"Billy The Kid Lives Again"

This was a play depicting ten Lincoln County War scenes and was repeated by request. Everybody was enthusiastic concerning the realism of the play. Enough rain fell to keep the air pleasantly cool. The three days of entertainment were thoroughly enjoyed and due to County Clerk, Edward Penfield's untiring efforts and the co-operation of all other assistants the Coronado Cuarto Centennial celebration for Lincoln county has gone into history, leaving success for the cast and promoters and pleasant memories for the witnesses and participants.

The 4th of July At Silver City

Posting of more than $2,500 in guaranteed cash awards and the added attraction of an anticipated equal amount in entry fees is attracting attention of the best rodeo performers in the southwest to Silver City's seventh annual three-day rodeo opening July 4th. Membership in the RAA and playing under the rules of CTA the 1940 rodeo will be entered by a large number of the nationally known professional rodeo contestants.

Additional funds have been appropriated for every feature of the annual three-day show, including far more elaborate plans for the daily parade, one of the most colorful parts of the entire program.

Eddie Allison, rodeo chairman, has promised southwest New Mexico a "bigger and better" show, and every indication tends to substantiate this claim, according to Paul R. Gantz, president of the Grant County Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the show.

Gov. Miles Takes Interest in National Guard

Santa Fe, June 21, 1940—Governor John E. Miles today expressed his own keen interest in the New Mexico National Guard and said that in his opinion every citizen of the state should take a similar interest.

Complimenting Brig. Gen. Russell C. Charlton for what he termed "fine work" in pushing through a program to expedite the transition of the guard from cavalry unit to an anti-aircraft regiment and bring the guard to a high point efficiency, Governor Miles said that he hoped for favorable action on his request that New Mexico be given consideration for a second regiment of National Guard troops.

No Firecrackers in Forest

An order forbidding the discharge of any fireworks in the National Forests of Arizona and New Mexico was issued June 21 by Regional Forester F. C. W. Pooler, because of the high fire hazard on forest lands at this time of year.

The order closing the National Forests to "any kind of fireworks or firecrackers" declared that high temperatures and drying winds have increased the danger of forest fires and made it necessary to eliminate possible sources of fire.

It was issued under a Department of Agriculture regulation violation is punishable by a Federal law providing a fine of $500. or imprisonment for one year, or both.

Appealing to the public for observance of the order, the Regional Forester said: "Citizens who believe in conservation can help conserve the forests by upholding this order and calling it to the attention of others, especially children.

Throwing lighted fireworks on the dry litter in a forest is like lighting a fuse in a powderhouse."

Chevrolet Buyers' Market In Used Cars

Detroit, June 25.—Today's conditions in the used car market are "made to order" for persons who have been waiting for the right moment to fill their transportation needs.

This is the statement of W. E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet, whose retail organization has averaged more than 100,000 used cars a month for the past five years.

"Never before" said Mr. Holler, "has it been possible to buy so much motoring satisfaction for so low a price. High new car volume has provided our dealers with unusually large stocks of used cars, a large proportion of which are recent models. A wide selection of makes and body styles are represented, so that the man or woman with a preference for some specific car should be able to find it, at a figure he or she wants to pay."

"Today's used car stocks differ in several important respects from those normally on hand at this season," Mr. Holler said. "In the first place, there is a large proportion of recent models, many of those offered for sale."

In the second place, the automobile as a commodity is improved so much, from year to year, that the offerings available at any given time are naturally better transportation than those at any previous period.

"All of these factors have played a part in creating the present 'buyer's market' in used cars," Mr. Holler said. "Today's conditions are more timely, for they exist at a period when the need for transportation is at its peak. Summer vacations are calling thousands to the road. Re-employment is enabling many who have done without cars to buy them."

Western Scenic Pictures

Carrying on an extensive campaign for "Western Scenic Pictures in Every Western Home," a new and beautiful color photograph production of Tosa Paible announced here today. This is the second picture subject in the series to be distributed in this vicinity. Numerous others are now being given away in other sections throughout the west.

"These pictures will be distributed free, to motorists, as long as the supply holds out."

"While our own purpose is to encourage motorists to see and appreciate the grandeur of Western scenery, we are assured that this is a great opportunity for home-decoration as well.

Experts in Hollywood, where they know color-photography, are delighted with these new interpretations of the outstanding scenes of our great West.

"Almost every home needs a spot of color on the walls of the living room, bedroom, nook or hallway. These pictured present our own American beauty-spots in reproduction suitable for framing and in natural colorings of amazing fidelity—an ornament to any home.

"While our allotment is liberal, all stations had such a call for the first picture, I can hope our supply of this one will not run short."

For Mrs. Pinkie B. Skinner Well-known And Highly Respected Pioneer

Mrs. Pinkie B. Skinner, age 82 beloved and highly respected resident of Lincoln County since 1881 passed away last Saturday and services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church here, with Rev. J.W. Lewis Nazarene pastor of Roswell in charge of the services.

Mrs. Skinner had been ill the greater part of the time for the past four months and a complication of heart and stomach trouble hastened her death.

Pinkie Bourne Skinner was born March 7, 1857 at Independence Grayson county, Virginia. She moved with her parents to Texas in 1866. She was married December 6, 1872 to Rev. John H. Skinner, who passed away here in 1932.

She and her husband moved to New Mexico in 1881, settling on the Bonito, which at that time, was a thriving settlement. In 1907, they sold their ranch there and moved to Carrizozo where they lived almost continuously.

Mrs. Skinner's many kind traits and pleasing personality made her a favorite with everyone. Her Christian spirit and her devotion to her family and church won for her a vast circle of friends as she trod life's pathway.

A pioneer, she knew much about events of the past, and spoke frequently of things of historical interest in Lincoln county.

Mrs. Skinner was a devout Christian, an authority on matters relating to the church, and until the very last showed her interest and devotion to church, family and devotion.

Mrs. Don English and Mrs. R. E. Lemon sang two songs with Mrs. Ben Burns at the piano.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Gilbert Peters, Sam Cox, Byrd Lindsay, Jack Payne, Henry Peebles and Floyd Smith.

