Basketball Game Last Night

Those who missed the basketball game last night missed a rare treat. Corona scored the first goal early in the first quarter and ran up five more points, and the quarter ended with Corona 7—Carrizozo 0.

Billy Bamberger, star center on the Grizzlie's team made a single count off a free shot which started our boys to scoring. At the half the score was Corona 11 Carrizozo 3.

The third quarter told a different story and the Grizzlies brought their score up to 14—Corona 19.

The last quarter was as fast as any mid-season game. Every player played his position like an expert. Manuel Gutierrez was on the court playing his usual good game. Jackie Claunch and Billy Bamberger starred in this game. Bobby Mackey, Babe Walker, Joe Phillips are all coming, forward showing their ability. It looks like this year's team and for several years to come basket ball teams will be successful. The game ended with Corona 19—Grizzlies 18.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds ever to witness a game on the local court was there last night. Sportsmanship was displayed by both teams. Vaden Elliott and C. O. Davis were referees.

Johnson-Richard

Miss Lillian Johnson and Mr. Roy Richard were married in Alamogordo last Saturday evening, with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Boone, formerly of Carrizozo, acting as witnesses to the ceremony. Both parties are well and favorably known. Mr. Richard operates the Richard Feed Store and Mrs. Richard is chief operator at the local telephone office. They are living up-stairs at the Feed Store. Friends extend best wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

School Notes

Book reports are being given this week. All the pupils seem to be very busy preparing theirs. Some of the pupils are giving theirs orally in class which is very interesting.

The pictures we had taken here in the high school building were returned a few days ago. The school got an extra print of each picture taken and they are being placed on the permanent school records along with their finger prints.

Tuesday evening the Home Ec Club held a meeting. Hilda Ann Barnett read a story about Santa Claus, and Lorena Smith read a story on "The Gift of the Magi". After the business of the club was through, nice refreshments were served.

The County Teachers' Convention will be held at Lincoln on Friday. The pupils welcome the holiday, while the teachers look forward to obtaining some valuable teaching suggestions from Dr. James of Silver City, and some of his teaching staff who will give various demonstrations.

The Junior class is working on a play, which they plan to give soon after the holidays. It is a comical; three act play; we hope that the public will enjoy it.

Last Saturday a group of seniors and football players attended High School Day at the New Mexico A. and M. College. A luncheon was given to the seniors afterwards, a football game for all students.

The coach made an order for sweaters and jackets for the letter men of this year's football team, last week.

There was a picture show in the auditorium Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock. It was a good human interest story. The title "The Healer". The proceeds will go to the Athletic Department.

Lincoln County School Library

Few people realize the scope and importance of the work which is being carried on by the Lincoln County School Library located at present in the basement at the Masonic Temple. Under the supervision of Mrs. Ola C. Jones and Mrs. Roselle, Librarian, this work is expanding and when the new building is completed, they will have ample space and facilities for the many projects which the library has undertaken in assisting the rural schools and teachers with their school work. A short visit to the Lincoln County School Library will be very pleasant to the visitor and time well spent.

Coe-Campbell

Mrs. Cherrille W. Coe of Tularosa announces the marriage of her daughter, Mina Evelynne to Mr. Roy Campbell of Albuquerque, N. M. The marriage took place June 1, 1937 in Albuquerque.

Mr. Campbell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell of Brownfield, Texas. He is employed by the Bell Telephone Company in Albuquerque, at which place the couple will be at home after January 2, 1938.

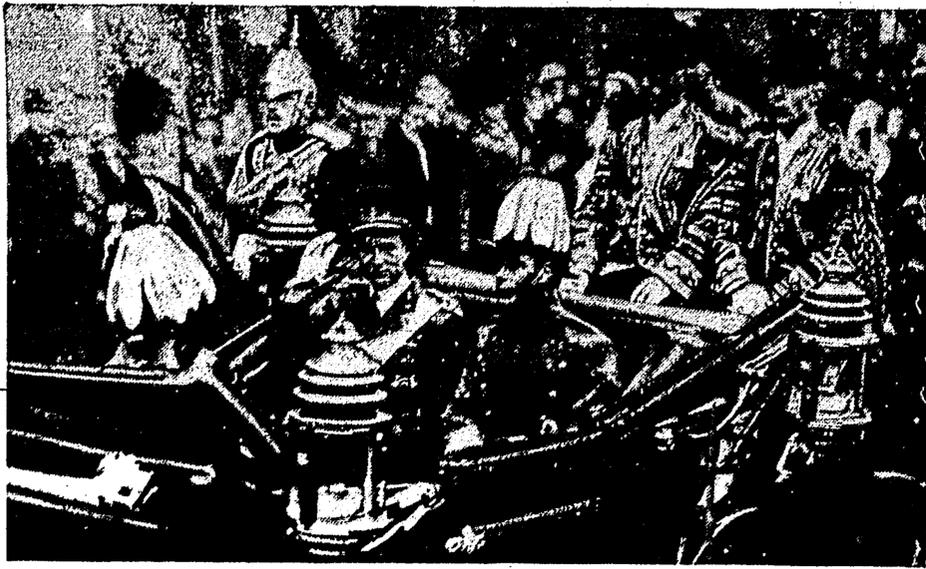

Friends extend good wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

Yesterday and Today

The 1937 Christmas Seal depicting the jovial old town crier is making its appearance in all parts of our community this week. For the thirty-first year Christmas Seals are again being sold throughout the country to raise money to fight against tuberculosis.

We talk a great deal about automobile accidents and carry on valiantly our "safe driving" campaigns - as well we should. Yet these accidents, caused by carelessness, do not take half as many lives as this preventable sickness. And the tragic part is that tuberculosis is still the highest cause of death for our young men and women between 15 and 45 years of age. Certainly we citizens of Carrizozo cannot relax in our efforts. We must stand by our youth, and protect them in every way we can. We all have a chance to help during the holiday season through giving our support to this worthwhile educational campaign started 31 years ago. Let's all buy our share of Christmas Seals, sponsored here by Carrizozo Woman's Club. National Tuberculosis Association 50 W. 50th St. New York.

King Leopold Comes Calling on King George

King Leopold of Belgium, left, and King George of England shown as they drove from Victoria station to Buckingham palace when the Belgian monarch arrived in London recently. The visit was significant in that the Belgian king needs a lasting friendship with Great Britain, France and Germany to bolster the foreign and military policy he pronounced a year ago. This policy he defined as "barring war from our territory."

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

IT'S a pert little room up in the attic with sloping ceilings and low, wide, sunny windows that are a problem to curtain. The lady who's making it over for her high school daughter asks what we would do with the windows and how we would fix over some old furniture she's got to use. She's buying a new rug—what should it be—it can't cost much.

We love to get our fingers on rooms like that! In the first place we'd have lacey white net curtains, very filmy in effect and tied back with bows made of lavender and pale pink chintz. The walls we'd paper in white with a lavender flower design and the furniture could be painted in the palest of pink. The window curtain lace net would be our choice for the bedspread, also

A Room for a High School Daughter.

Made very filmy looking. Add pillow covers and cushions of the chintz used for the tie-backs. A chair cover or dressing table skirt of this same chintz. Then a rug in light gray hooked or braided maybe, or one of those shaggy cotton rugs.

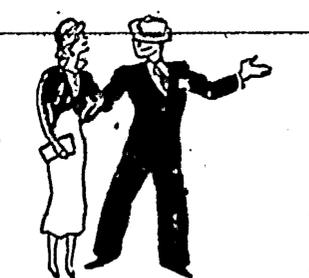

Or here would be another idea—have white dotted swiss curtains, powder-blue walls, white enamel furniture, red and white checked spread and an oval blue braided rug.

Sincere and Unpretentious.

