CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1938

NUMBER 41

Propose Remedies
For Flood Control

Local people will give oral testimony on six important phases of soil erosion and flood damage and control measures at the public flood control hearing to be held at El Paso, Wednesday April 20.

The hearing is scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium according to Hugh G. Calkins, chairman of the Pecos-Rio Grande Flood Control Committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Following disastrous floods in 1937 that caused over one million dollar damage along the Rio Grande and more than one and a half million dollars damage along the Pecos river, Congress passed a bill requesting the Department of Agriculture to make a preliminary flood control report on the watersheds of the two rivers.

Other hearings are scheduled at Roswell on April 13, Santa Fe on April 15 and at Fort Stockton, Tex., on April 22. The flood control committee includes Hugh G. Calkins, Soil Conservation Service, Arthur Upson, Forest Service, and E. C. Foster, Bureau of Agriculture Economics. E. J. Eaton, SCS, acts as the committee's executive officer.

Capitan Girls Camp

"The Educational Camp for Girls of the National Youth Administration at Capitan, New Mexico, is celebrating its Third Open House April 10th, from one o'clock till five in the afternoon.

At this time the one hundred girls taking the advantages offered by NYA under competent direction will display and demonstrate some of the work and play they do during their term of three months.

On show will be articles produced, such as the New Mexico State Flag which is the work project item and distributed among Public Schools of the state; sewing, making of slacks, shirts and dresses for the girls; weaving of hand spun vegetable dyed yarns into old type Spanish rugs and blankets; colcha embroidery; tin craft where the articles to beautify camp and homes are made from used oil cans; note books where a record is kept of class work; play, games, sports, and dancing, the old dances of this country and others in Folk Dancing, and social dancing under strict chaperonage. These and other activities go to make a very full and busy week leaving many happy memories of fun in working together in one grand group.

Plan now to be with us and enjoy our beautiful camp as well as our activities. Mrs. Shaw, our Director, and her staff of teachers invite you to visit us at any time convenient, but especially to be with us April 10th at "Open House."

The Village Election

After the smoke of battle cleared away in Tuesday's election for city officials, it was found that the Peoples' ticket had won. The losers congratulated the winners and everybody is happy.

BINGHAM BREVITIES

Mrs. G. D. Hay is spending a few days with her daughter Mrs. Graham.

Business Men's Club

The Business Men's club held their regular meeting at the Carrizozo Eating House last Wednesday evening. Mr. Paul Mayer gave an interesting talk on the early days of White Oaks.

Last night several of the members went to Tularosa to a meeting of the various Chambers of Commerce in regard to Highway 54.

CAPITAN ITEMS

There was a dance at the old Gym Saturday night, April 2nd. The dance was sponsored by the Ft. Stanton CCC camp. Everyone reported a good time.

The Capitan grade school basket ball teams played at Hondo April 1st and 2nd. We are glad to say that the Capitan boys took 2nd place and the girls took third.

The Home Economics girls of Capitan attended the district meeting at Carrizozo Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner West and family were in Carrizozo Sunday afternoon. They visited Mr. West's father who is ill in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris and family of Ancho visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hale over the week end.

Willie Dockray is back in town. He has been employed at the Merchant ranch in the past.

District Home Ec Clubs

The District meet of Home Ec clubs was held here last Friday. The meeting was very interesting. Several plays were given. Games were played and an especially delicious luncheon was served the guests by Miss Davis and her class.

CCC Dance

Everyone had a marvelous time at the CCC anniversary dance Saturday night. Limeade and cookies were served in generous quantities to the big crowd. The hall was decorated with many balloons in a variety of colors. Horns, confetti, serpentine and all kinds of noise makers helped make the occasion a gala affair.

ANCHO NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Craig are the proud parents of a 7 pound girl born March 29. Mrs. Craig of course is a very happy mother and "papa" Craig is wearing a broader smile than ever. Mrs. Craig and daughter Ruth Jean will return to their home this week-end.

Lawrence Hobbs, two and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hobbs passed away at the Hobbs home at Gran Quivira, March 28th and was buried at Ancho March 29th. A large number of friends from Gran Quivira came to pay their last respects to baby Lawrence. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs lived at Ancho a few years ago and their many friends here extend sympathy in this time of sadness.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Wilson, son John and Quency Morris were Roswell visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Irene Hart spent Tuesday in Ancho. We are always glad to have Mrs. Hart with us.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Balow enjoyed a good show at the Lyric in Carrizozo Sunday.

Mrs. J. M. Frame is at Ruidoso getting ready to move to the mountains for the summer. Mrs. Frame will retire from the R.R.C. May 1st having put in 48 years with the company a fine record for Mr. Frame.

Mrs. S. W. Buie and little daughter Shirley of Hachita, N. M., came in Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bullard and son Howard were Carrizozo visitors Saturday evening and attended the "Lyric."

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson were El Paso and Alamogordo business visitors from Friday until Sunday.

Mrs. Juanita Frausto is rejoicing over having her daughter with her after living in El Paso five years.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Harvey of Jicarilla are the proud parents of a fine baby boy, born in Carrizozo two weeks ago.

Everybody is happy over the nice snow that fell Wednesday. Mr. Geo. Roberts and Mr. J. W. Balow were Carrizozo visitors Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Keeney's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. M. Caldwell and children from Bowie, Arizona, are visiting their parents. Mr. Caldwell is with the S. P. Co.

CCC Open House

Persons from several different states registered at the CCC open house last Sunday and Monday, as well as the many local people who were out to visit the camp, both days.

As each group of visitors appeared, a guide accompanied them to the different buildings, including the officers' quarters, recreation hall, barracks, mess hall, infirmary, office, library, school room, shop, and store room.

A number of people ate dinner at camp both days and found it quite interesting and enjoyable.

Most of the furnishings of the various buildings were built in the shop at camp, such as tables, chairs and desks.

School Notes

Ruth Skinner is one of the best typists in the Carrizozo High School with a score of sixty-five words per minute. She received a medal for her accuracy and speed.

The Seniors are presenting their play April 15th entitled "Bertie's Cave Woman." This is an exciting story of the West.

Mr. Spencer, a deep sea diver, presented his diving equipment and captured octopus to the school Thursday morning. Such sights ye High School students never saw before.

The Home Economics Girls gave a Mother-Daughter Tea Thursday afternoon from three until five. A large number of the mothers were present. After looking over the garments that the girls had made, refreshments were served.

The Carrizozo Track Team will go to a track meet in Capitan on the 15th of April. Carrizozo has high hopes of taking the cup again this year as they have done in the four or five past years. We hope to see all of the Carrizozo people there.

We had a fine day Saturday, when the District Home Ec. Club met. Four schools were represented with a large number of girls. The schools represented were Carrizozo, Capitan, Corona and Tularosa. All of the girls had a fine time.

The Corona High School gave an assembly program. They were on a good will tour. Earlier in the year Capitan came over on a similar tour. It seems we are a little late going on our good will tour, but Miss Cole plans to take her musicians on a tour the 1st week in May.

Governor Clyde Tingley declared Friday April 8th a holiday. This annual arbor day should be observed by all people by planting and caring for trees.

The English classes have rated the Library magazines according to their own taste and "Life" came at the head of the list. The school will see if it can get subscriptions for these books or magazines. We hope the class will co-operate by doing some useful reading.

Notice

The Woman's Club of Carrizozo received a special invitation to attend Open House at the Capitan Girls' camp from 1 until 5 p. m. next Sunday April 10th. This is the third anniversary of the opening of the camp.

Mrs. Gregorio Pino who has been ill is reported doing well.

"Wings Across America"

The week, beginning May 15 has been designated as National Air Mail Week in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the Air Mail Service.

"Wings Across America" is the subject of a nationwide school essay contest. The essays are to be based on the progress, dependability and future possibilities of this method of modern communication. The Air Mail Service.

Every High School student is eligible to compete in this essay contest and the prizes for the winners are very attractive. The first prize for the boy or girl in each state who win, will be an airplane trip to Washington, D. C. and return and the second prize will be a trophy presented by the New Mexico Air Mail Campaign Committee. The essay of the pupil, winning a trip to Washington and return, will be entered in the National contest in which the winner, if he or she lives west of the Mississippi, will be given an airplane trip to Miami, Fla., with expenses paid for five days. The second National prize will be a trophy and the third National prize a plaque to be presented by the National Air Mail Week Campaign Committee.

All essays are to be certified by the school principal or superintendent as to eligibility of the contestant. Essays must be postmarked not later than midnight, May 1, 1938, and addressed to "State Chairman, National Air Mail Week Contest in care of your local postmaster.

The State Chairman is very anxious that every school pupil in New Mexico, who is eligible, enter this contest. For further particulars or a copy of the "Air Mail Week Essay Contest Rules and Regulations," see either your school superintendent or your postmaster at once for the contest will close at midnight, May 1st.

Shaver-Williams

Miss Nellie Shaver became the bride of Mr. Erasmus Williams at a quiet wedding ceremony at the Baptist parsonage at 7 o'clock last Wednesday evening, with Rev. J. C. Vandiver officiating. Witnesses were the bride's sister, Miss Thelma Shaver and Miss Jane Vandiver.

Mrs. Williams is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Shaver and was reared in Carrizozo. She has been a popular and efficient teacher in the local grade school for several years. On account of her quiet dignity and lovable disposition she has many friends.

Mr. Williams has made his home here for a little over a year, being employed by the government, as County Extension agent. During his residence in Carrizozo he has won the esteem of every one.

Friends wish them a happy, prosperous life.

Reed-Pfingsten

Miss Mabel Reed and Charles E. Pfingsten were married in Santa Fe last Saturday, Rev. Gould, pastor of the Baptist church officiating. The happy couple returned here Sunday and have started housekeeping in the Chesak building, in which Mr. Pfingsten has his insurance office.

The Herald joins their many friends in wishing them all possible happiness and success.—Hot Springs Herald.

White House Guarded by New Fence

More than $30,000 is being spent in the erection of a new and higher ornamental fence around the White House against anyone seeking admission to the executive mansion grounds from the south. Workmen are shown as they removed the old fence in preparation for the new installation.

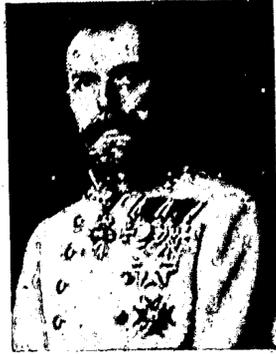

They're All Germans Now

Snapshot taken in a village near Lins, Austria, after the recent occupation by the German troops. A German soldier holds an Austrian lad on his knee as they chat in a friendly way. A large percentage of the regular German army are not members of the official Nazi party and some observers say this may account for the fact that they were received in a friendly manner by the inhabitants of Austria.

Ferdinand of Hapsburg in Nazi Prison

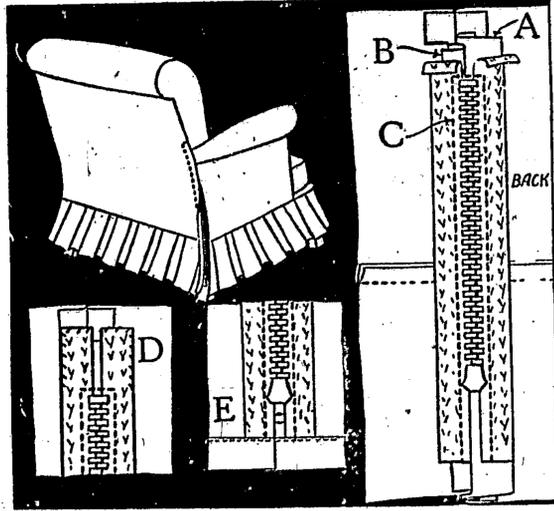

Pictured in the uniform of a general in the happy days of the dual monarchy is Archduke Joseph Ferdinand of Hapsburg, chief of the royal Hapsburg-Tuscan line and great-uncle of the Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne of Austria.

The archduke achieved the doubtful distinction of becoming the Nazi's most illustrious prisoner, when he was arrested near Salzburg, charged with making insulting remarks about the Nazi regime. Hapsburg's chances of ever regaining the throne of Austria were regarded as completely killed by the successful Hitler coup.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Slide Fasteners for Slip Covers

IF YOU have slip covers made by an interior decorator and you go in for such niceties as slide fasteners or welted or piped seams the bill goes up and up. If you make the covers yourself all these "extras" amount to very little either in time or money. In fact slide fasteners require less time than a closing with snaps.

Plan the closings for a slip cover during the final fitting when the seams have been basted but not stitched. Sometimes one short pocket is all that is needed. Again openings must be left at several points so that the cover will slip on easily.

To apply a slide fastener to a seam pocket, turn the slip cover inside out and crease the seam open. Cut a facing strip 1 1/4 inches wide and 1 inch longer than the opening. Join the facing strip to the back edge of the opening as shown at A. Slash the front of the seam edge 3/4 inch above the top of the opening and crease it over the back facing as shown at B. When the edges of the opening have been prepared in this way, press the edge creases with a hot iron. Next, baste and stitch the fastener in place as at C sewing close to the metal. The machine cording foot is useful for this purpose. Do not trim away the tape at the ends of the fastener. Whip the upper ends down as at D, and cover the lower ones with the hem as at E.

NOTE: If you are making new slip covers or curtains or doing other Spring sewing you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' book SEWING for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of illustrated directions for making curtains for every type of room: dressing tables; lampshades, and numerous, other articles used daily in the home. Send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coin preferred) to Mrs. Spears, 210 So. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Too Busy for Honors

Once when a university wanted to confer an honorary degree of LL.D. upon Thomas A. Edison, the savants had to carry on the ceremony by telephone. The inventor was too busy with his experiments to go to accept the honor. He was glad when he could hang up the receiver and get back to work.

Strange Facts

Cat-Tails Served as Asparagus

YOU can eat the fuzzy cat-tail you have seen so often in marshy places. The Iroquois Indians used the root of the cat-tail plant to make flour. The root is starchy and the Indians dried it and made a flour that is similar to flour made from corn or rice. Cat-tail flour was one of the substitutes the Germans learned to use during the World War. The American Indians also used the root to make syrup. It is the tender shoots of the plant that Cossacks enjoy and it is this part of the plant that is sometimes served in England under the name Cossack asparagus.

The fibrous leaves of the cat-tail plant have often been used to make mats and chair seats. The flower is converted into a substitute for cotton or silk and is made into a filling for upholstery. In this form the flower was used as a dressing for wounds in the World War. The ancient people of India dried the cat-tails and used them as torches. In some places where palm leaves are not easily obtained the cat-tail leaves are used on Palm Sunday instead of palms.

The leaves of the cat-tail are grasslike, growing in double rows on the reed stalk and the flower of the plant is the tall which grows at the top of the stalk. The tail is not a single flour but is made up of thousands of little flowers. The familiar fuzzy surface is due to fine down which grows on each flower.

Pretty Silk for Her Easter Frock

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DECK little daughter out in a pretty-pretty dress-up silken gown at the joyous Easter time and note what a radiant outlook it will give her. It will be as refreshing a sight on the flowers that burst into an ecstasy of color at the magic touch of spring to see little girls lilt their way along in the Easter style parade. It seems that silk for dress-up "Sunday-go-to-meeting" frocks has come into its own this spring in childhood's realm, more so than for many seasons past.

Mothers are becoming increasingly alert to the fact that bright colorful well-cut clothes are vastly important in the development of a child's personality. Often it is only a becoming dress that spells the difference between a confident happy child and a timid backward one.

Mothers will find inspiration aplenty as to "how to make" little daughter's Easter frock, in the trio of fashions illustrated, for they came fresh from the designers' hands and are alive with new "ideas." If you prefer to buy your child's frock ready made you will find more daintily fashioned silk models than have been shown for quite some time, but if you are a sew-at-home enthusiast all you have to do to make a dress after the manner of the model shown to the right is to take enough silk (navy printed silk taffeta fashions the gown pictured) to the pleater and the pleater pleats the skirt. Just ask little daughter, she knows!—knows that pleated skirts are very stylish indeed this season. To give the attractive styling to the top part insert puffed details in the sleeves and the bodice as pictured.

As to the little girl centered in the group it is not a case of "all dressed up and no place to go" for her outfit, even to her new wrist watch and the dainty white gloves she carries, unmistakably identifies her as one who will join in the style parade proudly arrayed in her Easter finery. The dress is made of dainty flower-print silk crepe—in delicate lovely colors. There is considerable mocking at the waistline, giving the corset effect so popular in adult fashions, with simulated yoke effect repeating the smocking. The brim hat is of the same silk print.

Little daughter will look just as if she stepped out of a fashion plate if on Easter she wears a dress of plaid weighted silk taffeta (very smart is taffeta this season). Make the skirt with fan box pleats and grace the neckline with a pleated frill, as you see to the left in the picture. Velvet ribbon is used for the bow at the neck and for about the waist, which gives it still another claim as a fashion-er. When in doubt use velvet touches to finish off the dress or the coat you may be making, for as a trimming feature velvet is very important this season.

For children's dresses plain silk crepe in the new charming pastel colors ranks in high favor. These pretty monotone crepes revel in "oodles" of shirring, smocking, fagoting and other handwork detail. The colors available are entrancing.

TODAY'S BOOK

Beauty Finds Rest in Death After 'Crisis'

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

THE role of Hedda Gabler, from Henrik Ibsen's book by the same name, is the glittering star at which many artists of the theater aim their talents. The tragic play unfolds the Nemesis of a cultured group.

The scene is laid in Christiania in the villa of Dr. George Tesman. He has just returned from a six months' wedding tour of the continent. As the play opens, his lovely old aunt is there to welcome him and to see that everything is comfortable for his wife. All the city has talked of his marriage to the beauty, the famous Hedda Gabler.

With an air Hedda enters the stage and meets the aunt. She takes no notice of the attentions shown her or the arrangements made for her happiness. Looking around wearily, she picks up the new, special occasion hat of the aunt, and remarks that she must speak to the maid about being careless with her things. The aunt goes away hurt. Hedda confirms what her husband has suspected, that she is utterly bored.

Lovberg's Story.
A friend, Mrs. Elvsted, is announced. With agitation she relates the story of the famous Eilert Lovberg, once a friend of Dr. Tesman, and a genius lately dragged back from the brink of destruction. He has returned to old friends in the city and Mrs. Elvsted fears it may mean old habits. She pleads with Dr. Tesman to help him.

Judge Brack, attorney of her husband, calls on Hedda. Their conversation takes a personal turn, and the judge states that he does not see why Hedda married George. She admits that she does not love him.

IBSEN WAS CENSURED
When Henrik Ibsen was eight years old, his father failed in business. The ensuing poverty later appeared in his play, "Peer Gynt."

Ibsen's plays during his lifetime caused a stream of protest. He was so far ahead of his generation that most people could not understand him, so they expressed their opinion in severe censure. Especially was this true of "Ghosts," the play based on inherited social diseases.

The playwright was born in 1828 and died in 1906. He is recognized as one of the giants of the world's literature.

and did not marry him for love, but from weariness with life. The judge states that he has made up his mind to have her himself.

