Three Tickets?

We heard rumors of several different tickets for the Village election, but so far only one ticket has announced. People who don't take any interest in their city election should not complain when the side walks are paved with pebbles instead of concrete, nor when various nuisances are allowed to operate.

For Village Clerk

I hereby announce myself as candidate for the office of city clerk, subject to the will of the voters. Your support will be appreciated.

AUSTRIA IS WIPED OUT Made a State in German Reich After Armed Invasion By Hitler . . . The Fuehrer Enters Vienna in Triumph

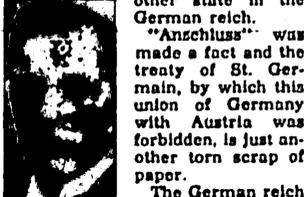

This picture, made in an Austrian border town and transmitted by radio photo, shows a contingent of Hitler's troops marching toward Vienna after being landed from airplanes in the country that has now been made a state of the German reich.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Austria a German State

AUSTRIA, as a sovereign state, is no more. In the twinkling of an eye its independent identity was wiped out and it became merely another state in the German reich.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart

The German reich has acquired 32,369 square miles of territory and 6,732,000 more inhabitants.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart rules the Austrian state after the enforced resignation of President Miklas and Chancellor Schuschnigg.

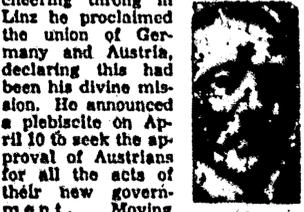

Such is the concrete result of Hitler's startlingly sudden invasion of Austria and seizure of power there. His coup was well planned and it was carried out with a swiftness that demonstrated the speed with which motorized troops can act.

Great Britain and France filed strong protests against the German coup, but their notes were scornfully rejected by the Berlin foreign office. The British showed no inclination to go further in defense of Austria, and France, just then without a government, could do nothing because Premier-designate Blum could not be assured of the support of both the Socialists and the Communists in the chamber of deputies.

Italy, taken by surprise like the rest of the world, was supposed to be in a tight place; but after Hitler, in a personal letter to Mussolini, promised that German expansion would stop at the Italian frontier, the Fascist grand council gave its approval to the Fuehrer's coup d'etat.

Hitler Goes to Vienna

RETURNING in triumph to the land of his birth, Hitler first visited the graves of his parents and then, standing bareheaded before a cheering throng in Linz he proclaimed the union of Germany and Austria, declaring this had been his divine mission. He announced a plebiscite on April 10 to seek the approval of Austrians for all the acts of their new government.

Adolf Hitler

Moving through many towns and cities, the Fuehrer's motor caravan finally reached Vienna, and that once proud city, now just a provincial capital of a German state, went wild with joy in greeting its master. Swastikas and troops were everywhere, and not a single anti-Nazi dared to show his head. Already a "purge" had been started, directed especially against the Jews, and all people of that race who could get out of the city were leaving. New laws were passed excluding some 75,000 Jewish lawyers and 60,000 Jewish doctors from practice. The Evangelical church of Austria was united with that of Germany.

Hitler took supreme command of the Austrian army and all officers and men took the oath of allegiance to him. On his progress to Vienna Hitler was accompanied or followed by numerous units of his motorized armies so that when he arrived the city was swarming with German troops.

Nazi economists in Berlin were busy planning in detail the economic future of the annexed territory. Minister of Economy Walther Funk said that Austria would henceforth participate in the German four-year plan for recovery and independence of foreign markets.

It was assumed that Seyss-Inquart would be "minister and president" of the Austrian state, having the same status as the chief executives of Prussia and Bavaria.

Insist on TVA Inquiry

IT DOES not seem likely, at this writing, that the administration can prevent the congressional investigation of the TVA which Chairman A. E. Morgan and others have demanded. Senators Bridges and King, Representatives Maverick and Snell and various other congressmen insist that there be a thorough inquiry into the situation. However, a showdown was postponed for a week when President Roosevelt gave that much time to Chairman Morgan, David Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan, the directors, to settle their differences. He told them plainly that if they could not do this they should resign from the board.

David Lillenthal

For six hours the President tried in vain to induce A. E. Morgan to substantiate if he could the charges he had made against his colleagues, these including the making of evasive and misleading reports and "dishonesty of malfeasance" in handling the claims of Berry and others. The chairman steadily refused to offer any evidence in support of these accusations on the ground that the conference in the White House was not and could not be an "effective or fact-finding occasion."

He noted in a statement put into the record that he had "repeatedly but unsuccessfully" sought Mr. Roosevelt's co-operation in correcting "grave conditions" within TVA. Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan offered evidence in support of their complaint that the chairman had pursued "obstructionist" tactics. No one of the directors indicated, after the conference, that he would resign. It was generally believed in Washington that the President desired to get A. E. Morgan off the board and that in that case he would make Lillenthal chairman.

Mutiny in Russian Army?

UNCONFIRMED reports were received in Riga, Latvia, that mutiny had broken out in some of the largest garrisons of the Soviet army and that fighting was going on. The troops demanded that the department of the interior surrender control of the arsenals.

The Red army is the only armed force in the world which does not control its supplies of munitions. A special GPU army of 350,000 heavily armed troops guards the military supplies.

"Must Boost Income Tax"

THE senate finance committee began consideration of the revenue act passed by the house. At the same time Chairman Pat Harrison of that committee gave out a warning that if the administration continues its high spending policy the income tax base must be widened, the present exemptions being lowered.

Harrison came out flatly against the undistributed profits tax which is retained in modified form in the house version of the bill. He also said that the graduated capital gains tax should be replaced by a flat rate of approximately 15 per cent on all capital gains from sales of property held for more than one or two years.

Crop Control Penalties

COTTON and tobacco growers throughout the South and in several western states voted by overwhelming margins for the levying of stiff penalty taxes on producers, who do not conform to the regulations of the new crop control program. The Agriculture department officials in Washington therefore began preparations to put into effect this system:

- 1. Each farmer will be told how much cotton or tobacco he can sell. 2. Any farmer who sells more than his quota will pay a penalty tax of 2 cents a pound on excess cotton, or one-half the market price on excess tobacco.

