Ancho News

A DIE COPE

Funeral services for Miss Addie Cope, age 66, were held in Ancho, Friday, Jan. 12, 1940, with Rev. L. D. Cochran of Carrizozo in charge. Miss Cope was born in Texas, May 10, 1873 and passed away January 11. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. T. I. Morgan of Del Rio, Texas; and by several nieces and nephews, among whom are Harry, Spurgeon, Tom, George and John Straley; Mrs. Allen Kile, Mrs. Jackie Silvers, and Mrs. R. Bingham. She was a sister to the late Mrs. T. J. Straley with whom she made her home, until Mrs. Straley's death two years ago. Since then, she has made her home at the Straley ranch with her nieces and nephew who will miss her very much. A large crowd attended services at the school house, and followed the remains to their last resting place in the local cemetery. There were many beautiful flowers attesting the esteem in which she was held. The sister, Mrs. Morgan and a nephew Tom Straley were unable to attend, due to illness. Ancho and community extend sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Remember Sunday school every Sunday 10 a. m. Rev. Cochran of Carrizozo will preach Sunday Jan. 21 at 2:30 for Sunday Jan 23rd at 11 a. m. Rev. R. B. Sherman of Roswell will preach. Everyone is cordially invited to Sunday school and preaching services.

The Ancho PTA is meeting with success in the serving of hot lunches to a large number of pupils. The WPA is furnishing help for the preparation and serving of a full meal each day. The school is very fortunate in having Mrs. Reed, who has had 20 years of experience in cafe work. Mrs. Reams is a very capable helper. Ancho welcomes these ladies. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Reams are both from Roswell. Last but not least, our principal, Mrs. Ola C. Jones deserves lot of credit for making it possible to

State President's Visit

Wednesday evening the Rebekahs were honored by a visit from their State president, Mrs. Helen Higgins of Farmington. Mrs. Higgins was accompanied by Mrs. McTravish of Alamogordo. Mrs. Higgins gave an interesting address illustrated by stories and fables which were entertaining and also served to make her point better understood.

Refreshments were sandwiches and coffee

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kelley visited their daughter, and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Corbett at Albuquerque last Sunday. While there, Mr. Kelley acquired another bird dog, and Boomerang is very much offended.

Church-Caton

On Tuesday evening, January 16th Miss Bobbye Church became the bride of Mr. James Perle Caton, with the Rev. Allen, pastor of the local Church of Christ performing the ceremony. Both the bride and groom are teaching in the local schools and have a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Caton is the high school coach, while Mrs. Caton is teaching in the grade school. Both are active in school and social affairs and popular with the students, and everyone.

Mrs. Caton formerly lived at Illmo, Mo., and is a niece of Mrs. Louis Adams.

Mr. Caton's home is at Forrest, New Mexico.

A Contest

An attendance contest was launched last Sunday at the Methodist Church. The Young People's Sunday School Class was divided into two teams with Gene Hines as Captain of one side and Jacquelline Dixon, Captain of the other. One point is given for the attendance of SS for each member of the team. Another point is given for the attendance at evening service at 7:00. In the evening service everyone attending is asked to belong to one of the teams.

The losing team of the Young People will give a party to the winning team. Both teams are tied now with a score of 16 points each. Each member of the team is to assist in getting new members and old to attend Sunday School and the evening service from 7:00 to 7:45.

The next S S class meeting will be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Melvin Waters at 7:30.

Tests Indicate 40-Knot Speed for Ocean Liners

Wallend, England.—Liners which will cross the Atlantic at 40 knots—almost 10 knots faster than the Queen Mary—are foreshadowed by secret experiments now being conducted on Tyneside.

A firm of shipbuilders is testing a model of a streamlined hull of revolutionary design. It has proved fast for the Teddington tank of the National Research Laboratory, and to enable it to be tested at full speed, a special tank has had to be ordered.

If the tests are successful, the firm will place on the stocks a ocean-going yacht embodying new principles.

Engineers believe that the next step will be to build a 40-knot Atlantic liner and destroyers going up to almost 60 knots. A liner with that speed would cross the Atlantic in approximately three days, compared with the three days twenty-two hours fifty-seven minutes with which the Queen Mary won the record in August, 1930.

Some Wall
The Great wall of China is huge. More bricks and stone were used in its construction than in all the buildings of the British Isles.

Americanization Week

Suggestive Program: Week Feb. 18th. to 25th, inclusive.

During this week every department of Carrizozo Schools will emphasize Americanism. The heads of many organizations have offered to co-operate in making the week's program a great success. This is splendid community spirit for which all good citizens are thankful.

Sunday Feb. 18: Union Church services, 8 p.m. at Baptist church.

Monday, Feb. 19: American Legion and Auxiliary, Chapel program at 11:15 in High School Auditorium. No admission charge.

Tuesday Feb. 20: St. Rita School program in auditorium 11:15. No admission charge. Father-Son Banquet at S. P. Hotel 6 p. m. Under auspices of Business Men's Club. Mother-Daughter banquet in D. S. rooms of club building.

Wednesday, Feb. 21: The contribution of Science and Music to the building of America. High School auditorium, 8 p. m. under direction of Mr. Martinez, Mr. Susman and Mrs. Swearingen.

Thursday, Feb. 22: Washington Day Banquet at Masonic Temple, 6 p. m. Elementary School Program in High school auditorium, 11:15 a. m. No charge for admission.

Friday Feb. 23: Alumni program chapel 11:15, in High School auditorium. No charge for admission. Basket Ball Capital vs. Carrizozo in Gymnasium, 7 p. m.

Saturday Feb. 24: "Old Time Party" at Community Hall. Benefit Better Vision Fund, for poor children, under auspices of American Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary.

Sunday, Feb. 25: Union Church services at Methodist church 8 p. m. under auspices of Methodist Church.

America is standing at the cross roads of the world. Which way shall we turn?

Help us to answer the above question by being present at each event listed above. May we have the pleasure of meeting and greeting you at each of above events.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—If death is taking only a brief holiday on the west wall, the opposition is making the most of it. The life brigades press forward in medicine, research science, philanthropy, social inquiries and studies, and all that has to do with the two healing virtues of compassion and understanding.

Even the sedate American Philosophical association feels a touch of the new elan vital and is moved thereby to a spirited teleological free-for-all as it tries to understand John Dewey. The occasion was a special meeting to honor Professor Dewey on having become 80 years old last October. Never before has this courier seen a year wind up with less arthritis and more punch, in the field of science.

Young blood is helping a lot. Dr. Albert B. Sabin, of the University of Cincinnati college of medicine, who scores against infantile paralysis and viruses attacking the nervous system, is 33 years old. His paper, read before the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Ohio university, reveals unsuspected tissue defenses against the entrance of the viruses into the nervous system. It is regarded as an epochal advance toward understanding of the disease and later conquest.