Then Lovberg comes. Alone with her, he takes Hedda's hands in his and murmurs repeatedly, "Hedda Gabler!" He muses on, wondering if she ever loved him, really. She tries to stop his passionate talk for her husband is in the next room.

Off to the Party.
The gentlemen of the story plan to attend a dinner at the home of Judge Brack. Lovberg fears to test his self control on a party, so he decides to stay with the ladies. Mrs. Elvsted is relieved. A sadistic expression comes to Hedda, and she goads him until Lovberg says that he will go to the party. He takes his manuscript with him to read to Dr. Tesman.

Dawn finds Hedda and Mrs. Elvsted still waiting for the men to return. About seven o'clock Dr. Tesman appears, and he talks of Lovberg's book as being the work of genius. He tells of Lovberg's drunkenness at the party and of how he lost his manuscript. Tesman had found the script, which he hands to Hedda. She puts it in her desk.

Later in the day Lovberg comes to see her and tells her that he has lost his book. He mentions Mrs. Elvsted's aid, and speaks of his book as a picture of her pure, white soul. Hedda listens and does not tell him that she now has his work. He calls himself a failure. Feeling her power over him, she hands him a pistol, and suggests that he die beautifully. He leaves.

His words rankle in her mind. The other woman has the real power over him, not she.

Crisis and Death.
The judge calls with news of Lovberg's death by his own hands. Hedda shows no reaction. After the first grief, Dr. Tesman and Mrs. Elvsted swear that they will put his notes together and make the book again. They work for hours in concentrated fervor. Finally Dr. Tesman says, "We can work faster in my office, until we finish this we will work there every evening."

Alone with Hedda, Judge Brack tells her that he knows more about the death of Lovberg than he has told. He tells her of the lost manuscript, of the gun, and of her relationship with Lovberg.

Going to her piano, Hedda begins to play. With one hand she reaches into her desk and picks up her pistol. A single shot is fired and Hedda slips to the floor.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority

Relates the Miracle of VITAMINS and Explains Why YOU MUST EAT THEM or DIE

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

WE LIVE in the most inspiring age the world has ever known. Chemists grow plants without soil. Doctors snatch men from death with insulin. Surgeons perform incredibly delicate brain operations. And thanks to the amazing discoveries of nutritional scientists, children enter the world with far better chances for long and happy lives, while men and women of seventy are more active and useful than their grandparents were at fifty.

Much of the hard-won knowledge of how to eat so as to increase efficiency, curb disease, and improve the chances for longevity is due to the discovery of vitamins.

VITAMINS DISCOVERED

Twenty-six years ago, a now-famous scientist walked nervously around his laboratory, back and forth—back and forth—back and forth. He was conducting a nutrition experiment of vast importance. He didn't quite know what he was going to find, but he believed that he was on the verge of a revolutionary food discovery.

The scientist was my friend, Casimir Funk, a brilliant Polish bio-chemist. He had been working on the problem for many years. At last, in the year 1912, his experiments were positive and conclusive. Then he announced to the scientific world that he had discovered a vital force. "This force," said Funk, "I have called vitamin, because it is necessary to life."

Thus, the word "vitamin" came into being, along with the first knowledge of these minute but powerful factors which exert such a tremendous influence on human health and happiness.

SPARK PLUGS OF NUTRITION

Other bio-chemists throughout the world—including Sir Frederick Gowland Hopkins in England, and Hart, Humphrey, Babcock, Steenbock and McCollum in the United States—had been working on the same problem that Funk had partially solved. They knew that the first step was to find out how vitamins affected the human body, and that the second step was to discover what foods contained these vital substances.

And so there began a long series of experiments in the laboratories of great universities all over the world, which demonstrated what happens when a diet is deficient in any of the vitamins, and proved that if laboratory animals are wholly deprived of vitamins for a short time they will die.

These experiments are of the utmost significance to every homemaker, because the same thing happens to human beings as to experimental animals. Today our knowledge of vitamins has progressed to such a degree that it is possible to state the exact requirement for most of the vitamins and to designate the foods from which adequate quantities can be obtained.

RESISTANCE AND VITAMIN A

To date, six vitamins have been identified. Vitamin A promotes growth and builds resistance to disease. It is necessary for the health of the mucous membranes of the body and helps to guard against infections of the respiratory and alimentary tracts. It influences the health of the hair and skin, is necessary to prevent a serious eye disorder known as night blindness, and is essential for the formation of healthy teeth.

Vitamin A is found in milk, butter, margarine that has been reinforced with vitamin A concentrate, egg yolk, cod-liver oil, thin

Have You a Question?

Ask C. Houston Goudiss.
CHOUSTON GOUDISS has placed at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen-Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for postcard inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

green leaves and yellow fruits and vegetables such as carrots, sweet potatoes, apricots and bananas.

APPETITE AND VITAMIN B

Vitamin B promotes appetite, aids digestion, prevents a serious nerve disorder. It is essential to the maintenance of a good digestion, which is vitally important if the body is to obtain full benefit from the food consumed. This vitamin is closely related to the energy metabolism, and the requirement increases with the rate of growth and with increased energy expenditure, so that growing children and working men and women should receive very generous amounts.

Vitamin B is found in yeast, whole wheat cereals, oatmeal, milk, fresh and dried peas and beans, spinach, cabbage and other greens, egg yolk and liver.

VITAMIN C FOR TEETH, GUMS

Vitamin C plays an important part in regulating body processes, and prevents the dread disease of scurvy. A lack of this essential vitamin results in profound changes in the structure of the teeth and gums, may be responsible for hemorrhages occurring anywhere in the body, and for the degeneration of muscle fibers generally.

Vitamin C is most abundant in succulent fresh green leaves, such as green cabbage. It is also found in onions, potatoes, oranges, tomatoes, green peppers, bananas and strawberries. In most foods, it is easily destroyed by heat—that is why it is so important to include some fresh raw foods in the diet daily.

VITAMIN D AND RICKETS

Vitamin D is sometimes called the sunshine vitamin because it can be manufactured in the body through the action of direct sunlight on the skin. This is the vitamin that is necessary for the proper utilization of calcium and phosphorus in building bones and teeth. When it is lacking in the diet of infants, there develops that horrible disease known as rickets, in which the bones become soft and twisted, resulting in pitiful deformities—knock knees, bow legs, pigeon breast.

In foods, vitamin D is only found in appreciable amounts in fish-liver oils and egg yolk. That is why every homemaker should be so grateful to the scientists who labored to discover how to concentrate this precious vitamin from fish-liver oils and add it to foods, or to increase the vitamin D content of foods through irradiation.

ANTI-STERILITY VITAMIN E

Vitamin E comes in for less discussion than the others, because its significance to nutrition has not

TIPS to Gardeners

Combinations

TO INCREASE yield from the vegetable plot, the home gardener should grow "combined" cultures.

The theory is to plant in closely spaced adjacent rows vegetables harvested at widely different times, using one before the other begins to mature.

Combine cauliflower, lettuce and radish, for instance. Plant cauliflower early in rows three feet apart. Between the rows plant lettuce, and between lettuce and cauliflower rows plant radish. Radishes are harvested early, then the lettuce, and later the cauliflower.

Following are several other combinations recommended by Harold Coulter, Ferry Seed Institute vegetable expert:

Carrots and parsnips in alternate rows two feet apart; radishes between first two rows; lettuce between second and third rows, and spinach between third and fourth rows.

Spinach rows two and one-half feet apart; radishes between spinach; pepper plants set between spinach when radishes are pulled.

Building, Maintaining Family Health

IN THE C. Houston Goudiss articles that have appeared weekly in this newspaper previous to this one, the nationally known food authority has described FOOD, as it provides the key to mental and physical power; PROTEINS, the foods you cannot live without; CARBOHYDRATES and FATS, foods that provide motive power for the body machinery; and MINERAL SALTS, that you must have in order to build strong bones, healthy nerves and rich, red blood.

These subjects have been treated in an interesting and understandable manner, free of scientific terms, principally offering advice to the housewife that will aid her in the problem of feeding the members of her family such foods as will build and maintain their health.

Every one of these articles has a definite place in your scrapbook for future reference. If you have missed any of these discussions, the publisher of this newspaper will supply them upon your request. If you have not already done so, start a department of these informative articles in your scrapbook at once!

been fully determined. It does, however, appear to be necessary for successful reproduction and is found especially in wheat germ and lettuce.

VITAMIN G PROLONGS YOUTH

Vitamin G is necessary for growth and for the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It helps to ward off old age by prolonging the vigorous middle years. It is essential to the health of the skin, and recent experiments demonstrate that cataracts in the eyes may be due to a deficiency of this vitamin, which is found in yeast, and in liver, kidneys, egg yolk, milk, cheese and green leafy vegetables.

One authority claims that chronic disorders of the throat, stomach, lungs, colon, heart and kidneys may be traced to vitamin and mineral deficiencies.

Certainly enough has been learned of vitamin chemistry to make clear that the homemaker fails in her duty who does not provide vitamins in abundance for every member of her family. Both children and adults depend upon you for their food supply. It lies within your power to help them to health and happiness or condemn them to weakness, illness and sorrow. Do not fail them. See to it that every member of your household—your children, the wage earners, the middle aged and the elderly—get enough vitamins to afford them the health that science has placed within their grasp.

What Is the Cause of "Spider-Web Check"?

If not properly "fed" with a good oil polish, furniture in time develops what is known as "spider-web check." This appears on the finish, like wrinkles on the human face—fine lines, spreading here and there in a spider-web pattern. This crazing, this light cracking, is known in furniture language as "checking" and "spider-web checking" better describes the condition. This is the danger-signal, on finish! It's the indication of "starving" wood! A warning to the housewife, that if the finish is not cared for immediately and properly, the furniture will develop cracks, ridges and splits. "Spider-web check" is generally the result of either one of these two causes: Polish-neglect—or the use of a poor, cheap polish—without the essential fine, light-oil base. When the furniture is periodically "massaged" with a reputable oil polish (the best is non-greasy), the pores of the wood are "fed" and the piece is preserved. Then "spider-web check" will not appear! The use of a quality oil polish is the best preventive formula for this ugly, detrimental check!

MORE WOMEN USE O-CEDAR POLISH THAN ANY OTHER KIND!

...because O-Cedar not only cleans as it polishes, but prevents your furniture from drying-out, cracking, fading, and discoloring. Insist upon O-Cedar Polish, for floors (with the famous O-Cedar Mop).

NEW IN THE MODE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Silk sweaters in bright colors with the tailored spring suit are important news. A cardigan fine slip-over silk sweater as pictured at the top can be buttoned in back or front. It has a boat neck and short sleeves. The silk knit has a small spaced arrow motif. The rough straw sailor has a handana trim. The gypsy blouse shown here is in black and white polka dot silk crepe. It has a turnover collar and long full sleeves with turned back cuffs and a red silk chiffon handkerchief in the breast pocket. It is worn with a black silk taffeta upturned sombrero with a chin strap.

TAILORED OUTFITS HERALD OF SPRING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The annual blossoming of tailored suits is a surer sign of spring than the appearance of the first crocus. Of course, there are always modifications, and this year they take the form of lower waistlines, higher hemlines, and boxy shoulder details.

In keeping with this-vogue, simple shoes are once again highlighted. Gone are the foot-revealing sandals that predominated in last year's spring line.

Shoe trimming details, including simple cut-outs, punchwork, and perforations, are especially significant because of their restraint. This is also true of colors. The blue, red, and copper-hued shoes now slated for style importance are considerably toned down to conform with the note of early spring reserve.

Nursery Rhyme Buttons to Adorn Spring Prints

Little Jack Horner was no more surprised than the fashion snooter is at the new forms of catalin buttons that are now being sewed on prints here, cotton goods there or just fastened to fancy little cards for the home dressmaker. Little Jack Horner happens to be one of the figures into which the catalin has been shaped and he is accompanied by such renowned persons as Old Mother Hubbard and her shoe, Little Red Riding Hood, the Piper's Son, Jack the Giant Killer and Mother Goose, herself, whose rhymes were the inspiration for these new shapes. Colors? Blue, green, orange and red. And as strange as it seems, (or does it?) more of these buttons are being used on adult's apparel than on infant wear.

Farm Loans Now Available

American farmers have always believed in working together. Raising bees, barn raisings, quilting parties—these words call back our own story, our own farm life of an earlier day, according to James W. J. Evans, county rural rehabilitation supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

Modern farm machinery, new farming methods, he says, have largely replaced the old. Modern transportation, processing and marketing have greatly changed our methods of handling farm products.

These advantages often are beyond the reach of the small farmer. It is as hard for a farmer to buy hand tools and take his own crops to market, to compete successfully with big producers as it would be for a shoemaker to make his shoes by hand and compete with a modern factory turning out thousands of pairs. Through the fault of no individual, struggle, Mr. Evans said, becomes unequal.

Consequently, he continued, the small farmer in order to survive must join hands with his neighbor. A small farm cannot support the more modern and expensive equipment nor high priced breeding stock. But a group of farmers, pooling their interests, can afford these improved services.

Mr. Evans explained that the Community and Cooperative Service program of the Farm Security Administration is designed to meet this need for rehabilitation borrowers to help low income farmers. It is designed to help groups of farmers finance the purchase of machinery, livestock and equipment which none of them could afford alone.

Rehabilitation field representatives will study needs of prospective borrowers with them. They will draw up definite cooperative service plans and help the borrowers enter into working agreements with their neighbors.

When two or more farmers agree to use the same service, equipment or property, this is a community service, Mr. Evans explained. Here are a few examples: lime grinders, spreaders, potato diggers, hay balers, ensilage cutters, and silo filling devices, hauling and trucking services, dusting and spraying rigs, community canning services, certified seed improvement services; pure bred sire services for livestock improvement, tractors and equipment services including plowing, harrowing, ditching, cultivating, harvesting, health services; veterinary services.

The Farm Security Administration can make loans for community service that is owned and operated by an individual for the benefit of a group; jointly by several members of a group; or by group as a whole (unincorporated association). However loans are made only to rehabilitation clients of this agency and other low income farmers who cannot get credit from other lending agencies, public or private.

Loans for these services are repaid within a period ranging from one to five years, according to the amount of the loan, the type, and life of the service. Longer periods can be arranged if found advisable, at five per cent interest.

White Oaks Notes

Springtime and peach blossoms. We had them but we also lost them.

A big wind taking a stop over here has practically demolished C. D. Mayer's old store. Some of our oldest landmarks are fast disappearing.

The Ladies Aid-ers dedicated their new rooms on White Oaks Ave., Thursday afternoon bestowing the title of "Ladies Aid Club rooms" on the rooms. Mrs. Fulmer our very capable president did the christening act. Business over, each member had to execute a stunt. Some fun! A lunch of salad, rolls and coffee was served by Mesdames. Queen and Roy Ward. The Ladies Aid is a growing and progressive organization, doing much needed good in the Community.

Tentative plans are going forward for Easter Sunrise Service on Rocky Peak.

An April Fool Farce was enacted last Friday—the victims being Mesdames Van Schoyck, Wells and Mr. D. L. Jackson—with Mrs. Fulmer supplying the tragic touches. Three matrons tripping across canyons and hills as fleet-footed as three young does—and D. L. Jackson trying to act like an M D in a hurry, kept the town in hysterics all day. The goat of it all—well, you will just have to ask the principals. There the answer—lies.

Mr. Clyde Collier left Monday morning to take a job with the Tip Top Mining Co., in Tip Top, Arizona.

The regular meeting of the Bridge Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Ward. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allison and Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis of Carrizozo. Surprise visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Walker of Roswell and Mrs. Rob Leslie of Capitan. Delicious coffee and cake were served.

Pioneering Notes

A very charming woman, this Mrs. Annie T. Brown of White Oaks, age 92 and originally from Kentucky. Both mind and body are very active; she reads, and "threads a cambric needle" without the aid of glasses. Her eyes twinkle when she tells you of Judge Hudspeh, Dr. Paden, Mr. Paul Mayer and the late Judge Hewitt.

Mrs. Brown came to W. O. in 1888 with her husband. Together they operated a grocery store, and after Mr. Brown's death ("seems only yesterday," she said) she continued in the same business until a few years ago. She can remember when two shifts of men, 40 or 50 of them, worked the mines, and "W.O. will rise again" she states very firmly. She loves White Oaks and its people.

Chevrolet's Dependability and Durability

A record of a year's performance by a 1936 Chevrolet Sport Sedan over a rough, arduous route connecting 15 Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the Lewiston, Idaho, district has just been released by Hoyt E. Henriques, district chaplain.

The year ran from October 5, 1936, to October 5, 1937, and the car covered 20,001 miles of rough travel, the chaplain reported. Much of the mileage was accumulated over roads that were deep in backwoods mud and others that rose sharply over 3,000-foot hills.

Seven of the camps were in forest areas, some of them as far as 60 miles off a main highway and accessible only by dirt roads under construction. Only three of the 13 hills in the district boasted paved roads.

One camp, only 11 miles from the highway, offered the roughest road in the group. The chaplain reported it took him as long as five hours to make that 11 miles, all of it in low gear, because of the mud during the stormy season. Grades and deep snow blocked the road to another camp so that it took an hour to make five miles on a crushed rock highway.

The chaplain cited one grade, Lewiston Loop, as being typical of paved roads in the district. The grade in this case is 10 miles long, he reported, and includes a five per cent grade for 2,000 feet. Turns and loops in the road make a speed of more than 25 miles an hour impossible.

During the year, the Chevrolet used 1,115.5 gallons of gasoline, or an average of 17.93 miles per gallon. Selected runs showed mileage up to 21 miles per gallon.

So rough were many of the roads he was forced to travel, the chaplain declared, that three of the original tires blew out before he had traveled 15,000 miles. Tire repairs averaged approximately one in 3,000 miles.

"It is impossible to convey the pleasure I have had in these 20,000 miles," the chaplain said, "And no matter what the weather or road condition I have never missed an appointment through any fault of the Chevrolet."

"REFORM" BILL PASSED

Measure Giving President Vast Powers Squeezes Through Senate . . . May Die in House

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, is here seen telling members of the press what his committee had done and proposed to do to the revenue measure so that it would be less objectionable to business and to the country in general. It already had made radical changes in the bill as it was passed by the house.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Wide Powers for President

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S reorganization bill squeezed through the senate by the close vote of 49 to 42, after a fierce fight. A motion to recommit, which would have virtually killed the measure, was defeated by a vote of 48 to 43.

Opponents of this bill are convinced that it paves the way for a dictatorship in the United States. The measure was sent on to the house, which already has passed bills covering some of its features. There is no certainty, however, that the senate measure will ever be brought to a vote in the house.

The bill authorizes the President, by executive order, to transfer, regroup, co-ordinate, consolidate, segregate the whole or any part of, or abolish any of the 135 bureaus, agencies, and divisions of government.

Excepted from this section, however, are the federal reserve board, the corps of engineers of the United States army and the independent, quasi-judicial and regulatory establishments, such as the board of tax appeals, the communications commission, the federal trade commission, the interstate commerce commission, and the national labor relations board.

