Civilian Defense: A Proclamation By The Governor

WHEREAS by executive order the President of the United States has established the Office of Civilian Defense, and has declared the existence of an unlimited national emergency; and

WHEREAS it is the duty and desire of every person in the United States to participate in measures essential to civilian defense:

NOW, Therefore, I, John E. Miles, Governor of The State of New Mexico, do hereby designate the period beginning on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1941, and continuing through Sunday, November 16 as a time for all citizens of the state to give thought to their duties and responsibilities of the defense of this country, and to become better informed in regard to the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and the opportunities it affords every individual American for cooperation and assistance in the present emergency. Done at the Executive Office this 29th day of October 1941. Witness my hand and the great seal of the state of New Mexico.

John E. Miles, Governor.

ATTEST:
Jessie M. Gonzales, Secretary of State.

Food and Feed Supply Campaign Underway

Production goals for dairy, meat, and truck crops have been established for Lincoln County by the County U. S. D. A. Defense Board. Every rural family is being urged to do its part in meeting these goals, and to enroll in the Home Food and Feed Supply Program, as its part toward promoting the Defense Program.

At a recent meeting of the County U. S. D. A. Defense Board plans were made for representatives of the various agencies working under the Department of Agriculture to conduct jointly a series of eight community meetings. The last of these meetings will be held on November 6, after which local committeemen will be appointed to contact every farmer and rancher who was unable to attend one of the community meetings in order to secure his cooperation.

Carl P. Radcliff, County Extension Agent

Infantile Paralysis Foundation

Receipt of the Lincoln County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was announced today by K. McQuillen, its Chairman.

When forwarding the Chapter, Basil O'Connor, President of the National Foundation, said, "Your unit is now the official representative of the Foundation in your County, and under your leadership and with the help of its other members, I am confident it will render valuable service in the fight against infantile paralysis in your community."

Chapters supply various aids to needy infantile paralysis victims and render assistance during epidemics to the afflicted as well as to the medical profession and health officers.

The officers of the chapter are: Chairman, K. McQuillen, Vice Chairman, P. E. Christiansen, Treasurer, Mrs. Ray Lemon, and Secretary, Mrs. Don English.

Mrs. C. L. York of Bowie, Ariz is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Pruitt at Ancho. Mrs. York was formerly Miss Marian Pruitt.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOL NEWS

The Band will be stepping out in uniform next Tuesday as a part of Street parade. Armistice Day is an event of unusual importance this year and the band is doing its part for the celebration.

The High School Band will appear for a brief concert at Capitan in the afternoon of Armistice Day.

The Biology Department under direction of Prof. Martinez has collected for study and classification all bugs in this community except bed bugs. The class has some doubt if such could be found in Lincoln County.

The College Extension class meets twice per week now. Three hours college credits may be earned by taking the course. This is the third year Mr. James M. Carpenter has taught college classes in Carrizozo.

Several classes and organizations are putting forth their respective candidates for Carnival Queen.

The Geometry Class under the able direction of Miss Deininger is completing the units of triangles. Next week the class will take up the parallel unit. Many beautiful designs have been made; some of which will be exhibited at the school exhibition in April. Optical illusions presented and developed by this class have caused each member to conclude, "Well I can't believe my own eyes".

Supt. Carpenter made a business trip to Portales last Saturday.

Mr. Lewis Thomas was the first member of the faculty to bring in a deer.

The ninth grade General Mathematics class has been studying the pro and con of installment buying. After working many problems on finding the interest that is paid because of not being able to pay cash, the class has decided that in most cases it is best not to buy on the installment plan.

Please send the correct mailing address of your relative or friend to the American Legion, Carrizozo, New Mexico, so that his name can be included in this column.

Dan Conley,
Post Adjutant.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harkey spent Wednesday and Thursday in Roswell. They will return to El Paso Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floy Skinner of Nogal will leave in a few days for El Paso, where they will spend several weeks.

Messrs. Reuben Chavez, Esequiel Chavez, Jimmie Duncan, Jerry Beltran, Sheriff Stover and Frank Vega were among the lucky hunters this week.

Harold Hoffman and John Allen Hightower visited their parents over the week-end. They returned to State College last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Aguayo of Nogal were in town on business yesterday.

Mr. George Titworth of Capitan was here Monday.

County Commissioner Manuel Corona of San Patricio was a Carrizozo business visitor last Monday.

Russell-Harkey

Miss Christine Russell and Mr. Jack N. Harkey were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents Nov. 5, 1941 at 2:30 o'clock p. m. The Rev. John Klassen was officiating minister.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Russell of Amarillo, Texas. She has visited in Carrizozo several times and made many friends because of her sparkling personality and friendly disposition.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harkey; he needs no introduction to the people of Carrizozo and Lincoln County having been born, reared and educated in Carrizozo. He was inducted into the U. S. Army on March 7, 1940; is now serving as a non-commissioned officer at Fort Bliss, Texas. They will reside in El Paso --- Contributed

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stimmell have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Stimmell, here for several days. They are enroute home from a visit to relatives in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Mr. Manuel Romero of Honda visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Richardson last Wednesday.

Mr. W. S. Norman, Southern Pacific fireman, is spending a few days hunting and visiting with his family here.

New Pontiacs Well Received

Surveys made in a large number of cities to test the reception given to 1942 Pontiacs cars by the public have been very favorable, according to D. U. Bethrick, general sales manager, of Pontiac Motor Division.

"Unquestionably the public like the new Pontiacs." "Having expected little in the way of change they are greatly surprised to find the cars restyled and actually improved mechanically."

"The increase in prices seems to offer little in the way of a stumbling block in the majority of places," he said. "Doubtless they expected the rise and many were surprised that the increase was not greater."

"Many reports show as large crowds and as much interest as last year, with considerable actual buying. This has been particularly true in the larger cities and in the prosperous defense production areas."

The New Mexico State Police began its re-organization into two divisions-highway patrol and criminal investigation. The headquarters district at Santa Fe is to remain, but offices at Albuquerque, Roswell, Las Cruces and Las Vegas were discarded.

Portales, N. M., Nov. 7.---The men students at Eastern New Mexico College living at the NYA residence center have been offered courses in acetolene welding, electrical welding, forging, and general shop mechanics, under a preparatory defense program. These courses will be under the instruction of Earl Prater, according to an announcement by Floyd D. Golden, Dean of the College.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sanchez left yesterday for Arabela where they will visit for a few days with Mrs. Sanchez parents.

