Baptist Church To Hold Meeting

Beginning Sunday, the First Baptist Church of Carrizozo will begin a series of meetings which will continue through the week. Preaching will be at about seven fifty. The choir will be directed by Mrs. Don English. She will do a good job of it, and you will enjoy every minute of the song and praise service.

It is to be hoped that every person in Carrizozo and the country around will attend these services at some time during the meeting. Our purpose in having the meeting, is to be a blessing to everyone within reach of our church, and we believe that every one shall be benefited who will take time to attend.

No institution has been of greater service to humanity than the church. No institution has made a greater contribution to the world than has the church. No one would care to live where there is no church, and yet, many people seem to think that the church will get along alright without their help and presence. The church does not ask for much, and yet it gives it all. Will you please come and help us?

I am a stranger in your midst. I want to know you and be of some help to you if I may. Every man deserves a chance to prove himself, and if you will do us the favor of coming out to church, it will be a great pleasure to offer you all that we have. Services will be held at night only. You will not be kept late. Permit us to extend to every one a very cordial invitation.

J. C. Vandiver, Pastor.

Norvel Story, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Story, was brought to the Turner hospital Wednesday suffering from shock and loss of blood, caused when a circular saw hit him in the face cutting a gash beside his nose and through his upper and lower lips.

Mmes. Greer and daughter Ethel Skinner are spending a few days at Three Rivers with the Lester Greer family.

CHAPTER XIV

The early sun was upon the broad main street of Inspiration as Billy Wheeler drove Horse Dunn's touring car into the little cow town. Old Man Coffee was in the back seat, this time without any of his dogs. Marian, who had been dozing against Billy's shoulder, sat up and looked at the vacant street with a detached curiosity. It seemed strange to see the street so empty and silent, where last they had seen a full of knotted groups of men. No stealthy movement in doorways this time, no eyes covertly watching them from under ten-gallon hats—nothing but clean horizontal sunlight on quiet dust, as if nothing lived in this place at all.

Marian said, "You still don't want to tell me what you're going to do?"

"It isn't that I don't want to tell you. It's just that it's got to come to you in another way."

"This is a dramatic thing—rather a terrible thing," Marian said, "this coming to the end of a killer's trail."

"Don't look at it that way. I want you to think of this thing with all the impartiality you can. You know now that our western code is a different code. Not the six-gun code of the old days, nor the wild kind of thing some people have tried to make out of it, such as never existed here or any place else. But just a kind of a way of going about things that is bred into dry country men—the way of each man making his own right and wrong, each man looking only to himself for approval in the end. Maybe—you're only going to learn the story of a kind of—a kind of private execution; maybe by a man who believed with all his heart that he was in the right."

She looked at him wondering for a minute, she had never heard him talk in that way before. "Billy, Billy, don't you trust me to face out anything, even yet? Don't you think I have any courage at all?"

"I trust your courage more than I've ever trusted anything in my life. Or you wouldn't be here now."

Wheeler drove through the town and turned up a side street to the house where Sheriff Walt Amos lived. Leaving Marian and Old Man Coffee in the car he walked around the little house to the back door; there was a smell of breakfast cooking here, and Walt Amos himself was souzling water over his face and hair at a wash bench beside a pump. The young sheriff straightened up and stared at Wheeler for a long moment through dripping water. "Hardly expected to see you here."

"I've come to make a deal with you," Wheeler said.

"Don't hardly seem there's any deal to be made between you and me. Horse Dunn isn't going out on bail. Get it out of your head." Amos began to dry his face and hair.

"This is something else," Wheeler said. "You've wanted me out of this picture. You've wanted me out of it from the start. You know why, and there's no need for us to go into why."

"I got enough troubles on this range," Amos said, "without outside capital pitching in to make things worse for the common run of cowmen."

"In short, you and your gang has been afraid I'd help Dunn save the 94. You tried to railroad me, here in Judge Shafer's court—but you didn't get away with it. Maybe you've got other things in mind to try, to get me out of the way of your plans. I don't know anything about that."

"People from outside, that figure to throw in against the best interests of this range—" Amos began.

"All right. Now you've got a chance to get rid of me. You give me what I want and I'll promise you I'll be out of this killing case within 24 hours."

"You haven't got any official standing in this case to begin with," Amos pointed out.

"You'd like to see me drag my freight, just the same! And here's how you can get it done."

"Well?"

"Old Man Coffee and Horse Dunn's niece are here with me. Give us an hour to talk to Horse Dunn alone. That's the proposition and all of the proposition."

"And if I do that you'll pull out of here?"

"Within 24 hours. I'll stay out until the killing case against Horse Dunn is cleared up, one way or another. After that maybe I'll come back to the 94 and maybe I'll help it with its finance; I don't say one way or the other. But if you want me out of it for the time being, here's your chance."

"There's a hook in this some place," Amos said. "But I'll take a chance. Horse Dunn's in the jail, where he belongs. I'll take you there and I'll give you an hour."

The Inspiration jail was tiny, but it was perhaps the most modern building in the town. It sat by itself on a rise of ground 300 yards behind Walt Amos' house, which was the nearest dwelling.

In structure it was a 20-foot square cube of concrete, with tiny air holes near the roof, and an iron door. Within was an inner cage of steel bars, separated from the outer shell, all the way around, by a corridor four feet wide. The place had no great capacity, but it would have been a double job for a good cracksmen to make his way out.

Old Man Coffee was reluctant to visit Horse Dunn here. "Don't hardly seem fitting."

"There's a special reason I want you to come, for a minute or two."

"Have it your own way."

Sheriff Walt Amos swung wide the outer door. "I'm putting you on your honor not to try any funny business," he said. "But in case of doubt—just remember how easy it would be to cut loose on you from the house!"

"You talk like a child," said Coffee.

It seemed strange, Billy Wheeler thought, that the old king of cattle, the man who could not only dream a cow kingdom but make it live, was to be found standing here in a two-by-four jail. Yet, within the black shadows of concrete and steel Horse Dunn towered bigger than ever, straighter than ever; he seemed, not an old man at the end of his rope, but a young giant, easy in his strength. The great sense of latent power that radiated from Horse Dunn made it seem that he only waited here within these cramped walls because he willfully used his own great body as a pawn, laid in hazard while he awaited his advantage.

Then "Speak Out, Man!" He Said

But there were tears in Marian's eyes.

