Harry Gallacher

Funeral services were held for Mr. Harry Gallacher last Tuesday afternoon at White Oaks followed by interment there, with members of the Masonic Lodge in charge of the impressive ceremonies.

Mr. Gallacher, a prominent ranchman, died at his ranch home last Friday night and when his brother went out on Saturday morning he discovered the body.

As a Mason of long standing he was a man of high ideals; was well respected and universally admired by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Gallacher; one son, Vaden Gallacher; one sister, Mrs. Wm. Kelt; one brother, Will Gallacher, and several nieces and nephews. Many lovely floral offerings covered the casket.

By working carefully and with speed, all occupants were removed and the car put back on the road, without anyone being injured, or the car damaged.

Vaden Gallacher was here from Riverside, California, last Tuesday to attend the funeral of his father, Harry Gallacher.

Mrs. J. S. Shearer spent the Christmas vacation with friends in Socorro, and then went to Madrid to see the magnificent display of Christmas lights.

Varied Diet Good Health Insurance

Vitamin A Important as Defense Against Colds

By EDITH M. BARBER

COLDS are no respecters of persons. They sneak up on even the most careful of us. Wet feet and drafts may be avoided, we may even keep away from subway crowds and yet wake up in the morning with the sniffles or a cough. While colds are being studied carefully and many efforts are being made to determine the cause, the only practical fact which has been established is that in the absence of a liberal amount of vitamin A in the diet, both animals and humans are more subject to infection.

Dr. Henry Sherman, professor of chemistry at Columbia university, says that the influence of vitamin A is unquestionably important as the first line of defense against infection. The amount of vitamin A in the diet influences the frequency; the severity or duration of an infectious disease. As colds are infectious, we will do well to make sure that we have our bodies protected by means of a liberal intake of foods which supply vitamin A.

What foods are high in this particular vitamin? They are, first of all, cod-liver oil, butter, cream, whole milk, eggs, liver, most of the leafy vegetables and the other vegetables which are yellow, green or red. Many fruits contain worthwhile amounts. This is also the case with meat, nuts and most cereals. Among the fish we find oysters ranking first.

Again I have reason to state that a well-rounded, varied diet is to some degree a health insurance.

Creamed Eggs on Deviled Ham Toast

3 cups white sauce
6 hard-boiled eggs, sliced
6 slices toast
Deviled ham
Chopped parsley
Combine white sauce with eggs, reheat and serve on toast which has been spread thinly with deviled ham. Garnish with chopped parsley.

Cottage Cheese Salad

1/2 pound cottage cheese
1 tablespoon minced onion or chives
1 teaspoon paprika
1 pimiento
Lettuce or romaine
Mix the cheese, onion or chives and paprika well and pack in a small bowl to set in the refrigerator to chill. Cut the pimiento into slices. When ready to serve place the mold of cheese in the center of a platter or chop plate. Arrange the lettuce or romaine around the edge in six bundles and hold together lightly with strips of pimiento. Pass tippy dressing with this salad.

Lamb Stew With Sour Cream

2 tablespoons fat
2 small onions
3 pounds shoulder of lamb
Salt
Paprika
2 cups tomato pulp
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 cup thick sour cream
Heat the fat, add the onions, cut fine, and the meat rubbed with salt and paprika. Brown the meat and the onions, then add the tomato pulp and parsley. Cook the meat slowly for two hours, adding water, only if necessary. Just before serving add the sour cream and blend it well with the sauce.

Quince Compote

Pare quinces, cut in eighths and discard cores. Cover peelings with water, add a sliced orange and sliced lemon for each quart and cook slowly until tender. Strain off juice, reserving lemon and orange slices. In the juice cook the quince sections almost tender, then add one pound of sugar for each pound of quinces and continue cooking until transparent. Lift out the fruit and place in jars. Boil the sirup down almost to the jelling stage, put in the orange and lemon slices and pour over the quinces. Seal the jars.

Sand Tarts

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups bread flour or 2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg white
Sliced nuts
Candied cherries
Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the egg well beaten. Add the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder. Chill and roll very thin. Shape with fancy cutters. Brush with unbeaten egg white. Decorate with sliced nuts and candied cherries. Bake on a cookie sheet eight minutes in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit.

Poppy and Seed Biscuits

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk
Sugar
Poppy seeds
Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening with steel knife. Stir in milk. Work lightly into a smooth dough. Pat out half-inch thick on a floured board. Cut into rounds, put on baking sheet. Sprinkle with sugar and poppy seeds. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) 10 to 12 minutes.

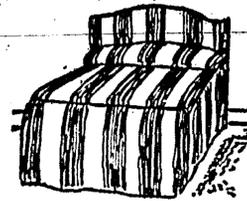

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"WE'RE taking a lot of pains," writes Gertrude R., "to bring up some fine boys—we have three. They're just now in high school, and they're very handy at doing all sorts of things—building and upholstering and painting and all of that."

"Recently they and their father made over the large attic space of our house into three small bedrooms and a combined game room and study. Now they want me to help with the furnishings and ask for something exciting. The three bedrooms are very small; there will only be room for a single bed and a chest of drawers in each. There is one window and one small closet apiece, too. We can't spend much; we're going to buy springs and mattresses but the boys will have to construct framework for their beds. We have chests that can be painted and we'll buy mirrors. Can you suggest ideas for these rooms?"

"The combination game room and study will have to be furnished with old furniture recovered and repainted. We're giving them our big old wood kitchen table to study on. What would you do in the way of colors, curtains, coverings, etc?"

It ought to be lots of fun fixing up rooms like that because you can be bold without serious consequences. For instance, one of these rooms would be jaunty with white walls, a bedspread of white and red awning striped duck with headboard upholstered to match and a window shade of the same material.

Do another of these small rooms with bare pine siding walls, a built-in cowboy bunk with a top deck for company, Navajo design blankets for spreads and plaid shirt flannel for curtains. Here the chest ought to be in bare pine or maple finish. The third little room might be very shipshape with white walls, blue denim bedspread, white chest, curtains of a ship design chintz which could also be used for cushions on the bed.

Why not paint the walls of the game room white with natural stained floor, green corduroy coverings, burnt orange curtains, furniture painted light gray. Add extra odd cushions of burnt orange.

