Social Security Benefits

It is not necessary for a worker to retire from employment in order to receive a lump-sum benefit due under the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act, according to Martin J. Snelus, manager of the Albuquerque office of the Social Security Board.

Some persons who have reached the age of 65 since the first of the year probably are not applying for payment due them, Snelus declared, because they think they must stop working if they file their claims.

"There are two general types of benefits provided by law", Snelus explained. "One is the lump-sum benefit now payable to workers in covered employment who have attained the age of 65 during this year and to estates of workers who have died since January 1, 1937, and prior to reaching the age of 65. In the case of a worker who reaches age 65, the fact that he continues working does not affect payment of the claim. It should be noted, however, that this one payment, equal to 3 1/2 per cent of the wages credited to the individual's social security account, is a final settlement of the worker's old-age insurance benefit rights.

"The other type of benefit is the monthly retirement income which will become payable in 1942. Until that time, no payments of a recurring nature will be made. In the case of these benefits, however, it will be necessary for a worker to retire from covered employment in order to qualify for monthly payments."

Those who believe themselves eligible to receive lump-sum payments should communicate with the social Security Board office serving the territory in which they live, Snelus said.

Polo Horses Killed In Accident

Roswell, Nov. 4.—Loss of four crack ponies, valued at about $15,000, in a truck crash left a blight over the New Mexico Military Institute polo team, Southwest champions last year.

Major Anderson H. Norton, institute coach said Fort Bliss, Tex., military authorities informed him a board of inquiry hearing would be held into the accident, but he added the crash apparently was unavoidable.

The accident happened late yesterday five miles west of here where one of three trailer-trucks from Fort Bliss went off the road while returning the institute's string of 18 ponies here after a week end game.

The two drivers escaped unhurt.

All of the ponies killed were first string animals and two of them top-notchers in state and national ratings. Two others were injured, one so badly officers feared she would have to be destroyed.

The dead animals included May West, champion at the Las Vegas horse show, owned by J. V. Taylor of Albuquerque, and The Kid rated as one of the best polo ponies in the country.

Former President of Cattleman Dies

Silver City Nov. 8.—Private services were arranged today for Hugh L. Dodge, 65, former president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association.

Dodge, one of the most prominent ranchers of the state, died yesterday at an El Paso hospital after an illness of several months. His body was taken to the ranch near here.

Dodge recently disposed of a large share of his holdings in the Diamond Bar Ranch to an Amarillo syndicate. The widow and two children survive.

Oil Company Loss

Washington Nov. 10.—Three Florida oil companies lost in the Supreme Court today in their effort to obtain reconsideration of recent action on the ground that Justice Hugo L. Black was ineligible to sit on the bench.

The Court gave no explanation of its refusal to grant reconsideration. That was in line with regular procedure in such action.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson were visitors from Ancho Wednesday.

The American Way

On October 2, a dinner honoring William M. Jeffers upon his appointment to the presidency of the Union Pacific Railroad, took place at Omaha. Attending were nearly 7,000 employees of this company and their families who heard speakers representing railroad labor, railroad management and the United States government address the nation over the radio.

Mr. Jeffers' appointment to one of the highest positions in our industrial life, means much more than the advancement of just one man. Many years ago, Mr. Jeffers started at the very bottom as a call boy, in the services of the great railroad he now heads. He followed a course that has been followed by thousands of others in attaining distinguished positions in all branches of our national life.

Addressing the assembled company at the dinner were: George M. Harrison, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, James A. Farley, Postmaster General of the United States and W. A. Harriman, Chairman of the Board of the Union Pacific Railroad.

America is still a land of opportunity. America's industrial leaders and statesmen have, to a very great extent, risen from the humblest positions. Mr. Jeffers' ascendancy to the presidency of one of the country's representative railroads, provides an inspiring example of the merit of the American system which gives the freest possible play to any individual's initiative, ambitions and special talents.—Industrial News.

New Deal Polices

Ever since President Roosevelt launched the life raft which rescued the business of the country from the depression shipwrecked and brought it in again to the land of profits and dividends, the crusted reactionaries of America have been prophesying disaster. During the periods of their salvation on the New Deal life-raft they were for the most part silent. Indeed reviewing their comments at the time, there were perceptible even expressions of gratitude. Once, however, when they were back in the realms of prosperity, they began the barrage that continues to the present day. Just now stocks receded from the comparatively recent high level, they again summon the ghost of disaster and are trying to frighten the people with the notion that a continuation of the policies that saved them before means the destruction of everything.

Translated into simple words, the business Luceancers whose reckless practices left them adrift and almost hopeless in 1929 are taking the position that, unless the government re-establishes them on board their private craft with a charter to resume their predatory policies, the whole country is going to ruin and that Roosevelt is responsible.

The mere circumstance that unemployment is being wiped out that many of our leading industries have more orders than they can fill, that the revenue of our whole people continues to go up, has no meaning to these critics of the administration. They are doing their utmost to re-establish the domination of fear, with the idea that in this way they may blackmail the administration into restoring to them their old-time privileges of loot and larceny.

Stocks go up and stocks go down. The fortunate or the skillful make profits either way. The ordinary speculator who just takes a flying gamble may make some money on the bulges and lose on the recessions. But as long as industry continues to function and people have their jobs, as long as the farmers and the working people retain their purchasing power to consume these products, the mutations of the stock market mean very little, beyond the circumstance that they afford an opportunity for the political panic-makers to beat their breasts and tear their hair gravely assert that the end of everything imdends unless the President and Congress again take orders from the princes of privilege.

When they are not talking about the hopeless viciousness of the New Deal principles nowadays, they are invoking the old favorite fable of Roosevelt's seeking a dictatorship. And then they trot out the old bogey of a third term. We can't conceive of anyone being eager or even willing to take an additional four years of the exasperating drudgery of the Presidency after eight years of that anxiety and servitude. No doubt that at the present moment the President is looking forward with a great longing to the peace and rest that will be within his grasp on January 20, 1941. He has said on several occasions that his only ambition was to turn his deak over to his successor with a country at peace and in content.

