Red Cross Roll Call

The American Red Cross, confronted with increased demands of the current national defense program and growing needs for widening its regular domestic operations, on November 11 embarked on its greatest membership Roll Call since the days of the first World War. Mr. John Hall, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call of the Lincoln County Chapter, declared today.

The first 1941 membership dollar was sent in to the Roll Call headquarters on the opening date by Mrs. Blanche D. Johnson of San Patricio. Mr. Frank English was the first Carrizozo member for 1941.

This year an effort is to be made to obtain many $5.00 contributing memberships, which gives $4.50 for the Red Cross work in this county and 50c to support National Red Cross service.

You may mail or bring your membership contribution to Roll Call headquarters at the Carrizozo Hardware building if you are not solicited.

Obituary

Jean Laxague was born August 29, 1894 in the town of Aldudes, state of Basses, Pyrenees, France. He came to New York, April 11, 1913 and later went to Trinidad, Colorado. In 1917 he came to Carrizozo and became the partner of Louis Nalda, sheepgrower and ranchman; which partnership was retained, so far as the land interests were concerned, until Mr. Laxague's death which occurred at his ranch home during the early morning hours November 7th, 1940. He was considered a very good man, and an excellent neighbor, and friend by his associates.

Besides his partner, Mr. Louis Nalda, he is survived by an uncle in Los Angeles, Calif., and a brother and sister who live in France.

Funeral services were held at the Catholic church last Monday, with Rev. Fr. Salvatore in charge followed by interment in the local cemetery.

His casket was covered with beautiful flowers sent by friends.

Everybody's Thankful Except Tom Turkey And—the Guy That Prints Your Calendar

By BOB WUNDERMAN... Thanksgiving Day (the most... of the year) will be... November 22, this year.

Dig down deep into your old... in the attic and find... a calendar of a few... years ago.

No matter where a person... in this country, he saw the... same date marked with red.

Some calendars place Thank... on the 14th, and some on... the 15th. Other calendars... with a deep desire to... mark either date or else... printed them both in red.

Printers were placed in a... dilemma only once before in... the nation's history. That was... in 1775 when the celebrated... Thanksgiving date was... around the... to... and... of... day.

For many years it has been... the custom for the President... to proclaim the last Thursday... of November as Thanksgiving... day. For years it was an... established date. Various plans... and even big international... and traditional, good... were... for the... date.

Requested for Change... Then last year President... surprised the nation by... the famous "move it up a week"... proclamation. It all happened... way less than... months ago.

Retail merchants throughout... the United States who are... through the course of their... are... well in advance... are... disturbed in the... over the possibility of the... Christmas period... to be a... week shorter this year... than last.

It seems impossible to... the general public in... for Christmas and the... Thanksgiving day... of the... way, and... as it is... for granted that the... Thanksgiving day... for the last Thursday... of the... month... will... mean that all the... of... Christmas business... will have to be... transacted within... of... three weeks and two days.

As of course, you know, the... preparations which the... people make for the... holiday play a... important part in... the economy of the... nation.

I think it is no... exaggeration to say that from 12 to 15 per cent of... the entire business of... retail stores is... transacted in the... period between... Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Pro-Christmas Shopping... I have not sufficient... to seek to influence the... President of the... United States in... connection with the... Mr. Hahn was just as... surprised as you or I when... the President announced... that he intended moving... Thanksgiving day... ahead from the... fourth of November... to the twenty-third.

That's the picture of... the man whose letter... persuaded Mr. Roosevelt... to give the turkey... one week less of... life.

These first Thanksgiving... days were big events... on the social... calendar of pioneering... New England. Our... historians tell us that... the first Thanksgiving... was held in 1621, in... Plymouth and were, for... the main, gastronomic... pot-licks held largely... for... diplomatic... conferences with the... ever-ready-to-go-on-the-... warpath Indians. Pumpkin... pie and plum pudding... were the... savory... invitations that lured... the redskins from his... wind-swept... tepee down to the... festive laden boards of... the Pilgrims.

No Official Date... While the Pilgrims set... aside this day to greet... their "fellow-men" and... give thanks for the... crops, there was no... official date set for... the observance.

In Boston, 10 years later, hungry... colonists—lured there... eagerly... scanning the sky-line... for a sight of the... ship that had left for... England six months... before. Food was low;... moral was low; the... governor's wit... however, was running... on full steam. He... gathered them together... and in order to preserve... what little food they... had left, declared that... there should be held a... "day-of-fast" to...

seek the Lord by prayer and fasting that he might hasten the voyage of the life-saving ship bearing provisions.

Towards evening on the "day of fast" a tree-top observer gave a shout of joy "A speck in the distance Mayhapp a sail."

Mindless of the wind and spray that flew over them, the colonists gathered on the coast-line and shouted in joy as the speck grew larger and larger.

Hunger and 'Tummy-Ache' The next day the pangs of hunger in the stomachs of those settlers turned to the growling pangs of "tummy-ache" as the governor ordered a spontaneous Thanksgiving day and handed out provisions enough for all.

That first Boston Thanksgiving day, incidentally, was held on February 23, over a century before the birth of George Washington, "the father of his country." Premature but prophetically enough, cause for Thanksgiving.

In the years that followed, Thanksgiving days were observed, but not annually. Several times there were lapses in between years. When Thanksgiving days were finally held, they were marked by some special reason such as good harvests, deliverance from small-pox, good weather, and prayer for deliverance of the danger to their frontiers.

