CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1938

NUMBER 52

Announces for Seat on Bench

Frank H. Patton, attorney general of New Mexico, announced his candidacy for justice of the state supreme court to succeed Justice A. H. Hudspeth who will retire at the expiration of his term December 31.

Patton, a Democrat, now serving his second term as attorney general and who previously served as assistant attorney general, announced his candidacy to newsmen. He made no other statement.

The attorney general has been prominently mentioned for the post for some time, and is the first to publicly seek the nomination. A number of others, including District Judge Thomas Mabry of Albuquerque, District Judge James B. McGhee of Roswell and District Judge Numa C. Frenger of Las Cruces have been mentioned for the post.

Banquet

A lovely banquet was served to the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary, June 15th, Wednesday evening at El Cibola Hotel. The banquet was in honor of the State Department President, Mrs. Michele but unfortunately due to tire trouble. She did not arrive in time for the banquet. However, the following morning a meeting was held at Kelley's Hardware Store.

Mrs. Anna Roberts has returned from a visit to Tucumcari.

Legion Auxiliary

The Carrizozo American Legion Auxiliary was one of several units to attend the District Meeting and accept the invitation received from the Tularosa unit to luncheon and later in the evening, a steak fry at the Tularosa White Sands, Friday, the 17th. After the lunch at the Woman's Club Building, the ladies met with the State Department President, Mrs. Michele. All units present made favorable reports, as did the units that could not be there, but sent reports in.

After the meeting adjourned about 5:30, everybody started for the White Sands, and what with getting off the road, taking left turns and right turns and looking for monuments, the designated spot was finally "arrove" at. Then followed the fire making and preparations were made for the steak fry by some of the party, while others took pictures, discarded their shoes (and lost 'em) and rolled in the sand, met old friends until the call came to "come and get it." Mountains of steak were eaten as were gallons of salad, ladles of gravy, gallons of ice cream and untold quantities of real honest to gosh coffee were inhaled and imbibed.

After this huge repast, the fire was built up and as everyone sat around the fire, war songs and cowboy songs were sung, which was a very appropriate ending for 'sich goins on.'

Everyone, the writer firmly believes, had a wonderful time and after having said so, betook themselves to their respective cars and on home—Reporter.

Chevrolet Modern Merchandising

"You should deal with the customer on the Golden Rule basis—only you do it first." This was the advice which W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation; gave this week in an address to the 27 members of the Chevrolet School of Modern Merchandising and Management for sons of dealers, now entering the final days of their seven-week course in Detroit.

Mr. Knudsen said that this principle built permanency into the automobile business, which is on a solid foundation now as compared to the earlier times, when the fathers of students were entering it. The sons of dealers, he said, would start in the field as salesmen and managers under very favorable circumstances as compared to earlier times.

I. O. O. F. Notes

Last Tuesday night the Odd Fellows held another bumper meeting with a large number in attendance.

Next Monday night the Alamogordo lodge is to confer the initiatory degree on 9 candidates and have invited the local lodge degree team down to puton the work.

Misses Lorene Snow, Pinkie Ruth Skinner and Martha Catherine Smith returned from Clovis Sunday, where they attended Grand Assembly of Rainbow for girls.

Catherine Smith was appointed Grand Patriotism for next year. She served as Grand Confidential Observer this year. Mrs. Jack Payne accompanied the girls to Clovis.

White Oaks Notes

The Power Plant—located two miles southeast of town proper, is situated in a lovely spot in the foothills of the Carrizos. The plant is of corrugated iron with all modern construction. The building is enhanced by a small front lawn planted with yellow roses, aspen, spruce and cedar trees.

The theatre was flushed with silence. Lovely Snow White was dead. The passage of time was depicted by the melting of snow and the blossoming of spring flowers. A spray of apple blossoms denoting the change was shown on the screen—when suddenly out of silence Mary Margaret age two, exclaimed, "Who turned on the roses?"

Mrs. C. W. Coe of Tularosa spent the past weekend with her daughter Mrs. E. W. Myers. Miss Norma Coe who has been visiting her sister returned to Tula. with her mother late Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Campbell of Albuquerque is spending awhile with her sister Mrs. E. W. Myers.

The Ladies Aid met at their club rooms last Thursday—sixteen members being present. Plans for entertaining the fathers on the nineteenth were rounded out. Sandwiches brought by the members were served.

The Ladies Aid entertained the fathers on Father's Day with a picnic supper on the grounds across from the old Powder Magazine. Each father was interviewed by the L. A. president, Mrs. Marie Fulmer. Do you like being a father? The answers were varied and sundry, but all signified a contentment with their lot. Ice cream suckers were a surprise treat for all participants of the picnic.

The dance at Cleghorn Hall last Saturday night—by the Pecos Valley Ramblers was well attended by young folks. All seemed to have quite a gay good time. Cold and hot drinks and tasty sandwiches always round out an evening of fun.

Village Report

Minutes of regular meeting of Board of Trustees held at City Hall June 7, 1938, 7:30 p. m.

Members present: F. E. Richard, Mayor; John W. Harkey, Tennis Bigelow, Daniel Chavez and A. J. Rolland, members; Roley Ward, marshal; Morgan Lovelace, clerk.

Members absent: None. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. W. S. Norman, Mr. Jess Roberts and Joe Romero appeared before the Board with a request for a reduction in the Village liquor license fee. After some discussion a motion by Tennis Bigelow and seconded by Daniel Chavez that the dispenser's liquor license fee be reduced from $350.00 to $300.00 per annum.

Motion by John W. Harkey seconded by Tennis Bigelow that an ordinance amending ordinance No. 37 be and the same is adopted relating to certain kinds of amusement devices etc. Motion carried.

Motion by Tennis Bigelow and seconded by A. J. Rolland that the alley-way in block 11 of the original townsite of the Village of Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico, according to the original plat thereof, be and the same is hereby vacated and closed and that it no longer retain its status as a public alley-way. Motion carried.

Another Service Station

Construction of a new service station opposite the News office was started last Tuesday. Mrs. Ward of Alamogordo will operate this station. We are informed she will sell Standard Oil products.

Mr. J. C. Hutchinson was host at a bridge party last Monday night. Six couples were present. Special guests were the Messrs. Phillips Evans, Tom and Bob Hughes and Eugene Northcut. Delicious lemonade and cake were served.

Plans for 54

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Blaney went to El Paso last Monday. Dr. Blaney visited all of the officers of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce in the interest of the meeting to be held at Corona next Monday in connection with the Highway 54 association. He found all interested and anxious to have the surfacing of 54 complete.

Dr. Blaney invites all who intend to go to Corona Monday to meet at the S. P. hotel at 8:30 a. m. and start from there.

A few showers, while not furnishing enough moisture, have given some relief from the intense heat.

Mrs. Alice Roberts pebbledashed her home on Elm street this week, and made other improvements.

Office Of Dennis Chavez

Washington, D. C., June 18, 1938.—At the close of the 75th Congress Senator Chavez said that an examination of his record in the Congress would reveal him to be a consistent New Dealer and staunch supporter of President Roosevelt.

He left by train for New Mexico and will arrive Monday 20, 1938.

Immediately prior to his departure he announced that he was returning to take active part in the Democratic nominating convention and the campaign and that he would seek a nominee for Governor who is liberal and who is not associated with the utilities and corporations and he would also seek a clear expression from the nominee on the matter of protecting the people of the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District and a promise of stringent control of utilities.

