Don Purcell

Many friends were shocked and grieved at the untimely death of Don Purcell, age about 35, who passed away in the Fort Stanton hospital last Sunday night, as the result of a brief illness, followed by an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Purcell operated a store at Lincoln, and Mrs. Purcell is a teacher in the Lincoln school.

Besides his wife he is survived by a little boy seven years old.

Burial was at Angus cemetery Wednesday afternoon, attended by teachers and pupils of Lincoln, Tinnie, Jicarilla and Angus schools, and many others. A beautiful array of flowers adorned his casket.

Concert Next Monday

Monday night, February 5th, at 8:30 p. m. "The Chanters" from McMurry College at Abilene will appear in Concert at the Methodist church here. With the group of young singers will be the son of Rev. H. L. Wheeler, pastor of the local Methodist church, and Sterling Bell, son of Rev. J. A. Bell of Farmington, who was a former pastor here. The time is 8:30 p. m. so as not to interfere with the school program at the school house which is at 8 p. m.

The Womens' Missionary Union of the Baptist church will meet Wednesday of each week. You are invited to join us.

News of Carrizozo Schools

Bob Woodward, a popular freshman moved to Arizona last week. We are sorry to lose him but our loss will be Phoenix' gain.

The Athletic Association is sponsoring a dance at the Community Hall Saturday night. The proceeds of this dance will go to defray the expense of the team to the annual Basket Ball Tournament.

Mr. Carpenter is in receipt of a request from the American Legion Post of Shreveport, Louisiana for the program of Carrizozo's Americanization Week. The programs were sent and the Louisiana Post sent wishes of success to all who participate in this great work.

News reached us that one of our popular graduates, Miss Ruth Petty is a member of Tri Sigma Sorority of New Mexico Normal University. This active organization takes in young ladies who rank high in: Charm tests, personal manners, attitudes, tact, and talents. The member must maintain high scholastic records and participate in at least two extra-curricular activities.

An exciting Basket Ball Game will be played on the local court with Tularosa High School Friday evening. Remember 7:30 Friday and don't miss the thrill of the big game.

People regardless of age should see the "Strong Box" built by J. W. Harkney now on display at his store. Mr. Birch the magician, will escape from this box after he has been nailed in and inspected next Monday night at the High School Auditorium. Who wouldn't be interested in learning how to get out of a tight place and making some things disappear.

Next Monday afternoon there will be a brief assembly at which time the Glee club of McMurry College will be introduced.

The Zaner-Blozer Penmanship Company awarded penmanship certificates to sixty-three students of our grades.

If three more High School graduates will sign up for extension class work. The college work will be offered here on Saturdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Brown visited Dr. P. M. Shaver and family here this week-end. Mr. Brown, who is employed by the S. P. as pumper, has been ill.

Bride-to-Be Honored

Following installation of Rainbow officers last Friday night, and presentation of majority certificates, a pre-nuptial party and shower were given in honor of Mary May Freeman and Ralph Pruett who are to be married next Friday. Refreshments of doughnuts and coffee were served, following dismissal of Rainbow. Then games, music and various entertainments were indulged in until 12 o'clock, when the honor guests opened their numerous gifts. After the presents which included a beautiful 3-tier wedding cake decorated with a diminutive bride and groom, a gift from Rainbow assembly No. 7, had been shown, the honor guests cut the cake and passed to those present, while the committee served delicious fruit punch. About sixty were present.

Ancho News

The P. T. A. met at the Ancho school house two weeks ago for their regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Lucy Silvers. The Minutes were read by Mrs. Elva Wilson, secretary and approved as read. Mrs. Ola Jones gave a report on the hot lunches being served each day, and complimented the parents on their co-operation in donating whatever they could spare to keep the hot lunch going for the remainder of the school term. Mr. Radcliff came up from Carrizozo and gave a very fine talk in behalf of the 4-H club, which was enjoyed very much; plans were made for a party in the new future for the purpose of raising money for the P. T. A. Date to be announced later. A good crowd of members and visitors were present.

Mrs. R. M. Clayton, Jr. left last Saturday for Dallas, Texas, to share a family reunion with her mother and family of that city.

Mrs. Cap Straley and little son returned last Saturday from the Turner hospital in Carrizozo and are doing fine.

Mrs. W. J. Balow is recovering from a case of flu.

Mrs. L. V. Hefker is visiting the Dale family this week, from her home in Carrizozo.

Miss Reed and Mrs. Rains are now located in the Southern Pacific cottage next to the depot.

Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Harkney and family were visitors in Carrizozo last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc Kennedy were in Ancho and Carrizozo last week-end from their ranch.

Mr. J. C. Brickley is taking a vacation, and Mr. Elbert Brown is relieving him at Luna pump station.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Porter were Carrizozo business visitors this week.

Mrs. Geo. Straley and children visited Ancho last Sunday from her ranch home.

Mrs. Ola C. Jones, sons, Tom, Jr., and Paul spent last week-end at their home at Glencoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson had as their house guest last Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleghorn. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lucky and daughter Martha Sue of Nogal visited the home.

R. M. Clayton and son W. D.

Mrs. George Coe

Mrs. George Coe of Glencoe passed away last Tuesday night and funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Glencoe in the presence of pioneers and friends from Lincoln and adjoining counties.

Mrs. Coe was Miss Phoebe Brown before her marriage and was married to Mr. Coe in San Juan county, November 16, 1879. She was the mother of 8 children, six of whom preceded their mother in death. Besides her husband, Mrs. Coe is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Mayme Perry and one son Will Coe.

She lived up to the tradition of pioneer womanhood. Her many kind traits and pleasing personality made her a universal favorite. She was a devoted wife and mother. Profound regret is felt by their wide circle of friends.

John Edwin Clark

John Edwin Clark was born Nov. 15th 1878. He died Jan. 27, 1940. He was married to Miss Alma Hardin in 1899.

He leaves a wife and seven children, five of whom are boys and two are girls.

Lena Bartene, Ezell Molrose, John Edwin, Jr., Charlie, Hardin, Jack Alma, Mary Eliza and Martin Swazy. All of whom are living. He has six grandchildren. He was one of a family of eleven children of whom only one has preceded him in death.

He moved to Knox County, Texas in 1907 where he lived for twenty four years, he then moved to Brownfield, Texas, and resided there three years, and, for the last five years has lived in Ruidoso, where he established a home and several cabins on the beautiful Ruidoso in New Mexico.

He was a devoted member of the Church of Christ having obeyed the gospel of Christ in 1904. For years he taught the Bible in the assemblies and was loved by all, his place in the church will be hard to fill.

Words of comfort from the Bible were spoken by Brother R. L. Allen, Minister, Church of Christ, Carrizozo, N. M.

He was a Mason and was laid to rest in the beautiful mountain cemetery at Angus, New Mexico by the Masonic Fraternity.

Women's Bureau
 The women in industry service, under the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor, was established in July, 1915, as a war measure. In June, 1920, the bureau was given a permanent status by the passage of the creative act under which it now functions.

Miss Myrtle Hobbs came in from the ranch for Sunday school and to spend the day with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dale are visiting the A. W. Drake and Dale families this week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hightower and family were Carrizozo visitors this week.

