CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1938

NUMBER 38

Election Proclamation

Official notice and call for the regular biennial Village election, for the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, and notice of the appointment of Judges and Clerks of election.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the requirements of the statutes in such cases made and provided, the Board of Trustees of the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, did on the 1st day of March, 1938, appoint R. E. Berry, Joaquin Ortiz and Genovevo Griego, Judges of said election and Tom Cook and Mrs. Chana Dolan Clerks of said election for the regular biennial election to be held in the Community Hall, Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, on Tuesday, April 5, 1938, between the hours of 9 o'clock, A. M., and 6 o'clock P. M.

And further notice is hereby given that said election is for the purpose of electing a Mayor, four Trustees and a Clerk for the Incorporated Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, for the period of two years.

F. E. Richard,
Mayor.

Attest:
Morgan Lovelace, Clerk.

Permanent Benefits Derived From CCC

Some people can tell you how wrong, economically, financially and ethically the Democratic administration has been, but they seldom bother to look around and discover the benefits that have come to their own locality from that same administration. Among the many things which have been done to benefit New Mexico were watershed conservation and flood control, soil erosion control, and other kindred improvements.

The technical service of the local CCC camp under the Division of Grazing have constructed roads fences, stock tanks, truck trails for many of the ranchmen. Not only the large ranchers have been benefited, but those who have smaller allotments are equally favored.

For instance, the construction of these immense tanks for the storage of water which has gone to waste in these canyons since time immemorial. Whatever contributes to the promotion of prosperity and personal happiness or adds value to property surely must be an advantage, and not a disadvantage.

Down at Oscura, near the Mal Pais is a tank under construction which is 200 feet in diameter and will hold approximately 100,000 cu. ft. of water which when completed will enable the owner to graze many head of cattle on several hundred acres of land which heretofore could not be used for grazing purposes on account of lack of water. Spillways built of solid rock

District Court

Much interest has been manifested in this term of court, due to the heavy criminal docket. Judge Numa C. Fronger is presiding; District Attorney Martin A. Threet is looking after the state's affairs in his usual thorough manner.

Last Tuesday, the 15th Santiago Sandoval and Isidoro Gutierrez were tried for assault with deadly weapon. Acquitted.

The 16th Keener of Corona was tried for statutory offense. Found guilty.

Today the case of Earl Morris, representative in Lincoln county for a patent medicine firm is being tried. Morris is charged with manslaughter following the death of Wm. Cox of Capitan, a sergeant for a rival patent medicine company. The preliminary hearing was held last September before John Mackey, justice of the peace at San Patricio, at which time it was alleged that Cox died of injuries as the result of a blow on the jaw dealt by Morris, when the two men engaged in a heated argument and fist fight on the highway near Hondo.

To Salute Towns And Cities From KOB

The radio program over KOB saluting the towns and cities of N. Mex. will be on the air beginning Friday evening March 25th at 8 to 8:30 p. m.

Starting with Santa Fe and forth. Carrizozo people will be notified of the date of the Carrizozo program in the near future.

and heavy wire baskets filled with rock which extend many feet into the ground, all are anchored in a way to prevent washouts and to give permanence to whatever has been accomplished. During work hours the enrollees are under foremen who are experts in their line. Of course the government spends the money, but it will eventually be repaid as the ranchmen make regular payment of grazing fees.

Commissioners Proceedings

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE LINCOLN COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1938

Meeting is called to order Monday, February 28, 1938, at 9:30 A. M. by Hugh Bunch, Deputy Sheriff.

Present: S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman; P. R. Sandoval, Gordon Wells, Members; Edward Penfield, Clerk.

And now the Board of Commissioners recesses as a Board of County Commissioners and convenes as a Board of Canvassers to canvass the returns of School District elections held in School Districts No. 13-F, Corona, and No. 20, Hondo, on February 22, 1938.

Comes now this Board of County Commissioners sitting as a Board of Canvassers and find from the returns according to the certificates of election returned by the judges of said election; that the following candidate received a majority of votes cast in School District No. 13-F, Corona, for the term of three years, W. S. Dishman and M. M. Penix; that the following candidates received a majority of votes cast in School District No. 20, to wit: For a term of one year, Mauro Sanchez, for a term of three years, Lazaro Gallegos, and for a term of three years, Robert Brady.

And it appearing to the Board that the said W. S. Dishman and M. M. Penix of School District No. 13-F, and that the said Mauro Sanchez, Lazaro Gallegos and Robert Brady, received the majority of votes cast, they are therefore declared elected to qualify according to law and certificates of election are hereby issued.

The Board of Canvassers recesses as a board of Canvassers and convenes as a Board of County Commissioners.

And now the Board proceeds to examine the Audit Report of Lincoln County for the Fiscal year 1937-38, covering the period from July 1st 1936 to December 31st 1937. The following items are noted in particular:

Comments on the audit of accounts and records.

Announcement

The present Mayor, Village Council and Clerk of the Village of Carrizozo, respectfully submit their names to the voters of the Village for their consideration at the election on April 5, 1938.

The purpose of this announcement at this time is to encourage any group or groups of citizens, called by whatever name, who may care to submit any candidate or candidates for the various offices to do so.

We believe in strict non-partisanship in municipal affairs. We do not presume to take any credit for accomplishment, nor do we apologize for anything that has not been done.

Our colleague Mr. Padilla, for various reasons, has decided not to allow his name to be presented for re-election and Mr. Daniel Chavez has consented to allow us to offer his name in Mr. Padilla's stead.

The Mayor, Village Council and Clerk.

COPYRIGHT WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE--WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L. C. ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sherman Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sherman's son, and comes to the town of Tall Holt to meet him. While in Tall Holt Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides.

CHAPTER I--Continued

From under the counter where he lay the storekeeper did not announce his presence. He had ducked just in time to keep from being seen.

A crook-nosed man with rusty hair stood beside some sacks filled with potatoes.

"Who in Mexico are you, Sorrel-top?" demanded Pender. "Where's that bald-headed galoot Sanger?"

He did not wait for an answer. In his hands was a rifle drawn from its place beside the saddle. Raising it, he drummed holes in the tinware suspended from the wall. A forty-four had jumped to the hand of the man beside the potatoes, but though the weapon covered the drunken fool it was not fired.

The frightened horse went into the air, and as it came down jammed the rider's leg against the counter. The animal whirled, flung Pender from the saddle, and dashed wildly out of the store. Scrambling to his feet, the drunk crazed man snatched up the rifle and followed his mount. He took a shot at the gelding as it went racing up the street in a cloud of dust. Apparently he had forgotten what he had come to get, for he limped across to the cowponies in front of the Golden Nugget, selected one, mounted, and rode away with a wild yell.

Sanger showed cautiously the top of his bald head above the counter. "Fireworks over," drawled the crook-nosed man, and his weapon vanished from sight. He gave the girl a hand to help her up from where he had flung her. "You were sure right, Mr. Sanger. You know yore town. It livened up like you promised."

Ruth Chiswick stood beside him, breathing a little faster than usual, her cheeks still pale. The man with whom she was eloping came round the corner of the counter. He was carrying a revolver.

"I would sure have got that bird if I hadn't seen he didn't mean business," Lou Howard boasted.

Ruth looked at him, scorn in her eyes. The scorn was less for him than for herself. For hours she had been discovering that the man she had chosen was vain, shallow, and a boaster. Now she knew too that he lacked courage, the one essential virtue on the frontier for men both good and bad.

"Watching him through a knot-hole maybe," the stranger suggested lazily, a hint of derision in his murmured comment.

Lou turned to Ruth. "Let's get out of here," he said sulkily. "Sanger is going to send Spicer down to Mo Presnell."

The crook-nosed man remembered having seen a sign on the street mentioning that Al Spicer was a justice of the peace.

In a low voice Ruth said, "I'd like to speak with you alone, Lou."

"Sure," he replied. "On the way down to the hotel."