Mrs. Ernest Henley has been quite ill for the past two weeks.

Yes, Constipation Is Serious But It Can't Poison You!

Say Doctors

Modern doctors now say that the old idea of poison getting into your blood from constipation is BUNK. They claim that constipation swells up the bowels causing pressure on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure is what causes frequent illness, spells, dizziness, headache, upset stomach, dull, tired-out feeling, nervous nights, coated tongue, bad taste and loss of appetite.

Don't suffer hours or even days longer than necessary. You must GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES TO GET RELIEF. Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure STOPS. Almost as soon you feel, naturally refreshed, brite vanish, and life looks bright again.

That is why so many doctors are now insisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should insist on Adrika. This efficient intestinal structure contains SEVEN cathartic and cathartic ingredients. Adrika acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. Adrika relieves stomach GAS at once and often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS.

WE SAW a high and mighty interior decorator put his nose up in the air over the desires of an engaged pair seeking his advice on their new home. With "only" $3,000 to spend, said he, he just didn't see how they could expect to do anything very interesting.

Well, well, we replied, but that's quite a lot for a young couple to have in cash to put into their house of hope. And if knowledge and experience do not enable a trained decorator to offer usable suggestions to people with a limit to their resources, we question the creativeness of that decorator. After all the art of it is ideas—it's not so clever to be able to make a room look like a million if a million has been spent on it. But it is clever to make it look like a million when it's cost a small penny.

Another interior decorator who's a friend of ours takes pride in the bright ideas she can think of that can be worked out with hard work, love, a needle and a tack hammer. Here are some of her suggestions of ways to get "decorator touches" with trimmings.

In the Living Room.—A sofa that isn't so much one way or the other becomes quite something by the addition of a pile of welting in the seams and a deep rope fringe around the bottom. Or if you have a studio couch, finish seams with a flat woven tape braid. Two not-very-important windows with a space between can be treated as one by hanging the glass curtains all across the two windows as well as the wall space, then sweeping draperies to the outside of each window and adding to the draperies a tassel fringe and bigger tassel-and-cord tie backs. A pair of upholstered chairs with clip covers of a plain fabric can be finished all around and up and down with an inch-and-a-half width embroidered braid or else a flower stripe cut from a striped cretonne. Cushions finished with wool or silk fringe or trimmed with a smart flat woven braid are nice touches. Lampshades with silk braid, glass beads or wood fringe dress up a room—often an old shade of no particular style can be high-lighted this way.

Hinting Subtly.

It takes quite a lot to give us a real rug thrill. Especially in a rug that doesn't belong in a museum. Because rugs have been one of our pet hobbies for years and our taste has gotten pretty hand-made. However, there are some new rugs on the market that we're terribly excited about—in fact there's one that we feel we simply must have and are hinting subtly to that effect at our own dinner table these days. These rugs are machine made in America; good velvet in quality. Their names are as nice as their designs and colors.

"Normandie Quilt" is blonde to beige in coloring with a design that copies an old Norman bed quilt

We're Hinting for One of These Rugs, Too.

Suggested for use with draperies in eggshell and upholsteries in blues and beiges. Perfect with French provincial furniture, of course, but nice with many of the walnut styles.

"Flowers and Scroll" is copied after a Georgian needlepoint design that is deliciously floral. Delightful with Eighteenth or Nineteenth century furniture but could be used with the more dignified maple. A drapery ensembled with this repeats the scroll and flower motif on a smaller scale.

"Regency"—Suggested by an old dark-ground floral needle-point document similar to one that Marie Antoinette worked on. 'Twould be charming with draperies of moire with satin Roman stripes and upholstery in green coptic cloth (a spun rayon), and in the same fabric as the draperies.

"Antique Kirman"—A copy of a fine old pastel Persian carpet in which grays, blues and beiges predominate. Perfect with Eighteenth century furniture. Draperies of eggshell and peach damask and upholstery in a heavy beige cotton.

START DAY WITH GOOD BREAKFAST

Menus for Fall Days Should Be Carefully Planned.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE American breakfast of the present day naturally begins with fruit. Nowhere else in the world is there such a variety of fruit to be found. Nowhere else is the quality so high. In many households orange, grapefruit or tomato juice is supplemented by chilled melon, baked apples, stewed pears, figs or prunes. A choice of cereals may be offered for the next course. Occasionally you may like to serve on a chilly morning a steaming bowl of porridge, although ready-to-eat cereals should be offered also.

"Eat your cereal, child," my grandmother used to urge, "it's warming to the stomach and it sticks to the ribs."

No urging of jaded appetite will be needed if the perfume of sizzling bacon has been wafting into the dining room. The term bacon is general, but the varieties of this favorite breakfast meat are many. Three principal kinds are American, Canadian and Irish. The distinctive flavor of the latter, by the way, is due, so they say, to the good rich Irish potatoes and milk upon which the pigs are fed, as well as to the special method used for the smoking. Bacon with fresh country eggs, prepared according to preference is probably our standard breakfast dish. It can be varied, however, with broiled or baked salt mackerel, kipper baked in cream, plump little sausages, which furnish flavor for the first meal of the day.

Of course, there will be toast, hot and crisp and well buttered. There may be hot rolls or muffins or toasted English muffins. We may add griddle cakes or waffles for Sundays and holidays when there is plenty of time and when men must be fortified for golf.

And don't forget that jar of marmalade or honey for that finishing sweet touch.

BREAKFAST DISHES

Codfish Cakes.

