CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1938

110 Attend Highway Meeting

11 A. M. President Dr. R. E. Blaney Stated object of meeting was to have National Highway No. 54 black topped through the state of New Mexico. Also at some future date when feasible it might be converted into a Military Highway.

Address of Welcome was given by W. R. Belden.

Roy H. Smith, Executive Secretary, of Tucumcari Chamber of Commerce spoke at length on the amount of work necessary to accomplish the aim of Pres. Blaney. He suggested that definite plans be formulated to accomplish the improvement of Highway 54, stating that it took 25 years to bring the Will Rogers Highway up to its present state of perfection. Incidentally he said, "Here is a group of perfect men because the rough highway shook the Devil out of all delegates on making the trip here".

Mr. A. S. McCamant of Corona pointed out the necessity of concerted action to inform the Governor and State Highway commission of our needs.

Mr. E. M. Brickley Carrizozo urged the need of immediate work on the Highway to bring it up to par with other highways of other states. A speaker from each town and community was called forward and sanctioned the remarks of Mr. Brickley.

The delegates adjourned at 12 M. to one of the leading restaurants of Corona where a splendid dinner was served to 87 delegates. At one o'clock p. m. the delegates reassembled at the High School-Auditorium.

Vaughn was selected as place of next meeting of the association within the next 90 days at the call of Dr. R. E. Blaney President of Highway 54 Association.

The resolution committee submitted the following resolutions, which were unanimously accepted.

Honorable Clyde Tingley, Governor of State of N. M. and

The Honorable State Highway Commission:

Resolutions of U. S. Highway 54 Association of New Mexico in regular session at Corona, New Mexico, June 27, 1938.

Be it resolved that we extend to you our most sincere thanks for the improvements you have given us on Highway No. 54. In consideration of the fact this is a highway of major importance, and further,

Be it resolved that in order to preserve those projects which have been constructed and surfaced with gravel, such projects should be black topped at the earliest possible date, and,

Be it further resolved, that the remaining sections of this route between Santa Rosa and Tularosa which have not been constructed, should be included in an early program as is or will be approved by the Federal Bureau of Roads, and further,

Be it resolved that there are many sections of this route, which are a serious hazard to the traveling public and for that reason it is urged, that the construction of this route be given preference, and if possible be included in the program beginning July 1, 1938.

110 Signatures were signed to this resolution.

Harman-Reeves

Last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock Miss Dixie Harman of Carrizozo and Mr. Earl Reeves of Artesia were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage, with Rev. R. A. Crawford officiating.

The only guests present were near neighbors, and the bride's brother, Mr. Roy Harman.

Mrs. Reeves was born at White Oaks and reared and educated here having graduated from Carrizozo High School in 1937. She is highly respected and very attractive. She was a member of the Order of Rainbow for girls having recently become Past Worthy Advisor.

Mr. Reeves formerly lived in Carrizozo, but has made his home in Artesia for the last eighteen months, where he has a responsible position. He is an exemplary young man and has many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves left immediately after the ceremony for Artesia, where they will make their home. Their many friends extend good wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

Pioneering Notes

So big and fine is Mrs. Belle Collier age seventy-five and so gloriously alive. What with "every tooth still in her head and about two visits to the Doctor in her lifetime, she looks the picture of health and clean living. Most of her life she has been spent in hard work and now, even in her later years she insists on keeping herself occupied. She is quite a baseball enthusiast - drinks coca cola (her favorite drink) in fact she is very modern in her ideas.

Belle was born in Nashville, Tenn., and made her first trip westward at the age of three. Her family was among the one hundred wagon trains that set out for Missouri about 1865. While playing with acorns on the road during a rest stop, the caravan started on its journey without her. Mrs. Collier doesn't remember how far they traveled before they missed her, (about one hundred and fifty kids in the wagons) and turned back. Not long anyway - for she was still very contentedly playing with the acorns.

Belle arrived in White Oaks in '83 by train and by stage "the town was thick with people and it didn't look like it does now," she says with a sigh. She was married here and eventually became the mother of five. Four of the children were delivered by mid-wives those courageous women who filled a great need in by-gone days.

Mrs. Collier and her family spent some time in Coyote "and once a big bear came right up in the front yard," she declared. Running a dairy there kept her pretty busy - with molding anywhere from forty to fifty pounds of butter each Friday for sale in White Oaks on Saturdays. Butter sold at fifty cents a pound and milk at ten cents a quart. Mrs. Collier made all deliveries herself in a buck-board. On one trip besides the milk and butter, she carried a quarter of beef and a mountain lion scenting the meat, followed the buckboard almost into town.

Mrs. Collier once sold two dozen eggs to a saloon keeper in W. O. for three dollars, but she "imagined the keeper made more than she did off the egg-nog he sold," she said laughingly.

Most of the family's traveling when the children were young was in a buckboard. The father "fiddled" for dances all over Lincoln County and the entire family went right along with him. Most of the trips took the greater part of twenty-four hours.

For the past thirty-six years Mrs. Collier has resided with a daughter in Oklahoma City. Her main hobbies seem to be canaries and tropical fish (building and cementing her own 7x12 fish pound).

Albert's Station near the overpass has received a coat of white paint.

White Oaks Notes Esther Aguayo Harrison

The Coal Mine— has its opening on the hill above the Power Plant. The entrance to the mine is concrete and the mine itself slopes downward sixteen hundred feet. Since its beginning around 1914 the mine has worked fairly regular.

Mr. Gordon Wells, County Commissioner Dist. No. 2 attended Road Meeting (Highway 54) at Corona June 27.

Gene age three, had been given lessons on the gentle art of tipping his hat to the ladies. One fine day he and his grandmother while taking a stroll met a friend. They chatted awhile with the woman and then continued with their walk. But as soon as they were out of hearing distance the grandmother chided Gene, "you forgot to tip your hat to the lady." Gene's face looked pretty sad at this but soon he brightened up and said, "Oh, I'll go back and tip it now."

The Ladies Aid held its regular meeting June 22 at the Club rooms. The Mesdames Queen, R. Ward and Fitzpatrick were hostesses for a special social hour. Delicious refreshments of fruited jello, cake and ice tea, were served. The president, Mrs. Marie Fulmer, was absent for the first time since she became an Aid member.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Myres, and daughter Sally Jane were recent visitors of the Van Schoeyk family. Mrs. Myres was the former Miss Minnie Shale. Bailey Bert Van Schoeyk accompanied the Myres on their return to Phoenix.

Two very good dances were held at Cleghorn Hall June 22 and 25. Fascinating and danceable tunes were played by both Rio Grande Valley and the Sat Chavez orchestras. It's always a gay time when the dancers trip thru the Paul Jones, polkas, schottisches and the Big Apple at this very popular Hall of rhythm.

J. C. Hutchinson is visiting his sister Mrs. John Lewis.

Carbon Monoxide Causes Death

Mr. George Hausam, age 52, prominent business man and president of the Kansas Editorial Association was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas Saturday night, but was revived and it was thought he would recover. He became extremely ill Monday night and while bringing him from Jicarilla to the hospital he lapsed into unconsciousness, and passed away before reaching Carrizozo.

Mr. Hausam was president and general manager of the Hutchinson Office Supply and Printing Co., of Hutchinson, Kansas. He was also interested in some mines at Jicarilla and his death is a severe shock to his business associates. He is survived by one son, Leo Hausam, age 24, who flew here from Hutchinson Tuesday after learning of his father's death. He returned home Wednesday afternoon in his plane. The remains were shipped to Hutchinson by train Wednesday night where the funeral will be held today.

Wilma Snow entertained Wednesday evening in honor of Walter Fulmer, Theodore Hobbie and Bradley Smith who are going away for a few weeks.

Relatives were informed of the death of Mrs. John E. Harrison which occurred in Los Angeles, California, on Tuesday, June 21st.

Mrs. Harrison had been ill for seven years suffering from paralysis, and for six years had been totally blind. She was a devout Christian, a member of the Methodist church; throughout the years of illness she was courageous and endured her suffering with patience and Christian fortitude.

Esther Aguayo Harrison was born near Lincoln, N. M., May 30, 1884. She moved with her parents to White Oaks, in 1892, where she was reared and educated.