Many matters of vital importance to the people of New Mexico were considered during the session. Some of the more important are:

Wages and Hours

Senator Chavez considered the Wages and Hours measure of the outstanding legislative effort of the Congress. Though not satisfied with the 25c minimum rate he feels the bill is a step in the right direction and that the principle of maximum hours and minimum wages for American Industry is at last established.

Tax Revenue and Relief

Senator Chavez voted for bolstering American defenses; he also voted for the President's Crop Control Bill, supported the Harrison Revenue Bill and voted for the Relief Bill.

Coronado Coinage Bill

In the last moments of the Congress the House passed the Coronado Cuarto Centennial Coinage Bill. Sent to the Senate it was passed without objection. Senate members of the Banking and Currency Committee who had promised to object to any discussion of the bill were caught napping.

Coronado Curato Centennial Participation Bill

The Senate passed the Chavez-Hatch Coronado Cuarto Centennial Participation Bill by which the President would proclaim the celebration of the festival and invite the countries of Latin-America to participate in the commemoration. The House failed to act on the bill.

White Mountain Association

The White Mountain Association, I. O. O. F. met at Camp Lee Robinson June 18-19, 1938. Attendance the first day was fair and the second day it was most excellent.

The regular session opened Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with song and prayer.

Speakers for the occasion were Mrs. Pauline Bloxom, president of the Rebekah Assembly of New Mexico; Dr. C. T. Kibbe of Elida, Grand Instructor; Mrs. Voyd Howard, Grand Warden of Rebekah assembly of Texas; Mr. W. N. Bloxom, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment; Messrs. Newsom, Alamogordo; Carpenter, Carrizozo; Judge Elfers, El Paso.

Others prominent in Lodge circles were Mmes. Hurt of Roswell, past president and Grand secretary; Mrs. Cady Alamogordo Past-Pres. Rebekah assembly, Mrs. Malone, Mrs. Shofner and others.

Business session in the afternoon went on smoothly until someone announced a forest fire about 200 yards up the road. A recess was called; all the men and most of the women went to fight the fire, which was extinguished, by a bucket brigade in about 45 minutes. After the slight delay, business went forward rapidly.

President for next year is Judge Elfers, El Paso; Sec-Treas., is Mrs. Ludie, El Paso; Vice-presidents were re-elected. A donation of $25.00 was voted for Camp Lee Robinson.

Visitors praised the splendid location and the delightful mountain breezes. All enjoyed the basket dinner with quantities of delicious food, ice tea, and coffee and all promised to be present at next year's meeting.

CAPITAN ITEMS

Beginning last Monday night, there has been a revival at the Baptist-Methodist church, and it will continue through next Sunday night.

Annie Bonnell has returned home after visiting friends in Arizona.

Miss Ruth Hale became the bride of Mr. Lovana Means recently. Their many friends wish them a long and happy married life.

Mrs. Tom Bingham and Mrs. Burly Beller were hostesses at a wedding shower given for Mrs. Roy Lawrence last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Ed Abeyta is now employed at the Titworth Store again after being away for some time.

The Arch Hurley Irrigation District

The District gained a new lease on life through the Chavez-Hatch Amendment to the Second Deficiency Bill. $250,000.00 is appropriated by which administrative and material expenses will be furnished for the project which will eventually see some 50,000 acres of land north and east of Tucumcari under irrigation. In addition, WPA funds have been assured for labor costs and some 1500 needy men will soon be employed. Work will commence in about 90 days, say Reclamation Bureau chiefs.

Jeff fired—missed. A bullet zipped past his ear. He shot again, knocking the revolver from the hands of the bandit into the creek. Norris made a rush to recover the weapon, his arm fishing the water for it. As he pulled the Colt's out of the current, Gray was upon him. The barrel of Jeff's revolver crashed down on his head and knocked him over. He lay motionless, his forty-four again in the brook.

The red-headed man made sure the outlaw did not have another gun on his person. To Ruth he gave crisp commands.

"Get the gun out of the creek, girl. And pick up that rifle over there. Then step behind me out of the way."

Ruth did as she was told. Her face was chalk white, but she moved lightly on her feet.

Norris groaned and sat up, hands pressing against his bleeding head. "You aim to kill me?" he snarled defiantly.

"I'm going to drag you back with a rope round your neck," Gray answered. "Lee Chiswick will hang you to a cottonwood."

The eyes in the swarthy face of the trapped man slid away from Gray, to take in the tethered horses and the brush that came close to the camp. What he was thinking could be easily guessed.

Ruth moved close to the man who had rescued her.

"Let him go," she begged in a low, broken voice. "I—I can't stand any more."

Jeff did not look at her. His gaze held fast to the prisoner. "No chance," he said. "He's going back with us to your father. Go bring me a rope from that saddle."

"I'm afraid of him," the girl pleaded. "He's—horrible. You don't know."

"I can guess. Don't worry about him," Jeff added, grimly. "He'll be rubbed out plenty soon."

The alighted eyes of Norris had come back to them. He watched the man and the woman warily.

"Without a gun and without a horse he couldn't do us any harm," Ruth urged.

"You don't turn rattlesnakes loose because you're afraid of them," Gray told her coldly. "You stomp them out."

"Yes, but—"

Norris dived for the brush, his lithe body moving fast as a streak of light. The gun in Gray's hand roared, and the bullet plowed into the ground. For Ruth had struck down his forearm and was clinging to it with both hands. He tried to free himself—slung the girl roughly away.

The escaping man was in the willows. Jeff could see and hear the violent agitation of the young sprouts. He fired at the place twice, then plunged into the thicket after the bandit.

For a hundred yards he followed the fugitive. Abruptly he gave up the chase. He could no longer hear the rustling of foliage. Better get back to the camp. The fellow might hide, wait till he had passed, and slip back to the horses.

Anger grew in Jeff Gray as he swished back to the camp through the willows. By golden luck he had found this villain's camp and saved Ruth from disaster. For some fool woman's reason she had interferred to help him escape. With Sorley he had ridden fifty miles to save her, and for reward she made a fool of him out of sheer caprice.

Pat Sorley burst out of the brush just as Jeff reached the camp.

"I heard shots," the line-rider cried, then caught sight of Ruth and stopped abruptly, staring at her. "Glory be, he found you."

"Yes," Ruth answered, and bit her lip to keep down a sob.

Gray strode up to her. "What do you mean by knocking down my arm and hanging on to me?" he demanded, a cold, contained rage in his voice.

She swallowed a lump in her throat. "I—couldn't help it," she said meekly.

"Couldn't help it. Don't be a fool."

"I couldn't have you kill him, after what I saw him do this afternoon." She shuddered, seeing for a moment the slack body of Kansas crumpling down to the ground.

"I don't get this," Sorley said, looking from one to the other. "You never in the world kept Gray from killin' this divil when he had a chance?"

"That's just what she did—grabbed my arm and hung on while he was making a break to get away," Jeff said bitterly. "It seems he had become her dear friend during the day. Probably we butted in where we weren't wanted, Pat."

"Don't say that!" Ruth cried. "He's an awful man—inhuman. I never saw anyone like him. His face—when he killed the other man—was like that of a devil. If you hadn't come—"

Her big eyes met those of Gray and shrank away.

