PIANO RECITAL

The Methodist Church was filled yesterday evening at 8 o'clock at which time Mrs. Ben S. Burns presented her piano pupils in recital. Numbers were also given by Mrs. G. C. Kroggel, Mr. Lou Fink and Miss Jeanne Hill. All numbers were high class and were applauded with enthusiasm.

Custodian For Old Lincoln Court House

The last legislature made provision for a sum of $600 to be paid annually for a custodian of the old Lincoln County court house at Lincoln which was the scene of Billy the Kid's escapades. The old town is a mecca for sightseers and the lower floor of the court house has been made into an interesting museum.

Mr. Pat Collins

The funeral of Mr. Pat Collins of El Paso was held last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Collins lived in Carrizozo for a number of years and had many staunch friends here who were grieved to learn of his death. He had been an employe of the Southern Pacific ever since they bought the road from the El Paso and Southwestern Railway Company.

Mr. Collins was a devout Catholic and a good Christian. He was charitable, kind of heart and a devoted husband. He is survived by Mrs. Collins to whom deepest sympathy is extended by their many friends.

This Week In Defense

Secretary of State, Hull, speaking in Washington, said "evidence has been piling up for several years which makes it perfectly plain that one group of powers actually does have designs both upon the new world and upon the principles, the possessions, and the way of life that are ours."

Secretary Hull said "were the control of the seas by the resisting nations lost, the Atlantic would no longer be an obstacle—rather, it would become a broad highway for a conqueror moving westward."

Navy Secretary Knox, speaking in New York, said "what we all see is an America gradually becoming encircled by hostile military powers... openly joined together in a pact they do not hesitate to use to aimed at us alone..." Mr. Knox said if Germany should establish bases in Africa where submarines, ships, and bombers "could substantially cut us from all commerce from South America," the Monroe Doctrine would be a scrap of paper.

Mr. Knox also said "we must fight ultimately unless we find, and put in effect, measures that will enable Britain to do our fighting." He said Germany would be defeated if U. S. war supplies and food reach England; "we shall be beaten" if they do not. Secretary of State Hull also said aid to Britain "must reach its destination... Ways must be found to do this."

Asked to comment on the speech of Mr. Hull and Mr. Knox, President Roosevelt told his press conference they reflected his opinion. The President also said that the neutrality patrols, established after the outbreak of war to warn against aggressor's ships that might come near the Western Hemisphere, are being extended as the war comes closer. He said they will be extended to the seven seas if necessary to protect the Western Hemisphere. Mr. Roosevelt said the patrols are not convoys.

Aid to Democracies

The navy released to Great Britain, under the Lease-Lend program, 20 small, fast torpedo boats and announced discussions are under way regarding a program for the construction of additional small craft for Britain in Canadian shipyards.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister King of Canada jointly announced a program to coordinate Canadian and American defense production. Each country will provide the other with equipment it is best able to produce.

The President told his press conference the war could not be decided by a single sea victory, a defeat in the Balkans, or even the Eastern Mediterranean. He expressed confidence that Britain could hold out with American aid and counseled the public against moving from high hopes to deep despair because of day by day reports.

Agriculture

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said in a radio speech that "the stake of farmers in this world conflict is as great or greater than that of any other group... If the Nazis win, we might as well kiss our export market for farm products goodbye... I think it's time the farmers and the people of this country got excited about this world situation... Nowadays ostrich nations don't last very long."

Mr. Wickard said as far as export crops are concerned, the principal problem is still one of surpluses, "but so far as pork, dairy products, poultry, eggs, tomatoes, and some other foods are concerned" this is no true. After the war, he said, a large part of the world will be looking to the U. S. for food—"whether we can give it to them may decide how much weight the U. S. will have at the peace councils."

Price and Civilian Supply Administrator Henderson said that, since steel prices have been frozen, it would not be necessary for manufacturers to increase the prices of farm machinery.

Production Progress

The army received delivery on the first tank produced at the new Chrysler plant at Detroit, a building a quarter of a mile long constructed in 70 working days. The Charlestown (Indiana) Ordnance plant, world's largest powder plant—able to supply the needs of an army of more than one million—was opened one month ahead of schedule.

Commerce Secretary Jones, speaking in New York, said the progress of the nation's defense effort is "better than good... but, no matter how fast defense production climbs, it will not be fast enough to meet the need..." William Bath, of the Defense Production office, also speaking in New York, called on industry "to do much more than it has... without looking to see whether the other fellow is doing his... (share)."

Labor Supply

Wage-Hour Administrator Fleming, speaking in New York, said there are still more than 6,000,000 unemployed not now being used in the defense effort. Gen. Fleming said these unemployed can be put to work by the addition of an extra shift in the nation's factories. He said a recent study showed industries could add a shift and still make larger profits even after paying extra for overtime.

The office of Production Management Labor Division said women have been found satisfactory in virtually every kind of job ordinarily filled by men and said a state Employment Service list for women includes hundreds of occupations in metal works, electrical and automotive manufacturing aircraft construction, and even shipbuilding. The Labor Division also said "we are informed that there are food workers available who are not being hired solely because of their race."

Labor Disputes

OPM Associate Hillman, speaking in Washington, said that most industrial disputes are settled without any stoppage—"every week hundreds of labor contracts expire and are renewed without evoking even a ripple." He said "at the present moment the industrial relations picture is far more favorable than at any other time of equal industrial activity."

The Bureau of Mines reported that because of the labor dispute in the soft coal industry, only a two week's supply was on hand. The President called upon coal labor and management to settle their differences promptly, and Labor Secretary Perkins certified the dispute to the Defense Mediation Board. The Board announced settlement of two other disputes. The U. S. Conciliation Service announced settlement of 27 additional labor disputes.

Defense Financing

The Treasury Department announced unsolicited donations of, from 10 cents to $150 have come from individuals throughout the country—from "scrubwomen in Brooklyn, cowpunchers in Texas, aging janitors, youngsters from 10 to 12 years... anxious... to keep America safe." The Treasury program to sell defense savings bonds begins May 1 when bonds and defense stamps are placed on sale in 10,000 post offices, banks, and savings institutions throughout the country.

Selective Service

Selective Service headquarters amended its regulations to provide that volunteers can apply only through their local board and will be classified in the same manner as Selective Service registrants. Selective Service headquarters also amended regulations so that no registrant will be inducted while an appeal is pending or during the period when an appeal may be made.

As Vaid Protection

The War Department requested civilians wish to enroll as volunteer observers in the air warning service to apply to the nearest branch of their State Defense Council and not to Air Corps stations. Between 500,000 and 600,000 volunteers are to be enrolled before August.

Special Mother's Day Program

There will be a special Mother's Day Program at the Baptist church at the 11 o'clock hour, a one act play, "Mother's Influence," will be given by the young people. The pastor, who has been away for 2 weeks in Revival at Tularosa, will be back for night service.

"I AM AN AMERICAN DAY"

President Roosevelt designated by proclamation that Sunday, May 13, 1941, should be set aside for a public occasion for those who have attained the status of citizenship. All civic and educational organizations are asked to cooperate.

Mr. Felix Ramoy, county clerk, is chairman for the occasion here. Some speakers will be on hand and the band will furnish appropriate and patriotic music for the event which will take place in the city park at 2:30 in the afternoon if the weather is fine. Should the weather be inclement the ceremony, will be in the High School Auditorium.

Speakers and program will be announced next week. A flagpole will be erected in the City Park prior to "Citizenship Day."

