In Rainbow Land

On January 10th, 1942 a delegation from the Roswell Assembly of Rainbow For Girls consisting of Mrs. Hugh M. Huff, Mother Advisor, Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Hudson and Colonel E. L. Lusk accompanied by 18 girls of Roswell Rainbow Assembly met at the Masonic Temple members of our Assembly, Advisory Board and Eastern Stars. After exchanging greetings we went to Burnett's Cafe for a Dutch lunch treat.

At 1:30 a Session of Rainbow For Girls was opened. The chairs were filled by girls from the Roswell Assembly and the work of initiation began. Misses Jane Gallacher Dorothy May Jones and Henrietta Degner were honored by being appointed to assist in the initiatory work.

The Roswell Group put on the work in a beautiful and impressive manner. Every officer had her work letter perfect and gave it with proper emphasis.

At the close members of the Carrizozo Advisory Board, assisted by Eastern Stars and Rainbow girls served sandwiches, relishes and tea which were enjoyed by our guests.

Mrs. Ada Norton, Mother Advisor of Alamogordo Assembly and four of her girls witnessed the initiatory service. Our girls gave the Roswell Assembly a rising vote of thanks for the excellent work put on.

The social hour was one of merriment and we hope our guests will pay us another visit in the near future. The girls receiving the degrees were Betty Lou Ward, Frances Degner, Mollie Greer, Mary Ruth Ervin, and Vernon Mildred Greer, all good Rainbow material.

A vote of thanks for their assistance is extended to the following Mesdames, Bostian, Mae English, Hoffman, Ula Meyer, Mattie Kelley, Maude Baxter, Elena Sale, Maude L. Blaney and Misses Grace Jones and Jane Gallacher. Colonel Lusk helped Institute our Assembly in 1928, we are grateful for his help then, now and in the future.

Installation of officers Thursday at 7 o'clock.

—Contributed.

Mesdames V. Reil, Olin Campbell and Bennie Cox spent last Saturday in Roswell on business.

Committee For President's Ball

The following committees have been appointed for the President's Birthday Ball to be held at the Community Hall, Jan. 30: Floor manager: Wm. Gallacher. Assistants: Don English, Albert Roberts, Geo. T. McQuillen and Will Ed Harris.

Ticket seller: S. Dewey Stokes, Ticket takers on door: Lonnie McClintock and Supt. J. M. Carpenter.

The following chairmen have been appointed for the county: Carrizozo, Mrs. Geo. T. McQuillen; Capitan, Perry Sears; Fort Stanton, R. S. Fagan; Ruidoso, Jack Hull and Bill Hart; Glencoe, Mrs. Bert Bonnell; Nogah, Mrs. Clyde Luckey; Tinnie, Mrs. Marie Merchant; Corona, Mrs. Geo. Simpson; Ancho, Cap Straley; Jicarilla, Mrs. Sam Nickels.

L. A. Whitaker,
County Chairman.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Carrizozo met in regular session last Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. C. A. Snow presiding. About forty members were present.

Mrs. Ray Lemon lead in singing "God Bless America," with Mrs. Burns at the piano, Mrs. Kroggel sang two beautiful songs.

Mrs. Berry of El Paso gave an interesting book review on "The Saratoga Trunk" also another book report. Mrs. Berry was accompanied by Mrs. Martinez, also from El Paso.

The committee on the Red Cross collection reported their quota of $50.00 collected and turned over to the proper authorities.

Refreshments consisted of three kinds of sandwiches, banana bread and coffee, a very delicious combination.

Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nickels announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Willis to Mr. Clark S. Nabours of Lubbock, Texas.

The young couple were married in Las Cruces, on January 12th, and will reside in El Paso where the groom is stationed at the present time at Ft. Bliss.

Mrs. Nabours is well known here, having been born and reared in Carrizozo. She is a graduate of the local high school and has a host of friends here who wish her and her husband much success and happiness.

Enchilada Dinner

The Enchilada dinner given Wednesday evening at the Community Center building by the Woman's Society of Christian service proved to be a most successful affair. About 75 attended. The Business Men's Club attended in a body.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOL NEWS

Semester Grade cards were given out Wednesday. A few students received unsatisfactory grades; which grades could be greatly improved if a conference of parents and teachers could work out a time and place for some home study. Home study is an absolute necessity for getting the most out of high school work.

Saturday evening Mountainaire High School will journey over to our fair city to meet our Boys Basketball team of Carrizozo high. Since a large number of Boosters from Mountainaire are following their team; let us get out all local Boosters.

Our Music Department under direction of Prof. Clyde O. Brewster is staging a benefit Party at the Country Club Friday evening. All funds netted from this event will go to benefit the Music Dept.

Illness is causing several absences from school this week.

Miss Dixie Lee Doss, our popular teacher in the second grade, has a very enthusiastic group of children. Their recent activities in their Workbook "Work and Play in Numberland" is a real inspiration.

