Entertainment by Past Matrons' Club

The supper and entertainment given by the Past Matrons' Club Tuesday evening to their husbands, to Past Patrons and their wives was a most enjoyable affair.

The affair began with a most delicious dinner at the Southern Pacific hotel, under management of Mr. Peterson, in which he exceeded all past efforts.

Mrs. Mae English gave the invocation, after which Mrs. Maude L. Blaney, program chairman, introduced the retiring president and toastmistress, Mrs. E. O. Prehm, who then introduced Mrs. Clara G. Huppertz, who gave a most cordial address of welcome to members and guests. Mrs. Jeannette Lemon, on behalf of members of the club and guests, gave a most gracious response.

Mrs. Prehm drew from the participants many hilarious jokes and amusing personal experiences. After the dinner all went to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Huppertz. Mrs. Ula G. Mayer in her inimitable way installed the following officers for the year 1939:

President--Mrs. Clara G. Huppertz.

Vice-President--Mrs. Jeannette Lemon.

Sec'y. Treas.--Mrs. Daisy O'Malley.

The key presented to Mrs. Huppertz, as the badge of her office was admired by all--since it is an heirloom of past ages; the reducing tablets presented to Mrs. Lemon were the envy of many of the ladies present, and all coveted the security pinned on Mrs. Daisy O'Malley, as her badge of office.

The cultural program rendered as follows, was much appreciated: Piano Duet, "Stars and Stripes Forever," Miss Burns and Helen Huppertz.

Vocal Solos, "Only a Red Rose" and "Look At Me," Ernie Prehm, accompanied by Otto Prehm.

Violin Solo, Air in G, by Bach, Mrs. Betty Nickels, accompanied by Mrs. Burns.

"Memories," Mrs. Minnie Prehm.

Presentation of Past President's Gift, Mrs. Blaney.

Solo, "Give Me Your Hand," Mrs. Lemon, accompanied by Mrs. Burns.

Then the past patrons entered the program with jokes galore, not sparing each other, lead by F. A. English, followed by Ray Lemon, Paul Mayer, Steve Boston, Robert Blaney, Otto Prehm, Jack O'Malley, Ben Stimmel, B. S. Burns and C. P. Huppertz with his prize winner, "chicken necks."

Mrs. Huppertz served delicious punch and cookies. Then came the adieux with joy and friendliness, closing another year of the Past-Matrons' Club.

MRS. CLINT BRANUM DIES IN CALIFORNIA

The hearts of many Carrizozo friends of Mrs. Clint Branum, were made sad when the news of her death which occurred at 3:30 Tuesday morning in a Merced, California, hospital was announced. She and her husband had accompanied Mrs. Nellie Branum to Los Angeles and Merced, California, just after the holidays on a business and pleasure trip. She took a deep cold and Mr. Branum took her to the hospital where every thing possible was done, but pneumonia developed and she passed away after an illness of only a few days.

She will be sadly missed by her family, friends and loved ones. Her light footsteps will be missed, her happy voice will no longer echo.

Mrs. Branum was a daughter of Mrs. Nellie Reilly and the late Mr. Wm. Reilly. She was born in November 1908 in Carrizozo, where she had spent practically her entire life.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one little daughter,

Barbara Jeanne, seven years old; also her mother, Mrs. Nellie Reilly, and by three sisters, Mrs. Sam Allen, Mrs. Herndon Jackson, and Mrs. Will Ed Harris; one aunt, Mrs. Albert Scharff.

Funeral services were conducted at 3:30 this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nellie Branum. Rev. Howden, Episcopal minister of Roswell, delivered an impressive funeral sermon. Mrs. Don English sang "Beloved" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

pall bearers were: Messrs. Don English, Dan Conley, Walter LaFleur, Lesnett Anderson, Herman Kelt and Wayne Richard.

Flower girls were: Mesdames Roy Richard, Dan Conley, George Couper, Ada Gray, Roy Shafer and Ben Greisen.

The many who gathered to pay final tribute by the side of her casket today, and the mountain of beautiful floral offerings was mute testimony of the love in which she was held.

There have been reported isolated instances where recipients of garments have pawned them. The Works Progress Administration is contacting pawn shops and warning them against taking this clothing since the pieces are subject to confiscation by the government. Those to whom articles of clothing are distributed sign statements at the distributing point that they will not sell, barter, pawn nor give away the clothing. Each article is marked and can be identified.

BANKING LOOKS AHEAD E Pluribus Unum

The famous motto of the United States, "E Pluribus Unum," meaning "One unity composed of many parts," has taken on added meaning in recent years.

Today our geographical units, the states, are welded into a homogeneous, closely knit whole. But our various classes and groups have not achieved the unity essential to sustained progress.

Government, labor, farmers, business men, banks--all must work together, shoulder to shoulder, if our country is to forge ahead. This bank will do its part.

News Notes of Carrizozo Schools

The Junior High School entered enthusiastically into a contest Wednesday to see who can sell the most buttons for the Infantile Paralysis Campaign. Buttons are ten cents a piece, of which half the proceeds go to the Warm Springs Institution and the other half stays in Lincoln County to be used to advance health-work.

Irl Hemphill of Jackson, Mississippi, and Paul Woodward of Santa Rosa, enrolled with us for the last semester's work. The Sophomore class lost two of its members this week; Iva Lee Russell moved to Mountainair, and Frank Kelt moved to Capitan.

From some source a girls' basket ball team sprang up. There will be a girls' game Saturday night at Community Hall.

Miss Smith of the Junior High School, is working on Pageant of New Mexico which will be presented during Americanization Week. Mr. Susman is assisting with the music. This patriotic pageant will be both entertaining and instructive for all who participate and attend.

Allen Beck, who has been afflicted with tonsillitis, anticipated having his tonsils removed in the near future.

Paul Woodward, who enrolled with us this week, but was formerly of Santa Rosa, was this to say about our high school: "I think I will like the school-life and I hope the school will like me."

Friday evening our high school plays Clouderoff on local court at which time the best will play. All come out and see our land perform.

The Americanization Week beginning February 6th promises to be one of the biggest events of the year. The following organizations have offered to cooperate: American Legion, Ladies Auxiliary, M. E. Church, Men's Business Club and the Alumni Association. At the next issue of the paper we will mention some other organization which plans on helping to put the big events over.

Mr. Grissom, superintendent of Coronado City schools, visited Carrizozo schools Wednesday. His pleasant smile is an inspiration to all pupils and teachers.

In the list of committee names turned in last week by Mr. Brickley the name of Mrs. Minnie Bigelow should have been Mrs. V. Reil. We followed copy, but we are glad to make the correction.