CCC ENROLLMENT PLAN

Rev. John L. Lawson was in Carrizozo Saturday on his round from the CCC Camp near Hondo to another camp. Mr. Lawson, who is chaplain for this district, asked us to state that more enrollees are wanted in the triple C camps, where defense training is being given. Youths are assigned to classes first and to work projects second. Applications for enrollment may be made through project supervisors, commanding officers, or to agencies that supervise projects. In New Mexico these include Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Fish, Game, and Wild Life Service, Grazing, etc. Restrictions as to needs of his family have been removed. Any youth may apply who is unmarried, and is not employed, and who is between the ages of 17 and 23. Special emphasis will be placed on defense training such as welding, aircraft welding, radio and auto mechanics. When they are through with a course they are usually prepared for a job in some defense line.

CAUTION TO MOTORISTS

Santa Fe Motorists are called upon by State Traffic and Safety engineer W. R. Eccles to "put on the brakes of caution immediately."

His warning was called forth by a 20 percent increase in traffic deaths during the first four months of this year. Sixty-four fatalities occurred as against 53 for the corresponding period of 1940.

There has been an increase nationally also, 16 percent, and the National Safety Council has sounded a slow-up warning, saying an all-time high death toll is threatened if the rate set so far this year is kept up.

The national increase is attributed to "the fact that national activity of every character is on a faster tempo." In New Mexico, however, Eccles has concluded, from a close range survey, that weather conditions have been a contributing factor.

OIL-GAS LEASES AT AUCTION

The State Land Commissioner, Mr. H. R. Rodgers, has announced that gas and oil leases on more than 11,800 acres of southeastern New Mexico land will be offered to bidders tomorrow, May 10th in Santa Fe.

N. M. COURTS TO COLLECT $1.25 CASE FILING FEE

New Mexico District Court clerks were notified by the State Comptroller's Office yesterday to begin immediate collection of an additional $1.25 filing fee for court cases.

The fee was established by an emergency law passed by the recent Legislature to finance a new compilation of New Mexico statutes. It raised filing costs from $10 to $11.25.

To Visit Claunch

The Business Men's Club went to Claunch last Tuesday night and are invited for a return visit next Wednesday, May 14th at which time they will be on hand not only with bells on, but accompanied by the local band and as many club members as can attend and by others also, if they care to go.

The pastor of the church at Claunch will give the welcome address, Attorney John E. Hall will respond and the Ladies Aid Society of Claunch will serve the repast. Any boosters are invited to boost, and to enjoy a pleasant evening, with our neighbors at Claunch.

Robert Valdez' Father Dies

Mr. Juan Valdez, widely known Dona Ana County resident and father of State Corporation Commissioner, Robert Valdez, dropped dead on an El Paso street late Monday. Death was ascribed to heart disease.

Mr. Valdez was buried at La Union, N. M., Wednesday.

KNOW YOUR BANK

How To Avoid Service Charges

The costs of handling a checking account are in proportion to the number of deposits made, the number of items in each deposit, and the number of checks written.

Offset against these costs are the earnings of the account through the investment of the free balance (that part which is not set aside for reserves and which is not reduced by checks drawn). If costs exceed earnings a service charge is made to cover the difference. In other words a certain amount of free balance is necessary to carry the cost of each check written and each deposit.

We do not like to make a service charge so to avoid it we encourage the depositor to either increase his balance or limit the number of check drawn.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Back in the calm, untroubled days of February, 1939, with one more spring not far behind, a famous economist, returning from Europe, told the ship news men that this war scare was all paper talk. Responsible statesmen of Europe had things well in hand.

On this same day, there was a little item, back in the dustbin of the newspaper, reporting that, in certain minor changes in the army, the President was putting the "accent on youth." One Brig. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, a youth of 51, was upped to the post of chief of the army's mobile general headquarters air force. Five or six other youngsters were similarly elevated.

The other day, the quietly effective General Emmons was given direction of a new organization of possibly 500,000 or 600,000 civilian air raid spotters. Four brigadier generals will assist him in recruiting and training his volunteer observers.

Back in 1916, we thought of airplanes as primarily useful for observation, and it was the signal corps, our only flying service, that then then Captain Emmons entered. He adapted himself quickly to the fighting as well as observing uses of planes, became a keen technician in the art of plane development and flying, and, in 1920 and 1921 taught flying at Harvard university. He is a native of Huntington, W. Va., and graduated from West Point in 1909.

MISS MABEL BOARDMAN, tall, regal, tireless and alert, is a born co-operator and commander. Her 40 years with the Red Cross is a timely citation, not only in the aftermath of the tragedy of London, but in her current Washington announcement that the Red Cross is geared for swift emergency action. In this connection, she mentions the fact that it sent more than $21,000,000 to Europe last year, and gives other details of its expanding and intensifying organization.

Miss Boardman is secretary of the American Red Cross. During her service, its membership has grown from 300 to 15,000,000, with much of the credit for this increase assigned to her. Born and reared in Cleveland, with abundant means and distinguished family antecedents, she was a Washington society bud. In 1909, a friend made an unauthorized use of her name as one of the incorporators of the new Red Cross.

Miss Boardman accepted the call and has helped guide and build the vast organization with unflagging energy and administrative and organizing ability. She is straight as a reed, serene and at ease, but with a touch of military alertness, —an ever watchful evangel against all the plagues of the litany.

LAST October, Major Edward Brown, of radio fame, gave his Westchester estate to the Lutheran church. Then, in November, he gave his 62-ton yacht and his 22-foot speed-boat to the navy. Previously he had given to St. Patrick's cathedral four huge English elms and eight Swedish maple. And now he is giving to St. Patrick's an Andrea del Sarto painting, masterpiece of the Florentine painter, done in 1515. It is "The Holy Family With St. John and St. Elizabeth."

The major started on a grand garrison finish, along in his fifties. This writer remembers him as a genial evangel of real estate, and a crusader against crime in San Francisco, many years ago. Even in that day he had imposed on a grammar school education the smoothest diction in those parts.

It was in San Francisco, a most theatrical town, that he moved into the theater. It was in 1917 that he built the Capitol theater in New York and thereafter his career was a pleasant upbound ride on a gold-plated escalator.

Off and on, he has been radio's best magnet for fan-mail and, his "take" has been put down at around $25,000 a week. He started his amateur hour in 1934 and it quickly blazed into a four-eleven conflagration. He lives abstemiously, as to food and drink, but sports a $38,000 car, with venetian blinds, a refrigerator and gold-rimmed dishes, and he provides plenty of Lucullan trimmings for the entertainment of his guests. He gives things away on the slightest provocation and couldn't possibly have come from anywhere but San Francisco.

Fire Demon Takes Heavy Toll in East

Damage estimated at about $2,000,000 was caused in the Ocean Bluffs, Mass., area as the result of a fire that destroyed a church and leveled more than 450 cottages. Only a timely shift in wind saved hundreds of other houses. The above photo shows a row of cottages burning fiercely when the fire was at its height.

U. S. Loan to China

Signing of a stabilization agreement involving the purchase of Chinese yuan by the U. S. stabilization fund to the amount of $50,000,000 was another important step in the monetary co-operation between the United States and China. Photo shows (seated) Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, and T. V. Soong, representing China. Standing: Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador.

Pre-views

More Might for Uncle Sam's Navy

Two powerful fighting ships will be commissioned on May 15, when the 233-foot submarine Mackerel (upper left), and the 35,000-ton super-dreadnaught Washington (below), are placed in service. The Washington will join her sister ship, the North Carolina, which was commissioned last month. Four other battleships will be launched within a year.