The Biology Department is collecting a few hundred specimens of bugs and other animal life in Lincoln County. Visitors are frequent to see the unusual specimens. We appreciate their visits.

Big Enough for Japs

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21. Pvt. Willie Dockray, 23, former Captain, N. M., cowboy, listed by Camp Callan officers as the smallest man in the U. S. Army, is convinced he's big enough to beat the Japs. He stands four feet, 11 inches.

That was the argument Dockray, nicknamed "Almost" used to induce recruiting officers at Santa Fe to accept his offer of enlistment after he learned he was too short for the draft.

"Those Japs aren't bigger than I," argued Dockray.

Dockray arrived this week for basic training at the Coast Artillery replacement center, where trouble really began.

Willie asked for a size four shoe and was given a five. He had to cut two inches off the trouser legs and four inches off the shirt sleeves of the smallest uniform the Army issues. - Albuquerque Journal.

SYNOPSIS

THE STORY SO FAR: Janice Trent runs away from wedding Ned Paxton, rich, but a gay blade. Disguised as a tubercular youth, she becomes camp secretary in Alaska where Bruce Harcourt had been made chief, replacing Joe Hale who had been going down hill. Janice keeps out of sight of Bruce, who knows her. But one day, while visiting the cabin of the Samp sisters, who run the Wame Shop, he sees her asleep in a chair. Jimmy Delevan, the secretary, is the very Janice whom he had on his last visit to New York impulsively advised not to marry Paxton. He decides camp is no place for a woman, but Tubby Grant, his assistant, insists it's hard to get a good secretary in the wilderness. Janice tells Bruce her story. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER V

"And then?" asked Harcourt. Janice went on:

"I saw you. I clutched at your suggestion that we go out for dinner. Suppose my resentment proved but a wooden sword of defense against Ned Paxton's persuasive smile, suppose it broke, I asked myself. If I were out of the house when he came, its strength wouldn't be tested. And then as we talked all my old liking for you, my trust in you, came sweeping back. You sold me Alaska. When you spoke of the secretary you couldn't get I had an inspiration. After my first year in Society with a large S, feeling as futile as a goldfish in a crystal bowl, bored to tears by the ceaseless round of teas and dinners and dances, of ushering here, settling something there, I plunged into a secretarial course and made good, rather exceptionally good. Father lost his money before he died. I had the choice of three alternatives: marriage, living on my brother, or getting a job. The first was no longer to be considered; the second was an impossible situation. Why should I not take that Alaskan position? Remember that I observed that there would be dozens of girls ready to go?"

"I do."

"Well, later in that sleepless night I began to wonder why you should have been the man out of all the hundreds in the city to appear at the dramatic moment to pick up my slipper. You had acknowledged that you believed that there was an unknown force in the world which no one as yet understood. That force wouldn't bother with me the second time, I argued; if I were dumb enough to ignore it, I should be able to help. Was this my chance to earn a living, to escape the publicity which my cancelled wedding would broadcast? Remember that you said that young trees grow more sturdy after transplanting?"

"They don't bring plants from a hothouse to this wilderness and expect them to grow."

"Perhaps they don't, Bruce, but I'll take a chance that I'll flourish." Harcourt steeled himself against her charm. "Go on! Explain Jimmy Delevan."

"Mussolini! Holding my nose down to the grindstone of facts, aren't you? I devoted two days to thinking the situation through, while at the same time I superintended the return of wedding presents. I knew that so far as the work went I could do it. I decided to try for the position, to put thousands of miles between myself and Ned Paxton."

"Do you still love him so much?"

"I wonder now if it was love. This northern country has done things to my sense of values. To proceed with the story of my young life—I left New York stealthily—to evade reporters—with my trousseau—almost all of it—I remembered what you said about the chic women—and a few cherished possessions. I had told Billy that I had broken with Paxton. He was white with relief. Then one day I slipped away leaving a note, telling him not to try to find me, that I was going away to stay until after the excitement had blown over, to be near an old friend—that's you."

"Go on."

"That was what I did. I went to Seattle. It had seemed delightfully easy when I planned it. Imagine my amazed consternation when I found that the agency at which I applied would not send a girl to an engineers' camp in Alaska. A man had been demanded and a man would be sent. The agent glared at me with such suspicion that I scrunched like a gypsy worm beneath the heavy heel of his disapproval."

"At least there is one man in the business with sense."

"Don't growl; you cramp my narrative style." She disciplined a nervous laugh. "Because my imagination began to project all sorts of hazardous risks I determined to crash through or perish in the attempt. I won't give in to a fear complex—ever again. I settled down to constructive thinking. I remembered a newspaper story of an English woman who for years had passed herself off as a man, remembered that because of the husky note in my voice had taken men's parts in dramatics. Good old subconscious! I would apply as a boy. A dye for my hair, a low drawn hat, Prince of Wales style, tweed suit, a little, a super heroic dash on my cheeks to suggest a reason for my exile, and in Jimmy Delevan evolved."