It abolishes the civil service commission as now constituted, and the general accounting office. It creates a new "department of welfare," and it authorizes six more $10,000 a year assistants to the President.

Ten Men to Probe TVA

FIVE senators and five representatives will do the investigating of the Tennessee Valley authority, for the resolution for a joint committee inquiry was adopted by the senate without a dissenting vote, and appeared certain of passage by the house.

Sen. Bridges, majority leader, calls for investigation of charges of malfeasance and dishonesty made by the ousted chairman, A. E. Morgan, and includes eight of the twenty-three charges originally made by Senators Bridges and King in their first resolution for a congressional inquiry. It also calls for a "fishing expedition" into the activities of private utility companies and their injunction suits against the TVA.

Sen. H. Styles Bridges, the New Hampshire Republican, in a radio debate declared the administration was trying to obscure the charges of scandal within the TVA by forcing the inquiry to cover the private utility angle. "The administration's strategy has been to cover up TVA dirt by a phoney counter-attack," he said.

He was answered vigorously by Sen. Lister B. Hill of Alabama.

Legality of President Roosevelt's action in ousting Chairman Morgan from the TVA board is still a matter that the courts probably will be called on to settle. Mr. Roosevelt "removed" Morgan after receiving from Acting Attorney General Jackson an opinion that he possessed the required authority. He reported the action to congress and said he had named Harcourt Morgan chairman.

Reasons for the removal of A. E. Morgan as given by the President were that he had made grave and libelous charges against his colleagues and refused to substantiate them at the White House hearings.

and that he had obstructed the work of the authority.

Utilities Must Register

IN A 6 to 1 decision, the United States Supreme court upheld the registration provisions of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act of 1935, but did not pass on the constitutionality of other parts of the law, including the death sentence for holding companies.

The court sustained an order of the New York Federal District court requiring the Electric Bond and Share company and 14 associated utility holding companies to register with the Securities and Exchange commission or else be denied the use of the mails and other facilities of interstate commerce.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the court's opinion. Justice McReynolds, who wrote no opinion, was the only dissenter. Justice Cardozo, who is ill, and Justice Reed took no part in the consideration of the case.

Colonel House Dies

DEATH after a long illness ended the notable career of Col. Edward M. House, whose name, during the World War era, was familiar to millions. He passed away in New York at the age of seventy-nine years. Shunning publicity and personal glory, House devoted himself unflinchingly to what he deemed the best interests of his country and for years his influence, especially in international matters, was great.

An early supporter of Woodrow Wilson's political fortune he became Wilson's trusted adviser after his election to the presidency and continued to help direct his course immediately before and during the war, making frequent trips to Europe. He was Wilson's personal representative in the Versailles peace conference. Later he and Wilson disagreed and their close association came to an end.

Franco in Catalonia

GENERAL FRANCO'S insurgent army blazed its way through the loyalist lines and entered the province of Catalonia, moving far toward Barcelona, the third capital of the government forces. In this rapid advance about 100 towns were captured in a single day and many villages were demolished by bombardment by a fleet of 200 war planes said to have been contributed by Italy and Germany.

Italy warned France that "might French intervention in Spain" might compromise peace on the European continent. The organ of the Italian foreign office, Informazione Diplomatica, published the statement, declaring Italy was "following with greatest attention the campaign of French leftists for intervention in Spain."

Silver Buying Halted

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU announced that the United States had discontinued the purchase of Mexican silver until further notice. This probably was a direct result of Mexico's expropriation of foreign oil properties, which Secretary of State Hull considers a hard blow to his "good neighbor" policies. Price of silver was cut 1 cent an ounce.

The United States Treasury has been buying 5,000,000 ounces of newly mined Mexican silver each month, paying around $2,500,000 for it at the artificially maintained New York price, which gave Mexico slabaile profits.

Japan's Regime in China

JAPAN announced officially the inauguration of the "reformed government of the Republic of China" in Nanking. This puppet state is intended to replace the regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and is headed by Liang Hung-Tze as chairman of the new executive yuan, a position equivalent to premier.

The Chinese were still fighting the invaders desperately along the Peking-Hankow railway and claimed the Japanese were suffering heavy losses.

Profits Tax Out

PAT HARRISON meant what he said about altering the revenue bill that was passed by the house. His senate finance committee is making the changes. By a vote of 17 to 4 it eliminated from the measure the undistributed profits tax principle, substituting therefor a flat corporation income tax of 18 per cent.

As a further means of stimulating business and investment the committee adopted a provision drastically modifying the capital gains and losses tax. The committee removed capital gains on assets held for more than 18 months from the income tax category and substituted instead a flat rate of 15 per cent, which was what business and industry wanted.

In an effort to clear the way for speedy enactment of the tax relief legislation, the committee rejected a system of processing taxes on wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice, which the administration desires to finance proposed additional bounties to farmers amounting to $200,000,000 a year.

Jews Must Quit Vienna

THERE are 300,000 Jews in Vienna, and all of them must leave that city within four years. This was announced in the Austrian capital by Field Marshal Goering, Hitler's right-hand man, who set forth a program for the economic reconstruction of Austria. He said: "Vienna must again become a German city. No city with 300,000 Jews has a right to call itself a German city."

Gen. Goering and his cultural tasks, and this is impossible with Jews. Therefore, they must leave."

Goering said he had entrusted the task of removing the Jews to Seyss-Inquart and that it must be accomplished quickly and mercifully by legal means.

There was great rejoicing throughout Germany when Cardinal Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna, issued a solemn declaration urging the people of Austria, most of whom are Catholics, to vote for the union with Germany at the plebiscite on April 10. The document was read in all Catholic churches. It warmly praised the Nazi rulers and pledged allegiance to Germany. This stand of the Catholic hierarchy made certain an overwhelming victory for Hitler in the plebiscite. It also led the Nazi chiefs to hope for a new accord with the Vatican.

Britain Ready to Fight

GREAT BRITAIN will not flinch to pledge herself to fight to save Czechoslovakia from German aggression. But she will use her armaments to fulfill her treaty obligations to France and Belgium, and is ready to go to war in their defense if they are unjustly attacked.

That was the warning to Hitler uttered by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the house of commons, in the most important statement of British foreign policy since the World War.

Declaring his belief that peace will be maintained, Chamberlain said: "I cannot imagine any events in Europe which would change the fundamental basis of British foreign policy, which is the maintenance and preservation of peace. However, that does not mean that nothing would make us fight."

Cheers greeted this declaration. Though he said central Europe was not an area where vital British interests are at stake, he gave plain warning that if German aggression should result in war there, Britain might be forced into it.

He flatly turned down Soviet Russia's call for consultation against aggressor nations.

Wheat Crop Estimates

PREDICTION by the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of Agriculture is that this year's wheat crop will be 830,000,000 bushels, or 160,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1932-33 average. The survey estimates that the wheat carry-over in 1933 will be around 300,000,000 bushels.

The record wheat crop is based on the following factors: If farmers seed the acreage indicated in the prospective-planting report, and if average yields are obtained, this year's spring wheat crop, including durum, will total about 200,000,000 bushels. This, together with the winter crop of about 630,000,000 bushels, indicates a prospective output of 830,000,000 bushels.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—Big beefy, handsome Joseph Buerckel, forty years old, with hard fists and a whip-lash tongue, is Hitler's grand marshal of the Nazi subjugation of Austria. To the surprise of Nazi home talent in Austria, he is given entire charge of the fusion and subordination of the Austrian Nazis by Berlin.

Hard Fists to Nazify Austrians

He was a poor schoolmaster who worked his way up by continuous and diligent Jew-hating. While less earnest and industrious young men were wasting their time, he was working nights, Sundays and holidays on this, his chosen career.

Against stiff competition, it took him years to gain distinction, but at last he came to outrank even the illustrious Julius Streicher in long-distance anti-Semitism.

He was born in the Palatinate, the south German territory adjoining the Saar. He was in the World War, in the closing years, and joined the Hitler movement soon after the Munich beer hall putsch in 1923.

He was a good rough-and-tumble fighter and organizer and was advanced rapidly in the more overt and violent party drives.

When Baron von Papen was removed as Saar commissioner, in 1934, and made ambassador to Vienna, Buerckel replaced him. Under his supervision was the jug-handled plebiscite and his the exultant radio voice which told the world that German justice had triumphed.

The League of Nations handed him the valley, and he became governor in 1935.

A typically forthright ukase was his Christmas decree against shopping in Jewish stores.

"If you try to get out of it," he said, "by pretending that your wife did the shopping, it merely shows that an unreal Nazi spirit prevails in your home, and you are not a he-man, but a fool."

YOUNG Jan G. Masaryk, Czech minister to the Court of St. James, had a fervent belief in the Kellogg and Locarno pacts. He once said, "They are splendid instruments of a world order of peace and stability." Now he calls at the British foreign office, perhaps to hint that something seems to have gone wrong.

He is the son of the late Dr. Thomas Masaryk, first president of Czechoslovakia. His mother was an American, born and reared in Brooklyn, and so is his wife, the former Mrs. Francis Crane Leatherbee, daughter of Charles R. Crane, the widely known manufacturer and industrialist. He has spent much time in America.

At the age of eighteen, he ran away from the University of Prague, in the early years of the war, and worked in a factory at Bridgeport, Conn. He returned home and finished his studies, and was the first Czech minister to the United States in 1919.

He has his famous father's impassioned belief in democracy, and has been its eloquent defender in central Europe, where his country is Horatius at the Bridge.

THE history of this age will be hard to unscramble. Japan can't take a belt at a local power baron without landing on an American stockholder. Dr. Joji Matsumoto warned the government not to get in trouble with American investors by nationalizing its electric power industry.

This would endanger investments of $75,000,000, he contended, mostly held in this country.

He is Japan's leading corporation lawyer and one of its most important financiers, an officer of the Capital Rehabilitation Aid company, which has a quaint sound but which is understandable even in the Occident.

Sixty years old, he is a former professor of law at the Tokyo Imperial university, from which he was graduated. He is a director of the Tokyo Gas company and several other corporations, and was vice president of the South Manchurian railway.

Spain's Romeo and Juliet

The "Lovers of Teruel," Spain's Romeo and Juliet, form one of the most ancient legends of Spain. They were Diego de Marcilla and Isabel de Segura and lived in Teruel during the Thirteenth century under the reign of King James of Aragon. They parted because of family disapproval and languished and died. Their bodies were mummified and they were buried in the chapel of the church of San Pedro.

Sugar a Valuable Addition to Diet

Used With Other Foods It Is Quickly Absorbed

By EDITH M. BARBER

LIKE starch, sugar is valuable in the diet because of its fuel value, which gives us a source of energy. Although they are much alike in composition, starch is bland in flavor, while sugar is sweet. Sugars vary, however, in this respect. Honey, corn syrup and molasses, for instance, are not so intensely sweet as are maple, cane and beet sugars. Certain vegetables and fruits, while unripe, provide starch which as they mature changes to sugar.

Early man took most of his sugar from the wild fruits and from the honey which the bees manufactured for him. In tropical countries, where sugar cane was to be found, the stalks furnished a sort of sweetmeat. It is, however, only a comparatively short time in the history of the world since sugar, as we know it, was manufactured, first from the sugar cane and then from the beet. At first it was indeed a luxury, although, perhaps, no one now living can remember a time when sugar was not one of our cheapest foods.

Although we think of it more as a flavoring than as a food, it provides us with a goodly share of the calories which we need for our daily activities. Used properly in combination with other foods, or as a confection to be taken at the end of a meal, it makes a valuable contribution to the adequate diet. Sugar, however, should not be allowed to replace other foods. As it is, however, so quickly and easily absorbed, there are occasions when nothing in our range of foods can equal it.

Maple Pudding.

4 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon sugar
1 pint scalded milk
1/4 cup maple syrup
1 egg white
1/2 cup nuts

Mix cornstarch with cold water; add to scalded milk. Stir until smooth; add the sugar, milk and syrup. Cook 15 minutes. Remove from stove and add nuts. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Serve with custard sauce or whipped cream.

Confectioner's Frosting.

2 cups confectioner's sugar
3 tablespoons hot milk or cream
1 teaspoon butter, softened
1 teaspoon flavoring

Sift the sugar and add the milk all at one time, then the butter and flavoring and beat until cool. More milk may be added if necessary. One square of chocolate may be melted and added if desired.

Quick Honey Marmalade.

Plunge dried apricots into hot water. Drain and run through food grinder, using fine knife. To each cup of ground apricots add 1 1/2 cups strained honey. Blend well. Store in clean, hot jars at least two weeks.

Fudge.

2 squares chocolate
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups granulated sugar
1/2 cup milk

Cut the chocolate into five or six pieces and put with the cold water into a heavy saucepan. Stir over a low fire until the chocolate is melted. Stir in the sugar and add the milk. Stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved. Boil over a medium flame until the thermometer reads 225 degrees Fahrenheit or until a soft ball will form when a little of the candy is dropped into cold water. Place pan in cold water and cool to 110 degrees Fahrenheit or until lukewarm. Stir until it begins to thicken and lose its shine. Pour into a wet pan. Cool and cut into squares.

Butterscotch Sauce.

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup cream

Put sugar in heavy frying pan and stir with wooden spoon over a low heat until melted. Add cream gradually. Stir until smooth and serve hot over ice cream or cottage pudding.

Sprits Cookies.

1 1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups ground Brazil nuts
1 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour with salt and mix with nuts. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together, until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Add vanilla and then work flour-nut mixture into first mixture. Pack dough in barrel of cookie press and force dough onto greased cookie sheet in various shapes. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) ten minutes. Remove from cookie sheet at once and cool.

Apple Butter.

10 pounds apples
6 quarts cider
4 pounds sugar
2 tablespoons ground allspice
2 tablespoons ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons ground cloves

Wash, slice and weigh apples. Put into a kettle with cider and cook until apples are very tender. Press through a sieve to remove skin and seeds. Add sugar and spices to pulp. Cook until the mixture is as thick as desired, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal.

WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE'S

To Ride the River With

COPYRIGHT WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE—WNU SERVICE.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to his outcast and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his order to shoot rustlers. At sight, Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and solemnly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunplay, Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment.

During the days that followed he held his friendship back from her. At times he was choleric, at times sullen and distant. Ruth was sorry, because she was aware of his desire for a reconciliation. She guessed that her attention to his wants and her apparent humility were a reproach to him. Since she had a sense of humor, she chuckled over the situation.

"I'm a deceitful little scamp," she told her brother Frank, who had heard the story from Dan Brand. "I'm not half so humble as I was at first. Here I go around as if butter wouldn't melt in my mouth whenever Father is about, and really I'm beginning to think it's sort of fun."

"Hmp!" Frank snorted. "I can tell you someone who won't think it's fun if I meet him."

Ruth's bright eyes snapped. "Don't you dare touch Lou Howard, Frank Chiswick. If you do—"

She left her threat in the air, feeling it stronger not completed.

Ruth was riding circle above the rimrock. She had come out with her brothers and the other vaqueros to round up the yearlings for the Broderick order.

She had combed the ridge above and was coming down an arroyo thick with prickly pear. Her brother Bob had been with her, but he had bolted down a neighboring draw after a small bunch of high-tailing stuff. For the time she could take it easy. Blue Chip had done his full share and was entitled to a breathing space.

Ruth pulled up abruptly. In front of her a pebble had rolled down a steep bank to the path. From the little rock her eyes traveled up the incline down which it had come. Stones sometimes start downhill from force of gravity; more often they need an impetus to set them in motion.

Above the top of a bison she saw a Sletson hat, beneath this a brown, sardonic face.

"Buenos dias, senorita," a cool voice drawled.

The girl stared at the owner of that voice, the man who had called himself Jeff Gray.

about." She pushed his argument aside impatiently with a wave of the hand. "All is, you're a liar as well as an assassin. I warn you to get out of this country. I'm going to have you hunted down like the wolf you are."

"Use yore brains, girl," he urged. "Four men were standing within ten feet of yore father. If I had shot him, would I run up and give them all a crack at me?"

"The answer is, you did. Three of them were friends of Sperm Howard. Maybe you expected them to help you." A wave of fury boiled up in her. "I'm not going to discuss anything with the villain hired to murder my father. If you don't get out of here I'll—I'll—"

Still his smile did not go out of commission. "What will you do?" he asked politely.

"Get out of my way," she ordered, and gave Blue Chip a touch of the spur.

The horse went up in the air. Gray caught the bride, perhaps to quiet the animal, perhaps because he could not get out of the way.

Ruth never knew how it happened. The revolver in her hand went off. Instantly she knew the man had been hit. He dropped the rein and staggered back. Blue Chip plunged down the arroyo.

The rider of the horse dragged it to a halt and turned. She had dropped the gun during the wild dash down the draw and she dismounted to recover it. Pulling herself to the saddle again, Ruth rode back to the spot of the encounter. Her heart was beating wildly. She had shot a man. Perhaps she had killed him.

He was climbing the rubble slope to the bank where she had first seen him, and he was making bad going of it. One leg dragged.

She stopped in the bottom of the trough below him.

"It's your own fault for snatching at my bridle," she told him.

He said, with cool effrontery, "You did almost as bad a job as I did at Tail Holt."

"The gun went off."

"My leg is telling me that. Did you come back to finish what you began?"

"I carry it for rattlesnakes. I didn't mean to—"

"Not for wolves?" he inquired pleasantly.

"Are you hurt—badly?"

He saw she was frightened. The bark of the revolver had for the time driven away anger.

"I reckon I'll make out," he answered.

"Is your horse back there in the brush?"

"You can tell yore father it's even steven now," he drawled.

She swung down from Blue Chip and climbed the bank. "I'll help you get up," she told him in a small voice.

"Good of you, Miss Chiswick, to help a hired killer."

He accepted her aid. After a struggle, during which the wounded leg collapsed under him once or twice, they reached the top of the bank.

Gray whistled. Out of the brush trotted a long-barreled roan.

"Where are you going? Who will look after your leg?" Ruth asked.

"I'm wondering about that," he said.

"You can't go back to Tail Holt, unless you are Sperm Howard's man."

"Tail Holt is out."

Ruth thought swiftly. She dared not take him to the ranch-house, especially now that her father was holding himself unfriendly to her. How serious the wound was she did not know, but he could not let him try to ride as far as Tough Nut. He might never reach the town. An idea jumped to her mind.

"There's a line-camp in the rim-rock not far from here," she explained. "Old Pat Sorley is staying there now. He is close-mouthed, and he will do as I ask. And he's a pretty good doctor too. You can hole up there for a week and not be seen by anybody except Pat. After today our riders will be out of the rimrock. I'll take you there. We'd better hurry, so that I can get back before I'm missed."

He pulled himself to the saddle. "You're heaping coals of fire on my red head," Gray said sardonically. "Let's get going, girl."

Ruth went back to Blue Chip, mounted, and put the horse at the easiest part of the slope. The cowboy clayed its way up like a cat, the muscles of its legs standing out like heavy ropes.

"We don't want to meet anybody," the girl said. "Better swing off to the right."

"You're the caporal of this outfit," he told her.