On Friday Jan. 13 a very good meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the American Legion Hut. A good attendance was had and plans are being carried out in co-operation with the local school superintendent for Americanization week which is Feb. 6-12. Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"THERE'S really not much I can do about my living room," writes Mrs. T. S., "but yet I wish so much that I could give it a lift. Walls and woodwork are ivory and the draperies are beige with wood molding cornices. It's rather smart and yet I'm rather tired of the plainness and wondered if there would be any way of changing the effect without actually changing the draperies or wall color which is out of the question. My rug is a deep toned geometric oriental, which isn't particularly stylish just now, and yet somehow I've always liked it. The sofa is dark red; I have two overstuffed chairs, one in old gold, one in a deep beige.

"The furniture is walnut and mahogany—all right—though not particularly exciting, but it can't be replaced. The lamps could get new shades I suppose if I could think of something that would really make much difference. My pictures are good paintings with gold frames. In fact the trouble with my room is that it's all right, so I have no excuse for changing it drastically, even if I had the money. But yet I do think that a freshening up would be good for my soul. Have you any good ideas?"

Why not finish off the top of the windows with cord-swags, as shown in the sketch? In a deep glowing tone of red. Then have new lamp shades all around of dark red satin stretched in tailored trimmings. Right there you'd have quite a fresh feeling in the room. Add a pair of big flat soft square cushions in beige damask for the sofa and perhaps a grouping of gilt wall brackets (or tiny single shelves) to hold some figurines in blue porcelain. These wouldn't be too expensive to buy and would make quite a change in the effect of an important wall. They might be used on either side of a painting, or else you could get an odd number and make an independent composition. And then, as a final gesture, take the finish off of one or two incidental pieces of furniture and bleach them. That would bring the room right up to date.

Please don't apologize for the geometric Oriental. I'm fond of that type myself and have a suspicion that they're on the way back "in."

"Old but not antique," writes Mrs. R. H. R., "that was the trouble with the furniture in my guest room. But I designed it all over and did the remodeling myself, and it really looks quite exciting. My husband helped with the carpentry.

"The color scheme is black and white, and the result is modern. I cut the legs off the bed and set the side boards up making it more contemporary looking. The base of the draped dressing table is an old oil stove with boards across the top and a skirt added. The night table is an old medicine cabinet that was on a dresser years ago. The chest of drawers is an old bureau with the mirror taken off and hung on the wall.

"Both bed and chest of drawers are painted white with a wedge-shaped panel of black painted boldly down the center of each. Dressing table skirt is white with black banding and white ball fringe. On the floor I have crocheted rugs in geometric design. The slipper chair is covered in black with piping in white. Bedspread is white with black piping. Curtains are white with rows of pink and black ball fringe. The wall paper is pale pink with a tailored medallion in deeper pink and this note of pink is repeated in lamps, dressing table bottles and cushions.

"So many of my friends have copied my idea and have found it very inexpensive to work out. I thought maybe your readers might like to hear about it too, and I would feel so thrilled to have helped others solve their problems."

"Thank you, Mrs. R. I think you've been very clever in making such an attractive room out of left-overs. I'm always delighted to hear from my readers about decorating experiences.

Tip About Griddle Cakes and Waffles

Can Do Double Duty With Help of Sandwich Grill

By EDITH M. BARBER

IF YOU are a business woman housekeeper or are for any other reason interested in a quick meal, I hope somebody was thoughtful enough to give you a sandwich grill or a waffle iron or a combination of both.

You can make griddle cakes and waffles do double duty, if you like, and serve them instead of potatoes with your meat—and a gravy, of course—and then with syrup, honey, marmalade, cinnamon and sugar or whipped cream for dessert. You will always find some one at the table who will love to bake the pancakes or to manipulate the waffle iron, and that in itself makes electric table cookery a pleasure.

Don't forget that electric appliances are not supposed to be greased. This will not be necessary if you put plenty of shortening in your mixtures. This allows smokeless cooking in the dining room. Pre-heating is necessary for a few minutes. It happens that both my grill and waffle iron demand seven minutes for this. Yours may be different.

And now about the batters. There are innumerable recipes which vary from each other in some respect. Most of them are good, if they call for plenty of shortening and if you do not beat your mixture much. Some people seem to feel that this is a necessary operation, although the contrary is true. The batters should not be too thick, although that for griddle cakes will vary with your choice of a thin or thick product. It is generally a good idea to make a "try cake." You may add more liquid to the griddle cake batter without harming it. In fact, it is pretty hard to spoil griddle cakes.

Griddle Cakes.

- 3 cups flour
- 5½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup melted shortening
- 2 cups milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg, stir in melted shortening, add one-fourth cup milk and beat half a minute. Add rest of milk and stir in dry ingredients all at once. Drop by spoonfuls on hot griddle. Cook on one side until full of bubbles, turn and cook on other side. If cakes seem to thicken, add more milk.

TESTED RECIPES

Chicken Liver Canape.

- 10 chicken livers
- 1 strip bacon
- 2 teaspoons minced onion
- 2 teaspoons minced parsley
- Pepper, salt
- Rounds of toast
- 2 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 pimento

Cook chicken livers, drain and mix. Fry bacon, remove from pan, mince and mix with liver. In the bacon fat cook the onion and parsley half a minute and mix with liver paste. Spread small rounds of hot toast with this mixture and garnish with minced egg white and strained egg yolk and pimento, cut into fancy shapes.

Lemon Sauce.

- ½ cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- Yolks 3 eggs
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Few gratings lemon rind

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and yolks of eggs slightly beaten; then add water and cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Remove from stove, add lemon juice and rind.

Spritz Cookies.

- 1 cup shortening
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1¼ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups ground nuts

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Stir in vanilla. Sift flour with salt and mix with ground nuts. Work flour and nut mixture into first mixture. Pack dough in the barrel of cookie press and force onto cookie sheet in various shapes and bake in oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, about 10 minutes. When cool, frost with confectioners' icing and sprinkle at once with sliced nuts.

Macaroon Cookies.

- 2 egg whites
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup ground Brazil nuts or almonds

Beat egg whites until foamy but not dry. Beat in sugar and salt gradually. Add ground nuts and drop by teaspoonfuls on an ungreased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, 15 to 20 minutes, until light brown. Remove from pans at once.

Cranberry Hard Sauce.

- 4 tablespoons butter
 - 1½ cups confectioners' sugar
 - ¾ cup cranberry jelly
- Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly, adding the cranberry jelly gradually while creaming.

New Soft Styling Technique Calls for Definite Fullness

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

OF KEEN interest to designers of the coveted "something different" that adds zest to each season's modes are the exciting new silhouettes given to fashions through a soft styling technique that makes fullness its theme.