In 1904 she was married to Mr. John E. Harrison at Maricopa, N. M. Eight children were born to them, two of whom preceded their mother's death.

In 1914 Mr. Harrison moved to Carrizozo with his family, where he accepted a position with the Carrizozo Mill, which he held for a long time, later working for the Carrizozo Outlook. In 1925 they moved to Albuquerque where they lived for a year, then moved to Los Angeles where they have resided until the present time.

Besides her husband, Mr. Harrison, she is survived by five sons, John Albert, Antonio, Eugene, Louis and Arnold, one daughter, Mrs. Victor Valencia. All the children reside in Los Angeles and all are married except Louis and Arnold. Other surviving relatives are two brothers, A. H. Aguayo, Normal, and Alex Aguayo, Yaletch, Texas, and four sisters, Mrs. E. M. Perry, Los Angeles; Mrs. Sterling Fisher, Captain; Mrs. E. V. Alveya, Albuquerque and Mrs. R. M. Treat, El Paso.

She had many friends in this part of the country, and one of her greatest pleasures was to have someone read the Lincoln County News to her. She looked forward with eagerness to the paper each week and kept up with all the Lincoln County happenings.

It is with extreme regret that we chronicle the death of this good woman. Her many kind deeds performed in a quiet way are well remembered by her friends, here who express great sorrow for her loss. Funeral services were conducted in Los Angeles last Saturday followed by interment there.

Mr. Hall To Visit Alaska

Attorney and Mrs. John E. Hall left yesterday morning for a trip through the Pacific Northwest and on into Alaska. They will drive via Yellowstone National Park and then to Seattle. From there they will sail to Vancouver, B. C. and on to Skagway, Alaska. They plan to return home on or about July 29th. During Mr. Hall's absence, Miss Dolores Forsythe will take care of the office routine.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark of Potran, Oklahoma arrived here Wednesday and will spend a week with their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Teeter of the B&M Merc. Co.

Mr. F. Eric Ming of Forrest, former principal of the High school here spent Wednesday and Thursday in Carrizozo.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

ERNESTINE is just fourteen but she's done a better job of fixing up her room than a lot of people could who think she's just a child and they're wise old hands. And she did it with next to nothing for money.

First, she collected a lot of bright travel maps (which she got from steamship agencies) and used them for wall paper. She sized the wall, then pasted up her maps patchwork fashion, then gave them a coat of clear shellac. The floor she varnished and when it was well dry and set, she rubbed it down to a soft mellow patina and waxed it. For rugs, she dyed rags in graded shades of green and made oval crocheted mats.

Papering the Wall With Travel Maps.

so, so saw she did—cutting both head and foot way down to the same graceful height. The raw edges she left, because she covered both head and foot with slip covers of plain green percale with a spread to match and long round bolsters at each end, also of green. Odd extra cushions in yellow gave a sunny gaiety to what was now a daybed.

The mirror Ernestine took off the old dresser and hung it over what she now calls a console table. A hinged-top box on this keeps her toilet articles out of sight. Over the drawer part of the dresser she put two orange boxes, one on top of the other, like hanging shelves for books and oddsments. This she painted green with yellow knobs and yellow inside the shelves. For the discarded family Morris chair, she made a green cushion, and for two cane bottom chairs she made yellow percale slip covers.

Now Ernestine has what she can very legitimately call a studio. And she adores it. She has even made herself a couple of smocks to match!

Cheerful Kitchens.

Winifred's kitchen is the cheeriest place. It has all the conveniences, that's true, but come way it manages to seem so much more friendly and hospitable than the usual starkly glaring kitchens.

That green and white checked linoleum is one reason. And the light crisp green walls do their share, too. But we think the yellow curtains have the most to do with it. There are two wide tiers of windows, (the kitchen is on the corner of the house) and Winifred has made yellow percale curtains tied back crisply. Then across the top she has valances of the brightest red printed cotton in a Tyrolean peasant pattern finished with rows of bias tape in yellow and green, like a peasant petticoat.

The kitchen chairs have their backs and seats slip-covered with this same red printed cotton with five-inch pleated skirts all around.

Winifred's Kitchen is Friendly.

Yellow oil cloth covers table and cupboard work surfaces and the shelves are all painted yellow. The canisters and kitchen dishes are in light green.

It's a big kitchen with room in one corner for a rocker and a round braided rug. "Just for old time's sake," laughed Winifred, "though I must say it's a nice place to sit and sew, read or rest, while I'm waiting for something to cook that I can't really leave."

We liked Ethel's kitchen, too. It's quite different from Winifred's—no bigger than a minute for one thing, with white walls and a plain red linoleum. Ethel cut out stencils of stars in different sizes and painted them bright blue hit or miss over the ceiling with some odd ones on the side walls. White canisters got blue stars painted on them, too. And even the white swiss curtains had bright blue stars appliqued over them. So Ethel sees a lot of stars in the course of her daily duties! Only she calls them the stars in her crown.

Spinach Preferred Next to Ice Cream

Survey Shows Children Really Rank It Thus

By EDITH M. BARBER

SPINACH for a number of years has been the topic for jests and has almost replaced the classic mother-in-law joke. It was rather interesting to find that the children, instead of disliking this vegetable, actually chose it as one of their favorite foods, according to a recent survey. Spinach actually ranked next to ice cream.

Because of the two types of spinach which are on the market at different times of the year, and because seasons in city markets are long extended through shipments from various parts of the country, we can find it in its fresh form throughout the year. And, of course, we can always call upon the canners. In the preparation of spinach for the table, perhaps the most important point is the washing, as every grain of sand must be removed. No one likes gritty spinach. The easiest way to handle this question is to use two large pans of fresh water and to continue this until no more sand is deposited on the bottom of the pans.

Spinach will need to be cooked in boiling salted water to half cover. It should be cooked just until the leaves are tender, usually not more than six to eight minutes. It should then be drained. Butter or cream which is used for dressing should be added to the hot vegetable. If you like, you may chop or puree the leaves before dressing them. Salt, pepper, a little nutmeg, lemon juice, vinegar, horseradish, sweet or sour cream, as well as butter, all bring out the flavor of this delicate vegetable.

Spinach on Toast.

Wash one peck of spinach and cook in boiling salted water five to eight minutes. Turn into collander and press out as much water as possible. Mince very fine. Melt three tablespoons butter in a frying pan, add two teaspoons flour and stir until well blended. Add spinach and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Add one cup cream, salt and pepper, cook three minutes and serve on toast.

Spinach Nests.

6 bread cases
Melted butter
2 cups cooked spinach
Salt, pepper
1/2 cup grated cheese
Make bread cases by cutting bread into three-inch squares and cutting out the centers. Brush each case with melted butter. Chop the spinach, mix with seasoning and fill the breadcases. Sprinkle with the cheese and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) until bread is light brown and the cheese is melted.

FAVORITE RECIPES

Baked Stuffed Eggplant.

1 eggplant
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup sliced nuts

Wash eggplant and cook in boiling water 20 minutes. Remove from water and drain. Cut slice from side and remove pulp with a spoon. Melt butter, add minced onion and cook three minutes. Add bread crumbs, seasonings, finely cut pulp and one-half cup of nuts. Refill eggplant shell with stuffing, sprinkle with remaining nuts and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) until nuts are brown. Serve with baked halved tomatoes.

Baked Stuffed Fish.

1 three-pound fish
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
4 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 small tomatoes
3 onion rings
Salt, pepper

Split and clean fish. Mix crumbs, and seasoning, add 2 tablespoons of melted butter and lemon juice. Mix well and stuff fish with mixture. Sew split edges together and place fish on oven-proof platter. Halve tomatoes, place around fish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and arrange an onion ring on each half. Pour remaining butter over fish and tomatoes. Bake in a hot oven, (450 degrees Fahrenheit) about 15 minutes until fish is tender. Remove from oven and garnish with sliced lemon and parsley.

Asparagus With Cheese.

1 bunch asparagus
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup grated cheese

Cook asparagus. Arrange on platter and dress with brown butter. To prepare brown butter—melt butter in frying pan and brown slightly, add grated cheese, stir well and pour over asparagus.

Lettuce With Bacon Salad.

6 strips bacon
1 head lettuce
1/2 cup vinegar

Cook the bacon until light brown but not crisp. Cut in small pieces and add with the hot fat over the shredded lettuce. When well mixed, add the vinegar. Mix well and serve.

