CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1938

NUMBER 2

LAND MARK SOLD

Paden's Drug Store Passes Into Hands Of New Owners.

Paden's drug store, built in 1908, was sold on July 1, 1938 to Elmer Eaker. "Red" as he is popularly called has been in the employ of Rolland's drug store, off and on since boyhood. He is also an employe of the Southern Pacific railway company.

Dr. Paden, former owner has decided to retire from active business life. He has been so closely identified with the business life of the town, it will be hard to realize he has sold.

Dr. Paden came to Lincoln county first in 1880, and located at White Oaks. He received his medical training in the College of Medicine in Louisville, Ky., where he was graduated in 1886. He won high honors in his class also won the gold medal in surgery which was a great achievement in those days. He later devoted several years to post-graduate work in the Hudson street hospital in New York City.

In 1906 Dr. Paden moved from White Oaks to Carrizozo and in 1908 had the present drug store built, which was at that time, with the exception of the Exchange Bank building, the finest business structure in town. He was appointed railroad surgeon for the old El Paso and Southwestern which position he held for twenty-two years. After the Southern Pacific bought the Southwestern out Dr. Paden was appointed surgeon for the S. P. and served for three years at which time he reached the age limit and he was presented upon his retirement an annual pass by the company.

Dr. Paden will move to his home in White Oaks, where twenty of his successful years were spent. He owns all of the Paden addition to White Oaks, except one lot, on which the Paden drug store stood, but which he sold to Jack Cleghorn who enlarged the building and transformed it into a dance hall, one of the most popular pleasure resorts in this part of the county.

During the World War Dr. Paden added another story to his drug store and had it all equipped for a hospital. For years Paden's hospital was the only one in Carrizozo. The fruits of his labor have not all been "juicy," for it was back in the days of horseback riding that he gained recognition. He trudged through Lincoln county on horseback, braving the most inclement weather conditions, but he "carried on" with determination. The path was not always "rosy," but during his medical career he has seen the times change from saddle pockets and horseback riding to the most luxurious streamlined cars and airplanes.

Dr. Paden was born in Paden's Valley, West Virginia. He was married to Miss Belle Williams of the same place in 1886. Mrs. Paden passed away in 1910. In 1923 he lost his younger son, Dr. Melvin Paden, whom he had educated for a medical career and who was to assume partnership with his father. In 1930 his elder son passed away. In speaking of the changes of his family and life, Dr. Paden said, "If young Dr. Mel had lived, all our plans would have been carried out, but now it never can happen."

Dr. Paden's home in White Oaks is a large, one and one-half story pebble dashed adobe building. He intends to have it thoroughly repaired and modernized so that he can enjoy life quietly and in his own way. He will take a trip or two to the east, after which he may practice his profession some. As he makes retirement from the business life of Carrizozo, and from the practice of his chosen profession, we cannot but call the attention of our readers to the splendid service rendered by this distinguished fellow-townsmen. His retirement from the professional life of Carrizozo can only be learned of with regret, but now in his declining years he feels that he will find contentment and joy at White Oaks. He has the best wishes of a legion of friends for the enjoyment of his home and the pleasant association of old friends for many, many years to come.

White Oaks Notes

Carrizo Mountain, situated southeast of the town is the hunters' favorite spot for the trapping and killing of wild game. From its top on a clear day, one may sight Alamogordo.

The Messrs. Paul and Pat Fitzpatrick, of Arizona formerly of W. O., spent the fourth visiting friends and relatives here.

Little Roy age six was standing by the well watching his grandad draw a bucket of water. "Give me a drink, grandad," he begged. "But you won't like the stuff, Roy, it's pretty hard," the old man said handing him a cup. The boy sticking his finger in the water exclaimed, "Oh no! grandad, it isn't hard."

The Ladies Aid held their regular weekly meeting last Thursday June 30, in their club rooms. Seventeen members and one visitor, Mrs. Campbell of Albuquerque were present. Picnic plans were mapped out for the fourth.

July fourth seems to be the time for picnics, rodeos, dances, visiting.

The Ladies Aiders, families and friends, enjoyed a picnic supper across from the Powder Magazine. Fire crackers kept things moving. Songs old and new, patriotic and sacred, were sung by the participants. Mr. Jake Fulmer conducting the song service. No outing of the Aid would be complete without a few guitar selections by young Arthur Mathews.

The W. W. Smith family accompanied by Miss Thelma Jean Collier, and the Messrs. J. C. Hutchinson, R. A. Crenshaw Jr., Tom and Bob Hughes attended the rodeo at Ft. Stanton and the dances in Ruidoso in the evening.

Cleghorn Hall, very patriotically decorated with some cleverly designed stars and stripes, had a gala evening the Fourth. The Corona Orchestra was enthusiastically received by the dancers.

A delightful picnic lunch was spread on the grounds across from the Powder Magazine, and enjoyed by the families of Mrs. R. Ward and Mrs. Arlie Stewart. Present also were the mesdames: Price, Gordon Wells, and Barney Ward.

Miss Leahy Cooper was the guest of the Van Schoycks' on the fourth.

Mr. Nig Littell of Miami, Arizona, spent the past week-end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Littell.

The Messrs. Gordon Wells, Roy and Barney Ward, and Robert W. Leslie are working now in Mocking Bird Gap.

Mrs. Belle Collier of Oklahoma City, was the special guest at a picnic dinner given in honor of her 75th birthday, by her sons and daughters: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleghorn, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Collier. Present also were Mrs. Sara Williams and Miss Thelma Jean Collier. The outing was held July 5th across from the Powder Magazine.

"The Only Hope"

"The so-called depression beginning in 1929 and existing to a greater or lesser extent to the present time... was a breakdown of an economic system controlled by economic power. The government was not reaching the great masses of the people. It was stopped and the profits went into the coffers of a very few persons. Anything which brings about relief for the great mass of the people is neither Communist nor radical nor red. It is the only hope on earth for a democracy."—Senator William E. Borah in the United States Senate.

"Credit Being Ruined"

"The other day in Washington Uncle Sam hauled his battered and maimed credit up on the block in the effort to raise $25,000,000 worth of RFC 2 percent notes on its subsidiary, the First National Mortgage Corporation. But strange to say the offer brought forth immediate subscriptions of $1,399,000,000. So in spite of his impending bankruptcy, Uncle Sam's offer was oversubscribed 52 times plus. It is a shame how Roosevelt is 'ruining our credit.'"—Charleston W. Va., Gazette.

Thomas--Murphy

Mr. Donald D. Murphy and Miss Gladys M. Thomas, both of Tatum, were married here Wednesday, June 29, at the Baptist parsonage with Rev. J. C. Vandiver officiating.

The bride was attired in a handsome white traveling suit and was wearing some lovely heirloom jewelry. They returned to Tatum where they will reside.

List of Winners at Ft. Stanton Rodeo

Fifty-eight mighty good hands put on a fine exhibition before a record crowd of 4,500 at the twenty-fifth annual Rodeo and July Fourth Celebration at Ft. Stanton last Monday.

