KNOW YOUR BANK

Does A Banker Grant a Favor When He Makes A Loan?

NO. Profits are essential to sound banking, and a bank's profits come through having its loanable funds employed. Credit is part of a bank's stock in trade, and so the banker is as eager to extend credit through making sound loans as a merchant is to sell his goods. The prospective borrower should no more hesitate to request a loan for a sound purpose than he would hesitate to purchase a suit of clothes. By borrowing from the bank he becomes a purchaser of credit and the bank becomes a seller of credit. The chief difference between the banker and the merchant is that the banker does not sell the funds outright, but merely sells their use. Consequently he must use care in granting a loan because the money he lends belongs to the bank's depositors.

Hondo Soil Conservation District

Definite plans are underway to rehabilitate the irrigation systems in the flooded area of the Hondo Soil Conservation District, according to W. F. Coe, Secretary of the Board of District Supervisors.

A general meeting to consider the flood situation, in which all State and Federal Agencies were invited, was held at Carrizozo Nov. 24, under the auspices of the Lincoln County Agricultural Planning Committee. At this meeting the Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District was asked to take the leadership in directing and coordinating the rehabilitation program, Mr. Coe said.

The Board of Supervisors, in a special session, decided to take definite action by asking the various Agencies for assistance in the flood-stricken areas.

A WPA proposal to be sponsored by the District, which is a subdivision of the State, is being prepared and will be submitted at an early date. The Board also decided that first consideration should be given to replacing the diversion dams that were washed out, in order that a supply of irrigation water may be assured for next season.

A water facilities proposal for operations is expected at an early date. Under this program, farmers may receive long-time loans at a low rate of interest for various kinds of water facilities work.

Thrill! Suspense! Surprise! You'll find all these in the gripping new mystery serial, "RIDDLE IN RED", by the well-known author, Jonathan Stagge. An unusual and swiftly moving story of sinister plotting, weird murder and blighted love. Don't miss the first instalment in The American Weekly, the Magazine distributed with next week's Los Angeles Examiner.

Fell six miles to make flying safer. Defense experts and doctors expect to learn a lot about mental blackouts, oxygen hunger and other peculiar and unpleasant, even sometimes fatal, effects of traveling at great heights from a parachute jumper's courageous and unique experiment. Don't miss this timely and thrilling article in The American Weekly, the Magazine distributed with next week's Los Angeles Examiner.

Mrs. Prudencia M. Chavez

At 7:00 o'clock, Saturday evening, November 29th 1941, Mrs. Prudencia M. Chavez passed away at the home of her son, Judge Elerdo Chavez, here. Mrs. Chavez had been ill for five months, and her death was not unexpected.

Obituary

Prudencia Miranda was born at Polvareda, Socorro county, New Mexico, March 14, 1855. She came to the Village of Lincoln, with her parents in November of that same year, and since that time had made her home in Lincoln county. Mrs. Chavez had been twice married. Her first husband was Jake Wood, who lived only a few months. On the 8th of October, 1874 she was united in marriage to Cleto Chavez. They lived happily until his death which occurred November 1st, 1932. She was a devoted and thoughtful wife and mother, and a devout Christian.

She is survived by one daughter Mrs. Delbert Alcorn of Socorro and one son, Judge Elerdo Chavez of Carrizozo; five grand-children, Mrs. John Alex and Mrs. Richard Schlichter of San Pedro, Calif.; and Messrs. Daniel Chavez and Antonio B. Chavez both of Carrizozo and Joe Chavez of Albuquerque, and five great-grand children, Lydia, Cecilia, Rudolph, Estella and Elvira. She is also survived by other relatives and many friends.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock at Santa Rita church by the Rev. Fr. Salvatore Giovanni, followed by interment in the local cemetery.

Vega-Ortiz

Last Saturday morning, Nov. 29, Mica Sofia Vega became the bride of Mr. Danny Ortiz at a wedding ceremony performed in the Catholic church by Rev. Fr. Salvatore Giovanni. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Herrera of Carrizozo and Mr. and Mrs. Margarito Chavez of Capitan.

The wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents with a great many guests present.

In the evening the customary wedding dance was held with a large attendance and many prizes from other communities.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Vega and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ortiz, all of whom are well known and well respected. Their friends extend wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

NOTICE

The Annual Legion-Auxiliary Bazaar and Baked Goods Sale will be held at the Community Center Building from 2 to 5:00 p. m. Saturday, Dec. 13. Coffee, doughnuts, pie and cake will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend and aid a worthy cause. Funds will be used to brighten Christmas for needy families.

Mrs. W. S. Norman,
Pres. of the Auxiliary.

Civil Service Examination

The limit for filing applications extended from November 28, 1941 to February 2, 1942.

Qualified persons are urged to apply.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOL NEWS

Much valuable constructive work is being done by the Biology Class under direction of Mr. Martinez. Several model miniature farms have been made.

The happy salesman who visited our school last week made much of the fact that his ancestors came over on the May Flower (They belonged to the pilgrims of 1620). He has nothing on our school because some of our students can trace their ancestorage to the Conquistadores. Also a faculty member is a close relative to a high ranking member of the present national administration. But this is America and a man's place is what he makes it. We are architects of future and not creatures of circumstances.

Creative writing and speech making are occupying the attention of our English department.

Our first Basket Ball game of the season is Saturday evening on local court; Corona vs. Carrizozo.

The big Christmas Program to which the public will be invited free of charge will take place at 2:30 p. m. in the High School Auditorium Friday Dec. 19th. The program will be under direction of Mr. Ripley, Mr. Brewster and Miss Dixie Lee Deas.

Erman Gray the one man band will be here Dec. 15th, give a concert. The charm and variety of his program always entertains his audience.

At His Desk Again

State College, N. M., Dec. 4.—J. V. Taylor, New Mexico State Coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service, can't be daunted by such a small matter as a broken spine.

After spending nearly three months in hospitals at Roswell and El Paso, he is now back at his desk at State College, even though he is still encased from hips to shoulders in a one-inch plaster cast.

On Aug. 29, Taylor suffered two broken vertebrae and severe bruises in an automobile accident 37 miles west of Roswell.

Prior to his employment by SCS in June, 1937, Taylor was a prominent ranchman near Carrizozo. He is also well known in the state as a former speaker of the House in the New Mexico Legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were residents of Albuquerque until last spring, when they moved to State College.

Eastern Star Benefit

The Eastern Star benefit party held Friday, November 28, was very successful. About 90 guests were present and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Games, to suit everybody's wishes, consisted of bridge, Liverpool rummy, Chinese checkers, Bingo and so on through the whole category of games.