Dr. Sabin was born in Poland, and acquired his academic and medical education at New York university, from 1923 to 1931, later studying at Lister Institute, London. In 1932, he became associate research scientist at Rockefeller institute, New York city. During his tenure with this institution he discovered a new disease, caused by an agent which he calls the B virus.

His new discovery of the anti-virus goalkeepers in human tissue was announced in connection with his receipt of the Theobald Smith award in medical sciences.

DR. ALEXANDER LESSER of Brooklyn college finds there isn't any such thing as social evolution—at least not in the old sense.

"In the form given it by the 'classical evolutionists,' it is dead as a door-nail," says Dr. Lesser. But, tossing aside "subjective judgment," he finds ample hope of new understanding as he assails the old rationalization of haunch, paunch and fowl darwinism, as rationalizations of force.

Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, as above, sees our ultimate hope in "understanding human behavior," and urges the scientists to keep on swinging. Dr. Mitchell, it will be recalled, is the widely known Columbia university economist who headed President Hoover's research committee on social trends.

MATTHEW W. STIRLING, anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, who delves into exciting origins and inducements of what is loosely called civilization, is off for the Maya country of Mexico, leading an expedition which will hunt new clues to early Indian cultures. It is a renewal of Mr. Stirling's explorations of last January, in which he found a stone bearing the earliest recorded date of the Americas—equivalent to November 4, 291 B. C.

A Princeton scientist traced the honey highball back 5,000 years and thereby gained knowledge of great historic Indo-European shifts in population. Mr. Stirling also has found man's early way elbow-bending a light source. He discovered that the drinking of primitive man was premeditated and indulged in to induce visions. At Ocala, Mr. Stirling found a bar, several thousands of years old, lacking only the brass rail and the free lunch to match ours.

In British Guiana, in 1827, he found pygmies who, for full dress, wore artificial tails—whose babies in arms smoked big cigars and whose dogs were barkless. In Florida, he found the lost Caloosha, the earliest Americans. In the Jivaro, he was clubby with head-hunters and learned much, not only of their recipe for shrinking heads, but of their visions, legends and customs.

He was reared in the Salinas cow country of California and attended the University of California. His explorations have been in North, Central and South America, Europe and the East Indies. He is 43 years old, and, as usual, having the time of his life.

Sparkle of Diamonds Latest Fashion Tendency in Jewelry

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS should not be the winter of your discontent, not when you can solve the major clothes problem so simply and smartly as fashion makes it possible for women of discriminating taste to do this season.

If your winter is composed of many evenings when you like to dress up a little and a few evenings when you really must dress up a lot, according to Muriel King, one of our leading American designers, the one-gown evening wardrobe composed of a sheath in either black or dark crepe or of satin if you prefer, plus a number of flattering blouses will solve the problem nicely. To glorify this costume with distinctive accent, wear one important piece of jewelry rather than a bizarre display of jewels en masse.

As approved and adopted by ladies of fashion, the formula calls for a well-fitted sheath gown (dark crepe or satin) as décolleté as your most formal evening dress may require. Supplement this with one or more blouses, sleeves either long or short, neckline either high or low, whichever is more becoming. One pair of slippers will serve several costumes, but change your hair-do according to mood and remember that much depends upon the jewelry you wear.

The costume centered in the illustration demonstrates the proportion of the basic sheath gown that is styled with exquisite simplicity, its extreme décolleté tuning it to most formal occasion. Accented, as you see, by a single important jewel. Brilliants are now used extensively, each tiny gem cut with 58 facets or planes, to catch the light from angle and focus all the radiance on you.

For less formal occasion the gown may be worn with a modish over-blouse as pictured to the right. And you don't necessarily have to abide by black, for this dinner dress, by Muriel King, is in bottle green for the sheath and soft pink for the blouse. Note the new longer length for this blouse. The clip brooch on the bodice is really quite a jewelry collection in itself, in that it separates into a diamond-mounted emerald brooch and two diamond clips. There is much to be said in favor of a three-way jewelry piece like this in that it offers versatile uses. For other occasions you can wear a black lace bolero with your sheath and endless other suggestions could be offered.

The same sparkle of diamonds that illumines by night on formal clothes radiates by day on select daytime costumes. An outstanding feature this season is a single piece of worthwhile jewelry worn with your best tailour ensemble or pinned at a vantage point on your fur coat. We are going to describe the handsome jewelry piece worn by this smartly tailored debutante pictured to the left. Here's where things are growing exciting for there's a watch in the picture and the question is, where is it? You suspect some part of the pendant brooch? Right you are and the place to look is on the smooth side of the dangling diamond ball. This ball reverses toward you on a pivot, so that your eyes look right down into the face of time.

The practical side of this pretty ornament is the fact that you almost never break your watch crystal. You just couldn't. You'll see pendants pinned to all the best lapels in spring suits.

Pastel Prints

The new incoming silk prints bring the message of soft, lovely, pastel colorings. Shown here is a silk spectator sports dress for resort wear printed in pale blues and greens made with classic shirt top and pleated skirt. This is nicely contrasted by a wine and natural colored straw hat.

Jewelry Contrasts

Jewelry in deep tones of the same color is an effective contrast for large evening frocks.

Watch Pockets Are Highly Important

In the realm of dress pockets are the center of attraction this season. Now that they have become the plaything of designers don't be surprised to find a pocket or a whole flock of pockets positioned anywhere on your new dress, coat or blouse.

The list runs the gamut from huge saddlebag pockets down to tiny decorative affairs that are cunningly frivolous and whimsical. Then there are the new peg-top pockets that add so much style to the newer skirts. The new pouch pockets are interesting, so are the patch-pocket types in infinite variety. Kangaroo, sandwich and a host of other type pockets you'll be seeing too, so if you would be style-alert, watch pockets!

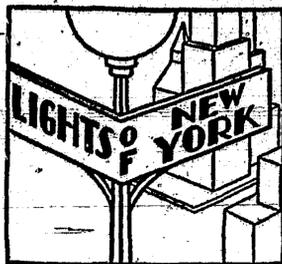

Such fine handwork is being lavished on pockets as shirring, tucking, intricate stitching, glamorous glittering embroidery and so on. The "pocket dress" (term recently adopted in fashion vocabulary) has become the popular theme of the moment.

Cowl-Shaped Skirt Late Style Touch

Cowl-like drapery is not limited to necklines in the elaborately cut gowns of this season. On an evening frock of white silk jersey, the skirt is cowl-draped from waist to floor. The bodice of the dress is gathered in graceful folds slanting from right shoulder to left waistline, with the drapery caught at the center of the bodice by a sweeping wing embroidered in gilt beads and gold sequins.