"No. At the back of the store." Her voice was almost a whisper.

He followed her reluctantly toward the small boxed-in office.

The girl talked, fast and low. She seemed to be both urging and pleading.

An angry oath ripped into her words. "Have you gone crazy?" Howard demanded, raising his voice. "Think you can make a fool of me?"

She spoke again, trying to calm him.

He would not listen. "You can't do this crazy thing. You've compromised yourself. Don't you see it, you little idiot? Folks will talk about you. They'll say—"

Ruth began to lose patience. "Never mind what they'll say. I've made up my mind. I'm going home."

"You got no right to treat me that way. I'm not going to stand for it."

"I'm sorry, but be sensible, Lou. Be glad I've found out in time."

He flung a name at her. She looked at him for a moment steadily, then turned and walked up the store.

"My name is Ruth Chiswick," she said to the man with the rusty hair. "I'm much obliged to you for looking after me."

"Nothing at all, Miss. I'm a stranger here—name, Jeff Gray."

the sting of a lash in the low voice. Ruth turned to walk from the store, but instead of doing so stood rigid, her eyes fixed on two men riding down the street. To Howard she said, over her shoulder: "You'd better light out; my father is here."

The young man took one look at the dismounting men. "Maybe I had better, to keep from having trouble with him," he faltered.

He left by the side door. The girl did not even notice him go.

"I don't see how Father could have found out already," she said, frowning in thought. "But that doesn't matter. I'll go meet him."

Gray shook his head. That would not do. Decent girls could not go into such a place as the Golden Nugget for any reason. He heard himself, to his own surprise, offering to do her errand.

He walked across the road into the gambling-house.

A big, fat, heavy-shouldered man who was playing solitaire lifted his head as Sid and Mile High came into the Golden Nugget. He beckoned them to him.

Nobody paid any attention to the body on the floor.

"What's all the shootin' about?" he asked.

One of the men playing poker at the next table leaned back to catch the answer.

"Jim Pender on one of his toots," Sid replied. "Wants to clean up the town again, Sherm."

Sherman Howard frowned down at the table and shifted a queen.

"He'll go just so far, that bird."

The man at the poker table, a tall, broad-shouldered fellow with black, curly hair, said significantly, "He's here only for a short visit."

"I reckon you're shoutin', Curly," agreed Mile High. "I never liked any of that bully-puss warrior's game."

He mentioned, in a low voice, news that might or might not be important. "Stranger in our midst."

"Where?" asked Curly.

"Over at Sanger's. Drapped in on a big roan that has been rode for."

"What kind of a guy?" inquired Howard.

"Red-headed. Tough as they come. Wears his gun low."

Howard made a sign and a man strolled over from the faro table. He was a slim, hard-eyed young fellow sporting a fancy silk bandanna tied loosely round his neck. The name he went under was Morgan Norris. He was known to be a killer.

"Stranger over at Sanger's, Morg," the solitaire player said. "Might stroll over and size him up. Find out if you can where he comes from, what he is doing here, and how long he aims to stay."

Into the Golden Nugget walked two men. Their entrance created a stir, as a breath of wind does in a field of grain. Out of the corner of his mouth Curly murmured, "Look who's here." Interest in the games momentarily diminished. The bartender stopped polishing a glass. To Morgan Norris, in a whisper, Mile High gave warning: "Keep yore shirt on, Morg. Let Sherm make the play."

The men who had just walked into the gambling-house had the stamp of their calling written on every crease of their dusty clothes, on every wrinkle of their weather-beaten faces. Both were big men who had taken on the solidity that comes with years.

Unless his salient, close-shut jaw, his steady, keen, blue eyes gave false witness, the older man, Lee Chiswick, was one of dominant will, one who would fight for his rights. His companion and foreman, Dan Brand, was a barrel-chested fellow of great physical strength. On his tanned, open face there was the hint of a smile, not unfriendly, as if he offered it to mitigate the hostility of his chief.

A thin, satiric smile rested on the face of Sherman Howard. He leaned back in his chair, opaque eyes fastened on the older of the newcomers.

"Nice to have you drop in on us, Lee. You don't often get around Tall Holt way. We sure feel honored."

He nodded at the younger man. "You, too, Brand. Both-welcome as the flowers in May. Pete, take the orders. The house is drinking on me."

"I don't drink with you or any of your crowd, Howard," said Lee Chiswick harshly. "I'm here strictly for business."

Through the swing doors a man dropped into the Golden Nugget. He was the stranger who had given his name as Jeff Gray.

"Tall Holt will-welcome yore business, Lee. You have always been cash on the barrel-head," Howard told the cattleman blandly, ignoring the insult.

"I came to serve notice that anyone who steals my stock from now on will do so at his own risk," Chiswick answered bluntly. "I've given my men orders to shoot rustlers at sight."

A tense silence followed the words of the cattleman, one pregnant with peril. Gray's gaze swept the room. Unless rumor lied, three-fourths of these men present must be cattle rustlers.

Instinctively Gray knew that half a dozen men were waiting for their cue. Howard gave it to them. For the time at least his decision was for peace.

"That's fine," he said with suave mockery. "Sooner we get rid of scallawags of that kind the better."

"You can pass the word that any I catch will be hanged to the nearest live oak," Chiswick said flatly.

Morgan Norris asked a question, his eyes narrowed, his voice low. "Having anyone particular in mind, Mr. Chiswick?"

"Meaning anyone the shoe fits," Howard answered for the cattleman. "And I don't reckon that is anybody present, Morg. If there is any way we can help Mr. Chiswick, we will all be glad to do so. Am I right, boys?"

"Sure you're right, Sherm," agreed Curly Connor heartily. "If you can use me, Mr. Chiswick, I'm much at yore service."

"Don't want your help," Chiswick flung out bitterly. "I'll look out for my own stuff and find out whether an honest man has a chance against a pack of thieves. What I'm here to tell you is that from now on I'll be sheriff, judge, and hangman on the L. C. range."

Dan Brand, foreman of the L. C. outfit, poured oil on the rolled waters. "Don't get us wrong, boys. We're not here to start trouble but to stop it. This steel is getting so big the L. C. has got to bust it up or go broke. We don't claim we know who is doing this rustling. If we did, our job would be easy."

"We don't know, but we can guess," Chiswick cut in hardily.

"Out loud?" Norris asked, his eyes slits of menace.

The swing doors of the gambling-hall burst wide open. A wild yell brought everybody in the room to attention. Excitedly a horse did a nervous dance on the floor. Its flushed rider waved a rifle about recklessly. Long black hair fell to the man's shoulders. The chaps were fringed, the fancy vest decorated.

"Way for Wild Jim Pender!" the drunken man shouted.

All eyes focused on him.

"Get out of here, you fool," Curly ordered.

"My night to howl!" Pender exclaimed. "Me, I'm a wild wolf from the Chiricahuas."

To emphasize the point, or else by accident, a bullet from his rifle plowed into the ceiling.

Half a dozen revolvers roared together. Pender pitched from the saddle like a sack of meal. He struck the floor in a crumpled heap, rolled over, and lay motionless.

Norris thrust his smoking weapon back into its scabbard and caught the bridle of the rearing horse. Someone else ran forward to assist him. The two men got the frightened animal out of the place.

Sherman Howard gave a curt order. "Get the coroner, Sid."

Nobody paid any attention to the body on the floor. It was as if the roar of the guns had banished the strained situation the entrance of Pender had interrupted. The games were resumed. Sounds of voices, the rattle of chips, the spinning of the roulette wheel filled the room. Wild Bill Pender's adventure was finished business.

Jeff Gray took temporary leave of absence. He had to explain to a girl probably sick with fear that the shooting had nothing to do with her father.

CHAPTER II

The cowboy Sid stood in the doorway of the store.

"Job for you, Sanger," he said. "Fellow bumped off in the Golden Nugget."

