Brains Saves Lives Says AAA

"There is no substitute for brains in reducing automobile accidents." This is the statement issued by Clarence Werthan manager of Rocky Mountain Motorist, the local AAA club, in reviewing the Colorado accident record for the first nine months of this year. "The fact that we already have an increase of 11 per cent in fatalities for this year over last year", says Werthan, "indicates that drivers' license laws and other legal steps which we thought would reduce accidents will not in themselves improve the record. We killed 262 people thru the use of the automobile in the first nine months of last year. This year we have already killed 298. Every month this year but two has shown increased fatalities." It is interesting to note says the statement that "eleven of the persons killed in September were pedestrians. Ten lost their lives in motor vehicle collisions. One death was the result of a railroad train and motor vehicle collision. Two resulted from electric car and motor vehicle accident, and three bicycle riders lost their lives through negligence.

"The September records further list 22 of these fatal accidents at night and 23 in daytime. The officers attribute ten of the deaths to speed and seven to drunken drivers. Four drunken drivers themselves were killed. While it is appreciated that there is an increase in the use of cars every year, yet we should be making progress in reducing accidents. The non-fatal injuries recorded jumped from 3,292 in 1936 for the first nine months to 4,194 this year already. The drivers' license law and the inspection of cars are in force. We have a Highway Patrol and all sorts of laws and provisions for regulating the use of the automobile. It is plain, however, that we cannot put a policeman beside the driver of every car or walking along with every pedestrian. We cannot put a patrolman at every stop street or intersection. The American public must learn to drive and walk safely. It is a matter of mental process and mental attitude. Safer highways safer automobiles, policemen, city ordinances and state statutes will not take the place of brains. The AAA Club calls upon Colorado citizens to use their brains to save money and lives."

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Bell entertained their sister, Mrs. Thomas from Carlsbad this week, while Mr. Thomas was hunting for big game in our nearby mountains. Mrs. Lester Peters spent last week end in Roswell. Mrs. Martin mother of Mrs. Peters has returned from Phoenix Ariz., and Thavere, N. Mex.

"Two Famous Scientists"

THE World's Fundamentalist conference was meeting in Toronto, Canada. One of the speakers, a certain Doctor Brown, had defended the story of Jonah and the whale against the doubters who refused to take that familiar Bible story literally. So he was delighted when he received a letter from the city editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire which seemed to back up his belief.

The next evening Doctor Brown read to the 3,000 delegates to the conference the letter which described how two well-known German scientists, Herr Doktor Butterbrod and Herr Doktor Smearkase, while delving in some ruins near Nineveh, had found the skeleton of what they believed was a whale. It had a sort of muscle arrangement working a trap door which gave access to the stomach. This, the scientists declared, proved conclusively that it would have been scientifically possible for Jonah to live contentedly for three days inside the whale.

The delegates cheered the reading of this letter and Doctor Brown was well pleased. But he wasn't so pleased the next day. Newspaper men came to interview him to get more particulars on the story. He was quoted as saying that the two Germans were men of international reputation.

Then the Mail and Empire came out with a story which announced that the names of the two eminent scientists might be otherwise translated as "Doctor Bread and Butter" and "Doctor Cheese" and that the letter was a hoax planned in its offices. It did not reveal where it had secured the manuscript and it was not until several years later that the author of it was revealed as one of its reporters named Charles Langton Clarke, who had written the story for his own amusement many months before the Fundamentalists met in Toronto.

An Ancient Stone

IN THE year 1875 the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Argus reported that a hunter in the Catskills had made a discovery which was of "extraordinary antiquarian interest." While resting on a grassy hillside he glanced idly at a boulder and then rubbed his eyes in astonishment. On it were plainly engraved these words:

TH ISS-TO-NEWA-SPUTH-
ER-EFO-RCATTLET-OSCRAT-
CH-THE-IR-BA-CKSON
S B AN TH-ON-IE

In what language was this inscription written? Was it carved there by some survivor of a lost race? Was it some magic formula or the key to buried treasure? No one knew, but for days everyone was talking about it and guessing as to its meaning.

And then somebody had the bright idea of writing the syllables down and leaving out the dashes between them. In a moment the translation became clear. It was:

"This stone was put here for cattle to scratch their backs on. S. B. Anthonie"

Who was S. B. Anthonie, the author of the hoax? No one ever knew. Why the date "1643"? Probably just a whim of the playful Mr. Anthonie, put there to lead its "discoverer" to believe that he had found something of "extraordinary antiquarian interest!"

International April Foolishness

IF WE Americans think that the best April Fool jokes are "made in America" we need to think again. For the nations of eastern and central Europe have had longer years of practice at it than we have and newspaper readers in those countries expect on April 1 to read in their journals fantastic news items which are believable enough to fool all except the most sophisticated.

Several years ago a Polish newspaper published a photograph of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, erect as the day it was built. Over it was the startling headline "Straightened by Order of Il Duce." Such was the reputation of Mussolini for "getting things done," that many readers believed he had indeed had the Tower of Pisa restored to its original position.

One Warsaw paper carried a photograph of Charlie Chaplin arriving at the principal railroad station which resulted in hundreds of calls at its office to learn where the inquirers could see the famous American movie star.

But the prize hoax was the one published in a Bucharest paper. It told in great detail of the arrival of George Bernard Shaw at a local hotel and made its reporter's interview with that witty Irishman so true to life that even seasoned reporters on other papers were gulled. Believing that they had been "scooped," they rushed down to the hotel en masse to get interviews for their papers before Shaw left town, only to be greeted with an "April Fool!" (or the Rumanian equivalent for it) by the smiling hotel clerk.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Intriguing Construction.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— Downtown I saw some sort of siege-wall going up. At first I thought it must be a part of the proposed plaza leading from our new terminal.

Our new terminal has been under construction almost as long as New York's unfinished Cathedral of St. John. Inch by inch it progresses, giving creeping defiance to those critics who say that what Los Angeles needs is not any additional entrances, but more exits.

On second glance I decided the owner of the business property behind this strange rampart probably made the same mistake I did. I saw a picture in the paper and I said, "Pretty late to be printing a photograph of Fifth avenue showing how it appeared when the World's war heroes got through pranking last month." I looked again and saw it was only a scene in Shanghai after the Japanese finished bombing.

So I figure this forehanded Los Angeleno is just getting ready for next year's convention of the vets out here. When his wall is absolutely impregnable against assault, he'll no doubt paint a big sign on it reading:

"Welcome, American Legion."

Kindness for Reptiles. UNDER the slogan, "Kindness for reptiles," the National Park service discourages people from destroying every creature they encounter, merely because it wriggles or crawls.

I'm what you might call an occasional snakehead, indulging in snakes only in moderation. In other words, I can take my snakes or I can leave them be. But realizing that practically all snakes destroy noxious vermin, I refrain from murdering every passing snake, regardless of his private habits and personal disposition, just for being a snake.