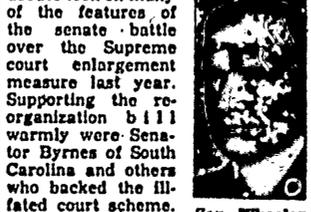

Navy War Game On

FIGHTING ships of the American fleet, 105 in number, left the Pacific coast bases to take part in the six-weeks war maneuvers. They were headed for widely scattered points in the Alaska-Hawaii areas and are due to arrive at Honolulu about April 1.

Altogether more than 160 surface craft, 500 airplanes and seaplanes, 3,600 officers and 55,000 men will participate in the war games.

Wheeler in Action

SENATOR WHEELER of Montana took the lead in opposing the bill for reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and the debate took on many of the features of the senate battle over the Supreme court enlargement measure last year.

Sen. Wheeler

Supporting the reorganization bill warmly were Senator Byrnes of South Carolina and others who backed the ill-fated court scheme. Wheeler said that if congress approves the measure it ought to close up shop and go home. He was assailing the provision of the bill authorizing the President to transfer, regroup, consolidate, or abolish any government bureau or agency or the functions thereof.

"We have got to recognize the fact," said Wheeler, "that under democratic institutions there is sometimes inefficiency in government. Certainly there can be more inefficiency, although it is not always obtained, under dictatorships."

"The American people have got to recognize that it is necessary for them to pay the price in order to maintain their liberties. I say to the senate that it is far better that we maintain the bureaus we now have than it is to turn over dictatorial powers to the President of the United States and admit to the world that the congress of the United States, overwhelmingly Democratic in the house and in the senate, is incompetent to function."

Clarence Darrow Dies

CLARENCE DARROW of Chicago, one of the most famous defense lawyers in the country, died at the age of eighty after a long illness. He was always the friend of the "under dog" and a bitter opponent of capital punishment. Among those in whose defense he appeared during his long career were Eugene Debs, Socialist leader; Leopold and Loeb, young Chicago murderers of a friend, and John T. Scopes, accused school teacher in the Tennessee "monkey trial" in which he defended evolution against William Jennings Bryan.

Franco's New Offensive

SPANISH insurgent forces were moving rapidly in the great Aragon offensive, penetrating deep into the Catalonian border in the effort to reach the east coast and split the government territory. General Franco was personally directing the movements of his armies there and it seemed likely the decisive battle of the civil war was about to be fought. English, Canadian and American units in the government forces were said to have been trapped in a salient near Blechite.

Soviet "Traitors" Condemned

EIGHTEEN of the former Soviet leaders tried in Moscow for treason were found guilty and condemned to death, and probably already have faced the firing squads. Three others were sentenced to long prison terms, one of these being Christian Rakovsky, former ambassador to France. Most prominent among those who drew the death penalty were Nikolai Bukharin, chronicler of the Red revolution; Genrikh Yagoda, former chief of the GUP, or secret police; ex-Premier Rykov, and N. N. Krestinsky.

What to Eat and Why E. Houston Goudiss Discusses CARBOHYDRATES and FATS

Foods That Provide Motive Power For the Body Machinery

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS 5 East 39th St., New York.

THE human body might be compared to a framework filled with machinery. It takes food to build the framework, food to run the machinery and food to keep it working efficiently and this food must be of the proper type.

Last week, I discussed the body building proteins and explained how to distinguish between those which build and repair body tissue, and those that are adequate for maintenance, but not for growth. It is equally important that you should learn something of the fuel foods which are necessary to fire the body engine and furnish motive power to propel the body machinery.

Fuel Foods Keep Us Alive

The body could not function in the absence of fuel foods any more than a machine could run without power, or a car without gas. Every breath requires an expenditure of energy, and so does every movement - from the beating of the heart to the winking of an eye. Even in repose, the body machinery is kept functioning only by an ever-present supply of fuel. For, as long as life continues—even when you are lying perfectly still—you need fuel to carry on the internal work of the body.

Activity Demands Energy Foods

Every type of daily activity, including work and exercise, requires additional fuel. If you walk slowly, you expend twice as much energy as when you sit still. And when you walk fast, you may use up four, five or six times as much energy.

The chief fuel, or energy producing foods, are the carbohydrates—that is, the starches and sugars; and fats. Proteins also has some fuel value, but its primary function is to build and repair tissue.

Carbohydrates are quick burning. They might be compared to the flare of a match in a dark room, which gives bright light for an instant, but is soon extinguished. Fat, on the other hand, burns slowly, like a lamp whose wick is turned low.

Danger of Inadequate Fuel Supply

Recently there has been a tendency to minimize the importance of the fats and carbohydrates, due to the craze for dieting. Some of the results of disregarding the absolute necessity for these foods are extreme irritability, and a greater susceptibility to fatigue, nervous diseases, tuberculosis and other infections.

Too Much Fuel Causes Overweight

It is true, however, that an excess of fuel foods will tend to produce overweight. For if we assimilate them, and do not utilize their potential energy in muscular effort, they will be stored—as fat—usually in most inconvenient

Your Food Is Your Fate

THE third of the series of articles entitled "What to Eat and Why," written by C. Houston Goudiss, the eminent food authority, author and radio lecturer, appears in this issue.

In these articles Mr. Goudiss tells how you can be strong, beautiful, wise and rear healthy children by combining the right food materials in the diet. He points out the vast influence which food wields over one's life. The housewife and mother who desires to know what foods will benefit her family the most will do well to read these articles week by week and make a scrapbook of them for ready reference.

the person who allows himself to become upset continually withdraws the fat reserve from his body. Such persons could profit, perhaps, by taking more of the fat-forming foods. But whether the members of your family are good natured, or irritable, young or old, they need a constant supply of fuel foods—at every meal, every day. Fuel foods produce energy—and energy is the motive power of life and work and thought.

