Business Men's Club

In keeping with its customary yearly practise, the club prepared to entertain Judge Frenger and his official family on the first meeting after District Court convenes, but on account of Assistant District Attorney Walker being called to his home in Alamo-gordo, and court stenographer Miss Ruth Turbeville also being absent, only the Judge and Interpreter Jose Viramontes were guests of the club.

Sec. Dorsett tendered his resignation and gave for his reason that other duties, principally to the Boy Scouts taking up so much of his time, made it difficult for him to do what he considered justice to all. The resignation after being accepted, President Burke turned it over to the Board of Directors. The Board after holding a conference, offered the name of James Bristler, who was elected by acclamation.
After several pending measures were dispensed with, the President presented Judge Frenger and Mr. Viramontes as guests of the club. The Judge, in his usual becoming manner, gave his hearers one of the best patriotic addresses the club members have heard for some time. He was interrupted with applause many times and received the thanks of the club for the same, which was the feature of the evening. Mr. Viramontes gave a short talk and spoke of how much the official family always looked forward to coming to Carrizozo and appreciated the friendly spirit which existed between the court officials and the people of our home town. Attendance, members 18, visitors 2. Total 20.
James Bristler, Sec'y.

SCHOOL NEWS

Pictures were the order of the day Wednesday. The Basketball teams and their coaches each tried the camera.

Supt. Carpenter visited the St. Rita Schools Wednesday and after checking up on amount of Stamps and Defense Bonds for each grade, he offered congratulations to the first grade for having the greatest amount.

Sixteen hundred and 81 dollars is the grand total of Defense Stamps and Bonds held by the 452 students of our schools. Of this amount the 5th grade is the champion with a total of $552.60. “The Rap-a-Jap Club” expresses appreciation to all students for their participation in the drive for sale of stamps and bonds.

The problem of sugar rationing is occupying the attention of several teachers. Data is being compiled in the office of the Superintendent showing the size of families residing in the trade territory of Carrizozo. The first booklets for sugar rationing will be issued within the next few weeks.

High School and Junior High students are now devoting their play periods to Baseball. The students of the lower grades are recreating themselves by playing Jacks and Marbles.

FIRST AID CLASSES

Two Red Cross First Aid Classes are scheduled to start soon at Corona, with Drs. Barry and Beldon, instructors. Classes have been in operation for several weeks at Hondo, Ruidoso and Carrizozo. Hand books have been received by the local Secretary for classes in Home Nursing and classes in this division will start in the near future. Mrs. O'Malley of Capitan is chairman of this department. We are losing one of our most valuable chairmen, when Mrs. S. Degitz, chairman of War Production, leaves Carrizozo. Mrs. Degitz has handled the job for several years has made an outstanding success of it.—Frank Adams, County Chairman.

Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce

Entertained a number of guests at dinner at the S. P. Hotel last Friday at 6:15 p. m.

Col. Wilfred McCormick of Ruidoso and several couples from this vicinity attended.

At 7:45 all repaired to the H.S. School Auditorium where speaking, music and singing of a patriotic nature were indulged in.

The speakers were Col. McCormick and Mr. Carpenter, Supt. of Schools.

In the absence of Mr. J. H. Fulmer, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who was ill, Dr. Blaney acted as Chairman of the meeting.—Reporter.

We Hope Not

It has been rumored recently and the rumors are becoming more persistent, that an effort is being made to close this railroad crossing on Main street. This would seem an unnecessary inconvenience to heap upon this end of town. Is it not enough to have moved the post office? This part of town has business houses that are as enterprising, as energetic and as wide awake as any firms on the other side, so why add insult to injury and make us go to the overpass when this way is nearer and safer? The overpass is a junction point and extreme caution has to be exercised when going in any direction. This Main street crossing is convenient for all those who live in the Highlands, while the other way round will work a hardship. Let us at least have a way in and out of this end of town towards the Highlands and the mountains and the golf course.

Warfare on Ants
Ants infesting house timbers, which have not been previously impregnated with creosote, may sometimes be reached and killed by the abundant use of kerosene injected by means of a syringe, or, where the timbers are accessible, by spraying or soaking them with kerosene. All timbers which have been mined and weakened should be replaced with timbers protected with creosote.

