4th of July Celebration At Fort Stanton

The Fourth of July celebration at Fort Stanton-rodeo and barbecue-which has been an annual event in the lives of Lincoln County citizens for twenty-five years, will take place again this year. Last year the silver jubilee was celebrated by 4,000 or more people, and the slogan of many hundreds of citizens for years has been "Spend the 4th at the Fort"

This year the committee has built enlarged grandstands; have improved their facilities for serving the big crowd, so that all may enjoy a pleasant noon hour under the shade trees, eating the most delicious "barbecue that has ever been barbecued"---and then the rodeo.

Messrs Boyd and Hendren are committee Chairmen again this year, so needless to say all events will be star events, with star performers and a star-spangled success.

So "Spend the 4th at the Fort."

Annual Ruidoso Golf Meet

The annual Ruidoso Open Golf Tournament to be held June 24-26. Qualifying rounds will be played on June 24 with the Calcutta Pool to be held at 8 p. m. that day in the new club house. Free barbeque will be served at noon Sunday.

The Ruidoso Course will be in condition this year. Seventy-two truck loads of rock have been cleared from the links. New greens have been built. A new clubhouse has been constructed.

Mrs. J. C. Palmer recently signed a 10-year lease for the course with the owners, Charles M. Cree of Santa Fe, N. M., and Gerald Cree of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Committees named for the tournament are:

Prize committee, George W. McCarty, Bob Willard, Morris Medland, J. A. Moore, Rod Johnson; entertainment, W. A. Hart, Gerald Cree, R. J. Williams of El Paso, Ben Gardener, Bob Roberts of Alamogordo, Fred Riley, Ted Colliers of Alto; rules, M. U. Finley of Carrizozo, A. C. Neil of Cloudcroft, Ralph Petty of Carrizozo, Floyd Springer, Artesia; Calcutta pool, Tom Hall of Roswell, William Gallacher of Carrizozo, A. E. Petit of Anthony; referees, Ed Ammonett of Roswell, Harvey Poorbaugh of Roswell, P. S. Kirk of Tularosa; Kivas Tully, Winfred McCormak, Sat Chavez of Carrizozo, LeRoy Schuller, Dick Shaw, Al Cohen, Claud Simpson, Rollo Hinkle, Hinton Wilmot, John Poorbaugh, B. M. Keohane, Glen E. Bone.

Dr. Blaney Calls Meeting at Corona

Dr. R. E. Blaney, president of Highway 54 Association called a meeting of this important organization last Friday morning at Corona.

Meeting was held at 10 a. m. and reports were read.

The Corona business men, assisted by the Corona business women served the group of about 75 a banquet, at noon.

Resolutions were adopted by the association expressing appreciation to Govenor Miles and the State Highway department for the work which is being done on this highway. Out of 195 miles between Corona and Tularosa only 46 miles were still unimproved. Two projects are going forward now in Lincoln County, on 54 between Oscura and Carrizozo and between Corona and Vaughn.

The next convention may be held at Corona in October.

Selby-Spencer Nuptials

The wedding of Lieut. T. A. Spencer, jr., of Carrizozo, to Miss Marian Selby, of Roswell, was solemnized at high noon last Wednesday in St. Andrews Episcopal church, Roswell, with the Rev. F. B. Howden, jr., officiating.

Mrs. Spencer is a daughter of Major and Mrs. John Selby, of Roswell. She is a graduate of the Roswell High school and attended Colorado Woman's College

Lieut. Spencer is a son of Mr. T. A. Spencer, sr., of Carrizozo. He is in the Air Corps and at present is stationed at Hamilton Field, California.

Carrizozo attendants at the wedding were his father, Mr. T. A. Spencer, sr., his sister and brother-in law, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Turner.

Matt Gilmore of Tularosa visited his aunt Mrs. Paul Mayer here last week.

June Weddings.

The following named couples were united in marriage by Rev. J. M. Glazier, at the Methodist parsonage, Saturday afternoon, June 10, 1939.

Claunch-Greer

Rev. J. M. Glazier performed a marriage ceremony last Saturday afternoon, June 10th, which united in marriage one of Carrizozo's most popular young couples, Mr. Fred Greer and Miss Evelyn Claunch, both of whom were born and reared in Carrizozo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Erva Claunch, and has spent her entire life here with the exception of a short time spent in Oklahoma after she was graduated in 1937. She is very pretty and attractive. She was bookkeeper for Mr. Kroggel until shortly before her marriage.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Greer, formerly of Carrizozo, but now of Tucumcari. He was graduated from the Carrizozo High School, class of 1936. He was employed at Rolland's Drug Store until recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer will operate the Ira Greer goat ranch near Carrizozo.

Friends join in congratulations and wishes for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Goss-Ellison

Mr. J. T. Goss and Miss Vinetta Ellison, both of Cloudcroft, N. M.

Pritchard-Beebe

Mr. Henry Beebe, Mountain Park, N. M., and Miss Sarah Pritchard, La Luz, N. M.

More Road Work For Lincoln County

In this week's Lincoln County News will be found another call for bids for Federal Aid project, No 163-B (1), located in Lincoln County, on U. S. highway No. 380 between Hondo and Lincoln. The approximate length is 2.982 miles. Bids will be opened at the office of the State Highway engineer, in Santa Fe, at 10 a. m. June 23.

We, who reside in this county appreciate more than we can say this improvement on our highways. 54 especially, has been a "thorn in the flesh" for several years. Some people even going by Ruidoso and other points to avoid the thorough jostling they would receive if they traveled 54.

A regular trailor city has sprung up near Oscura, where the Skousen construction company is located. Considerale work has been accomplished, even in the two weeks since work began.

Uncle Sam Thorough in Training Sky Soldiers

Seeking to expand the number of its pilots to more than 4,500 in the next two years, the United States army is cautious in its training of sky soldiers. After three months initial training in nine civilian flying schools the students go to Randolph field, San Antonio, Texas, for another three months basic training. Here their mettle and fitness are tested. 1.—The photopolygraph determines muscular and brain co-ordination, respiration, reflexes and pulse. 2.—The primeter test for measuring the visual field of form and color is given. Eye defects and high blood pressure cause 45 out of 50 rejections. 3.—The balancing chair determines the sense of equilibrium. 4.—Ground school teaches the cadet how to read maps, how his engine works, and other details. This, plus actual flying, readies the cadet for advanced work at Kelly field.

The Babe, No. 1 Authority, Shows Kids How It's Done

Babe Ruth, former New York Yankee home-run king, and at one time the highest paid player in the history of baseball, conducting the baseball class for boys at the court of sport at the New York World's fair. The Bambino is showing ambitious youngsters how to use the bat most effectively.

All-American Game Gets Spotlight

Joe E. Brown, left, film and radio star, after urging members of the house immigration and naturalization committee to act favorably on a proposal to admit 20,000 German refugee children to the U. S., found time to join in a trio presentation of "Play Baseball, the All-American Game," a song written by Rep. Louis C. Rabaut, right, of Michigan. Representative Rabaut dedicated the song to the sandlot teams throughout the nation. Center: Rep. Charles Kramer of California.

England's Royal Couple Stock Fanciers

PORTABLE BIRD CAGE

Bird fanciers and hat designers alike picked up a few new ideas when this Zurich, Switzerland, miss appeared with her own pet in a cage atop her new summer bonnet. The bird sang quite happily.