Mr. B. L. Butler of El Paso was a business visitor at Luna pump station this week.

A large crowd attended Sunday school and church last Sunday, with Rev. Sherman from Roswell, preaching. At noon a basket dinner was served, followed by preaching in the afternoon by Rev. Cochran of Carrizozo, and speakers from different parts of the community. It was a well spent day and enjoyed by all present.

World's Smallest Republic Observes 200th Anniversary

San Marino, oldest and smallest republic in Europe, celebrates the 200th anniversary of its independence in February. Perched on a rock in the heart of Italy, (see map and picture at lower left) San Marino is governed by a great council of 60 members, two of whom exercise executive powers for a term of six months. Free of debt, the country has postage stamps and coins of its own. It maintains a military force of 39 officers and 900 men (upper left). Abraham Lincoln was an honorary citizen of San Marino.

King Leopold Inspects Belgian Defense Measures

Leopold, soldier king of Belgium, walks past a tank as he inspects Belgian defenses along the border fronting Germany. In case of invasion both Belgium and the Netherlands can be partially flooded by means of dikes.

FISH FILLETS IN TOMATO CUPS
See Recipes Below

My Family Likes Fish!

"There's all the health of the sea in fish," according to an old saying, and modern home makers find that there's variety and economy for menus, too.

Fish and sea foods are available the year 'round in almost limitless variety. In most markets it's possible, now, to purchase (1) fish "in the round," just as it comes from the water, (2) fish that is cleaned, scaled, and ready to cook, (3) boneless fish fillets, and (4) fish steaks. Fish and sea foods may be purchased quick-frozen too.

If fish is purchased "in the round," that is with skin, bones, head, and tail included, allow one pound of fish per serving; if purchased cleaned and scaled, allow one pound for two servings, and if purchased in the form of fish fillets or fish steaks, allow one pound for three servings.

Fish cookery is simple, especially when you use fish that is cleaned and scaled, fillets, steaks, or the quick-frozen products. Remember, though, that the flavor of most fish is delicate, and that you need well-seasoned sauces and accompaniments to serve with it.

You'll find practical and easy-to-follow recipes for preparing fish and sea foods in my booklet, "Feeding Father." There are recipes for the old-fashioned cod fish balls men love, for delicious clam chowder, and for the other fish and sea food dishes you'll want to serve your family often.

Fish in Pepper Shells.
(Serves 6)
6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup top milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups cold fish (flaked)
6 whole green peppers
1 cup bread crumbs
Paprika
Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add flour and blend; add milk and cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from flame; add salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Then add flaked fish. Place in cleaned green peppers, top with bread crumbs, combined with remaining butter (melted), and a dash of paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Fish Fillets in Tomato Cups.
(Serves 6)
8 to 10 tomatoes
1 package haddock, sole, or perch fillets
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup butter (melted)
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup parsley (chopped)
Remove a slice from the stem end of each tomato, and scoop out the pulp, leaving a firm cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper. Cut fillets in lengthwise strips. Brush each strip with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and parsley. Roll the strips firmly and place in the tomato cups. Brush tops with melted butter, sprinkle with parsley, and place in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking.

Baked Spiced Whitefish.
A medium sized whitefish
Salt
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon parsley (minced)
2 peppercorns
1 tablespoon tomato catsup
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons olive oil
Clean fish and sprinkle with salt inside and out. Place on a well-greased baking pan. Mix all other ingredients in the order given. Open fish and brush inside with the mixture and then spread about 1/2 of it over the fish. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 45 minutes. Baste during the baking period with the remainder of the spiced mixture.

Oyster Stew.
1 pint oysters
1/4 cup butter
1 quart rich milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Place oysters, strained oyster liquor, and butter in a saucepan and cook gently until edges of oysters begin to curl. Heat milk in a separate saucepan at the same time. (Caution: Milk should be thoroughly heated—but should not boil.) Add oysters to milk and season to taste. Serve immediately.

Sauteed Oysters.
(Serves 4)
1 pint oysters (large)
1 cup cracker crumbs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup butter
Drain oysters. Add salt and pepper to cracker crumbs, blend thoroughly, and then roll oysters in the seasoned crumbs, covering thoroughly. Melt butter in frying pan and saute oysters until they are golden brown on one side. Turn with spatula or pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve very hot with catsup or tartar sauce.

Hot Oven Baked Boneless Perch.
(Serves 4)
4 perch fillets
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup hard bread crumbs
1/2 cup butter (melted)
Dip fish in milk to which salt has been added. Drain and then roll fish in hard bread crumbs, covering thoroughly. Place in a well-oiled baking pan and brush thoroughly with melted butter. Bake 30 minutes in a very hot oven (450 degrees). Serve at once. It is not necessary to turn fish while baking.

Crab Meat Sunday Night Supper Sandwiches.
(Serves 5)
1 13-ounce tin crab meat
5 slices white bread
1/4 pound Roquefort cheese
1/2 cup cream
1 head lettuce
1 16-ounce can pimento-stuffed olives
Toast bread on one side only. On untoasted side, place a generous coating of crab meat — flaked. Cover crab meat with — Roquefort cheese — softened in cream. Broil lightly until cheese mixture has browned. Serve on lettuce and garnish with stuffed olives.

Here's New Dignity For Old Chair Set

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All that they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in that modern dining room.

If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be even easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 8 contains six other interesting ways to use slip covers, with step-by-step directions. There are 32 pages of fascinating ideas. Spool shelves; braided rug; crazypatch quilts; many embroidery designs with numerous stitches illustrated. Ask for Book 3 and enclose 10 cents coin to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Strange Facts

Unique Help Call Cold Heart or Feet Blind Camera Fans

When a lone traveler or settler in the vast uninhabited sections of Australia is sick, lost or in any kind of serious trouble, he is permitted to cut a telegraph wire, an act that is immediately recognized as a call for help. Lincmen promptly ascertain, through electrical instruments, where the cut was made, often hundreds of miles away, and cut out at once with food, water and medical supplies.

Approximately 1,500 of the marriage licenses issued in the United States each week are never used.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need. Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The recent emancipation proclamation of Kew-saw Mountain Landis, freeing an oppressed minority of major and minor league ball players, reminded this courier of the big blizzard in Chicago, along about the year 1906. I was a new and much bewildered reporter from the sticks, tossed into the maelstrom of a federal court railroad case because there was nobody else to send except the office boy. It was as intelligible as a squirrel cage. The defending attorney loosed a gas attack of statistics and my pencil dropped from my limp fingers.

The judge, a little, brown wheat-straw of a man with a chrysanthemum thatch, got me in the sharp focus of his bright agate eye. I hadn't been wrecking any trains or robbing banks, but I began to fear the worst. I wondered whether my elaborate ignorance of what was happening could possibly be construed as a federal offense.

Then the blow fell. The judge gavelled down the spouting lawyer and said the court would take a brief recess. Then he beckoned me into his chambers. He asked me to sit down.