The versatile ways in which the new fullness is manipulated impresses one. In some instances skirts are frankly full all around, inspired no doubt by the dirndl vogue that has been having a successful run for some time. The all-around pleated skirts will hold good among foremost fashions not only for mid-season and spring, but their style prestige will endure the whole summer through. Unpressed pleats is also a favorite method with designers for acquiring desired fullness. Then, too, there is the circular-cut skirt that measures yards around the hem. It is getting lots of notice especially in the very new petticoat versions which are made to reveal a swish of taffeta or a splash of white that repeats the plique neckwear which finishes off the blouse. These petticoat dresses are providing a big separation on the new style program.

For women who cannot stand for more than a certain amount of fullness, the new skirts that make particular appeal show a controlled treatment in that they are smooth at the back and hips with fullness brought to the front in gathered or pleated panels. In both day and evening clothes this idea is carried out.

This matter of soft styling and intriguing fullness is by no means confined to the skirt but rather is consistently worked throughout the costume so as to preserve continuity in a unifying way. The smart coat and dress shown in the illustration tell the story better than words. The stunning coat is typical of the new trend to fullness. It is made of a rust-color wool in handsome texture. The definitely full skirt is balanced with a soft blouse top which has roomy sleeves gathered full into the wrist. A small muff and a hat of red fox complete the ensemble.

Very significant to this coat as to new color trends for spring. In the early collections special emphasis is placed on the importance of rust shades and mustard yellows and kindred hues with jewelry accompaniments of amber topaz and like stones. For immediate wear style-alert women are selecting chic little dresses tailored of sheer wools with a sophisticated simplicity that abounds in dramatic details.

Rows and rows of shirring achieve fullness for the dress pictured. This very high-style model by International is the type sure to call forth compliments wherever you go. Shirring at the waistline achieves a flattering dirndl. The bodice above the slim mid-riff corset adds a related soft touch. Horizontal shirring on the sleeves gives them that casual "pushed-up" look that indicates "last word" chic. Expert designing makes it a perfect dress for a busy social calendar that carries from luncheons to informal dinners and the theater. The three jeweled pins at the waistline are individual. A soft kid bag, kid gloves and a simple felt hat with face veil complete the costume. With her upweep hair-do she wears small, clip earrings foregoing any ornaments at the V-neckline.

Smart Plaid Coat

Plaids had such a good start this winter their style momentum is carrying right through into the mid-season and early spring style picture. A coat like the one shown here will prove a real joy during the coming months. The plaid itself is in green and brown. The wide bindings of plain green enhance the picture of a charming gay coat for winter. Large mother-of-pearl buttons add a final note of chic.

Pleated Vogue to Repeat Triumphs

Pleat it! And again fashion says pleat it, which is exactly what designers are doing for spring. Only this time the pleatings are more so than ever. That is the pleated mood permeates the whole scheme of things from neckline to hemline.

In the newer fashions it is not only the skirt that is pleated, but the whole thing, including blouse top sleeves and just as like as not a pleated bolero is added.

The use of pleats is taking on a decidedly designful flair. The versatile way pleats are being handled is clever beyond words. You see most unique touches especially in blouse styling such as pleats brought down from each shoulder to tie in a soft knot at the girdle top. Surplice pleats, that cross from shoulder to shoulder finishing in a bow at the waist-line with pleated streamers. Much of the charm of the newer print frocks lies in the fact of their lavish and unique pleatings.

Flounces Return With a Flourish
 Of all things, guess what's coming! It's flounces on your new frocks. Yes'm flounces old-fashioned, now new-fashioned flounces. The idea of flounces has been taken up by designers with a will and if you would be "first" in fashion you take your cue, right now and select for your newest gown one of the smartly flounced versions. The flounce trend is as apparent in day dresses as in evening floor-length party frocks.
Choice for Evening
 The stiff silks being used for evening gowns are tulle, faille and tafeta, while moire and grosgrain are the choice for stunning afternoon dresses.

C. Houston Goudiss Reports Some Current Knowledge of Vitamin G, a Substance Essential to Growth and Normal Nutrition

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A NUMBER of the vitamins have been discussed in these columns from time to time. The latest findings of nutritional science have been related, together with suggestions made by outstanding authorities concerning the amounts of different vitamins required to help maintain top health.

So far vitamin G has not been discussed specifically. Yet a knowledge of some of the functions and sources of this vitamin should be possessed by every homemaker. For eminent authorities are of the opinion that it has a far-reaching influence upon health.

Possible Effects on Longevity

The avowed objectives of modern nutritional scientists are to help humanity to enjoy happier, healthier and longer lives. If any one vitamin could be said to have more influence than any other on longevity, the distinction most certainly would be accorded—so far as present knowledge is concerned—to vitamin G.

Extensive laboratory experiments by investigators who are paramount in their field seem to indicate that vitamin G has a pronounced effect upon the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It has been demonstrated with experimental animals that a diet containing more vitamin G than is required for normal growth resulted in greater vigor, a postponement of the onset of senility and a comparatively short period of the mental and physical infirmities we usually associate with old age.

Effect on Digestion and Nerves

Laboratory experiments have also indicated that when there is a shortage of vitamin G, digestion is usually impaired. In this respect, a shortage of vitamin G has a slightly different effect than a deficiency of vitamin B. A definite lack of vitamin B causes an abrupt and complete loss of appetite. Withholding vitamin G appears to affect the desire for food, so that experimental animals consume only about two-thirds as much as they would normally take.

A form of nervous depression may occur when the diet is low in vitamin G for any protracted length of time. Other unfortunate consequences may be a decline in the health of the skin. Studies with animals indicated that when the vitamin was withheld, not only did a loss of weight occur, but there were other signs of nutritional failure. These included an inflammation of the mouth, a loss of hair, a thickening and in some cases, a cracking and scaling, of the skin.

Vitamin G and Healthy Eyes

Studies with a variety of experimental animals resulted in the startling disclosure that on diets lacking vitamin G the health of the eyes was distinctly affected. Not only was there a loss of hair around the eyes, but the eyeball developed a whitish appearance which was determined to be cataract.

At present, scientists are not prepared to say whether these laboratory findings may be confirmed clinically. But certainly when we know that in many ways, the food requirements of experimental animals are comparable to those in man, it would be distinctly to our advantage to make sure that we do not lack for adequate amounts of vitamin G.

Sources of Vitamin G

Because vitamin G is closely associated with vitamin B, some homemakers occasionally confuse the two. This is not surprising, inasmuch as it was some years following the initial recognition of vitamin B that scientists established beyond a doubt that there was more than one growth-promoting vitamin. Subsequently, they learned that while the substance, later named vitamin G, was frequently found in close association with vitamin B, such was not always the case. For example, vitamin G is known to occur without vitamin B in egg white.

