CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1938

NUMBER 48

The Relief Burden

The relief burden of the New Mexico department of Public Welfare jumped tremendously at the beginning of 1938, according to Miss Thelma White, county director of Public Welfare for Lincoln county. More than twice as many applications for general relief were received during January than during December, 1937.

A total of 4,221 applications for general relief were received at the department during the month, compared to 2,103 during December and 2,368 during January of 1937. Figures for the other 11 months of last year ranged from a low of 630 applications during July to 2,070 during October.

The increase in applications has continued during 1938, each month showing a large gain over the corresponding month of 1937.

Direct payments in January were made in 2,389 cases throughout the state, benefiting a total of 6,258 individuals, of these cases, 31 were in Lincoln county. The average payment for person in the county was $3.79.

The average amount paid per person throughout the state was $2.75.

Notwithstanding the number of new applications received, the number pending at the end of January, 1,108 was less than half the number received during the month and only 73 per cent of the number pending at the end of January, 1937. The decrease in pending applications is due to greater efficiency in meeting the needs of clients, and to shifting general relief cases to categorical aids, such as old-age assistance and aid to dependent children, or to federal work programs such as the WPA.

Several separate factors contributed to the increase in relief applications during January. Mines in Santa Fe, San Miguel, Colfax, and McKinley counties which formerly employed hundreds of men at full time during the winter, were worked only part time, throwing hundreds out of work. Small crops last summer, especially in the eastern part of the state, caused farmers to apply for relief during the winter when their food supplies ran low. Decrease in the amount of building done in cities threw many men out of work.

Direct relief is designed as an emergency measure to prevent suffering until clients can be assigned to work programs, reemployed by private industry, or assigned to receive categorical aids, such as old-age assistance.

Music-Drama Study Club

The Music-Drama Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Don English last Tuesday. There was a good attendance. After a nice program, Mrs. Nellie Shaver Williams was honored with a miscellaneous shower, it was a complete surprise to the honoree who received many lovely and useful gifts.

At a late hour refreshments were served by the club. The bride cutting the bride's cake.

The next meeting will be held May 26 at the home of Mrs. Hendren at Ft. Stanton.

Mr. A. S. McCamant, candidate for nomination for sheriff on the Democratic ticket was in town yesterday from Corona.

Mr. Calvin Carl is pebble-dashing his garage this week.

Governor's Day at Cavern

Santa Fe, April 20— Governor Clyde Tingley's office announced that the annual governor's day at the Carlsbad Caverns, when the executive is host to high school students of the state has been set for April 30.

Both the governor and Mrs. Tingley will greet the several thousand students who annually flock to the underground wonder of the state.

The date was set earlier than usual this year because a number of rural schools will close soon after May 1. Col. Thomas Boles superintendent of the Caverns National Park, will arrange the program for the day.

Lincoln County School Library

At last the building for the Lincoln County School Library is nearly completed. It is a WPA project sponsored by the Lincoln County Board of Education. The building is an asset to the county and to the Village of Carrizozo. We should be very appreciative for the opportunity which has been given through the WPA to secure the services of workmen who are able to build so nearly a perfect structure as has been done in this instance.

The material and equipment for the building have cost approximately $4,300.00.

The principal reason for the erection of the library building is to serve the schools from the common school districts of Lincoln County, but it is the wish of the sponsors that all other people from over the County may feel free to visit the library and use the books for reference and reading while there.

The Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. White at White Oaks, April 15, with 35 present.

Proceeds of the picture show sponsored by the club were reported to be $26.75. The club voted to dispense with handling tubercular seal drive Mrs. Williams had charge of the following program: Subject: "Recreational Reading and Music in the Home."

"Music in the Home", written and read by Mrs. Ola Jones. A very interesting paper and at its close, her son, Jr. Jones played two piano numbers— "Imps' Dance" and "On Skates".

Book review "Jalna" French Canadian Author, Miss Lois Smith. (Note by Reporter- Ethel Barrymore has been playing a perfect performance of the hundred year old granny in the play "White Oaks" now being played in New York City.)

Piano Trio— Zane Harkey, Thelma Shaver and Leslyo Cooper.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, easter eggs and coffee were served by the hostess, Mrs. White, assisted by Mesdames Richard, Sale, Sears, Karr, Cleghorn, Sproule and C. A. Branum.

On Saturday night April 23rd the Woman's Auxiliary, American Legion Post No. 11, will inaugurate their dance season, with a Big Costume Barn Dance. Help a good cause.

Music by Yodeling Cowboys, El Paso.

Quite a number of out-of-town people attended "Artists and Models" at the Lyric Theatre here Sunday night.

Several men from here left for Riverside Wednesday where they received employment on the new road that is under construction there.

Jobie McPherson, accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Phillips, and his cousin, Dorothy of Roswell, spent Easter Sunday in Carrizozo with friends and relatives.

Fletcher Hall, Capitan, N. M., is the Aggie's star 880-yard man, who won this race at the University of New Mexico meet Saturday in 2:05.4.

Judge A. H. Hudspeth and nephew were in Carrizozo and White Oaks this week.

Mr. Bryson Corbett was a business visitor in Albuquerque this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dow were visiting here last Tuesday enroute to Lincoln where they will stay for several days before going to Roswell where they have the Fuller Brush agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Flavio Chavez of Tularosa spent last week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Porfirio Chavez.

Mrs. J. V. Hobbie spent the Easter holidays at Hachita with her brother Elbert Brown and wife.

CAPITAN ITEMS

Mrs. J. S. Blair went to Roswell Saturday to do some Easter shopping and to visit her father who is taking medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wigley and family, Gilbert Peters and family of Nogal, Gene Johnson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Maritano and little daughter Carrol motored to the White Sands and spent a most enjoyable night there Easter.

Miss Cornelia Cozzens returned from Dr. Turner's Hospital Saturday where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. She is recovering rapidly.

Sheriff Ben Greisen and wife were in Capitan Wednesday on business.

Miss Lucille Everetts attended the Easter Sunrise service at the White Sands.

A birthday party for little Miss Lavada Morgan was very much enjoyed by a host of little friends April 19th at her home.

Mr. Thurman Hargett and Miss Dorothy Dean attended the show at Carrizozo Monday night.

Mrs. Kelley's Recital

Mrs. T. E. Kelley will present her piano pupils in recital Thursday, April 28, at 2 p. m. at the High School Auditorium. You are cordially invited. No admission charges.

Social Security

Borrowing from the government under the Federal old-age insurance plan is not permitted by the Social Security Act, Martin J. Snelus, manager of the Albuquerque office of the Social Security Board, said today.

"Several visitors to our office, who are now unemployed, have requested payments from their social security accounts," it was explained by Snelus. "Such payments are not available under the Federal old-age insurance program, and any rumor to that effect should be checked before it becomes widespread."

Cash benefits are paid only to workers in covered employment who reach the age of 65 and to close relatives or the estates of such workers who die before becoming 65.

At this time and until January 1, 1942, the Social Security Board is authorizing payment of lump sums only. These payments are in final settlement of the worker's social security account, and amount to 3 1/2 per cent of wages received from covered employment after January 1, 1937, and up to attainment of age 65 or death.

John Harrison, a retired S. P. engineer now living in California, was in Carrizozo last Saturday, shaking hands with old friends.

Mrs. Roy E. Reader of El Paso was a guest of Mrs. Wm. Gallacher and other friends this week.

White Oaks Notes

Ah springtime you traitor! Me thinks I did brag too soon. What with snow last Thursday and such cold winds Friday. I am sunk in deepest gloom.

Bobby Jane, age six, after returning home from school told her mother, "the teacher told us not to copy anyone else's paper - but it wouldn't do any good any way cause the kid next to me is dumber than me."

The Ladies Aid held their regular meeting April 14 at the home of Mrs. Gordon Wells. Co-hostess with Mrs. Wells was Mrs. Jap-Lewis. The Easter motif was carried out in the decorations. Business session - and then a guessing game was introduced by Mrs. Wayue Van Schoyck. Marie Fulmer taking the prize for being such an apt student at guessing. Salad, crackers and tea were a delicious complement to delightful meeting.

Rocky Peak was allive with color early Sunday morning. A white cross stood atop the peak. A number of people from here and Carrizozo attended the Sunrise Services. Very impressive talks were given by "Judge" Shelton and Mr. A. F. Roselle. The congregation sang "I Gave My Life for Thee" and "Christ Arose". During the singing of the last hymn two angels stood near the cross. An organ was used as an accompaniment to the songs. It was all quite beautiful and inspiring.

The town is quite proud of Mickey Smith and Ralph Wylie for their very capable acting in the Senior play.

Following the play (Senior) quite a number of young folks of here and Carrizozo came to dance awhile at Cleghorn hall.

School Notes

The pupils, on a whole, passed their tests (given by Mrs. Ola Jones) with flying colors. Little Bill Fulmer took highest honors.

Friday the children had picnic luncheon and an egg hunt on the school grounds. Mesdames Van Schoyck and Wells were surprise visitors and joined in the fun.

For several nites the children have built bonfires in the nearby hills and had great fun toasting marsh-mallows and story telling.

Visiting list includes: Barbara Smith at home for the week-end.

