Alberto Lalone

Covina, Calif. Nov. 16.—Buried beneath tons of dirt from a cave-in which filled an unfinished cess-pool here today, the body of Al Lalone, Sierra Madre laborer, was recovered late tonight by a rescue party of fifty workmen.

The man apparently had been killed almost instantly, according to physicians. It required six hours for a rescue party to dig to the bottom of the sixty-eight-foot shaft.

The cesspool, being constructed for the Covina Citrus Association, was nearing completion and Lalone was making a final inspection of the excavation when the wall suddenly crumbled, burying him beneath tons of dirt.

Dallas English, another employee, narrowly escaped injury by leaping to safety when the walls gave way.

Both men were employed by the F. N. Baker Company, Arcadia contractors.—Covina News.

Alberto Lalone was the son of Mr. Fred Lalone formerly of this place he was born and reared here and has many friends and relatives here who sympathize with the bereaved family.

The Fool and His Money

In a talk given over a Chicago radio station, a representative of the Better Business Bureau of that city pointed out that unscrupulous salesmen of various commodities, many of them worthless, were trying to persuade their potential victims to borrow on their life insurance to "invest" in the salesmen's wares. The Better Business Bureau speaker warned vigorously against falling for this bait, and advised: "Before you invest—investigate."

The title of his talk was, "Use Your Life Insurance Cash Value? Use Your Head Instead." That is first class advice. To reduce the value of the capital built up to provide protection for dependents and self-sustaining old age, in order to speculate in some get-rich-quick scheme, is the very height of folly. The public must consistently be on its toes to guard against the unscrupulous salesman of phoney stocks, useless property and unworkable inventions who are always trying to separate the fool and his money.

Dramatic Club Organized

The Dramatic Club of Carrizozo High School was organized Friday night November 12, 1937. Virginia Pierce is sponsor of the club. The following officers were chosen:

President, Charles Dow; Vice-President, Zane Harkey; Secretary-Treasurer, Betty Shafer; Reporter, Frank Perkins.

Ballads were given by Miss Mildred Norman "The Newly Weds Go Fishing" and Miss Myrtle Butler "The Trials of a School Teacher." Both show promise of being good in declamation.

Although there were not many present due to other activities the Club will put on a short play in the near future.

The purpose of this club is to prepare pupils to appear before the public, and teach them the art of self-control.

Frank Perkins, Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rowland visited relatives in Carrizozo this week.

Mark Sloan Wins Gun

Many hunters eagerly took part in the 1937 gun contest sponsored by Mr. T. El Kelley Manager of Kelley's Hardware and Sport Shop.

Mark Sloan was the lucky hunter this season, his deer, killed on the French ranch weighed 224 pounds.

We have published names of those who were fortunate enough to kill their deer, so this week we publish a list of the heavy-weights only:

Leandro Vega	148 lbs
Andy Wright	182 1/2 "
Bowen Zumwalt	191 "
Geo. Harkness	192 1/2 "
Arvel Runnels	208 1/2 "
Mark Sloan	224 "

The prize was a 70 model Bolt action Winchester valued at $61.25. This is a valuable and acceptable prize for any sportsman and Mark's friends congratulate him.

Prize Winners

The Patrons of St. Rita School wish to thank all those who assisted in the fund raising campaign for repairs on the school.

The prizes were won by the following:

First prize: Tepestry, Filiberto Ribbique. Second prize: Bed Spread, Fruto Osorio. Third Prize: Table Scarf, Mrs. P. Archuleta. Fourth prize: Table Scarf, Ed Estes of James A. Dick Co., Alamogordo, N. M.

The Football game between Capitan and Carrizozo will be one you can't afford to miss.

Red Cross Membership Drive

The Red Cross drive is now on, with headquarters at Carrizozo Hardware Company.

Mrs. LeFerber is in charge. Everyone who possibly can should join the Red Cross, as 50 percent of all money stays in Lincoln county to be used by the local chapter as the need may arise.

Your membership in the Red Cross purchases each year: Safety at home, on the highway, on your vacation.

The purpose of the Red Cross First Aid and Life Saving Service.

Security brought to thousands of families this year by the Disaster Relief workers of the Red Cross. The Red Cross gave them shelter, food, clothing and medical care until the waters receded. Tornados in the Spring caused distress to thousands whose home or farm dwellings were destroyed. The Red Cross gave necessary relief. Where the family was without resources or credit, the Red Cross aided in rebuilding their homes.

Renewed hope is given the disabled war veteran and morale of the man in the service is sustained through Red Cross co-operation in solving his personal problems. The welfare of the war veteran and the service man is a major responsibility of the Red Cross.

A dollar paid to Attorney John E. Hall or to Mrs. LeFerber for a membership card will be applied to a good cause.

Extra! Noah's Ark Found!

BACK in the days of the Klondike gold rush, the few publishers in Alaska, especially those who issued dailies, had great difficulty in getting enough news to fill their papers. At one time the telegraph lines into Dawson were down for two months and the roads were so filled with snow that no mail arrived by dog team for 35 days.

During this period one Dawson publisher called his reporter to him. "Look here, we've simply got to have more news," he said. "Subscriptions are falling off and if you want to stay on my payroll, you'd better get out and grab off a story that will be talked about from the Aurora Borealis to the Southern Cross."

Casey Antonio Moran was the reporter's name and the imagination which he displayed in adding "Antonio" to his name because he "liked the sound of it," extended to his reportorial ability. So the next morning a headline clear across the front page of his boss' paper proclaimed, "Ruins of Noah's Ark Found on Mt. Koyukuk in Yukon Country."

Under that headline was an "exclusive interview" with an Indian chief who told of having been lost in the "Haunted Country" of the Koyukuk and finding on top of a mountain "a house as big as a white man's town built in a big canoe" which had turned to stone. When the reporter took him to a miner's home and showed him a picture of Noah's Ark, the chief declared that it was exactly like the house in the big canoe on the mountain top.

The story caused a sensation when the paper was distributed in Dawson. Although the other two dailies tried to discredit the yarn, many people were enough impressed by the affidavit, furnished by the chief, which was given a prominent place on the front page, to believe it. It was also believed by many people back in the "States" when press association wires carried it to newspapers who printed it and to this day one can hear an occasional reference to the fact that "they discovered Noah's Ark up in Alaska several years ago."

The Camelce

AMONG the correspondents who accompanied the Newton-Jenny exploring expedition in the Black Hills of South Dakota in 1875 was R. B. Davenport of the New York Herald. Davenport was a typical "tenderfoot" and a tireless seeker after information—which some of the packers and guides for the expedition were only too willing to supply!

