CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, FEB. 11, 1938

Alamogordo Installed

Members of Alamogordo Lodge I. O. O. F. came up last Tuesday night and the following officers elect, were installed: Spivy L. Buck, N. G.; Harold Williams, V. G.; A. J. Newsom, Treasurer; Chas. Thomas, Secretary. Installing officers were as follows: H. E. Kelt, District Deputy Grand Master; Steve Bostian, Grand Marshal; J. E. Tom, Venerable - Warden; James M. Carpenter, Grand Chaplain; Jim Anderson, Alamogordo, Grand Treasurer; W. J. Langston, Grand Secretary.

Just prior to the installation ceremonies the first degree was conferred on Howard Jones. Alamogordo attendants were favorably impressed by work of the local degree team under the direction of Mr. J. F. Tom, Degree Master.

A social hour followed, and the refreshment committee, Calvin Carl, O. T. Newton and James M. Carpenter served the best spread, the Carrizozo Odd Fellows have enjoyed in the past three years. The elaborate banquet was prepared at the Tourist Inn Cafe and served at the Lodge hall. The menu: Fruit cocktail, Noodle soup, Roast Beef, Ham, Fried Chicken, Gravy, Potatoes, String Beans, Fresh Tomatoes, Hot Rolls, Pineapple Pudding with whipped cream, cake, cookies and coffee.

There were 30 members on hand. Attendants from out of town were Messrs. Roy Kent, Osuro; E. H. and Bert Pfingsten, and A. H. Ramey, Lincoln; Kidwell and Hendrix of Ancho.

Rustin-O'Rear

Miss Mary Nell Rustin and Mr. Pete O'Rear were married last Friday evening at 7:30 at the Methodist parsonage with Rev. R. A. Crawford officiating. They were accompanied by a large party of friends.

The bride was born and reared in Carrizozo, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jet Rustin.

The groom is employed at the local CCC camp and has made his home here about three years. Both are well known and highly respected. A host of friends join in congratulations and best wishes.

On Saturday evening Mr. O'Rear's friends at camp prepared and served a 6 o'clock dinner for him and his bride. They received a number of lovely and useful gifts.

CAPITAN ITEMS

Roy Copeland has been ill with flu the past week.

There was a basketball game Sunday night, February 6. The town team played the "Negro Globe Trotters". Capitan was defeated by a score of 46-42. Everyone reported that it was a very interesting game.

There was an Indian Circus here all last week. There was a popularity contest and Wilma Cochran was winner of a gold ring.

The Junior play was Friday night, the 4th. A large crowd attended and reported a very good play.

School Notes

There is going to be a show put on at the Community Hall next Monday night under the auspices of the Junior class. Be loyal and come. The Plunket Minstrel carrying fifteen players will put on one of the biggest shows of the season.

The school wishes to thank the following who have generously donated magazines to the high school library: Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegler, Mrs. Selma Degitz and Mrs. Clara Snyder.

The Home Economic Clubs of this part of the state are meeting in Carrizozo in April and the local girls are making elaborate plans for entertaining the girls of this district.

Lois Smith who is an outstanding Junior in every particular captured the congratulations of all her classmates by the superior Book Report, "Jalna" de la Roche.

Our efficient librarian, Miss Marie Cole is working overtime cataloging and classifying the new books being added to our Library. Our library this year met the approval of the North Central Accrediting Agency 100 per cent.

The best Basketball game of the season took place last Friday night. Lake Arthur High school lost to the Grizzlies on the local court to the tune of 28 to 14.

High School Assembly Programs seem to be more popular of late. Several visitors attended the recent program of the Home Economics Club. Monday the 14th of February at 11 o'clock assembly will take place. A patriotic program featured by an address by Mr. Burke.

ADMISSION 10. 20 AND 30 CENTS

To Open Store

Mr. E. A. Bellinger of Tularosa spent last Wednesday in town making arrangements to open his new store which will be located in the M. Doering building. He will handle a complete line of dry goods, shoes, ladies' dresses, luggage, toilet goods and notions. The building is to be repainted outside and the interior finished in ivory, tan and green. It will not be ready for occupancy until about March 1.

Business Men's Club

The Business Men's Club entertained their wives and other women friends last Wednesday, honoring Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Brickley. Mr. Carpenter welcomed the visiting friends and Mrs. Blaney responded. Mr. Brickley talked on the small banks and their condition.

Rev. J. C. Vandiver and Bradley Smith were elected to membership in the club.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club will meet Friday February 18th at the home of Mrs. C. A. Snow. Miss Marie Cole will have charge of the program.

Last Wednesday, Mr. M. U. Finley hauled gravel and filled the mudhole which usually stands at the corner by the Masonic Temple. The city furnished the gravel and Mr. Finley furnished the truck and man power.

ANCHO NEWS

Mr. Chas. Peters has been quite sick with flu the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hefren and little daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Frame last Thursday. They were on their way to Lubbock, Texas, from Hot Springs, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Brickley of Carlsbad spent Tuesday night and Wednesday with their brother, J. C. Brickley of Luna. Mr. and Mrs. Brickley are on a two months' tour of the United States, then they will go to Kansas City, to make their home, where Mr. Brickley will enter a bank of that city. They will be greatly missed from Lincoln county as well as Carlsbad, where they have lived for some time.

Mr. Geo. Roberts of the Ancho Trading Co. was a Carrizozo business visitor Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Balow attended the show at the Lyric in Carrizozo last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dale were in town Tuesday from his ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller were visiting friends last week. The Millers own a ranch east of Ancho, but have it leased, we are glad to have them back to visit at least.

Last week Mrs. J. E. Hall received word of the death of her father, who has been ill for several years. The community in general extends sympathy to Mrs. Hall and family.

Miss Lala Joyce and some friends visited Mrs. Halley Hall last week.

Farm Security Administration

The making of farm plans and arranging for loans for 1938 farming operations is now well under way in Lincoln county, according to James W. J. Evans, county rural rehabilitation supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

It is important that all farmers in this county who are in need of the services offered by this federal agency get in touch with him as soon as possible. This is necessary, he explained, because many farmers fail to arrange for their operations until the very last minute, resulting in a peak load during which time the county supervisor is unable to give farmers adequate attention.

Mr. Evans said that farmers who make their contacts with this agency early in the season will be given more attention in the development of farm plans and are more likely to have their funds at the time they are most needed.

The primary purpose of the Farm Security Administration's lending and supervisory program is to assist farmers who are in need of help to become permanently self-supporting.

Loan funds are being made available for general farm operating expenses such as the purchase of needed equipment, seed, feed and livestock. In some cases, Mr. Evans explained, the borrower may find it necessary to lease additional land in order that he may properly balance his farming unit through the addition of livestock and grazing facilities. The FSA program after includes such provisions in the farm plan de-

Mrs. Eliza Brown

Mrs. Eliza May Brown passed away at her home in Carrizozo about noon yesterday following an illness of long duration. She was 86 years old and had been resident of Lincoln county fifty-four years.

During the years she had endeared herself to the people of the communities which she had lived in a way that was truly unusual. She counted every acquaintance as a friend and performed kind deeds, not only for close friends and neighbors, but for every one who was in any kind of trouble.

Eliza May Brown was born Cedar Vale, Mo., March 10, 1851 at the age of 18 she was married to Joe Hurley. Of this union there are two living children. Five years after the death of Mr. Hurley she was married to T. N. Brown, who died many years ago. In 1884 they moved to New Mexico, and have resided at different points in Lincoln county ever since.

Survivors are her daughter, Mmes. L. R. Huat, Maggie Espy, C. L. Robinson, J. V. Hobbie, Lincoln county, Mrs. Hanna Wilder of Hot Springs, and Mr. R. E. McCommie of Modesto, California; and sons, Messrs. Joe Hurley, Carrizozo; R. F. Brown, Gallup; Cephas Brown, Hot Springs; Elbert Brown, Hachita, N. M.; forty grand-children and thirty-two great-grand-children.

She was a faithful Christian having joined the Baptist church in early life. Rev. R. A. Crawford conducted funeral services at Angus schoolhouse this afternoon at 2 o'clock followed by interment at Angus cemetery beside her husband.

