cloth undershirt; with a towel he wiped the perspiration from his ashen face and smiled wearily at his wife.

"Excuse my appearance, Vic," he said, sitting down panting. "My Lord, but that was quick work!"

"How is he?" Vicky asked. But even before she asked it, the blood had come back to her heart and she had had time to feel an almost frightening first ecstasy of hope.

"He's doing remarkable," Dr. Cudworth said. "And he can thank your good husband here. You are, in my opinion, a genius, Dr. Hardisty."

"Oh, Quent, there isn't really a chance?"

"Magnificent constitution, and his own feeling will help," Quentin still ghostly pale and breathing hard, said to the other doctor. And then to Vicky, "Everything is as good as it can be; better, I would say. He opened his eyes and looked at me; it didn't take him five minutes to get his bearings."

Vicky sat down in a winged chair and put her hands over her eyes and began to cry, and Quentin, leaning over to pat her on the back, laughed with tears in his own eyes.

"I'm ash-oh-shamed of myself!" she stammered, looking up to smile through wet lashes. "But—but it saves us all! It saves us all. Quentin, I've been sitting out there alone, thinking and thinking."

"Did she come out at all?" the local doctor asked in the pause.

"Mrs. Morrison?"

"She's probably packing," Quentin said. "I imagine she'll get out right away. It would be the best thing all round if she did."

"Oh, but Quentin, the relief!" Vicky's eyes shone like stars; it was too good to be true, too good to be true! "If you hadn't come back from the hospital!" she said with a shudder. "If you'd still been in Germany! Quentin, will there have to be an investigation now, will there be any talk of poison?"

"I don't think so," Quentin said somewhat uncertainly, looking at his colleague. The other doctor repeated the phrase more decidedly.

"I'm extremely glad to wash my hands of the whole thing," Dr. Cudworth said. "He's warned now, and she's had a pretty sharp scare. The amah's tipped off, and I think we might give the nurse a hint; it seems to me we might—"

"I am going to talk to both nurses; I've had this girl telephone for another," Quentin said, and once again Vicky thought that he was two men: the Quentin who was the children's adored "Dad," easy and quiet and quite willing to take their word for anything, to listen to them, to learn from them, and this other Quentin, who held life and death in his big square hands.

"It would be better to get him into a hospital, of course, but we can't move him now. You say Serena hasn't shown up at all?" he asked Victoria, when they were all in the hall again.

"Not a sound."

"Will you wake her up? I'm going to take a look at Spencer. Amah here will let the nurse go down for some coffee. I've got to talk to Serena."

Victoria crossed the upper hall, turned the knob of Serena's door, and spoke from the threshold: "Serena!"

There was complete darkness within. Serena's apartment was on the western side of the house, and the first dim grayness of dawn that had struck into the kitchen, and that was now timidly attacking the eastern world, had made no entrance here. There was black night beyond Serena's window, and in the room vague, darker shadows. Vicky groped inside the door casing, found a switch, and inundated the place with soft, rosy light.

Everything was orderly enough. Vicky had seen these pink taffeta fittings before, the pink-brocaded walls, the long-legged doll and Mandarin lamps, the black worsted dog with the beady eyes. But there was in the silence here now something indefinably frightening. Her heart beat fast with terror.

Serena, still wearing the pale lavender dressing gown in which Vicky had first seen her last night, was lying flat across the unopened bed. The delicate pink taffeta covers still were spread in their daytime position, and flowed over the dais in thick rich founcing and folds at the top of the low wide bed, a half-circle of finely pleated silk rose like a moon. Beside the pillows were the night table and the pink lamps, the pink-and-white telephone, the book in a tooled vellum cover that Serena had been reading.

"Serena! Spencer's better. They think he will live. Quentin wants to speak to you!"

Silence. The room's mistress lay as she might have lain in a moment of sleep. She was lying on her back, her beautiful hair loosened and falling in a cascade over her shoulder, one arm hanging relaxed over the edge of the bed. Vicky's heart suddenly rose into her throat, and she felt her knees weaken.