Leopard Sailer

The casual, sporty appearance of leopard fur is the basis for its selection by a New York designer to create both the crown and brim of a trim sailor hat.

By L. L. STEVENSON

In that section of midtown—the upper Thirties between Sixth and Eighth avenues—where something like 90 per cent of the garments worn in the United States are manufactured, there is much mechanized transport of course. Huge trucks all but block the narrow east and west streets. Light delivery wagons dash here and there. Horse-drawn vehicles form part of the traffic picture. Taxicabs, in emergencies, are used for deliveries. Nevertheless there is also more man-power transportation than anywhere else in the city. All through business hours, young men, who may some day be employing other young men to do that same work, trundle rolling wardrobes freighted with the finished product to stores and jobbers. Hand trucks clatter over the sidewalks with bolts, bales and boxes. In fact, there are so many pushers pedestrians don't do well.

The human back is also a popular form of transportation. Bolts of cloth are usually the burden though there may be so many pasteboard boxes that the bearer can't be seen, and so those boxes look as if moving on human legs. The cloth bearers, not infrequently manufacturers who have gone to wholesale houses for materials, stop for a chat. Thus more congestion. Young men with hangers draped with coats and dresses also form part of the throng. In the afternoon there seems to be a constant procession of pasteboard boxes into the Times Square post office station, and the parcel-post clerks do a brisk business. Within a few minutes, the bare tables behind them bear up under mountains of merchandise.

In the fur district, which blends right into the garment district to the south, there is also much human transport. The only rolling wardrobes, however, are invaders from the garment section. Fur coat manufacturers seem to prefer their arms when it comes to delivering the finished product. Raw pelts are carried constantly. One afternoon I saw a man totting what looked like two armloads of dried fish. Closer inspection showed them to be animal skins. Later, I learned that they were mink pelts with a value of something like $10,000.

Like to prow around the city looking over those various centers. For instance, the leather district away downtown. There are long rows of stores and display rooms with workshops in lofts. And that odor that is always associated with leather. The leather district is fittingly situated. Once its site was a swamp and the city's tanneries did business there.

A friend dropped in to tell of an experience he'd had over in New Jersey last night. As a short cut to the George Washington bridge, he turned into a dark side road on which construction work was being done, and as he sped along hummed that nonsense ditty about the little man who wasn't there. Suddenly, his headlights revealed, well ahead of him, a youth with thumb at full cock. Being a kind-hearted person, he stopped the car and the lad started toward him. Only a few steps did he take and then he disappeared. And the New Yorker, cold sober, suddenly experienced the big jitters because he felt that he was a victim of hallucination probably brought on by the song he had been warbling.

Just as he had decided jitters or no jitters to resume his journey to New York, the youth reappeared. After all, the explanation of the happening was quite simple. Blinded by the car's headlights, he had stepped off a culvert and ended up in a deep ditch. So instead of proceeding to some undisclosed destination, the hitch-hiker went home to change clothes and eventually the New Yorker reached Manhattan safely. But he's through with that little man tune.

Smaller Junk Heaps Held Prosperity Sign

LOMAIN, OHIO.—Service Director Paul Mikus, who judges the economic condition of the country by the condition of the city's rubbish, believes this city is on the way to recovery.

"The junk piles are smaller," he said. "That is because the people, having more money, buy less canned food and eat more fresh fruit and vegetables. Hence fewer cans, smaller junk piles."

Pullman Cars

IN 1858, George Mortimer Pullman spent $2,000 making over two railroad day coaches so that people could sleep in them. When he finished they were still crude, heated by wood-burning stoves and lighted by candles—but they had the arrangement of upper and lower berths characteristic of Pullman cars today.

Those two were the first sleeping cars in the history of railroading—and they were a success. Then, George Pullman (by the way, is that why they call Pullman porters "George"?)—anyway, George Pullman then spent $20,000 to build a sleeping car entirely from his own specifications. It was expensively decorated and luxurious besides being longer, higher, wider and heavier than any other railroad car. But just like the young man who built a boat in his basement and then couldn't get it out a door or window, Pullman discovered that his big luxury car was too wide for station platforms and too high for bridges.

For several years the car remained idle, but when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, railroad officials decided Pullman's "palace car" should be attached to the funeral train and bridges and platforms were feverishly reconstructed along the way.

The success of George Pullman's sleeping car is now well known. He became one of the big "magnates" of Chicago. A whole town is named for him where the cars are made. But it is not so well known that the Pullman car of today was named for a man who became one of the most successful industrialists and rated among the richest men of his time, didn't have foresight enough to build his first car according to dimensions that would allow it to be pulled along the right-of-way.

Mercerized

WHEN you buy a shirt and the sales clerk tells you it is mercerized, naturally, you are impressed. But do you really know what it means?

Mercerized cloth is cloth that has been treated by a process that was invented by John Mercer of Lancashire, England, and patented back in 1851. And that process consists in dipping in a solution of caustic alkali, shrinking it and tightening the fibers so that the cloth takes dyes more brilliantly and has a greater luster.

There seems to be some misunderstanding among the experts as to what brings about this luster. The 1929-32 edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica says, "Considerable change in the appearance of the cross section of the cotton fiber is affected by mercerizing it. It is especially noticeable that the fibers appear more rounded." And here is what the 1919 edition of The Americana says: "... mercerizing gives a luster to the cotton cloth because its fibers are drawn closer and flattened, presenting a smooth surface that reflects the light."

Maybe they got together since, but being that far apart, we are not going into the matter further. Flat or round, John Mercer of Lancashire invented the process almost 100 years ago.

Booze

A BOOZE bottle is a booze bottle these days, but a hundred years ago it was a Booz bottle. E. C. Booz, a Philadelphia distiller, is the man they were named for.

Back in 1840 he popularized the hip flask, selling his whiskey in flat, semi-rounded bottles that could be carried easily in the pocket, a convenient innovation compared with the round bottles that had to remain home on a shelf.

Then, to distinguish his own brand of liquor, he made all his bottles in unusual shapes and they became famous and were known by his name—Booz bottles.

Weaving on Life's Loom We sleep, but the loom of life never stops; and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up tomorrow.—Henry Ward Beecher.

GAS SO BAD CROWDS HEART

My bowels were so sluggish and my stomach so bad I was just miserable. Sometimes gas bloated me until it seemed to crowd my heart. I tried Adick's. Oh, what relief. The first dose worked like magic. Adick's removed the gas and waste matter and my stomach felt so good. Mrs. S. A. Zwick. If gas in your stomach and bowels from constipation blazes you up and you gasp for breath, take a tablespoonful of Adick's and notice how the stomach GAS is relieved almost at once. Adick's also moves the bowels in less than two hours. Adick's is BOTH cumulative and cathartic, containing five carminatives to warm and soothe the stomach and expel GAS, and three cathartics to clear the bowels and relieve intestinal nerve pressure.