THEREBY HANGS A TAIL

Jang Kirshman, 11-year-old Hindu boy, who has a six-inch tail, is shown with an immigration inspector when he arrived in Los Angeles harbor recently, en route to the New York World's fair. He is to become part of a sideshow. He was accompanied by a private tutor and nurse.

OATMEAL MEAT PATTIES
See Recipe Below.

When the Allowance Is Low

Lucky is the homemaker who has tucked away on her pantry shelf a package or two of oatmeal, and in her recipe file a half-dozen clever suggestions for using it in her menus. For oatmeal is a quick change artist, and with a little ingenuity you can turn out a whole array of tempting, unusual dishes as delicious to eat as they are inexpensive to eat.

For example, have you ever tried making light, flavorsome raisin muffins with oatmeal? Or have you used oatmeal in a thick, hearty vegetable soup to give it that "stick - to - the-ribs" quality so much to be desired for active families? Had you thought of using it to stretch the meat budget, by making a little meat go a long way in meat patties or meat loaf? You've used oatmeal for luscious, soft, chewy cookies, of course, but have you tried it for making the crust for a delectable apple pudding, or have you substituted it for nut meats in a rich-tasting torte?

You see, besides adding interest and variety to meals, and doing a first-class job of budget stretching, oatmeal may be trusted to add a large amount of low-cost food energy to the diet. Oatmeal, moreover, is an excellent source of vitamin B, modernly called thiamin. This vitamin is absolutely necessary to enable the body to transform food (especially carbohydrates) into muscular energy. Thiamin stimulates the appetite, too, and it helps in overcoming constipation, and acts as a prevention of nervousness.

Here, then, is a brand new series of carefully tested recipes, all of which contain oatmeal, all of which will be family favorites in your recipe box.

Oatmeal Apple Torte.
(Makes eight servings)

CRUST:
2 cups flour
¾ cup oatmeal (uncooked)
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup butter (melted)

Combine the ingredients in the order in which they are listed. Reserve one cup of this mixture for the top. Pack the remainder into the bottom of an eight-inch square pan.

FILLING:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups apples (pared and chopped)

Combine the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add the water and butter, and cook over a low flame for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool and add the vanilla and apples. Pour the filling over the crust, and cover with one cup of crust mixture reserved for this. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for about one hour. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream.

Oatmeal Raisin Muffins.
(Makes 16-18 small muffins)

1 cup general purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups oatmeal
½ cup seedless raisins
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening (melted)

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add oatmeal and the raisins. Beat the egg, add milk and melted shortening. Combine with dry ingredients and mix very lightly. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for approximately 20 minutes.

Vegetable Oatmeal Soup.
(Serves eight)

2 pounds soup bone (½ bone, ½ meat)
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts water
4 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups tomatoes (canned)
1 cup carrots (cubed)
¼ cup onion (chopped)
½ cup celery (chopped)
½ cup oatmeal or 1 cup regular rolled oats (uncooked)

Remove part of meat from cracked soup bone, cut meat into cubes and brown lightly in hot fat. Place meat, soup bone, water, salt and pepper in soup kettle. Cover tightly and simmer approximately two hours. Cool, strain, and chill sufficiently so that excess fat may be skimmed off. There should be 6½ cups of soup stock. Return stock to kettle and add vegetables. Bring to a boil, then slowly add oatmeal. Cover and simmer approximately ½ hour, or until vegetables are tender. Soup meat used in making the stock may be cut in small pieces and added. Serve with finely chopped parsley, if desired.

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies.
(Makes five dozen)

¾ cup shortening
1½ cups dark brown sugar
1½ cups general purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
3 cups oatmeal
⅔ cup sour milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream the shortening and sugar thoroughly. Sift together the flour, salt, and soda, and combine with oatmeal. Add to the creamed mixture, alternately, with the milk. Stir in the vanilla. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut into 2½-inch rounds with a floured cookie cutter. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 10 minutes.

Meat Patties.
(Serves six)

6 slices bacon
¾ pound beef (ground)
¼ pound pork (ground)
1 egg (beaten)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
1 cup tomatoes (canned or fresh)
¼ cup milk
½ cup oatmeal
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Line six muffin tins with strips of bacon. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Put into the muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately one hour.

As a Breakfast Food.

Modern homemakers serve oatmeal porridge often and for variety add chopped dates, figs, seedless raisins, or dried prunes or apricots (cut in strips) while cooking.

Get This New Cook Book.

Of course the man in your family has very special recipe likes and dislikes. So has every other he-man. And, of course, they all like a big, juicy steak, apple pie a la mode, potatoes au gratin, etc. This new cook book contains over 125 recipes that men like. Send 10 cents in coin to Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and get a postage prepaid copy of "Feeding Father."

Old License Plates Useful

An old license plate comes in handy when painting the woodwork of a room. Be sure that it is clean. Hold it against the wall to protect the wall surface from paint smears.

Uncle Phil Says:

Our National Spirit

The national anthem makes us get up and hustle in order to be able to sing it.

Chamberlain's Umbrella
The Truth at Last?

We in this country who do not make a practice of carrying an umbrella on all occasions have been somewhat puzzled about Mr. Camberlain's famous rain-stick. There must be some sinister secret behind it, we feel. To enlighten us, a British correspondent reveals the following facts:

"Mr. Chamberlain's umbrella is actually a sword-stick, that is to say, the handle can be pulled out and a thin rapier withdrawn from the stem. Mr. Chamberlain is an expert fencer.

"The ribs of the umbrella can be removed and expanded at a moment's notice into a wire entanglement, behind which Mr. Chamberlain could take cover if charged by cavalry. The cover can quickly be converted into a sandbag and used either for a firing rest for the elbow, a pillow when sleeping on the veldt, or as a rifle rest.

"Dangling from the umbrella's middle is a black tassel in which messages may be hidden and dropped from an airplane when all other communications fail."

We Americans have a reputation for believing many things, but—we doubt if we can swallow this one!

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

By

Elmo Scott Watson.

Saved by Chance

THOMAS PAINE, with his stirring, "These are the times that try men's souls," read to the men in Washington's army, did much to relieve the despair of 1776. After serving as aide to Gen. Nathanael Greene, he became secretary to the congressional committee of foreign affairs and helped get loans from France and Holland.

But aiding the fight for human liberty of only one people was not enough for him. Instead of settling down to enjoy life in the nation he helped found, he went to England and, in 1791, published his famous "Rights of Man" for which he was outlawed by the king's court. Then he went to France where he was elected to the national convention. But when he opposed the execution of King Louis XVI, the Jacobins expelled him from the convention. When Robespierre came into power, Paine was thrown into prison and condemned to the guillotine. He was saved by the merest chance.

The prison keeper went along the corridor placing chalk marks on the doors of those to be executed the next morning. In the prison gloom, he did not notice that Paine's cell door was temporarily wide open and flat against the corridor wall. So he put the chalk mark on what became the inside of the door when it was closed.

The guards passed by Paine the next morning and the delay gave James Monroe, United States minister to France, time to obtain his release.

Captive for 10 Years

IN 1800, Ellis P. Bean left his home in Tennessee and drifted down the Mississippi to Natchez where he took a job with a pack train. Because they carried contraband, the party was attacked by Spanish soldiers. Bean, with a few other survivors, was taken to prison in Chihuahua.

Then followed one of the cruelest periods of imprisonment that any man has ever endured and remained sane. For three years he lay in prison at Chihuahua and then escaped only to be recaptured, beaten almost to death and chained to the prison wall. After trying to escape again, he was thrown into a dungeon at Acapulco. Eventually allowed to work in chains during the daytime, he killed his two guards with a crowbar and got away.