Jeff Gray shouldered past him toward the white-faced girl leaning against the counter. "It's all right, Miss Chiswick," the red-headed man told her cheerfully. "Nobody hurt but Pender."

"Who was sure shot into the dog's head," Sid added.

Ruth relaxed limply on the blood poured back into her frozen heart. "I thought . . . I was afraid . . ." she murmured, the words drying in her throat.

"Help me carry this stretcher, Sid," requested Sanger. He was coroner and undertaker. In Tall Holt the first of these positions was honorary, but the other was no sinecure.

"Did you tell my father I am here?" Ruth asked.

"Haven't had a chance yet," Gray answered. The other two men were leaving with the stretcher. He continued, lowering his voice: "Mr. Chiswick came to town about some rustling."

"And doesn't know about . . . me?"

"I couldn't say."

"What is he doing in the Golden Nugget?"

"Serving notice that he is on the warpath against rustlers."

The eyes of the girl opened wide. "To that gang in there?"

"Looked to me like some of them were sullen about it," he conceded. "Lucky for him Pender picked that time to cut loose his wolf. The boys got the finger-itch out of their systems. I reckon it's going to be all right now. Howard seems to be the big boss, and he is making peace talk."

"Father is so bull-headed," Gray asked for information, reluctantly. This was none of his business, but he had been dragged into it. "This young Howard—any kin to Sherm Howard?"

A flag of color fluttered in her cheeks, but the dark eyes held steadily to his. "Sen," she said. Then, sharply, "Why do you ask?"

"If you aim to tell yore father about this little fling, maybe you had better get him out of town first," he suggested.

There was a slurring droll in his speech that stirred anger in her. Clearly he disapproved of what she had done. She did not hesitate to affront the young man who flattered around her, but she objected to being made the victim of cool contempt.

Historic Hoaxes

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A President Hoaxed

IT ISN'T often that hoaxers dare trifle with the dignity of a President of the United States. But it happened at least once in history.

In 1901 President Theodore Roosevelt was scheduled to visit Charleston, S. C., and speak at the exposition there. Several formal receptions were planned for the distinguished guest by the citizens of Charleston who were looking forward to the visit of a President of the United States for the first time since before the War Between the States. And then a woman gave them the shock of their lives!

She was a social climber, a "lion hunter" who was determined to add T. R. to her collection of celebrities just to pay off the society women of Charleston who had snubbed her. So when Roosevelt came ashore at the South Battery after an excursion around the harbor, she managed to reach his side and asked if he would stop at her house for a cup of tea.

The President thanked her but explained that the committee had requested him to accept no personal invitations. Thereupon she played her ace. She wanted him to come to please an old negro who had been the faithful servant of her family since slavery days. "He would die happy if only such a thing could come to him as handing a cup of tea to his President," she said.

So Roosevelt accepted her invitation for the sake of pleasing the old slave. The women of Charleston were enraged when they learned how the "climber" had triumphed over them. But the men were less enraged than amused at the woman's cleverness. It seems that she had come from the West and her family had never owned a slave. The "faithful old servant" had been hired for this special occasion!

Men in the Moon

THE first, and probably the greatest, of all American newspaper hoaxes appeared in the New York Sun in August, 1835. It was the invention of Richard Adams Locke and told how Sir John Herschel, the eminent British astronomer, had invented a telescope to find out if the moon was inhabited. He discovered that it was—by a kind of man-bat, as well as by many other curious forms of animal and vegetable life, all of which were described in great detail.

Of course, the story caused a sensation. A party of scientists called at the Sun office to see the original accounts which were supposed to have been taken from the Edinburgh Journal of Science (a publication that existed only in Locke's imagination, also). It also fooled the other newspapers and when one of them, the Journal of Commerce, asked permission to reprint it, Locke confessed the hoax.

He then explained that it was written as "an elaborate satire upon the monstrous fabrications of the political press of the country and the various genera and species of its party editors," especially "a notorious foreigner who is the supervising editor of one of our largest morning newspapers." That was James Gordon Bennett, founder of the New York Herald, who had enraged the conservative papers of the day by his sensational methods which were making his paper such a success with the common people.

"A Notable Lawsuit"

JUST as some hopeful Americans will continue to search for Captain Kidd's "buried treasure," so will other credulous ones believe that John Jacob Astor's fortune was based upon a chest of gold and jewels which the famous pirate hid in a cave on an island off the coast of Maine; that Frederick Law Olmstead, Sr., who became the owner of the island, brought suit against the Astor family for $5,122,234.50; and that the suit was finally settled out of court for $2,000,000.

Some of them will tell you that they've actually seen the court papers in that famous lawsuit with the names of Joseph H. Choate as attorney for Olmstead and Elihu Root as attorney for the defendants. They probably have, for there are plenty of copies floating around.

The only trouble with the story is that it isn't so. The whole yarn was the concoction of that famous hoaxer, Franklin Harvey—Head of Chicago, who first printed it in 1899 for the amusement of his friends. But thousands have heard it told as a true story, some of them believe that it's a piece of litigation that's still pending and many newspapers have printed it at one time or another—as a great "behind-the-scenes" story. It's one of those "manufactured legends" that just won't be killed and stay dead!

Pepys Painted True Picture
Pepys, the famous English diarist, was a twaddling old gossiper, but he sets down the circumstances of the events as they transpire with most clear and accurate detail, utters no feelings but in a word or two introduces us to a scenery of both the out-of-doors and in-doors life of the time.

TIPS to Gardeners

Choosing Flowers

IF YOU want flowers that come into bloom early, plant seeds of nasturtium, Virginia stock, zinnia, sunflower, bachelor's button and alyssum.

Among the easiest flowers to grow are the nasturtium, alyssum and California poppy.

To achieve brilliant color in the garden with a minimum of effort, grow petunia and zinnia. They require some care early in the season, but once established they grow luxuriantly, and nothing provides more color.

If snapdragons and asters, though among your flower favorites, are barred from your garden because of the prevalence of rust and wilt, return them to their deserved places by getting rust and wilt resistant varieties from your seed dealer.

In your rock garden, try some of the following: African daisy, linaria, lobelia, statice, verbena and Virginia stock, among the annuals; and columbine, English daisy, forget-me-not and Iceland poppy, of the perennials.

A Pig Was to Blame

By the disobedience of a lad in 1609, a garden gate in Rhode Island was left open, and a pig got in and destroyed a few plants. A quarrel between the owners of the garden and the pig resulted, which spread among their friends, defeated the Federal candidate for the legislature, and gave the state a senator by whose vote war was declared in 1812 with Great Britain.—Pat Paragraphs.

Food That Comes in Seeds Popular

"Pulse" Biblical Ancestor of Legumes We Eat Today

By EDITH M. BARBER
AMONG the foods which we find mentioned in our first written records of history, of which the Bible is the most important, is "pulse." Today, we use many foods which belong to the pulse family, although we do not know them by that name. Possibly we may know them as legumes, but more likely we call them by their common names, beans, peas and lentils.

While we use peas and beans, of course, in their fresh form, enormous quantities of dried legumes are used throughout the world and have been for centuries since the time that it was found that the seeds of pod-bearing plants could be dried and preserved for later use.

All of these dried vegetables provide concentrated nourishment at small cost. They offer protein which we need for building and repairing the tissues of the body, starch which supplies us with fuel for energy, a liberal amount of the most important minerals and certain amounts of vitamins A, B and G.

If it were necessary, we could rely on these dried vegetables to furnish a basis for a well-rounded diet.

Lentil Soup.

2 cups dried lentils
2½ cups water
2 onions, sliced
1 sprig parsley
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons bacon fat
4 frankfurters
Horseradish
Soak lentils overnight, drain, add water, onions and seasonings and simmer slowly for two hours. Press through a coarse sieve, return to stove, add bacon fat and frankfurters, cut into one-inch pieces. Cook ten minutes longer and serve with horseradish.