Mrs. Skinner is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bowen Zumwalt, and Mrs. Alice Duggar of Nogal; by two sons, Mr. Floy Skinner, Nogal; Mr. Roy Skinner, Angus; one sister, Mrs. Chlo White, Las Vegas, and a great many grand children and great grand children.

People who attended the funeral from other points were Ray Hubbard and wife and Mrs. Ella Skinner, Fort Sumner; John W. Skinner and family and Geo. Skinner of Portales; Mrs. Con Skinner and son Chris and wife from Malaga; Mrs. Chas Terrell and family, El Paso; Mrs. Chlo White, Las Vegas.

A mass of lovely flowers covered her resting place in the local cemetery.

Her life was a benediction to all and the world is better for her having lived in it.

Miss Cora Crews of Oscura was a business visitor here last Wednesday.

KNOW YOUR BANK

Building Individual Credit Standing

Credit standing is a person's financial reputation. In determining this credit standing as a basis for a loan a bank considers these factors:

Has he a good job? Has he held it for some time? Does it seem permanent? Has he been able to keep continuously employed? Is he industrious? Does he take advantage of opportunities? Does he seem stable, or is he constantly switching from one job to another? Has he a steady income? Is he thrifty? Is he building up a reserve in the form of savings, life insurance, etc.? Is he honest, trustworthy, reliable? Does he pay his debts and obligations promptly? Is he always in debt? Does he overdraw his bank account? Does he study to improve himself in his work? Is he looking forward and planning for the future?

A study of these factors will indicate the course you should follow to strengthen your personal credit standing. Always keep this question in mind, "Will the bank be justified—in the basis of my record—in entrusting its depositors' funds to me?"

Six Serious Situations Face America If Hitler Is Completely Victorious

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT ALLEN
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—The authors of this column have received many inquiries as to whether, in their opinion, the United States will be dragged into the war. Obviously, this is a question extremely difficult to answer.

However, we have endeavored to set forth below the circumstances which are almost certain to exist after Hitler is completely victorious in Europe as it now seems he will be.

SITUATION NO. 1—Is the strong probability that there will be no lenient peace. France and England, if conquered, will be made to feel the conqueror's heel.

One reason for this is that Hitler, himself, knows how easy it is to rearm if the conquered nation is given half a chance.

It may be that his friend the duke of Windsor, as reported since the duke left his liaison post with the British army, will be reinstated on the throne of England, but if so he will be a mere puppet.

It is important to note that the United States has leaned heavily, though indirectly, upon the British fleet for this protection.

SITUATION NO. 2 will be a Nazi search for raw materials. They will get some when they take France and England, but not nearly enough. France probably will cling to her most important areas in Africa, and may even set up a new government there. Britain should be able to keep enough of her fleet to make it difficult to penetrate the Red sea to India. Japan will take Singapore and the Dutch East Indies, thereby cutting off the United States from vital tin and rubber.

Meanwhile, the richest, least populated, weakest continent in the world lies just a short airplane hop across the South Atlantic, protected only by a century-old shibboleth called the Monroe Doctrine.

SITUATION NO. 3 will be local Nazi governments in Latin America.

Carlos Davila, former president of Chile and now exiled in the United States, long ago counseled the state department that if Hitler ever was victorious in Europe, South American governments would emulate him. Davila in one of the shrewdest statements South America has ever developed, and already the speech of Brazilian President Vargas, inferentially approving Italy's stab-in-back, clearly shows that Davila was right.

Vargas has received several millions from Roosevelt's Export-Import bank, entertained Roosevelt personally during his good-will trip to South America, sells 70 per cent of Brazil's coffee crop to the United States.

Brazil is this country's traditionally closest friend, turned over its fleet to the U. S. A. during the Spanish-American war and during the World war.

But today, 60 per cent of the Brazilian army is Nazi, and if Vargas had not approved Italy's war entry he might have been out of power.

Similar Nazi sentiment exists in Uruguay, Ecuador, Peru and Chile. For example, the state department has just received a confidential telegram that 6,000 Chilean Nazis actually are under arms.

SITUATION NO. 4 which is all-important. Latin American nations can set up local Nazi governments without violating the Monroe Doctrine. Once these governments are established, they can invite German and Italian military advisers or police forces, grant them naval and air bases. And if the United States attempts to stop this, it will have to oppose the local Latin American government as well as Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, both of which have large groups of immigrants in South America.

If, for instance, the United States should send armed forces to Brazil to prevent a German naval base from being established there, other Latin American nations again might raise the cry of "Yankee imperialism."

The Latins are clanish, and we might easily find the entire continent up in arms against us, siding with the Nazis from whom we are defending them.

SITUATION NO. 5 is a squeeze play on trade.

The most important thing to remember about Europe economically is that Hitler today controls the biggest market in the world. Not only Germany, but Austria, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium must order goods through his barter system.

In other words, if Brazil wants to sell coffee to this area, or Argentina wants to sell meat, or Ecuador wants to sell cocoa, they must barter with Hitler.

The Blitz Training Camp

By Thomas

Even on a minor scale before the war, we have seen that this leads to friction, trade reprisals, national ill-will. It plants fertile seeds for war.

Imagine the resentment of the southern states if Hitler, as conqueror of England, required all Lancashire's textile mills to buy cotton from Brazil and Peru. It would almost bankrupt the South.

SITUATION NO. 6 is the strong likelihood that all these situations will descend upon us soon. Hitler has shown that he knows time is of the essence. He has been willing to sacrifice a million men—perhaps more—on the Western front because he knows if the war lasts longer than September 1, his raw materials won't last.

Also he knows that the United States is in a preparedness race, and that within another 16 months we will be in a far stronger position to defend the Western hemisphere. Today, on the other hand, he knows we are pitifully weak.

Therefore, it is more than likely that he will move fast. Nazi propaganda and undercover movements in South America already indicate this. Local Nazi uprisings are sure to take place.

And with Nazi-Fascist air lines already operating all over the country, it would be a simple matter for a bomb-laden Nazi plane to slip over the Panama canal. Army officers say it would even be difficult for them to know whether it was a friendly Pan-American plane, and they might not fire at it.