FAMOUS STORIES

Beowulf Saga Is Anonymous Tale of Valor

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

AS A youth Beowulf had the reputation of being the bravest among his tribe. Swimming, fighting, and fishing in the open boats of the northmen gave sturdiness and valor to him and to his friends. When he was still young he became known as a chieftain warrior, partly because his father was king, but also because the warriors liked to follow him in battle.

Elizabeth James

There came a message one day from Hrothgar, Beowulf's uncle, whose kingdom lay just across the waters, in the land known today as Denmark. The message begged that Beowulf and his warriors would come over and help rid the land of a fearful dragon, named Grendel.

At once Beowulf and a chosen group of his best men launched their boats and set out for the land of their kinsmen. On their arrival, Hrothgar gave a feast in the long mead hall. While this feasting and joy reigned, there sounded a roar. It was Grendel!

Battle to Death.

The monster seized a warrior with each hand, knocked the two together, and began to eat them for his supper. But the dragon was safely away before anything was done. The next night Beowulf was ready. When Grendel approached, Beowulf met him and there ensued

RECORDED BY MONKS

No one knows who wrote the stories concerning the hero Beowulf. The poem as we have it today was recorded about the eighth century, but the events which underlie the epic occurred about five centuries before that. By memory the legends came down through the generations. Perhaps the story tells of vicissitudes with each other in relating the most entertaining account of their hero; perhaps some of the stories were sung to dancing around camp fires.

a terrible fight between the man and the dragon. Using his powerful and trusted sword Beowulf defended himself. Seizing the dragon's arm he pulled with all his strength and tore it from its socket. Howling with pain, Grendel fled.

Knowing that the monster would likely die from so dreadful a wound, there was great rejoicing in the mead hall. Until another roar resounded through the night. Grendel's mother, a fierce dragon, now came in fury to avenge the death of her son. She did not fight that night, so the next day Beowulf tracked her to her lair by the blood stains of Grendel. The trail led to the side of a black tarn.

A whole day it took him to reach the bottom of the waters. There he saw a vast cavern, in which he knew the dragons made their abode. Holding his sword ready, he called. Grendel's mother came forth, eager for battle. Long they fought, and Beowulf found that his mortal-made sword was impotent against this supernatural being. Looking around he saw a sword hanging on the wall of the cavern. Seizing it, he stabbed and killed the dragon.

Beowulf Triumphs.

Having killed the mother dragon he went into the cavern and found the body of Grendel, from which he cut the head to use as a trophy. Carrying this, he began his ascent to the surface of the lake, where he found his warriors mournful for their leader whom they feared dead.

When the king had become an old man, he heard of a vast hoard of treasure which a fire drake had discovered; the treasure had been buried three centuries before by an earl. Coveting this treasure for his people, Beowulf determined to have it. Only one warrior out of the entire kingdom dared to follow his lord into such a battle.

Long and ardously Beowulf fought with this monster. The dragon charged once, and a second time, but Beowulf guarded himself. A third time the dragon hurled himself at his enemy and this time he fastened his fangs in the throat of the king. Rushing to the aid of his king, the faithful warrior thrust his sword into the side of the dragon and forced him to loosen his grip on Beowulf. Although the warrior's arm was burned, he stayed with the king. Beowulf recovered himself and plunged his knife into the coils of the fire drake, cutting him through.

Soon after the death of the dragon, the wound in the king's throat grew worse, with swelling and pain. There was a fever which grew hotter and hotter until the king knew that he was to die. He rewarded his faithful warrior by making him his successor, and he divided the treasure among his subjects. Reminding his people of the glory of their race, the hero died.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THE most economical way to cut a slip cover is to make a pattern first. Do this before you buy the material, then fold several bed sheets the width of the fabric you wish to buy, and lay the pattern pieces on them to estimate the amount of goods needed. Some of the pattern pieces may be made of paper, though unbleached muslin is better for parts that must be fitted. Allow 1 inch at all seam lines to insure an easy fit, and 3-inches for a tuck-in all around the spring seat as shown here at A. Cut the sections with straight edges, then pin them in place and shape them to follow the lines of the chair as at B. Also mark each pattern piece with an arrow, as shown, to indicate which way the grain of the goods should run. The lower sketch shows the pattern pieces pinned on the slip cover material. Brush fringe accents the main lines of this slip cover. The top of the fringe is stitched in place at the same time the seams are sewn.

NOTE: Every homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' book SEWING for the Home-Decorator. It contains forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slip covers and curtains; also dressing tables; lampshades and other useful articles for the home. Price 25 cents postpaid (coin preferred). Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St. Chicago, Ill.

JUST JESTS

OF the Earth
Two motorists were zipping along at some eighty miles per, when a policeman appeared from nowhere and ordered them to pull over.

"Were we driving too fast, officer?" asked one of them.
"No," he sneered, "you were flying too low."

DISPUTED

Professor—The cave man had only a primitive language.
Sophomore—That can't be so, sir. Else how could they have given these Greek names to all their animals.

Seller, Please
Indignant Customer—Really, Mr. Sands, you get dearer and dearer every day.
Grocer—Not so loud, mum. My wife's powerful jealous.

The new couple is said to be well matched. She was a grass widow and he's a vegetarian.

Curious
A bus was pulled up suddenly by the traffic lights at a corner, and a very old car bumped into the back of it.

The conductor shouted reproachfully at the driver of the car: "Tell me, what do you use for brakes when there isn't a bus handy?"

So Unprepared

Husband (hearing burglar)—Be quiet, dear. This is going to be a battle of brains.
Wife—Yes, but shouldn't you have a weapon of some sort?

Tommy's definition of "nothing" is a balloon without its cover.

The Real Thing

Hairdresser—Shall I give you a shampoo, madam?
Mrs. Newlyrich—I can afford the best—a genuine poo or nothing at all.

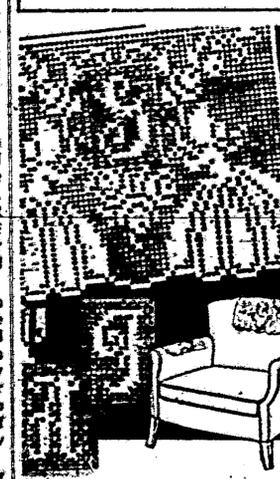

His Lesson

Father—I promised you a bicycle if you worked hard at school and passed. Add you have failed. What have you been doing?
Tommy—Learning to ride a bike.

Never Despair

A friend wrote a letter saying that he was in very bad health, and concluded: "Is there anything worse than having toothache and earache at the same time?"
The other wrote back: "Yes, rheumatism and Saint Vitus' dance!"

Horace Greeley Soon Discovered the Jackass

One morning Horace Greeley discovered a serious error had crept into his paper, the New York Tribune. In great rage he hurried up to the composing room to "try" the proofreader concerned. "Where's the blankety blank jackass in this office that ought to be kicked from here to Sing Sing?" he raved. After a hurried search, a proofreader produced Greeley's original copy, which had been followed. When Greeley saw that he was to blame, he turned his face to the wall and exclaimed: "Here! Kick me, all of you! Kick me!"—W. A. Croffutt in "An American Procession."

Odd Label of Utah Mount

On the road between Bryce canyon and Zion National Park in the state of Utah, there is a mountain called "Timponiion," which is the shortening of a Plute phrase meaning "two spirits to heaven and one to hell." Scores Die in Worst Rail Wreck in Years

In the nation's worst railroad tragedy in years, approximately 40 passengers were killed when the Milwaukee road's crack "Olympian" train plunged into the flood waters of Custer creek near Miles City, Mont. A midnight "flash flood" carried away the trestle spanning the creek and the train plunged into the raging waters. These two coaches bore many of the passengers who lost their lives.

Farm Champions on the Air

AMONG the Champion Farmers of America who are being featured on Firestone's series of 28 "Voice of the Farm" programs, is this representative group of leading crop growers and stock raisers. Each program in the series presents a farm champion in an interview with Everett Mitchell, popular farm commentator who has been heard on the National Farm and Home Hour for the last eight years. Each champion tells the fact story of his climb to championship rating in his particular branch of farm operation.