Beans Bretonne.

1½ cups pea beans
1 cup stewed and strained tomatoes
1 cup chicken stock
6 pimientos rubbed through a sieve
¼ cup minced green pepper
1 onion, finely chopped
¼ cup butter
2 teaspoons salt
Soak beans overnight in cold water, drain and parboil until soft. Put in a baking dish or bean pot with other ingredients and cook in a slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) until beans have nearly absorbed sauce.

TESTED RECIPES

Nut Wafers.

2 tablespoons butter
1½ cups brown sugar
1 egg
4 tablespoons flour
1½ cups chopped nuts
2 tablespoons water
Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually, the egg slightly beaten, the nuts mixed with the flour and the water. Drop by teaspoons two inches apart on a baking sheet, greased with unsalted fat or oil. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) seven to ten minutes. Remove from the oven, cool one minute before taking from the pan.

Fruit Bread Sauce.

3 slices bacon
2 minced onions
3 cups soft bread crumbs
3 cups chopped apple
½ pound prunes, cooked and chopped
1½ teaspoons salt
Chop bacon and cook until almost crisp. Stir in onions and cook three minutes. Add bread crumbs and mix well. Add this mixture to the apples and prunes. Stir in salt. Cook in double boiler half an hour and serve hot with cold turkey. Double recipe for stuffing turkey.

Chocolate Souffle.

5 egg whites
½ cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
Beat egg whites until stiff and dry. Fold in sugar carefully. When well blended fold in melted chocolate. Pour mixture into well-greased top part of double boiler. Cover and cook over hot water three-quarters of an hour. Turn out on plate and serve with pudding sauce or whipped cream.

Trifle.

1 small sponge cake sliced
½ cup milk
½ cup wine
1 cup heavy cream
Put the sliced sponge cake into a dish. Combine the milk and wine with one-half cup of cream and mix well. Pour this mixture over the cake. Then whip the rest of the cream until it is stiff, and place on top of cake. Garnish with sliced toasted almonds.

Roast Ham With Sherry.

1 boiled ham
1 cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
½ cup sherry
Remove skin from hot boiled ham. Mix sugar and mustard and spread on ham. Pour sherry around ham, in the pan. Bake 30 to 40 minutes, basting ham with the sirup, during cooking.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

GOODNESS, it gives us a jolt to think how quickly a baby isn't a baby any more! Especially when you think what a lot of commotion they make while they are little tikes. And how they can twist a household around their own little schedules. Makes us want to cling very hard to those precious years of babyhood. And try to make them less hectic so we can enjoy them more.

One young mother we know, whose toddling young ones are at the stage where the business of eating is pretty much hit or miss (miss the mouth and hit the table), has devised a simple, labor-saving method for making their dining table bright yet practical. She bought a nice little maple table, with two barrel-backed chairs. And she hopes to preserve the finish of the table's top (for later use as a coffee table in the game room) by guarding it with covers. What to use? Since almost every meal brings a major catastrophe with milk or spilled cereal, this wise mother decided on a sacker. She bought several yards in young colors—bright red, white with blue polka dots, green and white stripes—and edged each tablecloth with harmonizing rick-rack braid. These can be washed out quickly after each meal, hung on the towel rack near the range, and are ready for earnest learning-to-feed-themselves youngsters when meal-time comes again. No ironing is required and the children love the gaiety of the table.

They also like the "eating shirts" she has devised of matching material—little bibs with sleeves, that tie around the neck and keep prettier and more efficient than regular bibs!

Another friend whose youngster is a climber finds that she saves herself a lot of wear and tear by tying movables in place. Chairs that her two-year-old can push up to dresser or desk are tied to bed, radiator or whatever piece is handy and safe. In the kitchen she does this with the kitchen chairs to keep him out of the sink.

Ways to Replenish.

Table linen has a way of going like the One Hoss Shay, all at once! Many a lady has gasped with chagrin as she suddenly noticed the worn place here, the hole there, the frayed edge yonder in all the table linens. When the budget is not too healthy after the beginning of a new year that could be a major catastrophe if there were not ingenious ways for her to replenish her table napers without crippling her purse.

In many homes where the day-in-day-out dining is informal, yet requires a constant change in table coverings, a home-maker can run up a few covers for herself. Buying dress linen by the yard—and in scrumptious colors such as olive green, canary yellow, Chinese red or cobalt blue—is a smart trick. You can either make doilies of this material, trimming the edges by fringing them or adding any one of the number of interesting trimmings to be found in your department store, or you can make large cloths by piecing lengths together, using rick-rack where the seams join. (Be sure the rick-rack is pre-shrunk.) Napkins to match are not much of a problem, but remember, when you're making these gay sets for everyday use, to have the napkins full size instead of like a pocket handkerchief. The latter size may be just darling for bridge teas or after-the-movies-snacks, but father will resent their feminine daintiness if asked to use them after eating a grand, juicy steak or fried chicken.

Another point to think about if your problem is to make a few pennies go a long way is to do something exciting with ensembles. Suppose you can only spend enough for cotton dress goods tablecloths. Then select a color that will do things for the old dining room. Coral for instance for a runner with napkins of turquoise with fringed edges. Or jade with lavender napkins. Or red with gray napkins. Or maroon with robin's eggshell napkins or napkins of pale pink! Shop at the counter where they sell plain color cotton and you'll pick up many more ideas.

Pretty Things for Easter

THESE three dresses are up high on the list of fashion's favorites, and you can easily make them at home by using our simple, easy-to-follow patterns, each accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart. Start right now, for even if there's a shiver in the air at this moment, Easter is not very far off! And you'll want to be ready!

Dress With Lifted Waistline.

This is a very, very popular fashion because it makes you look so slim and graceful, what with the waistline high in front, and soft gathers above it, the gently flaring skirt. Made up in a pretty print or silk crepe, it will be lovely for Easter and for all Spring. Be sure to wear a bunch of flowers at the neckline.

A Jumper Frock for Girls.

This is one of the sweetest and most becoming styles ever invented for girls of school age, just about the time they begin to shoot up so fast that you can almost see them grow! Make the jumper of linen, gingham or percale, and why not make two or three blouses to go with it? One of linen, one of dimity, and one of organdie.

Everybody Likes Dirndl Frock.

The square neckline, the full rippling skirt and tight little waist are so flattering to slim figures! Here's a charming dirndl with just the right air of quaintness and freshness about it. Choose a gay flowered print, or a cheerful plain color, pale or bright. But be sure, whether you make it up in silk or cotton, to choose a crisp fabric so that the skirt will flare as it should.

The Patterns.

1481 is designed for sizes 14 to 42 (32 to 42 bust.) Size 10 (34) requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

1996 is designed for 6 to 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for the jumper; 1½ yards for the blouse. Also 2½ yards of bias facing for neck and armholes of jumper.

1480 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 30 bust.) Size 14 (32) requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material, plus 1½ yards of ribbon for belt and 3¼ yards of braid or ribbon for trimming.

Spring-Summer Pattern Book.

ARE YOU ONLY A ¾ WIFE?

Men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is loyal for three weeks of the month—but a belated fourth. No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus relieving the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure. Make a note NOW to get a bottle of Pinkham's today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written us letters expressing their faith. Why not you? LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND!

Truth in Speaking

Speak not at all, in any wise, till you have somewhat to speak; care not for the reward of your speaking, but simply and with undivided mind for the truth of your speaking.—Carlyle.

"YOU BET WE'RE ENJOYIN' OUR 'MAKIN'S' SMOKES—NOW!"

"JUST GOT A MESSAGE from up the line," says telegrapher Jim Redmond (center). "They're all shut in by a big fall of snow. But they don't care. The boys say they've got plenty of Prince Albert 'makin's' tobacco—and they're sure tickled with it. They didn't know tobacco could be so mild, yet so full-bodied and rich tastin'."