KNOW YOUR BANK

What Happens To The Money Depositors Put In a Bank?

Contrary to popular belief, it is not kept locked up in our vault! Only a small portion is kept on hand to meet reasonable withdrawal requirements. Another portion, as required by law, is kept with Federal Reserve or other approved depository banks. The rest is put to work, constructively, in loans and investments which work ceaselessly for the community and the nation.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—It was last August that Mrs. Ometa Culp Hobby of Houston, Texas, became head of the women's division of the army's bureau of public relations. She said she would organize the division to tell women what they wanted to know about the army. Her success has been such that today her achievement is being nationally recognized as a bang-up score for women in the defense effort.

Mrs. Hobby is executive vice president of the Houston Post, and hence a specialist in telling people what they want to know. Newspaper women are happy in finding a government public relations bureau which offers some thing more than hand-outs in press co-operation. The post is important as a liaison between soldiers and wives and mothers.

She is 35 years old, pretty, slender, stylish, brisk and businesslike, the wife of William Pettus Hobby, twice governor of Texas. Her achievements in the above few years are such that they may only be briefed in the space available here:

In addition to running the Houston Post, she is the active executive of radio station KPRC; director of a national bank; director of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association; a member of the board of regents of the Texas State Teachers' college, of the Junior League, the Houston Symphony society and the National Association of Parliamentarians.

She studied law, was admitted to the bar, codified the state banking laws, was parliamentarian for the Texas assembly for several years, was assistant city attorney of Houston, wrote a book on parliamentary law called "Mr. Chairman," which is used as a text book in the schools of Louisiana and Texas, syndicated a column on parliamentary law and served as research editor, literary editor, assistant editor and, since 1938, executive editor of the Houston Post.

In 1933, Mrs. Hobby was awarded the annual certificate of merit of the National Federation of Women's Press Clubs, for outstanding work in journalism. She was born in Temple, Texas, the daughter of an attorney of the town.

With all the above activities, she says she has had ample time for her children, a boy of nine and girl of five.

EIGHTY-year-old Rep. Joseph Jefferson Mansfield of Texas has made a career of planned river and harbor development and control. It goes back to his boyhood days in Virginia when he was riding a horse to the grist mill, with sacks of corn stowed fore and aft. When he forded an angry stream, corn and horse were swept away and he had a hard time making shore, with no end of trouble thereafter.

Rep. Mansfield at 80 is still battling Unruly Waterways

Then and there he became a flood-battler, ready to take on any undisciplined waterway, for its own good and the well-being of the commonwealth. So, naturally, in his 25 years in congress he has been chairman of the rivers and harbors committee. He's in form and in his stride today, as he contends that only river and harbor projects qualify as bona fide defense undertakings, and rate advancement in the "immediate construction" file.

He has been 54 years in politics, a resident of Texas since 1834, when he settled in Eagle Lake—city attorney, mayor, county attorney, county judge for 10 terms, and congressman. In 1926 he suffered a malady which cost him the use of his legs. He campaigned and won in a wheel chair and carried on in congress, from his special wheel chair stance to the right of the speaker's dais.

His father, a Confederate soldier, was killed in battle six months after his son was born. He battles valiantly for a sea-level Panama canal and for transportation of Texas oil eastward on inland waterways.

JUST before the war started, Vladimir Kyrillovitch, a son of the late Grand Duke Cyril, and pretender to the throne of czarist Russia, was working in a Diesel engine factory in England. He said he would learn and impart to his following of 2,000,000 White Russians the skills necessary to reclaim their homeland. He was soon back to his British estate and now news of his repeated visits to Paris follow several reports that the Nazis are encouraging him to believe that he might yet stage a Russian comeback.

Lewis Announces Coal Strike

John L. Lewis, head of the C.I.O.'s United Mine Workers Union of America, announced that 53,000 workers in coal mines owned by the major steel companies would strike. Lewis told a press conference that he had sent a letter to the President notifying him that the miners could not renew their truce with the steel companies, and that production would be halted forthwith. In the letter, Lewis advised the President the miners were willing to negotiate in the hopes that "no substantial loss of production" would be incurred. Photo shows John L. Lewis as he gave out his statement to members of the press.

Harriman Reports to F.D.R.

W. Averil Harriman, upon his return from Moscow, where he had been heading the U. S. mission to Moscow, called at the White House to have a further conference with the President. Photo shows him as he was talking with members of the press in the reception room in the executive offices of the White House.

Divine Service in the Army

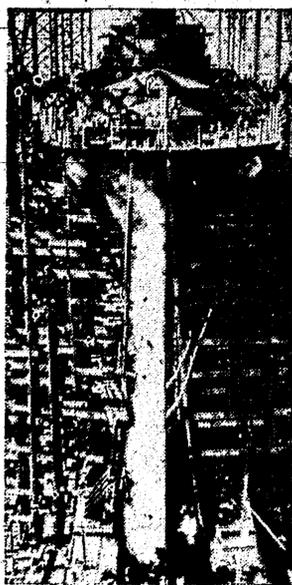

Despite the strenuous work of the soldiers during maneuvers, religious services for every creed are held every week. Photo shows one of many which depicts a day in the life of Catholic Field Chaplain Vanholm of the First Army, Camden, S. C., as an officer plays a portable organ during services held by Father Vanholm.

It is the first of 12 such craft being built here for the navy, which will travel down the Ohio and Mississippi to join Uncle Sam's growing fleet at sea.

Growing Fast

Red Objector

This Tuscarora Indian, shown with his lawyer, Wilfred Hoffman, is one of the members of the six Indian tribes who appeared before federal court judges in New York to argue that the U. S. has no right to draft members of the Iroquois confederacy. To do so, declared their counsel, would be in violation of the treaty signed in 1784.

Soviet Defenders

This photograph shows three young workers of a Leaning munitions factory who have enrolled with the popular volunteer force to protect their city. With many others, they are lined up for instruction in bayonet fighting against the Nazi foe.

LEAVES from

The Farm Woodlot

It is a trifle surprising to be told that practically one-third of all the forest land in the United States is in farm woodlands, yet such is actually the case. Such woodlands are for the most part small and scattered, yet they comprise some of America's best forest lands.

Properly handled, the farm woodlot is of almost inestimable value to the farmer. W. R. Mattoon, extension forester in the U. S. forest service, says that "Timber is a savings bank. The trees are the capital or principal; new growth is the interest. Each day the interest is added—and the cashier can not run away."