I was raised in a locality where moccasins were so numerous the Republicans used to accuse us of voting them at county elections. Yet I recall only one instance of a moccasin snake biting anybody, and it must have been tempted beyond all power of self-control, for the fellow bitten was a pious party who didn't think little children should be suffered to believe in Santa Claus. I regret to state that he recovered. It was the snake that died.

Movie Preferences. I DON'T like movies about hospitals where an impossible young surgeon performs impossible operations, in four strokes under par, using his irons all the way 'round; and then, while replacing the divots, makes love to an impossible although beautiful nurse. But between operations he washes his hands. Dadgum him, he's always washing his hands! Who does he think he is, Pontius Pilate?

I don't like movies about newspaper offices where the hero is a drunken reporter who behaves in a manner peculiar to newspaper reporters (in the movies): which is so darned peculiar that, in a real newspaper office, somebody'd beat out his brains with a wet towel.

I like movies showing Myrna Loy, when not playing nurse; and Spencer Tracy, when not playing reporter.

Anyhow, nothing could be an absolute failure that has a Walt Disney short separating the ultra-colossal or regular feature from the extra-special four-star absolutely unparalleled super-stupendous preview feature.

Gossip About Cobb. JUST a little effort to trace down gossip now going around:

(I) The claim that I am going to play Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind" is absolutely unfounded. Latest word is that the coveted role will go to Fannie Brice, although the Ritz brothers are being mentioned. If they should be chosen, Scarlett will be played as a three-handed quartette.

(II) Dame Rumor hath it that the Atlantic sperm whale will be renamed the Justice Black sperm whale. Not yet confirmed, but sounds sort of plausible. The Atlantic sperm whale has a hide almost two feet thick.

(III) The statement that Charley McCarthy may join the reorganized brain trust at Washington remains unsettled. Probably without foundation. For while Charley is trained to sit upon his master's knee, he cannot be depended on to keep silent and has too many brains to be trusted.

(IV) Stories to the effect that Representative Ham Fish will be Republican nominee for President in 1940 may be regarded as absolutely authentic so far as Representative Ham Fish is concerned.

I WAS NEVER SO EMBARRASSED

-FOR I KNEW THAT ACID-INDIGESTION WAS DISTRESSING TO ME AND OFFENSIVE TO OTHERS BUT NOW-I JUST

ALKALIZE THE EASY PHILLIPS' WAY

The quick way to alkalize is this: Take two teaspoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after eating and drinking. Or, when among others—take two Phillips' Tablets that come in a small flat tin you carry in purse or vest pocket. — You do it unnoticed. Relief is almost immediate. "Gas," nausea, acid breath and other offensive symptoms leave. — That "stuffed" feeling and pains from "acid indigestion" cease to annoy. You feel great.

This is the way, we believe, more doctors use than any other when alkalizing upset stomachs.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Radiology a Young Science, but Makes Enormous Strides

What the X-Rays Have Done for Diagnosis and Cure

Chicago, Ill.—Radiology, the study and use of both X-rays and radium, is a comparatively young science, but it has turned out to be a precocious youngster. Reports to the International Congress of Radiology in Chicago showed the enormous strides it has made.

Household words today, X-rays were unknown 43 years ago, and radium was first obtained only 39 years ago. Treatment of cancer is the chief meaning these potent substances have in the minds of most persons. This is perhaps their most important field of usefulness but by no means their only one.

Diagnosis of disease has been made far more certain and accurate by means of the penetrating X-rays. "For example, the diagnosis of disease by X-rays has practically revolutionized the study and knowledge of tuberculosis and nearly all cases of this once-dreaded disease are now diagnosed by X-rays," declared Dr. Arthur C. Christie of Washington, D. C., president of the congress. "Most stomach ulcers are diagnosed by the X-ray, as are bone and kidney diseases, affections of the sinuses, of the teeth, and even the brain."

Every Organ and Bone Visible. "In fact, all organs of the body as well as the bone structures can now be made apparent to the radiologist for his diagnosis. By injection of air and gas into the ventricles of the brain, tumors or other brain diseases may be studied from the X-ray film findings. Intra-venous injections of certain dyes into the veins outline the gall-bladder.

"Foreign bodies, such as nails, coins, and other metals occasionally swallowed by children, can be accurately located by the X-ray so that the bronchoscopist may extract these dangerous objects.

"Inflammatory lesions, such as boils, carbuncles, muscular arthritis, are often cured or reduced by X-ray therapy."

Sudan Grass Is Safe for Pasturage Only When Long

Madison, Wis.—Farmers who have pastures of sudan grass, which frequently contains prussic acid, are warned by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture here to make sure that the grass is more than a foot high before cattle are allowed to graze on it.

Short sudan grass, especially when dark in color, has been found to contain dangerous amounts of the acid, one of the deadliest poisons known and blamed in the past for a number of cattle deaths.

Ancient Folsom Man Is Still Among the Missing

Washington.—Folsom man is still missing.

So says Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, Jr., of the Smithsonian Institution, who has returned from a third summer spent hunting this elusive American.

Folsom men, widely regarded scientifically as the oldest known inhabitants of our continent, hunted big game perhaps 10,000 years ago, but are traced today only by their trail of stone weapon points and by a Colorado campground where a group of them rested.

This year, Dr. Roberts says he worked toward what seems to have been the center of their camp. He found more of their stone work but no human burials. So—Folsom man is still missing.

Keystone State Beavers Increasing Rapidly

Harrisburg, Pa. — Ninety-six beavers, imported into Pennsylvania where they had been extinct, have multiplied to well over 15,000, according to the last beaver count.

The 96 animals were brought in between 1917 and 1924; no beavers had been found in Pennsylvania for the 70 years prior to 1917.

The beavers represent, it was stated, a decided economic asset, for, now that trapping is permitted, the annual take ranges upward of 8,500 beavers worth more than $200,000.

"Vodas" Name Given to Stammer-Making Electrical Device

Controls the Voice for Trans-Atlantic Phone

New York.—If any readers are now going through the process of learning one new word a day to increase their vocabulary the word "vodas" is recommended. It won't be found in any dictionary now in existence and is as new as today's newspaper.

To save playing the old game of asking "animal, vegetable or mineral?" one should hasten to add that vodas is an instrument through which the electrical impulses of your voice must pass when, and if, you next talk by trans-Atlantic radio telephone.

The vodas does many things to your voice, including the creation of an artificial stammer. And it can turn your normal voice volume into the roar of a super-giant if necessary.