Women Bowlers Hold Tournament

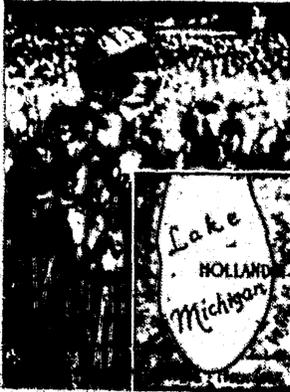

These champion bowlers will defend their titles when the Women's International Bowling Congress opens its annual tournament in Los Angeles on May 15. Mrs. Tess Morris (left) is all-events champion and shares the doubles crown with Mrs. Dorothy E. Miller (center), while Mrs. Sally Twyford (right), is national singles titleholder.

Cotton Royalty

Five days of festivities will be ruled over by their majesties, R. L. Mallory Jr. and Miss Nancy Donegan, at the Cotton carnival to be held in Memphis, Tenn., May 13-17. There will be a "float" for nearly every state.

Tulip Time

Almost 5,000,000 tulips surround this little fellow, as Holland, Mich., prepares for Tulip Time on May 17-24. Wooden shoes and the costumes of old Holland will prevail.

NAZI PROPAGANDA GOES ON UNCHECKED IN U. S.

ALL AMERICANS, from the President down to the least of us, condemn Hitler and Nazism. We want none of Hitler or his kind, or his ideology. We send men to prison for spreading the Nazi doctrines, and yet each week we are countenancing the spread of this thing we abhor.

The German Library of Information, undoubtedly financed by Germany in the interests of Hitler's Germany and all it represents, sends broadcast over America the most subtle kind of Nazi propaganda. Millions of copies of its weekly publication, "Facts in Review," are circulated in this country. The American postal system is used to distribute this publication. It boldly announces that copies may be obtained upon request and without charge. You find them in hotels, auto camps, in our training camps, and in all possible places where they will be seen and read, and your name, once on the mailing list, means receiving a new copy each week.

Typographically it is an attractive publication, well printed, beautifully illustrated. Each word in the text of its 44 pages is a eulogy of Hitler, his henchmen and Nazism. Its purpose is to convince American people that Hitler is working for the best interests of the world, that he is a world savior, that England would destroy world civilization if that country itself is not destroyed. While smooth, it is not even cleverly veiled.

With it each week are offered many other publications, any or all of which may be had for the asking.

Why, I wonder, is such an effort to break down American democracy permitted to operate?

Certainly it is known. Any officer of the government, any member of congress, as well as any citizen, may have copies of the publication, as many as he wishes, by merely asking for them. They will be sent through the American postal system for the purpose of convincing Americans that the German system of Hitler will prevail and that it is best for the world that it should.

To permit circulation of this propaganda to continue is hardly consistent with our American policy. It is the kind of thing that will lead to sabotage in American armament plants. It will appeal to the fanatic and the subversive elements.

ROAD TO ALASKA FEASIBLE, SAYS 'SLIM'

IN THE NAME OF NATIONAL DEFENSE serious consideration is being given in Washington to the subject of constructing a highway from the American line through British Columbia to Alaska. The defense purpose is for the moving of an army, mechanized or other, should we find it necessary to defend Alaska. The proposition is for the United States to provide the funds and Canada to provide the right of way and patrol it after the highway is completed.

Long, lean, weather-beaten "Slim" Williams, an old Alaskan cowboy, has agitated such a highway for several years. In the winter of 1931-32, "Slim" drove a dog team from Alaska to Washington as his first demonstration of the feasibility of his dream. In the summer of 1933, starting from Fairbanks in May, he made the trip through to Vancouver on a motorcycle, at least both "Slim" and the motorcycle came through but whether he carried the motorcycle more miles than it carried him, I am not sure. He insists he has proved that a highway to Alaska is practical.

There is today, and has been for many years, the beginning of such a highway. It is from Vancouver, following generally the course of the Fraser river, to Prince George, a distance of something like 500 miles. It was constructed in the gold rush days as a means of getting miners in, and ore out of the then thriving gold mining area around Prince George. It was, and is, passable for pack animals, but not wide enough for automobiles. Beyond Prince George, and as far north as Hazelton, is a trail followed by Indians and trappers. Beyond Hazelton are the unconquered Rocky mountains of British Columbia and Alaska. But "Slim" Williams says they can be conquered.

PRACTICAL

THE PRESIDENT is said to favor a revision of the draft ages, reducing the minimum to 18 years and stopping the maximum at 30 years, or less. That is practical.

THEN AND NOW

IN WASHINGTON they will tell you today of a perfect working house of representatives majority, with some six key men directing legislation. During the twenties, and up to some 15 years ago, when the Republicans had a heavy majority in the house, one man largely directed the course of legislation. If Martin B. Madden said a bill was to pass, it passed; if he said no, it did not reach the floor. Madden was the house of representatives.

The Strumpet Sea

SYNOPSIS

George McAusland was 38 years old when he sailed from America to undertake his post as a missionary in the Fiji Islands. A crime he had committed in a fit of excitement had shattered all his confidence in himself. He felt forced to avoid Betty Mary Doncaster, who boarded the ship at Honolulu. She was en route to visit her parents, who were missionaries on Gilead Island. Mary was attracted by George's attempts to avoid her. One day George accidentally fell overboard. Mary, unhesitatingly dove into the sea to rescue George, who falls in love with her. When the boat approached her home on Gilead Island, they learned that Mary's parents had both died. George volunteered to take charge of the mission and asked Mary to be his wife. She accepted his clumsy proposal and they left the ship to live in her former home on the island. The scanty dress of the natives shocked George at first, but he soon became reconciled to their customs. Mary discovered that Corran, a sailor friend of George's, had deserted ship to live on the island. He had come there to help George and Mary if they needed him. Their peaceful life was interrupted one day when a ship stopped in the harbor in search of pearls. They see the pearl divers attacked and the schooner seized by a pirate ship. The pirates head their boat toward the bay near their village. George sends Mary inland for safety and walks down to the beach, alone and defenseless, to meet the unwelcome visitors. Natives carry him back to Mary hours later, shot through the shoulder. Natives killed the pirates that night and set their boat afire. The boat was still burning when the long-awaited whaler, the Venturer, arrived.

They sat together in the big room, near enough George to hear any movement he might make, or any sound. Mary said: "I'm sorry about Cap'n Corr, Peter."

"He's dying," he told her. "I'm pretty sure of that." He added: "Richard had been mate since your uncle was killed. I'm second, and Mat Forbes came aft to take my place. If Father dies, Richard will be captain."

She thought this was a curious thing for Peter to say. He seemed to feel that his father's prospective death was merely incidental to Richard's advancement. Thinking of Tommy, she suggested: "Tell me about Uncle Tom."

Peter hesitated. "Why, I did tell you," he said, after a moment.

"I mean—all about it," she urged, and smiled. "If we don't talk we'll go to sleep, Peter."

"Well, it was a bowhead," Peter reluctantly explained. "We were on Japan. This was a lone bull. We all lowered, but we had a long pull; and we spread out, and when he came up to blow it was your uncle's boat was nearest. The whale was between him and me, Richard off to the windward. I put for the whale, and so did your uncle's boat; but he beat me by a little."

"With you so near!" she whispered ruefully. "Couldn't you do anything?"

"I wasn't close enough to do anything," Peter asserted, arguing as much with himself as with her. "The whale smashed them, and then he started looking for more trouble."

"Did you kill him?"

"No, I stayed to pick up the men."

"I don't see that there was anything you could have done, Peter."

"Ehast it, there wasn't!" he cried. "I was too far away."