- 1 cup salt codfish
- 2 1/2 cups cubed potatoes
- 1/4 tablespoon butter
- Pepper
- 1 egg

Soak codfish overnight in cold water. On following morning, pour off water from codfish and shred by placing pieces on cutting boards and using fork. If codfish has cooked for 12 hours it will shred easily. Cook potatoes until tender, drain thoroughly and return to kettle in which they were cooked. Shake over heat until thoroughly dry, mash thoroughly, add butter and pepper and beat until light; add flaked codfish and continue beating until mixture is light and fluffy. Add more salt if necessary. Use No. 16 ice-cream scoop for dipping up balls. Put in frying basket and fry for 1 minute in deep fat (305 degrees Fahrenheit). Drain on brown paper.

Kidney Stew.

- 1 large kidney
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 onion
- 1 1/4 tablespoons flour
- Salt
- Pepper
- 2 tablespoons sherry

Remove fat and sinews from kidney. Wash thoroughly and place in saucepan with one-half teaspoon salt and enough water to cover. Allow it to come to a boil and then simmer for five minutes until very tender. Remove the kidney, retaining the water in which it has been cooked, and cut in small pieces. Slice onion and cook with the butter in frying pan. When light brown add flour, stirring gently; add sherry and 1 1/4 cups of water in which kidney was cooked. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Add pepper and more salt, if necessary.

Baked Salt Mackerel.

Soak mackerel overnight. Drain, dredge with flour and pepper. Put in a greased pan and half cover with top milk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about fifteen minutes until tender. Add one-fourth cup of cream and cook ten minutes more.

Griddle Cakes.

- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 cup melted shortening, or cooking oil.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg, mix with milk and stir into first mixture. Stir in melted shortening. Bake on both sides on hot ungreased griddle. Preparation time 7 minutes.

If sour milk is used, substitute 1 teaspoon soda for 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Rich Muffins.

- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup milk

Cream the butter, add the sugar and egg well beaten, sift the baking powder and salt with the flour, and add to the first mixture, alternating with milk. Bake in greased gem pans 25 minutes in a moderate oven (375 to 400 degrees).

LION'S TAIL TWISTED

British Soldiers Are Killed by Japanese... English Ship Is Sunk by an Italian Bombing Plane

Friends of the duke of Windsor when he was prince of Wales and Edward VIII, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sims will be hosts of the duke and his duchess during their forthcoming visit to Washington. Mr. Sims is an attache of the British embassy.

British Are Enraged

JAPAN and Italy have been vigorously twining the tail of the British lion, and if they keep it up, that mighty beast may be stirred to action. Within a few days five British soldiers were killed and a number wounded by Japanese shells in the fighting at Shanghai. The English there charged the killings were deliberate, in retaliation for the aid the British gave a "suicide battalion" of Chinese in escaping from a warehouse in Chapel, the native quarter, to the international settlement. The British and Japanese admirals had a hot dispute over the right of the former to prevent the passage of Japanese launches up Soochow creek.

Soon after the Japanese began shelling the residential area of the settlement and an outpost where English soldiers were quartered was destroyed. Continuous shelling of Shanghai by the invaders endangered the British and American lines on the border of the international settlement and shells fell close to the American warship Augusta, Admiral Yarnell's flagship.

Japan is angry over the alleged help Britain is giving China in the warfare and there is a movement in Tokio to break diplomatic relations with London. This is urged by the "council" on the current situation, an unofficial body composed of high army officers, political leaders and other influential persons. The council adopted a resolution warning that unless Britain "reconsiders its improper attitude" Japan may be forced to take certain steps of "grave determination" against Britain, despite the "deep friendship existing between the two countries for the last sixty years."

Japanese troops invaded a part of the international settlement guarded by American marines and seized a Chinese junk loaded with rice. General Beaumont, commandant of marines, immediately entered a protest and the Japanese apologized but the marines did not consider the incident closed because the Japs didn't return the junk.

The British government was not expected to take any action that would further anger Japan lest it should endanger the success of the parley in Brussels. But wise observers do not believe the nine-power treaty conference will have any definite results.

Morocco Uprisings

NATIONALIST uprisings in French Morocco, which have been giving the French government a lot of trouble, are blamed on agents of "a foreign totalitarian power," meaning Italy. The disorders, mainly in Casablanca, Fez and Medina, were quelled by troops, mostly Senegalese legionnaires, and hundreds of arrests were made.

Authorities said investigation showed many of the natives had been paid from 10 to 30 francs to take part in the demonstrations.

The nationalists plotted to set up an independent Arab state with Moulay Allal El Fassi as king.

More "Piracy"

ITALY'S latest twist of the lion's tail came in the form of the bombing and sinking of the British steamer Jean Weems in the Mediterranean by a "pirate" airplane.

The London Daily Herald's Barcelona correspondent reported that the Spanish loyalist government asserted that the plane bore markings showing that it was piloted by Bruno Mussolini, son of the Italian premier. The pilot gave the freighter's crew only five minutes to take to lifeboats and then sank the Weems with bombs.

The British battle cruiser Hood was sent at full speed from Palma, Majorca, to Barcelona to investigate the attack.

In parliament the critics of the government, led by David Lloyd George, demanded a stronger British Mediterranean policy. Lloyd George flayed the government for bolstering up the international committee on nonintervention in Spain, whose history after 14 months he denounced as "discreditable and dishonorable."

Budget Conference

WHILE members of congress were beginning to move toward Washington for the extraordinary session, President Roosevelt in his Hyde Park home was busy planning means of carrying on the government program. Especially was he interested in the budget, and related financial matters, and to advise on this he called in Mariner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve system. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Budget Director Bell already were there, and all listened closely to Mr. Eccles' talk concerning current business conditions and the stock market situation.

An immediate problem before the President and his budget advisers was financing a proposed loan on corn, to help farmers hold their corn part the present period of low prices. Morgenthau and Agriculture Secretary Wallace have been studying possible means of financing that government aid program, without increasing the treasury deficit beyond the last estimate of $635,000,000.

It was decided by the President that the Commodity Credit corporation should provide $35,000,000 for the corn loans, obtaining the money from the RFC and repaying the latter agency when congress makes the necessary appropriations. Secretary Wallace said the corn loans would be about 46 cents a bushel.