A Little Home Should Be Informal

"I'll never be famous or rich," writes Ruth W., "but I do want to fill my own niche creditably and make as pleasant a home as I can. I'm an everyday housewife with a six-room cottage, a modest budget and two children. If I do say so myself, we're a nice family and I'm proud of the atmosphere of our home."

"Right now, though, I want to do a little fixing up and would be so grateful for your help. I realize that it's better to keep a simple place like ours more informal, but I am puzzled as to how to make our dining furniture fit into that idea. We bought it when we first married—the chairs are upholstered, seats and backs, in tapestry which is about worn out now, and besides I think it looks too pretentious for our place. What new covering would you suggest? The room has sand-colored walls and woodwork and a green rug. The furniture is walnut of rather simple lines. We have built-in corner cupboards which hold Italian pottery and pewter. I need new curtains in this room, too. What would you suggest? I can't spend too much but do want the room to have individuality."

How would green plaid do for those chairs? You might even have slip covered seats and backs so they can come off for washing, and this plaid could be quite an inexpensive material. It might add to finish the seams with a novelty cotton fringe perhaps. Why not have curtains of fine voile in sand color, then finish them across the top with a valance of the green plaid.

I'd like to see a splash of orange in this room—maybe an orange pottery bowl for the center of the table would do it. Or maybe a brilliantly sunny picture would be the thing. And congratulations on the atmosphere you've created. That's the most subtle and important ingredient in decorating.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Offers New Year's Resolutions Concerning Foods and Nutrition. Suggests How to Help Make Your Family Healthier and Happier

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT HAS been customary for a long time to mark the beginning of a new year with the ringing of bells, with merry-making, and with the hope expressed to one's friends that they will enjoy greater health, happiness and prosperity in the forthcoming twelve months.

Though greetings are usually exchanged in a spirit of gaiety, the occasion frequently does, as indeed it should, have an undercurrent of solemnity. For it is quite fitting that we should view the close of one year and the beginning of another as both an Ending and a Beginning, even though we recognize that life goes along in an unbroken stream. The magic hour of midnight may well mark the end of certain of our mistakes, and the beginning of greater wisdom in acting, thinking, and living.

It seems to me that the week in which we celebrate New Year's is a particularly appropriate time for mothers to resolve to take stock of the program of daily living that they have outlined for their families; and if necessary, to alter it so that every member may gain a more generous share of well-being and contentment.

Questions for a Homemaker

I believe that every homemaker owes it to her family to pause for a few moments at this season to look backwards along the road that she and her family have traveled in recent months.

Have you taken advantage of the knowledge offered by modern nutritional science? Can you conscientiously say with conviction that you have given your husband and children all the different food elements that are necessary for buoyant, radiant health?

If you have grown as you should in the past year, and no homemaker who is doing a really first class job ever remains static; she moves with the times. . . . then it is inevitable that there has been a gradual change in the character of the food that you have put on your table three times a day. But can you feel confident these meals have been right in every respect? Have they included the necessary proteins, fats, carbohydrates? Have they included at least 12 minerals; the six known vitamins; and sufficient bulk or cellulose to help maintain regular health habits?

Time to Take Inventory

Do not be too discouraged if you cannot answer yes to all of these questions, because the chances are that many other homemakers may also find it necessary to give a partially negative answer. Mothers especially are busy people, and many of them feel that it is difficult to keep pace, as they would like to do, with the fast-moving science of nutrition. Now, during this season which brings us the beginning of a new year, now is a time—after taking inventory of what you have or have not done—to look forward, to survey the road that lies ahead. Before every wife and mother hangs the curtain of the future that will be slowly drawn aside, revealing the destiny of herself, her husband and her children, as the future becomes the present, as tomorrow becomes today.

And as your loved ones travel the road of life, it is you who have it in your power to help them attain strong vigorous bodies; alert, efficiently working minds.

Now is the time for you to determine to make the power of food their power, so that they shall not flag in their travels along the highway, but draw new strength for each day's journey every time they sit down at your table, all down, as I have said before, to Life!

The Tremendous Power of Food

What they are going to be tomorrow is indeed influenced by what they eat today, for there never was a truer statement than that man is what he eats. And that does not mean that physical prowess and mental superiority may result only when the table is set with luxuries! On the contrary, malnutrition, which means not necessarily under-nutrition but improper nutrition, is found in the homes of the wealthy as well as in the homes of the underprivileged. The power of food is determined, not so much by what you spend, as by what you choose.

One need not spend a great deal for food to provide the milk and other dairy products, fruits and vegetables that should be consumed in abundance. There is always evaporated milk for those who do not care to buy bottled milk, or who prefer to use it as a supplement to bottled milk. And since large numbers of fruits and vegetables are now in season practically throughout the year, it is almost always possible to choose varieties of these mineral- and vitamin-bearing foods that are inexpensively priced.

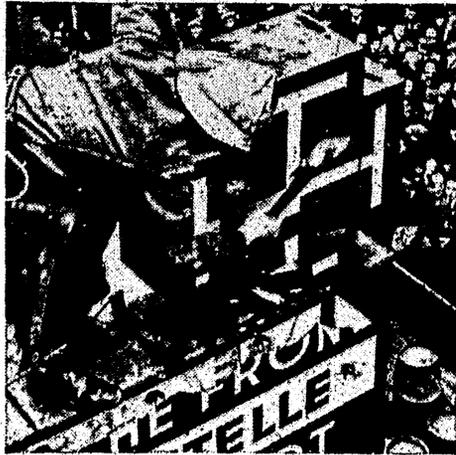

Be It Resolved:

I should, therefore, like to urge every homemaker, to make at least one New Year's resolution: to resolve that she will build her family diet in 1939 first of all around the protective foods, milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

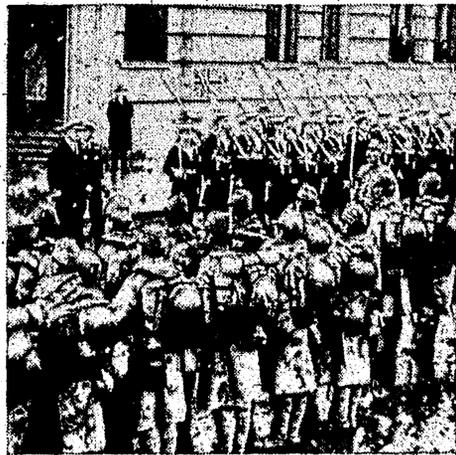

It will be my privilege each week to help interpret for you the amazing discoveries of nutritional science; and to show how you can utilize the newer knowledge of nutrition to help increase the mental and physical efficiency of your family.