Milk, Meat, Eggs, Greens

The richest sources of vitamin G are the concentrates of yeast, yeast extract and wheat germ. Almost equally well supplied with this vitamin are liver and kidney. Muscle cuts of meat contain vitamin G, but in lesser amounts than liver and kidney.

The vitamin is also found in young green plants, and it is interesting to note that the vitamin is formed during the growth of the plant and decreases with maturity. The amount of the vitamin has been found to vary with different parts of the same plant. In broccoli, the flower buds are said to contain only half as much as the leaves, while the stems contain even less. Among the greens, turnip tops and beet tops have been found to be unusually rich. Investigations indicate that weight for weight, they are twice as rich as eggs, though eggs are considered a good source.

Homemakers will be glad to learn that heating does not appear to destroy vitamin G. Canned foods are therefore as good a source as though they had not been processed.

Milk must not be overlooked. For all practical purposes, and chiefly because of the amounts in which it is consumed, it is probably our most important source of the G vitamin.

One thing is certain. Homemakers should strive—not for diets that are merely adequate in vitamin G . . . but for a surplus to help build high resistance. One authority has advised a ration that contains four times the amount considered absolutely necessary.

The surplus should help to provide a headstart toward the goal of buoyant health.

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. M. L.—The term, water balance, about which you inquired is used to describe the situation in which the available water from food, beverages, and that manufactured in the body equals that of the water excreted or lost from the body. It is to help keep the body in water balance that the daily diet must contain adequate amounts of fluids.

E. G. M. Jr.—Yes, it is true that approximately one-third of the protein required during infancy is stored by the child's body to take care of growth and development. As children grow older, the amount of protein stored for growth gradually decreases until they become adults.

When to Add Salt.—Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they're cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fiber of the meat and takes out the juices.

Baking Potatoes.—Potatoes will bake more quickly if, after peeling, they are wiped dry and smeared over with dripping before being put in the oven.

Larger Windows.—A small window may be made to look larger by setting the curtain rods beyond the casing on each side and using the draperies of a material heavy enough so that the casing will not be seen through the material.

Olive Oil Substitute.—Melted butter is a good substitute for olive oil in salad dressing.

When Papering.—It is well when papering a room to remember that large patterns and dark colors will make it appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light hue, will give an impression of increased size.

Fringed Celery.—Celery looks much more attractive on the table when fringed. To fringe, cut celery into two inch lengths. Fringe each stalk within a quarter of an inch from the center. Put into ice water to which a slice of lemon has been added and let stand until ends are curled.

Fighting Oil Blaze.—Never throw water on blazing oil. It will only spread the flames. Earth, flour or sand will extinguish the fire, but if these are not at hand a thick rug or curtain should be thrown on the burning oil.

For Scratched Furniture.—The best remedy for scratched furniture is a mixture of beeswax and turpentine, the former melted in the turpentine until it is as thick as sirup. Pour a little onto a piece of woolen cloth and rub it well into the scratched part. Then polish quickly with dry flannel and the marks will almost disappear.

Hitler Looks to Vast Ukraine, Europe's Last Hunting Ground

Observers Predict New Territorial Drive May Start Next Month; Groundwork Laid by Austrian, Czech Coups.

By JOSEPH W. LABINE

"When we talk of new lands in Europe, we are bound to think of Russia and her border states."

Fifteen years ago, from his prison cell in Munich, Adolf Hitler inscribed that statement in "Mein Kampf." Only two years ago, at the Nuremberg party conference, he spoke again:

"If the Urals with their incalculable wealth of raw materials, the rich forests of Siberia and the unending fields of the Ukraine lay within Germany, under National Socialist leadership, the country would swim in plenty."

Today these forecasts seem more ominous than ever. In the brief 12 months of 1938, Reichsfuehrer Hitler absorbed Austria, devitalized little Czechoslovakia and pummeled eastern Europe into economic and political submission. The groundwork is already laid; sage foreign observers look for his newest campaign—aimed at creation of a puppet Ukrainian republic—to start around February 1.

Potentialities Great.

It is a fearsome picture. In southern Russia, Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary are some 50,000,000 Ukrainians whose vast lands, if put under one flag, could constitute Europe's greatest and richest nation. For 300 years they have sought freedom, some from the pre-war Austrian-Hungarian empire, others from Russia's czarist regimes. Today the Russian Ukraine, which constitutes but 2 per cent of the Soviet's actual territory, supplies one-fifth of its wheat, one-third of its barley and three-quarters of its sugar beets. This land contains coal, iron and timber. Its Dnepropetrovsk power plant is second in size only to America's Boulder dam.

What Hitler would do with this vast territory is no more than the Ukrainians themselves would do if given a chance. He is merely seizing the opportunity to give the movement impetus and strength, guaranteeing that in return the Ukrainian republic will be his vassal state.

German interest in the Ukraine is not new. It dates back to the Russian revolution of 1917 when the Ukrainians—an entirely separate race from the Russians—proclaimed their independence and established a capital at historic Kiev. Pressed for food and supplies during the last year of the World war, Germany recognized the new republic at the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. In return the Ukraine agreed to supply Germany with a million tons of food annually.

Republic Already Attempted.

When the republic was overthrown by combined White Russian and Bolshevik opposition, Germany stepped in to establish a puppet government at Kiev under Paul Skoropadski, who is today leading the Pan-Ukrainian agitation from Berlin. This government also collapsed, and Russian Ukraine joined in 1919 with the newly organized Western Ukrainian People's republic. The following year this brave attempt at nationalization collapsed; Russian Ukraine went to the Moscow government and Western Ukraine to Poland.

Every German move of the past year has been well-reasoned and planned along lines of logical progression. For the moment, the most important fact is that each of these moves was essential to the Ukrainian campaign. First came Austria's Anschluss, which in turn permitted Germany to use a "pincher" play on Czechoslovakia. This barrier removed, Hitler went about his job of Nazifying the Balkans, carefully avoiding any indication that this program looked ultimately to the Ukraine.

It was not until November that the cat jumped out of the bag. Quietly, through pressure from Berlin,

ABOVE—The vast Ukraine, spreading over southern Russia, including a third of Poland and reaching into Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania. Economic-political control over this huge area would give Germany a strangle hold on European raw materials.

Against France, German agents have poured into Carpatho-Ukraine. Other measures have been directed at Poland, whose Ukrainian districts of Volhynia and Halicz have presented the Warsaw parliament with demands for territorial autonomy. Although self-government demands have been growing for 10 years, this is the first time a concrete proposal has been presented.