"They don't bring plants from the hothouse to this wilderness and expect them to grow."

Harcourt passed his hand over his face as though by the gesture he could smooth the perplexities from his mind.

"And one darned agent fell for you?"

"With a groan of relief he swallowed me, bait, hook and sinker, signed me on the dotted line."

"I have no words in which to express my opinion of your infernal recidivism in coming to this wilderness!"

"You are doing fairly well. Stop pacing the floor as though you were an Alaskan bear and listen. I'll acknowledge that for a moment the silence, the wildness, the terrific expanse of land, sea and sky got me by the throat. I hadn't had the slightest conception of what the word Alaska stood for, this part of it. When later I thought of the clothes I had brought—trunks of them—ordered and designed for the prospective wife of a millionaire, the table linen and bedding I had selected from my bountiful supply, for the first time in my life I touched the borderland of hysterics. I laughed till I cried. But I licked the fear-complex. I'm here."

She rose laughing, exultant, lovely. "And I have made good, yes? Haven't I, Mr. Grant?" she demanded of the man who entered the cabin with the husky at his heels. The dog thrust his nose into the girl's hand. Every hair of Blot, the black cat, bristled as though electrified.

"I'll say you have. What's he going to do?"

Harcourt looked from Grant's round, smooth face, with its bell-shaped green eyes, to Janice's. A man like Paxton wouldn't let such a lovely girl slip away. She was safe here. The outfit needed her.

"Jimmy Delevan goes."

At Grant's sharp protest and an indignant exclamation from Janice he held up his hand.

"Wait a minute! Your secretary stays, Tubby, but only as Miss Trent. And if she stays she will do exactly as I say." Ignoring her indignant protest, he went on: "Make up your mind to it—otherwise there is a boat going out tomorrow—and you go with it."

His jaw set grimly. How a feminine invasion could mess up a situation! His turmoil of mind was reflected in his voice.

"Does Jimmy Delevan go or does Miss Trent stay?"

"Miss Trent stays," the girl assured promptly.

"Then she is not to report for work until after the boat goes out tomorrow." Without waiting for an answer Harcourt crossed to the door.

As he walked toward his office his thoughts returned to Janice Trent. She had run away from her prospective bridegroom because she didn't trust him, yet loved him so much she didn't dare stay. His lips tightened.

The Hales would be off tomorrow. Millicent was sweet and much to be pitied, but she had claws, and he had a conviction that she would scratch deep and raggedly where other women were concerned. She had reigned as queen in this outpost camp. "She would not abdicate gracefully."

At the door of his office he collided with a man coming out. His red face registered relief.

"Been looking for you everywhere, Chief."

"What's wrong?"

"Hale! Had a slight shock. We radioed to Fairbanks to ask if we should take him to the hospital by plane. Answer came, 'No! Keep him there.'"

"We can't keep him here."

"Search me. Mrs. Hale says he'll go tomorrow if he goes on a stretch—or—but the Doc will have the say."

"Where were we, Miss Trent?" Theodore Grant Junior tilted back in a chair beside the typewriter desk in the administration office. He and Bruce Harcourt shared at headquarters.

Janice read from her note-book. Grant's voice went on and on till steam-shovel gangs and dishing gangs filed in endless procession through the girl's mind. She stopped for an instant to fix her fingers. Grant noted the supercilious action.

"I'm sorry. You're such a bird."

"Where were we, Miss Trent?"

"Hale speaking. Is this Miss Trent?"

"Yes."

"Will you take pity on a poor duffer who's been forbidden to write and take a letter or two for me?"

"Certainly, Mr. Hale. When?"

"At once if you will. I want it ready to go in the first plane that takes off."

"I will come."

at it I forget that you're not a machine. That will do for the present."

He departed. Tong bestowed a moist doggy kiss upon Janice's hand before he followed at his heels.

She clasped her hands behind her head, tipped back in her chair, regarded the moss-chinked walls, the old-time Yukon stove, which made the modern filling cabinets seem blantly nouveau riche, the high desk at which the chief of the outfit worked when he was in the office. Through the open window she could see the kennels and the huskies in the yard, some rollicking, some soaking in sunshine, some yelping.

Months had passed since the night Bruce Harcourt had returned her slipper, had brought vividly to mind her childish adoration of him. When he had stepped out upon the stage of her life again he had seemed a divine answer to her prayer to know what was right to do. Their paths crossed. Immediately the pattern of her life was changed. Her trust, her belief in him, in his power to surmount obstacles, surged up from her subconscious where it had lain quiescent through the years. He knew what he wanted and went after it. Why shouldn't she do the same?