In 1703, after Thanksgiving days had been pretty well established, the town of Colechester, in Connecticut, postponed Thanksgiving one week due to a deficiency of molasses. The shortage was tragedy since in those early days, molasses was a "symbol" of Thanksgiving day, just as Easter eggs symbolize Easter to the kiddies and candy striped canes represent Christmas.

Too Much 'Molasses.' This postponement caused the older Puritans to lament the fact that Thanksgiving day was fast becoming, "so much a thing of molasses and other good eatables, and so little a day of solemn religious ceremony."

During the Revolution, continental congress appointed Thanksgiving days which variously fell in April, May, July and December. From 1704 to 1763 there were no Thanksgiving days, but in the latter year, congress recommended to George Washington that a day be set aside for Thanksgiving that Americans might give thanks to the Almighty that the Constitution of the United States had been adopted.

George Washington, in 1793, set aside December 18 as Thanksgiving day that "we might thank Him that the insurrection had been suppressed." There is no record as to what the dry-goods merchants of that era said or wrote to him.

In 1816, President James Madison urged congress to name a Thanksgiving day in honor of peace. In 1863 Abraham Lincoln received and acted upon a suggestion to make the Thanksgiving day an annual affair. He recommended the same to congress—and advised that it be held in November. It has been a November day ever since.

And so, on November 21 of this year, by proclamations of the President and the governors of the various states, 32,000,000 turkeys will end their days on platters, surrounded by steaming potatoes, gleaming cranberries, succulent pumpkin pie and all the trimmings that go along to make Thanksgiving day the feast that it is.

A few states will continue to observe Thanksgiving on November 23, while several, as they did last year, will observe two Thanksgivings.

Pity the poor turkey.

Expanding Business Creates More Jobs

Current business conditions as they affect every area of the United States are reflected in this map prepared by LaSalle Extension University of Chicago.

By L. G. ELLIOTT (President, LaSalle Extension University) More goods are being turned out by our mills and factories than at any other time in the last 10 years. The continued increase in business activity has pushed factory pay rolls and consumer buying steadily higher. They are now over 10 per cent above a year ago, and retail trade prospects for the next few months are promising. Over 1,000,000 persons have been put back to work during the past year, and employment in industry is continuing to improve. The added purchasing power that is provided is increasing the demand for manufactured goods and farm products. The increase has taken place in every part of the country and in most of the major lines of industry. The largest gains in recent weeks have been made in those industries which are most directly affected by the armament program and by large governmental expenditures. The trend is upward, and indications point toward further expansion.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Ready, Lynn took one last swift look around the apartment. It was her good-bye to it. But they did not leave. It was Marty again who answered the door. He thought it was the orchids he had ordered for Lynn. But it was not. It was a cable. Lynn, standing there ready, motioned to Marty to open the message with a trembling hand. The message was terse, seven short words: "Rene Bouchier died 11 o'clock, American Hospital."

Slowly he handed it to Lynn. She could not believe it.

"Cruel!" she cried.

It was to Marty, crying unashamed, that Lynn turned now for comfort. So it came about, Lynn Morrow did not sail after all.

That night after Marty left, Lynn began her unpacking wearily. There was a front-page story that night in all the newspapers. Rene, the rising young genius, was dead.

To Lynn it seemed incredible that his genius was stilled forever. Just when life promised everything for him. She chided herself that she had not gone to Rome with him.

"I would have looked after him. This never would have happened."

But all this was too late.

"He knew he was going to die!" Lynn, weeping alone, hoped desperately he had known she was coming to him. Life must go on.

But life had changed for Lynn. Something had gone out of it. It seemed strange to be in a world without Rene. Lynn had only one burning regret now, that she had not been a wife to him. He had needed her and she had failed him.

Just after New Year's Day Chuck and Helen asked Lynn to have a quiet dinner with them at their club. Helen wrote that the matter was important.

"We're leaving for Algiers at the end of the week and we want to see you, anyway," she wrote.

Lynn hesitated; she had gone no place since Christmas. But Helen was so insistent that she finally agreed. Helen had warned her to look her prettiest, and, as Lynn dressed, she looked at her white face with disfavor. She chose a black frock—she could not force herself to wear anything else—and Chuck sent her some yellow orchids. She felt she would be a disappointment to Helen, and to the friend whom Helen wanted her to meet that evening. Helen was such a darling, always plotting. Lynn smiled wistfully. What was the use?

Chuck was waiting for her and, had she looked, she could have seen the admiration in his eyes. She always took his breath away when he had not seen her in a long time.

"They're waiting in the bar, Lynn. You look gorgeous!" He gave her hand a squeeze, unable to mention Rene. Her sad eyes told him more than she could say.

"Be nice to this fellow we have at dinner, Lynn," he warned as they took the elevator up to the bar. Lynn smiled. Chuck was so oblivious in his excitement. He looked so happy, Lynn was herself content. At least he had solved his troubles.

When Lynn joined Helen and her guest she was surprised to find him fat and old. His name was Arnold Katzman. The four chatted over a cocktail and went on into the formal club dining room. Helen was bursting with excitement. Katzman hardly seemed to notice Lynn at all. He listened to her conversation casually. It was not until coffee was on the table that he said suddenly:

"How old are you?"

"Twenty."

"Good."

He grinned at Helen. "You're a smart woman, Mrs. Austin. I'm usually suspicious of my friends." He lit a huge cigar and leaned back.

"How'd you like to have a movie test?"