Secretary WALLACE'S "ever normal granary" plan is "politically inexpedient, economically unsound, and fundamentally unworkable," according to the Cash Grain association of Chicago which submitted a brief to a senate subcommittee at a hearing in Springfield, Ill.

Wallace Plan Attacked

"The application of artificial means to solve this national problem cannot but prove disastrous to the producer, consumer, and to all lines of commerce and industry," the brief said.

Miss Roche Quits Treasury

MISS JOSEPHINE ROCHE, first woman to be an assistant secretary of the treasury, has resigned that post and returns to the presidency of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company of Denver. The position will be left unfilled, for the administration hopes she will resume it later. She was appointed by President Roosevelt three years ago.

Plans for Windsor's Visit

PLANS for the American visit of the duke and duchess of Windsor are about completed, by George Link, Jr., of New York, attorney for Charles E. Bedaux. While the distinguished couple are in Washington they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sims, friends of the duke when he was prince of Wales. Mr. Sims is an attache of the British embassy.

An organizer of the American tour said the former British monarch is considering formation of a new international philanthropic foundation to study and improve working and living conditions in industrial areas of the world.

Mr. Link said he understood that a number of leading industrialists, who may contribute funds for the foundation, have discussed the project with the duke and Bedaux.

Link stressed that, while the object would be to improve relations between employees and employers as well as working conditions, the foundation would not consider questions of wages and hours. Nor will the duke interest himself in wage and hour questions on his tour, Link said.

Speaking at a dinner of the Anglo-American Press association in Paris, the duke said he wanted to make it clear that "in any journey I have undertaken or may plan in the future, I do so as a completely independent observer without political considerations of any sort or kind and entirely on my own initiative."

He added that "I am a very happily married man, but my wife and I are neither content nor willing to lead a purely inactive life of leisure. We hope and feel that in due course the experience we gain from our travels will enable us, if given fair treatment, to make some contributions as private individuals to solving some of the vital problems that beset the world today."

Krum Elbow Moved

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT wanted the name Krum Elbow officially switched from the west bank of the Hudson river to the east bank and made the label for his mother's estate at Hyde Park, N. Y. Howard Spencer, whose place on the west bank has been known as Krum Elbow for generations, objected, but it is learned that Secretary Ickes' Interior department has acceded to Mr. Roosevelt's demand. The committee on geographical names has instructed government map makers to move the name across the river. The Roosevelt estate has long been known in New York history as "Crooks' Paradise."

Labor Parley Deadlocked

LEADERS of the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. couldn't get anywhere in their peace conference in Washington. So they adjourned temporarily, and some of them said the parley might not be resumed. George M. Harrison, head of the federation delegation, said that unless the C. I. O. attitude changed there was no prospect of peace.

Both sides had made offers, but Phillip Murray these were scornfully rejected by the opponents.

The A. F. of L. proposed that the fate of the C. I. O. affiliates organized since the split be decided at an immediate conference "between representatives of organizations chartered by the A. F. of L. and organizations chartered by the C. I. O. and which may be in conflict with each other, for the purpose of bringing about an adjustment to bring the membership into the A. F. of L. on terms and conditions mutually agreeable."

This clause of the federation proposal brought a denunciation from Phillip Murray, chairman of the ten-man C. I. O. peace committee, who asserted that it asked "desertion and betrayal" of these unions.

The C. I. O. proposal was that its unions should return to the federation and that a new autonomous department should be created, to be known as the C. I. O., to have complete and sole jurisdiction over its policies and operations. This plan represented no concessions.

Help for Stock Market

EVER since the slump in the stock market began the government has been urged to do something about it. Finally the administration yielded to the demands and the federal reserve board of governors reduced margin requirements on stock purchases from 55 to 40 per cent and imposed a 50 per cent margin on short sales. The new requirements went into effect November 1, and are retro-effective.

No official explanation was given for the board's action but it was understood that it was designed to adjust the margin requirements to current stock market conditions.

Imposition of the increased margin requirements on short sales was an innovation from the board's standpoint, a stock exchange rule requiring only 10 point protection on short sales.

Velvet Is Smart for Daytime Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

With velvet and more and more and still fashion keeps calling for more. All signs point to a record breaking season for the wearing of velvet. In the majority of couture collections velvet predominates. Everything is being made of velvet, hats, shoes, gloves, bags, blouses, daytime suits, coats and street ensembles, evening dresses and wraps, hostess gowns, lounging robes, pajamas and negligees—all is velvet. Yes, and "nighties." If you are wanting to know, for there are velvets that wash easily on a pocket handkerchief.

Why do women make velvet a first choice? Answering by asking another question—is there any material more flattering, more kind to maid and matron than velvet? Then, too, velvet has that luxurious look that fits especially into the scheme of things this season, for the whole trend of fashion is toward greater elegance such as has not been equalled for years.

However, it is not merely feminine vanity that is inspiring the present vogue for velvet, back of it all there is an intensely practical explanation that can be told in two brief words with a hyphen between—crush-resistant!

It is an age of scientific discoveries and crush-resistant velvet is one of them. Heretofore the one great barrier to wearing velvet for other than important dress occasion was that it would crush and wrinkle easily. To maintain it without blemish entailed an upkeep program of repeated steamings and coaxings which was both costly and wearing upon the nerves. The advent of crush-resistant velvet gives promise, to a reasonable degree, of doing away with this anxiety to

The velvet day fashions here pictured are to be recommended from both the practical and esthetic point of view. Wearing any one of these handsome types you are sure to look properly costumed the whole day through. Dashing and very Spanish-fashion is the youthful daytime dress posed to the left with its gayly striped velvet blouse and simple straight skirt. The Spanish sailor is the type young girls delight in wearing this season. The velvet gloves are tres chic. The plaque of the exotic looking bracelet simulates old coin. Which reminds us to remind you to look to your costume jewelry! Bracelets are huge, necklaces have big pendants, clips are gorgeous and so on and on.