Together then, let us resolve to travel along the highroad of well-being in 1939.

C. W. H. U. — C. Houston Goudiss — 1932 — 43.

ANSCHEUSS—Nazification of the Austrian nation was consummated on March 14. "The entrance of my native land into the German Reich" was one of Adolf Hitler's greatest triumphs. Symbolically, the Fatherland Front's "crutch-cross" is destroyed before a cheering crowd, to be replaced by the swastika of Germany's ambitious Nazidom.

AGGRESSION—Japan captured Hankow on October 27, only 10 months and 14 days after Nanking fell. Following the capture, Japanese military police (foreground) are shown in a ceremony on the Bund, at which they took over from a British naval landing party the policing duties in the former British concession in Hankow.

PERSECUTION—Herschel Grynszpan, 17-year-old German-born Polish emigre of Jewish extraction, whose assassination of Ernest von Rath, Reich diplomatic attache in Paris, gave Nazi Germany an "excuse" for the greatest campaign of Jewish terrorism in modern history.

PLUNGE—On July 25 John W. Wardo, deranged youth, held thousands of spectators in agonizing suspense for 11 hours before he leaped to his death from a seventeenth-floor ledge of New York's Hotel Gotham. Rescue efforts were in vain.

PURGE—Maryland's Sen. Millard E. Tydings was among intended victims of President Roosevelt's "purge," a movement which made political history during a heated primary election season. In most cases, the purge failed to accomplish the desired result.

RAILROADS—The worst tragedy on an American railroad in a decade came the night of June 19 when the Olympian, crack Chicago-to-Coast flyer of the Milwaukee railroad, dropped into swollen Custer creek near Miles City, Mont., when a flood-weakened bridge gave way. Approximately 40 persons were killed and several score others were injured. This air view of the wreckage shows how coaches were tossed like matchsticks as the huge engine buckled and leaped into the air.

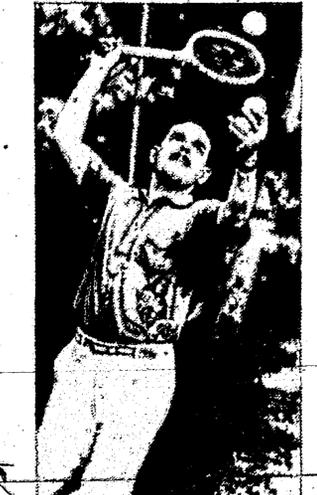

AVIATION—Douglas (Non-Stop) Corrigan flew a "crate" from New York to Dublin, taking the edge off glory achieved a few days earlier by Howard Hughes and his round-the-world flight.

APPEASEMENT—The first of three momentous meetings between Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Reich Chancellor Adolf Hitler took place at Berchtesgaden, der-fuehrer's Bavarian mountain retreat. Later, Chamberlain joined with France's Premier Edouard Daladier in capitulating to Germany on the historic Czechoslovakian issue at the treaty of Munich.

HURRICANE—Death and ruin rode on a storm that battered Long Island and swept through New England in late September. Hundreds lost their lives and property damage ran into the millions. Vivid testimony of the storm's fury is the above air view showing wreckage of homes strewn and piled over a highway. It was the worst storm tragedy to strike the eastern seaboard in many years, necessitating widespread relief activities by the government and Red Cross. Earlier, floods hit Texas and California.

HOPEFUL—A rising star in the republican political ambitions was Tom Dewey, young New York district attorney who entered the limelight through his racket-busting campaign, later losing the New York state gubernatorial election by a narrow margin.

They're New and Different!

EACH of these new designs is a treasure trove of clever ideas. You'll enjoy making them, during long winter evenings to come, not only because they're so attractive when finished but because they're no trouble at all to do. Each pattern includes a detailed new chart for the guidance of beginners, so you don't need experience. Just follow the easy, explicit directions, and see how quickly you'll have them finished.

Five-in-One-Dress Fashion.

Just look at the different personalities this smart dress has—and every one of them is charming! You can make it as shown in the large sketch, with high neckline and sash. Also, as shown in the little sketches, either with a round collar or with turnback wraps, with shawl collar and wrap-around sash—or with high neckline, and beltless. The basic line is lovely. It has shrugged-shoulder sleeves, a softly gathered bodice, a doll-waistline cut high in the front, and a slim-hipped skirt. Silk crepe, velvet, thin wool or print are pretty materials for this.

Four-in-One-Closet Set.

A laundry bag, combing cape, hanger cover and a pair of pretty slippers comprise this gay closet set that you'll like as well for its looks as its usefulness. Make them of chintz, cretonne, saten or calico, in the gayest colors and prettiest patterns you can find.

The Patterns.

No. 1597 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. With short sleeves, dress without collar or belt requires 3 1/2 yards of 33-inch material. With long sleeves, 4 1/2 yards. Specific requirements for collars, revers and belts appear on your pattern.

No. 1644 comes in one size—medium. Cape requires 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material; 4 1/4 yards of binding; 1 1/2 yards ribbon for bows. Hanger requires 1/2 yard of 36-inch material, with 2 1/4 yards binding. Bag requires 1 yard, with 4 1/4 yards binding. Slippers require 1/2 yard, and 1/2 yard more to line. Purchase the soles and pompons.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Changing Dances

From 1776 to 1911, American social dancing was virtually confined to six dances: the polka, reel, square dance, minuet, waltz and two-step, reports Collier's. From 1911 to 1938, more than 25 new dances have been introduced, among them being the turkey trot, grizzly bear, Texas tommy, bunny hug, hesitation, tango, maxixe, one-step, Castle walk, fox trot, Charleston, black bottom, Lindy hop, rumba and the big apple.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

A Dyeing Help.—The household washer is ideal for dyeing curtains, draperies and other articles made of fabrics that can be colored with tints that do not require boiling. You can let the washer run until the articles are sufficiently and evenly colored.

