Carrizozo Finance Changes Proposed

State Comptroller C. R. Sebastian released a four-year audit of the village of Carrizozo, finding affairs of the municipality in generally good condition but recommending several changes in methods.

It urged that the village clerk's salary be increased from its present $75 a month, because of increased work; that his bond be raised from $1000 to $2500; that the mayor stop signing checks in blank and leaving them with the clerk, and that more detailed records be kept of bonds and vouchers.

The report added that the village administration had corrected all errors brought to its attention, and commended the work of officials.

Freeman-Pruett Nuptials Friday

Popular Couple United At Lovely Church Wedding

On Friday evening, February 9th, 1940 at 7:30, Miss Mary May Freeman became the bride of Mr. Ralph Maxwell Pruett in a beautiful wedding ceremony solemnized at the Methodist church in Carrizozo, with the Rev. H. L. Wheeler, officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Ray Lemon, wearing rose pink lace over rose colored satin sang two solos, "Annie Laurie" and "I Love you Truly." Mrs. Ben S. Burns gowned in black chiffon velvet played the piano accompaniment. Following these two numbers, Miss Rhoda Freeman, sister of the bride, wearing a wine colored velvet gown took her place at the piano, and played Lohengrin's wedding March. Little Misses Hope Snow and Josephine Pruett entered first strewing flowers in the path of the bride; their dresses were blue with pink sashes. The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Carl E. Freeman. She wore a white duchess satin wedding gown trimmed in real lace, semi-fitted waist, with shirring and with train over two yards long. A long veil caught with pearls and orange blossoms completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. The bride wore a cameo necklace on a heavy gold cable chain, which was an heirloom in the Freeman family. The groom met the bride at the altar, where Rev. Wheeler read the ring ceremony, of the Methodist ritual.

The best man was Mr. Carl Freeman, the bride's brother, while the maid of honor was the groom's sister, Miss Maria Pruett. Other attendants were Miss Louise Degner and Mr. Allen Beck. Miss Pruett wore a blue net with blue accessories and pink flowers. Miss Degner wore pink net with pink and blue accessories.

Ushers were Misses Mary Lou Phillips, Margaret Elliott, Dorothy Pruett and Dorothy Rogers, all in long dresses of pastel shades. Members of the Rainbow Order of which the bride is worthy advisor had seats of honor on the platform. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Freeman home, with about two hundred in attendance.

Three kinds of sandwiches, wedding cake and coffee were served. The bride cut the large three tier cake. Members of the wedding party assisted in serving the refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Pruett left early Saturday morning for El Paso for a short wedding trip; they will make their home in Carrizozo, where both are attending school.

Mrs. G. C. Willis, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nickels returned to her home in El Paso last Saturday.

Finn Tactics Adopted by U. S. Troops Study Winter Warfare

Long before the Russian-Finnish war brought winter fighting into prominence, the United States army began training picked troops to sleep warm in sub-zero weather and adjust themselves to other problems of winter warfare. These pictures were taken during maneuvers near Fort Brady at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in primitive countryside on the upper peninsula. Photos at right show soldiers on skis being pulled by an army truck for fast transportation through the snow. Each soldier has his own skis and full winter park. This winter, for the first time, troops have made extensive use of white "sheets" for camouflage.

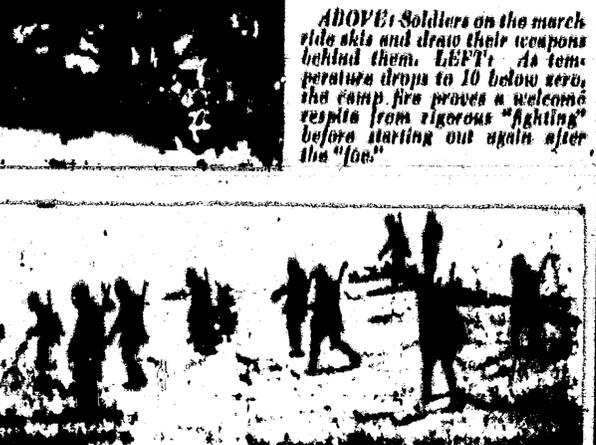

ABOVE: Soldiers climb from their trenches for an attack. Notice that riflemen are being supported by machine-guns from fixed emplacements.

ABOVE: Target practice in a driving snowstorm, while troops advance in open formation. RIGHT: Tea kettles and pipes support pup tents, and pine boughs form mattresses on top of the snow.

Science Probes Mysteries of Sleep To Find New Cure for Our Troubles

By GEORGE BERNARD
Illustrated by Western News Service (Miami)

SALESBYEN and scientists are sitting up nights figuring ways to make us sleep. They've invented ear plugs, eye shades, V-shaped pillows, silent radios, electric comforters whose warmth can be regulated—and even a gadget called the "lullaphone" whose drowsy hum has you yawning in no time.

The reason is obvious: Physicians and psychologists have examined our nervous system and decided that a few good nights' sleep would cure most of the world's troubles. They've probed the mysteries of hibernation, dreams, nightmares and insomnia. Most important, they've invented a powerful weapon called "frozen sleep" which may provide the cure for nervous and physical ailments.

Men: Must Sleep or Die. But sleep remains one of the body's greatest mysteries. It is hard to believe that we should surrender our complete consciousness willingly for eight hours every night, yet usually we crawl into bed happily after a hard day's work. We know this is the price we must pay for being one of the "higher" animals. That is why science is concentrating on methods to induce sleep, both natural and inspired. The prime requisite is complete relaxation the moment you jump into bed.

FROZEN SLEEP—As Weatanken, N. J., a patient is treated with broth after coming out of hibernation. This cancer patient is still wrapped in her freezing blanket after finishing the new treatment in which her body temperature was lowered to 91 degrees.