Coffee, cookies, and doughnuts were served in plentiful quantities.

Dr. Johnson

Dr. Johnson, age 81, of Ruidoso and father of Mr. Heck Johnson, passed away last evening at the Turner hospital. Funeral services will be in Roswell. Dr. Johnson was connected with the Highway 54 Association.

Mr. Manuel Romero of Hondo was a Carrizozo business visitor Monday.

Who's Who And Where In The Service

Listed below are Lincoln county boys, who are stationed at far flung outposts, of our National Defense, and to whom Christmas cards or packages must be mailed IMMEDIATELY if they are to receive them during the holiday season, friends and relatives of these men are urged to send Christmas packages NOW. Suggested simple gifts appropriate for men in the service are: Shaving kits, cigarettes, fountain pens, pencils, wrist watches, handkerchiefs, stationary and bill folders. We are proud of these men, and lets not forget them this Christmas.

We wish to share with those who have helped with this program, by mailing in the addresses of our boys who are in the service, the appreciation voiced by these boys who have received many cards and letters from their friends at home. Many of our Lincoln County boys are serving at far distant outposts, and a word from us means, appreciative recognition of the valuable service they are rendering our Country and a salutation of thumbs up to the morale of every Lincoln County boy. Lets give them the hand they deserve by writing them every week.

There are approximately 75 of our boys in the service whose addresses have not been mailed in. If you know one of these boys, we urge that you send these in to the American Legion at Carrizozo at once, so that their names may be included in this column.

Post Adjutant.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. WARTON (Consulting Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—On the bestowal end of the Maria Moors Cabot Latin-American Journalism award, recently presented, is the 80-year-old Dr. Godfrey Lowell Cabot of Boston, also a generous contributor to democratic enterprise. For many years, he has been a steady ground-gainer against the disturbers and trouble-makers, not a political thorn, but in his activities in the field of science and the humanities. He not only bankrolls progress, but helps it over the hurdle by his own resourcefulness and inventiveness—the true Yankee genius here.

South America ought to be particularly interested in Dr. Cabot's now successful and working scheme to bottle sunshine and keep it in the cellar, like jelly or preserves. His 1937 grant of $610,773 to Harvard university was a great help in storing solar energy and today, in Florida and other southern states, household hot-water rigs, fuelled by trapped sunshine are almost as common as oil burners up north.

The next year, Dr. Cabot gave a similar amount to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for the same purpose. His many contributions to the useful arts of peace, including his enthusiastic co-operation with aviation, may well be put down as an antidote to war. He learned to fly a cockpit in his late years and invented a system by which a plane can pick up fuel in flight.

He attended M.I.T. two years, finished at Harvard in 1883 and, after laying the foundation of his fortune manufacturing lamp black to Worthington, Pa., branched out in gases and carbides. He has always insisted that democracy, to survive, must plow a lot of its gains back into the business—which he steadily does. His Latin-American journalism awards are in honor of his late wife.

IN 1913, Carlos Davila covered murders and fire for El Mercurio of Santiago de Chile. He was a good reporter and told what happened, rather than what he thought ought to happen. Later, as president of Chile and ambassador to Washington, he maintained much of this same detachment.

One thing that he observed in 1926 was that the world was going to hell in a hand-basket unless there could be a successful collective "organization of peace." He also observed that it would be foolish to think that treaties would be an effective stopgap against the oncoming apocalypse. He was away out in front in urging bold affirmations and aggressive action, instead of pacifistic negotiations as the survival technique of democracy—in which he is a fervent believer.

One of the four Latin-American recipients of the Maria Moors Cabot prize in journalism, Dr. Davila has exemplified his faith in a militant and crusading democracy, which faith he expounds in the public functions attending the prize award. As editor of the Editors Press service, he is possibly the most important journalistic liaison in the new cultural and, to a degree, political entente between North and South America.

After becoming editor-in-chief of La Nacion, he came to Washington as ambassador, in 1923 at the age of 34. He became president of Chile in 1933, in a period of political upheaval, helped incline his country to its present liberal trend and landed back in the United States where his daughters were educated and which he considers the world's hope for democratic leadership. It is doubtful whether we have in South America any U. S. A. citizen who can match Dr. Davila's penetration of the mind and institutions of another country.

Living in New York off and on for quite a few years now, he mixes around casually, knows a lot of people, speaks quite a lot of our idiom and demonstrates hemisphere solidarity in his small, compact, alert person as few North or South Americans have ever done.

Bombs and bullets were sometimes an obligator to his rapid rise in Chilean statesmanship. He helped build the Chilean state and knows that democracy is not easily come by. He says we're not soft, but are toughening up and getting back our "crusading spirit and stoic fiber."

Secretary Hull Takes Japanese to White House

Before Miners Accepted President's Terms

Flanked by district leaders William Hynes (left) and Patrick J. Fagan (right), United Mine workers' chief John L. Lewis is shown after leaving the deadlocked "peace conference" with steel officials. Their failure to agree on closed shop issue was the signal for a general strike in "captive coal mines." Later, the miners agreed to submit the dispute to mediation and the strike ended.

End of a Canadian Corvette

The Canadian censor has released these photos showing the sinking of the first Canadian corvette to be lost by enemy action. The ship (shown above) was H.M.S. Levis, and was torpedoed somewhere in the Atlantic with a loss of 13 men. Part of her bow was blown away. Shown are two views of the ship in her final plunge, and crew members in lifeboat.

'Rail Strike Still On'

When the President called a conference of rail executives in an attempt to stave off the general railroad strike set for December 7, heads of unions departed saying, "the strike is still on." Photo shows the group leaving White House. L. to R., J. J. Felly (American Association of Railroads); A. Johnson (Locomotive Engineers); George Harrison (Railway Clerks); Charles Faly, collector general, and Sen. James M. Mead of New York.

First Seal Purchaser

President Roosevelt, the nation's first purchaser of Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis association, buys his seals from Steven Dohanos, the artist who created this year's seal.

Modern Apollo

How's this for a dream man, girls? He's 21-year-old Wally Lasky of Brooklyn, chosen America's most perfect male in a magazine-sponsored contest. Lasky is an ex-college student employed by the New York city department of sanitation. He gets a movie test for winning.

Chooses Not to Run

Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, 81, who announced he would not run for re-election because he is "wearing out" and would be ashamed to take his salary. He has served in Senate since 1913.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

Goats for Milk and Meat Considering that the goat is well adapted to this country, that a milk goat can be kept where it would be impossible to keep a milk cow, and that goat's milk is very healthful, it seems a pity that the industry of goat-raising has not yet become an important one in America. However, many householders who need but a small quantity of milk daily are turning to the milk goat to supply that need.