Advertising Will Beat Slump, Says 'Banking'

Aggressive advertising campaigns by business to overcome inertia and start an upward trade trend were urged in the new issue of Banking, official publication of the American Bankers' association, by William R. Kuhns, editor.

He said: "Public education through aggressive advertising and selling is the best weapon that business has to combat the prevailing inertia. It is the only means lying completely within the control of business which can be used to counteract the side of the depression that is purely psychological."

Curious

A bus was pulled up suddenly by the traffic lights at a corner, and a very old car bumped into the back of it.

The conductor shouted reproachfully at the driver of the car: "Tell me, what do you use for brakes when there isn't a bus handy?"

To the Point

The Anoka (Minn.) Union Shopper offered a new one-dollar bill to the person sending in the best letter telling of the results obtained from advertising in that paper. Here is the winning letter—short, to the point, and illustrative of advertising effectiveness:

"I am thankful, as I had results. I sold the bull, the goat, and potatoes, and the horse during the week."—The Minn. Press.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

ONCE upon a time it wasn't considered quite nice to talk about money. Genteel ladies hid their poverty behind much-darned lace curtains and "paying guests," and people went around with those crack-the-face smiles because of the bills on their desks at home. More and more in the last few years, this old tradition has receded and now we all seem to have a pretty healthy regard for budgets, which is mathematical magic that makes dollars sit up and talk. Here are a few rules for spending the family fortune so as to make both ends meet: Always let your right hand know what your left hand is doing. And let the whole family in on the budget and give them a voice in working it out. Then agree that oversteps will be met with tolerance and the "Kitty." (An item all human budgets should include—it's a sinking fund, an anchor to windward for the times you'll miscalculate on the cost of that dinner bridge, or spend the milk money, or, foolish lady, on a new bonnet.) If you are a money-through-a-hole-in-my-purse sort of person and get your income weekly, while your bills come monthly, try the envelope system. Put so much for each con-

A Budget Is Mathematical Magic.

coming bill in the envelope every week and consider that once you've deposited your money there, it's the same as paid out.

Keep an office as conscientiously as you keep house—in a pleasant spot to settle down for your home work. File bills and receipts carefully; balance your bank book and have a spike for day-by-day grocery clips, or better still a day book for grocery lists. Here also you ought to keep lots of sharp pencils and crisp clean paper to figure on—it makes as big a difference in the enthusiasm with which you can tackle your arithmetic as a new tablet used in the dear old golden rule days.

For buying-on-time items, remember to make a place for them in apportioning your weekly money. That will keep you from getting into trouble when payments that seemed so easy at first begin to look like major catastrophes every time their due date rolls around. Buying on time is a fine method for many of us to acquire big things, but unless the budget says "yes," those seemingly small payments may look like the war debt after a while. One safe rule is never have but one time-payment on your mind at a time.

Ginghams for Slip Covers.

We had to see it to believe it. Because if anybody had told us that plaid gingham would do for slip covers in quite a formal living room, we'd probably have smiled politely, but dubiously. But we saw them, and thought they were as smart as veils on summer hats.

The room has gunmetal walls and a biege rug to begin with. Woodwork is ivory with jade green panels in the doors. A pair of small chests are painted jade green though most of the furniture is mahogany. In the winter, for furniture, coverings are in formal brocades, and so are the draperies. But for summer, the windows get off-white rayon curtains with a cellophane thread through them and the draped valances are of plaid gingham in jade green and off-white.

This same gingham covers the sofa and a pair of wing chairs. The other upholstered furniture is in a textured green with thick moss fringe in the seams. The lamp shades all got pleated white organdy petticoats over them for summer, tied with jade grosgrain ribbon.

Another unexpected, but successful room for summer, began with pink and white striped wall paper. It's winter rugs came up and white sisal rugs went down. Several of the slip covers were in quilted, navy blue, a pair of chairs were in flowered chintz, predominantly pink, to match the summer curtains.

Vitamin C Easily Wasted in Cooking

Don't Lose Any; Eat Fruits and Vegetables

By EDITH M. BARBER

ALTHOUGH the discovery that a vitamin C was a separate entity took place within the last few years, it has been recognized for centuries that human beings, in the absence of fresh food, developed a disease known as scurvy. Sailors on long voyages were prone to develop this disease in its severest form. In 1772, however, we have records that Captain Cook proudly proclaimed upon his return from a three-year voyage that he had not lost one man. He gave credit to the use of what he called "sweet wort" made from barley and sauerkraut. Later crews which had stocked the galley with limes and lemons when they stopped at a tropical port were found to be immune.

Acute scurvy with its symptoms of sore mouth and loose teeth, black and blue spots on the skin, and soreness of the joints, is seldom encountered in this country. Sallow skin, lack of energy and pains in the limbs and joints, which used to be called "growing pains" in the case of children, are now attributed to a shortage of vitamin C.

Foods which supply this vitamin generously are fruits and vegetables, especially the citrus fruits, apples, bananas, pineapple, strawberries, raspberries, and peaches. Among the vegetables we find tomatoes, spinach, lettuce, cabbage, carrots, potatoes, peas and onions well endowed.

Vitamin C is easily destroyed by cooking excepting in the case of those fruits which contain large amounts of acid. Canned fruits and tomatoes lose little. It is a good habit, however, to serve daily raw vegetables as well as fruits.

Baked Onions With Tomato Sauce.

- 1 quart canned tomatoes
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons salt
2 cloves
Pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons fat
6 medium-sized onions

Cook the tomatoes with the seasonings for ten minutes. Blend the flour and melted fat. Add some of the tomatoes to this. Mix well and stir into the tomatoes. Skin and cut the onions in half and put them in a large baking dish. Strain the tomato sauce over them. Add sugar and more salt if needed. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until the onions are tender, about an hour.

Fruit Canape.

- 6 slices pineapple
12 sections grapefruit
12 sections orange
1 sliced banana
3 tablespoons lemon juice
6 strawberries or candied cherries
6 sprigs mint

Arrange on each serving plate, a slice of pineapple, fresh or canned, and around the edges arrange sections of grapefruit and orange, leaving center free for sliced bananas. Sprinkle lemon juice over bananas and garnish with strawberries or cherries and sprigs of mint. Pass powdered sugar.

THESE ARE WORTH WHILE

Red Raspberry Jelly.

- 4 cups red raspberry juice
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

Wash about three quarts of ripe berries. To prepare juice crush well or grind the berries. Put berries in double cheese-cloth or one thickness of Canton flannel and squeeze out the juice. Measure into kettle, add sugar and stir well. Put over a hot flame, bring to a boil, stirring occasionally to make sure that the sugar is dissolved. As soon as the mixture boils, stir in the fruit pectin, bring to a hard boil and continue boiling for half a minute. Take from fire, skim quickly and pour at once into scalded jelly glasses. Cover with an eighth of an inch layer of paraffin. Yield—ten to eleven six-ounce glasses.