"Prince Albert for mine," the fellow in the leather jacket says: "We know what they mean. We're all gettin' the firmest, roundest 'makin's' smokes a man ever twirled. That P.A. crimp cut sure lays right."

"What a shame," puts in Chester Odell (he's on the left), "that I wasted my time before gettin' on to Prince Albert. But you bet I'm enjoyin' my 'makin's' smokes—NOW!"

ONLY YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

Does Spring begin on March 20th?...or on the 21st? "Begin it today!" pleads your engine. "Bleed out my Winter-poisoned oil. But this Spring help me with more than an oil-change. Change to Your Mileage Merchant! And that's changing to Conoco Germ Processed oil—the only way to change me into an OIL-PLATED engine."

You want this modern exclusive OIL-PLATING because especially in Summer your steady driving demands more than the plain old type of oil-film that slithers OFF the working parts like drops of quicksilver. Exactly the opposite is achieved by the Germ Process—patented. It makes droplets of oil act like a billion tiny suction cups, powerfully attracted and OIL-PLATED to every working surface...Never draining down, never inviting friction, no matter how many thousands of starts and thousands of miles you make all Spring and Summer. And you'll notice Germ Processed oil sticking so close to "Full"—even in older cars—that you'll want to be sticking to Your Mileage Merchant. Continental Oil Company

New Recreation Project At Carrie Tingley Hospital

The next recreation project for the Carrie Tingley Hospital for crippled children will be a boat for Elephant Butte Lake, Governor Tingley said. The boat he does not definitely know yet how he will be able to finance the cost of a boat, but that he has some ideas in mind. A small launch would cost in the neighborhood of a thousand to $1500.

"It would be a fine addition to the recreation facilities at the hospital. Most of the youngsters there haven't even seen enough water for boating before."

All of the youngsters except those who must remain in bed could be taken for boat rides, he said.

The playground equipment purchased through the funds raised by the Albuquerque Journal has been installed and is now ready for use, the Governor said.

"While the youngsters already have splendid recreation facilities, I believe that as a part of the hospital's treatment to give them a new outlook on life as well as to repair their broken bodies we can not do too much for them. They are denied so many of the pleasures of normal childhood that if we can make them happy we can give them a new start."

A LOT OF CAR
for a VERY LOW PRICE

The Ford effort to make your dollars buy a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the Deluxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thrifty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon—or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

Science Beats the Sun

INDUSTRIAL engineers have now developed the device shown above. Consumers information reports, to test colorfastness of fabrics, so that manufacturers can make sure in advance that their materials won't fade in the sun. Women never need to be sure that their dresses and draperies would retain their original brilliance, until they had actually been exposed to sunlight. But through the use of this machine, developed by industrial research experts, it is now possible to tell whether dyed fabrics will hold their color. This is just one more of the many examples of how industry helps the consumer.

GERONIMO EARLIEST OF PUBLIC ENEMIES

Career of Notorious Outlaw Indian Is Recalled.

Washington, D. C.—The career of one of America's earliest "Public Enemies No. 1"—Geronimo, notorious Apache raider—is recalled by the death recently of Brig. Gen. R. A. Brown, who assisted in the pursuit and eventual capture of the outlaw Indian in the Southwest in the eighties.

"Various Indian leaders had caused trouble for Americans of the frontier for nearly half a century," says the National Geographic society, "but the long series of skirmishes and campaigns against these trouble-makers was climaxed between 1883 and 1886 by what is known as the Geronimo war."

"The hatred of Geronimo for the whites dated from a raid on an Apache camp by a military governor of the Mexican state of Sonora, in which Geronimo's young wife and their three children were massacred."

"Geronimo had been on a trading expedition with other Apache braves. Returning to his camp in the wilds of Chihuahua, Mexico, he discovered the depredations which had been committed and began straightway his career of vengeance."

Raids Into Mexico.

"From 1858 until 1873, he led repeated war parties into Mexico, from his headquarters in New Mexico. In 1876, he was arrested by Indian Agent John Clum, and taken to Fort Apache, Ariz., for imprisonment. However, on the arrival of a new agent, the warrior obtained his freedom. He fled to Mexico, killing Albert Sterling, chief of the agency police, on the way."

"This brought about the hide-and-seek game played by the fierce Apaches and the United States army between the years 1883 and 1886—a long series of raids, massacres, escapes, captures, and surrenders."

"Finally, under Gen. Nelson A. Miles, a veritable army of 5,000 soldiers and 500 Indian scouts undertook the task of catching Geronimo. The campaign was precipitated by Geronimo himself with a terrible raid, which left a trail of blood all the way back to Mexico, whence the Apache outlaw always fled when it was necessary for him to hide. Capt. H. W. Lawton pursued Geronimo into Mexico with a group made up of 1,000 American soldiers, 100 Mexican irregulars, 500 Indian scouts and 1,000 rancheros. Geronimo at this time had only 18 warriors."

"Lawton's scouts, by means of tellographs, kept him continually informed of the Apaches' whereabouts, so that the fugitives were forced to keep constantly on the move. Geronimo's hatred, embittered by the relentless pursuit, drove him to slaughter all whites who crossed his path. Seven hundred white men were killed during the period in which Geronimo was at large."

Finally Captured.

"Lawton finally captured the Apache camp, appropriating food supplies, ammunition and ponies, but Geronimo was not yet through and he led Lawton's men a harrowing chase, forcing them to endure terrible hardships."

"After three discouraging months, word came unexpectedly that the Apaches were willing to give themselves up. Lieut. Charles B. Gatewood set out to contact Geronimo, taking with him two loyal Indian scouts, who found the Apache camp by following the trail of the two squaws who had delivered the Apache message. Next day Gatewood, accompanied by General Brown, then a lieutenant, arranged Geronimo's surrender."

"The Indians were taken back to the United States and sent to Florida. There they were kept at hard labor for three years, though the government had promised that they would be reunited with their families. This was finally brought about through the efforts of the Indian Rights association. They were moved to Alabama, then to Fort Sill, Okla., and later to a reservation in New Mexico."

Office of Senator Chavez

Washington, D. C., March 12, 1938—Hearings are to be held on the Chavez McAdoo Pan-American Radio Station Bill. Senator Wheeler, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, this week appointed Senator Warren R. Austin, Senator Lister Hill and Senator Homer T. Bone to the sub-committee to handle the bill. Senator Bone will be chairman. It is expected that an imposing array of witnesses will testify.

Senator Chavez appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee handling the Interior Department Appropriations Bill and spoke in behalf of the amendment submitted by himself and by Senator Hatch appropriating additional funds for improvement of the water supply at the El Morro National Monument. Senator Chavez feels that the proper development of tourist facilities and attractions will offer a great future for New Mexico. The amendment was adopted by the sub-committee and it will undoubtedly be included in the bill when passed by the Senate.

A select group of members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard Secretary of State Cordell Hull, discuss water problems in the west as they concern our neighbors to the South, Mexico. The growing importance of the water development is commonly recognized but there must be a fair division of the water. New Mexico, of course, is vitally interested in any water division of the Colorado, for by the compact we are entitled to thousands of acre feet of water and none of which are we now utilizing. Any agreement either national or international would affect that potential development.

The Senate continued to wrangle all week on the Reorganization Bill, interspersed were discussions of the menaced fisheries industry of the Pacific Northwest and of the several proposals for investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The House in the meantime debated the Revenue Bill.

Friday of this week the President submitted to Congress a report on an extensive water conservation and development plan for the entire nation.

Senator Chavez has just been advised by Aubrey Williams, Acting Administrator of WPA, that the following WPA projects were approved by the President and are now in the hands of the Comptroller General for his review:

Erection warehouse and garage U. S. Forest Service, Taos County, allotment $17,865.

National Guard Armory Building, Santa Fe, Santa Fe County, allotment $49,515.