MILK YIELD The lactation period of a good milk doe is from seven to ten months. If she is merely a fair milker her daily yield will be three pints; if she is a good milker, she will produce two quarts a day; if she is a really excellent milker she will give three quarts a day. If your family is using two to three quarts of milk daily, delivered at your door, think what a saving it would be if this milk could be produced on your own place, even though that saving would be decreased somewhat by the cost of feeding the doe.

A STRONG FLAVOR? Goat's milk will have no unpleasant flavor or odor if it is properly handled. The doe's udder should always be washed, or at least wiped thoroughly before she is milked, to prevent any hairs or dirt from falling into the milk; the first milk drawn should not be saved; and the milking room should be separate from the main goat barn to prevent the milk from absorbing odors that may be present in its turn. If these precautions are observed, and if bucks are not permitted to run with the does, the milk product will be sweet and pleasant in flavor.

GOAT'S MILK PRODUCTS Goat butter can be made from goat's milk, but the yield will not be large. Goat's milk has always a smaller fat content than has cow's milk. Butter made from goat's milk will be white. If artificial coloring is used, the butter will look like butter from cow's milk but has a somewhat different texture. However, the making of goat butter is not recommended for the reason that the fat in goat milk rises very slowly, and, actually, can not all be secured, except by using a separator and, since goat milk has a high value on the market, it does not pay to use it for butter manufacture.

Several varieties of excellent cheese are made from goat's milk. Such cheese—known in France as chevrot and in Italy as formaggio di capra—has a consistency and a flavor all its own, and resembles Limburger, to some extent.

FAVORED BREEDS Only a few, of the many breeds of milk goats known abroad, have been imported into the United States. One of the highest producers of milk and of fat is the Saanen, brought from the Saanen valley, Switzerland. Records show that does of this breed have been milked from 9 to 10 months after kidding and have produced an average of 5.6 pounds of milk a day.

The most numerous, and probably also the most popular breed found in this country is the Toggenburg, also imported from Switzerland. Carefully kept records show that the Toggenburgs milk from 7 to 10 months after kidding, with an average daily yield of 4.1 pounds of milk.

USE OF GOATS FOR MEAT In spite of the fact that in some parts of the country there is a prejudice against the use of goats for meat, nevertheless, in some parts of the South the kids are considered a delicacy. The flesh of kids is of a good flavor and in fact greatly resembles lamb. It is known that thousands of goats, both young and old are slaughtered and sold as lamb and mutton. No doubt, if the slaughtering were properly done and the meat carefully handled, the young goats at least, if not the old ones, would provide an excellent supply of meat that is both palatable and nutritious.

PRICE OF MILK GOATS The price the buyer must pay will depend upon whether he wants pure-bred or grade stock. A pure-bred buck will cost $100 or more, but grades or cross-breeds may be bought for from $10 to $15 apiece. Prices for does depend upon breed and age, but particularly upon milk production. Purebreds cost from $50 to $100, but good milkers in grades or cross-breeds may often be bought for as little as $15 each.

For additional information, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 929.

BORDER PLANTING Borders may be either formal or informal in character but in planting them thought must be given to the height of the plants to be grown, in comparison to the width of the border. The usual rule is not to use plants that grow taller than half the width of the border, especially along a walk where a bit of crowding would cause foliage to overlap the walk and become objectionable. When a walk runs close to a fence or wall, it is frequently preferable to plant vines to cover the fence or wall.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Discarded Kidney Action Modern life with its hurry and worry irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the lack of exercise and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, stings, or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body wastes. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by prominent U.S. physicians. Ask your druggist!

HIGHLIGHTS OF ARMY NEWS

With Uncle Sam's army at its peacetime peak size and with increasing activity in military developments many stories of wide interest develop in army camps throughout the nation. Herewith are presented a series of articles depicting various phases of army activity.

The army is in the junk business — to save Uncle Sam millions of dollars.

In an out-of-way section of Philadelphia, a little group of men and women spend their work-days picking over a pile of woolen and cotton scraps. They are salvaging waste material from the cutting and piecing machines used in making millions of army uniforms. Saving these cloth scraps last year saved the government more than $1,500,000.

To provide uniforms for the army's million and a half soldiers, the quartermaster depot buys the uniform material, then sends it to manufacturers who have contracts with the army to make the soldiers' trousers, coats, shirts and other clothing. Scrap cloth that accumulates during the manufacturing process is returned to the depot, carefully sorted, baled and auctioned to the highest bidders.

The army knows to the penny how much scrap material is saved in the manufacture of each piece of clothing—coat, 10 cents' worth; overcoat, 14 cents; trousers, 5 cents; field jacket, 6 cents; field cap, 9 cent.

Army Musicians

Army musicians will soon be playing new Bell Lyra's, a variation of the glockenspiel popular in European military bands.

The instrument contains a keyboard similar to that of a piano, but is played by striking 22 metal bars with a small mallet. The tonal and harmonic effects have a tremendous carrying range and add possibilities for musical variations.

The Bell Lyra player carries the 30 by 22 inch instrument in an upright position by means of a shoulder strap. For concert work it may also be played from a stationary rack. The Bell Lyras will replace chromatic bells, now used in U. S. army bands. The new instrument can be played on the march.

Fashion Notes

Soldiers riding the iron steeds of the army's armored force are assured ample protection this winter for fingers and hands operating weapons and equipment.

A twin glove of wool and leather has just been perfected for the armored force by the quartermaster corps. The outer glove has leather palms and thumbs. An inner glove is fashioned of knitted wool. A strap fastens the twin glove's large gauntlet over overcoat sleeves to keep out cold air.

When necessary for the soldiers to adjust equipment, operate a radio or do anything which requires free movement of the fingers, the outer glove can be pulled off. The wool inner glove will still provide protection.

Motorcycle riders may soon have

For U. S. Defense

ATLANTA, GA.—Margaret Mitchell, famed author of "Gone With the Wind," is shown purchasing a United States Defense Savings Bond. In a statement, which she issued when buying her bond, Miss Mitchell said: "Whether we go into war or not, we must be prepared for war. It is only common sense that in times like these every nation must be able to defend itself. I want our country to have the best ships, planes, tanks and guns—and plenty of them. If I can help by buying Defense Bonds, I am glad to do so."

Set Up Job Plan to Aid

Men on Leaving Service
WASHINGTON. — Selective service headquarters announced it had arranged for the classification of skilled workers now being discharged from the army so that they may be speedily employed.
Approximately 200,000 soldiers are to be returned to civilian life and other thousands will be released in the succeeding months provided the international situation does not compel their retention.