One day he discovered the skeleton of a huge bull elk and excitedly asked California Joe, the famous scout, what it was. "Well, sir," replied Joe, "I reckon that there must be the bones of one of them camelce I've heard so much about. You see, a good many years ago the gov'ment decided to use camels for packin' supplies down in the deserts of Arizona. Some of the females escaped and, feelin' sorta lonely, they joined up with a elk herd. It wasn't long before they was matn' with the bull elks and the result was somethin' that was half-camel and half-elk. Dog-gonedest animal I ever seed—well, come to think of it, I never did see one myself but a lot uv fellows I knowed did."

So California Joe went on at great length, giving a minute description of the camelce, as he called it, and within a short time the New York Herald printed an extended account of this new marvel in the animal world which had been discovered out in the Black Hills!

Lirpa Loof

BACK in 1910, a story in the London (Ohio) Times announced that a coffee operator from Brazil, named Senor Lirpa Loof, was a visitor in that city. Moreover it printed a long interview with the distinguished foreigner on the subject of coffee cultivation.

Within a few days rival papers were printing even longer interviews on that subject and one of them told of a company that was being organized by the Brazilian with many local merchants as stockholders. One paper even borrowed a cut, used originally in the Times, to illustrate its story.

While public interest in this subject was at its height, the editor of the Times, H. F. Harrington, later director of the Medill school of journalism at Northwestern university, published a story which caused some of his rival editors considerable embarrassment. He suggested that they reverse the spelling of the name of the distinguished Brazilian. When they—and the public—did so, there it was: "April Fool!"

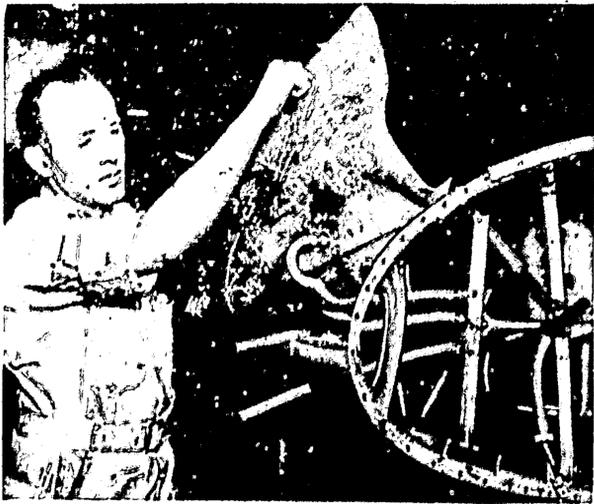

The London editor had been annoyed by the practice of "news prating" by his rivals and he took this method of teaching them a much-needed lesson in newspaper ethics.

De-Icer Promotes Air Safety

A mechanic shows a section of the new type of de-icers installed on T. W. A. planes to prevent possible forced landings and fatal crack-ups due to ice forming on the wings of the transports. Three tubes through which the air is forced every 47 seconds causing the specially treated and re-enforced covering to raise a distance of an inch and a half from the wing may clearly be seen.

Hymn Without Words "Sung" by Deaf Mutes

One of the strangest church services held anywhere in the world takes place every Sunday in the Cameron M. E. church in Cincinnati, Ohio. It is a service for deaf mutes conducted entirely in sign language. Here is a view of the choir of six as they "sing" "Nearer My God to Thee." Not a word is spoken throughout the service, the sermons being delivered in sign language by Rev. August H. Staubitz.

What S. Cobb Thinks about

Growing Cannon Fodder. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—To produce this crop takes time and planning.

First your veterans must grow past fighting age because those who survive the horrors of one war never willingly enlist for another. Meanwhile be sure the women have been bearing children, since children are the seed corn of your future sowing.

Irvin S. Cobb

As the newer generation grows up dose it on the old reliable P. P. P. formula — parades, pomp, propaganda. Bands and guns and flag-wavings, murderous preachments and manufactured patriotism; they all help to fertilize against the ultimate harvesting.

Befuddle the first-born on dreams of drunken glory. Teach him the neighbor over the way is an enemy who must some day be crushed without mercy. Make him believe his country's destiny demands revenge for old hurts, reprisals for old losses, widened boundaries writ in blood.

And then, in about 20 years, you have a nation ripened for ruin, a race of mothers ready to offer their sons to the slaughter. It's a slow crop, but a sure one, and highly gratifying to professional sword-rattlers and power-mad dictators, to profiteers and financial hijackers.

Let's see, come 1936, it'll be just about 20 years since the last time the world cut its own throat.

Two-Faced Politicians

SOMEbody says the type of politician who swaps worthless promises before election for the public's confidence—and its vote—reminds him of Janus. Janus was a god with two faces, and the ancients finally got so they couldn't trust either one of them. But it took them a long time to catch on.

Might I be pardoned for thinking of a homelier simile? I'm thinking of the pack-rat of this western country. The thrifty pack-rat slips with stealthy tread into your camp whilst you slumber and carries off something of value. But he doesn't steal it—nothing like that. He merely exchanges with you, you being asleep at the time. He leaves a dry twig behind and totes off a side of meat. He confiscates one of your boots, but, in return, confers on you a couple of dead cactus stalks. His intentions may be honest, but there is no record showing where a pack-rat ever got the worst of a trade. I figure he's part Scotch.

And the profits resulting from his professional dealings certainly may be likened to the career of many a chronic officeholder now flourishing in our midst.

This Man Dewey

WHEN the Republicans get out their 1940 nominee, they might search in the tall timbers of Manhattan Island.

There's a young fellow there, the name being Dewey, and he being kin to the great admiral whose deeds crackled at Manila one May day morning like the lightnings on Mount Sinai. He comes of old Yankee stock. He hails from a debatable state, Michigan; lives in a pivotal state, New York. Still in his mid-thirties, he smashed the foulest, securest nests of labor racketeers and vice racketeers in America.

He married a sweet Texas girl, as southern as they make 'em. Her grand-uncle was Jeff Davis. My daddy was Jeff Davis' relative, too. And this young Dewey trained for grand opera. Speaking of this charm thing, think of a President who'd wind up his fireside radio chats singing "Home on the Range."

Yes, sir, the G. O. P. might go farther and fare worse.

Nordic Supremacy

RECENT events bring to mind a little story of some years back when night-riding patriots in an Arkansas county felt called on, as a sacred duty imposed upon all true Caucasians, to put the Black brother in his place; said place, in at least one instance, being a colored cemetery.

Also, there had been a flood of notices to vacate sent through the mail to members of the African race, followed by unpleasant surprise parties did the recipients fail to heed the gentle warning.

So the community was getting more Nordic by the hour and the sound of the Anglo-saxophone was heard off in the stilly night. That's the scene and the plot. Now for the sketch:

Pelagria Perkins meets Hookworm Hostetter on Main street:

"Hooky," says Pelagria, "effen you wuz to git a letter frum dese here w'ite shirts, what would you do?"