Horse Dunn grinned upward and about him at the steel and concrete. The walls could not shame him—it was he who shamed the walls. "A thousand miles of range have to be held by money and cows and men—not by a little tin contrivance palmed off on the county by some hardware salesman. You think they can hold me here an hour, once I decide to move out?"

No one answered him. There where the daylight could hardly enter, the silence had a way of descending sharply, like the closing of iron doors. After a little of that quiet no one could forget that a man had been found dead in the Red Sleep, and another at Ace Springs, and still another at the head of a gorge without a name.

Wheeler knew that Old Man Coffee's eyes were watching him, waiting for him to speak. He drew a deep breath and broke the silence.

"Horse," he said, "the whole works has been—kind of stood on its head, since I saw you last."

Horse Dunn's voice rumbled. "Well, that's good!"

Wheeler's voice was very low; he found that he could hardly speak. "No, Horse; it isn't good. This is maybe the worst thing that any of us have come to, ever, in all our long trails."

Held in that sharp, hard silence that could clamp down so suddenly here they could feel the chill of the walls. Wheeler was seeking a way to go on.

Marian was holding her uncle's hand against her cheek, and now Horse drew his hand away. "Billy," he said, and hesitated. Then, "Speak out, man!" he said at last.

"Two-three different things have happened," Wheeler said. "Marian and I found Lon Magoon dead, a little way back in the hills. Coffee, here, he went to Pahrnanagat—"

"How'd Magoon die?" Horse Dunn asked.

Wheeler would not be turned aside. "I guess that don't so much matter, Horse, in view of a couple of other things. For one thing, Marian had her horse shot out from under her, in plain light, back in the hills. I've been thinking a whole lot, Horse," he went on, "about how anybody would ever come to take a shot at her. Now—I think I know."

"What are you coming to, boy?" Horse Dunn said.

"Horse," said Billy Wheeler—"Horse—I know who killed Marian's pony last night; and I know why."

He saw Horse Dunn's big shaggy head sway and tip a little to one side as the old man sought to peer more closely into Wheeler's eyes. "If you know that—" he began.

Wheeler's voice was flat and relaxed with utter certainty. "You know I do, Horse."

Billy Wheeler could hear his own blood beating in his ears, like a far-off Indian drum; and this time the silence was a terrible silence, unendurable to those gathered there.

"Coffee," Horse Dunn said in an unnatural voice. "I'll talk to this boy alone."

Perhaps some faint persistent hope that he was wrong had lasted somewhere in Billy Wheeler's mind. But when Horse Dunn told Old Man Coffee to go out, Wheeler knew that he had not been wrong, but that they were at the end.

Old Man Coffee moved quickly, with the smooth, sliding stride of one of his own lion hounds. He was glad to be out of there. For a moment the young sun splashed through the open door with the brilliance of a powder flare-up; then the half-dark closed again as Coffee let the door swing shut behind him. They heard the crunch of his heels in the dirt as he walked off down the side of the hill.

"You go too, Marian," Horse Dunn said softly. "Billy and I want to—"

"You want her to stay here, Horse, I think."

"Stay here?" The old man's voice was blurred by a strange and unaccustomed uncertainty. "You want her to stay here?"

"It's you that needs her here," Wheeler told him. Then after a moment he said, almost inaudibly—"Tell her, Horse."

An odd back light from one of the high ventilators outlined Dunn's big shaggy head and the sweep of a great shoulder, but his eyes they could not see. As he spoke it seemed that it was not the big old fighter who stood there, but an old man as vaguely bewildered as a child. "Tell her?" he said dimly. "You want me to tell her—"

Once more the silence descended, brutal, complete; it held on endlessly, as if no one of them was ever going to be able to break it again. And still Horse Dunn did not speak nor move, but stood like a frozen man, a great shadowy figure just beyond the bars. Billy Wheeler tried to say something, anything, to break that terrible taut stillness; but he could not.

Suddenly Marian Dunn stumbled forward, against the bars. She reached through, drew Horse Dunn's wrists through the barrier, and hid her face in his two great hands. Her voice came to them choked and smothered.

"I didn't know—I didn't know—" Horse Dunn's words shuddered as he cried out—"What—what didn't you know?"

"That you—could love me—so much"

Wheeler saw the old fighter sway; but in a moment he was steady again. He spoke across Marian's bent head, and his voice had a hard edge. "You don't know what you're talking about. Old Man Coffee has been loading you with—Look here: is he in on this?"

"I'm virtually certain he knows, though he figured it out different than I did."

"Figured out what? Spit it out, man!"

"Horse," said Wheeler with more sadness in his voice than he had ever known in the world before. "I can name you every step of—"

Horse Dunn's voice blazed up,

"Arithmetic Doctor" Has "Clinic" to Aid in "Treating" the Lagging Pupils

Teach a boy to add fractions pleasurable and confidently, says Dr. Charles A. Stone of Chicago, the "arithmetic doctor," and overnight his ambitions are likely to change from a desire to be a policeman to a hope he can be President of the United States.

He probably will become aggressive, sure-minded, determined, in contrast to his previous shyness, backwardness and tardiness in grasping ideas, contends the De Paul university professor who acquired the sobriquet, the "arithmetic doctor" by devising a new method of teaching mathematics.

Recently Dr. Stone established a special arithmetic "clinic" as an experiment in "treating" lagging pupils. He decided to diagnose the cases of each "ailing" student in much the same manner as a physician uses for his patients.

Tests were given to locate the particular place of difficulty for each breaking restraint. "In God's name, how did you find out?"

"From something Marian said. After the first shot at her, she said, 'I'm glad it happened. I can't tell you why.' I know now what she meant by that. Those shots proved to her that no one who loved her was mixed up in the Short Crick works. And today it suddenly came to me that just to fix that idea in her mind might have been reason enough for dropping those shots near her. Then I remembered the night when you taped up your ankle where it was skinned, and spoke of straightening your spur. Of course, a spur doesn't skin a man's ankle bone. Some boot weapon would have to do that; and a derringer would have fitted in—a derringer carrying a shotgun shell. The shot in the saddle fooled Coffee, for a while; it looked to him like it came from farther away than the horses had stood apart, and made him think there was a third man. But I just happened to think that the shot could have come from a short, weak gun with the same effect. Well—"

Wheeler finished—"Coffee has been to Pahrnanagat; he found out that Flagg came through there like a bum."