"You hated him so much you couldn't bear to have him rubbed out," Gray said with a curl of the lip.

"I didn't want you or Father to kill him in cold blood while he was unarmed," she explained in a low voice. "I saw him do that today—shoot down a poor man trying to escape from him. Would I want my friends to be like him?"

"So you were thinking of us," Gray said, his drawl derisively insulting. "On our account you turned him loose to kill eight or ten more men. Nice the way you manage our business. I hope Lee Chiswick is as grateful to you as I am."

He turned his back on the girl and spoke to Sorley. "Reckon we'd better get back to our own camp, Pat, eat supper, and move down the creek a ways. He might meet some more wolves—and come back to howl at us."

"Not likely, with him afoot and unarmed. Still, it's possible."

"I'll walk to camp," Gray told him. "Better saddle those broncs and ride down."

Without another word to Ruth, he picked up the weapons of Norris and departed.

Pat had stopped supper preparations when he heard the shots farther up the creek, but presently he had the coffee boiling and the ham fried. Ruth sat near Pat, at a little distance from Gray, whose face still showed no friendliness. Her shoulders sagged. She felt very tired, was under a reaction from great fear and excitement that left her a rag.

While they ate their food and drank their coffee the line-rider did the talking for all three. He was garrulously happy at the termination of the adventure. Against all likelihood their luck had stood up. Eagerly he asked questions, and got monosyllabic answers. After a time he protested.

"Begorry, you'd think this was a wake and not the luckiest hour of the year," he scorted. "We ought to be thanking God you're safe again."

"I am," Ruth answered wearily. "Ye don't look like it," he retorted.

"I'm—tired out," she said, in a lifeless voice.

Looking at her shadowed eyes and white haggard face, Sorley felt remorse at his sharpness. "You'll have a good sleep tonight and be rested tomorrow," he said gently.

They packed, saddled, and rode down the creek for a few miles. Sorley chose for a campground a little mesa three or four hundred yards from the stream. No fire was lit, and the night was cold, as Arizona nights in the high hills are likely to be. Pat made a bed of pine boughs for Ruth and tucked her up snugly in two blankets.

"One of us will be on guard all night," he explained to her. "Don't worry about a thing, but let go of yoreself and slip off to slape like a good girl."

She promised that she would, adding with a smile, "You've been awfully good to me, Pat."

Sherm Howard was alone in the house. He had spent the evening at the Golden Nugget and had come home to sleep, but he knew that was not going to be possible for many hours yet. He sat at a table, a small coal-oil lamp at one corner of it, looking down savagely at the solitary layout in front of him. There was no pleasure for him in the game. While he dealt and played automatically, the undercurrent of his mind was absorbed by the difficulties confronting him.

A heavy gloom lay on his spirits. He was in a jam and knew it. Fifty times he had gone over the facts anxiously looking for an out, and he had not been able to find one. Until the situation had resolved itself one way or another he could be sure of nothing.

Howard came to an impasse in the game, gathered up the cards, and shuffled them. He started to deal, but stopped with a card poised: The outside door of the house had opened a few inches. Through the crack a pair of eyes gleamed. Very little more of the face could be seen, for the hat was well pulled down and a bandanna handkerchief covered the nose and mouth.

Sherm Howard had time for a moment of fervent regret. How had he happened to forget to bolt the door, with his forty-four lying in the cupboard a long five yards away from him?

The door opened farther and a lithe body slid through the widened crack into the room. The eyes of the self-invited guest did not lift from his host while a brown hand closed the door and pushed home the bolt.

Howard's stomach sagged as if from a weight of ice-cold lead. His mouth went dry. The man standing with his back to the door was Morgan Norris.

Norris grinned evilly. "Didn't expect me, did you, Sherm? Figured some of yore boys had dry-gulched me up in the hills. But I'll bet you are real pleased to see yore old friend."

The fat man pulled himself together. "What you doing here, Morg?" he asked. "Don't you know this whole county is out lookin' for you?"

"Including all Sherm Howard's willing lads. Sure I know it." The desperado limped forward. "But I dropped in because I know you'd hate for me to pass through without thanking you for sicking the boys on me."

The man was in bad physical condition. A blood-stained handkerchief was tied around his head. Another served as a bandage for his arm. He looked travel-worn and haggard.

But he was undaunted. Never in his wicked, ribald lifetime had he seemed more master of the situation. Howard expected that the fellow had come to kill him. Morg must have met one of the boys and learned that Howard had thrown in with his hunters.

"What's all this crazy talk about me-sickin' the boys on you?" Howard asked. "You ought to know better than that. Fact is, you've played the devil, Morg. I thought you had more sense than to pull the dumb thing you did. This country won't stand for doing harm to women. You ought to know that too."

"Don't preach at me," Norris snarled out of the corner of his mouth. "Get me food, and water to wash my wounds. But first off, I want a drink."

The heart of the big man lifted. "Sure," he said. "Surest thing you know."

He heaved himself out of the chair and waddled across to the cupboard. Beside the bottle lay the forty-four he had unwarily separated himself from when he reached the house. This he pushed down between his trouser-belt and shirt. The bottle and a glass he brought back to the man at the table.

Norris poured a large drink into a tumbler. He held it in his hand and slid a menacing look at his host.

"I saw you get that gun," he said, lifting his upper lip in a jeer. "Fixin' to gun me 'if you get a chance, you damned double-crosser. Well, you don't get it." Norris raised the glass. "Here's to a short life and a smoky end for traitors, Sherm."

He poured the liquor down at a gulp.

Coldly Howard defended himself. "Your information is not straight, Morg. Where did you hear I had turned against you?"

"I heard it from a ledge back of Coal Creek," Norris told him harshly. "Yore boys were camped just below. I heard 'em talk. Didn't know who they were at first. I found out you'd sent them out to get me, by crikes."

"Why don't you use your bean to think with, Morg? Of course I sent them after you. After you had gone crazy, I had to make a bluff, didn't I? I had to make out we were all hunting you to save our own bacon. Talk about me throwin' down on you. What have you done but throw down on every last one of us?"

Howard spoke impatiently, irritably. He wanted to talk the young killer into a frame of mind less deadly, and the best way to do this was to put him in the wrong.

"What you mean, throw down on you?" the fugitive asked sulkily.

"You know what I mean, Morg. When you took that girl with you to the hills you set this whole district ablaze against us as well as you because we are your friends."

"Lou ran off with her first," Norris said.

"With her own consent. That's different. Where is the girl, Morg? What did you do with her?"

"I didn't do a thing," Norris growled. "Are you aiming to fix me up some food? Or ain't you?"

"Don't push on the reins, Morg. I asked you a question."

Norris gave information, very reluctantly, for what he had to tell hurt his inordinate vanity. "I turned her over to that double-crossin' son-of-a-gun who calls himself Jeff Gray," he said.

The opaque eyes of the big man rested on him. "Tell it to me, Morg," he ordered.

"I'll tell it while you make me some supper," Norris told him. "Me; I could eat a government mail-sack. Haven't seen grub for nearly two days."

The young desperado helped himself to a second drink, then sat down and pulled off his boots. He was careful not to turn his back to Howard, Sherm began to knock together some food, always with his eye on the other.

Norris told the story of what had occurred, edited in such a way as to protect his self-conceit. He said that three men had attacked him at his camp in Wild Horse basin and that he had fought them until the revolver was shot from his hand. He had made his getaway on foot.