"Me!" says Hookworm. "Boy, I'd finish readin' it on the train."

Home Heating Hints

Daily Schedule for Best, Most Economical Heat in Furnace Operation

I FEEL certain you'll find the following daily schedule for taking care of your furnace fire will simplify its operation and give you the utmost fuel satisfaction:

MORNING—To get quick heat, open the Ashpit Damper wide and close the Check Damper. Add fresh fuel only when fire is burning briskly, leaving an exposed spot of live coals directly in front of the firedoor. If you find it necessary, gently shake the grates, if they weren't shaken the night before.

DURING DAY—Control fire with Check and Ashpit Dampers. Don't use Turn Damper to regulate fire daily. Keep it closed as nearly as possible without hampering the free burning of the fire.

NIGHT—Shake grates gently until the first red glow shows in ashpit before banking fire. This done, wet ashes down and clean ashpit. Always open the Check Damper and close the Ashpit Damper when banking fire. Keep them that way until gases burn from fresh fuel. Then close them. Never leave the firedoor open after fire is banked.

Follow this daily schedule and you'll get the best results.

Three Kings in a Year

In 1936 England had three kings, George V, Edward VIII and George VI. England has had three sovereigns during two other calendar years. In 1403 King Edward IV died and his son Edward V was murdered by his uncle Richard III. In 1553 Edward VI died and his cousin Jane was allowed to reign only a few days. She was imprisoned by the supporters of Edward's sister, Queen Mary I, and beheaded the next year.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a narrow job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—the life itself—constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, painness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

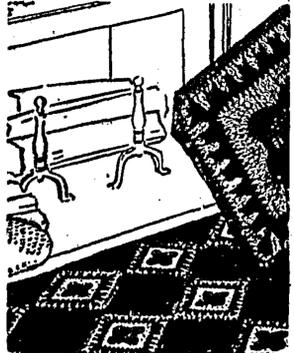

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. The Doan's Pills they have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country's best medical men. Sold at all drug stores.

Novel and Decorative Fastenings

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE present insistent demand for unique and ornate fastenings, fashion flings a new challenge into the realm of costume design. It is a challenge to which designers are responding with unbounded enthusiasm, since it offers new avenues of adventure to creative genius. Which explains why our fall and winter apparel is being slide-fastened or buttoned, as the case may be, with a play of imagination that is fairly breathtaking.

It adds to the fascination of the theme that whether the closings be with slide fasteners, which are quite the rage here as well as being highly endorsed by leading designers in London and Paris, or with buttons so smartly positioned on the newer modes, they are that highly decorative they supply the trimming feature as well as serve in a utilitarian way.

Once more devices for fastening this and that together, buttons have passed through an evolution from which they now emerge as colorful exquisitely wrought things (often designed by renowned artists) which vie with costume jewelry in point of ornate beauty and decorative design.

The button industry has wholeheartedly accepted catkin because being plastic it is easily machined and carved into all sorts of cunning and lovely motifs. Best of all it brings into the field a new aura of color which tunes charmingly into every phase of fashion. The tones and tints cover a range that extends from water-clear white to brilliant hues, also black, white or ivory and an almost endless list of pastels. The illustration shows several from among the multitudinous uses made in the present gesture to trim as well as to fasten with decorative slide-fasteners and with buttons. For the smart fitted sport coat with its raglan sleeves and slightly flared lines accentuated with row-and-row stitchings as pictured to the left, the designer achieves a chic fastening with huge catkin buttons carved in an effective floral motif. (Button detail below.)

See the stunning dinner gown to the right. Note how meticulously it is molded to the body and how generously it flares from just the strategic point it should flare to add queenly grace. Comes now the piece de resistance—gorgeous black catkin buttons encircled with brilliant that are used from neck to hem! Detail of this jewel-like button at bottom of illustration.

The two models in the center are zipped in latest fashion. The slide fasteners which close the two small pockets and shirred front of the modish dress at the left center have colorful wee catkin windmill pulls (shown in detail below) that are as ornamental as costume jewelry. The sports dress to the right center flares slightly with tucked umbrella skirt. The slide fastener with three bright colored catkin pulls goes zip! with a flash and a dash from neck to several inches below the waistline at the back. Other models in this class use slide-fasteners with small bright catkin plaques attached to the slide several inches apart.

VOGUSH BELTS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Attention is centered on belts this season. Just any belt won't do. The American designer, Belmo, has created a belt for every occasion, two of which are here illustrated. Worn with a black velvet cocktail frock the belt illustrated at the top contributes the final touch of perfection. In outlining this shapely belt which is of black suede, with small gold kid flowers, the artist designer adds a glittering touch to the corset waistline trend. It is readily seen, glimpsing the girl in sports attire, that the new belt modes add zest to any costume, particularly the sweater and suit combination, favorite of the younger generation. In this instance overlapping suede leaves riveted with metal eyelets tune to tailored and sportswear mood. Harmonious shades of gray, green, wine and rust make it possible for this multi-leaf belt to blend with several outfits.

AFTERNOON WINTER SUIT IS HIGH NOTE

The afternoon suit is one of the triumphs of Paris couturiers for the winter season, and each has presented his version of the new silhouette in handsome tailors of rich materials and luxurious furs.

Broadcloth and duvetyne are the newest of dressy suit materials with velvet and lightweight wools popular at all leading fashion houses. Silver and black fox form immense collars, trim sleeves and hemlines and edge the bottoms of long jackets. Persian lamb, a favorite for coat trim, makes collars, cuffs, vests, and even buttons—and smooth broadtail and silky caracul are used for tailored collars and pockets.

Plaid for Dress, Blouse Suit and Coat Is Latest

Plaids are telling a fascinating story. You'll be wanting a two-piece tailored jacket suit. They give that new-this-season look, besides the plaids that are being manufactured are that colorful and flattering they are simply irresistible. A dress of plaid-woolen made on the bias and adhering to form-fitting lines will prove a treasure in any wardrobe for practical day wear. Then, to wear to the ball game, a huge roomy coat of horse-blanket plaid as bizarre as they make 'em will be a cheer leader in itself.

Enliven Black Costumes With Bright Accessories

The call for black with colorful accessories is answered in the present vogue for black costumes enlivened with red accessories. The latest interpretation of the black and red color scheme is given by smart dressed women who wear red-suede hats and carry handbags to match. This combination sets a black suit or ensemble off to perfection. And there's the new red-suede gloves they're wearing with black. You will yield to temptation when you see them. A red boutonniere adds infinitely to this allure.

Johnson was a Democrat, however, as was Buchanan, and as were Jackson, Jefferson and others, and traditionally they, especially Jackson and Jefferson, are claimed by the Democrats of today.
10. This floating station is sponsored by the French ministry of air, "Air France" and the French Line. It will operate in the North Atlantic, and at regular intervals it will flash weather reports to aviators who are crossing from America to Europe, or vice versa.