The large crowd who attended the funeral, the general admiration at her death, and many words of appreciation of her life were a tribute to the splendid and useful life she had lived.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Titworth attended the Business Men's Club here Wednesday evening.

Mrs. J. B. Greer, who was in the hospital several days is able to be at home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete O'Rear were given a miscellaneous shower at the Baptist church last evening by members of the Baptist Sunday school and other friends.

Romeo and Juliet, sponsored by the Rainbow girls, was on at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday. Good crowds greeted both performances.

It is reported that a new filling station is to be erected on main street and Alamogordo Avenue within two or three weeks.

Mrs. Imogene Booth is spending a few days with Mrs. Thelma Peters and Miss Bee Johnson.

signed by county supervisors when making loans to farmers. Rural rehabilitation supervisors assist borrowers in every feasible manner in order that he may raise his living standards, increase his net worth and purchasing power. Applicants must be willing to cooperate with the supervisor and follow recommendations included in the farm management plans jointly developed by the borrower and the supervisor.

Mr. Evans services Lincoln and Otero counties. He will be in his office in Carrizozo February 10, 11 and 12, 1938.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...
By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—If a prisoner hadn't jumped out of a two-story window and escaped, 123 years ago, newspapers today wouldn't be front-paging the description of the biggest star in the universe, 3,000 times larger than the sun. They should have named the star Napoleon, instead of Epsilon Aurigae. His was the touch-off of events terrestrial which finally ranged out 3,000 light years and brought news of the giant star. Chronologically, as the astronomers would put it, it was like this:

Frederich Georg Wilhelm Struve was a studious German youth who wanted to be an astronomer, but lacked opportunity for study. For no apparent reason, a ranging band of Napoleon's scouts seized him and locked him in a prison on the banks of the River Elbe.

He timed his high window-dive to the passing of a queer-looking ship, made a long, hazardous swim and was pulled aboard. The ship was homeward bound to Russia. The czar was a patron of astronomy.

The young man was encouraged and became not only director of the observatory of the University of Dorpat, but one of the founders of modern astronomy, with Herschel and Bessel.

His sons and grandsons became famous astronomers and it is his great-grandson, Dr. Otto Struve, who, with his assistants at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis., discovers the facts about Epsilon Aurigae.

He is director of the observatory. He arrived here in 1821, after fighting with the white armies in Russia and fleeing to Turkey with their collapse. He became director of Yerkes observatory five years ago at the age of thirty-four.

IN THE new movie, "Hollywood Hotel," Bennie Goodman, trumpeter and swingster, again demonstrates that he gets all the college trade. The boys whinny with excitement at Mr. Goodman's most off-hand toot.

Expeditious sent by this department into the far domain of youth say it's that way all over the country, particularly among the collegians. The Dozier says he does it with his "gut-bucket, barrel-house, screw ball and grunt-iron music." Be that as it may, it nets him $100,000 a year.

At the age of ten, he was a semi-pro vaudeville musician, earning around $2 a week in Chicago's Ghetto. He was the eighth of eleven children of a tailor who earned $20 a week. He bought a mail order clarinet on the installment plan, and, by the time he was thirteen, was a full-fledged journeyman musician, but still in short pants.

He first got out in front in California, running his first band in 1931. He slumped down to $40 a week in 1934, moved in with Billy Rose, hit his stride again, and, via radio, is a recent arrival in the top-money brackets.

He is twenty-seven, tall, dark, athletic, good-looking, with rimless octagonal glasses, and, the more savage his music, the more money he makes.

FRANKLIN MOTT GUNTHER, American minister to Rumania, decorously, and quite unofficially, he says, challenges the new anti-Semitism in Rumania. He is a suave career diplomat who once pulled headlines as big as a Rumania war would get today. That was in 1914, when there was less news.

He was a guest on a yacht anchored in Christiania harbor. The harbor master told him that spot had been saved for Kaiser Wilhelm's yacht.

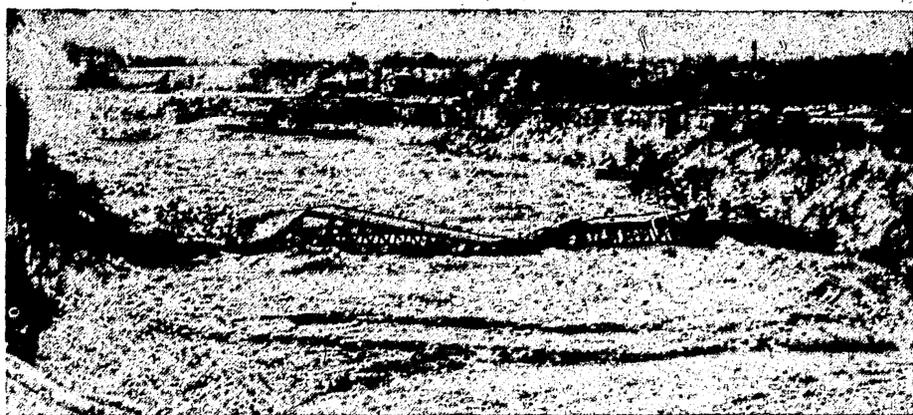

There was an argument and the harbor master said Mr. Gunther had clipped the cap off his head and wouldn't pick it up. It boiled up into a big international story, but Mr. Gunther came through it nicely to continue representing his country in many foreign parts.

President Coolidge made him minister to Egypt in 1928. He is a native of New York, fifty-two years old, an alumnus of Harvard.

Author of "God Save the King" The origin of "God Save the King" has been wrapped in mystery for centuries. It was first sung by Harry Carey at a dinner to celebrate the capture of Portobello by Admiral Vernon in 1740, according to Pearson's London Weekly. Carey admitted authorship of the words, but refused to commit himself about the music. The song achieved instant success on the wave of patriotism that followed the declaration of Bonnie Prince Charlie as king. English citizens sang it everywhere as a retort in favor of the legitimate monarch, and it was first sung in the presence of the monarch, at Drury Lane in September, 1745.

Ice Tears Away Niagara Falls Bridge

This twisted mass of steel girders among mountainous blocks of ice is all that remains of the 40-year-old Falls View International bridge which collapsed into the ice-filled gorge below Niagara falls after resisting an ice jam for 24 hours. This view of the famed "honeymoon bridge" was made from the American side. The noise of the crash of the 4,500,000-pound structure blotted out for a moment the roar of Niagara falls, 500 yards upstream. Thousands of spectators watched as the girders buckled. Workmen who had been sent into the gorge to strengthen the bridge's supports narrowly escaped death when the crash came.

Anti-Brassiere Campaign

WHEN the late Halbert L. Hoard, editor of the Jefferson County Union, approached some of his friends in Fort Atkinson, Wis., with a request that they sign a petition which he had prepared, they didn't hesitate. They knew his paper advocated some very good things and they were willing to help "Bert" along. What they had signed was this:

The undersigned note with alarm the increase in divorces since the nineteenth amendment, the woman's suffrage law. We note many more women wearing breeches than before. We can stand that, but this new fad—slab-elbowed dresses, flat in front—showing women in brassieres as an evil that menaces the future well being of society.

We ask that the congress of the United States do its utmost to break down these brassieres as an evil that menaces the future well being of society. They very soon realized that they had been a little hasty. Their womenfolk told them they "ought to be ashamed" and that they "should mind their own business." But a welfare league in a city nearby took the matter seriously and passed a resolution supporting the campaign.

Then an official of the state board of health issued a statement saying that brassieres caused rickets in babies. Whereupon Mr. Hoard wrote an editorial in which he said:

There are cow-milk-fed babies right in this city that are gasping for breath, the doctor at his wit's end to nourish them properly. They could live on monkey's milk, because monkeys are fat, but there are no monkeys around except with the deadly brassieres and few of those are giving milk.

Before the uproar over this matter died down, Halbert Hoard was known from coast to coast as the valiant crusader against the "deadly brassiere"—all because of a hoax which some of his obliging friends helped perpetrate.

Lord Kitchener's Body

IN AUGUST, 1926, all of England was thrilled by an announcement which indicated that one of the mysteries of the World War had at last been solved. This was the mystery surrounding the death of Lord Kitchener, first commander of the British forces in France. A signed article by "Frank Power" which appeared in the London Referee declared that his body had been discovered in a graveyard in Norway.