Vodas is a newly coined word composed of the first letter of each word in the following phrase: "voice-operated device anti-singing." A vodas, S. B. Wright of the Bell Telephone laboratories of New York explains, represents the radio and electrical engineers' answer to the unique and intricate problems which arise at the links between land telephone lines and their wireless trans-oceanic counterparts. Not the least of these problems is the fact that radio noise is much more severe than wired telephone noise.

Creates the Needed Lag

Best results on combined radio and wire telephone circuits could be achieved if first one speaker said all he had to say and then allowed the other to talk. Actually, in ordinary conversation there is a quick interchange of talk which is disastrous for good reception if both speakers want to talk at once. And that is where the "stammer" mechanism of the vodas comes in. It causes an almost imperceptible delay before the circuits will accept the voice of Mr. A, for example, after Mrs. A finishes telling him how little Johnny is. A one-sixth of a second lag in all the electrical vodas needs to handle the conversation in normal fashion.

Modern radio telephony requires a man in a control room to handle the two voices speaking, in a fashion somewhat like the operator in a radio control room in a broadcasting station. The control man's job includes adjusting the receiving relays to the particular amount of noise existing; adjusting the transmitting and speech volumes properly; selecting the proper hangover or delay time for the two voices and perhaps increasing the sensitivity of the transmitting side of the vodas in the case of talkers who either speak so softly that the electrical impulses created by their voice are unable to trip the relays, or else people on wire lines having weak volume and more than the usual amount of line noise.

Whey, Once Likened to Squeal of the Pig, Has Numerous Uses

Cambridge, Mass.—A multitude of uses have been found for whey, formerly milk's equivalent of the famous pig's squeal that couldn't be set to work.

Sweetened and dried, whey, a by-product of cheese manufacturing, makes an excellent candy filling. "Whipped cream" can be made from whey. Flavor and food value of canned or homemade soup is improved by the addition of powdered or condensed whey. Tomato juice and fresh whey when mixed form an "attractive" beverage or starting point for a variety of tomato soup.

This was the essence of a report by B. H. Webb of the United States bureau of dairy industry before the Food Technology conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Velvet Is Crush-Proofed by Formaldehyde Dip

Washington.—Velvet, the delicate cloth of royalty and of mid-lady's evening gowns, that crushes and mats so easily, will shortly appear in new crush-proof form, Science Service reports.

Winfield W. Heckert of Ardentown, Del., has found that dipping velvet in formaldehyde, long famous as an antiseptic and disinfectant, by a special process, makes the velvet fibers resistant to crushing.

Formaldehyde-treated velvets retained their shape perfectly, Heckert claims, when crushed for hours under heavy weights exerting a pressure equal to that exerted by the average person sitting in a chair. The untreated fabric was badly crushed when treated in similar fashion.

FALL DAYS ARE SAUSAGE DAYS

Once Just Breakfast Dish, Now It Spreads Out.

By EDITH M. BARBER

SAUSAGE has risen in the world. While its association with breakfast still remains, it is now allowed on the luncheon and supper menus. Of course, there was one exception to the old rule, as sausage has always been allowed to serve as a sort of a garnish for turkey or as a stuffing for other fowl.

The business woman housekeeper gives sausage, however, a star role, and when crisp fall days arrive she will occasionally choose it, as it demands only a short time for its cooking.

Sausage in cakes and sausage in links, whichever is preferred, may be used. There is no trick about cooking the first. Link sausage, however, needs special treatment to prevent the bursting of the casing. Of course, each link may be pricked with a fork, but I find it easier to allow sausage to cook in its own fat either in a covered pan on top of the stove or in an uncovered pan in the oven. In the first case, a low flame should be used for the first five minutes, after which the heat may be increased so that each link may be a golden brown.

Fried apples seem to belong with sausage when served as a main course. Some of the fat which liquefies as the sausage cooks may be used for cooking the apples in another frying pan. Instead you may like to make your main dish a combination of sausage and scrambled eggs, each of which seems to bring out the flavor of the other. And once in a while you will probably have to humor the family by giving them griddle cakes even at supper time with their sausage. Try these:

Sausage With Cream Gravy. 1 pound sausage 4 tablespoons flour 2 cups milk

Cook the sausages (if you use sausage meat, form into small cakes before cooking) in a heavy frying pan, tightly covered over a low heat for ten minutes. Then increase the heat until each link is brown. Remove sausages and all but four tablespoons of the fat. Add the flour and when well blended, add the milk slowly, cook one minute, add sausages and reheat. Season with salt and pepper if necessary. Sausage and Apples. 6 sweet potatoes 3 apples 1 pound link sausage

Boil the potatoes until soft and place in a greased dripping pan; pare, core and slice the apples and place between the potatoes. Place the sausage across the potatoes and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) until the sausage is crisp.

MORE GOOD RECIPES

Mint Jelly. 1 cup mint leaves and stems 1/2 cup vinegar 1 cup water 3/4 cups sugar Green coloring 1/2 bottle fruit pectin Wash mint. Measure into a saucepan and press with potato masher. Add vinegar, water and sugar and bring to a boil over a hot fire. While mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. As soon as mixture boils, stir in fruit pectin, bring to a hard boil and continue boiling for half a minute. Remove from fire and skim. Strain jelly into clean, hot glasses. Cover with an eighth of an inch layer of paraffin. Yield—five to six six-ounce glasses.

Scalloped Oysters. 5 tablespoons butter 4 cups soft bread crumbs 1 1/2 teaspoons salt Pepper 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1 pint oysters Melt the butter, add crumbs and seasonings and mix well. Drain oysters and arrange in alternate layers with the buttered crumbs in a greased baking dish. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees Fahrenheit.

Escarole Milan. Remove tough outer leaves of many heads of escarole, wash and cook until tender. Drain and cut coarsely. Sauté one tablespoon minced onion in a little olive oil three minutes. Add drained escarole, pepper, salt and a generous amount of vinegar or lemon juice. Garlic may be used instead of the onion, and then discarded before the addition of the escarole. Baked Quinces. 8 quinces 6 sliced oranges 1/2 cup sugar 1 1/2 cups water Wash and dry quinces. Cut in quarters, core and pare. Place quinces and oranges in baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, add water, cover and cook until tender in a slow oven, (300 degrees Fahrenheit). Quinces require a long time to cook.

Paint Improves Stucco Stucco surfaces may be painted a pleasing shade without hiding their beautiful texture. Stucco houses in the North and East are counterparts of the stucco residences in California and the Mediterranean countries, where such homes are painted in beautiful hues—for stucco permits of colorful treatment.

Interpreters of the Mode

SO LONG as you Sew—Your Own, Milady, just so long will Yours Truly strive to interpret the mode for you. Today the trio brings you frocks for every size (from four years to size 52) for almost any occasion. Each has been designed to bring you the ultimate in style in its particular class and all claim a new high in simplicity and comfort.