"You didn't walk all the way from Wild Horse," Howard said, after he had broken a fourth egg into a frying-pan.

"Most of the way." The outlaw looked down at his swollen feet. High-heeled cowboy boots are not made for walking, and he had been tortured cruelly during the long hours of tramping. "I roped a bronc at Walker's in the night and found a saddle in the stable. Most of the day I lay holed up in the rocks."

"What with yore wounds and all you must have had a hell of a time," Howard suggested.

The young man looked at him, fury in his eyes. "I'm sayin' so."

"If they shot yore gun from yore hand, I reckon you're not armed," Sherm said, very casually.

The killer watched him through slitted lids. "Don't you bank on that, Sherm," he drawled, his words dripping warning.

Howard said lightly, "I was thinkin' I'd have to fix you up with a gun if you had lost yore own."

What he had been thinking was that if Norris was unarmed, he could pounce lead into him and take the credit for killing the man.

BOOKS IN BRIEF

O. Henry Tells Tale of 'Cop And Anthem'

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

A DRY leaf fluttered into Soapy's lap. That would be the calling card of Jack Frost. In fact just last night Soapy had noticed that winter was approaching because three newspapers adroitly disposed did not keep out the chill as he lay on his favorite park bench. Soapy disliked the cold months, but with a little luck, he would manage.

Being an observant man, Soapy had learned long ago that there were two alternatives for him during the winter: Philanthropy or the Law. The former carried with it certain circumstances that interfered with a gentleman's privacy, as baths and such. So, Soapy had long favored the Law which did not meddle with his tastes as an individual.

Since he must do something at once about the cold weather, and since there was nothing to deter him now, he might as well begin at once. There were certain activities that Soapy knew carried ninety days on the Island, where there was heat and food, and clothing enough.

Soapy went into a not too respectable looking restaurant and ordered a pleasing dinner. When he had dined slowly and with precision, he announced that he had no money and suggested that the waiter call a cop. The next instant Soapy was gathering himself together off the sidewalk.

Soapy Is Luckless.

The second method would likely work. Picking up a brick he slammed it into a plate glass window. When the cop came, Soapy said "Here I am, I did it." The cop answered, "Who are you trying to kid, wise guy?" And was off to catch a man who was running after a street car.

Those were two of Soapy's best cards, but he still had a few up his sleeve. Across the street stood a modest looking girl, gazing at the winter styles. He sidled up to her, cleared his throat, and carried on the usual antics of a masquerade. She walked slowly along, Soapy after her.

ONCE IN PRISON

William Sidney Porter was born in 1862 in Greensboro, N. C. O. Henry, his pen name, came later. As a young man he went to Austin, Texas, where he worked in a bank. It was there that the embezzlement of $1,150 occurred, a crime that has never been really cleared up. However, Porter was sentenced to serve five years in an Ohio penitentiary for the crime.

In prison he settled down to a concentrated program of writing. In 1903 he contracted with the New York World to do a story a week at $100 each.

When he died in 1910, his body was interred in Asheville, N. C. Of him the Encyclopaedia Britannica states, "The tragedy of his own life taught him a chivalrous tenderness for the unlucky."

Disturbing the peace is a sure one, thought Soapy, tugging at his coat to hold it closer, drunks and crazy people are always locked up. Accordingly he began his act, yelling and dancing around wildly. The cop watched a minute, and turning to the bystanders, he explained, "This one of them Yale lads celebratin' the game. We've instructions to leave them be."

Fatalistic End.

Soapy was disheartened. What did it take to rate the three months on the Island? He mused over his possibilities, and like a homing pigeon, he rambled along the avenues toward Madison Square Garden. Presently he passed a cathedral, dark except for one window that was rimmed with light. Soapy looked, and then his ear caught the pulsing tones of a pipe organ. What in the world? An anthem, one that did things inside of Soapy. He thought of all the forbidden thoughts, of his mother, of when he was a little boy and had a respectable way of living. These thoughts upset him until the result was that Soapy gave up his idea of spending the winter on the Island. He would get a job, he would be somebody and show the world!

A familiar touch sent a shiver down his arm. Looking up he saw the broad face of a cop. "What you doin'?"

Soapy answered, "Nothin'."

"Then come along."

The Magistrate gave him three months on the Island on a charge of vagrancy.

Chinese Elm Is Good for Rapid Growth; Tree Thrives Throughout United States

Whenever a tree is to be set out, the careful gardener takes plenty of time for thought. For there is something permanent about this type of planting in which mistakes are intensified rather than obliterated by time, states a writer in the Philadelphia Record.

Need often is felt for something fast-growing to relate a new house to its location or to give quick shade, screening or protection from wind. Too often poplars are selected because they come along quickly. Time, however, soon reveals their undesirable, vast and greedy root systems, while a row rarely gets established before one or another of the trees dies, spoiling the looks of the whole.

The Chinese elm (Ulmus parvifolia) has none of those drawbacks, but it does grow quickly. Indeed, it is a matter of record that one young tree grew to 28 feet in 3 years, that a 4-foot specimen reached 40 feet in 5 years and a 6-footer in 4 years attained 30 feet.

Although native to northern and central China, Korea, and Japan, the Chinese elm thrives throughout the United States, eventually growing to 45 feet. It develops a broad, round head and in maturity is as graceful as a cutleaf birch and quite as hardy as the oak. It is good not only for the suburban lawn, but for street planting in the city as well, since it can withstand soot and gas.

Drought resistance was revealed as another attribute during the severe dry spell of 1936. Where newly-planted weeping willows, Lombardy poplars and cutleaf birches succumbed, the Chinese elm came through triumphantly.

To obtain maximum speed and development and a deep green color in the foliage, feed the tree yearly with a well-balanced plant food. Either early spring or late summer is a good season.

Chauvinism

Chauvinism, the word used to express exaggerated patriotism or jingoism, is derived from a soldier of the French republic and of the First empire, says the Standard American Encyclopedia. Nicholas Chauvin's name became a synonym for a passionate admirer of Napoleon, and the word Chauvinism was formed to signify the almost idolatrous respect entertained by many for the first emperor.

Perfume by Chemistry

Picture Parade

Modern chemists like Theodore Hoffman (above) have improved on the ancient art of perfume making, an art old as the pyramids, by using synthetic materials to produce odors which man cannot extract from flowers. For example, it takes almost a ton of roses to make one ounce of rose oil. But the odor is now produced in laboratories. And the ultra-sweet musk, once obtained only from the Tibetan musk deer at $560 a pound, is today available for any perfume. Compounding new bouquets is part of Theodore Hoffman's job. Paper tapers are dipped in basic per-fumages. When twirled through the air before the nostrils, the blended tapers indicate how this particular bouquet will smell after it has been compounded. These preliminary laboratory tests must precede actual manufacture of the perfume. Not the least incongruous part of this business is that delicately scented perfumes are made by burly workmen in overalls!

Upper photo shows coumarin crystals being broken up to be used in a bouquet which imparts the "new-mown hay" odor. Coumarin appears naturally in certain plants, is segregated and crystallized. Photo immediately above shows borneol crystals being swirled out of a liquid in a centrifugal still. Borneol is the main ingredient of incense in India. Oddly, perfumes are a mixture of pleasant and unpleasant odors.