Mrs. W. L. Smith with her mother in Gorman, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cope in Lon for a few days.

Mrs. Jack Cleghorn with her daughter in Roswell for a few days.

Barney Ward driving the Texas Park-Capitan bus.

Judge Hudspeth a nephew Owen Simpson seeing several friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Mattocks and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Smith all of Pueblo Colo., spending Easter with the W. W. Smith family, enroute to Carlsbad. The Mattocks are cousins of Mr. W. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward and family spent the past week-end in Maddalena.

Following Sunrise Services "Judge" Shelton, the Degeners family and Mr. F. Perkins had breakfast with Mr. and Mrs. Jake Fulmer.

Sunday School at 10:30 a. m. Sunday morn followed by an Easter egg hunt on the site of the old Glass Mill. The egg hunt was sponsored by the Ladies' Aid. Sh! That Springtime's here again.

School Notes

There will be a courtesy program in the near future given by the Freshmen and Sophomore classes of the Carrizozo High School. Prof. Snyder is sponsoring the courtesy program.

The Junior class is making preparations for the Junior-Senior banquet to be given May 14th.

The Girls' Inter-class basketball tournament was held last Tuesday with the Freshmen coming out as the winners.

The sixth and seventh grades are giving a musical Operetta, "Aunt Drucilla's Garden" in the High School Auditorium Friday April 22. Directed by Mrs. Swearingen and Miss Cole. There are no charges.

Miss Cole is planning to take her music department on a good will tour. We know it will be a success, because both she and the students have worked hard on the program.

The English Department is working on a program of "good conduct" for assembly in the near future.

The Senior play was given on April 14th. It was very successful and the Seniors made $50.00 in cash.

The Carrizozo High School came out second in the track meet last week at Capitan.

Wednesday morning Frank Kelt cut his finger with a chisel. He is not hurt seriously though.

About three weeks ago Joe Phillips injured two fingers while using the joiner plane. Prof. Caton is now letting only a few boys under strict regulation use the machinery of manual Training department.

Last Thursday at 11:00 a. m. was held an assembly of the high school and grade school. The Senior class gave a brief sketch of their play, which was held that night. The grades and High School classes contributed to the program with vocal and instrumental numbers. Myrtle Lee Butler of the 5th grade won the prize, by her rendition of a tap dance.

Pioneering Notes

She is little, she is dainty; she is slim, and she is straight as an arrow - but wait, that's only the half of it. Why look! there she goes now on a corral mare riding herd on about twenty head of cattle; as fine a cattle-woman as anyone might wish to see. She is a loyal friend but a hard enemy. She is fearless and firm in her beliefs and disbeliefs. Her name is Mrs. Nannie Price, age around 65. Born on a farm near Chattanooga, Tenn., the daughter of Capt. Millsap of the Union Army. Her father served as state Senator of Tenn., for three terms.

Mrs. Price came to W. O. in 1893 taking a stop-over in Chicago for the World's Fair. She traveled west via the Santa Fe R. R. as far as San Antonio, taking a stage there on into here. "It was frightening to travel by stage in those days", she said. The stage carried the mail and was drawn by four to six horses.

W. O. was just starting a decline after the boom years when Mrs. Price arrived. "Once three churches stood in W. O., and the foundation for a Catholic church was laid by the Spanish-American people altho' never completed. For the past thirty five years the old Congregational church has been used as a non-denominational place of worship," reminisced Mrs. Price.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—This summer's session of the Institute of Pacific Relations will have many new factors and policies to consider, as new power formulas and equations are being drawn. The Philippines have changed their mind about cutting their United States towline. Japan and Germany make a joint survey of a 50-mile, low-lying canal route across the upper neck of Siam, which will bring Japan four days nearer Australia and perhaps five days nearer India. England's Singapore naval base isn't what it used to be. Australia announces a big new rearmament program.

Ian Mackenzie, Canada's handsome and versatile defense minister, breaks the news that Canada will rely on the United States fleet, voicing "reasonable assumption," rather than definite "commitments."

And Paul V. McNutt, commissioner of the Philippines, says we should carry "liberty and peace" to the Far East.

Mr. Mackenzie, a Vancouver lawyer, is one of Canada's most famous scholars who writes fluently and publishes articles in Gaelic.

Gaelic Ace is Canada's Top Scholar. In his native Scotland, he was the most illustrious prize scholar of his generation, virtually monopolizing all the medals and garlands of the University of Edinburgh, for attainment in the classics.

He later won a Carnegie research fellowship, gathering more honors in his work on old Irish manuscripts. He later attended the Royal academy at Dublin, wrote songs and stories in the ancient Celtic language and picked up a law degree as a sort of afterthought.

He went to Vancouver in 1914, returned for the war, and romped through grades to the rank of captain, fighting in all the major engagements.

He kept his stride in his later success in law and politics in Vancouver, becoming national defense minister in 1935. He is regarded as Canada's most eligible bachelor. He says his favorite recreation is study.

JOSEPH A. LYONS, Australian prime minister who announces a rearmament program of approximately $215,000,000, has no such gift of tongues and reached eminence by a longer and harder road.

He rose to power in the labor movement and, in 1931, like the late Ramsay MacDonald, broke with his party and entered a coalition government. His shift to the right brought him under vigorous assault, but he was re-elected by a large majority last October.

He is sixty years old, gray and tousle-haired, the father of 11 children, and walks with a limp as the result of a railroad accident 13 years ago.

He began his working career as a country school teacher in Tasmania. Insularity and "home rule" marked his attitude a few years ago. Now he recommends as a commonwealth slogan, "Keep in tune with England."

Everywhere, the little nations are calling, "Wait for baby."

TAKING arms against this sea of troubles is the Countess Alain Dedons de Pierrefeu, formerly Eliza Tudor of the Boston social register.

Under impressive patronage, which includes faculty members of leading universities, scholars, diplomats and sociologists, she organizes a "world youth tour," with a fervor comparable to that of Peter the Hermit leading the children's crusade.

She is recruiting young persons from all nations, including Germany, Italy and Russia, on a world tour to flux animosities and foster good will and understanding. "World peace through world trade" is their slogan.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is among those who give warm endorsement to the plan. Headquarters for the tour are in New York.

The French husband of the countess was killed in the World war. Since then she has been vigorously active in social movements in Europe, Chicago, Boston and New York. For nearly four years she has been traveling around the world, recruiting support for her youth organization among diplomats, economists and business men.

Young Coats Styled to Perfection

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHETHER she has attained the ripe old age of four years or is tottering on the verge of her teens, this year's smart members of the younger set will find that their new wool coats for spring reflect the same interesting fashion trends as those of their chic mammas. With the new vogue for soft tailoring which is important throughout the whole spring picture, fine lightweight wools—smooth tailor-minded worsteds and fine men's-wear flannels in the very popular navy blue, also the now-modish neutral shades plus a long list of beguiling pastels—are designed of cunning flattering lines such as you see here pictured.

In tune with the dressmaker styling which prevails in this season's tailored wear, the newer wool coats are cut on lines that are anything but severe. Smart princess silhouettes, so charmingly adaptable to childish figures, are to be found in double-breasted models with lapels of boyish cut or in high-necked single-breasted types with snug round collars.

Important for trimming detail is the use of pliable colored leather which may be either in ovals or smooth finish. The adorable youngster centered in the foreground of the illustration has on as fetching a leather-trimmed coat as you will see anywhere in the spring style parade. For this attractive double-breasted model stitched leather at the neck and pockets provides a smart red accent to red-fleeced neutral wool tweed.

A leather trimmed coat is also shown to the right in the group. The leather, smooth in finish and all-over stitched, is charming in a deep wine tone, as it gives accent to this new double-breasted coat for the eight-year-old. Smooth fitted lines with chic back flare are smartly highlighted by the leather facing on pockets and high rounded collar, with small matching wine colored composition buttons at the double-breasted front closing.

The use of velveteen facing in contrast shades is noted as an important style detail appearing not only on collar and cuffs but as decorative finishings on flap pockets and other interesting designful features. Winsome for the six year old is a fitted princess coat as shown in the inset below to left. It is in a flattering shade of pink lightweight wool with new velveteen collar facing, matched to navy composition flower buttons at the front closing. Double V-shaped flaps on the high breast pockets are decorative and fashionable.

Bright plaid taffeta and other gay silk facings are used to enliven dark coats for the very young. Fitted and flared is the attractively tailored town coat in navy wool flannel pictured above to the left in the group. Plaid taffeta trims the collar and pocket flaps. The matching hat has a plaid taffeta bow at the front.

If it is a whole spring wardrobe in one, you would like to be purchasing for little daughter this spring, keep your eyes open for the fashionably cut four-piece suits now showing in children's apparel collections.

They have a long cape with box shoulders (too cunning for words) a collarless jacket and all-round pleated skirt and a matching hat. The little five-year-olds who wear them look like fashion plate youngsters. As to being practical little or no comment need be made. With a variation of pretty blouses such an outfit offers endless changes and possibilities.