Again caught, he put in another year in dark, dirty dungeons and was flogged regularly. Again allowed to work, he killed seven men and this time got 300 miles away before he was seized. In retaliation, he was made the victim of almost every kind of cruelty.

So well was he able to stand 10 years of this treatment, unbroken in spirit and with defiance gleaming in his still bright eyes, that his captors developed a superstitious fear of him. When the revolution broke out, they offered him a place in the loyalist army which he accepted readily but with his fingers crossed.

Once at liberty, he soon talked his companions into going over to the other side and was given a captaincy. Finally he led a victorious force into Acapulco and those who had been so cruel to him begged for mercy. In true American fashion, he showed no bitterness—no desire for revenge. "Go away and don't bother me," were the only words he had for those who had given him 10 years of torture.

'Dictator' of Skagway

HIS name was Jefferson Randolph Smith and he was born in Georgia in 1860, all of which sounds like wonderful background for the story of a Southern gentleman. But he was a gambler and a crook who wound up in Alaska—and they called him "Soapy" Smith.

He got his name in Leadville, Colo., where he sold suckers bars of soap supposedly wrapped in $20 bills. He was a gambler and confidence man in Denver and Creede, Colo., where he became "dictator" of the camp, succeeding Bob Ford, slayer of Jesse James.

When the Alaskan gold rush began, he went up to Skagway and found the town wide open and waiting for a man of his talents. He soon became leader of a gang that used his saloon as headquarters for fraud, robbery and even murder.

His disrespect for law was so flagrant that it soon became too much even for that lawless community. A citizens' committee held a closed meeting to decide what to do about it. No decision was really necessary, as "Soapy" tried to "crash" the meeting with a Winchester rifle but was fatally shot by an armed guard.

As a reminder of the daring days of the Klondike, the town of Skagway can show no more appropriate sign today than a huge rock carved in the form of a skull and bearing only one name—"Soapy" Smith—who traveled thousands of miles from home to seek adventure and fame and got both—with dishonor.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Drawn work for turquoise scarves.

THIS idea is the result of an experiment. A friend had a set of sadly out-of-date white linen drawn work scarves for buffet, serving and dining table. Her dining room was being done over with touches of turquoise blue in the draperies and wall paper, so she had the scarves dyed to match. They were so effective that the simplest part of the drawn work design was copied in coarse linen in various colors for mats and scarves throughout the house.

While the turquoise scarves were especially attractive, those in golden yellow and a bedroom set in soft rose were also full of charm. The sketch shows how the drawn work is done. If you are looking for something effective that is quick to make, here it is. Just pull out the threads of the linen to make an open space about an inch wide. The scarf may be hemmed at the same time the outside edge of the opening is being whipped. Just follow these sketches. No other directions are needed. Use either linen or mercerized thread in a matching color.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without the books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

All-Around Man Was Worth the Money!

The customer was being shaved in a country town to which he was a visitor, when the barber cut his cheek.

The man was all apologies, and to give the cut a chance to close up, he placed a piece of tissue paper over the gash.

When the shave was finished the customer—to the great surprise of the barber—handed over a substantial tip.

"That's all right," said the victim, with a smile of forgiveness; "I don't often get shaved by a man who deals in three trades."

"Three trades?" queried the puzzled barber.

"Yes," came the sarcastic reply—"barber, butcher, and paperhanger."

BACK TO WORK

"THE most important job for congress today is what it has been for the last six years—to put America back to work. This must be the watchword. Back to work for the unemployed. Back to work for idle capital and empty factories. Back to work for all to the task of creating a better world. Only under an administration dedicated to such a program can America once more move forward."—U. S. Representative J. William Ditter.

Classifying Dessert Lists.—Dessert lists kept in the cookbook are a help in menu making, especially when they are classified as "hearty," "light," "quick," "good for several days," "oven made," and "for children."

After Washing Silver.—Stand silver in a jug of very hot water to which a little ammonia has been added, and it will remain bright much longer.

How to Recondition Sponges.—Sponges that are left with soap still in them soon become slimy. They can be reconditioned by soaking for 30 minutes in a mixture of half vinegar and half water. Rinse out in warm water, then in cold, and leave in the sun to dry.

Tea Towels.—Add a little borax to the water when washing tea towels. It removes dirt and grease and makes the towels a good color. It also acts as a disinfectant.

When Making Egg Sandwiches.—Scramble the egg instead of boiling it. Not only are more sandwiches made, but they are more easily digested.

For High Windows.—High windows appear shorter if the hangings are looped back with a slight curve and tied somewhat below the middle.

Keeping Dried Beef.—Dried beef will keep better if stored in a covered glass jar in the refrigerator rather than wrapped in parchment or waxed paper.

Home Paper Hanging.—Should you decide to do some of your own wall papering, lay the rolls of paper on the basement floor for a few days before using. The paper will absorb enough moisture to make it less brittle and more easily applied, and if you are a novice at paper hanging you will find anything that will make it more easily applied is a welcome thought.

Cattle Growers Executive Committee to Meet June 30

President Con. W. Jackson of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, has called a regular summer quarterly meeting of the Executive Board of the Association to be held in Las Vegas, Friday, June 30, with a preliminary meeting Thursday evening of the 29th. Routine business of the Association will be transacted, with several matters of first interest to cattle growers will be brought up for consideration. A record attendance of cattlemen representing all parts of New Mexico is expected.

It is the policy of the Association to hold these quarterly meetings in order to bring the Association's activities into close contact with cattle growers in all parts of the state, in the course of each year. As is customary with these meetings, all cattle growers whether they are members of the Association or not, are invited to be present.

Notice to Contractors

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received until 10:00 A. M., June 23, 1939, at the office of the State Highway Engineer, Capitol Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico, at which time and place proposals will be publicly opened and read.

The proposed work covers road and bridge construction and is briefly described as follows:

FEDERAL AID PROJECT NO. 163-B (1).

This proposal is for the construction of Federal Aid Project No. 163-B (1), located in Lincoln County, on U. S. Highway Route No. 380 between Hondo and Lincoln. The approximate length is 2.982 miles.

The proposed work consists of grading, minor drainage structures, two multiple span concrete box culverts each over 20' clear span, and miscellaneous construction.

The contractor will be required to start work within ten (10) days from date of notification of award of contract and to maintain on the job at all times a maximum efficient working force to the satisfaction of the Engineer. The Engineer may at any time order the contractor to place additional men and equipment on the job.

This contract must be completed in one hundred and fifty weather working days. Liquidated damages in the amount of one hundred dollars ($100.00) per day will be collected for each weather working day necessary to complete this contract after the expiration of the allotted time.

Each bid must be on proposal form of the Highway Department and must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of three thousand dollars ($3000.00). No cashier's checks or personal checks will be accepted.

Plans and specifications may be examined at the office of the State Highway Engineer, Santa Fe, or at the office of District Engineer, Chas. M. Johnstone, Roswell.

All qualified unskilled labor shall be employed insofar as possible from lists furnished the contractor by the employment agency designated in the contract. Only persons certified for assignment to work by the U. S. Employment Service shall be so employed. The designated local agency for Lincoln County is located at Las Cruces, J. L. Harper, Manager.

The Engineers estimate of cost will not be published.

Contractors should be familiar with New Mexico laws relating to labor.

The minimum wage paid to all skilled intermediate grade and unskilled labor employed on this contract shall be as shown in the special provisions.