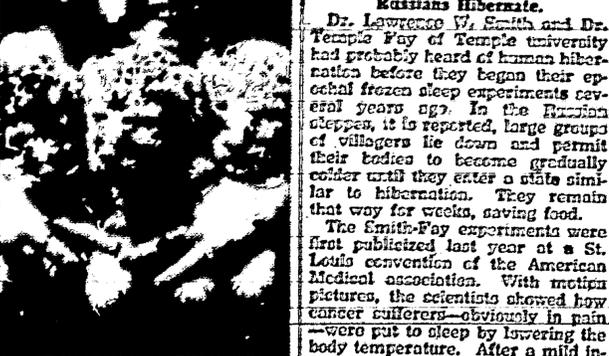

RELAXATION, PEELI—A fruit vendor along the Amazon in Brazil enjoys his siesta. Between loads his flops in one basket and julls the other over him.

But if people would brag about how well they sleep, Giles thinks, they would go to bed at night and actually rest better for having decided to do so. A good day's work is also important. Even if you're unemployed you can sleep well if you go to bed saying, honestly: "This was a terrible day and I got nowhere at all. But I did my best. Now for a good night's sleep so that I can do my best tomorrow."

One of the first persons to sleep "raw" was old Benjamin Franklin, but in recent years it's become so popular that in New York 40 per cent of the women and 25 per cent of the men sleep as old Adam and Eve in the garden—starve and comfortably naked. Physicians recommend it because it favors skin ventilation. Subconscious Mind Won't Sleep. Experts aren't agreed about dreams. Some maintain there's a morbid and unhealthy feature about them, yet no one has discovered a method of stilling our subconscious mind, which insists on working 24 hours a day. As a matter of fact, many a problem has been solved by people who go to bed at night weighted down with troubles and resolved to "sleep on them." The poet Kahlil Gibran once morning and morningly transcribed the poem "Kahlil Gibran" which his subconscious mind had written during his sleep.

The new "frozen sleep" is probably an adaptation of hibernation or of the ancient Egyptian criminal punishment. Instead of being sentenced to death, law breakers of King Tut's day were put into a state of coma and buried. It was discovered that, although a lengthy burial would tend to shorten their lives, it also cured them of their diseases. This is because healing processes work faster than destructive germs during sleep.

Russians Hibernates. Dr. Lawrence W. Smith and Dr. Temple Fay of Temple University had probably heard of human hibernation before they began their epochal frozen sleep experiments several years ago. In the Russian steppes, it is reported, large groups of villagers lie down and permit their bodies to become gradually colder until they enter a state similar to hibernation. They remain that way for weeks, saving food. The Smith-Fay experiments were first publicized last year at a St. Louis convention of the American Medical Association. With motion pictures, the scientists showed how cancer sufferers—obviously in pain—were put to sleep by lowering the body temperature. After a mild injection of overin enema, ice was packed about the upper portion of the body much as a fish is packed for shipping. The resultant cooling of the blood stream was much like the experience of one who freezes to death in a snowstorm, a process which is not at all painful.

PETS NOW, BUT—Three little lion cubs held in Claire Balson's arms are cute now, but wait until they grow up and start making faces at people!

Body Processes Cease. After the patients had been put to sleep the room temperatures were lowered. Frozen sleep was maintained for as long as five days but it might be prolonged indefinitely. Pulse beat in the arms and legs disappeared and only an electrocardiograph could detect the quiet and measured strokes of the heart. Kidneys and intestines ceased to function. The scientists do not claim their treatment will cure cancer, but the tissue of several external tumors was destroyed by the process. Patients invariably awakened to find their pain entirely disappeared. They had no idea how long they had slept. It had been a perfect rest—something doctors are always trying to get for damaged bodies. Why, scientists now ask, cannot the frozen sleep cure be used to attack tuberculosis and other ailments which require complete relaxation? Will it be useful to replace anesthetic in complicated surgical operations, or to help the patient rest during convalescence?

Fannie Hursi, the writer, keeps as her pets a white cat, a terrier and a tiny marmoset. She claims they help her with her work. As a student at the University of Washington she was expelled for refusing to dispose of her devoted terrier. In subsequent years her friends have sent her monkeys, a cockatoo, a Siamese cat and young tigers. She liked all of them, but there are limits to what you can keep in a Manhattan apartment.

Chimpanzees, Poisonous Snakes Among 'Pets' of Manhattanites

NEW YORK—If you're looking for common everyday pets like cats and dogs, don't come to Manhattan. In this city of towers you'll find as unique a collection of domesticated animals as ever answered to a master's summons.

J. H. Harper, a movie producer, has as his constant companion a huge Siberian husky which an Alaskan friend sent him two years ago. Harper was broke at the time and the animal brought him so much notoriety that he secured financial backing for a new motion picture venture. "Tod," the husky, has acclimated himself perfectly to the bustling life of New York, crango though it may be to a dog of his temperament. He used to howl at the moon until Harper began keeping him under the bed. He roared stairs until he once conquered them. Then Tod spent the next hour running up and down.

She Likes Apes! Mrs. Gertrude Lintz of Brooklyn dates her passion for chimpanzees to the day 20 years ago in Vienna, when she saw youngsters throwing stones at a frightened pair of apes in a zoo. She was so impressed with the way the male tried to shield his trembling mate that she resolved to study them.

"I knew then that there was something within those human-like animals that I must come to understand," she recalls. Today she has three female chimpanzees in her home. They live like humans, arising early for breakfast, walking through the Lintz estate and taking regular baths. Mrs. Lintz dresses them as she would children. Recently one of the apes, Peggy Ann, behaved better than the average little girl when forced to sit through a banquet and three hours of tedious after-dinner speeches.