PLAY OUTFITS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The peasant scarf is being used on the heads of even the youngest in the fashion parade, as a highly entertained audience learned that attended one of the series of breakfast clinics presented in the Merchandise Mart of Chicago. The style show given at this mecca for juvenile fashions was unique in that forty or more youngsters served as mannequins, ranging from a babe in arms to the teen age. The toddler here pictured wears a very practical and playful overall in pottery shades. There is a clever use of decorative applique, a cactus motif. The fabric is cotton and easy for laundering. This cunning practical play outfit is to be had in various colors.

VELVET TRIMMINGS SPRING FAVORITE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Marie Antoinette and Madame Pompadour are the inspiration for the new velvet accents. It is from them that the bows, the ribbons and the velvet trimmings of all types that are so popular this spring, stem. The tercentenary of the birth of Louis XVI will be recalled in France this spring; and unless all plans go awry, many of the famous fetes of his reign will be re-enacted. Maria Theresa entered Paris in 1660. This will probably have its effect on fall fashions and we will see a perpetuation of a fad that will then become a fashion.

Certainly a velvet collar on a suit, velvet bows or velvet bodices, velvet ribbon trimmed flounces, make interesting details.

Millinery is again millinery, and velvet ribbons, flowers, crowns, brims, as well as bonnets, cloches, tiny berets and turbans always flourish when women are wearing "hats as hats."

Reds and Corals Lead in Colors in New Fashions

The gamut of geranium reds and coral tones, shading into pale blotting paper pink, take first place in colors shown in one French collection recently. The prominence of pink is even noticeable in tartans, in which soft tones of pink are combined with vivid green or yellow.

Purples, fuchsias red and soft "flax" blues are given importance, and the burnt tones from ochre yellow to brick red are emphasized. New greens are confined to turquoise shades.

Color Enlivens Hat
Color rises as colorful hats become more and more popular. A pill-box of deep ruby velvet has its cuff trimmed with tiny hummingbirds in green and blue.

TEETH--Your Passport to Good Health--and Tells How You Can Avoid the Tragedy of Dental Decay

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York.

A SCIENTIST, who was also a wit, once remarked that you must be true to your teeth or they will be false to you. That most people do not heed this advice is evidenced by the fact that almost 100 per cent of the adult population is affected by some form of oral disease, and from 90 to 97 per cent of all school children have decayed teeth.

As there is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and conversely, between decayed teeth and sickly bodies, it is easy to understand why science views this appalling situation with the greatest alarm—and why such an eminent authority as Professor Ernest A. Hooton of Harvard University warns that "unless steps are taken to discover preventives of tooth infection, and correctives of dental deformation, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction."

Health and Happiness

Depend on Sound Teeth

That is a strong statement, but it is not an exaggeration, for it would be difficult to over-estimate the influence of the teeth upon human health and happiness.

Do you wonder how teeth can affect happiness? Consider, then, that a pretty face depends, first upon the position of the mouth when the lips are closed, and second, upon the appearance of the teeth when the lips are parted. You cannot have a lovely mouth when the lips close over crooked front teeth; you cannot have an attractive smile if the teeth are dull.

And when gums recede, and loosened teeth are forced out of their natural position, the position of the lips is likewise changed—with the result that the lower part of the face is disfigured.

Surely this is tragedy enough. But the effect of decayed teeth upon health is of far greater significance.

Dental Decay Does Extensive Damage

A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot.

It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or even duodenal ulcers. It may be a contributing cause of heart disease.

In view of such extensive damage, it is easy to understand why a prominent medical authority has declared that if the teeth were given proper care, so that dental decay became rare, instead of almost universal, more than half of all sickness would be eliminated.

Mothers Are to Blame

For Children's Bad Teeth . . . It has been estimated that the temporary, or "baby teeth" of children come through the gums practically perfect in 98 per cent of all children. Yet, statistics show that by the time they reach the first grade, 80 per cent of the children, both from wealthy homes and from homes where money is scarce, have bad teeth; one-third have abscessed conditions in their mouths, and every fourth or fifth child does not have proper masticating surfaces.

If this disgraceful state of affairs is allowed to continue, the blame must be laid squarely at the doors of the nation's mothers.

Formerly it was thought that oral hygiene alone would prevent tooth decay. But though the importance of thoroughly cleansing the teeth is recognized today as never before, nutritional scientists have discovered that correct diet, plus mouth hygiene, is the real key to dental health.

Diet and Its Relation To Dental Disease

The teeth are living tissues, which require proper nourishment just as much as any other part of the body.

Every food element required for a healthy body plays its part in building healthy teeth. But special emphasis must be placed upon providing adequate amounts of calcium, phosphorus, and three vitamins, A, C and D.

Tooth Are Actually Formed Before Birth

These substances must be supplied before birth and throughout life.

Although teeth do not appear in a baby's mouth until some months after it is born, they are actually formed before birth.

It is during this period, therefore, that proper dieting should begin. The teeth are constructed of the same materials as the bones, chiefly calcium and phosphorus, and if the diet of the prospective mother is not adequate, these building materials are withdrawn from her own teeth and bones.

The old idea that mothers must sacrifice "a tooth for every child" arose because expectant mothers did not realize the importance of taking extra amounts of calcium, which is obtained from milk, cheese, dried peas and beans, green leafy vegetables and many nuts; phosphorus, which is abundant in egg yolk, cheese, whole grain cereals, dried legumes and milk; and vitamin D, which is supplied by fish-liver oils; irradiated foods, or those enriched with vitamin D concentrates; and egg yolk.

It has been proved experimentally that when vitamin A is withheld, the teeth begin to deteriorate, and become chalky, white and brittle.

Vitamin C is so closely related to the health of teeth and gums, that when it is lacking, profound changes occur, including swelling and bleeding of the gums and loosening of the teeth.

Four Important Rules For Dental Health

The prevention of dental decay and the preservation of sound teeth and healthy gums is founded on a four-point program: First, a well-balanced diet containing an abundance of calcium, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D.

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has put at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for postcard inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address him at 6 East Thirty-ninth Street, New York City.

Second, frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth, to remove all food particles. The use of an efficient dentifrice encourages efficient brushing and helps to keep the teeth looking attractive.

Third, the inclusion in the diet of foods that require the chewing, tearing, gnawing and biting for which our teeth were designed, such as raw cabbage, celery, apples and other fibrous foods.

Fourth, a visit to the dentist at least twice a year, so that he can check the condition of the teeth.

If every mother will follow this program, and train her children to follow it, the result will be a vast decrease in dental decay, and a forward step in human progress. For it is not too much to say that the SALVATION OF THE HUMAN RACE LIES IN SAVING ITS TEETH.

Write to C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th Street, New York City, for information on How to Build and How to Maintain Healthy Teeth.

Questions Answered

Mrs. J. B. McK.—It is incorrect to say that rye bread is more, or less, fattening than white bread. A slice of rye bread supplies the same number of calories as a slice of white bread.

Miss F. S. P.—The sulphur dioxide used to bleach a good grade of dried fruit is present in a chemical combination that is entirely harmless.

Mrs. E. T. D.—Answering your question as to the effect of cooking on vitamin D, this is no problem in the kitchen. Natural vitamin D is virtually absent from most foods, but in irradiated foods, or those to which vitamin D concentrate has been added, the vitamin D is stable and ordinary cooking, has little destructive effect on it.

Terence Shea Tells of His Bulging Barrels

A social worker with more enthusiasm than tact went to call upon Terence Shea, night watchman, at his home.

"I hope, Mr. Shea," she said, "that you do not squander your money in riotous living. May I ask what you do with your wages?"

"I'd just as soon tell you as not," replied Mr. Shea. "This $15 a week I make. When I've paid the rent, the provisions, and the milkman, and bought what's needed for Maggie and me five children, I deposit the rest of my money in barrels. Mostly, ma'am, sugar barrels. They're bigger an' hold more. But when I can't get them I use plain flour barrels."

"Man! Is it Good!" Say Folks About Pepsodent with IRIUM

Irium contained in BOTH Pepsodent Tooth Powder and Pepsodent Tooth Paste

No matter how long your teeth may have been clouded by dull, unsightly surface stains, the regular use of Pepsodent can bring about a remarkable improvement. For Pepsodent is more effective. Why? Because Pepsodent alone contains Irium! . . . Irium helps Pepsodent to break away those dirty surface stains that hide the true brilliance of your smile . . . and then polish your teeth to all their full natural whiteness. Contains NO GRIT, NO PUMICE. Try it!

A Good Scout Never Whimpers

John Taylor, Troop 53 of Astoria, Long Island, grits his teeth and refuses to let a whimper get past his lips as an ambulance doctor sets his broken arm. His buddy, Scout Robert Ressiga, (left) whispers words of encouragement. John broke his arm in an impromptu baseball game while the Scout troop was on a hike.

Submarine Nature Study

A boy and a girl student of the class of zoology at the University of Miami shown at the bottom of Silver springs at Ocala, Fla., as they photographed a turtle while 20 feet below the surface. Clad in diving helmets the entire class took turns at exploring the springs' bottom as a departure in their nature studies.

LOUIS XIX?