Perfume, adroitly used, plays an important part in every modern woman's life. Once a luxury available only to the wealthy, it now brings charm to rich and poor alike. But most foolish is the woman who uses it too freely; perfume is meant to be subtle.

Chemicals today, tomorrow, perfume on a thousand bodois-tables.

Dusk on Broadway as seen by Benay Venuta: Night owls emerging from their aeries . . . A million electric eyes starting to blink . . . Daytime toilers rushing homeward . . . Night-time entertainers scurrying to their clubs . . . Snarling traffic . . . Upping of prices at the movie palaces . . . Speculative, pasty faces appearing out of nowhere . . . Bargain hunters scanning offerings in ticket agencies . . . Screaming of newsies peddling late editions . . . Clang-clanging of trolleys cautiously crawling through restless mobs . . . Cab drivers parked hopefully at curbs . . . The changing of the police guard . . . Evening gowns and tuxedos mingled with more prosaic dress . . . Mobs of moles climbing in and out of subway kiosks . . . Queues lined up in front of box-offices of hit plays . . . Mounted cops galloping to chase motorists trying to park in restricted streets . . . Early arriving beggars grabbing off choice spots for their evening's work . . . Night clubs arranging tables for the (they hope) evening's rush . . . Finally, night with Broadway shaking the dusk from its heels.

Among women—"awfully," "terribly," and similar words.
Among writers—"so."
Professor Smart picks "no" as the most helpful word, "stop" as the most dramatic, and "ubiquitous" as the ugliest.

HOW TO SEW

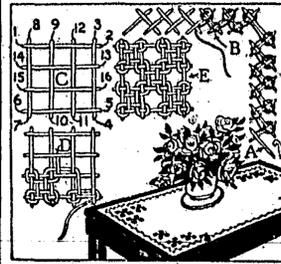

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

PINK is the newest color in decoration. It is charming for embroidered mats and table scarves for any room in the house. The runner shown here is palest pink linen embroidered in darker pink and deep rose. A pearl cotton embroidery thread, size 5, is used.

Cut the mat or runner the desired size allowing 1/4 inches all around for hems. Turn the hems and sew them by hand at the corners. Now, embroider around the top of the hem with plain catchstitching in pink as at A. Next, interlace these stitches with the rose as at B.

Three 1 1/2-inch squares are embroidered in each corner. Mark each square with a pencil. The method of laying the pink foundation threads is shown in diagram C. Bring the needle out at 1, place it in the material again at 2, and bring it out again at 3. Continue, following the numbers and weaving the stitches over and under as shown. Next, interlace these stitches with rose. Start at

D and follow the diagrams until all stitches are interlaced as at E. NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book fully illustrates ninety other embroidery stitches; also fabric repairing; table settings; and many things to make for yourself and the children. The directions in the book are complete—no patterns to buy. Price 25 cents postpaid (coin preferred). Ask for Book 2 and address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Cool, Midsummer Fashions

These are the simple things that look prettiest in hot weather—dresses like these, with slim skirts, puff sleeves and v-necklines. They're easily made at home, in colors and fabrics that suit you best. The patterns include detailed sew charts so that you can easily do it, and you'll save enough for that extra frock you always want in summertime.

Dress With Fitted Waistline
This dress has a beautifully expensive, exclusive look—and it's so easy to do! Only six steps in the making. The fitted waistline is topped by soft gathers that fill out the bosom. Darts at the side make the waist hug your figure, and the sash bow in back adds a touch of youthful charm. Linen, silk crepe, dotted Swiss or georgette are pretty fabrics for this dress.

All-Day-Long House Dress.
Made on modified shirtwaist lines, this dress is simple enough to put on first thing in the morning, and pretty enough to wear all day long. Ricrac braid on the collar, sleeves and pockets makes it especially colorful and flattering. Make up in percale, pique, gingham or linen this will be one of the most satisfactory day dresses you ever owned!

1481 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35-inch material.
1529 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch material; 2 3/4 yards ricrac braid to trim.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Carlsbad and Gallup Will Bring Tourists

Travel director estimates guests will spend 37 million here this year.

Headed by Carlsbad Caverns and by the Indian ceremonials at Gallup in August, the attractions of New Mexico are expected to enrich the state by at least $37,000,000 in tourist expenditures in 1938, according to an estimate announced today by Jos. H. Thompson, director of the Conoco Travel Bureau with national headquarters in Denver.

Thompson bases his estimate on the requests for road information and maps received to date. He includes only the number of motor parties in touch with his own bureau.

"Motor tourists spending habits in earlier years," says Thompson, "indicate that Conoco patrons will spend about $9,200,000 in New Mexico's retail stores, about $7,800,000 in restaurants and dining rooms, $7,400,000 for hotel rooms, overnight bungalows and other lodgings, another $7,400,000 for gasoline, oil and automobile supplies, $3,000,000 for recreation and amusement and about $2,200,000 for incidentals."

Plea to Forest Users

We are now facing one of the most serious fire seasons in the history of Lincoln Forest. To date the number of fires is way ahead of previous years with no relief in sight. Every fire that starts is bound to cause plenty of trouble in these dry times.

When the woods are fairly damp it is difficult to start a fire by throwing down a cigarette, however, in these dry times they fairly blow up and cover a large spot in a second. It is the responsibility of Lincoln County residents to protect their woods, water, game and fish. If you are going in the woods yourself please take every precaution possible with fire, matches and cigarettes. You can also be of great assistance by requesting your friends and visitors to be careful also and by reporting fires to your local ranger or suppressing fire where possible.

Pioneering Notes

Dave Jackson came to W. O. in 1897, the town was already on the down-grade when he arrived here. Jack, as he is affectionately called by most of the people here, has been Superintendent of the Community Church for years. He was once partowner with two other men of the North and South Homestake Mines. He was also secretary and treasurer of the Wildcat Leasing Company. Mr. Jackson is to be highly commended for his goodness to so many people in their sorrow and distress.

Mr. Syd. Parker, an old-timer of W. O. presented a number of copies of the Golden Era, a newspaper printed in 1884 in W. O., to Jack. Mr. M. S. Tallafero edited the paper in the eighties. Just recently Mr. M. Ozanno of the Jicarillas told Mr. Jackson he had gotten word that Mr. Tallafero intends to visit W. O., this summer.

Scanning thru these old papers, the following items looked very interesting. (Notes in parenthesis were supplied by Mr. Jackson.)

January 1, 1884—L. Baxter Mountain, (two miles west of town) the turbulent, the much contested and hard fought for field, was preternaturally quiet on the opening of this year. Only four or five claims were jumped, we beg pardon, relocated, and some of this work was done on account of trouble among co-owners.

2. Strumquest re-located Little Mac and the Little Nell.

3. Our railroad becomes a certainty within two months. (The railroad was finally started in '98 and completed about 1901.)

4. W. O., by actual figures has shipped over $7,000 in clear bullion during the past four months, and we don't have a decent mill in town.

5. Charles Mayer, brother of Paul and Fred, came over from Albuquerque to spend a week in visiting. He is as good looking and a little bigger than either of his brothers.

Jan. 10—Joe Fowler, (a two-gunner and cut-throat rancher) is not hung. (Some lawyer saved his hide.)

Jan. 31—Who killed Cock Robin? And who hung Joe Fowler? (Fowler was taken out of jail by a mob and lynched.)