Famous Hymn

The recent sale of the original manuscript of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," recalls the manner in which that stirring religious hymn came into being.

Some Yorkshire (Eng.) Pupils, years ago, planned to make a Whitsuntide procession to a neighboring church. They asked their young curate, Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould, to write them a marching song. He sat down, composed the hymn in a few minutes.

Originally sung to a tune by Joseph Haydn, its music now is that of Sir Arthur Sullivan. He composed the music as the result of a sudden inspiration.—Washington Post.

Oil War
"So and your neighbor are not on speaking terms?"
"No, all diplomatic relations have been suspended."
"How did it happen?"
"A while back my neighbor sent me a can of oil to use on my lawnmower when I started to cut the grass at 6 a. m."
"What did you do about it?"
"I sent it back and told him to use it on his wife when she started to sing at 11 p. m."

ENLIGHTENMENT

Teacher—William the Conqueror landed in England in 1066 A. D. What does A. D. stand for?
Pupil—After dark, I guess.

"You Must Have!"
The portly man was trying to get to his seat at the circus. "Pardon me," he said to a woman, "did I step on your foot?"
"I imagine so," she said after glancing at the ring. "All the elephants are still out there."

Firestone
GROUND GRIP TIRES
WIN First Honors AT TROY • BIG ROCK
LILY LAKE • WHEATLAND PLOWING CONTESTS

Using Firestone Ground Grip Tires, Paul Stiefbold made the highest score for any one meet, with 92 1/2 points out of 100. He also had the largest number of points for the four contests, 356 1/2 out of a possible 400.

Carl Sloger had the biggest average score per contest with 90 out of 100 possible points, using Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

Clarence Sloger won first place in the Young Men's Class in each of the four contests on Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

FIRESTONE Ground Grip Tires won sweep... victories this year in the plowing contests at Troy, Lily Lake, Big Rock and Wheatland, Illinois. In the plowing contests, as on the farms, more tractors were equipped with Firestone Ground Grip Tires than all other makes of tires combined. And these all-purpose tractor tires scored 3500 1/2 points out of a possible total of 4100 for the four contests.

Why do plowing champions choose Firestone Ground Grip Tires? The answer is:

GREATER TRACTION—Takes a deeper, broader bite into the soil. Has positive self-cleaning action.

GREATER STRENGTH—Resists the strain of heavy pulling because every fiber of every cord is saturated with liquid rubber by the patented Firestone Gum-Dipping process. Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread bind the tread and cord body so solidly together that we guarantee they will not separate.

GREATER SAVINGS—Saves 25% in time and up to 50% in fuel over steel-lugged wheels.

GREATER DRAWBAR PULL enables this tire to do more work in a given time.

Specify Firestone Ground Grip Tires when buying a new tractor or any wheeled farm implement. And, for your present equipment, ask your nearest Firestone Implement Dealer, Tire Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply & Service Store about the economical Firestone Cut-Down Wheel Program.

New Deal Policies

It is interesting to watch the mystery of the attacks on the President. If stocks go up and the boom booms, it is in spite of the fact that not because of anything has happened. If stocks go down, it is the direct result of his measures. If he is silent on the international situation, he is neglecting the most important of his Presidential functions. If he makes a speech proclaiming his desire for peace, he is accused of neglecting to bring the country into war.

When the President makes one of his trips through the country, the local committees of arrangement have the local dignitaries—mayors and not infrequently candidates for office—on the platform with him. If he shakes the hand of one of these who has been among the supporters of his measures, the hostile commentators point out that he is messing with state politics to favor his friend. If he shakes the hand of one who has opposed him they ascribe some dark invidious motive for the gesture.

If an important man or woman leaves the government service, it is the reports of slaw-hunters, he has quarreled with the President or his policies. In most cases these important people have taken their posts with a definite understanding that they could stay only a specified time from the business to perform a public service. That makes no difference. Why, recently, the reported prospective resignation of Chairman Clegg of his office as Postmaster General was explained by the fact that he quarreled with his White House chief. The very newspaper that carried this extraordinary revelation had been publishing for months the tales of the Postmaster General's intention of going back into private business and had even guessed at the place he would take in commercial life.

There is no great significance to be attributed to these funny stories except that they do illustrate how bankrupt is the minority party in policies and issues.

Carrizozo High School News

The Senior Carnival given Saturday night 18 was a great success. There were bingo, archery, boxing, and sideshows. Hamburgers, pop, and confetti were also sold. The carnival began promptly at seven o'clock and lasted until nine-thirty. The voting for the queen of the carnival lasted until nine-thirty with Louise Degner winning the crown. The dance began at nine-thirty and lasted until one o'clock. The music was furnished by the Corona orchestra. The financial returns were good. The senior class wishes to thank all who helped to make the carnival a success.

Friday night at seven o'clock a group of students met with Miss Pierce in her home room to organize a dramatic club. Charles Dow was elected President, Zane Harkey vice-president, and Betty Shafer Secretary. The club decided to hold its meetings every other Wednesday night. The meeting was then adjourned.

The Sophomore program Tuesday was a very inspirational one which may prompt the Junior Class to try to do better in their play, which is to be given soon. The Sophomores gave a very good imitation radio program and some of the topics were extremely humorous.

The school is having a thermostat installed that will help to keep a regular temperature throughout the building and conserve the supply of fuel.

The school has invested in three new Woodstock typewriters which were needed very badly.

The activities that are being carried out this year by the school are very much worth while in more than one respect. They help from the educational standpoint, as well as raising money for the school, and we give our respects to the teachers who have helped make these activities possible.

The football boys, and their coach, while planning a hard practice for the week also plan on giving Clouderoft quite a wallop Friday when they meet on the local field. The next week will be spent in playing around, and warming up for the scrimmage with Capitan on Thanksgiving Day.

A pep squad should be organized to generate pep for our interschool contests.

In the near future the student council will be organized to help advertise school events and also to develop school spirit.

"Beauty of Colorado"
Colorado has some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States. The reason I love Colorado is because it seems as if the beauty of Colorado touches and arouses the blood in my veins, making me want to try to gather it all up in my arms and carry it home with me.

One afternoon I was walking in a deep valley in Colorado taking close notice of all its beauties. The trees around me were a yellowish-brown; the ground beneath me was a deep carpet of yellow; above me was a spread of dark blue with little white pillows here and there. The sides of the valley were lined with large boulders of various sizes and colors. The late fall sun shone down upon me from the top of a little cloud, like a candle light shining from the top of a white mantle.

I can never express, with pen and ink, what all this beauty did to me. If I ever have a home of my own, I am going to put it in colors to remind me of the "beauty of Colorado."