The Half-Way Fool The fools and the wise are equally harmless; it is the half-wise and the half-foolish who are the most to be feared.—Goethe.

ANNIVERSARY Seven Years of Nazi Tactics Cement Hitler's Grip on Reich

SEVEN years ago this month, on January 30, 1933, Adolf Hitler was named chancellor of Germany and began writing the blood-stained history of the Third Reich. In 1930, already powerful, he scoffed when old President von Hindenburg offered him a cabinet post; Hitler wanted "all or nothing."

"Handsome Adolf" reviews his troops in 1932, during the years he was making sensational gains in every election. Finally Hindenburg offered him the chancellorship, but Hitler demanded too many concessions.

Events moved rapidly now. A stooge named Marlinus van der Lubbe (huddled, above) was charged with the "Communist inspired" Reichstag fire February 27, 1933, after which all freedom of speech and press was suspended. The next month Hitler got 288 Reichstag seats in the "election." In quick succession came the Jewish boycott, outlaw of labor unions, concentration camps and church persecution.

His power secured through these moves, Hitler next "purged" his ranks of "traitors." On June 30, 1934, the world was startled when Capt. Ernest Roehm, once a closer Hitler associate, and anywhere from 77 to several hundred other Nazis were shot. Next Hitler turned to foreign affairs. In January, 1935, having resigned from the League of Nations, he called the Saar plebiscite.

In March, 1936, he marched troops into the Rhineland. Then came the construction of an anti-Communist foreign pact with Italy, whose Il Duce Benito Mussolini (shown above with Hitler) seemed to have ideas closely paralleling those of Der Fuehrer. Soon Japan joined the anti-Communist pact, and Hitler felt secure. So much, in fact, that in March, 1938, he suddenly took possession of Austria and thus began the violent program of territorial seizure that led to war last September.

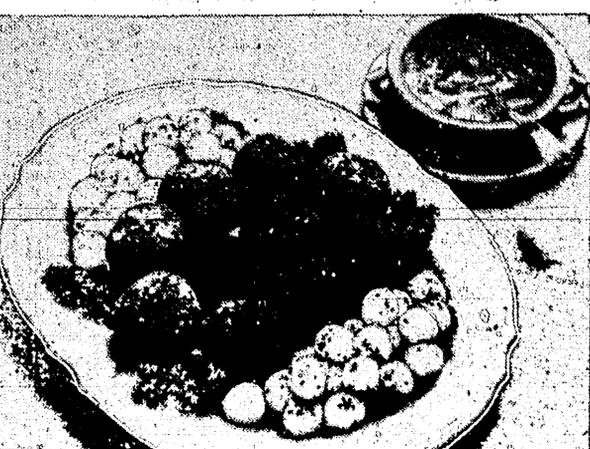

One by one great men called on him, trying to make peace. Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain, above, made three trips climaxing in the Munich agreement under which Sudetenland went to Germany. But still the appetite grew. In March, 1939, Germany seized Czechoslovakia; a week later, Memel. Hitler was getting closer and closer to the Russian juggernaut, and it was inevitable that they should meet.

They did, signing a treaty on August 23, 1939. Seven days later, Hitler's armies invaded Poland for the lightning war in which Russia joined a couple of weeks later. In 39 days Poland was no more, but meanwhile France and Britain, Poland's allies, had declared war against the Nazis. Thus is Hitlerism brought up to date; where will it go from here? On to new conquests, or down to a humiliating defeat?

Just Good Food

In her own town and in her time, Aunt Edith was considered a good cook. When prizes were awarded for the best cakes at church fairs, Aunt Edith won her share of them. But she had her bad days, too, when this pie crust was soggy or that cake fell flat. Aunt Edith used to say, "Well, I had good luck with my baking today," and sometimes she said, "I don't know why, but my sponge cake isn't near as nice as usual, this time." Luck played quite a part in the success or failure of one's cooking and baking, in those days! There isn't any mystery about cooking and baking today; this "four-point plan" eliminates the element of chance, and insures uniform results, day after day: 1, tested recipes; 2, accurate measurements; 3, proper methods of mixing; 4, correct temperature for cooking and baking.

Reliable recipes and good ingredients are available by the score. When you've found the ones you like, stick to them! Marked measuring cups and spoons have come away with the old time "pinch" of this, and "smidgin" of that, and directions for mixing are a part of every tested recipe. Thermometers of every kind insure the proper temperature for cooking and baking; thermometers for deep fat frying eliminate grease-soaked doughnuts or croquettes; there'll be no sticky, runny frostings or candy that won't "set," when the cooking is done with candy thermometers; meat thermometers mean roasts that are cooked to just the right degree of "doneness"; and oven thermometers are practically indispensable for the countless baking jobs involved in feeding a family. You'll find the recipes below meet the requirements of the four-point plan. You'll want to add them to your file of tested recipes for "Just Good Food."

Silver Cake.

- (Makes 2 9-inch layers) 2 3/4 cups cake flour 4 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup butter 1 1/2 cups sugar 1 cup milk 1/2 teaspoon almond extract 4 egg whites (stiffly beaten)

Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream the butter, and add 1 cup of the sugar gradually, beating until smooth and fluffy. Add the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture, alternately with the milk. Add flavoring. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry, and gradually beat in the remaining 1/2 cup of sugar. Fold into the cake batter. Bake in 2 greased 9-inch layer cake pans in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes.

Boiled Icing.

- 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar 1/2 cup light corn syrup 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup water 2 egg whites 1 teaspoon almond extract

Cook sugar, corn syrup, salt and water together to the firm ball stage (250 degrees). Pour the hot syrup slowly into the well-beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Add almond extract and continue beating until the frosting will hold its shape when tossed over the back of a spoon. Should icing become too stiff to manipulate easily, a small amount of hot water may be added.

Lemon Apple Cake Filling.

Pare and grate one large, tart apple. (There should be 1 cup of grated pulp). Add 2 tablespoons of lemon rind grated, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, beaten, and 1 tablespoon of quick-cooking tapioca. Cook over hot water until thick and clear—about 15 minutes. Cool, and spread generously between the layers of a cake. The filling is especially good in white cake.

Liver Croquettes.

- (Makes 10-12 croquettes) 1/2 pound beef liver 1 teaspoon baking powder Boiling water 2 tablespoons onion (grated) 1 cup fine bread crumbs (moistened with 2 tablespoons water) 1/2 cup thick white sauce 2 eggs (well beaten) 1 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Cover liver with boiling water to which baking powder has been added. Cook a few minutes until liver begins to get tender. Remove from water, cut off tough skin or connective tissue, then grind. Mix with bread crumbs, white sauce, and eggs well beaten. Season to taste and cool. Shape into small ball croquettes. Fry in deep fat (375 degrees) until golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve at once with hot tomato sauce. If desired, croquettes may be dipped in crumbs, egg, then crumbs again before deep frying.