"Dear God," Horse Dunn whispered. "It's—the end of the rope." He pulled his hands away, and began to pace the two strides that the cell permitted—back and forth, back and forth.

"Marian," Wheeler begged, "tell him you see—"

Marian raised her face, curiously in command of herself again. Her voice was steady. "I do see it! I see it all!"

Dunn's pacing stopped; he raised big shaking hands, pleading hands. "And yet you—ain't—you don't think—"

Marian cried out to him—and there was pain in her voice, but there was glory in it, too—"I think nobody ever loved anybody so much as you have proved you love me!"

"I—I can't hardly believe—" Horse Dunn sagged down onto the bare steel cot within his cell. "Marian, if you're telling me that you—you know—and yet you're backing me, still—"

The girl was pressed against the bars that kept her from him. "I'm telling you that I believe in you with all my heart!"

Horse Dunn stood up slowly, like a man in a dream.

He said, "How much have you told her, boy?"

"She knows only what she's guessed, I think. The rest of the story has to come from you."

The boss of the 04 appeared to consider for what seemed a long time. "I—I don't know as I can make out to do that. Life hasn't gone easy, or smooth, with me. Other times, long ago, I've faced down other men, more men than these. But I swear I never raised guns to any man, without he got his break! I stood with empty hands, always, until their guns showed."

"She has to know it all," Billy insisted, "from the very beginning."

"I can't hardly expect her to understand how it came up. Those shots I threw so close to her—that's the crazy part, that a man can't hardly explain. I couldn't ever have done it, if I didn't know for certain that I could put a slug into a two-bit piece at a hundred yards—ten out of ten, easy as you'd put your finger on a nail. It seems a wild and crazy thing, even to me. But—"

I tell you, never a man lived that could throw the fear into me that this kid has always been able to—just on the scare that she'd quit me. And I thought if there was one thing she'd be sure of on earth, it was that I'd give my life to save the least hair of her head from harm. And I took that way; so that she'd always be dead certain, whatever might happen or be proved later, that it couldn't be true that it was me who killed Flagg."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—Many a good news yarn has been spoiled by the necessity of "getting the story in the lead," as they say in the newspaper shops. This reporter asks indulgence for saving the kick in this one for the end, noting merely that it is a happy ending. In recent years, there have been so many unhappy fade-outs, from Sam Langford to the League of Nations, that anything in the line of an unexpected Garrison finish rates a bit of suspense before the news pay-off.

Story That Has Kick at the End

In Maxwell street, Chicago, long before the fragrance of Bubbly creek ebbed and sank and saddened, there was a book-stall which was the Jewish Algonquin of those parts. The place was overrun with philosophers, some white-bearded and highly venerated, some young and contentious, all stirred by a fervid intellectual zeal. They wolfed new books and started clamorous arguments about them, the way the crowds at the big pool hall down the street grabbed the box scores in the late sporting extras. Sweatshop workers used to throng in after a hard day's work and get in on the seminar.

Wrinkled, merry, mischievous little Abraham Bisno from Russia was the Erasmus of the sweatshop philosophers.

He used to circulate a lot around this and other Maxwell street book-shops, and many times the state of Illinois was saved the expense of calling out the militia because Bisno happened along to referee an argument.

Erasmus of Sweatshops Makes Peace

He was a sweatshop worker, a man of amazing erudition, but of salty, colloquial speech, never emmeshed in the tangle of print language around him. He used to tease his friend, Jane Addams, of nearby Hull house, by calling her settlement workers "the paid neighbors of the poor." He liked to deflate the Utopians, bolting things down to Gresham's law of money, the law of diminishing returns, weighted averages or something like that. He was the first of a multitude of sweatshop economists who spread light and learning through Chicago's Ghetto.

Bisno had a bright-eyed, clever little daughter named Beatrice, one of several children. Old sages, up and down Maxwell street, used to say the world would hear from Beatrice some day. But the world went to war, regardless of Sir Norman Angell and all the other philosophers, and the Bismos passed beyond the ken of this writer.

About twelve years ago, I had a visit from Francis Oppenheimer, a New York Journalist. Beatrice Bisno was his wife. She was going to write a book, and did I know of a quiet hide-out where she could write it? I sent them to the old Hotel Helvetia, No. 23 Rue de Tournon, in Paris. She sat in the nearby Luxembourg garden and wrote her book.

They came home and the book made endless round trips to publishers' offices. The smash of 1929 took the last of their savings. Today I had a letter from Francis Oppenheimer.

"We finally threw the book in an old clothes basket," he said. "Then, acting on impulse, we used our dinner money to give it one more ride. Weeks passed. Beatrice fell ill. There came a letter from Live-right, the publisher. I knew it was another rejection and didn't want to show it to Beatrice. But I tore open the envelope and handed it to her. Her eyes were glazed. She could not read the letter. It slipped from her fingers and fell to the floor."

And in the same mail today, there came to this desk a copy of the new book, "Tomorrow's Bread," by Beatrice Bisno, winning the $2,500 prize award, the judges being Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Fannie Hurst. That was the news that Mr. Oppenheimer picked up from the floor when his wife was too ill to read it.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher says of the book: "A searching realistic portrait of an idealist. What an idealist does to the world and what the world does to an idealist is here set down with power and sincerity."

Winsome little Bisno is gone. One wishes he could be carrying the news down to the old Maxwell street book stall, if it's still there.

Where Yale Is Buried

All round the Welsh village of Bryn-Eglwys, writes H. V. Morton in "In Search of Wales," lies property which once belonged to the Yale family, one of whom, Eilifu, did so much toward founding Yale university. Eilifu lies buried, however, not in the Yale chapel attached to the church of Bryn-Eglwys, but at Wrexham, 10 miles away.

Afghan That's Smart

You will love to have this choice afghan, made of just a simple square. Joined, it forms an effective design. There are a variety of other ways of joining it, all given in the pattern. Use three colors of Germantown or make half the squares in one set of colors, the other in another with background always the same. In pattern 5941 you will find directions for making the afghan and a pillow; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements, and color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y.

