CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1938

NUMBER 51

Commissioners Proceedings

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, AT A MEETING HELD ON THE 9TH DAY OF JUNE, 1938.

The Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, New Mexico, convened in regular session at the Court House in the Village of Carrizozo, N. Mex., on the 9th day of June, at 3:00 o'clock P. M., pursuant to recess of the meeting held on the 6th day of June, 1938. The meeting was called to order by S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman of the said Board.

Those present at the said meeting were as follows:

S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman
Gordon Wells, Member
Absent: P. R. Sandoval, Member

Also present: Edward Penfield, County Clerk

Thereupon, there was presented to the Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, New Mexico, a bid on behalf of the State of New Mexico, by James J. Connelly, State Treasurer, which bid is in words and figures as follows:

State of New Mexico
Office of Treasurer
Great Seal of the State of New Mexico
1912

James J. Connelly, Treas.
Edna Ernest, Deputy Treas.
Santa Fe
June 8, 1938

Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

The State of New Mexico, through the office of State Treasurer, bids for and accrued interest for $20,000 Courthouse and Jail Bonds of Lincoln County, to be dated July 1, 1938, with serial maturities of $2,000 each year 1940 to 1949, inclusive, with interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum payable semi-annually at the office of the State Treasurer, Santa Fe, New Mexico, subject to approving legal opinion of the Attorney General of the State of New Mexico.

Jas. J. Connelly
State Treasurer

The matter of the acceptance of the bid was discussed and it being the consensus of opinion of said Board of County Commissioners that said bid should be accepted, it was duly moved by Gordon Wells that the said bid should be accepted by the Board of County Commissioners and that the bonds of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in the amount of $20,000.00 authorized by a special election duly called and held on the 31st day of May, 1938, be sold to the State of New Mexico, in accordance with the bid of the State of New Mexico.

The question being put to a vote on said motion, the following vote was taken:

Ayes: S. Dewey Stokes
Gordon Wells

Nays: None

The Chairman declared this motion carried.

Thereupon, Gordon Wells introduced the adoption of the following Resolution:
RESOLUTION
WHEREAS, it appears that under the provisions of law now in effect, County Bonds may be sold to the State of New Mexico, at private sale and that pursuant to said law, the State of New Mexico, through its State Treas-

Golf Tournery

The Golf tournament was quite successful, but due to the extreme heat and dry weather, not so many were in attendance from other towns.

In first flight, Ralph Petty was medalist; Will Gallacher runner-up and Ted Purcey won consolation.

In 2nd flight, Pat Kirk, Tularosa, medalist; M. U. Finley, runner-up; Mr. Monohan, Tularosa consolation.

In 3rd flight, C. O. Davis, medalist; Mrs. Evelyn Dixon, runner-up and Joe Gentry, consolation.

Ralph Petty won the Loving Cup and gladstone bag. Other gifts awarded were carving set, lamp, pair of shoes, two shirts and two ties, but we did not learn to whom they were awarded.

"Un Gran Baile" was held Saturday night.

James J. Connelly has presented a bid for the purchase of the general obligation bonds of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in the amount of $20,000.00 authorized at a special election duly called and held on the 31st day of May, 1938, and

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, by motion duly made, seconded and carried, has accepted said bid and said bid being for the price authorized by Law:

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, that said bonds be and they are hereby awarded to the State of New Mexico, for the sum of $20,000.00; plus accrued interest, the interest on said bonds to be at the rate of 3 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually.

Adopted and approved this 9th day of June, 1938.

S. Dewey Stokes
Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Lincoln County, New Mexico

(Seal of the Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County)

Attest: Edward Penfield
County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, New Mexico.

The question of the adoption of the foregoing Resolution was put to a vote and the following votes were taken:

Ayes: S. Dewey Stokes and Gordon Wells

Nays: None

Thereupon, the Chairman declared the Resolution to have been duly adopted and he thereupon signed and approved the same and sealed with the official seal of the Board of County Commissioners and attested to by the County Clerk and Ex-Officio Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Lincoln County, New Mexico.

It was ordered by the Board that a full and complete transcript of the bond proceedings be prepared as required by law and forwarded to the Attorney General of New Mexico for his approval.

There being no further business at hand the Board of County Commissioners hereby recesses until called.

S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman
Attest: Edward Penfield
County Clerk

Spencer-Turner Wedding Solemnized Last Monday

Miss Jane Elizabeth Spencer became the bride of Dr. James Paul Turner last Monday at noon at an impressive ceremony performed by the Rev. John L. Lawson, of Hot Springs, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. T. A. Spencer at the Bar W ranch.

The bride entered escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage.

Mrs. G. L. O'Neal Proud of St. Louis Mo., served as matron of honor, while the groom was attended by Dr. Claud Hough, Mulvane, Kansas. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. T. E. Kelley, who presided at the piano. Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Spratt sang "O Fair, and Sweet and Holy" by Cantor, and "Until" by Sanderson. The bridal party descended the stairs to the strains of the wedding march and during the ceremony Mrs. Kelley played softly, "Love's Old Sweet Song".

The bride was clad in a gown of mousseline de soie of purest white, made on sweeping lines, over white satin. Her long white veil was held in place on the head by a bandeau. Her bridal bouquet, shaped round, was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Proud was clad in yellow mousseline de soie made over yellow satin. Her headpiece was a halo of flowers and her bouquet was of cornflowers and roses. The ceremony was performed in front of the large fireplace where an improvised altar was arranged. Lighted candles glowed amidst the flowers at the altar.

Other members of the party were Mrs. Spencer's sister Mrs. Whitlow; who was gowned in silk with blue flowers on white ground; Mrs. Spratt, sister of the groom, who was dressed in a blue afternoon frock made long, while Mrs. Parker wore a rose colored lace gown over rose satin. Men of the wedding party were white flannel suits.

Following the wedding an informal reception was held and luncheon was served to over two hundred friends, and relatives who attended the wedding. The bride cut the first slice of wedding cake, after which Mrs. Spratt, sister of Dr. Turner, sliced and served the large three tier cake. Mrs. M. B. Parker, aunt of the bride presided at the punch bowl. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Whitlow, served assisted by other relatives of the bride and groom.

Mrs. Turner was born and reared in Carrizozo, and is well loved for her superior qualities of mind and heart. She has a master's degree from the State University at Albuquerque and has received numerous honors. She belongs to the Kappa, Kappa Gamma sorority; and was elected to the mater board, Theta, Alpha, Phi.

Dr. Turner was graduated from Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark., with Bachelor of Arts degree. He was also graduated from the University of Arkansas, and received his medical diploma from the same institution. For ten years he was railroad surgeon for the Santa Fe railway at Mulvane Kansas. He is a member of Theta, Kappa, Phi.