It's Snakes With Him. Harold J. O'Connell, successful New York business man, has snakes as his hobby. "Most people have an aversion to them," he admits, "but this feeling is not inherent. Babies can be given a small snake and they will show no fear whatever. Fear of snakes comes solely through the frightening stories told by mothers, nurses maids and friends about the sup-

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

To keep muslin curtains even when laundering them, put two curtains together and iron as one curtain.

To restore fireplace bricks to their natural color and keep them clean, wash them in a mixture of two ounces soda, one ounce pumice stone, 1 ounce salt mixed with water till it forms a cream.

The gray or green color hard water gives to rice when it is boiled may be prevented by adding a pinch of cream of tartar or a little lemon juice to the water.

Keep a large shaker containing six parts salt to one part pepper on the shelf of your kitchen range to use in seasoning foods.

If rubber gloves are sprinkled on the inside with acetate or powder they will slip on more easily.

Put strips of adhesive tape on the inside of children's rubbers. On tags print the children's names. They will then have no difficulty in finding their rubbers.

To remove a fresh grease spot on a rug, cover the spot with blotting paper, then press with a hot flatiron. Cover the spot with magnesia, let it remain for 24 hours, then brush off.

To remove salt from fish in a hurry, wash the fish for a while in sweet milk.

Do not wrap silver in bleached linen. The sulphur which has been used in bleaching will tarnish it. Unbleached cotton flannel is best.

Use the rinsing water from milk bottles to water house plants. This water will make them healthy.

Rapid Fire Language!

A scientist has investigated the comparative speed at which various languages are spoken—that is, the number of syllables uttered in a minute. He found that French is the world's speediest language, with about 250 syllables a minute. Next comes Japanese, with 310 syllables and German, with 250. English is a slow and draw out language by comparison, being spoken on an average of 220 syllables a minute.

But the slowest languages are found in the South Seas, where the natives speak their tongue at a rate of only 50 syllables a minute.

CHAPTER XI

To escape the insistent autobiographer Jebb flung away with regret a half-finished cigar and said:

"I think I'll go to dinner now."

"Good idea," said Ludlam, and invited himself along.

At the table he flaunted the odious hospitality of the "wine-opener."

"Got to celebrate this, doctor," he said. "Don't meet up with a fellow-countryman every day out here. What'll it be, doc?"

"Nothing, thanks."

"Aw, go on—of course you will. What do you say to a small bot. of champagne?"

It began to look as if Jebb would have to break a plate over the man's head to escape his despotism. But at length he persuaded Ludlam to believe him, and Ludlam, more puzzled than ever, endured the ordeal of drinking alone.

His eye studied Jebb's face and garb as examiningly as his curiosity pried into his history. But the dinner was half over before he noticed the ring on Jebb's left little finger.

He looked up quickly into Jebb's face, then back to the ring.

He followed Jebb back to the smoking compartment and compelled him to accept one of his own cigars.

"Odd looking ring you got on, doc."

"Isn't it?" said Jebb.

"Came from Servia, didn't it?"

"I don't know."

"That's funny."

"Think so?" was all Jebb found to say.

"It's a Servian design all right."

"Is it?"

"Ever been in Belgrade?"

"Passed through it today."

"I mean—ever stop off there?"

"I don't think so."

"You don't think so?"

"I'm not sure."

"That's funny. Don't remember whether you've been in a place like Belgrade? I can't imagine a man being in Belgrade without remembering it."

"I think I'll go to my berth and take a nap."

"Before you go, doctor, would you mind letting me look at that ring?"

"Does it interest you?"

"Yes."

Though he wanted to jab the man in the fat face with it, Jebb held his hand out meekly.

"Would you mind if I took it off?" said Ludlam.

"Is there any reason why you should?"

"Is there any reason why I shouldn't?"

"None whatever," said Jebb.

Instantly the ring was slipped from his finger and Ludlam was holding it close, his piggy eyes staring into the inner surface.

"Ugh-hugh!" he snorted like an angry bear. "I thought so."

"You thought what?"

"See these initials, 'C. to J.'?"

"Well."

"Well! How do you come to have it?"

"My name is Jebb."

"But who does 'C' stand for?"

"That's my affair."

"I'm not so sure of that, young fellow. I've been kind of suspicious of you all along. You're so blamed close-mouthed I thought there must be some reason."

bowled Jebb over, too, for the frightful possibility suddenly presented itself that the other member of the firm, V. Pierpont, Esq., co-partner in the Jebb-Pierpont soul, might actually have taken a fancy to this Miss Jennie Ludlam and proposed to her. She might be some pathetic old spinster who would jump at a proposal from anybody.

Meanwhile the train was pushing on through the dark. An iron bridge at Neusatz carried it rumbling across the Danube and into the plains of lower Hungary.

Finally, Ludlam, having failed to invent a next step, threw the burden on his prisoner, and demanded:

"Well, what are you going to do about this ring?"

"You have it, haven't you?"

"Yes, but—"

"Keep it, and call it square."

"Oh, no, you don't. I want to know how you got it. There may be some foul play here. I haven't heard from Jennie for a couple of months and you're coming with me to Munich."

"Munich? I get off at Budapest."

"If you do, I'll get off and swear out a warrant for your arrest."

"You haven't a scintilla of evidence."

"They'll detain you till I get it. I've got friends in Budapest."

Jebb was fairly wringing his brain for memory and wisdom. He was eager to reach Trieste, yet he had no assurance of finding the child there. He had probably passed through Munich on his flight south from Cologne. Munich might be the very spot where he had lost Cynthia.

If Mr. Jebb would wait in the reception room.

"You say your sister will meet you in Munich?"

"Yes, she lives there most of the time."

"Well, I'll go along with you."

"You will?"

"I'll go with you on one condition."

"What's that?"

"That you pay my expenses there and back to Budapest."