Blind People Can Now 'See' Plays Through Medium of Phonographic Discs

Broadway star recording play for the blind. Mady Christians, with Joseph Wolland and associate players, acting Hedda Gabler before the microphone at the sound studios of the American Foundation for the Blind, New York, N. Y., for the Talking Book production of the Ibsen play.

NEW YORK.—It is not often that blind people have the advantage over the seeing. Usually it is the other way round. The blind who live far away from Broadway, however, have a distinct edge on their seeing neighbors. As they cannot go to the theater, the theater now comes to them complete, with full sound effects and incidental music and acted by players from the Broadway stage.

The idea of giving to the many thousands of sightless citizens across the country the chance to hear the best that the contemporary theater has to offer, originated with the American Foundation for the Blind, New York city, which decided to utilize the "Talking Book" for this purpose. The book, designed to bring the best in inkprint books within reach of blind people, consists of long-playing phonographic discs on which trained readers record the works of the chosen authors. The discs are played on an electric reading machine resembling a portable phonograph.

For several years the Library of Congress has been co-operating with the foundation, and by using congressional appropriations, has met most of the cost of the majority of these recorded works, and places them in 27 regional public libraries across the country which operate departments for the blind.

Theater Co-operative. In launching its new venture of bringing acted plays to the blind, the Broadway theater was found eager to co-operate. A group of young players from contemporary successes formed the nucleus of a repertory company to which guest stars from time to time come to contribute their services. Among those lambskin lined muffs fastened on their handlebars, into which they may slip their hands, if tests now under way by the quartermaster corps prove successful.

Portable Pipe Line

Portable pipe lines that can be readily moved for installation over difficult terrain to carry gasoline supplies to motorized units in the field, have been developed recently by the army.

The new pipe line comes in self-contained half-mile units, each complete with a centrifugal pump driven by a 20-horsepower gasoline engine, according to Army Motors, the publication of the motor transport school at the Holabird quartermaster depot, Baltimore, Md. Each half mile unit can be moved by cargo trucks and used independently of any other unit.

These self-contained sections, alone or in combinations, are said to be able to deliver gasoline through swamps and forests or over mountains at a rate of approximately 200 gallons per minute. The pipe can also be used to assist or even replace floating gasoline tanks for ship-to-shore operations.

Army Food Supply

During last summer's maneuvers in Louisiana, 40 freight cars daily were necessary to bring in rations at 12 railheads for the 123,000 men in the Second army. Here is what they ate each day:
270,300 pounds of beef
202,748 pounds of bacon
81,090 pounds of potatoes
275,737 eggs
13,517 pounds of coffee
107,605 bananas, apples, oranges
Horses, too, had healthy appetites. Cavalry units consumed 33 tons of oats and 39 tons of hay daily and as for motor vehicles—nearly eight gallons of gasoline were used in each during a day's operation.
More than 10 per cent of the men walked holes into the soles of their shoes by the time the final phase of the maneuvers was reached. An emergency supply of 30,000 new pairs of shoes was kept on hand for replacement.

Railroad Fares

Army personnel traveling by rail in uniform on official leave, furlough or pass at their own expense, will benefit from reduced fares for another year. The present reduced fare arrangements made last May and due to expire this month, have been extended to October 31, 1942. H. W. Siddall, chairman of the railroad interterritorial military committee representing all of the railroads in the United States, has notified the quartermaster general, whose work reaches the blind people of the country on the discs of the Talking Book are Dame Sybil Thorndike, Otis Skinner, Eva Le Gallienne, Mady Christians, Hilda Spong, Bert Lytell, Whitford Kane, Selena Royle, Wesley Addy, Brenda Forbes, Edith Tulliaferro, Joseph Holland and House Jameson.

To date no less than 44 plays have been acted onto the discs solely for the use of the blind—an impressive list of classic and contemporary drama which includes such plays as "Elizabeth the Queen," "Ah Wilderness," "Hedda Gabler," "King Richard II," "Our Town," "When Ladies Meet," "The Silver Box," "The Rivals," and "The Bat." The playing time of all these productions corresponds with the time the blind listener would spend in an actual theater.

The average modern play runs to four or five double-sided discs, or from two to two hours and a half of playing time. The older plays, which are given without cutting, run to almost double that number. Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra" takes up seven double-sided discs, or three hours and a half of playing time.

Thanks to all that has been accomplished to date, the theater now comes in this way to the blind. It comes to them, moreover, free of all charge. The blind individual who wishes to enjoy what Broadway has to offer without leaving his armchair has only to send a list of the plays he wishes to hear to the public library nearest him, and one by one these plays reach him, each with its individual enchantment. These plays even travel between library and reader postage free.

Priorities vs. Toys — And Johnie's Sock Comes Off 2nd Best

CHICAGO.—When priorities clash with pop-guns, little Johnie and his Christmas stocking come off second best—that is if metal toys are being used to fill it this Christmas. For while many department stores throughout the country were foresighted enough to make advance purchases of scooter cars, bicycles, all metal wheel goods, and defense toys including air guns, there does exist a shortage in these items for 1941 Christmas shopping.

'Priorities vs. Toys'

No child need be toy-hungry at Christmas, despite a 20-per cent increase in demand this year over last. It is expected that the nation's toy bill will reach an all-time high of a quarter of a billion dollars this year, according to a report of the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

Reflecting our national armament program, military toys and games are more popular than ever, despite mass production handicaps. Toyland arsenals include dive bombers, anti-aircraft guns, defense forts, Red Cross ambulances, trucks and airplanes of all varieties. Similarly slanted are many non-metal war games and books featuring life in army camps.

Manufacturers of miniature railroad trains and equipment, directly affected by priority rulings, report a 10 per cent increase in demand. A record number of the nation's 150,000 perennial train hobbyists, anticipating shortages, and substitutions are sending their old equipment back to the factory for reconditioning and repair.

Toys classified as educational are in sharp demand. Reproductions in miniature of the advancement in the home maker's art, science and engineering, are all in evidence on the nation's counters.

Barnum Had Plugged Holes And Was in the Money

When P. T. Barnum, as a young man, left Danbury, Conn., to make his way in the world, he left numerous unpaid bills behind him. To one creditor the imaginative showman said with great intensity: "I'll pay you what I owe you as soon as I get rich."

The other laughed and eyed the youth disdainfully.

"That will be when a sieve holds water," he jeered.

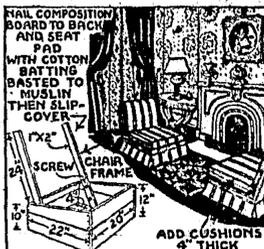

But in a few years the master showman was well on the road to success, and with great satisfaction wrote the man the following note:

"Dear Sir: I have fixed that sieve."