Meet "Louis XIX," king of France and Navarre, duke of Normandy, Prince Louis Philippe of Bourbon, grandson of the lost Dauphin, who history says died in a Parisian prison during the French revolution, but who legend declares was spirited safely away to America. "King Louis XIX" earns his living as a night watchman in New Orleans and lives in a grimy boarding house, but stoutly proclaims he is the rightful heir to the throne of France.

SUMMONS DEVOUT

Cardinal Rodrigue Villeneuve, archbishop of the ancient see of Quebec, who recently announced that the National Eucharistic congress would be held in Quebec, June 22 to 26. In his announcement, Cardinal Villeneuve noted that the locale of the congress was well chosen because "Quebec is the cradle of the faith in Canada and North America."

Babes From the Woods

Orphaned when their mother was shot by a hunter in the Maine woods, these baby bears were found by a game warden near Augusta, and are being taken care of until able to fend for themselves. They are only a few weeks old. When they are a little more mature they will be released in the woods.

Hook an Old Fashioned Rag Rug

OF ALL rag rugs the hooked type is the most fascinating and economical. A rug book, such as may be purchased in notion and fancywork departments, and burlap a little larger than your finished rug are the essentials. Most rug hookers also use a frame of slats bolted together at the corners. They stretch the burlap over the frame and tack it. Some like a rather large stationary frame. Others use a small one and many hooked rugs are made without any frame at all.

Here is a quaint old rug pattern that you may mark off on your burlap with a yardstick and pencil. The numbers indicate the colors used for the original rug—now more than a hundred years old. The finished rug measures 26 by 34 inches. Allow two inches at all edges for hems. Overcast the edges, then mark the solid one-inch border just inside the hem allowance; then the large eight-inch squares; then the small two-inch squares; then draw the diagonal lines across the large squares as shown. Use wool rags if possible and cut the strips not wider than one-half inch. Hold the strip against the wrong side of the burlap and pull loops of it through to the right side with the hook as shown. Short strips are as useful as long. Just pull the ends through and clip them.

If you are planning slip covers, curtains, or doing other Spring sewing for the home, you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of practical working directions, with complete illustrations. A dollar saving book for every homemaker. ## TIPS to Gardeners

General Garden Care
MOST flowers should have little or no artificial watering until they are at least half grown.

To get better and larger flower blossoms, cease watering when buds have formed.

For a continuous bloom, pick flowers regularly. This is most important with sweet peas and pansies, less so with petunias.

Avoid the common mistake of letting vegetables grow too large before picking.

Root crops—radishes, carrots, beets—are at their best when hardly half grown.

Pick peas just before pods fill out completely. Pick corn just at the "milk" stage, when the kernel, gouged with the finger-nail, yields a milky juice. Use summer squash when they are small, just after the blossom has dropped off.

Certain other vegetables, of course, must be allowed to mature. Tomatoes should be ripened well on the vine, as should winter squash.

Colorful Apron for a Gift or Bazaar

Air Mail Week May 15-21

Albuquerque, N. Mex., April 16, 1938. A distinctive, two-color air mail stamp will be issued by the United States Post Office Department as a special recognition of National Air Mail week, May 15 to 21, which will be the greatest effort in the history of this service to increase its effectiveness and popular support.

An announcement today at National Air Mail Week general headquarters here by Major Paul R. Younts, Executive Chairman, said this stamp will be symbolic of the Air Mail and should be highly desirable for the many thousands of collectors who will send and receive letters on the special flights that week.

Major Younts said he had been informed by Postmaster General Farley that this stamp will be of six-cent denomination, the same size as the commemorative issues. The border, of distinctive Air Mail design, will be printed in blue and the central design will be in red. This design will depict an eagle with outstretched wings, bearing in its talons a shield, olive wreath and a bundle of arrows. Numerous ornamental details have been included in the over-all design.

This stamp first will be placed on sale May 14, at Dayton, Ohio, which is the home of the Wright Brothers, who built the first successful airplane, and at St. Petersburg, Florida, where the first passenger flight was made. On the following days of Air Mail Week, this stamp will be on sale at many thousands of Post Offices throughout the United States.

Chevrolet Sales Increase

Chevrolet dealers sold 62,639 new cars and trucks in March according to an announcement by Chevrolet Motor Division officials at Detroit today.

This was 57.2 per cent increase over the sales total for February.

A feature of the sales total piled up by Chevrolet dealers in March was that during the final ten-day period 27,606 new cars and trucks were sold, which constituted 78.8 per cent of the total for the first 20 days of the month, indicating a firmer market for new units as spring and sunshine arrived.

The March used car sales of Chevrolet dealers totaled 130,788, according to the announcement, an increase of 11.9 per cent over the February total of 116,915. This was the 37th consecutive month that Chevrolet dealers sold in excess of 100,000 used cars, and gave them a grand total of used car sales during the last 37 months of 5,630,886.

Attention Ranchmen

A series of sheep demonstrations sponsored by the Extension service, will be held over the state, beginning April 18 and ending May 4.

The Demonstration in Lincoln County will be held at the ranch of H. L. Hancock, two miles east of Corona on the Gallo road, Tuesday, April 26 at 10 a. m.

W. H. Tolbert, extension animal husbandman, will discuss shearing methods and preparations of market lambs at each meeting. P. E. Neale, of the animal husbandry department, will talk on the preparation and marketing of wool. W. A. Wunsch, executive officer, and Hoy Connelley, state range examiner, ACP, will discuss the range program; and Tom Snell, secretary of Sheep Sanitary board, will present a review of the activities of that board.

A representative of the National Wool Marketing association will also be present and discuss the cooperative marketing of wool.

These meetings will be held at sheep ranches in the counties named and will be all day meetings, starting at 10 a. m. Lunch will be served at noon, either by the owner or by various local organizations connected with the nearest town. Exhibits of standard wool, grades, lent by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be on display for the benefit of interested parties.

Speakers presenting these programs will discuss the faults common to most sheep owners in preparing both wool and lambs for market, and show the proper methods to correct these mistakes.

The New Mexico Wool Growers' association is cooperating in these meetings and it is hoped that every sheep owner will take advantage of the demonstrations and attend one or more of them.

To Fence Cemetery

A group of young people sponsored by Mrs. Edna Laramie, are working on a play, which is to be given on or about May 14, for the purpose of raising money to fence, and to beautify the cemetery at Lincoln. People all over Lincoln County have loved ones resting in this cemetery, and these young people feel sure they will be more than glad to co-operate in trying to raise money for the purpose. The cemetery hasn't been fenced for ten years and the present fence is in such bad repair that cattle and horses come and go at will. They have destroyed and trampled the flowers and grass.

When the tickets are placed on sale, they sincerely hope every one will buy and if possible attend the play. This is a worthy cause and they are anxious to receive a generous response.

'NO RECRIMINATION'

President Accepts Defeat on His Reorganization Bill . . . Germans Approve Hitler's Austria Coup

Because a federal statute prohibits taking of a foreign vote in the United States or its territorial waters, the crew of the German liner Hansa voted on the question of Austrian "anschluss" with Germany while the ship was in mid-ocean en route to New York. Here is the scene in the public room of the liner during the balloting. Seated is Purser Karl Zeppelin, who registered the voters. Of the crew, 330 voted "jah"; six voted "nein," and one vote was voided.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

F. D. R. Accepts Defeat

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will not seek for revenge on the 108 Democratic representatives who, obeying the apparent wish of the people of the United States, defeated his reorganization bill in the house. Writing to Majority Leader Sam Rayburn to express his thanks for the "fine fight," Mr. Roosevelt said the question presented was solely one of policy and that the defeat of the measure offered "no occasion for personal recrimination and there should be none."

Shelving of the measure by sending it back to the committee, accomplished by a vote of 204 to 100, was generally regarded as a severe blow to the prestige of the President, for the administration leaders had declared in the debate that the issue was solely one of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt. His letter to Rayburn was taken to mean that a President-against-congress fight in November should be avoided and that he would not inject himself into the congressional elections. Senator Byrnes, after calling at the White House, admitted there would be no effort to revive the reorganization bill in the senate.

It was said in Washington that Speaker Bankhead, Sam Rayburn and other prominent Democrats, construing the defeat of the reorganization bill as a vote of "no confidence" in the administration, were ready to abandon for the present much of the New Deal program for social and economic legislation, including the revised bill for regulation of wages and hours of labor. They decided, it was reported, to concentrate on passage of the tax revision and appropriation bills and the voting of funds for unemployment relief and revival of business activity. It is their hope that congress can adjourn by May 15.

Curb Spending Program

CONGRESSIONAL and fiscal leaders were called to the White House by the President to consider his plan for a billion and a half dollar public works program and a like amount for unemployment relief through the WPA. These funds together with the 1 1/2 billion dollars congress recently authorized the Reconstruction Finance corporation to loan to business, would give the administration 4 1/2 billion dollars to fight the depression in the coming fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt first talked with Vice President Garner, Senator Barkley, Speaker Bankhead and Representative Rayburn, and it was reported that they stood out against the contemplated spending program, Garner being especially vigorous in his language.

The President, it was said, seemed willing to compromise and the four leaders went away hopeful they would not be called upon to attempt to push through at this session any of the radical schemes suggested by some of the more extreme administration advisers.

A second conference was then held with other congressional leaders and with Harry L. Hopkins, Acting Budget Director, Daniel Bell, Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, and Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board.