Fire Hazard.—The basement is one of the chief danger places in the house from the fire standpoint. It should be kept free from accumulations of inflammable materials such as paper, old boxes, oily and paint-soaked rags, and trash.

Drying Fur Garments.—Damp fur garments should be dried in a cool current of air, never near a radiator or other source of heat.

Storing Steel Articles.—Put a lump of freshly burned lime in the drawer or box when storing away steel articles and it will prevent them from rusting.

Cleaning Burnt Pans.—Burnt saucepans can be made bright again without scouring. Sprinkle the burn with salt, leaving it for some hours and then wash, rubbing the burn gently. Unless the burn has actually eaten into the surface of the pan it will come away with the salt.

Color for Foods.—Grated raw carrots give cabbage salad added color and flavor. Minced green peppers or pimentos will do the same for creamed potatoes, turnips, cauliflower, lima beans or corn.

How to Buy Spices.—In buying spices choose the smaller packages, for spice must be replaced often as the essential oils evaporate. Don't allow your spice to waste its sweetness on the air. Keep cans and jars tightly closed. If your gingerbread has not been up to par, if your pickled peaches are flat, the answer probably is in the spice-jar.

Are Women Better Shoppers Than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electric refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? And where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads the advertisements, too!

Charting a Changing World

Picture Parade

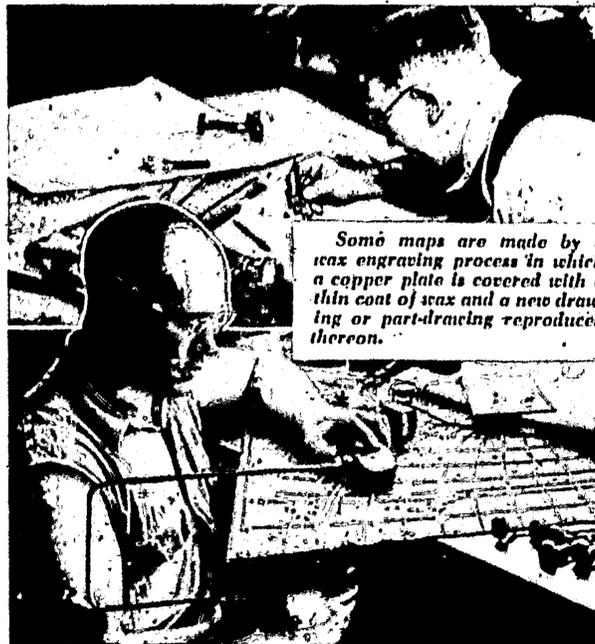

A new Europe, a new Asia, and possibly a new Africa is in the making. Close on the heels of marching troops work America's cartographers whose job is never done so long as aggressor nations seek new lands. During the Sudeten crisis, for example, day-to-day corrections were made.

Above: Preliminary changes are marked in. Left: A cartographer changes Czech names into German following Hitler's occupation of Sudetenland. Map makers work with embassies, consult newspaper articles and maintain a library.

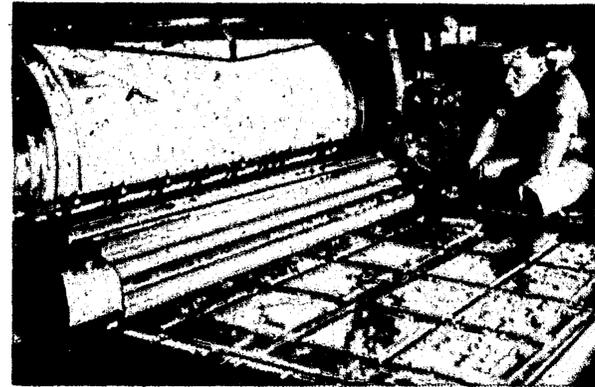

Completely new maps need not always be made. Above are workers operating photographic negatives. Patchwork can also be used to insert name corrections. Such work demands minute care.

Some maps are made by a wax engraving process in which a copper plate is covered with a thin coat of wax and a new drawing or part-drawing reproduced thereon.

Where only a portion of the map is corrected, a "patch" is made by the wax engraving (electrotype) method and when completed is inserted into the existing map plate, thus bringing the map up to date. A foundryman is shown above sawing out a section of an original plate preliminary to such an insertion.

The cartographer's work finished, corrected or new maps are rushed to the presses. On the above flat bed press plates are being reproduced in color. Other colors will be superimposed, finally producing a finished map.

Cartographers wait; where will the pen fall next?

Vanity Key to Both Health And Beauty

By PATRICIA LINDSAY.

HERE are the Grundys, male and female, who complain loudly about "vanity-case phobia." Wherever you look, say they, you see a woman powdering her nose, rouging her cheeks or putting on fresh lipstick.

These Grundys would like to have all cosmetics banished. But I wonder if they realize that in urging a woman to throw away her beauty aids they are urging her to throw away her health and sanity!

For vanity is sanity! In nations as well as in individuals. Russia, mad for years, made the costly experiment of crushing feminine vanity. Germany is doing it today. One of the first signs of Russia's restored sanity is the successful cosmetic trade in her larger cities!

A pride in your personal appearance is a health barometer. If you lack vanity you are not in normal health. A woman without vanity is

Every Woman Should Like to Look Well

Take the case of a young girl whom I know. She suffered a collapse of nerves from financial reverses and disappointment in a love affair. She was talented and well educated. During normal health she was fastidious, but once her nerves gave way, she let herself go. Her hair was unkempt, her skin blotchy, her clothes untidy. She became so despondent that she would stand for hours with her face turned toward a wall!

Friends, and her physician failed to pull this girl back to health. At last a psychologist succeeded in winning her confidence. He insisted upon regular meals, daily duties, hours of sleep, and (this is where vanity enters) he insisted that each morning and night she sit before her mirror and go through a systematic beauty routine.

He convinced her that happiness was in store for her if she would make the most of herself. He told her she possessed both beauty and charm. Gradually he made her live up to these compliments:

In about three months that girl was cured. She is now happily married (to a new beau!) and is successfully coping with a prominent social position! What happened? Her normal pride in her personal appearance had been restored!