The way which had threatened to be rough with complications had smoothed out like a trotting-park when she had seen the Samp sisters. She had told them the truth at once. Gaunt Miss Martha's agate eyes had disappeared in a network of fine lines.

"If you're bent on keeping this job, tell Harcourt the truth, quick, or he'll send you back hummin'." Keep clear of Hale; he might—well, just keep clear of him, that's all.

Three weeks had passed since she had discarded her disguise and gone to the office in one of the sports suits of her trousseau. The engineers had greeted her with smiling courtesy, the workmen with sheepish grins. What explanation had Bruce Harcourt made to them? She had her own log house now, connected by a covered passage with the Samp cabin. It had gone up as by magic after Bruce had decided that she might stay.

Bruce had commanded her to keep out of sight till Hale had sailed and then—Hale hadn't sailed. The physician from Fairbanks had decided that it would be a risk to move him, that he would be better where he was, had warned him against excitement, letting his temper get the best of him. Was his wife in love with Bruce Harcourt? Was he in love with her? Had Millicent Hale been one of the lures which kept him in this northern wilderness? Did she resent the presence in camp of another woman of his class?

What did Bruce Harcourt think of it all? He was rarely in the office. One day he would be up the inlet in the launch to inspect the damage done by the rise of a stream, next he would be off with a section-gang and a steam-shovel; perhaps before forty-eight hours had elapsed he would be miles away inspecting the work of a ditcher. Not once had he entered the Samp cabin which had become the evening rendezvous for the engineers. Why didn't he join them? Why did he treat Tubby Grant's secretary with distant courtesy? Her leisure time was full. Jimmy Chester was teaching her to shoot; Tubby was patiently training her to be a fairly efficient photographer; the geologist of the outfit provided her with a hammer and showed her how to get at the secrets pebbles and rocks had concealed within them. What fun she and Bruce might have together.

The ring of the telephone brought her iridescent day-dream and the front legs of her chair down in a simultaneous crash. She answered the call.

"Office."

"Hale speaking. Is this Miss Trent?"

"Yes."

"Will you take pity on a poor duffer who's been forbidden to write and take a letter or two for me?"

"Certainly, Mr. Hale. When?"

"At once if you will. I want it ready to go in the first plane that takes off."

"I will come."

Household Hints

Snack on a Frosty Night—Broiled Wienies (See Recipes Below)

Wintry Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with their full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating and other winter-time amusements call for piping hot, hearty snacks to take care of brisk appetites. While in warmer weather, the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as hot food, satisfying but still simple, is in demand.

Here's a dish that just seems to fit the bill: the broiled wienies and hot potato salad pictured above. Of course, hot potato salad with wienies is an old favorite but there's a touch of something new in the wienies broiled with cheese and the green beans around the potato salad to add a touch of color.

Broiled Wienies. Select two to three skinless frankfurters for each person to be served, two will do nicely for the girls and women but better count three for the men and boys. Split the frankfurter and insert a strip of American cheese. When almost ready to serve, pop into the broiler and cook until cheese melts and browns.

Hot Potato Salad. (Serves 6)

6 potatoes, boiled with skins on
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
Salt and pepper
6 slices bacon, broiled until crisp, crumbled

Peel potatoes and cube. Add remaining ingredients. Just before ready to serve, mix with this hot dressing:

Cooked Salad Dressing.
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon yellow mustard
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon butter

Blend dry ingredients, then add egg yolk and blend until smooth. Add water, then vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring all the while, until thick. Remove from fire, add butter and serve hot, mixed with potato salad.

Spaghetti is and has been for some time now one of the reigning favorites among hot dishes to serve in the evening.

Here's one dish you'll like because it's both tart and satisfying, with plenty of cheese and sauce baked right into the long strips of spaghetti:

Baked Spaghetti. (Serves 8)

1 pound package of spaghetti
3 small onions, chopped fine
2 tablespoons oil
1 pound ground beef
1/2 pound sausage (in the bulk)
1/2 pound mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon pickling spice
1 teaspoon salt
4 small cans tomato sauce
1/2 pound grated American cheese
Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and run cold water through it. Sauté onion, ground meat and sausage in oil until brown. Add mushrooms, spice, salt and tomato sauce. Simmer slowly for 40 minutes. Put thin layer of spaghetti on bottom of buttered casserole. Then add a layer of sauce, then cheese, another layer

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook: Baked beans garnished with brown bread, cream cheese sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. You might try the canned baked beans with sliced ham, too. It's quick, easy and delicious. Toasted buns with hamburgers, cheeseburgers, or ham and cheese slices go over nicely, too. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

of spaghetti and co on until, all sauce, cheese and spaghetti is used. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

Another tomato-meat dish which is guaranteed to be aces with your guests dropping in after a basketball game, sleigh ride or what-have-you is this:

Tamale Pie. (Serves 8)

1 medium-sized onion, chopped
3 tablespoons oil
1 1/2 pounds beef, cut in cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 large can tomatoes (2 1/2 cups)
1 cup yellow hantam corn
1 1/2 cups corn meal
5 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup grated cheese

Brown onion in oil, then add beef and cook until brown. Add salt, chili powder, tomatoes and corn and cook slowly 1 hour. Add corn meal to sauté water and cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool mush, then line buttered casserole dish with a 1-inch layer of the mush. Pour in meat-vegetable mixture, then top with remaining mush. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 1 1/2 hours. During last quarter hour, sprinkle top with cheese. Serve with a sauce made by heating one can of tomato soup to which has been added 1 can of ripe, pitted olives.