Addition to gymnasium San Jon, Quay County, allotment $9,875.

Improving grounds at the Central Ward School Clayton, Union County, allotment $10,985.

This week Senator Chavez has been acting trial judge in the radio play "The Trial of the Baron Von Blau", written by Kenneth M. Ellis, author of "The Trial of Vivian Ware". Other public officials taking various roles are Senator Wagner of New York, and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts. The play is designed to promote lay understanding of trial court procedure and public appreciation of the responsibility of jury duty.

Recent visitors to the office have been Mr. William Bird of Albuquerque; Mrs. Mary Lou Mercer and her father, Hank Woods, from Roswell and Mrs. H. R. Brownlee of Silver City.

Cleanliness of Modern Kitchen

"One important factor in the health of the nation - cleanliness and sanitation in the kitchen - is a great deal easier to have today as a result of modern electrical appliances," says Mr. G. C. Kroggel of the New Mexico Mechanical Equipment Company, Kelvinator dealer here. "The burden of keeping America's Kitchen clean is being lifted from the shoulders of the housewife and banished by designers of kitchen equipment.

One place where this is particularly evident today is in the new 1938 line of Kelvinator refrigerators. Lifetime porcelain or Permalux, that does not stain and is easy to wash, stands out in the new Kelvinator refrigerators. "The metal inside the cabinet is stainless and will not rust, while the interiors are so lighted that no possible dirt can remain invisible. In addition, the inside corners are rounded and the shelves slide out easily, making cleaning the interior a veritable pleasure."

LID OF TVA BLOWN OFF

Chairman Morgan Demands Congressional Inquiry . . Refuses to Resign . . Spanish Cruiser Torpedoed

Evidently these three leaders in the fight about the administration-backed "Third Basket" tax bill did not get enough pro and con on the house floor. They continue their argument in the corridor, with the bill's author, Representative Fred Vinson of Kentucky, right; rebuking Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts, left, for his opposition to the measure. Representative Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina, center, who introduced the bill to the house, backs Vinson.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Berry Claim Cause of Row

LONG existing warfare between Dr. A. E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and his fellow directors, David Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan, has come to a climax, due to the claims of Sen. George L. Berry for $5,000,000 because his alleged marble quarries were flooded in the Norris dam area. Doctor Morgan has demanded a showdown in the form of a congressional investigation of the whole TVA setup and its activities.

A commission appointed by a federal court in Tennessee reported the claims of Berry and his associates were worthless because their properties could not be profitably operated commercially.

Chairman Morgan then issued a long statement revealing that the quarrel in the authority was due not to differences between himself and his colleagues over policy, but to his efforts to obtain "honesty, openness, decency and fairness in government."

Dr. Morgan intimated that the Berry deal was only a part of the issue of honesty and decency which he had to face and that there was a lot more he would like to tell a congressional committee.

Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan retaliated with a long defense statement, severely criticizing the chairman and suggesting that he retire from the commission. President Roosevelt made public this statement, leading observers to believe he rather sided with them. But Chairman Morgan replied that he would not resign under fire and in a letter to Representative Maverick of Texas reiterated his demand for an investigation by congress. Resolutions for such an inquiry were introduced, and Senator Norris, patron saint of TVA and similar projects, sought either to smother the proposed probe or to see that it was carried on by friendly hands.

In the midst of the rumpus Lillenthal announced that the government is willing to buy the properties of private electric power companies in the TVA area provided the owners will sell them at sacrifice prices. The utility officials interested were invited to meet him and Harcourt Morgan for a discussion. Lillenthal said that if the proposed purchases were carried out, private power enterprises would be eliminated in northern Alabama, northeastern Mississippi and nearly all of Tennessee. He also announced that the TVA would be ready to advance cities in the area, otherwise unable financially to purchase local power plants, funds from an appropriation of $50,000,000 voted by congress in the recently amended TVA act.

Franco Warship Sunk

SPANISH insurgents sustained a severe loss when their cruiser Balaorea was torpedoed and sunk in a big naval battle off Cartagena. The 10,000-ton cruiser went down in flames and probably about 300 of her crew were drowned. Some 400 others were rescued by two British destroyers.

The loyalist attack by warships and planes was carefully planned to break the rebel blockade of government ports on the Mediterranean coast. The loyalist authorities were highly elated by this victory in what they called the first real naval battle of the civil war, and War Minister Prieto said they were now prepared to fight the conflict to a finish on the seas.

The British admiralty announced that two British destroyers were attacked by five airplanes off the Spanish coast while on "anti-piracy" patrol duty. There were no casualties. General Franco was reported to be reorganizing all his troops from Africa so that he can carry on if Mussolini withdraws the Italian contingents in accordance with the expected agreement with Great Britain. Conversations lead to that agreement were started by British and Italian diplomats.

We Take Two Islands

UNDER orders from the President, Secretary of the Interior Ickes added to the island possessions of the United States which he supervises two little bits of land in the Pacific—Canton and Enderby Islands, in the Phoenix archipelago. Their value is as stopping places for transoceanic air flights to Australia.

Great Britain has held a disputed claim to the two islands, as well as to others of the Phoenix group. The President's order for control of the islands is based on settlements made three years ago by American citizens. The government now is in a position to discuss the conflicting claims with Britain.

Included in the President's order are lands in the Antarctic first visited by Admiral Byrd and other Americans.

Now French Ambassador

COUNT RENE DOYNEL DE SAINT-QUENTIN, who replaces Georges Bonnet as ambassador from France, arrived in Washington and proceeded to the White House in full regalia, to present his credentials to President Roosevelt. The count is fifty-four years old and a bachelor. He is a distinguished citizen of France and the scion of a long famous family. Other callers at the White House who aroused much interest were the three unmarried sisters of King Zog of Albania. The princesses are on a pleasure tour of the United States and it is officially denied that they are seeking suitable husbands over here.

Saint-Quentin the White House who aroused much interest were the three unmarried sisters of King Zog of Albania. The princesses are on a pleasure tour of the United States and it is officially denied that they are seeking suitable husbands over here.

Borah Hits Navy Bill

JUST before the house began consideration of the administration's billion-dollar naval construction bill, Senator Borah virtually gave notice that the measure would not get through the senate without a lively fight. He gave out a statement attacking the naval building program as an unjustified step toward "the beginning of another World War—armaments war."

"Such a program is not in the interest of peace," he said. "It is not for the welfare of our people. These vast sums are being drained off from the people at a time when they are in sore distress to find means to carry on."

Borah is the senior member of the senate foreign relations committee.

Widens Tax Field

IN A 5 to 2 decision of far reaching implications, sweeping aside more than a century of precedents, the United States Supreme court held that income from leases of state school lands is not immune from federal taxation.

Justice Pierce Butler, dissenting with Justice James Clark McReynolds, said it was impossible to foresee the extent to which the court's opinion upsets the long settled principle of reciprocal tax immunity in our dual system of government.

The decision was the latest of a series in which the Supreme court has greatly narrowed the field of reciprocal tax immunity.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, in South America, this writer was always hearing somebody mutter "Perros!" (dogs), as he passed by. It expressed dislike of all North Americans. Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," about the Chicago packing houses, had been carefully mistranslated, in a widely circulated version, which made multitudes of South Americans believe all North Americans ate dogs. Even in remote jungle towns, I found European trade scouts and salesmen making diligent use of the book. It was the neatest trade propaganda trick of the century.

The one-sided battle has continued through the decades. Late reports are that South American radio stations are belting Uncle Sam with everything at hand, and, to the same degree, apostrophizing Italy, Germany and Japan.

For this reason, there appears to be more than meets the eye in the printed story of our new airwave rearmament, and the assignment of a new short-wave channel for broadcasts to South America.

With Secretary Hull, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, pleads for "stronger cultural ties" in the first broadcast. Spanish translations follow the English version.