Works in 2 ways on discomfort of

COLDS

1. Take 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 3 hours.

2. If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

Now's the Time for a New Silk Print

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

UP TO the present you may have held to the "nothing-new-under-the-sun" theory, but have you seen the advance collections of 1938 silk prints? New! They all but shatter into atoms the "nothing new" idea. So "different" are this season's prints from those that have gone before, one marvels at the magic art of designers who can achieve such refreshing newness in both patternings and color effects.

Speaking of the new-this-season prints, picture to yourself a silk with graceful wavy stripes with a wide floral bordering of gorgeous red roses and violets and daisies and green foliage. Imagine the possibilities a silk of this type offers. We saw just such a print made up simply in a frock, the gay floral bordering used for short puff sleeves and for a wide corset girdle, contrasting smartly the neutral colored stripes—charming to wear under your fur coat instant-er!

Stripes, by the way, are playing a tremendously important role in current prints. For that matter they are running rampant throughout the entire program of fashion. There's a newness in the way stripes are made to go round and round this season although any which-way is all right for stripes nowadays—up, down, around, diagonal, criss-crossed together at right angles, play with stripes at your own sweet will and you will be "in style." See the smart daytime dress to the right in the picture. It is typical of the new stripe trends. The silk print used is patterned with bayadere stripes alternating a chain-design stripe in cathedral colors on a black background. Note the hat. It is modeled after the much-talked-about "M" hat Agnes created for Marlene Dietrich.

The distinctively new half-in-half treatment given to the print plus black crepe dress to the left is interesting. Here you see a beige and white lacy print on black ground meandering down into the hemline where it is gracefully applied in long slender points on to a black silk canton crepe hem. The wateau neckline is set off with rhinestone and amber clips. The hat worn is a modish black straw Irish stovepipe type, trimmed with beige grosgrain bow.

The mention of beige reminds us to tell you that fashion is making a big plunge over the new coral shades stressing particularly wheat colors and cornflake tones, all of which relate to the beige family.

Another color innovation in prints is the black and white combination that is enlivened with a single color accent. A silk print of this description fashions the dress centered in the group. It is a black and white floral with a one-color lattice design traced throughout. The silk crepe belt picks up the tomato red color in the lattice print. The black high-side-roll brim hat is a stunning affair, that gives you an inkling of that which is to be during the coming months.

Here's a style message to write down in your notebook and underscore. It's in regard to the effective teamwork prints and pleats are carrying on in the spring style parade. You can't turn around in fashiondom this season without hearing the call for pleats, pleats, pleats and "then come" in the way of added pleatings. If you are making your own print frock you might get the skirt pleated or if it is a ready-made dress you are buying ask to see pleated models. They are being shown in infinite variety and they carry an air of newness about them that bespeaks this season's vintage.

Can Spring Be Far Away?

WITH Winter almost over, March blizzards to the contrary notwithstanding, you find yourself eyeing the fashion sheets a little more than casually. Indeed you probably already have your needle threaded, just waiting for some nice Spring patterns to make your acquaintance. And here they are, three quick tricks, each pleasantly awaiting your choice, each designed to make some wardrobe happy. Which do you prefer?

Fitted Bodice.
Look your Sunday best in this graceful afternoon frock with its snug and softly shirred waistline. The skirt flares slightly to the front and emphasizes the slimness of the silhouette. Note the saddle-shoulder and short, puffed sleeves—details that are unusually becoming and make for distinction. One of the new widely spaced flower patterns in rayon or silk will make your informal afternoons and evening a double delight, and the pattern is a particular joy to work with. So simple, and so pleasing.

Trim Morning Frock.
Don't be caught around the house without your best foot forward. You needn't be, with this crisp and flattering morning frock at your beck and call. Simple as pie, yet charming fresh and youthful, this model dispenses with all fussy details yet achieves an appearance which will see you through the busiest day. The skirt flares a bit from a neatly fitted waistline, and the ric-rac trim, in contrast, adds a note of brightness. Just nine pieces including the belt and pockets. Try dotted swiss or a printed percale.

For the Full Figure.
This charming frock is really more than a house frock—you'll find it flattering enough and dressy enough to wear throughout the day. The slim, straight lines make every provision for comfort. The skirt has a kick pleat at front, the sleeves are full and pleated, and the neck line is just right to be very flattering. Furthermore you can make this dress, of a rayon print or gay percale, in a brief afternoon or evening, resulting in a pretty, run-around model at far less than you usually spend.

The Patterns.
Pattern 1450 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (32 to 33 bust). Size 14 (32) requires 3 3/4 yards of 39 inch material with short sleeves. Fourteen inch zipper required for front closing.

Pattern 1312 is designed for sizes 14 to 44 (32 to 44 bust). Size 16 (34) requires 3 3/4 yards of 39 inch fabric; 1 1/4 yards braid required for trimming.

Pattern 1444 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35 or 39 inch material; 1/2 yard required for revers facing in contrast. Bow requires 1/2 yard ribbon.

The Drawbacks

"Dear Mrs. Pucket," a school teacher wrote to the mother of a pupil, "William was absent this morning. Will you please tell me what kept him out of school?"
"Dear Ma'am," was the reply, "William is keeping time for his father. Last night he cum home with an exampel about how long would it take a man walking 3 miles an hour to walk two and a half times around a field 4 miles square." And as Willie ain't no man, we had to send his pap."

TIPS to Gardeners

The First Step

THE first step toward a successful garden is an early start. Spade or plow as soon as possible. If a handful of soil is crumbled readily, the soil is in condition to be worked.

It is important that fertilizer be used cautiously, advises Harold Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute. An excess is often harmful.

Garden preparation effort is wasted if you do not plant seeds from dependable sources. Select your favorite varieties from the nearby store before the supply is depleted, even though it is not yet time to plant. Make sure the seeds you buy are freshly packed.

Weather conditions permitting, it is advisable to spade into the soil some rotted manure, rotted leaves or lawn clippings, or rotted garden refuse. Clay soils are improved in texture by this treatment, and sandy soils are improved in water holding capacity.

Gauging Sincerity

Interest in your work is the best evidence in the world of your sincerity for service. Where time hangs heavy on your hands and you can see no chance for progress or promotion—when your interest in your work lags, it is your duty to get interested or get out.—Van Amburgh.