Loganberry jelly may be made by the above method.

Date Nut Sauce.

- 1/2 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup water
1/2 cup broken nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook the dates with the sugar and water until well blended and slightly thickened. Remove from fire, add nuts and vanilla, cool and serve with vanilla ice cream.

Vegetable Goulash.

- 1/2 cup salad oil
2 onions
2 green peppers
8 tomatoes or one can
Salt
Pepper
Parsley (minced)

Heat the oil, slice the vegetables. Cook the peppers and onions five minutes and add tomatoes. Cook until the tomatoes are soft. Just before serving add minced parsley to taste and seasoning.

Caramel Sauce.

- 2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup cream

Pour the sugar into a heavy frying pan and stir over a low heat until melted and slightly brown. Add the cream gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until smooth.

Quick, Easy Stitches For Summer Frocks

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A BIT of hand embroidery for the collar and sleeves of a little girl's dress is always the smartest trimming. Quickly made stitches and interesting colors may be combined to give unusual effects.

The dress shown here is pale blue chambray. The collar and sleeves are edged with blanket stitch in a deeper blue as shown at A. Between each blanket stitch a tiny loop stitch is made in white and three larger white loop stitches at the top of every second blanket stitch as shown at B. When used on a fabric of this weight the embroidery should be rather coarse to show up well. All six strands of a six strand embroidery cotton may be used or No. 5 pearl cotton. For a dress of fine sheer material such as dimity or organdie use finer embroidery thread. For a printed fabric, repeat two of the strongest tones in the printed design or use white collar and cuffs embroidered in the background color of the print and one of the brighter tones.

NOTE: If you wish to use these weekly articles for reference paste them in a scrapbook, as they are not included in either Sewing Book No. 1 or 2. Book 1, Sewing for the Home Decorator, covers curtains, slipcovers, dressing tables; 40 pages of fascinating directions. Book 2 illustrates 60 embroidery stitches with numerous applications; doll clothes and gift items. Order by number, enclosing 25 cents for each book desired. If you order both books, leaflet on making crazy quilts, with 30 stitches illustrated, will be included free. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Consent Lost Upon John In His Great Anxiety

John felt that he could never ask Pamela to be his wife.

True, he loved her as he had never loved anyone else before, but then she was an angel, while he had many little weaknesses of which no angel would ever approve. Pamela, on the other hand, spent her time thinking that it was high time John spoke up!

One night he came to the point. "Pamela, Pamela," he urged, "will you marry me?"

"You bet," she replied briskly. "I know, darling," he answered, ashamed. "But if you'll only say, 'Yes,' I'll promise never to back another horse!"

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears that she has lost her appeal to men, who wonder about her lack of pep, energy, attractiveness, spirit, nerves and waddy eyes. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a special medical tonic take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and meet the demands of a busy, nervous and demanding life that often accompany change of life. WELL-WORTH TRYING!

Persistence

All men have fits and starts of nobleness: but the characteristic of true heroism is its persistency. —Emerson.

Black Leaf 40 KILLS LICE. JUST A DASH IN FEATHERS OR SPREAD ON ROOSTS.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting a light and heavy feeling under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise that relieves Dr. Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by trained people of the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

LUMBER!

Though America's logging industry has been on the downgrade several years because of heavy imports, this spring one of the largest timber log drives ever run in New England took place near Machias, Maine. Over 4,000,000 feet of lumber—pine, hemlock and spruce—was floated down the river to the Whitfield mill 45 miles south. Lumberjacks work hard all winter but the drivers have more adventure during the drive when they must balance themselves on swirling logs, pry open jams and sleep in a different "home" every night. They wear caulk shoes with spikes.

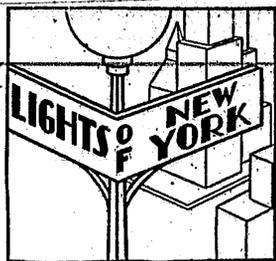

There's little waste time or waste space in the camp's kitchen where Cook Leonard Elwell prepares 240 meals a day, moves 35 miles down the river and sets up his equipment again to supply 60 men participating in the last drive he cooked 500 doughnuts, 500 sugar cookies, 200 biscuits, 10 loaves of bread, boiled four hams and cooked 50 pounds of beef, all on the above stove. And it was plenty good, if the young driver at the right knows what he's smiling about!

Picture Parade

They eat four meals a day, these drivers, and when the day is over they sit around the campfire and chat about one of America's most colorful industries, logging, a business that demands hardy men who like outdoor life and isolation. Gone forever is the heyday of America's logging industry with its Paul Bunyan and blue oxen, but the colorful picture of north woods life will live forever in song and story.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Competition: Almost daily there is a meeting of the South Wind club in the roof garden of a prominent hotel. Membership is composed of men who have had adventures all over the world. One member bears the name Harold Dove. Once upon a time the man with the name of the symbol of peace deliberately walked into an ambush of African spear-men and wiped them out single-handed. Two members constitute a quorum. Sessions are informal. The members merely talk of gun-running for some banana republic or of other perilous pastimes. The South Wind club has been in existence for some time. Last fall a group of women who came to New York with their husbands from small towns organized a sewing circle which meets at the same hotel. Now the sewing circle has transferred its meeting place to the roof. As the women sew they talk. And won't it be fun when the sewing circle and the South Wind sessions happen to coincide.

Contrast: On lower Broadway a well-dressed young man stood beside one of those corner trash baskets. He is eating bananas. Evidently he is a person of consideration as instead of throwing the skins on the sidewalk he carefully tossed them into the basket. And on the other side of the basket was a hollow-eyed derelict who, as the skins went into the basket, fished out pieces of tinfoil and other bits of salvage which, if he found enough, might have a value of a few cents.

Recession: For years a legless man has been selling shoe laces in Exchange place. His place of business is a wheel chair. During the business upturn last year he invested a portion of his savings in a chair electrically propelled. He used that every day until recently. Now he is back to the old chair, which he propels with his hands.

Interludes: Xavier Cugat, when not swinging a baton, does caricatures for class magazines. . . . Sammy Kaye still owns Variety inn, Ohio university campus rendezvous, which he took over in his undergrad days. . . . Frank Dailey, another orchestra man, owns a swanky Long Island night spot. . . . Gene Krupa studies the history of drumming and writes books on the subject. . . . Bunny Berigan collects batons though he never conducts with one. . . . Kate Smith owns a professional basketball team. . . . Songwriter Benny Davis is in the wholesale meat business. . . . Abe Lyman owns a string of restaurants in California. . . . Alfred W. McCann, Jr., food commentator, takes pictures of hegriras, his photographic feat being recording an Alaska salmon run from beginning to end. . . . Tommy Dorsey spends his spare hours with a miniature railroad in the attic of his home.

Manhattan Crowds: Of musicians gathering during the matinee hours on the pavements about 1600 Broadway and Sixth avenue and Fiftieth street where the union offices are.