While all this is in the name of "peace and good-will," and official announcements carry no hint of a defensive propaganda war, it appears to be the answer—perhaps the only possible reply—to the widespread smearing campaign against the U. S. A. in Latin American countries.

The sixty-six-year-old Dr. Rowe is a happy choice to head America's "cultural," if not propaganda, outreach in this direction. He has become widely known and decidedly persona grata in South America in his 32 years of pleading and proselytizing for solidarity, friendship and understanding in the Americas.

He has fraternized with South Americans more than any other northerner, lecturing, writing, evangelizing and expounding his doctrine of friendly co-operation—always on the high plane of cultural and intellectual intercourse. He has been head of the Pan-American union since 1920, succeeding John Barrett.

LIFE begins at forty for Gracie Fields, English Music Hall actress, who curtsies to the king and becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire. It is another Jane Alger story, this tale of the Lancashire mill girl who became the highest-paid entertainer in the world.

Her earnings from her 5,000,000 gramophone records, and from the stage and cinema have reached $750,000 a year. Her film, "Mr. Tower of London," ran seven years.

She lives simply with her mother, who manages her affairs, and never has anything more than pocket money. Every so often she visits Rochdale, the mill town where she sang for pennies at the age of seven, and has a rollicking time, singing for her old friends.

She was a "half-timer" in the cotton mills, half the day in school and half at work. In 1930, she made a brief appearance at the Palace theater in New York. It wasn't much of a success. She explained afterward that she had been warned in England that entire audiences in America chewed gum together and in time, with dreadful facial contortions. This frightened her and spoiled her act, although, she admitted, there was only one observable gum-chewer.

She was glad to land safely in England, where she is widely beloved and known as "Good Old Gracie."

Act Spoiled by Fear of Gum-Chewers. Just a few days before her fortieth birthday, she returned home from a party at four o'clock in the morning. The milkman, the policeman on the beat and a street-sweeper ceremoniously handed her a morning paper with her name in the king's honor list. She is tall, blonde and merry.

Oilcloth in the Making. Oilcloth is a thick canvas coated on both sides with thick oil paint. First the canvas is passed through liquid glue, etc., pressed by heavy rollers, dried, and rubbed with pumice-stone. The paint is applied in several coats, the final coat being in a pattern. The quality of the oilcloth is governed by the number of coats of paint.

Madam, a Voguish Silk Print for You

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

EVER since children started calling mother by her first name, another has done her best to live up to this indirect compliment by looking younger each year. She massages and exercises until her figure reverts to girlish proportions, and having studied fashions intensively in order to seek out lines and colors that will do the most for her, she makes a wise and happy choice when she steps forth arrayed in a costume of charming silk print that causes all who behold to pay compliment to her perennial youth.

For the woman whose years have gone "fortyish" or which lead into the "facinating fifties," life as it is today holds interesting possibilities. So often the complaint is voiced that fashion news and pictures utterly ignore the needs of mature women, catering only to the whims of youth that glories in sylphlike will o' wisp figures. Well, now, what about the charming fashions herewith illustrated? Madam, of "no-age" identity, these flattering silk print costumes are pictured especially for you.

The model centered in the group is submitted as an ideal selection for the woman engaged in a roundelay of daytime activities. Designers well versed in the art of dress declare that scroll designs that brighten monotonous with a dash of color are flattering to the important figure as they do not appear spotty. The model pictured presents a daytime dress of black-with-white-veerol printed silk crepon worn under a full length unlined wool redingote. It has a velvet collar and is styled with a vent in the back coas to insure freedom in movement. A white pique touch softens a becoming high neckline. The bodice top has a slenderizing long line and carries two rows of tiny buttons repeating the detail of the coat. The attached skirt is box-pleated, the pleats slitted down to keep the hips slim. In reality this is a one-piece dress with a two-piece look. Note the very narrow belt.

A new silk print with a chintz pattern in floral and leaf design as shown to the right has a flattering adjustable low V-neckline with cash crossing under the bosom and tying in the back. Well placed pleats are released below the hipline to give movement and interest to the skirt. The effect of the double waistline is becoming to short as well as tall women. The Watteau straw beret as worn with this costume is the rage in Paris and the promise is that it will be a leading fashion not only for spring but throughout the summer months. Which means that milliners inspired by the beautiful Watteau paintings are creating "pretty lady" hats that accent utterly feminine charm.

Silk evening prints in brilliant pastels that flaunt huge, bold floral designs are the outstanding mode for evening. And so, now that we have shown you a print costume for practical day wear and a more dressy print for afternoon functions, we are completing the trio of prints you'll love to wear with a gorgeous gown for formal evenings. See it pictured to the left. How becoming the huge scatter-florals can be to the woman with the important figure may be seen by this stunning evening gown of black chiffon with distinguished large multi-colored flower print. This lovely model may also be had with a triangular scarf to match that can be worn to soften the neckline or, if you will, wear it gracefully over the head as a protection to the hair.

SMART THREE-PIECE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Jacket suit plus a topcoat is the three-piece outfit for spring that will be your most economical buy no matter how much you pay for it. Costume suits such as pictured are the smart thing for immediate wear. This model is in the natural wheat tones that are coming out in full force this spring. For the coat the designer uses a smart, nubby tweed that contrasts to the smooth surfaced wool that makes acket and skirt. The relation of suit and topcoat is accentuated in that the short jacket is, as you will observe if you look closely, bound with the identical flecked wool that fashions the long coat. With the topcoat removed you have your spring tailored jacket suit all ready to wear with the intriguing blouses that are so important in current modes.

EVENING GOWNS OF LACE FOR SUMMER

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Evening dresses are, of course, the expected spot for lace to shine. And so it does, but outside of all the regular and expected places, it takes new precedence in putting in the note of color which is so very chic for summer. In fact, the surest sign of a new evening frock is this two color idea. Pink venise sleeves in a black dress, a red lace bolero incrustated in a gray lace dress, or a black lace bodice and volant from the hips, as Worth sees it, black over pink as Ardanse prefers to get her nude effects, bottle green over gray as Paul Roy likes his evening things, not to mention the long white evening cape in lace of Rosevienne or her incrustations of green lace torsades in a black lace dress. Piquet prefers to emphasize his long corselet line with lace just as he underlines the ruching of his slip skirts with either maline or black vel, but always in contrast to the color of the fabric. And has anything more ingenious been thought of than his miniscule lace striping (actually 2 millimeters in width) of a day dress, looking at a distance like a pencil stripe?

Bolero Gives Old Evening Dress New Lease on Life

An old evening dress can take a new lease on life, now that the bolero is offered in such a variety of themes. Those who like a trim, tailored type of jacket will be interested in the versions that are made of shirkskin or printed linen. They have boyish collars and stitched trimming. White shirkskin is recommended for wear over a black frock while those printed linens will look well with vivid or dark shades, especially if the wearer is among the winter cruisers. Embroidered organdie and shirred marquisette that are available in white or pastel tints transform a tailored costume into a frivolous and a very feminine one.

When Rossini Sneered at Wagner's Opera

Recalling an occasion when Arnold Schonberg, "impressionistic" composer, came to London to conduct a Schonberg program with "explosive" results, Sir John Squire is reminded of Rossini being taken by friends to hear an opera by the new marvel, Richard Wagner. The dialogue, after the show, ran like this:

Disciples—What did you think of it, Master?

Rossini—I don't think it would be fair to express an opinion without hearing it a second time.

Disciples (eagerly)—And when are you going to hear it a second time, Master?

Rossini (emphatically)—Never!

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing . . . and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain ceases promptly; rawness is relieved.

You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic wastes. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood to keep health in to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer from backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses PROTEINS— The Foods That You Cannot Live Without

Eminent Food Authority Explains Why No Protein Means No Life—Describes the Kind and Amount Required for the Best Growth in Children—Good Resistance, Vigor and Endurance in Adults.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 20th St., New York.