We have a qualm or two about suggesting the new adaptations of Shaker furniture for use in a worldly modern setting. Because we're quite sure that those sincere and unpretentious Shakers who evolved it wouldn't like the idea a bit. But we're equally sure that modern home owners will take to Shaker furniture.

So we're torn between duty and conscience. But not torn apart, you might say, because here today we're suggesting it for the consideration of those who're just now settling down to the question of what new furniture to buy for additions and replacements.

For it is paradoxical that Shaker furniture should be such a natural

New Adaptation of Shaker Furniture for Use by Worldly Moderns.

In the contemporary scene. But the fact is that the Shakers had the idea of functionalism in furniture long before the moderns ever thought of it. The Shaker furniture developed as an expression of their religion, which taught them that ornament was sin but that every piece of work should be as perfect as they were capable of making it and should be devoted to a practical purpose.

The results were pieces of furniture consummate in their simplicity, but of exceptional workmanship and finish. Never adorned by so much as a scroll or a flourish and always adhering strictly to the purpose for which it was made, this furniture achieved in its very plainness a beauty of line and an honesty of purpose that modern furniture often loses by its over-effort to achieve those very qualities.

You'll be delighted with its blonde finish, its functional qualities, its severe, yet intrinsically fine lines. Used against settings as modern as you like—you'll find it exciting, naively sophisticated. Or else use it with provincial decorations and see what a lift it has, how different from the peasant and colonial things you've been seeing all your life.

Many of the Shaker pieces have innumerable little drawers and compartments, and the pulls on these, though simple, acquire a delightful pattern by their repetition.

Scheme for Modern Room

An unusual and attractive living room has a deep ornamental frieze of narrow stripes done in two tones of French gray. The cornice above is finished in aluminum leaf, while the baseboard at the foot of the pale yellow wall is black-enameled. The room contains furniture painted gray which is upholstered in chartreuse and brown-coated pieces that are covered in cinnamon-colored fabric.

MORE SHRIMP IS BEING CONSUMED

Improvement in Their Quality Is Given as Reason.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ACCORDING to the seafood statistical bureau, the people of this country ate several million more shrimp during the last year than they did during the previous five years. The bureau gives as the reason for this, improvement in the quality which has resulted since the Department of Agriculture has provided an organization for the inspection of the sanitary methods of harvesting and canning this popular shellfish. You have probably noticed the improvement in flavor in the shrimp which you have purchased in canned form. There is an absence of that taste which I can only describe as "wooly" and which once was common.

Of course, another reason for the increase in the use of shrimp, although it is not mentioned by the statisticians, is the fact that shrimp are among the popular appetizers served with cocktails. There certainly have been millions of shrimps impaled on toothpicks for ducking in savory sauces. With slices of raw carrots and dill pickles, flowerets of raw cauliflower, sometimes supplemented by cucumber fingers or radishes, shrimps add contrast in texture and color when arranged around a bowl of sauce on a large glass plate. Dunking is popular in its new form.

There are many ways in which shrimps can be put to use by the business woman housekeeper in her never-ending search for a quickly prepared main dish for the quick meal. Creamed or scalloped with a Newberg sauce, made into croquettes or cutlets, or in the ever popular salad, shrimps do their bit quickly and well.

Scalloped Shrimps.

- 1/4 cup butter
 - 3 cups soft bread crumbs
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 teaspoon paprika
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - Pepper
 - 2 cups cooked or canned shrimp
- Melt butter, stir in bread crumbs and seasonings. Arrange this mixture in alternate layers with shrimp in a greased baking dish. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit), until crumbs are brown.

Shrimp Croquettes.

- 2 cans shrimp
 - 1 tablespoon tomato paste
 - 1/4 cup boiled rice
 - 2 hard-cooked eggs
 - 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - Cayenne pepper
 - 1/4 teaspoon mustard
 - 1/2 cup top milk
- Grind shrimps very fine. Mix with tomato paste, rice, finely chopped eggs, butter and seasonings with shrimps. Stir in milk. Mold into croquettes, dip in bread crumbs, egg, and then crumbs again and fry in deep hot fat (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until golden brown. Drain on soft paper.

Shrimps With Bacon.

- 1 pound shrimp
 - Pepper
 - Sliced bacon
 - 6 slices toast
 - 3 to 4 pickles
- Season the shrimp with pepper. Fasten four or five shrimps together with toothpicks and wrap in bacon. Broil about five minutes under a hot flame. Serve on squares of hot buttered toast and garnish with thin slices of sour or sweet pickle. Cucumbers marinated with French dressing may be used instead of the pickle.

SOME FAVORITES

- Sanshine Salad.
 - 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
 - 1/2 cup cold water
 - 2 1/2 cups boiling water
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1 1/4 cups shredded carrots
- Soak gelatin five minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water and add sugar and salt. When cool, add lemon juice and carrots. Turn into a mold and chill. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Sweet Potatoes Imperial.

- 6 or 8 sweet potatoes
 - Butter
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup Jamaica rum
- Boil sweet potatoes; cool; peel and slice. Brown lightly in butter in a frying pan. Place in chafing dish, sprinkle with sugar, add one-fourth cup of butter and mix lightly. When thoroughly hot pour in rum, set on fire and baste with the syrup and the flaming rum.

Apple Dumplings.

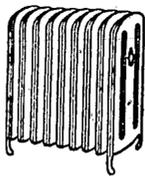

- (Steamed or Baked)
 - Apples
 - Rich biscuit dough
 - Sugar
 - Cinnamon
 - Butter
- Pare, halve and core the apples. Divide the dough into six parts, roll each piece until large enough to cover the half apple. Place the apple on the crust and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Fold the crust over, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until the apples are soft; or steam in a closely covered steamer thirty or forty minutes.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

FREQUENTLY I get complaints from home-owners about failure of steam or hot water heating systems to keep radiators completely hot.

This condition is often due to air being in the coils of the radiator. This air must be released before the coils can fill with steam. This usually is simple, being remedied by automatic air valves. If your radiator has such valves and the radiators remain air-bound, unscrew the little plug at the top of the valve, tightening the plug again when all the air escapes from the valves. Putting the vent valves for a few hours in a container of kerosene also helps to eliminate the air.

However, if neither of these operations corrects the trouble—or should the coils fill with water—it would be a good policy to have an expert check the valves and remedy the difficulty.

It is possible also for hot water radiators to become air-choked. To overcome this, open the air valves once in awhile with a valve key and leave them open until water starts flowing from them. Be sure to have something handy in which to catch the water when the valves are opened.

A Little Learning Is a Wonderful Thing

Many stories, some true, some—well, not quite so true, are told about the remarks of schoolboys. A well-known headmaster vouches for the accuracy of this one.

A certain twelve-year-old was about to be caned for some trivial offense. The headmaster asked him how he preferred to receive his punishment.

"Well, sir," said the boy quickly, "if you please, I'd like it like the Greek style of penmanship."

"What on earth do you mean?" asked the master.

"Please, sir, the upstrokes heavy and the downstrokes light."

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon trip is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wife who never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three critical years of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Eye-pain may be attacking kidneys, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Heart Ailments and Childbirth Studied by a New Method

"Scanography" Devised by a Dallas Physician

Dallas, Texas.—Better diagnosis of heart disorders is promised by "scanography," a new kind of X-ray photography, just presented to the medical profession by Robert H. Millwee, Dallas physician.

It enables scientists to study the ebbing and flowing of the blood in the heart. For the first time also it makes possible undistorted photographs of all bony structures within the human body.

Childbirth and motherhood should be made safer. For scanography permits the physician to determine accurately the dimensions of the mother's pelvic bones and the exact size of the head of the baby that is to be born.

The full name of this new tool of diagnostic medicine is "slit scanography X-ray photography."