Where camps are operated by the contractor, or by persons affiliated with the contractor, no charges of more than seventy-five cents (75c.) per day for board and lodging will be allowed. Laborers will not be required to board and lodge at such camps unless they so elect.

All bidders should be provided with a set of New Mexico Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction, Edition of 1936.

Attention is directed to the Special Provisions covering subletting or assigning the contract.

Special specifications including schedules, proposal forms and contract forms, accompanied by general layout and typical cross sections may be obtained by listed qualified bidders at the office of the State Highway Engineer upon payment of Two Dollars ($2.00), or same will be mailed C.O.D. Any additional plan sheets, cross section sheets or mass diagrams may be obtained on payment of Twenty-five cents (25c) per sheet for blue prints. It is understood that all blue prints become the property of the prospective bidder and there will be no refund for returned prints or proposal forms.

All bidders are required to properly and completely fill out the Contractor's Questionnaire found in the Proposal and to affix signatures as indicated. In addition to the above, all bidders are required to have on file with and approved by the State Highway Engineer, prior to receiving a proposal form, a complete Experience Questionnaire and Financial Statement on standard forms which will be furnished upon request. Failure to comply with the above conditions will disqualify a proposal. Any alteration, omission, or condition attached to a proposal will be considered sufficient cause for its rejection. The Highway Commission reserves the right to reject any and all proposals and to waive technicalities.

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

WHAT IS ADVERTISING GENIUS?

IN THE early days of advertising there were men who posed in the role of genius. They shrouded advertising with mystery. To portray their part they let their hair grow, wore flowing bow ties, affected a far-away look and muttered mysterious formulae.

Some persons still believe that the ability to advertise a business successfully is like the ability to write poetry—an inborn gift.

It isn't at all. The closer advertising comes to answering some of the needs in the lives of common, ordinary people the more nearly it comes to success.

The only genius needed in advertising is the everyday genius of telling the truth in a simple and an understandable way.

Charles Roth

A few months ago some of the leaders in the advertising profession were boasting about the results of their work. One of the advertising publications published what they said about themselves.

Writers of some of the largest corporations in the country took part in the discussion. But a little druggist in Florida, spending just a few dollars in his local newspaper, was able to top all the results of these high-salaried advertising men.

All he did was to know the desires of his customers, and sit down and tell them what he had in a simple, an understandable, a convincing, conversational way. Here is his advertisement:

SATURDAY SPECIAL
this coupon and 5 cents
Will buy a Bigger and Better
"Double Dip"
ICE CREAM SODA
Clip this Coupon and bring it with five cents to the
PARK VIEW DRUG STORE

This is a perfect advertisement. It offers a wanted service. It offers value. It inspires confidence. It is something people in his neighborhood wanted to read.

It didn't take a genius to write it, but the whole genius of advertising is behind it.

Every day advertisers are publishing similar announcements in the newspapers. These announcements are as much in what is called the public interest as the results of scientific research or study—because they bring the public something it wants to make life better or more interesting or, in the case of Park View Drug, a little more enjoyable.

Live Stock Situation

(By J. A. McNaughton.)

Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, June 15.—In 1935, R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Company, while on a visit to California, expressed the opinion that hog production in this state and adjoining states could profitably be expanded. At that time the hog market at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards was not well supported, and Armour, as well as other national and independent packers, were asked to get behind the hog market here. As a result of their consistent patronage and cooperation, we now have a substantial hog market at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards. Six days a week, hog producers bring in their shipments, ranging from one head to carloads, and receive cash for them on the day of sale at this open, competitive market.

Mr. Cabell was guest of honor recently at a luncheon given in his honor at Los Angeles, and at that time reiterated his former statement that California should produce more hogs, in view of the ample feed supply and the large amount of pork brought in from outside the state. Well over half of the pork consumed in California is produced in other states.

The logical course of hog expansion in California, to my way of thinking, is in the addition of a few brood sows to ranches as part of a diversification program, rather than the establishment of large specialized grain feeding ranches. Hogs, as well as other forms of livestock, should be looked upon as a means of marketing feed raised on farms and ranches. On most ranches, there is a certain amount of pasture and by-product feeds that can best be marketed through swine.

The advisability of establishing grain feeding plants where the hogs are kept in pens and fed on grain that is purchased, may be questioned. However, there is no doubt about the soundness of keeping a few cows and raising pigs to consume cull fruit, grain screenings, skim milk and other by products. And for the grain farmer, livestock offers, year in and year out, the most profitable means of marketing grain. Of course there are years in which losses must be sustained, the same as in any other business, but over a period of time, marketing from products through livestock constitutes the soundest agricultural program we have.

What the Press Thinks

Recently the annual meetings of the Associated Press, the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the American Society of Newspaper Editors were held.

A survey of the opinions of press leaders present showed an almost unanimous opposition to discriminatory and punitive taxation or legislation against any legitimate business; general approval of mass merchandising, whether accomplished by chain stores or organized independents, and an appreciation of the immense importance of mass merchandising in promoting wider distribution of commodities, particularly those of agricultural origin, to the benefit of agriculture and industry.

Other press organizations, state and national, and representing both large and small newspapers, have gone formally on record with similar views. The typical American newspaperman believes in fair play. He believes in progress. He knows what unhampered competitive business means to his town, his state and his nation. And he knows the dangerous folly of any law or any tax designed to penalize or destroy any honest business.

Federal Emergency Administration

An overwhelming majority of applicants for New Mexico projects now on the Public Works Administration's pending list have certified their desire to have their projects remain under active consideration, it was reported to Administrator Harold L. Ickes by George M. Bull, Regional PWA Director, today.

Although most of the applications for pending New Mexico projects were filed last summer when the 1938 PWA program was getting under way, some of them have been on PWA's books since 1935.

In his report to Administrator Ickes, Bull said that 96 percent of the New Mexico applicants wanted their projects continued on the active list for consideration under such future programs as might be authorized.

The total number of New Mexico projects certified as "active" in the extensive survey is 25. The estimated cost of these projects totals $18,091,446, Bull declared.

"Whether any or all of these projects would receive allotments in the event of a new appropriation," Bull said, "is primarily dependent upon the terms of the legislation providing the appropriation."

Chevrolet's Post-Graduate School Opens in Detroit

Chevrolet's sixth and largest Post-Graduate School of Modern Merchandising and Management, a "university" unique in industrial circles, opened in Detroit this week.

With a total enrollment of 32, including three men from foreign lands, the retail business management school began an eight-week course which will touch on every phase of automotive dealership operation. All students are sons of relatives of Chevrolet dealers.

Far-off lands are represented in the foreign contingent, students being registered from South America, South Africa and England.

The school is the outgrowth of research conducted by William E. Holler, Chevrolet general sales manager. Five years of preparation lay behind the founding of the unusual automotive "college." T. O. McLaughlin, former Rhodes scholar, is director and chief instructor.

Honorary lecturers who have appeared before past sessions of the school include Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of the Board of General Motors; William S. Knudsen, president, General Motors; M. E. Coyle, general manager, Chevrolet; C. F. Kettering, director of research, General Motors; R. H. Grant, vice president, General Motors; James D. Mooney, vice-president, General Motors in charge of overseas operations; Graeme K. Howard, general manager, G. M. Overseas Corp.; Albert L. Deane, general manager, Motors Holding Div., and Charles E. McTavish, general sales manager, G. M. Products of Canada, Ltd.