Dictators have shown that they know how to work together, and you can be sure that when and if Japan, Germany and Italy get ready to put the squeeze on the United States, they will have worked out their cooperation to the last T. We will be squeezed from both the Atlantic and the Pacific and perhaps from South America.

In other words, war for the United States depends largely upon whether or not we are going to defend or abandon the Monroe Doctrine.

INTO DETROIT where automotive plants have been turning out tanks, mechanized caissons, infantry trucks and a dozen other things for the army at top speed for some time.

Back in February when I was last here some of the big factories were working on army trial orders even then. Their proving grounds were cluttered with weird objects bobbing around, rolling over and over, climbing steep banks and even fording rivers.

Four years ago out in Manchukuo I saw Japanese army tanks doing the same thing; and that summer while crossing Russia, I remember how amazed I was near Chita to see tanks "swimming" a river. I reported this to the U. S. army intelligence corps in Washington upon my return and they pool-pooled the idea!

Yet while covering the Soviet army maneuvers near Opor in Siberia that same year I had seen more than 4,000 men dropped out of airplanes by parachutes. Returning to Detroit in the fall I told Bill Stout about it. Stout is the father of Henry Ford's Stout-Metal-Plane, and is the grandfather of all transport ships in this country today. Stout said it could be done, but he doubted the feasibility of this maneuver. Asked me how much vodka I had been drinking when I saw the feat.

THERE WAS an interesting article in the Saturday Evening Post recently asking if Hitler had been training troops for mechanical warfare in Russia for the past six years. The article was well worth reading. Personally I think he has. Moreover, I think during the recent winter months he has had his able technicians advising with the Soviet, and is being reinforced by the U. S. S. R. at this very moment.

Thus Henry Ford's prognostication, the end of May that his company could turn out 1,000 planes of one-design a day, if needed, is all the more interesting. Some will doubt Ford's ability to do this. During the last war Ford did, however, turn out one sub-chaser a day and one eagle-boat a day—a then almost inconceivable feat. And he has turned out as many as 10,000 of his cars daily, so seemingly nothing is impossible for the man.

Last summer I noted the German infantry was riding in Ford touring cars. Five men to a car—two in the front seat, three in the rear. They had their guns stacked behind the front seat. Every other car towed a field piece, and many of these field pieces, according to my notes, were stamped "made in USA."

Also in case we forget too rapidly Ford had assembly plants in the Soviet, in Holland, in Germany and in Italy I believe.

ACROSS THE RIVER from Detroit lies Windsor, a semi-sleepy Canadian city. Here are many of the assembly plants of American manufacturers with goods to sell in the Dominion. Odd that within a mile everything should be so entirely different. Some say we are not close enough to a foreign border in the United States to realize what it must be to live in some of the European countries today. If you live in Detroit you are conscious of the war, if you take an outing in Canada you are doubly so.

DETROIT IS AGAIN a busy metropolis. The streets are filled with people; shops crowded; hotel lobbies overflowing. It's as difficult to get a room overnight in Detroit as it is in Washington, D. C., today.

Of all of our big industrial cities Detroit and Pittsburgh are the most foreign looking. Half-closing my eyes I can imagine myself in the German Ruhr, in the erstwhile Belgian Ardennes, in the Russian Ukraine, in the Polish Caucasians. The men all wear caps. They tell me there are more caps sold in these two cities than in all of the rest of the United States combined. Most of the women cover their heads with shawls or bandanas.

During the recent recession these cities were the most morbid of the nation. The largest government relief projects were in operation here. But today the scene has changed completely. Boom-times are back with a bang. And it looks as if they are here to stay for awhile.

MICHIGAN CITIES and towns along with probably a great many others throughout the nation are now forming Home Guard outfits in great haste. Gun clubs are drilling once or twice weekly at Skeet, which is a mild form of Parachutist interference. Practically every American in this region goes duck-hunting, deer-hunting once or twice a year. Therefore, there are hundreds of thousands of good shots. It is doubtful if Hitler should invade this continent; but if he does Michigan at least will not be caught unawares.

UP AT PONTIAC, Mich., where many General Motors products are produced, the rumor is that gas masks are coming off the belts. Some wisecracks will tell you we will be able to supply half the nation with masks before 1941. Yet if Hitler is really using his "Paralysis Gas" as some foreign correspondents claim he is, one wonders if our military masks will do the trick too.

THESE MICHIGAN INDUSTRIAL CITIES are connected by ribbons of cement, in a veritable hub-like fashion. On them there is a constant flow of trucks, cars, pedestrians. They lakes honeycomb the countryside and are the mecca for fishermen. Near them bait is sold by enterprising youngsters. One section up here is undergoing a "bait-war." For miles along each side of the highway, signs read "Crawlers, Hoppers, Worms and Gliders—2 bits a dozen."

TRAILERS, house-cars, land-yachts fill the Michigan camps. For awhile the vogue of the rolling-home went out of existence, but it is back again with a bang.

Many are homemade. Others are more fancy. They sell all the way from $400 to $4,000; and are occupied by some of the most amazing people I have ever had the good fortune to meet.

For nine years now I have been an ardent trailerite myself. I have twice encircled the world in my own land-yacht; and some of the most interesting days I can remember have been consumed in cruising the highways and byways of the world. In this country my yearly mileage has been in excess of 75,000.

At That, We Doubt Ready Answer Saved the Day

A certain gentleman was very fond of golf, and of a little refreshment after the game. He arrived home very late one night, and was met by his wife in the hall.

"Well, and what excuse have you got to offer for coming home at this unearthly hour?" she asked angrily.

"It was like this, my dear, I was playing golf with some friends and—"

"Playing golf!" she cried in disgust. "Are you trying to tell me you can play golf in the dark?"

"Oh, yes, my dear," he said quickly. "You see, we were using the night clubs."

These Things Endure

IF WE work upon marble it will perish. If we work upon brass time will efface it. If we rear temples they will crumble to dust. But if we work upon men's immortal minds, if we imbue them with high principles, with the just fear of God and love of their fellow-men, we engrave on those tablets something which no time can efface, and which will brighten and brighten to all eternity.—Daniel Webster, "Speech in Faneuil Hall," 1852.