A handsome all-day suit of brown velvet centers the illustration. It has the slim sheath skirt which is the correct thing for day wear. The loose straight coat bespeaks the newest silhouette—no flare, just straight. Its collar of sumptuous fur adds yet another luxurious note. An up-and-off the face quilted and chirred velvet hat is worn. There's a scrumptious metal cloth blouse ready to blaze forth when the coat is removed.

The all-important daytime dress of crush-resistant velvet shown to the right makes a perfect background for dramatic accessories. Note the bracelet. It is of two-tone gold, modern and heavy. And the gloves! They are the newest thing by Aris, being velvet with leather palms, with white stitching for color contrast.

A few postscript items, namely plaid velvet for an extra blouse, all the fur you care to pile on your day velvet suit, a separate glittering sequin bolero to wear with your decollete evening velvet, a bizarre jeweled belt to give accent for dressy afternoon wear, a gold embroidered velvet bolero.

ERMINE BOLERO

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Queenly in its rich magnificence is this formal ensemble of black velvet with ermine bolero jacket. And you should see the gown with the bolero removed! It is perfectly stunning in that it has ermine short sleeves and looks adorable without hint of any trimming other than the superb ermine. The full skirt shows the new "up-in-front and down-in-back" hemline—as exquisite as ever a "portrait of a lady" might be. This is one of the hundreds of stunning costumes, all original designs, shown by the Style Creators of Chicago in the wholesale district.

ZIPPERS ON SHOES

LATEST CREATION

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Anticipating the tremendous vogue for zippers now sweeping two continents, Newton Elkin, designer of shoes, has cleverly employed the slide fastener to create the sleekest shoe of the season.

In a talk at a recent fashion meeting, Mr. Elkin said, "Women are zipping themselves into their dresses, their coats, their suits. Now, with so much emphasis on molded, sculptured lines, it is more important than ever that shoes have that neat, uncluttered look. I decided that if a zipper could be used as an ornament and practical closing device on some of the smartest, most expensive dresses and coats coming out of the Paris ateliers, fashion-conscious women would welcome the convenience of the zipper in their shoes, if it could be used in an attractive way. I tried out dozens of patterns with variations on the zipper theme, and finally created what I think is the perfect shoe—a high-cut sheath of suede, sculptural in line, with a slide fastener streaking up the instep."

Fur Is Now Important on

New Winter Fabric Coats

Embroideries combine with furs for winter, running alongside them. White ermine makes a scarf that is tied in a bow to front a black duvetyn suit. An ermine muff accompanies it. Both fur pieces are trimmed with black ermine tails. Many a fabric coat has sleeves made entirely of fur—in beaver or seal. Some have backs of fur and fronts of fabric.

Flowers Important

The gorgeously colored tropical flowers that bloom so luxuriantly in Miami throughout the year are being repeated in chiffon and silk for fall wear.

Household Questions

Removing Blueing Spots.—Blueing spots on white clothing can be removed by boiling in clear water.

Serving Omelets.—Omelets should be placed on hot platters to keep them from falling.

Scaling Fish.—Fish may be scaled easily by first dipping them into boiling water for a minute.

Whipping Cream.—If whipped cream will not stand up, it is often due to the fact that the cream is not sufficiently chilled. It is important, too, to have a heavy cream of the right butter fat (20 to 30 per cent) and 12 to 24 hours old. The cream must be cold, and is best beaten in a cold container.

Inexpensive Stew.—Chop two onions and a large carrot finely, and cut a pound of neck lamb into small pieces. Put into a saucepan with one cup macaroni broken into small lengths, cover with warm water and season. Let it simmer gently for one and a half hours.

A Darning Ball.—A discarded electric light bulb makes a good darning ball.

Ox-Tail Pie.—Wash ox tail in salted water and joint; put into pan, cover with water, and simmer until almost cooked. Line bottom and sides of pie dish with slices of raw potato sprinkled with pepper and salt. Cover with strips of bacon, then place ox tail in center and pour in stock; season and cover with more slices of potato. Cover with pastry and bake in a quick oven.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches at your own scream, and how much you know is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon euphoria is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter moon. The woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations ago a woman has told another how to get "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus preventing the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three criticals of life. 1. Turning from childhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter moon, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Kindness and Happiness Paths of kindness are paved with happiness.—Elbert Hubbard.

Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and its nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is a natural product and has no hyphen in it. Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Wastes Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—and so become inactive. If retained, they poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of rest and sleep. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, smart or too frequent urination. Do not wait until treatment is wise than neglect. GET READY FOR WINTER DRIVING

No section of our population is more dependent upon the automobile as a means of transportation than the residents of the smaller communities and rural districts.

A minimum Winter protection program should cover:

- 1. Complete change to correct grade of lubricants for motor, transmission and differential.
2. Motor tuned up, including adjusting of carburetor, valves, distributor, sparkplugs, generator and all electrical equipment.
3. Drain and flush cooling system. Refill with suitable anti-freeze solution.

Selection of motor oil and greases for winter driving is particularly important. You must select an oil which will permit easy starting, that will lubricate the motor throughout the entire driving range of speeds and will continue to do so for a reasonable mileage.

For many years Quaker State Winter Oils and Greases have been recognized as the highest quality and most generally satisfactory winter lubricants on the market.

Through Quaker State's highly developed methods and equipment it is possible to produce a motor oil which will have a satisfying body over the 400-degree range of temperature it will meet. That is, when the motor temperature is way below zero, the oil will still be fluid enough to allow the motor to turn easily and also to flow freely to all the bearings.

As with any other product you buy, you get what you pay for. An oil of Quaker State quality is necessarily expensive to make. This does not mean, however, that Quaker State is more expensive to use.

You will want to step into the car, even when the mercury is hiding in the bulb and press the starter with every expectation that the motor will start off with its usual Summer zest.