She nodded, shivering faintly at something in the man. "They were both killed? Did you get them?"

"No, they sank." He added: "Richard got an iron into him half an hour after, killed him."

"Richard?" She spoke her thought, not reflecting that he might think her word an implied criticism. "He's very brave, isn't he?"

Peter laughed angrily. "Dick hasn't brains enough to be afraid when he ought to," he said. "If you call that being brave! You always thought a lot of Richard!"

She smiled a little. "I certainly did! Of course, he never knew I existed; but I used to worship him from a distance."

He chuckled. "Remember that letter you wrote him when you were a young one?"

Her cheeks burned. "I didn't write it to him! It wasn't meant for him. It was just an old letter I read in a book, a love letter, and I thought it was sweet, so I copied it! You know perfectly well it wasn't meant for Richard, Peter Corri!"

Peter touched her hand, leaning near her. "Poor kid! You were a great little girl, Mary. You know, you've grown up mighty beautiful." He leaned back again. "It's always griped me to hear Richard read that letter of yours to people and laugh about it. I know it wasn't any joke to you!"

She whispered in a sort of terror: "Does he read it to people?"

He chuckled. "Oh, yes, he kept it. He's got it now somewhere, probably."

She rose hurriedly, blindly escaping so he would not know her hurt. "I'll see how George is," she said, and took the lamp and went to the other room.

George was asleep, but she stood beside him for a while, deeply shaken, wishing to be alone. It seemed incredible that Richard could have made a jest of her letter. Some of the absurd phrases which once had seemed to her so beautiful returned to torment her. "I have ventured to disclose my excessive passion . . ."

"Oh, do not silt a passion so ardent . . . The tyrant love!" She was hot with shame. The letter was silly, of course. She knew that now; but it had seemed to her like a wonderful poem . . .

CHAPTER VIII

She did not sleep that night. Sitting by George's bed, she had time to put all these new things in order in her mind. Uncle Tom dead, Captain Corri ill, dying, perhaps dead even now. Peter, with that vein of malicious humor in him still, that trick of teasing her in ways that hurt. Peter was uncomfortable about her uncle's death, as though he felt some doubts of his own conduct on that occasion. Tommy hated him. That was clear. Tommy blamed him; but Tommy was young, his emotions likely to overrule his judgment. Probably Peter deserved no blame at all.

But Mary thought most of all of Richard, somewhere outside the bay in the Venturer, probably watching his father die. Just as she watched beside George here. She would see him in the morning; and she was at once eager and uneasy, remembering that letter of which he had made a jest. She had found it in a book called "The Complete Letter Writer." It was headed: "A Young Man Seeks the Acquaintance of a Lady he Loves." She had thought it beautiful, had copied it, using Richard's name and her own, in a sort of make-believe, never meaning it to be seen by anyone.

And in school next day, she was reading it secretly behind the screen of her geography when Peter reached over her shoulder and snatched it away.

After school was out she begged Peter to give the letter back to her; but he refused, insisting that he would deliver it to Richard, for whom it was intended. Mary prayed him not to, and secretly hoped he would. Maybe Richard would read it and come to her and take her in his arms!

But next day Peter brought her Richard's scrawled answer: "Dear Mary, don't be a little fool. Wait till you grow up, Dick."

She had cried then, and hated him; yet except for that cruel note he had always been, in a gruff, shy way, nice to her.

She was glad she would see him in the morning.

The Captain's cabin on the Venturer was on the starboard side, opening off the common room aft, into which the companionway descended. While Mary kept her vigil ashore, Richard Corri sat there all that night watching his father die. It was clear to Richard that no medicines now could help his father; yet when he heard the boat alongside, he went to the foot of the companion to meet Ephraim Doncaster.

But only Mat Forbes descended. "Mr. Doncaster's dead, Mr. Corri," he said. "And so is Mrs. Doncaster. Your brother sent word their daughter Mary is there."

Richard dropped his eyes, seemed to consider this; but actually he was only conscious of the fact that his father was dying, and that Mat and every man aboard looked to him now for command and leadership. Hiram Minick and Isaiah Cappelles, carpenter and cooper, oldsters who had sailed with Captain Corri for many a voyage and who loved him, were here in the common room sharing his vigil, standing by; and Hiram crossed now to look in at the sick man, Richard asked Mat:

"My brother didn't come back himself?"

"No, he and Tommy stayed ashore."

"Well, there's nothing could be done anyway," Richard decided.

Ira Corri spoke, Isaiah and old Hiram heard him, and came to the cabin door; but Captain Corri looked only at his son. He asked:

"Where's Peter?"

"Ashore, Father. We're at Gilead. He's gone to get help for you."

"I'm past help, Dick," he said.

"You'll be Cap'n by morning."

Richard had never lied to this old man. "I'll do the best I can, then," he said humbly.

"Look out for Peter."

"I'll take care of him."

"I mean, look out for him," Captain Corri repeated, in clear warning. "You're mine, but he's not, Dick. Not my son. His mother was a widow woman," the old man said. "She made me claim him or she wouldn't marry me. I was young, wanted a woman any price at all; and for all I knew then, Peter'd make a man and a good son for me. I gave him and you alike always, Richard; but you're a man, and he's not. I knew that sure, after his first time at sea. The sea winnows a man, Richard; blows the chaff away and shows you what he is underneath. It didn't need that business of Tom Hanline to show me the inwardness of Peter. I knew before, I wasn't fooled," he said. "Go I cast him out. It's all in my will, Dick. Lawyer Ashburn's got it at home. A dollar to Peter that was never mine, and the rest to you that was always my own son."

Richard's pulse-beat choked him. Captain Corri's eyes were closed now; but the old man said softly: "I could always brag about you, Dick."

He seemed to smile, but he did not speak again. He did not know when his father died, till Isaiah came at last to peer over his shoulder and to say:

"He's gone."

Richard looked down, and he saw this was true. His father was dead. He was Captain now.

He rose. He went on deck. He saw their position, said to Mat Forbes:

"Mr. Forbes, my father is dead. Keep her off and on. I'll be busy for a while."

He returned below. He went into the cabin and closed the door. Alone there, tender as a woman, he shaved his father's dead face, and dressed him in seemly garments. While he was alone with his father he had considered the problem which the old man's revelation presented. There had been no chance to ask Captain Corri whether Peter knew the truth about himself; but Richard was sure he did not. Richard even thought Peter need never know. When they reached New Bedford, he might go first to lawyer Ashburn and arrange for the destruction of the will—since he himself would be the only loser—and then he and Peter could share alike as legal heirs.

He fixed on this intention; but if the secret were to be kept, Isaiah and Hiram must be warned to silence. So he told them cryptically that they were to forget what they had heard.

They assented, Hiram with a word Isaiah more volubly.

George for much of the night had been restless and muttering in delirium; but toward morning he fell so deeply asleep that Mary leaned over him to make sure he was still breathing.

She was sticky hot, and she thought of the swimming pool that was cool and solitary. She took a towel and went down the path. The Venturer was moving into the bay; but there was time to be fresh and clean before Richard came ashore.

She slipped out of her clothes and swam lazily, like a seal, as often under water as not. Jarambo came seeking her to say the Venturer had anchored and a boat was approaching. She told him to go meet them and help them land. When he was gone, she came out of the water, she dressed and turned toward the landing place.

She emerged from the jungle which cloaked the path in time to see Richard catch the rope Jarambo dropped to him; and a moment later, as the whaleboat lifted on the swell, he stepped nimbly ashore.