Then he said: "I hadn't seen you at the press table before. This case is confusing; I thought I might help you in getting it straight. It's like this..." In a few concise sentences he brought the courtroom hub-bub into something understandable. I managed to write a story about it without breaking my arm and got my first pat on the back from a city editor who was no spendthrift with such gestures.

The volitional little Judge Landis was like that, and any newspaper man who ever knew him will insist that his $35,000-a-year honorarium as baseball commissioner isn't half enough. He was a corporation lawyer before he began calling strikes on big business, and was appointed to the federal bench by Theodore Roosevelt at the peak of T. R.'s trust-busting rampage. In his dual capacity he has punished two of the major institutions of America, the Standard Oil company and Babe Ruth, the former with a $29,000,000 fine.

He was a newboy in Loganport, Ind.; a semi-pro baseball player; a stenographer and court clerk at 18, and soon thereafter a law school graduate and practicing lawyer. His appointment as national commissioner of baseball grew out of the "Black Sox" scandal in 1919.

THE easy-going free-for-all of American journalism, in which public officials sometimes owe their high status to an understanding of newspaper men and how to get on with them, has given this country a decided advantage over the European countries in wartime press relations. In the World War and now in the present war Europe has demonstrated the limitations of even the most intelligent of its bureaucrats in co-operating with the press. While England and France have, traditionally, a free press, the human contacts between the correspondents and high officialdom are still lacking, and both countries are snarled in censorship troubles.

U. S. Has Edge and how to get on On Europe in with them, has given this country a decided advantage over the European countries in wartime press relations. In the World War and now in the present war Europe has demonstrated the limitations of even the most intelligent of its bureaucrats in co-operating with the press. While England and France have, traditionally, a free press, the human contacts between the correspondents and high officialdom are still lacking, and both countries are snarled in censorship troubles.

At the start of the war, liberal opinion noted with satisfaction that France and England had appointed, respectively, to their ministries of information, a distinguished literary man and playwright, and a leading scholar. It seemed to be an exemplification of their war aims. But, like the brass hats of the past, they didn't seem to understand newspapers or newspaper men.

The scholarly Lord MacMillan of England has faded into the background, and his press censor, Vice Admiral C. V. Osborne, is replaced by the clabby and gregarious Sir Walter T. Monckton. In France, Jean Girardou, the playwright, is still minister of information, but his office inspires bitter stories in the American press about fantastic restrictions. The censorship tangle is an issue of daily mounting importance in France.

Newspaper men liked M. Girardou tremendously when he was spokesman for the French ministry of foreign affairs a few years ago. He was perhaps, in Goethe's phrase, "all too human" for any careful grooving of public opinion—his own is ironic and whimsical—and has been surrounded with a bulwark of bureaucracy against which newspaper men are thrown for a loss. He is a charming, monocled gentleman of 53, who was severely gassed in the World War and so speaks in a husky voice. He did a short turn at Harvard before the World War.

Sequin and Jewel Embroidery On Wool Is Fashion's Latest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU are seeking drama, thrill and adventure in fashion's realm, read on and you will get all three, for it's exciting news we are about to tell you. For sheer breathtaking news that could be more so than to announce halbriggan embroidered with glittering jewels and silver threads as fashion's latest whim. Which goes to show to what extremes designers will go to achieve the new and the beautiful in costume design.

The charming dress pictured to the left tells the story, in that it is fashioned of simple bolbriggan enriched with sparkling diamond embroidery interwoven with silver thread. And a very significant fashion it is, for it carries the message that embroidery worked on knitted fabric and wool weaves is highly important news for midseason and the months to come. Note the peg-top skirt with its pocket detail. Which is more news and vastly important for this is the silhouette in versatile interpretation you will be seeing throughout the spring style parade.

See the very elegant evening ensemble centered in the group. The material is champagne flannel embellished with gold applique and embroidery. The décolleté neckline is softly shirred in front and goes low in the back. It is the jacket dress of this type and others equally as interesting that has become the theme among themes in the fashion world for evening wear. A spider web mood of gold thread, together with black gloves and bug give dramatic accent.

If you are in society you perform must have one or more stunning evening wraps. The newest turn of fashion is to make your formal floor-length coat of a handsome wool material. White tweed is tops and there are also choice flannels, du-vetyns, broadcloths, repps and twills that are well liked. The glamorous white evening coat shown to the right is typical of the new trend. It is in heavy white tweed with distinctive gold kid applique and embroidery. Her evening accessories are in gold, likewise the six buttons that fasten the coat.

Speaking of embroidery on wool the new treatment applies to daytime fashions as well as to evening modes. The newest out are the cunning wool classics in pastel which feature dresses tailored to perfection. Many of these have large shapely pockets so gaily embroidered they give color dash to the entire costume. As to the countless wool sweaters, both sports and formal types, their name is legion.

The neat black dress does not escape the embroidery craze. Like a blaze of glory colorful sequin embroidery illuminates sleeves, necklines and often the waistline, for the wide embroidered belt is an outstanding style feature. White beadwork on the black or navy dress is also style-approved.

Not only embroidery but all sorts of surface decoration enhance fashionable apparel this season. Favor for Trapunto quilted design is not on the wane. Then, too, there is considerable cording being done row upon row, likewise stitching and fine tuckling.

Very new indeed is the applique of felt wool fabric that is being worked out on the new pastel frocks. Flowers and other motifs are cut out of the soft wool material, then worked on the bodice in various ways. Fact is, designers are manipulating the new and beautiful wools with a display of originality and imagination that is amazing. Perhaps this has come about in that modern wools are so alluring that they challenge talent and genius to give of their best in creating of them fashions of surpassing chic and charm.

Warm Ski Suit

A successful ski suit has to be warm, has to be practical and must be good-looking. The model pictured is all that and more. The outfit is of dark green gabardine with just enough wool-knit worked into the jacket front to be protective and "comfy." Elastic at the waist insures a snug fit. Depend upon it this suit will give real service, besides being so good looking your friends will all admire.

Dark and Misty

A color as subtle as its name is one of Schiaparelli's new dark tones called "thick mist." It is a slatey, bluish gray, almost smoky in tone, and considered important both for day and evening clothes.

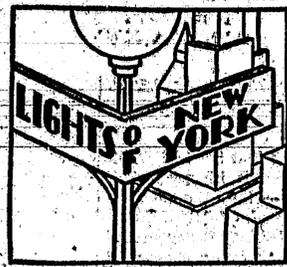

Daring Colors Are Seen in New Mode

Describing a sports ensemble worn at a recent gathering of smartly dressed guests—the skirt, a pleated black model, the jacket in bright fuchsia worn over a violet sweater, accessory touches including turquoise costume jewelry and a stunning draped turban done in Roman stripes that picked up the various colors throughout the costume. To be sure a color ensemble like this requires a master stroke of artistry to carry it through successfully, which brings us to the message we would convey, namely that while daring things are being done with color in the new fashions, they are carried out with the color sense of a true artist to the extent that women who follow in fashion's footsteps are developing a high sense of color values. In fact this season's modes gives promise of being truly educational in color artistry.