She led the way into the chaparral, guiding Blue Chip through the mesquite and the cholla with an admirable economy of motion.

They crossed the mesa and dropped down into a gulch which took them through the broken rimrock to a point where they looked down on a wide valley below. Ruth turned to the left, picking a way among the boulders and working up again into the rimrock along a cow trail. This dipped sharply, at a fault in the ledge, to a small park containing four or five acres. This was so completely hidden that nobody could have suspected its existence from the contour of the country.

A corral of thorny ocotillo lay at their feet. Close to it was a barn built of sahuro poles and mud. The cabin nestled against a rock wall that bounded the far side of the park.

The girl and the man wound down into the little mountain valley and crossed to the cabin. Someone stood in the doorway and watched their approach.

Pat Sorley was a little old man with a wrinkled face like a map of Ireland. At night of Ruth he twisted it to a grin. They were the best of friends. His hands were in his pockets and there was a clay pipe in his mouth.

Ruth waved at him. He took one hand from a pocket and the pipe from his mouth.

"It's glad I am to see you, Miss Ruth," he said.

"I've brought someone to stay with you, Pat," the girl told him. She turned to the guest, a touch of cool insolence in her voice. "You said your name is—"

"Still Jeff Gray," the man said in his soft, mocking drawl. He understood that Ruth Chiswick was going to make it clear to the line-rider he was no friend.

"Mr. Gray has been hurt," she said. "I want you to patch him up and keep him hidden here until he can travel."

"Hidden who from?" Pat asked.

"From my father and my brothers and any of our riders."

"And what for would I be doing that?" Pat asked bluntly.

"Out of Christian charity," Gray murmured ironically. "I'm supposed to have taken a crack with a six-gun at Lee Chiswick in Tail Holt the other day."

Pat bristled. "You've got a nerve telling me that." He turned to the young woman. "I'll be listenin' to anything you've got to tell me, Miss Ruth."

"He's wounded," she answered. "Let's take care of him and do the explaining afterward, Pat."

"There's sense in that," Pat did not know how much or how little of what this fellow had said was true, but he did not intend to be the victim of his derision. "Better get that brindle thatch down and let's see what's ailing you," he said crustily.

Gray eased himself gingerly out of the saddle. "Got a pill in one leg." He hobbled into the cabin.

"Go ahead and fix him up," Ruth said. "I'll tie the horses back among the rocks."

"What is this fellow?" Pat asked.

"Some kind of outlaw on the dodge?"

Ruth shook her head. "I don't know." She ignored the presence of Gray in her answer as completely as Pat had in his question. "We'll talk about that later."

She turned away with the horses. Ungraciously Pat set to work doctoring the wound. The bullet had passed through the thigh close to the surface and missed the artery.

"Ought to heal up nice," Sorley grunted.

CHAPTER IV

Turning to Ruth, Sorley said, "I don't know where he got this wound or anything about him, be gory, but what I say is, that if he's the bird shot at the old man at Tail Holt I'll see him in Jericho before I'll let him stay here. He can put that in his pipe and smoke it, be-dad."

Ruth nodded. "I know how you feel, Pat, because that's the way I feel myself."

"What's to keep this buckaroo, soon as his leg gets a little better, from going up to the ranch some night and taking another crack at your dad?"

"That's what I'm afraid of," she admitted.

Jeff Gray sat on a homemade chair with his wounded leg resting on another. He volunteered no assurances of good behavior.

"Looky here, Miss Ruth," Pat urged, "we'd ought to tell Lee or one of the boys he is here, especially if you are sure he's the fellow you think he is."

"I know," Ruth's face wore a troubled frown. "Only—I shot him."

Pat dropped his pipe to the floor. It shattered into fifty bits. "The devil you say! Beggin' your pardon, Miss."

"I don't know how it happened. Blue Chip was jumping around, and he got in the way. I didn't mean to do it."

"An innocent bystander hit through an unfortunate accident," Gray suggested.

"What was the fellow doing around here?" Pat asked accusingly.

"I was on my way to the L C," explained Gray. "Wanted to have a little talk with Chiswick."

"Wanted to shoot him, you villain."

"I'm one of these victims of circumstantial evidence," the crook-nosed man drawled. "Someone takes a crack at Chiswick, and I'm unanimously elected as the guy."

"We saw you do it—half a dozen of us," Ruth cried.

"Just what did you see?" the accused man asked.

"After you had shot you ran forward to finish Father, and the other men there fired at you and drove you away. What's the use of denying it?" she cried hotly.

"Not much use, is there?" he said evenly. "If I told my story you wouldn't believe it."

"No, I wouldn't. It would be all lies. But tell it."

"Much obliged, Miss Chiswick. I reckon I'll keep it under my own hat."

"What story could you tell? Father was wounded. We saw the smoke coming from your gun as you ran forward."

"That's correct."

"So you must have been the man."

Rockingham House, Gen. Washington's Headquarters, Has Been Restored

Rockingham, the rambling 10-room Colonial house, where General George Washington received word of the treaty of Paris that concluded Revolutionary war hostilities, has been restored to its original appearance after scores of years in disrepair. Ten thousand dollars in state and federal funds went into the project, notes a Rocky Hill (N. J.) correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Under the sponsorship of the WPA and the Historical Sites Commission of New Jersey, this Eighteenth-century landmark, located a half-mile from Rocky Hill community and four miles from Princeton, has come into its own. The building has been completely renovated while the two-acre plot on which it stands has been landscaped to enhance the natural beauty of the spot.

Sheltering many historic relics and documents, Rockingham is steeped in the history of significant days of the Revolution. It was here in the "blue room" that General Washington wrote his farewell address to the Continental army and it was here that he conducted all of his correspondence with Governor Clinton concerning the evacuation of New York city by British troops.

On the long, double-decked veranda of the structure Washington delivered his farewell address to a handful of troops retained at what was then his headquarters. Rotted flooring has been replaced in the porch and several new pillars have been put in to bolster the sagging framework.

Washington last stayed at Rockingham in the ebbing days of the war, from August 24 until November 10, 1783. On November 2, 1783, he composed his farewell speech in the "blue room," delivered it first from the veranda and later at West Point where the army was finally dismissed.

Basque Dress for Girls.

No wonder girls love a basque dress like this! The fitted waist with its basque point in front gives them such a grown-up feeling. The full skirt, square neckline and puff sleeves are so becoming. Make this dress up for your daughter in taffeta or silk crepe in time for Easter, and later on in printed percale or dimity.

Large Women's Dress.

The diagram shows you how easy this dress is to make, and it fits to perfection. Notice the raglan shoulder line, the waistline snugged in by darts. The roll collar, with the smart little tab in front, is very soft and becoming. Very comfortable to work round the house in, this dress is sufficiently tailored so that you can go shopping in it, too. Make it up in percale, gingham, broadcloth or tub silk.

The Patterns.

1491 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/4 yards of bias fold to finish the neckline and sleeves.

1395 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. For contrasting collar, 1/2 yard, cut bias.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly clearing waste matter from the blood stream. Do kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as waste disposers—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Common causes may be neglect, backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your druggist!

1938 Range Program

The County Agricultural Conservation Association is now in a position to accept applications for the 1938 Range Program of the ACP.

The allowance will be allotted to each ranch, to put into effect the approved practices will be computed at the rate 3c per acre of county, state or private lands leased, and land owned in connection with the ranch unit. (Public Domain or Forest land is not eligible to apply towards the allowance.) In addition 75c per animal unit of carrying capacity of eligible land will be allowed. For example, if an operator has 1000 acres he would be allowed $30.00 (3c x 1000); in addition he might have a carrying capacity of 30 animal units, this would increase his allowance by $22.50 (30 x 75c), giving a total allowance of $52.50 for the ranch.

Following is a very brief summary of the practices which will be applicable in this area. Specifications these practices will have to be obtained from the County Extension Agent's office, or from your County Committee.

All practices and locations must be approved by the County committee.

A-1. Natural Reseeding By Deferred Grazing: May be practiced on 25 per cent of the total pasture land from May 15 to October 15. A payment up to 60 per cent of the total allowance for the ranch may be earned providing that this does not exceed $1.25 per animal units allowed.

A-2. Artificial Reseeding: For reseeding depleted land, a payment of 20c per pound of seed sown, but not in excess of $2.00 per acre.

B-3. [a]. Contour Listing: All soil erosion and water conservation measures shall be for the sole purpose of conserving moisture and the retarding of soil erosion. A payment of 50c per acre is received for this practice. This practice will probably consist chiefly of contour listing, however, furrowing and sub-soiling are also included.

B-3 [b]. Spreader Terraces: For the construction of spreader terraces, a payment of 40c per 100 linear feet will be paid.

C-5. Earthen Tanks or Reservoirs: A payment of 15c per cubic yard for fill or excavation will be made. (Repair of wash-outs not included for pay).

B-4 [a]. In the construction of all spreader dams, a payment of 15c per cubic yard of material moved will be paid.

C-6. Concrete or Rubble Masonry Dams: A payment of $6.00 per cubic yard of concrete or rubble masonry will be made providing that it is not practical to build dirt dams or reservoirs.

C-7. Wells: $2.00 a linear foot will be paid for drilling or digging a well that will have casing of not less than 4 inches in diameter. $1.00 per linear foot will be paid for drilling or digging a well with casing measuring less than 4 inches in diameter.

C-8. Development of Natural Water Places: In the excavation of soil or gravel, a payment of 40c per cubic foot will be made, but in the excavation of rock, a payment of 70c per cubic foot will be made.

C-15. Fire Guards: For the establishment of fire guards, a payment of 5c per 100 linear feet will be made providing that the guard is 10 feet wide and the mineral soil is exposed.

A circular letter, and application blank has been sent to all participants in the 1937 program Operators who did not file applications in 1937 and wish to participate in the 1938 program, should get in touch with their local committeeman, or the County Extension agent. Members of the Lincoln County A. C. P. Range committee are: Wm. W. Gallacher of Carrizozo, L. D. Merchant of Capitan, and H. L. Hancock of Corona.

Capitan Camp For Girls

In Scenic Area, Nestled Among the Eternal Hills

Over a period of three years we have heard the government's Educational Camp for Girls, national youth administration project, discussed from many angles; praised by some, criticized by others, and spoken of indifferently by the majority. Last week when our invitation came from Mrs. Shaw, director, and her corps of teachers we decided to attend the Annual Open House and see for ourselves. Traveling the well known highway through Capitan, and ten miles beyond, we came to the Baca Canyon sign and turned to the left. After leaving the highway we traveled steadily upward for six miles through, overhanging boulders, and trees until we came to a more open road which led to the top of a mountain mesa; here, again we were impressed. The camp has a setting unrivaled for marvelous beauty. Upon the country side lies a deep, enduring peace restful and sweet.

More than 200 registered at the camp Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock.

As the cars drove up girls in uniform pointed out parking space. As visitors entered the gate, guides conducted them to the registration booth. Then other guides conducted each party through the barracks, hospital, library, mess hall, and cottage, where Mrs. Shaw presided graciously, as hostess, and Mrs. Parks and competent assistants served spiced tea, with dainty little cookies, decorated with pine trees, made from green icing.

People in search of something new and different were surely rewarded while viewing the exhibits of colorful embroidery, tin craft and copper ornaments.

In the work-rooms were four large looms for weaving rugs and blankets all of which are made from hand spun yarn and colored with vegetable dyes, which the girls make themselves.

Many sewing machines are used. The state flags of New Mexico are made mostly by hand, of unbleached muslin, dyed yellow.

All the girls seemed happy and buoyant. The Spanish girls were especially striking, in their dark beauty, wearing white blouses gathered full to square yokes which were covered with vivid colcha embroidery, and having very full gathered sleeves trimmed the same way. The last places shown the visitors was the shop, tool room and then the chicken yard, where several hundred little white chickens were basking in sheltered spots, or near the brooder.

The camp accommodates over a hundred girls, all of whom are learning useful arts; and who are becoming accomplished as musicians, singers, typists and artists. Short hand and typing students had some excellent displays. A term is three months in length after which new girls are permitted to enter.

Visitors were shown the Baca Canyon opera house. The climax to the afternoon's pleasure was an operetta given by the girls.

The place grows on you as you linger. It has a charm of life and manner pleasant and hospitable. It has sunshine and climate—nature's greatest gift, man's most precious asset. Above all it has a contented group of students, busy with their studies and household tasks, who otherwise would not be privileged to receive this excellent training.

White Oaks Notes

Spring is so near. A soft hint in a gentle breeze and a special warmth in the sun, tells of her coming.

The Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold Allison co-hostesses with Mrs. Allison were Mrs. Barney Ward and Mrs. Arley Stewart. Stunts were performed after quite a lengthy business session. Mrs. Ed Queen won a prize for the best stunt. Delicious refreshments of fruit, jello, cake and coffee were served.

Our younger Set (girls) attended the regular meeting of the Rainbow Girls last Friday nite.

Mr. Orris Smith spent April 2 and 3rd with his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith.

Mr. Bert Nowak and wife of Dexter, and wife's brother of Detroit spent April 2 and 3rd with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleghorn. While here the two families attended Open House at the CCC camp in Carrizozo and had a lovely time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Lewis of Carrizozo, J. C. Hutchison and father of Magdalena were guests last Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Ward. J. C. will soon leave for California to visit his half brother, Walter Gage.

Young Arthur Mathews went to Roswell to see about enlistment in the CCC while there he will visit Gene and Roy Hunt.

Cleghorn Hall on White Oaks avenue held quite an enjoyable dance last Saturday nite. Nice crowd. Sat Chavez' music was unusually good, being enhanced by the playing of a very talented accordionist.

Young Robert Leslie is driving the Texas Park-Capitan school bus during the illness of Jim Leslie.

Mr. W. W. Smith and Bud Cranshaw while returning home from Carrizozo in Bud's car collided with a truck just this side of the CCC Camp. The two men were bruised quite badly. Mr. Smith having to spend the nite in the hospital. Both are improving rapidly.

Little Bill Fulmer was ill last Thursday and Friday but was able to return to school Monday. Walter spent Saturday nite at home but returned to Socorro Sunday morning.

Audrey Lamb spent the past week-end with Thelma Jean Collier.

Lois Smith is ill at home. She appears to be suffering from hay fever.

Pioneering Notes

Sam Wells age 75 born in Tex., migrated into New Mexico in 1880. Came in a cart drawn by a muley bull and a milk cow. The mother sat in the rear of the cart holding a flint lock gun. They encountered Indians all along the way, ("but we weren't afraid, he said, we had always lived among Indians, when I was little I'd kick rocks at them and they'd kick 'em back at me, my father used to go hunting with Sitting Bull and the Sioux Indians.")

The Wells' family settled in what was then known as W. O. Springs. They "squattered" there until Sam and his father could file cash entries on two homestead claims. "W. O. proper was so dry at that time, Sam stated,

School Notes

Miss Nellie Shaver, the second grade teacher, was married recently to a prominent man of Carrizozo, Mr. E. Williams.

Miss Pierce's father underwent an operation Tuesday morning. Good luck Mr. Pierce.

The Home Ec Class 2 is serving a dinner to the faculty and board members on Thursday, April 14, at six-thirty at the Carrizozo High School.

There is just one more six-weeks in our school term. This has seemed like a very short term of school. It is short because everyone enjoys school.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the freshmen and sophomore girls had a basket ball game in the Community hall.

The Seniors gave their play April 14, to an appreciative audience.

Charles Dow made an excellent Englishman in the Senior Play and a good lover to a gun toting girl in the play.

The track meet was held at Capitan, Wednesday April 13. This was an event in which all the county schools participated.

The Carrizozo Alumni meeting is to be held Friday night at the High School Auditorium at eight o'clock.

The Junior Class gave their assembly program Thursday. It was a very interesting amateur program. Every class was represented.

The sixth and seventh grades are presenting "Aunt Drusilla's Garden," an operetta, Friday evening, April 22 at 8 o'clock. There will be no charge made for this evening of entertainment. Everyone is invited.

Junior Jones has a knot on his forehead, where he received a minor injury while playing.

Miss Chaney has erected a new terrarium for the benefit of her science classes.

Sunrise Service

Sunrise services will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday morning, following which an Easter egg hunt will be enjoyed. Both children and grown-ups may participate. Those attending sunrise service are eligible for the egg hunt.

I can still see Felix Guebara coming with a yoke of oxen for water from the two springs on our land."

In 1880 there were only two stores, one saloon, some shacks, dugouts, and tents in White Oaks. The inhabitants were mostly miners. The north homestead claim was once traded for a six shooter and the man was glad to get the gun.

Sam was once a great cattleman, but in his later years he has turned to prospecting. He has a great yearning to put in writing the things he has known and seen.

Wins Golf Tourney

Ralph Petty and Ted Purcey attended the Southwestern Golf Tournament which was held in Tucson last week. Ralph won the championship and was awarded a magnificent silver cup which is on display in the window at his father's grocery store.

ANCHO NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pruett and sons of Duran were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hightower.

Mrs. Carl Craig and little daughter, Ruth Jean, came home last Saturday from the Rathmann hospital in Carrizozo.

Mr. Geo. Roberts is building a nice store and filling station on the East side of the S. P. Co. property, which will be open to the public in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dale and son Elmo went to Alamogordo Monday and returned the same day with a load of lumber for the Geo. Robert's store.

Miss Doris Furgason is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Craig for a few days.

Mrs. Jim Cooper returned from Albuquerque last Saturday where she has been under medical treatment, and is greatly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hall were Carrizozo visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frame were in Carrizozo Monday on business, and visiting friends.

Mr. Harry Straley was in from his ranch Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson were in El Paso last Friday and Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Hally Hall were in town Wednesday, shopping and visiting friends.

BINGHAM BREVITIES

Mrs. Graham and Miss Hunter spent Monday night in Magdalena.

S. S. Pearson has begun drilling again on their water well.

The Presbyterian preacher of Claunch delivered a good sermon Sunday. A large crowd was out to hear him. He preaches each second Sunday at 2:30 at the Bingham school house.

N. M. Highway 54 Association

Delegates Met at Tularosa April 7th

Delegates from several Chambers of Commerce along Highway 54 met at Tularosa on April 7th to talk over and arrange some program in an effort to get 54 surfaced from Santa Rosa to Tularosa. Alamogordo, Corona and Carrizozo with the Tularosa Chamber of Commerce formed the New Mexico Highway 54 Association and elected the following officers. Dr. R. E. Blaney, President; J. M. Carpenter, Secretary; Mr. Yelton of Alamogordo, Vernon Clayton of Tularosa and Ben Roberts of Corona, members of the executive committee.

If all those who will be benefited by the surfacing of 54 will write the governor or the State Highway Department it would help to secure this much needed improvement.

It was voted at the meeting to extend to the Governor and the State Highway Department a vote of thanks for highly appreciated work of recent date done on Highway 54.

At a meeting of Highway 54 Association held in Texhoma Monday, it was resolved to contact the Federal Highway department to show the benefits to be derived by building 54 as a Military Highway connecting Ft. Bliss near the border to Fort Wiley, Kansas.