Distortion Is Avoided.
Basic feat of the new Millwee method is to take clear and undistorted X-ray photographs of the human body and its various parts. To the layman perhaps the best way to explain the value of the new technique is to recall that in ordinary photography, when one is photographing a high building, it is necessary to adjust the camera so that in the resulting picture the building will not appear to be falling away or toward the viewer of the picture. Just "shooting" the picture produces the distortion that is so well known.

Dr. Millwee's scanograph method achieves the same purpose in X-ray photography where distortion of size in the various parts of the picture may mean, and has meant on occasions, a wrong diagnosis.

In scanograph photography, Dr. Millwee explained, the part of the body to be pictured is covered with a lead shield containing a series of slits. The X-ray tube moves across this series of slits and thus takes a series of long narrow pictures, one after the other on the X-ray negative. By varying the speed of movement of the X-ray tube, exposures in adjacent sections are taken several seconds apart as desired.

First Aid Kits May Be Harmful Unless Use Is Supervised

Chicago.—Warning that unsupervised use of first-aid kits in industrial plants may do more harm than good was issued by Dr. M. N. Newquist of Chicago at the meeting here of the American College of Surgeons. He also declared that industrial organizations should, as far as possible, use hospitals already established in their communities for treatment of injuries to employees, rather than set up their own hospitals within the industrial plant.

"The use of first-aid kits in extremely decentralized industrial operations may be necessary," he said, "but their unsupervised use in industrial establishments as a whole should not be permitted."

"Fewer, and more centralized, first-aid stations or dispensaries are desirable in order to insure adequate treatment and records."

"Industrialists will find that in the long run they can obtain more efficient hospital service at less cost from organizations whose sole purpose is to conduct hospitals than they could by establishing their own hospitals."

New Evolution Theory Offered by Englishman

Washington.—Evolution by internal urges of various organs, as determined by the animal's use or disuse of them, is put forth in place of the Darwinian idea of natural selection and the Mendelian concept of genes or hereditary units, by Prof. W. P. Pycraft, well-known English zoologist, in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

Professor Pycraft's theory is that the body molds itself by diverting food, and hence growth, to those organs which are most stimulated in its ordinary activities. Consequently these organs are more developed than those which are less stimulated.

Orange Peel Oil

Rio de Janeiro.—Orange peels discarded by orange-juice dealers are being used for the purpose of extracting oil. Although the industry is only in the experimental stage here, operations have produced sufficient orange oil for export.

Turn Lever and Find Out How Long You Are Going to Live

Many Other Questions Answered by a Machine

By JANE STAFFORD
New York.—How long are you probably going to live? How does a cut finger heal? What happens when it gets infected? Where is that sacro-iliac joint that got out of whack and doubled you up with backache the other day? What is the scientifically approved way of brushing the teeth?

The answers to these and hundreds of other questions everyone has about the human body and its needs appear in a new exhibit at the New York Museum of Science and Industry.

The exhibit, planned so that visitors can push buttons and pull levers and then watch the wheels go around, tells the "Story of Man." The material was constructed abroad for the Oberlander Trust and was loaned to the museum here for its first showing in America.

Most interesting, probably, is the exhibit which enables visitors to predict their own length of life. You turn a lever until your present age and your sex show on two dials. Then you turn the lever again and a third dial tells the age to which you will probably live, based on life expectation figures.

Learn About Your Blood.
Another unusual exhibit lets the visitor do a little blood mixing of his own and understand that complicated matter of the blood groups, so essential in blood transfusions. You can see for yourself how the blood serum and blood cells mix if the blood samples are from compatible groups, and how the cells clump dangerously together if serum from blood of an incompatible group is added.

A fearsome model that looks like a Halloween nightmare is the man of muscle and bone—a skeleton with red strips representing the muscles of the body. Even more peculiar, looking, in fact, like an electrical man, is the figure that is half bony skeleton and half yellow wires. This model shows all the nerves on half the body.

Beginning with a model, enlarged 200 times, of the tiny egg from which human life starts, the exhibit shows the development of the body and all its organs and how they tick.

Myths About Eagle Are Severely Shaken by Investigation

Washington.—Impartial scientific investigations of real live bald eagles deflate those birds quite a bit. Not that our eagle is debunked, exactly—but we learn that a lot of things we knew about the eagle consisted of "facts that weren't so."

Results of long study of eagles, and compilation of the studies of other scientists, are presented in a new Smithsonian Institution book, written by Arthur Cleveland Bent of Taunton, Mass.

His Preying Methods.
True, the bald eagle is a bird of prey. But he is also not fond of the hard work involved in preying, and lives mostly on fish cast ashore dying or dead, or taken away from a smaller fish-catching hawk, the osprey. He can do his own fishing, but not so cleverly as the osprey, so he prefers to rob him.

When fish are scantily available, as in winter, the eagle does turn to true bird-of-prey tactics. He takes any bird or mammal that he can handle, and that runs up as big as Canada goose. Despite his size, he is an athlete in the air, often turning upside down and diving under his victim to strike from beneath.

He does not build his home on a cliff nearly as often as on top of a tall tree, even in the Rockies. And there are far more bald eagles in Florida, least cliffy of states, than anywhere else in the Union. Eagles have even been known to build their nests right at ground level.

And when a human intruder comes, says Mr. Bent, the bald eagle does not defend his nest. He just plain vacates.

Porch Vine Is Being Used in Fight Against Erosion

Washington.—Kudzu, more familiarly known through the South as "porch vine," has been put to work to literally "rope down" the soil against erosion.

Agriculture department soil conservation experts report that "porch vine" forms an ideal soil binder, for it rapidly produces a dense growth whose runners bind the topsoil in place, thus stopping the inroads of the weather on the countryside. Runners 60 to 70 feet long, with new roots every few feet at the nodes, characterize the vine, which is also a legume, thus serving to fertilize the soil at the same time.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

How to Be Fair.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—Every time the heirs to an undivided estate start litigating, I think of a decision which had in it more wisdom, more common sense and more fairness than even King Solomon's inspired justice.

I can't remember whether 'twas a ruler upon the throne or a judge upon the bench who handed down this ruling. But two brothers fell out over a proper division of their father's possessions. Accordingly, they carried the dispute to a higher court of the land.

So his majesty, or his worship, or his honor, as the case may have been, said:

Irvin S. Cobb

"Let the older brother apportion the property into what he regards as two equal shares—and then let the younger brother have first choice of the shares."

But, of course, the lawyers couldn't have favored the plan. It was too beautifully simple to suit any lawyer in any age. The American Bar association would just naturally despise it.

Cemetery Salesmen.
I RECEIVED a letter from one of our plushiest cemeteries. We have some of the plushiest cemeteries on earth; it's a positive pleasure to be dead out here.

I was urged to invest in a highly desirable lot, for only a few thousand smackers; or buy a perfectly lovely crypt—slightly more expensive, but most luxurious.

Through some private whim or plique, I failed to answer this tempting communication. Today I received an appealing follow-up letter. I gather that, if I neglect this splendid opportunity, I'll live to regret it. Or maybe I won't.

Such thoughtful attention merits response. I'm replying as follows: "Dear gents: Space in a graveyard is the last thing I shall require. When that time comes, somebody else will do the shopping. Trusting these few lines may find you the same, yours gratefully."

But if a representative calls in person—as he will—I'm a gone goaling. Those slick talkers always do get me. You just ought to see my collection of oil stocks. Now, there's something that does need burying.

Making Juleps.
SOME disputatious soul seeks to reopen the ancient debate over the proper recipe for mint julep. I decline the invitation. Since the Dred Scot decision nothing has stirred up as much bitter controversy south of the Ohio river.