Lemon Meringue Pie.

- 1 cup sugar 1/4 cup cornstarch 1/2 teaspoon salt 3/4 cup cold water 2 1/2 cup boiling water 3 egg yolks 1 tablespoon butter 1/2 cup lemon juice 1 teaspoon lemon rind (grated)

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add cold water; stir until smooth. Add boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is clear and thick. Cook 3 minutes longer. Beat egg yolks; stir cooked mixture into them. Add remaining ingredients, return to flame and cook 1 minute. Pour immediately into baked pie shell. Top with meringue.

Meringue.

- 3 egg whites 6 tablespoons sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg whites partially; then add sugar slowly, beating until mixture is stiff. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) for 18 minutes.

Apple Sauce Doughnuts.

- 2 tablespoons shortening 1 1/2 cups brown sugar 2 eggs (beaten) 1 cup apple sauce 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg 3 1/4 cups bread flour 4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and add sugar; blend thoroughly. Add the eggs. Combine apple sauce, salt, soda, and spices, and add to first mixture. Sift together the flour and baking powder, and add. Roll out to 1/4-inch thickness on well-floured board. Cut in circles and fry in deep fat (365 degrees) until brown. Drain and roll in confectioners' sugar.

Ask Me Another A General Quiz

- 1. Has Brazil a state as large as Texas? 2. What makes wood decay? 3. Does the moon influence pendulum clocks? 4. How do waves on the Great Lakes compare with waves on the oceans? 5. Which is the longer coastline, the Atlantic or Pacific? 6. How do our rivers compare with those of Europe? 7. How large is Death Valley?

The Answers

- 1. Brazil, which is larger than the United States, has 20 states, 3 of which are larger than Texas. 2. Bacteria and certain microscopic plants called fungi grow in the wood and destroy the structure. 3. The mechanism of pendulum clocks is affected slightly by the gravitational pull of the moon. 4. Waves on the Great Lakes sometimes reach 25 feet; ocean waves, more than 50 feet. 5. The Atlantic. 6. The Mississippi alone discharges more water than all the rivers of Europe. 7. Death Valley proper is about 50 miles long and averages between 20 and 25 miles in breadth between the crests of enclosing mountain ranges. It is 278 feet below sea level.

Protect Your Child And Others

There is impending an epidemic of Measles in Lincoln County. Its size will depend to a very great extent upon the cooperation of parents. Owing to a common "Cold" in its beginning one is liable to disregard its nature and significance. It is during this period, lasting some four or five days, that it is most highly transmissible to others. The rash appears about four or five days after its onset. It is still communicable during the period when the rash is present. The rash also lasts about four or five days.

If your child feels out of sorts, develops a slight hacking cough, headache, slightly feverish condition, eyes watery and later red you might reasonably expect that he is coming down with measles.

Measles is a dangerous disease, particularly for children under five years of age and for those who are older but who are liable to be exposed to inclement weather. Pneumonia usually results in these and, it is most always fatal. Sometimes Tuberculosis results, either very soon after an attack or a few years thereafter.

If your child becomes ill keep him to himself, away from his brothers and sisters and from others. By all means, keep him away from school, if he is a school child and report the situation to the teacher or the Health Department.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING
By CHARLES B. ROTH

KEEP YOUR SALT CELLARS CLEAN

THE other day I read of an eccentric old woman, rich and socially prominent, who went from house to house judging the occupants by the condition of the salt cellars on their tables.

If these were clean and well kept she put her stamp of approval on the household, but if they were not, regardless of the graciousness and charm of her hostess, she put them down as dowdy folks.

Not all of us, fortunately, are quite so critical, but in one sense we are. And it is good that we are. We are critical of the merchandize we buy and of the merchants from whom we buy it. It is our criticism which keeps the standards of goods and stores high.

One of the many advantages of advertising is that it invites us to be critical of the goods being advertised.

The advertiser assures us that his goods are good. He invites us to compare them with others. We do. If he relaxes for a minute and lets his standards drop, we discern it. We tell others. We cease buying his product.

He knows that even the finest of commercial reputations will suffer if a mere handful of people get wind of the fact that the goods are sub-standard. They will tell their friends. Soon a whispering campaign is under way. He suffers.

It is only by being careful at every minute of the day that his goods and service are up to high standard that the man who advertises can succeed.

You expect more of him than you do of the man who does not advertise. The non-advertising manufacturer or merchant can fall down in delivering quality and service. You may expect him to. But the man who advertises has to live up to his high obligation.

So you see that advertising is a great vigilance committee, established and maintained in your interest, to see that the man who aspires to sell you will always be worthy of your trade.

The merchant who advertises must treat you better than the merchant who does not. He must treat you as though you were the most influential person in town.

As a matter of fact you are. You hold the destiny of his business in your hands. He knows it. He shows it. And you benefit by good service, by courteous treatment, by good value—and by lower prices.

Be critical of advertised goods and stores which advertise. They want you to be critical. Advertising invites you to compare before you buy. It stands or falls on value alone.

Helping Hand Extended to Devil's Island Fugitives

Eight men who are fleeing from the dread French penal colony at Devil's Island are shown lined up at the beach at Ensenada Playa, Puerto Rico, as they listened to instructions read by an immigration inspector before setting sail in their small boat, in which they hope to reach Mexico. The fugitives first sailed to Venezuela, to Trinidad, then to Puerto Rico, securing help at each port. They hope to obtain a pardon, and if successful will join the French army.

Following their initial maneuvers, many of the armored car regiment members returned to their fields to complete harvesting.

George and his wife, residents of Canada, turn "thumbs down" on a swimming career for George Jr., who practices his strokes on the piano stool. ## Militarists Expect War to Kill Itself If New Weapons Are Turned Loose

By GREGORY ADAMS

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
WASHINGTON.—From the intense warfare expected to envelope Europe this year, American military and naval experts hope, to tabulate their first authentic information regarding improved efficiency of modern fighting weapons.

In the 70 years that have elapsed since the Civil war—first modern conflict—the munitions of army and navy have assumed new sizes and shapes, becoming more deadly with each succeeding decade. But not since 1918, when it was prematurely decreed that men should cease making death-dealing weapons, have well-equipped armies met face to face as they do today.

Though all types of armament have been improved since 1918, it does not follow that any given nation has equipment so superior as to facilitate lightning war in which the enemy will be vanquished overnight.

You Can't Win.