What shape Germany's Ukrainian campaign will take can only be guessed. Certainly Hitler cannot be so blunt as to march his troops into Polish or Russian territory without a provocation, but he may follow the currently popular technique of fostering an "incident" which would offer an excuse for marching into foreign territory to "safeguard peace." Since Carpatho-Ukraine is the jumping-off place, a revolt could be planted there very conveniently. Already Czechoslovakia and Poland are at swords ends because Ukrainian agitation is being fomented on Czech soil. Should Germany march in to settle this dispute she would meet no opposition from subservient Czechoslovakia.

Actors Play in 2x4 Workshop To Learn Stagecraft Business

The hero clasps the heroine in his arms—and the curtain falls on the second act of a stirring drama. The stagehands and technicians hurry to arrange the settings for the final thrilling act which takes the characters from the wilds of Africa to a London drawing room.

The complete change of scenery, lights and props is accomplished in just three minutes, and the veteran stage manager, Jack Reidy, nods approvingly.

"Now sound the buzzers in the dressing rooms and get set for the curtain," he orders. "Stand by the control board to dim the lights backstage. We'll use the twilight effect."

It's all strictly big-time stuff—but the whole procedure of stage technique is being worked out under the proscenium of a unique miniature theater and the stagehands, technicians and electricians are students of the Columbia College of Drama and Radio at Chicago.

Columbia's theater, which is believed to be the most complete and faithful copy of a modern stage ever constructed, is Reidy's idea for training aspiring thespians in every detail of stage craft. Thirty years trouping as an actor and technical authority backed up Reidy's construction of the little theater which measures 42 inches in width, 36 inches in height and 32 inches in depth. The stage opening is 28 inches across.

Every detail is precisely to scale—one inch to a foot—from proscenium arch to back wall.

There are ceiling pieces which are stored in a rigger loft, curtains, drops, scenery, solid doors, parallels and platforms and a complete lighting system of footlights, spots, X-ray border for colored effects and bunch lights—all operated from a tiny control board. Reidy put in more than eight months' work in designing and constructing the faithful working model of a theater.

"We've found that this provides the most practical way of teaching what goes on behind the curtain," Reidy says. "Students are unable to grasp the details when they are confronted with the maze of technical devices in a life-size theater. But with the miniature to work with, their own hands and eyes teach them every function of the involved processes."

Glasses Need Not Detract From Beauty

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

SOME beauty authorities stress eye make-up if you must wear eyeglasses, but I stress hair styling and lip rouge.

In the first place, if your eyes are so weak that constant use of glasses is necessary, the less you tamper with them the better. The simplest care of daily bathing—with a reliable lotion, and healing drops prescribed by your ophthalmologist—will be the extent of your fussing. Plenty of rest and eye exercise, of course, but no mascara nor eye shadow nor penciling.

Touch up your brows, yes, and keep them trim. But do not pluck them to a thin line. Many physicians offer the opinion that too frequent plucking of the eyebrows weakens the eyes. So you see?

Concentrate on Hair and Lips

Put on your glasses and sit before your mirror. Comb your hair softly around your face. Change your regular part. Experiment.

In most cases, hair brought down softly over the ears, fluffed a bit to fall out on the cheek, just below the ear shaft of the glasses, is the most flattering.

But if you are the sleek type, and comb your hair back from your face, then you must accent your lips to detract from the frames. Full lips of rich color, not too deep, does a lot for you.

Sleek or feminine in hair style, the manner in which you rouge your lips is most important. Try two lipsticks. The lighter color for the upper lip, the deeper tone for the lower lip. Liquid lip rouge painted on with a fine brush and a steady hand, is the most lasting. It takes a little practice to apply it well, but it is worth the effort in the end.

Keep your hair glossy, with daily care, and nicely set. Keep your skin clear and your teeth sparkling white; your brows trim and your lip coloring intact and I can vouch that your eyeglasses will be hardly noticed.

If you feel the desire for some eye make-up, rely on vaseline or a reliable eye oil with which to lightly massage your lids and lashes. They glisten and give some depth to the eyes, and are also beneficial.

Health Essential To Charm

A rule she teaches is: "Watch your health. Sleep, exercise and drink water. Too many women in this country are below par. Nothing reveals your character to people more quickly than the expression you carry, your voice and your state of health."

"If you are physically below par you may have a nervous disorder, which should be taken care of, but otherwise you should be able to keep well by eating proper food at regular hours, getting eight, nine or ten hours of sleep, and by exercising in the fresh air and sunlight."

"Don't always complain of being tired and of things making you nervous. If your health is good you are not nervous, merely cranky, and people soon discover it. If your health is poor do something about it."

Strong words, aren't they? And here are some more well worth digesting and particularly suited to the growing girl.

"Don't count on being only beautiful. You can overestimate the appeal of a beautiful face, a tiny waist or long lashes. Cultivate wit, humor, tact, genuineness. Pay attention to your posture, carriage and gesture. Develop gentleness of gesture, a pleasing manner. Be yielding in your dealing with others, never dictatorial, never too aggressive. And above all things be particular about your personal appearance. Dress neatly, appropriately, and with an eye to the decorative. Never, never be overdressed!"

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

Care of the Hair
Not all women can afford the luxury of having their hair done by a professional every week. But with a little practice, you can do a professional job yourself.

Cleanliness of the hair is the first requisite. This means a good shampoo at regular intervals. Then choose a hairdress that you can handle yourself. Stay away from anything elaborate or extreme. That requires a really professional touch.

If you want curls, make them few and substantial. The trick combs that curl and comb at the same time are a big help. For grooming, the maker of one of these combs has a quick drying lacquer that makes an excellent setting fluid. The bottle has an atomizer, permitting you to spray the lacquer where you want it.

This lacquer helps tremendously with the new high hair-do. Spray it on the stragglers at the back of your neck and comb them flat. Your hair will stay in place for a long time.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Advertising: Sandwich men run pretty much to type, that is in the way of equipment—two boards and cards to hand out. Occasionally there is variation. For instance, that old man who parades Forty-second street doing publicity for a pants-to-match establishment. As he comes toward you, his sign is topped with a white man. Going away from you, the man is colored. It remained for Bill, however, driving away up on Broadway, to discover something unique. The sandwich man had the usual boards. But instead of carrying cards, he had a portable radio which was playing loud and strong. The light changed before Bill could tell whether he was attached to his employer's establishment with wires but at any rate, he attracted a lot of attention. And what was he advertising? You'd never guess—a radio store.

Controversy: Whether to do the hair up or down has split the fair sex into two factions. It seems that Hollywood's stars refuse to pile their hair on top of their heads—and that recently 60 of the New York's smartest debas, gathered at a luncheon with their hair down. Those who argue against the hair up hold that it lives an older appearance and that no hair fashion in the last decade has been more flattering to a woman than the "casual coiffure" which falls in soft curls at the nape of her neck. And so despite the dictates of a fashion which says, up, one of the town's big department stores advertised that "hair up is out." As for me, I'm neutral. I can't forget the sad fate of my campaign against red fingernails—a campaign that came home to roost.