Out of state guests: Mr. Spencer's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Spencer, his brother, Mr. Aubrey Spencer, both of Dallas; Mr. Spencer's sister, Mrs. J. A. Whitlow and daughter, Betty of Tulsa, Oklahoma; Mrs. M. B. Parker, Formosa Beach, Calif.; Mrs. Parker's granddaughter, Jane Garver, of Hollywood; Dr. Turner's mother, Mrs. F. P. Turner, Little Rock, Ark.; Miss Carol Cristy, Honolulu; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. O'Neal Proud, St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Hough, and daughter Marilyn all of Mulvane, Kansas and Mrs. E. T. Teboe, Harper, Kansas.

Out of town guests: Mr. and Mrs. Walter La Fleur, Tinnie; Miss Helen Rolland, Santa Fe; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Tittsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor, Capitlan; Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Harris, Mrs. Poe Corn, Roswell; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Porter, Fort Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. John Lanning, Miss Mary Woods all of Artesia; Mrs. Frank Rolland, of Alamogordo; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lee, San Mateo; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Evans, Marquez; Miss Vena C. Klaube, Mrs. Alice Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, Frank Bond and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Gambrell, all of Albuquerque.

'Midst showers of good wishes and a perfect avalanche of rice Dr. and Mrs. Turner left for a three weeks' bridal trip to various points of interest, including the Canadian Rockies.

The bride's going-away gown was a beautiful sandwool, with navy blue accessories.

Mrs. Roy E. Kent

Funeral services were conducted Friday June 10 at 2:30 p. m. at the Methodist church for Mrs. Roy E. Kent, who passed away in an El Paso hospital, Tuesday June 7, 1938.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent moved to Ocuero from Santa Rosa a number of years ago and during the time of their residence in Lincoln County have made hosts of friends wherever they were acquainted.

Mrs. Kent became a member of Coalora Rebekah Lodge No. 15, and took an active interest in all lodge affairs. She was also a member of the Eastern Stars at Santa Rosa. Her charm and quiet dignity made her a very welcome addition to any crowd, and deepest sorrow is felt for her loss.

Hallie Norton Kent was born in Crawford County Illinois August 30, 1885. She was the only daughter of Wellington Asa Norton and his wife, Mary Rebecca Jones Norton.

On the 28th day of May, 1903 she was married to Mr. Roy Everett Kent of Flat Rock, Illinois. To this union five daughters and one son were born of whom three daughters survive.

Besides her husband, Mr. Roy E. Kent, she is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Gladys Homen, Nubieber, California; Mrs. Bonnie Hodgkinson, Westwood, California and Marguerite Garber, Chico, California all of whom were at the funeral. She is survived by three grandsons, Glenn Wall, Edward Garber and Gerald Homen, all of whom attended the funeral, as did Mr. Wall, a coninlaw from Westwood, California whose wife died about a year ago. Other survivors are two brothers, Elmo Norton, Illinois; Clyde Norton, Indiana; one half brother, Mayo Cannon, Illinois; and one half sister, Mrs. Bonnie Davis of Michigan.

Remains were brought from El Paso to Carrizozo on Wednesday night. A delegation of Rebekahs and Odd Fellows met the train and accompanied the bereaved ones to the Kelley funeral home, where the remains were to await the loved ones from California.

Rev. R. A. Crawford and the Order of Eastern Stars conducted funeral services at the church, while the Daughters of Rebekah held services at the cemetery. She was laid to rest beside her only son, Norton, who passed away in 1932, at the age of 15.

Pall bearers were: Messrs, Herman Kelt, Joe West, Calvin Carl, Gene Dow, Jr. Colonel Jones and John Wright.

Members of the Eastern Star were flower women.

As we pause to drop a flower and to pay tribute to her blessed memory, our hearts are heavy, and our thoughts are sad. We will miss her true loyalty and understanding; we will miss her influence for good and her encouragement.

God rest her soul, and may the memory of her, and her goodness of heart never, never be forgotten.

Mrs. Bloxom, State president of the Rebekah Assembly of New Mexico arrived in Carrizozo yesterday and was present at a special meeting of Rebekahs last night. Mrs. Bloxom will be one of the principal speakers at the White Mountain Association which meets tomorrow and Sunday. Everybody is invited to Camp Lee Robinson for this occasion. Basket lunches both days.

Seven Hour Broadcast From KRLD

Dallas, Texas, June 15.— Originating from the Band Shell Amphitheatre in the State Fair Park in Dallas, the "Singing Convention of the Air," under the direction of V. O. Stamps, promises to make history on the night of June 22, when it "takes the air," at 11 p. m. for a seven-hour broadcast through radio station, KRLD.

I. O. O. F. Notes

Last Tuesday night the Odd Fellows conferred the first degree on Mr. Fred King a member of Alamogordo lodge. Also visiting from Alamogordo were Messrs. Buck, Newsom, and Anderson of Tularosa. Mr. O. T. Newton of Tularosa a member of the local lodge, was also on hand. The Alamogordo members were accompanied by Dr. C. T. Kibbe Gand Instructor of the State, who made a very interesting talk.

After the degree work and business meeting-delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to a large number of guests and members.

Mrs. Nellie Braum who was in the Rathmann hospital for the past ten days, is feeling better at present and has returned home.

Messrs. Kelt, Richard and Stokes were Santa Fe visitors the first of the week.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Outdoor Fireplace. — Backyard fireplaces are easily constructed and provide a center for family recreation during summer months; steak roasts, corn roasts, and marshmallow toasts are only a few of the many reasons for building one.

Improving Cookies. — The flavor of cookies is improved and they stay moist longer if one tablespoonful of jam or jelly is added to the cookie dough.

Cream Cheese Substitute. — Cottage cheese may be used in place of cream cheese if it is pressed through a fine sieve to remove the moisture.

Line the Clothes Basket. — Clothes baskets can be kept clean by lining them with washable material, such as oilcloth, muslin, or heavy paper may be used.

Mealy Baked Potatoes. — To make baked potatoes dry and mealy, when they are tender put a fork at least twice into each potato to let the steam escape.

Prize Winning Recipes To Be Announced Soon C. Houston Goudins, who writes our "WHAT TO EAT AND WHY" series, reports that the Cake Recipe Contest which he recently conducted through the columns of this newspaper was a gratifying success.

A tremendous number of recipes were submitted and the home economists on the staff of his Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York city have been busy for days testing and tasting almost every imaginable kind of cake.

Because of the volume of recipes submitted, they will require a little while longer to complete their tests and to arrive at their decision as to the winners of the $25.00 first prize, the five second prizes of $10.00 each, and the ten third prizes of $5.00 each.

Prize winners will be reported in these columns in the near future, and as announced at the beginning of the contest, prize winning recipes, together with those receiving honorable mention from the judges, will be printed in a booklet to be distributed nationally.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

CZECHOSLOVAKIA and all that may hang on its destiny is just an added starter in the up-and-coming cosmos of A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company.