Are you one of those homemakers who is always looking for one dish that can be modified and yet seem to be different every time it's served?

I think baked beans is one of those dishes, and because of its hearty appeal you can serve it often.

Bean and Sausage Bake. (Serves 4)

1 small onion, sliced
1/2 pound link sausage
1 can baked beans
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon chili sauce

Place onion on bottom of casserole and lay sausage on top of onion. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes, then drain off excess fat. Combine beans with onion, sausage, pickle relish and chili sauce. Return to oven for 20 minutes to reheat.

If you have only eggs, don't ever despair for they have excellent possibilities as snacks. Try scrambled eggs with cheese, bacon fried crisp and brown and crumbled, or broiled sausages. Omelets made with a slice of American cheese before they're folded are menu tempters, as are omelets made with a tomato sauce folded over them before serving.

Peach Crisp Pudding.

4 cups diced, dried peaches
2 cups water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon each, cloves, nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups 1/4-inch toasted bread cubes
2 cups corn flakes

Soak peaches in boiling water 10 minutes. Drain, add water and sugar; cook covered for 30 minutes. Remove from heat, add honey and stir until well mixed. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly, add eggs and beat well. Stir in spices, favoring, bread cubes and corn flakes. Place one-half of mixture in buttered baking pan. Spread peaches evenly over top and cover with remaining mixture. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven about 25 minutes. (Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union.)

AMERICAN RED CROSS WAR CHEST CAMPAIGN

The Red Cross has requested to raise fifty million dollars for a War fund to be used for taking care of men in the armed forces of the United States, and for their families.

President Roosevelt issued a proclamation to this effect: at Friday, and asked that each chapter meet its quota as quickly as possible.

The quota for Lincoln County is $1100.00. Mr. J. E. Hall is the County War fund Chairman, and sub-chairmen have been appointed in each community in the County.

Every person who can give to this cause is urged to see their local chairman or forward funds direct to Mr. Hall at Carrizozo at once.

Let's do our part for the protection of our boys in service and put this drive over the top as quickly as possible.

Frank Adams, Chapter Chairman.

Last Words

Last words of dying persons are like the mutterings in a delirium.
Why then are they so treasured? asks
Dr. J. Shelton Horsley in an article in Hygeia Magazine. The melodramatic picture of relatives hovering over a deathbed is based on the wrong conception. Last words are of no value when they come from a mind benumbed by approaching death. It is better to remember the words spoken while the person was in a healthy mental and physical state.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, the anthropologist, once had a plan to measure the skulls of all congressmen, in his studies Brain Indexers of head-size and contour in their relation to intelligence. The congressmen didn't like the idea and nothing came of it.

Studying skills, rather than skulls, Dr. Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts college, gets better co-operation. In August, 1940, the government put him at the head of a committee of savants to work up a national brain index. They have compiled an index of several hundred thousand good brains.

This committee was known as the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel, and now there has been added to it a special committee on wartime requirements for specialized personnel, with Dr. Carmichael as chairman. The obvious function of the committee is to find good brains and recruit them.

Since the first World war, the classical Binet-Simon intelligence quotient has gained by sundry repairs and betterments. The inquiry now covers not only the question of whether we know much of anything but whether we have any genius.

In 1920, we saw an experiment in a progressive school in San Francisco which now seems pertinent to what Dr. Carmichael and his committee are trying to do. They picked a group of high I.Q. boys, of superior heredity and cultural background, and then they picked some less favored lads, of low I.Q. from the North Beach foreign section. They gave each child a certain amount of money, told him to buy some thing, start trading and report gains or losses in two months. When the bell rang, most of the silk-stocking lads had lost their shirts and the North Beach mob had fanned its holdings up to sizeable juvenile fortunes.

From this, the pedagogs figured something like survival intelligence as distinguished from merely superimposed and possibly non-convertible cultural intelligence. It is unquestionably survival intelligence that Dr. Carmichael and his brain-indexers are looking for, as their study has to do with particularized, specialized, useful, workable skills.

Dr. Carmichael, one of the most distinguished of modern psychologists, was born in Philadelphia in 1890, and was educated at Tufts and Harvard, and taught at Princeton and Brown before becoming president of Tufts in 1930.