The farm woodlot, properly forested, provides wood for fuel, fencing, and often for building; moreover, it produces a cash crop in the form of sawlogs, piling, pulpwood, posts, and cross ties. Too often the farm woodlot is neglected and becomes merely a tangle of undergrowth and fallen trees, through which the new growth must struggle as it reaches for the sun. Such management is wasteful. To get the best results from his woodland, the farmer should handle it according to the best practices worked out by trained and experienced foresters. Information in this field may be secured from state forestry associations or from the bureau of forestry, U. S. department of agriculture, at Washington, D. C.

CONTINUOUS GROWTH

No timber should ever be cut haphazardly but on the contrary, with careful consideration of its continuous production. Not everything that is salable should be cut; at least five or more seed-producing trees should be left, per acre, as well as plenty of young trees as the nucleus for another crop. If the timberland has been neglected, it will need thinning. The least valuable kinds of trees should be taken out, just as a dairyman weeds out his less productive cows. So, also, should all down timber and all crooked or crippled or stunted trees. Such thinning will permit the tall, well-formed trees to grow and develop until they are fit for use or market. If the timberlot has been taken care of, cutting will consist of taking out trees of market size and leaving younger stock to mature.

KEEP TIMBER LAND PRODUCTIVE

It has been well said that "one of the outstanding reasons for the present low farm income is the large number of practically idle acres" and certainly many a farm supports 10 or 20 or more acres of idle land in unproductive timber lots. Yet timberlands, when rightly handled, can be kept producing yearly crops with cash value.

USING TIMBER INTELLIGENTLY

All wood placed in contact with the ground, such as sills, stable floors, gates, fence posts, and so forth, should be creosoted before being used. Such treatment greatly extends the life of the materials, thus saving the farmer money not only for new materials but for labor in replacements and repairs. For posts it is advisable to use only the more durable woods such as black locust, redwood, white oak, chestnut, or sassafras.

Wood which has been cut for fuel should be carefully seasoned. Seasoned wood makes more heat and gives trouble and inconvenience in the house. To season it rapidly, rick it up in long narrow piles where sun and wind can dry it out—and protect it from rain.

Freshly cut timber that is to be used for posts or as poles in building, should be peeled, to further the seasoning process and as a protection against insect attack. It is well, also, to paint the ends of logs, to prevent injury by checking.

MARKETING YOUR TIMBER

Harvest your own timber crop, rather than to sell it standing, if that is possible; otherwise, sell it under a written contract. Naturally, before selling, you will obtain reliable, up-to-the-minute prices, particularly local prices. Often timber may be sold locally to good advantage because transportation costs are thus saved.

PLANT A WOODLOT

It will give you shelter from cold winds, shade from the hot summer sun, wood for the fireplace, posts, poles, and timber for building, and, in due time, a cash market crop.

For further information, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. for each of the following publications or fifteen cents for all: The Farm Woods, Leaflet No. 25; Cutting the Farm Woods Productive, Leaflet No. 30, and Farmers' Bulletin No. 1650.

STURDY OLD SASSAFRAS

At Keswick in Virginia stands a great sassafras tree, 18 feet, 4 inches in circumference, five feet from the ground—probably the largest sassafras tree in the country. Some years ago the tree was a hollow trunk, broken off at the top and apparently dying. Someone built a fire in the interior and, though the fire was quenched, it was assumed that it must have killed the tree. However, what the fire actually did was to kill the bugs which were sapping its strength.

Mixing Prepared Paint.
AN OWNER recently blamed the paint for a job that was rough and uneven. As a matter of fact, the paint that he used was of excellent quality, and the fault was his own for not mixing it completely. When a can of paint is allowed to stand as it will on a dealer's shelf, the heavier parts separate from the oils and collect in a dense mass at the bottom of the can. Before using, this mass must be thoroughly and evenly blended with all the liquid. For this a second can should be at hand, as large or larger than the paint can. Much of the paint liquid is poured off into this and the remaining liquid stirred into the mass remaining in the can. When this has been coftened, some of the liquid is poured back and stirred in, and this process should be continued until the entire can of paint is brought to an even consistency. For final mixing, the paint should be poured back and forth from one can to the other, several times. The paint is then ready for use. Instructions on the label for the possible thinning of the paint should be carefully followed.

Varnish does not need any such treatment, for its parts do not separate. Great care should be taken not to shake a can of varnish, for air bubbles would form in it and spoil the final result.

Cleaning Enameled Fixtures.

Stains on the enamel of a wash-basin, sink, bathtub, or other plumbing fixture should not be rubbed with steel wool or any other harsh abrasive, for the glass-like surface would be dulled and roughened, and would then stain more easily. Neither should acids, or strong alkalies of the kind used as drain cleaners, be applied to the enamel, for the effect might be to eat the enamel and to destroy it completely. One safe method for removing stains is continued rubbing with a scratchless cleaning powder moistened with kerosene. A special cleaning powder can be had at a dime store or from a plumber, and one of my correspondents reports complete success by mixing this with borax before adding water to make a paste. The success of these cleaners depends on continued rubbing. Many stains can be taken out with a bleaching liquid. The fixture is filled with water to above the level of the stain, a cup or more of bleaching liquid is added, and the mixture allowed to stand for several hours or overnight.

Crack in a Table Top.
Question: What is your recipe for filling rather bad cracks in the top of a fine old cherry drop-leaf table, otherwise quite perfect? I do not hope to conceal the fact that the cracks were present, but I do want to fill them with something that will stick and not shrink.

Answer: If the table is really valuable, I should have an expert cabinet maker do the job. But if you wish to do it yourself, get strips of cherry wood, cut them to fit snugly, and glue them in. Another way is to get fine sawdust, preferably of cherry-wood, make into a paste with spar varnish, and pack into the crack, filling it to the top. Press some dry sawdust on top to take up any exposed varnish. When dry, rub smooth with very fine sandpaper. If you cannot get cherry-wood sawdust, use any fine sawdust and color with a small quantity of mahogany or cherry oil stain, mixing it in the varnish before making the paste. You will have to experiment to get the proper shade.

Dull Black Marble.
Question: I have a beautiful black marble fireplace in my home; but it is very dull and the beauty of the marble is gone. No amount of elbow grease or the usual cleaning compounds do any good. Can you recommend anything?

Answer: The polish can be restored by long rubbing with water and putty powder applied with a damp felt pad or a piece of an old felt hat. Hard rubbing will be needed. You can get the putty powder at a monument or marble yard. Or you can engage a marble contractor to come to the house and do the job for you.