Pictorial: Years and years ago, a young photographer started in business in Yorkville. An expert and conscientious workman, he specialized in children. He began with baby pictures and went on up through the years. Then came wedding pictures and next pictures of children of those whom he had pictured as children. He's now working on the third generation. Having kept specimens of the work he has done, his studio is now a pictorial history of that section of the city.

Grim: There have been only seven electrocutions at Sing Sing prison during the last year. This is a record; over a nine-year period the average number has been 18 each year. The present low may or may not indicate a falling off in crimes for which the sentence is death. But it does indicate a falling off in the income of Robert Elliott. The state executioner is paid $150 each time he throws the switch.

Useful: Mrs. Louise Hamer told me of the woman who got on a subway train at an uptown station with a big bass viol. The doghouse or rowboat, or whatever swing musicians call it, was in a case of course and in the case were two pockets. After some trouble, the woman found a seat and propped the bass violin beside her. Then she opened the bottom pocket and took out knitting needles and yarn. All the way downtown, her needles flew. And Mrs. Hamer never did learn what she carried in the other pocket in the bass viol case. But she believes it might have been her luncheon.

End Piece: New York color scheme as painted by Andre Baruch: Skyscraper gray, taxicab yellow, Union Square red, greenhorns, blues singers, the Great White Way and that well-known dark brown taste. To which might be added the Wall street gold and Park avenue purple.

Allied Memory Bell in Verona, Italy, Recast

VERONA, ITALY.—A bronze Bell cast from the metal guns of the Allied armies, which for several years has rung the daily sunset signal at Roverto in memory of the dead of the World war regardless of nationality, has been recast in a Verona factory after developing a flaw.

During the recasting gold and silver objects donated by the governments of 14 former belligerents and by a large number of individuals were dropped into the liquid metal. The new bell, which is larger than the original and stands 9 feet high, will soon be sent back to the historic castle at Roverto to resume the memorial sunset signal.

Halt Beavers' Inroads By Polite Blackmail

REGINA, SASK.—Blackmail is being steadily awaited a colony of 25 beavers on the outskirts of Regina.

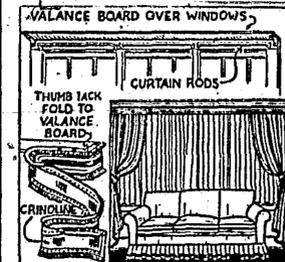

The beavers took up winter residence in a creek near a school. The school has several hundred young willow trees growing on the banks of the creek. The busy animals, intent on building homes, started to gnaw down the prize trees.

No way was found to halt the destruction. Finally school authorities were blackmailed into nailing poplar trees to the creek bank for the beavers. The willow trees were saved.

How to Curtain a Group of Windows

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS SPEARS: I am now planning new draperies to dress my living room up a bit. One group of three windows is especially difficult as the davenport has to be placed in front of them. Can you give me a suggestion? I think I would like a plain valance without gathers or pleats across the top. How should this be made and hung? I have just made a beige slipcover for the davenport with green piping and bands.—A. D. W."

I would use plain cream colored glass curtains for all three windows and overdrapes at the ends only. A striped material in tones of tan and green and blue would be nice for the draperies with a narrow fringe edging in green and tan or green and blue. A valance board at the top of the windows is essential when a plain valance is used. This board should be four inches wide and 1/2 inch thick. It is screwed in place with L brackets. Ordinary metal curtain rods are placed just under it for the glass curtains and side drapes. The plain valance should be long enough to fit around the ends of the board and should be about six inches deep finished. It should be stiffened with an interlining of crinoline, and an allowance should be made at the top for a tuck or fold to be tacked to the board as shown.

Coolidge's Tributes

Writing of the death of his mother, Calvin Coolidge said: "In an hour, she was gone. It was her thirty-ninth birthday. I was 12 years old. We laid her away in the blustering snows of March. The greatest grief that can come to a boy came to me. Life was never to be the same again. . . . Five years and 41 years later almost to a day, my sister and my father followed her. It always seemed to me that the boy I lost was her image."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter. The kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, patches under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a drastic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your doctor the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

CHAPTER XI

Mrs. Sentry went to see her husband on the morning after the jury's verdict was returned. Phil drove her to the prison, but she would not let him come in.

"Not this time, Phil," she said, and she was smiling, something in her eyes which he had never seen there before. "Not this time," she repeated. "This is for Arthur and me. A reunion, Phil."

And she got out of the car and walked almost proudly toward the forbidding door; and Phil watched her, wondering at the change in her in these recent days. She seemed increasingly frail; but also she seemed somehow younger, and there was a quality in her countenance he found it hard to name, a sort of translucent clarity, as though all confusion was gone out of her and her heart was quite serene.

When she came out, not long after, she wore radiance. She got in beside Phil, and she leaped suddenly and kissed him and said, "You look as he did when we were young, Phil."

He set the car in motion. "How is he?" he asked.

"I left him fine."

He nodded. "Did you make any plans? About the appeal, or anything? Or about buying out Mr. Loran?"

She even laughed a little. She said: "Heavens, no! We just talked about each other." And after a moment she told him, "Phil, everything he said about what happened that night was true."

"I believe him," he assented. "But of course what we believe doesn't help much."

"It helps me much," she confessed. "It helps me. So long as I know—I can manage not to mind so much what others believe. Whatever happens."

They came home thus, and went up to see Barbara; and Barbara watched her mother and seemed in some way to be better suddenly. And the days went on.

It was Mr. Sentry himself who presently assumed the decisive voice in the matter of buying the business from Mr. Loran. Phil and his mother were still uncertain what to do about this, when Mr. Hare came to the house a few days after the trial ended to say that Mr. Sentry had sent for him, had discussed the question.

"I told him Mr. Loran's proposition," he explained. "He feels that the valuation set up by Mr. Loran is too low, and so he believes it is better to buy than to sell."

Mrs. Sentry said: "What about payment? I should not care to buy on anything but a cash basis."

Hare assured her: "That can be managed. I went over it with Mr. Sentry, and later with his brokers. His investments are in good shape."

"I prefer not to see Mr. Loran myself," Mrs. Sentry remarked. "It would be painful to him and to me."

"Of course," Hare agreed. "But I can handle the whole transaction, under proper powers."

She asked, after a moment, "Has Mr. Sentry talked with Mr. Falkran about the appeal?"

"No. Falkran is to see him tomorrow morning."