Senator Glass and Representative Woodrum were present and prepared to argue against the $4,000,000,000 plan. To their surprise the discussion was confined almost wholly to the subject of work relief. Mr. Roosevelt said 1 billion 250 millions should be enough to carry the Works Progress administration during the first seven months of the next fiscal year, from July 1, 1938, to Feb. 1, 1939. A billion and a half had been talked about as necessary.

In addition the President suggested about 150 millions should be appropriated for the Department of Agriculture's farm security program and 50 millions for the National Youth administration.

Not a word was said about the proposed expenditure of a billion and a half for noninterest bearing loans to states and cities for construction programs. Nor was there any discussion of the proposal to issue more than a billion dollars in gold certificates against the sterilized gold fund.

While this conference was going on, there were developments indicating that the Democratic-Republican coalition, that defeated the reorganization and other administration bills might get into action against the new spending program. In this Senator Byrd of Virginia, Democrat, and Representative Snell of New York, minority leader in the house, took the lead.

Hitler's Big Victory

FEWER than 465,000 Germans and Austrians had the courage to vote "no" in the plebiscite on Germany's annexation of Austria. Nearly 49,000,000 qualified voters went to the polls and gave their approval of the "anschluss," and thus Adolf Hitler scored a tremendous victory, greater than even his lieutenants had expected.

"This is the proudest hour of my life," said the Fuehrer when told of the vote, and the Nazi leaders all were jubilant, and with reason. They said the demonstration of German unity showed it was time to liberate "our Sudeten German friends in Czechoslovakia" and that they were ready to obey Hitler's orders blindly.

It was forecast in Berlin that Hitler would proceed at once to expand and modernize the Austrian army and strengthen Austria's frontier defenses. And Vienna believed the anti-Jewish program would be intensified.

There was a rumor that Austria would soon cease to be an entity and would be re-christened Oamark, or eastern march or boundary of the new Germany.

Besides voting on the Austro-German union, the electorate chose a new reichstag, which was hand-picked by Hitler. German and Austrian citizens throughout the world voted on the annexation, some casting their ballots on German steamers outside of the three-mile limits of foreign lands. Jews were not allowed to go to the polls.

Railway "Court" Proposal

HOW to save the important railways from bankruptcy was the subject of conferences at the White House and of deep study by the President. He rejected the suggestion of an outright government subsidy, and then adopted and offered for legislative action the plan of creating a special unit with judicial or quasi-judicial powers to speed up voluntary reorganization of the carriers and solve other of their problems. The unit may take the form of a special court or board within the interstate commerce commission.

Girdler vs. Labor Board

TOM GIRDLER, head of Republic Steel, said in Cleveland that the national labor relations board was "wrong" when it accused Republic of violating the Wagner act before and during last summer's "little steel" strike, and indicated the company would fight parts of the board's decisions through the courts.

The board decided that Republic had violated the Wagner act on eight counts and, among other things, ordered the corporation to reinstate 5,000 strikers with back pay from April 8; to break up employee representative plans at five Ohio plants, and to stop practices which would lead employees to think they were not free to join the C. I. O. or other unions.

The board also placed on Republic the responsibility for the death of three strikers in a riot last July near the corporation's Massillon plant.

Jail for Townsend

D. R. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND, seventy-one-year-old advocate of old-age pensions, must serve 30 days in a District of Columbia jail unless President Roosevelt intervenes in his behalf.

The Supreme court declined to interfere with his conviction, of contempt of the house of representatives, thus removing his last hope of reprieve by the courts.

New French Government

FRANCE has a new government headed by Edouard Daladier who succeeded Leon Blum as premier after the fall of Blum's Popular Front.

Daladier's cabinet is the first wholly nonrevolutionist since the leftist landslide of 1936. Not one of his ministers is even pink, and there are several outright conservatives. Most significant of his selections is Georges Bonnet, former ambassador to the United States, as foreign minister. His choice for this key post means synchronization of French foreign policy with that of Great Britain, the opening of negotiations with Mussolini and complete abandonment of the Spanish republic in its war with Franco's insurgents.

The political fate of Daladier's government depends on his success or failure in breaking up the prevailing strikes in France. It appeared probable he would not ask parliament just yet for dictatorial financial powers, the demand that caused the downfall of Blum, but will be satisfied with holding on quietly until after the Easter vacation, waiting for the return of social peace.

Ford's Golden Wedding

HENRY FORD and Clara Bryant Ford celebrated their golden wedding in Detroit. The festivities lasted two days, starting with a reception on Mrs. Ford's seventy-first birthday at the home of Edsel Ford. The golden wedding fete was under the auspices of the Service clubs of Dearborn and was held in Ford's reproduction of Independence Hall not far from where the wedding took place in 1888.

Nico Job for Tugwell

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, who was one of the original Brain Trust members, later under-secretary of agriculture and head of the resettlement administration, has a fine new job. Mayor LaGuardia has appointed him chairman of the New York city planning commission at a salary of $15,000 a year, succeeding Adolph A. Berle, Jr., now an assistant secretary of state. Tugwell will take the position as soon as he has severed his relations with the American Molasses company, of which he became vice president in January, 1937.

Woe for American Debs

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY, American ambassador to London, has abandoned the practice of arranging for the annual presentation of 20 or 30 American debutantes to the British king and queen. Hereafter he will present only wives and relatives of American officials or American women in permanent residence in London. He says he considers the practice undemocratic and that making a choice from among the numerous applicants is unfair to those omitted.

Transatlantic Air Service

FEDERAL officials announced that regular transatlantic passenger and mail air service would start late in July or early in August, on a 24-hour schedule between New York and Foynes, Ireland. The flights will be operated by the Pan-American and Imperial Airways.

Edward L. Yuravich of the federal bureau of air commerce said the trips would start with two airliners—an Imperial Airways "pick-a-pack" plane and a Pan-American Airways Boeing seaplane, with cruising speeds of 150 to 200 miles per hour. The planes will take off simultaneously from opposite sides of the Atlantic.

The western terminal will be at Manhasset bay, Port Washington, Long Island, with the eastern end at Foynes, recently rechristened Shannon, at the mouth of the Shannon river, in Ireland.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

WHEN we're in Munich or Moscow or Mukden, we'll pass up a cathedral or a museum any day to browse among the bolts of yard goods in the leading stores. Of course we always alibi importantly, saying that it's because of our work, with a capital letter. But really it's because we enjoy piece goods in any language, and in a foreign country we're always coming on to the most enchanting and unusual patterns. We jam our bags with "repeats," which is a piece long enough to include the full motif or repeat.

But foreign cities have no monopoly on interesting fabrics. As a matter of fact most any American city will have a wider selection, and we always spend time-on-our-hands wandering around looking at the new materials.

Among our recent finds include some perfectly thrilling mohairs that don't look a bit like mohair.

Another new fabric that we like is a rayon faille in fast colors. This material is for rooms that require a fabric just a little dressier than chintz but not so important as damask. This rayon faille is offered in the same lovely patterns and colors as chintz, though the fabric itself makes them seem softer and more powdery than chintz.

But the biggest news of recent seasons is the permanent glazed chintzes. You can wash and wash them and they will retain their luster. They're fast color, too. In the right place, nothing is prettier than chintz.

Linen fills another need still—for its hearty character brings pattern to a room yet retains a masculine sturdiness. Now there are some fine new linen patterns at much lower cost than previously.

A ticking weave fabric, called dust-tight, has been taking the stage recently. It's very strong and durable and is printed in delicious colorings and designs. We can vouch for this personally because we have used it in a window seat that gets very hard wear.

So we'll let the explorers and adventurers seek their thrills in jungle, Arctic circle or South Seas. Our idea of a good time is to be turned loose in a yard goods department with or without money to spend.

The Art in Oriental Rugs.

If you find a swastika in your Oriental rug, don't get excited. For it's not Nazi propaganda at all—only one of the favorite motifs of Oriental rug weavers through many a century. No one knows when it first turned up in the dim reaches of every civilization, every country. Some scholars call it the first conscious design of man. That is, almost anyone might have hit upon a circle or a square or an oval quite by accident. But it took conscious planning to create the crossed arms of the swastika.

Even the materials of which Oriental rugs are made have a romantic lore clinging about them. The rug countries, reaching far north of the Rueddian border and from the Mediterranean to the Great Wall of China, are peculiarly suited to the arts of their people. For the fine grazing lands here are the main reason for their being known as the "Rug" countries. The lands provide just the right grasses and roots to make sheep and goats produce just the right wool for rugs.

As for color in Oriental rugs, well that's a sentimental tale in itself. For there is one man in the world who considers it an honor to be bedaubed. He is the dyer in an eastern rug country, one of the most honored men in his community. The dyeing of wools for rug-making is an ancient and guarded art. Each village or tribe has its various dyes and each dyer has his own range of colors to produce. The most important dyer is the producer of red. From the fields he gathers flowers, plants, herbs, shrubs, and by some mysterious ancient alchemy he mixes and pours and boils and the wool is dipped into many pots before the color is just right. Sun has a great deal to do with his art and he knows to the minute just how long to leave the drying skeins in the sunlight to produce just the tone he wants.

