Announcement Tea For Miss Cooper

Mrs. Nellie Branum gave a tea last Saturday afternoon, announcing the engagement of her niece, Miss Leslye Cooper, to Wayne Van Schoyck, Jr., of White Oaks, the wedding to take place during this month. Mrs. R. E. Lemon, Mrs. Shelton and Misses Jay and Bea Romero and Wilma Snow served.

The bride-to-be is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cooper, of Ancho, and a niece of Mrs. Nellie Branum, with whom she has made her home for several years. Miss Cooper is Past Worthy Advisor of the Rainbows and a gifted musician. She was graduated from the Carrizozo High school in 1935, since which time she has been employed at the local telephone office.

Mr. Van Schoyck is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Van Schoyck, Sr., of White Oaks. He was graduated from the Carrizozo High school, class of 1934, after which he was employed by Western Auto Co., El Paso, and later was transferred here as manager of the Carrizozo branch of Western Auto Co. He is an exemplary young man and quite popular.

Miss Cooper was honored at a miscellaneous shower which was given at the Romero home yesterday afternoon with Misses Jay and Bea Romero, and Miss Wilma Snow and Mrs. Johnson Stearns as hostesses. Many lovely gifts were received by the honoree. Refreshments were delicious.

Tonight, after Rainbow, Miss Cooper will be honored with a kitchen shower by members of the Rainbow Order, of which she has been a useful member.

Girls' Bridge Club

Miss Margaret Elliott entertained the Girls' Bridge Club last Wednesday. High score was won by Mrs. Wm. Norman and low score won by Catherine Smith. Prizes were a cross and a powder puff.

Refreshments were sandwiches, potato chips, olives and ice tea.

Mrs. Gilmore Ill

Mrs. Mae Miller, of Tularosa, and Mrs. Ora Tully, of Glencoe, are at the bedside of their mother, Mrs. A. J. Gilmore, who is extremely ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Mayer, here.

White Oaks

Mr. and Mrs. D. Clark and Evelyn Hair of Leveland, Texas, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Huffmyer this week.

Miss Kathleen Smith spent the week end at the home of Miss Catherine Smith.

Wayne Van Schoyck and sons Wayne and Bert were called to El Paso to the bedside of Mr. Van Schoyck's sister Inez Van Schoyck, who was stricken with paralysis enroute to El Paso.

The Ladies Aid honored Mrs. Owen Sloan with a kitchen shower Thursday afternoon at the Power Plant. Delicious refreshments were served and a lovely time was had.

Mrs. J. H. Fulmer spent Saturday in Carrizozo.

One of the greatest serial stories that we have been able to secure for our readers, "Crucible," will start in this paper next week.

Miles Forces Have 313 Instructed Votes

State Democratic Chairman Miles, unannounced gubernatorial candidate, holds 313 instructed votes out of a total of 983 to be cast at the state nominating convention, a survey shows. His totals went over the 300 mark Tuesday when Miles and Dempsey won instructions at the Eddy county convention.

Congressman Dempsey has 841 pledged votes. The Miles forces are also claiming some uninstructed votes also claimed by administration forces. Eight counties have named uninstructed delegations.

Mrs. Sallie Mae Pierce

Mrs. Sallie May Pierce passed away at her home in Alamogordo, yesterday morning, Aug. 11, at 5 o'clock, after a very short illness. Mrs. Pierce was a sister of Mrs. A. J. Gilmore.

Mrs. Pierce is survived by a son and two daughters, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral arrangements will be made when her children arrive in Alamogordo.

Murder Trials Set For September Term of Court

Ben Mixon, Sr., and his two sons, Lewis and Randall, who it is alleged committed a double murder at Ancho, July 22, when the dead bodies of George Roberts, Ancho merchant, and his clerk, E. W. Ferguson, were found at the Ancho store, all three pleaded innocent Monday and were bound over to the District Court. Their trial will come up at the September term of court. Suspicion pointed strongly to the Mixons when Deputy Sheriff Hugh Bunch and another officer followed horse tracks to a clump of tumble weeds one-half mile from their home where two guns were discovered, one a 30-30 Winchester rifle, and the other a .45 automatic pistol.

H. E. Smith Succeeds Hinckley as WPA Assistant

Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, announced Monday the appointment of H. E. Smith as acting field representative in charge of the western area formerly administered by Robert H. Hinckley, assistant administrator. The area includes New Mexico.

Hinckley resigned effective Monday to become a member of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Smith has been Hinckley's assistant since 1934.

Attended Reunion

Mrs. A. J. Gilmore, Carrizozo; Mrs. Paul Mayer, Carrizozo; Mrs. J. V. Tully, Glencoe; Mr. and Mrs. Watt Gilmore, Eagle; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Gilmore and children, Tularosa; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Key, Capitán; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Key and children, Carrizozo; Miss Hilda Key, Capitán, were among those who attended a family reunion of the Gilmore and Green families in Alamogordo on Saturday, July 30. The seventy people who attended enjoyed a basket lunch at the noon hour. Mrs. A. J. Gilmore was Miss Susan Green before her marriage. Both she and Mr. Gilmore were members of prominent pioneer families, some of whom settled in the Capitan mountains and others in the Sacramento mountains.

Lincoln Billy the Kids Won Sunday---7 to 2

The Capitan "White Ducks" went to Lincoln Sunday, but were not there as far as ball playing is concerned, as a Luna-Gonzales pitching combination proved too much for the "Ducks." Ramon tossed it for 4 innings, and only allowed 2 runs, while the Kids were hitting the old "pill" and crossing "home" four times. During these three innings the newly acquired pitcher, Eddie Zamora, was doing his best, but just did not get enough support from his compañeros, so "Cyclone" Filomero went to the hill to see what he could do with those "wild kids," but nothing doing. They assaulted him by being so naughty as to score three more times.

In the 4th inning "Colly" Gonzales replaced Sito at the mound and held Capitan scoreless the rest of the game. "Colly," as several will remember, is the little fellow with the big curves who used to play with the Hondo Apple Pickers about two years ago and played during the Baseball Tournament at Carrizozo about that time. We are told that he hurt his arm then, but the way he put it over Sunday we don't believe it.

Batteries, Capitan---Peralta, Zamora and Romero. Lincoln---Luna, Gonzales, Beltran and Gameros.

We have not heard any rumors so can't tell where they are playing Sunday.---Contributed.

Gov. Tingley Inspects Roads

Importance of Highway 54.

During the rains of the past fortnight, wash from the mountains have practically made untravelable Highway 54 from Carrizozo south to Tularosa, which would be one of the leading avenues of the state if it were made safely travelable. This is one of the inspirations of the meeting which will be held at Santa Fe with delegates from Ntra Visa, where 54 crosses the Texas line, to Tularosa, the juncture with Highway 70. The idea is to place before Governor Tingley the desirability of blacktopping the stretch of road that affords the only approach to El Paso and the border for the large tourist volume that must now go through to the Rio Grande if conditions are bad. Of the justice of such an improvement there is not the least doubt. It may be attainable before the millions of debentures are exhausted.

Governor Tingley "Road Wise"

Governor Tingley is of course perfectly familiar with the facts of Highway 54, as he is of every other road in the state. He has been over it many times, and he knows the physical facts as well as anybody. Certainly he would have the approval of everybody if he could find a way to take care of the stretch before the water dries up. Lower Pecos Valley people will hope that he takes care of the 41-mile stretch from Santa Fe to Vaughn first, as it would make a pleasing alternative route into Albuquerque and Santa Fe. The worst stretch, however, is between Carrizozo and Tularosa, whose badness was immortalized or something by the late E. Dana Johnson, and is known to whoever knew their New Mexico. It may be costly to build that 47 odd miles, because there are dozens of draws that will have to be bridged, but it should be done just the same.---Will Robinson in Side Lites.---Alamogordo News.

Governor Tingley has promised $50,000 for a stretch of road between Carrizozo and Tularosa. This will help a great deal, and the people who travel the road every few days will be profoundly grateful.