Various department heads of Chevrolet's Central Office appear on the curriculum as lecturers and teachers. Included are Mr. Holler, Felix Doran, jr., T. H. Keating, W. C. Lewellen, and J. E. Johnson, assistant general sales managers.

Subjects included in the curriculum include organization of territory, the Chevrolet product, principles of new and used car operations, car projections and distribution, service and mechanical operations, business management, advertising and public speaking.

More than 150 young men already have graduated from the school.

Right or Wrong?

How good a guesser are you?

1. To place station-to-station calls to other towns it is necessary to know the out-of-town telephone number.

RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

2. The average time for making long distance telephone connections is 3 minutes.

RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

The answers are shown below and here is the answer for quick, satisfactory communication. When you want to reach someone in another town, for business or social purposes, telephone! It not only takes your voice to the person you want to reach but brings back an immediate spoken reply.

The operator will be glad to tell you any out-of-town-rates.

Answers . . .

1. WRONG. To place a station-to-station call to any town just tell the operator the town you are calling and if you don't known the out-of-town telephone number just give the name and street address under which it is listed.

2. WRONG. The average is less than 1½ minutes.

Mobile White House Hits the Trail Again; Veteran Staff Runs It Like Clockwork

"SNAP TALK"—Arriving at Los Angeles on one of his cross-country tours, President Roosevelt steps to the back platform to greet an estimated 1,000,000 awaiting him at Central station.

President's as Near to Washington as Nearest Telephone Pole on His Cross-Country Journeys; Work Proceeds as Usual.

By JAMES HAMMOND

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

This summer a plain-looking train is pulling out of Washington bound for the west coast. Along the rails it travels, at every hamlet, crowds stand five deep to shout hail and farewell. Some places it stops and the band plays while a gentleman steps to the observation platform and waves his hat-in-hand as only Franklin Delano Roosevelt can.

The Chief's traveling again, this time from Washington to San Francisco and up to Alaska on the Houston, for a sailing Roosevelt's vacation would not be complete without ocean and salt air.

Nothing unusual about this trip, though Calvin Coolidge or Herbert Hoover might have thought so. Today's White House is mobile, so used to being packed in an overnight bag and whisked across the country, that FDR need merely press the button and away we go. His years in the harness have put to shame William Howard Taft's record for 115,000 miles; by the time President Roosevelt returns from Alaska he'll have established a White House travel total of some 160,000 miles—nor is the end in sight.

Close as a Telephone Pole.

In six years of gad-abouting the nation's nerve center has evolved such a letter perfect system of communication that efficiency has suffered not one whit; the White House on wheels is no farther from Washington than the nearest telephone pole along the railroad track, to which a line may be plugged in one minute. The President's signature and Great Seal is no farther away than the nearest airline, where transcontinental planes will swoop down at any time to pick up the presidential pouch and rush it to Washington.

Why travel? There's something to be said for critics who point out that the President can't get a very accurate picture of a nation which dresses up to meet him. Yet who can deny that the presidency carries something akin to a moral obligation; the man in the White House should go on parade for his public every now and then.

One other reason, less legitimate, is that the presidential visit may turn an election tide overnight. When in doubt, it's good politics for the Big Boss to visit a doubtful bailiwick and shake hands on the observation platform with its local party leader.

Trips Not Expensive.

Presidential junkets are not a great expense to the taxpayer, contrary to popular belief. The Chief Executive can easily stay within his $23,000-a-year travel and entertainment allowance because the railroads (whose legislation is being tabled this year to get congress out of Washington in time for the President's vacation) absorb the loss.

There are usually about 20 in the official White House party. Each of these—including the President—is assessed one first-class fair plus Pullman, and that's all except for small extra charges for special switchings. Newspaper correspondents, and political hangers-on, who ride from one end of the state to the other in hope of seeing "The Chief," must also pay regular first-class fare.

Ordinarily a private citizen would pay $75 a day for exclusive use of a car such as the President's old "Pioneer." On a 10-car train this would mean $750, and in addition the railroads usually charge a minimum of 100 fares for the special train. But the White House is exempted from such regulations, which amounts to a neat saving for John Public.

Old Stuff for the Staff.

In his private car the President is just as comfortable, yet works just as hard as if he were seated behind his desk in Washington. As described by Eugene Warner in a recent issue of Collier's magazine, the presidential junket has evolved into such a simple formula of efficiency that every member of the staff knows his post the instant a trip is announced.

E. M. Smithers, sometimes White House telegrapher and at other times chief of transportation, picks routes, arranges the train and prepares an intricate mimeographed schedule which keeps the special running not on the minute but on the second throughout its journey from coast to coast. This facilitates contact between Washington and the train, permitting the White House to ascertain exactly where the President can be reached by phone at any given moment.

Up front is a baggage car where secret service men guard files, mimeograph machines, boxed typewriters and all other office paraphernalia which the President's staff may need en route. Just behind this is the club car for newspaper men, photographers, newsreel men and radio announcers, followed by compartmented Pullmans in which the visiting firemen, lobbyists, politicians and favor-seekers will ride. The diner is always supervised by Steward Joseph Tuzik, whose orders are always transmitted to Chef Richard Hardaway. They're permanent fixtures.

'Mac' Rules The Office.

Next comes the office, where Secretary Marvin McIntyre bosses a staff which usually consists of five people. First there's Henry Kannee, McIntyre's secretary, who himself has a secretary in Miss Roberta Barrows. Since the President can often keep three stenographers busy, Miss Barrows often supplements Miss Marguerite LeHand, confidential secretary to the President and a good friend of his wife.

Throughout the trip the President seldom budges from his ancient "Pioneer" parlor car, a special job containing bedrooms, offices, pantry, a dining room and an observation room fitted with comfortable furniture. It is here Mr. Roosevelt does most of his work en route, dictating, reading reports, checking up on local history or just looking at the scenery with an occasional wave of the hand at a farmer.

It's Positively Breath-Taking— But Here's the Story of pO

CHICAGO.—Northwestern university scientists have completed a series of breath-taking experiments.

If you have pO (even your best friends won't call it halitosis) the Northwestern doctors will freeze it into a solid, determine its odor intensity, let you know how often you see your dentist and even tell you which of six mouth conditions is the offender.

In short they'll take your breath away.

The work is a joint effort of Dr. Leonard S. Fosdick, head of the chemistry department of Northwestern's dental school, and Drs. Glen

E. Sulzer and Robert H. Brening, also members of the dental faculty.

"From a theoretical point of view, breath can be contaminated from three primary sources," they report. "Odors can come from mouth, lungs and nasal passages. Putrefaction processes in the mouth—like stagnant saliva, decaying teeth, pyorrhea and degenerated cells on the tongue—may be responsible."

They find, too, that digestive disturbances may contaminate the breath.

Drs. Fosdick, Sulzer and Brening found a method of segregating the mouth odors by a special apparatus which freezes them in liquid nitrogen for concentration. Then, with an "osmoscope," they can determine the odor intensity.

Selecting a group of patients with no putrefactive lung or nose disorders and confining their studies to odors arising in the mouth, the scientists found six factors can and do contribute to mouth unwholesomeness. They are:

Age, tooth decay, gingivitis (inflammation of the gums), pyorrhea and "time after meals." Age enters the picture because there is usually an attendant retrogression of body processes, including gum recession with a tendency toward pyorrhea. In the sex factor, it was discovered mouth unwholesomeness is greater in women than in men as individuals grow older, but women are guilty of less mouth odor intensity than men.