"Home-Wrecking" Qualities of Poor Furniture Polish

How often a houseful of fine furniture and handsome woodwork is spoiled by the use of a poor furniture polish! There are many polishes on the market today—some fair, some good, others excellent for luster and long life of the finish! The best is non-greasy, because made with a fine, light-oil base! In time, furniture and woodwork can be ruined by the persistent application of a cheap, poor polish! Such polish will contain kerosene, harsh abrasives and harmful acids—destructive elements, that are unseen and unsuspected! The housewife may use one of these polishes, feeling that she is economically keeping her furniture polished—but this is poorest economy, if she values her furniture (and what housewife does not?). The furniture in a home constitutes—the largest part of the furnishings—and will show up like "sore thumbs" when dried out, cracked or checked. This is just what occurs, when other than a reputable oil polish is used! Too, a quality oil polish is less expensive! Less is used at one time—for it's undiluted. The resultant glow is deeper, richer, more lasting! Best of all, the finish of the furniture and woodwork is properly "fed" and kept in prime condition! So beware of harsh, "bargain" polishes—for through them, the furniture suffers!

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rises in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls on the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"I'm grateful to you for your advice, sir, and I'm sure Father will be," she said, the sting of a small whiplash singing in her voice.

He disregarded her jeer. Apparently, he was as oblivious of her annoyance as he was of the pristine glamor of her vital youth.

"Bull-headed was the word you used," he went on evenly. "It suits Lee Chiswick fine. When Pender busted into the Golden Nugget, yore father was reading the riot act to a dozen scalawags waiting for the signal to cut loose at him."

"Whose signal?" she asked, the blood driven from her face.

"Seemed to be Sperm Howard's say-so. Got me right. I'm playing my own hand, and I don't give a cuss whether you smile or snarl. I'll tell the old man his dear daughter is here, and you can feed him any story you've a mind to, at any time. If he goes back across the road and gets rubbed out, it is none of my business."

She had lorded it over boys with a high hand. That she could not break through his callousness irritated her. Surprisingly, she felt young and immature, was moved by an impulse to defend herself.

"I'm not ashamed of what I've done," she said, bridling.

"That's nice. Tell him you came to town to buy a paper of pins."

"You're impudent."

"Am I?"

He faced her anger with a long look of amused scorn, then turned away, insolently indifferent. The girl wanted to call him back, to lash out at him with petting words that would sting, but she was aware that nothing she could say would penetrate his impassivity. His opinion of her had not been swayed by any personal pique.

Gray walked back into the gambling-hall.

Sanger had the floor. "Who did this, Curly?" he asked.

Curly pushed a hand through his black hair. "Couldn't tell you for sure, Yell. Half a dozen of us took a crack at him. He rode in asking for trouble and got it. Blazed away with his rifle and handed in his checks pronto. Maybe you better make yore verdict read, committed suicide while temporarily insane."

Norris volunteered information, slanting a sneer at Chiswick. "No objections anywhere. I reckon. We can be bullied just so far."

"No objections from me," Sanger agreed.

"Pender came in on my horse Black Diamond, so if you want to make the killing more legal you can claim he was a horse-thief," Curly suggested humorously.

"Or self-defense," Sanger amended seriously.

"Who cares how legal it was?" Norris said. "No four-flusher can come in here and hurrah me."

Dan Brand recognized this as a personal challenge flung at his employer. "Only a crazy fool would try, Morg," he answered amiably.

"You don't need to be carrying a chip on yore shoulder, Morg," Howard said, with a warning glance. "If there is rustling going on, we all want to back up Lee."

"Did you say 'if there was any rustling'?" Chiswick inquired, harsh irony in his voice.

Howard laughed without mirth. "You're hard to please, Chiswick. I don't pick my words like a professor. If you're not on the prod, as Brand claims, you sure have a funny way of being pleasant."

"Did I say I was aiming to be pleasant?" The cattleman let his hard gaze shift from Norris to Howard. "Someone ran off a bunch of 50 of my cows last night. If you expect me to grin and say, 'Help yourselves, boys,' you can have another guess. I'm going to fight."

"When a bull gets to pawing the ground he most generally gets accommodated," Norris insisted, not shifting his narrowed gaze from the owner of the LC.

"Shut up, Morg," interposed Curly affably. "Can't expect a man to sit quiet while he is being stole blind. Tell you what, boys. Some of us will be heading into the hills soon. We'll keep our eyes skinned. Like as not some of us will spot this bunch of L C stuff."

"I wouldn't wonder if some of you did," Chiswick said bluntly. The cattleman turned to leave the saloon.

Gray stopped him with a gesture. "Just a moment, Mr. Chiswick."

"What you want?" the ranchman asked.

Gray lowered his voice. "There's a young lady over at Sanger's who says she is yore daughter. She would like to see you right off."

"My daughter? What's she doing here?"

"Better ask her."

The red-headed man had nothing more to say. He turned to the bar and ordered a schooner of beer. Chiswick and his foreman walked out of the place.

Out of the corner of his mouth Mile High said to his chief, "That's the guy I was telling you about."

Howard nodded. He observed that Curly was sauntering to the bar. So was Norris.

The big black-haired man gave an order to the bartender. "A Curly special."

Selecting a bottle, the man in the white apron pushed it across the top of the bar. Curly poured a drink and tossed it down his throat.

"Hot enough to melt the tallow him to town because she was afraid he would get into trouble with the rustler group.

"I know, but—you're so bull-headed, Father."

"Nothing of the kind," he protested hotly. "You wouldn't expect me to let these dirty thieves drive off a bunch of 50 cows at one crack without a squawk, would you?"

She shrugged. "When all those guns roared—"

"They weren't shooting at me, honey." His mind harked back to the reproof she needed. "You had no business coming to town—not to Tail Holt. We stay away from this place. You know that."

"You didn't."

"Dad gum it, girl, I'm your father. You don't have to tell me what-all I can and can't do." He slammed his fist down into the palm of the other hand. "You act like you rule the roost. Well, you don't. Not by a jugful. Understand?"

"Yes," she said, with more humility than was customary, since her mind was still full of the crazy thing she had done.

Ruth was still thinking of her escapade with Lou Howard. She could not understand how it had ever gone so far. She knew now she did not love him, never had. That she had not seen through his shallow weakness earlier hurt her pride.

Later she knew she would flog herself with her own scorn. She was a lying little cheat for not telling her father the truth. But she dared not confess without preparing his mind first. It would be like Lee Chiswick to walk across to the Golden Nugget to have it out with Sperm Howard.