In other words, war for the United States depends largely upon whether or not we are going to defend or abandon the Monroe Doctrine.

A 'SAFE AND SANE' PARTY
(See Recipes Below)

Why not plan a party for the Fourth of July, to keep the youngsters in the family happy and out of mischief? It might be a party on the porch or in the yard—or a picnic in the country, if you prefer it. Make it a family affair, or invite a youthful guest or two to keep your own children company.

Whatever type of party you plan, make it a festive affair—with gay table decorations (if refreshments are being served at home), very special "Party foods" and patriotic party favors, too. Gaily colored paper table cloths and napkins are a must, and they do save work! And be sure to provide balloons and snap crackers, or noisemakers of another kind.

Plan definite entertainment, with an active game or two to permit the children to use up excess energy, and a "pencil and paper" or guessing game to play when a little rest is in order. Pencil and paper games such as these two might be used—and you'll find that adults as well as young people enjoy them.

Menu for July Fourth Party.
Tomato Aspic Salad
Assorted Sandwiches
Potato Chips
Ice Cream Fire Crackers
Pinwheel Cookies
Beverage

Parfait glasses full of Peppermint Stick ice cream, camouflaged in red paper cylinders to look like giant firecrackers, are amusing for a Fourth of July dessert. Top the ice cream with a cherry, with the stem left on to form the firecracker wick. And serve Pinwheel Cookies to complete the "fireworks dessert."

Chocolate Pinwheels.
3/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
2 cups cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 ounce chocolate (melted)
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening thoroughly and add sugar slowly. Add egg and beat well. Mix and sift all dry ingredients and add, together with the milk and the vanilla. Divide dough into 2 parts. To one part add the melted chocolate. To the other add the cinnamon. Roll each part one-eighth inch thick. Place the chocolate dough on the cinnamon dough and roll up like a jelly roll. Wrap in wax paper and chill for several hours. Cut in thin slices and bake on a lightly greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 8 to 10 minutes.

Potato Chips.
4 medium sized potatoes
2 to 3 pounds fat
Salt

Parse and cut potatoes into very thin slices. Allow sliced potatoes to stand 1/2 hr. in water until firm (about 1 hour). Heat fat to 375 degrees. Blot potatoes dry with a clean towel and place potato slices in French fry basket. Immerse basket in hot fat by handle. Keep potatoes moving constantly so that the slices do not stick together. Remove basket and drain potatoes on brown paper. Sprinkle with salt.

Tomato Aspic.
4 cups canned tomatoes
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup celery (chopped)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
4 whole cloves
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup water

Combine the tomatoes, salt, pepper, bay leaf, celery, onion and cloves. Cook gently for 10 minutes and strain. Soak gelatin in cold water and add to the hot tomato mixture, together with Worcestershire sauce, stirring well. Pour into ring mold and chill until set. Unmold on large plate, garnish with lettuce or watercress and fill center with cabbage salad.

Magic Peppermint Stick Ice Cream.
1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
2 cups thin cream or evaporated milk
1 cup cold water
1/2 cup crushed peppermint stick candy

Blend sweetened condensed milk, thin cream, and water. Freeze in 2-quart freezer using a mixture of 3 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Remove dasher. Add crushed peppermint stick candy. Pack in ice and salt for 1 hour or more after freezing. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

Special Peanut Butter Sandwich Filling.
(Makes 1 cup filling)
1 ripe banana
1 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup dates, cut fine
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Mash banana with a fork and thoroughly blend in remaining ingredients.

Ice Cream Cone Clowns.
Place a ball of ice cream on a butter cookie, and with raisins or tiny gumdrops make eyes, nose and mouth in the ice cream. Place a cone jauntily on top of the ice cream. Add a tuft of whipped cream around the clown's neck.

Brown Bread Sandwiches.
1 loaf brown bread
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons butter
Slice brown bread very thin. Mix cream cheese and butter together thoroughly. Spread brown bread slices generously with the cheese mixture.

HERE is Betsy again—that clever girl in Sewing Book 3, who streamlined an old iron bed. In her house there was an enormous kitchen and her mother hated big kitchens. The old linoleum was painted dark green. All the walls were painted cream and then pink stripes were painted on the new wall. The neat and efficient cot cover is cream chintz with pink

Warning Seemed Quite Superfluous to Car Owner
A gentleman was stranded at a railway station, on his way home to the country, in a heavy rain. Seeing a car at the roadside, he got inside for shelter, hoping to get a lift when the driver turned up. After a little wait the car began to move very slowly and in the direction he wanted to go, although the engine was not running.

Eventually he reached his turning, so he jumped out. Then he saw a man about to get in, but warned him not to, as "there is something strange about this car—the engine isn't running." The stranger replied: "Don't I know it; I've been pushing the blamed thing for the last two miles."

Hitler's Plans Known Here

Hitler now has prepared his plans for dealing with the United States. Those plans are known here. They account for the moves rapidly taking shape in this Government for an attempted swift counterattack.

The first German attack upon this hemisphere is to be economic, not military. The lines of that attack are laid. They are tested by the experience of recent years in Europe. They demonstrated their effectiveness in laying the groundwork for attack upon Great Britain and France by lulling those nations into a false feeling of security.

Hitler, obviously, is counting upon even greater results from the same type of economic offensive in the Western Hemisphere. That offensive is to be designed either to soften the nations of this Hemisphere for later military attention or to create a situation that will permit Germany, without a fight, to exploit the resources of the hemisphere as she now intends to exploit Europe.

Conquest of France and now the threatened defeat of Britain give Hitler the stepping stones that he requires in his approach to the relatively big job he will undertake in this part of the world.

Hitler intends to exploit this situation. He will suggest that the United States feed and clothe the starving population of Europe. He will suggest this in the name of charity for the starving as well as relief for American farmers. He will suggest the need for restored American trade and will offer captured gold in exchange for American raw materials and machinery needed to replenish the stock piles and to rebuild the cities and the highways and the public works that his armies destroyed.