Picnic Grounds

On the White Mountain District of the Lincoln National Forest there are five campgrounds: Cherokee Bill at Ruidoso Junction, School house and Lower Ruidoso on the Ruidoso and South Fork and Philadelphia Canyon on the Bonito. There is also one picnic ground on Cedar Creek about two miles from Ruidoso on the Alto road. All of the grounds are equipped with good water, sanitary toilets, fireplaces, garbage pits, shelters and some of them playground equipment for the children.

The public is welcome and invited to use these conveniences singly or in crowds, individual and company picnics as well as any other kind of gathering. We make only one request. Help us keep them looking nice for the next fellow. "Leave a Clean Camp and a Dead Fire."

Bill Compton spent the week end in Tucumcari visiting his wife. Mr. Compton returned to his home in Carrizozo Saturday.---Tucumcari News.

Buildings Under Construction

The Lincoln County Utilities Company have almost completed their handsome new building near the overpass. It is a two story building with living quarters. Constructed of Ancho brick. Messrs. Wright and Fulmer are the owners.

Mr. M. U. Finley has let the contract for a two story building on Alamogordo Avenue just across the street from Rolland's drug store. This is to be a modern structure in every respect. The enterprising owner has it leased to some local parties, as soon as it is ready for occupancy. The foundation has already been completed.

Marvin Burton has just completed a coal and wood yard with office building, just across the street from the Western Lumber Company.

Paden's drug store has just added a new brick front and other repairs to their building.

The new Standard Oil service station across the street from the News office which is being built by Mrs. Ward of Alamogordo is also nearing completion. This building also is constructed of Ancho brick.

It is rumored also that a new Safeway store is in the offing.

New curbing is being placed around the City Park on Tularosa avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lucky and infant daughter, Martha Sue were here from Nogal last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. F. Eric Ming of Forrest, N. Mex., was in town last Tuesday. Mr. Ming was formerly principal of the High school here.

Jellied Soups for Your Home Table

Expert Gives Pointers On Proper Preparation

By EDITH M. BARBER

I CAN remember, and perhaps some of you can, when jellied soup was only to be found on the menu of a fine restaurant. It seldom came to the home table. Perhaps this was because it was necessary to make stock by a long drawn out process, and because tomato juice had not come to market.

Perhaps it was also because we had not become addicted to the cold introduction to a meal. Today we find jellied consomme or tomato juice on almost every restaurant menu and it has become a common practice to use both at home.

While nothing is better as a basis than the stock made from soup bones, we are quite likely to put to use leftover bones and meat which when well seasoned give a stock full of flavor, although not quite so clear, as when we buy a knuckle of veal or shin of beef for this purpose. Some of the stock may be combined with tomato juice, or we may use the latter by itself after cooking it with sliced onions, herbs and spices for a short time. Soaked gelatin must of course be dissolved in the hot liquid. We will need some of this even when we make soup bone stock as natural gelatin will vary in quantity.

Jellied soups should not be too stiff and in any case before they are served they should be beaten with a fork. Sliced lemon is a desirable addition to serve with soups of this sort. And by the way, should they be called soups?

Brown Soup Stock

- 6 pounds soup bone and left-over meat and bone
- 3 quarts cold water
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 6 cloves
- 1/2 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 sprigs thyme
- 1 sprig marjoram
- 1 1/2 cups carrots
- 1 1/2 cups turnips
- 1 1/2 cups celery

Wipe the beef bone and cut the lean meat in inch cubes. Put in soup kettle, add water, and let stand for 30 minutes. Heat gradually to boiling point and simmer for four or five hours. Add the vegetables and seasonings, cook one and one-half hours, strain and cool as quickly as possible.

Jellied Bouillon

- 2 tablespoons gelatin
  - 1/4 cup cold water
  - 4 cups meatstock, well seasoned
- Parley
Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes and stir into hot stock until dissolved. Pour into a shallow dish or into bouillon cups to chill and set. Before serving break up jelly with a fork or cut into cubes with a knife. Serve in bouillon cups and garnish with sprigs of parsley. Bouillon cubes may be used to make the stock in proportion of five cubes to a quart of water.

SOME COOLING DRINKS

Special Iced Tea.

- 3 cups boiling water
  - 3 teaspoons tea
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 1/2 cup orange juice
  - Sugar
  - 1 pint gingerale
  - 6 mint sprigs
  - 6 slices orange
- Pour boiling water over tea, cover and let steep five minutes. Strain and cool quickly by pouring over chopped ice or ice cubes. Add orange and lemon juice and the sugar if desired. When ready to serve add gingerale. Serve with 1/2 in tall glasses with a sprig of mint and a slice of orange in each glass.

Tutti-Frutti Punch

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups water
- 6 oranges, juice
- 6 lemons, juice
- 1 cup pineapple, diced
- 2 bananas
- 1/2 cup maraschino cherries, cut small
- 2 quarts charged water or gingerale

Boil sugar and water to a sirup five minutes, cool, add fruit and juices. Place in punch bowl over cake of ice. When cool, pour in the charged water and serve.

Ginger Grape Punch.

- 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 cup water
  - 1 quart grape juice
  - 1 quart gingerale
  - Juice of 2 lemons
  - Juice of 5 oranges
- Dissolve sugar in water and bring to boiling point. Cool and add to other ingredients. Pour over cracked ice. Serve in tall glasses.

Cracks in Plaster

If cracks persist in appearing in plastered walls, it is often advisable to cover the walls with a wall fabric of stout construction, such as canvas, and then paint it. Such long wearing material may be redecorated as often as you choose. Beside covering the old cracks, the fabric—by reinforcing the plaster—helps prevent new cracks from forming.

A Restful Bedroom

A restful color harmony for a sleeping room combines green and white to good advantage.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

WHEN Ruth moved into her shining new home she acquired, with a gas furnace and various other modern touches, a room full of bookshelves. Oh, they were very nice bookshelves, just ready and waiting for regimented volumes of a library. Ruth liked them very much but when it came to filling them, well, that was another story. In looking over the supply of books she had willy-nilly collected from college days on, she decided that something must be done to prove that she really was literate.

For now Ruth has not only a new house but a pair of bright-eyed youngsters for whom she wishes the best of this world's offerings, and she knows that books are among the most precious gifts she can offer her children. So she has started a book-buying plan for those empty shelves and she has startled even herself at the rapidity with which the shelves are filling up. She'll

More shelves than books.

Tell you all about it if you ask her. "Oh, I know," she'll say with a smile, "lots of people just buy books by the yard to fill in bookshelves, and I suppose that's all right, if you never want to read very much. But the first thing I did was buy a good encyclopedia—not a child's set, although the children are quite young—but a set that will last through the years and be of as much value now for looking up odd things that children ask as later when the moppets are quite grown up and in high school. Then I formed my own book-of-the-month club and resolved to buy one book a month—at least.

"We pour over the Sunday book sections, and several considerations govern our choice. One month it was a book on the arts, another month a novel about contemporary American life, another month a biography of an American figure who will loom large in history lessons later on. We add a classic now and then—something that we have loved reading in the past and want to have handy for the children later on. We're not bibliophiles or anything like, but we think we'll have a pretty fine library by the time the kids are old enough to enjoy it. And we're getting a new education ourselves, not only in selecting the books but in reading them."

And Ruth will add that she always leaves the fly-covers on the books as long as possible—it saves the books and the bright colored papers add lovely color to her growing shelf of books.

Too Much to See.

If there's one thing that wears us down when we go visiting to a new city, it's for our host or hostess to drive us around to see too many sights. Not that we aren't interested. We are very much. The part we mind is having to explain with enthusiasm just too often for any good. For one thing we give out a lot of adjectives. We even give out "enthusiasm" eventually.

Yet we're guilty of inflicting the same punishment on our guests. We spent all yesterday afternoon driving our company around to see our favorite spots and waiting for their exclamations.