"We'll go over to Charley Wong's restaurant for supper," Lee Chiswick said. "Dan is waiting for us over there."

Back of the restaurant they found a bucket of water, a tin pan, a thin piece of dirty soap, and a roller-towel much the worse for use.

The cattleman called Wong. "This towel has half of Arizona on it, Charley. Bring a new one—and another piece of soap."

The Chinaman grinned. "Velly good," he said.

Inside the restaurant Dan Brand was waiting at a table in a corner. Across the aisle from him sat Gray.

Ruth touched the cattleman on the arm by way of calling his attention. "This is Mr. Gray, Father. When that drunk man came shooting into Sanger's store he looked after me."

"Looked after you—how?" asked Chiswick.

"Pushed me back of some sacks of potatoes and stood in front of me."

Chiswick offered his hand. "Glad to meet you, Mr. Gray. I reckon my daughter has thanked you, but I'll do it again."

"Nothing worth mentioning what I did, but she thanked me proper," the crook-nosed man said dryly.

"Since you haven't eaten yet, won't you join us?" the cattleman invited.

Gray moved to the other table.

"My foreman, Dan Brand," Chiswick introduced. "Dan, this is Mr. Gray."

The two men shook hands, estimating one another with their eyes. Chiswick motioned Gray to the vacant chair beside his daughter.

They fell at first into casual talk of cows, grass, markets.

"Looks like a country of small ranches," Gray said presently.

"Yes," Chiswick confirmed. "Plenty rough in these hills. Cut up by gulches and canyons where nesters have settled."

"Your ranch is lower down?"

"Yes. Runs up from the Sweet Spring valley into the hills."

"From what I heard at the Golden Nugget I gather the L C is a big outfit."

"My brand is on a lot of stock—or was," the cattleman said grimly.

Logging Great Industry in Canadian Woods; Thousands of Workmen Employed

Logging in the woods in Canada provides employment for about 240,000 workers on a part-time basis, or for an average of about 84,000 men yearly.

Logging operations are generally conducted in unsettled or sparsely settled country at considerable distances from the ordinary routes of travel. In the typical logging camp in eastern Canada there are usually from 30 to 75 men. The buildings are of a temporary nature, built of logs or rough boards, and usually include a cookhouse, sleep camp, stable, storehouse, and blacksmith's shop. The built-in bunks filled with boughs or hay are being replaced by iron, double-deck bunks with springs, mattresses and blankets. The houses are heated with large wood-burning stoves, and though the regulations call for provision for ventilation, the lumberjacks are not very fussy about this item. But they do want heat, and since fuel is cheap and abundant, they get it.

The food is generally excellent

"Still is," Brand amended. "I reckon." Anger flamed in Chiswick's tanned face. "Won't be long unless we can stop this big steal that is going on. A few of those rustlers will have to be strung up as a warning."

"Better not talk," advised Brand in a low voice.

"Why shouldn't I talk?" Chiswick demanded. "This is a free country, and I've never yet seen the color of the scoundrel's hair that could keep me from saying my mind."

"You don't mean red particularly, do you, Father?" Ruth asked, slanting impudent eyes at Gray. "Or do you?"

The cattleman smiled, ruefully. "Figure of speech, Mr. Gray. No, I don't mean red." He turned to his daughter. "You little minx."

"None of my business, Mr. Chiswick," Gray said bluntly. "But what Mr. Brand says is good medicine. Why talk any more? You've said yore little piece. I'm an outsider, and never saw one of those gents at the Golden Nugget before. But there were some present who didn't take yore remarks kindly. I am of opinion that the chuckle-headed false alarm who rode in and got filled with lead did you a considerable service."

"His chunk sure went out sudden," Brand commented. "I wouldn't say you're not right, Mr. Gray. While Lee was on the prod I didn't feel anyways lead immune myself. They're not bad boys, in a way of speaking, but they are some quick on the trigger."

"No, they're not bad," Chiswick replied scornfully. "Practically all of them are thieves, and some are killers, and a few have robbed trains and stages. Maybe 40 per cent of them have shot down Mexican vaqueros who were defending their masters' herds. But what is a Mexican here and there? Remember the Alamo! Yes, sir. Just a bunch of nice cowboys who take no pleasure in killing unless someone gets in the way of what they want."

The summit of Mule mountain had been a crag of fire in the sunset when they had gone into the restaurant. As they came out, Ruth noticed that the crotches between the peaks were lakes of imperial purple. Soon darkness would sift down from the hills.

"We're out of coffee and baking soda," Ruth told her father. "Better get some while we're here, don't you think?"

"Yes. Enough to last us till someone can get to Tough Nut. Anything else you need?"

"I'd like some nutmegs, and a box of matches."

Chiswick asked the foreman to get Ruth's cow-pony and tie it at the hitchrack with the other two. Gray walked with the father and daughter as far as Sanger's store.

"I'll be saying adios," he told them, and added, his ironic smile on Ruth: "Nice to have met up with you."

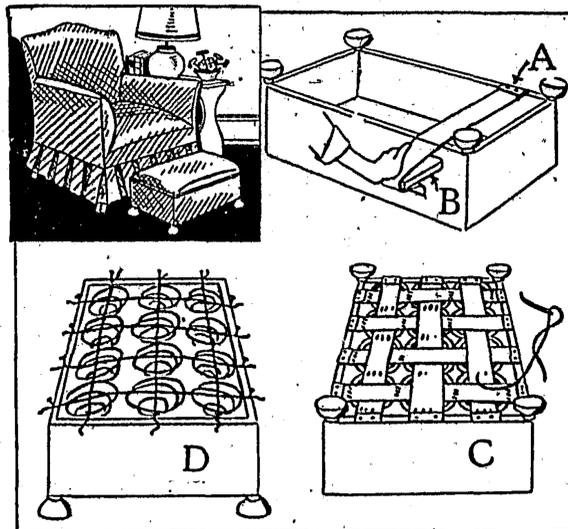

She said the pleasure was hers, said it very coolly, and turned into the store. The place was lit by two cool-oil lamps suspended from the ceiling. Near the rear something covered by a sheet lay on a cot. Ruth guessed that what was resting there so still had been roaring with drunken life less than an hour ago.