DOAN'S REGULETS

Cattle Kingdom

By ALAN LEMAY WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Billy Wheeler, wealthy young cattleman, arrives at the ranch, summoned by his friend Horse Dunn, its elderly and quick-tempered owner, because of a mysterious murder. Billy is in love with Dunn's niece Marian, whom he has not seen for years. She had rejected his suit and is still aloof. Dunn's ranch is surrounded by enemies, including Link Bender, Pinto Halliday and Sam Caldwell, whom he has defeated in his efforts to build a cattle kingdom. Dunn directs his cow hands, Val Douglas, Ulare Callahan and others to search for the killer's horse. He explains to Billy that the morning before he had come upon bloodstained ground at Short Creek and found the trail of a shod and unshod horse. The shod horse's rider had been killed. The body had disappeared and no one was reported missing. Link Bender had arrived at the scene and read the signs the way he had. Dunn reveals that because of a financial crisis the ranch may be in jeopardy; his enemies may make trouble since Sheriff Walt Amos is friendly with them. He says he has asked Old Man Coffee, the country's best trailer, to join them. Dunn and Billy meet Amos, Link Bender, his son "the Kid" and Cayuse Cayetano, an Indian trailer, at Short Creek. Bender has found the slain man's horse, but the saddle is missing. Almost super-naturally, cattle attracted to the scene by the blood-stained ground, stamp out all the tracks.

"The trail of the killer turned back from here," Dunn said. "It took to the creek. I tried to find where it came out of the creek. There was too many horse tracks, from the range stock; I never found where it came out. While I was trying to trail it, Link Bender came by and I halted him. After I showed him what I found he took off after the dead man's horse."

There was a long pause. "This all you fellows got to show?" the sheriff said at last.

"That's all," Dunn said. Link Bender nodded. "I lost the trail of the dead feller's horse," he said shortly. "I swung wide and found the horse further on, but I never seen the saddle."

The sheriff sat his horse for almost a full minute, as if in thought. He seemed about to speak, then apparently thought better of it. Silently he led back the way they had come. They were nearly back to Chuck Box Wash before anyone spoke.

"This is a pretty bad thing, Dunn," Amos said tentatively at last. "The big end of the Red Hills cowmen are pretty well stirred up."

"Funny," Dunn said dryly, "how quick the word got round."

"They had come to the forking of their trails, where Dunn would turn westward toward his home ranch. They pulled up their horses."

"Dunn," the sheriff said, "you wasn't figuring to go any place, was you?"

"Amos," said Horse Dunn, "what you mean by that?"

The sheriff met his eye directly, but without pleasure. "I'll have to ask you not to leave the county, Dunn."

Horse Dunn was visibly angering. Suddenly Billy Wheeler remembered that Dunn was facing out something greater than two or three men on a horse. Link Bender stood for a whole ring of half-whipped brands—the wolf ring, waiting hopefully on its hanches; Sheriff Amos represented a county. Behind these men were numbers and strength—and against the many the Old Man of the 94 stood opposed as a powerful thumb opposes the fingers of a hand.

"And so," Horse Dunn thundered, "you take it on yourself to tell me where I'll go and come!"

"There's plenty stuff has to be cleared up," the sheriff said stubbornly. "One thing, why was those two unknown fellers riding toward the home ranch of the 94?"

"How do I know that?" Dunn demanded. "If they're like the average run of the Red Hills, they was most likely looking for something to steal!"

"All the more reason we have to know where you are," the sheriff retorted. "If it's a cow thief that's dead, who would shoot him on your range but you or one of your boys?"

"Not one of my neighbors," Horse Dunn let his eyes drift to Link Bender's face. "No, not them! They'd never make a move—unless it was to hand the feller his brander."

Instantly Link Bender said, "What do you mean by that?"

In the little moment before Horse Dunn's reply, Billy Wheeler glanced about him, noting the position of the men. Of them all, only Cayuse Cayetano appeared to be unarmed. Link Bender sat alongside the sheriff, but separated from him by the led horse. Wheeler saw him exchange a quick glance with his son, who sat detached, a little to one side. With one spur Wheeler woke his pony, so that it moved sideways, nearer Kid Bender. No one noticed; their eyes were expressionless but intent upon Horse Dunn.

Dunn had swung slowly in his saddle to face Link Bender. "My calf crop is short, is what I mean."

Watching Kid Bender, Wheeler did not see Link make his play; but as Kid Bender's hand dropped to his holster, Wheeler knew that the Kid had taken his cue from Link, who in that instant must have gone for his gun. In the shock of action

Wheeler forgot his own weapon, which he had never drawn on any man. He jumped his horse at Kid Bender, striking down on the Kid's gun hand with his quirt. The quirt whistled and bit; as he jerked it back Wheeler felt the gun come with it, tangled in the snap of the lash.

In the same instant a gun roared behind him, and he whirled his pony.

Horse Dunn held the smoking muzzle of his gun skyward, and steadied his half-stamped horse with his other hand. In his face was such a white blaze of fury as Wheeler had never seen. He was not roaring now; his words came through his teeth, hard-edged as broken rock. "I could have killed you," he said, almost as if he were strangling. "And I'd have done it, if only—"

Link Bender sat straight up, his face the dusty gray-green of the brush. Evidently he rode a gun-proof horse, for the reins hung slack on its neck, but it stood. Bender's left hand gripped his right arm; he swayed slightly, but recovered himself, and the color slowly began to come back into his face.

Sheriff Amos brought his hand empty away from the gun-butt to which it had dropped, and let both hands be seen in plain sight upon his reins. His face was discolored by a red flush. "You all right, Link?"

Link Bender said between set teeth, "Good enough."

"You go on home," Walt Amos said to Dunn. "I can't take you in for this because I can't prove you were first to draw. But—"

Dunn said, "You know damn well who was first to draw!"

"Maybe I do and maybe I don't," the sheriff said. "But let me tell you this, Dunn: you've just about run out your rope! By God, if ever a man overplayed his hand, you've sure overplayed yours! You go on home, and see that you stay where you can be got, until you hear from me!"