Kitchener had been lost at sea in May, 1916, when the ship, taking him to Russia on a secret mission, had disappeared and there had been all sorts of rumors about the case. An especially ugly one was that the government, which had wanted to get rid of Kitchener but didn't dare remove him from office because of his great popularity with the masses, had been sent on what it knew would be a fatal trip.

"Power" announced that he was bringing the body back to London. When he arrived there with a coffin, it was immediately seized by the police. When it was opened in the presence of high government officials, it was discovered that the coffin was not only empty, but that it had never held a body.

The whole affair was a publicity stunt for a new moving picture on the life of Kitchener in which "Power," whose real name was Arthur Vectis Freeman, and others were interested. Instead of profiting by it as they had hoped, a government investigation which was immediately launched and popular indignation over the hoax, did them considerable damage and discouraged further publicity stunts of that kind.

"Rare Old" Newspapers

IF, WHILE going through an old trunk in the attic, you find a copy of the Ulster County Gazette, published in Kingston, N. Y., in 1800 and containing an account of the death of George Washington, don't get excited and hurry away to tell the local newspaper publisher about your "discovery."

The chances are about 999,999 out of 1,000,000 that it's a "facsimile copy" of the Gazette of that date and thousands of them have been reprinted and distributed as souvenirs. It was first done back in 1820 in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence but most of them were produced for the Philadelphia centennial in 1876.

Naturally, in the course of time the paper becomes aged and yellow and brittle. So in that respect it's "old." But it's neither rare nor valuable, unless you can find someone who is buying "fake antiques." Even then he won't give you much for it.

The only known "genuine" copy of this famous paper is now in the Library of Congress. All of the thousands of others which bob up from time to time are reprints. Another "original" may be found some time. But it's very, very doubtful!

This town in Leitrim is famous historically itself, and close by are other towns noted for their literary associations: Elphin, in County Roscommon, the birthplace of Oliver Goldsmith, and Keadeu, near which Turlough O'Carolan, the last of the Irish bards, lies buried.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Asparagus au Grain

ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN is just the dish to serve when you are looking for something especially good to eat that is easily and quickly made. The recipe given here calls for a medium-thick white sauce, but instead of making it you may prefer to use a can of cream of mushroom, pea, or celery soup. The soup adds flavor and eliminates the task of making sauce. If you use the soup, heat it with the cheese and serve over the asparagus on toast.

4 tbsp. butter Salt and pepper
4 tbsp. flour 1 can asparagus
2 cups milk tips
1/2 cup grated cheese 6 slices toast

Melt the butter, add the flour, and stir until smooth. Add the milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add the cheese and season with salt and pepper. Heat the asparagus tips in their own liquid until they are hot. Arrange the tips on the toast and serve with the hot cheese sauce.

Fried slices of pineapple would be good to serve with the asparagus. Sprinkle the slices ever so lightly with sugar and brown in butter.

2 Steps in Fighting Discomfort of COLDS

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds. Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly. The Bayer method of relief is the way many doctors now approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and wreck the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Clever Smocks in Gay Wash Fabrics

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF WINTER comes, can spring be far behind—a query that has a most literal interpretation when applied to fashion. While northern blizzards rage and their cold breath sometimes penetrates to even southern climes, manufacturers and designers are busy with beautiful cool washable fabrics, styling them into feminine array that bespeaks the height of fashion.

This fact is illustrated during spring market week in Chicago when the national wash apparel showings of nearly 10,000 new spring and summer styles by over 100 members of the Chicago Wash Dress and Apparel association are presented. At this time thousands of retail buyers from every section of the country come to this style mecca to purchase the gay pretty dresses and blouses, smocks and housecoats, beach ensembles and play suits of washable materials that cause shop windows to blossom in the spring and rival the best efforts of nature in their bright fresh loveliness.

A preview of these intriguing spring and summer fashions holds good news for women everywhere. You can get wash materials that look as if they belong in the silk or the wool classification and that drape and choice in appearance it is almost unbelievable that they tub to perfection, but they do. Yes indeed, it's going to be one of the biggest wash dress seasons in years. Dresses are simple in line and cut and that makes them easy to launder, but their very simplicity embodies all the subtle chic which American designers have been learning from Paris all these years. From a dollar house dress to an evening formal all the styles are as smart as skilled workers and ingenious fashion creators can make them.

And the smocks! Well, that's what we want to tell you about most at this writing for there is so much of romance, of charm and chic and flattering design expressed in both their styling and the wash fabrics of which they are fashioned you will be wanting to know some of the new ways they are taking on. Especially so, since at the threshold of spring, fancy over turns gaily to thoughts of assembling a wardrobe of fresh, pretty clothes for mild-weather wear, not the least important among which is a collection of smocks that while they be utilitarian (that's taken for granted) they must qualify as "a thing of beauty and a joy forever"—carry with them, so to speak, a guarantee to make the wearer look her most charming self at work or at play.

Well, here they are, just such smocks as you are looking for, three of the prettiest models you will find, look the fashion world over if you will. See them pictured here, right before your very eyes, each a Barmon smock of printed broadcloth. The one to the left shows a gorgeous flowered patterning that carries you right out of mid-winter gloom into the outstretched arms of spring. The lesson this gladsome smock teaches is that you can't possibly go too far in choosing 'em gay this spring, for all signs say that prints are going to be more extravagantly colorful than ever.

Looking for the rainbow are you? Well just glimpse the smock to the right, if you please. See your coveted rainbow in all its glory for the girl pictured is wearing a five-color rainbow smock.

The gem of 'em all, in our opinion, is centered in the group. This gypsy fringe frock, as it is called, is designed from a Rumanian shawl, for the shawl, as we all know, is the most prized possession of a gypsy lass. Particular attention is called to the fringe of golden hue which adds gorgeous glamor to the picturesque mode.

COLLEGE GIRL, CHIC

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

What the college girl affects in the simplicity of the peasant bandanna which she dotes on wearing, just as you see in the picture, is offset by the sophisticated jewelry which she takes keenest delight in displaying. If she has gone properly modern she invariably wears a single strand of pearls with a sweater, and the latest trick of the campus is a gold and crystal bracelet with her favorite movie star pictured in each crystal ball. The little finger ring is cunningly designed of gold to look like a belt with buckle of diamonds. The other bracelet is very striking, made with cabochon-cut green onyx and chalcedony set in gold.

Evening Slippers

Printed evening slippers that include many different colors are being worn at the southern resorts.

Really New Beret to Make Its Appearance in Spring

The ubiquitous springtime beret has a new interpretation in exquisite pastel felts—pinks and blues—with high front on a navy grosgrain headband and worn flat as a pancake on the back of the head. But the news is the sophisticated navy face veil Sally Victor, designer, tied around with swishy bow ends. Then a prim little white toya sailor with mercury wings has a green face veil tied about it and a sophisticated shiny Milan in black banded in Persian embroidery has a crisp black veil tied in a big bow.

Navy Blue Makes Stylish—Tailored Street Dresses

Navy blue tailored street dresses with touches of white trim are featured for daytime wear, both in light woollens and silk crepes in the Mainbocher mid-season collection. Of simple line, the frocks are made with elaborate detail, and the white of the trim is repeated in gloves for the costume.

Chalk stripe and pin stripe suits in black and navy are shown with the tunic length jackets introduced by that house in a recent collection.

Printed Linings Furnish Lively Touch to Costume

The woman who wants to introduce a lively touch to a winter costume but thinks an entire printed frock is too springlike or too gay, will be interested in the vogue of printed linings. These are employed not only for short jackets and longer coats but for handbags, belts and hemlines. A dark frock that flares at the skirt hem will be enhanced by a printed facing, matched perhaps by the lining of the belt or by hat trimming.

Johnnycakes, Corn Pone and Muffins

Make Widest Use of Grain That Contains Most Food

By EDITH M. BARBER

INDIAN maize, which we know as corn, our own native grain, provides more food for us than does any other grain. Perhaps you will take issue with this statement because you use little corn meal and comparatively little sweet corn in your household. In spite of this, you are doing your share in using the annual corn crop, although indirectly. So much of the meat which we use every day is the product of the corn crop since corn is used in fattening animals.