"Movie test?" Lynn set her cup down suddenly. She looked at Helen's beaming face.

"Isn't it wonderful?" Helen demanded. "I knew it all along. I used to think of it when we were in Florida, Lynn. You're so lovely. It seemed such a natural thing!" Chuck was as excited as his wife.

"Now, now, you two. Don't get Miss Morrow's hopes up too high. I've seen some lovely women fall down completely before a camera."

"Lynn won't," Helen was confident.

"We'll see."

Lynn leaned forward: "I'm not sure I'd like to go to Hollywood."

Katzman looked at her over his cigar: "You're the only woman in America who doesn't!" he said shortly. "You'll like it. You're the type."

Lynn's mobile face was serious. "I don't know that I can act."

"You don't have to act, when I turn one of my real directors loose on you. We'll make you act, all right." Lynn smiled at him suddenly.

"And with that smile . . ." Katzman thumped his cigar on the edge of his plate. "With that smile you ought to do all right!" So it was settled just that casually. Later, Katzman went along to another appointment, and left the three friends together.

"So happy it hurts!" Chuck answered for her.

"Buddy's asked about you. He remembers your hair, Lynn." Helen went on. "Mother Austin has been so kind. Weren't we fools to have wasted those two years!"

Chuck touched Helen's hand as it lay on the table. "We learned something anyway!"

Lynn promised to see Helen and Chuck off at the end of the week when they sailed.

When their sailing day came, however, Lynn did not go. At the last moment, her courage failed. She could not face Mr. and Mrs. Austin Sr. So she sent them a long farewell wire, promised to cable the results of the test which was scheduled for the following day.

Lynn was horribly nervous when she walked into the New York studio of Superior Pictures.

She tried to learn the scene which they handed her. Now that the test had come, she wanted desperately to succeed.

The director came over to her. "Try and think of something pleasant and far away. Keep your mind flexible, and try not to see or hear anything around you."

The camera was turning. Lynn began haltingly, her hands stiff. She looked down at them in surprise.

"It was over, almost before it seemed to have begun."

Helen's bracelet was around her wrist. She wanted to succeed for Helen. And for herself, too.

Her ringless hands were quieter now. They did not seem so terribly awkward to the girl. Ringless. She could still see the glint of green of Wild's emerald. But that was a long time ago.

Her eyes were soft and bright. Even in that blinding light she could see the funny little technician watching, a pot-bellied, homely little man. He seemed to be following the strange words she was speaking with his lips. People were kind sometimes. Suddenly—a far, breaking smile came over Lynn's lips.

"Cut!"

It was over, almost before it seemed to have begun. It was years, and yet no time at all. She leaned heavily against a chair.

"Is that all?"

"Yes."

CHAPTER XXXV

It was a week before Lynn heard anything from the studio. Then one morning when she was at work for Wellington, somebody from Mr. Katzman's office called. Could Miss Morrow come to the office? Miss Morrow could not. She was working. Lynn finally arranged to get to Katzman's office at 5 o'clock. Wellington agreed to that. He was frankly annoyed at the talk of Hollywood. It was with bad grace he allowed Lynn to leave early.

When she walked into Katzman's office at 5:30, the secretary told her to wait. It was a half hour before she was finally taken into the office of the big producer. With him were two other men. They eyed Lynn appraisingly. Whether they were pleased with the girl they saw, she could not tell. Katzman came to the point promptly.

"Your test was all right," he said abruptly. Then he began asking her questions. Finally he said: "When can you leave for the Coast?"

"The Coast?"

"Hollywood."

"I . . ." Lynn was too confused at the swift-moving events to realize what he meant.

"We're offering you a contract."

"But I have one with Mr. Wellington, the artist."

"What does it say?"

"I don't know; Mr. Sledenberg knows about it."

Katzman called his secretary: "Get Marty Sledenberg right away. Get him down here." His face was grim. "We'll wait."

In that long hour they waited for Marty to arrive, Katzman talked with Lynn.

"No," Lynn's mobile face was troubled.

"Out with it."

"I am a widow. I was married to Rene Bouchier."

"Who's he?"

"An artist, a very good artist. He died in Rome just after Christmas."

"Humph! I want to tell you one thing. If you come with us, no bad publicity. We won't stand for it a minute. Can't afford scandal in our studios."

Lynn listened in a daze. "You need somebody to look after you. Think I'll put you under Lawrence's wing. She's smart. You better live with her, for a while anyway."

"Who is she?"

"My secretary. A tartar. She'll make you toe the mark."

So it went. Lynn found herself telling Katzman all about her early life, her sister, Of Rene, she found it impossible to speak. These men did not understand that he was a great man.

"You've had a lot of publicity here in New York." He got out a book of clippings. "What about this Austin guy?"

"Nothing."

"If we take you, we want a long-time contract. Your life won't be your own any more, you know. You must make up your mind to that."

When Marty came, breathless and excited, they settled down to a business conference. It must have been 8 o'clock when Lynn finally protested all the legal talk:

"I'm hungry."

"We'll feed you in a little while. Just be patient."

Marty, Katzman and Lynn left together, got into a cab and went over to Katzman's suite in the Towers. The view from the fortieth floor was magnificent. Katzman ordered an elaborate dinner, and he and Marty continued their talk. Only when Lynn was freshening up for dinner did Katzman talk freely to Marty about her.

"She's a find. I can make her the most talked-of woman in the world today! I know it. I'm almost never wrong. She's marvelous. Some day the world will say she's a great actress."