Well, anyway, we picked up this bright idea which even our well-tired guests perked up to see. 'Twas a corner of a brick terrace furnished with barrels, nothing more or less, but painted all in white with green bands. The table had a barrel for its base with a square top of wide planks painted white. The chairs were made of barrel frames cut out to form a back and supplied with a cross piece and a cushion. One barrel stood on its side with braces underneath to keep it from rolling. It was filled with dirt and had an opening for plants to grow in. Several barrels were cut down into tubs for shrubs, and others were cut down and braced for stools. When cushions were added they were green, and as we said all the barrels were painted white with green bandings. Picture that against a red brick terrace surrounded by flowering shrubs, and you have something!

How about barrels for outdoor furniture?

As pleasant an outdoor grouping as we saw included a rustic arbor with table and chairs of natural unfinished hickory.

NOSE COUNTERS

IN UNCLE SAM'S census bureau at Washington America's official nose counters are already preparing for the 1940 population check, a stupendous job that requires intricate equipment, skilled workers. From all corners of the nation come census reports by registered mail. These are sorted, checked, edited, and finally translated into figures on the card puncher below.

Information compiled each 10 years by the U. S. census bureau finds its way into thousands of hands and is used for thousands of constructive purposes. The bureau provides Uncle Sam's only method of discovering what his people are doing, and of uncovering the popular trends of the times. More frequent "nose counts" have often been proposed.

TODAY'S BOOK

Bought Island To Save Birds From Mankind

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

WHEN memory runs free to seek the treasures among books, it always comes to rest upon the tales by Dr. Axel Munthe. "The Story of San Michele" is the life story of a man you should know.

Nothing in the book is more appealing than the author's love of animals. His knowledge of the ways of birds, monkeys, dogs, and wild animals makes the book almost an animal story. Resentment against confining animals in cages led him to state that in a zoo, the monkeys are on the outside, looking in. Hunting as a sport was nauseous to Dr. Munthe and he wrote: "The time will come when the mere pleasure of killing will die out in man. As long as it is there, man has no claim to call himself civilized, he is a mere barbarian, a missing link between his wild ancestors who slew each other with stone axes for a piece of raw flesh and the man of the future."

This attitude was by no means an assumed front: Dr. Munthe bought the Isle of Capri in the Bay of Naples because it was the only way

Elizabeth C. James

"LISTENED" TO LIFE

In writing a preface to the American edition of "The Story of San Michele," Dr. Munthe interpreted his own book. He comments on the reviewers who had already published analyses of his book and presents reasons why he disagrees with some of their comments. His book had been called "The Memoirs of a Doctor" and "The Autobiography of Dr. Munthe." Both of the comments appear inaccurate to him, for his purpose was to present life, omitting himself as much as possible. He hoped to listen to the Voice of Life and to record what he heard.

that he could stop the cruel and wholesale slaying of birds there. The Italian fishermen had a practice of catching a few of these birds and of blinding them, then fastening them to act as decoys for the other birds. Their plaintive cries caused the other birds to come to see what could be their plight and they in turn were caught in nets by the thousands. These multitudes of birds were sold to be worn alive on chains on gold days.

Book Is Vivid.

Dr. Munthe appealed to the government to stop this, but to no avail. So he bought the island. At the end of his book, the old doctor pictures his trial in Heaven and the birds plead for him before the sternness of Moses!

A critic has said that Dr. Munthe, like Petrarch and Chaucer, has filled his book so full of narrative and incident, that short story writers could use it for endless sources of ideas. This is true. There are narratives connected with medical study in France and later with his association with Pasteur and Charcot; there are stories of vacations to Norway and Lapland, and down to Italy; there are human interest stories dealing with the lives of his friends and patients.

Another of his medical stories is that of the mixed coffins. When Dr. Munthe was practicing medicine in Paris, he had as a patient a young man from Norway who had an incurable illness. At the death of the boy, the family asked Dr. Munthe to escort the body to Norway personally. In the freight car where he was required by law to travel with a coffin, he met another man who was escorting to the coast the body of a Russian general. Both men were to take boats at the coast, one for Norway, the other for Russia.

Mixed Funerals.

In Norway Dr. Munthe met the family and learned of their plan to open the coffin. Privately he opened it himself, to see about the embalming. What he saw caused him to reel backward and to turn white. The black bushy beard of the Russian general greeted him. Dr. Munthe persuaded the mother not to see her son. And to this day, the Russian general lies in Norway and the Norwegian boy lies in Russia.

His personal acquaintance with Death took a different turn after Dr. Munthe had practiced medicine for some years. At first Death was a personal enemy to be fought by the bed of one patient; later Death became a force controlling the destiny of mankind. For Dr. Munthe was a volunteer to the plague of Naples, when people died a thousand a day of cholera.

For readers who like to meet a man who takes life zestfully, Dr. Munthe is recommended. Evidently others have the same opinion, for the copy of "The Story of San Michele" belonging to this writer is from the sixty-third edition.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Analyzes The Cereal Grains

Well Known Food Authority Describes Their Place in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City

TO ME, there is no more inspiring sight in the world than a field of nodding golden grain. It not only pleases the eye with its grace and profound beauty, but it attests to Nature's bounty. For down through the ages, grains have sustained and comforted man.

In every quarter of the globe, foods made from grain constitute the largest single item in the food supply. This is as it should be, for no other foodstuff affords such a rich store of fuel value at such little cost. It has been estimated that during one day's labor, an American farmer, growing wheat by up-to-date American methods, can produce enough protein and calories to sustain a man for a year.

A Source of Power and Pep
Every nation depends upon some form of cereal to furnish motive power for the body machinery—to provide necessary energy to keep body and brain functioning efficiently. In the Western world, wheat is supreme. But in Oriental countries, rice takes the lead and it is the chief article of food for half of the world's people. Rye, oats, barley, maize and buckwheat are likewise important crops.

Energy Values Compared

All uncooked cereal foods show great similarity in their chemical composition and therefore have very nearly the same energy value—that is about 1,650 calories per pound. The weight of a 100-calorie portion is about an ounce. But there is a wide variation in bulk, depending upon the degree to which the cereal has been refined. For example, three tablespoons of patent wheat flour weigh one ounce; one and one-fourth cups of a puffed wheat cereal likewise weigh one ounce. After cooking, there is a big variation in weight, as well as moisture, owing to the varying amounts of water absorbed. Thus a cup of cooked oatmeal mush supplies the same number of calories as three tablespoons of a pebbly dry cereal with a nut-like taste.

The Cereal Proteins

From 8 to 12 per cent of the calories in cereal foods are obtained from protein and two noted investigators have estimated that grain products contribute 35 per cent of the total calories and 37 per cent of the protein in the typical American dietary.

Laboratory experiments indicate that the proteins of wheat, oats, maize, rye and barley are about equally efficient in promoting and supporting growth. None of them compares with an equivalent weight of the complete proteins of milk, eggs or meat, but when combined with small amounts of milk, the cereal proteins become highly efficient.

Iron and Copper

The mineral elements of grains are concentrated largely in the outer layers and in the germ. For this reason, there is considerable difference in the yield of minerals from whole grain and highly refined cereal foods.

The mineral content of bran is from 10 to 20 times greater than that of patent flour, and whole wheat contains from three to five times as much iron, calcium and phosphorus. Bran, oatmeal and whole grain cereals are a good source of copper as well as iron.

Rich in Vitamin B

The different cereal grains are quite similar in their vitamin values, but as the vitamins are very unevenly distributed throughout the kernel, there is a wide variation in vitamin content between the whole grain and refined cereal foods.

All seeds, including whole grains, are relatively poor in vitamin A. They are entirely lacking in vitamins C and D and contain only small amounts of vitamin G. Both the germ and bran, however, are excellent sources of vitamin B—which promotes appetite, aids digestion and helps to prevent a nervous disorder. The importance of the germ as a food has been more fully appreciated since it was discovered that it is at least five times as rich in vitamin B as the whole grain or bran. There are several cereals on the market containing added wheat germ and this precious substance may also be obtained in concentrated form.

Laxative Value of Cereals

The whole grain cereals contain an abundance of bulk or cellulose and are therefore a valuable aid in promoting normal elimination. Individuals differ in their requirement for foods having a laxative effect, and in some cases one must be guided by personal experience. But inasmuch as the whole grain products furnish the body with larger amounts of minerals and vitamins B and G, a good general rule is to consume at least half of one's bread and other cereal foods in the whole grain form.