Here will be an opportunity for the United States to help destitute peoples and a chance to find markets for American goods that otherwise would be lost. At the same time, however, here would be an opportunity for Germany to avoid any responsibility for supporting the populations she ren-

Car and Truck Owners Pay Large Taxes in 1939

Owners of automobiles and trucks in New Mexico paid to the state in 1939 more money in taxes than the total amount collected by the state from all tax sources in 1922, or in any previous year, Dudley Cornell, Secretary of the New Mexico Petroleum Industries Committee, said today in urging that attention be given to the need for curbing the mounting automotive tax burden in this state.

"In 1939 the motorists and truck owners in New Mexico paid $6,204,000 to the state in gasoline taxes and registration fees, according to figures released by U. S. Public Roads Administration," said Mr. Cornell. "In 1922, according to official figures, the total tax revenue received by the state amounted to $2,822,638.

"The fact that one single class of taxpayers - the motor vehicle owners - are now paying more taxes each year to the state than what everybody paid only a few years ago shows the present severity of automobile taxation," continued Mr. Cornell. "Clearly the time is now ripe to give consideration to the problem of easing the motorists' tax burden. More than half of the automobile owners in this state have incomes of less than $30 a week, and for that reason have no extraordinary ability to pay the heavy taxes that are being heaped upon the operation of their automobiles. With the 50 per cent increase in the Federal Gasoline Tax provided in the Emergency Defense Tax Bill the State and local governments should give thought to easing this total tax burden."

dered destitute, and an opportunity to repair the destruction caused by her armies, all at America's expense. A competitor, and potential enemy, would build up the industrial machine with which it then would be forced to compete, all in exchange for a little captured gold.

Those are just the first of the Hitler plans as understood here. Others are even more ambitious and involve greater threats to the security of this nation. — United States News June 21.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Gen. Emilio de Bono, taking command of Italy's southern armies with her entry into the war, is said to have had De Bono First to the longest and strongest seizure of em-piric in those parts. Now 75 years old, a tiny man, scarcely taller than Italy's little king, he has been built up as a rough-and-tumble wildcat fighter, a legend which he sustains by ferocious activity. They benched him in the middle of the Ethiopian conquest because, he complained, the Ethiopians wouldn't step out and fight. They sent in Gen. Pietro Badoglio and he finished them with poison gas.

Early in 1935, General De Bono recorded his heart's desire in Mussolini's political review, Gerarchia, as follows: "One proclaims, even shouts, often and perhaps too much, a beautiful word that I have personally promised myself not to pronounce or write any more unless it is on the day where one can by direct action give a real reason to the why of this great word. Oh, well, although old, I will live to see that day."

The word he hallowed he dared not write it was—"Empire."

The pint-size general was one of the original quadrumvirate of Fascism and is said to have been the first to nail the empire slogan on the Fascist masthead. This writer remembers having seen him once—an extraordinarily active, bright-eyed, talkative little man, with a neat white beard—a few hours after a mob of young blackshirts had wrecked the house of former Premier Nitti, in Florence, and slit to shreds his classical library of books which ranged back to the Fifteenth century.

In 1926 General De Bono was charged with knowledge of the political kidnaping and murder of the Deputy Matteotti. There was latent opposition to Fascism then, and Il Duce hastily sent his little wildcat general to Africa. The incident was forgotten and the general went to work getting Africa ready for empire day. He was the Fascist chief of police in the early days of the regime and built up the Italian Cheka. He entered the Milan Military academy at the age of 12, and has put in his entire career in the army.

THOMAS NAST, the hornet who stung Boss Tweed, is perhaps the best precedent for David Low. Similarly, the British cartoonist has been slinging Cartoonist Low Britain's Early Teaches "Apologia Up Fifth Column Germanics" for several years. A brief cable today reports the tolling effect of his cartoons in stirring a new surge of anger against the trimmers and side-steps of the immediate pre-war years. Correspondents score this on the side of new unity and fighting spirit.

The quiet, bearded Briton with a big black hat touched up the fifth column long before the Norway debacle. Visiting the United States in October, 1936, he said: "We're becoming a world of stool pigeons. There are too many white rats loose everywhere. I'm pessimistic. We'd better get ready to save what we have. That goes for the U. S. A., too. People who believe in civilization don't know what's happening to it. They'd better shut out. I'm trying to tell them."

During the last two years, ten-strike cartoons have been carried on the cables and widely reproduced in this country, the first to be thus distinguished. They have found publication in many other countries—signed "Low," as the David has long since been dropped. He says people have to learn to laugh to win a war, and adds, "We laugh too much from our back teeth and too little from our stomachs."

He is of Shakespearean aspect and says that his neat little beard is in deference to the hard and not Moscow. He was born in Dunedin, New Zealand, in 1861 and began his career as a cartoonist with the Sydney (Australia) Bulletin.

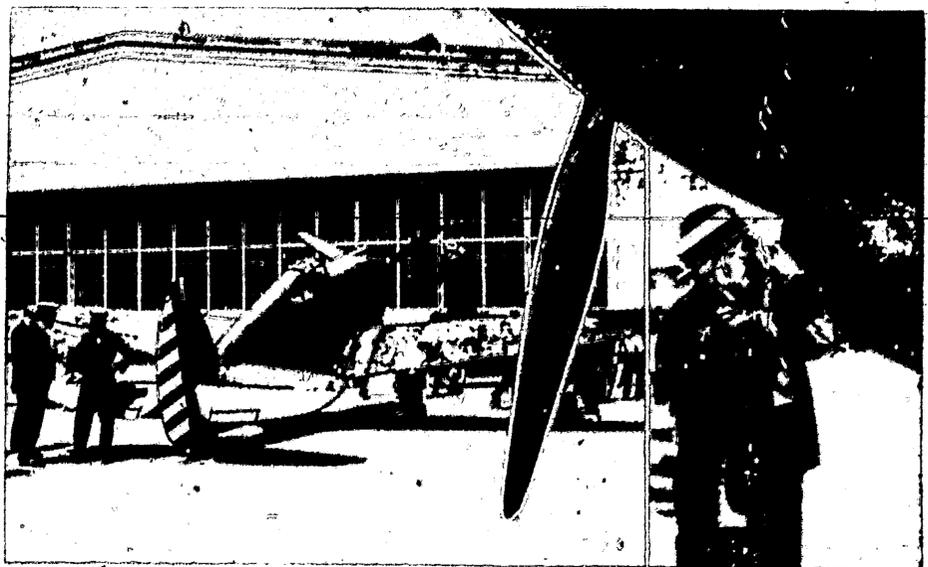

"THE Beautiful Girl of the Bow-ery Run" heads the move of the American Medical Women's association to get military rating for women physicians in government service, and to prepare women doctors and dentists for effective war work, if necessary. The above designation was that of Dr. Emily D. Harrington, when she was the country's first woman ambulance surgeon in 1908. She recently retired after twenty-one years on the staff of the Kingston Avenue hospital, Brooklyn.