Corn meal is used more largely for bread making in the South than it is in the North, although all of us like pone, johnny cakes, muffins, spoon bread and griddle cakes. In the South, white corn is more highly considered than the yellow. The "water-ground" meal is actually the whole grain which has been dried naturally on the cob and ground between millstones. Because it retains the germ it does not keep so well as the granulated corn meal which has been de-germed, dried by heat and milled between rollers. Water-ground meal may be found in northern cities at some stores during the winter. On account of its fine flavor, it is highly considered. When it is substituted for granulated corn meal, it may be necessary to add more liquid to the recipe.

Corn Muffins.

1/4 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
5 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons melted shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk, egg and shortening. Pour batter into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven 425 degrees F., for fifteen to twenty minutes.

Cheese Fritters.

2 cups cornmeal mush
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated cheese
1 egg
Mix mush with flour, sifted with the baking powder and salt. Add the cheese and lightly the egg. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot griddle and fry on both sides.

GOOD ONES TO TRY

Crackers.

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 yolk two eggs
Whites two eggs
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
4 teaspoons baking powder
Cream the shortening, add sugar gradually, yolks of eggs, well beaten and whites beaten stiff. Mix flour, nutmeg, cinnamon and baking powder; add alternately with milk to first mixture, roll thin and cut in pieces three inches long by two inches wide; make three or four cuts crosswise. Fry in deep fat, 375 degrees F., and drain on brown paper.

Kidneys en Brochette.

Kidneys
Water
Bacon
Mushroom caps
Trim kidneys, cook ten minutes in water to cover; drain, and cut in slices. Arrange alternate slices of kidney and thinly sliced bacon on skewers with mushroom cap at each end of skewer. Broil under a hot flame until bacon is crisp and arrange on pieces of toast. Serve with sauce made from stock in which kidneys are cooked, seasoned with salted sherry flavoring.

Fried Liver.

Remove skin and veins from liver sliced one-half inch thick. Roll in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Fry (saute) in butter or bacon fat five minutes, turning when one side is brown. Use a moderate flame.

Baked Onions.

2/3 small onions
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Wash and pare onions, melt butter in baking dish, add sugar, salt and pepper. Add onions and stir well. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., about one hour until onions are tender.

Cottage Cheese Salad.

1/4 cup minced chives or onions
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 pound cottage cheese
Cream
Add seasoning to cheese and add cream to soften. Pack in a small greased bowl or mold. Chill in refrigerator an hour or more. Serve with a vegetable salad. Cream cheese may replace cottage cheese.

Candied Sweet Potatoes.

4 medium-sized potatoes
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup hot water
Peel and slice potatoes. Arrange in layers in a baking dish, sprinkling each layer with nutmeg, and sugar and dotting with butter. Add hot water, cover and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees F., until tender and candied. Uncover during the last fifteen minutes of the cooking.

Items of Interest to the Housewife

When Boiling Suet Pudding.—Put three or four slices of orange rind in the water. These will collect all the grease, and the pudding will be light.

Haddock With Tomatoes.—Lay a small dried haddock in a pan with a little water and bake for ten minutes. Remove skin and bones, and flake the fish into large flakes. Melt two tablespoonfuls butter in a saucepan, fry a little chopped onion lightly in it, add one-half cup canned tomatoes, and cook until soft. Put in the fish and a little chopped parsley, season, stir over low heat until all is thoroughly hot, then serve.

Remember Our Feathered Friends.—Birds welcome bread crumbs and suet when winter winds are howling, but don't forget to provide shelter for them so they may eat in comfort. Roosting boxes are easy to make and save the life of many a bird.

Economic Highlights

It hasn't been headlined much as yet—but the United States and Japan are about to become actively engaged in a naval expansion race.

The current naval program which has the Presidential approval, calls for major expansion of the navy over a period of several years. A large number of minor ships will be built, plus several capital ships—heavy men-of-war, mounting 16-inch guns, and costing scores of millions.

Two unconnected incidents seem to be responsible for the program to revitalize and enlarge the navy. First, the warlike attitude of Japan, and her apparent disregard of the rights of non-belligerents (as illustrated by the sinking of the Panay), has brought the State Department to the view that the United States must make it apparent to Nippon that we are prepared, if necessary, to meet force with greater force. A battleship takes several years to complete, and costs from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000. It requires a tremendous amount of labor, skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled. It demands the products of all the basic industries, from lumber to steel. Thus, a big scale naval expansion plan is of no small significance in employing labor, distributing money throughout the basic industries, and bolstering business in general, for a short period.

Theoretically, Great Britain and the United States, have the world's greatest navies, with Japan cutting a poor second to the combat powers. Actually, when it comes to modern naval tonnage as against obsolete tonnage represented by ships which look all right in war games but would be next to useless in actual combat Japan is practically as strong as we are, and some think she may be stronger. Between 1928 and 1933, American naval construction practically stopped. Those were the years in which Japan was developing her navy as rapidly as possible. Since 1922, Japan has built or started 217 warships with a gross weight of 717,000 tons, as against 136 ships grossing 560,000 tons for the U. S.

Further, it is reliably believed that Japan (whose government makes every effort to keep such matters a dark secret) is now building several ships of almost unprecedented size and range, and mounting 18-inch guns. The best available figures indicate that the United States today possesses 113 modern fighting ships weighing a total of 869,000 tons, while Japan has 171 ships weighing 708,000 tons. In addition, Japan subsidizes its merchant marine, which is in reality a branch of the navy. As everyone knows, the U. S. merchant marine is next to non-existent, and has been going down hill at cataclysmic speed since last war.

Here are some of the reasons why the House recently approved the largest naval peace time appropriation on record for the next fiscal year—$553,000,000. It is not at all unlikely that additional legislation will increase this figure. This government seems certain to become involved in what the J. S. News terms, "the world-wide naval armament free-for-all."

Space prohibits this column discussing the endless differences of opinion between those who feel at a big navy makes for peace

Office of Senator Chavez

Washington, D. C., February 5, 1938—It appears now that the conferees on the Farm Bill have about completed their work and will make their report early this week. Senator Hatch has been one of the conferees on behalf of the Senate. The main interest in the bill, as far as New Mexico is concerned, has come from the cotton farmers in the irrigated district. The bill contemplates giving that class of farmers utmost protection.

The gathering of the go-called "little business men from all sections of the country. Newspaper comment is to the effect that while the meetings were interesting, very little was done that may be of actual benefit.

Senator Chavez this week introduced a bill in the Senate providing for the construction of a short wave radio station to broadcast programs in Spanish to the Western Hemisphere. From inquiries to this office from newspapers throughout the United States, the indication is that there is a tremendous interest in favor of the legislation. Europe, or several countries of Europe, are broadcasting daily to South America; there is no reason why the United States should not do the same.

The local authorities in charge of the plans for the coming meeting of the American Folker Organization in May has requested this office to co-operate in getting representation from New Mexico. Dr. Arthur Campa of the Spanish Language Department of the University has taken personnel from New Mexico to folklore gatherings heretofore and has made a wonderful impression with his material at said gatherings. It is sincerely hoped that the University can see its way clear to financing the trip for Dr. Campa and his New Mexicans. The old Spanish folk play, Los Pastores, always makes a hit.

This office has been advised that the district army engineers working on the dry Cimarron project in Union County have made their report to the regional director, Col. Reibolt, at Little Rock, who, will, in turn, submit same to the army engineers' headquarters here in Washington. Prospects of success for this project, which will be of immense value to northeastern New Mexico, are, to say the least, extremely good.

This office has received calls from many New Mexicans this week. Hon. Frank Patton and Dick Manson of the Attorney General's office, and Mr. R. A. Waggoman of the Bureau of Revenue were in the City in connection with the argument in the Supreme Court as to whether or not the Bureau of Revenue will be able to collect sales taxes on newspaper receipts. Former probate judge Dan McPherson Jr., of Albuquerque, represented the newspapers. Mr. T. R. Pepperday; Ceferino Quintana, sheriff; former governor A. T. Hannett and Dr. J. W. Hennett also called.

and those who believe it makes for war. The first school argues that if we show sufficient military strength, no nation will dare to insult us, much less attack us—that, no matter how much they may hate us and desire our possessions, they will have to keep out of war because they can't possibly win. The second school, which has much historical precedent in its favor, argues that great naval and military machines, even though their sponsors urged them as instruments of peace, have inevitably become instruments of war. These opposed theories are of only academic interest now, however—the big thing is that the entire world, including the United States, is spending untold billions to create fighting machines of a greater magnitude and effectiveness than ever existed before.