Dental decay, gingivitis and pyorrhea each carry an infection. Mouth odors increase in proportion to time after meals for the apparent reason that stagnation may occur in a mouth not cleansed by excursion of food.

Regular mouth hygiene, it was found, will reduce odor concentration in the mouth up to 50 per cent. In cases of gingivitis, pyorrhea and tooth decay general relief depends upon elimination of these diseases. Mouth hygiene, even though it amounts only to rinsing the mouth with water, reduces the "time after meals" factor, while persons whose pO is enhanced by on-coming age have to be more regular with their hygienic practices.

STEP No. 2—With breath frozen, Dr. Sulzer determines odor intensity with osmoscope. Forty-seven per cent of cases studied were found to have breaths in the objectionable class.

Linen Scores High in List Of Summer Fabric Choices

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LINEN is a magic word in the fabric realm. The news on linen weaves for the coming months is most exciting. Paris cables all laud linens and the roster of couturiers cited as favoring linens lends considerable weight to general predictions for a forthcoming linen summer.

There are no apparel needs which cannot be ratified with linen. For general purpose and daytime wear best dressed women are choosing stunning suits tailored of either black or navy linen. Recently burgundy and bottle green linens have been added to the list. Worn with a blouse of the exquisitely fine and sheer lingerie type now so fashionable, these suits are about as eye-appealing as fancy can. picture—smart with the new plaid gingham blouses too!

What with their newly acquired crease resistance, there is no question about the absolute practicality of linens. With the non-crease assurance given, gone forever is the wrinkling bugaboo.

Among the linens fashion is highlighting this season there are most attractive striped patterns and riotously colorful floral prints. Dressmakers, in search of something new in jacket dresses, see infinite possibilities in the new embroidered linens. Vivid sprawling designs, either printed or embroidered on a natural linen background, fairly cry to be made into jackets, and boleros to wear over natural linen dresses.

Then, too, chic linens are leading a gay night life all their own. For party wear natural pure crash linen with insertions of white Torchon lace, the matching linen bolero edged with the lace, the skirt floor length and full, is but one of many clever entries of linen into the evening mode.

A smart daytime item is the severely tailored full-length coat of heavy imported natural coating linen as pictured to the right in the group. Keep in mind that this linen is the new non-crease type and that it launders successfully and easily. You will appreciate what a much-to-be-desired possession a coat of this type really is. It has a small Peter Pan collar, four pockets with inverted pleats, bone buttons and bound button holes, also a vent in back of the coat to give freedom of action.

The dress to the left will prove a perfect treasure for informal wear. It is of sheer black linen with multi-colored wool embroidered flowers at neckline and decorating the split pockets on the skirt, the front fullness of which is an important fashion-correct detail. The open crown poke bonnet is of matching linen.

Centered in the group is a two-piece spectator sports dress of imported pure linen. It plays up unexpected color combinations, which are so definitely in the scheme of costume design for the coming summer. The skirt is of linen in the fashionable shocking pink; the linen jacket is chartreuse. Pink and blue embroidered flowers patterning it have loose fringe petals, done in a very novel way.

Dress linens that go back to nature for their colorings are very smart this season. Natural linen in the open coarse weaves seems to be the season's pet.

Many of the new petticoats are made of fine handkerchief linen trimmed with eyelet embroidery with gay baby ribbon threaded through quaint beading.

Baby Blouse Asks Camisole in Lace

Because of the revival of the dainty and sheer lingerie "baby" blouse, there's a "cami-craze" coming on in fashion land. So be prepared, do it now, buy your camisole—make it plural, for you will need more than one—in advance. These dainty, little lace-trimmed vanities are a necessary luxury, you'll find that out the first time you wear your new peek-a-boo blouse. Ingenious designers are creating camisole-top costume slips which really are the most practical to buy. They do away with superfluous bulk at the waistline, being an ideal all-in-one garment.

Lace and Lingerie Touches on Hats

Ask your milliner to show you the latest in lace-trimmed hats. Some of the newest types have brims of heavy snow-white starched Venise lace. Others trim black straws or navy with narrow Val edgings, or with very wide lace bows. In the flower departments you can buy sprays and bouquets of white lingerie lace flowers. Wear one for your boutonniere and trim your navy straw hat with the other. Pique flowers are also smart as are also organdy frills on hats.

Coats With Flared Skirts

Coats of the new wool sheers also of the smart bengalines and moires are cleverly styled with full skirts that gives them a decidedly "new look."

Canteen Bag

ASK to see the new canteen bags. They are the latest. This black patent leather canteen bag by David—the well-known American designer—adds a sophisticated touch to a stunning tailored frock of sheer beige wool and black coat. For all its seeming flatness this bag is very spacious and conveniently fitted with a safe billfold and chained coin purse. It is also available in scratch proof racer-grain calf.

Charming Patterns For Smart Fashions

IF YOU want to look slimmer than you are, and do it in the coolest, smartest way possible, make yourself a dress like 1756. The skirt, paneled front and back, and cut to a high, fitted waistline, is beautifully slenderizing. The bodice is adroitly gathered to take care of bust fullness. Cape sleeves flutter charmingly from a smooth shoulder-line, and the deep Vneckline is your favorite. Make this of chiffon, georgette, linen or voile. You'll be delighted with its softness, coolness and chic.

Three-Piece Sports Ensemble.

No. 1755 takes care of three things you'll certainly want to take on your vacation—and that's a lot to get out of one pattern. You can make with it a sleeveless play suit, a separate skirt that transforms it into a daytime dress, and a bolero that makes the dress into a little suit! Just think what a blessing that will be, when you come to pack! And all three parts are just as smart and becoming as they can be! Gingham, percale, linen and pique are practical fabrics for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1756 is designed for sizes 30, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material without nap.

No. 1755 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5⅝ yards of 35-inch material; 10 yards of braid or bias fold.

Louise and Breck finished roast beef from the can, had chocolate bars for dessert, then cups of coffee. Beyond their shelter the rain fell with soft rustling through the pines, then drifted on. Clouds parted and stars came out. Breck looked at his watch. Two o'clock. Dawn would break in another hour. He must leave her then and go down to the Potholes.

"When did Cook call your camp?" he asked, leading their talk to the nesters.

"About the middle of the afternoon. He and Slim were to start, but they would be a day on the trail."

"I hope Kern Peak can head them off, now that it's over," Breck continued. "Didn't Cook think I had help from the Potholers?"

"He didn't say." Louise stirred up the fire and hunched herself closer to it.

Breck pushed their plates from the bedroll and sat next to her. "Louise," he asked, "can you tell me what I'm thinking about now?"

Her lips began a smile, parted, closed. Then she answered with a slow shake of her head.

"Well, I'm thinking of the Potholes, and of what kept the nesters from coming into this fire. It will be daybreak in another hour and I must go down there. You're going back to Temple Meadow, I suppose? Will you try to get Cook on the line and let him know about this fire? Tell him I'll call later."

She avoided his request. "Why are you going to the Potholes?"

"I'm afraid that's asking my business, isn't it?"

"Yes. I meant it that way. But I'm sorry; my mistake. I somehow thought we had reached a point where we could talk openly."

Breck dropped his hand upon both of hers, resting in her lap. "I was short, Louise. Forgive it. I'm going to the Potholes to prove a suspicion."

Still with her eyes upon the coals, she asked, "You think the nesters started this fire?"

"I'm not certain. I do know someone drove them from helping on it."

"The Tillsons?"

Breck nodded.

Louise turned to him. "I can tell you about this fire, exactly. Lightning started it."