Buckingham Fountain

The Buckingham Memorial fountain is the gift of the late Miss Kate Buckingham of Chicago, art patron, in memory of her brother, Clarence, a former trustee and benefactor of the Art Institute of Chicago. The fountain cost $1,000,000 and is set in a garden 600 feet square with three basins rising in a central pool surrounded by four minor pools. When in full play the fountain flows about 5,500 gallons of water a minute, one column rising to a height of 75 feet. It is beautifully illuminated at night in five different colors.

TWO NO-HIT GAMES

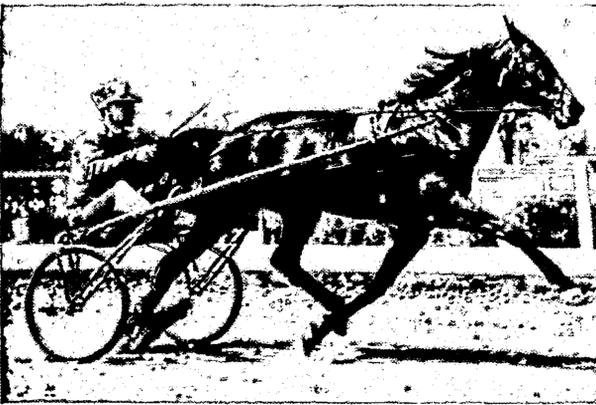

Johnny Vander Meer, twenty-three-year-old left-handed pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds who wrote new baseball history recently when he pitched two no-hit games in succession. He shut out the Boston Bees first, and then four days later took on the Brooklyn Dodgers in a night game at Ebbetts field and whitewashed them 6 to 0. No other pitcher in the century-old history of baseball has ever pitched two no-hit games in the span of a single season.

Mrs. Mrs. B. Smith, Editor and Publisher

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Bilbo and their brother John Kelt left Sunday for a two weeks' trip through California, Nevada and Colorado.

Mrs. Maggie Espy left Saturday for Lordsburg on account of the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Wilder.

Murel Burnett returned last Monday from Dallas, Texas, where he had been for a month studying music.

Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Crawford were in Hot Springs last Monday, on business. They found the little city booming. A new court house and several other new buildings are under construction.

Mrs. Don English and son, Frank Charles have returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives in Tucumcari.

Tests Prove the Power of Food

Demonstrate a Vitamin-Rich Diet is Vital to Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
MANKIND owes many things to the animals which have been used as test subjects in laboratories all over the world. As doctors and scientists have waged their war against disease, as they have made great strides forward in the study of foods and nutrition, they have carried on many of their experiments with rats.

The rats pictured here dramatically illustrate the power of food to influence growth. Although these two rats are exactly the same age, the weight of one is twice that of his brother. Where one animal is puny and underdeveloped, the second is fat and sleek and full of vitality.

What has produced such a difference in weight and general physical well-being? Merely a slight difference in diet. The two rats have lived under identical the same conditions, but the smaller animal on the left has received food lacking in sufficient vitamins, while the other rat has been fed the same diet, reinforced with vitamins.

If a well-balanced food ration is vital to the health of animals, how much more vital it must be for human beings. Surely the lesson is plain to see. If a mother wants her children to thrive she must feed them adequately. The child who is receiving a diet lacking in vitamins has no chance to grow and develop properly. Nor will the adult on a deficient diet attain or maintain optimum health.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To plan a diet wisely, to recognize the foods rich in important food elements, we must learn to utilize the discoveries of science. We must keep abreast of the newer knowledge of nutrition as it is presented by wise, unbiased interpreters such as C. Houston Goudiss, nationally known food authority, who each week offers his "What to Eat and Why" column in this newspaper. In this column Mr. Goudiss translates the latest developments into simple, non-technical language. By following his articles regularly, it is easy to keep in step with the most up-to-date findings of nutritional science.

Farm Security Administration

The net worth of low-income farmers in Lincoln county, served by the Farm Security Administration, is steadily improving, according to a statement issued this week by J. W. J. Evans rural rehabilitation supervisor, as he made preparations to begin the new fiscal year for this federal agency, beginning July 1.

Mr. Evans said his agency is serving 44 farm families in Lincoln county. He also said that in view of the progress made in the past two or three years by the rehabilitation loan program borrowers, the Farm Security Administration will be able to extend this aid to other worthy families of the low-income group.

The Farm Security Administration's board program for farmers includes rehabilitation loans, community and cooperative service, farm debt adjustment service and tenant purchase loans, community and cooperative service, and tenant purchase loans. All of these different services are, of course, designed to help distressed farm families rehabilitate themselves.

A typical rehabilitation loan, Mr. Evans explained, includes money for the purchase of seed and fertilizer, for buying work-stock, farm machinery, cows, brood sows and chickens. It may also include money for the purchase of needed articles in the home, such as pressure cookers and canning jars. Occasionally a few dollars are set aside for the purchase of clothing and medical attention. All families obtaining a rehabilitation loan, however, are required to make budgets for living expenses and keep accurate records of all transactions.

Just how well this program is progressing in Lincoln county may be gleaned from Mr. Evans' records which show that a number of families have completely repaid all of their obligations and are now continuing their farming operations without help from this agency, and a few of the farmers in this county have repaid their loans long before they were due.

Mr. Evans said rehabilitation loans are made to come due in installments of from one to five years, depending upon the nature of things to be purchased with the loan money, and the financial condition of the particular family. Crop liens and chattel mortgages are taken as security.

McGee-Russell

Much interest centers around the announcement of the recent marriage of Miss Maynor Fay McGee, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. B. McGee of this city and Bridges Russell of Gallatin, Tenn., which was solemnized at a quiet ceremony in Lake Arthur New Mexico, Friday evening, June 17th with Rev. Harold Dye, pastor of the Las Cruces Baptist church officiating. —Las Cruces Citizen.

Mrs. Russell was a teacher in Carrizozo grade school about four years ago.

Mr. M. O. Longley and children who have been visiting Mrs. Longley's father, Mr. Jet Rustin have returned to their home in Hachita.

Miss Virginia Spence, who has been visiting relatives in Roswell is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sager before returning to Santa Fe.

Messrs Phipps and Langston are putting new window frames in the front of the post office.

Mr. T. E. Kelley purchased a new Oldsmobile from the City garage last week.

Mr. Theodere Hobbie made a business trip to Picacho last Tuesday.

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1938

Mrs. Mrs. B. Smith, Editor and Publisher

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Bilbo and their brother John Kelt left Sunday for a two weeks' trip through California, Nevada and Colorado.

Mrs. Maggie Espy left Saturday for Lordsburg on account of the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Wilder.

Murel Burnett returned last Monday from Dallas, Texas, where he had been for a month studying music.

Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Crawford were in Hot Springs last Monday, on business. They found the little city booming. A new court house and several other new buildings are under construction.

Mrs. Don English and son Frank Charles have returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives in Tucumcari.

Tests Prove the Power of Food

Demonstrate a Vitamin-Rich Diet is Vital to Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDIS
MANKIND owes many things to the animals, which have been used as test subjects in laboratories all over the world. As doctors and scientists have waged their war against disease, as they have made great strides forward in the study of foods and nutrition, they have carried on many of their experiments with rats.

The rats pictured here dramatically illustrate the power of food to influence growth. Although these two rats are exactly the same age, the weight of one is twice that of his brother. Where one animal is puny and underdeveloped, the second is fat and sleek and full of vitality.

What has produced such a difference in weight and general physical well-being? Merely a slight difference in diet. The two rats have lived under identical conditions, but the smaller animal on the left has received food lacking in sufficient vitamins, while the other rat has been fed the same diet, reinforced with vitamins.

If a well-balanced food ration is vital to the health of animals, how much more vital it must be for human beings. Surely, the lesson is plain to see. If a mother wants her children to thrive she must feed them adequately. The child who is receiving a diet lacking in vitamins has no chance to grow and develop properly. Nor will the adult on a deficient diet attain or maintain optimum health.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To plan a diet wisely, to recognize the foods rich in important food elements, we must learn to utilize the discoveries of science. We must keep abreast of the newer knowledge of nutrition as it is presented by wise, unbiased interpreters such as U. Houston Goudis, nationally known food authority, who each week offers his "What to Eat and Why" column in this newspaper. In this column Mr. Goudis translates the latest developments into simple, non-technical language. By following his articles regularly, it is easy to keep in step with the most up-to-date findings of nutritional science.