Two customers were in the store. One was a slim, graceful, fishy-eyed man, neatly dressed, with a silk bandanna tied loosely round his brown throat. His companion called him Morg. The other she had met at a dance. He was a fine figure of a man, slender and broad-shouldered, with black, curly hair that had given him his nickname. Connor, she had heard him called, and she knew that Curly was his cognomen among the cowboys.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

SPRINGS in furniture seldom break. The twine that holds them does break and webbing wears out throwing the springs out of position.

To set the springs you will need a ball of twine and a needle such as used by the upholsterer, enough webbing to replace the old, tacks 1/2-inch long with large heads, a block of wood for stretching the webbing, a tack hammer and a tack lifter. Remove the cover from the seat carefully so that it may either be used again or serve as a pattern. Most of the padding may also be used. Observe how each layer of material is fastened in place, so that you may put it back the same way.

Remove the springs and all old tacks. Tack the first strip of webbing to one edge of the bottom of the frame, letting the end extend 1/2 inch beyond the edge, then fold the end over the first tacks and tack again as at A. Draw the webbing across the frame using the block of wood as a lever to stretch webbing taut as at B. When all the strips have been stretched and tacked across the frame one way, stretch strips of webbing across the other way weaving these over and under the first ones as at C. Now, sew the bottom of each spring to the webbing with the upholsterer's twine and curved needle as shown in this diagram.

Next, turn the frame right side up, drive tacks part way in along the edges; then tie the springs across each way with upholsterer's twine as shown in diagram C. The twine is tied to the tacks and to each spring and regulates the height of the springs—the outside edges usually being lower than the center to make a rounded top. When the springs are regulated evenly, drive the tacks in; then replace burlap or muslin coverings and padding.

Forceful Inference

Inference (or deduction) from what has been to what may be has force.

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Ever the Truth

What hinders one from speaking the truth, even when one is laughing?

Brightening the Closet

If the walls and woodwork of the dark clothes closet are painted white it will make it much lighter and easier to find things.

Measuring Flour

Wheat flour is one of the easiest ingredients in baking to mismeasure. For best results always sift flour and measure by spoonfuls into a cup, being careful not to shake the filled cup.

When Cooking Cheese

In cooking anything with cheese use a low temperature, because intense heat makes cheese tough and stringy.

Washing Blankets

Do not crowd the washing machine full of blankets or other woollens. Allow plenty of space for the articles to soak. There will then be less strain on them.

Delicious Peppers

Green peppers are delicious when stuffed with minced chicken and chopped mushrooms.

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all tired out.

Office of Senator Chavez

Washington, D. C., March 19, 1938-- L. R. Conarty, Carlsbad Democratic County Chairman, and R. M. P. Burnett, explorer of the newly discovered caverns in the Carlsbad area, have suggested to Senator Chavez that the caverns be named after the President's mother. Senator Chavez has volunteered to introduce a bill placing the newly discovered caverns within the Carlsbad Cavern National Park and, if it meets the approval of the President, the new caverns will be named "The Sara Roosevelt Caverns"

Senator Chavez hopes that his visit to the White House this week will be productive of much good for New Mexico. The Senator vigorously protested the control by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the grazing lands allocated to white settlers in the Rio Puerco area. "There is no reason on earth", said Senator Chavez later, "why the Indian Bureau should administer the affairs of white persons".

Further projects for small dams to insure storage of irrigation waters for farmers and school projects were also urged by the Senator.

Senator Chavez also discussed at length the WPA situation in New Mexico. He was quoted as saying: "We talked on matters of personnel. I have nothing further to add".

A painting of the White Sands National Monument always wins the admiration of visitors to the office of Senator Chavez. They do not know, however, that a New Mexico girl painted it. The artist is Mrs. Jane Robinson Mabry daughter of Will Robinson the well known columnist of the Pecos Valley. Mrs. Mabry is the wife of Scott Mabry, son of District Judge Thomas Mabry of Albuquerque.

Watched with apprehension by New Mexico interests is the proposed Reciprocal Trade Agreement with Great Britain. A growing New Mexico industry is vitally concerned. Fluorspar, which is now being mined in New Mexico, is one of the commodities listed for discussion in the proposed agreement. What its effect will be on New Mexico industry is a matter which is receiving Senator Chavez' study and attention.

This office was honored by a visit by Professor Lansing B. Bloom of the University of New Mexico and Librarian of the Coronado Library. Professor Bloom is on his way to Italy engaged on research in the history of the southwestern part of the United States and Mexico. He will make special investigations relative to missionary orders and work of European nations in America. Through Senator Chavez, who is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, he received a letter from Secretary of State Cordell Hull directed to the United States Consular officers abroad recommending that every facility of the government be extended him in his endeavors.

In addition to Professor Bloom visitors this week to the office include: Murray Beene of the United States Reemployment Service Albuquerque; Olive Lovett, detailed to Washington by the Soil Conservation Service at Albuquerque; and Raymond M. Belfon also of Albuquerque.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The absence of salon diplomacy or petticoat politics in the European struggle for a new power balance would be an oversight by the muse of history, reading the drama of the century, and at last it seems to have been attended to.

Lady Pulls Strings in Duce Deal

Enter Lady Chamberlain, the cleverest woman politician in England, widow of Sir Austen, obscurely noted in the news as mysteriously busy for the last few months in the British-Italian rapprochement.

Several weeks ago, a sagacious traveler of this writer's acquaintance, back from Rome, reported Lady Chamberlain as adroitly fostering an understanding with Britain which would bring recognition of Ethiopia and a two-way split on Spain and the Mediterranean. She has been in Rome since November, in intimate social intercourse with the more important Fascist moguls.

For many years, she has been known as the "most perfect political hostess" in London and has been subtly influential in many big deals in continental diplomacy. It was she who cooked up the Locarno conference, at Lake Maggiore, in Switzerland, in 1925.

When the delegates were haggling, she packed some hampers and invited Sir Austen, Brian and Stresemann to the most important picnic in all history. In her handsome little yacht, they disappeared around a bend in the lake, landed in a secluded spot, and, with the aid of three jurists, re-rigged Europe.

How Picnic at Locarno Made Peace

Whatever came out of the conference, for good or ill, is traced to that picnic. When she returned to England, she was made Dame of the Grand Cross of the British Empire.