March—Free gold reported in the Henry Clay (a tunnel starting in the Little Mac on the eastside of Baxter, comes out on the west side of the mountain thru the Henry Clay.)

June—W. C. McDonald (first Governor of New Mexico) has gone out of town on a surveying trip.

Dr. Melvin G. Paden (now of Carrizozo) now at Louisville, Ky., has been appointed Surgeon of the first Reg. N. M. U. M. We know Dr. Mel could doctor the above organization all right, if he could find it, but its whereabouts just now are rather mystifying.

December—Little Mac closed down.

Looking thru the papers I find that stock brands had to be published in the County papers with post office address of the owners. I also note that Pat Garrett is mentioned quite frequently in the W. O., items.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—France is beginning to think she has another Clemenceau in Premier Daladier, and she still has Marshal Philippe Petain, one of the few survivors of the great generals of the World war.

Two or three years ago, General Petain was counseling peace and conciliation with Germany. Now he warns the French people of their "serious situation in Europe," and urges them to consider realities.

It is quite possible that rope-skipping is mainly accountable for General Petain being alive, trim, fit and active at eighty-two. He is an inveterate rope-skipper, ejected from his apartment in 1914, because he jarred the plaster from the wall. This writer's record as to that goes only to 1934, but, in that year, he was still skipping diligently. Joffre, Poch and Magnot, among the French, Von Muckensen, Ludendorff and Hindenburg among the Germans—non-skippers all—have passed, but Marshal Petain lives on, venerated by his countrymen.

It was he who said, "They shall not pass"—on February 5, 1916, to be exact. He was the savior of Verdun, and, in this connection, a deft historian might discover that rope-skipping saved France. The general spent a solid week in an Automitraine without sleep, and the London Daily News commented at the time that no man who was not in perfect physical condition could have survived such ordeals. It was suggested that his energy and endurance had turned the tide of war.

He was born Henri Philippe Benoni Omer Joseph Petain, the son of a baker in Couchay in Tour.

Mon Mountain Dean, the wrestler, running for the legislature in Georgia, is after only one seat, but he will need three or four if he is elected.

In retirement on his farm, near Norcross, he still weighs 317 pounds. It is a unique contest for him, with no chance for his running broad-jump attack, in which he hurls his body against his opponent.

His career seems to have been mostly his wife's idea. Born Frank Leavitt, in New York, known as the "Hell's Kitchen Hillbilly," he did a hitch in the army and thereafter engaged in some desultory wrestling and mauling as a Soldier Leavitt. Nothing much came of it, and he began placidly taking on weight as traffic cop in Miami, Fla. Doris Dean married him and began prodding his lagging ambition.

He started grappling again, in Boston in 1933, with fame still eluding his half-nelson, when a German promoter took him on a tour of the Rhineland. This was more successful, and brought him to the attention of Alexandre Korda, who needed a double for Charles Loughton as Henry VIII in the wrestling scene. Thus came the famous whisks, an important detail of his wife's clever showmanship in the build-up of the Man Mountain. It was she who persuaded him to take the name Dean and who managed the histrionics which made him a fabulous creature. He was born in West Forty-third street in 1831, weighing 104 pounds.

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON, the slight, self-offacing, bespectacled man who sent Al Capone to Alcatraz, is devoting his life to social betterment. He wants to make cities less fertile soil for crime, and to that end, would flush city and country children back and forth, interchangeably, to the benefit of each, he believes, and the nurture of good behavior.

It was as United States attorney that he deftly enmeshed Capone in a silken spider-web of evidence, laboriously gathered and spun. The next year, Herbert Hoover made him a federal judge, but he stayed on the bench only a year and then went back to his law practice.

He broke the gangs in Chicago. His story of how he snared Capone, told before the senate judiciary committee, with its tales of trapdoors and secret panels, was Grade A melodrama, but he didn't make it sound that way. He is a modest man, with no instincts of showmanship.

YARNELL DEFIES JAPS

American Admiral Refuses to Remove His Warships From the Yangtse River . . . Congress and Politics

Here Japanese soldiers with fixed bayonets are seen rushing a Chinese position in a part of Suchow which the Japanese artillery had reduced to flaming ruins. There, as elsewhere, the defenders practically destroyed the city before retreating.

Japan's Demands Rejected

American warships will remain in the Yangtze river and will go to any place where Americans are in danger. This despite the demands of Japan.

Admiral Harry Yarnell

Naval officials of Japan asked that all foreign warships leave the Yangtze river area between Wuhu and Klukiang because the invaders were about to start an offensive toward Hankow, provisional Chinese capital. But Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, rejected the demand sharply. Furthermore, he at once planned an inspection trip up the Yangtze and through the war zone, and he did not ask Japan's permission.

These three "principles" of American naval operations in Asiatic waters were set forth by Admiral Yarnell in his note to the Japanese:

The United States navy will retain complete freedom of movement on the Yangtze, and will proceed to any place where Americans are in danger.

The American command will not change the color of its warships, which are painted white, to conform to any color scheme suggested by the Japanese.

The United States does not regard the warning of Japanese naval officials relative to the Yangtze as relieving the Japanese "in the slightest degree" of responsibility for damage or injury to United States warships.

Chinese claimed the drive of the Japanese on the central front was held up by Yellow river floods. Chengchow, once a prosperous railway center, was still held by the Chinese, but had been reduced to ruins by Japanese shells and bombs and by the Chinese themselves in pursuing their "scorched earth" policy.

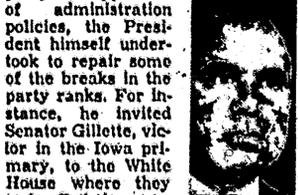

Japanese air raids on Canton continued by day and night. Perhaps 10,000 persons had been killed there, many thousands were injured and the metropolis was shattered. A great portion of the population fled from the city.

Kennedy to Resign?

AMBASSADOR J. P. KENNEDY left London for the United States and, according to the London Daily Express, he intends to report to the President as soon as he arrives in Washington on his plan to settle the British war debt, and then will resign his post. He has held the position only three months.

Healing Party Rifts

THOUGH it was believed Tommy Corcoran and his "eliminating committee" would continue the efforts to "purge" the Democratic party of opponents of administration policies, the President himself undertook to repair some of the breaks in the party ranks. For instance, he invited Senator Gillette, victor in the Iowa primary, to the White House where they took off their coats, ate luncheon together and, according to reports, planned common action against the Republican enemy in November. Also, it was disclosed, Mr. Roosevelt had sent word to the New York Democrats that the renomination of Governor Lehman would be acceptable to him. He has not liked Lehman since the governor came out against the court packing bill. There had been a plan to run Lehman for senator and Wagner for governor, but this switch presumably is now out.

out against the court packing bill. There had been a plan to run Lehman for senator and Wagner for governor, but this switch presumably is now out.

Railway Aid Postponed

WHEN the leaders of the senate and house made up their minds to adjourn congress not later than June 15, they went to the White House and told the President the proposed legislation to expedite the reorganization of railroads would have to be postponed to the next session. They agreed, however, to put through two other railway measures. One permits RFC loans to railroads without interstate commerce commission certification. The other establishes a special unemployment insurance system for rail workers.

Sloan on Wage Law

ALFRED P. SLOAN Jr., chairman of General Motors, told the stockholders of the corporation that federal legislation for minimum wages and maximum hours will increase unemployment, penalize small business and further unbalance the entire national economy. He criticized the spending-lending program as recovery medicine and said "There certainly is nothing to warrant optimism so far as the immediate future is concerned, or to establish my confidence as to any intelligent solution of our difficulties."