North of the Ohio river doesn't count. The Yankee conception of a julep is calculated to make a host of sleeping Kentucky brigadiers rise up from their respective Bourbon casks and start giving the rebel hiss.

Naturally, the only perfect julep is the Paducah julep. Just drop in next summer and sample the real product on its native heath—not at a saloon, where the bartender is likely to have heretical ideas, such as using preserved fruits and even putting the sugar syrup in first, which amounts to downright crime—but in the private home.

Western Superiority.
IN BORNEO, tigers slay such an incredible host of natives that the yearly mortality is proportionately almost one-tenth as great as the average number of persons who will be wiped out in traffic fatalities on American highways during any given 12 months.

In India, owing to the refusal of those benighted Hindus to destroy any living creature, 20,000 inhabitants annually are killed by venomous serpents, whereas, in this country, in 1930, we spent only 15 billions for crime, or 18 times as much as we spent on national defense, yet managed to let many poisonous human snakes go free to build up murder statistics.

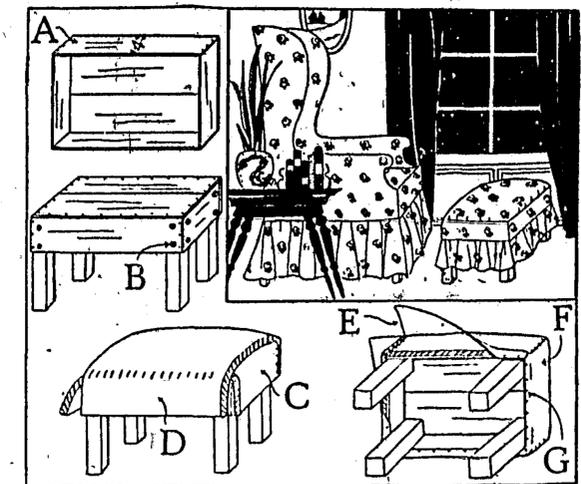

In Japan, geisha girls are governmentally licensed and protected, which is indeed an affront to the principles of an enlightened people who patronize so-called world's fairs that are dependent on unabashed nudity for popular favor, and shows dependent on foul lines and nasty situations.

500 Women at Science Meet
Not a single man among the 500 scientists at a conference in Moscow, Russia. All the speakers as well as all the members of association were women. One was V. P. Lebedeva, a professor of medicine. Another, Professor M. L. Rokhina, stated that the number of women students in the universities had grown from 16,700 in 1914 to 183,000. Half the total number of doctors in Russia are women. Most of the women "scientists" are found in—medicine, chemistry and biology.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Make This Attractive Ottoman.

GET a wooden box from the grocer. It should be about as long as the width of the chair with which the ottoman is to be used. The depth of the sides should be four inches as shown here at A.

The legs should be made of two by two's or you may have a set of nicely turned legs from an old table or other piece of furniture that may be cut down to the right length. Fasten in place with long screws through the corners of the box as shown here at B.

About half a bat of cotton will be needed. Put five or six layers of the cotton on the top, cutting the first layer about four inches smaller all around than the top of the box. Place it in the center. Cut the next layer a little bigger and the others still bigger until the last one is the same size as the top. Now, cut a layer of cotton to go over the top and down over the ends as at C and another to go over the top and down the sides as at D.

Cut a piece of heavy muslin to fasten tightly over the cotton. Cut the corners of the muslin as at E. Sew with heavy thread as at F and then tack as at G.

To make the cover, stretch the top tightly over the muslin and sew it along the sides through the muslin, then make a straight four-inch band to go all around and add the ruffle to it.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; restoring and upholstering chairs, couches; making curtains for every type of room and purpose. Making lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 2110 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Illinois.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Preserving Patent Leather.—The life of patent leather may be prolonged by rubbing it occasionally with glycerine applied with a clean cloth.

Brighter Glass.—All glass bowls and tumblers should be washed in warm soapy water and then in clear water to which a little vinegar has been added.

Removing Tar Stains.—Tar stains can be removed from carpets by spreading a thick paste of turpentine and fuller's earth over the affected spot. Leave on for several hours, then brush off.

Hot Luncheon Sandwiches.—Spread bread lightly with butter, add a slice of cheese, a slice of tomato and one or two half slices of bacon. Place on a pan in a hot oven, three to four inches beneath the broiler heat and cook until the bacon is done to taste and the cheese melted.

Pudding From Stale Bread.—Rub the stale bread into crumbs and then soak a breakfast cupful of them in half a pint of milk. Mix in one ounce of sugar, one ounce of cocoa powder, a beaten egg and a few drops of vanilla. Bake in a buttered dish until set.

Convenient Table.—A knee-high small kitchen working table, preferably one that washes off easily is a treasure to the housewife. Such a table encourages her to sit down to peel potatoes, scrape carrots or do any of the little things that she usually does standing by the kitchen table.

A he-man is recognized by the fact that he doesn't talk about it. He simply is one.

It is the premeditated apologies that are the most painful for both. Many who love the sea wish no other contact with it except through the eye.

Witty Dr. Holmes
Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, the famous essayist, author and physician, father of the late Justice, met a man who had devoted himself to lecturing throughout New England, without much ability for the task. In other words, he was much of a bore. "What are you about now?" asked Dr. Holmes. The answer was, "Oh, lecturing as usual. I speak at Dedham this evening." "Good," said Holmes, "I'm delighted to hear it. I never liked those Dedham people."

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements; because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

Office of Senator Chavez

Representatives of the Advisory Board set up under the Taylor Grazing Act in New Mexico met in Washington with the Director of the Division of Grazing and discussed problems affecting the administration of the Act and the livestock industry. Tuesday evening the members of the Congressional Delegation were guests of the representatives of the Board. Those representing the various districts were as follows: B. P. Hovey, Cabezon; Floyd Lee, San Mateo; August Seis, Albuquerque; James Hubbell, Datil; A. D. Brownfield, Florida; Walter McGrath, Silver City; T. A. Spencer, Carrizozo; William Gallacher, Carrizozo; O. M. Lee, Alamogordo; Malcolm McGregor, El Paso, Texas; Lon Merchant, Capitán; Hall A. Hamill, Hope.

The Farm Bill continues to hold the attention of both houses of Congress. Senator Chavez feels that if the bill, under its present form, is enacted into law cotton production will be reduced in New Mexico from 139,000 bales to approximately 77,000 on the basis of the formula established by the bill.

Senators and Congressmen representing southwestern cotton producing districts (irrigation) at an informal dinner Monday with Senator McAdoo of California, outlined plans for opposing that part of proposed farm legislation which is detrimental to the cotton producing districts of their respective states. Discussion were resumed again on Friday, at which time a tentative amendment to the Bill was agreed upon. It is felt that a concerted and determined effort will have to be made if their efforts are to be successful. The success of the Dairy Bloc in the lower House, in amending the Jones Farm Bill, in order to protect the dairying industry of the Middle West, has encouraged the irrigation cotton group.

A bombshell was thrown into the laps of Congress by the message of the Executive suggesting a curtailment of Federal Road Building Funds. Senator Chavez labelled the proposal as false economy. "I am determined," he said, "to resist such efforts to the utmost."

Senator Chavez was greatly relieved when advised that news emanating from Treasury Department circles indicates that the President, by proclamation, will continue the domestic silver purchasing program in its present form. Senator Chavez fears that if the program is allowed to discontinue on December 31st, it will result in the closing of every silver mine in New Mexico as well as those of the entire country.

Bickering and ruffled feelings of various officials and affected persons involved in the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy situation and charges of politics do not worry Senator Chavez. From Washington he announced, "who gets the blame for the present situation is immaterial. Who gets credit for solving the situation is unimportant (the press will probably settle it to their own satisfaction, anyway). What is of vital importance is that there should be a state-wide appreciation by all interests that the loss of their homes by thousands of affected farmers in the Middle Rio Grande Valley presents a grave social and economic crisis which merits the study and serious consideration of every World's Busiest Street?