To the contrary, the military inventions of one power have been so equally matched by neighboring states that the stalemate is increased. In modern warfare, sheer power runs against sheer power. Thus, on France's western front, neither army is able to gain a decided advantage. Knowing this, they stay safely behind well-guarded front lines.

If this frightful power were unleashed there would be only chaotic destruction of life to show in the end; advances would be negligible.

Such an ultimate clash of strength would provide the experts with their first clue to the potentialities of modern weapons. Italy's invasion of Ethiopia was no test, for Il Duce's army was pitted against an inferior foe. So were Hitler's legions in Poland. The Spanish war found each side ill equipped and recorting to old-style guerrilla tactics, as have the combatants in the Chinese-Japanese war.

Finland has demonstrated that shrewd maneuvering, coupled with aid from Mother Nature, can stop the Russian juggernaut. But what will happen next summer, when the mechanized Red army operates under normal conditions?

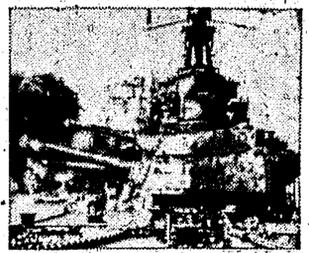

Bombers Shun the Civilians. Military experts believe the end of war may come when nations realize how an attack may backfire. An indication that the powers appreciate this danger is demonstrated in the fact that not a single civilian objective was bombed in the first five months of the allied-German war. To bomb London, the Nazis know, would be to invite retaliatory bombing of Munich, Berlin and other cities.

Thus the vast improvement in death dealing weapons may be a blessing in disguise.

Take the ordinary rifle, traditionally the backbone of armed strength. In 1865 an American infantry soldier carried a long-barreled, single shot, muzzle-loading musket that delivered on average of one cartridge a minute. Its maximum efficiency was 300 yards. By World war days the army was using a Springfield

BATTLESHIPS

Maximum speed has grown from 14 knots in 1865 to 30 knots today. Cruising range now 5,200 miles against 3,000 miles in 1865. Modern vessels mount 15-inch guns, compared with earlier artillery effective only a few hundred yards.

BOMBERS

Maximum speed has increased tremendously, cruising rate of 1940 bomber being 250 m.p.h. compared with 118 m.p.h. for 1918 makeshift bomber. Cruising range: 3,500 miles today against only 600 miles in World war.

RIFLE

Modern gun effective at 600 yards, shooting average of 36 shots per minute. This compares with 300-yard effective range in 1865, when infantrymen averaged two shots per minute. New gun discharges 20-shot clips in two and one-half seconds.

MACHINE GUN

Earliest was Civil war's Gatling gun, which could fire 150 shots a minute at 1,100-yard effective range. Browning gun, adopted in World war, now improved to fire 500 shots per minute at effective range of 1,200 yards. Same fire rate as in World war.

ARTILLERY

Civil war gun immobile and effective at no more than 1,100 yards. French "seventy-five" adopted in World war, still used but effectiveness increased from 9,000 to 13,500 yards with new mounting. Illustrated: Fixed-placement coastal artillery.

breech-loading, bolt-action, repeating rifle which the average soldier could discharge at a rate of 13 shots a minute. Its efficiency range was 600 yards.

It's Faster in 1940.

Today's Garand rifle requires but a pull of the trigger to discharge an eight-shot cartridge case, eject it and place a new load in the chamber. Though it can be fired up to 100 times per minute, its average efficiency is about 35. Maximum distance has been increased, but for battle purposes the range remains about 600 yards.

The first machine gun in 1865 was the Gatling, a military wonder which fired about 150 bullets of musket caliber a minute. Thanks to its stable mounting, the Gatling was efficient at 1,100 yards. By 1918 American troops had the Browning machine gun, water-cooled and gas-operated, which fired 600 rounds a minute at an effective range of 3,500 yards. By last year Browning ammunition had been so improved that the same gun could reach 5,500 or 6,000 yards.

Artillery on Wheels.

As with the machine gun, the United States army still depends on the old French "seventy-five" field artillery piece. Originally this gun had a standard base, was hard to move and offered a low maximum range. It fired only 9,000 yards. Today it is mounted on a pneumatic-tired carriage, has been given greater elevation to permit a 13,500-yard range and is easily moved from one sector to another.

Air and sea weapons have increased apace. In 1865 the average fighting ship displaced no more than 3,000 tons, the super-battleship of that day being Britain's H. M. S. Warrior. That boat displaced 9,000 tons and carried four dozen sixty-eight pounder smooth bore guns. By 1918 the giant was Britain's Queen Elizabeth, displacing 27,500 tons and mounting eight guns of the 15-inch size. She had 13-inch armor plates.

Today the British Nelson displaces 33,000 tons and has 16-inch guns—nine of them. She has 14-inch armor and travels at a speed of 30 knots compared with the Elizabeth's 25 knots.

Warships are getting bigger every year. Thirty-five thousand ton boats will soon be ready and the United States government is already talking about 40,000 tonners.

The airplane, an infant in the World war, has become a formidable weapon today. In 1918 the Martin bomber cruised 500 miles at an average speed of 112 miles per hour. Today a bomber like the Boeing can go 3,500 miles at 250 miles per hour. It carries 10,000 pounds of bombs and ammunition, compared with 1,500 pounds for the old Martin.

Might does not make right, as the world once believed, but it does make a war-hungry nation think twice before walking into the jaws of self-destruction.

Dust Bowl on Rampage Again But Farmers Still Have Hope

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Light snows that broke the "dust bowl's" complete drouth in December and January won't change the picture of next year's crops, say experts who have watched this phenomenon change from year to year in the past decade.

The snows come too late to save spring wheat crops, and next year's dust bowl will probably be about twice the size it was last summer, department of agriculture officials predict. In some sections it is the greatest fall and winter drouth ever experienced; and the government's anti-drouth program is thus being given its supreme test.

There'll be a lot of dry land next spring, but soil conservationists have promised the dust bowlers that they needn't expect a renewal of the horrible "black blizzards" that made life miserable in past years. Thanks to proper care, more land has a cover of grass or stubble, hence is less exposed to wind erosion.

Precipitation figures for late fall months show the unhappy prospects in several states. Parts of Kansas, whose southwest corner lies in the dust bowl's heart, received less than an inch of rain during September and October. This was the lightest on record. All states in that vicinity suffered subnormal rainfall. Percentages included: Kansas, 19 per cent; Montana, 76; Nebraska, 30; North Dakota, 53; Minnesota, 50; Wyoming, 77, and Iowa, 37 per cent.

The tragic part of it is that winter wheat farmers, whose crops for next year are already blasted, must now wait until next fall to plant their next crop. Meanwhile there is no source of livelihood outside of government aid. Both live-stock raisers and wheat farmers are suffering, but the stockmen have a better chance in sections where feed crops were good despite grain-crop failures last summer.