Marty was silent. The thought of New York without Lynn was insupportable to him. Yet he knew Katzman was right. He had always known.

"She'll go far."

"You're in love with her?"

"Yes."

"Then you'd better keep an eye on her. She needs it."

Then Lynn came back and the conversation stopped. It was not until after dinner that Katzman's man came back from his interview with Wellington.

"He was tough to crack."

"Did you get it?"

"Yes."

There was telephoning, dispatches for a secretary. Finally the lawyers and Katzman talked some more. Lynn curled up in a chair and looked at Katzman's expensive magazines. There was one which had a photograph of her on the back cover.

It was a long time before they were ready for Lynn's signature on the contract. Marty was acting for her. She had complete faith in him.

"Now, Lynn, this is a five-year contract. It gives you $200 a week for the first year. Then it increases heavily for the next years. I feel that's fair. We know you're going places, but the first year Katzman won't realize much on you," Marty explained carefully. Obediently Lynn signed.

Katzman ordered up champagne, and together they all drank. Katzman, beaming, tired and perspiring, turned to Lynn. He lifted her hand and kissed it: "To a new star, my dear. In three years, there won't be a woman in America who doesn't envy you."

New Flair for Satin Increases As Women 'Rediscover' Fabric

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A FLAIR for satin has developed that extends throughout the entire program of fall and winter fashions. Not only is its smartness recognized but women are rediscovering how marvelous satin of pure silk dye feels in the wearing. It has even come to be regarded as an enthusiastically accredited year-round fabric.

Satin is being importantly used in the realm of costume design in combination with other materials as in the styling of fashionable bolero and long-coat ensembles. The vogue for satin also reflects in everything from hats to shoes, bags, gloves and countless other accessories. Ever so chic are long satin evening wraps in black or colors.

Designers who know, declare that the satins they handle must necessarily be of the pure-silk type in order to arrive at the lovely effects in shirring, draping and general manipulation achieved in the stunning modes illustrated. Then, too, they point out the economy and practicality of all-silk satin in that it wears so satisfactorily, cleans so beautifully and proves up to the mark from every test angle.

A style-distinctive version of that ever-perennial favorite, the white satin blouse, is shown above to the left in the group pictured. Its fitted midriff accords with an outstanding fashion trend. Tucks starting at the diagonal yoke seam are released into soft bust fullness. The hat worn with it is an artful translation of the Suzy fisherwoman sailor. Jeweled buttons down the front impart sparkle to the very effective green silk satin overblouse with small rolled collar pictured to the right. Artful shirrings accent the longer waistline. A soaring hat of pleated felt and ribbon by Louise Sanders tunes to the colors of the blouse.

From the milliner's viewpoint satin is declared an ideal medium. For the pompadour turban shown below to the right, satin in the new "huaca" (potato peel) brown is combined with black. Note that this hat is worn well back on the head to show the new off-face hair-do, altogether a very characteristic movement this season. The hat as well as the black satin handbag designed by Lilly Dache reflect the trend to soft unpressed pleats. The bag inclines to the new long narrow shape that in the "last word" in design.

Renewed interest in evening gowns fashioned of satin is evidenced throughout the present style program. In the inset panel we are showing a satin dinner-dance gown that demonstrates the exquisite grace with which satin yields to soft draping effects. A new handling in the side drape gives a decidedly up-to-the-minute aspect to this gown so artfully created by Kivlette, noted American designer. A long panel back, also the V-neck décolletage, are intriguing details.

Some very good-looking long-coat costume suits include a blouse of satin matched to the color of the cloth that makes the coat and skirt. Especially outstanding is the all-black ensemble that tops the satin blouse with long coat or bolero that is handsomely braided. With a costume suit of this description the program of dress for daytime wear is aptly colved in a flattering way. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Gloves Match Hats

Dozens of colors in the newest American leather gloves make it possible to follow fashion's latest dictate which bids you match hats and gloves or hat trimmings and gloves. Here a gay red hat and equally red mocha gloves put color spice into a black suit. Since the hat flaunts beige wings and a dark green veil, either beige or dark green gloves could also be used. Notice how the buttons fasten on the side.

Jerkins Transform Costume Magically

Jerkins are becoming increasingly popular. You can have anything from a sports jerkin of colorful suede, velveteen or corduroy to an esthetic evening type that can be slipped over any simple frock. Jerkins, with their long torso lines, look stunning slipped over frocks with all-round-pleated skirts and are dramatic when worn over slinky long pencil-slim evening gowns trailing long skirts or the new harem skirts that slit up the side.

Fasten Dress, Blouse With Jeweled Buttons

The smartest way to fasten your dress or blouse in the new to-one-side way is with a single large fur covered button. These fur buttons play into the scheme of furged ensembles cleverly, the button matching the hat of fur or the fur buckles that are so new for pumps. Jeweled buttons are important this season, especially on blouses of rich fabric. Many black velvet dresses are enhanced by the sparkle of rhinestone or jewel set buttons.

Match Sweater, Crepe Skirt for Evening Wear

Colorful crepe evening dresses are selling with matching sweaters to serve as formal jackets. Embroidered sweaters that sparkle or that are gorgeous with metal thread and beadwork take on the new long-torso lines. Smart afternoon dresses have pleated skirts with form-fitting hip-length slipover sweaters that are all-over sequin embroidered.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

To keep muslin curtains even when laundering them, put two curtains together and iron as one curtain.