"Pay your expenses? Well, I guess not. Why should I?"

"I never heard of a prisoner paying his own fare, did you?"

"All right," Ludlam growled.

That night, in the berth that Ludlam paid for, Jebb slept uneasily, for his dreams were a nightmare of war between his Miruna and Pierpont's Jennie over the possession of their Siamese lovers.

He would have slept so much better had he known that Ludlam sat up all night to make sure of his not escaping.

Breakfast-time found them at Vienna, and Jebb ordered everything he could think of. He smoked Ludlam's expensive invincibles till he made himself dizzy, and his jailer was heartily glad to see Munich arrive in the late afternoon of the dreariest day he had ever spent.

The finishing blow was the discovery that sister Jennie, never expecting her brother, had gone to Vienna for a week's visit. The concierge gave her address as the Hotel Bristol—a familiar name to Jebb.

And poor Ludlam was so woe-begone and so sleepy from his all-night vigil that Jebb felt sorry for him. Jebb had won the confidence of a patient "trusty" inspired, and Ludlam felt sure of keeping him by the simple device of withholding his return fare. He engaged adjoining rooms after assuring him that they would entrain for Vienna on the morrow and waddled off to bed. It was not long before his snores came trumpeting through the thin partition. Jebb settled back in a chair in his own room, to figure up his expenditures and find how he stood with the future.

CHAPTER XII

When he reached for a fountain pen he kept in the inside pocket of his coat, he found that it had dropped through a hole and was lost in the lining.

He slipped off the coat, and, emptying the pocket, turned it inside out to examine what he would have called the lesion.

His eye was caught by the white label of the tailor.

MAX WANDL

Schneider

14 Lindenastrasse, Dresden

Herr V. Pierpont

This was the plainest clew Jebb had found yet. He cursed himself for having carried it in his own inside pocket all this while. He had idled about Salonica and Constantinople, trying to retrace his steps, when he might have taken this short cut and picked up the thread far back, near its beginning, without the loss of so many irretrievable days.

A creptation from the sleeping Behemoth next door reminded Jebb that on the morrow he was booked for Vienna, a wild-goose chase far down the line; a foolish tryst with one of V. Pierpont's flirtations.

A surging impulse to get to Dresden at once swept over him. He threw on his coat and hurried down to the office, where he learned that an express for Dresden left in an hour.

He did not wait for the dolorous lift; he ran up the stairs, threw into his suitcase what little he had taken out, and, retrieving his fountain pen from the depths of his coat, put Ludlam a note.

Dear Mr. Ludlam:

Sorry I can't accompany you to Vienna. Called elsewhere suddenly. Will join you at Hotel Bristol as soon as possible. Kind regards to sister Jennie.

Yours hastily,

D. Jebb.

He pushed this under Ludlam's door and, rushing downstairs, leaped into a cab.

Little Max Wandl was circumambulating a hugely globular Saxon, and recording the distance with a tape-measure. He paused long enough, when confronted with Jebb's question, to say that he had delivered the suit to V. Pierpont at the Hotel Bellevue. Jebb hurried to the Bellevue and was met by a smiling host.

"Good-afternoon, Meester Bierpont. Pleasit to see you again."

It amazed Jebb to see how well everybody remembered Pierpont. But Mine Host was saying:

"You liked Vienna?"

"Vienna?—oh yes."

"But you have come to Dresden back. That is right. You have us your ledgers to forward geloid, but he did not come any ledgers. In fact, if you pardon me, I forwaid to your de-bill-of-de doctor who has your t'umb geopened, and de letter he has back come."

"Where did you send it?" said Jebb.

"The Grand Hotel in Vienna. I remember you said such a nice name it is, I like it."

"Yes, yes. I will pay the bill now, if you have it."

"It is no hurry. Will you have again your old room overlooking the river? And is your liddle—what it is a sister's child?"

"Niece?"

"Yes, your liddle neeze vit you again? So dear a child never was here. She throws me such a sweet kiss when she goes the hotel for the last time out."

Jebb sighed as he answered:

"No, she is not with me. And I just stopped in a—for a cigar. I'm going back to Vienna at once."

He paid the bill of a Dresden surgeon who had lanced the thumb crushed on the train so many epochs past, and made haste to the station.

Several hours of feverish delay before the train started, and then ten hours in a sleeping-car brought him to Vienna. He hurried to the Grand Hotel to pick up the next trace of himself and Cynthia. To his unutterable dismay there was no evidence that V. Pierpont had ever visited the hotel.

Miserable than ever from the sudden quenching of fresh-lighted hope, Jebb stood looking up and down the sweeping glory of the great Ringstrasse.

Just across the street from him he saw the Hotel Bristol. His flesh crept at the thought of sister Jennie. Still he had given his word and he would keep it—at a later hour. It was too early for a call even upon the prospective better half of his worse self.

Meanwhile, he would go to the Union Bank and see if by any chance there might be a letter there. He had written that address in his farewell note to Miruna and he felt all shot through with little lightning as he thought of finding a message in her hand.

At the bank Jebb was met with a new face. Two letters—both from Turkey—had indeed arrived for Herr Jebb—(his heart leaped at the glorious news, and at the sound of his own, own name)—but according to his recent telegraphed instructions, they had been forwarded to his address in Trieste.

So impatience foils impatience.

There seemed to be nothing left for Jebb except to cast himself adrift on the tide of circumstance and trust to luck again.

When Jebb reached the Hotel Bristol he asked if Mr. Ludlam were registered there. No, but Miss Ludlam was. He sent his name up, and asked for her brother. Word was returned that Mr. Ludlam was absent, but that his sister would be down in five minutes if Mr. Jebb would wait in the reception room.

A woman's five minutes! Jebb retained his cigar and tried to imagine what sister Jennie would look like.