She is a comely matron of sixty-two, married to Sir Austen in 1906. He was fourteen years older. She was Ivy Dundas of one of the leading political families of England.

In the earlier years of their marriage, she was credited with having coached her husband in the ultra-English mannerisms which all of the great Birmingham family found it expedient to master when they moved to London. She is said to have been his political as well as his social mentor, and frequently electioneered in his campaigns.

Lady Chamberlain is an extreme conservative and is believed to have nurtured plans for a British alliance with the Absolutist powers. She has an extraordinary flair for dramatic political stage-settings and delicate sensitivity to political currents. Italy conferred on her the Gold Medal of Merit.

THE New York spy round-up by the federal bureau of investigation marks the first front-page work-out of the G-men as an ally of the secret service.

G-Men On Front Page in Spy Hunt

An attaché of the latter told me in Washington last summer that J. Edgar Hoover's organization, developed in post-war years, would be an invaluable aid to this country's defenses against foreign espionage, and that, in the event of trouble, actual or impending, no foreign country could hope to duplicate Germany's exploit in sabotage, propaganda and spying before our entry into the World war.

Reed Vetterli, in short pants when the World war started, heads the New York office of the F. B. I. and deploys his 75 agents in a red-hot spy scenario, in which they score as usual, with indications today that this is just the overture.

Six feet tall, blond, reticent, Mr. Vetterli is a veteran of the F. B. I. war against thugs and kidnapers, in the bureau since 1926, in charge of 18 offices in his 11 years of service. He was born in Salt Lake City in 1903, and took his law degree at the University of Washington in 1923. In 1933, he was wounded in the Kansas City massacre, trading shots with Pretty Boy Floyd's gangsters.

He has participated in most of the bureau's famous kidnaping, vice and bank robbery cases. He succeeded Rhea Whitley as head of the New York office on September 11, 1937. He has a reputation in the bureau for always having an airtight case against anyone he arrests.

Austrian Youths Celebrate Hitler Coup

A contingent of the Hitler Youth Organization of Austria are shown parading through the streets of Vienna in celebration of the Nazis' triumphant march into Austria. The successful Nazi coup spelled the end of Austria's existence as a nation and its beginning as a state of the German reich.

"The Law" in Austria Today

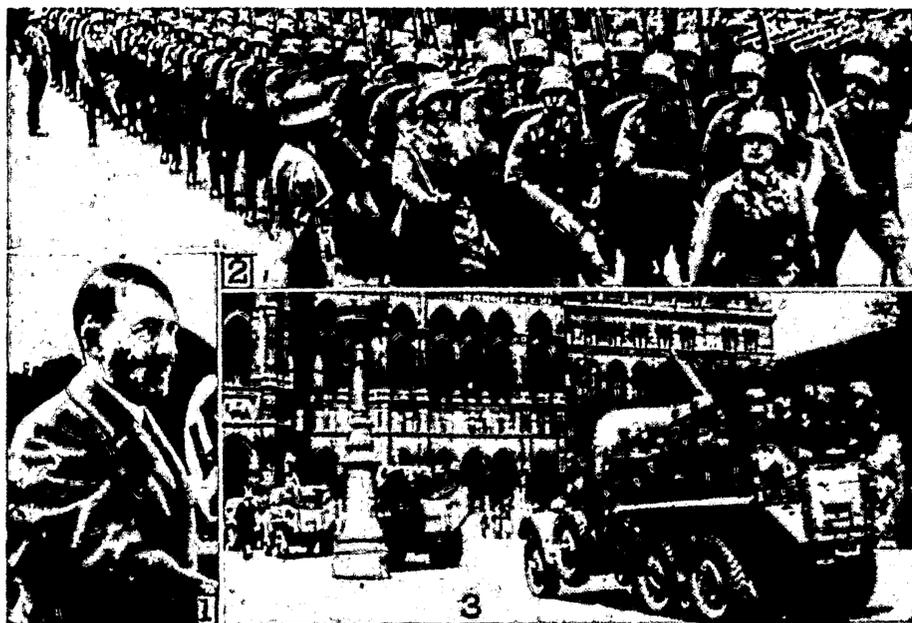

These German anti-aircraft machine gunners and thousands of others like them are enforcing Germany's will on Austria now, since that country became a part of the German reich in Hitler's bloodless coup. When this photograph was made these gunners were merely playing at war in maneuvers at Kissingen, Germany.

NAZI ARMY CHIEF

Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering, under whose direction the plans for the Nazification of Austria were successfully completed. Addressing an audience in Berlin following the coup, he declared that Germany is determined further to increase her army.

When Hitler Made Austria a German State

1—Hitler, who made a triumphant entry into Vienna after Germany took undisputed possession of Austria in a bloodless coup, defying the world to interfere. 2—On to Austria went 100,000 crack German troops like these as Hitler captured his homeland for the reich. 3—Armed German trucks and tanks such as these patrolled the streets of Vienna.

HITLER LIEUTENANT

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, made chancellor of Austria by decree of Adolf Hitler, following the resignation of Kurt Schuschnigg and the successful Nazi coup.

Czechoslovakia May Be Next

With informed observers predicting that Czechoslovakia will be the next object of Adolf Hitler's Pan-German campaign, following his bloodless subjugation of Austria, the government of Czechoslovakia has reiterated its previous warning that it will resist to the last any attempt to conquer it. President Edouard Benes (center) is shown conferring with some of his military chiefs during army maneuvers recently.

BOOKS IN BRIEF

Sin of Father Almost Sends Son to Death

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

SPIES worked cleverly. The aristocracy spied on the peasants and the peasants spied on the nobility, while the professional spies had a lucrative trade. The guillotine cut off heads every day. The French peasants were revolting! Such is the opening scene in Charles Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities."

Jerry Cruncher constantly licked the rust off his dirty hands. After a time we see Jerry at his honest trade, prying the lid from a recently buried coffin, so that he can sell the body to the medical students. Madam Defarge sat knitting, seeing nothing. But Dickens repeats the phrase too often, and we suspect this woman who knits and sees nothing. After a time we discover that in a code of stitches she is recording the names of all people who are to die by the guillotine when that goddess shall come into power. But here is the story:

Elizabeth C. James

Dr. Alexander Manette, young physician of Paris, was escorted by the Marquis Evremonde and his twin brother to a peasant girl and her brother, victims of their merciless assault. Dr. Manette was overpowered by the noblemen and put into the Bastille without trial.