Carving "Turk" Is Easy—When You Know How

SURE, you can carve the Thanksgiving turkey—simplest thing in the world. Follow these easy rules and you're sure to be the envy of all the guests who are usually awed by the dire prospect of having to whittle the festive fowl themselves. What's more, this simple method will give you time for a few nibbles at the white meat yourself before the first diner you served is howling for more.

Make sure the knife is sharp. Advance confidently upon the enemy, carving the side next you first, as it lies with the breast to your left. Fig. 1 shows leg being removed by placing knife between thigh and body, cutting from left to right. Pressing leg outward with knife and bending it back with left hand easily separates it from the body. It is rarely necessary to locate the socket and sever the thigh.

With leg removed to a service plate, as shown in Fig. 2, the triangular piece of dark meat is cut first from the thigh; then ligaments between thigh and drumstick are cut, just over round bone to the thigh side. Small portions of dark meat are prepared from thigh and drumstick, or latter in left whole. The wing, after being removed, is left on the platter or served, as you prefer.

Now for the breast. To avoid damaging the meat with fork holes, insert fork inside keel bone and beyond its point, one tine on each side along the bone. Slice meat down from the keel bone, as shown in Fig. 3, or, starting just above the point where the wing was removed, slice upward to the keel bone parallel to the breast bone. Note fork is held straight or almost straight up and down.

Another position of the fork is shown in Fig. 4. It is inserted in the side through the ribs. Platter is turned at right angles to the carver. White meat is sliced downward away from the keel bone or upward, as described above. The meat service will be made complete by placing two slices of white meat over the dark meat (usually two pieces) and the dressing.

By following this procedure an attractive service is assured and the meat is kept as hot as possible. If the carver is being assisted in such a manner it is best to carve white meat as needed for each individual service. Otherwise sufficient slices for all guests may be cut and placed on the platter along the edge in readiness to serve or on a separate plate.

Noted Actor Dies

SIR JOHNSTON FORBES-ROBERTSON, eminent Shakespearean actor who was familiar to American theater audiences as well as to those in England, died at the age of eighty-four in St. Margaret's Bay, England. At the height of his career he was considered the foremost English actor in classic drama. He made his final stage appearance in 1927 in London when he played in "Twelfth Night." He had appeared in several films. He was knighted by the late King George V, of Great Britain in 1913 when he made his decision to retire.

Railways Ask Help

EXECUTIVES of the class one railroads asked the interstate commerce commission to help them raise $508,000,000 more income to meet increases in payrolls, taxes and the cost of supplies. The margin between income and operating expenses has been squeezed so thin, they said, that rail systems face a crisis.

They asked for a flat increase of 15 per cent on freight rates and an increase in passenger fares in eastern territory from two to two and one-half cents a mile.

La Guardia's Victory

TAMMANY HALL went down to its inglorious defeat in the New York municipal election. Its mayorally candidate, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who was supported also by Jim Farley and Senator Wagner, was thoroughly whipped by Fiorello H. La Guardia, candidate of the fusionists, the Republicans and the young American Labor party. La Guardia, the first "reform" mayor ever in New York, piled up a majority of 454,425.

The Republicans hailed the result as a great victory for their party, and it was. But it also put the Labor party in the position of holding the balance of power in future elections in the metropolis.

Second in interest only to the mayoralty vote was the fact that Thomas E. Dewey, the young man who smashed organized crime and the racket in New York, was elected district attorney, defeating Harold W. Hastings, the Tammany nominee. Dewey, who is only thirty-five years old, promises reform in the methods of the office, and his record gives assurance these will be carried out.

The Republicans regained control of the New York state assembly and of many upstate cities.

C.I.O. Loses in Detroit

THE first important venture of the C. I. O. in politics turned out disastrously for the Lewis organization. Patrick H. O'Brien, its mayoralty candidate, declared on the stump that "labor must seize the reins of government in Detroit and every other American city." Whereupon the Detroit electors arose in their wrath and swept O'Brien and the C. I. O. out of the picture. Richard W. Reading, conservative candidate backed by the A. F. of L., won the office by a majority of 109,907 votes.

In addition, all the five C. I. O. backed candidates for the common council were decisively whipped.

In New Jersey Senator A. Harry Moore, Democrat, was elected governor over Lester H. Clee, Republican, but only by virtue of a big majority in Hudson county. Moore has held the office twice before. It was the first time in the state's history that a governor has won a third term. The state constitution prohibits a consecutive re-election but Moore was elected in 1925 and again in 1931, each time for a three-year term.

James M. Curley, who has been three times mayor of Boston and once governor of Massachusetts, tried again for the mayoralty, but was defeated by Maurice J. Tobin, like Curley a Democrat.

Philadelphia went Democratic, as did Pittsburgh, which re-elected Mayor Cornelius Scully.

Brussels Conference

FORMAL opening of the Far East peace conference in Brussels brought out speeches by the chief delegates of America, Britain, France, Italy and Russia. Davis for the United States denounced resort to armed force as a means of settling international disputes, and urged Japan and China to seek a settlement of their conflict "by peaceful processes."

He continued: "We believe that co-operation between Japan and China is essential to the best interests of those two countries and to peace throughout the world. We believe that such co-operation must be developed by friendship, fair play, and reciprocal confidence. If Japan and China are to co-operate it must be as friends and not as enemies. The problems underlying Chinese-Japanese relations must be solved on a basis that is fair to each and acceptable to both."

Eden for England and Delbos for France seconded these sentiments. A committee was named to send an appeal to Japan to open peace negotiations with China, and Germany was asked to reconsider her refusal to take part in the conference.

"Much Obligated" Is Grandpa's Grace for Thanksgiving

GRANDPA VANDERHOF collects snakes and keeps them in the living room, attends commencement exercises, and refuses to pay income tax because he doesn't believe in it. Members of his family write magnificently unsuccessful plays, study aesthetic dancing, make fireworks, play the xylophone and are content to forget about work and live off Grandpa.

But the contentment enjoyed by Grandpa and his flock have already warmed the hearts of millions of Americans, who have learned to love them. They're not real people, of course, only characters in "You Can't Take It With You," the Pulitzer prize play by Moss Hart and

Alrich Bowker, who says the famous-Grace of Grandpa Vanderhof in the Chicago cast of "You Can't Take It With You."

George S. Kaufman, which for many months has been breaking theater attendance in the large cities in which it has played.

No more appropriate and charming Thanksgiving prayer could be imagined than the Grace which Grandpa Vanderhof asks as his daffy brood sits down to dinner—which may well consist of tomatoes, corn flakes and beer, if nobody thought to order anything else from the grocer. It has already become one of the most famous speeches in the American theater.

"Well, Sir," he begins, napkin in hand, "we've been getting along pretty good for quite a while now, and we've certainly been much obliged."