Fire at Ruidoso Power Plant Manager Burned

Ruidoso — Ruidoso was left without lights and power when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the town's electric plant, valued at $30,000. Responding townspeople and CCC enrollees formed a bucket brigade. The volunteer firemen waged a valiant but unsuccessful battle against the flames which were fed by oil stored in the building. W. A. Hart, plant manager, suffered burns about the hands and face while battling the blaze.

Appreciation

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to Mr. J. E. Hall, War Fund Chairman, and all the committeemen who worked with him on the War Fund Drive, for the splendid manner in which the drive was handled, and for the very fine results obtained. The drive netted about fifty percent more than our quota for the County, and the job was completed in less than sixty days.
Frank Adams, Chairman

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—With all the bad news now coming through, there is reassurance in finding an intelligence officer who is really intelligent. If he is both intelligent and optimistic, it's like finding a four-leaf clover. The congenital optimists in this department have known in the last few years haven't been any too bright.

Everybody who knows Col. Egmont Francis Koenig, intelligence officer of the First air force, stationed at Mitchell Field, L. I., testifies that he is "smart in the head." As to his hopeful outlook, here's his current observation about plane production:

"I can assure you that were you to know the exact figures of actual bomber production your heart would swell with pride, as did mine when these figures were confided to me."

The First air force comprises 22 states of this region. As head of its G-2 section, Colonel Koenig is its eyes and ears, and its alarm clock. If he happens to be an optimist, he has to work like a pessimist, who expects the worst. Small, agile, diligent and alert, insatiably curious about many things, he is at the opposite pole of the brass-hat army tradition, easy to see, an enemy of red tape, popular with his men and a multitude of others eager to give him an earful about anything they consider important.

Colonel Koenig's mind has many facets all of which were polished up in various pursuits before he entered the first World War as an amateur soldier and rose rapidly in rank as an apt pupil in the science of arms. A native of New York, he was in Europe as correspondent of the old New York World when the war started and entered the army as a second lieutenant. Two years later, in 1918, he was a major, at the age of 28.

Back home in 1920, he entered the chemical warfare service. He was one of the founders and the first lecturer at the Army Industrial college, later an instructor at the Fort Riley Cavalry school, and then in Hawaii for two years. He was back in 1933, teaching military history and intelligence at the general staff school at Fort Leavenworth.

He attended St. Francis Xavier and took his bachelor of arts degree from Columbia in 1912.

DEAN SWIFT said he had grave misgivings about the human race as a whole but he couldn't help liking John and Peter and Paul.

Free Frenchmen In the current tragedy of "Man against himself," this department finds the highly personalized aspects of the encounter the most encouraging.

One feels that way in meeting Lieut. Gen. Louis Souques of the Free French, in New York, en route to London from French Equatorial West Africa. If you happen to think that there is too much machinery in this war and you long for a dash of the Boon Sabreur, fending off black legions with a broken blade, you instantly assign the general this role, and feel much better about the chances for a happy ending. The general's career to date is a reminder that he and the other Free French leaders are tough, realistic, hard-hitting, resourceful and experienced fighting men, who would give battle with cobblestones if they had to.

Obviously the lean, whippet general would have fought with the Alpine Chasseurs. He would wear on his tunic the Croix de Guerre and the ribbon of the Legion of Honor and other decorations.

Asked whether Hitler would be able effectively to convert and use the continental resources of labor and materials, or whether increasing sabotage might pull him down, the general replied:

"At present, Hitler is converting much of these resources, and it would be unwise to underestimate this. But his troubles are already beginning as the conversion turns from consumer goods to capital goods. Obviously, the Germans must center on heavy industry, in utilizing French plants and labor for the war, and the curve of sabotage will go right on up with this effort."

We asked whether the betrayal of France by certain highly placed politicians had been due to the infiltration of Nazi doctrine or to venality. "Most of them were just grafters," he said. "They didn't care much about political philosophies, but they loved money and they feared communism. Pétain wasn't a grafter, but long before the war he had looked sympathetically on what he considered the German achievement of order and discipline. He was an honest believer in his own conception of an authoritarian state."

Triple Wreck Near Horseshoe Curve

Shown here are two of three Pennsylvania Railroad company locomotives which were derailed in a spectacular wreck near the famous horseshoe curve at Altoona, Penn. Two coupled engines which were traveling down the mountain sideswiped an engine pulling a freight train in the same direction. All three engines were derailed, and the locomotive which was pulling the freight rolled down the embankment.