A. P. Sloan Jr.

Sloan said that one of the two major contributing causes of the present depression has been the unbalancing of the national economy by too rapid an increase in wages and too rapid a shortening of hours in many key industries—thus unbalancing purchasing power in relation to prices.

The second cause, superimposed on the first, Sloan continued, "is the fact that there has been developing a growing lack of confidence and a fear as to the attitude of government toward business, as well as to economic policies that have been enacted as affecting the national economy and penalizing the operating effectiveness of industry."

Martin Suspends Five

PRESIDENT HOMER MARTIN of the United Automobile Workers suspended five members of the union's international board on the ground that they were disturbing union harmony. The five were Vice Presidents Richard T. Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Ed Hall, and Walter N. Wells, and Secretary-Treasurer George Address.

Lindberghs on Island

COL. AND MRS. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH and their two sons are now established in their new home on little Illec Island just off the Brittany coast of France. Illec Island is large enough only for its castle, formerly the home of the opera singer, Mme. Adelina Patti. It is near St. Gildas island, home of Dr. Alexis Carrell, American scientist with whom Lindbergh developed the mechanical heart.

Son James Won't Run

JAMES ROOSEVELT, son and secretary of the President, rejected a citizens committee's request that he run for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, declaring "I feel that I have an obligation above all else to remain at my duties in Washington."

Pineapple Is Fit Dish for the Gods

An Attractive Party Dessert Easily Prepared

By EDITH M. BARBER
A FRUIT worthy of the Gods and of such excellence that it should be picked only by the hands of Venus." In these words Jean De Lery in 1555 described the pineapple. Before the end of the Sixteenth century this native fruit of the American tropics had been introduced into the Old World for cultivation where the climate was hospitable.

The original name of this fruit was Na-Na, which meant fragrance. It probably received its modern title because of its resemblance to the pine cone in appearance. Our supply of canned fruit, which we have throughout the year, comes largely from Hawaii. Nothing is better than shredded, sugared pineapple which has been allowed to stand in the refrigerator for a number of hours before it is served. When the housekeeper plans it for use as dessert, she will do well to prepare it one day for use on the next. It will not be scorned if it has not had this treatment, but it will be appreciated more if forethought has been used.

An attractive party dessert may be prepared by scooping the pineapple from the shell and refilling it with ice cream and sugared pineapple to which brandy has been added.

Shredded Pineapple.
Cut pineapple into six slices. Pare and remove eyes and then shred with fork. Cover with sugar, set in refrigerator for several hours before serving.

Pineapple Cucumber Salad.
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups boiling water and pineapple juice
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cucumber
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 can pineapple
Soak gelatin in cold water. Add the boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add the vinegar and salt and pour into molds. Set in ice water and when it begins to thicken add the cucumber, which has been cut into dice and allowed to stand an hour in salted water, the onion and the pineapple, cut into pieces. Chill until set, unmold on a bed of lettuce and pass sour cream salad dressing with it.

OTHERS YOU'LL LIKE

Chocolate Bavarian Cream.
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 squares chocolate
1/2 cup coconut
1 cup whipped cream
Soak the gelatin in water. Place the milk, sugar, salt and chocolate, cut in four or five pieces, in the top of a double boiler and cook until the chocolate is melted. Beat with an egg beater a few seconds to insure smoothness. Add the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Remove from the fire, stand in cold water, stir occasionally, and when it begins to thicken fold in the coconut and the whipped cream. Pour into a mold, chill, and when set serve with whipped cream.

Raisin Conserve.
4 pounds raisins
2 grapefruits, peeled and cut into pieces
4 oranges, peeled and sliced thin
6 slices canned pineapple, cut into pieces
1 lemon, juice only
Sugar
Mix the fruit with lemon juice and chop one minute. Weigh and add three-fourths as much granulated sugar as there is fruit. Cook until clear and thick, about one hour. Stir frequently to prevent burning. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

Savory Canape.
1/2 cup butter
2 tablespoons capers
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
12 strips toast
1 hard-cooked egg
2 ounces caviar
Cream butter and mix with it capers, parsley, onion juice and lemon juice. Spread on toast. In the center place one slice of hard-cooked egg and a small round of caviar.

Pinwheel Sandwiches.
Remove all but bottom crusts from a loaf of bread. Spread bread lengthwise liberally with cream cheese which has been beaten smooth with a little cream and mixed with chopped chives. Slice and remove bottom crust. Roll tightly and seal with butter. Wrap each roll tightly in moisture-proof paper, chill in refrigerator and slice.

Hollandaise Sauce.
1/2 cup butter
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Few grains cayenne
Divide the butter into two pieces, put one piece in a saucepan with the yolks of eggs and lemon juice, hold the saucepan over a larger one containing boiling water, stir constantly until the butter is melted, then add the second piece of butter and stir until it thickens. Remove from the fire, season with cayenne and serve at once.

What's New in Swim and Beach Togs

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TWO features stand out pre-eminently in connection with this season's swim and beach togs, namely the vast variety of materials in use, the other the fact of the dressmaker touch given their styling. It adds to the interest that gadgets in the way of costume jewelry tuned to sea and sand and outdoor themes usually complete the "picture" of each costume.

Citing a few of the smartest materials employed, first and foremost comes latex, which is a boon to womankind in that it conforms to "lines" perfectly with a magic this-way, that-way stretching quality which solves the problem of clothes that fit, retain their shape and offer perfect comfort. The big sensation this season is the swim suit of black satin latex with beach cape to match, completing the sense of luxury. Flower printed latex ensembles also have their place in the style parade along water edge and sea line.

Other interesting materials employed for playtime clothes and wardrobes for water nymphs include celanese rayon moire, celanese rayon sharkskin, silk prints of fast color, linens in monochrome or spectacular print and cottons so sturdy, so handsome, words fail of describing. Then there's wear-for-ever denim, and washable gabardine, so reliable when it comes to the wear and tear of riotous waves or strenuous mountain climbs.

Another feature that fashion spotlights is the use of striking color contrasts, perhaps in the way of playing up print with plain or the modernistic gesture of making the costume one vivid solid color boldly contrasted by another startling color on a sort of fifty-fifty basis.

The models pictured are typical of this season's swim suit and beach ensemble trends. Centered in the group you see a stunning outfit that tunes superbly to a statuesque figure.

ure. This comely young woman is wearing black trunks with printed "bra" of celanese rayon sharkskin. A catallin fish pin on her hip answers the call for suitable costume jewelry.

To the right, fashion offers a new bathing suit ensemble that strikingly combines white with bright ocean-blue. The bodice top is blue with "catallin fish pin" by way of correct gadgetry. The blue beach coat with monk's hood of blue lined with white adds to eye-appeal. This very new and attractive ensemble is of celanese rayon jersey.

A very interesting costume, as shown to the left, uses blue and white cotton print for the beach cape lined with white terry cloth, worn over a loose-fitting white terry cloth suit. Accessory is white catallin V-neck stag horn bracelet with carved edelweiss. This costume won an award and is an adaptation of an Algerian man's costume from the Traphagen costume museum.