She dared not turn her back on this room. Instead she backed slowly away, heard the men emerging from Spencer's room; turned to show them an ashen face and to clutch at Quentin's arm.

"Oh, Quentin, she's only asleep, I guess, but don't go in there!

"Killed Herself"

Don't. She's lying on her bed—she didn't go to bed—I spoke to her and she didn't stir."

"What's the matter, Vicky?" Quentin asked, surprised, weary. "What did she say? Has she fainted?"

He went toward Serena's door. Vicky, with a little gasp of fright, followed along beside him. Again she looked at the rosy beauty of Serena's room: the pink lights on delicate pink silk, the litter of beautiful luxurious nothings with which Serena had surrounded herself, a rabbit-skin rug, silver frames and vases, tortoise-shell fitting mounted in gold for the desk at which Serena wrote only love notes.

"Wait a minute!" Quentin said sharply. He went to the bed, touched the figure lying there; gripped the unresponsive shoulder with a big hand and shook it. "Serena!" he said. And then, turning to Vicky and the other doctor: "Look here!"

"What is it?" Cudworth asked, advancing into the room.

"Dead!" Quentin said.

"Oh, no, Quent!" Vicky was clinging to his arm. "Oh, no! Who would do it, who would do it?"

"She's done it herself, eh?" Cudworth asked. He stooped and picked from the floor something that glittered brightly in the soft light. "Ye didn't care for that investigation, did ye, my lady?" the old man queried, staring down at the dead woman with a shrewd light in his eyes.

"Suicide!" Vicky whispered.

"Yes; she did it herself," Quentin muttered. "Look there!"

Vicky's eyes found the little round violet puncture of the bullet hole at the flawless marble temple. Serena's sleeping face was placid, but the once scarlet mouth was pale and flecked with blood, and the beautiful pale gold hair was loosened into a careless cascade that hung in a web over the side of the bed. There was a horrible sprawling relaxation in her position, a dreadful mysterious shushness in the colorless lips that made Vicky tremble.

"Is there anything to do, Quent?"

"Not now." He did not turn from his contemplation of the wreck of what had been so soft, so lovely and alluring and fragrant and warm only a few hours ago. "No, it was instantaneous, Vic," he muttered.

"Killed herself!"

"She thought he was dead, d'you see?" the older man supplied suddenly. "The Chinese woman had come out of his room. It was while we were all in the hall there, awhile back, when we all thought that poor Morrison had no chance."

"I thought, from the way you all talked," Quentin said, "that he was! I was amazed when Amah said he wanted to see me. And certainly she must have thought so. Poor woman!"

An hour later Victoria and Quentin walked across the Morrisons' side garden, and through the gate into the lane and through their own gate. A perfect spring dawn was strengthening over the world now; it was four o'clock; the east was flushed with exquisite delicate pink, against which shoals and galleons of delicate silver and gray and paler gray cloud made long bars.

"I feel—reborn," Vicky said.

"Reborn. I'm terribly grateful, Vic," Quentin said.

"Oh, grateful! If you knew what I was thinking of all night long. Every horror that anyone can imagine seemed to be sweeping over me. I had you in jail; I had us all moving to some remote place."

"Perhaps you think I didn't, Vic, while we were working over him. Perhaps you think I didn't have a chance to think how I'd taken my life and destroyed it with my two hands. But thank God it's all over now!"

"I am tired. Quentin, doesn't the tea for the Vienna doctors and our lunch at the St. Francis seem longer ago than yesterday?"

"That wasn't yesterday!" he exclaimed.

"That's all it was."

"My God," he said again, struck. "She did do it, didn't she, Quent?"

"Yes," he said with a serious look. "I guess she did."

"Her killing herself!"—The words sounded so strange that Vicky had to stop short and think of them—"her killing herself looked as if she did," she mused.