Ultra-Smart Dress. It's nice to know you're easy to look at even if the occasion is only another breakfast session. That's why the ultra-smart dress at the left is so handy to have. Note the clever detail all the way through even to the inverted skirt pleat. See how beautifully the sleeves set-in—you just know at a glance how simple it is to put together. Cotton, of course, is the material.

Typical of Youth. The surest way to be a big little-body is to wear dresses that are as expertly planned as the grown-ups'. The little number above, center, has the smart styling of a sub-deb's frock. It is typical of youth's freshness and activity, and is one model that gets little girls' complete endorsement. It is the number one dress for the number one sweetheart in anybody's family.

An Orchid to You. Do you think of a charming corolla tea with lots of atmosphere and plenty of style when you look at the handsome new two-piece above, right? Would you like it made in one color and material, or perhaps with a top in gold lame or satin combined with a skirt of a rich dull fabric? Why not make it yourself to suit your own fancy and step into a swell little world of glamour crowded with fans and gun and festivity?

The Patterns. Pattern 1401 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. Pattern 1366 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards of machine-made pleating to trim, as pictured. Pattern 1396 is designed for sizes 32 to 44. Size 34 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the blouse, 1 1/2 yards of 54-inch material for the skirt.

1939 World's Fair

Has New Ideas About Amusement Features

NEW YORK, (Special).—"Only seeing will be believing," says President Grover Whalen of the New York World's Fair 1939 Corporation, as he tries to envision what the Fair is planning, more than two years in advance, in the way of facilities for recreation, entertainment and amusement.

Every man, woman and child in the United States, he says, has an interest in the 1939 Fair and to some degree or other has a part in the building of that Fair. The exposition, therefore, will surpass all previous fairs, not only in the demonstration of the wonders of the world or present-day life and in the projection of the World of Tomorrow, but also in providing the utmost variety of entertainment and amusement for every man, woman and child.

The entire world will be tapped for every amusement possibility. The threesome medley of stunts and side shows—the stock-in-trade relics of the amusement world of yesterday—will give way to a new and modern standard of excellence. The plan of the New York World's Fair has anticipated the requirements for entertainment and is making them a part of the general scheme of the Fair, rather than allowing them to spring up as an appendage or an afterthought. Even the tiny children will have a playground reserved exclusively for their own use.

Loan Policies and YOU

Has a friend or neighbor ever approached you for the purpose of borrowing money? When such a request is made of you, your decision is governed by the integrity and honor of the borrower, the purpose for which he wants the money, and his ability and willingness to pay it back.

Your bank is but an enlargement of YOU— it has its own circle of friends; some of whom find it necessary to borrow money from the bank. Your bank wants to help its friends in their hour of need; but it is your money that it lends, and it must consider even more carefully than do you the qualifications of the borrower.

We will gladly discuss loan possibilities with worthy applicants.

Leader in Low Price Field

Both Sloan and Knudsen were enthusiastic concerning the advanced dealer-factory relationship that W. E. Holler has organized in the Quality Dealer Program and the Dealer Planning Committees.

"What Chevrolet does in any given year," said Sloan, "is of vital importance, not only to General Motors and the Chevrolet Division, its dealers and retail salesmen, but also to business in general, for Chevrolet's operations are so large and extensive as to have a marked influence on the welfare and lives of millions."

Knudsen stressed service to public through the Chevrolet dealers, as he commented upon the fact that the corporation is backing Chevrolet in 1938 with its power and ability.

"In its unique position as the leader in the low-priced field," he said, "I know that the Chevrolet Division will accept the challenge that leadership brings, namely, maintaining its leadership in service to the public through the Chevrolet dealer organization."

Legion Bouquet To Injured Overseas Vet In Hospital

A beautiful gesture was made Monday noon in connection with the Legion convention here when a group of Legionnaires visited Epworth hospital and presented Pete Johnson, injured ex-service man with a bouquet. The Legion and Auxiliary parade accompanied the flower committee to the hospital and the Liberal High School band which led the parade played a sprightly band number at the hospital for the benefit of the patients.

Van Stewart, commander of the Panhandle Plains Association, Roy Nelson and Representative Price Davies then entered the hospital and presented the bouquet to Mr. Johnson, who was injured in the Rock Island wreck here a month ago. Mr. Johnson made a fine record as an overseas soldier during the World War, belonging to the same combat unit as did Henry Lackey. He went unscratched through a year of active service on the western front, engaging in several of the big drives and battles without a scratch although in the thick of the fighting. Ironically enough he has been painfully injured several times in civilian life since the war, including the latest accident in the Rock Island yards here when he sustained two broken legs. He has been engaged in the cattle business in Texas and in Old Mexico, where he has had some lively experiences with cattle rustlers and bandits, but even there he avoided wounds and injuries, only to meet mishap in the supposedly safe place of a cattle caboose on the Rock Island.

He will be able to leave the hospital this week and the fine courtesy of the American Legion made his final week in the hospital singularly pleasant.— Liberal, Kansas, News.

I just read a mighty interesting little book written by James F. Hinkle, who came to Lincoln County, New Mexico, from Texas in 1885 with the old C. A. Bar cattle company. I was working for the Flying H outfit on the Felix when Mr. Hinkle came there and while I didn't become well acquainted with that old cowhand I have met him. This little booklet is a story of the cow business in Lincoln County during the 80's and the story of a cowboy's rise from the saddle to the office of Governor of New Mexico. I should read the story with great interest on account I am familiar with all the events and persons he mentions. Mr. Hinkle is now president of the First National Bank at Roswell, N. M. Frank M. Chautemps Gives Warning

IF THE necessity arises, France is prepared and ready to employ force in defense of her vital interests.

M. Chautemps

Such was the warning, evidently directed especially to Italy and Germany, which Premier Camille Chautemps uttered before a congress of the central federation of his Radical Socialist party.

"I hope especially in the grievous affair of Spain this pacific, prudent, and courageous action will succeed in cutting short the violations of justice which cannot be renewed without constraining France and Britain to renew their liberty of action," Chautemps said.

The premier's declaration recalled French insistence that unless the nonintervention committee Spain pulled foreign troops out of Spain France would open her frontier to aid the Spanish government.

Mussolini insists there are only 40,000 Italian volunteers in Spain and Fascist organs in Italy said these figures must be accepted by the nonintervention committee without argument.

Dispatches from Paris say that Mussolini and Hitler at their recent meeting in Germany reached an agreement by which Italy was given the right to order some long range guns from the Krupp works and armor plate for a new warship in return Hitler was promised a free hand in southeastern Europe to obtain the foodstuffs and trade Germany needs.

Chautemps' declaration of policy may give Il Duce pause.

Franco's Progress

GENERALISSIMO FRANCO, having completed his conquest of Gijon and the rest of the loyalist territory in northwest Spain, began moving his insurgent forces eastward to the Aragon front, where his officers said the "decisive offensive of the war" would be begun.