It is the always assured and hopeful Mr. Robertson who announces his company will spend $12,000,000 on additions and betterments this year, and, from where Mr. Robertson sits, that's just a couple of white chips compared to spendings to come.

Mr. Robertson is the H. G. Wells of industry. His "shape of things to come," which he has been outlining for the last year, or two, includes the following specifications:

Migratory humans, shifting north and south like the birds. "Just whether the children will be born in the North or the South," he said, "is not quite clear to me, but I expect, we will follow the policy of the birds and have the children in the North."

Windowless houses, pasteurized air, and artificial sunlight. One-man planes, with folding wings, kept in the hall rack, with the umbrellas.

Pocket radios for two-way talk with anybody, anywhere. Noiseless cities with double-deck streets.

Flat houses, with a push-button crane which will park the auto on the roof.

He was a farm and village boy at Panama, New York, chore boy and rustler in his youth and hence not through grammar school until he was seventeen. Then he studied law in a country office, entered practice, got corporations for clients and then began owning and operating them.

At forty-six he was president of the Philadelphia company and now heads a $200,000,000 company. He pays liberal wage bonuses and urges friendly, co-operative relationship between capital and labor.

IT WAS only a year ago that Robert R. Young, thirty-nine-year-old Texan, quite unknown to Wall Street, rode herd on the straying Van Sweringen system and corralled it. It was all bewilderingly complicated, but, finally sifted down, it appeared that Mr. Young had picked up a $3,000,000,000 "empire" with an original investment of $225,000.

Young Texan Rode Herd on Rail System

He is a quiet, inconspicuous, unassuming man, and now the feature writers are just getting around to calling him a "Titan."

He won a rock-and-sock proxy battle for the control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway. Within the last few years, he has infiltrated gently into high finance, which is just now becoming acutely conscious of his presence.

His family was in and around Canadian, Texas, before the battle of the Alamo. They started the First National Bank of Canadian, which is now in the hands of the fourth generation.

At Culver Military academy, Robert R. Young was graduated at the head of his class, its youngest graduate, and later he attended the University of Virginia.

Career at Culver Was Prophetic

With the Du Ponts in 1910, he got his preliminary work-out in finance and joined General Motors in 1922

In 1932, he founded his own Wall Street firm, with Frank F. Kolbe, his later associate in the Van Sweringen putch.

Mrs. Young is the former Anita Ten Eyck O'Keefe, of Williamsburg, Va., sister of Georgia O'Keefe, the painter. In 1935, they leased Beechwood, the Astor estate, in Newport.

Mr. Young, a Democrat, like his father, paid $15,000 for a consignment of those famous Democratic convention books, which congressmen, badgering him at a senate hearing, insisted wasn't nearly so much of a bargain as the Van Sweringen deal. "You are a bigger sucker than I thought you were," said Senator Wheeler.

A. Thornton Baker, Princeton, N. J., business man who turned skipper, is shown after bringing his 72-foot schooner into New York harbor after a voyage that lasted 12 months and took him and his crew into some of the world's most famed ports. The schooner was built for Baker in Hong Kong and is made of teakwood throughout. He was accompanied on the voyage by his sons, Hobart and A. T. Baker III.

Son of "Sherlock Holmes" Creator Weds

Secrets of Ancients Survive Attacks of Modern Science

With television soon to become serious rival to the movies, and giant airplanes and "press-the-button" warships things which raise little comment from the average man, it is surprising that there are many secrets known to the ancients which have survived the attacks of modern science, says a writer in London Answers.

The Greeks could not weave linen or wool on anything like the scale we weave them today. But they wove them into the pilema; a form of cuirass which could not be penetrated by the sharpest dart or arrow. The secret has been lost—perhaps forever.

The Romans sank wells for water to great depths. Exactly how they did the boring is unknown.

The beautiful purple dye, known of old, has eluded the dye-makers of today. And modern builders can make nothing of the strong and durable cement used by the Greeks and the Romans in their walls. This cement was stronger and harder than the stone itself.

The knowledge possessed by the ancient Egyptians was very extensive. They had a method of dressing stone to withstand the ravages of time and weather. They also perfected the art of embalming. Probes, forceps, and other surgical instruments have been found in Egypt. For what purpose they were used we will never know.

That secret, along with many others, passed away with the destruction of the famous library at Alexandria in the Fifth century. The loss of the knowledge contained in that library was a blow to civilization.

Reading and Thinking

Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge; it is thinking makes what we read ours. So far as we apprehend and see the connection of ideas, so far it is ours; without that it is so much loose matter floating in our brain.—Locke.

Must Books Be Read?

The collector of books need not fear the challenge that is sure to be made, sooner or later, by his skeptical acquaintances: "Have you read them all?" The first idea he ought to get out of his head is that he must only buy books for immediate reading.

"The charm of a library," said that devout book lover, the late Arnold Bennett, "is seriously impaired when one has read the whole or nearly the whole of its contents."

Bennett confessed that he had hundreds of books he had never opened, and which, perhaps, he never would open. But he would not part with them. He knew they were good, and as he gazed on them, he said to them, "Some day, if chance favors, your turn will come. Be patient!"

Best Thoughts

Try to care about something in this vast world besides the gratification of small selfish desires. Try to care for what is best in thought and action—something that is good apart from the accidents of your own lot. Look on other lives besides your own. See what their troubles are, and how they are borne.—George Elliot.

WHEN LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY

IT'S ALWAYS Firestone

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

On May 30, Floyd Roberts shattered all track records for the 500-mile Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour using Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

THEY said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1938

Mrs. Era B. Smith, Editor and Publisher

Office Of Dennis Chavez

Washington, D. C., June 11, 1938.— Senator Chavez returned this week from his week-end trip to New Mexico and El Paso. In El Paso he addressed the Tri-State meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. He promised them to work in the United States Senate for the Wage Hour Bill and he pledged himself to work for the cause of labor and the under privileged.

Senator Chavez was the principal speaker at the convention banquet of the Lulacs in El Paso. More than 400 delegates from Texas, Arizona and New Mexico heard the Senator's plea for a greater development of Pan-Americanism and a fuller expansion of this nation's Good Neighbor Policy to the Latin-American Republics to the south. In his address the Senator warned against the encroachment of "jams" from abroad. He said the United States must "cultivate new friends and new spheres for our activity," declaring that these spheres lie most naturally to the south. He lauded the New Deal Good Neighbor Policy.

On his return trip Senator Chavez stopped to visit his family and to confer with friends and associates in Albuquerque and Santa Fe.