Of high-school students meeting in the lobby of the Paramount. . . . Of out-of-towners using the Rockefeller Center fountain to start their Manhattan tours. . . . Of collegians in the Astor lobby. . . . Of time-wasters circling about trickster vendors on Forty-second street. . . . Of large-eyed wonder seekers jamming pedestrian traffic in Times square. . . . Of uniformed policemen on Fifth avenue who spend part of their noon-hour gesticulating beside St. Patrick's cathedral. . . . French Quarter Houses Chinese in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS.—The Orient has met the West. The once legendary Chinatown of New Orleans has moved to the French quarter for a last stand. Driven out of their own section, the Chinese set up stores in the typical Creole buildings of the Vieux Carre. Only 20 or 30 Chinese are left. At one time there were about a thousand living in the Chinese colony built especially for them decades ago. Progress brought about demolition of their buildings and reports of a new, better Chinatown never developed. In the meantime, the size of the colony decreased. Coolies were barred from the waterfront and merchants were not able to meet rentals. Some Chinese went to work on farms, in stores and laundries.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority Explains What is Meant by CORRECT NUTRITION

Describes How to Construct a Balanced Diet, So Essential to Maintain Optimal Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St. New York City.

TO SOME families, a summons to the dinner table means nothing more than a chance to satisfy hunger. To others, it represents an opportunity to gratify the palate, sometimes to the extent of overtaxing the digestive system.

Neither of these extremes fulfills the true function of food, which is to provide adequately but not to excess, for growth, maintenance and repair of the body.

Food May Fail to Feed
You can satisfy hunger without providing correct nutrition. You can partake of delicious-tasting foods to the point of over-indulgence—without meeting bodily requirements.

The mere spending of money will not insure good nutrition, for extremely poor diets can be found in households where the income is large and the food budget is ample. What counts is learning to provide the right foods in the correct proportions. The return in health will be more than worth the investment of effort in acquiring this knowledge.

A Balanced Diet
Science has discovered what foods are necessary to help build top health and keep us 100 per cent fit. The amount of food required by a man for a day's work can be accurately determined. We know that a specific disease may be produced by one diet and cured by another; that growth can be influenced through changes in the quality of the dietary; that old age may be deferred by choosing the food with care.

We know that the body is a working machine which never stops but may slow down or get out of order unless the daily diet includes every element, every mineral, every vitamin needed to maintain health and avoid the deficiency diseases.

Seven Essentials
There are seven factors to be considered in planning a balanced diet. Protein for building body tissue and repairing the millions of cells that are worn out daily. Carbohydrates to produce quick heat and energy. Fats—a more compact form of fuel, which are also essential in a satisfactory diet. Minerals which serve both as builders and regulators of body processes. The six vitamins, A, B, C, D, E and G, that also act as regulators and prevent a number of deficiency diseases. Water—which serves as a vehicle by which food is carried to the tissues. And cellulose or bulk—required for the normal functioning of the intestinal tract.

Danger in Omitting One Food Substance
The homemaker who fails to take every one of these factors into consideration is depriving her husband of the opportunity to develop his greatest efficiency. Moreover, she may be robbing her children of their birthright. During every day of childhood, the body is being built, and defects in body structure are likely to arise if the child is improperly nourished. It is then that disease and disability make their appearance as a result of faulty nutrition. How tragic to deprive the young body of substances so necessary to its well being.

How to Check the Diet for Balance
Perhaps you are like the homemakers who tell me that they do not know a protein from a carbohydrate.

Send for this Free Blood-Building Diet

Including Lists of Foods Rich in Iron and Copper
READERS are invited to write for a free bulletin containing a list of foods rich in iron and a list of those rich in copper. Also included are sample menus showing how to plan a balanced diet containing generous amounts of foods rich in these blood-building minerals. Send your request—a postcard will do—to C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

hydrate. Or it may be that while you understand the difference, you do not know what quantities should be included in the diet each day.

To simplify your task of serving balanced menus at every meal, I have prepared a Homemaker's Chart for Checking Nutritional Balance. In convenient chart form, it shows what foods should be included in the diet every day and gives the standard amount for each food. There are also skeletal menus outlined by food classifications, which enable you to plan balanced menus for every meal by making a choice from each group of required foods.

I urge every homemaker to write for this chart and use it daily. Then you won't make such common mistakes as serving a dried legume as a vegetable at a meal in which meat is used, which tends to concentrate too much protein in one meal; or choosing a too-heavy dessert following a main course that is overly rich in carbohydrates.

60 Per Cent Carbohydrates
Carbohydrates should form at least 60 per cent of the supply of food fuel. Rarely are menus deficient in carbohydrates, because they are so widely distributed in such common foods as cereals, bread, potatoes, macaroni products, sweets, and sweet fruits and vegetables, such as oranges, grapes, apples and peas.

Fats should supply about 20 per cent of the caloric content of the diet. They are obtained from butter, margarine, cream, egg yolk, salad dressings, vegetable oils and the fat of meats.

A protein food should be provided at each meal. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, cheese, milk and most nuts supply complete protein. Cereals and legumes furnish incomplete protein which may be supplemented by the complete protein of milk.

The Protective Foods
It is essential that the diet should contain an abundance of minerals and vitamins which are furnished by the protective foods—milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables. Cellulose or bulk is obtained

Free Homemaker's Chart for Checking Nutritional Balance

PLANNING a balanced diet will cease to be a puzzle if you send for the Homemaker's Chart for Checking Nutritional Balance, offered free, by C. Houston Goudiss. It lists the foods and the standard amounts that should be included in the daily diet, and includes skeletal menus for breakfast, dinner and lunch or supper, to guide you in selecting the proper foods in each classification. A postcard is sufficient to bring you this valuable aid to good menu planning. Just ask for the Nutritional Chart, Address C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th St., New York City from fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals. Water comes from juicy fruits, succulent vegetables, milk and other beverages, as well as the water that is consumed as a beverage.

To provide adequate amounts of the seven food essentials of every meal—to avoid the mistake of serving too much of one type of food and too little of another—should be the worthy aim of every homemaker. You will find the task considerably easier if you send for the Homemaker's Chart. Tack it up in your kitchen or in the room where you plan your menus, and use it to check the nutritional balance of every meal you prepare.

If you faithfully follow the food program outlined in the chart, you will help to assure your family of correct nutrition. This is the most priceless gift you could bestow upon them. For nutrition is the architect that draws the plans of human destiny. In providing the right foods, you lay a firm foundation for health on which to rear a life of happiness and success.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. C. T.—Dried figs contain from 60 to 70 per cent sugar and 4 to 5 per cent protein. They are a fine energy food.

Mrs. A. G.—Prunes are a fine natural laxative food for those in normal health. They furnish vitamins A, B and C. But they must not replace oranges or tomatoes as they do not supply vitamin C.

A. F. B.—When thorough chewing is impossible, food can be finely minced or put through a sieve, to make it easily digestible.