The new duo-color costumes are especially interesting that play one color up against another fearlessly, such as for instance navy with a gray blouse and a gypsy tie girle in green and cerise. Pastels are being contrasted after the same manner. One designer uses pink with blue satin for a charming blouse.

Gray Dinner Frock For Informal Wear

All in tones of gray, even to its metallic embroidery, is the dinner costume meant to be worn for informal evenings at a northern winter resort. The outfit consists of a brief knitted gray evening sweater embroidered with silver sequins and makes an attractive outfit.

By L. STEVENSON

New York's newest free show is the municipal information center on Forty-second street under Park avenue just across from Grand Central. It's rather a showy place with a big black counter, a diorama of the city and a staff of experts. A lot of taxpayers have visited it since its recent opening, some to ask questions, some to display their knowledge of the city and some to see what they got for their money. The askers have been and still are in the majority. Mostly they want to know how to get to various points, especially Brooklyn, that borough being unknown land to many a New Yorker just as it is to me. Another popular question is how to get out to LaGuardia field, which is New York's $45,000,000 airport and which, up to the opening of information center, was the very newest thing to be seen without paying admission.

While the greater number of questions are routine, there are some out of the ordinary. For instance, the woman who wanted to know where to obtain feeding bottles for humming birds. The question was on the level and for a few moments had the staff stumped. But a little telephoning revealed that the National Association of Audubon Societies supplies such equipment and the customer went away happy. Another inquirer wanted to know the name of the statue facing south at Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street. The answer to that one came quickly. General Sherman being led on by the angel of victory. Still another was curious to know if there was a place called Lincolnville, S. I. Research showed that there had been until nine years ago when the name was changed to Travis.

The information center staff, from Elizabeth F. Kehoe, the plump and rosy-checked director, on down, consists of expert question answerers. In her civil service examination for the post of assistant secretary of the department of public works, Miss Kehoe came out with a grade of 91.90. Alexander Myers an assistant, has won six radio quizzes during the year. Another assistant, Mrs. Mary Stuart Power, was Miss Suzy-Cue-in-a-big-department-store during the World's fair, having won the place because she knew all about New York and was prepared to impart her knowledge to inquirers.

Mention having been made in the opening paragraph of LaGuardia field, there may be excuse at this point for announcing the fact that during the holidays there were days when 200 airplanes arrived and departed, the previous high having been 172. Such heavy traffic seemingly indicates that within the last few years, the American public has become quite air-minded when it comes to travel. It also interested me to know that the number of landings and take-offs might have been greater had more pilots been available. Since a pilot may fly continuously only eight hours and then remain on the ground for the next 24, officials of the four big lines operating at the city port, with every seat sold in the regular service, also had to worry about a shortage of man power.

Since LaGuardia field, the city's new $45,000,000 airport, has been opened over in Queens, day and night airplanes drone over our house like flocks of huge eagles. The transcontinental lines and a number of others having deserted Newark for North Beach, we have the sound of motors, and at night the sight of red, green and white lights in the sky. As we listen while going to sleep, though they are no longer a novelty, we still are glad that this being America, they are merely mail and transport planes and not bombers.

New Yorkers, ever avid for free shows, have been flocking out to the new field. On a recent Sunday, they snarled highways up to such an extent that pilots, who had planned to reach the field an hour ahead of the time scheduled for their departure so that they might study weather maps, etc., would have been late for their flights had not police come to their assistance. ALBANY, N. Y.—Second Officer Rees of the British freighter Ruddy hove to in Albany deep-water port and said he was from Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwilogdrobulllandysilio goch, Wales—57 letters and pronounced in one breath.

Geographers concede it is the world's longest place name. The Welsh village, in the United States, probably would be called something like "Smithville-by-the-Creek-near-the-Old-West-Road-to-Grantmond."

Mystic Had Come Short On That Routing Service

The man sat with his hand outstretched as the fortune-teller read his palm. "See that line?" asked the mystic, pointing to the fellow's palm. "That means that you are going to take a trip in the very near future. To Chicago, perhaps?" When he left the fortune-teller the fellow hurried to the railway station. "A ticket to Chicago," he directed. "Right, sir," replied the clerk. "Single or return?" The fellow stuck out his palm. "I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"

TRUTH about ADVERTISING
By CHARLES B. ROTH

STOOD for an hour watching a pitch man coming money. He was selling a useless gadget worth a dime at the ten cent store.

By clothing it with mystery and high-power sales talk he sold this gadget like hot cakes—at a dollar. And the crowd pressed around for more.

I thought it must be wonderful to have a business like that—if only it would last, if only the customers would come back for more. But I knew they wouldn't.

Two days later I passed the doorway where the pitch man had been operating but he had decamped. Where was he? In some other city, probably miles away, going through the same tricks.

These pitch men, almost without exception, die broke. Inspired salesmen, really with a talent for persuading people that amounts to genius, they nevertheless fill pauper's graves, and spend their old ages in cheap rooming-houses.

What's the trouble with them? It isn't hard to find: They do not give value. They depend upon talk to replace quality, tricks to do away with honesty. They lose as every dishonest man must.

You have never seen an advertisement of one of these gyps. You never will. There are two reasons why.

One is that no reputable newspaper will accept their advertising, because a newspaper takes its obligation to its readers so seriously that it investigates advertisers and rejects those that do not give honest value.

The second reason is that advertising is an investment, and not a gamble. And these pitch men are gamblers.

The man who advertises says in effect to you: "I am operating a business in your service. I will offer goods you want. My prices will be reasonable. I have become a definite part of this community. My money is invested here. Here I intend to remain, a part of your community life. I sell good goods, and in my advertising I tell the truth about them."

Because you have been "gypped" by buying wild cat brands and by patronizing itinerant peddlers and door-to-door solicitors without a responsible place in the community, you now buy advertised goods from merchants who advertise.

This is the course which is followed by the shrewdest buyers. It is the course they have discovered which pays them the best.

It will also pay you best.

General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit

Chief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 73 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Cople, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employes, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

In photo, left to right: C. E. Welstead, general manufacturing manager, Chevrolet; Mr. Cople; H. H. Curtice, general manager, Buick Division; A. E. Rossi, Jr., chairman of the board, General Motors; Fred Brown, veteran Chevrolet employe; C. E. Mott, vice president, General Motors; C. E. Wilson, executive vice president, General Motors; and Mr. Knudsen.

The car was taken at once to Detroit, to play a major part in the "March of Men and Motors" celebration staged that night in the Masonic Temple.

Last Newsmen to See Borah Recalls How 'Lion of Idaho' Kept Mum in 1936 Campaign

Didn't Favor Landon, So He Played Ball With Home State Dems.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Co-author, with Drew Pearson, of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round.")
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON. — The Senate just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah.

He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsmen he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the President's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which he liked very much.

Duty Came First.
Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."

"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about the Finnish loan?" I asked.

"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

Dilemma of 1836.

I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936.

That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it. The night Herbert Hoover made

HE WATCHED LANDON—Senator Borah waited for Alf Landon's campaign before "prejudging" him, but he later confided: "I am not for him."

his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampede the delegates—I countered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky. "Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

Doubted Landon's Ability.