Farm Security Administration

The net worth of low-income farmers in Lincoln county, served by the Farm Security Administration, is steadily improving, according to a statement issued this week by J. W. J. Evans rural rehabilitation supervisor, as he made preparations to begin the new fiscal year for this federal agency, beginning July 1.

Mr. Evans said his agency is serving 44 farm families in Lincoln county. He also said that in view of the progress made in the past two or three years by the rehabilitation loan program borrowers, the Farm Security Administration will be able to extend this aid to other worthy families of the low-income group.

The Farm Security Administration's board program for farmers includes rehabilitation loans, community and cooperative service, farm debt adjustment service and tenant purchase loans, community and cooperative service, and tenant purchase loans. All of these different services are, of course, designed to help distressed farm families rehabilitate themselves.

A typical rehabilitation loan, Mr. Evans explained, includes money for the purchase of seed and fertilizer, for buying work-stock, farm machinery, cows, brood sows and chickens. It may also include money for the purchase of needed articles in the home, such as pressure cookers and canning jars. Occasionally a few dollars are set aside for the purchase of clothing and medical attention. All families obtaining a rehabilitation loan, however, are required to make budgets for living expenses and keep accurate records of all transactions.

Just how well this program is progressing in Lincoln county may be gleaned from Mr. Evans' records which show that a number of families have completely repaid all of their obligations and are now continuing their farming operations without help from this agency, and a few of the farmers in this county have repaid their loans long before they were due.

Mr. Evans said rehabilitation loans are made to come due in installments of from one to five years, depending upon the nature of things to be purchased with the loan money, and the financial condition of the particular family. Crop liens and chattel mortgages are taken as security.

McGee-Russell

Much interest centers around the announcement of the recent marriage of Miss Maynor Fay McGee, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. B. McGee of this city and Bridges Russell of Gallatin, Tenn., which was solemnized at a quiet ceremony in Lake Arthur New Mexico, Friday evening, June 17th with Rev. Harold Dye, pastor of the Las Cruces Baptist church officiating.—Las Cruces Citizen.

Mrs. Russell was a teacher in Carrizozo grade school about four years ago.

Mr. M. O. Longley and children who have been visiting Mrs. Longley's father, Mr. Jet Rustin have returned to their home in Hachita.

Miss Virginia Spence, who has been visiting relatives in Roswell is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sager before returning to Santa Fe.

Messrs Phipps and Langston are putting new window frames in the front of the post office.

Mr. T. E. Kelley purchased a new Oldsmobile from the City garage last week.

Mr. Theodora Hobbie made a business trip to Picacho last Tuesday.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—It is perhaps just as well that Crosby Gaige is a bachelor. He drags home 200,000 patent models, including a corpse preserver, hog-catcher, burglar alarm, an early Hoe printing press, a dentist's chair, a machine gun, an egg-beater, an engine, a steamboat, a pretzel-bending machine—and so on—and on.

The patent office models had been gathered by the late Sir Henry Wellcome and kept at his estate in 3,251 packing cases. Mr. Gaige bought them.

A friend of this writer, remembering with remorse he hadn't bought a birthday present for his wife, stepped into an auction room. He became confused and bought ten barrels of tin cookie cutters. It almost broke up his home. Mr. Gaige will have no such trouble.

Mr. Gaige was born the son of the postmaster at Skunk Hollow, N. Y., and became a Broadway theatrical producer, with a 300-acre estate at Peekskill on the Hudson, where he indulges his taste for knickknacks such as the above, but with more discrimination than this ensemble suggests.

He is a gourmet, with 300 cook books in his kitchen, has a de luxe machine shop where he makes art objects, is a master of viticulture and a maker and connoisseur of beautiful wines.

He has cattle folds and breeded blooded cattle, a printing plant where he prints typographical knock-outs in limited editions, a huge library with 5,000 reference books, and is distinguished both as a bibliophile and a cook—one of the best cooks in the world, his friends say.

All these concerns are merely extra-curricular. In his 29 years on Broadway, he has hit off his full share of successes, built three theaters and kept steadily out of the red. In Columbia university, he wrote the 1003 variety show, "Illuna."

He got a job with the late Elizabeth Marbury, famous play broker, reading plays at ten cents an act. He saved his money and headed into the show business with a fast running start.

His life is the fulfillment of every commuter's dream. He is of clerical, almost monkish mien, of somewhat austere countenance, with octagonal pince-nez and, like all epicures, abstemious in all things—saving such things as patent models.

He wears red, white and blue suspenders and is very fussy about his handkerchief pocket. He always has the tailor sew a button on it.

AN ATTACK of laryngitis gave Margaret Sullivan her big start. Lee Shubert saw her in "Three Artists and a Lady" at Princeton, and rushed back-stage with a contract.

"You have a voice just like Ethel Barrymore," he said. She explained that it was merely laryngitis, but the excited Mr. Shubert wouldn't listen. There was nothing to be done about it, so the helpless girl was signed for five years.

That was a bit of luck which, in Miss Sullivan's career, offsets embarrassing entanglements in some of the most elaborate flops in current stage history. Today, she is at the peak of her career as critics turn cartwheels and back flips over the new film, "Three Comrades," and Miss Sullivan's performance therein.

Her story has none of the up-from-poverty success routine. She is the daughter of a proud family of Norfolk, Va., a descendant of Robert E. Lee. Her journey to Boston to study dancing was indulged as a passing whim, but there was considerable family eye-rolling when she switched to the theater and began adventuring in summer stock, on Cape Cod and way points.

Her father got her home once, but only for a short time. It is to be hoped that her story won't be widely circulated around Hollywood. It would start all the extra girls sleeping in a draft.

ASK BUSINESS' HELP

Five Spending' Chiefs Tell Their Recovery Hopes . . . Government Agencies Warned to Avoid Politics

John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, and his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, leaving the old church in Nahant, Mass., where they were married.

Ask Business to Help

FIVE of the officials who will have most to do with carrying out the President's spending-lending drive went on the air in a nation-wide broadcast and urged that business cooperate with the administration in restoring permanent recovery. These speakers were Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, acting PWA Administrator Howard A. Gray, United States Housing Administrator Nathan Straus and Brig. Gen. John J. Kingman, acting chief of United States army engineers.

Outlining his plans for use of federal funds allocated his agency, Hopkins said that the purchase of materials alone for WPA projects will give indirect, full-time private jobs to 250,000 workers, in addition to relief jobs for the unemployed. "And so the WPA money flows, like the blood in the human body, giving life and strength to the economic system all the way from its toes to the top of its head," he said.

Secretary Wallace said that under the new agricultural legislation the farmer is in good shape to do his part in the recovery drive. "If business would only start producing as it knows how to produce, the market for agricultural products would expand during the next year to a point which would help amazingly in bringing about a solution of the farm problem," he said.

Gray, who has been administering PWA affairs in the absence of Interior Secretary Ickes, said that the spending of money set aside for public works under the recovery program should result in industry's receiving $1,000,000,000 in orders in the next two years.

Straus outlined his agency's program of slum-clearance and low-cost housing and said that it will result in increased employment and the "creation of that finest and most needed of all commodities—better homes for Americans."

The administration's flood control program, General Kingman said, will produce "equally beneficial results not alone in the reduction of human suffering," but in keeping open business channels and providing additional employment.

Terrible Train Wreck

OLYMPIAN, crack passenger train of the Milwaukee road bound from Chicago to Tacoma, Wash., crashed through a flood-weakened trestle over Custer creek, near Saugus, Mont., and at least 40 persons perished, most of them being drowned in a submerged tourist sleeper. About 65 others were injured.

This was the worst railroad wreck in America in recent years, and it sadly marred the safety record of the Milwaukee road which had not lost a paying passenger in accidents in the previous 20 years.

The eleven-car train ran into a cloudburst near Saugus but the crew had no warning of the trestle's condition until the engine plunged through the span, dragging several cars after it.

Wage Law Effects

STRAIN of the new wage and hour law on industry, say labor experts in Washington, will be eased by the existing unsettled economic conditions. They also up the situation that . . . At industry's present pace not more than 200,000 wage earners in manufacturing industries would get more pay. The big high speed industrial machines, such as automobile plants, hardly will be touched by the law. It will affect certain garment factories and a very small number of textile mills.