So don't let a Grundy deprive you of your vanity case and what it represents. Hold on to it tightly and make it serve you! Be assured that a meticulous beauty gets far more out of life than a drab, disheartened female!

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

Face Powders

The shade of your face powder, its texture, and the way you apply it can make or mar your makeup. A good powder should give your skin the flattering illusion of clarity.

Your skin must look clean and clear and be suavely flimed with powder in a shade that is complimentary, yet unobtrusive. It should never be in a tone lighter than the shade of your skin.

When you choose your powder, let it be the best. It should be downy, yet clinging so that it will not break into patches an hour after you put it on.

A good powder will also retain its delightful fragrance as long as the powder lasts. Many cheap powders change fragrance after a week or two; the original scent becomes oily and sickening.

One of the leading cosmetic makers has brought out a fine powder in several exquisite shades. One is called apricot, a lovely, warm shade that does things for your skin under night lights. For daytime there is a cream shade that is excellent for the average clear complexion, and an ivory that is flattering for the pale brunette.

Teen-Age Girl Outfitted In Garb of Modish Wools

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

After Yuletide holidays, so carefree and so joyous, then what? Ask the teen-age and the sub-deb, they know. It's back to school for them with an outfitting of new clothes. A dress, a coat and a suit as pictured give the correct answer. Starred for youthful simplicity and gay young charm, this season's smart wool costumes for the teen-age are ready to go places and do things with utmost chic and charm.

Fine, soft-textured wools, nicely adaptable to any occasion, and sturdy enough to take plenty of wear and tear, make gay little frocks, for classroom, sports and after-school wear as well as versatile action-bull jacket-and-skirt costumes, nonchalant sports coats and formal fur-trimmed coats.

The lightweight wool frock for all-day wear is appearing this season in any number of attractive versions. Sheer wool crepe, fine wool flannel in its lovely glowing colors, soft rabbit-and-wool mixtures, intriguing novel weaves and the ever-popular wool knits are distinctively tailored in chic little frocks that are as flattering as they are correct.

The plaid dress with all-round pleated skirt is a school-girl favorite. The appropriately youthful gaiety of bright plaid is reflected in the winsome frock in the accompanying illustration. This youthful version of the classic shirtwaist, type is of lightweight wool in a gaily colorful plaid, accenting a bold red with navy and white. The smart buttons and belt are navy leather. Short sleeves are flared on for flattering shoulder effect.

Important in the teen-age wardrobe are the wool jacket-and-skirt suits designed for all-occasion wear. Correct for traveling, country, campus or town wear, they are distinguished by smart simplicity of line with accent on fabric and color.

Pine wool tweeds in subdued or bright shades, smooth wool flannels, tailor-minded twills and worsteds are all favored for these versatile costumes which are designed to be worn with little silk blouses for dress or with sporting high-neck wool sweaters for casual wear.

Pleats share honors with stitched gored constructions in built-for-action jackets. For the college-minded jacket-suit pictured a nubby wool tweed in soft rose-beige is used, with brown buttons and brown leather belt for smart contrast. The double pointed pockets are clever and decorative.

Costumes that contrast jacket to skirt have made a tremendous "hit." Suits are selling with two jackets, one matching the skirt, the other in a vivid plaid or stripe wool that picks up the color of the skirt.

Color is important in the soft wool fleeces and sturdy tweeds are used for tailored all-purpose coats for the younger set. Luscious wine shades and rich greens vie for popularity with the traditional neutral shades. Deep browns are good and navy is still popular. Styles vary from the comfortable and correct polo coat type single breasted and belted, to the boxy swagger or the high-buttoned semi-fitted reefer type. The fleecy coat pictured has a high-rolled wolf collar worn well up to show the squared shoulder line of the sleeves. A leather belt and the large buttons are in dark brown to contrast the deep green of the coat.

The teen-age girl's wardrobe will not be complete unless it includes a jaunty tip-tilted feathered hat together with a youthful plaid flannel dress as pictured in the inset below. The blouse is enlivened with shining starlike buttons by La Mode and a pert sharkskin Peter Pan collar and cuff set.

Crochet Ensemble

Winter fun for a young lady will be just so much more exhilarating if she is dressed for her sports in this smart playtime outfit. This perky knitted and crocheted hat-scarf-glove ensemble is warm to wear and eye-appealing to behold. This set is worked in white german-town wool with a dashing trim in two contrasting colors. The gloves are done in a bold vertical ribbing effect.

Brown Takes Lead In Late Fashions

Brown, despite annual predictions to the contrary, this year made a sweeping campaign in the fashion collection and, if the forecast holds good, a large part of feminine wardrobe this winter will be made up of dresses, coats and suits in some shade of brown.

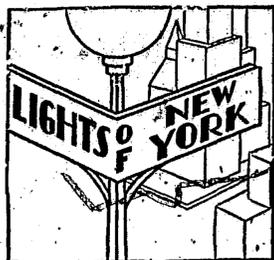

The darker color range includes first of all, those rather indefinable brown tones which remind one of wine dregs or deep mahogany tones. Quite different are the deep brown costumes which, if made in velvet or downy wool fabrics, can hardly be distinguished from black.

Bolero Theme in New Silhouette

A new departure in the bolero theme is the very short dress top that pulls on over the head like a sweater. It is, as a matter of fact, of bolero inspiration except that it is closed up the front instead of left open jacket fashion. The beauty of this new fashion is that it has a tendency to slenderize the waistline below, giving width at the top of the figure and extending out at bustline. Some of these new pull-on boleros are prettily braided and embroidered.

Lingerie Note

There is a definite trend toward high necklines and short sleeves in lingerie.

By L. L. STEVENSON

For several weeks now, war has been waging in the east side of Harlem. It is a sort of juvenile affair, those taking part ranging in age from 14 to 20 years. On one side, west of Park avenue, are Porto Ricans. On the other, east of Park avenue, are the Italians. The start is said to have been insults offered to Italian girls. Sporadic clashes between the two races were followed by more general engagements. Park avenue was set as the deadline. If an Italian lad crossed over that, he got into trouble: If a Porto Rican crossed, his luck was also bad. Matters reached such a stage that more police were stationed in the district. In some sections there were several cops to the block. But the knights errant were numerous on both sides. So the police were kept busy without much results. Usually, no matter how fast they moved, they arrived as the battle ended.