YOUR HOUSE COAT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

What about your housecoat? Does it give you glamor and allure? Does it add to the picture of your home environs? Merely a few of the questions you should ask yourself when selecting the garment that should make you appear at your most attractive during the hours spent at home. The new models in housecoats have completely won over the American woman to this charming fashion. The Fashioncraft committee, a group of style experts, have given their approval to the attractive model created by Henry Hadad as here illustrated. Floral cotton tapestry twill is fitted through the bodice and waist, flaring widely at the skirt. The shoulders are pleated, the collar notched and a zipper closes the front.

LATEST HATS GO TO EXTREMES IN TYPES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS
You may wear a very small hat or one big of brim and be in fashion. Many of the new chapeaux tip coquettishly over one eye, especially those of Watteau inspiration and the Gibson Girl sailors. Then there are roll-high brims which are designed to wear far back on the head. Bonnets, so fashionable just now, also set back so that the brim reveals the hairline across the forehead. Pill-box types are also good style. There is also a tendency for brims with high side flare.

Milliners are using more flowers and ribbons than usual. Bandeau effects are sponsored because of high pose on high-brushed hair-dress.

The smartest hat to start the new season is the sports felt in pastel color. Veils in pastel color is also big news.

Suspenders Are Adopted by Women for Slacks, Shorts

Suspenders are the latest item of men's attire to be confiscated by the women. Half of the slacks and many of the shorts being worn at the winter resorts are equipped with suspenders. Some of these braces are exactly like the ones that men prefer, others match the fabric of the costume.

White faille silk braces are among the swankiest to be offered for beach wear and invariably accompany slacks of white sharkskin.

Evening Gowns Are Shown in Two Silhouette Modes

Evening gowns are shown in both romantic and tubular silhouettes. A romantic gown of tulle combines green and purple effectively, while another of black mousseline de soie is cut full over a tubular foundation skirt. It is of redingote design, the opening edged with black sequins.

"IT OPENED MY EYES... TO REAL JOY SMOKIN'" says Al Boyes. He's talkin' about the guarantee on this milder, tastier "makin's" tobacco...

ALLEN H. (AL) BOYES (at the wheel) gives a good tip to all smokers who roll their own when he says: "That Prince Albert money-back offer opened my eyes to real joy smoking. What a difference! First, P.A. hugs the paper—rolls up fast and trim. It draws grand—burns slow, cool, and mellow. There's no harshness—yet there's plenty of good, rich taste." Well, Al, when a tobacco has the bite taken out by a special process, it's got to smoke milder—it's bound to give you real smokin' joy.

FRIEND—THERE'S NO STRINGS TO THIS MONEY-BACK OFFER . . .

Roll yourself 30 small cigarettes from Prince Albert. If you don't find them the finest, tastiest roll-your-own cigarettes you ever smoked, return the pocket tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. "WELL, blow me down, mate," chuckles J. W. Wilkie. (Excuse him for being chummy about how he rolls 'em.) "Look at this great 'makin's' cigarette full of mild, tasty Prince Albert smokin'."

"HUH—anybody can roll 'em that way with Prince Albert. It's crimp cut," grins Al Hendrickson. "It's made to order for next firm rolling—easy drawin', too. There's no bit—no bitter or raw taste."

Shower for Mrs. O'Rear

The girls of The Young Peoples Sunday School class and their teacher Mrs. Jack Pierce, assisted by Miss Virginia Pierce, entertained Mrs. Peto O'Rear, a recent bride, with a shower at the Baptist Church Thursday night 7 from to 8 o'clock.

Several appropriate songs were sung with Mrs. Dick Willis at the piano, followed with a reading "Making Reuben Propose" by Virginia Pierce. The bride cut the magic cake and passed it to the girls present, that she might know who was first to follow her example. Then she opened many beautiful presents, which were admired by all present. After refreshments of a snack-sandwiches and tiny cakes with fruit drink, the gathering adjourned with many happy wishes for the bride and groom.

Carrie-Tingley Hospital Treatment Report

Governor Tingley brought back from Hot Springs the story of a crippled youngster who entered the hospital on a stretcher and who left there "under his own power and carrying his grip and accordion."

The youngster is Bernard Blake, 14, of Albuquerque.

Suffering from bone infection in left leg and hip, Bernard was admitted to the hospital Oct. 28 and was taken to Hot Springs on a stretcher. For the past 12 weeks he has been under treatment, and a week ago had made sufficient progress to permit use of crutches.

"The doctor told the staff to keep him on crutches about a week, but in a day and a half he was practicing walking without crutches," the Governor said. "I saw him walk out carrying his grip and accordion, and just as good as any normal youngster."

ALADDIN LIGHT SAVES EYESIGHT

Getting Lessons Made More Pleasant

Here's a school girl's own comment on Aladdin light: "It has helped my school work by creating a desire to study. What student likes dim light?" No wonder teachers say that their brightest pupils come from Aladdin homes. Aladdin lamps help avoid eye strain, which to so many thousands of rural folks has brought the expense of an eye specialist, and glasses; and often permanent injury to eyes.

Modern White Light

Fills Your Rooms Pays for itself... Aladdin brings brightness and happiness into homes... Restful light for those who want to read, sew or study, and for the smaller children to enjoy their games. It is not surpassed by electric light for whiteness and steadiness. Aladdin runs 50 hours on one gallon of ordinary coal oil (kerosene), gives a whole evening of light for about a penny's worth of oil. It's so safe a child can operate it. No noise, pumping up or pressure. Not smelly or smoky. The colorful new Aladdin shades decorate a room by night or day.

WRIGH the new cars dispassionately in the light of what they offer and the facts stand boldly forth as these:

Buick is the ONLY car on the market today offering the efficiency of valve-in-head straight-eight design—modernized with the phenomenally efficient new DYNAFASH principle of combustion.

Buick is the only car your money can buy with the marvel-ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING—springs of stout, shock-smothering coiled steel that lessen skid-risks, lengthen tire life, actually make the whole car more directable.

Buick is the only car with the safety-security of Uniteel Body by Fisher—plus the blessed quiet and peace of Silent Zone Body Mounting.

HITLER NOW SUPREME BOSS

Takes Control of Reich's Armed Forces, Crushing Army Clique . . . Japan Resents Naval Plans Demand

Brig. Gen. Jay L. Benedict, center, and his staff are shown inspecting the cadet corps at West Point as General Benedict took over command of the military academy as superintendent, thirty-seventh to hold that post since the academy was instituted.