He kept his eye on the clock and when the five minutes were gone he threw away his cigar and countered into the luxurious reception-hall, wondering how large a section of an hour sister Jennie's five minutes represented.

It had been a long time since he had sat in a fashionable continental hotel and watched a peacock alley parade.

But among the women moved one who caught Jebb's eye by some subtle difference from the crowd. He could not see her face, though the back of her head, the glimpse of an ear or a cheek strongly tempted beauty. Her form was beautiful, too; and she was graceful.

She paced awhile aimlessly, paused to look aimlessly out of a window, sat down at a desk, as if to write, seemed to decide not to write, rose. At length, however, she dropped into a chair with a visible if not audible sigh of ennui and stared at the floor.

And now Jebb could study her face. At once he knew that he had met her somewhere—but where? She was wonderfully beautiful, but where had he seen her?

Her timid eyelids rose and her gaze ran about the room, as if she were lonely and afraid. Her eyes did not see him, but he saw her eyes. There was no mistaking those eyes. He tried to call her name, but his pale lips commanded only a murmur:

"Mirumal Mirumal!"

"The Name Is Familiar"

BY FELIX B. STREYCKMANS and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Solon

WHEN we want to say that a man is wise we call him a solon and we call lawmakers solons, too. This doesn't mean that we think all lawmakers are wise men—heaven forbid! The reason is that the world's original lawmaker on a big scale was a very wise man and his name was Solon.

That name isn't just a first name or a last name—it is all the name the man had and all he needed. He lived so long ago that the population was small enough to let men get by with one-word names. Solon was one of the original Seven Wise Men of Greece and was born in Athens about 640 B. C.

Solon

He wrote or rewrote practically all the laws that were in existence during his time and was the first lawmaker to devise a code that gave people rights instead of merely prohibiting them from doing this or saying that they must do that. Besides regulating private and public life, his code reformed the calendar, the system of weights and measures, the monetary system. It relieved the burdens of debtors without curtailing the rights of creditors. (He could be elected on either ticket today!)

His laws were crudely written on wooden cylinders and set up in public places for everybody to read. This must have been just a matter of form, because in his day about the only ones who could read were the ones who wrote the cylinders.

Kelvin's Law

THE kelvin, a commercial unit of electricity; Kelvin's law for measuring the most economical diameter of an electric wire; Kelvin, or absolute, temperature scale, which begins at 501 degrees below zero Fahrenheit; and the Kelvinator, the first electric refrigerator for household use, were named for Lord Kelvin of Largs, Scotland, one of the greatest and most practical scientists of all time.

He invented flashing signals for lighthouses; designed an oil-flooding self-leveling magnetic compass which allowed this instrument to be used on steel ships; invented the ultra-sensitive detecting and recording apparatus that made the transatlantic cable possible—and became chief executive of the cable company to supervise its laying; reduced temperature to a mathematical basis and announced absolute zero where there is no heat and where molecules stand still.

His name was William Thomson and he was born in Belfast in 1824, the son of a professor of mathematics at the Royal Academical Institution of Belfast. An early as 1852 he foresaw the practicability of heating and cooling buildings by means of currents of air. When he built a mansion of his own in 1874 on the Scottish coast, he built in heating ducts and ventilating facilities. When he died in 1907, he had received every degree a scholar could obtain and had made a fortune of many millions of dollars.

Lord Kelvin

Rich as Croesus

WHEN a man is so rich that he actually reeks with wealth, we call him a Croesus. The word is pronounced like those things in a man's trousers—and we don't mean wrinkles, like in ours.

But don't misunderstand—we don't call a rich man a Croesus because he is the only one who can afford them in his pants. Perhaps we never should have brought the matter up.

Croesus is a word for a rich man and goes way back to 600 B. C., when the original Croesus, a Greek king of Lydia, was born. He was richer than any king before him, hence the use of his name. Living in the time when men wore togas, you can see that he didn't even wear pants—or did they wear pants with togas? Now we are sorry we brought the matter up.

Lydia, at the time Croesus was king, included practically all of Asia Minor, and his wealth was obtained mainly from the mines and gold dust of the river Pactolus. Proud of his treasures, he carried his love of splendor to extravagance and thought he was the happiest of men.

All of which proves it isn't the number of pairs of pants you have that makes you wealthy.

Charming New Apron Has Square Neckline

THIS pinafore apron (1888-B) is so pretty that it really deserves to be called a fashion—a crisp, flattering, practical home fashion! The square neckline (no troublesome straps), the princess waistline and bosom gathers make it fit as becomingly as your favorite afternoon dress. And it covers your dress with protective thoroughness.

Send for the pattern this very minute! You can finish the apron in a few hours, because it's simply nothing to make. And the first time you slip it over your head, tie the oach bow, discover how pretty it looks and comfortable it feels—you'll go ahead and make up several, in order to have a fresh, clean one always ready. Tuck some away for bridge prices and shower gifts, too. Gingham, percale, calico and chambray are pretty for this.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1888-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material; 1 yard trimming.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

Women in Majority

In most countries the female population exceeds the male. For every 1,000 males there are 1,003 females in England, 1,071 in France, 1,058 in Germany, 1,103 in Russia, 1,073 in Portugal, and so many as 1,123 in Esthonia. Only a few countries have a larger male population than female. They include the United States, with 970 women for every 1,000 men. And in Cuba the women are comparatively scarce, with only 923 for every 1,000 men.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE

COMPANION TO THOUSANDS
Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY" seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of the playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 20c a copy. Subscription prices are $2.00 for one year or $3.50 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7480 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

Men at Work—They're Fighting Freedom's Cause

Three national leaders whose independence efforts have made news around the world: Left: Mohandas Gandhi, Indian independence leader, whose demands for autonomy from Great Britain have increased since the British request for Indian support in the war. Center: Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Islands, who told the national assembly it must choose now between permanent subservience to the United States or an insecure independence in 1946. Right: Ignace Jan Paderewski, famed pianist and former premier of Poland, who has been named president of Poland-in-exile, with headquarters in France.