Government dispatches announced the Madrid-Valencia loyalist regime was prepared to block the insurgents on all sectors of the 300-mile line from the French frontier south to Teruel, east of Madrid.

Ecuador Coup de'Etat

GEN. ALBERTO ENRIQUEZ, war minister of Ecuador, and officers of the army executed a coup d'etat which forced Provisional President Federico Paez to resign and leave the country.

Japanese Drive Checked

SIX days and nights of intensified fighting around Shanghai brought from the spokesman of the Japanese army the admission that its general advance of more than 100,000 men with tanks and planes was

"blowed down." The Chinese had blown up bridges, mined highways and erected barbed wire entanglements, and all the time had battled the invaders desperately.

Bullets from a Japanese plane killed one British soldier and endangered Americans and other foreigners on the edge of the international settlement in Shanghai. Official protests were lodged immediately and the matter was so serious that it was referred to London and Tokyo.

Reports indicate that Japan has lost a part of North China which she had occupied. It was said Mongols and Chinese of Suiyuan had declared the independence of that province and set up a new regime at Kweisui.

F. D. R. on Farm Bill

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, returning to his Hyde Park home, was giving special attention to the farm legislation which he wishes passed by congress in the extraordinary session. He sent duplicate letters to Chairman Ellison D. Smith of the senate agriculture committee and Chairman Marvin Jones of the house committee urging them to speed up the legislation, but warning that it must be kept within budgetary limits unless congress was prepared to impose new taxes.

"The new national farm act should safeguard farmers' income as well as their soil fertility," the President wrote. "It should provide for storage of reserve food supplies in an ever normal granary, so that if severe and widespread drought recurs consumers will be assured of more adequate supplies with less drastic increases in price than otherwise would be the case."

"It should provide for control of surpluses when and if necessary but at the same time it should preserve the export markets that still are open to our farmers."

"It should protect both farmers and consumers against extreme ups and downs in prices of farm products. It should be financed by sound fiscal methods. Local administration should be kept in the farmers' hands."

Urging sound fiscal relations, Mr. Roosevelt said that it is important not to interfere with the expected balancing of the budget in the fiscal year 1933-'33.

Experts in Washington figure the new farm program may cost as much as $1,000,000,000 in the first year.

Farmers Warned on Loans

EDWARD A. O'NEAL, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, headed a group of farm leaders who called on the President for the purpose of asking loans of 60 cents a bushel on corn to improve prices. It was understood Mr. Roosevelt warned that crop loans should not be pushed so high that the drain on federal revenues would become too heavy; and that he intimated that the budget would not permit great extension of loans at this time.

However, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace subsequently told a press conference a government loan on this year's large corn crop "should be exceedingly desirable."

Stelwer to Retire

TWENTY years of public service is enough for Senator Frederick Stelwer of Oregon, Republican. He has announced that he will not seek re-election next year, but will return to the practice of law. Stelwer was the keynote of the Republican national convention of 1934.

Credit System Praised

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, speaking at the opening of the new Federal Reserve building in Washington, gave full praise to the federal reserve system as a most important part of the government's plans for economic stability and security.

That machinery, he continued, "must be steadily perfected and coordinated with all other instruments of government to promote the most productive utilization of our human and material resources. Only in that way can we hope to achieve and maintain an enduring prosperity, free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions. Only in that way can our economic system and our democratic institutions endure."

Mr. Roosevelt avoided mention of the jittery condition of the stock markets, but before delivering his address he had seen Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and learned that the market was recovering, due to heavy buying by bargain hunters and perhaps to recovery of confidence by investors.

Among the many notable persons on the platform with the President was Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who fathered the federal reserve system during the Wilson administration. The veteran senator was loudly cheered.

John Roosevelt to Wed

MRS. FRANCES HAVEN CLARK of Boston announced that her daughter, Anne Lindsay Clark, and John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, will be married in Nahant, Mass., next June, shortly after Mr. Roosevelt is graduated from Harvard.

Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt, former wife of Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, and Curtin Winsor of Ardmore, Pa., were married in Philadelphia. Mrs. Winsor and Elliott Roosevelt were divorced in July, 1933.

Landon Calls on G. O. P.

ALF M. LANDON came to the surface in a radio address to 17,000,000 Americans who voted for him in the last election, and especially to the Republican party as a whole.

ALF M. LANDON

Landon called President Roosevelt had failed as an administrator, had failed to follow the Constitution, and now was demanding increased power. "What he really needs is less power," Mr. Landon asserted, "a position that will force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties—men whose hearts also are in the right place, but men who have had more experience and who know more about the practical application of government than he does."

It is up to the Republicans, he said, to curb Mr. Roosevelt in his demands. He also discussed the war talk prevalent after the President's Chicago speech and said: "We are faced with a situation where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war. Close observers have increasing doubt if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion."

In conclusion Mr. Landon said: "We have had a New Deal. Now what we most need in America is a new yardstick—a yardstick to measure the ability and the accomplishments, as well as the good intentions, of public officials."

"It is time to put a solid foundation of workable legislation under the air castles which the President forever is blowing. "It is time to realize that we must apply the resources of the mind if we are to make the wishes of the heart come true."

Glove-and-Bag Ensemble Is Latest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LOOK to you

accessories. This is a new theme when the accessory theme is uppermost in the minds of designers. Fashion demands accessories; items that not only tune to a nicely to your costume but they must radiate glamor and be as elegant "as thy purse can buy."

So all-important, so outstanding has this idea of smart accessories become in the scheme of things, 'twould almost seem as if the clothes we wear were made to serve merely as a background to show off the swank, the splendor and romance of the added accents in way of jewelry, gloves, handbags and belts, headwear, neckwear, footwear and even the very "hankies" we carry or proudly display in capricious little pockets that may not be so utilitarian as they are decorative.

Especially do handbags reflect this trend of the mode to indulge in elegance and glamor. Leathers are softer, trimmings are more startling and to add to the fuss and furor now raging in behalf of accessories, designers have worked to achieve matching ensembles of bag and gloves which make it simple for the woman of impeccable taste to dress up to her standard.

The illustration shows a trio of perfectly stunning ensembles by David Lewis, American designer, noted for his leather artistry. Here gloves and handbags are matched in a manner so striking the entire costume takes on an air so smart there is none smarter.

Black with gold accents is the favorite language of fashion these times. It's gold and glamor that makes its way into the styling of the handsome and distinctive dressy afternoon and cocktail set to the right below in the picture. For this ensemble the softest of black antelope is used in a frameless skirt-type bag with black bengaline to line it. Gussies of gold kid are set in with inverted pleats both front and back. The soft handles have the "feel" of luxury and the slide-fastener closing adds the practical note. The matching black antelope slip-on gloves are hand-attached and have gold details, but the back of the glove is devoid of any knuckle stitching which cites an important trend this season.