Once Banana Train—Now Troop Train

Winding through the dense jungle of the Canal Zone with banana trees lining its route, this auto-car engine and flat cars were used during peace-time to haul bananas to market. Now troops and supplies are shuttled back and forth to outposts within hiking distance from its rails. This is the semi-weekly train arriving at intersection with a trail leading to anti-aircraft position defending the canal.

Interior Decoration.
A CORRESPONDENT who is planning to redecorate her dining room and living room asks for suggestions on colors that would go with her Swedish modern furniture. She asks also whether the trend is towards paint or wallpaper for the walls. She adds that the trim is now finished with light varnish, and is uncertain as to whether or not paint would be better. Interior decoration is so dependent on personal likes and dislikes that it is difficult for an outsider to give an opinion, especially if he is not acquainted with the rooms; the exposure, the number of windows, and the proportions. The furnishings of the rooms must also be considered; the colors of the rugs, upholstery and draperies. Home owners should make up their own minds as to what they want; for after all, the decorations of their rooms express their own personalities. A middle-aged and gracious couple would feel more at home in a Colonial background of handsome mahogany than in a bleached and streamlined environment appropriate to the younger generation. The larger department stores specialize in interior decoration, and exhibit a variety of rooms furnished and decorated in different styles. My best advice to my correspondent is to visit the exhibits, and to discuss her problem with the expert decorators in charge. She will probably find them willing to visit her house and to study the conditions.

Construction Details
Question: I am planning to build a summer home in the northern lake country. Where can I get information on the building of a chimney and fireplace and on installing plumbing and a sewerage system?
Answer: Pamphlets on these subjects can be had from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. Ask for Farmers' Bulletin 1640: "Chimneys and Fireplaces," and Farmers' Bulletin 1429: "Farm Plumbing." Each costs five cents, which should be sent in coin. Ask also for Price List 72: "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Builders," which will be sent without charge. It covers many subjects that should be of interest to you.

Hot Water Supply
Question: I have a hot air furnace with a coal stoker, an automatic gas water heater and a small water heater that burns rubbish. The water in winter is so cold that extra gas must be burned to heat it. To save gas, could I put a water heating coil in the furnace connected to the rubbish burner, or could I use a tempering tank?
Answer: A water heating coil in the firebox is not satisfactory, because the temperature cannot be controlled. There is likely to be trouble from steaming, and explosion is possible. It would be safer to use a tempering tank connected with the small stove, in which a low but continuous coal fire will provide enough heat to take off the chill.

Iodine Stain
Question: The bottom of our enameled bathtub has brown stains, possibly from iodine, which will not come off with bleaching. How can they be removed?
Answer: An iodine stain can be taken out with household ammonia or with a solution of photographic hypo in water, strength not being important. Neither of these will injure the enamel.

Cleaning Stainless Steel
Question: Copper clad stainless steel kettles have been badly blackened or burned in a fire. How can they be cleaned?
Answer: Rub with fine steel wool and cleaning powder. If you want to renew the original polish, your best move will be to have them cleaned at a plating shop. A garage can give you the address of one nearby.

Roots in Sewer
Question: What will destroy willow roots that have grown into the sewer pipes?
Answer: Dissolve one-half pound of copper sulphate (blue vitriol) in a plumbing fixture and let it drain into the sewer. This will kill the roots and the effect will last for several weeks.

Sealed Tile
Question: Parts of the tile floor in the bathroom of a house we have just bought are dirty looking in places. Kerosene does not clean it. What can we use?
Answer: Floor tile can be cleaned with scouring powder rubbed on with steel wool. For some stains bleaching liquid can be used.

Solded Golf Bag
Question: How can I clean a canvas golf bag?
Answer: Get after it with soap and water and a stiff scrubbing brush.

Lighted Windows by EMILIE LORING

"I walked in and read the riot act to Hale."

or I'll be sorry I told you. You've got so much on your mind. "Never be sorry that you have told me anything about Janice, Miss Martha. Tell her to come back. If she refuses, tell her that if she doesn't come I will come after her. I may have much on my mind, but not too much for that."

Janice stepped back to get the effect of the red geranium trees in nail-kegs on either side of the Waffle Shop door. Gorgeous against the background of weather-bleached log walls.