It will affect the fertilizer industry of the South and southern sawmills. Even when business is as good as it was last summer, unofficial estimates indicate that only about 200,000 factory workers would be affected by the 25 cent wage minimum of the law, and somewhat more than 1,000,000 workers would find their hours shortened by a 44 hour weekly limit, effective next October.

At the outset the law's effect will be to improve "the worst conditions" in certain industries engaged in interstate commerce, the economists believe.

Child labor provisions will affect mainly scattered minors working at odd jobs in various mills and factories.

'Keep Out of Politics'

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD of Texas and the senate campaign expenditures investigating committee of which he is chairman has directed all government agencies to take no part in primary and election campaigns.

And he has issued warning that persons suspected of improper political conduct will be exposed and cited for criminal prosecution. The committee at its first meeting adopted a resolution pledging that its investigations will be conducted with "vigor and vigilance" without fear or favor and without partisanship.

The warning against use of improper tactics was directed first to all candidates for senatorial offices, their friends and aids. It was then extended to all government agencies. Besides Sheppard on the committee are Senators Harrison, David I. Walsh, Joseph O'Mahoney and Wallace White.

German Spies Indicted AFTER five months of investigation by government agents, 18 persons were indicted as spies by a federal grand jury in New York. Moreover, no secret was made of the fact that they are charged with being spies for the German government, engaged in obtaining information concerning our national defense.

Four of the defendants are in this country and will be tried here. The others, including three German officers, are abroad.

John Roosevelt Weds

IN A little old stone church at Nahant, Mass., John Roosevelt, youngest son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and Anne Lindsay Clark were made man and wife. After the ceremony there was a reception in the old Nahant club, and the young couple then started on a honeymoon trip to Campobello Island, N. B., the location of the President's summer home.

Calls Germany Welsher

GERMANY insists she is not liable under international law for the foreign debts of the former government of Austria. In reply Secretary of State Hull says, in polite language, that Germany is a welsher. His note on the subject, delivered by Ambassador Hugh Wilson, contends that Germany, when it absorbed Austria, assumed full responsibility for Austria's post-war debts to America and other liabilities totaling about $30,000,000.

Are You a 'Canny' Canner?

By JOSEPHINE C. BOND. Do you get 100 per cent returns from your canning efforts? It isn't always enough to do "lots of canning." You may have 500 full jars in your cellar at the end of the season, but if 100 of these leak because of cheap or old rubber rings, you are only getting an 80 per cent return on your labor.

One of the greatest mistakes the housewife canner can make, I have found, is to yield to the mistaken clerk who substitutes "unknown brands" for advertised brands produced by reputable manufacturers. Substitution may be all right at times, when an item can be used up in a short time. But when it comes to jar rings—play safe—buy a recognized brand.

There is a lot of difference in jar rings. The rubber used in them is compounded, or mixed, in much the same way that the batter for a cake is mixed, and, like cake batter, unless the recipe is tested and the ingredients of the best, the results will be disappointing. Inferior jar rings will "check" or crack and allow air to seep into the jars.

Strange Facts

Government Pays Cats

THE familiar old proverb says, "a cat may look on a king," but there is no mention of what it may cost the king. In England some cats may demand their weekly pay from his majesty's government. There is an old English law providing a shilling a week for the food of each cat employed in the service of the state. There are about two thousand cats on the British government's payroll. Cats still protect granaries, cold storage vaults, docks, workshops, ships and stores.

It is believed that the ancient Egyptians domesticated and revered the cat because his protection meant the difference between plenty and starvation. The Egyptians were a grain producing people. A plague of mice and rats could reduce the population to starvation. Eighteen centuries before the Christian era the cat was domesticated in Egypt and treated with respect and veneration. When a house cat died the members of the household shaved their eyebrows and went into mourning.

It is commonly thought that cats can see in the dark. This is an erroneous idea. Their eyes are so constructed that the pupils can contract to mere slits in bright light and become large and round in the dark. Because of the mechanism of the eye cats can catch rays of light too dim for the human eye to see by. Cats can see in very faint light, but not in total darkness. © Britannica Junior.

"I'm armed all right," the bandit sneered. "Don't make any mistake about that. But I may take you up on yore offer. Maybe I can use two guns."

Norris ate ravenously. He drank cup after cup of coffee. More than once he went back to the bottle. At last he pushed his chair back.

"I reckon you know it was Lee Chiswick's crowd attacked us in Live Oak canyon," he said. "I left in some hurry. Me and Kansas. Did they collect the rest of the boys?"

"Mile High got away, But Sid Hunt was killed. Lou they captured."

"Too bad about that, Sherm," the other man jeered. "He'll blab, of course, and you'll be in this up to yore neck."

The big man looked at him bleakly, but made no answer in words. "Kansas got away with you, didn't he?" was his comment.

A film of wary blankness came over the eyes of the hunted man. "Kansas made it out of the canyon with me," he said slowly. "A posse jumped us at the old Welsh place and got Kansas. I fought 'em off and lit out with the girl."

"Got Kansas. You mean killed him?"

"He'll never be any deader," Norris answered callously.

"Come clean, Morg. We've got to know just where we're at. Did you do this Chiswick girl any harm in any way?"

The sulky look spread over the face of the kidnaper. "Didn't hurt the lil' fool at all, outside of slapping her white face once when she got sassy."

"What are yore plans?" Howard inquired.

"First off, I aim to dress my wounds and bathe my feet in hot water."

"Sure, Morg," the fat man said with oily smoothness. "Help yourself to anything I have here. You are welcome to whatever I've got."

Norris leered at him. "I'll bet you feel like I was your prodigal son. A fatted calf wouldn't be near good enough for me."

His host decided not to put the welcome on too thick. Morg Norris was not a fool when his passions were not involved.

"You can have it straight, Morg, since you ask for it," he retorted brusquely. "You've played yore hand like a damn fool. I was hoping you wouldn't show up here, but would slip across the line to Mexico. Well, you're here. There's nothing I can do but give you a lift on yore way. Right now all the passes will be watched. You wouldn't have a dead man's chance of getting through unless you had all the luck in the world. Question is, where do you aim to hole up? They will watch Tail Holt the way a cat does a mouse-hole. Even now someone may know you're here."

"Only Sherm Howard, and of course he wouldn't give me away," Norris said derisively.

"Sure nobody saw you come in?"

"Sure. While I think of it, Sherm, I'll take that other gun you promised me." The slitted eyes stabbed into those of the older man.

For a barely perceptible instant Howard hesitated. He had a suspicion Morg was not armed. If so, he could be killed now with no risk. The man had become a menace. It would be well to get rid of him. He could use just now the credit that would come to him for rubbing out the desperado. But he could not do it. He found he had not the sheer nerve to draw and pump lead, not with the killer's gaze on him and his hand close to where the butt of a revolver might lie inside his vest.

"Glad to give it to you," Howard said in his cheerful voice of false heartiness. "You'll find it in the tray of the trunk there. It's a good gun too. Throws just a pite high, but you'll make allowance for that."

"You get it for me, Sherm," the visitor urged. "You know just where it is."

Howard got the gun. He handed it to Norris, who broke it and made sure the chambers were loaded.

"Much obliged, Sherm," the outlaw said, mockery in his voice. "I can sure use this. Haven't had a gun in my hand since those skunks jumped me at Wild Horse."

The fat man made the best of it he could. He said promptly: "I'm not dumb, Morg. Knew all the time you didn't have a cutter. Trouble with you is you're so damned suspicious. Why wouldn't I let you have a gun when you're up against it? You don't think straight."

"You'd bust a trace to help me, wouldn't you, Sherm?" the killer jeered.

"Personally, far as I'm concerned, you can go to hell yore own way, Morg," Howard told him bluntly. "But I stand by my crowd, and you're one of the gang, even if you do wear out our patience. You can't stay here, of course. Everybody in town comes and goes to this house, as you know. Where do you aim to hole up till you can all across the border?"

"I won't worry you about that," Norris said with a cynical grin. "If you are a Good Samaritan to me while I'm here that will about let you out for right now."