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses WATER--the Elixir of Life

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

OF ALL the elements required to support life and maintain health and efficiency, water takes precedence. Without it, the protein, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins, which build and repair tissues, provide motive power for the body engine, and regulate the complex processes necessary to existence would be utterly useless.

Water is the magic stream through which all nutritive elements are carried into and through the body and there held in suspension. It is the ever-ready messenger which distributes heat, moisture and body-building material, where and as it is needed.

Man Is a Sponge

Our bodies are like water-logged sponges, for we carry water to the limit of our capacity. A human being is more than two-thirds water, and this proportion must be maintained. If health and strength are to be preserved.

There is enough water in a person weighing 150 pounds to fill a 15-gallon barrel. Muscles, liver and kidneys are about 80 per cent water, the brain 85 per cent. Even bone is made up of more than one-third water, so you can see that the old adage "dry as a bone" is not strictly accurate.

No cell can function unless it is constantly bathed in fluid. Furthermore, the cells depend upon water to transport their foods through the blood. This alone requires ten pounds of water in constant circulation.

We may term these functions an incoming service. But it is equally important as an outgoing stream. The cells need water to flush away their waste products. And if the surface of the lungs is not kept moist, there can be no intake of oxygen, no output of carbon dioxide.

Without water, no waste would be carried out of the body. Poisonous substances would remain to wreck the system within a short time. Water flushes the countless channels of physical existence—even while we sleep, for it constantly passes from the body through the lungs and skin, as well as through the bowels and kidneys.

Water Starvation

Where do we get all this water? When we are thirsty, we take a drink and there the interest of most people ends.

Few individuals give proper consideration to supplying the body with all the water it needs. Yet, when the water content of the body diminishes, health and life are in danger! A loss of 10 per cent of body water is a serious matter and a loss of 20 per cent is usually fatal.

It is only in rare instances—such as when lost in a desert—that man actually dies of thirst, for even when no fluids are drunk, water is consumed with food. But all about us we see men and women suffering from the effects of water starvation. Some indications of this are dryness of the skin and lips, mucous membranes and scalp. There is also danger of damaging the kidneys which require water to flush away the acid products of metabolism. And very often constipation can be traced to a deficiency of water, which is necessary to soften the contents of the intestinal canal.

None of these ill effects may be feared if you take enough water.

How Much Is Enough?

A healthy, normal individual requires about four quarts of water every 24 hours. That requirement varies somewhat with the season. In hot weather there is a greater elimination of water through perspiration and that loss must be replaced.

However, it is not necessary to drink four quarts of water a day. For part of our needs are supplied by food. The body draws upon three sources for its water: First, water taken as a drink or in other liquids; second, water supplied by foods, especially fruits and vegetables, for although solid foods appear dry, most of them are in fact from 75 to 95 per cent water; third, water formed in the tissues in the combustion of fuel foods. Fat gives the most water when burned. In fact, it produces more water than the weight of the original fat. Sugar gives the least.

Foods Rich in Water

A half-pound potato contains nearly a full glass of water. Some other foods that are more than 70 per cent water are asparagus, berries, string beans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumber, eggs, citrus fruits, cherries, grapes, melons, apples, raw and cooked greens, milk, onions, cooked green peas, boiled potatoes, sauerkraut, shell fish, meat stews, tomatoes and squash.

Foods containing less than 50 per cent water include butter, cakes, candies, ready-to-eat cereals, crackers, dried fruits, nuts, potato chips, sausage, bacon, syrups and Zwieback.

Avoid the Dry Habit

In addition to the water consumed with food, every normal individual should drink about six glasses of liquid daily—as water, milk, coffee, tea or other beverages.

Most people drink far too little water. Women often have the mistaken notion that water will make them fat. To demonstrate the fallacy of this idea, a world-famous physician once remarked that if that were true, poor people would long ago have adopted the practice.

It is possible to drink too much water and those who are suffering from disease should be guided by their physician in determining the amount required. But most normal people could increase both mental and physical efficiency by taking more of this magic fluid.

Drink Water with Meals

The question is often asked—"Is it wise to drink water with meals?" The answer is "Yes."

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has placed at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for postcard inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address C. Houston Goudiss at 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

There is evidence that the drinking of a reasonable amount of water with meals by normal individuals stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, thereby improving digestion. It has also been demonstrated that it aids in the absorption of food by the body and retards the growth of intestinal bacteria.

The homemaker should be just as conscientious in providing her family with sufficient water as with adequate amounts of the other food substances. For water must be included in the list of essential food constituents. It is in truth, the ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Questions Answered

Mrs. S. T. R.—Answering your question as to what is the most efficient time to begin reducing—the proper time is when the weight first begins to climb above normal. Most people wait until they are 20 or 30 pounds overweight and then reducing becomes more difficult.

Miss T. P. G.—Yes, there is a stimulant in cocoa that closely resembles caffeine in coffee. But a cup of cocoa contains less of the stimulant than is found in a cup of tea or coffee.

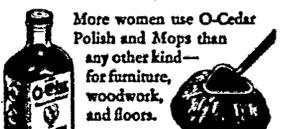

Mrs. A. R. M.—No, milk is not fattening. Women especially fear that milk will increase their weight, but this fear is not justified, since a pint of milk, or two large glasses, only supplies 340 calories.

Why... an Oil Polish?

And here, home-makers, is why: The oil element in polish is absolutely essential to all fine wood! For the same reason that we oil machinery—water our plants—massage cream into the face—is oil polish used! The same principle applies—for wood definitely requires this attention to keep it "alive!" The best oil polish has a fine, non-greasy oil base—and it is just this—when rubbed or massaged into the furniture—that prevents the wood from checking, drying out, splitting or cracking. Furniture will not do any of these things, when cared for—and it is the combination of the "oil" and the "rubbing" that prevents it! For the quality oil-polish "feeds" the hungry finish—keeps the wood young! Other polishes may give a quick, easy-to-achieve luster—but a little time and energy (it should not be labor) on the part of the housewife, will pay dividends in the looks and long life of her furniture and woodwork. All experts agree that an oil polish properly used (apply on damp cloth—as directed) is not only better—it is vital! And so, home-makers, take this important tip: Always use an oil polish—and the best one!

Franklin Book Reveals Keen Colonial Mind

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was born in Boston in 1706, of immigrant parents. His father was a candle and soap maker, and Benjamin was one of 17 children. With only two years of schooling, he set out on a career later chronicled in his "Autobiography."

First he worked as a printer, finally owning his own shop. At one time in his youth he was sent to London by a merchant to buy a new printing press, but things went wrong and he was stranded in a foreign country. Months of manual labor were necessary before he was financially able to buy passage home.

Elizabeth James

At forty-two he sold his shop for 18,000 pounds, and lived the rest of his life on the income from this sum. Statesmanship became his chief interest in life. His influence in the American cause during colonial and revolutionary strife was extensive, necessitating personal correspondence with men of the 13 states and with Englishmen.

If there is a secret for the great success of Franklin it might be ascribed to the one word: attitude.

In the first place, he enjoyed life; but not in a dilatory manner. He appreciated and valued life and took advantage of every new situation that came to him. Yet he did not strain after new opportunities.

Franklin believed in himself and in the application of the ideas that came to him. For that reason the list of his accomplishments is a long one. Time to him was not money, but time and money were both elements for the enjoyment of life; so he was thrifty with both.

Was Self-Educated.

His education was without the help of teachers and schools. To learn to write well he read the "Spectator" papers and tried to imitate Addison's style. He and Collins, his friend, wrote letters on current topics and criticized each other. In order to learn to speak

FRANKLIN—THE DIPLOMAT

The life of Benjamin Franklin spans both the Colonial and Revolutionary periods. His writings were done in the former, for foreign affairs occupied the latter time. He was colonial agent to France and to England, carrying the weight of foreign relations for the fighting colonies.

Yet along with a busy political life, Franklin wrote Poor Richard's Almanac and his own biography, and established the Pennsylvania Gazette, which has come down with a continuous history and lives today as the Saturday Evening Post. Thus Franklin was the first great man of letters, in addition to being first in many other enterprises.

to a group of people and to think on his feet, he organized the Junto, a club of young men who had the same desire. This club was the laboratory for self expression.

Many incidents are included in his autobiography that reveal a keen analysis of people. One story relates how he won the friendship of an enemy. He wanted to overcome the man's dislike, so he wrote a note and requested the man to lend him a special book, much discussed at the time. The book came at once, and Franklin read it and in a week returned it with an expression of appreciation. "He was applying the fact that a person who does you a favor likes you, for you have made him feel that he is kind."

"I Believe" Habit.

Franklin needed tactfulness very badly, for he was positive by nature. He observed that university men had enemies as a result of their attitude of "I know," so he cultivated the "I believe" habit, and always asked the opinion of his conversationalist. He applied this formula to the business of getting subscriptions for the first public library in this country, that of Philadelphia, and instead of saying, "I have an idea that I think will benefit the city," he said, "Some men, book lovers of the city, have decided that this plan is a good one," and there was no personal antagonism toward the idea or toward himself.

Public Spirited Citizen.

The contributions to progress made by Franklin are too many to name; but he is given credit for establishing the first fire department, the first public library, the University of Pennsylvania, and the Saturday Evening Post; he wrote "Poor Richard's Almanac," invented many useful household utilities, and experimented with electricity.

Of all the great statesmen of the American Revolutionary period, Franklin is the only one who signed all four of these documents: the Declaration of Independence, the treaty of alliance with France, the treaty of peace with England, and the Constitution.

Cereals Important Source of Energy

Supplying Protein Minerals and Vitamins

By EDITH M. BARBER

THROUGHOUT the history of the world no type of food has been more important than the cereals which are sometimes known as starchy foods, although they furnish at the same time some protein and in their whole form, certain minerals and vitamins.

Within the last few years it has become the custom to speak scornfully of starchy foods. For some reason they have been considered weight producers. Actually, the calorie value is not more than that of protein and only half that of fat. All of us need cereals as a source of energy. The more active we are, the more energy we use. While it is true that if we eat an excess of any food, weight will increase, there is no reason for us to blame these important contributors to our well being.

Children, who are so active, find in cereals an easily digested source of fuel. At the same time, the cost is comparatively low. The well rounded diet, both for economic and for nutritional reasons, needs cereal in the form of breads and breakfast foods. The variety of the latter is now so large that there is a wide range of choice. Cereals with plenty of milk are an excellent combination from the nutritional angle.

Bran Muffins.

2 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup bran
1 cup sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar together, add the egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and baking powder. To the creamed mixture add the bran, then the milk, alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for twenty minutes. If sweet milk is used instead of sour milk omit the one-half teaspoon of soda and use three teaspoons baking powder. Raisins or dates may be added to the muffins if desired.

Oatmeal Cookies.

1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup thin cream
1 cup milk
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup oatmeal
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Add sugar, cream and milk to egg. Stir in oatmeal and flour, mixed and sifted with baking powder and salt. Chill, roll and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, until brown.

OTHER GOOD ONES

Crepes.

3 eggs
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until light. Add the liquid, flour and salt and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease a frying pan liberally with butter. Bake one pancake at a time, using enough batter to spread within one inch of the side of the pan. Cook over a low fire until light brown, turn and bake half a minute on the other side.

Oyster Bisque.

1 pint oysters
4 cups milk
1 slice onion
2 stalks celery
Sprig of parsley
Bit of bay leaf
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
Salt, pepper

Drain oysters and chop. Heat slowly to the boiling point and press through a coarse sieve. Scald milk with onion, celery, parsley and bay leaf. Melt butter, stir in flour and strain milk into butter-flour mixture. Stir over a low fire or over hot water until mixture thickens. Add the strained oysters and season with salt and pepper to taste. If a thinner soup is desired, more milk may be added. Serve with fried croutons or toast sticks.

Butterscotch Pie.

3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt

Pastry

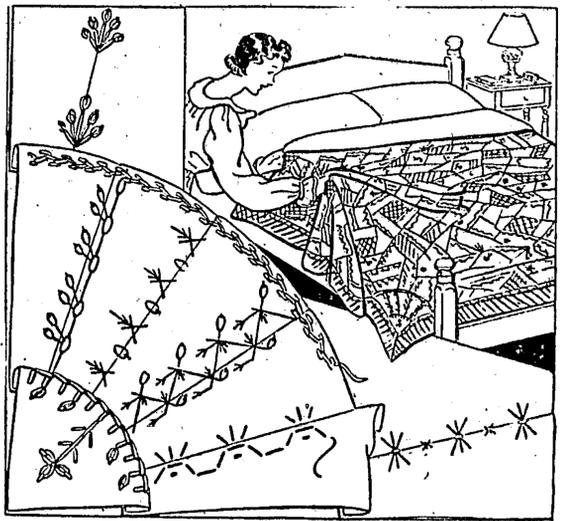

Mix the eggs, sugar, corn syrup, and salt together. Pour into a pie pan which has been lined with the pastry. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, Fahrenheit, ten minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees Fahrenheit and bake until the filling is firm, about fifty minutes.

Dumplings.

1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon fat drippings
1/4 to 1/2 cup milk

Sift the dry ingredients, cut in fat, and add enough milk to give a smooth dough. Drop by spoonfuls over the top of the stew. Cover the dish and allow the dumplings to steam about twelve to fifteen minutes.

HOW to SEW By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Silk Patchwork for the Guest Room

A LETTER comes from a reader enclosing rough sketches of stitches from a silk patchwork quilt. She writes, "I inherited this quilt from a great aunt and it is the final touch of luxury in my guest room. It never occurred to me that I could make one like it until I saw your article about patchwork stitches in the paper. I am following your advice about using an old wool blanket as a foundation—only I am using the best parts of several worn blankets. I plan to join the blanket sections with whipped seams and then arrange my final patches along the joinings."

Depend upon a modern homemaker to figure out efficiency methods! And here are the stitches she sends. The many-hued silk, satin, and velvet pieces are first pinned or basted to the foundation with lapped edges turned as shown here. If you would like to know how to make more of the fascinating stitches used to sew the pieces in place, you will find them in the new book offered below. Be among the first of your friends to make one of these gay quilts. It is the smart thing to use one anywhere that you would use an afghan. Collecting and arranging the luxurious bits of silk and inventing new embroidery stitch combinations is just about the most exciting of all the new revivals of Victorian home arts.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book on SEWING—Gifts and Embroidery—is now ready. Ninety embroidery stitches are illustrated; also table settings, crochet, embroidery designing; fabric repairing; novelty gifts and dress accessories. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions. Available to readers who will send name and address and enclose 25 cents (coin preferred). Just address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

HOUSE VS. PRESIDENT

Administration Makes Great Concessions to Save "Dictator" Bill . . . Senate Gets Tax Measure Built to Aid Business

Members of the house of representatives were swamped with telegrams from citizens all over the country urging that they vote against the administration's reorganization bill which, it was feared, would pave the way to an American dictatorship. Above is seen Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, a leading foe of the bill, reading some of the messages he received.

Western Newspaper Union

Tumult Over Reform Bill

WHEN President Roosevelt returned from Warm Springs he found that a crisis confronted the administration. Forces concerning the reorganization bill pending in the house and that there was danger that the opposition to that measure would defeat it. He called to the White House a number of leaders, and it was decided to push the bill through with a minimum of concessions. Representative Sam Rayburn, majority leader of the house, told the President it would pass with amendments to which he had agreed. One of these would enable congress by concurrent resolution to override any reorganization proposition the President might put through. Another would exempt the bureau of education from the scope of the bill.

Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, one of the leading opponents of the measure, admitted it probably would get by with the concessions offered, but said he would vote against it even if the title alone remained. He and practically all other members of the house were flooded with telegrams and letters urging that the bill be defeated.

Even after passage by the house, the measure would have to go to conference and many days or weeks of debate could be expected there. Eventual enactment of the bill was to be expected but the probability was that it would then have lost most of the "dictatorship" features which seem so repugnant to many thousands of American citizens. The popular opposition had not been lessened at all by the President's action in making public a letter to an unnamed friend in which he disclaimed any intention to become a dictator and asserted he has none of the qualifications that would make him successful in that role.

"Help Business" Measure

WHAT Sen. Pat Harrison called the "help business" measure, being the revenue bill as rewritten by his senate finance committee, was submitted to the senate. Though Harrison said he expected its speedy passage, others believed at least a full week of debate would be necessary.

Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon, minority leader, promised to support the bill, saying, "I think it is a great improvement over the house version. I am in favor of speeding its passage to help business."

The three chief matters in controversy were: Administration opposition to elimination of the undistributed profits tax and drastic modification of the capital gains and losses tax. A proposal by Sen. James P. Pope of Idaho to attach as a "rider" to the tax bill an amendment to impose $212,000,000 of processing taxes on manufactured cotton, synthetic fabrics, rice, tobacco and wheat. Amendments by Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin to broaden the tax base.

Sloan Hits Government

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., chairman of the Board of General Motors, reported to the stockholders that the corporation's earnings for 1937 were lower. And he declared that the government's policy toward business had caused a lack of confidence which was largely responsible for the business recession.

Sloan asserted a sharp decline in consumer sales began in November, and in commenting on the slump as it appeared "through the eyes of industry," he named two factors. "One influence," he told the stockholders, "was the fact that there had been developing a growing lack of confidence and a fear as to the future of American business enterprise, due to the attitude of government toward business, and economic policies affecting business."

The other influence discussed by Sloan as responsible for "throwing the domestic economy into the violent and unprecedented decline" was what he described as a "radical" increase in pay rolls for industry as a whole in the early part of 1937. In some important industries, he said, this increase was extended to an "uneconomic degree."

At his own request Mr. Sloan has been eliminated from further participation in the profits under the corporation's bonus plan.

Binocular Dreadnaughts

UNITED STATES and Great Britain advised each other that they would invoke the escalator clause of the London naval treaty and would build dreadnaughts larger than 35,000 tons.

The British also notified Germany and Soviet Russia of their decision. Both nations based their action on Japan's refusal to disclose her naval construction plans.

France, third signatory to the treaty, announced she would continue to adhere to the 35,000-ton limitation "so long as no continental power departs from that standard."

Secret hearings on the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion bill were begun by the senate naval affairs committee, with Secretary of State Hull and Admiral Leahy, chief of naval operations, as the first scheduled witnesses. Chairman Walsh said open hearings would be held later.

Opponents of the administration's "big navy" program are rather numerous in congress, though probably in the minority. One of the most consistent of them is Senator Clark of Missouri. Commenting on the invoking of the escalator clause concerning battleships, he said: "It is just the preliminary announcement of a world-wide naval building race."

The maneuvers of the United States fleet were transferred from Alaska to the equator for the second phase. In the "battle" for possession of the Hawaiian Islands the fleet lost eleven flyers and three $100,000 bombing planes.

Loyalist Spain Split

SPANISH insurgents are, at this writing, near the accomplishment of Franco's great objective, the splitting of the territory held by the loyalists in the eastern part of the country. They captured the ancient city of Lerida, known as the key to Catalonia.

Further south the rebels were almost to Tortosa and their vanguard was actually within sight of the Mediterranean sea.

All along the Catalonian front the government troops fought desperately, but it seemed their struggle was hopeless and observers believed the war was nearing its end.