Farm Bill in House

SENATE and house conferees finally got together on the farm bill and submitted to the house the measure which sets up a system of price pegging for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco. The rules committee then approved of a rule permitting only four hours of debate.

The bill, as revised, continues the soil conservation act in the present form in normal times. But in years of overproduction of farm products, it was conceded, it enforces a program of restriction far more drastic than the original agricultural adjustment act outlawed by the Supreme court.

Want 400 Millions

MAYORS of eleven cities of the Middle West, meeting in Chicago, drew up and sent to the President and congress a demand that congress make an immediate emergency appropriation of $400,000,000, to supplement WPA funds available until July 1.

The resolution was signed by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, and the mayors of Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Des Moines, Omaha, Toledo, Minneapolis and Indianapolis.

Fear Borah-O'Mahoney Bill

THE National Association of Manufacturers, apprehensive that President Roosevelt might take up the Borah-O'Mahoney bill to place corporations under a federal licensing system, denounced that measure as providing for an end of "home rule over business."

In a formal statement, the association declared the bill would permit the federal government to put any concern entirely out of business for "the most trivial violations" of the terms of its federal license.

Madame Perkins on the Spot

SECRETARY OF LABOR PERKINS, who has been having a hard time explaining why Harry Bridges, C. I. O. leader on the Pacific coast, has not been deported as an alien Communist, has put herself in a tight place and aroused indignant protests from Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission and ambassador-designate to Great Britain.

Madame Perkins appeared before the senate commerce committee and took a stand beside Ralph Emerson of the C. I. O. affiliated maritime union in condemnation of the maritime commission's proposal to settle labor disputes in the merchant marine by the mediation methods successfully employed on the railroads.

Kennedy, who was in Palm Beach, sent angry telegrams to the White House and it was said he was on his way to Washington to demand a showdown between himself and the labor secretary. If the President should side with her, Kennedy might be expected to quit the administration and give up his appointment to the court of St. James. Should Mr. Roosevelt uphold Kennedy, Secretary Perkins might resign from the cabinet.

Emerson defied congress to pass the bill and apply the principles of railway mediation to the merchant marine. He said the union would not obey the law if it was enacted, adding that "there are not enough Kennedys to man the ships."

Housing Bill Passed

ENOUGH Democratic senators switched their votes on the Lodge prevailing wages amendment to the housing bill, so the senate by a vote of 43 to 40 adopted the conference report on the housing bill and the measure went to the White House for the President's approval. This was the first item on the administration's program to be enacted since the special session was called November 15 last.

The measure provides for government insuring of mortgages on privately constructed housing up to 90 per cent of the value of the property on homes costing not more than $5,000; and to 80 per cent on homes costing up to $15,000.

Historic Hoaxes

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Cardiff Giant

IN THE late sixties a Chicago tobacco dealer named George Hull heard a clergyman express the belief that men of gigantic stature once lived on earth. It gave him an idea. Out of a 12-foot block of stone he carved the figure of a man. It was a hard job to simulate pores in the skin but he managed to do it and after giving the stone man a bath in sulphuric acid and ink, he shipped it to the farm of his relative, William C. Newell, near Cardiff, N. Y. There it was buried for a year to "age" it properly.

Next Newell hired some of his neighbors to dig a well for him and behold! the well-diggers "discovered" the giant. Four doctors, called from town, examined it and agreed that it was the petrified remains of a prehistoric man. A Syracuse antiquarian declared it was a statue "probably made by early Jesuit missionaries" at least 300 years ago and offered Newell $10,000 for it. A professor of natural science at Rochester university examined it and wrote that "although not dating back to the Stone age, it is nevertheless deserving the attention of archeologists."

Within a short time the "Cardiff Giant" was one of the wonders of the modern world. Newell began charging people 50 cents each to see it, and business was so good that a group of Syracuse business men bought a three-quarters interest in it for $30,000. But such good fortune couldn't last always. A Yale professor examined it carefully, found tool marks on it and other evidence that it had not been buried long.

When it seemed that the hoax was about to be exposed, the giant was shipped to New York. But P. T. Barnum, who had failed in his efforts to buy it for his museum, suspecting that the giant was a hoax, had one of his own made and began exhibiting it. This led to public suspicion that Newell's discovery was also a fake and the Yale professor confirmed that belief. So the "Cardiff Giant" soon became just another "forgotten man."

The Drake Estate

FOR more than half a century the "Drake estate" legend has been used to defraud Americans of millions of dollars but so long as the "get rich quick" desire persists, it will probably continue to harvest its crop of gold for swindlers.

The story they tell is that Sir Francis Drake, naval hero and freebooter of Queen Elizabeth's day, left an estate which, held in trust by the British government, is now estimated at 10 billion to 25 billion dollars. They claim that they have discovered a "lost heir" to this fortune and offer persons bearing the name Drake or descended from persons of that name an opportunity to contribute to a fund which will be used in establishing the "lost heir's" title. Once that is established, they promise that everyone who has contributed to the fund will be repaid a thousandfold.

The fact is that Drake was never married, so he did not leave any heirs. Moreover, when he died aboard his ship in 1595 his estate was a very small one and that was settled long ago. Yet despite these well-known facts and despite repeated warnings by both the British and the American governments against anyone investing in such a scheme, thousands of gullible persons have been victimized in the past and it's only a question of time until the hoary old legend will be revived and other suckers will be taken in by it.

Flight Over the Atlantic

NEARLY three-quarters of a century before Charles A. Lindbergh thrilled the whole world by flying across the Atlantic, that feat was accomplished—in the imagination of an American newspaper man. His name was Edgar Allan Poe (later famous as a poet) and in 1835 he had printed the first installment of a fanciful tale about a trip to the moon. However, Richard Adams Locke's "moon hoax" in the New York Sun had monopolized public attention, so Poe tore up the second installment of his story.

But in 1844 when he wrote an account of the crossing of the Atlantic by a group of men in three days in a balloon or flying machine called the Victoria, he found that the public was just as gullible as it had been nine years earlier. His yarn, also published in the New York Sun, captured the imagination of the public and there was a great demand for copies of that paper.

Even when Poe explained that his tale was imaginary, many people insisted upon believing it was true. Later Poe said, "If the Victoria did not absolutely accomplish the voyage recorded, it will be difficult to assign a reason why she should not have accomplished it." In view of developments in aviation which were to come within the next 75 years, Poe was not such a bad prophet!