Mary had forgotten how tall Richard was; how tall and bronzed and dark. He carried a gun under his arm, and he wore a cap too small for him. His shirt was open, his lean hips tight in trousers that seemed too scant for his powerful thighs. He came striding up the path and she waited without moving, watching the way his feet seemed to grip the ground, the swelling muscles above his knees as he climbed. She thought, half smiling, how often two people thus drew together without speaking, each trying to decide when to call a word of greeting, or to lift a hand.

She said: "I've had a swim, it was so hot."

He said: "Felt good, I'll bet."

She offered him her hand. His was hard and heavy and firm. She asked for his father; and he said: "He died about daylight."

"I'm sorry."

He nodded. "Yes, he died."

The sun shone boldly. The Venturer, dingy, graceless, bluff of bow and stern, with dragged sails half-furled, lay to her short anchor in the bay.

Richard said: "Peter sent word your folks were dead too. You been here all alone, have you?"

"Not alone," she said. "My husband's with me. We took Father's and Mother's place."

"Husband?" She saw his pupils widen like a cat's. "Who's he?"

She smiled at the sudden question. "He's George McAusland, a missionary, a State of Maine man. He was on the Sunset. We came from Honolulu together. He's fine. You'll like each other."

He looked around as though trying to discover the answer to some obscure enigma. "Where is he?" he asked. "Where's Peter and Tommy? Where are the natives? What's wrong here?"

Linen Assumes Important Role As Fabric for Summer Wardrobes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN ASSEMBLING the new summer wardrobe, don't overlook the importance of linen for all-occasion wear. There really is no material that more faithfully holds its own than handsome Irish linen.

With women of discriminating taste, fine linen is a tradition, and now, because of scientific processing, the new linens are rendered practically non-wrinklable.

Aside from the practical view, which ranks linen high because of its complete washability, crease-resistance and adaptability to any type of wearing apparel, style experts are suggesting linen because of the beautiful colors in which it may now be purchased.

A trend this season is the combining of linen with another fabric. You'll see many linen dresses with wool coats, lined and collared to match the dress. Linen also may be combined with silk or rayon prints very effectively. Often a monotone linen coat is lined with the print of a matching frock. In these instances, the linen used is one of the heavier, sturdier weaves, either plain or with self-plaid woven into the fabric.

A fashion highlight this season is the newly styled longer jackets of solid colored linen, worn over bright gingham checks or printed cottons. The attractive ensemble centered in the photograph illustrates the idea.

The jacket, of deep green linen, is cut as expertly and fits as suavely as any painstakingly tailored wool. It tops a black, white and green checked dress which follows carefully the lines of a classic shirtwaist frock.

The use of linen in two-toned combinations is a this-season theme that stresses the popular contrast-color vogue. Two shades of Irish linen, a rich tan and a deep green, combine to dramatize the South American influence shown in the simulated bolero of this good-looking dress. This is a fashion designed by Schiaparelli for gay young folk.

It's "three cheers for the red-white-and-blue" when the classic shirtwaist dress shown to the left in the group marches along in the fashion parade. The dress is of blue wrinkle-resistant Irish linen. The double blue-and-white collar and cuffs are edged with red rickrack, and the chic crocheted belt also combines the three colors.

A fashion that women will welcome is the redingote that is styled of linen in handsome dark monotones. This is worn over print frocks very effectively and over line dresses of a contrasting shade. A practical as well as smart item in any wardrobe is the linen cut that is fashioned with the longer jacket. In navy or dark green or toast brown it invites many uses, for the jacket may be worn over casual frocks when not worn with its matching skirt.

The young set glories this season in the new line middy blouse fashions. As summer advances, dance floors will boast linen dinner dresses. On beaches, dressmaker bathing suits in linen will take to the water and many play suits and beach dresses of Irish linen will be worn by vacationers.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of their effectiveness. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under existing laboratory conditions.
These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the chief reason of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that can stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
Burning, stinging or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, weakness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Facts of ADVERTISING
• ADVERTISING represents the leadership of a nation. It points the way. We merely follow—follow to new heights of comfort, of convenience, of happiness.
As time goes on advertising is used more and more, and as it is used more we all profit more. It's the way advertising has—of bringing a profit to everybody concerned, the consumer included.

Dramatic Bags

Dramatic bags, with swank shoes of shiny perforated leather to match, are smart as can be. In the under-arm bag designed by Jenny which the young modern pictured is carrying, shiny black patent leather is cleverly used to form wings of ruffled and perforated patent. This bag is roby but compact and is styled with all the "last word" improvements. You will find it the perfect complement for your new tailleur and particularly chic carried with the now-so-voguish black faille jacket suits. By the way, the topknot that surmounts the pretty head of the young lady here posing is a very new-fashion chapeau.

Newest wrist watches are square, made of pink gold, set with diamonds and rubies and fastened with a maroon wrist cord.

White-Ground Prints New In Summer Fashion Picture

It is the white-ground prints that have the coveted "new" look. The black-on-white combination is especially smart. Wear with these black-and-whites one of the very voguish large Milan hats, carry a patent bag matched with pumps, splash a dash of red or yellow in gloves and your boutonniere—the sum total will be "style."

Blue on white is also new and the prints that pattern red or yellow on white are exceedingly chic.

Handknit Apparel Enjoys Increase in Popularity

There is a large demand for handknit apparel. Even the machine knits have been brought to such a point of perfection that they have the handknit look. Dresses are so expertly fashioned that they do not miss any of the styling details that give distinction to fabric treatments.

Sweaters and cardigans abound in unique trimmings, such as wool yarn fringe, dangling tassels, embroideries and knitted skirts are now made with pleats or gores.

Low-Cut Necklines Call For Bra to Match Dress

Necklines are on their way down and down, almost to the waistline. With this type of dress, comes a bra to match. You can fasten the open top high or low, as you wish. The latest blouses have open-throat colored necklines that may be adjusted at will.

Brims Large, Small

It's a far cry from the tiny little flower topknots milliners are pleased to call hats to the wide, wider, widest brims that are forecasted for wear with summer frocks. A properly equipped wardrobe of headgear should include both. The cunning flower hats have captured women's fancy to the extent that they will continue in the picture for a long time to come, but from now on they must share honors with the stunning big pompadour brims, Mexican gaucho felts and the face-framing "covered wagon" types.

First Tax Bill
of The Defense Era

Congress is now mulling over the first tax bill of the defense era.
It is supposed to raise three and a half billion dollars by the new levies, a program made necessary to avoid any greater increase in the National debt than we have to make.

Naturally, nobody is happy at the prospect of heavier taxes, but it is pleasant to relate that there are comparatively few fault finders over the prospective obligations. The people realize that this country is up against a situation in which what has to be spent is of small importance, compared with what our failure to meet that situation involves.

Of course, the man of small income thinks that the burden should be borne by the people who have more than he has. Obviously, the ten or twenty-thousand-a-year individual, accustomed to living on a commensurate scale, thinks he is being afflicted unduly, and the top-notch income receivers feel that they are already over-taxed. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if a tax measure of any sort won universal approval, but now the firm requirement of the general sacrifice, the prospective bill demands is being met rather cheerfully.

As to the excise taxes—who would worry if one fewer cigarette went in a package? An extra penny on a soft drink certainly calls for no great distress and as for the man who drinks the strong potions—what deep sorrow figures in an additional dollar a gallon on whiskey? Actually, we are paying the bill for our own sins of omission—like the rest of the world.

We were well on our way to a two-ocean navy twenty years ago.
Had we kept to that design that was interrupted by the Washington Disarmament Conference, we would not now have to be feverishly building up a great defense machine. Had we followed the example of nearly every other nation and adopted a policy of military training for our boys, we would now be carrying on a draft, that interrupts so many careers.