A recent serious clash was occasioned by a large body of Porto Ricans invading forbidden territory. A group, estimated at about 50 strong, crossed the deadline. They almost reached Lexington avenue before they encountered resistance. The defenders at first were outnumbered. That was soon corrected by eager volunteers. Sticks, stones and knives flung in the fray. The defenders were aided by allies on roof tops who tore down chimneys and used the bricks for ammunition. Store owners and householders whose property was damaged set up loud calls for police. The police responded quickly and in mass. When they broke up the fray, they had 14 prisoners. Since then there have been other but smaller clashes. And Park avenue is still the deadline.

Harlem is not entirely a place of peace even among members of the same race. There is eternal conflict between West Indian and native Negroes. American Negroes hold that the West Indians look down on them. That attitude is bitterly resented and frequently leads to brawls. Landlords with houses in which West Indian and American colored people dwell have heavy repair bills at times because of intramural strife. There are also occasional street fights in which knives flash.

It seems that the New York World's fair can dig up the dirt in Westchester after all. The town of Harricton brought suit to restrain fair contractors from trucking Westchester county topsoil over to the Flushing meadows. It was contended that the wholesale removal of Westchester earth would turn the county into a dust bowl and thus badly depreciate property values. After a hearing, the court held that the soil owners had a right to sell their holdings by the truckload if they so desired. Thus, a considerable part of Westchester is moving to Long Island.

Again this season there are those who light matches in crowded theaters in order to scan programs to get the name of some actor or find out where the action is taking place. Many of the worst offenders are in the theater night after night yet seemingly do not know that for a few cents they may purchase a flashlight that fits into a hand-bag, or an illuminated pencil. Or possibly they prefer to increase the fire hazard though exposing themselves to danger. As for those in such a hurry to smoke that they light cigarettes in the aisle, evidently nothing can be done about them.

Fred Stone tells of a man who came up to him in the theater one night and asked him if he didn't remember him. Stone replied that so far as he knew, he had never seen him before. The man seemed quite cast down. He then explained that when Stone was playing the Scarecrow in the "Wizard of Oz," back in 1903, the visitor's father was stage manager and that he, as a little lad, had pulled straws out of Stone's costume.

"You've certainly changed since then," laughed the actor. The man was the wrestler, "Man Mountain" Bean.

This hurried man upon the stand was her husband, whom she loved. She saw his lips mumble, and felt her own breath short as his was short.

"Now, Mr. Sentry, I ask you to come to the period during which Miss Wines was in your employ. You remember when that was?"

"In July, I think. Perhaps late July or early August."

"She did some work for you personally?"

"She took my letters, on several occasions."

"Her work satisfactory?"

"She made many mistakes."

"But you kept her on?"

"For about two weeks, yes."

"Did you tell Miss Randall her work was unsatisfactory?"

"No, I knew she was temporary."

"You could have had Miss Randall find someone who was satisfactory, could you not?"

"It wasn't worth the trouble for so short a time."

"And you liked Miss Wines?"

"Not at all."

"Why not? She was pretty, young, pleasant, courteous, was she not?"

"I didn't dislike her. I thought nothing about her. She was part of the office furniture, that's all."

"But—attractive?"

"I suppose so."

"You didn't notice?"

"No."

"Didn't notice that she was pretty?"

Mrs. Sentry sensed what was coming, perceived the trap prepared, wished to cry out in warning. But Arthur stumbled blindly on, into its very jaws. "No," he said.

"Come now, Mr. Sentry, any man must notice a pretty girl, unless there's something wrong with him."

"I don't."

"You don't notice such things aren't interested in pretty women?"

"No."

The trap closed, the jaws snapped shut. "Then if you don't notice such things, Mr. Sentry, why do you take this mysterious Enid to New Jersey last August?"

She heard Arthur mumble something, shaken, speechless, perceiving too late the pit which his own words had dug for his unwary feet. Questions rained upon him; he answered helplessly.

And Mrs. Sentry wished to cry out comfort to him; to say: It is all right, Arthur!

"Now Mr. Sentry, have you told us, in general, all there is to tell about your various encounters with Miss Wines?"

"In general."

"You had no personal relations with her?"

"No."

"At any time?"

"My only conversation with her on personal matters was when she came to my office three weeks before—"

"Before you shot her?"

"Before her death."

"Ah, yes. I forgot, you do not like that phrase. But you did shoot her?"

"Yes, by accident."

"And arranged things in a way to suggest that someone else shot her?"

"Yes."

"Hoping the police would think someone else had shot her?"

Mrs. Sentry, watching Arthur, saw that he was strung to the breaking point, knew that in another moment his iron control would shatter. And then suddenly Falkran was on his feet, and he and Mr. Weldon were involved in some argument, meaningless to her, yet thrice welcome, since while they argued Arthur could fight back to some composure. She watched him, not listening to them; till suddenly the jury was filing out, and Arthur too, between his guards, his face haggard and drawn.

Mrs. Sentry and Phil did not hear the rest of Mr. Sentry's cross-examination. District Attorney Flood sought them during the noon recess, to urge them to stay away from court that afternoon.

Phil and Linda walked for miles, at a swift striding gait, and at first he talked, bitterly reciting to her his father's testimony, as though it were a relief to twist the knife in the wound. She listened, not commenting, but her hand rested on his arm.

"I don't know why I—tell you all this," he said at last. "You can read it all in the papers. It was—awful!"

"I don't read the papers, Phil," she replied. "And you need tell me nothing; but if it makes you feel better to talk, you can talk to me all you want."

"I couldn't have gone through it this far if I hadn't had you."

"I'm glad. I want it to be so."

"It must be tough on you, though."

"It isn't. It's sweet to think I'm helping."

"Mother's so darned brave!"

"Of course."

"But gosh, Linda, it's awful to hear him saying those things!" And he cried, "Why, I'd rather think he did it than believe the things he's saying about himself!" He was choking. "Lin, he's my father! Half of me is him!"

"No, Phil! No! You are all yourself." And she challenged, "If you did a rotten, mean thing, would you try to get out of it by blaming it on him?"

"Well, no, I guess not. I'd have to stand it myself."

"Then don't talk so!"

"But it makes me feel—rotten, to think that he has anything to do with me."