Linoleum Walls.
Question: I am considering finishing the walls of my kitchen and bathroom with linoleum squares that are supplied with an adhesive. The manufacturer says that they can be pasted on the walls by any handy person. Would you recommend these?

Answer: The permanence of the job will depend on the condition of the wall and how well it takes the adhesive. Try to persuade the manufacturer to let you have a few of the squares and some of the adhesive, so that you can experiment to find out if the job will be successful.

Fashion Advocates Lavish Use Of Fur in a Variety of Ways

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FASHION is most eloquently "saying it" with furs this season. According to the signs there is going to be a most grand and glorious display of furs this winter both as trimming and as coat or cape ensembles of sumptuous fur. Almost everything in the way of matching accessories that can be made of fur is being made of fur: hats, gloves, handbags, separate neckpieces, detachable plastron fronts, and lapel gadgets of bows and buttonnieres.

Milliners are giving of their best in creating fur hats matched to coats, to jackets, or to the trimming on one's gown and wrap.

The favor for browns has placed extra emphasis on the importance of mink. There's exciting fashion news in the sumptuous mink coat shown above to the right in the illustration. It is topped by a hat made glorious by a wide brim (huge fur hats will be worn this winter) of matching mink.

The young woman centered above in the picture is snappily turned out in an ensemble of gray Chinese kidskin, the fingertip-length coat fashioned along very youthful lines.

The insistent call for sleek black by fashion sophisticates keeps Persian lamb and elegant broadtail in the limelight again this season. Royally luxurious is the broadtail ensemble shown in the upper left corner. Here a slim svelte princess coat demonstrates how up-to-the-minute the styling given to furs this season. The hat is one of those new tall effects so definitely in style.

Its graceful feather trim is Kelly green for added color.

Fur capes are definitely something to talk about, for they are in the very foreground of the current fashion picture. The gorgeous cape lower right, is of lustrous black Persian lamb. The new rule for a black wrap worn with a color-bright dress is faithfully observed. The pretty, softly styled frock is in the widely sponsored new gold tone.

For daytime wear nothing exceeds leopard in chic, unless it be American opossum, which is also playing a star role. You will be perfectly tuned to the grandstand picture if you attend the game in a coat of leopard at lower left. It is a fashionable, three-quarter length style with a stand-up collar and bracelet-length sleeves—all very youthful and destined for an eye-matching entry into any smart gathering.

A most extraordinary development in fur styling this season is the working of glittering embroidery on the lapels and collar of fur coats. The new fur capes are sometimes embroidered with a hem line bordering for evening. Brown sequins worked on mink hats, jet motifs on either black or white furs or metal thread embroidery punctuated with glistening jewels give to furs an entirely different aspect. Many of the most staid and conservative coats are bursting into glory with gleaming jeweled buttons.

Grandma's Buttons Make Style News

Dig into grandma's button box, and you may find hidden treasures that will cause your winter gowns and coats to soar to heights of cartorial glory. Better still, trek around to the button counters and see what a spurge buttons are making in the fashion realm.

Two important trends register in the button field, one of which is the inclination toward bulkiness. Buttons are sometimes massive and knobby. Also, the new buttons tell a grand and glorious color story. You, with everyone else, are going to wear a great deal more color this year than you did last, and accordingly button originals are keeping pace with the color commotion.

Plastic buttons are available in a full range of costume colors. A button that makes an interesting accent on frock or blouse is a molded plastic done in a flower design with nailhead detail. Fresh fashion interest is also developing in filigree buttons. A gold filigree button is proving especially attractive for dress-up blouses and party frocks. In fact, metal buttons rank high in favor, whatever the type.

Glitter is popular, and lovely rhinestone buttons flourish on wools, velveteens, dressy crepes, and the newest fashion note is rhinestone or other jeweled buttons on fur coats and jackets.

Woolies Defy the Chill

Breath of Jack Frost
Farmers can prognosticate and their signs are unfailing. It's "ditto" with fashion. Well, from all fashion indications, we will see wool mittens; long wool socks (sheer wool for daytime hose); heads done up in wool wimples; huge fur hats and muffs as extravagantly big. All will valiantly fulfill their mission of comfort and smart appearance when winter brings on its usual quota of days with a sharp tang.

Possum on Wool

American opossum is a flattering, young-looking fur when it trims swank town and country tweeds. It carries a message of style prestige wherever it goes, and this year fashion's spotlight is showing it up more conspicuously than ever. In the picture we see American opossum accentuating the straight silhouette of a hunter's green wool coat. Three bands of the fur around the bottom of the skirt, and a flattering ripple collar of this fur, add distinction to the pencil-slim coat. The ripple-brim fine felt hat is detailed with stitching.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

IT IS just like big sister's, that is why this jerkin, skirt and blouse outfit will be so dear to the heart of your teen-age daughter! She'll enjoy starting off to school in it—the jerkin buttoned down the side, the skirt smoothly flaring and the blouse fresh and clean! Pattern No. 1296-B is the kind you know you can't go wrong with. You can make the skirt and jerkin in a long wearing corduroy, tweed, plaid wool or gabardine and make up a set of blouses in washable cottons (and one in wool jersey, for extra warmth). The jerkin can also be made to contrast with odd skirts, the skirt

Lincoln's Beard Result Of Little Girl's Suggestion

A little girl from Westfield, N. Y., once wrote Abraham Lincoln a letter as follows:
"I am a little girl, eleven years old . . . have you any little girls about as large as I am . . . If you will let your whiskers grow, you would look a great deal better for your face is so thin . . . I must not write any more 'answer this right off. Good bye. Grace Bedell."
A few months later, Lincoln let his beard grow. On one of his trips he passed through Westfield and immediately sent for Grace. He thrilled her by pointing to his beard and saying: "You see—I let those whiskers grow for you, Grace."

Sound Films Available

Several 16 mm sound films are available to schools, civic clubs, far groups and other organizations through the Farm Security Administration.

Films immediately available include "The River", "The Plow", "The Army in Overalls", "Power for Defense", and "Farmers and Defense".

Schools in Lincoln County could possibly use these films in teaching social studies.

"The River" has been acclaimed as one of the most important films ever produced. It is beautiful, impressive, cogent, poetic and emotionally moving.

Anyone interested in obtaining one or more of these films for showing in this county should contact Mr. John Paul Jones at his office in the Paden Building.