Solitary confinement and anxiety about his wife and his child, unborn at the time of his imprisonment, gradually wore away his mind.

Son Changes Name.

The lovely wife of the nobleman, Evremonde, had tried to make retribution with the result that her son dropped his father's name

DICKENS—INDISPENSABLE

"A Tale of Two Cities" is unlike any other book that Dickens wrote. In the bulk of his writing, his characters and incidents overshadow his loosely connected plots; but in "A Tale of Two Cities," the plot predominates.

When Dickens decided to write an adventure novel and was considering the French revolution for the background, he wrote a letter to Thomas Carlyle asking for a bibliography for this period. In answer, Carlyle sent a wagon load of books, his own sources in preparing his famous "History of the French Revolution!" Dickens looked over the group, read carefully Carlyle's book, and did not bother with the rest.

Charles Dickens lived from 1812 until 1870, and is called the most indispensable novelist of English literature.

and became known as Charles Darnay. He gave up all his inheritance, preferring to live in London.

Meanwhile, Dr. Manette's child was born, his wife died, and the child, Lucie, became a ward of Tellson's bank, and was removed to England.

The younger sister of the murdered peasant girl and boy grew to maturity, living with one thought: Revenge. She later married Ernest Defarge, one time servant to Dr. Manette.

After 18 years, Dr. Manette was freed. Completely insane, he was given into the custody of Ernest Defarge.

You recall Lucie's meeting with her father for the first time in her life, of going to London to live, of the meeting with Charles Darnay on the passage over, and of the resultant necessity of Lucie's witnessing at Charles' trial for treason, in London.

Dickens' portrayal of this trial is a masterpiece of satire. The court room was packed, for this execution was to be out of the usual run of entertainment, the prisoner was to be hanged, then quartered. Being French, he was as good as condemned before the trial started. But the people were cheated out of their day's sport, for Sidney Carton, lazy assistant to the defendant's counsel, shattered the circumstantial evidence by standing and calling the attention of the court of his own striking likeness to the defendant. Charles was freed.

Charles in Danger.

You recall the love of Sidney and Charles for Lucie, and the marriage of Lucie to Charles. Sidney worshipped her from afar, and was an occasional visitor to their home.

After a time of love and peace, a letter came to Charles, that caused him to return to France to save the life of a family servant. But things had happened of which he knew nothing.

As soon as Charles reached Paris he was imprisoned.

Again Sidney Carton saved the life of Charles, by means of their remarkable likeness. Sidney forced one of the prison guards to permit him to say good-by to Charles. Using drugs to overcome Charles, he changed clothes with him and died in his place.

Swing Skirt and Contrast Jacket

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE sports costumes here shown are just about as swank as they make 'em. The feature emphasized by each and which, let us assure you, is a first and foremost trend in the styling of spring suits and sports outfits is that of the jacket that contrasts the skirt. This idea of contrast jacket and skirt is carrying on so successfully, leading specialty shops and sportswear departments are selling one skirt plus several jackets. With different "sets" of accessories the costume may be tuned to intriguing and varied color moods.

A copper, brown and beige striped tweed jacket topping a light brown tweed skirt makes a smart spectator sports costume for spring as worn by the young woman seated above in the illustration. It is voguishly ensembled with a pale beige felt sports hat, matching doekin gloves, deep copper brown calf spectator sports shoes with built-up leather heels and fine lilac mesh copper color stockings. The tailoring of the jacket shows superb workmanship and the presence of useful as well as decorative pockets declares that fashions are much pocketed.

The girl in the foreground is wearing a favorite campus costume—a swing pleated skirt in colorful plaid wool (a "must have" in every chic wardrobe) and twin sweaters in natural beige cashmere. Fine self stripes add to the fashion interest of her new durezza lisle stockings which are now so voguish.

If there is one lesson more than another that the new spring fashions impress upon us it is that a costume is only as smart and correct as the accessories worn with it. There is absolutely no hit-and-miss selection tolerated when it comes to headwear, footwear, the gloves, belts, bags, even the handkerchiefs we carry, that correlate a modern costume into a perfect unit.

Especially in the realm of sportswear is the theory of the right accessories for the right costume being worked out to a nicety. In fact we have gone quite English when it comes to perfection of detail that has to do with our town and country tweeds, our spectator and active sports clothes and our campus outfits. Consider the matter of shoes and hosiery that should be worn with the sturdy outdoor costume. British women have long established as correct accessory to their smart tweeds, brogues that spell comfort and a fitness of things. With these they wear sensible fine lisle hosiery. We, the American women, are coming to just that. Indeed, the most exciting news about stockings is the recent introduction of smartly styled full-fashioned sports stockings of domestic cotton lisle.

This spring nearly all the leading hosiery manufacturers are bringing out home-grown durezza lisle hose that are sleek, bulky and flattering, tuned to the taste of the most fastidious. If the mention of lisle hosiery makes you think of the drab regulation stockings of boarding school days, you will be astonished at the beautiful styling of the new-patterned sports lises, and in designs that simply cry for co-ordination with spectator tweeds and active sport costumes. Important style news in connection with the new durezza lises is that they revive clocks, smart in either self or contrast embroidery. These stockings also are to be had in spaced or close dropstitch ribs. The mesh constructions are particularly good looking and are adaptable to tailored street costumes as well as to classic sports clothes.

Tasty Salt Pork With Cream Gravy

Old-Fashioned Dish Is Always Strong Favorite

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE other night at a supper party, conversation turned to food. We all declared our favorite dishes. Among them were many old-fashioned favorites. There were several votes for salt pork and cream gravy!

Really, there is nothing better than this simple dish, especially if you serve tender griddle cakes with it. In olden days this combination was often used for breakfast, but it is as good for lunch or for supper.