"Phil," she urged, "children are born because two people love each other. You were born because your father loved your mother and she loved him; and love is clean and fine and beautiful. Just remember that." And she said: "Besides, boys are always more like their mother, anyway, and your mother is grand! You ought to be so proud of her."

"She sure is!"

"Well, then," she cried, "you see?"

He grinned a little. "You're grand be at home this evening?" he asked. "Sure."

"I want to talk to you. In about an hour?"

"Yes."

"Right," said Dan. Back at table, Phil told his mother Dan was coming.

"So is Mr. Falkran," she said. "He telephoned before you came home." She stood steadily, "I am to go on the stand in the morning."

After dinner Phil went up to speak to Barbara, to tell her Dan was coming, to see her eyes brighten at that news. Yet he thought with a cold terror how weak and ill she seemed.

When Dan arrived he came up to join them, and touched Barbara's hand, smiling, his manner greatly reassuring; and he spoke in calm, undisturbed tones: She watched him hungrily, seemed stronger for his presence. But presently Dan said, too casually:

"Phil, I've never seen your room. What sort of quarters have you got?"

Phil, understanding, led the way into his own room, and closed the door behind them. "I'm pretty worried about Barbara," he confessed. "There doesn't seem to be anything about the matter with her, and yet she doesn't get any better."

Dan said sympathetically: "She's punch-drunk; just as though she'd taken a right hook to the jaw. It's been tough on your mother and you, but it's a lot worse on her. She'll pull out of it, though!"

"I suppose so."

"Where's your mother?"

"Downstairs. She's expecting Mr. Falkran."

"Is she going to let him put her on the stand?"

"Yes."

Dan spoke in scornful anger. "Blast him!" He turned sharply on Phil. "You've got to put a stop to that, Phil," he said earnestly. "You mustn't let her do it."

"He's told her she can—help father." And he said suddenly: "Dan, I believe my father. I think it was an accident."

Dan lighted a cigarette, strode across the room and back again.

With all my love for always, Phil," she whispered.

He looked at her in a dazed way. "Why—Lin," he said, slowly, almost incredulously, "I just realized something."

"What, Phil?"

"I just realized that I believe him. I mean—about its being an accident. I don't believe he meant to kill Miss Wines at all."

"Bless you, dear," she murmured. They were at the entrance to the drive. She stopped him. "I'm not coming in, Phil," she said. "I'll be over in the morning to stay with Barbara while you and your mother are gone. But here, my dear, whether you want it or not. You need this!"

She tugged his head down, kissed him.

"With all my love for always, Phil," she whispered, her eyes shining. He stood still, watched her walk away.

During dinner, Dan Fisher telephoned to speak to Phil. "Going to

Not looking at Phil, he asked, "See tonight's paper?"

"Only the headlines."

"Well the less you read the papers from now on, the better." He came close to Phil, touched the other's arm. "Get your chin up, Phil," he said gently.

Phil's lips were dry. He wet them painfully, and tried to speak, and could not, and Dan said: "I don't blame you for believing him. But the jury won't. He's done."

Phil tried to shake his head, to deny. "Of course anyone looks bad under a tough cross-examination," Dan admitted. "And Weldon was plenty tough. He poured it on; and your father couldn't take it, Phil. Weldon snarled him all up."

He gripped Phil's arm hard. "The only chance is that Weldon overdid it, made the jury sorry for him." And he said, "But—even if he gets a break—you've all got to get ready to go on living, black this all out, forget it."

"What did he say?" Phil asked huskily.

"It was more the way he looked, and acted," Dan explained. He you yourself, you know, Lin. Grand to me. I don't see why."

She looked up at him serenely. "Because I love you, Phil."

He walked for minutes without speaking, nor did she speak beside him. But he said at last: "I know it, Lin. I've tried to pretend I didn't, but I do."

"I don't mean to—bother you about it, Phil," she said, and laughed a little. "I know you've too much else to do to love me very much just now. But that's why I'm sticking around so much. So that when you do find time—"

"I never can, Lin," he said in a low tone. "Never will. I'll never marry anyone, now."

"Never's a long time!"

"I know it."

"Let's wait and see."

"No, honestly," he urged. "Please, Lin, you've got to get the idea out of your head. Probably you ought to stay away from us."

"Can't," she said lightly. "Barbara needs me." And she said: "Besides, it's none of your business how much I love you—yet. I'm not asking for anything. I haven't even asked you to kiss me. Come on, it's almost dark. Time to be heading for home."

By a corner where they turned toward the house, a newsboy shouted: "Sentry Tells Love Life! Read all about it!" He waved a paper, headlines screaming.

Phil stopped uncertainly; but Lin drew him past and on, and she saw his eyes dulled as though with a sudden thought; and she asked, "What is it, Phil?"

He looked at her in a dazed way. "Why—Lin," he said, slowly, almost incredulously, "I just realized something."

"What, Phil?"

"I just realized that I believe him. I mean—about its being an accident. I don't believe he meant to kill Miss Wines at all."

"Bless you, dear," she murmured. They were at the entrance to the drive. She stopped him. "I'm not coming in, Phil," she said. "I'll be over in the morning to stay with Barbara while you and your mother are gone. But here, my dear, whether you want it or not. You need this!"

Lecturer Advises College Students When and How to Do Their Worrying

A plea for "constructive worrying" was voiced recently by Dr. Dayid Seabury, of New York, in a lecture at Union college, writes a Schenectady (N. Y.) United Press correspondent.

Ordinary worry, Doctor Seabury said, is caused by fear—in control of the imagination. The way to avoid this habit, he advised, "is to seek the center of the problem, let the person control the thinking processes, and think straight."

Warning against resisting or resenting difficulties, Doctor Seabury advocated forcing the mind to digest one's problems, thereby starting constructive action to correct or accept the situation.

He maintained that a negative attitude allows fear to enter the mind with the subsequent result that the mind becomes unable to cope with the problem.

"With fear intoxication," he explained, "the brain is partly coagulated or unfit for thinking."

Also, he added, problems should be correctly judged and handled according to their importance.

To solve worrisome problems, Doctor Seabury urged "deliberation, discrimination, decision and determination" in coping with the difficulties.