The Senate this week considered and passed the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District Bill. The bill authorized an appropriation for repayment to the District of the operation and maintenance cost applicable to certain properties located in Bernalillo County purchased by the United States Government for the Indians. The bill was introduced jointly by Senator Hatch and Senator Chavez.

This week the Senate took up private and miscellaneous bills while waiting for the conference to bring out a report on the Wage Hours Bill.

A compromise agreement on the Wage and Hours Bill is expected at the end of this week. A speedy agreement of both houses of Congress is expected and an adjournment is looked for on Tuesday.

Thursday the Flood Control Project Bill was up before the Senate. The Chavez-Hatch amendment providing an authorization for the Department of Agriculture to use funds for the construction of necessary work in the Rio Grande and Pecos Rivers if found necessary by the present survey that is being made by the Soil Conservation Service of the two watersheds was adopted. Flood control on the Pecos and Rio Grande Rivers is fast becoming a reality.

Various people have wired Senator Chavez concerning the difficulties in obtaining certification for work relief. The Senator assured those persons that the difficulties are only due to the disorganization which resulted in transferring certification from the State Department of Public Welfare to the WPA. An efficient and smooth working certification organization is now being set up by WPA and should be functioning immediately.

Senator Chavez went to the Veterans Administration this week to add his influence to representatives from the Texas Panhandle, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma regions seeking the establishment of a Veterans Facility in Amarillo, Texas.

Pioneering Notes

So little and dainty with hands soft as the petals of a rose is Martha Frances Wells, age sixty-eight. Born in Belfast, her conversations are still flavored with Irish witticisms. Martha came by water, rail and stage to W. O., and the entire trip took only fourteen days. "But why did you come?" I queried. And laughingly she answered, "Brother Jack was already living in W. O. and he wrote such exciting letters, letters about cowboys and such—and I was just sixteen—well, I just had to come." Eventually there were two brothers and one sister of Mrs. Wells married and living in W. O.

When Martha arrived here in '86 the town was quiet and lovely. Fun was had in parties, candy pullings and the regular Saturday night dances. Dr. Jno. Lane's wife was the chief instigator of entertainment for the young folk. Private affairs were given toe; everything being very, very formal—evening gowns and swallow tails.

Martha taught school in Texas Park for one term soon after she arrived in W. O. The terms then were only three months long, lengthening to five, to seven, and then to nine months, just as the County prospered.

Two newspapers were published in W. O. in the early nineties; Major Caffrey editing the Lincoln County Leader and the Rev. Slight the Golden Era. Both papers were very newsy and highly spiced with barbed comments which the two editors hurled at each other.

Robert Fauvet, farmer, came to W. O. from Paris, France, and in '82 homesteaded what is now known as the Hanner Place. Fauvet's garden supplied the only vegetables in town and he demanded outrageously high prices for his produce. For several years he made light bread and sold-it to the miners.

Church in the olden days constituted a very important factor in the lives of the inhabitants of W. O. There were two established places of worship in the nineties. The Baptists and Congregationalists held services for a long time in the same hall, one in the morning and other in the afternoon.

Mrs. Wells tells of two baptizings by the Baptist Church that took place in the Wells tank at W. O. Springs. The regular preacher, she says, "baptized about twenty-five people one Sunday, then some of the converts backslid and had to be re-baptized by a visiting Revivalist several months later.

The Congregational Church was erected in 1889. There were held the Benefit concerts with lovely singing by a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Leighner, Mrs. Frank Carpenter and Mrs. Wm. Watson. Beautiful solos were contributed by Mrs. Carpenter and Miss Vene Gumm. An orchestra of five pieces, organ piano, flute, violin and bass viol supplied the music. An admission price of fifty cents was charged and a goodly crowd always attended.

The church had a mighty fine library with lots of good reading books," said Mrs. Wells.

Mrs. Wells tells a rather amusing thing on one of the Congregational ministers. "He got angry," she said, "quit our church and went over to the Methodists, and then finally leaving both churches, he became a lawyer."

The Roman Catholics had no special place of worship, the visiting Father holding services in the different homes.

Mrs. Wells has in the later years of her life spent her winters in California and her summers in the old home place at W. O. Springs. Her three special interests now seem to be her flowers and her knitting and her cup of tea.

"What has Lou got to do with it?" Howard asked.

"He's one of the gang that did this. We caught him. He's our prisoner now. A hostage, you might say. If anything happens to Miss Ruth, it's all off with him."

"What do you mean, he's one of the gang that did this? Lou doesn't go around carrying girls up into the hills, if that's what happened, though so far I can't make head or tail of it." Howard looked reproachfully at the L. C. man. "You hadn't ought to talk that wild, lawless way, Dan. About stringing up Lou, and crazy talk like that. Be reasonable. First off, tell us the story. Begin at the beginning. Let's hear what happened. Will you have a drink?" He pushed the bottle toward Brand.

"I will not," Brand said curtly. "No need to begin at the start of it, Sherm. You know that better than I do. Through yore aples you found out some Mexican smugglers were going to run oliver through Live Oak canyon to Tough Nut. You sent five of yore gang out to waylay them."

"Wa-ait a minute, Dan." Howard raised a fat hand to stop him. "No such a thing. Some of the boys headed for Tough Nut to see the elephant. They may have gone by way of Live Oak canyon. I wouldn't know about that."

"It isn't more than 40 miles off the direct route to Tough Nut," Brand said contemptuously. "Don't try to load me, Sherm. I know what that outlaw bunch went to Live Oak for. We found two Mexicans they had rubbed out and the pack-mule with the silver. Yore crowd was still shootin' when we took a hand."

"The Mexicans must have attacked them," Howard protested. "That would be the way of it."

"Sure. When a brush rabbit gets nerve enough to spit in the eye of a rattlesnake. Like I said, Lou in our prisoner. That boy hasn't any sand in his craw. He wilted right off and blabbed all he knew. Don't waste my time trying to lie. Here's the nub of it. Two of yore men slipped away from us up a side canyon. They cut across to the L. C. ranch-house and picked up Miss Ruth. After she had rustled grub for them, they took her with them into the hills."

"What two men?"

"Morg Norris and Kansas."

"I'm not responsible for what that killer Morg Norris does," the fat man burst out. "You know that, Dan. He's a bad hombre. Long ago, soon as I saw what he was, I washed my hands of him."

"Lee holds you responsible. So do the rest of us. You can't get away with that, Sherm. Every decent man in this country will be against you in this thing. If that devil Norris hurts Miss Ruth, you'll be in a jam. Don't think anything else for a minute."

The big moon face of Howard was pallid. The reverend at Live Oak was bad enough. Not much chance to play innocent with Lou a prisoner. But this crazy adventure of Morgan Norris was ruinous. Sherm did not know which way to turn. Lee Chiswick hated him, anyhow. The oldest son of the L. C. ranchman had been a private in the Texas Rangers and had been killed while on duty. The father of the dead boy had always suspected Howard of betraying the youngster to his death, though he had never been able to prove it. If this girl was injured, Lee would go hog wild. His revenge would never stop at Norris—not even at Lou Howard.