Tiny perforations are one of the newest style notes in leather. You will undoubtedly see bag-and-glove sets as pictured to the left above at the smartest places. Black perforated antelope soft as a kitten's ear is used for this ensemble—the air-conditioned idea carried out even to one's accessories. The bag is beautifully lined with clipper satin. The short pull-on gloves to match are handstitched and have a corded binding at the wrist but no stitching on the backs.

One of the loveliest of the Lewis tailored bags (see pictured to right above) is simple and squarish in shape, with white cross-stitched whipped edges. The handles are set on the bag with tiny cross stitches, which is the only trim. A slide-fastener gives a wide opening for convenience. This bag comes in grand fall accessory colors and is made of antelope, lined with bengaline. Short pull-on gloves with matching cross stitches around the fingers and the entire glove make this set a striking example of how American designers are keyed to create what the American women want and will wear. Such lovely accessories thrill us with the knowledge that we are correct even to the fingertips.

LAME HEADS LIST OF PARIS FABRICS

Lame heads the list of important fabrics in the Paris couturiers' winter collections, for fabric designers have adapted the metallic material for broader use than ever before.

Lame is no longer simply lame. There are flower print lames in colors; simple heavy gold and silver cloths draped into enchanting evening gowns, iridescent materials with glowing silky stripes; "gold dust" lames; plaid and checkered metallic fabrics and lame moires.

Velvet in all its forms from the sheepest of chiffon velvet through Lyons and even corduroy are distinctive and feature in costumes for wear at every hour of the day. Cut velvets backed with colors or metal tones provide luxurious evening fabrics.

Four-Way Costume Is Back in New Wool and Velveteen

The four-way costume returns this fall with added popularity in a new plaid wool and velveteen version that is especially appropriate for college or general school wear.

There is a two-piece plaid dress of the shirtwaist type that comes in black, brown, wine or green, with a boxy swagger velveteen jacket and skirt with front panel of the predominant color of the plaid.

The velveteen jacket is practical in that it may be worn with other dresses and skirts.

Sequins for Glitter

Glittering sequins embroidery trims hundreds of new fall frocks. Among the motifs which brighten sober dresses are stained glass window patterns, fireworks designs and Louis XV. bowknots.

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "working" before the headache and starting pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

CATTLE KINGDOM

By ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS

Billy Wheeler, wealthy young cattleman, arrives at the 94 ranch, summoned by his friend Horse Dunn, its elderly and quick-tempered owner, because of a mysterious murder. Billy is in love with Dunn's niece Marian, whom he has not seen for two years. She had rejected his suit and is still aloof. Dunn's ranch is surrounded by enemies, including Link Bender, Pinto Haliday and Sam Caldwell, whom he has defeated in his efforts to build a cattle kingdom. Dunn directs his cow hands, Val Douglas, Tulare Callahan and others to search for the killer's horse.

"It means the sheriff is on the ride—he's left Link Bender's, headed for Short Creek. Maybe you think he's getting a slow start. He is. That's the nature of the man. You ready?"

"Lead out," said Wheeler, buckling his chap belt.

Horse Dunn reached down a broad cartridge belt whose holster carried a heavy six-gun, and swung this about his waist. "Pick yourself a gun," he told Wheeler.

"What's this for?" Wheeler demanded.

"In case of emergency, boy."

Wheeler stared at him. Then he shrugged, picked a weighted gun-belt from the wall, and strapped it on.

"Bring your saddle."

At the corral Horse Dunn pointed out a stocky buckskin pony, and when Billy Wheeler had roped and rigged this animal, Dunn led the way out of the layout. Promptly Horse Dunn pushed his own tall sorrel into a hard laming trot.

"I want to join up with the sheriff somewhere about Chuck Box Wash," Dunn explained. "I'm right anxious to be with him when he makes his look-see at Short Creek."

"Horse," said Billy Wheeler, "what's happened here?"

"You'll see for yourself, better than I can tell you, knowing the lay of country like you do. But I'll tell you what I know."

In abrupt sentences he told Wheeler what had happened.

Morning of the day before, Horse Dunn had been riding Short Creek in the course of making a cattle count. The range of the 94 was far-flung and broken; the first step toward a count was to read the water holes, to find out what part of the range the big bunches were frequenting.

Reading sign on Short Creek, Dunn had come upon the double trail of a shod horse and an unshod horse, ridden side by side. The trail was going his way. He rode along it without attention—until he came upon blood-stained ground.

"I studied the ground very careful, tracing the trails," Dunn said. "In five minutes I knew for sure I'd come on the place where a man met his death."

"But there was no body?"

Dunn shook his head. "The dead man keeled out of the saddle as he was shot," he reported the sign.

"But I guess he got stirrup hung, for he was dragged. His pony pulled him through the creek. I followed across, and found where he came loose. But the dead man was no more there."

"I don't know as I get this," Wheeler said.

Dunn gave it as his opinion that the man on the other horse had followed and picked up his victim.

"When I saw that," said Dunn, "I knew I was looking at the beginning of something. Maybe—at the beginning of the end."

For a moment Wheeler stared at Dunn; then the spell broke. To assume flatly that a man was killed, when even the identity of the victim was unknown, seemed to Wheeler an outlandish stretch, even for an old tracker.

"This is the darnedest thing I ever heard of, Horse," Wheeler complained. "What—no corpse? What kind of murder is this? Who's missing?"

"Nobody's missing, that's known yet."

"Well, what I don't see," Wheeler said, "is why you were in such a hurry to report to the sheriff, with so little known."

"I had no choice. I was still looking over the ground when I sighted a rider, about a mile off. In a minute I made out it was Link Bender. Maybe you can remember when Link's Seven S was bigger than the 94. Maybe you remember how he tried to pinch out the 94—almost put Marian's father to the wall. I broke him of all that! But he's never swallered that he was licked. I've got plenty enemies, Billy; but Link Bender is the smartest of 'em. Naturally I couldn't leave it so he could report he seen the sneaking away. So I had to signal him over and show him what I found."

"And he read the sign the same as you?"

"Billy, I keep telling you! There ain't any other way to read that sign."

So I don't know what he found. But he went and reported to the sheriff, like I knew he would."

"I should think you'd have been some interested in the dead man's caballo yourself."

"More interested in the other side of it. The killer's trail took to the creek. Short Crick runs two hands deep on stone for two miles, then disappears in the sand. I took to the creek and hunted for where the killer left it. Plenty horse bands water at Short Crick, wading in and out. I lost the trail."

"So pretty soon," Horse Dunn finished, "I rode back to the ranch. By that time it had come to me what I might be up against here. So I had a wire sent to you."

They trotted two miles in silence. "I've been trying to figure-out," Billy Wheeler said at last, "where I fit in this."