DUST BOWL—Map shows how next year's drouth area will compare with last year's, and how each compares with the largest stricken area a few years ago.

From its experiences in the dust bowl the government is learning important lessons about conservation. There's a definite change in the pattern of farming here. Contour methods have been developed to save the water and thus prevent soil erosion. In a 96,000,000-acre area normally considered as potentially a part of the wind erosion region, the soil conservation service has approximately 3,500,000 acres operating under a supervised program that is netting results.

Next year's bigger drouth may be a temporary setback, but farmers and conservationists alike are confident the problem can be licked.

THE GIFT WIFE

By RUPERT HUGHES

SYNOPSIS

On board the Nord-Express, with Ostend as his immediate destination, Dr. David Jebb is bound for America with him is five-year-old Cynthia Thatcher, his temporary ward. On the train they meet Bill Gaines, former classmate of David's...

"And now I must find Mirison. Explain it to the Pasha, please—madame."

All he saw of her face was her eyes. They were enough. They widened and deepened with understanding of an inner meaning he had hardly realized himself till the moment. In a seizure of confusion he dashed from the house.

CHAPTER VI

Nahir Hanim was too weak to be very curious. The ebbing of her life had brought its own anesthesia to soul and body. Her chief emotion was a dim wonder, like moonlight wavering through a fog. A part of her was detached from the total of her.

The soft-hearted Mirison was far more terrified than she. He stood fighting off womanly tenderness and whispering to himself to be a man, lest Jebb despise him.

The doctor selected a scalpel of medium size and, holding it like a violin bow, drew it across the skin, which parted and drew back like silk. Then he incised the thin straw-like covering of the fascia of the greater breast muscle, and pressed the blade through its stout fabric.

"Some retractors," he said. Mirison felt the room rocking. "The retractors, quick!" Jebb repeated sharply, and he fitted them into the opposite edges of the muscle to hold it back.

"Daveet Jebb Effendi could not have passed through Salonica."

"The forceps," he commanded, "and a clamp."

Clamping one end of a severed vein, he picked up the other with the forceps.

"Hold this!" He gave the forceps into Mirison's white hand; while he snatched up a catgut thread, looped it over the mouth of an artery, and knotted it with a dexterity a sailor would have envied. And so he did with all the small arteries he was compelled to cut.

"Give me a couple of toothed forceps, quick."

Mirison handed him a cartilage knife.

"Hell," growled Jebb as he snatched two forceps himself, and delicately fastened one of them in the wall of the pericardium.

"Hold this, and be careful," and he put the forceps in Mirison's grip. "Don't move."

He seized the wall a little lower down in the other forceps, transferred them to his left hand, with his right reached for the scissors and made a slight incision, which he lengthened a trifle with a probe-pointed knife.

The gushing result so delighted Jebb that he called out to the waverer Mirison:

"That ought to please you, old man; we're turning the yellow devils out. See 'em scatter!"

At last, with every faculty at work, his task of reconstruction was finished. He had come safely through a thousand dangers, and he breathed deep.

It was a long and busy week before Jebb felt that Nahir Hanim could safely be entrusted to the care of Mirison and Mirison, though he had schooled them in all the tasks and problems that were likely to arise. Meanwhile Ganl Bey was flourishing in the radiant household of his father and mother. He felt that he had a right to set about his own business.

Jebb called upon the Pasha and after as much delicacy of palaver as his curt soul could manage, he broached the hateful subject of compensation. "Your servant can never repay you for your service by mere paras and piastres, Jebb Effendi, but may he ask what you would consider a fair recompense?" His smile turned to a grimace of pain as Jebb answered crisply:

"Twelve hundred pounds."

"Mazallah! It is the price of the wife herself."

Having led him into the noose, Jebb tightened it.

"I will throw off one thousand pounds of my bill, Pasha, if you will release Miruma Hanim and restore her nekayah."

"You ask me to—divorce my wife?"

"Your other wife."

"But, why-why? Do you want to marry her?"

"If I wanted to marry her, should I be leaving Uskub tomorrow, forever?"

"You leave Uskub forever! What of my poor sick wife—my Bash-Kadin? You will leave her to die?"

"The best thing I can think of to cure your wife, Pasha, would be the news that she no longer had a young and beautiful rival. If you went to her, and said, 'You are my only wife now,' it would be better than any medicine I could prescribe."

The Pasha was breathing deeply and his eye was softening.

"And," Jebb added, "you will save one thousand pounds of my fee."

"You think my wife Nahir is well enough to leave?"

"With the instructions I have given him, Mirison Effendi can bring her back to health in two or three months."

"And you truly think it will help her to recover if I inform her that I shall put away the gift wife?"

"It will help more than all my skill."

"Then your servant will obey your instructions in everything."

"Miruma Hanim shall have her talaq and her nekayah?"

"On my honor, and as soon as the court will grant the decree, and once more: 'You are sure you are leaving Uskub forever?'"

"Tomorrow without fail. If you could have my money at my hotel—"

"It will be there, effendim. For your skill, I shall pray Allah also to reward you. For your journey, Allah emanet oleon!"

Jebb had, indeed, resolved to leave Uskub forever, and Miruma forever. The fierce demands of his duties to the lost child cried out against him for his neglect, though he felt absolved to a degree by the necessity of earning funds and saving the lives perishing at his very feet. But now there was no further excuse to give his conscience.

He had come to know Miruma better, through the veil, the actual veil she wore and the impalpable yet impenetrable veil her self-respect, her duty, the danger of their situation drew about her. And he had come to love her and desire her with a passion his heart had never dreamed itself capable of entertaining.

He planned to hurry forth to hunt the lost child. He dreamed that he stumbled upon her without delay. He imagined himself telegraphing Miruma to join him and go with him to America as his wife.

And then his thanks choked in his throat. A chill hand seemed to reach from the fog and throttle him. It was his curse that had brought him to Uskub with infinite disgrace, with a deep shame that he had concealed only by cowardly silences.

His curse forbade him to marry any woman, least of all Miruma.

He thought long and fiercely over his farewell to Miruma. He wrote many letters and tore them in pieces. Worn out and nauseated with life, he dashed off and sealed the curtest message of all, with no hint of the love that neither had expressed in a word, and both had understood with all their hearts.

Miruma Hanim—Madame: I leave for Salonica by the next train. I shall hunt for the child until I find her. I will let you know when I do. Fehmi Pasha has promised me on his honor that he will grant you at once a talaq and restore your nekayah in full. I should like to be assured of this. You might send me word, if it is not too much trouble. My permanent address will be the Union Bank, I Graben-13, Vienna (Viyanah), Austria.