"She had that—I don't know what to call it—ruthless quality," Quentin said. "She went over any obstacle that was in her way. She used to say that she had Tartar blood. She had a way of going berserk—not wild, but cold and vengeful and determined."

"He roused the very worst in her; he always did," Victoria mused.

"He seemed to sit back and laugh at her, and he never let her have enough money even to get away. She told me—she came to see me every few days, you know—that she had to charge even her lunches at hotels. That day she seemed to me desperate. She looked so beautiful, too; she was in a sort of corn color, and her eyes looked so blue. Mother said after she left, 'All dressed up and nowhere to go!' I suppose it was death-in-life to her to live in that quiet country house."

Quentin nodded, listening.

"You've been a trump all night long, Vic," he said, after a while. "If you'd been like most women, and refused to go over there, we might be in bad trouble this morning. If you were like most women, you'd have kicked me out years ago, I don't know why you act the way you do, but I want you to know—this sounds damn flat—but I want you to know that I admire you and that I'm grateful! I owe everything I've got in the world to you. I'm just beginning to realize that it's an awful lot. You know I'm not good at speeches, but when I think about you—and this is what I wanted to tell you—I get all choked up. I'm—I'm grateful."

"Thank you, Quentin!" Vic said from the other end of the table.

"We'll go on here, and some day I'll have a chance to show you that I'm changed," Quentin said. "It's taken me a long time to wake up. I've been a fool. I did the rottenest thing to you a man can do to his wife: it's just my luck, it's my incredible luck that you've—well, I won't say forgive me; you don't forget these things, and you can't forgive them—but that you've worked it out your way."

Vicky had the sugar bowl between her two brown, hard-working hands; she turned it slowly, her eyes upon it.

"You did something of which you are ashamed," she said simply. "I—didn't. Why should there be any question of forgiveness? If I did something—something wrong, tomorrow—you'd be sorry—you'd think a little the less of me; but you wouldn't be personally touched because I forged a check—your own honor would be just what it was! My life isn't yours. I'm me."

"I wish to the Lord you would do something dumb," Quentin said with ineloquent force, after a pause.

"I sound smug," Vicky said, "but I'm not. And I do dumb things every day. Thousands of them. There were months—there were actual years when your home life was nothing but mistakes, nerves, uproar, my crying and being tired and sick, the children going into mumps and whooping cough, bills piling up."

Wife May Deed Property
In California a wife may dispose of her separate property by a deed which does not require her husband's signature. Property owned by her before marriage, together with property acquired by her after marriage from her separate funds, is separate property, subject to distribution.

Tom It Is

Said Mrs. Browne to her new chauffeur, "What is your name?"
"Tom, madam," was the reply.
"Don't be ridiculous—I meant your surname!"
"Darling, madam."
"Drive on, Tom."

It was an ill wind that didn't blow the sea-side girl's handkerchief to the right young man.

A MISTAKE TO WAIT

WHEN "ACID INDIGESTION" STARTS

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU ALWAYS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Quicker Oiling - Quicker Starting with WINTER OIL-PLATING

You know that your engine must be oiled instantly throughout, or be tortured at every cold start.

You can imagine trying to rush cold oil everywhere at once, through scores of tiny oil-holes and passages.

How long before lubricant gets to where it is badly needed?

Less than no time at all! ... with Conoco Germ
Processed oil—patented.

This is the Winter oil that gives you far greater surety than mere fast flow. It OIL-PLATES your engine.

Before any other oils can even start to go where needed, exclusive OIL-PLATING has already arrived! In fact, it's been there all the time, because Germ Process action on all moving parts leaves them lastingly OIL-PLATED.

OIL-PLATING cannot drain down. It smooths and speeds the first turn of your ice-cold engine. Saves battery juice. And you save quarts of oil this Winter, by changing now to Germ Processed at your Conoco Mileage Merchant's.