Horse Dunn grinned, showing his teeth. "I am home," he answered. "You fellers are the visitors here. Set off easterly, and ride steady, and maybe in three-four hours you'll be off my range! I'd start at it, if I was you."

He moved off a little way into the scant shade of a Joshua stalk; then sat where he was. Presently, still sitting there, he watched them ride away, losing shape in the heat waves and the dust.

Old Man Coffee surprised them all by coming in on a mule an hour after breakfast next morning. The Fryer Pan Country from which he came was beyond the all but inaccessible Tuscaroras, and to reach the 94 by road or narrow-gauge would have called for nearly 800 miles of travel. Coffee, however, had apparently come by unsuspected short cuts; and he had come fast and hard, to judge by the ribby and droop-lipped condition of his black mule.

Marian Dunn had never seen an outfit like that of Old Man Coffee. Around the black mule as it shuffled to a stop, no less than six flop-eared dogs of a fox-hound type dropped to the ground. One of these, the leader, a big, spotted hound with enormous jaws, wore a pack which seemed to contain a tightly-rolled blanket, a frying pan, and a coffee can with a hay-wire bale. Another, a grizzled ancient hound, astounded Marian because it was wearing deer-skin rock-moccasins, which looked to the girl as if the dog wore shoes—and socks.

The mule's saddle bore a high-power rifle, a pair of hobbles, a cowbell stuffed with leaves, and Old Man Coffee. The old lion-hunter's face was of deep-seamed leather, from which deep-set eyes looked out penetratingly, but not unkindly. His faded blue work clothes were like those of the cow hands, but he wore flat-heeled shoes instead of half boots, and instead of the broad Stetson of the cowboys, the mountain man wore slantwise on his bald head a battered hat of a narrow-brimmed, indiscriminate character.

"Don't you find riding a mule kind of slow?" Marian ventured.

Coffee exchanged a brief glance with Horse Dunn. "Oh, sure," he said; "but what's time to a mule?"

"A mule makes mighty good time in the hills, with a good mountain man on him," Horse explained to his niece. "See?"

Marian glanced at her big old uncle but didn't answer. To the best of Wheeler's knowledge she hadn't spoken to Horse Dunn that morning. Something had come between Horse Dunn and his niece, just since the day before. Horse had a baffled, apologetic look whenever he looked at her. It was wonderful how gentle and saddle-broke the tough Old Man seemed in the case of anything this slim, pale girl was mixed into.

Old Man Coffee, Horse Dunn, and Billy Wheeler sat in Horse Dunn's room and talked it over.

"Well," Old Man Coffee came to the point, "who shot who this time?"

Briefly, Horse Dunn explained to Old Man Coffee the curious circumstance by which they knew, or supposed they did, that a man was dead by violence—while still they did not know who he was. He described in some detail the ground marks which the cattle had now erased.

Coffee nodded. Billy Wheeler noted that Coffee, the man of dim trails which only dogs could find, did not question Horse Dunn's interpretation of the sign.

"And since when," Coffee inquired, "do you get so stirred up over a possible cow-thief shot?"

"It isn't that," Dunn told him. Horse Dunn now tried to explain to Old Man Coffee why Link Bender's coyote ring could be counted on to make the most out of a mystery killing as a weapon against the 94; but Coffee interrupted him.

"I take it, all you want me to find out," said Old Man Coffee, "is what happened to who, what for, and who done it. That cover it?"

"And where is the killer now," Dunn added.

Old Man Coffee locked bony fingers behind his bald head, and sat staring out the window. "Who's been over the ground?" he suddenly demanded.

"Walt Amos, the sheriff. Link Bender. His boy, they call the Kid. My cowboys here—though I didn't let them trample the sign. An Indian deer hunter, by the name of Cayuse Cayetano."

Coffee pricked up his ears at the last name. "Cayetano," he repeated. "How long has this Cayetano been over here?"

"About two years, going on three. Had relatives among the Pintwater Putes; they took him in."

"He used to be over in the Fryer Pan Country," Old Man Coffee said. "What a sweet character he is! Got run out of the Fryer Pan by common consent. That was about a year after he beat up the Chinese girl. He—"

"Can he track?"

"He couldn't track a barrel of tar through a—" Coffee stopped. He looked angry and disgruntled. "No," he corrected himself, "that ain't so. He's a good tracker. He's better than that—he's a great tracker. Maybe the best I've ever seen."

"He's pretty good, is he?" asked Dunn.

"I think he can smell a cold trail like a hound," Coffee said grudgingly, "and make a fool of the hound. Or maybe he just guesses. But I can tell you this—Cayuse Cayetano will go through this case a-whistling."

"What's the answer then?"

"Oh, I suppose I'll have to go out and take a look, and-mess around, and make a fool of myself," Old Man Coffee growled. "First thing, I'll get it all right—if Cayetano hasn't got it, already. After that I'll find out where the killer's horse come out of the creek. That ought to be enough for one day; when I've done that I'll come home to supper."

"When you going? Now?"

"Sure I'm going now. When did you suppose?"

"We'll go with you as soon as you're ready to start. I—"

"The hell you will," said Coffee. "I only got one dog that won't call me a fool if I tell him to trail a horse. That's old Rock, and he's funny. If he thinks people is watching him he flourishes around trying to look smart, and don't get anything done. Give me one cowboy that's seen the ground—one that'll come home when I send him. And you stay here."

"Oh, well," Horse Dunn grumbled, "suit yourself. I'm only the victim in this case."

"Well, give me a horse, give me a horse—we going to sit here all day?"

For once Horse Dunn did as he was told. Glumly he watched Old Man Coffee go jogging out of the layout, the black hound dogging it at the pony's heels.

"Will he find the saddle?" Wheeler asked.

"I suppose so," said Horse Dunn gloomily. "But damnation! Much as it means to me, I pretty near hope he won't. The cocky old snort!"

"I guess I'll saddle a pony and take a look around here myself," Wheeler said.