Dunn was silent for a little while. "I've got enemies, Billy," he said finally.

"A few head of 'em," Wheeler agreed.

"And you know, too," Dunn reminded him, "the cow country is in terrible bad shape. Everybody has had to borrow, for three years straight. Nobody has borrowed deeper than the 94. Now our debts come due again. I have to go to Las Vegas, maybe to San Francisco."

"No, I Never Seen Him Before."

"It's a close call, by God, to keep the 94 out of bankruptcy! Now suppose this coyote ring, with Link Bender at the head of it, can force some trouble onto the 94. Suppose that trouble is made to look bad enough so that I can't extend those loans—let alone increase 'em? The work of 151 years drops from under like a shot pony!"

Wheeler frowned. "There used to be a pretty square bunch running the county offices at Inspiration," he said.

"There was while Tom Amos was alive. He's dead; his boy is sheriff—and he isn't man enough for it. Link Bender's ring runs the whole show. They're fixed to make a case stick, all right—for a little while—even if it's a poor one. It's going to be almighty necessary that we know more about this than the other fellers, Billy. I sent for a good man to help us with that end of it. I sent for Old Man Coffee of Mc-Tarnahan."

"I've heard of him. I guess he's pretty good on a trail. But still I don't see where I fit, Horse."

"Suppose Link Bender's crowd can work it out to hold me on some trumped-up charge—60, 90 days? Long enough for the 94 to go to pieces in the face of its called Jpan's? There's going to be more to pulling the 94 through the landside than a wagon boss like Val Douglas can handle. There's got to be a different man on the ground—and that man is you."

For a moment Wheeler was deeply troubled. If, by any chance, Horse Dunn's prophecies should prove correct, Wheeler did not see how he could refuse the old man the assistance he asked. But evidently this would mean that Wheeler would have to sign on to help with the management of the 94.

Thinking of this awkward possibility, he thought again of the blue eyes of Marian Dunn, of the strangely lovely glow of her face in the reflected light of the red-gold hills. For him there was a magic in that girl. It was a magic which could humble a man, and break him, heart and soul; taking the light out of every victory he might win, when only she turned away her face. And he heard her voice, full of that same magic still: "I'm sorry—truly sorry."

Far ahead dark specks of horsemen showed, emerging from Chuck Box Wash as if from the surface of the plain. Dunn beated his pony into a lops.

CHAPTER II

Walt Amos, sheriff of the Red Hills country, was a youngish man, with a direct but mild gray-green eye. He led a low-headed pony by a rope to his saddle horn.

"I'm right glad you rode over, Horse," he said when the 94 men had drawn up. "You'll be able to help Link, here, recall how the sign looked when you first seen it."

Behind him, lounging in their saddles, sat three others. These, Wheeler knew, were Link Bender, tall, hawk-faced, close-lipped; Link's son, a lanky, weasel-faced youth whom Wheeler knew only as "the Kid"; and Cayuse Cayetano, a saffron-faced Indian breed who wore a circular shield marked "Indian Police" upon a green and black checked shirt.

These three had nodded in greeting, but said nothing; and now there was a moment's awkward pause. In the silence could be heard an irregular moaning sound somewhere far to the north—the bellowing of cattle working themselves into a state of mind over some unknown thing.

"I was figuring to ride over to your place later, anyway, Dunn," the sheriff said. "I was especially kind of hoping you'd recognize this horse."

"Link Bender—" Dunn said slowly—"he found him, did he?"

"He found the horse—this horse; not the man."

Dunn studied the led horse at the sheriff's flank. "So this," Dunn said, "is the horse a feller got killed on."

The horse the sheriff led was a runty bay of the wild pony type which infests the intermountain ranges from border to border. It bore no brand; but broad on the withers and extending downward on the off side almost to the knee were the dust-crusted stains of yesterday's blood.

Dunn leaned low to study the feet of the led horse. "It's the horse from Short Crick, all right," he said at last. "No, I never seen him before."

The sheriff looked hopefully at Wheeler, but Billy Wheeler shook his head.

"Nobody knows the damn animal!" the sheriff burst out fretfully. "I'd have thought you fellers would know every horse in the country by this time."

"You get around as much as anybody," Dunn grunted. "Where's the saddle?"

"Link didn't find any saddle."

Dunn glanced at the dark, lean-visaged Link Bender. "Dead man must have taken his saddle with him across the big divide," he commented sarcastically.

Sheriff Amos looked irritated. "Well, come on; we'll look over the ground."

They turned and rode northward at a jog. A curious tension had come over them for no plain reason.

They were nearing Short Creek; and the bellowing of cattle had become near and strong—a fantastic deep booming broken by whistling soprano squalls. "What the devil them steers raising hell about?" Amos demanded querulously.

Nobody answered him. They rode in a peculiarly oppressive silence, a silence somehow unnatural and ominous, even among these naturally quiet men. Now as they rounded the shoulder of Two Bull Butte they sighted the disturbed cattle at the quarter mile, a dark milling knot, restless with tossing horns.

Link Bender raised his clenched hands to the sky and swore abruptly, savagely. "There goes your sign! There goes your evidence, and your trails!"

Billy Wheeler's scalp crawled; men might misread the sign, but the cattle knew. One of the strangest things of the range, and the source of many a weird legend, was the way the big white-faced range steers would come for miles to mark the place of a killing, bawling and pawing, and throwing the dirt over their backs.

The sheriff said in a strange voice, "Is that the place?"

"Sure it's the place! The fool critters have swarmed in on the smell of blood!"

Wheeler heard Horse Dunn curse between his teeth. The Old Man jumped his pony forward, whipping up side and side, and charged down upon the milling cattle. The others joined him, whooping and whipping up their ponies.

The steer bunch broke reluctantly, half inclined to face out the charging riders.

Wheeler had been less interested in the running off of the cattle than in the reactions of the riders. All sign would have been obliterated; he was anxious now to see who would be exasperated and who indifferent. Watching, he noted the conspicuous fury of Link Bender, the red-eyed anger of Horse Dunn—and the watchful detachment of Cayuse, the Indian.

The riders were gathering again, disgruntled as they focused upon the stretch of creek the cattle had trampled.

Horse Dunn circled a little and brought them to Short Creek again 200 yards up-stream.

"Here you see my trail as I come up to the creek," he said; "it's the trail of the same horse I'm riding today. . . . Here you see the trail of the two horses of the killer and the feller that was killed, riding side by side along the rim of the cut. Right here my trail comes on to theirs. You, Amos—notice that my trail is 20 hours younger'n the other two."

"I'm not so sure," Link Bender said.

The sheriff hesitated, studying the tracks glumly from the saddle. He turned to the Indian. "What do you say, Cayuse?"