JUST LOOK at that traffic roaring by! Yes, sir, that's New York's famous Fifth Avenue, looking toward 42nd Street. And the lady in the stylish white shirtwaist and the snappy little straw skimmer had better be careful when she gets to the corner because you know how these horseless carriage drivers swing around the turns. With the national automobile show approaching, Consumers Information dug out this picture, taken in 1907, to show what a difference 30 years can make. The picture below shows Fifth Avenue as it is today. Advertising which created the demand, and research which perfected the product, are credited with changing the picture from that of 1907, when only a few thousand cars were on the country's roads, to that of today, with almost 30,000,000. The few small manufacturers of 30 years ago advertised to sell their primitive cars, which cost around $3,000 for a "medium-priced" model. They created a bigger demand than they could fill, and so bigger factories, increased employment, and constantly better automobiles resulted. And today we can buy an infinitely superior car for about one-fifth of the price, while half a million men are directly employed in the industry, compared to a few thousand at the time this picture was taken.

Car License Sales To Reach New High Mark

Santa Fe, Dec. 1.— Diego Salazar, motor vehicle commissioner, opened sale today of 1938 automobile and truck licenses with the expectation that total sales would reach 100,000 passenger car plates and 30,000 truck plates. Salazar said that sale of the plates started today throughout the state. Licenses, he said, would be distributed in numerical order and remittance of fees would be made to his office daily. Approximately 90,000 passenger car plates were sold in 1937.

PLANS A BUILDING BOOM

President Offers Program to Congress . . . Revision of Taxes Not Likely Before January Session

Japan is pushing her conquest of China not only in the Yangtze valley but also, and especially, in the northern provinces. Here is seen a Japanese tank unit rumbling along the road to Taiyuan.

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Building Boom Wanted

REVISION of the existing housing law in order to facilitate a building boom was asked by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress. He said such legislation would ease the flow of credit and open great reservoirs of idle capital to fight the business slump. The responsibility for the success of such a program he placed squarely on labor and industry.

Specifically, the President recommended changes in the housing act which would:

1. Reduce from 5 1/2 per cent to 5 per cent the interest and service charges permitted by the Federal Housing Administration on loans made by private institutions.
2. Authorize the housing administrator to fix the mortgage insurance premium charge as low as 1/2 of 1 per cent on the diminishing balance of the insured mortgage instead of on the original face amount, and to 1/4 of 1 per cent on the diminishing balance of an insured mortgage where the estimated value of the property does not exceed $5,000 and where the mortgage is insured prior to July 1, 1933.
3. Increase the insurable limit from 60 to 80 per cent in cases where the appraised value of the property does not exceed $5,000.
4. Facilitate the construction and financing of groups of houses for rent, or for rent with options to purchase, through blanket mortgages.
5. Clarify and simplify provisions for the construction of large scale rental properties through facilitating their financing.
6. Grant national mortgage associations "explicit authority to make loans on large-scale properties that are subject to special regulation by the federal housing administrator.
7. Remove the July 1, 1933, limitation on the $2,000,000,000 permitted to be outstanding in mortgages, with congress eventually limiting the insurance of mortgages prior to the beginning of construction of individual projects.
8. Permit insurance for repair and modernization loans as provided previous to April 1 of this year when this provision of the housing act expired.

President Goes Fishing

HAVING put the tax and housing problems up to congress, President Roosevelt left for Miami, Fla., where he embarked on a fishing cruise. Accompanying him was Assistant Attorney General R. H. Jackson, and the two discussed plans for legislation that would let the government proceed against the "bad" trusts without injuring those that are considered "good."

No Time for Tax Revision

"THERE is no use kidding the country," said Senator Barkley, majority leader of the senate, as he gave out the sad news that

It would be impossible to formulate and pass a tax revision bill in the brief time remaining to the extraordinary session of congress. The senator had just been conferring with the President, and his statement dashed the hopes of those who believe alling business is in dire need of such assistance as revision or repeal of the tax on undivided corporate surpluses and capital gains. Mr. Roosevelt had said he was in favor of tax revision as soon as congress was ready for it. But such legislation must originate in the house, and the subcommittee of the ways and means committee that has been studying the subject had not yet reported. So it appeared almost certain that action must be postponed until the regular session which starts in January.

This was highly displeasing to a large number of congressmen, and Representative Celler of New York called together some 60 of them to consider the possibility of emergency action. "Business can't wait," said Celler.

Farm Bill Reported

MARVIN JONES of Texas, chairman of the house agricultural committee, submitted the house's farm bill, together with a majority report defending the measure and calling for speedy enactment so that the rise of mounting crop surpluses which are depressing market prices may be offset.

The house bill is less drastic than the senate version, but it was denounced vigorously in a minority report which declared it was "un-constitutional, unound, un-American," likely to "work to the detriment of American agriculture," and threatening to "dislocate" foreign and domestic markets.

Both house and senate bills, it was predicted, would be modified because of the President's implied threat to veto the legislation unless it was put on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. He insisted the farm bill must not interfere with his plans to balance the budget.

After French Throne

A LARM of the French government over the plotting of the Cagouards or "hooded ones" that led to the arrest of many rightists and the raiding of hidden stores of weapons and ammunition was far from baseless. Evidently there was a real conspiracy to overthrow the republic and set up a dictatorship and eventually a restored monarchy. The government announced, however, that the plot had been wrecked.

From his place of exile in Belgium the Duc de Guise, pretender to the throne of France, issued a manifesto announcing he had decided to try to regain the throne. "Have the moral courage not to abdicate before present difficulties," the manifesto appealed to Frenchmen. "Do not permit, in a moment of abandon, dictatorship of any kind to impose itself.

"Certain of my ability to assure your happiness, I have decided to reconquer the throne of my fathers. France then again will reassume her mission in the world and again will find peace, unity and prosperity through a union of the people with a titular defender-king."

Vinson to Be Judge

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT sent to the senate the nomination of Representative Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky to fill a vacancy in the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia. The post carries a salary of $10,000 a year, the same as paid a representative, but the appointment is for life and carries retirement privileges. Mr. Vinson, who has been an outstanding tax expert of the house, is forty-seven years old and serving his seventh term. His home is Ashland, Ky. The President also nominated Associate Justice D. Lawrence Croner of Virginia to be chief justice of the court, creating another vacancy. Croner will be succeeded by Henry White Edgerton of New York, whose nomination also went to the senate.

Historic Hoaxes

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A Bogus Declaration

ONE day in 1930 newspaper headlines in Toronto, Canada, carried this startling declaration: "Draft of Declaration of Independence Signed by Penn, Instead of Jefferson, Is Fabulous Art Treasure Now Here." The story under those headlines stated that Mrs. Ellen Field of Stoke Poges, England, last of the lineal descendants of William Penn, had on her death-bed ordered certain fabulous heirlooms returned to America.

Among the "treasures" was a faded and blotted parchment, said to be the original draft of America's most famous document and presumably written by John Penn, first governor of Pennsylvania. One word in that headline was quite correct—"fabulous."

It was pronounced that by experts who pointed out that John Penn could not have been the author of the Declaration for the very good reason that he was a Tory and had served a term in jail for his pro-British sympathies. Moreover, the minutes of the Continental congress show that Franklin, Adams and Jefferson were members of the committee appointed to draw up the Declaration and it is a matter of historical record that Jefferson actually wrote it.