Airplanes End Starvation for 50,000 Wild Ducks

More than 50,000 wild ducks were saved from starvation when Illinois sportsmen distributed six tons of grain from the air along the Illinois river in the LaSalle region. The feed was distributed by the airplanes in ice-locked sloughs and back waters. Top: Some of the hundreds of ducks already dead from starvation. Bottom: Loading shelled corn in the plane at the LaSalle-Peru, Ill., airport.

Bankhead Pledges Support to Bankhead

Senator Lister Hill of Alabama pins a "Bankhead for President" button on the lapel of Senator John H. Bankhead, also of the cotton state. They are booming the senator's brother, Rep. William B. Bankhead, speaker of the house, for the Democratic nomination for President in the 1948 campaign. Senator Hill is Bankhead's campaign manager.

Census Chieftain

Commander-in-chief of 150,000 census takers is William Lane Austin, whose army will compile essential facts about 132,000,000 Americans, 3,000,000 business firms, 33,000,000 homes and 7,000,000 farms during 1946. Austin, a native of Mississippi, began with the census bureau 48 years ago in a minor capacity and worked to the top.

City of Flint Crew in Home Waters

Members of the crew of the City of Flint turn thumbs down on the banner with the pinwheel cross. The City of Flint arrived in Baltimore, Md., recently after an epic cruise which lasted 116 days. This Nazi flag was hoisted by the German prize crew put aboard to take the ship to Germany after its capture by a sea raider. The ship was later freed by Norway.

SOUP GIVES THE FIRST IMPRESSION

See Recipes Below.

Satisfying Soups

Soup, like the front door, gives a first impression, good or bad, that is difficult to overcome, whatever follows.

It's the cook's fault if this first course at dinner isn't good, for a great many wholesome ingredients can be made into delicious soups if they are knowingly handled.

Beginning with good ingredients and finishing off with skillful seasoning, there's no reason why you can't produce a soup that is tempting, delicious and wholly satisfying.

Soup is more than just a means of using up left-overs and remnants of meat and vegetables, but left-overs may be the starting point for a cream soup that's a masterpiece; season it with discrimination, thicken it smoothly; serve it hot and nicely garnished, and you have evolved the perfect beginning for a dinner, or a satisfying mainstay dish for lunch.

Finely chopped parsley, paprika and croutons are familiar garnishes for soups; newer, and just as attractive are these: a few grains of popped corn; minced chives; toasted and lightly buttered puffed cereals; a spoonful of unsweetened whipped cream, salted and sprinkled with minced parsley, chives, or finely chopped salted peanuts; very fine strips of thin, well browned pancakes; thin slices of frankfurters.

Quick cooking tapioca is a new thickener for soups; it's quick and easy to use, and it adds unusual texture and taste as well.

Corn Soup

(Serves 4)

- 1 1/2 cups canned corn
- 1 cup meat broth, or 1 cup water
- 2 and 1/2 bouillon cubes
- 2 1/2 cups rich milk
- 1 1/2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon onion, minced
- 1 1/2 tablespoons butter

Cook corn in broth 10 minutes; force through sieve. Combine with milk, quick-cooking tapioca, salt, sugar, and onion in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 to 12 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter. Garnish with popcorn if desired.

Vegetable Soup

- 1 lb. soup meat, cut in small pieces
- 3/4 lb. veal bones
- 2 quarts cold water
- 1/2 cup sliced onion
- 3 cloves garlic
- 1/4 cup sliced carrots
- 1/2 cup potato cubes
- 1/2 cup shredded cabbage
- 1 stalk celery (cut in pieces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 sprig parsley

- 2 tablespoons celery leaves (chopped)

Place meat, water and vegetables in saucepan. Cover and simmer slowly for two or three hours. Remove from flame and put through sieve.

Cream of Tomato Soup

- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 2 slices onion
- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk

Heat tomatoes with onion, soda, sugar, salt and pepper. Rub through sieve; reheat. Place butter in top of double boiler and melt. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Pour tomato mixture slowly into white sauce. Mix thoroughly and serve at once.

Fish Chowder

- 4 pounds white fish
- 2 cups cold water
- 1 cup salt pork (diced)
- 1 onion (sliced)
- 4 cups potatoes (cut in 1/2 inch cubes)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 cups canned tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup coarse cracker crumbs

Clean fish. Remove head, tail and bones, cover with cold water and cook slowly for approximately 20 minutes. Drain and reserve stock. Place salt pork in skillet, add sliced onion and saute until onions are brown. Add to fish stock. Add potatoes and cook until almost tender. Skin and cut flesh of fish in 2-inch pieces, add to mixture and cook until tender. Then add seasonings, tomatoes and butter and heat thoroughly. Add cracker crumbs and serve immediately.

Wash, peel, and slice thinly 5 medium-sized onions. Brown in 1/4 cup of butter in a heavy frying pan. Cover and cook slowly until tender, but not brown—about 10 minutes—adding more butter if necessary.

Onion Soup au Gratin

Wash, peel, and slice thinly 5 medium-sized onions. Brown in 1/4 cup of butter in a heavy frying pan. Cover and cook slowly until tender, but not brown—about 10 minutes—adding more butter if necessary.

Parsley Dumplings

- 2 cups bread flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup lard
- 2 tablespoons parsley (chopped)
- 1/4 cup milk (approximately)

Sift together dry ingredients, cut in fat and add chopped parsley. Add milk and mix gently with a fork. Drop by spoonfuls into boiling stew. Cover and continue to steam for 15 minutes without lifting the cover.