Salt pork, of course, belongs with baked beans, and I agree with a critic who bewailed the fact that there is not always enough pork used in this dish. I suppose it is actually supposed to add flavor and fat, but most of us like to have a portion of pork with each service of beans. You may, of course, add a piece of pork to canned baked beans when you put them in a casserole for baking. If the pork is scalded and cut into small pieces, it will be done enough at the end of an hour.

As is usually the case, corned beef hash proved to be another favorite dish. All agreed that it must be well browned. Poached eggs are, of course, often served with corned beef hash.

Salt Pork With Cream Gravy.

1 pound thinly sliced salt pork
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups top milk
Salt, pepper

Soak slices of salt pork one hour. Drain and wipe dry. Dip each slice in flour and fry until crisp in hot frying pan. Remove pork and keep hot. Leave two tablespoons of fat in the pan, blend in flour and add the milk, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Boil one minute, season to taste and pour over meat.

Corned Beef Hash.

2 tablespoons bacon fat or drippings
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 cups chopped corned beef, cooked
2 cups cubed boiled potatoes
1 cup stock or milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt the fat in a frying pan, add the onion, and brown slightly. Add the remaining ingredients, well mixed. Spread the mixture evenly in a pan and cook over a slow fire for half an hour. It is best to cover the pan at first so that the mixture may become thoroughly heated. If the hash is to be baked allow 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit). The hash may be stirred while cooking so that it will brown all over but if not stirred it should be folded and served in the same manner as an omelet. Garnish with pickled beets and serve with horseradish sauce.

OTHER FAVORITES

Biscuits

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
3/4 cup milk (about)

Sift dry ingredients together. Rub or cut in shortening with a stiff knife. Stir in milk. Work lightly into smooth dough. Knead and roll or pat out about half-inch thick on a floured board. Cut into rounds, put on baking sheet and bake at (450 degrees Fahrenheit) for ten to twelve minutes.

Waffles.

2 1/2 cups pastry flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1/2 cup melted shortening or cooking oil
1 1/2 cups milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients; beat eggs and stir in shortening or oil. Add milk, and then dry ingredients all at once. Beat until thoroughly mixed and bake in hot waffle iron about five minutes.

Stratford Sauce.

1/2 cup cream
3 tablespoons chopped apple.
2 tablespoons horseradish
1/2 teaspoon salt

Whip cream and fold in other ingredients. Serve with cold turkey.

Scalloped Oysters.

5 tablespoons butter
4 cups soft bread crumbs
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pint oysters

Melt the butter, add crumbs and seasonings and mix well. Drain oysters and arrange in alternate layers with the buttered crumbs in a greased baking dish. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, (450 degrees Fahrenheit).

Bread Pudding.

2 cups dry bread crumbs
1 quart hot milk
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup chopped figs
1/4 cup melted butter
3 eggs, beaten
Salt

1/2 cup chopped nuts

TIPS to Gardeners

Plant With Care

EXERCISE care in planting and also in preparing to plant. Though soil may be rich, it will not produce as it should unless it is prepared thoroughly.

A primary consideration in planting is to have the soil favorably moist; damp, but not wet. If circumstances demand that you plant when the ground is dry, moisten trenches or drills before dropping the seed.

To retain moisture after planting, cover seeds immediately with fine earth and press down firmly.

Harold Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute, advises that temperature be considered at the time of planting. Too high a temperature is often as detrimental to seed germination as one too low. A temperature between 65 and 75 degrees is most favorable.

Soil must be loose so seedling sprouts can push through, and roots develop. Where the soil forms a heavy crust, it may sometimes be broken sufficiently to let seedlings through by gently pricking the soil with a rake.

Two Extremes

Some men are so covetous as if they were to live forever; and others so profuse, as if they were to die the next moment.—Aristotle.

2 Steps in Fighting Discomfort of COLDS

1 ENTERS BODY THROUGH GASTROINTESTINAL AND INTESTINES TO EASE PAIN.

2 RELIEVES THROAT PAIN RAWNESS.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢ — relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on — with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relief is the way many doctors now approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief — then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

LIGHT WOOL FLEECE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Outstanding examples of this year's casual coat styles are the natural colored wool coats for travel, sports or campus. Soft wool fleece is used for the fitted and flared model pictured with its padded shoulders, slash pockets and broad collar of racoon. Keep in mind when buying either coat or a suit that the light beiges, particularly cereal tones are going to be "the thing" this season.

SELF-STYLED SUEDE HATS ARE POPULAR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The new drape-it-yourself suede hats are selling about as fast as the sales checks can be made out. They are in the most beguiling colors for suede, as we all know, takes dyes most beautifully and these hats are worth the price for their color alone. It is a joy to behold their exquisite pastel colorings that include such lovely soft grayish blues, pretty "dusty" pinks, mint green, lilac shades, the new golds and coppers and the voguish cereal shades. You can get any of the darker colors, navy, brown, dubonnet red, raspberry—any color you want. Before you put one of these suede fantasies on, they look shapeless, but with a deft pat here, and a cunning twist there, presto! you have a most becoming chapeau tuned to your individuality and hairdress, and with a little more coaxing these hats can be manipulated to wear in a dozen or more different ways. They are smart as can be to wear at the immediate moment and they give the costume just the touch of color that is needed to lead on to spring. Best of it is they are reasonably priced, and it's lots of fun being one's own milliner.

A Smart Hat

Pillboxes are smart. They offer the low crown and forward pitch that many women long for again. They come in close-woven straws or felts and are nearly always dark in color, accented with some bright hue. A number are given height by trims.

Wedding Styles

Long veils simplicity of line is the basic note for wedding ensembles.

"SNUGGLES DOWN IN THE PAPER — SMOKES TASTY AND COOL"

says Jimmy Bateman, praising this fast-rolling, mellow "makin's" tobacco . . .

fine roll-your-own cigarettes in every 2-oz. tin of Pringle Albert.

THERE'S NO TIME in a busy newspaper press-room to fool around with slow-rolling "makin's" tobacco that spills all over. Pressmen want to twirl their "makin's" smokes fast—but trim and neat, too. And their smokes have got to be full-bodied and tasty, yet mild! Bob Eiter, Jimmy Bateman, and Joe Brown check on this as they roll up Pringle Albert "makin's" cigarettes. P. A.'s the favorite, all right. (That's what pipe-smokers say too!)