Christian Science Services

"Soul is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Societies and Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 13th.

The Golden Text is: "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation." (Ps. 35:9)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?" (Isa 58:6)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is not a material habitation for Soul; he is himself spiritual. Soul, being Spirit, is seen in nothing imperfect nor material."

ALADDIN LIGHT SAVES EYESIGHT

Getting Lessons Made More Pleasant
Here's a school girl's own comment on Aladdin light: "It has helped my school work by creating a desire to study. What student likes dim light?" No wonder teachers say that their brightest pupils come from Aladdin homes. Aladdin lamps help avoid eye strain, which to so many thousands of rural folks has brought the expense of an eye specialist, and glasses; and often permanent injury to eyes.

Modern White Light
Fills Your Rooms Pays for Itself... Burns 94% Air...
Aladdin brings brightness and happiness into homes... Restful light for those who want to read, sew or study, and for the smaller children to enjoy their games. It is not surpassed by electric light for whiteness and steadiness. Aladdin runs 50 hours on one gallon of ordinary coal oil (kerosene), gives a whole evening of light for about a penny's worth of oil. It's so safe a child can operate it. No noise, pumping up or pressure. Not smoky or smelly. The colorful new Aladdin shades decorate a room by night or day.

NAVY EXPANSION IS PUSHED

Congress Gets Busy with President's Defense Program... Complaints of "Little Business" Are Heard

Rush Defense Plan Bill

LEADERS in congress lost no time in carrying forward the national defense program which President Roosevelt had offered in a special message. Legislation to authorize the expenditure of $800,000,000 in naval construction was introduced immediately in both the house and senate, and steps were taken to provide the additional requirements of the army. It was predicted the house would pass the expansion bill by the middle of February.

Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia called together his house naval affairs committee and began hearings on the measure, certain that it would be reported favorably with little delay. The President in his message recommended: That the present naval building program be increased 20 per cent. That congress authorize two additional battleships and two cruisers during 1938.

That congress authorize $8,000,000 for additional anti aircraft equipment. That congress provide for better establishment of an enlisted reserve for the army. That congress legislate to prevent profiteering in war-time and to equalize the burdens of possible war.

Among his recommendations the President also included appropriations for experimental smaller vessels, for army ammunition and for the manufacture of army equipment.

Opposition to the bill in the house was expected to come from certain members from the middle western states. Tinkham of Massachusetts also didn't like the program, saying it was one of offense, not defense, and that the President was preparing to get the United States into the League of Nations. Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Frazier of North Dakota demanded that Mr. Roosevelt make public the foreign policy he expects to follow behind increased armaments.

New Fleet Commander

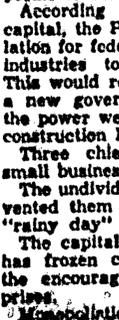

ADMIRAL CLAUDE CHARLES BLOCH, new commander of the United States fleet, assumed his duties at San Pedro, Calif., replacing Admiral Arthur J. Heppburn. In the colorful ceremonies Admiral Bloch made a brief address, saying: "I wish to emphasize to the officers and men of the fleet that our only justification for being is to be ready to fight. We have fine ships and, knowing you men as I do, I know that you will continue your hard work and unselfish devotion to duty so that our navy always will be ready and second to none."

U. S. Avoids Entanglement

REPRESENTATIVES of Great Britain, France and Russia in the League of Nations council meeting in Geneva were ready to adopt a resolution to aid China by sending her war munitions, but awaiting the cooperation of the United States. The scheme was proposed to Washington informally, and was as informally rejected after President Roosevelt had conferred with Secretary Hull and others. Mr. Hull indicated our policy would not be changed and that America would take no leadership in aiding China.

Turn of Little Business

CALLED to Washington from all parts of the country by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, some 500 representatives of "little business" undertook to formulate a recovery program for submission to President Roosevelt. Mr. Roper and his assistant, Ernest Draper, took part in the preliminary discussions, and since the President could not receive all of them a small committee was named to take their proposals to the White House. According to reports from the capital, the President desires legislation for federal financing of small industries to stimulate business. This would require the creation of a new government agency unless the power were granted to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Three chief complaints of the small business men are: The undivided profits tax has prevented them from accumulating a "rainy day" surplus. The capital gains and losses tax has frozen capital and prevented the encouragement of new enterprises. Monopolistic practices are preventing increasing hazards to their successful operations. Congress and the administration already are busy with steps to correct these alleged abuses.

Big Business Scared Again

MEANWHILE big business—and the country generally—was discussing with considerable apprehension the declaration by the President that industry must reduce prices and at the same time keep wages up. An immediate result was the crash of prices on the stock exchanges, the decline reaching as high as 7 1/2 points. Commodities declined in sympathy with stocks.

"If industries reduce wages this winter and spring," the President said at his press conference, "they will be deliberately encouraging the withholding of buying—they will be fostering a downward spiral and they will make it necessary for their government to consider other means of creating purchasing power."

Many congressmen, Democrats as well as Republicans, took issue with Mr. Roosevelt's logic and economics, pointing out that industries lack the resources to keep wages up on a falling market because their funds have been depleted by the undistributed profits tax.

Now Over Coal Prices

MARKETING regulations fixed by the national bituminous coal commission have aroused a storm of complaints. Recentment was especially strong in Illinois, which, though ranking third among soft coal producing states, is not represented on the commission. Six coal companies started court action in Chicago to restrain enforcement of the price schedule, and Chicago itself contemplated similar action. The cities of Rochester, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, and St. Louis, Mo., complained of high and unfair coal rates and appealed to the courts to suspend the commission's orders.

Democrat in Steward's Seat

GOV CHARLES MARTIN of Oregon appointed Alfred Even Reames of Salem to serve out the unexpired 11 months of the term of Sen. Frederick Stever, who resigned to enter private law practice. Mr. Reames, a lawyer sixty-seven years old, thus becomes the first Democratic senator from Oregon since 1921. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic state central committee. He will not seek to succeed himself in the senate.

John Roosevelt Wedding Plan

JOHN ROOSEVELT, youngest son of the President, and Anne Lindsay Clark are to be married in Nahant, Mass., on June 18. The groom's brother Franklin will be his best man. Rev. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of Groton school, who has officiated at the weddings of all the President's sons as well as that of the bride's parents, and Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, will officiate. Following a six weeks' honeymoon the couple will live in a Brookline apartment, as young Roosevelt expects to work in a Boston advertising agency.

Union Controls Canned Music

THE American Federation of Musicians will control the output of canned music (music recorded by mechanical means for broadcast) in nearly 599 radio stations in the country in a new contract between the musicians and the principal recording companies, and the chain radio broadcasting companies, and the independent affiliates.

Mav Split Labor Vote

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, threatened to split organized labor's vote in the 1938 congressional elections by asking for the withdrawal of all federation support for labor's Non-Partisan league. Charging that the league was "a ventriloquist's dummy for the Committee for Industrial Organization," Green recommended that the federation's executive council order all affiliates to withdraw and cease financial contributions.

Such action, it was believed, may effectively split labor's vote in the 1938 elections, when all congressmen, 32 senators and many state officials face re-election campaigns. In Washington John L. Lewis declared that thousands of workers now face desperate need, and even starvation, despite the President's promise to let no willing worker starve.

In a letter urging all affiliates of his Committee for Industrial Organization to notify congress that immediate action is needed to provide 3,000,000 work relief jobs for the unemployed, Lewis added: "The administration has taken upon itself this obligation, and the workers of America expect it to fulfill its promise."

Nazis Extol Hitler

NAZI Germany celebrated the fifth anniversary of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's rule with parades, concerts and orations. Hitler's major accomplishments were described as: Elimination of unemployment, abolition of Versailles Treaty restrictions, putting Germany in a position to drive Jews out of the economic as well as social and political life, suppression of opposition political parties, and breaking Germany's isolation by alliances with Italy and Japan and friendship with Yugoslavia, Poland, Rumania and Hungary. Still facing the Nazi regime are the questions of possible colonial expansion, improvement of foreign relations and reaching peaceful relations with the Catholic and Protestant Confessional churches.