"We want to be reasonable, Dan," he said. "I wouldn't have had this happen for all the money in the world—if it has happened. I can't believe it. Morg is a good-looking fellow. Maybe he just persuaded her to ride along a ways. If it was Morg. We want to be sure of that."

"Morg left a note," Brand said quietly. "Besides, the girl who works at the ranch got away and told us. What's the sense in trying to fool yourself? If it is yoreself and not me you're trying to load, I'm here to tell you to get busy. Send some of yore scawlaws out to shoot down Norris. Get Miss Ruth back somehow safely. If you don't, you're out of luck, Sherm." The face of the foreman was harsh and grim.

Howard mopped his perspiring face with a bandanna. He made up his mind to sacrifice Norris. It was too bad Nile High was present, since it would be fatal for the idea to get out that he would not stand by any of his gang in trouble. But even Nile High must see they had to throw Morg to the lions after doing such a thing.

"We'd better talk turkey," he admitted. "First thing is to get Miss Chiswick back. I can promise to put 30 men to combing the hills inside of two hours, Dan. I'll go the limit on this thing."

"Good, if you send them to the right place," Brand made blunt answer.

"I don't know where he is any more than you do," Howard cut back sharply. "And I won't have you saying I do, Dan. There's one thing more I'll say. My boy Lou isn't in this. If you—or Lee—or any of his riders—do that boy any harm, I'll never quit till I've cleaned up the whole Chiswick nest. You can put that in your pipe and smoke it."

"All I'm saying is that you'd better find Miss Ruth and get her home," Brand replied, frowning at him.

The foreman turned and strode out of the room.

Mile High said to Howard angrily, "Is it yore idea to throw down on Morg?"

The lifeless eyes of Howard slid round to meet those of the other. "Don't always be a lunkhead, Mile High. What has this fellow done but throw down on you and me and all of us? You know this country won't stand for such stuff as he has just pulled off. He'd know it, too, if he wasn't crazy. We've got to play our hands to save ourselves. When Morg Norris took this girl with him against her will, he signed his death-warrant. Don't you go signing yours. We're going after

He pushed through the brush for half a mile.

Morg to get him. You had better get you a horse and trail along with one of the possees. You'll find it's doggoned good insurance against a few years in the pen at Yuma."

CHAPTER X

Jeff Gray had to fight down an impulse to hurry. It would be folly to wear out the horses getting to the Walsh cabin, only to find out that Kansas had sent them on a wild-goose chase. After all, the man was one of the gang. What more likely than that, under instruction of Norris, he had been trying to direct the pursuit in the wrong direction when he freed Nelly?

With a heavy heart Jeff admitted to himself that this was very likely a job that could not be done in a hurry. He might have to sleep on Norris' trail for a week. The fellow knew every pocket in these hills. If Kansas were false-carding, they might not find the outlaws at all.

The two men traveled steadily, Sorley in the lead. The little Irishman was a good guide. He had an instinct for short cuts, and he held his horse to the fastest gait that would not sap its strength. They flung the miles behind them, moving always deeper and deeper into the hills.

"Much farther?" Gray asked once, his mouth set to a grim straight slit.

"Not so far," Sorley answered. "That's Crowfoot over to the left. We're swingin' round it now."

They circled back of the mountain, dropped into a gulch, and clambered up its stony bed. Near the top of the canyon Sorley stopped his horse.

"The cabin is in a little park just over the ridge," he said. "What do we do? Bust right down on them? Or wait till it's dark?"

"Better have a look first from the ridge," Gray suggested.

They left their horses just below the lip of the park, climbed up to the ledge, and looked down. No smoke rose from the house. There were no horses in the corral, but one saddled bronco was grazing near the spring.

"They sure have been here," Sorley said. "But they have done gone, and in some hurry, looks like. Didn't even take time to unsaddle. Why for did they leave one of the horses here?"

Gray was looking down at something sprawled out in front of the cabin. "They didn't need but two horses," he said, his voice harsh and cold. "One of them stayed here." He pointed at the still body. A pulse of excitement hammered in the scrawny throat of the line-rider. "Begorry, you're right. There has been a fight, and one of them got killed."

The younger man differed. "Not a fight, but a murder. For some reason Norris made up his mind to get rid of Kansas. He did so, and then lit out. I'm going down."

"Look out for a trap," the old-timer advised.

"Don't think it's that. Two of the horses have gone."

But Gray did not take any unnecessary chances. His rifle was across the saddle as he rode down into the park. He made sure nobody was in the house before he took a close look at the dead man.

"Kansas, like you said," Sorley looked at his companion and then looked away. Both of them were thinking of what this meant to Ruth. "They can't be far ahead of us, if we knew which way they had gone."

It would be possible to find in what direction they had started, but both the men knew there was little chance of running down Norris in hundreds of miles of rough mountain terrain.

Sorley began to quarter over the park looking for sign.

"He shot Kansas in the back of the head, from off to one side," Gray mentioned.

"The horses headed up toward that patch of little pines near the ridge," Sorley called to him. "Two of them. Morg was in a sweat to get away."

"Yes," Gray's voice raised in sudden excitement. "Come here, Pat. Someone left a message for us."

Sorley ran to him. He pointed to some writing scratched in the sand. The old man read it aloud slowly.

"Wild Horse basin."

"It's meant for us," Gray said. "Either the girl wrote it—or Norris did. It's signed with her initials, but that doesn't mean a thing. The scoundrel may have left it to fool us. The letters are done kinda shaky, as if she had made them in a hurry, on the fly." His eyes were back again on the writing.

"That's right," agreed the line-rider. "If Norris had done it, he would have fixed the letters deeper, so we wouldn't miss seeing them. I'd say Miss Ruth wrote it."

"Where is Wild Horse basin?"

Sorley pointed to the north. "Up in the high hills, back thataway. Say, how would the girl know where he was heading for?"

"She might have heard him say—or Kansas may have told her before he was killed. Likely Kansas made some move to help her. Morg wouldn't have shot him if he hadn't figured the other fellow was turning against him. Let's get going."

"For Wild Horse basin?"

"Yes. I have a hunch the girl did that writing. Morg never would have thought of it."

Sorley looked down at the dead man. "I hate not to bury him before we go, even if he was a scawlaw. But we've got to jump. It will be night soon."

They carried the body into the cabin and covered it with two gunnysacks.