Mrs. G. L.—There is evidence that a lack of vitamin A more quickly affects the eyes of children than adults. However, both children and adults require generous amounts of this vitamin to help maintain healthy eyes. A shortage may affect the tear glands causing a failure of secretion and dryness. The membrane becomes sensitive and inflamed, and the lids may swell.

For Tea and For Tennis

TWO of the most important things for midsummer are: a sleeveless dress of the most casual sort for sports and daytime, and a cool dress with cape or jacket, to wear on the street and for afternoons. The two here suggested represent the very best of these types. Make them yourself, in fabrics and colors of your own choosing, and rejoice in the knowledge that you have some very individual new clothes, and got them very economically! Each pattern includes a detailed sew chart.

Sleeveless Sports Frock.
Even if you never take a tennis racket in your hand, you'll enjoy having this cool, classic dress for summer daytimes. In pique, linen, seersucker or gingham, it will look and feel so cool and fresh! Perfectly straight and plain, it has darts at the waistline, to make it fit with becoming slimmness. This is a diagram pattern—practically nothing to make! In just a few hours you'll have it all ready to button on at your shoulders.

Afternoon Cape Ensemble.
With or without the cape, this dress with lifted waistline to flatten the midriff, is a charming, slenderizing style. The cape is a darling—puffed high at the shoulders, and made with arm slits so that it won't be always slipping off your shoulders. Make this design in georgette, chiffon, linen, or in a pretty combination of plain or printed silk, and you'll have a very distinguished, expensive-looking ensemble.

The Patterns.
Pattern No. 1544 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch erial for the dress; 2 1/4 for the cape; to line cape, 2 1/4 yards.

Pattern No. 1546 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 3 yards of 35 inch material. 3 1/2 yards bias binding to trim as pictured.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Mrs. Era B. Smith, Editor and Publisher

Pioneering Notes

Slim and trim and spry as a maiden of sixteen is Mrs. Molly Smith age sixty. Born in Tenn., in 1878 she made her first trip westward at the age of three months. The family journeyed to Texas in a covered wagon and settled in the state for six years. Unable to purchase land there because of adverse circumstances, a move into N. M. seemed inevitable where homesteads could be had for those with enuf courage to venture after them.

In 1884 Mr. J. O. Grove, father of Molly, filed on a homestead in James Canyon in the Sacramento mountains. In those days Lincoln county besides its present boundaries included parts of what are now known as Otero, Chavez and Socorro counties consequently Mr. Grove had to come clear to Lincoln to pay his taxes.

Mr. Grove was a born farmer, and land in James Canyon was excellent for growing things. With his children's help he produced enuf stuff for sale all over Lincoln county, and at a nice profit, too. His family was a large one, consisting of a wife and ten children. The children were taught to be industrious at an early age by a hard working mother. Mrs. Grove, besides her household duties and teaching the girls to knit their own stockings, had to serve as a midwife in the county. Mrs. Smith says, "I can recall many a morning when I awoke to find mother and the baby gone, and my oldest sister in charge.

Taking one or two children with him (Molly went lots of times) Mr. Grove freighted his produce to the various towns in the county. He did quite a bit of trading with the Coe brothers. Frank and George, always returning home from their places, the wagon laden down with black walnuts, sugar cane, things that he didn't raise.

Molly came with her father several times to White Oaks. She recalls one special time—her father brought a load of hay for Paul Mayer, and some merchant in the town gave her the "prettiest" brooch. She thought it of great value then, but now supposes it was worth only a few cents. "W. O. was the finest town I had ever seen and I just loved going there," she says.

The Grove family returned to Texas after eleven years, and almost forty years passed before Molly saw W. O. again. She was married and had two sons when she came back to visit the town she had admired so greatly in her youth. Still retaining her childhood thoughts of the town's grandeur, the place was quite a shock and disappointment to her such disastrous changes had taken place (and she hadn't heard a thing about them.) "It just didn't seem believable," she declared. "Of course," she sighed, "it really didn't look as bad in 1925 as it does now—so many buildings have burned down since then."

Mrs. Smith is a busy person always—what with milking cows, selling milk and butter, she still has time to be one of the most active members of the Ladies Aid. If anyone needs nursing care, Molly can lend a hand at that too. All in all, she is an interested and interesting woman to know.

A group of ladies met at the Baptist parsonage Wednesday of last week for an all-day quilting. We had a delightful time visiting with friends and neighbors. Contributed.

Rev. J. C. Vandiver and family spent from Thursday until Tuesday in Ruidoso. They were accompanied by Earlena Berry.

Mr. Byron, who is doing some mining at Jicarilla, was a business visitor here Friday.

Mr. L. P. Hall, of Aneho, was in town on business last Friday.

Mrs. Ola C. Jones, who is attending the University at Albuquerque, came home to spend the week-end with her sons.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Ives have moved to Alamogordo. Mr. Ives was dispatcher here for the Southern Pacific.

Mrs. Tom James, who has been in California for the past few weeks recuperating from an attack of pneumonia, came home last week very much improved in health.

Mr. W. C. Hendren, of Ft. Stanton, renewed his subscription to the News this week.

Mr. J. F. Morris, of Capitan, was a business visitor in Carrizozo last Tuesday. While in town he paid his renewal to the Lincoln County News for another year.

Mrs. John Phillips subscribed for the Lincoln County News this week.

Mrs. Nellie Reilly spent the past week in El Paso visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sam Allen, then Mrs. Allen and son, Bill, returned home with her. They spent the 4th at Ft. Stanton.

Carrizozo and vicinity received a drenching, washing rain last Saturday afternoon which did some damage here in town, but was otherwise beneficial. The CCC boys were called out to assist in placing sand bags on the drainage canals to prevent flooding of basements in the direct course of water. The bridge on highway 54, just out of Oscura was washed out. Other damage of minor nature occurred. Rain is always welcome, even if it does fall in torrents, but on this occasion, coming just before the 4th, it was doubly welcome.

CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

President's Call for Help Indicates Compromise . . . He Demands Election of Liberals to Congress

Speediest ship in our navy, the destroyer McCall, was commissioned at the Mare Island navy yard in California. The McCall, first privately built navy vessel since 1921, has a specified speed of 38 1/2 knots, but in recent tests was reported to have averaged 42 knots. It carries four 5-inch guns and four quadruple torpedo tubes and is especially fitted for quick attacks on capital ships.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Signs of Compromise

THERE are distinct indications of compromise and co-operation in the American picture, and hopes for restored prosperity are somewhat revived. The stock market has become unusually active, and private enterprise is awakening. Unfreezing of three billions in stored-up credit is expected to result from new banking regulations ordered by the President. Thousands of contracts for approved projects to cost almost $500,000,000 have been sent to all parts of the country by the Public Works administration.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his latest radio address to the nation, said: "In simple frankness and in simple honesty, I need all the help I can get," and it seems that the people are ready to give that help if the administration will do its part.

Notable in the President's talk was the admission that mistakes have been made not only by his opponents and by industry and labor, but also by government leaders. He sharply attacked reactionaries in business, blaming them for much of the current depression.