An Italian Flame-Throwing Tank in Action

This is an Italian flame-projecting tank, perhaps one of the most effective shots in the locker of the Italian war machine. In addition to the flame-thrower, the tanks carry heavy machine guns and a 37-mm. cannon. German forces used flame-throwing tanks during the blitzkrieg into the Lowlands and in northern France.

U. S. Navy's Latest Fighting Giant

While 40,000 spectators cheer themselves hoarse, the huge battleship North Carolina slides down the ways at Brooklyn navy yard. The 35,000-ton ship is the second dreadnaught to be launched this month, and one of the largest American war vessels that has ever slid down the ways.

Flight From Home in the Winter of Life

Somewhere in France . . . this aged, feeble old lady is experiencing the horrors of war for the third time in her life. She knew war when the Prussians marched on Paris in 1870; again she met it in 1914 when the Germans got as far as the Marne. Today she is again a fugitive before the reboiling Nazi war machine.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman.

Stained Linoleum
QUESTION: How can stains from a garbage pail be removed from kitchen linoleum?

Answer: Wash the stained area with a scratchless scouring powder. The remainder of the stain may be removed by rubbing with fine steel wool.

Varnished Linoleum.

Question: By using a varnish on a linoleum floor for several years it has become discolored to a brownish tint. How can I remove this varnish, and bring the linoleum back to its original color?

Answer: The varnish can be removed with a solution of three pounds of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of hot water. Take a small area at a time, apply the solution and as soon as the varnish softens, wipe it off. Rinse immediately with clear water. The varnish remover should not be allowed to soak into the linoleum.

Yeast in Cess-Pools.

One of my correspondents, after long experimenting and making many tests, reports that for a cess-pool or septic tank of average size, about six yeast cakes a month will go far to keep them clear and free from odor. Fermentation brought about by yeast helps to destroy odor-producing material and to liquefy sludge. The usual method is to dissolve the yeast in a little cool water, and to pour it down any pipe that is directly connected with the tank or the pool; not down the kitchen sink, if that connects through a grease-trap.

Upholstery Spray.

Question: A cough in my living-room is used as a bed. What can I spray it with to prevent trouble from vermin?

Answer: If there are no insects in the couch, I should not do anything about it. Should they appear, you can send the couch out for fumigation, or get in an exterminator to treat the upholstery with a liquid forced in under air pressure.

But if you feel very uneasy on the red rover question, you might take mental comfort from laying several squares of camphor under the mattress, if you can manage to do so. This is said to be a grand rove-repellent.

Broadloom Rug

Question: After my broadloom rug was washed it does not stay flat on the floor. Can you recommend something to size it with so that it will have the body it had before washing?

Answer: Sizing the back of the rug may correct this condition. Stretch the rug upside down on a floor where it can remain for 24 hours; tack it lightly into place. Brush on a thin coat of white shellac. Glue sizing can be used instead of shellac. (Protect the floor before you begin to work.)

Anti-Tarnish.

Question: I keep my best silver in flannel bags, and use it about every third week, during which time it tarnishes just enough to require cleaning. This detracts from the pleasure of using it. You have spoken of preventing tarnish by wrapping silver in cloth soaked in a solution of one-half pound of cadmium acetate in one gallon of water. Would it be practical to make a wood box and glue this cloth to the sides, top and bottom?

Answer: That would help, but you would get best results with cloth in close contact with the silver. In addition to lining the box, soak separate pieces of cloth in the solution, to wrap around the different articles and to lay over them. For cloth, use heavy outing flannel, which will not be greatly stiffened.

Paint Odor.

Question: After my three-room apartment was painted last December, a nasty oil odor permeated the apartment, in spite of the constant airing. Another painter, at his suggestion, painted the walls with a coat of shellac, then a coat of flat paint, but this condition has not been eliminated. What can be done to remedy this condition?

Answer: Allow a couple of weeks for further drying and airing. It is possible that the odor is in the enamel or paint used on the windows and trim. If this is so, try wiping the enamel with turpentine. Should this condition continue, your only remedy will be to remove the paint and refinish with a good quality paint.

Raffs.

Question: Are raffs all specially made? If so, I intend purchasing some old drums and having a local carpenter do his best. Is there any place I can get plans?

Answer: Raffs can be purchased already made. Beach and Pool Magazine at 423 Fourth Avenue, New York City, can furnish you with the names of the manufacturers. This publisher may be able to advise you as to where you may be able to secure plans for a raff.

Aluminum Paint.

Question: Do you approve of an aluminum coating for flat roofs? Has it any insulating properties?

Answer: Yes, aluminum paint will help reflect some of the heat. Its efficiency, however, may be lowered when the surface has been covered with dirt and soot.

Sugar Story: Several months ago, a middle-aged woman of ample means who makes her home in a mid-town hotel, began having her breakfasts served in her room. As she is on a diet, the menu is unvaried and the cost low. The other morning instead of paying the waiter as usual, she handed him a big bag of sugar. "This is for my breakfast," she declared. "Five full pounds. I had the drugstore downstairs weigh it." After some protest, the waiter took the bag and the check to the cashier. Opening it, the cashier found each lump in an intact wrapper which was stamped with the name of the hotel. It was finally decided to let the matter pass. The next morning, however, there was no sugar on the woman's tray. Rising in wrath, she demanded her just due. "Don't think," she stormed, "just because my fool doctor won't let me have sugar you can cheat me." As the guest is always right each morning now she has sugar.