"I don't care where you hide," the older man replied. "Nothing to me. Go to the L C ranch and stay with the Chiswicks, if you've a mind to. Point is, when they crowd me, I'd like to make sure I'm giving them the wrong steer."

"Sure. You'd hate to see them collect me. But don't worry about it. They won't." The outlaw got a basin, poured hot water into it from the kettle, and reduced this to the proper temperature. All the time he watched his host out of the corner of his eyes. "But there's one thing you can do for me, Sherm, since you're so anxious to help. I'm about out of mazzuma. I'll take a small loan if you can spare it."

Howard took his time to answer. Money was his god. To part with it unless he saw a chance of getting it back with interest was a positive pain to him. He could read Norris like a book. The fellow was sneering at him, but back of this lay a threat. His request was an order.

"Haven't got much here, Morg, but what I have is yours," the big man said. "Ten dollars—or even twenty—"

"Wouldn't be of any use to me," Norris said coolly. "I'll take five hundred!" Howard stared at him. "You're loading me, Morg."

Howard crept along the wall toward Main street. From this spot he had fired the shot that had wounded Lee Chiswick only a few weeks ago. Then he had been riding the top wave, a leader among the reckless, lawless cowboys of the vicinity. Now he was a fugitive, every man's hand against his.

A poor broomstick stolen in the hills had brought him to town, but he intended to leave on a better mount. That was why he had ventured so close to the heart of the town. There were sure to be horses in front of the Golden Nugget.

A half a dozen of them stood at the hitchrack. His eyes went up and down the street. A few people were in view, two or three of them lounging in front of saloons, one or two others moving briskly toward some destination.

Norris stepped to the hitchrack to choose a mount. To him there came the sound of hoofs. Three men rode round a corner and drew up at the Golden Nugget. One of them was Curly Connor.

Back of a horse Norris crouched, revolver in hand. He guessed that these men had just come back from a fruitless search in the hills for him. They swung stiffly from their saddles as riders do who have not left them for many miles.

"Me, I could use a drink," one of them said wearily.

The speaker was Mile High. He tied the rein with a slip-knot and turned toward the Golden Nugget. As he did so his glance stopped abruptly. He was looking into the glittering eyes of someone standing back of a horse.

"God-damn-it, it's Morg," he broke out.

"Right, first guess," Norris said evenly, not raising his voice. "Don't monkey with yore hardware, any of you, unless you want to go out in smoke."

Mile High said bitterly: "You killed Kansas, you double-crossing devil!"

"So I did," the bad man jeered. "And I'm still on the shoot, Mile High. Roll right along and get that drink, with yore arms down."

Stepping swiftly to the left for a better view of the man, Curly dragged out his revolver. Two guns blazed, one of them that of Connor. With a ribald yell of triumph Norris vaulted to the saddle. Mile

High's forty-five came into action, but the horse was plunging at the feel of the spur. Again Norris fired, his mount still in the air. An instant later he was dashing into the darkness, crouched low in the seat.

"Rout the boys out of the Golden Nugget, Jim," Curly said excitedly. "Get after him immediate! He got me."

"Bad, Curly?" asked Mile High. "In the shoulder. I'll make the raffle all right, but I don't reckon I can ride with you."

The lank puncher picked his hat out of the dust. There were two little holes in the crown. "The son-of-a-gun sure gave me a haircut. Been one inch lower he would of collected me. Better get inside and have the boys look after you, Curly."

"Yes," agreed the black-headed man. "I'll be all right when I'm fixed up. Get fresh horses, Mile High. That rapscaillon don't aim to pick no gingles on the way."

"Curly was right. The fugitive had already left the road and turned up a gulch trail leading into the hills. If there had been any room for doubt as to how he stood at Tail Holt there was none left now. His roaring gun had cut down the most popular man in town. He had seen Curly stagger from the impact of the bullet. As soon as possible he must get out of the country. Until that time he must lie hidden.

Old Man Haskins would take care of him—for a price. That was one of the reasons he had been forced to hold up Sherm Howard. Nobody did anything for nothing, the bandit reflected bitterly. Not when you were down on your luck, with the cards stacked against you. He would have to pay Pete well for protection.

Norris rode steadily till late at night. He was in a vile humor. His swollen feet, tortured him. The clout on the head, a souvenir from Jeff Gray, still pained at times. From lack of sleep, he was dead tired.

The cabin of the neater was dark when he rode up to it, but a hound dog filled the night with its barking. A man came to the door. He opened it only an inch or two.

"Who is it?" a piping voice demanded.

"Lemme in, Pete. It's Morg Norris."

The hillman hesitated. "I ain't exactly fixed for visitors, Morg. That's a fact sure enough." He lowered his squeaky tones to a whisper. "I ain't alone. I done got-some-one here."

The hunted man was taken aback. He had counted on Haskins being alone. Few came up to this neck of the woods.

"Who you got here?" Norris asked.

"Why, I don't rightly know his name," Haskins said. "A fellow from Texas."

Morg swung from the saddle and walked close to the other.

"I'm listenin'," Pete, he said, and his voice dripped menace. "Is this some guy sent up to get me?"

Haskins was a big, unkempt, stovely man. He was of middle age, large, with a deep barrel chest from which one would have expected the roar of a bull.

"Jumpin' Jehoshaphat, no!" The high falsetto roared excitement. "Don't start lookin' for trouble, Morg. This is a bird sent up by Sherm Howard. He's on the dodge."

Someone inside the cabin joined the talk. "Who is it, Pete?"

"A friend, Clint. Wants to stay with me a spell. He got into a kinda jam. Name is Norris."

"The fellow they're after?"

"Yes."

"What's all the powwow about? Why don't you bring him in?"

CHAPTER XI

Morgan Norris closed the door of the Howard house and ran through the garden to a back street. Before moving into the open road he glanced up and down it to make sure nobody was in sight. Swiftly he went up the road until he came to a path crossing the vacant space used by the town for a baseball ground. This he followed. Behind the plate were two or three adobe houses belonging to Mexicans. He wound around these and came to the rear door of the Golden Nugget.

He did not enter the gambling-house, but crept along one of the walls until he could look through a window and see what was going on inside. The sight of that room gave him an acute nostalgia. He had been one of the king-pins there for many months. He had ruffed it with the best of them. Fifty times he had cantered into town with some boon companion and strolled in to drink, loaf, or play the wheel. Sick and weary as he was, nothing would have pleased him more than to drop in there and relax.

But he dared not show his face. The Golden Nugget was closed to him forever. When he had run away with Ruth Chiswick, he had put himself beyond the pale. If he were to open the door and walk in now a dozen cold, hostile faces would stare at him, and at the right moment bullets would crash into his body as they had into that of Wild Jim Pender Howard had been right. The thing he had done had hurt all the Tail Holt outlaws. If they got the chance they would square themselves by planting him in Boot Hill.

But he dared not show his face. The Golden Nugget was closed to him forever. When he had run away with Ruth Chiswick, he had put himself beyond the pale. If he were to open the door and walk in now a dozen cold, hostile faces would stare at him, and at the right moment bullets would crash into his body as they had into that of Wild Jim Pender Howard had been right. The thing he had done had hurt all the Tail Holt outlaws. If they got the chance they would square themselves by planting him in Boot Hill.

High's forty-five came into action, but the horse was plunging at the feel of the spur. Again Norris fired, his mount still in the air. An instant later he was dashing into the darkness, crouched low in the seat.

"Rout the boys out of the Golden Nugget, Jim," Curly said excitedly. "Get after him immediate! He got me."

"Bad, Curly?" asked Mile High. "In the shoulder. I'll make the raffle all right, but I don't reckon I can ride with you."

The lank puncher picked his hat out of the dust. There were two little holes in the crown. "The son-of-a-gun sure gave me a haircut. Been one inch lower he would of collected me. Better get inside and have the boys look after you, Curly."

"Yes," agreed the black-headed man. "I'll be all right when I'm fixed up. Get fresh horses, Mile High. That rapscaillon don't aim to pick no gingles on the way."

"Curly was right. The fugitive had already left the road and turned up a gulch trail leading into the hills. If there had been any room for doubt as to how he stood at Tail Holt there was none left now. His roaring gun had cut down the most popular man in town. He had seen Curly stagger from the impact of the bullet. As soon as possible he must get out of the country. Until that time he must lie hidden.