Cayuse Cayetano spoke briefly and promptly in Spanish. "This horse of Dunn's came yesterday," he said. "The other two horses, maybe one day before. Not the same time."

"That Indian's a deer hunter," Sheriff Amos said. "When Cayuse says he knows, he knows. We'll let it stand at that."

"You'll have to take my word for it from here on," Dunn told them. "The cattle sure smeared it up. But anyway—here the two-horse trail dropped down into the creek bed. So did I."

He led them down into the cut and along the margin of the water.

Dunn moved a hundred yards down stream, checked his landmarks, and stopped. "Here's where the feller was shot," he said; "he keeled out of the saddle. His horse stamped across the creek, running some sideways. The feller was being dragged, like from the stirrup."

Dunn turned and led across the shallow water. "As I rode up this bank," he told the sheriff, "I seen that the trail of the killer was following the trail of the stamped horse—the same as I." He led on another 50 yards across a maze of cattle trappings. "Here," he said finally, "is where the feller broke loose from the saddle."

"How'd you know he fell loose here?" Amos asked.

"Because he wasn't dragged no further," Dunn said shortly.

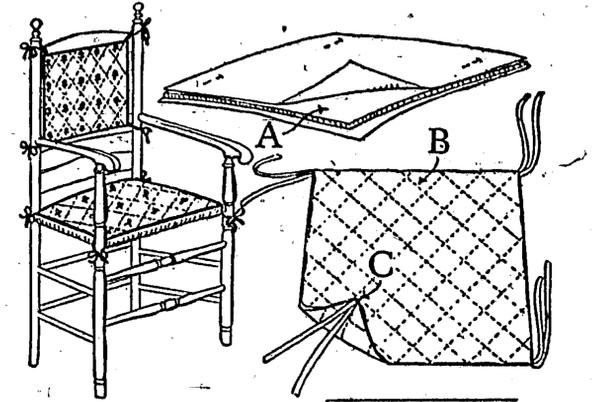

For a moment now they sat staring morosely at a shallow bowl-like pit which the dusty pawing of the cattle had dug.

"This what you saw, Link?" Sheriff Amos asked.

Bender nodded. "So far." (TO BE CONTINUED)

There May Be Many Reasons for Making Quilted Chair Pads.

IF ALL the reasons for quilted chair pads were lined up in order of their importance the most intangible reason of all might head the list. Yes, it is quite likely that any decorator, amateur or professional would place atmosphere at the top. But then it is also possible that first rating might be given to the reason that the pressure of slats across the backs of chairs is softened by quilted pads. Then, though it might not be mentioned, it is a known fact that worn out cane seats are sometimes replaced with inexpensive composition seats which may be disguised by gay quilted pads.

Chintz, calico or gingham chair pads are in fact one of the simplest and most inexpensive ways of adding color and charm as well as comfort to a room. Such pads are often used on the backs of chairs and not on the seats, and especially for side chairs, the seat pads used without any back covering. In making such small things as these it is quite easy to do the quilting on the machine. Or, if you wish to take the other point of view about it, the work of quilting them by hand would not consume an unreasonable amount of time. There is no doubt that handwork has a certain quaintness that machine work lacks.

The pads shown here are made with one layer of sheet wadding between the two layers of the chintz. The edge bindings and ties are made of bias tape. Cut the three layers of the pad material exactly the size and shape you want them to be when finished. Place the sheet wadding between the two layers of covering material as shown here at A. Either pin or baste in this position, and then quilt as shown here at B. Make the ties by stitching the lengthwise edges of the bias tape together, and then tack them to the corners of the pad as at C, before it is bound. Now, bind the edges, sewing the ties right in with the binding as shown here at D.

Expression of Dog Shows Intelligence; How Show Animals Must Perform for Judges

Any spectator at a dog show notices the alert expression of one dog, while another may appear disinterested despite the efforts of its owner to make it "show off" to the judge. The dog that does not perk its head or rivet expressive eyes at you has been indexed as one lacking intelligence to a certain degree. Of course, one has to speak directly to the dog to get proper attention.

It was with the aid of many practical dog breeders that the A. K. C. learned various characteristics of your dog and mine, notes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Another plain fact about the intelligence of the average pure-bred dog, discloses they watch their masters and perk their ears to seemingly pick out words they can add to their "vocabulary." The keen dog will show special interest whenever any word pertaining to him is mentioned in the line of conversation.

The average dog likes to play, particularly to run and retrieve a ball which is thrown, but the more intelligent canine will actually hide an article from his master to engage in a game of "hide and seek." It is natural for some dogs to display its natural instinct. For instance — a Beagle, Setter or a Spaniel will be "all eyes" with the appearance of a shotgun or rifle.

All breeds cannot be expected to show traits of the hunt, but the average house pet will learn early to perk up and wiggle, as soon as he glimpses his own getting a leash from the hook. Some of the more intelligent will show real vanity in cleaning muzzle and paws after a romp in the mud. Others have shown intelligence in making their bed in a fashion that will give them every comfort, thereby sensing the size of their body.

Probably the greatest claim to fame possessed by the Bahamas is the fact that it was these islands which gave Christopher Columbus his first glimpse of the New World. ## "FIVE Minus TWO Leaves FOUR"

WRONG? Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two... three dollars remained. But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home... guarding a limited family income... we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits... ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk... take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent. Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertiser merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars STRETCH."

Farm Loans

First steps for the administration of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, wherein money will be loaned to competent tenants, farm laborers, and share-croppers for the purpose of purchasing family-sized farms, are now being taken, L. H. Hauter, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, announced this week.

Details of an order, signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, provides that regional offices will be established with the Farm Security regional director as executive head and with one specialist in tenant farm purchase loans. The entire program will be handled through the regular Farm Security Administration.

Mr. Hauter said the Secretary of Agriculture is expected to announce state and county committees at an early date. Within each state the counties in which loans will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture after recommendations are received from these Farm Security Advisory committees.

Pursuant to the terms of the Act, distribution of the $9,500,000 is based on farm population and the prevalence of tenancy in each state and territory. Direct administrative costs will be limited to $500,000 of the amount provided by Congress to carry out provisions of Title One during the current fiscal year. Loans will be made in approximately 300 counties during the current fiscal year 1937-38, and the number of loans per county shall not be less than five nor more than 10, except in states in which the total number of loans shall be less than five.

Applications for tenant purchase loans shall be filed with county rural rehabilitation supervisors.

Mr. Hauter, however, has made an urgent request that all applications be withheld until the counties in which this program will be administered this year will have been announced. He said this policy will protect would-be applicants from acquiring false hopes, and also save county rehabilitation supervisors much unnecessary work. Counties in which the program will be administered this year will be made public in the near future.

The above information was received from Mr. Hauter by Mr. Evans, rural rehabilitation supervisor, in Lincoln County.