Street Scene: Bronx housewives on camp chairs outside apartment buildings . . . Mothers giving a rocking effect to perambulators by means of a foot . . . Youngsters now and then coming up for maternal attention . . . Such as having a nose blown . . . Knitting needles clicking steadily . . . Gossip being exchanged about happenings in the block . . . A scissors grinder going along with his little bell tinkling merrily . . . A milkman making collections, the change in his pockets jingling . . . A vacant lot turned into a diamond . . . With a hot ball game at a tense moment . . . Rooters cheering wildly for their favorites . . . Surrounding buildings throwing back the din . . . The smack of a bat followed by a glass crash . . . and players and rovers vanishing ceemingly in the twinkling of an eye.

Language: Magda Tagliafiero, red-headed, whirlwind French concert pianist, who shortly after her arrival in America last December announced that she thought Gotham's taxi drivers the most charming in the world, has been spending the months learning their lingo. After a sight-seeing trip with a party of friends through Harlem the other evening, she stepped into a cab and in her saucy accent said to the driver, "Hotel St. Moritz—and cut through the orchard, please." Her companions, knowing full well that Manhattan has no orchards, looked at her as if she had actually gone wacky. But Magda sat impassive until the cab rolled into Central park. Then she proclaimed: "My friends, this is the orchard."

Sympathy: New York has become tree conscious within the last year. It all started with the planting of elms in front of Rockefeller Center followed by a tree gift to St. Patrick's cathedral, just across Fifth Avenue, by Major Bowes. Recently I noted that trees have been planted on two sides of block long London Terrace while trees line both sides of 166th street from river to river. There are also trees on Sixth Avenue. Trees, of course, add to the beauty of the city. But to me, a tree springing up from a sidewalk in the midst of steel and concrete is like an animal in a zoo or a wild bird in a cage.

Honesty: The taxi driver who took me home last night announced his belief in Santa Claus during a traffic light stop. It seems that earlier in the evening, a fare whom he had left at an uptown apartment house, had given him a ten in mistake for a one dollar bill. He needed the money because of family illness, but when he discovered the error, his conscience got busy. So he went back and tried to straighten it out. And the fare, evidently thinking he was attempting some kind of a game had bawled him out for disturbing him and ordered him to be on his way.

Inns: Hotels entertain about 10,000,000 guests at conventions each year . . . Most hotel rooms have about 50 articles for the use and comfort of the guest . . . A medium-sized hotel has a switchboard capable of serving a town of 5,000 . . . Hotels buy 17,000,000 towels and napkins, 5,760,000 sheets and 800,000 blankets annually.

End Piece: Bill Hargreave told me of the struggling comedian who hit his sponsor for a raise. "I really deserve a boost," complained the comic. "What you're paying me is only chicken feed." "I know," responded the sponsor. "But that's because of the eggs you've laid."

"I'm not going to rush you," Frank said. "But you have to know—you must know—that you seem to me the most miraculously—well, I've never known anyone like you! You're—I can't help it, I'm crazy about you!"

"There's no rush," he went on, as Sheila still did not speak. "We needn't tell anyone for weeks. But let me come take you to shows, let me come down—you don't have to say anything to your mother until this time next month, if you don't want to!"

"Next month—" Sheila said, finding her voice. "I think it'll be four years before Ma wants to hear the name of Mc Cann!"

Her hands were locked in Frank's big hands; now she moved her fingers. He held her for one last question.

"Sheila, tell me, are you happy?"

"Happy!" she echoed, trying to smile. Tears came into her eyes.

"All right, then. Now this—"

Frank said, "this is what we're going to do. We'll run into town, if you see—my car is right over there—"

"I've been looking at it."

"Well, and we'll have a party. We'll go to a department store and we'll buy all sorts of things for your mother and Angela—and you, too."

"Mother reminded me of reading lamps, and Von asked if you had an ice-cream freezer, and Connie—she's next to Von—she said a radio, and there's cups—and towels—everything we like we'll send home. Shall we?"

"Oh, but, Frank—" They were standing now, and she lifted the soft tumbled crown of her glittering hair, and the blue eyes over which the copper bang drifted in a film. "Oh, but, Frank, that'd be too much fun!"

Suddenly he put his arms about her and held her tightly, and she looked up in silence, trembling.

"You'll have to get used to this!" he said in a whisper.

"Sheila!" her mother called, emerging. They were apart again.

"Ask Mr. Mc Cann what he says for a taste of lunch, an' have some manners to ye!" said Mrs. Carscadden.

"Mrs. Carscadden, you're very good," Frank said, glancing at his wrist. "But I have some shopping to do, and Sheila has promised to help me. I thought we'd go into town for lunch."

"I'll get my hat!" Sheila said, escaping into the house.

When she came out, ten minutes later, she looked her loveliest in the blue suit, with the new blue hat. The hemstitched frill that fell in crisp folds at the collar of the coat had cost thirty-nine cents, but it was plain and fresh; Sheila's shoes were shining, and if the chamamois gloves she wore were still damp in the tips from recent washing, and had been snatched from the sunny back clothesline, Frank did not suspect it.

"You brought your topcoat? Good girl; we may be late," Frank approved. "I love that coat!"

"You ought to. Your mother picked it out for your sister Monica," Sheila reminded him.

"You're going off for the day? Well," said Mrs. Carscadden, bestowing upon her daughter the nearest thing she ever knew to praise, "you look clean and neat, and that's something."

"I'll say she looks clean and neat," Frank agreed.

"We're going to buy you presents, Mother!"

"I'll step over to the police station and wait for ye," Mrs. Carscadden said grimly.

"Oh that reminds me!" Sheila exclaimed. She flashed into the house, flashed back with a little photograph held in the palm of her hand. "Look what was forwarded to me, a few days ago," she said.

They all looked at the picture of a California fruit orchard, in all the radiant flood of March bloom. A plain little farmhouse intruded upon one corner of the print, and in the center a pruning ladder had been leaned against an apple tree, and a young man in overalls stood on the ladder. Below him, deep in the spring grass, was the stout, square figure of a middle-aged woman, with one hand dropped to her side to touch the head of an eager mongrel.