FOOD is—and always has been—the central problem of life. But only in recent years has its true power been revealed, as a result of scientific investigation.

Fortunately, we now know what constitutes sound nutrition, and it is possible for every homemaker to plan meals that will enable her family to eat their way to health.

Topping the list of food essentials are the proteins. The Dutch chemist, Mulder, who hit upon this name, made a wise choice, for it means "to take first place." And certainly the proteins are first in importance. For they are the stuff of which our bodies are built. Without them, there would be no life.

Every man, woman and child has a fundamental need for protein, because it is an essential component of every living cell and makes up a large part of the solids of a muscle cell. Evidently, a great many of the glandular principles and substances, which control the functions of the body, are also protein in character.

Protein is the only food element that contains nitrogen, and next to water, nitrogen is the chief constituent of the human body.

Protein Builds Bodies.
A new born baby weighs, on an average, from 7 to 7½ pounds, and the adult into which it grows may weigh 20 to 30 times as much. The vast amount of tissue necessary to construct a man is built chiefly from protein.

Once the adult body is built, however, protein is not required for the growth of new tissues, except under certain conditions, such as during pregnancy, when one is recovering from a wasting illness, or when an athlete is in training and the muscles are increasing in size.

Keeps the Body in Repair.
There is, however, a maintenance requirement for protein which continues throughout life, and which applies to both children and adults. For the body may be compared to a machine, on which it is necessary to make allowance for the wear and tear of parts. Protein is the only substance that will rebuild the millions of cells which each day cease to function.

Thus, we see that protein performs two vital services—first, it builds new tissues; second, it repairs worn-out tissues.

The Building Stones of the Body.
Protein is found in many different foods, but unfortunately, not all proteins are equally valuable. That is because protein is a very complex substance, resulting from the union of 22 or more simpler substances containing nitrogen, and called amino acids. These are the true building stones of the body. Some protein foods may have only 7 amino acids represented in their substance; others may have as many as 15 or 16, and these also may be varied by the proportions of the kinds present.

Proteins Vary in Value.
Some of these amino acids are necessary to build new tissue; others will not build tissue, but are capable of repairing worn-out cells. Some protein foods are, therefore, more valuable to the body than others.

It is absolutely essential that the homemaker, charged with the responsibility of feeding a family, should be able to distinguish between those types of protein which are adequate for both growth and repair, and those that are only useful for maintenance.

For if the diet does not contain an adequate amount, or the right kind of protein, our bodies will be badly built and they will be improperly repaired and cannot wear well. As Dr. Eugene V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, the world-famous investigator and discoverer of vitamin A, puts it: "Unless the right kinds, with respect to the size and shape, are furnished by the food proteins, the exact pattern on which the muscle must be constructed cannot be formed and, in this case, growth is interfered with."

If you were building a house you would consider nothing less than the finest materials. You would know that cheap lumber and poorly made bricks could not produce a lasting building. In the same way, you must learn to discriminate between the various types of protein used for the supremely important purpose of building your children's bodies, or keeping adult physiques in perfect repair.

Some foods cost more than others and you should not be guilty of spending hard-earned money for expensive protein foods when the same amount of nourishment could be more economically obtained from an inexpensive source.

Where to Find Protein.
Proteins are found in many different foods, but unfortunately, only a limited number of foods supply proteins containing all the amino acids necessary for both growth and repair. Proteins that will build new tissue, as well as replace worn-out cells, are known as complete proteins. In this class we have meats, fish, cheese, milk, eggs and some nuts.

How Much Protein?
The protein requirement varies according to size, age, and the kind of protein foods consumed.

To allow for growth, children require twice as much protein per pound of body weight as adults. That is to say, an adult requires daily one-thirtieth of an ounce for each pound of body weight, but a child needs one-fifteenth of an ounce for each pound of body weight.

The amount of protein food should usually constitute from 10 to 15 per cent of all the calories taken. If this plan is faithfully followed, there will be more than enough to take care of every requirement, because experiments indicate that a man who weighs 154 pounds, or 70,000 grams, needs a minimum of 44 grams of protein every day.

Eskimos eat two or three times as much protein as most dwellers in the temperate zone, but that is because other foods are scarce. In the tropics, on the other hand, the consumption of protein is often not more than half that of the temperate zone.

In planning the family dietary, a safe rule to keep in mind is to include in the daily diet: a quart of milk for every child, a pint for each adult; one egg, one serving of meat, fish or chicken, one serving of another protein food such as cheese, dried peas or beans, or a main dish made with nuts.

You can achieve wide variety and still provide an adequate protein ration within the limits of this rule. For milk may be served as a beverage, in soups, puddings, and as cream sauce. Eggs may likewise be varied in their method of preparation, or concealed in other foods. There are many fine meats, and the number of ways in which fresh, canned, frozen or dried fish can be served is legion.

Both cheese and nuts make sandwiches, salads and desserts, as well as main course dishes. Peas, beans and lentils can appear as soup, mock roast or croquettes. Grain products, which include cereals, macaroni and bread, may appear in any course in the meal.

In planning menus, always keep before you the ideal that an adequate amount of first class protein makes a first class man, whereas an inadequate amount may lead to stunted growth, functional nervous diseases, lessened efficiency and the earlier approach of old age.

In choosing proteins to feed your family—remember that they take first place among foods, and that upon their wise choice rests your future welfare, your destiny—your life!

Polishing Ethics— Pro and Con

When fine furniture leaves the shop of the manufacturer, its finish has been professionally treated, to preserve its beauty—prolong its endurance. And from that time on, this furniture is best maintained by a quality light-oil furniture polish—first, on the shop floor of the furniture dealer—and then in the home. This is acknowledged and accepted as the best way to heighten its beauty—lengthen its life! But unfortunately, many housewives coat the finish of their furniture and woodwork with various shellacs and veneers—using them as a substitute for a fine oil polish and rubbing. And what a great mistake this is! For these coatings form a false finish over the true finish of the furniture; and resin and other destructive elements in them dry out the wood—toughen it—leave a sticky residue. When many layers have been applied, they accumulate as a crust over the finish, clogging it and clouding the natural beauty of the grain. This is the slack way to care for furniture. If the home-maker really "cares for" her furniture, she will frequently rub on a reputable light-oil polish, to preserve it—keep it lastingly lovely!

ASK YOUR FRIENDS, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words: "It's a honey for the money!" That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice!

For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it!

It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane—power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant. Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer.

NEW DYNAFLEX ENGINE... puts cycles on at your service... nearly 10% more power from the same rationing of fuel.

And here's a car that in addition sparkles with features as a Christmas tree sparkles with ornaments. New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New bride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size.

So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted.

Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.

School Notes

The high school and community rejoice with the Basket ball boys over their success in the recent Basket Ball Tournament at Roswell. Mr. T. C. Bird president of Divisional Tournament said, "This year's tournament was the largest and best in history, both financially and in the number of teams participating." The gross receipts of the tournament was $1009.85, after payment of expenses the money was prorated to the participating teams. Carrizozo High School received as its share $31.72. The athletic success of the present school year is largely due to our efficient coach Mr. James P. Gatton.

The Sophomores under the direction of Miss Chaney assembled in the Community Hall last Friday at 8 p. m. for a party. Each party invited one guest within school. The class had one of the finest parties of the year. The success of which is largely due to the sponsor Miss Martiel Chaney.

Arrangements are made for the organization meeting of the Alumni. Much interest is being displayed in the coming meeting in the high school Auditorium Monday evening March 21. The variety program will include; tap dancing, group singing aesthetic dancing, vocal and instrumental music. Many of the 247 graduates have signified their intention of being present.

A negro minstrel under the direction of Miss Cole will be the main feature of assembly program next week. Visitors welcome.

A Courtesy week is being planned for our high school. This is a splendid idea. The committee in charge is: Mrs. Snyder, Fred English and Miss Cole. "Courtesy is the cream of culture."