Civilian Defense

By The President of The United States of America A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS on May 20, 1941, with a view to ensuring the most effective correlation and use of the instruments of civilian defense, I established by Executive order the Office of Civilian Defense; and

WHEREAS by my proclamation of May 27, 1941, I declared that an unlimited national emergency confronts this country, which requires that its military, naval, air, and civilian defenses be put on a basis of readiness to repel any and all acts or threats of aggression directed toward any part of the Western Hemisphere; and

WHEREAS it is the manifest duty and desire of every person in the United States to participate in measures essential to civilian defense;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the period commencing on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1941, and continuing throughout the Nation to give thought to their duties and responsibilities in the defense of this country, and to become better informed of the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and of the opportunities which it offers for the participation of every individual American in the defense of our priceless heritage, and I request the Governors of the several States, Territories, and possessions of the United States to issue similar proclamations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this twenty-second day of October in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-one and of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-sixth.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, By the President: CORDELL HULL, Secretary of State.

HERE'S TO BUTTERY FINGERS AND A TAFFY PULL
(See Recipes Below)

CHILDREN'S DELIGHT

If you want your children and their friends to give you a rating of "super," then give just one party for children alone, and make that party a good, old-fashioned taffy pull. Think back a moment and remember how you looked forward to a taffy pull just as much as going to a circus.

This party is exciting fun because the children have a chance to help in the making of refreshments. You, pulling taffy with their fingers all buttered, and watching the dark candy mixture get lighter and lighter each time it's pulled. They'll like this too, because a taffy pull isn't a fussy party. When you send out the invitations, let the mothers know it's a taffy party so the children will be dressed accordingly.

Unlike many foods which are iron sources, molasses when cooked does not lose its iron content.

If possible use a candy thermometer to test the candy so it will be cooked just right, neither too stiff nor too messy to handle. When the candy is cool enough, cut it just the right size for small hands. The piece should be large enough to work on, but not too large. When the piece is light tan and very stiff, pull into a long strip and cut.

Molasses Taffy.

- 2 cups pure New Orleans molasses
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla, if desired
- ¼ cup water

Cook the molasses, sugar and water in a heavy kettle slowly until the mixture reaches 260 degrees or until a little of the mixture dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Stir a little during the latter part of the boiling to prevent burning; pour into a buttered pan. When cool enough to handle, cut in pieces and pull until light and stiff. Butter the hands before pulling.

Refreshments can be simple for a taffy party, for children will be so excited about the taffy, they won't give their best attention to elaborate dishes. Assorted sandwiches will fill the bill perfectly and a hot chocolate milk drink will take care of their keen, lusty appetites. As dessert you might have simple cupcakes iced with pink and chocolate icing, fruit, and of course, the taffy.

If you'd rather give them a hot dish in place of the sandwiches, here's a simple but elegant one:

Millionaire Gold.

Stop food wastes. Not only is this a matter of thrift but also a vital step in conserving this country's resources. It is estimated that tiny food wastes total up to a tremendous amount.

Wise shopping will prevent buying unwanted and not usable food. The wise shopper should also recognize between good and poor grades, by reading labels and markings, and by watching the scales.

Poor cooking causes much waste. Meat, for instance, shrinks when cooked at too high a temperature. Vitamins and minerals are lost when cooked too long or when air is stirred into them while cooking. Use short methods for cooking whenever possible.

Government 'Food for Freedom' Program Aims at Highest Level in Farm Production

By Ellington S. Winston

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

With 1941's bumper crops yielding the biggest financial harvest since the fabulous days of 1929, nearly 11 billion dollars have flowed into farmers' pocketbooks from this year's operations.

While statisticians are busy interpreting the 1941 results in terms of a billion dollar increase over last year's crop value 6,000,000 American farmers are already focusing their eyes on 1942.

Preparations have to be made much earlier than usual for next year, because 1942's plantings and harvests promise to be the most important in American history. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard's new "Food for Freedom" program, gearing farm production to the highest level ever attempted, will usher in a revolutionary new era in agricultural economy.

Fitted into the strategy of defense preparations at home and the war abroad, farm production may be the element that determines victory or defeat. So American farmers are rolling up their sleeves to win the battle of food. They know that the nation that wins this battle will win the war and write the peace terms.

For weeks past 100,000 agents of the department of agriculture have been busy in every state, county and farm ascertaining the supply of food needed next year; determining what the carry-over will be; setting production goals. Each farm operator will know what is expected of him for 1942.

'Go Ahead and Produce.'

In effect, Uncle Sam is saying to each farmer: "Go ahead and produce—for more production will pay!"

And Uncle Sam is backing up this suggestion by guaranteeing to maintain farm prices for the entire year of 1942 in line with the parity plan. The government will support the farm market with a fund of more than a billion dollars provided in the new lease-land act.

But though next year's farm production is scheduled for a 15 per cent increase over the 1930-40 average, this does not mean the lid is off. Agriculture is not going to return to the old days of unrestrained planting. Instead, the output of some farm commodities will be held in check, while the supply of others will be increased.

Many government officials and agricultural leaders are of the opinion that food is the item that shall dictate the terms of peace. Providing food for famine-threatened Europe in the post-war period thus would become the Number One job for the American farmer. Already some food has gone to some of the occupied territories and there is considerable agitation on the part of some individuals and groups to furnish even more. Taken early this year, the above picture shows flour being loaded for shipment to hungry France. But thus far only token shipments have been made.

Program's Objectives.

What are the new program's objectives and how will they work?

Briefly, the plan proposes to:

1—Break the shackles of regional one-crop agriculture by having farmers change their crop plans from wheat, cotton, and tobacco—already produced in over-abundance—to commodities the world needs more desperately such as dairy products, milk, eggs, butter, cheese, pork, lard, beef, lamb, fruits and vegetables.

2—Provide vast quantities of protein, vitamin foods for Britain and the other democracies to help turn the tide of war definitely against Hitler.

3—Maintain and improve living and nutrition standards for all Americans including those serving with the armed forces and those employed in the vital defense industries.

4—Build huge "stock piles" or reserves of food—pork, dried eggs, dried milk, etc.—which can be employed as a "Fifth Column" to undermine the Nazis during the war and provide food for famine-threatened Europe after peace comes.

Under the new production plan, goals have been set for all farm commodities. This means that there will continue to be quotas under the AAA program for wheat, cotton, corn, potatoes, tobacco and some less important crops.

Some of the Goals.

For example, farmers are being asked to:

Produce 125 billion pounds of milk in 1942, as against 116 billion, 200 million pounds in 1941.

Increase egg production to 4 billion dozen from 3 billion, 676 million dozen produced this year.