"Of course. Lightning always starts them!"

"It's true this time."

"You seem to know. How?"

Louise hesitated. She released her hands. "We're talking openly? No mistakes. No misunderstanding, is that right?"

"Yes."

"Well, Art Tillson came to our camp, day before yesterday. That was before the fire started. He stayed all night—the night it started, and I talked with him. Now do you see?"

"Too much!" Breck bit off the words, striving to conceal a flare of temper. He was jealous, foolish, yet helpless to stem the burst of feeling the name had aroused.

"What if they didn't start the fire?" he demanded. "The Tillsons are holding a threat over the nesters. It's time for a cleaning and the trail starts down there!"

Louise did not speak. He sensed a swift tension of her body, though the only visible sign was of her fingers clasped tight about one knee.

Suddenly she lifted her face to him. "Gordon Breck, I know the rules. A girl should never plead with a man. I'm not pleading, I merely ask. Promise me you will not go there now."

She was so close at his side. He felt her quick breath and knew she spoke in desperation. And yet—

"You ask me to ignore a ranger's duty?"

A note of defiance came into her voice as she replied. "What is a ranger's duty if it isn't to use his head! You have nothing on the nesters—you can get nothing. That isn't the place to begin. You'll think I'm begging for them. I guess I am. I know some of the families, the women, and I don't want to see them driven out. Give me a chance with them, won't you?"

"A chance for what?"

"To talk with Weller sometime."

"I've talked with him already. It's useless. I'm through with words!"

"Oh, you men are stupid!" she flared. "Stupid! All you think of is strapping on a gun and going out to shoot. Is there never another way to settle?"

"Not this," Breck asserted. "At least not for me. I have more than a ranger's duty here."

"How have you?"

"Did you know the man who had this job before me?"

"Jimmy Cotter? Yes, I knew him well. He was killed and you've come to retaliate."

Breck frowned, asking, "Who said so?"

"No one said it. But you're wearing his Luger. I knew that meant some connection."

Surprised, Breck said nothing.

"You see," Louise continued, "I understand many things in these mountains—too many. I understand the nesters' position, and Art Tillson's, and yours."

In sudden impulse, her hand clasped his, warm, throbbing.

"Gordon! Don't you see? Cotter lost his life and gained nothing; threw it away on a chance. It's terrible, all of it. Something will happen, I know. But you, you must not be the one to pay heedlessly. Won't you consider it like that for your own sake?"

Swept by the girl's fervor Breck drew her madly into the circle of his arms. "And for yours?" he asked, holding her close. "Louise!"

She yielded only for an instant as he kissed her. Then she held her face away while her eyes searched deep into his. "I cannot answer you, not now. But I want your trust. Promise me that?"

He nodded, bending his head until it touched the softness of her hair.

With the dawn they rode north together, and parted on the ridge where Breck's trail struck west toward Rock House.

CHAPTER XVI

There were others already at his cabin, when, about mid-morning, he came into the meadow bowl. He saw smoke rising from the chimney, and then with glasses, made out Sierra Slim in the doorway. Presently Cook appeared. They too stood with glasses at their eyes. Breck lifted one arm to them and rode on at a lope.

"Howdy, pardner," Slim greeted him.

Cook's first question was, "Like fire fighting, son?"

Breck swung off and shook hands, glad to see them. Sierra's face was as long and melancholy as ever. After the first welcome he said nothing. Cook was genial and helped throw off the pack, though he did not mention more of the job until they had turned out the animals. Then, walking from the corrals, he said, "Hot one for a time, wasn't it?"

"Kept me busy," Breck agreed. "We were on our way, but called Kern Peak and found you had it under control. There's some mail for you in my bag. That's why we swung around here. Pack train came up from Lone Tree yesterday and goes down tomorrow, if you have anything to send out."

Breck nodded. He hadn't written a letter in six weeks.

"Nesters help you?"

"No."

They had reached the cabin door. Cook halted, one hand on the knob. "What the devil! Did they refuse?"

"Their excuse was that they had no tools."

"I know it," said Cook scowling. "And that's a damn shame! There's nothing at the Potholes. We're short. But they never held out on that account. How do you figure?"

"Tillsons, of course. Art was in the Pothole country two days ago, giving them orders."

"Then you found out that it was a man-made fire?" Cook asked gravely. "If it was, we'll have to ride."

"It wasn't," Breck asserted. "I'm sure it was from lightning. Art's business was more to keep them from giving us help."

He kept back the source of his information. That would involve too much explaining. Riding alone, after leaving Louise, he had thought of what she had told him. He began to see the heart of her with its deep compassion for all mountain people; taking their burdens upon herself, trying to solve troubles here without more bloodshed. To him that way was impossible. But he saw the fineness of her attempt and could yield to it until his plan opened.

Upon entering the room Cook drew a packet of letters from his saddle bag. Breck carried them to his bunk and stretched himself full length. Muscles were beginning to stiffen.

Breck unwrapped his letters, seeing at once the postmarks were from one to three weeks old. His correspondence was not large, as his plan of coming to the mountains was known only to a few persons. Here was business mostly; though one envelope among the lot had never seen an office desk. It had cream paper inside, and even through the accumulated smell of leather and mules, gave off a certain fragrance.

Breck had reason to recall that fragrance, yet now, here in the odor of pines he was not sure that he liked it. His name was written with a swift impulsive dash, while the flap bore only, Irene Sutherland.

He tore it open at once, and as he read, Irene came to him vividly. Tall and slender and undeniably beautiful. Black hair drawn to make three cornered her high forehead and accentuate her languorous dark eyes. It was a strange beauty, perplexing, all out of accepted standards.

The note began with gossip, ignoring the fact that they had agreed not to write. She filled a page and said nothing. But then, on the second, came to her real purpose. The senator was home now, grumping for a vacation. No place to go; nothing new. Driving the family frantic—like a big grizzly. "Do you have grizzlies? How splendid you must look in uniform! Like the rangers at Arrowhead."

Breck looked down at his blackened work clothes and grinned.

And then the truth. The High Sierras! How marvelous for the Senator's vacation. And with a ranger friend to show them about. "Gordon, you can't refuse! Be a dear!"

He stuffed the letter into his shirt pocket. Irene had turned to him again for amusement. She would do that where any other girl would have suffered the limits of ennui first. Somehow it seemed natural in her.

"Mud's up," said Slim, pouring a cup of coffee.

Breck left his bunk and joined the two men around a big black pot on the table.

"So the nesters threw you down, did they?" Sierra began at once. "And Art Tillson was riding their country before the fire. Ain't hard to read that sign. A pack of bug-juice was about due to go out of these hills. Tillson wanted to keep us too busy to notice it."

"This was a lightning fire," Breck argued. "No one set it to help the Tillsons."

Sierra shrugged. "Hand of God on their side then!"

"I think Slim has the straight of it," Cook put in. "This particular fire may have just happened, but the Tillson crowd are due to make a shipment and might have used it. They've been in here long enough to have made up quite a batch."

"Maybe so," Breck agreed. "And when they do start out—"

"We close in. There's a new judge down on the valley. He'll back us with convictions if we send any man before him. I've only waited for Jud to make his first play and that certainly won't be long now."

Breck stirred his coffee and stared into the cup while old thoughts swept him at Cook's words. "We close in."

"What about the nesters?" he asked presently. "Do we include them in the clean-up?" He was thinking of Louise and her anxiety for the families there.