The original manuscript has disappeared (the document preserved in Washington is an engrossed copy). It was probably destroyed because it was a dangerous document to have around when the outcome of the Revolution was still in doubt. Further examination of the Toronto parchment showed that the text of it may have been a contemporary copy of the original draft. But the signatures were clearly forgeries. So the forger who hoped, perhaps, to sell his "treasure" for a large sum to the United States government was fooled.

The First Bathtub

LATE in 1917 Henry L. Mencken, war days, as he later declared, wrote a story for the New York Evening Mail. It stated that the first American bathtub was installed on December 20, 1842, by Adam Thompson in his home in Cincinnati where he proudly displayed it to his friends at a party for men and all the guests took baths. When the news of this got about, physicians denounced the bathtub as a menace to public health. In Boston a city ordinance prohibited its use except upon medical advice. Virginia levied a $30 tax on each bathtub installation and the Philadelphia city council tried to pass an ordinance prohibiting its use between November and May, etc., etc.

All of this was written in a spirit of "good clean fun." Then, to his surprise, Mencken discovered that his "spoofing" had been taken seriously. Other writers began using the "facts" in his story. Medical men cited them as proof of the progress of public hygiene. They even appeared in standard reference works.

Finally in 1926 Mencken wrote an article which was syndicated to 30 newspapers in all parts of the country, confessing the hoax. It appeared in his sixth series of "Prejudices" under the head of "The American Public Will Swallow Anything." But despite all his efforts to prove the story a fake, it still bobs up regularly and his "facts" about the first bathtub are solemnly reprinted as an authentic item of American social history!

"Barberous Jokes"

SOON after the bobbed hair fad had spread to Germany, a number of prominent citizens of Leipzig were surprised one day to receive a notice, written in the florid official German style. It said that the women of their household must pay their "bobbed hair tax" at once. There was a rush to the city hall where clerks, puzzled at first by the descent upon them, finally convinced a group of anxious women that they had been the victims of a practical joker.

Just as puzzled, a few years later, was the secretary of the barbers' union in Chicago when he read in the papers that his union had instructed him to write a letter to Rudolph Valentino, asking him to shave off a beard which he had grown for his role in a movie. According to the story, the barbers' union had passed a resolution pro the beard, on the ground that it would have a tendency to influence many young men who patterned themselves after him, to wear such facial ornaments. If they did that, it would ruin the barber business and they wanted the screen idol to "cease and desist."

After the first story had been printed, the secretary denied that he had received any such instructions. He knew nothing about the resolutions nor did he know how the story originated. Neither did anyone else. But some people shrewdly suspected that it might have been started by Harry Reichenbach, the famous press agent, who was doing publicity for Valentino at the time and who just happened to be in Chicago when the story first appeared.

Bewitching Lace on Gala Nights

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TO GIVE the glamour that every woman covets for gala nights, the answer throughout the centuries has been lace. And so it is to this very day and generation. Easily to be understood, therefore, is the fact of lace being made a theme triumphant throughout current Paris couture showings as well as in the fashion pageantry so dramatically presented nowadays by leading style creators in our own country.

A most significant contemporary event that has much to do with the present enthusiasm for lace was the grand lace ball given in Chicago this fall. Not only did this delightful occasion usher in the winter social season with real fanfare and much excitement, but the lovely fashions there presented set the pace for a "lace season."

Three models that were outstanding in this style-registering lace promenade are pictured herewith, with the thought in mind that whether you can afford to buy original models or whether perforce you needs must make your own clothes, the fact of having the best set before you proves helpful and inspirational. The woman with limited budget has every opportunity to look beautifully gowned these days (no matter how formal the function to which she may be invited) at comparatively little cost.

The present model that voices an insistent call for formal gowns is bringing out a number of distinctly new and charming silhouettes, not the least important of which is the one with smoothly molded front lines and fullness at the back. The beautiful dress to the right in the illustration interprets the idea with tiny ruffles starting from a deep decolletage and sweeping down fan-shape to a widened hemline. The decolletage at front is heart-shaped. The trimming features are all centered at the back with a snubbow of the lace to give added grace. The lace is of filmy cobweb texture in one of the newest colors, a deep blue violet shade. The gown would be handsome done in black chantilly.

The season started with glitter and as time goes on the glitter-gleam-sparkle idea is gaining in momentum. The evening dress of silver lame lace on a white ground (center figure) does justice to the present scintillating mode. The gown is simply cut with a full skirt. The jacket of the same silver lace is detailed smartly to the nth degree with soft flaring cuffs at the elbow, and a little stiffened standup collar, plus bow. The jacket does not close completely so as to reveal the decolletage gown underneath.

The two-piece dinner gown to the left, created by Norman Hartnell, London dress designer, is made of white starched lace in an interesting manner which shows up effectively over the slip of black satin. The high neckline in front contrasts a decolletage back which, by the way, is a silhouette much featured this season. What fullness there is centers at the peplum-back of the blouse and the slight train. A wide girdle of rhinestones and brilliants completes the costume.

GAY PLAID ACCENT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

If you are even a little bit handy with a needle you'll find it no trouble at all to make up the hat, scarf and pocketbook shown in this photograph. It is not difficult to secure patterns of this type. Make this attractive accessory ensemble of the new goodlooking soft-finished cotton fabric woven with a twill that looks and feels like wool. You can get it in authentic Scotch tartan plaids and being sanforized-shrunk this fabric is it tubs without protest. Such a gay bonnet and matching gadgets would look particularly well with a dark frock—one of the new tailored cottons which can be made so successfully at home. In any event they will add life and character to the neutral tone of a smart camel's hair coat as you see in the picture.

FAVOR HEAD VEILS FOR EVENING WEAR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A veil with your hat in the strictest sense is now new, although we must admit the ingenious ways they are being draped and flung picturesquely and nonchalantly about is worth telling about. However, that which is news, exciting news, is the veils sans hat which socialites are wearing as romantically as any senora or senorita ever draped a mantilla head and shoulder deep. It is a charming fashion that has come to us this season, that of a decorative veil caught with flower or ornament thrown over a beautifully coiffed head. There is romance and allure in this new evening headdress, especially when the veil is filmy and sparkles with glittering sequins.

Use Ancient Damascening in Chic Modern Compacts

Damascening, the ancient art of gold-wire inlay in metal, has found its way through reproduction in modern compacts. The art is traceable as far back as 490 B. C., and its origination is attributed to metal workers of ancient Damascus. Here, in order to cover streaks showing in the famous Damascus steel, workers developed the art of inlaying gold or silver wire into designs engraved upon the steel. The art has made museum pieces of decorated metalware throughout the centuries, and Damascene workers of ancient times competed for honors and acclaim in their fields.

Damascene compacts have simulated designs in a great variety, and many are taken from rare prints of ancient Damascene masterpieces.

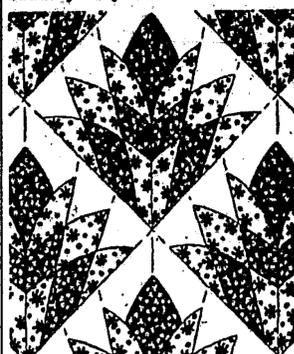

Knit Blouses Designed to Look Like Soft Woolens

Knit blouses are designed to look like soft wool and woolens are made to appear like handknit this season, so those who shun handknits can achieve the same effect with soft, lightweight woolens.

Twix sweaters are shown particularly for young girls and are designed with the two parts matching or with contrasting colors for the yoke and sleeves.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Pumpkin Custard a Real Treat.

TREAT the family to a pumpkin custard as a change from the usual pie. Canned pumpkin is suggested because it is already cooked, mashed and ready to use, which saves considerable time and energy. Bake the custard in a basin, not too large or too deep. A good size would be one which holds a quart.