"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"

"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House in these times. I don't want to prejudge Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

He Didn't, Either!

Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."

"Are you for Roosevelt?"

"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand. And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

Patent Office Kept Busy by Gadgets

WASHINGTON.—Seven hundred human problems, most of them inconsequential, are solved every week at the United States patent office.

Inventions ranging from thumbless boxing gloves to fluorescent theater aisles continue pouring in to prove how wrong was the patent director who resigned 100 years ago because there wasn't anything left to invent.

If nothing else, it proves there's no slump in enterprise these days. The past year, for example, brought forth this collection:

At the University of California botanists discovered in the juice of milkweed an active substance that can tenderize meat.

A Philadelphian solved the problem of that first cigarette in the package with a strip of transparent film that tears off the seal, destroys the revenue stamps, opens the flaps and pulls out two cigarettes.

No Double Exposures.

An amateur photography fan perfected a device making it impossible for the camera enthusiast to take a second picture without winding the film—thus preventing a double exposure.

ZIPPER HOT DOG—The wienie has a perforated casing which operates on the zipper principle.

Peter J. Gaylor of Elizabeth, N. J., developed a synthetic rubber invaluable for elastic threads in clothing because it does not deteriorate rapidly.

Many inventions, here and abroad, have made it easier and cheaper to wage war. Germany, for example, is treating mineral, vegetable and animal oils with an electrical discharge process that increases their viscosity. American chemists have discovered a less expensive—but just as deadly—way to make more poison gas.

Another Invention Needed.

Some inventions are designed to soothe ruffled nerves. There's a new spring cap for tooth paste tubes, but nothing to make father squeeze it out from the bottom instead of the top. A drip-catching device has been invented for umbrellas, and somebody perfected a helical coil of wire which, as part of a cigarette holder, keeps ashes from falling on the rug.

There are two important developments in photography. One camera can expose standard film at a speed of 2,500 frames per second, enabling you to study the wing structure of houseflies or the action of a golf stick against a ball. On the more massive side, Prof. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton university has a camera which snaps pictures two miles under the ocean. This gadget is a steel ball which resists terrific water pressure.

X-Rays 'Blown Up.'

Closely akin is the giant new X-ray projector which enlarges a standard chest plate up to the size of a regulation motion picture screen, thus allowing several hundred people to consult over the medical problem at hand.

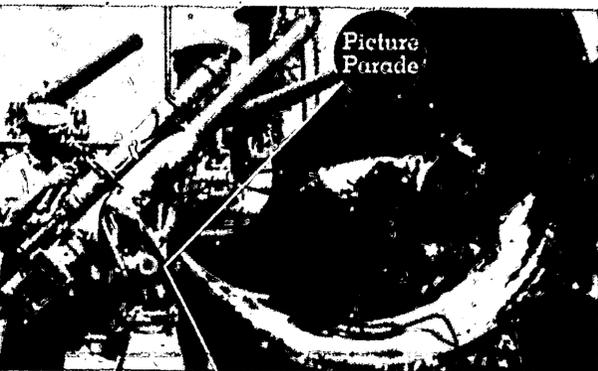

There's a new type hypodermic needle in which the medicine is ejected by a charge of compressed air, but it probably hurts just as much those first few moments.

Two important automobile patents have been granted, the first to Henry Ford for an easily removable liner for motor car cylinders. It can be taken out with a screw-driver, contrasted with the powerful presses employed heretofore. Another patent covers an anti-skid device for autos running on icy pavement. A sharp-edged wheel is pressed against the ground by a strong spring fixed downward from the under side of the running board.

THE NAVY U. S. Repairs Old Battlewagons To Bolster First Defense Line

Giant ships like the Pennsylvania, whose 14-inch guns are shown above, are one part of the program. Another, more economical part, is rehabilitation of old World War destroyers which have been harbored at San Diego for many years. Though rusty in spots, they've been kept in good shape for just such an emergency as this.

Left: A seaman chips preservative red lead from a three-inch anti-aircraft gun aboard one of these recommissioned destroyers. Right: A welder works on one of the huge smoke stacks removed from the USS Williams.

A range finder is given final inspection, while in the background another naval optical shop expert checks a sextant. Inset: Seaman working on a gyroscope, which governs path of a torpedo after it has been fired at a naval objective.

Seamen aboard an old World War destroyer are cleaning and checking newly-installed torpedo tubes. When the program has been completed, Uncle Sam will have powerful reserve equipment with which to defend his coastlines.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Ferns grown in the house will have a rich green color if a teaspoon of household ammonia is added in a quart of water and poured over the ferns once or twice a month.

Care of House Plants.—Keep the temperature of the room in which house plants are grown at 60 or 65 degrees. They do not thrive in a room that is too warm.

Starching Curtains.—If curtains are thoroughly dried before being starched they will keep clean longer.

Tasty Apple Sauce.—Add one-eighth teaspoon of cream of tartar to cinnamon and sugar used in apple sauce. It gives it a delicious flavor.

Washing Pearl-Handled Knives.—Never allow bone or pearl-handled knives to soak in dish water. Dip the blades into hot, soapy water, then dry them well.

To remove a stopper from a glass jar, pour warm water into a pan and invert jar in it, gradually add warmer water until it is quite hot, but not so hot as to break jar. Leave in water for some time, occasionally trying stopper to see if it is loose.

Store eggs in a cool, dry, clean place. Wipe off any stains carefully and gently with a damp cloth. Do not wash eggs in water unless they are to be used at once—it will remove the delicate outside film which serves to preserve them.

For a sweet muffin to serve with hot beverages, try adding a fourth of a cup each of chopped candied orange peel and candied pineapple to your regular muffin recipe. Or try using a fourth of a cup of chopped dates and a third-cup of broken pecans. A third combination is a fourth-cup each of citron and figs.

Wrinkled hands from the family wash can be made smooth by washing in water to which a little vinegar has been added.

Wise and Otherwise

MARRIAGE is an education for a man, says a psychologist. Because of the lectures he gets?

I wonder why a low dress is called a full dress, and a plucked chicken a dressed chicken.

We know a man who whistles at danger. Yes, he drives a train.

Married men are nearly always great inventors—of excuses.

When a person commits bigamy, two rites make a wrong.

The man who does notice the handwriting on the wall is the landlord.

Mannerisms Mark the Man—They All 'Perform' Off Guard

NEW YORK.—Al Smith jingles coins in his left pocket and the duke of Windsor straightens his necktie. Franklin D. Roosevelt jerks his head sideways.

Call them habits, mannerisms or just plain nervousness, but they're among the distinguishing features you've noticed—when famous men make speeches or appear before the news-reel camera. Most of us, great or little, are thumb twiddlers, button twisters, arm swingers or fist clencher in our forgetful moments.

'This Is the Point.'

A widely known Boston professor used to enter his classroom holding a short, well-sharpened pencil which he twirled as he talked.

"Now this," he would say at intervals. "Is the point." Each time he would jab the pencil at the class, until his amused students finally made up sweepstakes on how many times he'd do it each hour.