About what am I now employing my own soul? On every occasion I must ask myself this question, and inquire; what have I now in this part of me which they call the ruling principle? and whose soul have I now? that of a child, or a young man, or of a feeble woman or of a tyrant, or of a domestic animal, or of a wild beast?

A Promise That Must Be Kept

(From Chicago-Herald)
As Illinois soldiers over 28 years old are discharged and return home, the Soldier's Friend Department of The Chicago Herald-American receives an increasing number of complaints that many are not getting their civilian jobs back.
Before they were inducted they were led to believe that they WOULD get their jobs back.
The selective service law provides that they are to get them back (or "a position of like seniority, status and pay") unless the employer's circumstances have so changed as to make the rehiring "impossible or unreasonable," and it was the assurance given in that law that sent many of them away to the army with easy minds. They would not have to worry about finding a new way to make a living when they came home again.
Those who have come back to find that they DO have to worry about it naturally feel they have been let down.
They have made sacrifices to serve their country, and the promises that their interests would be looked after while they were doing it have not been fulfilled.
There will be, of course, cases in which the promise of a job to return to actually cannot be kept, particularly in view of the damage defense priorities are about to do to many kinds of civilian business.
But in every case where the promise CAN be kept, it SHOULD be and MUST be.
The Unemployment Commission of the Selective Service System, whose duty it is under the law to help returned soldiers get jobs, must exert themselves to see that every such promise be kept that can be.
Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, estimates that by Christmas-time 7,000 Illinois soldiers will have been returned to civil life under the age ruling.
We owe it to them, in simple appreciation of men who have done their duty, to fit them swiftly, and smoothly into jobs and a normal civilian life.
And we owe it also to the men who still are IN the army.
For their peace of mind, which is what "morale" means, we must make it plain by our deeds that we meant what we said when we promised to keep their jobs for them until they came back.

The Lamp in the Valley

BY ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Three women love Sidney Lander, Alaska mining engineer. He is engaged to Barbara Trumbull, whose rich father is contesting the mining claim of Klondike Coburn, now dead. Because of Carol Coburn, teacher at Matanuska, Lander breaks with Trumbull.

THE STORY SO FAR

Salaria Bryson, a big out-door girl, also loves Lander. She disappears. Lander finds Salaria. She had injured her leg while hunting. Barbara misinterprets the rescue and flings away her engagement ring.

At last the air begins to clear up in Carol's and Sidney's romance. Lander and Carol decide to fly to Chaktana, scene of her father's claim. But they seem unable to charter a plane. Trumbull's hand is seen in this.

INSTALLMENT XVII

"You know the Chaktana, of course?"

"Sure," answered Slim. "I was grounded and frozen in there two winters ago. Since then we've kept a gas cache at Carcajou Lake." He scanned the waiter of peaks and valleys over which we were arrowing. "You'll be seeing it in half an hour, if the fog holds off."

But the fog didn't hold off. A new uneasiness crept through me as we went higher, to climb into the clear. Our pilot seemed to be watching the valley bottom over which we were winging. He dropped lower as the cloud floor fell away under us. He gave me the impression that he was peering about for familiar landmarks.

Then I saw him stiffen and cry out, at the same time that Lander leaped to his feet.

"What's that?" was the latter's sharp demand.

Slim Downey didn't turn as he shouted back. But there was indignation in his voice.

"It's rifle shots. There's some fool shooting at us."

"Turn back," I heard Lander's voice call out.

"And go down like a duck?" was Slim's sharp-noted reply. "Not on your life!"

Then I saw the helmeted head stoop closer to the instrument board. This was followed by a series of hand movements that were meaningless to me. But even before I heard the stutter of the engine I could read alarm in that forward-bent figure.

"It's rifle shots. There's some fool shooting at us."

"They got my fuel tank," Slim suddenly shouted over his shoulder. "That's Blackwater Lake on our left there. I think I can make it. I've got to make it."

We veered a little as we slid down an invisible stairway that was nothing but crystal-clear air whistling through our struts. I could see the earth coming up to meet us. And I could feel Lander's hand groping for mine as we catapulted over ragged cliffs with little patches of snow between them. Then the valley widened again and between the lightly wooded slopes beneath us I could see a dark-surfaced pool of water that became much more than a pool as we drew down on it.

I heard Slim's throaty shout of gratitude and felt Lander's hand tighten on mine. But we merely sat there, in silence, as we taxied to a stop.

"What do we do now?" asked Lander with what I recognized as purely achieved casualness.

Slim took out a cigarette and sat down on a rock. Then he mopped his face.

"We've got to get gas," he announced, "from our Carcajou cache. But it's no good to me, of course, until I've plugged that hole in my tank."

"Can you do it?" I rather tremulously inquired.

Slim laughed at my woebegone look.

"I'd surprise you what a bush-hawk can do when he has to. When I was laced down on Cranberry Lake last winter, with a dead battery and no starting crank, I was blacksmith enough to turn an oil-screen wrench into a hand crank. There's always a way, young lady."

Lander placed his consoling big hand on my shoulder and said: "It's all right. We're not licked yet."

"I know it," I said with a foolish little surge of faith.

"We've grub for two weeks," he pointed out, "whatever happens. We've fuel, all the fuel we need. And a chance for snowshoe rabbit or caribou if we need it. You'll sleep in the plane cabin tonight and Slim and I'll camp on shore here."

"And then what?" I asked, trying to keep the desolation out of my voice.

working on his ship and packing in the gas, you and I will start overland for Big Squaw Creek. We should do it in a day. And every day counts."

It was easy enough to say. But out on the trail, ten hours later, I realized there was little romance in mushing over the broken terrain of the Alaskan hinterland. There was no path through the spruce groves and no foothold on the hillside rubble. Twice we worked our way up rough traverses that came to a dead end and compelled us to retrace our steps. Our shoulder packs trimmed down as they were to essentials, seemed to grow in weight with the growing hours. I even came to resent the tugging burden of Sock-Eye's old six-gun swinging from my belt holster. But I could see that my own burden, compared to Lander's, was trivial. For my trail mate carried a belt ax and rifle and grub bag and blankets. Sometimes he had to use the ax to cut a way through the undergrowth.

We were two plodding animals, swallowed up by the wilderness, fighting our way through from one peril to another. And when we slept out that night, with a campfire between us and the aurora borealis brushing the blue-white peaks of the mountains above us, I lay stunned with a slowly widening sense of solitude touched with unreality.

It was the far-off howl of a wolf that brought a final cry of protest from my lips.

"I'm not much good to you, am I?" Lander quietly announced. I detected a new timbre in his voice. And it was both a joy and a peril to me.