Getting Most Out of Homely Potato

Try Variations of Various Processes of Cooking.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE potato may justly be called the Cinderella of the vegetable kingdom. We could not get on without it, but we usually take it for granted. We recognize its homely virtues but too often forget how well it responds to careful treatment.

While the potato is usually considered to have a bland flavor, proper cooking brings out subtleties. What is better than a hot mealy baked potato? And what is worse than a lukewarm watery potato? For good results, use a hot oven for fifteen minutes, a moderate temperature for the remainder of the time and as soon as it comes out of the oven, break it open. This lets out the steam and insures that dry "measiness." If you are not quite ready to serve your potatoes when they are ready to come out of the oven, cover them with a towel so that moisture will be absorbed and at the same time warmth will be retained. Smooth, even-sized potatoes, especially adapted for baking are now sent to market from Maine, and the Far West. Long Island, of course, also provides us with part of our supply.

Although there are only three basic ways of cooking potatoes, boiling, baking and frying them in their raw form, there are innumerable variations of each of these processes. The contents of baked potatoes may be removed, mashed, thinned with milk or cream and seasoned highly before they are put back in the shells and put back in the oven to brown. Baked potatoes may be creamed, stewed, or fried. The raw potatoes themselves may be cut thin or thick, in strips or slices and fried in deep fat or country style. You may, if you like, have a different potato dish almost every day of the year.

Toasted Potato Fluff.

- 3 cups mashed potatoes Seasoning Hot milk 1/2 cup whipped cream 1/2 cup grated cheese Paprika

The mashed potatoes should be well seasoned and beaten with milk until creamy. Spread on a deep plate, cover with whipped cream and cheese, and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

Lyonnais Potatoes.

- 4 teaspoons butter or bacon fat 2 onions, sliced 3 cups cooked potatoes Salt, pepper 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Heat the fat in a frying pan and cook the onions in it a few minutes. Add the potatoes and cook slowly, stirring occasionally until all sides of the potatoes are gold brown. Season with salt and pepper. Press flat with knife and shake over low fire until brown on bottom. Turn like an omelet. Serve on a hot platter with finely chopped parsley sprinkled over the top.

Potato Doughnuts.

- 2 cups flour 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon 1 cup rice potato 1 tablespoon butter 2 eggs 1 cup sugar

Sift flour, salt, baking powder and spice together. Put the hot rice potato in a mixing bowl, add the butter and stir until the butter is melted. Cool until lukewarm. Add the uncooked eggs and sugar; mix well. Stir in the sifted dry ingredients, mix until smooth. Roll the mixture on a floured board one-half inch thick, cut into rounds with a floured doughnut cutter. Cook in deep, hot fat (370 degrees Fahrenheit) until golden brown. Drain on soft paper. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired.

TRIED RECIPES

Chickens' Livers.

- Chicken livers Sliced bacon Watercress

Cut livers in four pieces. Alternate pieces of liver and bacon on skewers, allowing four pieces of liver and five pieces of bacon to each skewer. Arrange skewers on broiler and broil under a moderate flame, turning often, until bacon is crisp. Serve on skewers garnished with watercress.

Mustard Sauce.

- 2 teaspoons dry mustard 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 2 tablespoons water 1/2 cup melted butter

Mix dry mustard with Worcestershire sauce and water and when smooth stir in melted butter. Serve in sauce boat with corned beef.

Codfish Cakes.

- 1 cup salt codfish 2 1/2 cups potatoes, mashed 1 egg, well beaten 1 tablespoon butter Pepper

Wash fish and cut in small pieces. Soak in lukewarm water. Heat to boiling point and drain off water, repeat until the fish tastes fresh. Mix fish with remaining ingredients, beat well and drop by tablespoons into deep, hot fat (375 degrees Fahrenheit) and cook until golden brown.

BACKACHE, HEADACHE?

Albuquerque, N. Mex. Mrs. J. S. Allison, 1014 S. Broadway, says I was pale, underweight, had splitting headaches and backache. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feet, tired, nervous, all ways out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are made by the Doan Bros. Co., Des Moines, Iowa. Sold at all drug stores.

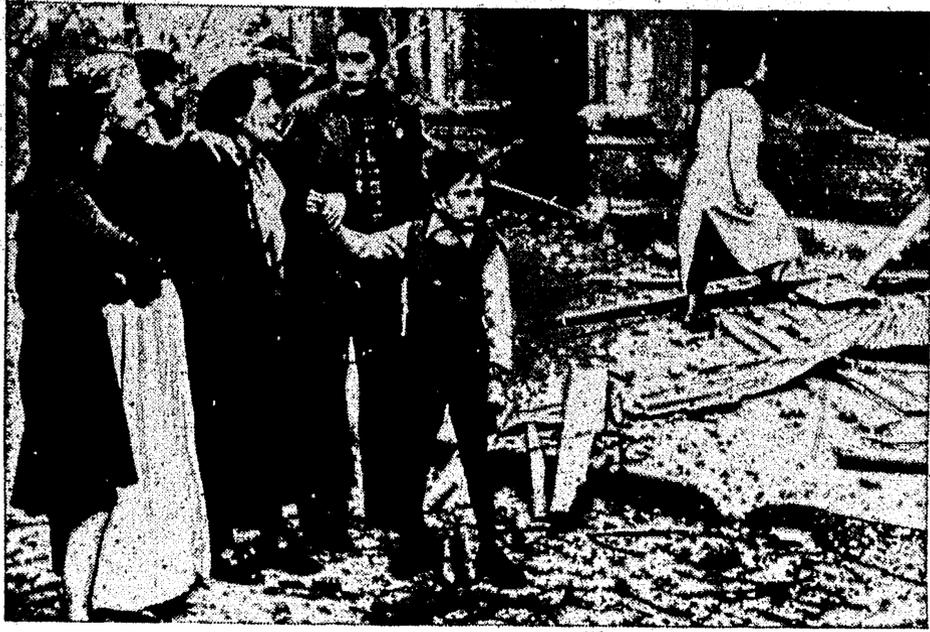

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of a excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feet, tired, nervous, all ways out.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

An Interesting Border for a Braided Rag Rug.