Green Strikes at C.I.O.

PRESIDENT GREEN ordered all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor to withdraw from Labor's Non-Partisan League, which he said was overrun by communists, and to shun any ticket put forward in the name of an independent political labor party.

In a letter to officers of all A. F. of L. national and international unions, state and city federations and central labor unions, Green called for strict adherence in forthcoming primary and congressional elections to the federation's traditional non-partisan political policy. He particularly warned the A. F. of L.'s 3,500,000 members to be on guard against candidates nominated by Labor's Non-Partisan League, which he called a "ventriloquist's dummy for the Committee for Industrial Organization leaders."

Adjournment Prospects

CONGRESS wants to adjourn by the first of May, but leaders foresee three possible obstacles to this plan—the wage-hour bill, the Hungarian debt settlement proposal and railroad legislation.

Democratic Leader Barkley said he hoped the senate could dispose of the tax revision bill, the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion program, and the proposed $1,000,000,000 relief measure in April. This would clear the senate calendar, he said, unless consideration of Hungary's debt program should result in a lengthy senate debate on the entire war debt question.

Representative Rayburn, house floor leader, said he thought that chamber could complete its present program by May 1. But other members said that if efforts to revive the wage-hour bill are successful, the picture may change.

Could Cut Phone Rates

REPORTING on his investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Paul A. Walker of the federal communications commission said telephone rates in the United States could be reduced 25 per cent without reducing the net earnings of the Bell system. His report was forwarded to congress by the FCC, which later will make recommendations.

Walker charged that unnecessary high costs of telephone service have resulted from depreciation policies of the Bell system and other practices involving the cost of manufacturing telephone apparatus and equipment, standardization policies, license contract payments, and segregation of plant revenues and expenses.

The report drew a sharp rebuff from Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Gifford described the investigation of the big telephone system as "one sided from start to finish," and added: "If the summary of it correctly reflects the report, it presents much that is simply not true and has been prepared with the same unfairness that characterized the investigation proceedings."

Italy Ready for War

BENITO MUSSOLINI put a chip on his shoulder and dared anyone to knock it off. In a speech broadcast to the world, Il Duce said "Italy's land, sea and air forces are tuned for rapid and implacable war." He warned Europe, and especially France, of his readiness and willingness to fight, and said he subscribed to the theory that "the best defense is offense."

He called the Italian submarine fleet the largest in the world, said the nation's air fleet was one of the best in existence, and asserted that, if necessary, he can put an army of 9,000,000 men in the field.

"I will be in supreme command," Mussolini cried, thrusting out his chest.

"Military problems are fundamental ones," continued Mussolini. "I dedicate the greatest part of my day to them. Anyone who dares to attack the rights and interests of our fatherland will find in the land, sea and air the immediate, resolute and proudest answer from the Italian people's arms."

France was warned also by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels in a sensational speech in Vienna. Proclaiming the might of the new Germany, Goebbels shouted: "Germany is now strong enough to resist any attack from France. There can no longer be any question of a promise from Paris to Berlin. Paris is no longer the heart of European politics. The heart is now Berlin."

Oil Seizures Protested

RELATIONS between the United States and Mexico took a serious turn when Ambassador Daniels delivered to Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay a sharp protest against the action of President Cardenas in expropriating foreign properties. He asked just how Mexico proposed to pay for the properties seized. Cardenas thereupon called his congress in special session to consider an internal loan to provide for the indemnity payments.

American withdrawal of support from the silver market, Cardenas' chief source of revenue, threatened to close many silver mines.

Spring Brides in Lace, Moire or Satin

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PELHAM is no title as the challenge greater to brides-to-be to look their most entrancing than the joyous, rapturous spring of the year when all nature seems to conspire to stage a most glamorous setting for the wedding scene.

Yes, indeed, the picture must needs be one of super enchantment and romance that tunes to skies sunny and blue, to birds trilling exultant notes in welcome to spring, to blossoms and verdure bursting into a very ecstasy of color reaching as far as eye can see. When you read the story or glimpse the new fashions as pictured here, you know that all things beautiful have been taken into account in creating wedding array for those who would make their nuptial vows in spring-time this year of 1938.

Lace ranks high in the list of fashion "firsts" for spring brides. In fact many wedding parties will use lace throughout for bride, maid of honor, bridesmaids and little flower girl. One of the allures of lace is that it presents charming color possibilities, for the newer laces come in beguiling pastels for the attendants, with silver-threaded lace for the bride or embroidered lace, if you will; likewise fine Alecons, or Chantilly, priceless rose point or rich Spanish lace.

Can you imagine anything more "darling" than a wedding gown that is fashioned row after row of narrow Val lace just as you see pictured in the foreground of the illustration herewith? The little puff sleeves and youthful square neckline are outlined with baby ribbon run through a narrow lace beading and even the quaint mitts are of lace.

Speaking of vogue for lace, a most gorgeous Spanish lace headdress and veil are being shown this season for the bride who would dress in period fashion. The picturesque montage of lace is draped to towering height on the head (just as you see in quaint wedding pictures of old Spain) from whence it sweeps out in voluptuous flowing lines in a grandiose train.

Turning from lace to fabric, there's much news to impart. First we would speak of the tendency this spring to use sheers such as mousseline de soie, tulle, marquisettes, dainty nets and also shadow-print swiss organdie (inexpensive but lovely) for the bride's gown. Contracting these diaphanous weaves is a very new silk moire-brocade that bespeaks the stately and elegant. The handsome gown the lady in the center background of the illustration is wearing is a beautiful dress made of this high-style moire. Of course this stately silk must be styled with utmost simplicity the better to emphasize the magnificence of the material. Taffeta silk, white for the bride and colors for the bridesmaids, is also a favorite this spring.

A gown of the patrician moire just described demands that utmost simplicity prevail in way of headdress and veil. Note the monk's cap and veil as worn by the moire-clad bride pictured. It is styled exquisitely but very simply, the close fitting tulle being finely all-over-shirred with yards and yards of the tulle billowing over shoulders and as long as one cares for the veil to be.

As to the ever becoming tiara, you may be wanting to know if it still is in fashion. For answer see the charming bride to the right. The tiara made of lattice-worked satin is modish, as is also the tiara built high with orange blossoms. This bride clings to the wedding tradition of exquisite white satin for the nuptial gown.

YOUR NEW BLOUSE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Your new spring blouse will be different, in that it will give the softly bloused silhouette so important this season. Owing to the emphasis placed on suits this spring you are supposed to start out not with just a single blouse or two but a collection of 'em, and the models here shown convey an idea of the newest trends in blouses that are made of gay silks, as so many of them are this season. The soft bloused effect is maintained in the model shown at the top, the gathered neckline being a special feature. The balloon blouse of circus stripe triple silk sheer pictured below has shirred sleeve tops and brilliant buttons. It is worn with a bakou sombrero with wood beaded

LAPEL GADGETS IN PLASTIC MATERIALS

The latest thing in lapel gadgets for spring suits are "good luck" insects—grasshoppers, locusts, flies and beetles—designed in plastic material, in dull white or bright colors, by Vera Borea, according to a report from the Paris office of the Du Pont Style News service. Plastic material in dull white, vivid green and gold makes the scattered arabesque motifs which trim a crepe dress by the same designer. Complementing a white evening gown is a bolero embroidered with scattered motifs in transparent, iridescent cellulose film, matched by a belt of woven cellulose film.

Man's Felt Hat Worn With Chic Tailored Ensemble

Tweed woven in the turquoise blue and strawberry red shades forms a severely tailored new ensemble worn with a man's soft felt turquoise hat trimmed with a band of red grosgrain ribbon. Very practical is the idea of buying a tailored suit of this tweed and another suit of solid color and making up a number of ensembles with the two jackets and skirts.

Quite a few of the suits seen are collarless and trimmed with three rows of buttons all the way down the front. Also unusually attractive are the tailored vestees in contrasting colors.

Light Toned Silk is Used in Coats by Paris Experts

Maggy-Rouff shows for spring light-colored silk coats, bright-colored redingotes and jersey coats gathered and fastened with belts.

Her leading design is one of straight line, collarless, and slightly shaped at the waistline. One coat on the draped, gathered type is made full-cut in black wool with detail at the waistline. It has a green belt.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — Leslie Hore-Belisha, British secretary of war, made himself somewhat of a national hero several months ago when he shook up the army command, upped the youngsters and sent the oldsters back to their club chairs. The report of his ultimatum demanding a change of foreign policy is a stand-out in the current news.

There was something like consternation among British conservatives early in 1937, when Prime Minister Chamberlain named the incidentally Jewish Mr. Hore-Belisha for the war post. There was no hint of anti-Semitism in their attitude, but just then certain optimists among them were trying to tool Britain into the German orbit, and there were alarmed predictions that Hitler would be enraged and seek quick vengeance.

That didn't come off, and the new war secretary started a whirlwind army clean-up and all-around reconditioning campaign, to the satisfaction of all hands. Seventy-nine-year-old Sir Ian Hamilton, who had been in command at the Dardanelles, said, "Thank God we are under a proper soldier and will not be shot sitting down."

He has spent a lot of time badgering his elders, and still has many of them to work on, as he is only forty-three. When, a brash young Oxonian, he ran for parliament, his opponent tagged him as "the nonentity of the college bench." He nailed this on his mast-head, spoofed the opposition cleverly, and romped in.

He was a dispatch carrier in the war, then a major, a reporter on a London newspaper, with convenient underground pipelines to the front page and the headlines.

He became financial secretary of the treasury in 1932 and later minister of transportation. He is a demon for detail and has swarmed all over England, inspecting equipment, barracks and army kitchens.

He is of medium stature, round-headed, with roached, graying hair, unmarried and given to night forays, checking this or that detail of the military establishment.

AT LEAST six times in the past 150 years, the Rothschilds have been counted out, and they have always come back—like John Barleycorn and Old King Cotton. Now the arrest of Baron Louis von Rothschild is reported from Vienna. The era which founded their dynasty was disquietingly like this one. The Romanoffs, and the Hapsburgs, Maternich and Disraeli and all the other kings, conquerors and statesmen came to terms with them.

Baron Louis is the head of the house. The catastrophic fall of the Creditanstalt bank of Vienna in 1931 was supposed to have wrecked them.

A few weeks later, they were shoveling money into American securities, and, it was reported, snagging a stray million here and there by a fast overseas play on francs, an old family custom.

Louis and his brother, Alphonse, were living in regal splendor when the Creditanstalt failed. They had great estates and magnificent art galleries, shooting lodges, a huge Franz Lehar chorus of retainers, deer parks and a brace of medieval castles. Much of these holdings slipped away, as Louis, with somewhat less than the usual family zest and acumen in financial affairs, turned to a study of philosophy and the arts.

It is 132 years since Napoleon, after Austerlitz, made mince-meat of the Holy Roman empire and even more ruthlessly dismembered Austria. Nathan, James and Solomon von Rothschild, sons of Mayer Anselm, founder of the line, not only saved their holdings, but extended their dominions to the remotest corner of Europe.

These vast ramifications of their fortune, one of the largest in the history of the world, were in land, steel, coal, manufactures and munitions, and, in later decades, in oil and hydroelectric power.

Libraries have been written about them, one notable record being Zola's "L'Argent." Their continental money matrix has been a stabilizer at times. It is possible that the Vienna jail door clangs the end of a dynasty and an epoch—but not quite certain. History will tell.

To Ride the River With

COPYRIGHT WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE—WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the dog, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her bride, Ruth accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Pat Sorley's camp.

"Must I?" He grinned at her with cheerful effrontery. "Of course you must." Ruth almost stamped her foot in exasperation. "If you didn't do it, who did?" "I wouldn't know." She took that up triumphantly. "Neither you nor anybody else." "But I could guess." "Who, then?" she demanded. "If I ever mention it, probably it will be to the gent himself," he said softly. "I thought so."

Gray turned to the line-rider. "Two shots were fired before Mr. Chiswick's friends took a hand. I fired the second. Point is, who cut loose with the first?"

"If you weren't in it, why did you shoot at all?" Ruth asked.

"I've asked myself that two-three times since," he replied suavely. "Plumb dumb of me. For 20 years I've been minding my own business exclusive, yet soon as I hit Tail Holt I butt into yours, not only once but se-ve-real times. I wouldn't know why, unless I've gone loco."

"You beat around the bush without telling anything," the girl charged.

"By your own story you shot at the boss onct," Sorley snapped. "Right after you'd eaten supper with him and Miss Ruth."

"Who said that was my story? I don't recollect ever telling it."

Ruth stared at the hardy scamp, her eyes dilating with excitement. "You mean you didn't fire at Father at all, but at the villain who was trying to kill him?"

"Go to the head of the class, Miss," Gray said, with a grim ironic smile. "It's the best story I could think up after three or four days, so I thought I would come back and try it on Lee Chiswick. 'Course you're smart as a whip, and I wouldn't expect to put it across with you."

A queer lift of joy sang in the girl's blood. She knew this was the truth. It explained everything. He had fired on the assassin and run forward to protect her father from any others who might turn their guns on him while he was defenseless. Naturally his purpose had been mistaken. The fire of Dan and Curly had driven him away. He had no time to explain. If he stayed, he would be shot down. There was no chance to show his weapon, with only one chamber empty. Now he had no evidence to back his story.

"Why didn't you tell me before?" she cried.

"You and yore friends are so handy with guns I never get time to make oration," he said dryly.

Distress flooded her. She had shot him, after he had perhaps saved the life of her father.

"His story don't look good to me," Sorley said coldly. "I would say he was runnin' a whizzer on us, Miss Ruth."

"No. It's true." The girl drew a deep breath of relief. "I'm awfully glad it is."

The wounded man looked at her. "What difference does it make to you whether I or someone else shot him?" he asked.

Her eyes met his, the color on her cheeks hot beneath them. "I don't like you a bit. I think you are hateful. But I didn't believe you were a low scoundrel until—what I saw at Tail Holt. Now I know you're not that kind of man. You saved my father's life. I don't know how to thank you or to tell you how sorry I am that I hurt you."

"So now it's all right," he jeered. "and I ought to tell you how grateful I am for the lead pill you gave me."

"I've told you I'm sorry, and that I didn't mean to do it," Ruth said. "That's fine. You just pointed yore topgun at me to make Fourth of July fireworks. I'm lucky you picked only a leg to puncture."

Ruth felt anger stir in her, but she kept it down. "If there's anything I can do for you while you're here—anything I can bring you," she said in a carefully even voice. "I'm going to see you again, am I? How nice! There are several things you can bring me. One is some tobacco. I'd like two-three books, and the latest newspaper you have. Also, bring Lee Chiswick. I want a powwow with him."

"I'll send the books with my father," she said.

Lee Chiswick broke into his daughter's story excitedly. "He's hanging around waiting for a chance to dry-gulch me."

Ruth shook her head. "I thought so at first. I don't now. Listen."

"Lucky the wolf didn't do you a meanness when he had a chance."

The strong jaw of the cattleman set. "I'll have him rounded up and rubbed out before he's 24 hours older."

"You won't need to round him up. I can tell you where he is. My story isn't finished. Do you want to hear it or not?"

"Where is he?" demanded Chiswick.

"He's at the rimrock line-camp, with a bullet-hole in his leg."

"Did Pat get him?"

"No. I did."

"You what?"

"I shot him."

Her father stared at her with blank astonishment. "Good God, girl! What do you mean?"

"I tried to pass him. He caught at the bridle rein. I don't know why. Perhaps he couldn't get out of the way and didn't want Blue, Chip to trample him down. Somehow my gun went off and hit him. I didn't want him to die before he could get help, so I took him to the camp."

"Why didn't you come and get some of us?" he asked, his voice sharp with anxiety. "He might have shot you down on the way."

"I was as safe with him as I would be with you, Father," she said. "He isn't that kind of man. I don't like him. He's insulting. But he is not the kind of ruffian who would hurt a woman or would take advantage of a man in a fight. He didn't shoot you. Someone else did."

"That's crazy talk!" Lee shouted. "We saw him do it."

"We thought we saw him do it," she corrected. "But we didn't. He saw someone fire at you and shot at the man. Then he ran forward to protect you, and we all thought he was the killer. Think it over, Father. From the position you were standing the bullet that creased you must have been fired in the alley, but this Gray came another direction."

"Got it all figured out, haven't you—with his help?" Lee said angrily.

"If he had been the man, would he have run forward into the nest of us? It isn't reasonable. He was taken by surprise when Dan began shooting at him. I can see that. To save his life he had to get out."

"What's he doing here, then?"

"He wants to see you. I don't know what about. He insisted on my bringing you."

"He'll see me, all right," the cattleman said, his voice harsh and grim.

"My opinion is that he saved your life, after he had already taken care of me when a crazy man was on the shoot. Then I put a bullet in him, and now you want to finish him." Ruth spoke with sharp bitterness.

"I'll listen to him," Lee told her. "I'll hear what he has got to say. Maybe you are right, but I don't believe it, if he comes clean and tells me what he is doing here—and if what he says satisfies me—he'll be as safe with me as in God's pocket. I'll have him brought to the house and we'll take care of him here. But he can't pull the wool over my eyes. He has got to be straight goods."

"That's fair," Ruth agreed. "I don't know anything about who he is. Maybe he's an outlaw on the dodge. He's as hard as iron and he may have gone bad. But there's something clean about him. He wouldn't shoot a man in the back. I'd stake everything I had on that."

Chiswick nodded. "I would have said that myself, and I'm not often wrong about a man. When he ran at me with his gun smoking, I was sure surprised. Maybe you're right, daughter. He'll get a chance to tell his story."

"May I ride up to the line-camp with you?" Ruth asked.

"No!" he exploded, and slammed a fist down on the breakfast-table to emphasize his decision. "You can't go with me. What's the matter with you, girl? You head for trouble like a thirsty steer for water. First, you run off with a no-story scalawag not worth a hill of beans, then you shoot another and tote him to hospital without asking me a by-your-leave. That's no way for a lady to do. No wonder folks think you're a wild young hollon. You are grown up now. You got to learn to act genteel."

"Would it be unladylike for me to go down with you and take some fried chicken and biscuits to a sick man?" she wanted to know.

"You fix up this fried chicken and I'll take it down," Lee said firmly. "I aim to be reasonable, but I'm through letting you behave so crazy."

Ruth gave up. She packed the tobacco, the books, and the food. For Pat she put in a corn-cob pipe to replace the broken clay one.

Knowing her father's impulsive nature, she was full of misgivings. Over his shoulder, as he started, he called back a word of reassurance. "Don't you worry, daughter. I'm not going off half-cocked. If this Gray can show me he's not a yellow coyote, I'll not harm him."

In a natural meadow half a mile from the house he stopped to give Dan Brand instructions about the drive of yearlings sold to Broderick. This done, he told his son Frank and the foreman what he had just learned from Ruth.

Frank asked to ride with him to Sorley's camp.

The Chiswicks rode up to the rimrock and skirted the edge of it until they reached a break. Through this they climbed to the lip of the park where the line-camp lay.

From the chimney of the cabin a thin trickle of smoke drifted.