DOWN near Windy Gap, on the edge of Death Valley, we knew a big, dead-pan cow-puncher who doubled in dancing and fighting, and who could dance down or smack down any body in those parts. Elsewhere, we have found this unique blend of talents only in Manuel Quezon, recently inducted into his second term as president of the Philippines.

Sr. Quezon negotiated for Philippine independence in the New York studio of Arthur Murray, the dancing master. Dancing is his art, his recreation and his driving passion. Four hours a day went to dancing when he was cutting the islands adrift—with second thoughts later. The first dancing shift was from 10 o'clock until noon. The hours from one to three went to Philippine independence, and then the dancing picked up from three to five.

The bright-eyed, coffee-colored little man with the dazzling smile so captivated Woodrow Wilson that the President put a declaration for Philippine independence slap-bang into the Democratic platform. But in the Hawes-Cutting bill, enacted in 1903, Senator Quezon found a one-way tariff squeeze, unsatisfactory guarantees as to the attitude of Pacific powers, and other defects, and started dancing and negotiating his way around these obstacles.

He is said to be just about the smartest politician in the business. He is university trained. His father was a Filipino and his mother half Spanish. He smokes cigarettes in an endless chain, dancing or sitting still, gesticulates fluently and turns the sharp spotlight of a keen, agile, realistic mind on matter in hand. He was wounded in the Philippine war for independence and for years struggled with the jungle diseases, somewhat embarrassed in his later career by the rampant and bellicose Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo. President Quezon is 50.

Dark Cellar Stairs

A NEIGHBOR of mine was recently badly hurt by a fall down the stairs leading from the kitchen to the cellar. Knowing those stairs, I could understand her accident, for going down them was like stepping into a tunnel. The family had planned to "do something about it," but the accident happened before they got around to it. For full safety, an electric light should have been put in the ceiling, although this would have meant somewhat complicated wiring. As an alternative, white paint could have been used—and plenty of it. In the first place, the treads of the steps at the top and bottom could be painted solid white, while white bands an inch or two wide could be painted along the front edges of the remaining treads. These would have shown the position of the steps, even in a dim light. In addition to this, the sides and the ceiling of the stair even could also be white. Had this been the accident would have been prevented, and needless to say, the caving in doctor's bills would have paid for the improvement many times over.

Rough Plaster Walls

Textured walls and sand finished plaster can be very attractive when they are new, but are likely to give trouble later on because of difficulty in cleaning them. Also, home owners may become tired of the effect, and would prefer to have papered or smooth plastered walls. The walls can be smoothed with powdered whiting, mixed with strong glue size to a stiff paste of the consistency of wall plaster. On sand finished walls, this is applied with a trowel in a layer only thick enough to cover the rough finish. The new plaster can be smoothed with a trowel or with a rubber squeegee, such as is used for window cleaning. Needless to say, the old finish should be cleaned as well as possible with a stiff brush and a vacuum cleaner, before putting on the new coating. A roughly textured plaster wall should be gone over with coarse sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood, to take off the highest of the rough points. The depressions can then be filled with the same whiting-and-glue size paste, to be applied with a trowel and given a smooth finish.

Wood Flooring

A home owner who is planning to build a game room in his basement asks about laying a wood floor over the present concrete floor. One thing to guard against in this is damage to the wood floor by dampness in the concrete. Any concrete floor laid on the ground, even over a bed of cinders, picks up moisture. A wood floor laid on top is likely to buckle and eventually to rot. The necessary waterproofing can be provided by covering the concrete with heavy tar paper or building felt, stuck down with tar or liquid asphalt. An even better method is to lay the wood floor on the concrete, without nails, by the use of an asphalt cement compound called "mastic." This provides a waterproofing layer that binds the wood strips to the concrete as well as to each other, so that nailing is not necessary. This method of floor laying is in common use for such conditions, as is well understood by floor contractors.

Dark Room

Question: The walls of a living room are paneled in dark wood; the ceiling is beamed, with light paper between. The room faces north-east. Windows are dormers, a little more than a yard long. The room is dark. Can you suggest any way to lighten it?

Answer: The most obvious way is to paint the paneling white, or some light color, and the ceiling beams as well. Unless the paneling is very choice wood, the change should be attractive. If the natural finish must be retained, the paneling could be bleached, although this would be a more tedious job. Wood bleaches can be had at a good paint store. Window draperies should be thin and light in color. Floor covering should be light. Large wall mirrors will also help.

Floor Finish

Question: Our old floors were sanded 11 months ago, and have darkened on the parts around rugs that are exposed. How often should they be washed and waxed? Will they darken with frequent washings and waxings? What can I do to keep them light?