"You're a good fighter," I told him.

"But that isn't everything," he suggested.

"No, it isn't everything," I agreed. His gaze went, for a moment, down the dark valley, and then returned to my face.

"I know what you mean," he said in that overdisturbing low voice of his. "But our fight isn't won yet."

"But aren't we letting something better slip through our fingers?" I was foolish enough to cry out.

Lander sat considering this. "You call me a good fighter," he finally said. "But any fighting I've done for you is easily explained."

"How?" I asked. And again, somewhere between the blue-white peaks, I could hear the far-off wolf howl.

"Because I've always loved you," he said with his face a little closer to mine.

Then he stooped still lower, and pressed his cheek against my cheek. His face was rough and unshaven. But in its very roughness I found something infinitely soothing.

CHAPTER XXII

When we broke camp the next morning Sidney Lander seemed surer of himself. Through his binoculars he examined the wide and twisting valley country and announced that we'd have to climb up into higher territory.

"I begin to know these hills," he told me. "We're at last getting somewhere."

He pointed into the distance. "That's the Chaktana," he called down to me. I detected a note of excitement in his voice. "And in an hour we ought to be spotting the Big Squaw."

So we pushed on again. But my trail mate's rise in spirits was not an enduring one.

"I don't like this loss of time," he said as he glanced at the sun. "It's three days now. And we may be too late."

"Too late for what?" I questioned. "We'll know that when we get there," he said with a curtness which I wrote down to overtaxed nerves.

So still again we went forward. We went clambering over mammillated rock ridges and dipping down into blue-shadowed canyons.

"It's great country," Lander called back over his shoulder. "I couldn't agree with him. It seemed wild and torn and empty, the outpost of the world, a scarred battlefield where titanic forces had clashed and annihilated older than man had left desolation in the wake of tumult and warfare."

I was glad when Lander came to a stop, at the end of a traverse that led to a wide rock ledge overlooking the westerly running valley. The valley itself widened out, with a cleft or two in the hill ranges where a series of canyons and smaller valleys radiated out from the lower wide bowl, with gravel beds and groves of stunted spruce interspersed along its broken slopes.

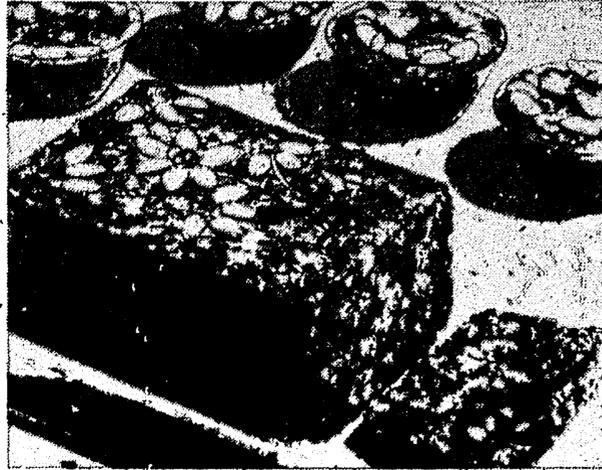

"We've made it," I heard Lander say.

I stood watching him as he moved forward and mounted a glacial hard-head that had all the appearance of a pagan throne carved out of granite. He had a little trouble, because of his heavy pack, in getting to the top of it. Then with his glasses he scanned the valley.

Christmas Baking Begins With Luscious Fruit Cake! (See Recipes Below.)

Holiday Fare

Christmas is something pretty special, I'm sure, you'll agree, and as such deserves something pretty special in the way of food. To my notion the fruit cakes and plum puddings are that special something with their handsome brown, fruity richness and delectable flavors.

The charm of both these kinds of delicacies lies in their ripened, mellowed flavors which comes only with proper aging when the spices, fruits, nuts and butter blend themselves into mysterious goodness. So bake the fruit cakes and puddings in advance and give them a chance to acquire their best in flavor.

While you're about the big business of making a fruit cake, bake several small cakes in small glass or pottery dishes to give as gifts. Gaily decorated with sprigs of holly and mistletoe and holiday ribbons they make a perfect gift.

Dark Fruit Cake.
(Yields 10 to 12 pounds)

12 eggs
4 cups sifted flour
2 cups butter
1 pound brown sugar
2 pounds raisins
2 pounds currants
1 pound pecans
1 pound citron
1 pound almonds
1 teaspoon each, nutmeg, cinnamon, mace
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup canned peach juice
6-ounce glass jelly (blackberry, currant or grape)
1/2 cup cream

Wash and dry raisins and currants. Blanch almonds, drain and cut with pecans into quarters. Cut citron into thin slices. Place fruit in large mixing bowl. Sift flour, measure and sift with spices and mix with fruits until well-coated. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs and jelly. Stir in flour and fruit alternately with fruit juice first, then cream.

Line pans with heavy waxed paper and butter slightly. Fill pans almost to the top. Bake small loaf cakes 3 to 3 1/2 hours at 275 degrees. Bake large loaf cakes 4 to 4 1/2 hours at 250 degrees. Cool.

Cool cakes on a rack. When cool, wrap in heavy waxed paper and store tightly.

If you prefer the lighter fruit cakes, why not try this less rich but just as elegant cousin of the Dark Fruit Cake:

Light Fruit Cake.
(Makes 3 1/2 to 4 pounds)

1 1/2 pounds mixed crystallized fruits (cherries, pineapple, etc.)
1/2 pound mixed lemon, orange, citron peels
1/2 pound blanched, chopped almonds
18 maraschino cherries
1/2 cup diced preserved ginger
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

Line pans with heavy waxed paper and butter slightly. Fill pans almost to the top. Bake small loaf cakes 3 to 3 1/2 hours at 275 degrees. Bake large loaf cakes 4 to 4 1/2 hours at 250 degrees. Cool.

Cool cakes on a rack. When cool, wrap in heavy waxed paper and store tightly.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Clear Vegetable Broth
- Lamb Shank
- Lima Beans
- Mashed Potatoes
- Grated Carrot-Pineapple Salad
- Muffins
- Beverage
- Queen's Bread Pudding

- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 egg whites
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Cut fruits and peels in thin slices.

Mix cherries and ginger with 1 cup flour and toss lightly. Cream margarine with 1/2 cup sugar. Sift together flour baking powder and salt and beat into batter. Add floured fruits and nuts and mix thoroughly. Add lemon juice to egg whites and beat until stiff. Add remaining sugar and beat until smooth. Fold into batter. Turn into greased tube pans lined with waxed paper and bake in a slow (325 degree) oven for 3 hours.