Jackson Gets Reed's Place

ROBERT H. JACKSON, assistant attorney general, was nominated by the President to be solicitor general of the United States. He succeeds Stanley Reed, whose appointment to the Supreme court was confirmed by the senate. Jackson has been much in the headlines lately because of his speeches attacking business and his avowed intention to seek the governorship of New York.

President's Birthday

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was fifty-six years old on Sunday, January 30. He and Mrs. Roosevelt decided to have the birthday dinner the evening before, and twenty guests were invited, among them being members of the "Cuff Link club," wearing gold cuff links which Mr. Roosevelt gave them to commemorate their experiences in vice presidential and presidential campaigns, as well as in the days when he was assistant secretary of the navy.

After the dinner Mr. Roosevelt made a brief radio address in connection with the birthday balls being given all over the nation to raise funds to combat infantile paralysis.

Niagara Bridge Falls

THE Falls View bridge at Niagara falls, from which many thousands of honeymooners have looked at the cataract, was crushed by a terrific ice jam in the river and fell into the gorge in a great mass of twisted steel. The bridge had been closed to traffic a few hours earlier, so there was no loss of life.

Younger Service Chiefs

REAR ADMIRAL WILSON BROWN, former naval aide to the President and not yet fifty-six years old, has been named head of the naval academy at Annapolis, to succeed Admiral D. F. Sellers. Mr. Roosevelt said the army and navy, at his suggestion, had adopted a policy of assigning younger officers as superintendents of the military and naval academies. Brig. Gen. Jay L. Benedict, fifty-six, is slated to take command of West Point in place of Maj. Gen. W. D. Connor, who retires February 28.

Australia Celebrates

WITH elaborate ceremonies the Commonwealth of Australia began a three-months' celebration of its one hundred fiftieth birthday as a white settlement. The first fetes were in Sydney, where Capt. Arthur Phillip landed on January 26, 1788, with soldiers and 800 British convict settlers. Representing the United States in the water pageants were the cruisers Memphis, Trenton and Milwaukee.

Ynch Bill Doomed

FIFTY-ONE senators voted against a motion to invoke the cloture rule for the purpose of choking off the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill, and the measure which the southerners were fighting so determinedly was thus doomed to failure. Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who had supported the bill and voted for cloture, immediately served notice that the senate had made it impossible for the bill to be passed and that it must be displaced promptly by other legislation.

Tallest Blonds Are "Nordic-Falians" of North Germany

By EMILY C. DAVIS
New York.—Tallest blond communities in the world, is the distinction claimed for three isolated villages in a marshland district near Bremen. Nevertheless, they are not classified as pure Nordics by Dr. Christian von Krogh of the Munich Anthropological museum, who has just completed a special study of them. He calls them "Nordic-Falians"—by analogy perhaps with the tall, medium-blond, but rather round-headed Westphalians.

This group of people are land-holding peasants, and they have held the same land for centuries. Two of the villages, Arsten and Habenhausen, have been in existence since prehistoric times; the third is comparatively new, having been founded in the Eleventh century on land that had just been drained. Its name, Neuenland, Englishes as "Newland."

They Are Exclusive.
The farmer families marry only among themselves, keeping the landless workmen of the towns excluded from their family circles. A considerable degree of inbreeding has naturally resulted. Tracing family trees back four generations, Dr. von Krogh found only 6.4 per cent as many ancestors as there would have been had no intermarrying occurred.

That inbreeding to this degree has not harmed the stock physically is evidenced by the condition of the people today. The average body height is five feet nine inches; it is the greatest group height known in Europe. The people have big heads—high, long, and wide—with large faces to match.

Tree Rings May Solve Mayan Calendar Puzzle

Washington.—Tree rings of the Southwest are now expected to solve the puzzle of the Mayan calendar, enabling archeologists at least to date the magnificent ancient civilization that flourished in the American tropics before Columbus.

New discoveries in Mayan ruins in Guatemala, which bring the solution definitely nearer, were announced here by Dr. A. V. Kidder, archeologist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Dr. Kidder, who led the institution's latest expedition to Guatemala, told of finding pottery there, which was clearly brought down to the Mayan cities by Toltec Indian traders from their own great city of Teotihuacan, far to the north near Mexico City.

Dr. Kidder finds that these Mayas and the Toltecs who traded with them were living either about 700 A. D. or 950 A. D., but which century is correct, archeologists cannot agree. It is the two conflicting ways of translating Mayan dates into our modern calendar, one shifting Mayan history about 250 years later than the other, that Dr. Kidder now sees hope of straightening out.

Archeologists must now seek the missing link, Dr. Kidder foresees, to settle the Mayan civilization in historic centuries. And that link is pottery or some other trade object linking these Toltecs with the southwestern United States, where pueblos built by Indians are precisely dated in centuries, and even exact years, by means of the tree ring calendar evolved by science.

Pine Grown in Haste May Have Poor Qualities

Syracuse, N. Y.—Hasty work is bad work. This old and accepted tradition of the shop appears to hold good in nature also, in the production of new crops of wood to replace the old, slow-grown native forests.

At the meeting here of the Society of American Foresters, Arthur Koehler, of the United States forest service's forest products laboratory in Wisconsin, sounded a warning that quick-grown southern pine has three points of weakness: it is low in density, low in strength for its weight, and shrinks excessively in length upon drying.

The results of his investigations indicate, said Mr. Koehler, "that when the southern pines grow at an annual rate of about two-thirds of an inch in diameter inside bark or faster, they are likely to produce wood of such poor properties as to impair the usefulness for many purposes and hazard the reputation of second-growth timber in particular and wood in general. Good utilization practice therefore demands that the growth rate in individual trees be held within certain limits."

Stitches in Time

A STITCH in time goes a long way toward making your days brighter and your burdens lighter when the bustling, busy days of Spring roll 'round. No time then for leisure hours with your sewing kit, and fortunate indeed are the early birds who have got on with their Spring wardrobe. The moral?—make your selections now and be off to the races when the season starts!

Practical House Coat.
There is a versatility to this clever pattern which makes it a prime favorite for the style conscious and the thrifty. Designed in two lengths, it lends itself perfectly to either of two needs—as an apron frock in gingham or seersucker for busy days around the house, or as a full length beach or sports coat in chintz or linen crash. The princess lines are smooth and flattering and there are just seven pieces to the pattern—a cinch to make and a joy to wear.

Slimming Silhouette.
This handsome frock in linen or crepe does wonders for the full figure, sloughing off pounds here and bulges there with the utmost ease. Streamlined from the shoulders and buttoned at the waist with two graceful scallops, this is the sort of frock which answers your need perfectly for almost any social or shopping excursion, a standby to see you through the Summer. There is a choice of long or short sleeves and the simplicity of the design—just eight pieces in all—insures success even for the inexperienced in home sewing.

Attractive Apron.
"Swell" isn't a word the teacher recommends but it is highly appropriate in describing this handy apron frock which goes about the business of being an honest-to-goodness apron, not just a postage stamp model to wear for effect. Appealing in design, easy to wear, extremely serviceable, with two convenient pockets, this perfectly swell apron was designed by a busy housewife who knew her own! Six pieces to the pattern.

The Patterns
Pattern 1323 is designed for sizes 14 to 46 (32 to 46 bust). Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 35 or 39 inch material for short length without nap. Five yards of braid required for trimming. Housecoat length 7 1/4 yards.

Pattern 1448 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 35 or 39 inch material, plus 3/4 yard contrast.

Pattern 1439 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material. Five and one-half yards of bias stripes required for finishing.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

TIPS to Gardeners

Get Flowers Earlier

GARDENERS can get earlier bloom from many flowers by starting them indoors from seed and setting the plants in the open soil when frost danger is past.

Plant seeds of the following indoors about six weeks before the plants are to be set out: Delphinium, pink, gaillardia, lobelia, myosotis, pansy, Iceland poppy, salvia, stock and verbena.

A week or two later the following can be sown indoors: Ageratum, snapdragon, aster, dahlia, nicotiana, petunia, phlox drummondii, salpiglossis, scabiosa and vinca rosea.