When it comes time to serve the custard, unmold it onto a chop platter and around the custard arrange prunes which have been pitted and stuffed lightly with shredded American cheese. Mounds of whipped cream placed between the prunes would be a good idea. A little prune juice poured over the top of the custard and cream will add flavor and a pleasing appearance. The canned prunes are convenient to use.

If you have no favorite recipe try the following:

- Pumpkin Custard.
- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------|
| 2 cups canned pumpkin | 1/2 teaspoon ginger |
| 1/2 cup sugar, part brown | 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg |
| 1 teaspoon cinnamon | 1/2 cup milk |
| 1/2 teaspoon cloves | 2 1/2 cups salt |

Beat pumpkin thoroughly with dry ingredients. Beat eggs slightly, add to milk and combine with pumpkin mixture. Pour into baking pan, set in a pan of water (1/2 inch deep on pan), and bake for about 45 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees). Chill before serving, unmold onto chop platter, and garnish.

SYNOPSIS

Billy Wheeler, wealthy young cattleman, arrives at the ranch summoned by his friend Horse Dunn, his elderly and quick-tempered owner, because of a mysterious murder. Billy is in love with Dunn's niece Marian, whom he has not seen for two years. She had rejected his suit and is still aloof. Dunn's ranch is surrounded by enemies, including Link Bender, Pinto Halliday and Sam Caldwell, whom he has defeated in his efforts to build a cattle kingdom. Dunn directs his cow hands, Val Douglas, Callahan and others to search for the killer's horse. He explains to Billy that the morning before he had come upon blood-stained ground at Short Creek and found the trail of a shod and blooded horse. The shod horse's rider had been killed. The body had disappeared. Link Bender had arrived at the scene and read the signs the way he had. Dunn reveals that because of a financial crisis the ranch may be in jeopardy; his enemies may make trouble, since Sheriff Wall Amos is friendly with them. He says he has asked Old Man Coffee, the country's best trailer, to join them. Dunn and his men, Amos, Link Bender, his son, the Kid, and Cayuse Cayetano, an Indian trailer, at Short Creek. Bender has found the slain man's horse, but the saddle is missing. Almost supernaturally, cattle attracted to the scene by the blood-stained ground stamp out all the traces. Dunn is angered when Amos tells him not to leave the county. Following an argument, Bender draws his gun, but Dunn wounds him in the arm. Back at the ranch Old Man Coffee arrives with a pack of hounds. Coffee goes in search of the dead man's saddle. Dunn tells Billy that Marian is incensed at him for trying to settle disputes by bloodshed. He reveals that the ranch is really here, also that he recently sold his own ranch in Arizona and that his partner, Bob Flagg, is en route with the money. Billy accompanies Marian on a ride to return her to the ranch with the saddle and reveals that Cayuse Cayetano is on the trail for Sheriff Amos. The saddle belonged to Lon Magoon, a small-time cattle thief. Billy learns he is to be arrested for assaulting "Old" Bender. On the sheriff's orders, Billy and the ranchmen drive into Inspiration. On the way, Coffee tells him that the murder victim was not shot by the man riding with him.

"Why?" the sheriff demanded, "haven't you turned that saddle in to the authorities—to me?"

"Oh," said Horse Dunn with false innocence, "did you want that saddle?"

The sheriff hesitated, unexpectedly at a fad of the trail. For a moment he had undoubtedly believed he had trapped Horse; but this hope was now trampled out by doubt.

"One more question," said the sheriff. "I want to know where all your riders were, last Monday—the day of the killing."

"Val Douglas and Gil Baker were on Yellow Medicine Flats; Steve Hurley and Tulare Callahan were riding Slinkard's Hole. That's all the riders I've got right now."

"One thing more," said the sheriff. "I questioned Hurley and Callahan when they were in town; but I still got to talk to Baker and Douglas. Stay here a minute."

At the door he turned and met Horse Dunn's eye squarely. "I don't mind telling you this," he said. "This case is nearly washed up. I figure to pick up the killer within 60 hours." He went out, jerking the door shut behind him.

"Old Man Coffee's eyes showed an inward smile. "That last seemed kind of forced in," he said.

Gil Baker now lounged in, taking his time. The sheriff was impatient at his heels.

"Baker, where were you Monday?" he demanded.

Gil Baker, young and hawk-faced, glanced at Horse Dunn and rolled his quid of tobacco over his tongue. "Rode a scope of ground, last Monday," he offered.

"Mostly where?"

Baker watched the sheriff narrowly. "Mostly Slinkard's Hole."

"Anybody with you?"

"Part of the time."

The sheriff caught at this. "Douglas was with you only part of the time, huh?"

Gil Baker studied him, snake-eyed. "All the time," he changed his answer.

"You just said 'part of the time'!"

"My mistake," said Baker.

The young sheriff jerked open the door. "Val Douglas! Come in here!"

Val Douglas came in, strolling leisurely, in order not to joggle the cigarette he was making. He stood on spread legs, and across the cigarette as he licked it shut he looked at the others with an innocent gravity.

"Douglas," Sheriff Amos demanded, "where was you riding last Monday?"

"I reckon I was in Nine-Mile Valley," Douglas said.

"How far is that from Slinkard's Hole?"

"About 15 mile."

"And you and Baker covered both Nine-Mile Valley and Slinkard's Hole in one day?"

Val Douglas was suddenly motionless. He had started to light up, and now his hands stopped with the match half way to his cigarette. Without moving his head he glanced at Dunn, then at Gil Baker, who tried to signal him something by the narrowing of an eye. The match went out, unguarded.

The 94 wagon boss relaxed. "Me and Gil went out, about three miles from the horse corral," he said.

"Yet," said the sheriff, "you never told your boss where you'd been, or why you changed your plans!"

Douglas struck a fresh match. "I'm wagon boss," he said, shortly. "When Dunn says count cows, we count cows. But nobody tells me where to ride—they ask me where to ride."

The sheriff stared at him; then he grinned, wholeheartedly, without pretense. "We'll go over to Judge Shafer's office now," he said. "But take my advice. Talk over your story—and try to get together on it!"

CHAPTER VI

Outside, Horse Dunn turned to Billy Wheeler. "Guess you better get Marian. This here's the part I want her to see."

Marian was waiting in the side street to which Horse Dunn had sent her with his car; and to the grim weariness of Billy Wheeler, Val Douglas was there, helping her wait. Wheeler walked to the door of the car, a tall, narrow-hipped figure, with a deceptively lazy stride.

"We're starting now," he said.

"You run on, Val," Marian said; "I want to talk to Billy."

"Sure, hon." The wagon boss shot Wheeler a glance like a straight

"Billy, Don't! Can't We Be Friends?"

left, and went his way, leisurely swaggering.

She looked at him sadly.

"Billy, there's something I want to say, too."

Wheeler looked at her. The blue of her eyes seemed strikingly fresh and cool in the dusty heat.

"It's just this: I'd give anything in the world if I could testify for you. But I just didn't see it the way—the way it seemed to you."

"I didn't ask you to speak for me," he reminded her.

"Billy, don't! Can't we be friends? Can't we—"

"No," he said.

"But why? Can't you see—"

He looked her in the eyes, and said slowly, "If I can't have all of you, then I don't want any of you at all. Do you understand that?"

He thought she colored, very faintly. "Suppose I don't choose to understand that?"

"Then swing wide," he heard himself say. "Swing wide and stay clear! And I shouldn't have to tell you that again."

There was a peculiar gleam in her cool, amazingly clear eyes. "I don't think you're so dangerous," she said.

"I don't know what you mean."

She dropped her voice into a drawl, mocking his own. "I mean—if you and I were left afoot, on some far mountain, at night, all alone with only one blanket between us—I shouldn't be afraid of anything happening, not anything at all."

He turned on her, low-voiced.

"Then," he said, "you're a fool." He snapped the car door open.