"The young man was facing out of the picture. He was half laughing, his shirt was open at the throat, his shirt-cleeves rolled up; he had a saw in his hands."

"Who's that?" Frank asked.

"That's a bad boy, the boy who kidnapped us, and then went back to his mother and is being a good boy!" Sheila said. She slowly tore the picture into tiny scraps. "Nobody's ever going to use that against him," she said.

"And is that all we're ever going to know about him?" Frank asked, smiling down into her honest, serious blue eyes.

"That's all."

"Someone you helped?"

"I don't know. I'd like to think I did."

"Well, come on," Frank said. "I'll bring her back to you safely, Mrs. Carscadden!"

"I've no doubt ye'll try to," Sheila's mother said patiently.

"Ah, you love me, Mother!" Sheila was as radiant as the spring morning as she kissed her mother.

"The black sheep is the favorite, Sheila," Mrs. Carscadden said with a resigned sigh.

"And I'm your favorite child, Ma?"

"I may as well say you are," the mother said, "for it may be the last chance I'll have to spake to ye for the dear knows how long! When ye'd walk out of the house on me, God knows I'm the last to know when I'd clap eyes on ye next!"

Sheila and Frank were laughing, as they ran down to the glistening, long shining bulk of the roadster.

He helped her into the front seat, and Sheila settled herself there comfortably while he came about to his own seat at the wheel. She turned to wave at her mother and sister as she and Frank whirled off into the morning sunshine together.

[THE END.]

Brims Are Wide, Wider, Widest In Chic and Flattering Ways

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT a merry chase fickle fashion is leading us this season in regard to the hats we wear. Starts us off at the dawn of spring with flower or fabric-drape toques so tiny (come of them) as to be almost amusing, yet withal so flattering and so chic, even the new broad brims cannot entirely wrest their well-earned honors from them. And then what does capricious fashion do—suddenly announces brims so tremendously wide they fairly amaze one. Which, cummed up, means every fashionable wardrobe of hats this summer must necessarily include both types to be worn as time and occasion demand.

As to the new broad-of-brim vogue so full of promise for the coming months, no matter how big your hat with a brim, it will be none too large, according to fashion's way of thinking. None too dramatic either, since the new brims are daring indeed, and to make them appear the more so they are worn with a dash and a go that adds infinitely to their style.

The wide-brimmed, strictly tailored felts which proved themselves so definitely good-looking with the new spring suits continue to have a firm hold on the affections of well-dressed women. Outstanding among these striking felts are the simple, huge, sailor types, the stunning, large Bretons and the very new rippled or pleated, soft, flaring, felt brim that, to be perfectly chic, must be worn far back on the head. Of course the latter are necessarily dedicated to youth, for who but the ingenuously smooth of brow dare venture so striking a fashion?

The fact that the off-the-face broad brims are essentially a young sophisticated item should not by any means imply that the vogue for enormous brims is confined to the tech-age and debutante set. On the contrary, the off-face wide brim is merely one phase of the matter, for whether you are in the "lifo begin at forty" class or not, the message of the wide brim is all-inclusive, for certain it is and true, there's flattery a-plenty in the new wide brims, whether you are sweet sixteen or "plus."

The new wide-brimmed summer straw hats are everything you want them to be. The stunning hat worn by the smart young woman, standing above to the right in the illustration, speaks in accents of red, as also does her belt, which is a brilliant red patent leather, for to it known that fashion is making a seasonal splurge of red this summer, red hats being a pet hobby just now.

Broad of brim and utterly fascinating in the hat which the young sophisticated standing below to the left in the picture is carrying. It is made of raffia in colors matching those of her gay plaid frock and still gayer raffia sandals.

The vogue for white millinery came early and is going to stay late. Women of fashion have been wearing white hats in accordance with style dictate since early spring and as the summer advances the popularity of white headgear is rushing along at a crescendo scale. The white straw breton pictured above to the left flaunts a cluster of strawberries nestled in its crown—another instance of the flair for red with white.

Black holds its own in spite of the tremendous play being made on color this season. See the off-face Breton below to the right in the group. A crisp white bow and head-band enlivens the black to perfection—just the type hat to wear with prints and summer town clothes.

The illusion of depth is created by building bookcases on either side of a wide doorway leading from living room to dining room.

A few drops of glycerin added to the starch will make linens glossy.

Pillow cases should be ironed lengthwise to be entirely free of wrinkles.

Salt added to potatoes when nearly boiled insures their flakiness and prevents them from going to pieces in the boiling process.

Bananas should be ripened at room temperature, never in the refrigerator. They are ready for eating when they are bright yellow all over, with occasional brown spots.

Good Shoe News

Hear, hear ye the good news! It's about an exciting innovation—an innersole of a new synthetic material named Onco Insole-ated, which has recently been developed by Vincent DeLiso. In creating this new innersole a slim layer between the outer sole of a shoe and the lining completely insulates the foot against the heat and cold of city pavements. Mr. DeLiso says this insole-ated sole is so deep and resilient it practically caresses the foot, causing the shoe to be molded at the first wearing, to the individual contours of the foot.

'Companionate' Is

Aim in Accessories

More and more fashion encourages the idea of companionate accessories. This season, more than ever, much ado is being made over establishing a family relation between this and that of one's costume. Such as for instance a costume ring to match the lapel gadget or clip. Also the idea of wearing flower costume jewelry to which is matched the color of your nail polish.

You can get blouses with hats of the same material and designers have even gone so far as to make gloves of the identical fabric.

Costumes that ensemble from head to foot include dress, hat, parasol and gloves of the same material. This is being carried out beautifully in the very fashionable cottons, especially flowered prints.

Dark Linen With

Lingerie Frills

New on the style program and strikingly chic is the black or navy linen redingote dress the skirt of which flares open at the front revealing starch white petticoat frills, the very feminine treatment further carried out in dramatic collar and cuffs of matching snow-white embroidery and lace.

Fashion-alert women are also setting the pace with costumes of dark green linen with which red accessories complete a costume of outstanding mode. With dresses of linen in the new browns hats and details in the much talked about cocoa shades achieve pleasing contrast.