"Remember, all we ask is just to go along and be happy in our own sort of way. Of course, we want to keep our health, but as far as anything else is concerned we'll leave it to You."

Washington Was First to Proclaim Thanksgiving Day

But Thank a Woman for Keeping It Alive.

ARGUMENT about the origin of Thanksgiving day in the United States has been going on, for these many years. There are several answers, and which of them is correct depends entirely upon the point of view.

We think of Thanksgiving usually as an institution begun by the Pilgrims. Without a doubt it was the Pilgrims who were the first group of American people to cease work to observe a day of thanksgiving.

It was George Washington, as President, who proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving day.

It was Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, who fought for many years to have the national holiday revived as a regular annual celebration.

It was President Abraham Lincoln who issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation since Jefferson, reviving a practice that has been observed each year ever since by whatever President who happened to be in office.

America's first official national Thanksgiving day occurred on November 29, 1789, or 169 years after Bradford's call upon the Pilgrims to give thanks. President Washington proclaimed it at the request of a joint committee of both houses of congress who beseeched him to declare a day of thanks for the favors of God bestowed upon the new republic.

In his proclamation President Washington said: "Now therefore do I recommend to the people of the United States a Day of Thanksgiving that we then may unite in rendering unto Him our humble thanks for His kind care and protection of this country previous to its becoming a nation . . . for the favorable interposition of His Providence in the course and conclusion of the late war, for the great degree of tranquillity, union and plenty which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government . . . for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed . . . and also that we may then unite and beseech Him . . . to promote virtue, knowledge and the increase of science among us."

Several more Thanksgiving day proclamations were made in the following years; then under Jefferson they were forgotten. But those sentiments of Washington's original proclamation became a creed generations later to Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of the highly influential Godey's Lady's Book, the magazine with the quaint and colorful fashion prints which today decorate lamp shades and hang in picture frames in thousands of homes.

This cultured, energetic little woman devoted a large share of her time to her plan to make Thanksgiving day an annual national holiday. She wrote literally thousands of personal letters to governors urging that their states unite in observing a Thanksgiving day. She foresaw the coming of the Civil war, and she looked upon a national Thanksgiving day, uniformly celebrated by all of the states, as conducive toward peace.

But it was not until after the war had started that she succeeded in obtaining a Presidential proclamation from Abraham Lincoln.

A national proclamation has gone forth in each of the 74 years since that time. If we are happy about it, let us give thanks this Thanksgiving to the far-seeing editor of Godey's Lady's Book.

Try This Stuffing
To each cup of broken stale bread add 1/2 tablespoon chopped fat from the bird. Be sure to have the market man send the fat with the bird. If there is insufficient fat use butter, not substitutes. Add also to each cup: 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 teaspoons chopped celery, 1 teaspoon chopped sweet pepper pulp and 1/2 teaspoon minced parsley. To each four cups of this mixture add herbs, sage, thyme and sweet marjoram—2 teaspoons of the first and 1 teaspoon of the other if powdered and a little more if they are so fortunate as to have dried herbs. Also add one teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. This blend is recommended. Sew up filled cavity, bringing skin together. Stuff small cavity at neck and sew the stuffing in as described.

SYNOPSIS

Billy Wheeler, wealthy young cattleman, arrives at the 94 ranch, summoned by his friend Horse Dunn, its elderly and quick-tempered owner, because of a mysterious murder.

Wheeler and Horse Dunn could not altogether agree with Horse Dunn. He had seen range quarrels settled by gunfire—but never to the advantage of either winner or loser.

"What if she ties my hands?" Dunn demanded. "I've got to fight this thing my own way. For myself I wouldn't do much mind. But ain't the outfit here, to begin with?"

"Sure, it's here. Didn't you know that?" Wheeler had not known it. "But look here! You've run this brand ever since I can remember. You must at least have some part interest here."

"Not a penny or a head of stock," Dunn told him. "But I happen to know," Wheeler declared, "that you've always had an outfit, another outfit, down in Arizona. Yet your Arizona outfit hasn't seen you four times in a dozen years."

"I've had my hands full here," Dunn said. "You mean," Billy Wheeler said, "you spent the last twelve-thirteen years neglecting your own outfit to build up a brand that don't belong to you?"

Dunn shrugged. "Somebody had to take hold. My brother died—spudden. He didn't leave the 94 in very good shape. For two years it was run by different bosses I hired. But this same Link Bender—he had a big outfit then—he was stealing the 94 blind. Pretty soon there wouldn't have been any 94. And it was all the kid and her mother had."

Billy Wheeler stared at Horse Dunn. Once he had heard it rumored that Horse Dunn had loved Marian's mother, long ago.

"Marian's mother always hated and feared this country. She brought up Marian to feel some similar. That's why the kid can't stand gunsmoke, or anything done by force. You see—my brother died with a gun in his hand."

Wheeler, unable to endorse the Old Man's leaning toward violence, expressed a belief that there ought to be some way to avoid smoking up the range. "If we can hold the 94 steady on the finance side," he said, "what can Link Bender's crowd do?"

"God knows I've took all the steps I know to steady the finance side," Horse Dunn said. "A minute ago you spoke of my having an outfit in Arizona. Well, I had an outfit in Arizona. Six weeks ago I sent word to Bob Flag, my partner there, to sell her out. She's sold. For the last ten days I've been looking for Bob Flag. He's supposed to show here with $50,000, as good as in cash; another $50,000 in different obligations and notes. Everything I've got goes to the bracing of the 94."

Horse stared out the open doorway toward the corrals; and now Billy Wheeler saw Horse Dunn's rocky face slowly relax, and soften. Out at the far corral Marian had caught the quiet old pony that Horse had given her, and was preparing to saddle. Horse Dunn watched her, his eyes gentle. There was always a shy humility about that strapping big old man when he looked at this girl, this daughter of his dead brother. It was almost as if he might have been looking at his own daughter, who had grown up away from him. After all, she might have been his daughter, if things had broken differently once.

"You go ride with her," Dunn said with a certain awkwardness. "You talk to her. Try to make her see that—that this is a—a different country, kind of."

"She doesn't take any stock in me, Horse."

"You go, anyway," Dunn made

ed. "I don't like to have her riding this big range alone." With a curious reluctance Wheeler picked up his hat and walked out to the stable where his saddle was.

CHAPTER III

A rise of dust was going up on the Inspiration road as Wheeler saddled; he knew the approaching car must be driven by Steve Hurley. For a moment he hesitated, for he would have liked to hear the latest word from the camp of Horse Dunn's enemies. Marian Dunn, however, was loping eastward along an old trail not far off the Inspiration road. Steve Hurley would be able to signal to him from road to trail if any new word concerned him. He let his pony lope out and caught up with Marian within the mile.