"Mr. Falkran was here yesterday," she explained. "To discuss it with me. To explain some of the things—" And she said: "I did not always understand him, the technical points. I told him we wished to take every proper measure. But I warned him that we did not want any tricks, evasions, miserable meaningless delays." She asked suddenly, "What do you think, Dean?"

Hare hesitated. "Well, it's possible he might get a new trial."

"Do you feel that Mr. Sentry had a fair trial?"

The lawyer hesitated. "I'm not experienced in criminal cases," he said evasively.

Mrs. Sentry nodded. "I see. You think he did."

Phil urged, "But Mr. Hare, another jury might believe father; might believe it was an accident." Then he was silenced; for the postman had just rung, and Nellie came in with letters for Mrs. Sentry. She glanced at the topmost.

"Oh!" she whispered. "It's from Mary!" And instantly her eyes were fountains.

Dear Mother and the rest of you: Well, I've been following the fortunes of the grand old family name in the home papers, Stout fellows, all of you, to stick with the sinking ship; but even a rat knows enough to leave on such occasions. I'm the rat. Sorry, but there it is.

I've got a sinking ship on my own hands, but there will be plenty of salvage. After we left home, we honey-mooned as far as New York, and by that time, being mutually bored, were ready for company. Picked up half a dozen on such congenial spirits, and a hundred cases of ditto, tried Jamaica, Havana, Bermuda, and other places too numerous to mention. Finally drifted back here to get rid of our sea legs and pink elephants and red, white, and blue mice.

Since then I've had some trouble finding places to lay my head, my own bed being so often occupied; but Florida has decided to go after the divorce trade in a big way, so I won't even have to go to Reno. It's hot here already, but I can stand it till my sentence is served. The lawyers say I'll get about a thousand dollars a month and found; and I've got another place in sight. Fine old Italian family from Rio. The boy's only twenty-four, with no mother to guide him, and he can't resist my rapidly maturing charms. He counts his best years, I am told, in terms of light years. We shall probably live on the Riviera.

Give my dearest love to father. It's through him I have met so many charming people.

Your Mary

Phil read, and his face was like ice. He crumpled the stiff newspaper in his hand and strode toward the fireplace, without looking at his mother, without speaking; but she said quickly: "No, Phil. You didn't read the last page."

Phil looked at her then, saw again her tears; but he saw too that they were not tears of anger, nor even of hopeless grief; and he smoothed out the wrinkled paper and read on the other side, like a belated postscript:

Mother, when I was little and terribly hurt, I'd run to you, crying, and kick your shins awfully, and then feel better. Remember? You never seemed to mind, seemed to understand.

He read these lines two or three times, and some faint understanding came to him. He said, half-reluctant, "You want to keep it?"

"Yes."

"Going to write to her?"

"Just a line," she said. "Just three or four words. That's all she wants, all I can give."

He left her with the letter in her hands, smoothing it across her knees, stroking it almost caressingly. As he passed through the hall, he heard her deep inhalation, as though it were hard to fill her aching, empty lungs.

Mary was gone, he thought; lost to them. And Barbara too? She no longer showed a temperature every night and morning, yet except when Dan was with her she seemed weak and weaker, as though her life were draining slowly away. Phil went up to her now.

He found her lying relaxed, flat on her back, her legs straight, her hands at her sides; and near her head the clock ticked, ticked. The room was very still, and Phil looked at her and thought she was asleep, and then she spoke, as she sometimes did in her sleep, in almost natural tones.

She murmured, "—bite off my tongue."

Phil, remembering Doctor Main-ton's instructions, asked softly: "Why? Why, Barb?" He came near her, sat close beside her.

"I won't tell!" she murmured. "I won't tell! I'll bite off my tongue!" "You don't have to tell anything, Barb dear."

She said, in a dull fashion: "I don't want to go to sleep. I dream if I sleep. I'm not asleep, not asleep."

"No." "They can't make me tell." "Of course not, Barb."

She whispered, eyes tight closed: "But I saw him, saw him that night, down there. Mr. Flood knows I know, and he'll try to make me tell."

"It's all right, Barb." "I can't tell if I can talk, can I?" She smiled in a sly, secret fashion.

"No," she said. "No, I'm thinking."

"What are you thinking?" "If I can't talk, they can't make me, can they? Because if I did, it would kill him. And he didn't do it, Phil!"

Phil touched her brow to see whether she was feverish. Her head was cool, yet at his touch she moved convulsively, like one awakening. Her eyes opened and she saw him, and she said quickly: "I won't talk. I won't talk. I can't talk."

"You're talking now, Barb. You're all right."

"Oh!" she whispered. "Was I?" "Yes," he assured her. "You were talking as well as anyone."

"I heard myself," she admitted, and she said: "Phil, I'm better! I'm better, Phil!"

"You're fine," he told her. His own heart was pounding; he was glad for the drawn shades, the shadows in the room, so that she could not see his excitement. "You can talk, Barb. You can talk now."

"Yes," she said, wonderingly. "I can talk. Why, I am talking. Phil, I heard myself talking in my sleep."

"You're not asleep now. You're talking now." His pulse raced with the thought: She is better, better! "I can talk to mother!" she cried.

"Phil, I can talk to mother!" "Yes, to anyone."

"To Linda?" "Yes, of course."

"To Dan?" "Yes, to Dan."

He saw color suffuse her white cheek. "To Dan," she whispered. "To Dan, to Dan." Murmuring, her eyes drooping. "Dan . . . Dan . . ." And quietly, she was asleep.

Phil saw her breathing ease to a regular and even beat. When he could leave without awakening her, he went in haste to tell his mother; and to telephone jubilantly to Doctor Malpton.

The doctor was delighted. "Fine!" he cried. "She may sleep twelve hours, twenty-four; but she'll wake as good as new."

He was almost right. Barbara slept till noon next day; and when she woke, she spoke easily and naturally. On the second day she was able to sit up; on the third, to get out of bed.

But before that, another thing had happened to bring them something like peace. Mr. Falkran saw his client; Mr. Sentry directed him not to appeal.

After it had been determined to buy out Mr. Loran, Phil accepted the decision almost gratefully.

The dissolution of the partnership was arranged to take place as of April 1. During the interval before that date, Phil went daily to the office. Mr. Loran, as he had expected, received him with restraint. Phil saw that Loran, too, had suffered from the ordeal they had all endured; and when their first talk of business matters was done, the boy said apologetically:

"Mr. Loran, I want to tell you. Mother and I didn't know—what was going to happen at the trial. I mean, about mentioning you."