Slaughter 79,300,000 hogs in 1942, compared with 71 million head this year.

Boost beef and veal production from 25,100,000 head to 28 million head.

Raise 7½ billion chickens next year, compared with 6 billion, 200 million in 1941.

Increase lamb and mutton output to 22,000,000 head next year, compared with 22,400,000 head this year.

Indicative of the shift in emphasis on other farm commodities are the following:

The corn acreage goal is set for 87½ to the 90 million acres. This compares with a 1941 acreage of 87,363,000, but is far under the 1930-40 average of 93,980,000 acres.

The 1942 wheat goal is set for 50 to 55 million acres or a reduction of 10 to 15 million acres compared with 1941.

The 1942 cotton goal is set for 22 to 24 million acres. The lower figure would be sharply less than the 1941 average of 23,519,000, and would represent an even more drastic cut from the 1930-40 average of 27,858,000 acres which was, in itself, a controlled and reduced total acreage.

Considering production schedules as a whole, it is evident that curtailments in the acreage of certain crops will be more than offset by increased acreages devoted to others. Moreover, the urgent emphasis on more milk and dairy products and on more beef, pork, lamb and poultry, means that the acreage devoted to feed crops will have to be adjusted upward. This means that more farm land will be under cultivation next year. It means that fields will have to be worked harder. It means that farmers will have to perform a better production job.

With labor becoming scarcer and scarcer, the demands on agriculture for increased production will have to be met with fewer farm workers. In all history there never has been a time when it was more important for our farmers to follow the most efficient methods of production and to utilize to the fullest extent every farm practice which will result in maximum production with minimum labor. In such a program, the importance of fertilizer is self-evident. The U. S. government is leading the way in its crusade for soil conservation and the abolition of wasteful soil-mining practices.

If America is to produce more food, we must help our soils do the job. That means putting back into the land more fertilizer elements to help produce that food. Every pound of beef or pork, every quart of milk, every bushel of potatoes, corn, wheat or oats, removes valuable plant food from the soil.

Fertility Must Be Watched.

Under normal conditions the total annual fertility loss to American farm lands is 16 million tons of nitrogen, 2½ million tons of phosphorus and 36 million tons of potash. With the expanded farm program for next year, this total will show a marked rise. The need for an ever-increasing program of soil conservation, according to the Middle West Soil Improvement committee, is indicated by the fact that fertilizers and manures are applied at a rate that restores only a portion of the total plant food loss.

Hope that soil conservation measures will be increasingly promoted is seen in the recent statement of Secretary Wickard that "While the 1942 goals call for the largest production in history, we are not going to have to plow up the hills and plains to get it."

Mistakes of the last war will not be repeated. Then America pulled 50 million of western grassland into wheat production. That led to the dustbowl, to overexpansion and disaster for thousands of farmers.

Farmers have already shared generously in the present defense boom, and they seem likely to share even more extensively in the months to come. At the rate industrial and defense activity is moving, the American people may have an income totaling 100 billion dollars by next summer. Wage earners may spend nearly 18 billion for food alone. This means that farmers will have the biggest buying power in history. It means that they will have more money to spend for fertilizer, for improvements, repairs and new equipment.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Chop Suey, Rice or Noodles
- Bean Sprouts
- Apricot-Cream Cheese Salad
- Bran Bread
- Orange Chiffon Pie
- Tea Coffee Milk
- *Recipe Given

1 pound mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter
8 slices buttered toast
10 slices crisp bacon
Beat egg yolks, add flour, mustard, salt and paprika. Mix well. Add ½ cup milk gradually and stir until smooth. Put mixture in double boiler, add rest of milk, and cheese, cubed. Cook until thick, add Worcestershire sauce. Wash, slice, and saute mushrooms, slowly. Place mushrooms on toast and pour cheese mixture over them. Garnish with bacon.

Although the taffy pull will be the main event of the party be sure to have games planned to fill out the evening. Quiz games are popular and lists for these can be made up beforehand using questions on slogans, famous personalities, historical events, interesting facts, and riddles on questions.

Children will want some lively fun too, and for this you can have a sack race. The leaders of two lines of players are given two large paper sacks. They place the sacks on their feet and at a signal run to the opposite goal and back, take off the sack and give it to the person next to them. The object is to see which line finishes first.

Speaking of children, are you having a time with their school lunches?

Variety is the big problem for packing a complete meal in one small box is hard to vary and doesn't have as many possibilities as the table at home. Having at least one hot food helps loads, and put this in the thermos bottle. You can have cream soups, vegetable soups, then again hot milk drinks for variety.

Sandwiches are a standby, but don't get into a rut with these. Don't have soggy fillings. Wrap each one separately in wax paper. Favorite fillings include:

- Peanut butter and jelly
- Chopped meat mixed with mayonnaise and relish
- Chopped hard-cooked eggs with bacon

Cheese and luncheon meats
Vegetable salad sandwiches
Flaked fish with celery, lettuce
Chopped eggs or dates, nuts, moistened with orange juice

Color pops up the lunch box, or occasionally pack a salad in a paper container. Use fresh fruits often, or canned ones also packed in small glass or paper containers. Cornstarch puddings are attractive and nourishing, and simple cookies wrapped in wax paper will bring cheers from any child.

Economy is highlighted these days, but it needn't be dull if you use attractively garnished platters.

*Chop Suey or Chow Mein.

- (Serves 6)
- ½ cup butter or shortening
- 2½ cups cooked meat, cut in strips
- 2½ cups onions, cut fine
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 can bean sprouts, drained
- 2½ cups celery, cut fine
- 1 cup hot water

For thickening and flavoring:
½ cup cold water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon sugar

Melt butter, add onions, fry for minutes. Add celery, salt, pepper, hot water, cover and cook for 5 minutes. Add bean sprouts and meat, mix and bring to a boil. Combine thickening and flavoring ingredients, add to first mixture. Cook 5 minutes. Serve hot with Chinese noodles for Chow Mein, or with steaming rice for Chop Suey. Garnish platter with thin strips of fried egg and green onions if desired.

FBI and Police Work Out Training Plans For Meeting Needs of Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON. — Following conferences between Fiorello LaGuardia, director of civilian defense, and John Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, plans are now being completed for conducting courses of training for the police of the nation in order to assist them in knowing and performing their duties in the civilian defense program.

These "FBI Civilian Defense Courses for Police," conducted with the official approval of the director of civilian defense, are being held in various parts of the United States by instructors of the FBI who have been selected by Hoover for this purpose.