To cook dried prunes, wash them well, cover with four inches of cold water and let soak over night. Simmer very slowly for one hour.

To shorten the baking time for apple pie 20 minutes, first cook the apples five minutes in a small quantity of water, then cool them and proceed as usual.

Cream a little butter and prepared mustard together—brush onto slice of cold cooked ham and let heat quickly in oven. Serve with creamed potatoes and green peas.

To restore fireplace bricks to their natural color and keep them clean, wash them in a mixture of 2 ounces soda, 1 ounce pumice stone, 1 ounce salt mixed with water till it forms a cream.

NAUTICAL NOTES

Battle of Lake Ontario The scene was Sacket's Harbor on Lake Ontario during the war 1912. A British ship sailed up to the American fort and fired into the works. The ball perhaps due to a weak charge fell short and landed at the feet of one of the defenders. The American picked up the missile, put it into his own cannon and fired it back at the ship. There was no lack of charge back of it this time and it raked the vessel from stem to stern, killing 14 men and wounding 18 others. So ending the one cannon ball battle.

The largest Naval Hospital is located in San Diego, California, having 1,400 beds. It takes care of Naval personnel and veterans.

Movies in the Navy The Navy is perhaps the world's largest single distributors of motion pictures. It maintains 2000 films in constant circulation and has a nightly attendance of approximately 150,000 men not counting.

The Navy acquires between 300 and 400 new films each year or practically the total output of all the major studios. The films are not owned outright by the Navy, are leased for a period of 4 years, after which they are returned to their respective studios.

DRIVER
COMFORT

Come in and see what GMC has done to make truck driving easier, safer, and more comfortable! GMC insulated Rider-Ease Cabs are remarkably big and roomy, with lots of leg room for the huskiest driver. The seats are a revelation in buoyant cushioning. The controls are placed just right, so you don't have to stretch to reach them. Even the instrument panels are scientifically grouped for split-second visibility. And GMC front springs are l-o-n-g, to cushion your ride over the roughest road. You'll feel the difference the first mile you drive one of these comfort-built trucks. And you'll discover steering ease that makes driving effortless!

GMC Ball-Bearing Steering in all models!

Now all GMCs, including the half-ton models, have this famous GMC development that insures real "passenger car steering ease." Friction is practically eliminated, through the ingenious use of ball-bearings in place of the conventional steering worm. Its safety has been proved in millions of miles of owner service in medium and heavy GMC Trucks.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—This reporter was in Washington in June, 1931, when Pierre Laval made his visit to President Hoover in the interest of a debt adjustment. M. Laval quite innocently handed us a nice little nosegay of a story. The story withered and died because its publication might have been tactless at the time, when with palter and harp we hymned a new international brotherhood. Today, however, the story seems pertinent to M. Laval's accurate appraisal in the Europe which we "see through a glass darkly."

The newspapers were making quite a fuss over M. Laval and his pretty daughter, Josette. When a grand limousine called to take him to the White House, he was done up in a morning suit and an ascot tie.

There had been a mix-up in the chauffeur's orders and he had arrived far ahead of schedule. "How much time have we before we are due at the White House?" asked M. Laval.

"A little over two hours," replied the chauffeur. That is time enough for a drive. Is there anything that you would particularly like to see?"

M. Laval pondered this a moment and then said: "Well, if we have all that time, I certainly would like to see Hollywood."

M. Laval's ideas of geography may be more important now than they were then. A vice premier of France, he throws his weight with the Axis powers, which he frequently has done, in a general European hegemony under Germany.

M. Laval's ideas of geography may have remotely influenced his decision. It's a small world—only a short drive to Hollywood. And, by the grace of Chancellor Hitler, he may be France's next strong man.

It will be noted that M. Laval's name is reversible in spelling. So is his career. His transitions from left to right and back again have been easy and frequent, but mainly from left to right. The swarthy, thick-set, one-time butcher's boy and hack driver of the hill country of Auvergne, always shrewd and diligent, squirreled enough odds and ends of learning, without formal schooling, to send him in his early twenties as a belligerent Left-Wing union labor lawyer. He entered politics with a "Boak the rich" outcry which advanced him rapidly, planted him in Paris as a wealthy and successful lawyer and made him three premier and foreign minister. He did not serve in the army during the World war, then tagged as a "radical," and Malmé, minister of the interior, was accused of pro-Germanism because he failed to have Laval arrested for criminal syndicalism.

It was in the post-war years that Laval took his sharp swing to the right, moving along with Flandin, Tardieu, Francois-Poncet and others of the powerful cartellization and comite des forges groups, which sought financial accommodation with Germany, before and after the advent of Adolf Hitler.

DEMETRIOS SICILIANOS, the Greek minister at Washington, takes calmly the news of Italy's assault on Greece. This is perhaps understandable. During his 35 years in the diplomatic service of his country he has encountered not only wars, but periods of exile and jail, with everything coming out all right in the end, at least so far as he was concerned.

His occasional jail and exile troubles have been due to being temporarily on the wrong end of arguments involving the proper form of government for Greece. He is a staunch royalist and a firm believer in monarchical government, and is skeptical about the working of democracy in the United States, or elsewhere. But he makes it clear that he is not for dictatorship. He thinks freedom thrives best under a king.