"Pat is probably line-riding and has left this fellow alone," Frank said.

As they drew closer, Lee hulled the house. From the boulder field back of it an echo came back to them. No other answer sounded. A second time he shouted, still without response.

"Get your gun out, boy," he ordered grimly. "I don't like this."

He swung from the saddle and drew the rifle attached to it. Frank dismounted hurriedly, his horse between him and the house.

"I sure don't want to get blasted out of my saddle," he said.

The two men worked toward the cabin, using their horses to screen them as much as possible from any sharpshooters who might be in the building or among the rocks above. Nobody stirred except themselves. Frank felt a strange prickling sensation run up and down his spine. Any moment there might come a crash of guns.

Lee maneuvered close to the door, then made a bolt for it. His son was inside scarce a second later.

The cabin was empty.

"Where's the fellow gone?" Lee asked.

"I reckon he wasn't as bad hurt as he was making out," Frank said. "What's this?"

Lee picked a piece of wrapping-paper from the table. He read aloud something that had been scrawled on it with a pencil. "Much obliged, Doc, for fixing my leg. See you later maybe."

Jeff Gray rode into Tail Holt two days after leaving the rimrock line-camp. His broad shoulders sagged with weariness. The eyes of the man were sunken. The lean face was haggard and unshaven. At the Alamo corral he dismounted stiffly.

The owner of the place, Jim Reynolds, squinted an unspoken question at him from under slanted eyebrows. There was an arresting quality about Gray that held attention. The fatigue, the stains of travel, did not conceal his dominant force. He unsaddled the sweat-streaked roan gelding with a competent economy of motion. When he moved, a pantherish ripple ran wavelike through his well-packed muscles.

"Yore bronc some gaunted," Reynolds said.

"Some," Gray agreed.

He watered and fed the animal himself. Reynolds watched him, observing that he knew how to treat a hot, tired horse. The corral-owner wondered who this stranger was.

"I'll put up at Ma Presnall's if she has room for me," Gray said. "Could you send word to Sperm Howard that I'm there and want to see him?"

"What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds.

"Jeff Gray. I'm obliged, sir."

Gray limped up the street toward the boarding-house.

Ma Presnall had her muscular arms bare to the elbows. There was a splash of flour on one temple. She had been baking. Her face was leathery and wrinkled, the challenge of her washed-out eyes direct and hard. For twenty years she had lived in frontier camps and held her own.

He could have a room and board, she said, for a dollar a day or five dollars a week. Strangers paid in advance. A five-dollar bill passed from Gray to her and she led him to his room.

After washing the caked dust from face and hands, he lay down on the bed. The wound in his leg was throbbing. For the better part of sixty hours he had been in the saddle and he was almost worn out. When the opportunity came he would bathe and dress the hurt. Just now he had not time. He was expecting a visit from Sperm Howard and perhaps from others. It was unfortunate that his entry into Tail Holt had been so melodramatic. Probably he would have to light out again, if they gave him a chance to go.

With his pocket-knife he ripped open the lining of his vest and drew out a folded paper. He expected to need it shortly. The paper was a printed poster offering a reward of 2,000 for the capture of Clint Duke, the leader of a band of outlaws who had held up and robbed the Texas and Southern Flyer. A description of the desperado was given. With it was a picture taken from a cut. The face that looked back from the poster at Jeff Gray was his own.

Through the door Ma Presnall called information. "Some gents to see you."

"Who are they?" Gray asked, putting the paper in his vest pocket.

"Sperm Howard, Curly Connor, and Morg Norris."

There was a barely perceptible pause before Gray said, "Ask them to come up, Mrs. Presnall, if you will."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds.

Cross Wheat and Couch Grass to Halt Shifting of the Farm Soil in Canada

In some parts of Canada a serious problem has been confronting farmers for many years now—one with which no English farmer is likely to be faced. Their farms won't stay put.

On the wide prairies of North America acres of loose soil shift each year, through the action of wind and rain. Up to the present there has been nothing to prevent it. Farmers simply had to sit and watch the fertile top soil wash away in the heavy rains of the spring and autumn, and blow away when, in the summer, the burning sun dried it up into fine dust.

Thus, every year, says a writer in London Answers Magazine, the land was impoverished, and no amount of manuring or careful cultivation on the part of the farmer setyed him in what seemed to be a hopeless battle against Nature.

In the last year or two the trouble has been intensified, and considerable tracts of land have been laid waste.

But the scientists can sometimes find a weapon which will turn defeat into victory, and the Biological Institute of Svalof, South Sweden, hopes before long to put a stop to this constant disappearance of valuable soil.

They are crossing wheat with the farmers' old enemy, couch grass, and they have every reason to hope that the result will be a useful crop of grain, provided by a plant whose clinging roots will bind together the shifting soil.

Canadian farmers will have much to thank the scientists for when they plant this grain, and another on which the scientists are working now.

The latter is a cross between wheat and rye, which, it is hoped, will be capable of withstanding the bitter cold of the long northern winters, and of producing a useful crop at the same time. The Canadian farmers' continued prosperity depends on some such type of grain.

At present the yield is too small to be useful, but in the future, no doubt, it will be a standard crop.

Dresses That Flatter Figure

THERE'S no spring tonic in the world like having a pretty new dress that makes you look slim and smart. And these are so easy to make, that you'll enjoy fixing them for yourself. The patterns are carefully planned so that even beginners will have no trouble following them, and each is accompanied by a detailed sew chart explaining just what to do. In addition to having something individual and very much your own, you'll save, decidedly.

Comfortable House Dress. It's wonderful how much more one feels like working in a brand new, fresh house dress that's becoming as well as comfortable. This design is distinctly slenderizing because it's so straight and simple. You can make it in a few hours. Cheerful percale print, seersucker or chambray are nice fabrics for this dress, which will certainly be your favorite if you want to look slimmer than you are.

Dress For Afternoon. If you wear any size between 36 and 52 this dress is designed to make you look your best. Shirring on the shoulders creates the fullness that you need in the blouse. The long, unbroken line from shoulder to hem takes inches off the figure. Sleeves ending just below the elbow are flattering to plump arms, and the long, softly rippling jabot trims are lengthening in effect. Make this lovely dress of silk crepe, small-figured or polka dot prints, or georgette. Later, in voile, it will be your coolest summer frock.

The Patterns. 1382 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards contrasting.

Spring-Summer Pattern Book. Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Spring and Summer Pattern Book which is now ready. It contains 109 attractive, practical and becoming designs. The Barbara Bell patterns are well planned, accurately cut and easy to follow. Each pattern includes a sew-chart, which enables even a beginner to cut and make her own clothes.

TIPS to Gardeners

More Combinations. CROP combination is useful with vegetables such as tomatoes, melons or corn, as well as with "small garden" crops like radishes, lettuce and carrots which require comparatively less space.

The following combinations are suggested by Harold Coulter, vegetable expert of the Perry Seed Institute.

Sow dwarf peas early in rows four to six feet apart, plant radish between rows of peas, and plant one row of cucumbers between every two rows of peas.

Set cauliflower early in rows two feet apart, one foot on each side of each cauliflower row plant spinach, row radishes between spinach rows. When radishes are used set tomato plants in the space thus vacated. Peppers or egg plant may be substituted for tomatoes.

Sow early turnips in rows three to four feet apart, later plant a row of corn between the turnip rows.

Give ground ample supplies of fertilizer when combined cropping is practiced extensively.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood. If good health is to endure, when the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is a removal of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. The Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's Sold at all drug stores.

Administration Makes Great Concessions to Save "Dictator" Bill . . . Senate Gets Tax Measure Built to Aid Business

Members of the house of representatives were swamped with telegrams from citizens all over the country urging that they vote against the administration's reorganization bill which, it was feared, would pave the way to an American dictatorship. Above is seen Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, a leading foe of the bill, reading some of the messages he received.

Tumult Over Reform Bill

WHEN President Roosevelt returned from Warm Springs he found that a crisis confronted the administration forces concerning the reorganization bill pending in the house and that there was danger that the opposition to that measure would defeat it. He called to the White House a number of leaders, and it was decided to push the bill through with a minimum of concessions. Representative Sam Rayburn, majority leader of the house, told the President it would pass with amendments to which he had agreed. One of these would enable congress by concurrent resolution to override any reorganization proposition the President might put through. Another would exempt the bureau of education from the scope of the bill. Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, one of the leading opponents of the measure, admitted it probably would get by with the concessions offered, but said he would vote against it even if the title alone remained. He and practically all other members of the house were flooded with telegrams and letters urging that the bill be defeated. Even after passage by the house, the measure would have to go to conference and many days or weeks of debate could be expected there. Eventual enactment of the bill was to be expected but the probability was that it would then have lost most of the "dictatorship" features which seem so repugnant to many thousands of American citizens. The popular opposition had not been lessened at all by the President's action in making public a letter to an unnamed friend in which he disclaimed any intention to become a dictator and asserted he has none of the qualifications that would make him successful in that role.

"Help Business" Measure

WHIAT Sen. Pat Harrison called the "help business" measure, being the revenue bill as rewritten by his senate finance committee, was submitted to the senate. Though Harrison said he expected its speedy passage, others believed at least a full week of debate would be necessary. Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon, minority leader, promised to support the bill, saying, "I think it is a great improvement over the house version. I am in favor of speeding its passage to help business."

The three chief matters in controversy were: Administration opposition to elimination of the undistributed profits tax and drastic modification of the capital gains and losses tax. A proposal by Sen. James P. Pope of Idaho to attach as a "rider" to the tax bill an amendment to impose $212,000,000 of processing taxes on manufactured cotton, synthetic fabrics, rice, tobacco and wheat. Amendments by Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin to broaden the tax base.

Sloan Hits Government

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., chairman of the board of General Motors, reported to the stockholders that the corporation's earnings for 1937 were lower. And he declared that the government's policy toward business had caused a lack of confidence which was largely responsible for the business recession.

Green Strikes at C.I.O.

PRESIDENT GREEN ordered all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor to withdraw from Labor's Non-Partisan League, which he said was overrun by communists, and to shun any ticket put forward in the name of an independent political labor party. In a letter to officers of all A. F. of L. national and international unions, state and city federations and central labor unions, Green called for strict adherence in forthcoming primary and congressional elections to the federation's traditional non-partisan political policy. He particularly warned the A. F. of L.'s 3,500,000 members to be on guard against candidates nominated by Labor's Non-Partisan League, which he called a "ventriloquist's dummy for the Committee for Industrial Organization leaders."

Adjournment Prospects

CONGRESS wants to adjourn by the first of May, but leaders foresaw three possible obstacles to this plan—the wage-hour bill, the Hungarian debt settlement proposal and railroad legislation. Democratic Leader Barkley said he hoped the senate could dispose of the tax revision bill, the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion program, and the proposed $1,000,000,000 relief measure in April. This would clear the senate calendar, he said, unless consideration of Hungary's debt program should result in a lengthy senate debate on the entire war debt question. Representative Rayburn, house floor leader, said he thought that chamber could complete its present program by May 1. But other members said that if efforts to revive the wage-hour bill are successful, the picture may change.

Could Cut Phone Rents

REPORTING on his investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Paul A. Walker of the federal communications commission said telephone rates in the United States could be reduced 25 per cent without reducing the net earnings of the Bell system. His report was forwarded to congress by the FCC, which later will make recommendations. Walker charged high costs of telephone service have resulted from depreciation policies of the Bell system and other practices involving the cost of manufacturing telephone apparatus and equipment, standardization policies, license contract payments, and segregation of plant revenues and expenses.

Italy Ready for War

BENITO MUSSOLINI put a chip on his shoulder and dared anyone to knock it off. In a speech before the Italian senate which was broadcast to the world, Il Duce said: "Italy's land, sea and air forces are tuned for rapid and implacable war." He warned Europe, and especially France, of his readiness and willingness to fight, and said he subscribed to the theory that "the best defense is offense." He called the Italian submarine fleet the largest in the world, said the nation's air fleet was one of the best in existence, and asserted that, if necessary, he can put an army of 9,000,000 men in the field. "I will be in supreme command," Mussolini cried, thrusting out his chest. "Military problems are fundamental ones," continued Mussolini. "I dedicate the greatest part of my day to them. Anyone who dares to attack the rights and interests of our fatherland will find in the land, sea and air the immediate, resolute and proudest answer from the Italian people's arms."

Oil Seizures Protested

RELATIONS between the United States and Mexico took a serious turn when Ambassador Daniels delivered to Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay a sharp protest against the action of President Cardenas in expropriating foreign properties. He asked just how Mexico proposed to pay for the properties seized. Cardenas thereupon called his congress in special session to consider an internal loan to provide for the indemnity payments. American withdrawal of support from the silver market, Cardenas' chief source of revenue, threatened to close many silver mines.

Loyalist Spain Split

SPANISH insurgents are, at this writing, near the accomplishment of Franco's great objective, the splitting of the territory held by the loyalists in the eastern part of the country. They captured the ancient city of Lerida, known as the key to Catalonia. Further south the rebels were almost to Tortosa and their vanguard was actually within sight of the Mediterranean sea. All along the Catalan front the government troops fought desperately, but it seemed their struggle was hopeless and observers believed the war was nearing its end.

Spain Dreads Drought

UNITED STATES and Great Britain advised each other that they would invoke the escalator clause of the London naval treaty and would build dreadnaughts larger than 35,000 tons. The British also notified Germany and Soviet Russia of their decision. Both nations based their action on Japan's refusal to disclose her naval construction plans. France, third signatory to the treaty, announced she would continue to adhere to the 35,000-ton limitation "so long as no continental power departs from that standard."

Secret hearings on the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion bill were begun by the senate naval affairs committee, with Secretary of State Hull and Admiral Leahy, chief of naval operations, as the first scheduled witnesses. Chairman Walsh said open hearings would be held later. Opponents of the administration's "big navy" program are rather numerous in congress, though probably in the minority. One of the most consistent of them is Senator Clark of Missouri. Commenting on the invoking of the escalator clause concerning battleships, he said: "It is just the preliminary announcement of a world-wide naval building race."

The maneuvers of the United States fleet were transferred from Alaska to the equator for the second phase. In the "battle" for possession of the Hawaiian Islands the fleet lost eleven flyers and three $100,000 bombing planes.

Spring Brides in Lace, Moire or Satin

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PERHAPS at no time is the privilege greater to brides-to-be to look their most entrancing than in the joyous, rapturous spring of the year when all nature seems to conspire to stage a most glamorous setting for the wedding scene. Yes, indeed, the picture must needs be one of super enchantment and romance that lures to skies sunny and blue, to birds trilling exultant notes in welcome to spring, to blossoms and verdure bursting into a very ecstasy of color reaching as far as eye can see. When you read the story or glimpse the new fashions as pictured here, you know that all things beautiful have been taken into account in creating wedding array for those who would make their nuptial vows in springtime this year of 1938.

Lace ranks high in the list of fashion "firsts" for spring brides. In fact many wedding parties will use lace throughout for bride, maid of honor, bridesmaids and little flower girl. One of the allures of lace is that it presents charming color possibilities, for the newer laces come in beguiling pastels for the attendants, with silver-threaded lace for the bride or embroidered lace. If you will, likewise fine Alencons, or Chantilly, priceless rose point or rich Spanish lace. Can you imagine anything more "darling" than a wedding gown that is fashioned row after row of narrow Val lace just as you see pictured in the foreground of the illustration herewith? The little puff sleeves and youthful square neckline are outlined with baby ribbon run through a narrow lace beading and even the quaint mitts are of lace.

Speaking of vogue for lace, a most gorgeous Spanish lace headdress and veil are being shown this season for the bride who would dress in period fashion. The picturesque mantling of fact is draped to lowering height on the head (just as you see in quaint wedding pictures of old Spain) from whence it sweeps out in voluptuous flowing lines in a grandiose train. Turning from lace to fabric, there's much news to impart. First we would speak of the tendency this spring to use sheers such as mousseline de sole, tulle, marquisettes, dainty nets and also shadow-print Swiss organdie (inexpensive but lovely) for the bride's gown. Contrasting these diaphanous weaves is a very new silk moire-brocade that bespeaks the stately and elegant. The handsome gown the lady in the center background of the illustration is wearing is a beautiful dress made of this high-style moire. Of course this stately silk must be styled with utmost simplicity the better to emphasize the magnificence of the material. Tulle, white for the bride and colors for the bridesmaids, is also a favorite this spring.

A gown of the patrician moire just described demands that utmost simplicity prevail in way of headdress and veil. Note the monk's cap and veil as worn by the moire-clad bride pictured. It is styled exquisitely but very simply, the close-fitting tulle being finely all-over-chirred with yards and yards of the tulle billowing over shoulders and as long as one cares for the veil to be. As to the ever becoming tiara, you may be wanting to know if it still is in fashion. For answer see the charming bride to the right. The tiara made of lattice-worked satin is modish, as is also the tiara built high with orange blossoms. This bride clings to the wedding tradition of exquisite white satin for the nuptial gown.

The latest thing in lapel gadgets for spring suits are "good luck" insects—grasshoppers, locusts, flies and beetles—designed in plastic material, in dull white or bright colors, by Vera Borea, according to a report from the Paris office of the Du Pont Style News service. Plastic material in dull white, vivid green and gold makes the scattered arabesque motifs which trim a crepe dress by the same designer. Complementing a white evening gown is a bolero embroidered with scattered motifs in transparent, iridescent cellulose film, matched by a belt of woven cellulose film.

Quite a few of the suits seen are collarless and trimmed with three rows of buttons all the way down the front. Also unusually attractive are the tailored vestees in contrasting colors. Light Toned Silk Is Used in Coats by Paris Experts. Maggy-Rouff shows for spring light-colored silk coats, bright-colored redingotes and jersey coats gathered and fastened with belts. Her leading design is one of straight line, collarless and slightly shaped at the waistline. One coat on the draped, gathered type is made full-cut in black wool with detail at the waistline. It has a green belt.

YOUR NEW BLOUSE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Your new spring blouse will be different, in that it will give the softly bloused silhouette so important this season. Owing to the emphasis placed on suits this spring you are supposed to start out not with just a single blouse or two but a collection of 'em, and the models here shown convey an idea of the newest trends in blouses that are made of gay silks, as so many of them are this season. The soft bloused effect is maintained in the model shown at the top, the gathered neckline being a special feature. The balloon blouse of circus stripe triple silk sheer pictured below has shirred sleeve tops and brilliant buttons. It is worn with a bakou sombrero with wood beaded bandeau.