He concluded his lecture by advising:

"Never worry in bed; never worry when depressed; never worry until you know enough facts to do something constructive; never do another person's worrying; never worry about what someone else thinks you should do; never worry when angry; set a time limit on worry talks; never dump your worries on someone else."

Familiar Misnomers

The camel's hair brushes used for fine art work are not made of camel's hair, but of the fur of Russian and Siberian squirrels, says a writer in the Commentator. The lead in lead pencils is graphite, a form of carbon, and has no relation to the metallic element, Cadgum, used for stringed instruments, is the intestines of sheep and occasionally horses, but never of cats. Tortoise shell comes from the Carretta imbricata which, properly, is a turtle. Cuttlefish isn't a fish; it's a kind of octopus, which is a mollusk. The famous rice paper used by the Japanese and Chinese for their paintings is manufactured from the pith of a small tree. Whalebone is not bone at all, but baleen, a horny substance growing in the mouths of some species of whales.

Robot Planes Is Hobby-Business

Robot planes rings up a sale of six robot planes to Uncle Sam, to be used in army experiments next summer. They are expected to be curtain-callers for larger and more business-like robots, flying without pilots, guided by radio beams, dusting TNT on intruders.

Reginald Denny will be remembered as the actor extolled a decade or so ago as "the typical, wholesome young American." Then he turned out to be an Englishman, a flier and machine-gunner in the British royal air force in the war. A light comedian, he had two absorbing interests—his screen antics and what seemed at the time a juvenile absorption with miniature airplanes. From the latter, he developed some ideas about radio-controlled planes. He established the Reginald Denny Industries, an experienced technician, as manager. He is making a small "flying torpedo," designed for flying in swarms, with no pilot, and with land-control of the bomb-droptail as well as guidance. When completed the United States will get it.

He ran away from school at the age of 16 to play for Charles Frohman at the Duke of York's theater. His first featured role was in the "Merry Widow." Then he became a professional boxer, later champion of the Second corps of the royal air force.

NELSON T. JOHNSON, ambassador to China, coming home by a side door as Japan slams the open door, probably will have in his hip pocket a copy of the "Analects" of Confucius, barring possibly "Alice in Wonderland," which he also packs around with him, it is his favorite reading.

Like Henry R. Curran, deputy mayor of New York, he believes that public activities and attitudes should be infused with humor. More than any other American, he has been successful in translating our best anthology of pullman car gags to the Chinese mind and has been one of our most successful ambassadors. But, back home, he is sharp, exact, statistical and thoroughly occidental, among which attributes is a line of up-and-coming Chamber of Commerce oratory. He lives in two worlds.

After his graduation from George Washington university, Mr. Johnson mixed with the Indians of the Southwest, picked up Indian dialects with remarkable facility, thereby discovering his linguistic gifts. That sent him to China as a student interpreter in 1909. In the Far East, he has occupied many important posts and is a former assistant secretary of state. He finds the Chinese have a lot more humor than the Japanese.

IT WAS about three years ago that the head of the German National Institute of Physics denounced the "debased Jewish atom," and promised to deliver to the Reich an untainted "Aryan" atom. Under the banner of "The Pragmatic and Dogmatic Spirit in Physics," this scientific revolution has been advanced by the Nazi savants, and at last American scientists mobilize against it. Dr. Franz Boas, 80-year-old German-born American anthropologist, heads a committee of eight distinguished scientists in publishing a manifesto, signed by 1,234 of their colleagues, leaders in all branches of science throughout America. They "defend the right of scientists to speak the truth as they understand it."

Dr. Boas spent about 55 years studying long heads and round heads, but was stymied by the square heads. "If the world goes crazy, what can we do?" he said, resigning from Columbia university two years ago.

He came to this country to attend the Chicago World's fair in 1893, after an Arctic expedition which had launched his career as an anthropologist. He remained to coach virtually all great American anthropologists and to become a world authority in linguistics, primitive mentality, folklore, ethnology and senility. The old Germany honored him. The new Germany made an extraordinary bonfire of his books.

Double Bedspread of Luxurious Taffeta

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have long been wanting a taffeta spread for a double bed. I figure that, if I can make one from 10 yards of 39-inch taffeta, it will cost about half as much as one of the same quality, ready made. Will you be good enough to tell me how to cut the material so there will be no waste? This is important as I must economize, M. G."

Here are cutting dimensions for a double bedspread of 39 or 40-inch material. You will need a little less than your 10 yards—9 1/2 yards will be enough, and this makes the spread long enough to cover the pillows nicely. Cut the center panel first, then divide the material that is left as shown in the upper diagram. Join the two pieces of ruffle material to make one long piece, then divide it evenly; for the two ruffles. These cutting dimensions allow generous seams. Enough material may be taken from the seam edges to cover cords for welted seams if desired. A very narrow machine stitched hem should be used at the bottom of the ruffles.

Full directions for making welted seams are contained in Book 1, offered herewith. There are also directions in this book for making bedspreads of 30-inch cotton material. Today's lesson is not in either of the books offered here, so be sure to clip and save it for reference.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Book 2—Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, has helped thousands of women to use odds and ends of materials and their spare time to make things to sell and to use. Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, is full of inspiration for every homemaker. These books make delightful gifts. Mrs. Spears will autograph them on request. Crazy-patch quilt leaflet is included free with every order for both books. Books are 25 cents each. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Christian Science Services

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Societies and Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined." (Isaiah 9:2)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible. "Because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe ye greatness unto our God." [Dout. 32:3]

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The way through which immortality and life are learned is not ecclesiastical but Christian, not human but divine, not physical but metaphysical, not material but scientifically spiritual."

Mr. Gordon Wells was a business visitor from White Oaks yesterday.

TRY EVERY BRAND OF GASOLINE

I'm safe saying that. My own customers won't do it. That's what they're through doing. Maybe they thought it was just another one of their guesses the first time they drove in here for my Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronz-z-z. Now they know they've got the right one, and every cold morning tells them so, and they're getting swell mileage along with starting that never misses. I've even got one man that always had heat in the garage, but keeps it off now; and saves the expense, and tells me the car never used to start up near as fast as it does on Conoco Bronz-z-z. He's one of the ones that keep sending me in other people, which is a heap sight better than my trying to out-yell all the different brands of gasoline.