"Of All Sad Words"—
If our two-ocean navy were an actuality and not merely a doubling of our ship strength in course of construction, for example, we would not now be watching Japan, wondering if she is going to go after the British and Dutch possessions that represent her empire expansion projects. Japan would, in all probability, never have joined the Hitler axis had we not abandoned the idea of constant martial preparedness.

But twenty years ago the whole world dreamed of a long period of peace. The nations had subscribed to anti-aggression pacts; war was outlawed, theoretically and diplomatically. The people of our country, like those of England, France and the smaller countries, were weary of strife, and doubly weary of war taxes. Their governments followed the popular ambition, and disarmament seemed the realistic and economic course. So the world slept, while Germany was nursing her wounds and building up a complete war engine.

So we find ourselves today doing in haste what we had we had superhuman foresight—could have done at leisure, aiming against the aspirants for world domination, and proving that we can build tanks, airplanes, and ships fast enough to get them to England and the other nations who are fighting against the elevation that overtook a dozen fine, cultured, peaceable nations that have been overwhelmed by the Nazl juggernaut, before they, too, are added to the lot of the dictators.

The tax bill will go through in the ordinary course of events. Doubtless there will be opposition by the same group that has opposed practically every stage of the defense program
—not because they are against it, but because it is an Administration measure.

CHEVROLET SPECIALIZATION PROGRAM

Detroit, May 5—In line with Chevrolet's newly created specialization program announced April 6 by William E. Holler, general sales manager, 102 men arrived here May 1, to begin an intensive three-week training course in the phases of customer-dealer relationships with which they will work when they return to the field. Fifty-two of the men are recently appointed Assistant Zone Service Managers, who will be schooled to work directly with the 8,500 dealers' Service Managers, in developing the latest and most modern methods of customer-service relationships.
They will also outline methods for the training of apprentices to replace mechanics required for the national defense program.

Fifty-five of the men are recently appointed Assistant Zone Business Managers, who will be thoroughly schooled in specialized business management methods to take to dealers, thus further strengthening Chevolet's program of "specialization for efficiency."
This group will conduct its three-week training and schooling period using all the facilities of Central Office. Both groups heard an outline of the plan from Mr. Holler, opening the schooling sessions.

It Used to Be 'Sissy'

There was a time when the man who played badminton was regarded as something less than a he-man. But those days are gone. In these action photos made by the Speedray technique, two topnotchers, Ken Davidson and Hugh Forgie, show you some of the strokes.

Top: The shuttlecock, or "Bird," is in flight across the net here, and Ken Davidson (left) also looks as if he is soaring, after smashing it over to his opponent, Hugh Forgie, who is recovering after going off balance.

Right: Zowie! Hugh Forgie completing an around-the-head smash. This shot is used by the better players rather than a back-hand stroke.

Below: Ken goes up into the air to meet the bird. He is about to execute a high, back hand lob, smash or drop shot.

Above: Ken Davidson, one of the greatest trick shot artists the game has ever produced, demonstrates one of his tricks.

Hugh Forgie is caught by the Speedray here in a graceful leap.

Milestones of History Recorded in Sound By Records in New York's 'Radio City'

By HOPE CHAMBERLIN
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

NEW YORK. — In a small, dark room in a corner of a tall building in New York's "Radio City," Adolf Hitler shouts bitterly against the British empire; Prime Minister Winston Churchill retorts vigorously that his country will not yield an inch; Pope Pius XII prays for peace; Franklin D. Roosevelt takes the oath of the office for a third term as President of the United States; the Dionne quintuplets sing "Oh, Johnny, Oh."

The setting is the record library of the National Broadcasting company. Stored away in that little room, in tall stacks of tin containers, are more than 50,000 transcriptions of virtually every phase of history, awaiting only the push of a button and the scratch of a needle to bring them to life for tomorrow's historians and students.

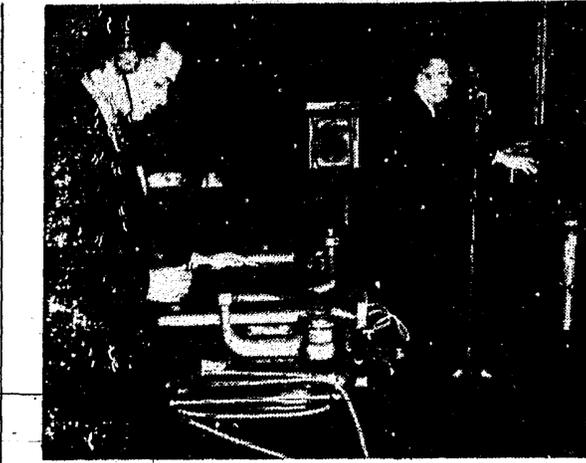

The value of the library cannot be measured in dollars—its treasures rival those of a dozen Captain Kidds. And, in years to come, students, historians, scholars, educators and journalists will be able to use the library, just as contemporary writers use libraries and museums and newspaper morgues.

Voices, Emotions Important.

Take, for example, a journalist in the year 1937 who is sweating over a series of columns on "The Second World War." Newspaper files, magazines, books, scholarly dissertations will provide him with the basic facts. But what about the actual voices of Hitler, Mussolini, Roosevelt, Churchill, eye-witnesses, and what about the emotions and intonations which printed words don't convey?

In tiny grooves he will find the complete story—told from dugout and underground studios amid the crash of bursting bombs, the scream of air raid sirens, the ominous silence of the Forest of Compiègne.

Historians of the future will be able to hear the whole story, from that most dramatic day in broadcasting, Sunday, September 3, 1939, when a tired, soft-spoken gentleman announced "with regret" to a grieving world that the government of Great Britain was at war with the Playing back a broadcast a few minutes after it has gone off the air is an easy matter. One side of the record will contain an hour-long show. Because of the aluminum shortage, only pickups from abroad and broadcasts of a controversial nature are recorded on acetate; others are recorded on little rolls of film.

German nation. And the subsequent replies of Dictators Hitler and Mussolini. They will hear Chamberlain resigning from office and Winston Churchill, the new prime minister, resolving to fight on, despite the entailing "blood and sweat and toil and tears."

Non-Military History.

And, since the last decade of our civilization has not been a story of war alone, historians will be able to review other milestones in our lives. Momentous events in nearly all phases of life can be resurrected through these disks. Here are a few other chunks of history recorded on acetate:

Religion—The coronation of Pope Pius XI; the Pontifical Mass for his successor, Pius XII.

Science—The voices and thoughts of Marconi, wireless inventor, in his broadcasts of 1935 and 1936. The report of an expedition directly from the Amazonian jungles. The Picard expedition of 1933 into the stratosphere.

Aeronautics—The round-the-world flight of Howard Hughes as reported by ground observers and by Hughes himself, from his plane.

Catastrophes—The salvaging of the ill-fated submarine, Squalus, from the bottom of the ocean off Portsmouth, N. H.; the Ohio river floods.

Sports—Football and baseball games, golf tournaments, the Olympic games.

Politics—Conventions, inaugurations, debates.

Superior to Printed Word.

Jampacked with acetate disks, the tall piles of tin containers in NBC's record library are in some ways more valuable than the other basic source of historical matter—the printed word. For since the recording of a historical situation presents the actual scene literally and without interpretation, the listener is made an ear-witness to the going-on and placed in a position to pass objectively on "what happened."

Because special event broadcasting is taken pretty much for granted, it may be hard to conceive the reference value to coming generations of this collection of recordings. The worth might be more fully realized by looking further into the past.