Asserting his continued belief in individual enterprise and the profit motive, he criticized the recent congress for failing to enact his program for government reorganization and legislation to aid the financially depressed railroad industry. At the same time, however, he said the legislators "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress between the end of the World war and the spring of 1933."

Wants Liberals Elected

MOST of the President's radio speech was frankly political. He declared himself the leader of the liberals and held that, as such, it was his privilege to intervene in state primary and election campaigns for the purpose of insuring the defeat of those whom he characterized as conservatives, the opponents of his policies.

This aroused the indignation of many Democratic statesmen like Senators Burke of Nebraska and King of Utah.

"I believe the people in the districts and states will resent the President's interference," Burke said. "If we were to follow the course he has suggested, we would all be goosestepping behind a leader no matter how beneficent that leader may be. I do not approve of that course."

Senator King asserted the President should not use the great advantage he has in controlling the purse strings of the huge spending program. "People who have fought for the Democratic party for a great many years do not like interference in their state affairs by outsiders," he said. "I do not believe the President should meddle in the primary elections of the Democratic party or any other party."

General opinion was that Mr. Roosevelt had widened the split in the Democratic party and by his words had placed the stamp of his approval on the attempted "purge" directed by Corcoran, Cohen and others of his advisers.

Latest War Scare

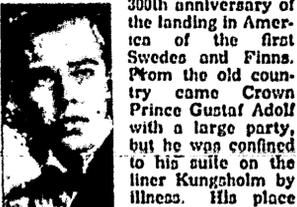

BOMBING of loyalist Spanish cities and of British ships in Spanish ports by Generalissimo Franco's insurgent planes led directly to the most recent war scare in Europe. It was reported in London that the loyalists had threatened to bomb Italian and German cities if Franco did not call off his airmen, and in Italy it was asserted that this probably would be regarded as an act of war and would be the cause for appropriate action. The rumors were denied, but their dissemination may have done some good, for information reached the British government that Franco had ordered his aviators to stop bombing British merchant vessels.

However, this news was followed immediately by dispatches saying two more British ships had been bombed in the ports of Valencia and Alicante, several seamen being killed or wounded.

Swedes Celebrate

AMERICANS of Swedish descent by the thousand and many from Sweden gathered at Wilmington, Del., for the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing in America of the first Swedes and Finns.

Prince Bertil

The principal event of the opening ceremony was the presentation of a monument erected by Sweden on the landing site. The presentation was made by Prince Bertil and accepted by President Roosevelt. Then the President presented the monument to Gov. Richard McMullen for the state of Delaware.

After the monument ceremony there was a lawn party attended by Crown Princess Louise.

The celebration was continued for four days in Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, parts of which states were embraced in the New Sweden founded in 1630 by a company of 150 Swedes and Finns sent to America by Gustafus Adolphus.

Mustn't Seize Hainan

THE British and French envoys in Tokyo warned Japan that any occupation of Hainan, Chinese island off the south coast of China, would be met by joint Franco-British action. The island, which lies near French and British trade routes, was bombed by Japanese flyers.

Germany is recalling the Germans who have been acting as advisers to the Chinese army, and diplomats believe Germany may now give active aid to Japan.

Ireland Installs Hyde

IRELAND'S first president, in the person of Dr. Douglas Hyde, was installed in St. Patrick's hall, Dublin castle, where former viceroys held their social functions. The ceremony was conducted entirely in Gaelic and was witnessed by state and church officials, members of parliament and representatives of foreign countries. Among the last was American Minister John Cudahy.

Dr. Hyde read and Douglas Hyde signed a declaration in which he promised to defend the constitution and dedicate himself to the service of the people of Ireland. Prime Minister De Valera made a speech in which he said:

"You are now our president, freely chosen under our own laws, inheriting authority and entitled to the respect which Gaels ever gave to rightful chiefs. Not all the territory of Ireland is at the moment under your sway, but the justice of our claim and the tenacity of the Gaels will set that right."

President Hyde has been a poet, historian and educator. He is the son of a protestant clergyman and it is hoped he will bring about a union of Roman Catholic Ireland and Protestant northern Ireland.

For Naval Expansion

IMPETUS was given the naval expansion program with PWA allotments of $27,883,000 for the enlargement, extension and remodeling of existing plants and facilities of the navy department.

With orders for full speed ahead the navy department said that 113 projects, approved by Mr. Roosevelt, will be under way by August 15. Among the projects are power plant improvements, foundry building, high frequency radio station, fleet moorings, turret assembly facilities, improvements to ship building ways, structural assembly, electric and sheet metal shops, water storage, railroad tracks, noncommissioned officers' quarters, storage buildings and other improvements.

Some for Every State

NO SOONER had President Roosevelt signed the pump priming measure than the flood of federal money was released. The Public Works administration which Secretary Ickes is the head, made public two lists of grants and loans covering 590 projects in every state in the union with a total estimated cost of $148,795,895.

Secretary Ickes

Four more lists were ready, and these, PWA officials said, would complete the "first push" toward a $2,000,000,000 construction program to provide work and stimulate industry. Officials further estimated that these initial groups of projects may run as high as 1,500 or 2,000 with a cost of $600,000,000.

Federal grants under the PWA procedure cover 45 per cent of the cost and, when a PWA loan is made, 55 per cent. The difference between the estimated overall cost of the projects and the sum of loans and grants made by PWA is supplied by the various applicants.

Fish Attacks Hamilton

HEATED discussion over immediate control of campaign funds among members of the Republican national executive committee, meeting in Washington, gave Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York an opportunity to renew his fight on National Chairman John Hamilton, whose removal he demanded.

Rep. Fish

With Hamilton out of power, Fish said, the Republicans would win 10 senate seats and 100 house seats. With Hamilton at the helm, he warned, Republican gains would be reduced by half.

Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts and Sen. John Townsend of Delaware, chairman, respectively, of the house and senate G. O. P. campaign committees, have demanded allotment of funds from the national committee and exclusive control of their expenditure. Hamilton has resisted these demands.

Representative Bertrand Snell of New York, Republican leader in the house, told the committee that he intended to retire from public life and would not seek re-election this fall.

Group for Labor Survey

NINE men and women were appointed by the President as members of a special commission that will study the workings of the British labor disputes law and Swedish labor relations. Most of them already are in Europe ready to begin their work.

The group is composed of Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school; Robert Watt, American Federation of Labor representative; Gerald Swope, president of the General Electric company; Henry L. Harriman, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; William H. Davis, chairman of the New York labor mediation board; Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director of social security for New York; Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mills company; Miss Marion Dickerman, principal of Todhunter school, New York; and William Ellison Chalmers, assistant American labor commissioner in Geneva.

Louis K.O.'s Schmeling

JOE LOUIS of Detroit, the "Brown Bomber," stands the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world. His amazing victory over Max Schmeling of Germany in the Yankee stadium at New York gave him that status. In less than one round the challenger was hammered to the floor three times by the crashing blows of Louis, and his seconds threw the towel into the ring, for the German was quite helpless. The referee declared Louis the winner by a technical knockout.