In preparation for this type of instruction, Director Hoover sent representatives of the FBI to England last year. For several months in 1940 and 1941, these representatives studied and observed the methods being employed in England during actual wartime conditions, and the benefits of these observations will be made available to the police of the nation through the FBI National Police academy and through the "FBI Civilian Defense Courses for Police."

The program of training, which has been prepared by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and approved by Mayor LaGuardia as director of civilian defense, will include various law enforcement duties in emergencies. Among such duties are the following:

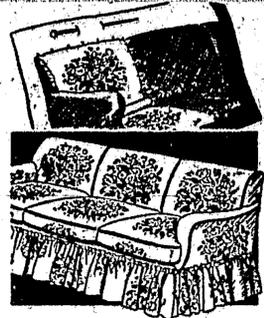

- Convoicing troops.
- Convoicing military mechanized units.
- Guard and patrol work.
- Protecting restricted and vulnerable points and places.
- Air raid precaution functions of police.
- Enforcing blackout requirements and laws controlling noise.
- Evacuation problems.

Around the police organization is built many of the civilian defense programs and the police are in the forefront during bombings and air raids, and are exposed to the maximum amount of danger and have a heavy responsibility in the protection of the public during these emergency conditions. It is significant and proper, therefore, that training be given promptly to the police to enable them to best perform their duties during emergency conditions. Experience in Britain indicates the importance of a well-trained police force in an emergency.

All Income Groups Will Pay New Taxes

More than 5,000,000 persons who were outside the scope of the federal income tax in the last fiscal year will have to pay an income tax in 1942, according to the department of commerce. Even the lowest income groups, it is pointed out, will contribute a part of their income in indirect taxes of various kinds.

Black Leaf 40 KILLS LICE JUST A BASH IN FEATHERS... OR SPREAD ON ROOSTS

TRUTH Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And, favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under existing laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good, direct treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly receive waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and direct medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, sometimes with disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, pain under the eyes—red, watery, sore, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on some less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

The Lamp in the Valley

BY ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Sidney Lander, resident of the Coburn claim, breaks with the annoyances of Eric (the Red) Erickson. She is returned to her native Alaska to teach. Her father, a sourdough, died with an unproven mine claim. Lander, an engineer for the Trumbull Co., which is fighting the Coburn claim, breaks with Trumbull. But he remains engaged to Trumbull's daughter, Barbara. Lander becomes field manager for the Matanuska Valley project. Carol and he both are enthusiastic about the future of the new colony. Eric, the Red, and a gang of workers bring Carol a blackboard and become suffering. She faces them with a pistol. Lander arrives and knocks Eric out. Once more Lander had been her protector.

INSTALLMENT XIII

"Are you all right?" he asked. "I'm all right," I told him. And I attempted to prove it by going out and bringing in the mud-smeared and forgotten blackboard. He stood watching me as I wiped the mud, and then what was unmistakably a bloodstain, from that ignobly acquired symbol of authority. Then, still without speaking, we stood rather foolishly looking into each other's eyes.

"This won't happen again," he said with a steady sort of quietness. He glanced down at his bruised knuckles. "You know, of course, what that rabble-rouser wants to do? He wants to throw a scare into you, to frighten you out of your job, to make this valley intolerable."

"Why should he?" I asked. "I think," answered Lander, "because he has Trumbull behind him. There's more than one way to remember of fighting a mine claim."

A ghostly voice was telling me that it would be sweet to lean against a wide shoulder like that, whatever the outcome, until life lost a little of its uncertainty.

A car horn sounded outside the shack. The door opened, and we stared at the rough and mannish figure of Katie. "You're the doctor's wife?" she asked. "You're the doctor's wife?" she asked. "You're the doctor's wife?" she asked.

Katie hurriedly donned a uniform, as brand new as her Red Cross flag, and gave instructions for the carrying in of the sick children. There were seven of them by this time. And just as the last of them was being tucked into bed Doctor Ruddock appeared in our midst and promptly announced that from that day forward he was to be recognized as the official man-of-medicine for the valley project.

I could see the glow that came into Katie's Celtic eye as she caught the significance of that announcement. "That's great," she said, with a sparkle in her voice. He inspected the building and lamented the absence of running water and laughed at the electric sterilizer, which couldn't be used, of course, until the completion of the Project's generating plant.

"They're throwing money away on the wrong things," he said, after a quick appraisal of the supplies.

And that seemed confirmed, two days later, when a motor ambulance was unloaded from a flat car, a highly varnished and urban-looking ambulance designed for the use of the new Red Cross nurse. But Katie promptly returned to that vehicle, which because of its sable paint scheme, she christened "Black Maria."

But Katie soon had other things to think of. Two cases of scarlet fever developed in our little tent city.

there was the same division between the misery-mongers and the homemakers. While the triple-chinned Betsy Sebeck sat on a chopping-block and railed at the Commissary for larding out coffee that wasn't dated and butter that smelt cheesy, a more energetic group of housewives were down at the salmon stream, with pitchforks, lading out half a ton of fresh fish, where the water was almost solid with redmeated bodies, which were promptly dressed and salted, or processed and canned and stowed away against a rainy day. Some of them, I noticed, had already planted sweet peas along the black-earthen terraces in front of their still unfinished houses.

They made my own humble wick-up, when Ruddy's prairie fire was finally stamped out and I moved back to my home on the Jensen clearing, seem a very small and antiquated affair. The quietness oppressed me.

I was glad when Katie dropped in. But her spirits, for once, seemed anything but light and airy.

"What's on your mind?" I demanded.

"A couple of snapshots," was Katie's rather cryptic answer.

"Snapshots of what?" I asked.

"Of a snip of a surgical nurse down in that Seattle hospital," the gloomy-eyed Katie replied. "Ruddy just showed 'em to me. He seems to think she's the last word in womanhood."

Life, I felt when Katie went on her way again, was a dolorously muddled-up affair.

It didn't make a good beginning for my first night back in the wick-up. And, a little later, it was crowned by a still more unpleasant thing.

For most unmistakably, on that first midnight of my new loneliness, somebody came to my cabin and tried to force the door open.

I wasn't sure just how much pressure my crossbar would stand. So I groped about in the darkness, after slipping out of my bunk, and made a search for Sock-Eye's revolver.

I waited, with the big six-gun in my hand, until the sounds began again. Then I deliberately fired a shot at the wall, as a gentle reminder of what that would-be intruder might expect.

The warning, apparently, wasn't wasted. For nothing but silence, after that awful roar of sound, came to my ears.