She looked thoughtfully at the Hale cabin. Not yet twenty-four hours since Joe Hale had gone. An hour or more ago the Commissioner and two deputies had landed on the flying-field. She had not seen Bruce since he had lifted Millicent Hale from the floor and laid her on the couch. With a hurried, "Call the Samp girls," he had dashed out. As she had worked over the unconscious woman, she had tried to crush back the memory of her frenzied wail, "I'm free! Free! If you'd only waited!"

He had been furiously angry at the implication, had opened his lips to refute it when Millicent had crumpled. For an instant he and Janice had stared into one another's eyes, then she had pointed to the woman on the floor.

"Better put her on the couch. Looks as though she had been wading. Her skirt is wet." He had only vaguely noticed that as he lifted her.

Shortly afterward, Grant and he had entered the Hale cabin. Joe lay where he had fallen. They had searched for a revolver, had found nothing but Hale's own which hung in its holster, unloaded, clean barreled. He had sent Tubby for Jimmy Chester and two engineers. While he was waiting, he had picked up the dog to shut him out of the room. A blue glass bead had rolled from between his paws. Tatiana Incredible. He put his hand over the breast pocket of his khaki shirt. The bead was safe in case it was needed in evidence. He had not told the other men of his find.

Could it have been Jimmy? He would have a hard row to hoe if his threat to Joe Hale came out at the inquest. Millicent had heard it. Had she confided in anyone but himself? No matter what Jimmy had threatened, he wouldn't shoot Hale. What had he been saying to Janice when he had interrupted their talk at the dance? "He'll never send for you again!" Good Lord.

"Boy! In the excitement I forgot about that track-laying gang you told me to take out at reveille, Chief," Chester reported. "I've been at the H house with Millicent this morning trying to find out what she wants done about—things."

"Heard you were all excited day before yesterday because Hale had sent for someone. For whom did he send?" Jimmy Chester stared out of the window. "For Miss Trent."

"Janice! How did you know?" "Met her coming out of his cabin. Had just been talking with Millicent at the Waffle Shop, so I knew she wasn't responsible. She wouldn't tell why she had been there. I went at her wrong, I guess, so I just walked in and read the riot act to Joe Hale."

The Commissioner and his deputies were coming by plane, Harcourt said. "Go up to the field, Chester, and see if you can help in the landing." Harcourt looked after Chester as he hurried away. He liked neither Jimmy's color nor his unsteady voice.

Martha Samp halted him from the steps on the H house. "Any danger to Mrs. Hale in moving her?" "Not a mite. I was going to speak to you about that. Your cabin's no place for her. You send Pasca along to help and I'll see that she's moved."

"And that Janice comes back to the H house?" Little lines crinkled from the corners of her eyes like rays drawn to indicate the setting sun. "I'll do my best, but what'd you do to hurt her last night, Mr. Bruce?"

"I hurt her?" "She looked white as a sheet when I went into the H house. When I told her we'd better leave Mrs. Hale where she was, she kinder sniffed an' said: 'Of course. I haven't a doubt but she'd like to stay here forever,' an' off she marched. I was that worried about her that I kept 'runtin' over to the Waffle Shop to stand outside her door. There was a light goin' but it was still as death. Sees alive, don't go so white, Mr. Bruce,

"Who, w-who was it, Tubby?" He patted her hand. "Don't get all excited. I got a jolt at first, as the Commissioner has forbidden anyone to leave headquarters. Then I remembered that he told Parks, one of the deputies, to fly back to the city for an expert he wanted."

"My stars, ain't them blooms pretty?" Martha Samp sat on the walking Grant had abandoned. Failed off one heavy shoe, grimaced with pain as she flexed twisted toes in their white cotton stocking. "Feet ache like the toothache. I never'd know I had a body if it wasn't for them."

Janice gently massaged the cramped toes. "You do too much, Miss Martha. I would have been glad to take care of Mrs. Hale last night."

"It wasn't the place for you. That feels fine. You've got what my mother used to call, healin' hands. Mary an' I can take care of her easy. Pasca's goin' to bring her to the cabin you had so she'll be near. You pack up the rest of your things an' he'll carry them to the H house. Mr. Bruce wants you there."

"He wants me!" "Sakes alive, anything surprisin' about that? Those officials are after him every minute. He's talkin' the tragedy awful hard. Anyone'd think 'twas his fault it happened."