The riders followed the trail left by Norris and his prisoner. Once out of the park, Sorley waited only to make sure of the direction taken by these in front of them. He struck into the hills, dipping across gullehes and winding round the shoulders of elephant humps. The country grew wilder and more rugged. Sometimes they were in a region of stunted pines. More often the hills were dry and scarred with rock outcroppings. From the summits they could see a saw-toothed range lifting its crest into a sky of violet haze. Behind a crotch of the hills the sun was setting. Already dusk had softened the vivid tints of orange and scarlet to a faint pink glow. Night soon would sift down upon the highlands.

The pursuers dropped down into the basin, came to a little stream tumbling down through the rocks. Sorley pulled up his horse.

"No use going any farther," he said. "Got to wait till we can see. All we'd do is get lost if we kept traveling."

Gray read the despondency in the old line-rider's voice. He understood it because his own heart was sick. What Pat said was true. They might as well throw off and make camp.

"There's one thing," he said. "If they came here, Norris would camp on a creek. Maybe on this one, since it's the first he would come to in the basin. You fix up something to eat while I drift up along the bank for a ways."

"Sure," Pat answered hopelessly. "Won't do any harm."

The younger man swung from the saddle and turned his horse over to Sorley. "Reckon I'll make better time on foot," he decided.

The stars were pricking out of the sky. Black, shadowy outlines marked where the hill boundaries had been. In the vast emptiness Jeff had an acute sense of insignificance. He was an atom in an immense universe. His will to do held no more potency than that of one of the trout in this rippling stream.

He pushed through the brush for a half a mile or more. Abruptly he stopped. In front of him, two or three hundred yards distant, was a light which he knew must come from a campfire. A hot gladness poured through his blood.

Swiftly, with an little rustling as possible, he moved toward the camp. It was in an open place, close to the bank of the stream. On the edge of the clearing, as Jeff drew near, he made out the vague shadow of horses. Two figures were seated by the fire. He heard the murmur of a voice.

Gray crept forward with more care. There was no immediate hurry. Norris sat cross-legged at his ease. He had no faintest suspicion that there was any friend of Ruth Chiswick within a score of miles.

He was talking. The slur of his mocking speech came to Jeff before the words.

"I sure picked a fine spot for our honeymoon, sweetheart," he jeered. "A million candles in yore bedroom, honey. I'd say you were in luck I picked you up. Some break for you to get me instead of that pink-car Lou Howard."

The girl's head was low. Jeff could see she was sobbing. Her courage had washed out. There could be no help in heaven or on earth for her now, she must be thinking.

Norris rose, stretched himself, and yawned, his arms above his head. The man's evil smile looked down on her. He opened his mouth to speak, but words were frozen on his lips. From out of the brush came a chill crisp order.

"Keep yore arms right up where they are, Norris."

The figure of the outlaw grew rigid. A man was coming out of the scrub, revolver in hand.

"Don't make any mistake," Gray ordered, "or it will be yore last." He moved toward the outlaw slowly.

Fragments of thoughts raced chaotically through the brain of the bad man. He yielded to a desperate impulse and dived back of the fire, dragging at his gun.

young wife for war before their child was born. He had instructed his bride to send him word concerning their child, so that if it were a son, the father might return and teach him the art of warfare. But the young wife determined not to lose her son and when Sohrab was born, she sent word to Rustum that their child was a daughter.

In the early morning a flag of truce was carried out the field that separated the two armies. An order for peace for the day was given.

Rustum Agrees to Fight.

The Persian leader approached Rustum and told him of the challenge but the warrior shook his head and said that since the Persian prince favored the young fighters in court, he should favor them on the field of honor. But the leader implored Rustum for the glory of the Persian army, so that at last he yielded, but only if he fought disguised.

The two warriors walked onto the center of the plain. They were armed with metal shields and breast plates, and carried swords and spears. Rustum wore no insignia on his weapons. He spoke:

"I am a tried warrior. You may meet your death today, needlessly. Let us drop this fight and make peace between us and you come and live with me as my son."

Feeling a strange sensation, Sohrab cried, "Are you the mighty Rustum?"

But the older man thought that the younger one sought to learn his name and then to boast to his companions of fighting the mighty Rustum so he cried, "It does not matter who I am! On guard!"

They began to fight. Long and hard they waged back and forth over the plain. Then swinging his cudgel, Rustum hurled it and the shock threw him to his knees."

Enraged at being on his knees with both armies watching, the older man seized his spear and roared, "Rustum!"

Sohrab was surprised to hear the name of his father and he dropped his shield and stepped backward. The charging spear of Rustum thrust through his side.

Sohrab had received a death wound, but his spirit was not killed. Rustum taunted him, but Sohrab answered with burning tone, "Wait until my father, the mighty warrior Rustum learns that you have killed his only son!"

Rustum turned pale, "Rustum never had a son," he cried.

Sohrab showed the sign of the griffin on his arm. The other man fell to the ground. He seized his arms and would have killed himself had not Sohrab stopped him. The younger man in a weakening tone urged his father to live.

Geologist Sees Third Ice Age in Next Two Thousand Years' Period

A new ice age, the third, in geologic history, is being indicated by measured risings of parts of the eastern hemisphere, according to Prof. F. X. Schaffer of the University of Vienna, writes a Berkeley, Calif., United Press correspondent.

Dr. Schaffer, who is an internationally known geologist, said that exhaustive measurements taken at Stockholm show that in the last 50 years Sweden has risen about eight inches, while similar measurements in Finland show that that country has risen 10 inches in 34 years.

"An increase in the altitude of a continent," declared Schaffer, "or even a portion of a continent by approximately 600 feet lowers the annual average temperature by one degree, centigrade. We know that a decrease in the present temperature of Scandinavia by about three degrees centigrade would start a glaciation in Europe as big as that of the Quaternary, in which period the last ice age took place."

"During the last period of glaciation ice covered one-fourth to one-fifth of the present area of continents. Before that time man had appeared on the eastern hemisphere and he moved south ahead of the oncoming ice until he reached Africa, where he was secure.

"A study of the deposits left by glaciers in Sweden shows that the flow started northward some 12,000 years ago. In other words, it took the ice 5,000 years to recede to its present limits in the polar areas, where it has remained for 7,000 years.

"At last, however, signs indicate that it is again getting ready to move southward, and unless those signs should fall it should start within the next 2,000 years."

Oysters Are Prolific

Oysters are very prolific. The Atlantic coast species spawn five or six times during the season—from May to August. An oyster may discharge as many as one-half billion eggs in a season. Only a few survive. Less than one per cent hatch and reach maturity. The eggs hatch and the young begin to swim in a few hours. At the end of the day they form a bivalve shell, then attach themselves permanently to rocks or other submerged objects. They feed on microscopic water life and grow rapidly.