Various Uses for Honey in Cookery

Goes Well With Fruits, Cereals and Biscuits

By EDITH M. BARBER

ARE you a honey drizzler? If you are, you will demand honey on the table to use with certain fruits, with cereals and especially with toast and hot biscuits. In this case, you probably like honey in its strained form, although I really think I like it best with biscuits, at least, in its own natural comb container.

Honey has, of course, many uses in cookery. It has the distinction of being the first sweet known to man, and therefore the first one used in cookery. The very oldest recipes for cookies and cakes call for honey, and we now have some very modern variations.

One of my favorite uses for honey is for baking ham, either whole or sliced, on account of the flavor and the glaze which results. The business woman housekeeper will naturally be interested in the sliced ham because it demands only a short cooking.

French-toast served with honey or with honey butter makes an easy and quick dessert. A honey sauce may be used with ice cream or with a sponge cake, which may of course be bought ready to use. Another dessert combination is that of crackers, cream cheese and honey which may be of our native variety or one of the imported honeys which are to be found in attractive jars and which come from all parts of the world.

French Toast.

- 2 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 12 slices bread, 1/2 inch thick

Beat the eggs, add the milk, salt and sugar. Dip slices of bread into this mixture and saute on both sides in a little hot fat until a delicate brown.

Honey Butter.

- 3/4 cup butter
- 1 cup honey

Cream the butter and when soft blend in the honey and beat until light and fluffy. Serve with hot biscuits and bread. Store in a covered jar in refrigerator.

THESE ARE GOOD

Raspberry Roll.

- Shortcake dough
- 1 pint berries
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 3/4 cup hot water

Roll biscuit dough one-half inch thick, spread with butter, place berries over the dough and sprinkle with one-fourth cup sugar. Roll like a jelly roll, cut into three-quarter-inch pieces. Place on the cut ends close together in a greased pan. Surround with remaining sugar and hot water. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Baste occasionally with syrup.

Onion Soup.

- 3 onions
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 3 pints beef stock
- 3 tablespoons grated cheese
- Pepper and salt
- 1/2 clove garlic
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1/4 loaf French bread

Slice onions and fry slowly in butter until slightly brown. Add beef stock, boil ten minutes, skim, season and add parsley and garlic. Cut bread into one-half inch slices, dry in the oven a few minutes, pour soup into casserole, put bread on top, sprinkle with grated cheese, and set in a very hot oven (450-500 degrees F.) just long enough to brown the cheese.

Lemon Batter.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 tablespoonful lemon juice
- Freshly ground pepper
- Cream butter, blend in lemon juice and a few grains of black pepper. Mix well and serve with broiled meats, fish or vegetables.

Asparagus au Gratin.

- 1 bunch asparagus
- 2 cups white sauce
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped stuffed olives
- 1 cup buttered bread crumbs

Cut tender portions of asparagus into one-inch pieces and cook until tender. Make the white sauce, add the cheese and stir until melted and add olives and asparagus. Arrange in a greased baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

Baked Ham With Glazed Apricots.

- 1 boiled ham
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 can apricots
- Whole cloves

Mix the brown sugar with the mustard and pat on the ham. Place ham in baking pan. Open can of apricots, drain and pour juice around ham. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) twenty minutes. Baste occasionally. Draw out from oven and fasten drained apricots on top with cloves. Return to oven and bake about 10 minutes longer and baste two or three times.

Spray Roses Frequently

"I find that there is one simple point in aphid control that is overlooked by a majority of rose growers," says Melvin E. Wyandt, rose specialist of Painesville, Ohio. "It is simply that they should spray often. Now don't misunderstand me. Practically all rose growers know that they must spray with a good insecticide to control aphids, but they do not realize that aphids multiply rapidly."

An effective spray for aphid control is made by mixing one to two teaspoonfuls of nicotine sulphate in a gallon of water and adding a little dissolved laundry soap. Nicotine sulphate is a poison which kills by contact—the method necessary with sucking insects such as aphids—and in addition, being volatile, it gives off fumes which also kill, making it doubly effective.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered, and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress. Frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer stinging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all day long.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the element, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her bride, Ruth accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Pat Sorley's camp. Talking over the shooting with Sorley, Ruth is incredulous of Jeff's story of shooting at the assassin rather than at her father, and later pleads with Lee to listen to him. When Lee arrives at Pat Sorley's camp, he finds only a note to Pat from Jeff. Meanwhile, Jeff rides into Tail Holt and sends word to Sperm Howard he wants to see him.

He pulled on his boots and swiftly examined his revolver. That the weapon rested lightly in its holster so that there would be no hindrance to a quick draw he made sure. This invasion in force might or might not mean trouble. Curly had probably come with a chip on his shoulder. Norris was a killer of the worst kind. On the other hand, Sherman Howard had the reputation of doing his fighting by proxy. He might have brought Morg merely as a defensive precaution. Jeff hoped, if they did not open up with a blast of guns, to talk them out of any thought of vengeance. It would not be easy now, not with Curly all hot to rub him out.

In his throat there beat the pulse of excitement that always accompanied deadly danger. His fingers trembled.

A knock on the door roused. Gray's nervousness vanished, instantly. He said, "Come in," his drawing voice cool as ice-water.

CHAPTER V

Their host maneuvered Norris to a rocking-chair. Howard to a straight-backed one. Curley he seated at the foot of the bed. Gray stood in a shadowy corner farthest from the window. He was giving himself the best chance possible. Of the three visitors, Norris was probably the most dangerous gunman, and a rocking-chair is not the most advantageous spot for swift and accurate shooting.

"A little crowded in here, gents," Gray said lightly. "Hope you don't mind sitting on the bed, Mr. Connor. I'm short of chairs."

"Suits me," Curly answered. Gray nodded, turned his attention to the big man. "I hated to trouble you to come here, Mr. Howard," he said apologetically, "but I have a busted leg that interferes with walking."

"I didn't mind coming. I wasn't busy," Howard's leaden opaque eyes never lifted from the stranger.

"Just reached town and I thought I'd better see you," Gray mentioned.

Slumped in the chair, the gross weight of the man overflowing, Howard reminded Gray of a prize hog.

Howard said nothing. He waited for the situation to develop. The man had a capacity for effective silence.

"Figuring I might want to stay around Tail Holt awhile," Gray went on easily.

"It's a free country," Howard's voice was suave.

"For some folks," Norris added with an insolent laugh.

Gray smiled. "My idea, too, Mr. Norris. I want to find out if I'm one of those folks."

"Last time I saw you that roan was foggin' it outa town fast," Norris taunted. "You looked like you had hurry up business anywhere but here, Mr. Gray. If that's what you call yoreself."

"I changed my mind," Gray said.

"Why?" Howard asked bluntly.

"Got a busted leg. Shot up the other day."

"In front of the Golden Nugget?" Norris inquired, suspicion in his cold gray eyes.

"No. Out on the L C range."

"While you were gunning for Lee," Curly charged.

"No."

"That so?" Norris snarled. "Who did it? How come you out there?"

"Talk fast, fellow," Curly ordered harshly.

"Miss Ruth Chiswick did it," Gray did not look at Curly. His stone-wall gaze was on the killer Norris.

"I was there on personal business of my own."

Cuply ripped out an angry oath. "If you hurt Miss Ruth—"

Smoothly Howard interrupted. "Let us hear the story, Curly. Mr. Gray sent for us to tell it, don't you reckon?"

"Go ahead, Sorreltop," Norris laughed derisively. "We'll believe every word you say."

Gray told the story of his adventures in the L C territory, with careful editorial elisions. They heard it to a finish.

"That Chiswick girl is a tough proposition," Howard said, shaking his head gravely. "She'll come to a bad end, like enough."

"Nothing of the kind," retorted Curly hotly. "She's a mighty nice little lady."

"Some hot-tempered, but with the making of a fine woman in her," Gray concurred.

"She's sure a wampus cat," Norris cut in, his slurred voice a sneer. "Leave the girl out of this," Curly snapped.

"Mr. Norris only meant she is a little lively," Gray explained.

"I can tell him what I meant, fellow, without any help from you," Norris blustered. "And I didn't bring her name into it. She was in the fairy tale this bird has been giving us."

Ignoring Norris, the crook-nosed man spoke to Howard. "I don't claim to be so law-abiding myself. Maybe I left some place in a hurry. Maybe I didn't. Thought it wasn't good manners to ask a stranger about his past."

"You can't catch a mule without an ear of corn, Mr. Gray," the big man said. "If I get you right, you are asking our help. Before we give it we have a right to know all about you."

"Fine, for you," the cornered man replied. "But how about me? How do I know some fox won't write a letter and have me dragged back to some place I don't want to go?"

Howard looked affronted. "If a man throws in with us, we don't betray him."

"Is that a promise?" Gray asked, looking to the others for confirmation.

"Y'betcha, if we're satisfied with yore story," Curly said.

"If," Norris accented, with an ugly laugh.

Reluctantly Gray drew from his pocket the poster. Still slumped in his chair, the big-shouldered fat man read it carefully.

"So you're Clint Duke," he said. Gray did not admit this in words.

"Draw yore own conclusions," he told Howard.