The loser said his defeat was caused by a blow over the kidney. X-ray examination of the German after the battle showed a projection from a vertebra was broken. The blow was not a foul for it was not struck in a clinch.

Eighty thousand persons witnessed this epochal battle, the shortest heavyweight championship bout in history. Louis got 40 per cent of the gate and 20 per cent went to Schmeling.

New Fabrics of Sheer Loveliness

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A FAVORITE theme this summer is the sheer loveliness of diaphanous, airy-fairy transparent fabrics, either cotton or silk. The new sheers are simply enchanting and they are sought-for kind to make up into gowns for picturesque garden party wear or for dancing under star-spangled skies or when dining at fashionable roof-garden gatherings where beauty and romance keep rendezvous.

Gowns designed to grace summertime scenes are fashioned of wispy chiffons either printed or monotone, or of organdies crisp, sheer and intriguing, or of dainty silk marquisette which is an especial favorite. Then there are the soft-fine cotton voiles in pretty colors and as for lace every summer wardrobe is expected to include at least one party frock made of it. As a matter of fact lace is playing a stellar role this summer. The lace that captures the heart of enthusiasts is a delicate-as-cobweb type the patternings of which is a mere tracery. Gowns of this fetching lace have all-around pleated skirts, since it yields beautifully to this treatment.

To dine and dance in ingenue frocks of simple cottons made up formally is considered quite the swank thing to do. The thrilling note in regard to this season's organdies is that so many new types have been added to the list.

The crinkled organdies either plain or printed sell at sight. They make up charmingly and are easily tubbed, require little or no pressing to keep them crisp and sprightly as new. For week-end trips they are ideal as they do not crush in packing.

You will be delighted with the new lace-printed Swiss chiffon organdies. The entrancing frock centered with outspread skirt in the foreground gives an idea of how effectively the lace-stripe organdie makes up. The charming and picturesque Winterhalter vogue is reflected in the styling of this very tiny-waisted and full-skirted dinner-and-dancing gown (a winsome garden party frock, too) in one of the fashionable printed Swiss chiffon organdies. A very fine lace patterning in white stands out clearly against a deep navy blue background. There is a full-cut underskirt of white organdie to make the frock stand out almost on ballet skirt lines. The diminutive bolero jacket worn over the drop-shoulder bodice is finished with little ruffles of val lace laid on over the lace print.

The material that fashions the frock to the left is peach silk mousseline. It is prettily styled with vertical ruche-ruffling of self-fabric outlining the skirt yores, the puffed sleeves and there are ruffles about the neck.

Hyacinth blue lace with touches of cerise lace is used for the graceful gown centered in the picture. It was introduced at the Miami fashion show and is one of those pleasing types that carry on into new triumphs for summer party wear. One of its charms is that the lace indicates stripes and striped effects lead in the mode.

The printed chiffon frock to the left gives a delightful interpretation of the slim silhouette for summer. The patterning is spaced tulips in blue, red, green and black on a sheer white background. The gathered bodice suggests the Directoire. Contrasting shades of green and blue silk make the girle and sash which forms a train. Flower bracelets are worn with it and an enormous poppy on the head instead of a hat, which goes to show the intriguing and unique ways in which flowers now play their important role in costume ensembling.

TWISTED DRAPES ARE NEW STYLE FEATURE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Designers are performing all sorts of interesting tricks with twisted drapes and as time goes on the idea is taking on added interest.

When you see a dress or blouse the drapes of which tie themselves into fanciful knots or twist into clever intricacies be assured that the garment is a "last word" fashion. Be on the lookout for these intertwined, inter-coiled effects and choose your new frocks accordingly. This type of styling invites the use of color contrasts. For instance, the bodice top of a navy dress may have drapes coming from the shoulder, say in the new fuchsia shade, the same colored, twisted and perhaps knotted across the bustline with infinite grace. Or the dress may be in monotone, the artful, twisted designfulness being the only trimming feature. White crepe frocks, with twists done in crepes of vivid contrast or carried out in pastel tones are top-notch fashion this summer.

A new feature in styling is the all-over shirred bodice with skirt of the material simply tailored. The all-over shirred jacket is likewise a fashion highlight. Chiffon and sheer marquisette yield to this treatment most charmingly.

Paquin Favorite A favorite Paquin model for evening is the long skirt of bias cut topped by a marquisette blouse—the entire thing in white, black or pale rose.

Tailored Dinner Dress The tailored dinner or evening dress remains a heavy favorite.

HANDSOME SUIT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

One handsome suit like the model pictured, in your wardrobe and your problem is solved as to looking smartly attired for any occasion. Contrast stitching is a swank accent to the interesting detail of this well-tailored town and country suit in fine lightweight wool shetland. Note the scalloped pockets that repeat the decorative stitching that enhances the seams in the skirt.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — When Charles Maurras came out of the Sante prison last year, he was met by a committee of distinguished Frenchmen, who nominated him for the Nobel peace prize and said they would make him a member of the Academy. They have just fulfilled the latter promise, and M. Maurras becomes an immortal by a majority of one vote.

He had spent 250 days in jail on a charge of having urged the assassination of 140 members of the chamber of deputies who had voted for sanctions against Italy, also on a charge of inciting the French people to "sharpen up their kitchen knives" for use against certain proscribed politicians.

In the 250 days he had written five books, swelling his vast collection of books on biography, politics, economics, literary criticism, history and what not to probably well over 100. I talked to him once in the Cafe des Lilas, a fragile, deaf, bearded old man with a contentious, blazing mind which makes one think of a sizzling battery running an automobile without any engine.

In 1923, he was in jail for four months, in a somewhat anti climatic adventure for one who was to be regarded as an immortal. Three members of the chamber of deputies were kidnapped and fed castor oil. Mussolini is said to have got his broad prospectus of Fascism from Maurras and the bald head of one of them was painted with violet ink and glue.

In 1925, M. Maurras was sentenced to two years in prison, the charge being that he had threatened to kill the minister of the interior. Among the causes of his incarceration in October, 1930, was conspiracy evidence in the assault on Premier Leon Blum, in which he was severely beaten, while attending the funeral of a friend.

"Go in and light a lamp, Pete," ordered Norris in a low voice.

Haskins lit a lamp and set it on a table. The light shone on a man sitting up in bed.

Norris came into the room, moving with the padded, panther-like stride that marked him.

"Who are you?" he demanded in a snarl.

"He's visiting me, not you, Morg," mentioned Haskins mildly.

"Keep out this, Pete," advised the Tall Holt bandit out of the corner of his mouth.

"My turn to ask one now," the man in the bed said, a hard rasp in his voice.

"I'm Morgan Norris." The owner of the name waved a hand in the direction of Haskins.

"Morg is all right, Clint," Haskins put in.

"My name is Duke—Clint Duke," Norris stared at the man.

"So Howard tells me," the hairy man nodded.