Sicilianos is an optimist. Repeatedly in interviews he has set forth the unity and fellowship of the Balkans, Rumania, Jugoslavia, Turkey and Greece have been to him a solid front of brotherly interests "which not even Adolf Hitler will ever be able to break." He has denied allegations that Premier John Metaxas is a dictator, insisting that all of the traditional freedoms of the press, speech and assembly are still zealously guarded in Greece, with no invasion of personal liberties.

Strange to relate, the metamorphosis that transforms the civilian into a sailor takes place on dry land. The United States naval training station at Newport, R. I., is one of the four such institutions maintained by the navy for turning civilians into sailors. When a recruit is accepted into the U. S. navy he undergoes intensive training, lasting eight weeks, during which time he crosses the bridge between civilian and naval life. After eight weeks he is ready to take his station aboard ship. Currently there are 2,087 recruits-taking the eight weeks' course as the start of a six-year enlistment. These photos take you to the U. S. naval training station at Newport, R. I.

MARKSMANSHIP The landlubber does not usually associate the sailor with a rifle, but naval recruits must learn to shoot straight. Here is a class on the rifle range at the U. S. naval training station, Newport, R. I., during target practice.

ON PARADE Apprentice seamen who have learned to march in step and to carry their rifles at the correct angle as part of their infantry drills are shown here as color guard during a parade.

MODEL HOME This class of naval recruits is being initiated into the mysteries of the model battleship, on which many of them will soon make their homes. This is a model of the U. S. S. Utah.

ANCHORS AWEIGH Like peas in a pod are these now well-trained navy recruits as they man the oars for a boat drill in Narragansett bay. In the background is the old U. S. S. Constellation.

Storing Rugs

A CORRESPONDENT who spends his summers in Maine and his winters in South Carolina, must be particularly careful in protecting his rugs through the southern summer. His procedure, he explains, is to clean with a dry lather of special soap only if badly soiled; otherwise he makes frequent use of a vacuum cleaner. Before storing, rugs are thoroughly vacuum cleaned on both sides. The upper side is rubbed with a clean cloth moistened with a mixture of one gallon tepid water and one tablespoonful of ammonia; cloth is well wrung out, and only damp. Rugs are sprinkled with moth crystals, not less than one pound to a 9 by 12 rug, and immediately covered all over with sheets of clean, old newspaper. Papers are sprinkled with turpentine, rugs are rolled and wrapped with more newspapers tied on. Final wrapping is in stout Manila paper, sealed at all edges with gummed paper tape three inches wide. This care is considered necessary in the South Carolina dampness, and that it works is shown by the rugs having come through 10 years with no damage.

Oil Burner Selection

Question: Will you please give me the names of a few reliable oil burners?

Answer: Although I have answered this question scores of times, it is of such importance that I feel justified in again repeating that satisfaction with an oil burner depends far more on the skill with which it is installed than on the burner itself. A prospective customer should talk to oil burning friends in his neighborhood to learn the names of installers whom they have found to be reliable and skillful. The order should be given to the man who has the highest reputation for interest in his customers after the bills are paid. Also, the installer should be likely to stay in business; for otherwise the burner may become an orphan. A man of high type will have the agency for a good quality burner and can be depended on to select the model and type best adapted to his customer's heaters.

Parking-Place for Tools

Question: I like to putter around with tools, doing small jobs here and there. Can you suggest a handy way to keep them so I can find what I want in a hurry, and also know when one is missing?

Answer: My own method of caring for tools is to hang them on a board wall over my workbench. I either use straight screw hooks or the kind of wall clips intended for rubber stamps and sold by a stationer or at a 5 & 10. By this method the tools are in front of you and you can pick off any one that you want. A further idea is to paint the board black except for the places that are covered by tools, which are left blank. The absence of a tool will be immediately spotted. A further convenience is to build slides to the board, so that doors with a lock can be fitted. If there is any danger in your shop of dampness, all bright tools should be given a light coat of oil.

Defective Piping

Question: My water piping is all brass. After some years the cold water line leaks at every joint, where there is green and white corrosion. Analysis of the water shows no fault. Can you explain.

Answer: The brass of which your piping is made may not be as pure as it should have been; it may contain iron, for instance. Leakage at the joints shows that these parts are giving away. You should shut off the water and disconnect one of the joints in the cellar to learn its condition. Quite possibly you will find that the part of the pipe at the joint where it is thinned and weakened by the threading has become so corroded that no strength is left. In that case new piping or copper tubing will be needed.

Cement Apron

Question: Please advise how to construct a cement apron in front of a garage, so that it will not crack or be raised by frost.

Answer: Detailed information can be obtained in booklet form from the Portland Cement association at 347 Madison avenue, New York city (Chicago address 33 West Grand avenue). Proper drainage under the apron is very essential. If the soil is of clay formation, put down a six-inch bed of cinders (not ashes) well tamped down. Provide for expansion and contraction in the concrete.

Leaky Shingled Roof

Question: Please give me some advice on how to stop leaks in a shingled roof.

Answer: Insert pieces of tar paper, three or four inches wide and six inches or more long under the defective shingle. Raise the shingle slightly to slip the paper under, and secure it with a dab of roofing cement.

Cleaning Stone Front

Question: What would you suggest that I use to scrub the stone front of our building?

Answer: Scrub with a solution of trisodium phosphate, about a half-pound to the gallon of hot water. Use a stiff fiber brush. Rinse with plenty of clear water. Do not splash this solution on painted surfaces, as it may soften the paint.