"The Potholes are a different proposition," Cook said. "I don't look for any trouble from them if we take care of the Tillsons. Like this tool business. Art may have scared them off, but if you'd had tools you could have forced them to work. Lack of equipment was our fault, not theirs."

Breck shot a glance at the gray-haired man across from him. Bitterness had come into the ranger's voice when he talked of tools. "Dad," Breck asked, "just why aren't there any in the Pothole box?"

"Now you done stirred something!" Sierra cut in. "You been to college; maybe you can figure it out. Go ahead, Dad, and tell him about the seventy-eight bucks."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

With the dawn they rode north together.

Tibet Holds Hunting Is a Crime; Law Is Discreetly Evaded in One Province

Descendants of former criminals, the present Zayulis (of Zayul province, Tibet) seem to have inherited a cheerful disregard for the law. Hunting is one of the greatest crimes in Tibet; for Buddhist doctrine forbids the taking of life in any form. Inevitably a certain compromise has been made, and in most monasteries you will find that meat is eaten, but only the meat of domestic animals, which, it is thought, are clearly expiating some past sin in a former human existence by their present enslavement, writes John Hanbury-Tracy in Asia Magazine.

Wild animals are considered to belong to a higher form of life, and killing them is severely penalized in most parts of Tibet; I have seen a man given 300 lashes with rawhide whips for killing a hare. The result is that wild creatures are extraordinarily tame: it is delightful in some parts of southeastern Tibet to see hares, marmots, partridges, white pheasants, wild ducks and geese completely unmoved when one approaches to within a dozen feet of them.

But in Zayul the law is discreetly evaded, and the people are excellent hunters over difficult ground. In the forests are taken goral, serow, musk-deer, bear and wild pig. Traps, dogs and guns are all used. The guns are mostly long-barreled prong-guns of great age. The prong, which is made of the two horns of a deer, is hinged to the barrel of the gun close to the muzzle; normally it projects beyond the muzzle and looks like a pitchfork, but when the moment for action arrives it is turned down and stuck in the ground forming a rest for the gun. A slow match is applied, and, after some 15 minutes of waiting, the gun may or may not go off. Its use is clearly limited.

Plants Have Nerves

Plants have nerves. One in this class might be called a nervous wreck, judging from its actions when anyone so much as touches one of its leaves. The sensitive plant, or mimosa pudica, will immediately curl up its leaves at the slightest touch. After a leaf has curled up in apparent anguish it remains in a fallen position for about 15 minutes, then gradually uncurls and becomes its normal self again. This plant, originally from Brazil, grows wild in the Gulf states.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

Without Wheels It's No Go for Vincent Bendix

NEW YORK. — Vincent Bendix got on famously as long as he stuck to tinkering, inventing and fussing with machinery. He did many other things, but anything which didn't have to do with wheels, cams, and pinions was just no dice.

It was his Chicago real estate deals which brought against him the petition in voluntary bankruptcy filed in Chicago, say his lawyers. His holdings were more than $5,000,000, including the famous Potter Palmer Lake Shore drive residence—all down the chute in the federal district court. His machinery companies, not involved in the petition, are rolling along nicely. They seem to be one up on the "good earth" as an arcanum of security. Modern times are like that.

In the basement of a New York hospital, where he ran the elevator, he had a grand time taking an old hot-tube gas engine to pieces and putting it together again. He was 17, not long from Chicago, where he had been a telegraph messenger boy. An old one-eyed swamper around the place, who understood machinery, had instructed him in the working of the power plant and had encouraged his laboratory work. There was a close working alliance between faculty and student body.

Two years later, the lad got a job as a typist in a law office, baffled at first because he couldn't use a monkey wrench on the typewriter, but exploring it satisfactorily with a screw-driver and pliers.

But a law office hadn't any wheels, and he did better with the Lackawanna railroad, which had plenty, although he was in the traffic department. In his spare time, he worked out improvements on a bicycle chain and sprocket. That brought him in touch with bicycle manufacturers and at last he was on the main line—and it wasn't the Lackawanna. It was a wide, paved highway to millions in the invention of automobile and aviation devices whose only dead-end was real estate.

Of Swedish ancestry, son of a Moline, Ill., Methodist minister, he packed a copy of Schopenhauer in his pocket when he was a messenger boy. In those days, he wolfed Huxley, Darwin, Marx, Tyndall, Wallace and Spencer, calling himself a Socialist in his earlier years. Never still a minute, he is buoyant and resilient at 57, and his friends shrug off this bankruptcy business as just a short detour from the main highway. They say they wouldn't be surprised if he should bob up with something as exciting as perpetual motion, one of these days.

The Groves of Academe Laud Retiring Prexy

SALTY, laconic, William Allan Neilson, rounding three score years and ten, retires with this year's graduating class as president of Smith college. Rarely does any passing prexy get such a hand from students and faculty. Somewhat in the picture of Stringfellow Barr of St. John's, and Maynard Hutchins of Chicago, he has put over education on its merits. He has been first a scholar and secondly an administrator, but has fired so much enthusiasm that administration has pretty much taken care of itself.

The University of Edinburgh and Harvard passed on to him the flame of the great Elizabethans. Merry eyes—little white beard—resonant laugh—with a surgically incisive mind—he has been to the Smith undergraduates a blend of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Erasmus—although said immortals didn't smoke big cigars. He takes a bow from all the groves of academe.

Woman Designs Styles for Men; They Like 'Em

TOSCANINI was so pleased with a tie designed by Mrs. Malcolm D. Whitman, former Countess Lucilla Mara de Vecsey, that he had one like it made for each of the 93 members of his orchestra. That started her designing ties for Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Noel Coward, Count Andy Robilant, et al. One thing led to another, and now Mrs. Whitman returns from Europe as the only woman couturier for men, after a study of the latest in men's styles on the continent.

Her ancestors were members of the council of ten of the Venetian republic. One of them married the painter Tintoretto, bequeathing a sensitiveness to fabrics and color, no doubt. She was a concert singer before her marriage to Mr. Whitman.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in coins to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

Aid in Silence

When you have nothing to say, say nothing; a weak defense strengthens your opponent, and silence is less injurious than a weak reply.—Colton.

Here's Effective Relief For HEADACHES
Due To CONSTIPATION

Relieve headache, sour stomach, biliousness, poor appetite and that sluggish feeling associated with constipation. Sargon Soft Mass Pills effectively relieve these discomforts for they offer more than just a laxative, they act "3 ways" to make you feel better—(1) they stimulate the flow and production of bile, (2) they improve the appetite thereby giving you more energy, and (3) they cause mild, gentle bowel movements. So if you suffer from such trouble try Sargon Soft Mass Pills at once. Sold by all druggists on a money-back guarantee.

THE TRUTH ABOUT DOAN'S

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Our local base ball team crossed bats with the Breece Lumber Company, a colored organization from Alamogordo, on the local diamond last Sunday, and when the smoke cleared away, and our boys became tired of circling the bases, the score stood 22 to 4 in favor of the home team. "Red" Huffmeyer was on the mound for Carrizozo, and was effective at all times, dishing up but a few scattered hits to the Alamogordo players.

All Star Choral Club

The All Star Choral Club at Coyote is progressing nicely and is now in its third week with interest growing daily. The total enrollment is twenty nine, but four have moved away.

We have divided into two groups now and each group is composed of twelve Stars competing for first place. Three judges will decide the winning army, our Generals are Jean Norris and Josie Ferguson. The contest will be held in the near future and our instructor has promised to award each Star on both sides with a prize of some kind not yet decided upon. Watch for the announcement in this paper later.