Seed may be procured at your corner store sufficiently early to permit indoor planting.

With a number of popular flowers, however, there is no advantage to be gained by early starting indoors, according to Gilbert Bentley, flower expert of the Ferry Seed Institute.

In this class are sweet alyssum, calendula, calloppis, candytuft, four o'clock, marigold and nasturtium.

Smooth Sailing

The stabilizer in the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, which eliminates rolling more than 2 1/2 degrees to either side in the roughest weather, weighs 750 tons and cost nearly $1,000,000. The 175-ton flywheels in its three gyroscopes require a period of nearly three hours to attain their maximum speed of 910 revolutions a minute. — Collier's Weekly.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Rub soothing, warming Muterolo well into your chest and throat. Muterolo is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Muterolo penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Solitude Essential

Solitude is as needful to the imagination as society is wholesome for the character.—Lowell.

Nation Celebrates 250th Anniversary Swedenborg's Birth

AMAZING as it seems that one mind could encompass so many varied realms of knowledge, nevertheless it is true that Emanuel Swedenborg, the 250th anniversary of whose birth is being celebrated this year, made important contributions in many fields of science, theoretical and practical, in statesmanship, philosophy, and religion.

In 1716-1718 he published the first scientific periodical in Sweden, containing records of his mechanical inventions and mathematical discoveries, which included the first airplane design to have fixed wings and moving propeller, the first air pump to employ mercury, and the description of a method for determining latitude and longitude at sea by observations of the moon among the stars. In the "Principia," a work on physics and cosmology, he arrived at the nebular hypothesis theory before Kant and Laplace. He was 150 years ahead of any other scientist in his works on the functions of the brain and spinal cord, and on the functions of the ductless glands.

Swedenborg served as an active member of the parliament of his country for more than fifty years, introducing fiscal reforms and much general legislation.

At the age of fifty-five Emanuel Swedenborg discontinued his scientific pursuits and began his work as a theologian, publishing the "Arcana Coelestia, Apocalypse Explained"; "Heaven and Hell"; "Four Doctrines"; "Divine Love and Wisdom"; "Divine Providence"; "Apocalypse Revealed"; "Conjugal Love"; "True Christian Religion"; and other miscellaneous theological works. Information regarding the life and achievements and the works referred to, will be sent without charge by application to the Swedenborg Foundation, 51 E. 42nd St., New York City.

"Seems to me," he said, "that's a whole lot different from what you were saying just a little while ago."

"I wasn't able to believe my own eyes, I guess. I wasn't able to get over the 'settled-up' idea that eastern people have. Nobody but westerners will ever be able to understand our dry land. They'll never believe that a country can be over-settled—and yet have nothing in it but coyotes and jackrabbits and half a dozen poor cows to the mile."

He noticed that she called it "our dry land," now.

"And so—?"

"I'm going to stay with my brand, until there isn't one bit of the 94 left. After all, I'm my father's daughter. The country is part of me, bred in."

"I know how you feel," he said slowly. "But—it isn't as if you could really do anything here, now."

"I'll be able to keep you informed of what's happening here, at least. I hardly think Val Douglas would take much interest in that, left to himself. But it isn't that. It's simply—I can't always run away from everything. I've run away from too many things, and sometimes afterward I've been sorry."

He could understand that, but it surprised him to find her looking at things in that way. He had to respect her for it, but it didn't make the set-up any easier for him. "I suppose there isn't anything I can do," he admitted regretfully. "You've already shown me that when you set out to do a thing, you'll do it in spite of all hell and the drought."

"Wouldn't you rather have me that way?"

"I don't know as I could ever bring myself to want you any different than you are."

He made a cigarette, and lit it, and gloomily studied its smoke. He was thinking that it was pretty near too much to ask of a man to go off on a long trail, the way things were here, and leave this child—

Suddenly he realized that this girl was not any longer a child. He had not known that he had always before been her as a child, until now he saw her as something else. Her face had a color that was like a child's color, clear and lovely, but its contours no longer suggested a little girl. It was a quiet face, thoughtful and awake, and somehow competent looking; and her eyes, looking into that distance beyond the walls, were looking into the future—understandingly, even solemnly, but unafraid.

He wondered why he had not realized before how changed she was. Every movement she made, every pose she took, was different from what he had seen in the girl he had made love to two years before.

Two years ago Marian Dunn would not have been able to lounge relaxed upon his bunk in pajamas and an Indian blanket, thinking about the factors of range war, and the business affairs of men; she would have been nervously conscious then of the fact that the man she was with loved her—would have worried about what he would do or say.

This girl did not worry, but steadily faced the situation in which they found themselves.

He looked away from her, unable any longer to think of murder clues or cow mortgages while she was in his eyes. He fixed his gaze upon his thrown-down gunbelt and tried to think of what he must do. Bitterly he was blaming himself that he could not see through this killing case; for he had a persistent hunch that everything necessary for solution was in his hands. He blamed only himself that he must now take a long trail to discover what might be obvious, here and now, to a more brilliant deduction.

He tried to set his mind to the factors he had discussed with Coffee, in one more supreme effort to short-cut the case, but his mind would not work for him. Even with his eyes upon a saddle or a gun he could still see nothing but the girl—every glint of light in the loose bush of her hair, the slim cordings of a wrist, the resting look of a hand that lay palm up upon the blanket.

It was impossible for him not to wonder if things between them might not have been different had he never known her two years before at all, but could have started over again now, to win her in a new way. Then it occurred to him that it was a waste of time to be looking at a gun or a saddle blanket, trying to think, when he might be looking at her. Perhaps it would be a long time before he would see her again; perhaps he would never see her again at all.

So now he let murder and cows and money slide into the lost shadows, and he turned to her; and as he did so he found that her eyes were on his face. They looked at each other steadily, while the moments passed.

and looked away, but she did not look away now. Her eyes looked lazy, but not sleepy; they were as darkly blue as a night sky, but he found them unreadable at first. Then after a moment or two he recognized that she was not thinking about murder clues.

All at once he knew that there was no barrier between them any more at all, and had not been any for a long time, except the barrier put there by his "old defeat. And he knew now that he had never failed at all, but that the years had worked for him in ways he would not have guessed.

He said slowly, "I was the one who was a fool."

He never knew what move he made that brought her into his arms. With the barrier gone from between them at last they found themselves in each other's arms as naturally, as unhurriedly, as inevitably as the dry land takes up the rare rains; and his heart lifted up like the April grass of the dry ranges, when the snow-lock melts off and is forgotten as if it had never been. His hungry mouth found an answering quiver in her lips; and for a while, under the spell of the gentle warmth that he had thought would never be his, he no longer worried about what might happen to the cow kingdom of Horse Dunn.

Presently she said, "Two years ago it was my fault. But last night in the hills it was yours. If you had only put your hands on me then—but you had to stand with a face like granite, and eyes like death in the foothills."

"I know that—now."

"I don't know how I'm going to let you go. So many things—anything—can happen before we're together again."

"But we have this hour, now."

"Nothing can ever rob us of that!"

Each was seeing a person he had never seen before. He was still whipcord and braided leather, the saddle man who could hold his own in the upheaval of markets and the shifting games of the financiers; but all the barbed and dour hardness of him was gone, so that in the arms of this girl it was as if he were reborn. And in the girl the hidden steel of the will he had not been able to bend seemed melted, and the curve of her body within his arm was a surrender without reserve.

They did not know how long they lay together on the bunk that for the time was not his, but theirs, in that lonely and deserted house; and he learned here that she was neither east nor west, but all woman.

A harsh, taut strain that had held them for days seemed to slacken and go out of the night, as if guns and cattle were unimportant things; and in that hour that was theirs alone, one bitterness went out of the world forever. It was not a surprise, but a consummation, when presently he found that she was asleep.

He picked her up and carried her to her own room, and put her in her own bed; and she smiled faintly in her sleep as he kissed her eyes. Then he walked out of the house, by a different door than the one where Coffee sat, and stood listening to the still night.

Then, while his mind was entirely away from hatred and violence for the first time in a week, something in the back of his mind found the answer, and all in a moment he saw through the tangle that had roped the 94. He knew suddenly not only who had killed Flagg at Short Creek, but why Flagg had had more than a hunch that he was riding into death; he knew why Marian had been fired on; and he knew how he could prove, inevitably and inescapably, who had killed Bob Flagg—and the taut strain of range war came back into the night, turning him cold.