"Do you mind if I ride your way?" "Maybe," Marian said, "you'll show me where Short Creek is." Wheeler was startled. "Short Creek?"

"Sometimes," the girl said, "it's easier to look at a thing than to imagine it." "I was thinking some of riding over that way," he conceded. "Only—I wish you'd let somebody know when you set off to ride a distance like that, so somebody could go with you."

She looked at him sidelong for a minute. "Sometimes it seems to me you people do everything you can to make this into an unfriendly country."

"I don't know what you mean." "These Red Hills, with the sun on them, are the background of the very earliest memories I have. When I came here again it was as if I were coming home. I felt free and natural, here—at first. And Horse Dunn is almost exactly like my father, what little I can remember of him—so nearly like my father that I can't remember my father's face any more; because my uncle's face comes in between."

"Wait Here," Wheeler Said to the Girl.

"He worships the ground you walk on," Wheeler said. "I know." A little shiver ran across her shoulders, anomalous in the blaze of the sun. "Then he turns and does some wild, awful thing—like yesterday; and it gives me the strangest feeling of being completely lost in a country I don't understand."

"Yesterday? What awful thing?" "He—he shot Link Bender." "It was kind of unfortunate, sure. But I don't know what else he could do. Link drew on him. And all your uncle did was to nick him in the arm, so that he dropped the gun."

Marian's tone was curiously detached, unfeeling. "He admitted he set out to goad Link Bender into fighting."

"That was not exactly what Horse Dunn had said, but essentially the girl was right. It was like Horse Dunn too that he could in no part lie to this girl, but would put himself conscientiously into the worst possible light."

"He said more," Marian added. "He said that if it hadn't been for me he would have killed Link Bender there at Chuck Box Wash."

Billy Wheeler started to say, "Oh, I don't think—" It was no use. It was futile to try to hide from this girl certain things which she was in no way equipped to understand, yet was sure to see clearly. "This is a different country than you're used to, Marian. Dry country men learned long ago to depend on themselves; they've lived that way for a long time."

The car that had been an approaching funnel of dust upon the Inspiration road now came careening around a rutty bend 200 yards below them. Steve Hurley leaned from behind his dusty windshield to wave at them, then brought his car to a long-rolling stop. He signaled Wheeler to ride to him. "Wait here," Wheeler said to the girl. He wheeled his horse, then hesitated to say over his shoulder, "Don't worry; we'll work everything out all right."

He put his horse down to the road, jumping it through the red rocks. From behind the wheel Steve Hurley thrust a big square hand at him, and Steve's big beefy face flashed a quick grin. "Glad to see you, Billy; the Old Man said he figured you'd sit in. As soon as I see who it was, I pulled up."

Wheeler glanced at the boiling radiator. "What's broke in Inspiration, Steve?" "The Old Man may be wanting to call his riders in. Thought I'd stop and tell you what it was, so's you could signal in any of the boys you might see while you're out."

"I'm listening." "It's all over Inspiration that Sheriff Wait Amos will make an arrest within three days. They're saying the sheriff knows who's dead; that it's a man Dunn swore to kill if ever he found him on 94 range." Steve Hurley's sun-squinted eyes rested steadily and keenly on Billy Wheeler.

"Steve," said Wheeler, "will Horse Dunn submit to arrest?" Steve Hurley looked away a moment before he answered. "I don't know," he said at last. "But I guess maybe. Am I right he'll want his riders in?"

"I'd sure think so. This thing is coming faster than I figured it would, Steve." The girl's eyes were questioning as Billy Wheeler returned to her side. "Don't worry," he said; "it's all going to work out."

They turned off, no longer paralleling the Inspiration road; and for a long while as the miles slowly unrolled under the fox-trotting hoofs of the ponies neither had anything to say.

They were near Short Creek when the girl spoke unexpectedly. "I'm glad you came. You make things seem straighter and smoother, just the way you pace your horse along, without any worry or fret."

"There isn't anything to worry about." "You've changed since two years ago," the girl told him. "Somehow you're nicer to ride with—quieter, more restful."

He glanced at her but didn't answer. "You used to be a stampede sort of person," she explained, "always rushing your horse at things. Whatever you went at, you always went at it by the same way—thunder of hoofs, taking all obstacles by storm. I think I used to be afraid of you."

For a moment he wondered if things would have gone differently between them if he had been less eager, less turbulent. When you wanted a thing too much you overplayed your hand and lost out altogether. Maybe you could love a girl too much, too soon, and defeat yourself the same way. Perhaps if—

A quarter of a mile away within the sharp-cut bed of Short Creek something moved, held steady a moment, then disappeared. It was a rider there, who was watching them; but it was not a rider who meant to rise in his stirrups and hail.

"Well," he said briskly, "this is Short Creek." "You see," he said, pulling up his horse at the spot the cattle had trampled, "this is nothing but a place where it just happened that somebody took a shot at somebody. What is there to see? Nothing I want you to think of this place as just a crick where horses come to drink."

Marian Dunn sat very quiet, staring at the shallow water. He wondered what things, terrible to her, she might be picturing.

"I'm glad I came," Marian said. "But especially I'm glad you came. You—"

"Listen," he said. A horse as yet unseen was coming fast down the cut. Its unshod hoofs padded quietly in the sand at the margin of the water, so that its thudding lope was sensed less by sound than by shock—the faint distant tremor of the ground.

"What is it?" the girl asked. "Don't you hear? A horse is coming up."

"I don't—" She started to say that she didn't hear anything; but just then the unseen rider cut through the shallows with a sudden sharp sound of thrown water and the ring of hoofs on stone. "Who is it?"

"Queen sabe? Turn and ride back the way we've come," he told her without emphasis. "I'll be along in a minute."

Without a word Marian turned her horse; she was at the two hundred yards as a hard-run horse surged up over the lip of the cut. The rider was Kid Bender.

The Kid half wheeled his pony, drove close to Billy Wheeler's horse; his lean figure, awayed backwards as he brought his pony to a sliding stop, very close. Across the back of his right hand showed the heavy purple welt that Wheeler's quirt had laid there; and in his face was the joyous anger of a man who takes payment for a past humiliation.

"What you doing here?" Wheeler ignored the question. "You're a little off your range, Kid," he said. "This range comes under the head of the 94. Maybe I'll be ordering you off it pretty quick. I haven't decided yet."

"No," said Kid Bender. "I don't think you will. You're dealing with a peace officer—patrolling the scene of a crime."

"Peace officer?" Kid Bender slipped over the tail end of his neckerchief to reveal a nickel-plated shield. It was cheap and it was new; but as it flashed in the sun Wheeler felt his scalp stir oddly, as if he had glimpsed fire behind smoke. Horse Dunn's view of the situation was changing up faster than Horse himself had imagined.