Marian Dunn hesitated a moment more; then stepped out of the car and walked ahead of him up the street.

Henry Shafer, justice of what peace was left, was a limited little man, mild and watery of eye. He had spent all his life in this one town, and he had never made any enemies because he had never taken sides. So finally he had got himself elected to office.

His office, in which they now gathered, was an exceedingly small frame structure; three or four wooden steps led up from the sidewalk to the door, and upon the window were painted the words "Real Estate, Insurance, and Justice of the Peace."

Horse Dunn—his great size made the room suddenly seem even smaller than it was—shouldered in without greeting to anyone. He shot a contemptuous glance about the walls, which were decorated with a parcel post map, a calendar advertising tick dip, and stains from leaks in the roof; then planted himself facing the door with his back against the wall—an instinctive provision. Shafer jumped up and hustled around the table to place a chair for Marian at the end opposite himself, and when this was done the remainder of the room filled rapidly with sombreroed men.

Link Bender was there, looking hard-bitten and taciturn, and so was Rufe Deane, a green-eyed man with heavy sorrel eyebrows and a storm-charged face; the lanky Pinto Halliday took up an uncomfortable position in the corner by the door. And there were other cattlemen, and some of the cowboys and line riders from the outfits of these men, cramping what little space was left.

Horse Dunn growled into Wheeler's ear, "Wish Bob Flagg could see this. Anything like this always tickled him."

"I take it this is the case against William Wheeler," said Shafer, unnecessarily. "Who's prosecuting this case?"

The sheriff said, "I am, Judge. The district attorney's gone up-state to sit in on the Democratic committee, like you know."

"I see here," said Shafer, fussing with papers, "you got him charged with resisting an officer; bearing arms against authority; assault; assault with intent to kill."

"What about assault on horseback?" said Billy Wheeler.

"Never heard of it," said Shafer. Sheriff Amos looked disgusted.

"Let's get on with it."

"William Wheeler, do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty."

"What seems to have gone on here?" Shafer asked Amos.

"Judge," said Walt Amos, "since this ruckus on Short Creek there's been a lot of people trampling around there, gumming up the evidence. So we made deputies of Pinto Halliday and Kid Bender, and we sent 'em to Short Creek to keep folks out of there. Now yesterday this Wheeler come prowling around there, and when the Kid told him to beat it, he wouldn't go. The Kid tried to argue with him, but this feller got tough, and they had words. The upshot was, Wheeler drew his gun and fired. He—"

Wheeler broke in. "Well, of all the infernal—"

"Keep quiet," said Shafer. The 94 men exchanged glances.

"Well," the sheriff went on, "he didn't hit anything, but the flash of the gun was right under the nose of the Kid's horse, and she reared over backwards on him. The Kid come out of it with concussion of the brain, fracture of the leg and two busted ribs. I got his sworn statement here."

"Now, now! You can't put that in," Wheeler objected. "Either you have to let me cross-examine him, or you can't put in his statement at all."

"Well, we'll see what it says, anyway," Shafer decided. "Justice is what we're after here!"

Amos now produced and read aloud Kid Bender's statement—a repetition of his own.

"You got any questions, Wheeler?"

Wheeler was appalled. It had not occurred to them that Bender's people would attempt so bald-faced a lie. What had started out as a sample of irritable officiousness had suddenly taken on unknown possibilities. Angering, Wheeler promised himself that once Horse Dunn was extricated he would clean house in this county if it took half of all he had.

"The Kid isn't here to be questioned," he snapped.

"I'll call Pinto Halliday," Amos said.

The lanky Halliday came out of a corner reluctantly, looking ill-natured; and a swarthy cowboy who had no official business there was persuaded to give Halliday his seat at the table.

Under the questioning of Walt Amos, Pinto Halliday now stated that he had been in a different part of the Short Creek cuts. Being down in the arroyo, he had not seen the shot fired; but he was riding to join Kid Bender and he had ridden up out of the cut in time to see the Kid down under his fallen horse, and Billy Wheeler with a smoking gun in his hand.

"Pinto," Amos said, "was there anybody else with Wheeler?"

"Miss Dunn, here, was with Wheeler."

"Look here," Wheeler broke in again. "What's the idea dragging her into this?"

"We'll leave her out if you will," Amos said.

"He's got a right to drag in anybody he wants to," Shafer gave his opinion, "so long as it's competent and material. And constitutional."

"Did Miss Dunn say anything?"

"Miss Dunn rides down and jumps off her horse, and she wipes off Kid Bender's face with her handkerchief. And she looks square at this feller and she says, 'There wasn't no excuse for it, she says.'"

Billy Wheeler looked at Marian. The girl sat with her cheek leaned upon one hand; her face was quiet, her eyes sober and watchful.

"That's all," said Amos.

"What's the idea," Shafer asked Wheeler sternly, "pulling a gun on an officer?"

Wheeler ignored him. "Halliday," he said, "how far away were you when you heard the shot fired?"

"I'd say about 300 yards."

"Yet right away you saw this smoke from my gun—three hundred yards away? That gun sure must have sent up a smudge!"

"By the time I came out of the cut I was closer—not over a hundred yards."

"How long after the shot was that?"

"I'd say about five seconds."

"What'll you take for the horse?"

"Huh?"

"If that horse went 200 yards and climbed out of a draw in five seconds, he sure must be a streak of light!"

"Well, maybe it was ten or fifteen seconds."

"And what did you say I had smoking in my hand, all this time?"

"A gun, by God!"

Shafer looked doubtful. "Well—what you got to say, Wheeler?"

"I plead self defense, Judge," said Wheeler. "Kid Bender made a surprise draw; I grabbed his bit and raised his horse up to make him miss. But it was his own gun going off that made his horse go over. I pulled my gun and stood ready in case he took another shot at me; but I didn't fire, then or any time."

"What was the idea resisting an officer in the first place?" Shafer said.

"The only thing I resisted was getting shot."

"Well, call your witnesses."

"I'm not calling any."

Shafer looked surprised; he glanced at Marian Dunn. "I thought—"

"I move this case be dismissed," said Wheeler.

"You move what?" Shafer demanded. "You know darn well I can't dismiss it! What becomes of this country if—"

"This is a mighty serious offense, Judge," Amos said. "The law calls for as high as five years for a thing like this. We got to bind him over to district court, naturally. But what we want is to hold him without bail. We—"

Mussel Shells, Worth Many Millions, Made the Great Pearl Button Industry

The history of mussels in Michigan is not much different from that in other mussel-producing areas, observes a writer in the Detroit Free Press. When a maker of mother-of-pearl buttons from sea shells in Europe, moved to Muscatine, Iowa, in 1890, and turned out pearl buttons from fresh water mussels on a little hand machine, the exploitation of the nation's mussel beds was inevitable. As soon as the business was a success, American brains and capital came into the picture. Power machines were invented to make mussel shells into pearl buttons. The business grew rapidly.

The great Mississippi river, the "father of waters," had a natural supply of mussel beds, untouched by the greed of man. It was the largest supply of fresh water mussel shells and fresh water pearls in the world, worth many millions of dollars. Some of these beds produced 3,000 to 4,000 tons of mussel shells to the mile. One man with a mussel boat could catch from one to two tons of shells a day. Some found fresh water pearls worth thousands of dollars each.

The manufacturers in the button business were no different from other manufacturers. They were in business for profit, not for health. They made more and better machinery. They glutted the market. The shrewder men uncovered new markets, and whipped the old china and horn buttons out of existence. The fresh water pearl button became the strongest, most beautiful and best button that was ever put on manufactured garments.

In the search for new sources of supply, the Michigan mussel beds were discovered, among which those of the Grand river were most productive. Their history is the same as that of the Mississippi; in fact, the same as that of the exploitation of most of our natural resources.