Answer: Wax is not enough of a protection, for dirt will work through and get into the wood. After cleaning the darkened places, you should finish them with a seal or with varnish before waxing; waxed hardwood floors should not be washed. Dirt should be taken up with liquid wax.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS

A BUSINESS
organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, just as in Washington the government maintains a Bureau of Standards.

You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing power every day of every year.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS

It is time to change the water in the goldfish bowl when the water is so warm fish come to the top of the bowl for air. Goldfish like to be kept cool.

Don't keep green bananas in the refrigerator. They ripen at room temperature.

If you like the flavor of cloves, try adding a few whole ones to the fat in which doughnuts are fried.

To remove paper that has stuck to a polished surface, soften with a little olive oil.

If shredded coconut becomes dry it can be softened by steaming in a clean cloth over boiling water.

Keep spices tightly covered and away from the heat. Otherwise, much of the flavor may be lost.

Best for Juice

and Every use!

Nature puts "extras" in California Oranges

You get a deeper color, a richer flavor—enjoy more vitamins and minerals in California orange juice!

California oranges ripen in all-year sunshine. They draw on fertile soils scientifically fed and watered.

These seedless Navels are easy to peel, slice and section for recipes, lunch box and between-meals eating.

Those stamped "Sunkist" are the finest from 14,000 cooperating growers.

"All the Traffic Would Bear"

There was a time in America when there were no set prices. Each merchant charged what he thought "the traffic would bear." Advertising came to the rescue of the consumer. It led the way to the established prices you pay when you buy anything today.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

Page All Housewives. There is a new page in "Uncle Sam's Notebook" headed Conservation, and it carries various sub-heads such as Food, Clothing, Health, Time, and the like.

Here, you will admit, is a task to which the women of America must now give their most intelligent and constructive thought. Somewhere recently the writer saw an old New England slogan which read, "eat it up; wear it out; make it do." That slogan might well hang on the walls of all our homes in this crisis; in different words it means, simply, "do not waste any food; do not relegate to some dark corner of your closet, clothing which, with a little repair, can still be worn; do not rush to buy new household furnishings just because the defense worker in your family has now a good salary."

FOOD AND CLOTHING

If American families are to follow a thrifty, conservative regime of this sort the burden of its planning and execution will rest heavily upon the women, since it is they who dispense the greater part of the national income. Theodore Roosevelt said in one of his famous speeches that social and economic gains are the result not only of "collar work" but also of "breaching work," and it will be breaching work, in great part, which housewives will have to do if families of up-and-coming Americans are to be induced to "eat it up; wear it out; make it do."

The conversational sub-heads mentioned above—food, clothing, health, time, etc., are, however, inextricably linked, and in the process of conserving food and clothing women must also conserve both health and time. That is why the job involves constructive and intelligent thought. Left-over foods can be made attractive and palatable and used up so closely that practically nothing will go into the garbage can, but the necessity of serving balanced meals must never be lost sight of. It requires something close to legerdemain to use all left-over food, provide adequate meals for the entire family, and still stay within the limits of a war-time budget. A bulletin called "Diets to fit the family income" is available from the U. S. department of agriculture, (send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1757) which will be of great service to housewives in this important task. It contains planned menus for a week at a time, tables for weekly market lists, diet plans showing the groups of protective foods, and much other information of value.

"WEAR IT OUT"

It is "something else again" to induce the average family to espouse that part of our slogan which says "wear it out," since everyone likes to have something new and modish to wear. To make acceptable use of clothing that is no longer new involves careful cleaning and skillful remodeling, plus an accurate appreciation of color and design. In most of our large cities and many smaller ones special day and evening classes for adults offer free courses of study in these fields, of which housewives will do well to take advantage. It must be kept in mind that shabby or soiled or definitely outmoded clothing tends to lower the wearer's morale. It is a heavy task which devolves upon American women to keep their families well and smartly dressed in yesterday's wardrobes.

It is obvious that the stricter-than-usual conservation of food and clothing must involve a new expenditure of time on the part of housewives. This in turn should mean a careful budgeting of time for the entire family. The free human spirit dislikes restrictions of all sorts and very few families or individuals ever actually budget their time, but in this war-time crisis "time is of the essence" and should be conserved just as conscientiously as is any other national resource. It seems advisable that families should be induced to rise and breakfast at a stated time; that each member should do allotted tasks, also at stated times; and that late hours should be discouraged in the interest both of health and of time-saving.

How about it, housewives all? Are you game to work with Uncle Sam in making his conservation plans effective?

For information in all fields of conservation, write to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for free lists of bulletins available. Specify the fields in which you are interested.

LOCATING FARM BUILDINGS

If you are just considering where to locate your farm buildings, you will do well to keep in mind five important points: (1) access to the highway; (2) protection from prevailing winds; (3) possibility of adequate drainage; (4) adequate water supply; (5) outlook.