Wheeler walked around the house to where Old Man Coffee still sat. As far as the naked eye could observe Old Man Coffee had not changed his position; he could sit like a rock or an Indian hours on end, as if this were his natural way of living out his life. Wheeler sat down slowly and stiffly on the step beside the old man, he ran his hands over his face, shook his head like a fighter trying to clear away the effects of a killing right cross.

Coffee did not speak and for a little while Wheeler also sat silent, trying to compute how much he wished to say. "Coffee," he said at last, "I see it. I see it all."

Coffee took his pipe out of his mouth and looked at Wheeler. "All what?"

"I know who fired on Marian."

"Hell, son, you had that figured out last time I seen you, two hours ago." Coffee glanced at the stars which he used as a clock. "Two hours and fifteen minutes," he corrected himself.

"I had the wrong reason," Wheeler said; "this time I know. And knowing that, I know now why Bob Flagg had forenotice that he was near his end. And I can prove it all."

Old Man Coffee started to say, "You sound like you was full of—," but he hesitated and studied Billy Wheeler sidelong through the thin dark. "Answer me one thing, son," he said at last. "What was the thing that showed you the killer trail?"

"It was two things, Coffee," Wheeler said; "not one. Two kind of trivial-looking things, that I knew and then forgot. But as soon as I saw the meaning of one of them, right away I saw the meaning of the other. Like as if the two clues were tied together by the neck. Coffee, Marian doesn't know a thing in the world about this. But the first thing that came to me was something I remembered that she said. You remember after—"

"Stop," said Old Man Coffee. "So sharply had the old man commanded him that Wheeler at first thought Coffee was listening to some distant sound. "What's the matter?"

"I've heard enough."

"Then," said Billy Wheeler, "you know the answer too?"

"I've kind of suspected it these many days. I didn't know for sure until today."

"Do you think anyone else knows?"

"Son, I'm virtually certain that no one in the world knows but you and me."

"You must have come at it differently than I did, Coffee."

"Different than you," Coffee agreed. "God knows how you come at it. I don't want to know. In a minute now I'm going to say no more. But nobody else in the Red Rock could have found it out except maybe Cayuse Cayetano—and he's dead."

They sat silent for a little time.

"What's the next move?" Wheeler presently asked.

"Until you spoke," Coffee said, "I knew what my next move was going to be. My next move was going to be out. But now that you've come onto the right trail, I guess maybe it's kind of up to me to stand by a little while, until I see what you do."

Something in Old Man Coffee's voice bothered Wheeler. "You mean we're not working together, then?"

"Seems like we might not be, son. I'm an old man; and I long ago learned that sometimes it's a good idee to leave sleeping dogs lie."

"You mean, you'd have been willing to pull out of this case and leave it unsolved forever?"

Old Man Coffee drew half a dozen slow puffs on his pipe before he answered. "The first murder case I worked on," he said at last, "was a long time ago. Sometimes I think that one first case was the misfortune of my life. Because it gave me a kind of a reputation in a small way, so that ever since then I've been called in on such, from time to time, over and over again. Man hunting isn't a pretty job, Billy, nor anything a man would care to turn his hand to more than once, if he could get out of it. But I've always worked hard and honestly on my case where I once set my hand. And now that I'm old I figure to keep one right to myself—the right to keep my mouth shut if I can't see where clearing up a mystery will serve no proper end.

"Take this case, here. Do you think that solving this crime can possibly come under the head of helping any living person, or preserving the peace? You know better than that. You know as well as I do that the minute the answer is made known the guns will crack out, and good boys that's got nothing to do with either side will be throwing lead into each other's guts."

"You think Horse Dunn will take to the guns?"

"Of course he'll take to the guns! You know him well enough to know that. The guns will be talking before ever the thing is proved."

"The proof ought to be easy enough."

"I got no doubt of that. I see at least one way of proof and maybe you see more. But what I'm telling you is this, son—think what you're doing before you raise this lid. Don't raise it unless you think you'd rather see what will come of it, in place of what we already got."

The moon was gone, and they sat in the chill blackness before dawn; but it seemed to Wheeler that the night was no darker than his mood. "I thought of all that," he said. "I thought of all that the moment it came to me. And first off, I thought like you. But now—I'm not so sure. Sometimes it seems like there's something unbound at the bottom of any plan that calls for just hiding our heads."

"Then I'll give you your answer," said Old Man Coffee abruptly. "I'll give you the whole thing, once and for all, in four words. Think of the girl."

He took a couple of drags on his pipe. "Forget Horse Dunn, and the cattle, and the money, and the range. Forget even the good fighting boys, here on the 94—Tulare and Steve Hurley and Val Douglas—they'll fight while they can hold up their guns. And Gil Baker, he'll be in it if he has to drag a broken leg into the street. But forget all them. And think what this here head-on smash between the 94 and all of the rest of the range is going to mean to the girl."

Wheeler sat silent for a long time. At last, needing to be alone, he got up and walked off into the dark, leaving Old Man Coffee with the darkness and his pipe. He went out and he sat on the corral, and he was thinking about Horse Dunn and the cow kingdom of the 94; but mostly he was thinking about the girl who had at last taken him into her heart, now at the end. He could never think about anything any more except in terms of its effect upon her.

He had an hour to come to his decision there before the first pale, reddish light of the dawn showed at the edge of the world; and it was the hardest hour of his life, because he knew that he held in his hands the future of them all. More than once he turned to Coffee's easier way. But as a gray light began to come slowly across the 94 he thought he knew what he must do.

He went in and rapped on Marian's door; and when she called to him sleepily he went in and stood beside her bed. "You and I are going to Inspiration," he told her.

Mustangs of Texas Face Last Round-Up; Was Ideal Mount of Ranching Industry

It's the last round-up for the mustang of the western range country. Thoroughbred stock is fast replacing the tough, nimble-footed horse which was the pioneer's staunchest ally in creating a ranch empire.

Sharply changed conditions have minimized the importance of the horse in the modern live stock industry, with the result that the mustang—the Southwest's distinctive breed of horse—is no longer in great demand.

The vast ranches which once stretched for miles across the plains, unfenced and with indefinite boundaries, have given way to compact units, the largest seldom more than a few thousand acres.

These smaller ranches, writes a Del Rio, Texas, correspondent in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, with new methods of stock raising, and the free use of motor vehicles, have less need of the durable, inexpensive mustang.

Racing, with its consequent blooded stock, has had fluence on breeding in the last few years.

It may be significant that horses in Texas today are valued at considerably more than all the millions of cattle or sheep in this stock-raising state.

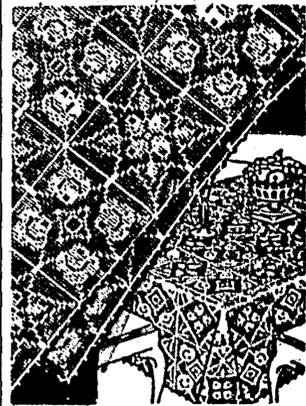

Cattlemen are concentrating on thoroughbred stables, breeding fine horses for racing, polo and show purposes. The mustang, a decidedly "cheap" horse in contrast with the spirited animal required for these sports, may eventually suffer the fate of the buffalo, say some stockmen.

Light and fast on his feet, equipped by nature to pick his way over the rockiest hills and through brushy tangles, the mustang was the ideal mount in the early days of the ranching industry.

Flathead Lake in Montana stretches about thirty miles long; area, 189 square miles, and depth, 289 feet.

Slow-Fast; Fast-Slow

When you see a slow-motion scene on the films, you probably think that it was taken very slowly with the camera, and that this is the reason it goes so slowly on the screen. Actually, it is taken much faster by the cameraman than in the case with ordinary pictures. At the moving picture theater it is run at exactly the same speed as in any of the other films.

By taking twice as many pictures in a second with the camera, the motion will appear one-half as fast on the screen. Likewise, if the cameraman takes the pictures at half speed, they appear twice as fast as normal when projected on the screen. The faster they are made, the slower they are when projected, and vice versa.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be averted if you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membrane and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv)