"Forget it," Mr. Loran told him. "Damned lawyer's trick, that's all; to throw mud at random and try to make it stick. Falkran knew that. Just dragging a dead herring across the trail." And he said: "I'm going out of town tomorrow. Be back April 1 to clean up the whole thing here. You can be learning the ropes. And of course, Miss Randall has been here nearly twenty years. She could run the business alone if you let her. You'll get along."

Phil had his misgivings; but when after the first of April he took full charge, matters went to his own surprise—very well. On routine matters, Miss Randall could advise him; and the momentum of the business would carry it for a while. There were resignations, but none that were sufficiently important to cripple the organization. And those major decisions, in which a mistake in judgment might have proved costly, did not crowd upon him.

But despite this, his world was suddenly awry. From the day the papers had been signed, he saw little of Linda. She sometimes came to the house, and he had glimpses of her; but she never stayed long, and Phil missed her, and one evening told her so.

"I don't blame you, of course," he said reluctantly. "After all, you've given us a lot of time, been wonderfully generous. I can understand that you have other things—"

She smiled secretly. "I'm very busy just now, Phil," she admitted.

He had, during April, other concerns. Three times he saw his father, going to the state prison with Mr. Hare. It was necessary for Phil to acquaint himself with every detail of the family affairs. In lieu of a will, Mr. Sentry made deeds of gift; and arrangements were concerted to meet gift or inheritance taxes without a sacrifice of assets.

Also, he set up a trust for Mr. Wines, the father of the dead girl, so that the old man's remaining years of life might be secure.

At the end of the third occasion, all was done; and then, under the guard's eye, Phil and his father bade each other good-by.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

NEW YORK.—Dr. Robert H. Goddard, experimenting with rockets for the last 24 years, and steadily making progress, has had as his goal the penetration of the higher atmosphere, the possible catapulting of messages across the ocean, and sundry scientific inquiries to which he has thought his unique gunnery might supply the answer. Although much Jules Vernish stuff has been written about his "rockets to the moon" and about shooting people across the Atlantic in a few minutes, he has been an aloof and patient scientist, intent on seeing only what he sees and not making any handsome promises.

So far as this courier knows, the suggestion by Maj. James R. Randolph that rockets may replace heavy artillery, for long-range bombardment of cities, is the first official recognition of their possible use in warfare. He specifically cites the work of Doctor Goddard, at a time when Doctor Goddard is piling up new patents and getting some of his biggest sizzlers under control. It is also the time when the tiny, motored plane, evolving from the toy, and controlled by radio, is absorbing the interest of the army experimenters as a possible bomb-dropper.

At Roswell, N. M., financed by the Daniel Guggenheim foundation, Doctor Goddard has a unique desert laboratory with plenty of elbow room and sky room. He now has a gyro steering mechanism on his rockets, by which they may be accurately aimed. He has gained 30 per cent in range over his best shots of two years ago, and is now forcing his rockets to a speed of 700 miles per hour.

His most valuable contribution to rocketeering, noted by Major Randolph, is his continuous flow of power, instead of the single initial explosion. Gasoline and oxygen, mixing and exploding as they issue from a tall nozzle, give steady propulsion.

Doctor Goddard, an amiable, unassuming, balding man, began his rocket experiments at Clark university in 1914. He is a physicist, absorbed in pure science, admitting that we might hit the moon with a rocket if we wanted to spend that much power, but so far he keeps down to earth on immediate and specific problems—and makes progress.

IT DOES begin to look as though scientists will be the loudest of all when "Deulah Land" rings out at the next singfest. Once upon a time, religionists looked warily whenever a man of science opened his mouth, because so many of them were arguing against a hereafter. But Sir Richard Gregory, with his "It is just as permissible to assume that another world awaits habitation of an exalted type of humanity as it is to believe in the eternal existence of individuality," is only the latest of many to hit the sawdust trail.

Emeritus professor of astronomy, Queens college, London, is one of his present distinctions, and he is also a former editor of the magazine, Nature. The stars have been his chief guide for most of the years since he was born in 1861. How much their lessons helped him to his knighthood, 1919, and his baronetcy, 1931, is a question. But certainly, along with his acknowledged interest in heaven, they must take responsibility for his chief books, "The Vault of Heaven" and "Discovery, or the Spirit of Serjyle of Science."

PROF. WALTER B. CANNON of Harvard avoided a mistake made by Howard Scott. When Mr. Scott appeared as the John the Baptist of technocracy, he started taking our measure for its immediate application. When Professor Cannon put out "bipocracy" several years ago, as a cure for the ills of the "body politic," he made it clear that we could take it or leave it. Hence, while bipocracy is still in the suspense file, Professor Cannon finds honor and advancement as the newly-elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which body is driving for some grand scale rationalization of science and society. That's the main idea of bipocracy—a society which is not at war with the life force.

He is one of the most distinguished physiologists in America, given to novel research. He is the discoverer of a method by which we may hear our brains ticking.

Lost Tribe of Apache Indians Found by an Explorer on a Tour of Mexico

An explorer's story of a lost tribe of Apache Indians, mostly women and children clad in buckskins and fighting with primitive bows and arrows for existence in the mountains of Mexico, saddened the office of Indian affairs, states a writer in the Washington Star.

Commissioner John Collier writes of "this strange and sad account" given the Indian office by Dr. Helge Ingstad, Norwegian ethnologist, in a recent issue of Indians at Work.

Doctor Ingstad, formerly governor of Greenland and Spitzbergen, proved that the "Lost Apaches of Mexico" are not a myth when he sought them last year, Mr. Collier said.

"There is a vast mountain," the commissioner wrote, "150 miles below Douglas, Ariz., in Mexico. It rises to 13,000 feet and is cleft with huge canyons.

"There, on ledges such as mountain-lions-or-eagles-might-occupy, or constantly moving from place to place, sometimes, afoot, sometimes on stolen horses, and weapons except for bows and arrows, and living on desert wild plants; there, Doctor Ingstad states, are the Lost Apaches.

"Most of the survivors are women, with a few children. Doctor Ingstad never talked with them face to face, but saw them at distances of 100 yards, clad in buckskins, fleeing on."

"The ancient Apache-Mexican feud carries down, and 'Kill them on sight' is the rule toward Apaches, he says.

"Their extinction could be prevented if they could be reached and led back to the United States. Possibly Doctor Ingstad will try again, next year. He is returning to Norway, leaving this strange and sad account with the Indian office."

While the Chief Slept That tragical Black Hole affair of Calcutta, enshrined in English history, would probably never have occurred if the Subah of the country had not fallen asleep. For, as history tells the story, the cries of the 150 miserable Englishmen, crowded into a narrow space without ventilation and in danger of suffocation, touched the hearts of the Hindus who were guarding them, but their chief, the Subah, was asleep, and no one in Bengal dared to disturb his slumbers and request an order for the relief of the sufferers!