But, even though I took Sock-Eye's six-gun to bed with me, it was a long time before I could go to sleep.

CHAPTER XVII

Long before this colony was thought of there was a small school at Matanuska Village. It was housed in what had once been a wooden-fronted trading post. Its floors had heaved with the frosts of many a long winter, its walls had sagged, and its roof leaked like a sieve. Sam Bryson, its owner, soured by his removal as district superintendent, refused to lift a hand in repairing the old wreck. The CCC workers were equally recalcitrant. So Lander marshaled a corps of volunteers and tackled the job. The undulating floor was made level once more; the side walls were patched and straightened; two new windows were put in, and the roof was made waterproof. They also built a double row of rough little desks and replaced the rusty old drum stove with a new and shining air-tight heater, to say nothing of four equally bright and shining gas lamps.

The Project officials may have been short on labor but they proved prodigal enough with supplies. For they promptly shipped in six gross of blackboard wipers and a half truckload of chalk boxes and enough paper and pencils to run a state university. They also, ironically enough, sent a nickel and enamel water-cooler and an electric fan, both of them, of course, quite useless. But all shipments of textbooks were have fallen by the wayside.

S'lary, openly defying her acidulous old dad, helped me sandpaper the rough little chair desks and sweep up shavings and brighten the windows with klintz.

When I asked S'lary, as we worked there side by side, if it wouldn't be easier to pursue her studies in such surroundings, she startled me by the vigor of her revolt.

"Me plant my carcass in one of them kid seats?" she indignantly demanded. "Me squat here and do sums with a bunch of undersized cheechakos who ain't able to wipe their own noses? Not me."

She was conscious of my frown of disapproval as I watched those full and rose-red lips framing language so unimpeached to the seeker of culture. "Pop's been wonderin'," she observed with a new meekness in her smoldering eyes, "if you couldn't come and teach me private. And once I got to handlin' a pen as easy as I handle a rifle, he allows, I'd be ready to go outside and have a winter in the States."

And among the women, I found,

"That's great," Katie said.

And that stirred her Ruddy into still more frantic action. He bundled his nurse off to an isolation tent in a clearing at the edge of the Wiebel farm and commanded her to carry on as best she could.

"This is like stamping out a prairie fire," he announced. "We've got to check it before it starts."

Katie went without a murmur. I think she would have gone to the north pole if her abstracted man-of-medicine had ordered it. He boiled with indignation at the carelessness of the colony mothers. One neglected child, in spite of his warnings, developed pneumonia. And that brought a hurry call to me.

"We've got to have help here," he said when I confronted him in his crowded little tent office. "And as I'm stopping all public assemblage, your schoolwork peters out and leaves you free."

"So I was not only a day-nurse and scrubwoman and deputy-marshal but also a human laundry and a stove-stoker and milk-distributor and oiler of desquamating little bodies." I took temperatures and changed sheets and doled out a gallon of cathartics. I kept the shed warm at night and the sunny side screened by day. I patted soda solutions on itchy little torsos and dabbed out spotted little mouths and baked sheets and played checkers with the convalescents and chased overinquisitive urchins away from the door and went to bed so dog-tired that seven hours' sleep seemed nothing more than seven ticks of my alarm clock.

But behind my back, all the while, life was going on as life has the habit of doing.

For the colony wasn't without a valet all its own. Every mass migration, I felt, must have had its casual mishaps and touches of misery.

The misfits might rail at Ruddy and his health rules and the malcontents might squat about the Commissary porch and orate at the bureaucrats who were turning Matanuska into something worse than Soviet Russia. But the real home-seekers were already out on their plots getting a bit of land ready for belated seeding or lending a hand at building shacks for their belated stock. They were the hope of the valley.

Northern nights at this time of the year are not long. But when darkness came on, fires were lighted and lanterns were swung above the busy workers. They grumbled no more.

It wasn't until the sun began to show over the mountains that we knew that Katie and I took time out to serve them with coffee and hard-tack. But by then the night had been laid and the walls were dry and the road was ready for its covering of tar.

By then the new Red Cross flag was flying from the peak. Then the windows were washed and the drags and dressings were laid out.

Farm Truck Needs

Detroit, Nov. 10.—If America is to become the "breadbasket" as well as the arsenal of democracy, as called for in present federal planning, horsepower on the farm must still be measured in cylinders and not in draft animals. An increase in the number of light trucks manufactured for farm use must follow the increased production, schedules for farm products, national surveys indicate.

Farm goals for 1942 have been set at 15 per cent above the 1924-29 average, with a major portion of the increase scheduled for hogs, chickens, eggs, milk and cheese, foodstuffs greatly needed by the democracies America has undertaken to support. Farmers in general rely upon trucks of less than 1 1/2-ton capacities for the transport of these commodities.

According to Fish, Chevrolet commercial car manager, farmers own one out of every four trucks in the country, and agricultural and animal products comprise 28.8 per cent of all truck loads, national surveys show. In 1940, 44 per cent of all truck production fell in the category of 1-ton or less capacities, with heavy emphasis upon 3/4-ton and half-ton models. Light-duty pickups, especially, are favored farm units, Chevrolet sales records show.

"This is a mechanized age upon the farm as well as in industry," Fish points out.

Big Game Season Open

"No less than twenty thousand big game hunters went into the hills the past week-end in quest of deer, bear and turkey", asserted State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker today. "And the game is there for them", he said, "if they can find it and shoot straight enough if or when it is found."

"Last year we got by without a single fatal hunting accident. Let's duplicate that most enviable record this season. Hunters are urged to remember that fiek is the brush might be your hunting partner, another hunter, a doe or a cow. Hence, they should always wait until they are positive it's a legal deer before shooting. Those who abide by the game laws and the ethics of good sportsmanship will only be doing their part to help preserve the sport of big game hunting for their children.

Above all hunters should take their guns and be exceedingly careful with them at all times. Elliot S. Barker,

Statement by Admiral Harold B. Stark
Chief of Naval Operations in support of the Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross

Once again through the Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross the American people have the opportunity to identify themselves with its splendid humanitarian activities.

We of the Navy are deeply conscious of its friendly service to our men and their families wherever the American flag flies! Those who join the American Red Cross have the satisfaction of knowing that they are partners in this work and in all the other Red Cross activities which are supported by membership dues.

To meet the needs of national defense, the American Red Cross is strengthening and expanding all of its services. It is our privilege as American citizens to do our part in enabling the American Red Cross to meet whatever demands the future may bring by our 100-per cent membership support.