By L. L. STEVENSON

As perhaps you know, it is now legal to feed the animals in Bronx park. When the zoo was opened 40 years ago, signs were posted informing visitors that they might be fined $3 for trying to slip sustenance to the animals or birds. Nevertheless, there were those who took a chance and bootlegged peanuts and popcorn which went into cages when keepers had their backs turned. Once in a while, there was an arrest but in the main, keepers were not too observant. But when instead of kindness there was cruelty, it was different. Several times heartless persons tossed lighted cigarettes to chimpanzees with consequent suffering on the part of the animals. In those cases, there were arrests and punishment, not for breaking a park rule, but for cruelty to animals. Speaking of cruelty, one day some one threw a football into the big mouth of Rosie, the Central park hippopotamus, and Rosie almost choked to death.

The new food-vending machines

which have taken the place of the no-feeding-the-animals signs, are proving popular with the public and especially with children. By inserting a nickel and turning a handle, a neat cellophane package is obtained. As the machines have pictures of the animals or birds for which the food is intended, there is little chance of error. The ration has been worked out carefully by zoo experts so that there is a balanced diet. So visitors have the fun of feeding the animals and the animals get proper food. The animals and birds like the scientific diet, though at first the grown elephants didn't seem to want to change over from peanuts. But they have fallen in line now and as a consequence business at various stands outside the park has dropped off considerably.

Still on the subject of animals

there was Mischka, the little nun bear at the Central park zoo. Mischka was the most popular animal in the park. There were Mischka fans who made daily visits just to see Mischka perform. The little bear was always ready to oblige. He had a whole repertoire of tricks, from climbing stunts to teasing den mates. A born comic, his sense of timing was equal to that of a top-flight comedian. On occasions, his tricks annoyed the keepers. He seemed to be able to climb out of anything. He never did any harm after one of his escapes but merely wandered around as if he were out sight-seeing. Keepers, however, were irked because it was their duty to get Mischka back into the den and he was hard to catch.

The keepers never punished Mischka for his misdeeds

Maybe that was the reason why the two big Himalayan bears that shared the den decided to take matters into their own hands. On a recent Sunday, before a big and appreciative audience, Mischka was having the time of his life annoying his bigger companions. Suddenly one lost patience and took a swipe at him. The other joined in. Mischka, weighing less than a hundred pounds, never had a chance. Keepers arrived with a big hose and other equipment as the Himalayas were dragging the groggy Mischka back to finish him. Help was too late. Mischka died the next day.

Getting back to food: Gourmets

are alarmed by the fact that the town is face to face with a caviar famine. Hardly enough of the imported product is on hand to last through the holidays. Prices have shot up to $20 a pound and more than likely will go higher. The best caviar, the kind that is shipped refrigerated, comes from Russia and Rumania. That is, it did come but doesn't any more for obvious reasons. Plenty of domestic caviar can be had for a mere $3 a pound but the demand is slight. The caviar shortage doesn't bother me at all. I can take it or leave it alone.

Pigeons in New York are a problem to building owners. . . . The damage they do runs into thousands. . . . But the pigeons are the city's pets. . . . So when some heartless miscreant scattered poisoned food in Union square and killed a number of pigeons, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals posted a $100 reward for the arrest and conviction. ## England Invaded in 1066

England's day of destiny in 1066 was September 28. On that day William, duke of Normandy, put in at Bulverhithe on the Sussex coast with his fleet of 3,000 boats which had been waiting for more than a month on the shores of Normandy (France) for a good wind across the English channel. The invasion then proceeded in the leisurely tempo of the times (it took three days to unload the boats).—Pathfinder.

Household News

By Eleanor Howe

It will soon be time for keeping open house; for the children will be home for the holidays, and friends will be dropping in at various and sundry hours. Great demands will be made upon your time, and even greater demands will be made upon your larder. Yet, you should be able to enjoy Thanksgiving with your family without becoming tired out.

A well-planned Thanksgiving dinner will insure an enjoyable and untiring day. Here is a menu you may like to use for your Thanksgiving dinner this year:

- Fruit Cocktail
- Olives Celery Pickled Onions
- Roast Turkey with Dressing
- Giblet Gravy
- Mashed Potatoes Baked Squash
- Cranberry Salad
- Hot Rolls Butter
- Hot Mincemeat Pie
- Coffee

In the days of the Pilgrim Fathers, and indeed not so many years ago, Thanksgiving was one day of the year devoted not only to giving of thanks, but also to feasting. Not long ago I read of a menu that was served at a Thanksgiving feast. It contained not only roast turkey, but wild duck and several kinds of wild game. The vegetable dishes were innumerable, and even the desserts did not take a back seat when it came to quantity. With a menu such as this a good many hours were required for dining.

The simplified, modern version of the Thanksgiving feast is now just as thoroughly enjoyed. For it now leaves time for conversation and enjoyment; and the modern housewife enjoys this extra period of time for relaxation and visiting with friends and relatives.

Roast Turkey.
Allow 3/4 to 1 pound of turkey per person served. Dress and clean.

Rub the inside cavity thoroughly with salt. Fill body and neck cavities loosely with stuffing. Truss. Brush well with unsalted fat and place on rack in large open roasting pan. (Store over night in refrigerator if desired). The following time and temperature chart may be followed:

Weight of Bird	Oven Temperature	Approximate Cooking Time
Under 15 lbs.	325°-300°	2 1/2-4 hrs.
16-18 lbs.	300°-275°	4-5 hrs.
20-22 lbs.	275°-250°	5-8 hrs.