Digestibility of Grains

The whole grain products are less completely digested than those which are more highly refined, but as they contain larger amounts of protein, it is estimated that the amount of protein digested and absorbed from an equal weight of entire wheat or patent flour is practically the same. Thus when the two types of flours are considered as sources of protein and energy alone, they are regarded by nutritionists as substantially equivalent and interchangeable.

Many Forms of Cereal Foods

From infancy to old age, the cereal foods should, and usually do constitute the mainstay of the diet. Fortunately, there is such a wide variety from which to choose that there is little likelihood of monotony. Furthermore, because of their bland flavor, one does not readily tire of cereal foods.

In addition to the wide variety of breads, rolls, muffins, biscuits and griddle cakes that can be made from refined and whole grain flours, there are an astonishing number of cooked and uncooked cereals from which to choose. When served with milk, bread or cereals make an ideal and economical food combination.

Macaroni for a Main Dish

Besides serving as the main feature at breakfast and for the child's supper, cereal foods are useful as the chief attraction at dinner or supper when served in the form of macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles. They are a fine source of energy and also furnish about 12 per cent protein. When combined with cheese, which adds protein, minerals and vitamins, they constitute a balanced main dish.

Cereal products of all kinds deserve a ranking place among FOODS THAT KEEP US FIT.

Questions Answered

Miss R. M.—There is no evidence to indicate any relation between thunderstorms and the souring of milk. Thunderstorms are more likely to occur during the summer when temperatures are high. Hot weather also induces bacterial growth in milk.

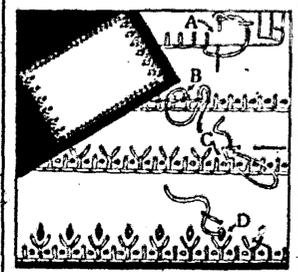

Mrs. J. McK.—Though the food value of meat extracts is low, they have a tempting flavor, due to the presence of the savory extractives which stimulate appetite. Their content of potassium salts causes a quickened and stronger heart beat. In fact, it has been said that their effect is more like a stimulant than a food. That is why they are often used as a restorative for invalids.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WE SAY luncheon mats yet, more and more, mats are being used three times a day. This change from the traditional table cloth saves time and laundry; the color and variety of mats add interest to table settings.

A set of sheerest organdie is used with dainty china. The mat shown here is the other extreme.

It is made of soft blue denim and is embroidered in heavy white cotton. Napkins may be made to match, or plain white napkins may be used. Here are all the directions you will need for the embroidery.

Cut the mats the desired size, pulling a thread of the fabric to guide you in cutting the edge straight. Hem the edges by hand with 3/4-inch hems, using matching cotton sewing thread or raveled threads of the fabric if they are strong enough. Now, blanket stitch over the hems with the embroidery thread as shown here at A. Next, make tiny chain stitches between the blanket stitches as at B. This completes the embroidery for the long sides of the mats. The short ends are embroidered more elaborately. Make a V stitch at the top of every other blanket stitch as shown at C. Chain stitches are then made as at D.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book gives complete directions for many novelties, gifts and things for yourself and the children. It also fully illustrates 60 embroidery stitches with interesting variations. You will use these again and again for reference. Ask for Book 2, enclosing 25 cents. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S Desplaines St., Chicago.

He Left Everything

A merchant, being told he had only a few days to live, called his lawyer, and said: "Make my will so my overdraft at the bank goes to my wife—she can explain it. My equity in my car to my son—he will have to go to work to keep up the payments. Give my good will to the supply houses—they took some awful chances on me and are entitled to something. My equipment you can give to the junkman—he has had his eye on it for several years. I want six of my creditors for pallbearers—they carried me so long they might as well finish the job."—Hoard's Dairyman.

New Mexico 1938 Migratory Bird Regulations

As prescribed by the United States Department of Agriculture and approved by the President. In some instances the New Mexico State Law is more restrictive than the Federal regulations. In such instances the State Law will govern and is quoted in the following summary.

Waterfowl--The 1938 season on waterfowl, including Wilson's Snipe or Jacksnipe and Coot shall be November 15 to December 29, both dates inclusive.

The hours of hunting waterfowl, root, rails and gallinules, Wilson's Snipe or Jacksnipe shall be from 7:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m., Standard time.

The use of live decoys will not be permitted. Baiting will not be permitted.

Under Federal law, all migratory waterfowl hunters who are over 16 years of age are required to purchase and have in their possession, a Federal Duck Hunting Stamp. These stamps are sold at $1.00 each at post office. A person must write his signature in ink across the face of the stamp, but it is not absolutely necessary that the Stamp be attached to the State Hunting License. Each stamp shall expire and be void after the 30th day of June next, succeeding its issuance.

There is no open season on Ross's Goose, Wood Duck and Swan.

Bag and Possession Limits on Migratory Waterfowl are as follows:

Ducks--Except Wood Duck and Swan. Ten in the aggregate of all kinds, of which not more than 3 of any one, or more than 3 in the aggregate, may be of the following species: Canvasback, redhead, bufflehead and ruddy; and any person at any time may possess not more than 20 ducks in the aggregate of all kinds, of which not more than 6 of any one, or more than 6 in the aggregate, may be of the following species: Canvasback, redhead, bufflehead and ruddy.

Geese and Brant--Except Ross's Goose. Five in the aggregate of all kinds, and any person at any time may possess not more than 10 in the aggregate of all kinds.

Sora--Fifteen, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15.

Coot--Twenty-five, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 25.

Wilson's Snipe or Jacksnipe--Fifteen, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15.

September 1 to Nov. 30, both dates inclusive.

Rails and Gallinules (Except Coot.) Fifteen in the aggregate of all kinds, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15 in the aggregate of all kinds.

Mourning Dove--The 1938 season on mourning doves shall be September 1 to November 15, both dates inclusive.

The bag limit shall be fifteen per day or in possession.

The hours of hunting shall be 7:00 a. m. to sunset, standard time.

Band-Tailed Pigeon. The 1938 season on band-tailed pigeons shall be October 1 to October 15, both dates inclusive.

The bag limit shall be ten per season or in possession.

The hours of hunting shall be

7:00 a. m. to sunset, Standard time.

All migratory birds may be taken with a shotgun, only, not larger than No. 12 gauge, and capable of holding not more than three shells.

No migratory bird can be possessed more than ten days after the closing dates of seasons.

For the convenience of mourning and band-tailed pigeon hunters we are listing below the time of sunset secured through the cooperation of the United States Weather Bureau.

The Beef Cattle Situation

The outlook for cattle prices during the late summer and fall months has been improved somewhat by prospects for some pick-up in industrial activity and in consumer demand, the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics states.

The seasonal advance in prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle during the remainder of the summer and early fall may be greater than was expected earlier. But supplies of well-finished cattle will be larger and consumer income smaller during this period than a year earlier. Hence, prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle are not likely to reach the unusually high levels of the late summer and early fall of 1937. But in late 1938 and 1939, if business conditions improve, prices of such cattle may average somewhat higher than a year earlier.

With abundant supplies and relatively low prices of feed, and with generally favorable range and pasture conditions, there is likely to be a greater-than-usual tendency to withhold cows, heifers, and calves as replacement stock in nearly all areas during the summer and fall. Hence, the decline in prices of the lower grades of cattle, which usually occurs with seasonally increased supplies, may not be very marked this year. Present conditions indicate that supplies of feed grains and hay per animal next winter will again be considerably above average.

Prices of the better grades of slaughter steers and heifers advanced sharply in late June and early July, reaching new high levels for the year, but remaining considerably below prices of a year earlier. This advance apparently reflected a seasonal strengthening in demand for the better grades of cattle. Prices of the lower grades remained comparatively steady during June and early July.