Fashion Revives Long Pearl Necklaces and Gleaming Jet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT MIGHT be aptly said that a woman is known by the jewelry she wears. Certain it is that jewelry accents have a way of showing either refinement of taste, or a love of display. It all depends on whether you belong to the spectacular costume-jewelry group or to the conservative one that holds on to the tradition of quiet elegance.

To women who have an inherited intuitive sense of dignified glamour, pearls are ever the answer to their jewelry preferences. This season the style prestige of pearls has ascended to a new high.

The big news that is adding to the lure of pearls is the return to favor of long ropes of pearls with matching bracelets and earrings in the manner of the ensemble shown above to the left in the illustration. The fact that in this instance pearls are worn with a black wool knit evening sweater is also important news. Time was when jewelry worn with things knitted was taboo. Now it's the smart thing to do.

Speaking of the new ropes of pearls, come are unbelievably long and worn in tiers reaching below the waistline. With a siren-slim black satin formal they are the "last word" in smart jewelry.

Grandmother's pearl choker is also worn by her smart and style-conscious granddaughter. Centered in the group illustrated above you see a modern girl wearing a three-strand matching bracelet and pearl eardrums. The ring is a little gold bow with a diamond knot.

What has been said of pearls may be said of jet. The revival of jet jewelry goes on record as a gesture of utmost style significance. Jet bead ensembles worn with winter white evening sweaters, as pictured above to the right in the illustration, have proved especially popular with college girls.

Groups of clips (called "scatter clips") are being featured this season as an alternate with the single lapel piece. The idea is spreading like wildfire among those who like the new and the venturesome. Centered at the top in the group pictured above is a style-alert "modern" wearing adorable little bows of three different sizes, with bow earrings to match. They are usable also as companion clips for square or "sweetheart" necklines.

Flattering and highly decorative for a plain dark dress are groups of small clips like those worn by the young woman posing below to the left in the picture. These rhinestone birds may also be fastened together, in pairs to make a handsome brooch and there is all-purpose jewelry that can be taken apart to form different pins, clips and various other items. The earrings belonging to this ensemble are also of bird design. Bird, bow and butterfly motifs are very much in the jewelry picture this year.

Amusing themes are worked into jewelry that "makes conversation" because of its novelty, for instance, the lapel pin worn by the young girl pictured below to the right. On her handknit tailored jacket, done in new stitch, she is wearing a lucite fish with fins of gold plate and rhinestones.

(Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union.)

Winter-White

The sensation of the present season—winter-white wool! Wear it for informal dinners and cocktail parties with fine costume jewelry of rhinestones. A beautifully designed flower pin, and a wide, important bracelet adds glamour to the picture. The movement to wear winter-white dresses under winter furs is gaining momentum right along. Tiny white hats are chic, also, for immediate wear, especially the new diminutive sailor types with their wing trimming and a whimsical veil.

Guest Scuffs

Take your boudoir slippers along if you want to when you go away to spend the week-end. But you probably don't need to. Your hostess may have learned the modern trick of making "guest scuffs" as they are called. These are part of the equipment of the guest room in many homes.

These Buttons Snap On And Are Simple to Use

It is most assuredly a button season. The newest use of large pretentious buttons is to ornament as well as provide fastenings for the dainty pastel wool jacket suits so popular for immediate wear under fur coats and later to wear without a wrap on a balmy spring day.

You can get all sorts of buttons. The newest among them is the button with a snap-on base. You draw this portion up through the button-hole and then clip it to a handsome over button that looks more like jewelry than a mere utilitarian fastening.

Wrap Around

Some new coats have sleeves cut all in one with the yoke, or body of the garment. And they are so fashioned as to wrap around to one side. They concentrate on quality fabric, and when unfurled, as most of them are, they call for a stunning fur muff matched with a flattering fur hat.

Evening Capes

Capes that have a new look because of the embroidery lavished on them in the way of yokes or tuxedo panels down the front are the "last word" in evening wraps. They are, for the most part, made of velvet or fine cloth, and they may be either floor length or hip length.

Frothy White

Again we have with us, with more to follow as spring gets well under way, the little dark-toned or black dress that is enlivened with "oodles" of frothy white at the neckline and wrists. The new white neckwear is entrancing. Also, pastel accessory items are coming out in new lingerie versions.

Bell-Allen

On Jan. 9, 1942, Miss Margaret Bell of Hondo, N. M. became the bride of Mr. James Allen of Waussan Wisconsin. The young couple were married in Roswell by Rev. Leroy Thompson of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell of Hondo. The groom is employed by the government in the Finance Department of the new Air Base which is being constructed in Roswell.

The bride wore a navy blue street length dress for the occasion, while the groom was dressed in military uniform.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen left a few days after the wedding for Phoenix, Arizona, where Mr. Allen will continue with his work for Air Bases for a short time after which they expect to be back in Roswell. There many friends wish them much happiness and success.