"Lemme have a look at it," Curly said impatiently. He read aloud: "Height five foot ten, age twenty-nine, weight about 150 pounds, crook nose, light red hair, gray eyes, scar on back of left hand. Will probably fight desperately before being taken."

Curly lifted his eyes and grinned at Gray. "Certainly reads like it might be you, unless you've got a twin brother the spittin' image of you, even to the scar on yore hand."

Norris reached for the poster. "The picture is sure ugly as galvanized sin," he sneered. "But it looks a heap like this guy, I'll say that. I knew all the time he was from Texas."

"Says you and these three other fellows are wanted for robbing the Texas and Southern Flyer," Curly mentioned. "Where are the other guys?"

"On the dodge, down in the Texas brush country."

"How come you not to stay there?"

"The Rangers were after me special," Gray explained. "I figured I had better light out."

Norris looked at the poster, his lip curled. "Mr. Duke is real important in Texas. Arizona sure ought to give him the glad hand."

"The name is Gray in Arizona," corrected the crook-nosed man.

"Worth two thousand on the hoof—or as meat, I reckon—down Santeone way," Norris continued. "The other guys who helped rob the train only rate at five hundred apiece. But Mr. Duke—he's an honest-to-God Jesse James."

Gray ignored the jeer. "Like to correct you on one point, Mr. Norris. Two thousand on the hoof. Not a cent if shipped down in a coffin." He thought it just as well to stress this, to avoid being shot in the back.

"That's right," Norris assented. "I didn't read it careful. Well, Mr. Duke—Gray, I mean—it's a pleasure to meet up with a famous man like you."

"This is private information," the fugitive said. "I don't expect the word passed around among yore friends. I'm lying low for a while, you understand."

"It still isn't clear to me what you were doing in the Sweet Spring valley," Curly insisted. "Or why you wanted to kill Lee Chiswick?"

Gray smiled. "I was in the Sweet Spring valley because I had to get out of Tail Holt in a hurry on account of Curly Connor making a target out of me," he told the black-haired man cheerfully. "Me, I was going somewhere in a hurry, and I happened to land in the L C country. About yore other question—I never have wanted to kill Chiswick."

"You just shot at him for practice," Curly suggested.

"I didn't shoot at him," Gray let his cold eyes rest on Norris. "I reckon that's not information to yore friends."

"Meaning me?" asked Norris, his eyes slitted.

"Meaning only that this has been talked over among you. Someone took a crack at Chiswick. Whoever it was, I could just see his figure in the alley, and I ripped loose at him."

"Why?" asked Howard. "Had you any chips in the game?"

"I've asked myself why often enough since," Gray replied, shaking his head. "Damnfo my Nary chip, Mr. Howard. But I had just been eating copper with him as his guest, and I reckon my notion must have been to see he got a fair break."

"But that isn't yore notion any longer, Mr. Gray?" Howard queried lightly.

"I'm not drawing a pay-check to be his bodyguard," Gray drawled.

"Is it straight goods what he says, Sperm?" Curly demanded.

"I reckon so, Curly. One of the boys got impatient and cut loose at Chiswick."

"Who?"

"I don't know who. I'm telling you only what I've heard."

"All right," Norris said. "This busted leg of his. Do we have to take it on faith?"

"It needs some attention," the wounded man replied. "Is there a doc in town?"

"No, doc, but Sperm here is almost as good."

"Fine. Would you mind looking at it, Mr. Howard?" Gray asked.

Howard examined, washed, and dressed the wound. There could be no doubt—it was authentic. After he had finished taking care of it, the fat man gave a decision.

"No objection to your staying here, Mr. Gray. This community doesn't aim to be hard on a man in trouble. Of course, if Lee Chiswick finds out you are here, as he is liable to do, it will be up to you to look out for yourself."

Gray said he would try to do that.

Tony Flores, one of the vaqueros, rode in to the big house with word that there had been another raid on L C stock.

"How do you know?" Lee Chiswick demanded.

"Ran across the tracks of a bunch being driven up Box canyon," the Mexican said.

"New tracks?"

"I'd say not more than a day old, senator."

"Sure they were driven—that they weren't strays?" asked Dan Brand.

Tony explained that five or six shod horses had followed the cattle.

"Too late to catch the thieves or pick up the stolen stock," Brand mourned.

"Maybe not." Lee gave curt orders. "Arm yourselves, boys. We'll take off after them. Ruth, help Frank rustle grub for us—enough for two-three days. Bob, get Pat Sorley and Buck Conrad. Cut across and meet us at the mouth of Box canyon. Tell them to bring rifles as well as six-guns. Be there inside of an hour."

Ruth gathered all the food she had cooked, had Nelly grind two packages of coffee, chose a side of bacon, added flour and corn meal, as well as salt, pepper, and sugar. The food she put in gunnysacks.

Her brother roped a pack-horse and put on a crossbuck. With a lash rope he threw a diamond hitch expertly over the supplies.

"Bring your slickers," the boss snapped. "No war-sacks. We're traveling light. You won't be sitting on your spurs any this trip. Got to hot-foot it over a cold trail."

At the entrance to Box canyon Lee found Sorley, Conrad, and his son Bob waiting for them. Sorley was sniffing over the ground like a dog looking for a scent. The old man was an expert trapper. He had been a scout in the army during the Geronimo campaign.

The cattleman turned his horse over to Frank and strode forward to join Pat.

"What'd you find?" he asked.

"About half a dozen of 'em with a bunch of young stuff traveling lickety-split," Sorley said. "They're in one hell of a hurry. Here's a big long-stepping horse with outsize shoes. This one has a broken hoof. You'll be pleased to know, Lee, that the lying cut who calls himself Jeff Gray is in with them. Must have ridden right over from the line-camp."

"Sure?"

"Unless he has loaned his roan to someone else. I made it my business to take particular notice of that animal while he was at the line-camp. The blacksmith who shod that roan was either short of time or nails. There's a nail shy in the shoe on the left front hoof. Take a look at this track."

Lee Chiswick studied the foot-mark.

"Here it is again. Begorry, I'd swear to that on a stack of Bibles. Gray's roan made it."

"Hmp! We've got him at last so he can't lie out of it. He's one of the Tail Holt rustling gang." Chiswick's salient jaw set.

"I knew he was a bad hombre first minute I clapped eyes on him," Brand said.

Lee drew Frank to one side. "Son, we're following a cold trail. Look at those clouds. It's going to rain tonight, and all tracks will be blotted out. Might as well hunt a needle in a haystack as these scoundrels. I want you to go to Tail Holt and keep your eyes open. There will be a lot of whispered talk among the rustlers there, but you won't hear any of that. What I'd like to know is who is in town and who isn't. Find out who has been away. Notice who drops in. If two or three come together, check up on that. I'm pretty sure Sperm Howard is back of these raids on our stock, though of course he doesn't do any night-riding himself."

English Lord's Romance Told In 'Patrician'

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

LORD MILTOUN, main character of John Galsworthy's "The Patrician," was born into the titled class of England. His family owned and controlled vast properties and the lives of countless people.

Amid the varied interests of his family, in which three generations lived in close contact, and against a background of town houses and country houses, Lord Miltoun grew to maturity with an ascetic soul and a highly cultivated mind. World travel had added breadth to his university training so that he now felt himself somewhat qualified to take his place in parliament.

It was at this time, just when his parents, Lord and Lady Valleys, were satisfied with the trend of things, he met Mrs. Noel.

Mrs. Noel lived alone in a little house not far from Lord Miltoun's country place. Through music and over the tea cups before a warm fire, she drew into the barren heart of the young nobleman, who loved her warm, soft coloring and her artistic insight. As soon as Lord Miltoun's family heard of this situation, they had much to say about it to each other. As usual Lady Casterly was first to do something.

Using her walking cane and holding the arm of Lady Barbara, her beautiful granddaughter, the seventy-eight-year-old grandmother went down to the little house to see this person who dared intrude into the well-arranged life of Lord Miltoun. The conversation was such that Mrs. Noel decided to give up seeing Lord Miltoun.

Family Discovers Marriage.

In the family a sort of crisis arose after Lady Casterly's call. There was much talk and it was discovered that Mrs. Noel was already married. Lord Miltoun was shocked. He had interpreted her situation to mean divorce.

Lord Miltoun went to see her. She told him now she had been married very young to a much older person, a clergyman of the Church of England. How life had grown intolerable and how she had lived alone for this long time. He told her good-by and left at once for London and his affairs in parliament.

His first speech brought acclaim to the name of Lord Miltoun and honor to the family. Lady Barbara went into London to congratulate her brother. Going to his suite of rooms, she found him raving with a brain fever. His ravings were to Audrey Noel and he spoke beautifully of his love for her.

Immediately Lady Barbara went to a telephone and made communication with Mrs. Noel, asking her to come at once to take care of Lord Miltoun. Of all this, Lady Barbara said nothing to her family. Mrs. Noel came at once and remained for days with Lord Miltoun, bringing him out of his delirium and giving him peace of mind.

Confronts Indecision.

Convalescence brought no peace of mind to Lord Miltoun. He had not the strength to fight the solid wall of his family, yet his mind and body were ill with longing for his loved one. As soon as he was strong enough, he went to London to see her.