To supplement the list of materials smartly in use for beach dress and bathing suit, hosiery should be mentioned. It is ranked along with sharkskin for shorts and slacks and shirts. Then there are the fascinating crinkle cottons that make such practical and attractive beach coats. Water, sun or sand dim not their beauty or colorfulness.

One of the cleverest ideas is the quilted floral cotton prints. A bolero of quilted print worn with matching printed broadcloth slacks together with a peasant kerchief of the same print is a happy suggestion. Try this ensemble, it's a winner this season.

ACCENT ON POCKETS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The more decorative and useful the pockets that your dress, jacket, suit or blouse proudly boasts the better. Here you see a pretty lassie framed in a background of apple blossoms wearing a white culotte outfit in new celanese rayon suiting fabric. This attractive playtime costume is pocketed to a nicety, each pocket enhanced with hand-run, vari-colored stitching. Just because amusing gadgets are essential in the scheme of things this season, this outdoor girl pins a novelty catallin brooch at her throat in the shape of a college girl's cap with tassels.

WONDERS ARE BEING DONE WITH RIBBONS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

After you have looked about at the new dress collections that the thought stays with you that this is decidedly a ribbon season. Summer dresses are given a sprightly look with pert little bows here and there while ribbons galore, wide, narrow in one color or in mingled tones or tri-color gayety are swath and sashed about the waist with utmost artistry.

So utterly have designers yielded to the ribbon urge they are creating clever boleros entirely of ribbon and recently a leading Paris couturiere fashioned an entire dress of ribbon sewing it edge to edge for slender effect and for wide hemline letting the ribbon ends fly out loose over a silken foundation.

Lots of ribbons on hats this season, too, for bindings, bands and tailored bows and for floating streamers and bonnet ties are seen.

Filly-Filly Guimpes or Vestees Have Blouse Look

With the classic suit or the more softly tailored bolero-and-skirt costume you are expected to wear the daintiest, frilliest blouse or guimpe or vestee you can find. Of course, if you expect to remove the jacket, it's a blouse you must have. However, with the jacket on, a lacy, fluttery crisp and sheer false front is just the thing. They cost less than a blouse and they are showing such fascinating ones in neckwear departments you will yield to the impulse to buy another and another—which, when you stop to consider, is a fine gesture in real economy.

Balloons to Protect London From Airplanes

Balloons for the much discussed barrage for the protection of London from the attacks of enemy aircraft are shown as they were tried out on the field for the Empire day demonstrations at Cardington, England, recently. The plan of British air strategists is to string heavy nets between the balloons as a means of trapping enemy airplanes and preventing their appearance over London for bombing forays.

C. Houston Goudiss Offers More Advice About Reducing

Describes the Perils of Unscientific Methods for Losing Weight

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York City

MY RECENT discussion of reducing in these columns brought many letters, indicating that the modern woman is, fortunately, weight conscious. This is an encouraging sign. For it shows that you are alert to the dangers of overweight, which not only destroys beauty but may indirectly contribute to heart disease, kidney disorders and diabetes, which take their greatest toll from among the heavyweights.

Guard Against Unscientific Reducing Methods

Some of these letters caused me great concern, however, because they indicate that in spite of my warning against unscientific methods of weight reduction, many women still cling to the idea that there is some magic in the various pills, powders, capsules, soaps, salts and mechanical devices that are sold at fancy prices and hold out alluring promises of speedy reducing without dieting or exercise.

It is bad enough that most of these fall to reduce. For they may delay the day when the victim of overweight will undertake a sound and scientific program of weight reduction that will effectively take off weight—thus improving appearance, benefiting health and increasing the chances of longevity. But what is far more serious is that some of these preparations may endanger health or cause lifelong physical impairment.

Dangerous Drugs

Drugging is particularly to be condemned, and no one should attempt to reduce by this method except under the advice and watchful eye of a physician. There are many invalids today who would be happy and healthy if they had not attempted to take some "reducing medicine" without consulting a physician. One preparation that is still bought by foolish women—in spite of repeated warnings against its use—may even result in permanent blindness.

Almost equally objectionable are excessive purging—which may leave you a wobbly wreck—and fasting, which is even more dangerous to women than men.

Don't Diet Without Direction

A carefully regulated diet will not only maintain normal weight, but will banish overweight by forcing the body to burn its own excess fat as fuel. Having heard of this scientific principle, many women frantically and foolishly attempt to prescribe their own reducing diets—often with disastrous results.

There is always the possibility that one may omit calcium-bearing foods and thus impair the teeth, or leave out foods rich in iron and copper and interfere with the formation of the hemoglobin or red pigment in the blood.

One of the most common and most serious errors is to omit all bread, potatoes and cereals; in the belief that carbohydrates are "fattening foods." Carbohydrates are required by the body in order to utilize the fats in the diet, and when reducing, they are also necessary to burn up excess fatty tissue.

Just as fire cannot burn without air, fat cannot be utilized in the body without the presence of starch or sugar. When the diet contains insufficient carbohydrates, fat burns incompletely, resulting in the dangerous acetone type of acidosis.

Counting Calories the Easy Way to Reduce

The one safe, sure and scientific method of getting rid of surplus weight and at the same time maintaining top health—is to consume a diet that is balanced in every respect, but to count your calories at every meal, making certain that you consume fewer calories each day than your body requires for its normal energy expenditure.

I will gladly send to every reader of this newspaper, a copy of my reducing bulletin. This includes a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods—plus a week's sample reducing menus. By following this scientific plan for weight reduction, you can easily lose from one to two pounds weekly. A more rapid reduction is not advisable. At that rate, you can lose from six to eight pounds in the course of a month—twenty four pounds at the end of three months. That is a lot of weight to lose and will make a vast difference in your appearance and in the enthusiasm with which you greet your daily tasks.

Readers of this newspaper are invited to write to C. Houston Goudiss, at 6 East 39th Street, New York City, for his scientific Reducing Bulletin, which shows how to reduce by the safe and sane method of counting calories.

The bulletin is complete with a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods and contains sample menus that you can use as a guide to comfortable and beautiful weight reduction.

one used by film stars in Hollywood. It is essential that they keep slim and practically every important film player has a clause in her contract calling for a cancellation if she permits her weight to increase beyond a certain point. But at the same time, film stars must safeguard their health, for their work is the most strenuous of occupations!

Counting Calories Is Fun

In Hollywood they make a game of counting calories. You, too, will find it amusing, as well as beneficial to health and looks. And you will be rewarded by noting a drop in weight every time you step on the scales.

If Your Weight Is Normal Keep It That Way

It has been determined that the ideal weight—that is the weight that best promotes health and longevity—after thirty, is the normal weight for one's height at the age of thirty.

If you are approximately thirty and your weight is normal, you should send for my Calorie Chart and Reducing Bulletin and use it to help maintain your present weight!

If you are over thirty and overweight, you should not lose another day before sending for the bulletin so that you can begin at once to regain your normal weight by the safe, simple, scientific and comfortable method of counting calories.

As the pounds disappear you will feel as though you had stepped out of a prison of fat into a new world of physical freedom.

Questions Answered

Miss A. G.—One tablespoon of cod-liver oil provides about 100 calories, which is equal in fuel value to one slice of bread, one medium potato, or three-fourths of a cup of cooked macaroni.

Mrs. G. B., Jr.—There is absolutely no truth in the false notion that aluminum cooking utensils may adversely affect health. Numerous experiments have demonstrated that they are perfectly safe.