Think how they would be cherished if there were records of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and the Lincoln-Douglas debates; the surrender of the British army to Washington at Yorktown; Napoleon's talks to his soldiers; and Robert Fulton's first steamboat trip up the Hudson river.

The acetate recordings mentioned have an aluminum base. With the nation's defense production in full swing, non-defense consumption of aluminum is being curtailed. Therefore, only pickups from abroad and broadcasts of a controversial nature are now recorded on acetate. All other recordings of broadcasts are recorded on little rolls of film which can be played back in a "recordograph." A day-long schedule of broadcasts occupies but a short film roll.

Record Overseas Broadcasts.

Overseas broadcasts are recorded on "memovox"—large, flexible celluloid platters. One side records an hour-long show.

As the years roll on, students, historians, scholars, educators and journalists will find delving into bygone days much easier. Radio's record library does away with the arduous task of searching for official papers, manuscripts, letters, diaries, broadsides, pamphlets, newspapers, magazines and volumes of transactions.

Instead of dead documents, tomorrow's historians can refer to living records!

"Cutting" a record from the air. This one is an acetate disc with aluminum platter base. It is essential that an even volume be maintained throughout the recording.

Acting in Plays Proves Valuable Help for Blind

NEW YORK.—Training in stage technique for sightless students has proved so valuable an aid in developing poise, and greater confidence in movement and speech, that the American Foundation for the Blind has instituted such training on a national-wide scale.

Dramatic coaches specially trained have been sent to inaugurate this work in schools for the blind throughout the West and South.

Prepare Campaign to Provide Recreation for Soldiers, Sailors

Proposed plans for clubhouses to be operated for men in the armed services are inspected by First Class Private Stanley P. Kullik, of Wilkes Barre, Pa. (left) and W. Spencer Robertson, chairman of the United Service Organization executive board. The U. S. O. is launching a drive for $10,765,000 to maintain 330 recreational centers throughout the country.

WASHINGTON.—Soldiers at army camps will have adequate facilities for wholesome entertainment, if a new money-raising campaign succeeds.

Six agencies have banded together into the United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc., to support a nation-wide drive for $10,765,000. The money will be used to provide clubhouses and off-post recreation for soldiers and sailors, according to Walter Hoving, president.

Agencies co-operating in this drive are the National Travelers Aid association, Salvation Army, National Catholic Community Service, the Jewish Welfare board, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

It is planned to provide club facilities in 330 localities near camps, naval stations and defense centers throughout the country. Buildings will be provided by the federal government, while the U. S. O. will supply funds for their operation. Hoving explains that the problem is to provide friendly and wholesome contacts between persons in civilian and military life.

The need for recreational facilities arises from the enormous enlargement of our armed forces, Hoving said. "More than 1,400,000 young Americans are now in uniform."

"When soldiers go into town by the thousands evenings and weekends," Hoving continued, "there is often no place for them to go, nothing to do, no morale-building recreation. Boys stand aimlessly on the sidewalk, wondering what to do; and those who seek to exploit the boys, sometimes viciously, are eager to supply the answer."

The United Service Organization is seeking to provide other alternatives to trainees and youths of defense industries. "We plan to bring them a measure of the hospitality, the spiritual influence and the comfort which the people at home want them to have," Hoving continued.

Costs of the first year's operations will be met by the $10,000,000 fund. Donations will not necessarily be spent in the same areas from which the money is obtained, but will be distributed according to the urgency of need in various parts of the country.

TIPS to Gardeners

GARDENS OF QUALITY

THERE have been changes in recent years in garden practices that are worth reporting.

Gardeners formerly allowed vegetables to grow as large as possible. This procedure gave a higher yield in pounds, but very often it lowered the quality of vegetables.

Some vegetables, of course, like tomato, must be mature to be palatable; but carrots, cucumbers, beets, summer squash, turnips, radishes, and others are more tender and tasty when not much more than half grown.

Gardeners are finding that it is wise to plant oftener than once or twice a year, to maintain a regular supply of proper-sized vegetables. Gardens prove more enjoyable, and more profitable when successive plantings of favorite crops are made every two or three weeks, providing garden-fresh vegetables for the table over a long season.

It is also true that few gardeners today save flower seeds. Fine flowers growing in the home garden often are cross-pollinated by others of the same species, making flowers grown from their seed inferior, and untrue.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as expert buyers, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making of our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

... JUST LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE!
(See Recipes Below)

IT WAS WONDERFUL FOOD!

Remember flying home, pigtailed thumping, to smell supper, and guess? Remember being saucer-eyed as mother's marble cake took a blue ribbon at the fair? And remember licking the last bit of sweetness from the frosting platter? I know you must remember. How could you forget? It was wonderful food!

And it's to the best cooks in the world — our mothers — that this week's column is dedicated. When you pay them homage on Mother's day, 1941, perhaps you'll enjoy using some of the following recipes, favorites of the long ago.

In those days, to be caught without plenty of food, and good food, too, for all comers was to show oneself a poor housekeeper, a bad hand in the kitchen.

But times have changed. A large "crook" of butter, a "basket" of eggs, and a "wedge" of cheese are no longer a part of the regular supplies on the shelf in the vegetable cellar. Nor are recipes penciled on the fly-leaf of the family ledger. But the basic goodness is still the same.

So, whether it be crusty brown doughnuts, chicken pie and jelly roll, huge, fluffy cakes, or rich chocolate pie, let's take mother back, down memory lane!

Lovely to look at and utterly delightful to eat is the Sour Cream Devil's Food Cake, which I'm sure was a favorite of grandmother's.

Sour Cream Devil's Food Cake.

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup thick sour cream
- 1/2 cup sweet milk

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add egg and beat very thoroughly; then chocolate and vanilla, and blend. Add about one-fourth of the flour and beat well; then add sour cream and beat thoroughly. Add remaining flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into two greased 9-inch layer pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until done.

Spread Felicity Frosting on top and sides of cake. Top with glossy

LYNN SAYS:

In an old book of household advice, written in 1870, are some words of wisdom "to help homemakers." I'm passing them on to you "for what they're worth" in the modern, up-to-date home.

"Use a clam shell to scrape skillets or saucepans; to scour your iron pots and griddles, use wood ashes.

"Sweeping a carpet with new fallen snow will make it look very bright and fresh. Also, it is a good plan to save tea leaves, and, with them not too moist, sweep a dark carpet. This is not advised for light colors.

"Woodwork may be dusted with a long-feathered wing, preferably that of a turkey.

"For washing fine clothes, use a pounder—not a large, old-fashioned affair, but one about twice as large as a potato masher, and pound your clothes as they soak in sal-soda water. The rubbing on a board will then be very easy. Use a clothes wringer if you can possibly get one.

"Never buy ground coffee. Take whole berries and heat; grind while hot.

"All housewives should be well advised in cookery, and should know how to make good dishes, such as 'Jenny Lind Cake,' 'Parsnip Pie,' 'Marrow Dumplings' and 'Flannel Pancakes.'" chocolate coating, made by combining 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1/4 cup sugar, and 1/4 cup water. Cook over low flame until smooth and thick. Cool slightly. Double the recipe for three 10-inch layers.

Felicity Frosting.
2 egg whites, unbeaten
2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
Dash of salt
7 tablespoons water

Combine egg whites, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, but allow to remain over hot water, and beat 2 minutes longer. Place over cold water and continue beating 3 minutes. Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of two 9-inch layers.

Just like mother used to make.

That's what you'll say when you taste the delicious cookies, made by the directions given below. When mother baked cookies she made them rich with butter and usually full of fruit, like:

Fig Oaties.