The late William Jennings Bryan combined his mannerism with practicality. Before his platform appearances he would have someone bring an old-fashioned dishpan with a piece of ice to the rostrum. As his fiery speech-making warmed him, Bryan would run the palm of his hand over the ice, then over his forehead. To break this routine he would occasionally step to the front of the platform, weaving back and forth while the silence gasped for fear he would topple into the front row.

A Mocha Swinger.

Bertha Wells of Boston, who was formerly in Chautauque work with Bryan, recalls the platform features of many other speakers. Dudley Crafts Watson, director of music at the Chicago art museum, went through a repeated routine of taking off his monocle, swinging it around in his hand and replacing it to the eye.

"One woman speaker asked me for a handkerchief just before she went on," Miss Wells remembers. "All through her lecture she stood twirling it in her hands. When she returned it, the handkerchief looked like a cruller."

Sen. James Reed of Missouri used to have a habit of chewing tobacco in the courtroom, while Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts can never speak without thrusting his left thumb into the corner of his trousers' pocket. Ex-Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire used to hang his arms—straight down—his sides and walk sideways across the stage like a small toy reciting his "piece."

Emerson Had It Too!

Such mannerisms are not exclusively a modern device. Many years ago the highly intellectual Ralph Waldo Emerson had a habit of placing the thumb and forefinger of one hand between the thumb and forefinger of the other, moving them gently while speaking. Henry Ward Beecher would emphasize the climax of his speech by rising to his toes and throwing his arms over his head, virtually pulling the audience up with him.

Psychologists who have watched such carryings-on from the spectator's seat don't believe it's necessarily a matter of nervousness. Sometimes the speakers are merely throwing off excess energy. Or, as one psychologist suggested, it may not be so much the energy or the audience as what the speaker had for dinner.

If the Lights Go Out,

Look for a Muskrat!

ADRIAN, MICH.—Twice the headlights of John Bates' car went out and twice he went to a garage to have defective wiring replaced. The third time he suspected that some strange agency was at work so he placed a trap under the hood—and caught a muskrat which had been gnawing the wires.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to breathe and heal. It is a natural, unadorned bronchial mucous emulsion. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back. CREOMULSION for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

Mother of Misery

Employment, which Galen calls "nature's physician," is so essential to human happiness that indolence is just considered the mother of misery.—Robert Burton.

Don't Sleep When Gas Crowds Heart

If you are in bed and can't sleep from oppression with awful GAS BLOATING remember this: To get quick relief you must get DOUBLE ACTION. You must relieve the GAS. You must ease the bowels. Adierka is just what you may need because it acts on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Adierka is BOTH stimulant and cathartic. Cathartics that irritate and soothe the stomach and help expel GAS. Cathartics that quickly and gently ease the bowels of water matter that may have caused GAS BLOATING, sour stomach, sleepless nights and indigestion. Adierka relieves stomach gas almost at once. Adierka usually acts on the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for over-night relief. Adierka does not grip, is not habit forming. Sold at all drug stores.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

To Jebb's eyes the man was utterly a stranger, but Mr. Rosen no sooner saw Jebb than a smile began to quirk his mouth corners. And his greeting was:

"What's the trouble this time?" "Oh—you refer to the time I was here before."

"Naturally." Jebb stood in embarrassment. "You haven't lost your passport again, have you?"

"I'm afraid I have." "Well, it hasn't been found. If it turned up the police would have forwarded it to us. Say, you must be as rich as you say, for you pay fines just for the fun of it. Where have you been all this while, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Are you trying to say 'Pierpont'?" "That's it, Mr.—Vanderbilt Pierpont, eh?"

Jebb nodded. "Tell me, Mr. Rosen, you remember that little child I had with me the time you saw me?"

"Child? No. You had no child with you when I saw you. I'll not soon forget the first picture I had of you. Word came here that some Yankee was in trouble with the customs house. It's a common occurrence. Americans are forever bouncing into Turkey without the indispensable passport. The consul sent me down as usual to get our fellow-countryman out of hock. I can see you sitting there now. You were very haughty. I thought at the time that perhaps you had been indulging a little in magnificent water. You sat there hugging a Gladstone bag and threatening to report the customs inspector to your particular friend the Sultan."

"I had a Gladstone bag with me?" "Yes, and the fellow had found some suspicious looking documents in it. Everything looked suspicious in the days of the old Sultan. You said you had come to Turkey to buy something—I don't remember just what. So many Americans come here to buy things. Anyway, you didn't have a passport and the inspector wanted to fine you. You said 'Millions for defence, but not one cent for tribute.' I remember that. I calmed you down and persuaded the customs people to accept a consular guaranty and give you a new passport. And then you went your way. Now you've lost it again, eh?"

"You're sure I had a Gladstone bag with me?" "Perfectly. It was full of blueprints and specifications and other dangerous looking papers."

"Where had I come from?" "You got off an Austro-Hungarian Lloyd steamer."

"And you can't tell me where I got on?"

"Look here, my friend, are you stringing me? Asking me questions about you—what's this new game anyway? Lord help us, I thought I'd heard about all the fool questions a congal could be asked, but this is a new line. Why don't you cable to your friends in America and say, 'Who am I? Where was I? Where do I go from here?'—answer prepaid."

"It seemed inadvisable for Jebb to keep his secret from his angering countryman. Seeing that there was no one else about, Jebb hitched his chair close to Mr. Rosen's desk and unbosomed his story. Strange delight of confession! Just giving voice to his old secret was an immense relief. Rosen shook his head with the sympathy most Americans feel for the clients of Mr. Barclaycorn:

"Too bad, old man," he said, "I'm rather fond of the liquid myself, but I take it in sips."

"Don't waste time sympathizing with me," Jebb broke in, "think of the child."

"Do you know, I believe we've heard of her from another source."

"You have! You mean she's found?"

"No, we've just heard that she was lost. We got a circular note from the American consul in Vienna. He had had word from the Austrian police."

"My friend von Hellwald put them on the track. Have they heard anything?"

"Oh, no. They've just begun to pretend to look. And here's the circular."

He took from a pigeonhole a sheet of paper.

"You see, it says, 'Wanted information of Cecilia Baxter.'"

"It isn't Baxter—it's Thatcher," Jebb insisted. "And not Cecilia, but Cynthia."

Rosen tossed the circular to Jebb. "Oh Lord, Oh Lord!" Jebb groaned, "they've misspelled the name." He looked further. "And got the description wrong! She doesn't look a bit like that! The search is both useless, useless."

Suddenly Rosen was startled by a new idea.

"You say she child's real name was not Baxter, but Thatcher?"

"Yes, Thatcher."

"Any relation to—" he put his hand out to another pigeonhole for a card, "to John Thatcher, of Berlin?"

"That's her father." "Is that so?"

"Yes. How did you get his name?"

"It was like this. A few weeks ago a Turk who keeps a little khan in the outskirts of town came in here with a Gladstone bag—"

"A Gladstone bag?" "Yes, same style as the one you carried, now that I come to think of it. The Turk—Hafiz Mustafa was his name—he went to America as a wrestler once. He can speak and read English a little. He came here with a Gladstone bag full of papers. He told a long cock-and-bull yarn about some American gentleman who had left them with him and never came back. The Turk came here to see about it. He wouldn't leave the bag, but he let us look through it. There were a lot of blueprints and mechanical drawings with the name of John Thatcher on them. And a bundle of clippings and letters. I made a note of the name and promised to keep it in mind."