To my mind there's nothing quite so festive as the plum pudding brought flaming to the table, and served with a rich sauce.

Plum Pudding.
(Makes 3 1/2 pounds)

- 1 cup suet
- 1 cup molasses
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 3 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup currants
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon each, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves
- 1 tablespoon flavoring
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon soda

Mix well the suet and molasses. Add bread crumbs and mix in eggs one at a time. Add raisins and currants mixed with the flour and spices, then flavoring. Mix in milk and soda dissolved in 1 cup boiling water. Grease mold, put in pudding 3/4 full and seal tight. Place in kettle of boiling water on a trivet or a rack and have the water come half way around the mold. Steam for three hours. Serve hot.

An excellent dessert for Christmas time or winter time is this old-fashioned suet pudding much akin to the plum pudding:

Suet Pudding.
(Serves 10)

- 1 cup suet, chopped fine
- 1 cup molasses
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk, mixed with
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup raisins or currants or preserved fruit

Mix all dry ingredients together, add fruit, then suet and milk. Turn into greased pudding mold, cups or cans, cover tightly with greased paper or fitted covers. Place on a rack in a kettle of boiling water which comes half way up to the molds. Cover kettle and steam 3 hours if in a mold, or 1 hour if in cups. Serve with hard sauce or Plum Pudding Sauce.

Sauce is to pudding as stuffing is to the turkey so make it good. For steamed puddings a hard sauce flavored with whatever you desire is excellent. If you'd like a hot, golden-hued sauce, meltingly delicious here's one that's tops:

Plum Pudding Sauce.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 3 tablespoons cider or
- 1 tablespoon other flavoring
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup rich milk

Cream butter and powdered sugar. Add cider or flavoring, then well-beaten egg yolks. When well mixed, stir in milk. Cook in double boiler with stick as custard, then gradually pour in beaten egg whites, beating constantly.

THINGS YOU CAN MAKE

A WALKING duck, a hopping rabbit, clown ring toss toy and owl bookends—all come from your workshop to make some child happy. Each is traced to wood, cut out with jig, coping or keyhole saw and painted. Off center wheels make the rabbit hop merrily—feet on a disc turning inside make the resplendent duck walk when pushed. The clown's long nose is an excellent target for catching the ring on the end of the string.

Rough Concrete Floor.

A CONCRETE floor of a cellar is usually laid with no special smoothing of the surface, and may be too rough for dancing. One way to smooth it is to have it ground down with a floor machine, such as is used for finishing terrazzo floors. The job can be done by a flooring contractor at no great cost; his only charge will be for time. It is sometimes thought that the same effect can be had by laying a surface of concrete over the old floor. This is possible only under certain conditions, however. Concrete is not sticky, and a new layer will not bond on top of an old one without making special preparation. To secure a bond between the two, the surface of the old concrete must be roughened by gouging with a cold chisel or a pointed hammer. New concrete in hardening will then become attached to the old, and the two will become practically one. Before laying the new concrete, the old floor must be thoroughly soaked with water, and as soon as the surfacing hardens, it must be wet with water and kept wet for several days. This can be done by covering it with a layer of sand, or with old burlap bags that are frequently sprinkled. In this continued dampness the cement will "cure" and attain full density, whereas if it dries out too quickly the coating will be soft and powdery.

Drying Out a Cellar.

Being in contact with the earth, the walls and floor of a cellar will remain at about the same unchanging temperature. In humid weather the masonry will be cooler than the air, and condensation will take place on it as warm and damp air is chilled by the contact. Condensation will often be so heavy that pools of water may collect on the floor. This can sometimes be overcome by running a low fire in the heater. Another method is ventilation. For this, opening the cellar windows may not serve, for being in the upper parts of the walls, drafts through them do not disturb the mass of damp air lying on the floor. To get the air circulation that is needed, an electric fan can be placed at one end of the cellar, blowing along the floor toward open windows at the other end. This should be done on dry days. In humid weather, and at night, cellar windows should be kept closed to keep out damp air.

Calcium chloride is excellent for the drying of cellar dampness due to condensation, using it according to the method that I described in this column recently.

House Insulation.

Question: My attic is open, and has no floor; entrance is through a trap-door. If I put rock wool between the rafters, what would happen should the roof leak? How can it be kept from absorbing moisture from the house air? Should the attic be ventilated? If I cut holes in the ceilings of the rooms below, would heat pass to the attic and make the rooms cooler?

Answer: For an open attic insulation is best placed between the floor beams. Rock wool should be laid in four inches thick covered with paper to keep out dust. There should be louvers or windows in the attic walls for continuous ventilation all summer. Holes in the ceilings would not be practical.

Bulged Glass Panels.

Question: I have a number of art glass panels in doors and windows that have become bulged. Can they be flattened without removing them from the frames?

Answer: You will probably find that the panels will come out without difficulty, which would be the best thing to do. If you cut boards the sizes of the panels and put one on each side, it might be possible to flatten the glass by applying pressure. The lead joints between the pieces of glass should be soft enough to allow for forcing them back into position.

Termites.

Question: We have found termites in our house, and are at a loss what to do. What can you suggest?

Answer: There is far more to be said about termite control than I have room for in this column. Write for information to the U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, and to the department of agriculture of your own state.

Clothes Moths.

A careful housewife should not overlook the fact that while moths are at their worst in spring time, there is likely to be a second crop during the late summer. For this reason, wool clothes and furs that have been stored should be checked over and more moth crystals and moth flakes should be added to make up for evaporation.

Crocheted Things Help Solve Problem of Christmas Gifts

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

KNITTERS and crocheters have gone into partnership with fashion on a vast scale this season.

Now that the movement is on, women who crochet or knit are finding the perfect answer to their Christmas gift problems in these erstwhile "homely arts" which, this season, have come triumphantly into their own.

The play of imagination brought to bear in interpreting the knit-and-crochet theme in modern costume design is winning the admiration of the fashion world. One of the happiest outcomes of the present craze for things knitted is intriguing hat and bag sets like the stunning two-piece shown to the left in the illustration. It is almost unbelievable that so much chic and charm can be achieved at so little expenditure of time and cost of material. This set is easily made and the heavy cotton bolifast rug yarn of which it is made is amazingly inexpensive. You can get this yarn in deep shades or in delectable pastels. Be assured that the fortunate recipient of this cunning calot and bag will thrill with joy at sight of it, the more so because it is "hand-made."

A gay little flatterer is the head scarf pictured in the oval above. You'll admit it is in perfect tune with the Christmas spirit. This pretty crocheted fantasy was designed and made by the radio songstress, Fran Allison. Not only is it entitled to a high fashion rating but added to its prettiness and its chic is its kindly service in protecting smartly coiffed heads from pranksome breezes. The happiness it will bring to a friend when Santa delivers it Christmas morning will more than repay you for the "labor of love" in making it.