Wishing to settle the dangling ends of the affair as quickly as possible, Lord Miltoun sought out his mother and father at their country place. The son stated that he would resign from parliament because his life was already joined with that of Mrs. Noel.

Sought Advice of Others.

But Lord Miltoun did not have what it takes to face a strongly united family. He did not rely upon himself, but instead he turned to others whose opinions he had been taught to follow instead of his own.

When Lord Miltoun went again to see Mrs. Noel, he found only a letter that said little. She was gone. Rushing into the home of Lady Casterly, he spoke with fury to her, rushing out into the night again like a madman. Lady Barbara followed him into the automobile and drove all night with him.

Again Lord Miltoun entered the affairs of parliament, intent on becoming a successful statesman.

Two Very Important Fashions for Spring

A TWO-PIECE tailored dress for street and business, and a softly detailed afternoon dress that's especially becoming to large figures. Even if you're not an experienced sewer, you'll enjoy making them, for the patterns are easy to follow and each includes a complete and detailed sew chart. So start right in, now, to discover how pleasant and economical it is to be your own dress-maker.

Dress With Jacket-Blouse.

Exactly the style you want for street wear, shopping trips and business. The jacket blouse is so attractive, with its puff sleeves, fitted waistline and nauty little peplum. It can be worn with your spring suit skirt, too. Make it up in flat crepe for immediate wear and later in linen or pique, using all one color or a printed blouse and plain skirt, as pictured.

For Large Women.

A very graceful dress with slenderizing lines, thanks to the smooth shoulders, the cape sleeves, always flattering to plump arms, and the skirt that's narrow round the hips and slightly wide at the hem. Gathers beneath the raglan shoulders make the blouse soft and becoming. In georgette, flat crepe or pulka dot silk, this will be your spring favorite. Later, during hot weather, it will be a cool joy in dotted Swiss or voile.

The Patterns.

1477 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the jacket and 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt.

1499 is 33, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material. If contrasting collar is wanted it requires 3/4 yard.

Send your order to The Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Your Town Your Stores

Our community includes the farm homes surrounding the town. The town stores are there for the accommodation and to serve the people of our farm homes. The merchants who advertise "specials" are merchants who are sure they can meet all competition in both quality and prices.

Early Roman Writers Classified Their Dogs as Watch, Sheep, Hunting Breeds

Without doubt one of the earliest uses of a dog was to help herd the stock of his master. Early references to dogs confirm this. When you examine the works of Roman writers; observes an authority in the Chicago Tribune, you find that they divided dogs into three classifications, watchdogs, sheep dogs, and hunting dogs. It is quite likely that the conquering Romans brought these dogs into England. The Bible also gives us a sidelight on the early use of dogs for herding, as in the book of Job we read Job's reference to "those whose fathers I would have disdained to have set with dogs of my flocks."

sheep on the moors of Scotland and elsewhere in the British Isles varies considerably in type. For example, there are long-haired, short-haired, and bearded border collies. The long-haired is the most popular.

Here in America the biggest advancement in making the breed better has been during the last ten or twelve years. The source of most of the promotion of the breed has come from New England, where there are quite a few of the dogs being used on sheep farms. It was in New England that the first American sheep dog trails for the breed were held.

Transferring Allegiance

With the exception of the United States and Great Britain, says Collier's Weekly, nearly every country in the world refuses to recognize the right of a citizen or subject to transfer his allegiance to another nation. They maintain that every man is subject to recall to his native land for military service, even when he has been a naturalized citizen of another country for years

Board is convened at 10:00 A. M. Monday April 4, 1938 by S. E. Greisen, Sheriff.

Present: S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman, Gordon Wells, Member, S. E. Greisen, Sheriff, Edward Penfield, Clerk.

Absent: P. R. Sandoval, Jr. member.

And now the Board of Commissioners proceeds to examine claims presented for payment against the various County Funds and warrants ordered issued for those duly allowed.

Minutes of the previous term of the Commissioners Court are now read over and approved in open session.

A Petition is presented to the Board by the Woman's Chamber of Commerce of Ruidoso requesting the Board to aid in the matter of obtaining the sum of $250.00 for a Sanatarian for the village of Ruidoso next summer; and the Board after considering the petition orders that the same be held for further consideration on the occasion of the next Annual Budget meeting at which time it can be determined if funds are available for the project.

A petition is read having been presented to the Board of Commissioners by various residents of Precinct No. 2, Hondo, requesting that Mr. Frank Randolph be appointed as Justice of the Peace to succeed Mr. John Mackey, the latter having resigned because of illness.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, it appearing to the Board that Mr. John Mackey, late as Justice of the Peace within and for Precinct No. 2, Lincoln County, has resigned, which resignation is here and now accepted by the Board, and

WHEREAS, it appearing to the Board that Mr. Frank Randolph is a legal resident of San Patricio, precinct No. 2, Lincoln County, and that he can qualify to act as a Justice of the Peace within and for said precinct, and the Board having fully considered a petition presented praying for the appointment of the said Frank Randolph.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the appointment of Frank Randolph as Justice of the Peace within and for the precinct No. 1, of Lincoln County, is hereby ordered and it is ordered that he file a bond in the amount of $500.00, and otherwise qualify for the said office as by law provided.

The Clerk's, Sheriff's and Treasurer's reports are now examined and approved.

The reports for the Justices of Peace for the first quarter of 1938 at hand are examined and approved.

The Board of County Commissioners recesses as a Board of Commissioners and convenes as the Lincoln County Board of Equalization.

Comes now the Board of Equalization and proceeds with examining and approving the Tax Schedules submitted by the County Tax Assessor.

The Board of Equalization recesses 12:00 M. until 1:30 p. m.

The Board of Equalization convenes at 1:30 p. m. pursuant to recess.

And now at 9:30 p. m. the Board of Equalization orders the Clerk to GIVE NOTICE to all interested parties or individuals that on the first Monday in May, being May 2nd, 1938, said Board will hear any complaints on assessments; further, at a Special Meeting to be held on that date.

And now the Board of Equalization having completed its duties of approving the Tax Schedules at hand, hereby recesses at 9:30 p. m. until May 2nd, 1938 at 10 a. m.

S. Dewey Stokes, Chairman.
Attest: Edward Penfield, Clerk.

Democratic Sidlights

It appears that the Republican party is in the throes of one of the spasms into which it is inevitably plunged in its efforts to maintain its historic reactionary principles without throwing overboard the liberals of the West who used to be one of its elements. Democrats remember how at convention after convention Senator Borah, for example, with the elder La Follette used to strive to relieve the Grand Old Party of some of its moss, only to be voted down, which left them the option of going along with the standpatters or engaging in such hopeless revolts as was indicated by the La Follette Independent candidacy in 1924.

This reminiscence is provoked by the recent selection of Mr. Frank Waltman of the Washington Post to conduct their publicity branch. This able young man is, or used to be a Democrat. When he was given the place as political commentator on a Republican newspaper he was true to the code of the honest soldier of fortune who fights his best under the flag of whatever cause engages him.

So for some years, he has devoted himself to pointing out the errors of the New Deal, the mistakes of President Roosevelt, and the general excellence of the administration's opposition. Through the years he has argued on that side so consistently, we have no doubt that he converted himself and is now as sincerely reactionary as any member of the Old Guard.

So we find him in 1936 telling his readers that the election of Governor Landon depended on the vote of New York and Pennsylvania, where the Kansas Governor, as he pointed out in a more or less thorough analysis of the registration, the straw votes, etc., had an excellent chance. Of New York he said, referring to Al Smith, "it is possible that the former chieftain's bolt will have supplied a margin sufficient to place the state in the Landon column." We should be the last person in the world to call attention to a blundering political prophecy, for we have an uncomfortable recollection that in 1924 we thought in the contest between Al Smith and Calvin Coolidge that the election would be decided by the votes of a few doubtful states. Unconsciously, but honestly, a writer's judgment is swayed by his own predilections.

Just now I am inclined to sympathize with Mr. Waltman in his new task. We know that following the '36 election, this commentator found fault with Republican National Chairman, John Hamilton, for his statement that the Republican party leadership, "forgot the men and women who live across the tracks in American life. Thus," he said "the Republicans get no place talking about going over the tracks, or attracting youth, or being liberal." He thought that there must be a program dedicated to the general welfare "irrespective of whether it helps or hurts a particular class."

In another article, about the same time, the publicist mentioned that "the trouble with the Republican party is--and it was pitifully demonstrated during the recent campaign--that it lacks principles." His closing paragraph in the article quoted above made even a more definite revelation of his individual point of view for he wrote "the Republicans, on the other hand, made progress as a conservative party, and they must get back to that mooring if the party is to survive."

However, there is always an out for the standpat propagandist. He may do as every other Republican orator or editorial anti-administration advocate has done in the past; and that is to call attention to the evil of anything the Roosevelt administration does or wants and how much better the Republicans would do it if they had the chance. He has not the agility of words which Mr. Frank Kent, for example, possesses, and is more inclined to solemn assertion and more or less erudite dissertations on such abstruse problems as the money question and the tax laws than to sprightly comment.