"Where can I find the fellow?" "I'll have him here tomorrow."

"I can't wait to see him. Where is he to be found?"

"His name is Hafiz Mustafa and he keeps a little khan out near the Adrianople Gate, close to the her dance one night. I think she is most beautiful thing what ever sees—she wear the leetle trunks and the seelk lights and the—spengles, and she stand-up on her toes like she enjoy it. Bine-by, she ees love me, too, and we get married. She says she ees sick of that tarrible life, and so when I buy pretty leetle hash-house she help me. One day she is make coffee in those beeg boiler they have in America and the water spills over, and she is tarrible—how do you say?—scalded. Her pretty face is tarrible burned."

"But she is still beautiful to me, and her body is still the body like a serail from Circassia. But after that she hates to go out in the street."

"I tell her, 'You come home to Stamboul where honest wives is wear the yildirma'—the veil, offendin. The veil is very kind thing. It keeps all women the same. Eet is more equality than the hat."

"Her name in Weesconseen was Annie Meetchel, but I geeve her new name—Osmanli name—Naylma, eet ees one nice name—yes?"

Jebb thought, yes indeed—not so pretty as Miruma, but a great improvement on Annie Mitchell.

"I used to have my khan near the Egyptian Bazaar," Hafiz went on, "but since my Naylma is out in evening I sit there and smoke and theenk, nobody is in hurry—nobody say, 'Get a move on, Hafiz!'"

"The Gladstone—they tell me you found it—where?"

"The Gladstone, offendin? What is that?"

"The bag—the vallee—the—that thing of mine, you found."

After another thimbleful of coffee, another mouthful of smoke, Hafiz rose, and, entering the khan, brought forth the Gladstone bag. Jebb recognized it with intense delight. He wanted to caress it. It was the first material link to his unobtainable past.

He rummaged the contents with a sharpness of eye that might have offended a subtler Turk than Hafiz.

"All is there, I think?" Hafiz asked, and Jebb nodded as he recognized every document he had collected in John Thatcher's cause. But he had cherished a wild hope of finding something more. "With some embarrassment he asked:

"You didn't find ten thousand dollars in here, did you?"

The Turk smiled. The Yankee always joked. His politely amiable smile was more convincing than any other disclaimer could have been.

"Oh, yes," he chuckled, "I find ten thousand dollars—in a peeg's eye."

"Would you mind telling me where you found this?"

"Sure, I'll tell you, but untee the boss has something to eat."

"Oh, thank you. I'll go back to the Bristol Hotel for my dinner."

"The Bristol—not on your teenteype, Bo. It is so late you never get there. You must take a—how did they say?—a snack with me."

He would hear of nothing else, and Jebb was forced to resign himself to the delay, hoping that perhaps some clew might yet transpire to aid his further search.

Afterwards Hafiz began his story: "The day I feerst laid my eyes on you—to the old Padishah Abdul Hamid—whom Allah preserve!—if it please Allah—and I hope it does not—was still wearing the great sword of Othman. But it was after the people from Salonica had come down and made him call back the Constitution. He took it off the ice—see?"

"When feerst the Young Turks is come to town some of the ladies think everytheng going to be turned upsiddown. They throw off the yildirma and go out to the streets, even to the theater. Some of them ride in carriage with their husbands. Some of them wear beeg hats from Paris. This make the reeligious people mad like what if in New York all the ladies is wear bathing suits on Broadway, yes?"

"Me and some pals is stopping a carriage and telling a lady she better go home and put on her veil or she's goin' to be very sorry. She is educated Osmanli lady; she makes poetry and writes a magazine, but she read too many French novels, she goes out in the high-heel shoes, the tight clothes over the immoral corsets—and her face is naked. She is scream when we tear off her big feathers. First theeng I know, somebody grabs me. I turn round; it is you, and you say: 'You beeg brute, I'm going to break every bone in your body if you say one 'nother word to that poor child!'"

The huge wrestler looked at the slender physician, then at his own boa constrictor arms, and laughed. There was no insult in his superiority.

Jebb smiled, too, at the magnificence of this Vanderbilt-Pierpontism, and asked:

"Why didn't you beat the life out of me?"

Hafiz smiled: "I see right away you are American, and the Americans is so nice to me—my Naylma is American, and the words you use they listen good to me. So I take your wrists and I hold you very gentle and talk to you nice and say in English, 'Please, mister, kill me, but spare my life.'"

"You say, 'If you lot that lady go. I let you live a little while.' I turn round and the lady is already vampooc. The other mens is want to have your blood, but I tell them you are a friend of a friend of mine, and they go away."

"Then I say, 'Boss, it's my treat,' and we sit down at a little table in a little khan and I blow you off to coffee. Bine-by, you say you got a date with the Padishah, and I say, 'So long, old pal, I stay and feenish these narghille!'"

"So you go and I stay. Bine-by, I see you have leaved this—Gladstone, yes? on the ground by your table. Nobody knows your name or where you live at. I go to the American consul. Nobody knows you. They say, 'Leave the bag here. We give it to him.' I say, 'Nix on the hot air. I know about the American grafter. I keep it till my friend call for it his own self.'"

"I wait long time, but at last you are here, and here is the Gladstone. And that is all."

Jebb sat in deep reverie, deeply dejected. Then he shook off the old sorrow, and prepared to go. He wondered what reward Hafiz would think appropriate. He decided to throw himself on Hafiz's mercy:

"I can't thank you enough, for finding this and keeping it for me. And now, how—how much do I owe you?"

"Look here, boss," Hafiz groaned, "have I act like a piker, a panhandler, have I? I thought you and me was friends. I was doin' this as one American to a pal."

Jebb took his big limp hand and tried to wiggle it.

"Excuse me," he said, "I'm ashamed of myself."

"Let her go at that," said Hafiz; "cut it out, and clean it off the slate. When you get back to New York, if you'll stop in at some Osmanli restaurant down on Washenton Street or somewhere and tell them you know me, and I was lookin' well, and sent my best regards—they'll blow you to the best there is in the joint, and I'll call it square."

"I promise," said Jebb. "And now I've really got to go."

"I see right away you are American."

Mosque of Mirima. Better go to the foot of the bridge and take one of the Golden Horn steamers—they run every fifteen minutes—get off at Avian Canal, this side of Eyub, and then go west through the Greek quarter. While you're up there you ought to see the wonderful cemetery of Eyub and the old landwall."

"I don't want to see any cemeteries. I want to see that Turkish wrestler with the Gladstone bag. Good afternoon."

CHAPTER IX

"At last the effendi is on the job!" This was Jebb's greeting from a ponderous Turk at the door of a shabby khan. The man had all the look of a retired athlete, whose sinews of steel had degenerated into swaddles of fat.

He recognized Jebb on the instant, and he was big enough to be rememberable on his own account; but Jebb could not recall an ounce of him.