Enlistments Open For U. S. Marines

Information received from the officer in charge of the U. S. Marine Corps recruiting for Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico that the recruiting has been resumed and that an unlimited number of qualified young American men will be accepted by the U. S. Marine Corps during the month of August. Those applicants meeting the high standard of the Marine Corps will be eligible for enlistment and duty aboard some battleship, cruiser, aircraft carrier or at one of the seven overseas stations where our Marines are now serving.

Only young, single men of the highest type will be accepted; high school graduates are preferred, but those with less schooling, as low as eighth grade, are acceptable if exceptionally well qualified in other respects. Each applicant should be able to furnish evidence of his educational qualifications, besides letters of reference from reputable citizens who have known him for at least two years and who know him to be of excellent character and of good standing in his community. Other requirements; must be between 18 and 25 years of age; exceptions up to 30 years made for specially qualified men. Young men under 21 must have written consent of parents to enlist.

The officer in charge of the U. S. Marine Corps recruiting states that the Marine Corps offers an opportunity for education, travel and adventure. Any interested young man may obtain full information by calling or writing direct to the officer in charge, U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 257 South Spring Street, Los Angeles, California.

L. P. Hall Writes Letter of Interest

Hello Friends:--
 Mrs. Hall, children and I started from Carrizozo, July 26, at 9:30 a. m. We enjoyed the pretty scenery across the mountains. Bado Capitan adieu, admired the beauty of the Hondo Valley. Visited briefly at Hondo with Leo Joiner and wife.

Traveling northeast from Roswell, the range was good and cattle fat. Around Clovis country crops were late.

Entering the Lone Star State at Farwell, we traveled over a level plains country, passed through the little town where the mule lost her shoe and where people raise sudan. Spent the night in Tahoka with Mrs. Hall's sister. Next morning drove via Lubbock, Plainview, Amarilla, to McLean. The McLean country needs rain badly. We remained in McLean over the 29th for a rodeo. We learned how the Panhandle boys rope calves. Crops were very good, needed rain badly in places. We left by way of Shamrock and Childress. Crops were rather poor there. The sun became hotter the farther east we went. Remained in Chico over Sunday visiting friends and relatives.

From Decatur we traveled into Oklahoma. There were lots of watermelons along the road and the temperature was a little cooler. Stayed over night in Norman, Oklahoma. Visited the University, Insane Asylum and Park. We drove from Norman to Oklahoma City. From Oklahoma City we drove east mostly. Parts of Oklahoma were very beautiful. Most of the timber is post oak. There are some pine and cedar trees.

We crossed the line at Ft. Smith, Arkansas. Crops were fine around Ft. Smith. As we traveled east the country was hilly and pretty, but crops poorer. The lightning bugs, possums and persimmon trees are plentiful.

At Ola, Arkansas, we spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. McDonald where the mosquito sings and bites all night. We enjoyed their hospitality. Bidding good bye we moved on toward Hot Springs, Arkansas.

We will drop you a line later.

L. P. HALL.

Our new serial, "Crucible," will start in these columns next week.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—England pioneered the businessman-diplomat—shrewdly and effectively, it would seem. Many of her best fixers and negotiators throughout the world have been men who had a personal stake in the outcome of their operations. They were not disinterested, perhaps, but no more were the traditional diplomats who knew protocol, perhaps, but nothing about oil.

America followed with Norman H. Davis, a financier who became an effective European swing man under five Presidents, and then came Spruille Braden, engineer and industrialist who was our ambassador-at-large in Latin America until he became minister to Colombia last April.

President Roosevelt, agreeing to act as an arbitrator in the Chaco dispute, picks Mr. Braden to represent him. In his own private industrial diplomacy throughout South America, the hunky and gregarious Mr. Braden has proved himself an excellent pacifier and troubleshooter.

He knows the score in oil, copper, rubber, minerals; hides and what not, and this materialized and particularized diplomacy has made him useful in diplomatic representations at various South American conferences. He has been working on the Chaco settlement for the last three years.

In his youth, he did a short turn in the mines near Elkhorn, Mont., his native town, and then went to Yale and became a mining engineer.

He was a second-string halfback at Yale, but a first string engineer and promoter from the start, electrifying Chile for Westinghouse, organizing the Bolivia-Argentina Exploration corporation, branching out widely in South American development and finance. He desperately wanted to be minister to Chile, but was consorted with Colombia.

He is forty-four years old, remembered in New York as the fastest and hardest-working handball player around Jack O'Brien's gymnasium, in which he combated a tendency to plumpness, creeping up on him a bit in late years.

He was married in 1915 to the beautiful and socially eminent Senorita Maria Humerea del Solar of Chile. They have three daughters and two sons. Their New York residence is the former George W. Perkins estate at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson.

CARL J. HAMBRO, burly president of the Norwegian parliament, is in America for a lecture tour. There is an interesting cut-back in his career.

At Geneva, in 1927, he staged a spectacular debate with Austen Chamberlain, in which, speaking for the small states, he vehemently insisted that the league must find a way to restrain strong aggressors, or else find itself impotent and discredited in a few years.

With equal vehemence, Mr. Chamberlain proclaimed the trustworthiness of the strong states and their humanitarian aims. Warning Mr. Hambro against overt restraints by the league, he said, "Along that road lies danger."

Mr. Hambro was the most distinguished recruit of the Oxford group movement in 1933, and has since been a leader of the movement in Norway.

Returning from a luncheon attended by Dr. Frank Buchman, founder of the movement, in Geneva, he told of the mystic exaltation of the company and later announced his adherence to the group.

Although a conservative, Mr. Hambro is the president of the Labor party of Norway. For many years, he has been leading the fight of the smaller nations in the league. Arriving in New York, he remarks dryly that Norway is old-fashioned—she has a surplus in her budget.

Platinum Oases of No Value
Old prospectors like to tell how they picked "native lead" out of their pans and sluiceways, and what they said as they threw it away. They are still saying things, for this much despised substance was actually platinum, which had little value years ago. Counterfeiters used it extensively because of its heavy weight, and gold-plated platinum coins are still in existence.

In 1834 Nicholas I of Russia issued platinum 3, 6 and 12 rouble pieces that are highly prized by the coin collecting fraternity.—Detroit Coin Club.

Weekly News Review Shall U. S. Pay Your Doctor? Professional Opinion Divided

by Edward W. Pickard

A. M. A.'s PRESIDENT IRVING ABELL, EDITOR MORRIS FISHBEIN

Domestic

Modern medicine's biggest problem is the middle class, too prosperous for relief, too poor to pay its doctor bills. Although 80 per cent of the nation favors government care for those who cannot pay, the potent American Medical association has constantly frowned on U. S. subsidy.

In Chicago, A. M. A.'s headquarters, 30 physicians have been expelled since 1929 for operating low-cost clinics and advertising their services. Throughout America, depression-ridden medics have twiddled their thumbs while the nation suffered from poor health. What makes the situation more desperate is that acute illness is much more prevalent in the low income brackets than among those who can pay.

Last November a self-appointed committee of 430 doctors revolted against A. M. A.'s high-ethical standards and took the stump favoring socialized medicine. Their proposals, all previously rejected by A. M. A., included local, state and federal subsidy for public health work, hospitalization, research and education.

For six months an interested public has been forming opinions. Two weeks ago President Roosevelt's national health conference met at Washington under able Josephine Roche, former head of U. S. health activities as assistant secretary of the treasury. Though they listened attentively to the Roche program for an $850,000,000-a-year medical program, delegates soon broke into two camps.

From Mayo clinic's Dr. Hugh Cabot, leader of the revolting group, came a charge that the practice of medicine is "medieval" in parts of the U. S. Lashed back A. M. A.'s General Manager Olin West: "I don't know whether the medical profession is any more proud of Cabot than he is of the medical profession." Added fiery Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of A. M. A.'s Journal: "Medical care is not the most important problem before the people of the United States. Medical and dental care, must always be subservient to the need for food, fuel, clothing, shelter and a job."

Last week A. M. A. found itself in an uncomfortable position. In Washington, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold announced that A. M. A. will be prosecuted as a monopoly under the federal anti-trust laws, accused of violating the law by boycotting low-cost clinics.