Man's Felt Hat Worn With Chic Tailored Ensemble

Tweed woven in the turquoise blue and strawberry red shades forms a severely tailored new ensemble worn with a man's soft felt turquoise hat trimmed with a band of red grosgrain ribbon. Very practical is the idea of buying a tailored suit of this tweed and another suit of solid color and making up a number of ensembles with the two jackets and skirts. Quite a few of the suits seen are collarless and trimmed with three rows of buttons all the way down the front. Also unusually attractive are the tailored vestees in contrasting colors.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — Leslie Hore-Belisha, British secretary of war, made himself somewhat of a national hero several months ago when he shook up the army command, upped the youngsters and sent the oldsters back to their club chairs. The report of his ultimatum demanding a change of foreign policy is a stand-out in the current news. There was something like consternation among British conservatives early in 1937, when Prime Minister Chamberlain named the incidentally Jewish Mr. Hore-Belisha for the war post. There was no hint of anti-Semitism in their attitude, but just then certain optimists among them were trying to fool Britain into the German orbit, and there were alarmed predictions that Hitler would be enraged and seek quick vengeance. That didn't come off, and the new war secretary started a whirlwind army clean-up and all-around reconditioning campaign, to the satisfaction of all hands. Seventy-nine-year-old Sir Ian Hamilton, who had been in command at the Dardanelles, said, "Thank God we are under a proper soldier and will not be shot sitting down."

He has spent a lot of time badgering his elders, and still has many of them to work on, as he is only forty-three. When, a brash young Oxonian, he ran for parliament, his opponent tagged him as "the nonentity of the college bench." He nailed this on his mantel-piece, spoofed the opposition cleverly, and romped in. He was a dispatch carrier in the war, then a major, a reporter on a London newspaper, with convenient underground pipelines to the front page and the headlines. He became financial secretary of the treasury in 1932 and later minister of transportation. He is a demon for detail and has swarmed all over England, inspecting equipment, barracks and army kitchens. He is of medium stature, round-headed, with roached, graying hair, unmarried and given to night forays, checking this or that detail of the military establishment.

AT LEAST six times in the past 150 years, the Rothschilds have been counted out, and they have always come back—like John Barleycorn and Old King Cotton. Now the arrest of Baron Louis von Rothschild is reported from Vienna. The era which founded their dynasty was disquietingly like this one. The Romanoffs, and the Hapsburgs, Maternich and Disraeli and all the other kings, conquerors and statesmen came to terms with them. Baron Louis is the head of the house. The catastrophic fall of the Creditanstalt bank of Vienna in 1931 was supposed to have wrecked them. A few weeks later, they were shoveling money into American securities, and, it was reported, snagging a stray million here and there by a fast overseas play on francs, an old family custom. Louis and his brother, Alphonse, were living in regal splendor when the Creditanstalt failed. They had great estates and magnificent art galleries, shooting lodges, a huge Franz Lehar chorus of retainers, deer parks and a brace of medieval castles. Much of these holdings slipped away, as Louis, with somewhat less than the usual family zest and acumen in financial affairs, turned to a study of philosophy and the arts. It is 132 years since Napoleon, after Austerlitz, made mince-meat of the Holy Roman empire and even more ruthlessly dismantled Austria. Nathan, James and Solomon von Rothschild, sons of Mayer Anselm, founder of the line, not only saved their holdings, but extended their dominions to the remotest corner of Europe. These vast ramifications of their fortune, one of the largest in the history of the world, were in land, steel, coal, manufacturing and munitions, and, in later decades, in oil and hydroelectric power. Libraries have been written about them, one notable record being Zola's "L'Argent." Their continental money matrix has been a stabilizer at times. It is possible that the Vienna jail door clangs the end of a dynasty and an epoch—but not quite certain. History will tell.

Much of these holdings slipped away, as Louis, with somewhat less than the usual family zest and acumen in financial affairs, turned to a study of philosophy and the arts. It is 132 years since Napoleon, after Austerlitz, made mince-meat of the Holy Roman empire and even more ruthlessly dismantled Austria. Nathan, James and Solomon von Rothschild, sons of Mayer Anselm, founder of the line, not only saved their holdings, but extended their dominions to the remotest corner of Europe. These vast ramifications of their fortune, one of the largest in the history of the world, were in land, steel, coal, manufacturing and munitions, and, in later decades, in oil and hydroelectric power. Libraries have been written about them, one notable record being Zola's "L'Argent." Their continental money matrix has been a stabilizer at times. It is possible that the Vienna jail door clangs the end of a dynasty and an epoch—but not quite certain. History will tell.

Deer Parks and Castles Faded Away

Baron Louis is the head of the house. The catastrophic fall of the Creditanstalt bank of Vienna in 1931 was supposed to have wrecked them. A few weeks later, they were shoveling money into American securities, and, it was reported, snagging a stray million here and there by a fast overseas play on francs, an old family custom. Louis and his brother, Alphonse, were living in regal splendor when the Creditanstalt failed. They had great estates and magnificent art galleries, shooting lodges, a huge Franz Lehar chorus of retainers, deer parks and a brace of medieval castles. Man's Felt Hat Worn With Chic Tailored Ensemble

Tweed woven in the turquoise blue and strawberry red shades forms a severely tailored new ensemble worn with a man's soft felt turquoise hat trimmed with a band of red grosgrain ribbon. Very practical is the idea of buying a tailored suit of this tweed and another suit of solid color and making up a number of ensembles with the two jackets and skirts. Quite a few of the suits seen are collarless and trimmed with three rows of buttons all the way down the front. Also unusually attractive are the tailored vestees in contrasting colors.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tall Holt to meet him. While in Tall Holt a store, a crooked stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the dog, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sperm's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden snuff. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her bride, Ruth accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Pat Sorley's camp.

"Must I?" He grinned at her with cheerful effrontery. "Of course you must," Ruth almost stamped her foot in exasperation. "If you didn't do it, who did?" "I wouldn't know."

"She took that up triumphantly. "Neither you nor anybody else." "But I could guess." "Who, then?" she demanded. "If I ever mention it, probably it will be to the gent himself," he said softly. "I thought so."

Gray turned to the line-rider. "Two shots were fired before Mr. Chiswick's friends took a hand I fired the second. Point is, who cut loose with the first?" "If you weren't in it, why did you shoot at all?" Ruth asked.

"I've asked myself that two-three times since," he replied suavely. "Plumb dumb of me. For 20 years I've been minding my own business exclusive, yet soon as I hit Tall Holt I butt into yours, not only once but co-ve-real times. I wouldn't know why, unless I've gone loco."

"You beat around the bush without telling anything," the girl charged. "By your own story you shot at the boss onct," Sorley snapped. "Right after you'd eaten supper with him and Miss Ruth."

"Who said that was my story? I don't recollect ever telling it." Ruth stared at the hardy scamp, her eyes dilating with excitement. "You mean you didn't fire at Father at all, but at the villain who was trying to kill him?" "Go to the head of the class, Miss," Gray said, with a grim ironic smile. "It's the best story I could think up after three or four days, so I thought I would come back and try it on Lee Chiswick. Course you're smart as a whip, and I wouldn't expect to put it across with you."

Ruth felt anger stir in her, but she kept it down. "If there's anything I can do for you while you're here—anything I can bring you," she said in a carefully even voice. "I'm going to see you again, am I? How nice! There are several things you can bring me. One is some tobacco. I'd like two-three books, and the latest newspaper you have. Also, bring Lee Chiswick. I want a powwow with him."

"I'll send the books with my father," she said. Lee Chiswick broke into his daughter's story excitedly. "He's hanging around waiting for a chance to dry-gulch me."

Ruth shook her head. "I thought so at first. I don't now. Listen!" "Lucky the wolf didn't do you a meanness when he had a chance." The strong jaw of the cattleman set. "I'll have him rounded up and rubbed out before he's 24 hours older."

"You won't need to round him up. I can tell you where he is. My story isn't finished. Do you want to hear it or not?" "Where is he?" demanded Chiswick. "He's at the rimrock line-camp, with a bullet-hole in his leg."

"Did Pat get him?" "No. I did." "You what?" "I shot him." Her father stared at her with blank astonishment. "Good God, girl! What do you mean?" "I tried to pass him. He caught at the bridle rein. I don't know why. Perhaps he couldn't get out of the way and didn't want Blue Chip to trample him down. Somehow my gun went off and hit him. I didn't want him to die before he could get help, so I took him to the camp."

"Why didn't you come and get some of us?" he asked, his voice sharp with anxiety. "He might have shot you down on the way."

"I was as safe with him as I would be with you, Father," she said. "He isn't that kind of man. I don't like him. He's insulting. But he is not the kind of ruffian who would hurt a woman or would take advantage of a man in a fight. He didn't shoot you. Someone else did." "That's crazy talk!" Lee shouted. "We saw him do it." "We thought we saw him do it," she corrected. "But we didn't. He saw someone fire at you and shot at the man. Then he ran forward to protect you, and we all thought he was the killer. Think it over, Father. From the position you were standing the bullet that creased you must have been fired in the alley, but this Gray came another direction."

he'll be as safe with me as in God's pocket. I'll have him brought to the house and we'll take care of him here. But he can't pull the wool over my eyes. He has got to be straight goods."

"That's fair," Ruth agreed. "I don't know anything about who he is. Maybe he's an outlaw on the dodge. He's as hard as iron and he may have gone bad. But there's something clean about him. He wouldn't shoot a man in the back. I'd stake everything I had on that."

Chiswick nodded. "I would have said that myself, and I'm not often wrong about a man. When he ran at me with his gun smoking, I was sure surprised. Maybe you're right, daughter. He'll get a chance to tell his story."

"May I ride up to the line-camp with you?" Ruth asked. "No!" he exploded, and slammed a fist down on the breakfast-table to emphasize his decision. "You can't go with me. What's the matter with you, girl? You head for trouble like a thirsty steer for water. First, you run off with a no-count scallawag not worth a hill of beans, then you shoot another and tote him to hospital without asking me a by-your-leave. That's no way for a lady to do. No wonder folks think you're a wild young hellion. You are grown up now. You got to learn to act genteel."

"Would it be unladylike for me to go down with you and take some fried chicken and biscuits to a sick man?" she wanted to know. "You fix up this fried chicken and I'll take it down," Lee said firmly. "I aim to be reasonable, but I'm through letting you behave so crazy."

Ruth gave up. She packed the tobacco, the books, and the food. For Pat she put in a corn-cob pipe to replace the broken clay one. Knowing her father's impulsive nature, she was full of misgivings. Over his shoulder, as he started, he called back a word of reassurance. "Don't you worry, daughter. I'm not going off half-cocked. If this Gray can show me he's not a yellow coyote, I'll not harm him."

In a natural meadow half a mile from the house he stopped to give Dan Brand instructions about the drive of yearlings sold to Broderick. This done, he told his son Frank and the foreman what he had just learned from Ruth. Frank asked to ride with him to Sorley's camp. The Chiswicks rode up to the rimrock and skirted the edge of it until they reached a break. Through the park they climbed to the lip of the park where the line-camp lay.

From the chimney of the cabin a thin trickle of smoke drifted. "Pat is probably line-riding and has left this fellow alone," Frank said. As they drew closer, Lee hulled the house. From the boulder field back of it an echo came back to them. No other answer sounded. A second time he shouted, still without response. "Get your gun out, boy," he ordered grimly. "I don't like this." He swung from the saddle and drew the rifle attached to it. Frank dismounted hurriedly, his horse between him and the house. "I sure don't want to get blasted out of my saddle," he said. The two men worked toward the cabin, using their horses to screen them as much as possible from any sharpshooters who might be in the building or among the rocks above. Nobody stirred except themselves. Frank felt a strange prickling sensation run up and down his spine. Any moment there might come a crash of guns. Lee maneuvered close to the door, then made a bolt for it. His son was inside scarce a second later. The cabin was empty.

"Where's the fellow gone?" Lee asked. "I reckon he wasn't as bad hurt as he was making out," Frank said. "What's this?" Lee picked a piece of wrapping-paper from the table. He read aloud something that had been scrawled on it with a pencil. "Much obliged, Doc, for fixing my leg. See you later maybe."

Jeff Gray rode into Tall Holt two days after leaving the rimrock line-camp. His broad shoulders sagged with weariness. The eyes of the man were sunken. The lean face was haggard and unshaven. At the Alamo corral he dismounted stiffly. The owner of the place, Jim Reynolds, squinted an unspoken question at him from under slanted eyebrows. There was an arresting quality about Gray that held attention. The fatigue, the stains of travel, did not conceal his dominant force. He unsaddled the sweat-streaked roan gelding with a competent economy of motion. When he moved, a pantherish ripple ran wavelike through his well-packed muscles.

"Yore bronc some gaunted," Reynolds said. "Some," Gray agreed. He watered and fed the animal himself. Reynolds watched him, observing that he knew how to treat a hot, tired horse. The corral-owner wondered who this stranger was. "I'll put up at Ma Presnall's if she has room for me," Gray said. "Could you send word to Sperm Howard that I'm there and want to see him?" "What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds. "Jeff Gray. I'm obliged, sir."

Gray limped up the street toward the boarding-house. Ma Presnall had her muscular arms bare to the elbows. There was a splash of flour on one temple. She had been baking. Her face was leathery and wrinkled, the challenge of her washed-out eyes direct and hard. For twenty years she had lived in frontier camps and held her own. He could have a room and board, she said, for a dollar a day or five dollars a week. Strangers paid in advance. A five-dollar bill passed from Gray to her and she led him to his room.

After washing the caked dust from face and hands, he lay down on the bed. The wound in his leg was throbbing. For the better part of sixty hours he had been in the saddle and he was almost worn out. When the opportunity came he would bathe and dress the hurt. Just now he had not time. He was expecting a visit from Sherman Howard and perhaps from others. It was unfortunate that his entry into Tall Holt had been so melodramatic. Probably he would have to light out again, if they gave him a chance to go.

With his pocket-knife he ripped open the lining of his vest and drew out a folded paper. He expected to need it shortly. The paper was a printed poster offering a reward of 2,000 for the capture of Clint Duke, the leader of a band of outlaws who had held up and robbed the Texas and Southern Flyer. A description of the desperado was given. With it was a picture taken from a cut. The face that looked back from the poster at Jeff Gray was his own.

Through the door Ma Presnall called information. "Some gents to see you." "Who are they?" Gray asked, putting the paper in his vest pocket. "Sperm Howard, Curly Connor, and Morg Norris." There was a barely perceptible pause before Gray said, "Ask them to come up, Mrs. Presnall, if you will."

Cross Wheat and Couch Grass to Halt Shifting of the Farm Soil in Canada

In some parts of Canada a serious problem has been confronting farmers for many years now—one with which no English farmer is likely to be faced. Their farms won't stay put. On the wide prairies of North America acres of loose soil shift each year, through the action of wind and rain. Up to the present there has been nothing to prevent it. Farmers simply had to sit and watch the fertile top soil wash away in the heavy rains of the spring and autumn, and blow away when, in the summer, the burning sun dried it up into fine dust. Thus, every year, says a writer in London Answers Magazine, the land was impoverished, and no amount of manuring or careful cultivation on the part of the farmer served him in what seemed to be a hopeless battle against Nature. In the last year or two the trouble has been intensified, and considerable tracts of land have been laid waste.

find a weapon which will turn defeat into victory, and the Biological Institute of Svalof, South Sweden, hopes before long to put a stop to this constant disappearance of valuable soil. They are crossing wheat with the farmers' old enemy, couch grass, and they have every reason to hope that the result will be a useful crop of grain, provided by a plant whose clinging roots will bind together the shifting soil. Canadian farmers will have much to thank the scientists for when they plant this grain, and another on which the scientists are working now. The latter is a cross between wheat and rye, which, it is hoped, will be capable of withstanding the bitter cold of the long northern winters, and of producing a useful crop at the same time. The Canadian farmers' continued prosperity depends on some such type of grain. At present the yield is too small to be useful, but in the future, so doubt, it will be a standard crop.

Dresses That Flatter Figure

THERE'S no spring tonic in the world like having a pretty new dress that makes you look slim and smart. And these are so easy to make, that you'll enjoy fixing them for yourself. The patterns are carefully planned so that even beginners will have no trouble following them, and each is accompanied by a detailed sew chart explaining just what to do. In addition to having something individual and very much your own, you'll save, decidedly. Comfortable House Dress. It's wonderful how much more one feels like working in a brand new, fresh house dress that's becoming as well as comfortable. This design is distinctly slenderizing because it's so straight and simple. You can make it in a few hours. Cheerful percale print, seersucker or chambray are nice fabrics for this dress, which will certainly be your favorite if you want to look slimmer than you are.

Dress For Afternoon. If you wear any size between 38 and 52 this dress is designed to make you look your best. Shirring on the shoulders creates the fullness that you need in the blouse. The long, unbroken line from shoulder to hem takes inches off the figure. Sleeves ending just below the elbow are flattering to plump arms, and the long, softly rippling jabot trims are lengthening in effect. Make this lovely dress of silk crepe, small-figured or polka dot prints, or georgette. Later, in voile, it will be your coolest summer frock.

TIPS to Gardeners

More Combinations CROP combination is useful with vegetables such as tomatoes, melons or corn, as well as with "small garden" crops like radishes, lettuce and carrots which require comparatively less space. The following combinations are suggested by Harold Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute: Sow dwarf peas early in rows four to six feet apart; plant radish between rows of peas, and plant one row of cucumbers between every two rows of peas. Set cauliflower early in rows two feet apart; one foot on each side of each cauliflower row plant spinach; sow radishes between spinach rows. When radishes are used set tomato plants in the space thus vacated. Peppers or egg plant may be substituted for tomatoes. Sow early turnips in rows three to four feet apart; later plant a row of corn between the turnip rows. Give ground ample supplies of fertilizer when combined cropping is practised extensively.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—the life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—fat, tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passage may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country's great medical men. Sold at all drug stores.

Relic to be Restored

The old Lincoln County Court-house, relic of the quick-trigger days of outlaw "Billy The Kid," is a WPA project now.

Works Progress Director Harry Mundell said the rickety old building, whence Billy once made his most sensational escape from peace officers, would be restored "as nearly as possible" to its original appearance.

Trailer Used as Police Station Has Advantages

Indianapolis, Ind. — Dentists' offices, police stations and a variety of services are housed in trailers these days, according to Todd Stoops, secretary-manager of the Hoosier Motor club.

Instances also have been reported of trailers used as a restaurant, prospector's supply wagon, motion picture theater, telegraph office and cathedral.

"The police station on wheels is an outstanding example of the trailer's flexibility in meeting specialized needs," Stoops said. "This trailer has been put into operation on Long Island and is completely equipped to give first aid or to serve as a base in investigating crime. A veritable arsenal, the trailer carries a machine gun, rifles, tear gas bombs and equipment for scientific crime detection, including finger-printing apparatus, magnifying glasses and test tubes."

Indian Tribe Ascribes Sobriety to Magic Herb

Reno, Nev. — Unusual sobriety among members of the Washoe Indian tribe has attracted the attention of peace officers.

Inquiring among the redmen they heard reports that a medicine man from another tribe visited the Washoes and distributed a magic herb or root. This, when eaten, divested them of desires to drink or do other things against their better judgment.

"White people go to church and get religion," one Indian declared. "By eating this root brought to the Washoes by the Messiah, the result is the same. It makes us want to be good Indians."

SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horsepower engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money.

300,000 now owners acclaimed the "thrifty 60" last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1933. Why?

Because it is priced low—includes essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline.

But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard "60" is built with the same precision as the De Luxe "85," and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It is easy to look at and ride in—as well as easy to buy and run. There's a Ford dealer near you.