With all good wishes,

Yours faithfully,

DAVID JEBB

CHAPTER VII

Salonica, the Hot Springs of Ancient Greece, seemed pretty ancient to the Yankee surgeon who came in an express train and took a cab to the Grand Hotel d'Angleterre.

Hellwald and the British consul had helped him over the important matter of his missing papers, had provided him with a substitute for his lost passport and a teskere, or license to travel; had coached him in the important intricacies of Turkish machinery and given him cordial letters to the representatives of Great Britain and Austria in Salonica.

When he left the train he was compelled to have his teskere viced by a Turkish official, who took it in charge until he should leave the town again.

"Will the effendi look through his papers and see if by chance he is holding another teskere of mine?" he asked.

He did not fail to slip a little baksheesh under the documents on the desk. The recorder ransacked his files graciously.

"Daveet Jebb Effendi could not have passed through Salonica—at least not openly and legally."

Jebb dispated the menace of this suggestion with a further insinuation of baksheesh and hastened to his cab.

At the Austrian consulate Jebb was received with the distinction due his recommendations as a friend and a physician. He also learned that every effort to trace the missing child had ended in negation.

He visited the American consulate, but the consul had been summoned to Constantinople, and his office could give no help.

At the British consulate they had much proffer of aid but no encouragement. One of the attaches, a younger son of a noble house, but smothered under the simple style and title of Cranford Banbury, Esq., was especially courteous.

He took Jebb to the office of the Polis Gomielci, introduced him, and translated the commissioner's account of his vain efforts to find the child.

Banbury insisted on Jebb's dining with him.

"You're in a blue funk, old man, and you oughtn't to be alone."

"I'm always alone," said Jebb grimly.

"Well, I'll do my best to make Salonica an exception. There's not much to occupy an Anglo-Saxon in Salonica unless you're interested in politics. We rather feel we're sitting on dynamite. The Young Turks are in power but they have an Audean stable to clean up, and the old Sultan isn't dead yet."

"What have they done with the old Sultan?"

"Why, haven't you heard? He's here—here in Salonica. Fact! He is a kind of prisoner de luxe, settled in a wonderful villa built ten years ago by an Italian for the Allatini family. Now the government has turned it into a gilded cage for the ex-Sultan. They didn't quite like to treat him as we did Charles I, but he's a problem, and no mistake. The old tarantula may pop up any day and there are people enough eager to help him back to his web."

Ottawa the Center of Canada's Nine Provinces

Capital city of all Canada is Ottawa, seat of government for the dominion's nine provinces and two territories. In Ottawa, on Parliament hill, the parliament of Canada and the senate convene, while nearby in Rideau hall resides Lord Tweedsmuir, representative of His Majesty King George VI. The government buildings at Ottawa, towering above the historic Ottawa river, are among the most beautiful in the world, and the Peace tower of Parliament hill, with its Book of Remembrance, is a shrine for tourists.

ement of the province of New Brunswick is at Fredericton, gloriously situated on the St. John river, sometimes called the "Rhine of America."

Each of the nine provinces of Canada has a provincial government of its own, administering affairs from a provincial capital. Most easterly province is Prince Edward Island and the capital city is Charlottetown.

Quebec city is the capital of the province of the same name. Cradle of Canadian history, it is well known to tourists for its mingling of the Old World and the New.

Toronto, the capital of Ontario, has its beautiful legislative buildings in a park surrounded by equally impressive university buildings. Center of Ontario's tourist highways. Winnipeg is capital of the Province of Manitoba. Gateway to Canada's great wheat lands, this prairie city is also a great manufacturing and educational center.

The Province of Saskatchewan has its capital at Regina, a beautiful city in the hard-wheat country. A progressive western city, too, is Edmonton, capital of Alberta. It is well known as the gateway to the Peace River country and Mackenzie Basin, for its substantial commerce and its nearby scenic areas.

Each of the nine provinces of Canada has a provincial government of its own, administering affairs from a provincial capital. Most easterly province is Prince Edward Island and the capital city is Charlottetown.

On beautiful Vancouver Island is Victoria, capital of the Province of British Columbia.

Hull, the capital city of Nova Scotia, is one of the best equipped ports on the continent, where the largest liner berth with ease. The military citadel and the naval forts on the outlying headlands are unique. The city is also one of the greatest centers for aquatic sports. The seat of the provincial gov-

Serving You

THE MOST IMPORTANT THING about your telephone is the spirit of the men and women of The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company, who provide your service.

The loyalty of these people to the ideals of their work is reflected in every phase of your telephone service. It shows in the speed with which your local and long distance calls are completed. It shows in the greater accuracy with which they are handled. It shows in the continuous effort to make the service more comprehensive.

Because of this spirit we hope that your needs for fast, complete and inexpensive telephone service are more fully met each year.

The greatest asset of this Company lies in the skill, energy and purpose of the men and women who carry on its work.

Behind us is the experience of the entire Bell System, dedicated to providing the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety.

WE LOOK FORWARD to 1940 as a year in which our goal is making your service more and more satisfactory and dependable.

Careers in Engineering

By R. T. Cushman

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

MANY a fond parent who sees little fustler busy over his mechanical toys tells his friends "My son shows great promise as an engineer."

Which may or may not be true. Probably not. Many a boy with aptitude for using tools will be happier as a machinist, carpenter or plumber. For engineering requires an ability to reason, to figure and to imagine.

Every bridge, locom or airplane must first be conceived and described by drawings before a stone is laid, a shuttle built, or an engine cylinder cast.

Since the plan precedes the construction, the work of the engineer as a designer requires an understanding of mathematics, a knowledge of such sciences as physics, chemistry, metallurgy before a line is drawn or a rivet hammered into place.

Only after youth has an adequate understanding of the sciences and an insight into what other engineers have done in any branch of engineering is he adequately prepared to devote his energy, study and thought to his chosen field.

One obvious test of engineering ability is to begin the study of engineering fundamentals. The young man who finds this study fascinating, no matter how hard the going, can be fairly certain he has with perseverance the inherent interest to assure success in engineering as a profession.

Hotter It Gets, Less It Burns, Is Latest Wonder

New York.—A chemical process which is retarded by increasing heat was described recently by the American Chemical Society. Such a thing, the society declared, is as remarkable as "a fire which quenches itself as it grows hotter." The process was reported to the society by Prof. D. B. Keyes and H. D. Foster of the University of Illinois. It was described as a phenomenon which "is believed to mark the first time that anyone has been able to slow up burning of an organic material by raising the temperature."

Lasting Honeycomb Bees make their honeycomb to last for years. If it is not disturbed by man, it is handed down through many generations. It is not unusual for a comb to be in use 20 years or more if periodically cleaned and repaired by the bees.