- Boll 5 minutes in water to cover:
 - 1 1/2 cups dried figs
- Drain, clip stems and cut figs into thin strips (scissors are handy). Cream together:

- 1 cup butter
- 2 cups beet or cane sugar

Add:

- 3 eggs, beaten
- Blend well, then add liquids:
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together and add:

- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Add:

- Figs
- 5 cups quick-cooking oats

Stir until well blended, then drop by small spoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet and flatten slightly. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees F., for 13 to 15 minutes. Press a nut meat, strips of fig or cherry into tops before baking if desired. For a glazed top, brush with hot honey after baking and place under broiler for a minute or two. Makes 5 1/2 dozen medium-sized cookies.

Do you recall the old cracker barrel? It was a necessity in days gone by when homemakers often made their own crackers, and even their own baking powder and bread starter. Thinking that perhaps in your spare moments you might like to try your hand at cracker making, I'm including a recipe.

Crackers Made With Yeast.

- 1/2 package granular yeast
- 1 pint warm water
- 1 1/2 quarts flour
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/2 cup sour milk
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon soda

Set sponge of yeast, water and flour at night. In the morning add the other ingredients and flour to stiffen very stiff. Pound with rolling pin. Fold over and pound again. Continue until the dough is smooth.

Place on a lightly floured board and roll in a thin sheet. Cut in squares and punch holes on top with a fork. Place in ungreased pans and bake in a 400-degree F. oven. These are inexpensive and very good!

Hot Water Supply.

QUESTION: Would it be advisable to install a coil to heat water in the firebox of my oil burning furnace? The burner is of the rotary type. Is such a coil difficult to install, and does it in any way affect the heating of the home? There are 11 in our family, and we require an abundant supply of hot water.

Answer: I do not advise putting a water heating coil in the firebox of a furnace, and especially in one with an oil burner. If your heater is hot air, you had better put in a separate pot stove, or laundry stove in which the temperature of the water can be controlled. You can get pot stoves that feed coal by a magazine or by a stoker, which are very satisfactory. It is quite possible that the modern type of storage water heater burning gas will serve your purpose. These are economical, and if you have not done so, I recommend asking your gas company for figures.

Damp Plaster.

Question: In damp weather the wall plaster in my old house sweats so that the paper becomes badly stained. Re-sizing and papering the walls does no good. Can we protect the paper by putting thin waterproofing on the plaster?

Answer: Your house suffers from a trouble that is common to old houses; the placing of the inside plaster against the brick walls. With no air space between, as would be formed by putting the plaster on lath on furring strips, the plaster is chilled by contact with the outside walls, and sweating is the result. The trouble will continue as long as the plaster is colder than the house air. One remedy is to line the walls with stiff insulating board, or to re-lay the plaster over lath on furring strips.

Easing Out Skunks.

Question: We have a family of skunks living peacefully under the porch of our house. So far, everything is O. K.; but one never knows. I have been told that they can be eased out quietly by means of a liberal sprinkling all over the ground with moth flakes. Before using I wish to make sure whether or not the flakes are non-inflammable.

Answer: The flakes are safe to use. If they were inflammable they would be risky to use in tightly closed containers for the storage of clothing. I have been told by those who know, that skunks have a strong objection to bright lights, and will break up housekeeping if an electric light bulb is hung where it will invade their privacy.

Asphalt Paint.

Question: Can asphalt roofing be painted with other than asphalt paint? Can I use a lead paint, if the roofing is first covered with shella?

Answer: Because the asphalt expands and contracts more readily than an oil paint, the oil paint is not advisable. This paint would eventually show cracks because of this difference in expansion. Shella would not help. Use a paint with an asphalt base.

Two-Car Garage.

Question: I would be very interested in any information you can give me about building a two-car 20 by 20 foot wood garage in the country.

Answer: You can get a pamphlet on garages from the Southern Pine association at New Orleans, La. This booklet will give you some worthwhile information on the construction of garages.

Bathroom Walls.

Question: We are installing a basement bathroom. What inexpensive, but practical materials can we use for enclosing it?

Answer: You can use plasterboard on a framework of two by fours. The inside surface must be protected against dampness, which you can do by covering it with heavy table oil-cloth, or wall-cloth finished with oil paint, hung with casein glue.

Yellowed Ivory.

Question: How can yellow stains be removed from the ivory keys of a piano?

Answer: If the yellowing is of long standing, and has gone all the way through, nothing can be done. If it is only on the surface, try the effect of rubbing with powdered chalk, dampened with denatured alcohol; bleaching with peroxide and hydrogen might also be effective.

Preserving Books.

Question: Is it wise to put moth flakes or balls in a fine mahogany bookcase to keep book lice from the books? There are probably 500 books, and to sun all of them seems like a terrible job.

Answer: Yes; use the kind of moth killer made of paradichlorobenzene. Sprinkle generously around the back of the shelves, as well as the front.

Captured Officers

Under the terms of the Geneva convention of 1929, officers captured in war have their salaries paid by the power detaining them as prisoners. Each officer receives the pay made to officers of his rank in the country in which he is held captive, but it is provided that such pay shall not be greater than he received for that rank in his own country. In other words, he cannot get an increase in pay by virtue of being a prisoner of war.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When rooms are to be painted, coat windows with a cleaning powder. If paint splatters on the glass it comes off easily when the powder is wiped away.

Shrinkage in woollens is usually due to over-washing. In ordinary circumstances, three minutes is long enough for them.

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to any boiled frosting before spreading will keep it from becoming brittle or breaking when it is cut.

Many kitchens have a bare, unused wall space that could be usefully and attractively transformed into recessed shelves.

If kerosene is added to the water with which linoleum is washed it will loosen dirt and make washing much easier.

If sugar is added to water when making flavored ice cubes, the cubes will not freeze clear or solidly.

Two tablespoons chili sauce or catsup poured over top meat loaf when half-baked gives a good flavor and rather crusty covering.

ANCHO ITEMS

In April pupils of upper grades of the Ancho school, under able direction of their teacher, J. V. Payne, staged "The Haunted Tea Room", a mystery play with an eerie plot, which held interest of the audience from beginning to end. Cast of characters as follows:

Linda Berry ... Louola Hawkins
Lottie Berry ... Viola Johnson
Dan Smith ... Richard Harkey
Clairo Landon ... Sally Silver
Josephine Bogg ... Gladys Jump
Snoopy Crane ... Howard Harkey
Horace Witherspoon ... Donald Hall
Gerald Foenwick, C. F. Underwood
Jessie Jones ... Mary Payne

Friends and admirers of Betty Jackson, who in real life is Mrs. Loreno Jump, mother of five adorable daughters, are tremendously interested in knowing that she is making rapid strides in her career of songwriting.

Mrs. Jump is staff-writer for American Music, Inc., Portland, Oregon. Among her songs which are constantly gaining in popularity throughout the United States are "Old Pard", "Rock River Valley", "Rolling Stone", "Chuck Wagon Blues", "When the Blue Bonnets Bloom Down in Texas", "My Prairie Prayer For You", "A Cowboy Wedding", "Wandering Willie Aint A-Wanderin' Anymore", and "Bunk House Blues".

Ancho is justly proud of the professional attainments Mrs. Jump is achieving in the songwriting field and the fact her songs are being so widely welcomed and publicized throughout the entertainment field and Mrs. Jump herself is grateful to Sylvester Cross, President of American Music, Inc., who is instrumental in her "making good" in her chosen career. Mrs. Jump is the recipient of a folder of photographs person-