Morg Norris stared at the man in the bed. His mind was struggling to adjust itself to the implications of this information.

"He showed up a poster with his picture on it offering a reward for his arrest," Norris said.

"I wouldn't know about that," answered the man who claimed to be Duke.

"That's the fellow," Norris said with a bitter oath.

"Gray is dangerous. Don't make any mistake about that."

The younger man admitted this. "But how come he to have that poster?" he asked.

The hairy man scratched his tousled head to help him to think.

"Search me. Unless he figured you all would have heard of me account of the Texas and Southern holdup and he was using my name for a stand-in."

"That's the way I figure it," Haskins said.

"My feet hurt like all get out, Pete," the most recently arrived fugitive said.

Haskins departed to take care of the animal.

Norris drew a bottle from his hip pocket and passed it round.

"The most hurt like all get out, Pete," the most recently arrived fugitive said.

"He's no bigger than you are behind a gun, is he?"

"Not a mite. I'd as lief stand up and swap bullets with him if it came to a showdown.

"He went after me, but he didn't get me," Norris boasted.

"Story I've heard is that he set you afoot without a gun," Duke told him maliciously.

The younger man ripped out another angry oath.

other angry oath. "Like you just said, he had luck. Came outa the bushes at me and whanged away before I had a chance."

Duke slanted a side look at him and grinned.

"Sudden Morgue is good," Norris said.

"I've sent a plenty guys who got in my way to morgues here and there."

"We'll talk about this again," the man from Texas said.

"I didn't know that," Gray replied.

"Yes. Left Texas and came here."

"Here?" The steady eyes of his guest were fixed on the cattleman.

"Unless I've been fooling myself for years. I'd never met Buck Brayton, so there's a millionth chance I'm wrong."

"Sherm Howard," Gray guessed.

"Yes. Hope you have better luck and don't let him slip away."

"I'll put my cards on the table, Chiswick. No reason why I shouldn't tell you now."

"The face of the cattleman lit. "Best news I've heard in a long time."

"Good. Now if I can have a powwow with this scalawag."

"Soon as I can get him to you," Chiswick promised as he left.

Frank Chiswick presently came into the room, bringing with him the prisoner Lou Howard.

"Suits me if it does you," the crook-nosed man said coldly.

Lou sat down, twiddled the pencil, and began to write names.

"I tell you I wasn't in on whatever was doing."

Gray picked up the list. "I'll have a check on everything you tell me, so you'd better not dish up any lies."

"I'll just be guessing," Howard said doggedly.

To the surprise of Ruth, her father did not blame her for having assisted Morgan Norris to escape.

"Ruth was so nervous and worked up she didn't know what she was doing."

Gray shrugged his shoulders. "A right with me. I was sore at first but I'm past that now."

"When I was captain of Ranger more than once I was forced to kill men who were better dead."

"I'll have the boys bring him in to you," Chiswick rose from the chair where he had been sitting.

"Don't you reckon that would be a little foolhardy? By this time Sherm Howard must have a pretty good idea you are responsible for his boys falling down at Live Oak canyon."

Gray smiled. "Some might say it was foolhardy for you to have gone out into the brush to collect the Brayton gang about ten years ago."

Siege of Troy Recounted in Homer's Story

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

THE story of "The Iliad" by Homer takes place during the Trojan war and relates the wrath of Achilles, greatest of warriors.

It is now the ninth year of siege when Homer begins his epic and the Greeks are encamped on the shores of Asia Minor, besieging Troy.

The poem begins, for their hero will not fight. The mighty Achilles sulks in his tent.

Agamemnon, commander of Greek forces, had demanded a slave girl who had previously been awarded to Achilles as part of the spoils of battle.

Thus unjustly treated by his commander, Achilles retired to his tents with his followers and refused to fight.

During the days of this quarrel, conversations among the men relate previous happenings.

Helen, most beautiful woman of history, was wooed by every prince of Greece.

To protect the fortunate winner, all these chieftains swore to defend Helen, should the necessity ever arise.

She finally chose Menelaus to be her husband. Sometime after this, Paris of Troy, a handsome youth, came to visit at the palace of Menelaus.

When he returned, he took Helen back to Troy with him. Thus all Greek chieftains were called upon to fulfill their vows and go to reclaim Helen.

Pretends to Be Mad. Ulysses, happily married, did not wish to go on such a quest.

He pretended madness, and plowed the fields, sowing salt.

When the boats were ready to sail for Troy, the winds stopped.

An oracle explained that a maiden of royal birth must be sacrificed. So, Iphigenia, daughter of Agamemnon, was made a human propitiation to the god of winds.

Nine years of encampment then followed with neither side gaining much advantage.

Meanwhile within the walls of Troy, Helen's great beauty had so completely captured the Trojan people that they fought madly to keep her within their city.

Hector Challenges. Then occurred the incident of the slave girl and Achilles' wrath Hector, the greatest warrior of Troy, came forth and issued a challenge for individual combat.

But no one answered. Achilles was the only man to fight this Trojan warrior, and Achilles would not fight.

Then Patroclus, dear friend of Achilles, borrowed the armor of Achilles and went forth to uphold the fair name of Greece.

From his tents Achilles saw his friend die. With a roar he rushed into the battle, but he had no armor.

He would recover Patroclus' body for burial. The sound of his voice was enough; the Trojans were back inside the wall.

Achilles must have new armor. His goddess mother came and offered to have a suit forged in the fires of Vulcan.

Achilles Fights Hector. Clad in his new armor, Achilles sought Hector for combat.

The mighty warriors were evenly matched. Around they circled, each seeking an opening in the other's guard.

Time passed, yet they fought furiously, neither gaining advantage over the other.

A goddess favoring Achilles flew down from Olympus and clouded the eyes of Hector, so that Achilles succeeded in smiting him a powerful stroke with his sword.

Hector lay in the dust, his plumes and fine clothing despoiled. A wall went up from the tops of the walls of Troy as Achilles fastened things in the heels of Hector and tied him to his chariot, then drove madly round the walls of Troy.

Late at night there came a visitor to the tents of Achilles, it was Priam, aged king of Troy and father of Hector.

Weeping, he pleaded for the body of his son, he recounted the glory of Hector and with tears of love he proved that Hector was too noble to be forced to wander forever through the shades for lack of proper burial.

Achilles heard his prayer with compassion and gave to him the body of his son.

TERRIBLE

I got in a jam the other day, but I do not like jam so traded it for a pickle. Being in a stew at the time, I had pickles and stew for lunch. They were not polite, so I threw them out, at first. Next batter up knocked a fowl, off the roost, so we had a hen on for supper.

AUSPICES THE RAINBOW ORDER FOR GIRLS

TO MY CARRIZOZO FRIENDS:

I have been coming to Carrizozo for several years and have always received a fine reception from the community. You will find that we now have a stronger company than the past few seasons and know that you will be delightfully surprised with our new show. Your patronage has always been appreciated. Yours for clean amusement.