"Why not let Mrs. Hale stay where she is?" "Don't talk like a child, Janice, an' you a married woman. Even if it wasn't hard for Mary an' me to be trotting there from here, a man's cabin is no place for a widow."

She cautiously twisted her foot free of the comforting hands. Grimaced as she pulled on her stout shoe. "Want M's. Hale settled before lunch time. Those officials bein' here make more work, but don't they make life thrilling?" Her eyes snapped, her cheeks flamed red flags of excitement.

"Who do you think did it, Miss Martha?" "They haven't asked me yet. P'raps they think because my joints are stiff the arteries of my brain are hardening, but they're not. I'm not sayin' anything till I can say it before the right parties. Did you hear that plane go out? They've sent for a finger-print expert. Expert! They'd ought to have questioned me first."

"When I heard the airplane zoom, I thought the criminal was escapin'."

"That would be confessing, wouldn't it? The party who snuffed out Joe Hale is too scared or too clever to confess. I haven't made up my mind yet which. I haven't read the newspapers for years without learning something." Her voice prickled with excitement.

In her own cabin, gazing out at the Stars and Stripes floating high and strong in the clear air, Janice faced two alternatives. She could allow Millicent Hale's "I'm free! Free! If you'd only waited!" to fester in her memory until she became a hateful, unhappy person who would be sent out on the next boat amidst a silent chorus of "Thank God she's gone!"—it was human nature to dodge a person with a grievance—or she could take up her life from the time Bruce had said, "I'll get your sandals,"—go on from there as though the rest of that evening never had happened. It would take a big inside resistance to withstand the bitter pressure of Millicent's implication. Could she do it? She must.

It was not surprising that the Commissioner had given Miss Martha an impression of inefficiency, Janice concluded as after the mid-day meal she entered the office. He was the antithesis of all the prosecuting officials she had seen on the screen. He was bland and fair. His eyes met hers. Steel drills. The deputy beside him was small and wiry.

Janice glanced surreptitiously at Harcourt. Two little lines cut deep between his eyes as he bent a supple ivory letter-opener back and forth with his strong fingers.

Tubby Grant opened the door to the wood-shed. Kadyama shuffled into the room.

In obedience to a curt word from the Commissioner, he perched on the edge of a chair.

"You've threatened to get Hale, haven't you?" Evidently the official believed in the attack direct.

"Ump. I say that one, two, p'raps tree time."

"Why?" The Indian's eyes, beady as a trapped rat's, shifted to the Commissioner's face. "He steal Tatiana."

Victory Book Campaign

The million books wanted for the men in the services. Let's give generously, books, more books, the right kind of books. All you book lovers, attention! Here's your chance to help. Uncle Sam has provided library buildings, trained librarians and well-selected up-to-date books for camps with more than 5000 men. But the supply of books is inadequate for the rapidly growing forces in Army and Navy posts, camps and stations. Remember our men in the services don't burn books. They want to read them. Remember Uncle Sam doesn't prohibit reading. He wants all of us to read, to learn, to know, and to enjoy books.

Look over your book shelves. Take down the books you think will interest young men. What does your son read? What do your brothers read? Contribute books men will like, men will read, men will be eager to read. Give from your own live book shelves. Give new, fresh, alive, exciting books.

All books so donated may be left at the Lincoln County Rural School Library to be sent on to Santa Fe from there.

Loan Assistance

The FSA supervisor wishes to remind readers of The Lincoln County News that loan assistance from the Farm Security Administration is available for the purchase of gardening equipment, seed, feed, cows, helters, pigs, and chickens, and to rent workstock and equipment, repair livestock shelters, fences and machinery, and to meet other needs.

Mr. Jones has been assured that this new Food for Victory program has been streamlined with simplified forms which have been worked out to make these loans quickly available. He said the new loan program for the low income families not now participating in the FSA program may amount to as much as $500 for each family and extend from one to five years at 5 percent interest. Present FSA borrowers may get additional loans where needed to help them meet revised operating costs.

Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas

To all Banks in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District:

Recurring rumors that the Federal Government intends to confiscate all savings are being circulated in many parts of the country. The continued circulation of such rumors might lead to the withdrawal of saving deposits. In connection with these rumors, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently made the following statement:

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatever for such rumors. The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal involving the confiscation of the savings deposits of this country for any purpose. Furthermore, anyone circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the nation."