Guaranteed to make "Merry Christmas" merrier for the someone among your friends who receives it is the most attractive striped crochet weanlet shown to the right in this group. The "original" is worked in shades of brown, beige and white with border trimming of cold crochet. However, there are other color schemes that will strike an equally pleasing note such as, for instance, holly red, pine green and vivid yellow with highlights of white or flashes of starry-night blue. It may be worn over blouses or as a vestee with jacket suits.

Well, and look who's here below in the picture! It's a darling soft cuddly little poodle dog with a soft ball, all done in crochet and just waiting to make the little tots in your home chuckle with glee. Just for fun, crochet these toys of wool or mercerized crochet cotton for the little folks you wish to remember at holiday time. These are exactly the kind of toys that children treasure long after baby days, and mothers like them because they are washable and have no sharp corners to injure "wee little darlings" while they play.

For that list of friends whom you would gladden with just a simple little gift make up a series of little boutonnières of hair ornaments of crocheted flowers. You can turn them out in a jiffy if you are a fast crocheter. Or, why not give a crocheted jewelry set? To wear with sweaters you can find cunning necklaces of crocheted flowers strung together with chainstitch crochet. Some feature bracelets to match, or clips, or both. You can make these trinkets in "no time" if you are a fast crocheter, and they make lovely gifts.

Buttoned-Up Look

Long-waisted, snug-fitting to the hips, this dress has a skirt that simply bursts into sudden affluence of fabric and detail. Eyelet embroidered wool for the skirt gives style prestige to this long-sleeved, button-up-to-the-neck afternoon dress. The designer also styles this model in a long-skirt version for dinner wear. The coachman's brim velvet hat has plum colored ostrich trim.

Slim Dresses Animated

With Graceful Peplums

Oreoids to our American designers who have succeeded in animating slim silhouettes with ruffles, tiers, peplums and flares in so subtle a way that the slenderness of a lady of fashion is gracefully maintained. By the way, the slim silhouette is making steadfast progress. The newer styles are proclaiming slender lines as the coming thing in styling. Latest proofs are the new evening skirts so narrow they must be slit to the knee. Very smart, too, are narrow daytime skirts that are scalloped around and dip at the back. That narrow contours are on the way is a sure thing. In fact, they have arrived.

Suspenders for Skirts

Have Flowers to Match

Separate suspenders to attach to this skirt or that are being sold in college shops, sportswear and neckwear departments. They are of pinked felt and some have center bands of fabric embroidered in vivid contrast peasant themes. You can get boutonnières of felt flowers to wear with them. These felt fantasies are the answer when one wants to give an extra flipp to a foundation wool dress—smart worn with velveteen skirts, too!

Tassel Trimmings

Early arrivals in midseason and fall fashions are singing a song of "tassels in the air." Tassels are dangling shoulder length from pert turbans and felt calots and youth-inspired "beanies." Tassels a la militaire ornament epaulet sleeve trims. Pockets of otherwise classically tailored jacket suits look sprightly intriguing with tassels or—maybe just a single tassel darting out unexpectedly but with effect. Tassels of glittering beads glamorize evening modes.

Christmas givers who want to be sure their gift is well received have been turning more and more to cigarettes and smoking tobacco as gifts most appreciated by any smoker. Naturally, Camels, as America's favorite cigarette, and Prince Albert, the world's largest-selling pipe tobacco, head the smoker's gift list. Camels have two gift packages—the carton of ten packages of "20's" specially wrapped, and a gay package containing four "flat fifties." Prince Albert is featured in the pound tin and the pound glass humidior, both handsomely Christmas packed.—Adv.

Farmer Needed No Help In Convincing Himself

Old Farmer Robinson broke his plow, so he decided to borrow one from Farmer Brown. "On the way to the Brown farm he started thinking: 'I wonder if old Brown will let me take his plow.'" As he got near to the neighboring farm he thought: "I doubt if he will lend me that plow." Then as he knocked at the farmhouse door: "No, I'm certain he won't lend it to me." Farmer Brown came to the door, smiled and asked, "Well, what can I do for you?" "I just came to say," snorted Robinson, "that you can keep your bloomin' plow!"

Alien Entry Regulations

The district office of immigration and naturalization at El Paso, Texas, has advised that the new departure and entry regulations for aliens have been received and will become effective December 1, 1941.

These regulations are designed to accomplish a more effective control of border crossing. However, while aliens in general must have a permit to depart in order to leave the United States, an exception has been made as to Mexican citizens lawfully domiciled in the United States. Any such citizen may depart from the United States through a designated port of entry without presenting any sort of document, but any person departing will not be permitted to enter the United States without a permit to enter, which includes "an immigration visa, a reentry permit, a passport visa, a transit certificate, a limited entry certificate and a border crossing identification card". It is strongly advised that all Mexican citizens lawfully domiciled in the United States provide themselves with a reentry permit or a border crossing card before leaving this country for temporary purposes.

Mexican citizens not lawfully in the United States, and in general aliens other than Mexicans, must obtain a permit to depart before they will be permitted to leave the country. Application blanks for permits to depart may be obtained from the nearest immigration station. The permits are issued by the State Department and the applications therefor should be submitted at least thirty days in advance of the time of proposed departure.

The new regulations require that both entry and departure must be effected at designated ports of entry, and the law provides for the criminal prosecution of aliens who either enter or depart other than such ports.

SEE WITH YOUR OWN EYES

Here is how Thermo-Charged "RPM" defies heat that cooks other oils into gum and varnish

TOP-PRICED PENNSYLVANIA OIL CAN'T TAKE IT! Heat test leaves deposits—bad for your motor!

LEADING MID-CONTINENT OIL CAN'T TAKE IT! Heat test leaves deposits—bad for your motor!

HIGH-GRADE WESTERN OIL CAN'T TAKE IT! Heat test leaves deposits—bad for your motor!

Thermo-Charged "RPM" STANDS UP! Heat test shows no harmful residue of other oils—no harmful deposits—gives you motor 100% protection!

SHORTLY, you'll be putting into your automobile engine a motor oil like one of these illustrated—but think hard which one it should be!

Will you HANDICAP your motor with one of the three oils that cooks into a sticky gum and varnish—to rob you of power and gas?

Or will you PROTECT your motor with the ONE oil that is gum-and-varnish resistant above them all—Thermo-Charged "RPM"!

DO this on your next oil drain: change to Thermo-Charged "RPM"—gum-free—it lubricates hot spots which other oils leave dry!