Specific grounds for the suit involved the Group Health association of the District of Columbia, organized last year by 2,500 government employees. Trust Buster Arnold charged A. M. A. and the Medical Society of the District of Columbia had attempted to prevent the Group Health association from operating by cold-shouldering doctors. Group Health association physicians, he said, had been (1) excluded from Washington hospitals, (2) threatened with expulsion from the association and (3) made unwelcome at consultations with other doctors.

As A. M. A. prepared its counter-attack, Thurman Arnold predicted the suit would have "far-reaching consequences on one of our most pressing problems."

Aviation

In Portland, Ore., one day last week, Major Howard C. French of the U. S. air reserve corps posed for his picture being "dragged" into a plane bound for San Francisco. The pretense was that Major French feared flying.

Next day he headed west over the Pacific in Pan-American's Hawaiian Clipper bound for Manila. Some 2,500 miles later the ship landed in Honolulu and took off for Midway Island, 1,300 miles away. Next stop was Wake Island and next came Guam. When the 36-ton Clipper took off for Manila, Major French must have thought his fears were in vain.

But a few hours later the Clipper's radio went dead. After half a day of anxious waiting, Pan-American admitted the ship must be down at sea. Out from Manila went the army transport Melga and by dawn next day heavy warships were plowing the sea to reach the plane's last reported positions.

Finally, in a spot where the water stood 5,000 fathoms deep, the Melga struck a significant oil slick that indicated the Hawaiian Clipper had plummeted into the sea. Aboard had been six passengers, nine crew members. Major French's fears had not been in vain.

●Capt. Hans Bertram of the German air service became the first person to circumnavigate the world by commercial plane last week when he landed in Berlin after a three-weeks' absence. Unnoticed on his eastward trip until he reached Manhattan, Bertram crossed the Atlantic as third pilot on Germany's catapult plane Nordwind.

Foreign

Already weary of hostilities in China, Japan wondered last week if she had a second war to fight. In isolated Manchukuo where 75-year-old Russo-Chinese boundary markers have long since been lost, Soviet and Jap troops were making much ado over a disputed hill near the village of Changkufeng. First hostilities occurred July 11, but not until last week did the conflict blossom into full-fledged warfare.

Three clashes were reported in three days. As might be expected, both Moscow and Tokyo claimed victory and Moscow sent a "vigorous protest" which Japan rejected. In the next skirmish Manchukuan detachments occupied Russian territory two and a half miles deep west of Lake Khasan, while Soviet troops fled leaving 50 dead.

Next day Moscow answered with airplanes, bombing railways near Changkufeng. Tokyo claimed five ships were downed and Russia did its best to minimize the incidents. To some, it looked like war.

Sports

Although Jerome Hanna Dean had cost the Chicago Cubs $37,000 each time they used him this year, Owner Phillip K. Wrigley thought last week his investment was at least establishing some sort of record. Purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals for $125,000, Dizzy Dean had pitched only five games but had won them all. Most important, however, was his mark of only 1.62 earned runs per nine-inning game. Considering that Boston's Jim Turner led the

"It was just one of those days."

National league last year with 2.38 runs against him per game, and Lefty Gomez paced the American league with 2.33, Dizzy Dean's record appeared spectacular indeed.

Chicago was just complimenting itself on this feat when Dizzy Dean took the mound against Philadelphia. First inning saw the bases loaded with a single, double and a walk. Third inning saw a harmless fly. Fourth inning saw Chuck Klein's over-the-fence homer. Fifth inning saw two doubles before Dizzy went to the show. With Larry French finishing for the Cubs, Philadelphia won 5-4.

"It was just one of those days," said Dean.

Politics

During Pennsylvania's recent fiery primary campaign, charges were made that Gov. George H. Earle's forces had extorted money from state contractors and employees and "sold" legislation. When a Dauphin county grand jury was called to investigate the charges, Governor Earle sprang to action, summoned his rubber-stamp legislature and ground out four bills to block the quiz. One of them appointed a special legislative committee which would supersede the grand jury and conduct its own investigation.

Two days later the Dauphin county court blocked this ambitious plan by impounding all evidence in the case and prohibiting the grand jury's witnesses from appearing before the legislative committee.

Labor

Last week the national labor relations board sent conciliators to Newton, Iowa, where a well-behaved washing machine strike has occupied 1,500 Maytag employees since May 9. As federal peacemakers prepared to call a parley between company officials and C. I. O. representatives, Iowa's Gov. Nels G. Kraschel got on his high horse. To Maj. Gen. Matthew Tinley, in charge of national guardsmen at Newton, the governor sent word that the labor board must not convene. Informed of the ultimatum, Trial Examiner Madison Hill reported to Washington and decided not to fight the Iowa national guard single-handed. Lawyers agreed Governor Kraschel's troopers are supreme so long as the martial law goes unchallenged. What he wants, said the governor, is a settlement of differences between Maytag and C. I. O. without the labor board's meddling.

People

Politely spurning cash, Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow signed formal separation papers in London with his wife, the former Barbara Hutton. To Count Kurt goes control over Lance, the couple's two-year-old child, who will be raised as a "Danish gentleman." Next day Countess Barbara was reported pinning once more for the American citizenship she renounced last year.

●Married a little more than one year, England's Duke of Windsor and his wife, the former Wallis Warfield, only a few weeks ago found a home in Austria's ancient Mittersill estate. Last week as workmen were busy renovating the Twelfth-century castle for September 1 occupancy, fire of undetermined origin burned it to the ground. Notified at their temporary chateau on the Riviera, England's former king and his wife were expected to start house-hunting once more this week.

●Celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary in Detroit, automobile magnate Henry Ford spoke for the press. Fordisms: (1) "The trouble . . . is that we think the future is tomorrow. If it doesn't come tomorrow, we are not interested." (2) "There is nothing ahead for this country but prosperity." (3) "Business is all mixed up with utterly false elements." Meanwhile in Washington the national labor relations board found the Ford Motor company guilty of Wagner act violation by "spying and discrimination" at its Buffalo, N. Y., plant.

●Douglas Corrigan, who left New York flying to California and ended up "by mistake" in Ireland, took a boat for home and announced he was afraid of being seasick. In Washington, U. S. department of commerce officials radioed the homing aviator news of his penalty for an unauthorized transatlantic flight. The penalty: A six-day suspension of Corrigan's commercial pilot certificate, conveniently arranged while he is on shipboard.

●At Indianapolis, John Pierpont Morgan III had his appendix removed after being rushed from a nearby farm where he had been pitching hay incognito. Notified of "Jack Morgan's" real identity, neighboring farmers said the twenty-one-year-old youth "seemed to be a willing hand, but a little green."

Miscellany

●At Dayton, Ohio, seventy-one-year-old Jeanette Reber Taylor sought her birth registration to apply for old age pension. Clerks thumbed back through musty registration volumes, found Jeanette Taylor was No. 1 registrant in No. 1 volume.

●Guilty of squandering his wife's money, guilty of murdering two women at Edmont, N. Y., last January, John Rex confessed his crimes to his sweetheart, Mrs. Florence Termond. Last week his wife, Mame, visited John Rex at Sing Sing where he awaits death August 15.

Upshot was Mame's letter to New York's Gov. Herbert Lehman: "If there could be a way . . . I would gladly die in his place. Could it be made possible?"

●Southampton, England, turned out last week to welcome two luxury liners arriving the same day. Germany's sleek Bremen ran aground entering the harbor, finally got off with the aid of tugs. A few minutes later the Queen Mary, caught by wind and tide, almost split a long wooden jetty.

●At Denver, thousands of bees came from nowhere to settle on the swank Brown Palace hotel, covering one side up to the seventh story. After a four-hour battle by employees produced only swollen noses, somebody called Mrs. Sarah Jackson, Denver bee catcher. Systematically locating three queen bees, Mrs. Jackson soon had the entire swarm safely packed away.