Hafiz Mustafa bustled about making coffee and preparing a narghille for his honored guest. He spoke what English he had with a strong flavor of the Bowers, in whose environs he had picked up his smattering.

"How you like my little khan, eh? He is not so worse, I think, bah!"

"It is beautiful," said Jebb, though he could not imagine a more doleful spot.

"It is not such a dam racket out here as in New York Ceety, eh? For long time I had a how they say?—a hash-house on Washenton Street. Yes. I get lots of the long green in America and I buy that leetle hash-house from an Osmanli who is home-seek for Stamboul. Bine-by I get the homeseeck too."

"So at last I sell out for big pile of dough and come home. Eet ees not such a much business here, but I can rest and theenk. Eet is a small walk out to the beeg fields where the tombstones is nice to see on and smoke and dream the nice long dream. And she is out there, my little hanim what I breeng from America."

"You brought your wife from America?" Jebb inquired politely.

"Evet, offendin—I mean, sure, Mike, I bring her. She is dance in music hall on Bowers."

"A Turkish dancer?"

"Not on your life, Bo. She is pure American blood; comes from the great ceety of Weesconseen. I see

N. Y. Silversmiths Were Men of Consequence

Prosperous in their craft, Seventeenth century New York silversmiths were men of consequence, says the "American Collector." The name silversmith did not come into common use till the Eighteenth century.

Of those who wrought a little later we know much more. Ahasuerus Hendrickse, trained in Holland, took his oath of allegiance to the king in 1675; thence onward he was a prominent figure. He made "jewelry, rings, funeral spoons, and beakers and, as well, fashioned the silver spears, pikes and sword-hilts, affected by the militant burghers."

Carol van Brugh was likewise a person of note. He it was who made "the gold cup presented to Governor Fletcher in 1693, the bullion for which was purchased for $106 and turned over to Vanderbilt van Brugh to fashion," the council providing "that the revenues from the ferry be used for no other purpose until the bill for this was paid."

Garrett Oshleagh, who made Kibbey's Nassau tankard, belonged to a prominent family. Jacobus van der Spiegel was an emigrant in Captain Walter's coast-pany, sent to Albany in 1683 to protect the northern frontier against the impending French invasion; later a captain, assessor for the West ward in 1694-'95, and in 1698 "elected to the highly honorable position of constable."

Benjamin Wynkoop, Bartholomew Schaats and nearly all the early silversmiths bestirred themselves in civic matters. Of the silversmiths who were not Dutch, two especially must be named—John Windover and the Huguenot, Bartholomew Le Roux, the latter energetically espousing the people's cause at the time of the Leisler rebellion in 1693.

Although they did not work in the Seventeenth century, and some of them were not born till the opening years of the Eighteenth, such men as Peter van Dyck, often termed the greatest of New York's silversmiths; Adrian Bancker, Simeon Soumaine, the Ten Eycks and others ought to be mentioned in connection with Seventeenth-century silver. They worthily carried on its tradition with only such changes as might be expected from conservative craftsmen in the course of orderly evolution.

Gibson Girl

ALL the "Miss Americas" notwithstanding—and in spite of all the so-called American sweethearts, past and present—there has been only one truly American girl, the Gibson Girl. She was tall, reserved and overdressed but, for more than 20 years she was the idol of America—admired by the men and imitated by the women.

The Gibson Girl was sometimes athletic, sometimes shy and sometimes regal—but always she was pure. She sat in the back of rowboats, a parasol over her shoulder. She rode horseback—side-saddle, of course. She played croquet—without stooping. And who was the real Miss Gibson? Nobody but an imaginary creature of Charles Dana Gibson, the artist who drew her. Born at Roxbury, Mass., in 1877, he became one of America's greatest illustrators. He made his first sale at 19 to Life magazine and was still a young man when Colliers ordered 100 drawings from him at $1,000 each.

The name of Gibson, through his creation of another person, was as widely known as any throughout the world. Kaiser Wilhelm II was a Gibson Girl fan, the czar of Russia had a collection of her pictures and the drawings were popular in Alaska and Tokyo.

A man by the name of Gibson created a girl more popular than the Cleopatra of yesterday or the Ann Sheridan of today. And when a girl who doesn't exist has more oomph than those two, she's really got something!

Bessemer Steel

ANYONE who knows anything at all about steel has heard of the Bessemer process for making it, but hardly anyone knows about Sir Henry Bessemer. He invented the process of converting cast iron into tough steel.

He was an English engineer born in 1813. During the Crimean war, he wanted to perfect a cannon that would fire a spinning projectile but the cast iron in the guns was not strong enough to withstand the more powerful explosion that was necessary. In Paris he was able to make a stronger cast iron. Then he succeeded in producing steel, patenting the process in 1855. It consists of burning out the carbon and other impurities by blowing air through the molten metal, a process still in use today.

Sir Henry was a prolific inventor. He was the first to compress graphite into a solid mass so that lead pencils could be made.

One of his first inventions was a method of impressing the government seal on papers so it could not be forged. The royal government promptly stole his patent without any attempt at recompense. But later in life he made a vigorous protest and the government apologized for its misdeed and made him a knight to quiet him—a reason as good as many others for bestowing the title of sir upon an Englishman.

'Annie Oakleys'

IN THE show business, all passes for free tickets are known as Annie Oakleys. The reason for calling them that is vague, but the personality of the original Annie Oakley for whom they are named is not. She was America's greatest markswoman—and "America's Sweetheart," too, long before Shirley Temple—or even Mary Pickford won that title.

Known as "Little Sure Shot," Annie Oakley used to perform feats of marksmanship with the pistol and rifle in Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. One of the many versions of how free tickets came to be known as "Annie Oakleys" is as follows:

Before her performances, she used to appear outside the tent, toss a pack of cards into the air and shoot at them. Anyone who was able to survive the scramble and obtain a card with a bullet hole in it was given a free admission to the show. Just an ordinary playing card would not admit you—it had to have a bullet hole in it.

In other words, it had to be an "Annie Oakley."

Careers in Engineering

By R. T. Strohm

Dean, International
Correspondence Schools

THE engineer is aware that new applications of scientific knowledge are continually developing. The more that man knows about the forces and materials of nature, the better chance he has to use them in some manner beneficial to the human race. The future is a great challenge to that trio of servants of mankind — the scientist, the inventor and the engineer — who among them, and frequently through overlapping activities, have been responsible for our present standards of living. They hold the key to the improvement of these standards in the future.

The engineer finds a larger and larger place in our system of national planning, in our natural industrial development and in our entire national economy.

One authority has pointed out that it is now a commonplace to say that the great day of the geographical planner is past and that the future is in the hands of the scientific planner. In very few places are there remaining vast unclaimed stores of natural resources of minerals, fertile soil and timber. We are faced with the necessity of finding more and more resources of the old kind, but of finding new resources which can be produced by science and engineering and the problems of handling these resources more efficiently and more wisely.

Never before have the opportunities in engineering been so great as they are now. Certainly never before has the need been so acutely felt.

Captain Diego Lopez, of Coronado's army was only twenty-four years old in 1540, when the party left Mexico to make explorations to the north.