Peanut Butter Soup

- 1 quart sweet milk
- 3 tablespoons peanut butter
- 4 thin slices onion
- Salt and pepper to taste

Add small quantity milk to the peanut butter and mix thoroughly. Heat remainder of milk and stir in the peanut butter mixture. Add onion—and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve with toasted croutons.

To remove coffee, tea or chocolate stains from cups rub well with a non-gritty cleansing powder applied with a soft cloth. Rinse in plenty of warm and cold water to remove all traces of the powder.

Recreation Room Trimmed Nautical

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THINGS that have to do with the sea are a good theme for decorating a recreation room, a boy's room or a summer cottage. A ship model has a salty flavor but is not a necessity. One youngster made a map of a desert island complete with a legend of hidden treasure. No one knew more than he about the island or treasure for he invented both of them. He also salvaged the steering wheel from an old boat and hung it on the wall with ropes.

His mother made a smartly tailored navy blue couch cover trimmed in a red anchor and a red cushion was adorned with a blue anchor. Straight strips of material 1-inch wide after the edges are turned under will make an anchor 12-inches long and 8 inches across as shown here. Bias tape may be used for the smaller anchor which is just half the size of the large one.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 2 contains a complete alphabet to be made of straight or bias strips; also illustrations of five processes of fabric mending; 30 embroidery stitches; making doll clothes; and numerous gift items. Ask for Book No. 2, enclosing 10 cents to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

New Cop Had to Admit Failure at First Tryout

It was his first morning on a beat, and the young policeman was feeling very important. So when he had to reprimand a motorist he did so sternly.

"Didn't you see the traffic-light against you?"

"No, officer," said the motorist.

"Didn't you see me wave my hand?"

"I'm afraid I didn't."

"But you must have heard me blow my whistle?"

"I didn't."

The young policeman seemed downcast.

"I'd better go home," he said, sadly, "I'm a failure here."

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens. Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headache days and then having to take an emergency cathartic—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need. Eat this toasted, nutritious cereal regularly—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In war, both the Poles and the Russians seem to suffer from incurable romance. The Poles cling to their picturesque cavalry, Russ, Like Poles, all the hard-
Cling to Horses boiled mili-
With Ill Results tary advice in Europe, and their horses made beautiful targets for machine-gun bullets. The Russians in the latest emergency sent in, not a strategist in modern war, but their most romantic cavalry general, Marshal Simon M. Budenny, and reports of disaster follow swiftly. News stories chalk up another "dismal failure," in the general's latest assault on the Mannerheim line.

In the late summer of 1919, when the cables brought the news that the Bolsheviks were whipped and in flight, and that the White Russian Denikin held all of southern Russia, Budenny galloped through the steppes, recruiting his army of wild horsemen. He was a Cossack, from the Don region, gaudily appareled, and with a huge blow-torch moustache that flared magnificently in the wind. His little bands of free-booters grew into a huge cavalry army. It swept back, not only Denikin, but his ally, Wrangel and stopped the Poles until the French came to their aid.

The general was enshrined in legend. He became the hero of folk tales and songs throughout the land—his wife, too, who rode and fought with him. Lenin later put him in command of all the Russian cavalry. He is a man of extraordinary energy. "Proletarians, to horse!" was his rallying cry, as he became one of the country's main inciters of patriotic enthusiasm. He had all Russia thinking or at any rate feeling that the answer to all its troubles was in getting everybody on horseback.

He was a peasant, without schooling. And there is no available record of his having had any training or experience in mechanized warfare. He was a private in the Russo-Japanese war and a petty officer in the early stages of the World war. His wife, said to have been the best rifle shot in Russia, killed herself accidentally while cleaning a gun, in 1925. He married a famous actress of the Mall theater in Moscow, and their joint histrionics have continued to thrill the Russians. He has maintained a horse-breeding farm and encouraged his countrymen to do the same, evidently on the theory that a good horse and a good proletarian slogan would make any Russian unconquerable.

MANY years ago, this writer shared an apartment with the late Willard Huntington Wright. If the Empire State building were an ivory tower, Prof. Doubles as Philosopher and Author of Thrills it would not have been tall enough for Mr. Wright in these days. He was an aesthete, fastidious in dress, multi-lingual, a postgraduate of many European salons, a distinguished art critic and a precisionist of ideas, to whom a primrose by the river's brim was a simple primulacea and nothing more. I began to feel the altitude, and one day dived out of a 90-story window. It was not until several years later that I learned Mr. Wright had done the same and, convalescing, had become S. S. Van Dine, authoring bell-ringing murder-mystery stories to the end of his days.

Somewhat similar is Dr. Rudolf Kager's ambidextrous life as a philosopher and writer of detective stories. As he is hired by the New York World's fair—they may need to have a philosopher around by next spring—it is revealed that this Kurt Steel who has been keeping us awake nights with "Judas Incorporated," "Crooked Shadows," and the like, is none other than Dr. Kager, associate professor of philosophy at New York university. At the fair he will work as a philosopher rather than as a detective, pulling together a lot of educational loose ends and ravelings which, it seemed, got into a somewhat untidy state last summer.

His detective stories started as an anodyne for a feeling of loneliness in the groves of Academe—as in the case of Mr. Wright. In 1930, he had prepared his doctor's thesis on "The Growth of F. H. Bradley's Logic," and had climbed where few or none could follow. He was all fagged out, and any two-dollar word made him shut his eyes and duck. A friend suggested that he hang out a murder story—anything that came into his head. "Murder of a Dead Man" was his first extra-curricular workout. The publishers yelled for more.