AN OLD house sitting in the midst of old fields against a background of pine woods not so far from where the Pilgrims landed. The present occupant is just as interested in handwork and just as thrifty as all of her New England ancestors who have preceded her there. She still makes braided rag rugs from discarded garments and they harmonize perfectly with her lovely old furniture. One that she showed me was different than any I had ever seen. Here are all the dimensions and method of making it in case it is new to you, too, and you would like to make one like it.

The center oval part of this serviceable braided rag rug is 32 inches long and 10 inches wide with 8-inch scroll border all around. The scrolls are made in pairs from braided strips 2 3/4 yards long. These strips are braided tight so they are not more than 1/2 inch wide. The center of each strip is marked as shown here at A and the ends are then sewn around and around, working toward the center as at B. The pairs of scrolls are sewn together and also to the edge of the rug as indicated here at the lower right.

This kind of rug has infinite possibilities for color schemes. One seen had a blue center, a band of mixed color and then a wide band of red. The pairs of scrolls alternated red and blue.

Full instructions for making the chair seat covers shown in this sketch are in the book offered herewith.

The Island of Bali You'll Find Like That

If you travel to the island of Bali, Dutch East Indies, you will find:

That the children wear nothing but sun hats.

That women carry loads on their heads, men on their shoulders. That is, the men carry loads on their shoulders.

That water buffaloes, ready at all times to attack a tiger, will stand rough handling by a Balinese boy.

That some people have fingernails four inches long to show that they do not have to work.

That boats have eyes, so as to see at night.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

For Washington's Birthday. FEBRUARY 22 would not be completely celebrated if cherries were not featured in some way during the day. It is true that the story of the cherry trees and George Washington is more closely connected in the memory of many of us than his great oneness as the Father of our Country. We seem to take for granted his ability as a leader and talk about the cherry tree episode of his youth.

This recipe for cherry pie is made to use the entire contents of a No. 2 can of cherries, which holds 2 1/2 cupsfuls.

Cherry Pie.

- 1 No. 2 can Pitted 2 tablespoons corn-Red Sour Cherries starch
- 6 tablespoons sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter

Line an 8-inch pie pan with pastry. Drain the cherries from the juice and place them in the pastry shell. Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt and sprinkle over the cherries. Pour on the juice; dot with butter and cover with a thin top crust or with strips of pastry. Bake in a hot oven (475 degrees) for 12 minutes; reduce temperature to 425 degrees and continue baking for 45 minutes. MARJORIE H. BLACK.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Tip for Good Posture.—While walking, swing the legs from the hips and imagine you are walking down hill with arms and shoulders relaxed.

Cover Apples.—Apples, either baked or as applesauce, have a better flavor when cooked in a covered rather than an uncovered container.

Sardine Salad.—One tin sardines, one lettuce, one lemon, parsley, french dressing. Cut sardines in half inch lengths, arrange on bed of lettuce. Garnish with lemon, parsley, serve with french dressing.

Scented Linens.—Persons who use scented soaps and like scented linens can obtain the latter simply by storing the unwrapped soap in the linen drawer or closet.

Washing Chamol's Skins.—Chamol's skins used for cleaning windows, silverware and the like, should be washed in warm water and soap, then dried slowly in the open air, but never in the sun or over heat.

Basting Velvet Dress.—Silk thread should be used for basting velvet dresses to avoid marking.

ROBOT TELEPHONES ALARM TO POLICE

Novel Device Automatically Warns of Burglary.

Washington.—An ingenious telephone alarm which automatically "phones" a message to police headquarters whenever a burglary is being perpetrated forms the subject matter of a patent just granted here posthumously to Ralph W. Carnahan, Shaker Heights, Ohio.

The moment the burglar lays his hand on safe or cash register, the mechanism automatically dials police headquarters and a phonograph-like device attached to the telephone broadcasts a predetermined hold-up message recorded on a disk into the telephone.

The unusual thing about the mechanism is that the burglar does not know that he himself is warning police, since the operation of the alarm is silent. There is no disturbance of any kind that would make him suspicious of the fact that an alarm is being broadcast.

May Be Broadcast.

The new telephone alarm may be also directly connected to the police radio broadcasting transmitter, so that the message on the record is broadcast directly to scout cars which might happen to be in the vicinity of the burglary.

Heart of the alarm is "initiating" and "inhibiting" devices which are complicated electrical circuits with ingenious relays. To these are connected electrical wires that are embedded in a floor mat that is placed near the safe, cash register or vault.

When an authorized person is to go near the safe he sets a certain dial and then attaches a special metal plate to the heel of one of his shoes. When so prepared, he approaches the safe and stands on the mat. The plate now closes a circuit which operates the inhibiting device so that it prevents the telephone alarm from broadcasting.

Burglar Unaware.

On the other hand, a burglar approaching the safe who has no knowledge of any dial setting or metal plate sets into operation the "initiating" device which brings in to play the mechanism that dials police headquarters and "plays" the record that tells that a hold-up is in progress.

While all this is going on the burglar does not know a thing about it, since the telephone alarm and other mechanism are encased in a sound and tamper proof steel case which may not even be in the same room.

Should a person be held up while he is handling money at the cash register or safe, all he need do is lift the heel to which the metal plate is attached from the pad. This breaks the "inhibiting" circuit and causes the initiating device to operate the telephone alarm.

Council Sells Part of Street; Joked Out of It

Groveton, Texas.—The city council, acting like the man who sold the Brooklyn bridge, sold a part of Main street to two business men, and then was laughed out of the deal. The business men wanted the ground to expand their building. The city attorney ruled that as the street belongs to the people and as council was elected by them, the body had the right to sell the tract.

Citizens, enraged until they flooded the humor of the situation, flooded the council with so many requests for similar purchases that the councilmen, unable to withstand the rally, rescinded the sale and restored Main street to the people.

Indian Constitution Is Revised for First Time

Syracuse, N. Y.—The original American constitution, adopted 600 years ago by Indian tribes of the Six Nations confederacy, is being revised and modified for the first time in its history.

Known as the "Law of Great Peace," or in Indian language the "Ka-va-ne-reu-go," the constitution has been the legal organ of the Six Nations since nearly 200 years before Columbus discovered America. Tribes under its jurisdiction are the Onondagas, Mohawks, Oneidas, Cayugas, Senecas and Tuscaroras.

Revision is under the direction of George Thomas of Onondaga reservation, deposed head chief, who says the laws should be clarified "more clearly to define the powers of the various tribes."