"Wait a minute," Horse Dunn said. "There's something different I want you to do."

Billy Wheeler waited, but Horse Dunn seemed to hesitate. "I wish," he said at last, slowly, "I wish you'd talk to that girl."

Wheeler was startled. "Talk to her? About what, Horse?"

"Well, I'll tell you," Horse Dunn groaned. "It's this way. He hesitated; out among the barns could be heard the grief-stricken hullabaloo of the hounds Coffee had left behind.

"You two had some kind of a fall-out, didn't you?" Wheeler asked.

"You might call it that," Horse Dunn shrugged. "She doesn't understand the way you have to handle things on this range. And now she's down on me for blasting Link Bender free of his gun."

Marion Dunn had been born in this house in which they now sat; she was the daughter of Horse Dunn's brother who had once run the 94. But her father had died when Marian was five years old, and, so far as Wheeler knew, Marion Dunn had since visited the 94 but once in her life—two years ago, when she was eighteen.

"Why, she can't hardly even believe that this country is here," Dunn continued. "They've taught her that the country is all settled up—and they're right. Only, they don't understand this dry country, where a steer walks a rod for a blade of grass, and a hundred square miles supports one outfit. When they think of the West they think of some place like Montana, where you can fence a whole herd on five sections of grass and watch 'em thrive. She can't see her 94 as part and parcel of half a million miles of range."

"Her 94?" Wheeler questioned.

Horse Dunn did not hear him. "I've fought this country since time out of mind. When you got enemies in this country you've got to rough 'em and force 'em. If a man tries to smash you, you got to smash him first. She tells me we got law here to take care of that, nowadays. I tell you the law we got hasn't the teeth in it that it had in the old days, even!"

Home Heating Hints By John Barclay Heating Expert

Let Ashpit Damper Regulate Daily Speed At Which You Want Fire To Burn.

IMPROPER adjustment of the turn (or smoke pipe) damper in your furnace results in "chimney" loss of heat. Leave this damper closed as nearly as possible without retarding free burning of fuel or causing gas to escape into the basement.

Once you have found the ideal adjustment for it, be sure you leave it in that position throughout the heating season. Do not attempt to use it from day to day to regulate your fire. It was never meant for that purpose. The only time you need move the Turn Damper is at the start of the very cold season and again at the start of the very mild season. These two times are necessary to meet the extreme changes in outdoor temperature.

Use only the Ashpit Damper and Check Damper for regulating the fire daily—to speed up or slow down the rate at which you want the fire to burn. Rely wholly on these two dampers, and you'll get the proper fire regulation. I repeat—do not change the position of the Turn Damper inside the smoke pipe. Otherwise you'll waste a lot of very valuable fuel and heat.

This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Light Beam Devised to Protect Sleep Walkers; Is Suggested for Hospitals

A safeguard for sleep walkers, tying them to bed with intangible and almost invisible light beams instead of ropes or strips of bedclothes, has been devised by a British manufacturer of photo-electric cells and similar devices, states a London correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

One or more light beams of dim blue or red light are directed across the bed from special lamps and reflectors like miniature searchlights. These beams enter one or more light-sensitive cells, which give an electric current so long as the light beam enters them. If anything interrupts the light beam, even for a small fraction of a second, the electric signal ceases. This stoppage may be made to sound an alarm or to work any other kind of electric apparatus.

When the sleeper retires this light beam system is switched on. If then the sleeper gets out of bed or even sits up in bed, his body must cut one or more of the light beams passing across the bed. This casts a shadow on the light-sensitive cells, stops for an instant the electric current from this device and sounds whatever kind of alarm that has been provided.

And tried to say in words what this stand-out car's got—

And found to your surprise you couldn't begin to do it justice—

Listen, don't think you're the only one!

"It's gotta lotta ummph!" say trier-outers vainly trying to express all the marvelous things they've felt.

"Ummph!" meaning zip—flash—power. "Ummph!" meaning all you ever expected to find in a car—and a great deal else in addition!

Fact is—demonstration, not conversation, is the thing to describe this new Buick.

To say it's quick—nimble—agile is to do only fractional justice to its DYNAFLASH engine and what it does every time you touch off its thrifty power.

To call its TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride velvety is only to part-pictorialize its ride. Use the words jarless, level, floating, serene—and you come a little closer.

But still you neglect the directability this car gets from its new rear springing, the reduced risk of skidding, the simpler maintenance, and longer rear tire wear that go with it.

No, you can't cram a new Buick into words—only its action can tell its story.

And wherever there's a Buick dealer there's a chance to try this great car out—now, today!

Where Value Has a Meaning

1938 Master Chevrolets

Chevrolet's Master models for 1938 are designed and built for owners who seek to practice thrift without compromise on completeness. To such buyers, the Master Chevrolet is presented as embodying in fullest measure those qualities which Chevrolet's extensive public contracts indicate that modern motorists demand in their cars.

Performance, economy and comfort are carried to new heights in these models, without sacrifice of beauty or style. The cars are as roomy as the Master DeLuxe series; they are powered by the same 85 horsepower six-cylinder valve-in-head engine; and they offer the year's outstanding engineering advance, the new "Tiptoe-matic" Chevrolet clutch.

Like the Master DeLuxe again, they embody numerous refinements, in features affecting performance, comfort, safety, durability and style. The result is an all-round heightening of the qualities which for the past three years have been generating a steadily-increasing demand for Chevrolet, with the result that production capacity has had to be enlarged again and again.

The principal difference between the chassis of the two new Chevrolet series is the use, in the Master series, of conventional 1-beam front axle for the fully-enclosed knee action now beginning its fifth year as a feature of the Master DeLuxe.

Externally, the two lines are almost indistinguishable. Body style is identical. The Master DeLuxe models carry an embossed

There is a modification in moulding trim, and pillar switch for dome light, assist cords, ash receivers, rear window curtains and decorative sill plates are featured on the Master DeLuxe only.