Father Meets 'Stranger' Son In Death Fight

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

"SOHRAB AND RUSTUM" by Mathew Arnold is laid in the days of long ago, when men fought to gain personal glory and to be known as the heroes of their tribes. The story opens in the gray light of approaching dawn, on a vast plain near the River Oxus of Persia. Two armies sleep in their tents opposite each other on the spreading plain. They are the Persians and the Tartars who have been enemies these many years.

In the quietness of night, one soldier does not sleep. All night he has lain awake. Noiselessly he slips through the camp toward the tent of Peran Wisa, aged commander of the Tartar army.

"Who is there?" asks Peran Wisa, rising in his bed.

"It is I, Sohrab; coming to ask a favor of you, oh kind one," spoke the vibrant voice of the young soldier.

"What is it that you want, my son?" Peran Wisa asked.

"To fight in single combat against the champion of the Persian army," was the request.

Peran Wisa sighed. "Can you not be satisfied to be as a son to me and to remain a leader in the Tartar army?"

Story of Rustum.

But Sohrab held to his request, telling Peran Wisa the story of his life and why he sought to gain renown in single combat. Sohrab's father was Rustum, mighty warrior of ancient days, who had left his

Cotton Fashions for Mother, Daughter

THESE two designs are particularly good inspirations for summer daytimes—they're cool, simple, becoming, easy to make. The house dress can be made in a few hours, with a diagram, and the jumper frock includes a detailed sew chart, so it's no trouble at all.

House Dress in Large Sizes. With darts at the waistline and inside tucks on the shoulders, this dress has an unusually good line—trim and slenderizing. Pleats in the short sleeves make them easy to work in. Gingham, seersucker, percale and broadcloth are the best materials for this. Trim it with bright rickrack braid.

Girl's Jumper Blouse Frock. With a jumper frock in dark cotton and several crisp white blouses, it's easy to keep your young daughter looking fresh and smart—and cuts down on the laundry, too. This style, with its flare skirt and puff sleeves, is the most becoming fashion in the world for girls between six and eighteen. For the jumper, choose shantung, pique, gingham or linen. For the blouse, dimity, organdy or mull.

The Patterns.

1533 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. 1 1/2 yards rickrack braid to trim.

1520 is designed for sizes 0, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material for the blouse; 2 yards of 35-inch material for the jumper.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to ensue.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, painless under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all without any apparent cause.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of successful experience and endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

WE'VE been stepping lively lately, picking up tidbits of rug news. It seems that the all-over borderless designs are everything. These are shown in both narrow and broadloom carpet and are often called "patterned plain" and two-tone effects. Leaf and flower designs continue to lead—with a feeling of texture. By the way, texture effects are being achieved importantly with mottled or stippled backgrounds. These are taking the place of the perfectly plain carpets, for they don't show footmarks or soil so readily.

Color is exciting in the rug picture. In the plain or two-tone broadlooms there are delicious decorator colors, the soft, muted tones such as silvery green, delphinium blue, rose, peach and the whole range of the pastels. The warm blues are turning up a lot too. The natural shades, from pale to deep beige, continue to be tops.

As for size, well, the main thing is—the rug should cover the room gracefully. Plan a uniform border of floor all around, keeping in mind that the larger the rug, the larger the room will look. If your floors are interesting, consider the possibilities of a round or oval rug finished with a wool fringe all around. You can have one cut out of broadloom, you know. In any event, don't get a 9 by 12 whether or no. Let the size of the room govern the size of the rug.

If you decide on a patterned rug, let it carry the burden of design in the room or most of it. You can then use plain fabrics with it and a plain wall. Or introduce some interesting stripes here or there. With discrimination, of course, you can combine pattern with pattern, but use discretion.

Apropos of all this, do you really understand rug qualities? Here are a few high points:

Chemical washing, which gives rugs of moderate price a mellow expensive looking luster, does shorten somewhat the wear of the rug, but not enough to bother much about. And it does add a glow to the colors.

The fact that the pattern goes through to the back doesn't necessarily mean so much better wear in a rug. Durability depends more on the construction and the quality of the materials.

A Wilton will wear better generally than a chenille rug because the short pile of the Wilton doesn't break so easily. A good chenille is very serviceable though. Velvet will not wear as well as a Wilton though a good velvet will give excellent service.

A Swell Time.

"Don't start out by feeling sorry for us," writes Kay R., "because we're having a swell time. Even if we don't have much money and a family of four children to live off of it. Only don't recommend anything expensive in the way of refurbishings, because we just could not afford it. The only really nice thing we own is the radio, but that's our chief pleasure so we put all our entertainment budget on it."

"The living room itself is pretty dowdy and likely to stay that way while the children are at the chasing age. The only quiet we have is at night after they're all in bed. But I do want to freshen things up and make it as attractive as possible. I'd thought of tan curtains because the rug is rather a tan color. And perhaps flowered slip covers for the furniture in something flowered on a natural ground. What would you suggest? And we can repaper this spring. What would be the thing for the walls?"

Not tani! That's a drab color unless it's highly stylized and so we'd suggest something that will do more toward brightening up the effect. What about a light ground paper with a fresh green leaf design in it. Or even a stripe in white and green. Then full crisp curtains made to tie back with a valance and lie-backs in a textured fabric (of interest on its own) in a sort of tan about the same value as the rug. For slip covers we'd have plain green in a live vibrant tone. With maybe a few odd cushions of the tan. Then some pictures with lots of yellow in them. And maybe yellow flowers when they're in season—in copper or brass bowls.

Diet for Infants Now Quite Varied

Food Most Important in Child Development

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE important place which food plays in the health and development of the child is fully recognized today. While milk is, of course, the basis of the diet throughout childhood, other foods are added much earlier, in life than was once the custom.

The diet of the well brought up baby is now quite varied, as egg yolk, fruit juices and strained fruits and vegetables, as well as cereals, are introduced, so soon. The fact that all of these can be bought in canned form has made the feeding problem much easier. Some of these products are put up in tin and others in glass, with covers which can be replaced so that what is not used one day can be easily stored in the refrigerator until another.

If you have had experience with children you will notice that they are quite content and usually prefer to have the same things day after day. It is important, however, to establish taste for a varied diet.

Caramel Custard.

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- Salt
- 3 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Put half a cup of sugar into a small frying pan and stir over a low fire until a syrup is formed. Stir in another one-fourth cup of sugar and continue stirring until it is melted. Pour this mixture into six greased custard cups. Beat eggs slightly, add remaining sugar, salt, milk and vanilla. Mix well and pour into custard cups. Bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until custard is set.

Cocoa.

- ¼ to ½ cup cocoa (according to taste)
- Salt
- 1 teaspoon flour
- 1 cup cold water
- 3 cups milk
- 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar

Mix the salt and cocoa and the flour, add the water and cook in the top of a double boiler over the direct heat for three minutes after the mixture begins to boil, stirring constantly. Add the milk and sugar, heat until it begins to look foamy. Beat with an egg beater to prevent the scum forming on the top and serve at once or place over hot water and cook until ready to serve. Leftover cocoa may be reheated and served, as the flavor improves rather than deteriorates by standing.