Blue Denim Stylish for Sportswear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HERE'S big news! It's all about denim, just plain ordinary, sturdy blue denim. Believe it or not, after all these years that blue denim has been associated in our minds as a mundane material devoted for the most part to the making of men's workaday overalls, we awake to the astonishing realization that this sturdy fabric has, in this summer season, gone style-high for women's wear. Just how Dame Fashion could have been so blind these decades past as to fail to recognize the style possibilities of denim as a medium for ladies' apparel will forever remain a mystery.

However, the fact remains denim has unmistakably come into its own in the feminine realm, not only for the making of play clothes, but designers are turning out the smartest-ever suits meticulously tailored of this never-wear-but-attractive weave. In consequence of which we now see clever little classic jacket-and-skirt tailleurs of blue denim worn by women who register among the best dressed. These suits are stunning worn with a white pique blouse or a dainty, frilly white lingerie type, with accessories in white. Equally attractive are these suits with accents of bright color such as a Roman striped blouse with striped sandals and hand-bag to match. Scarlet or bright yellow buttons, belt and gloves is another way of doing it. The tailored linen blouse in vivid color also goes well with an outfit that is made of denim. A two-piece dress (shirt and skirt) of denim, as illustrated to the left in the group, will not only give untold service but it stands for style personified in the sports clothes realm. Every line and detail of this outfit reflects exquisite standards of tailoring plus perfection of fit and finishing touches.

Ship ahoy! See the lovely recruit for the sailor's life centered in the picture. All tugged out is this midsummer siren in sturdy denims that never lose an item of perfection no matter how many the big waves that wash over them—old demon shrinkage doesn't have a chance. And what a wealth of style these sturdy denim togs do pack.

Even if the girl pictured to the right took an unexpected dive into the sea she need not be concerned about her outfit, for neither salt spray nor suds will make the sturdy fabric shrink. Note the nautical symbols, the pipings, braiddings, all smart details of this grand garment that promises to remain true "for better or worse" wear.

By way of offering a few extra suggestions for the styling of denim we don't mind telling you that a bolero dress of denim will prove a positive treasure in your outing or vacation wardrobe. You vary the blouse to suit the occasion and it's "on again, off again" to suit the changing temperature, so far as the cunning bolero is concerned.

The idea of denim for children's play suits, dresses and other apparel should prove most inspirational to mothers.

CROCHET COLLARS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A pic-and-span collar to give new life to your favorite dress is always a welcome addition in a collection of pretty accessories. If hand-crocheted so much the better for a bit of handiwork always adds an exclusive touch to a costume. The collar pictured at the top is crocheted of lightweight mercerized cotton and embroidered in contrast color. The other collar is also hand-crocheted of light mercerized cotton. It is trimmed with a border of contrasting color to match the drawstring of twisted cotton strands cleverly brought through open spaces in the crochet.

Pockets Go Down

Pockets on beach togs have been lowered and lowered until now they have reached the knee.

SUMMER FURS TAKE STYLE SPOTLIGHT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fur in summertime is just one of the charming incongruities that makes fashion an ever-abiding source of interest and enthusiasm. If you would keep pace with the mode you must acquire a white ermine bolero or a cape of pointed fox for this summer. When fall comes you will be wanting one of the new hip-length jackets in brown fur, advance models of which have already arrived. White marabou or ostrich neckpieces, boleros and capes are also proving of immediate interest.

Red Capes Used as Evening Wraps Over Summer Frocks

Recently some very cunning breakfast-in-bed capes have been brought out that are crocheted with tiers of little ruffles from neck to hemline. They are too lovely to be secluded in the boudoir, at least that is evidently the thought of young and daring daughters of the household who conceived the idea of appropriating these delectable capes for wear as evening wraps over their summer frocks, and from all reports the idea is working out to perfection.

'Forest Green' New Color For Girl Scout Uniforms

Forest green is the shade chosen for the new costume to be adopted by the 450,000 Girl Scouts throughout America. The dresses are in one piece, made on princess lines with a flared skirt, and short, slightly puffed sleeves. They are belted at the waist and zipped up the front to a close, rolled collar.

Boleros Popular

Boleros become increasingly important for summer fashions. They are worn equally often with evening clothes and informal daytime dresses, and they are made of everything from velvet to organdie.

Fall Tweeds Stress Color

High style tweeds which will appear soon for the fall market have wine-purple-green-pink blended together in stripe or in tile patterns. Blues are especially stressed.

"Why, yes, was there a rumor I had been sick?" Jeff drawled.

"Have you seen Father? He hurried ahead of us to help you."

"No, but I've heard him. Listen." Three times a revolver barked, "Sounds like it was up at the head of the street, somewhere near the Golden Nugget," Bob said.

He had guessed accurately. The bullets from that gun had been fired by Norris into the body of Sherm Howard.

"We'd better find your father, first off," Gray said. "He was fighting near the Ransom house half an hour ago. We might take a look over that way."

"My sister is here, too. I want to make sure she's all right."

They moved through the cottonwoods, Gray riding behind Bob. In the shadowy moonlight they caught sight of men approaching.

Gray shouted, "Who goes there?" The voice of Chiswick answered, "That will be near enough, if you're not looking for trouble."

"We're L C men, Father," Bob cried. "Bob—and Pat—and the others."

Someone in Lee's party let out a yell of delight. In another moment the two groups had mingled.

"You have a wounded man," Jeff said, looking down at a form stretched on a door.

"You should know it, boy," a voice answered. "You were there when I got the pill."

Jeff Gray found himself trembling. He swung from back of Bob and walked forward. For an instant he had not been sure this was not a voice from the dead.

"Is it you, Hank?" he asked. "I thought—"

"Sure it's me. Chiswick and his lads got to the cabin in time to save me."

They carried the blacksmith to the Presnell house and put him into the room next the one occupied by Curly Connor.

Ruth showed up, white-faced. "Who has been hurt?" she asked.

"Hank Ransom. If you can't sleep, you can stay with Hank and kinds nurse him," Chiswick told his daughter. "Can't afford to leave a man. We're liable to be mighty busy when day breaks, and that will be right soon. Our friends from the W J M and the Lazy B ought to be here early. We'll have from twenty to thirty men."

"Is there going to be a fight?" she asked Gray in a low voice.

He answered gravely, "Up to them."

"You mean—a battle?"

"Not if I can help it. If we're strong enough the outlaws will give way. But I mean to capture Howard, Norris, Duke, Mile High, and two or three others. They are desperate men. I wouldn't expect them to surrender tamely."

"They may run away."

"Then I'll have to run after them. Don't worry." He smiled at her warmly. "This job is almost done."

From doors and windows up and down the street on both sides they could see men peering at them. Mile High came into the open.

"You can't see Sherm. He's dead."

Chiswick stared at the "lank puncher. "Dead?"

"That's what I said."

This was stunning news. Jeff had depended upon Howard. Villain though the man was, he was a shrewd and wily schemer who used his brains. Sherm knew that wholesale killing in the open would be fatal to his cause. It would be his policy to avoid it and depend upon trickery to escape later. If it was true that he was dead, his influence against explosive violence would be lost. The marshal felt as does a man who has walked into a den of lions under a safeguard from the trainer, to discover too late that the man with the whip is not at hand to defend him.

In the air there was an electric tension such as that which just precedes a storm. Both the officer and the cattleman knew that neither of them would walk back down Main street again unless they did so as survivors of the gun duel that was imminent. Gray felt there might be one chance, not to escape a —shouts—oaths—hideous faces looming out of the fog. Jeff met Mile High and felt the crash of a gun-barrel on his hat. He closed with the tall puncher and clung fast to him, swaying with dizziness and hanging to the pistol arm that waved wildly trying to get a shot into Gray's body. Another face came out of the mist. An arm swept up and down. Mile High's grip relaxed. He staggered against a wall and slid down.

The noise of the guns had died down. Men came out from open doors cautiously, no weapons in their hands. Only three of the outlaws had taken part. Norris lay still in the dust. Mile High was unconscious, pistol-whipped. Clint Duke had vanished.

"All right with you?" Jeff asked his companion.

"Fine. And you?"

Gray's head was getting clearer. He stepped across to Norris and examined him. The killer was dead.

"Where is Duke?" the marshal asked harshly, speaking to all within hearing.