Old Man Haskins would take care of him—for a price. That was one of the reasons he had been forced to hold up Sherm Howard. Nobody did anything for nothing, the bandit reflected bitterly. Not when you were down on your luck, with the cards stacked against you. He would have to pay Pete well for protection.

Norris rode steadily till late at night. He was in a vile humor. His swollen feet, tortured him. The clout on the head, a souvenir from Jeff Gray, still pained at times. From lack of sleep, he was dead tired.

The cabin of the neater was dark when he rode up to it, but a hound dog filled the night with its barking. A man came to the door. He opened it only an inch or two.

"Who is it?" a piping voice demanded.

"Lemme in, Pete. It's Morg Norris."

The hillman hesitated. "I ain't exactly fixed for visitors, Morg. That's a fact sure enough." He lowered his squeaky tones to a whisper. "I ain't alone. I done got-some-one here."

The hunted man was taken aback. He had counted on Haskins being alone. Few came up to this neck of the woods.

"Who you got here?" Norris asked.

"Why, I don't rightly know his name," Haskins said. "A fellow from Texas."

CALCIUM

The Captain of the Minerals

Nationally Known Food Authority Explains How to Include This Vital Food Element in the Daily Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

A FEW years ago there was an earthquake in the Far West. When the tremors were over, the frightened people looked in dismay upon the damage that had been done. In some places they were saddened by the loss of a great number of their buildings, and in one community, mingled with their sorrow—almost crowding it out of their emotions—was indignant ANGER. For they observed that their schools had suffered greater damage than any other group of buildings in the city.

On every side, the cry of indignation arose. It was all too plain that poor materials had gone into the construction of those schools which were supposed to house children in security.

The most vehement cries went up from the mothers, not only in that community, but all over the country.

That is natural, for all mothers believe they have the children's welfare at heart. Unwittingly, however, they may be doing them irreparable harm by failing to feed them the foods that will construct sound bodies, able to withstand the stress and strain of life.

Calcium Starvation

The mineral calcium is to the human body what steel and stone are to a building. It is necessary to construct the bony framework. The mother who fails to consume adequate calcium before her baby is born, or fails to give the child adequate calcium throughout the growing years, is as guilty as the contractor who constructs a school building of poor materials.

Without sufficient calcium, the bones become soft and porous. They break easily and knit slowly after they are broken. They may bend and twist during growth, so that the child who is a victim of calcium deficiency may become bow-legged and deformed, with a malformed chest or enlarged forehead. Rickets—that horrible deficiency disease which causes stunted mis-shapen bodies—may develop. And so may tetany—another scourge of childhood.

Crooked Defective Teeth

The teeth, too, depend upon calcium for the soundness of their structure. When this precious mineral is inadequately provided, the baby teeth may soon decay; the permanent teeth may come in crowded and unsightly—and quickly develop cavities.

There are also many other ways that calcium deficiency may handicap your children. For this mineral is intimately concerned with all the body processes. It increases the strength and pulsations of the heart; helps the blood to coagulate in case of injury, thus effectively aiding in preventing hemorrhage. It strengthens the resistance of the body in fever and other diseases. It tones up the nervous system, lessening nervous tension.

Adults Require Calcium

Adults have a vital need for calcium. A lack of this mineral not only results in defective teeth, but may also be responsible for nervousness, quivering and twitching of the muscles and defective heart action.

To be normal, the full-grown human body must contain more calcium than any other mineral element. Yet, every individual is, of necessity, born calcium-poor. For if the bones were as rigid as they are, they would be unable to expand and contract. The feeding of fish and fish scrap to animals has been recommended and practiced for many years, but it is only in recent years that use of fish meal as a stock and poultry food has grown rapidly. Like fertilizers, meal is made from "scrap." It must be dried carefully and ground into granular form for poultry feed or into a rather fine meal for other purposes.

Founded Grain in Hollow Stump

When mills were not available, the early farmers often made their corn into meal by pounding it in a hollow stump.

must eventually become, the ordeal of birth would be too difficult for both mother and child.

Easily Lost From Body

The homemaker's task of providing adequate calcium is complicated by the fact that the body loses large amounts of calcium every day, and this loss is greater during sickness, especially in fever or when one is worked, over-worked or has taken too strenuous exercise.

Outstanding nutritionists unanimously agree that the American diet is more deficient in calcium than in any other element. And it is squarely up to the mothers and homemakers to correct this tragic state of affairs, which is undermining their own efficiency and threatening the present health and future happiness of their children.

How to Obtain Calcium

Milk is an outstanding source of calcium. That is why it should form the cornerstone of every balanced diet. Cheese, which is milk in concentrated form, is likewise notable in this respect, and one and one-fourth ounces of American Cheddar cheese are the approximate equivalent of an eight-ounce glass of milk. Leaf and stem vegetables are richer in calcium than other vegetables or fruits, but while their calcium has been found to be well-absorbed by adults, it is not so readily available to children.

Among the vegetables, however, there is a wide variation, turnip tops and dandelion greens providing unusually large amounts.

List of Calcium-Rich Foods

I have prepared a list of foods rich in calcium which I shall gladly send to homemakers upon request. I urge every woman to write for this list and use it in planning the daily diet of herself, her husband and children.

You really need such a list in order to avoid the grave consequences of calcium deficiency, for so many of our common foods are calcium poor that it is possible for a diet to be abundant and varied, and still be inadequate in respect to calcium.

The list of calcium-containing foods will help you do a perfect job of building strong, fine bodies for your children.

There is no joy like the joy of creating perfect, healthy children. The architect and the sculptor stand in awe before the realization of their dreams. But you, the mothers of children, the builders of their bodies, you are the mightiest of all. A diet adequate in calcium, for you and your children, will help you build beautifully, wisely and well. Your reward will be the joy, the pride, the heart-warming satisfaction of having accomplished a worthwhile purpose.

You are invited to write C. Houston Goudiss for a chart showing the foods rich in iodine and those which are poor in this substance. It will serve as a valuable guide in preparing balanced menus.

Just ask for the Iodine Chart, addressing C. Houston Goudiss at 6 East 39th Street, New York City. A post card is sufficient to carry your request.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. R. T.—There is no such thing as a specific brain food, but nutritionists are convinced that the quality and efficiency of the functioning of the mind depends partially on the character of the food consumed. Mental efficiency appears to be influenced by the quantity and quality of the protein in the diet, and it has been demonstrated that the vegetable proteins, including cheese, milk and eggs are superior in biological value.

C. J. E.—It is a fallacy to assume that garlic is a blood purifier. Garlic improves the taste of food for those who like it, but it cannot be considered to possess special health properties.

Notice from State Game Department

The State Game Department today issued an earnest plea for the public not to bother young game animals. "The forests and plains at this time of year are truly nature's nurseries and are full of wildlife babies," stated State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker, and asserted that they are better off where they are and if left alone their mothers will take proper care of them.

"Furthermore," said Mr. Barker, "the Department's records show that seventy-five percent or more of all young animals and birds captured die within a short time in captivity because the average person does not know how to take care of wild creatures as their mothers do."

Hats of Korea

With the exception of the dancing girls of the country, the Korean women wear no head covering other than their hair and this is twisted in the shape of a coil on top of the head to act as a pad in order that they may balance rather heavy bundles upon their heads. The men are rarely without the hat which is perched on top of the skull and not touch of a protection. The dancing girls never appear without an elaborate headpiece resembling a four-pointed crown, tapering to the top.

Cows Decrease 388,000 in Number During Past Year

Washington.—The number of milk cows on farms decreased an average of more than 1,000 a day during 1936, according to reports to the Department of Agriculture.

The milk cow population, which has declined 7 per cent—nearly 2,000,000 head—during the past three years, is believed to have reached the low point, the department said.

Some increase in milk cow numbers is expected in the next two years and a more marked increase is anticipated in 1939. There are now about one cow to every five persons in the United States.

The cow population dropped from an all-time peak of 26,931,000 head in 1934 to a five-year low of 25,040,000 head on January 1, this year, the department "cow census" showed.

The drought and high feed prices in relation to the price of dairy products was blamed for a decrease of 388,000 head of milk cows last year. Prices of milk cows have been unusually low in relation to other commodities during the past three years. The inventory value per head rose from $27 in 1934 to $50 on January 1, 1937.