Soft Custard.

- 2 cups milk
- 2 to 4 eggs
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- Salt
- Flavoring

Scald the milk in a double boiler. Beat the yolks, add the sugar and salt and pour the hot milk slowly onto this mixture. Return to the double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until the custard coats a spoon. Remove at once from the fire and set into cold water. Add the flavoring. The more yolks used the thicker the custard will be.

FOR OLDER ONES

Spinach Ring.

- 4 cups cooked spinach
 - ¼ cup butter
 - Salt, pepper
 - Nutmeg
- Drain spinach, chop and season with butter, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Press into a ring mold and steam until ready to serve. Unmold on a chop plate.

Peas With Lettuce.

- 1 head Boston lettuce
 - 1 pound peas
 - Salt, sugar
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - Paprika
- Shred lettuce and place with shelled peas in a small amount of water in a saucepan. Add a dash of salt and a dash of sugar and cook covered over low fire until tender. Add butter and paprika.

Rich Biscuit Dough.

- 2 cups flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup shortening
- ½ to ¾ cup milk

Sift the dry ingredients together. Rub in the shortening with fingers or cut it with two knives until the mixture has the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Add milk to make a dough which will not stick. If dough is used for shortcake, divide into two portions and roll each half the same shape and size. Place one on a greased pan, butter slightly and place the other layer on top of the first. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit). Split and fill with crushed fruit. Cover with more fresh fruit.

Special Sauce.

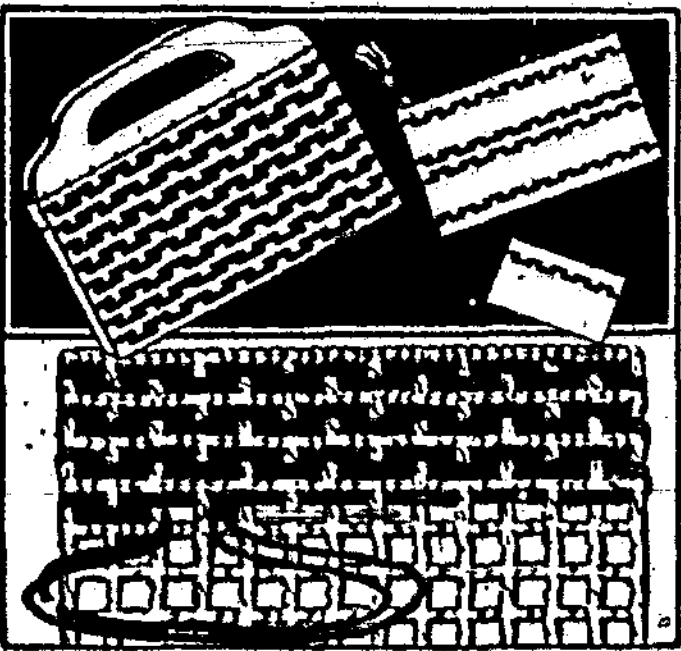

- 2 egg yolks
- ¼ cup sweet or sour cream
- ¼ teaspoon lemon juice
- Salt
- Paprika

Beat egg yolks slightly; add other ingredients and stir over hot water until sauce begins to thicken. Serve with cauliflower, asparagus, broccoli or with fish.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

EITHER crochet cotton or wool yarn in two or more colors may be used for a knitting bag or purses of woven fillet crochet. The foundation is made in the lightest color. The knitting bag in the sketch is white fillet with navy blue threads woven through, as shown. The zipper-purse and vanity pouch are ecru with carmine and Delft blue woven stripes. The plain spaces between the stripes are made by weaving through the fillet mesh with matching thread. To start the fillet foundation, make a chain the length of your bag, then chain 5 more, turn, and make a double crochet in the 6th stitch from the hook. Chain 2, skip 2 and make a double crochet in next stitch. Repeat to end of row, then chain 5 and turn. *Make a double crochet in the top of the last double crochet. Chain 2. Continue across the row, then chain 5 and turn. Repeat from * until you have enough of the fillet mesh to make your bag or purse. The weaving is done with double thread and a large blunt needle. Work across and then back through each row of the fillet mesh as shown. When a new weaving thread is started, hide the ends in the edge of the crochet.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book gives complete directions for making many other things for yourself and to use as gifts. It also fully illustrates ninety embroidery stitches with interesting variations. You will use these again and again for reference. Ask for Book 2, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred). JUST JESTS

Gone Forever
They were both writing letters, but suddenly hubby stopped and looked worried.
"What's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.
"Why—er—I had it on the tip of my tongue and now it's gone."
"Never mind," she said, "just think hard and it's bound to come back."
"Thinking won't bring this back. It was a stamp," said hubby.

WHY CHANGE?

Don't — Don't you ever change your mind about anything?
Joe — Very seldom. I have found I was just as wrong the second after I had changed it as I was before.

The following appeared some years ago in a wedding report: "Among the gifts of the bride to the bridegroom was a gorgeous dressing down."

Spring Daze
Mrs. Easley—Three moves are as bad as a fire.
Mrs. Harder—Yes, and one visit of the paper hangers beats a cyclone.

Any Excuse—
One day a neighbor came over and wanted to borrow Grandpa's new rope. Said Grandpa: "No, I've got to use that rope today to tie up some sand."
After the neighbor had left a friend said: "Grandpa, you know you can't tie sand with a rope!"
"Remember, my boy," replied the old man, "you can do pretty near anything with a piece of rope if you don't want to lend it."

Madness?
Kuiper—What reason have you for marrying my daughter, young man?
Fogmore—No reason at all, sir; I'm in love with her.

When she thinks he's perfect, she's in love. When she makes up her mind to improve him, she means marriage.

An Operator's Dream
"I'm sorry I gave you the wrong number," said the operator.
"Don't mention it," replied the caller. "I'm sure the number you gave me was much better than the number I asked for, only it just happened I wasn't able to use it."

Going Down
Two cronies met at lunch.
"How's things?" one asked.
"How are they? Rotten, old boy. Honestly, if they keep on like this it looks as though my last income tax return will be just about correct!" said the other, gloomily.

BANKING LOOKS AHEAD

Faith in the Future

In our complex economic system, the element of faith plays a tremendously important part.

Workers, farmers, housewives and business men must have faith in their banks when they bring their deposits for safekeeping.

Banks must have faith in individuals and enterprises when they advance credit. Business must have faith in the future before it will incur the risks of expansion and development.

We believe that renewed faith and sincere cooperation on the part of all classes and groups of people will carry our country to new heights of abundance and well-being.