"He ran into Sanger's," someone said.

Jeff said to the cattleman, "Hang on to Mile High," and walked into Yell Sanger's store.

Duke was trying frantically to unbar the back door. He turned, crouched and panic-stricken, to meet the man advancing on him.

"Keep back!" he yelled, and fired.

A moment later he dropped, a bullet hole in his forehead.

The marshal steadied himself against the counter, then turned and walked slowly back to the street. He looked round on those in sight.

"Any more of you want to bust us wide open?" he asked grimly.

Nobody accepted the invitation. All men knew that law had arrived at Tall Holt to stay.

Jeff gave curt orders. "Every man of you shuck his guns. I'll put one of my boys in Sanger's store to check them when you turn them over. There will be no more helling around. Inside of two-three hours I'll let you know who I want. The rest of you will be free to go."

He put handcuffs on Mile High. Already the cowboys were arriving on the run. Chiswick held up a restraining hand.

"Hold your horses, boys," he said. "Everything is fine and dandy. A few of the dime-novel bad boys got all het up and we had to knock their ears down. The rest of the lads have decided to be good."

Jeff took over the Golden Nugget and the other saloons. None of the Tall Holt gang made any open opposition.

Before the hour was up, a dozen of the rustlers and outlaws were riding into the brush. It was time to be seeking other pastures.

Ruth met Jeff at the front door of Presnell's and drew him into the sitting-room.

"Are you all right—you and Father both?" she asked anxiously.

"All right," he answered cheerfully. "And our job is done. The boys will eat out of our hands now."

"Frank told me," she cried softly. "It was a crazy thing you and Father did. You promised . . ."

"So I did. We wouldn't have gone if we had known Sherm Howard was dead. But it turned out fine."

"Yes. Yes." She went on, with a little flare of possessive feminine ferocity. "But I won't have you doing things like that . . . now."

"Never again," he promised, smiling into her troubled eyes. "I've been talking with your father. I'm going to quit the service and go into cattle."

"Thank God."

"You won't be afraid to marry me then, will you?"

Courage was in her eyes like a banner. For better or worse he was to be her man, as long as life lasted. She came to him, with a little gesture of surrender that won his heart.

[THE END.]

He closed with the tall puncher.

fight, but to avoid being the victims of a massacre. That was to tell his story, swiftly, convincingly.

"Who's running yore show?" Jeff asked.

Out of the Golden Nugget walked Morgan Norris. "I'm running it, fellow," he said. "If you want to know, I bumped off Howard because he was a double-crossing son-of-a-gun."

Gray spoke, his voice strong and clear, for all to hear. "I've nothing to say to you, Norris, except that I'm going to drag you to prison where you will be hanged for yore crimes. But I'll talk to some of the men you're leading astray. I represent the United States government. We're going to clean up this county. Tall Holt isn't going to be the home of a nest of rustlers, killers, and holdup men any longer. I'm serving notice. The worst of you are going to be rubbed out. The others had better get good right damn now. I'm going to get my men. By noon we'll have fifty cowboys with us. Take my advice and leave this murderer and his crowd. If you don't, you'll get in as bad as they are."

Norris moved forward, his figure weaving as the crouched body of a tiger does. His thin, cruel mouth was set in a straight line.

"So you aim to drag me to the gallows, do you?" he snarled, his white teeth showing. "Me, Morg Norris! Why, you never saw the day, fellow, I couldn't bust you wide open."

Mile High walked into the street to join Norris. In a doorway to the left appeared Clint Duke, a revolver in his hand.

"Put up that gun!" ordered Chiswick sharply.

Norris' hand swept up from his thigh, a Colt's forty-four in it. There was a streak of light, a roar. Five guns blazed. Everybody vanished from sight except the combatants. Lanes of fire crossed. Through smoke men's bodies loomed, shifting to and fro, padding here and there like those of animals. The crash of revolvers—the clanging of men—the sudden scream of one hit—all filled the air with dreadful tumult. A rift in the smoke showed Jeff a man on his knees, snarling oaths, still firing at him. The man was Norris. From the officer's gun flame darted. He felt a stab of pain and gave it no attention. Norris was sinking lower. His head touched the dust. The weapon dropped from his hand.

Chiswick was still on his feet. So were both the other outlaws. Smoke

Washington Letter to Blair Lobbied for Traders Over Indian Boundary Line.

A letter written 170 years ago by George Washington, lobbying for the Virginia traders over a proposed Indian boundary line, came to light recently in the William L. Clements library, notes an Ann Arbor correspondent in the Detroit Free Press.

The British government was about to draw a boundary line west of which no white settlers would be allowed, leaving the territory entirely to the Indians. Some Virginian friends of Washington were furnishing provisions to the British garrison at Fort Pitt and feared that the proposed line would leave part of their route, in what is now southwestern Pennsylvania, in the closed territory.

The Virginian merchants, urging Washington to use his influence with Blair to reach General Gage, were anxious to keep the Cumberland-Pittsburgh route open because their Pennsylvania competitors would not be affected by the proposed boundary line, and Washington was to ask Gage whether three or four supply stations could be maintained along the Virginians' route.

Because Washington thought that Gage would have influence in drawing up the treaty, he asked Blair to place his letter before Gage, urging him to secure from the Indians permission for the supply posts desired by his friends.

The fears of Washington and his friends, however, were groundless, because a report of March 7, 1763, by the Board of Trade, had provided that the boundary should run from Pittsburgh down the Ohio to the mouth of the Kanawha river, and in the subsequent treaty of Fort Stanwix the Iroquois ceded all claims to land east of the mouth of the Tennessee river and south of the Ohio.

Blair had seen the Board of Trade report, but sent Washington's letter to Gage anyway, and soon had a reply that the Virginian trade route would remain open. Unfortunately, four years later, Fort Pitt was abandoned, so that Washington's friends kept their trade route but lost their trade.

Washington's letter instead of a copy, was sent to Gage because Blair was pressed for time.

Here's a Play Outfit And a Basic Dress

DO YOU need something new to dawdle in or to dress up in? Here are two new designs, one for play and one for afternoon, that are so smart you really should have both. It costs so little, in time and trouble, to make them for yourself, with these simple designs that even beginners can follow with no difficulty. And of course you can splurge on some really luxury fabrics, when you sew your own.

Play Suit and Sports Frock.

This new design gives you both! The play outfit has beautifully cut shorts and a nice bodice top with the sunniest kind of sunback. The frock is created merely by fastening that straight skirt around you, and the bolero goes with both! Notice how cleverly the rickrack braid is used to simulate a square yoke in the front. The smartest thing for this design is linen in a dusty pastel shade; calico, percale and pique are good, too. Be sure to trim it with rickrac.

Dress With Bodice Detailing.
Here's a design that brings a breath of fall smartness in the bonnet detailing that you'll see in expensive models this coming season. Also in the Victorian sleeveless, high at the shoulders and fitted to the arm below. The straight panel in the back, the gathers at the waistline in front, give you a lovely figure-line. Make in silk crepe, linen or georgette. Later in sheer wool, satin or velvet.

The Patterns.
1557 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. 10 yards of rickrac braid to trim.
1482 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards of 30-inch material with long sleeves; 4 1/4 yards of 30-inch material for short sleeves.

Success in Sewing.
Success in sewing, like in any other field, depends upon how you approach the task in hand. To help you turn out clothes professional looking in every detail, we have a book which plainly sets forth the simple rules of home dressmaking. The beginner will find every step in making a dress clearly outlined and illustrated

Strange Facts

The First Clearing Houses

DURING the Seventeenth century London banks employed clerks to go from bank to bank to collect actual cash to cover checks, accumulated during the day's business. The story goes that one day, two of these boys happened to meet in an eating, or general coffee shop. A first sipping of beefsteak pie lead to another. As minutes slipped away, they realized that they did not have time to complete their rounds. So the boys exchanged packages and delivered the notes in the district nearest to their own bank, or end of the city. So they agreed to meet each day and save time by this exchange of routes. Soon the story spread and other collectors followed suit, with the result that the London banks established the first clearing houses of the world.