"Yesterday," said the Kid, "you knocked a gun out of my hand." Billy Wheeler said distinctly, "With a quirt. I whipped it out of your hand with a quirt."

Kid Bender's face darkened for an instant but the hard gleam of a joyous anticipation immediately returned to his eye. "I have orders," he said, "to see that the hired men of the 94 don't trample over the scene of this crime any more. I'm starting with you; I'll give you fellows something to remember orders by. I'm taking your horse and your gun. Maybe your girl there will give you a lift after you're about. Or maybe I'll send her on home—I haven't decided that yet."

"No," said Wheeler, "you're not taking either horse or gun." "You're against an officer of the law. You know what that means?" "I know," Billy Wheeler said, "what I hope it means."

For a moment Kid Bender hesitated; they sat watching each other, two men in a situation from which neither could withdraw. One of them had sought this meeting—the other welcomed it. Both knew that something peculiarly personal had to be settled here, now, between the two of them alone.

"I see your girl has stopped a little way up here," the Kid said; "seems like she sets watching from the hill." Wheeler suppressed in time an impulse to glance over his shoulder. Instead his eyes never left Kid Bender as he jerked his chin sharply toward his shoulder as if he glanced away.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Glaze Apple Tart. 3 cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups water, 1 blade mace, 2-inch piece stick cinnamon, 1 tsp. whole cloves, 1 peppercorn, Lemon and orange peel, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 3 pie apples, 4 tart shells.

MIX sugar and water in large skillet. Add spices and thin pieces of orange and lemon peel tied loosely in a bag. Bring to a rapid boil, skim carefully, add lemon juice. Peel, core, and cut apples into eighths. Simmer gently, turning apples frequently until tender and clear. Remove apples to plate. Remove spice bag, and boil syrup until it sheets from spoon. When apples are cold, arrange in tart shells. Spoon cool syrup over apples, serve with plain or whipped cream if desired.

ALKALIZE. I'll never go to dinner with a boy again unless I have some Phillips' Tablets in my purse. Includes an illustration of a woman's face.

Often "acid indigestion" is distressing to you — and offensive to others. But now there is no excuse for being guilty.

You simply carry your alkaliizer with you — and use it at the first sign of "upset" stomach. Simply take two tiny tablets of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia when out with others. Or — if at home — you can take two teaspoons of liquid Phillips'. Both act the same way.

Relief is usually a matter of seconds. "Gas," nausea, "heartburn," acid breath — all respond quickly. Just make sure you ask for "Phillips'".

Reward of Innocence. Mirth and cheerfulness are but the due reward of innocence of life.—Sir T. Moore.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

FEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to build your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four years of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Notice of Hearing of Final Report and Account

In the Probate Court of Lincoln County State of New Mexico

In the Matter of the Estate of David Poole Earnest, Deceased. No. 425

To Mamie Jones Earnest and Nell Ruth Hefren, and to all unknown heirs of the said decedent, and all unknown persons claiming any lien upon, or right, title, or interest, in or to, the estate of the said decedent, and to whom it may concern:

You, and each of you are hereby notified, and notice is hereby given, that F. Hefren, Administrator of the Estate of David Poole Earnest, deceased, has filed in the above entitled Court his final report and account as such Administrator, and the Court has appointed Monday, the 3rd day of January, 1938, at the hour of 10:30 o'clock a. m., as the hour and day for hearing of objections, if any there be, to the approval and settlement of said final report and account, and the discharge of the said F. D. Hefren as such Administrator, and at the hour on the day named, the Probate Court will proceed to determine the heirship of said decedent, the ownership of his said estate and the interest of each respective claimant thereto and therein and the persons entitled to the distribution thereof.

The name and post office address of the attorney for the Administrator is John E. Hall, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

Witness the honorable Marcial C. St. John, Judge of the said Court, and the seal thereof, the 17th day of Nov., 1937. (Seal) Edward Penfield, Nov. 19, 1937. Clerk. Dec. 10, 1937.

Notice

A message to Committee members, and others cooperating in the National Unemployment census.

The President has approved plans for taking a national census of the unemployed and the partly unemployed. As Administrator, I am going to need your help, and I appeal for your support.

This is a very big job, and to be really valuable this voluntary registration of the unemployed must be honest and accurate as is humanly possible.

The success of this undertaking will depend to a great extent upon the postal employees who will give the report cards and helpful information to those who wish to register.

John D. Bigger
Administrator.

Adobe Items

We are really having lovely weather.

Mr. Lee Pace and sisters, of Colorado passed through Adobe Monday. They had spent a short while with his brother Ben Pace and family of Bingham.

Mr. John Lee Porter and son George were business visitors in Socorro Monday.

Mr. J. T. McNabb has moved in the place E. I. Griffin purchased from B. L. Moore for several months.

Mr. S. I. Pearson is drilling a well on his place.

Mrs. S. I. Pearson's mother, Mrs. Gann left Saturday for Big Springs Texas.

Bingham is giving a dance Thanksgiving Nov. 25 for the benefit of the school piano. Everybody is invited to come and bring some one with them. A quilt is to be raffled off to the lucky number.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Withers were in Carrizozo Monday.

Mrs. Griffin, Lee Ola and Mrs. Moore and children were in Carrizozo Saturday. They visited in the Wilson and Garrison home awhile.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Herron were Adobe callers Sunday.

Road conditions are better than usual. We are glad to see our road in better shape. We hope to see the rest of it paved soon.

TIGHT FITS

between engine parts

That's why mere "fast-flowing" oils get beat by
WINTER OIL-PLATING

How hard is it for any known oil to squirm in amongst scores of close-fitting engine parts? It's hard. Hence all Winter oil ads rightly tell you that even a worn, loosened-up engine needs extra fast oil-flow this season.

Free-flowing Conoco Germ Processed oil holds records for speedy flow in any cold. And yet Conoco asks you earnestly:

WHY BE SATISFIED WITH ANY FREE-FLOW ALONE, WHEN YOU CAN JUST AS EASILY HAVE THE RE-DOUBLED INSURANCE OF AN OIL-PLATED ENGINE?

Only an OIL-PLATED engine is lubricated for every cold start in advance—whole hours and days before any mere free-flowing oil can do one single wiggle!

Germ Process action on every working part creates OIL-PLATING. It becomes a part of all surfaces. It cannot drain down. It stays up without interruption, forever ready to speed your starter and preserve your engine every inch of the way this Winter.

Oil level stays up, too, once your Conoco Mileage Merchant puts in your correct Winter grade of Germ Processed oil.

"I am a local independent merchant. My living depends on you people right here. I want you coming to my place steady. I want to be able to look you in the eye. That's why I've got Conoco Products and Service for you. You'll get mileage that tells you I've got a right to be called Your Mileage Merchant."