Dressing for Turkey.
10 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup butter (melted)
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup parsley (chopped)
2 tablespoons poultry seasoning
Mix all ingredients thoroughly and use for stuffing the turkey. Note: This amount of dressing is sufficient for a 10-pound turkey. If a larger turkey is to be stuffed, the recipe should be increased proportionately.

Giblet Gravy.
Pour off liquid in pan in which turkey has been roasted. From liquid skim off 6 tablespoons fat; return fat to roasting pan and brown with 6 tablespoons flour. Add 3 cups stock in which giblets, neck, and tip of wings have been cooked; or if preferred, 3 cups milk may be substituted instead of the stock. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick; then season to taste with salt and pepper. Add giblets (cut in small pieces), heat well, and serve hot.

Cranberry Salad.
(Serves 10)
1 quart cranberries
2 cups water (boiling)
2 cups sugar
3/4 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup nut meats (cut fine)
1/2 cup celery (cut fine)
1/2 cup tart apple (cut fine)

Wash cranberries. Place in saucepan, add boiling water and cook 10 minutes, or until cranberries are soft. Rub through sieve. Add sugar to the cranberry pulp. Return to saucepan and cook gently for 5 minutes longer, stirring frequently. Remove from range and add the gelatin, which has been softened in the cold water. Stir until dissolved and then chill until mixture just begins to thicken. Add nut meats, celery, and apple, and place in individual gelatin molds. Chill thoroughly, and serve in crisp lettuce cups.

Escalloped Oysters.
3 cups cracker crumbs (rolled fine)
1/2 cup butter (melted)
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 quart oysters
1 cup milk (approximately)

Mix cracker crumbs, butter, salt and pepper thoroughly. Spread layer of seasoned crumbs on bottom of buttered baking dish. Cover with half of oysters. Then add another layer of cracker crumbs, and the remaining oysters, and top with remaining cracker crumbs. Add sufficient milk to fill in all crevices and to bring liquid to surface of top cracker layer. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes to one hour. Serve very hot.

Honey Almond Sweet Potatoes.
(Serves 6)
6 small sweet potatoes
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup hot water
1/2 cup almonds (ground)
1 tablespoon butter (melted)

Cook unpared sweet potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Cool, peel, and cut into halves lengthwise. Then place, cut side up, in buttered baking dish. Combine honey and water; add two tablespoons of this mixture and the melted butter to the ground almonds. Pour remainder of honey mixture over sweet potatoes and then top with the honey almond mixture. Place in a moderate oven (350 degrees) and bake 35 to 40 minutes, or until brown.

Zucchini Squash With Tomatoes.
(Serves 6)

3 medium-sized Zucchini squashes
3 slices Escoc
1 medium-sized onion (cut in small pieces)
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
Wash squashes and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Cook in boiling, salted water 8 to 10 minutes, or until tender. Drain. Cut bacon into small pieces and heat until fat is rendered. Add onion and saute until brown. Add tomatoes and simmer for 5 minutes. Add squash and simmer 5 minutes longer. Add salt and pepper, and serve.

He who walks over his estate finds a cold each time.

When making your own hook rug designs, always leave a hem allowance at least two inches wide to be turned under after the rug is hooked, and be sure to overcast the edge of the burlap when cut. Pin flowers and leaves cut out of paper onto the burlap, this way and that. When you get an arrangement that pleases, trace it to make your pattern.

NOTE: Mrs. RUTH WYETH SPEARS gives more rug hooking designs and further suggestions about how to draw your own flower designs. Also directions for a rug rug in the ten-fashioned style design. No. 3 contains descriptions of the other numbers in the series. To get your copy, address:

Dependence

To character and success, two things, contradictory as they may seem, must go together—humble dependence and manly independence; humble dependence on God and manly reliance on self.—Wendell Phillips.

More Light on MILDER, FAST-ROLLED "MAKIN'S" SMOKES!

RA. HITS THE SPOT WITH ME FOR MILDER, COOLER SMOKES... EASY ON THE TONGUE, FULL OF GOOD, RICH TASTE!

"Gene" Boltin and Frank Simmons swap ideas on P.A.'s easy twirling, rich, mellow taste.

Rollin' along with P.A. I "Gene" Boltin (left) and Frank Simmons (right) are never in the dark on smokes that roll straight, firm, and draw right! According to "Gene": "I don't even have to pinch up the ends of Prince Albert smokes—and they stay firm!" Frank adds to that: "You don't have to keep relighting P.A. smokes!" And Eileen Peables smiles an O.K. on Prince Albert's famous fragrance. (Pipe-smokers! Join in that chorus, too!)

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chambers and daughter from Stratford, Texas spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Thornton and family.

The distress of millions of civilians in European war zones is being alleviated by the Red Cross societies of the world. Our own American Red Cross has made 10,000 surgical dressings and 1,000,000 articles of clothing for war sufferers. Join today and support this humane cause.

Last year 880,000 men and women were trained in Red Cross First Aid to combat the grim march of accidental death which each year claims 100,000 lives in this country. Your membership support at Roll Call this year, November 11 through 30, will enable this program to continue its battle against accidental death and serious injury.

In addition to the day-to-day needs for training in first aid and life saving, disaster relief and nursing, the American Red Cross has taken an important part in the national defense program. Increased responsibilities have resulted in a need for increased membership. Join today and help the Red Cross widen its service in a year when it is most needed.

A Red Cross button in your coat lapel demonstrates that you are supporting the humane work of the American Red Cross. Join today.