Comfort, Style, Color, Novelty In New Spring Shoe Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AS A prologue to the season before us the National Shoe fair, held in Chicago recently, launched many new styles for the Easter parade, and for the spring and summer months to follow. It is not possible to tell of all the shoe fashions exhibited, so in the next few paragraphs we will cite a few outstanding highspots.

First, one is impressed with the striking originality that marks the styling of shoes this season. The big news is the swing toward back decoration. The newest models are styled with all sorts of fancy cutouts in heel and side-back sections. Open toes appear in a substantial percentage, with good taste using a restraining hand.

In leathers there is decided ingenuity in combinations, especially with fabrics. In the forefront are leathers from the reptilian family. Patent is a top-honor contender, dividing its style prestige with gabardine. Suede is also definitely in the picture. The step-ins are prime favorites. The majority of these, and of pumps, carry elasticized sections.

For the initial purchase smart women will select black or the new bluejacket blue, a dark navy. Malibu beige is also a color you will be parading. Gray is due for a decided revival.

Heels introduce more novelty in their heights and shapes than in any previous year. They will "click" from flat platforms to new spike altitudes. Wedges in medium and high heel verities promise a great vogue. When you see the new play shoes you won't be able to resist. Wedge shoes with coles in brilliant red kid and tops of Paris blue, buck piped in red, with a red drawstring around the top will embark you gaily on that all-American spring which fashion advances will be here, with patriotic colors flagging interest from head to foot.

Ready to step out for spring are bluejacket pumps with bows and moccasin-effect fronts edged in white as shown to the left in the picture, worn with a navy and white, print frock and navy and white accessories. Gay stripes wool for soles is a spring promise. To wear with your striped coat choose shoes such as accompany the coat illustrated.

Describing the shoes shown in the inset, beginning at the top, No. 1 is the new double platform type. The alligator pumps next below are real smart. They are in the new taupe gray, have the latest square toe and heel design, with stitching in brown. Shown next is a significant alligator style forecast. It combines alligator with suede or gabardine. Two pert bows of alligator add swank. Comfort plus style is the very important message conveyed by the shoe that concludes the group.

Pastel Blouse

A sheer crepe blouse in monotone pastel, pale blue, muted pink, grayish green or the new wheat color with a dark skirt of rich fabric is a dress formula that carries style conviction. The blouse pictured observes the newest styling details. High neckline, long generously full sleeves, the wide corselet effect that gives a nipped-in waistline, they are marks of fashion-wise dressmaker touches. A matching turban is late fashion decree. Neptun is launching new styles in chemisier blouses, making them of silk or cotton novelty shirting and trimming them with old-time featherstitched braid and nacre shell-shaped buttons.

Milliners Turn Out Cunning Spring Hats

A pastel felt or a gay fabric turban make good "starters" for spring. The sailor theme is a most important one. As for turbans you can wear no smarter headpieces. The latest is to have a turban match either blouse or bag or match something that has to do with your costume.

The outstanding feature about the cunning hats that tilt over the face, some not much larger than the palm of your hand, is that they all throw the spotlight on back views. Milliners have devised all sorts of schemes in the way of snoods and fitted deep bandeaux and ribbon cap-fitting contrivances not only to insure a comfortable fit on the head but to give chic and charm to back views.

House Coats to Fit Your Personality

House coats and hostess gowns, like all other costumes, should be chosen to match your personality. Once in a while the tall, stately woman may find it amusing to go frilly and feminine at home and the hoyden may try her hand at elegance, but these are the exceptions rather than the rule.

Ordinarily the woman who spends many hours in her home likes pretty, cheerful pastels, while the career woman who keeps an eye on the practical side chooses the darker red, wine and blue shades.

Wet Day Ensemble Chic and Sensible

Copper and white are attractively combined for a rainy day ensemble. A trench coat of copper-toned gabardine is teamed with white rubbers and a transparent copper-toned umbrella. The umbrella has an old-fashioned ivory tusk handle. An amusing lapel pin for this coat is a pair of white celluloid ducks.

Careers in Engineering
By R. T. Strohm
Dean, International Correspondence Schools

THE most successful engineer is likely to be creative, imaginative, and able to break down a big problem into smaller ones and solve them separately. His next step would be to put them together again. It is easily understood that a nervous and impatient individual would find engineering work irksome even if that person had the mental qualities necessary for research, design and administrative tasks. Any young man with eyes on the varied field of engineering should have an aptitude for mathematics. Many vocational counselors point out that the first requisite for prospective engineers is the ability to learn algebra, trigonometry and higher mathematics. If the would-be engineer finds these subjects difficult and uninteresting, it is likely that engineering as a profession is not for him. There are other qualities than that of the ability to grasp a mathematical problem, however. A successful engineer should be able to demonstrate a certain manual dexterity, ability to draw and sketch, an understanding of physics and chemistry, and the ability to express ideas clearly, orally and on paper. It is wise to see that the prospective engineer, while a student, finds a job which has some relationship to engineering, so that he may learn whether the work affords his imagination and interest. There is no test like that of immediate contact with the work which he might ultimately be called upon to do.

One Point of View
Good taste rejects excessive slooty; it treats little things as little things.

Pioneering for Progress!

THERE ARE PIONEERS today just as in the days of our forefathers when trails were blazed through trackless wilderness. Today's pioneers lead the way in business, in medicine, in engineering—in the advancement of many fields of human endeavor.

This year we salute some of telephony's pioneers in commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first transcontinental telephone call. It was late in January, 1915 that the continent was first spanned by telephone—a thrill for those in New York and San Francisco whose words traveled back and forth in a fraction of a second.

In 1915 it took about half an hour to complete a connection. Today you call the nearest town or across the country without hanging up—like making a local call.

Telephone pioneers who build the speech trails—the men in the laboratory who are working constantly to make the service better and more comprehensive, represent the never ending effort of the Bell System to continue pioneering for progress.