The importance of financing the war effort to the greatest possible extent from current income rather than from accumulated savings has been repeatedly emphasized by the Treasury Department. In furtherance of that policy, efforts are being made to encourage all employers to adopt a payroll allotment plan for the sale of Defense Bonds to their employees, because that is regarded as one of the essential steps in combating the development of inflammatory tendencies.

Last Words

Last words of dying persons are like the mutterings in a delirium. Why then are they so treasured? asks Dr. J. Shelton Horsley in an article in Hygeia Magazine. The melodramatic picture of relatives hovering over a deathbed is based on the wrong conception. Last words are of no value when they come from a mind benumbed by approaching death. It is better to remember the words spoken while the person was in a healthy mental and physical state.

Convenient Farm Kitchens

If the farm wife and her family are taking over an already established farm and farmstead, the chances are that the kitchen will already be "fixed" and not subject readily to much re-planning. If, however, it is at all possible to build the kitchen according to plan, it will pay to expend a good bit of forethought upon it.

The choice and placement of kitchen equipment will be facilitated by having in mind the usual routine of kitchen labor. As a rule the preparing of raw food, cooking, serving, clearing away, and dishwashing will occur, day after day, in the order given.

WORK CENTERS IN THE KITCHEN

In a readable government bulletin dealing with farm kitchen equipment, the following pertinent paragraph occurs:

"The grouping of equipment, small as well as large pieces, into work centers is one of the most important and oftentimes one of the easiest things to accomplish in making a kitchen convenient. Equally important, but in some cases more difficult to bring about, is the relation of the work centers to one another and to the room as a whole. They should be so placed that the various activities in the daily routine go from one center to the next."

SEVEN IMPORTANT KITCHEN CENTERS

In order that the work which must be done in the kitchen may proceed with facility and dispatch, it is well to arrange equipment in such groups as are indicated below:

1. Raw food preparation center: This center will include the sink and worktable, where fruits and vegetables are washed and pared, and where utensils are filled with water for cooking. Here will be gathered, then, all brushes, knives, strainers, stoppans, and similar tools and utensils used in such preparation, plus, also, a serviceable garbage can for the ready reception of waste products.

2. Cooking center: Here will be the range, surrounded by shelves or hangers to accommodate frying pans, griddles, large spoons, forks and ladles, salt, pepper and spice containers, and whatever may be needed for the seasoning of foods. Many such utensils can be hung on the wall if a sheet of zinc is placed to receive them, and the seasonings can be kept on narrow shelves above the range.

3. Serving center: At the serving center accommodation will be provided for china, glassware, silver, electric toaster and pebblator; and for bread, crackers, cake and other ready-to-serve foods. Space should be allowed for the setting out of foods which are ready to serve.

4. Clearing-away and dish-washing center: These duties bring the housewife back to the sink. The china cabinet should be located near the sink but if this is impracticable a wheeled tray or table should be provided for the transportation of dishes to and from the sink.

5. Laundry center: Laundry work does not really belong in the kitchen but if it must be done there, the necessary equipment should be so placed as to interfere as little as possible with the other work of the kitchen. A stationary tub can often be placed under a hinged drainboard of the sink, its cover serving as a work table. An ironing board should be folded into a wall cabinet, which may hold also irons, starch, soap, etc.

6. A dining center: A dining alcove may have many uses, especially if the family is small, or, lacking an alcove, dining equipment may be placed in a corner of the kitchen. It should be near the serving table and should face away from the sink and stove.

7. A special seat: If the kitchen is large, space can be found for a comfortable chair and a small work table or desk where the houseworker can mend, or read, or keep accounts—or even entertain a chance guest—while she keeps an eye on food that is being prepared.

If the kitchen is old and inconvenient, often an old and inconvenient kitchen is a source of despair to the housewife, because the cost of remodeling is prohibitive. Even in such a case, much can often be achieved by a re-arrangement of the furnishing and equipment, particularly if it is possible to refinish the floor and the walls.

For additional information, together with many suggestions for kitchen plans, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers Bulletin No. 1511.

SOIL FOR ROSE CULTURE:

Roses are heavy feeders and must have rich soil if good results are to be obtained. The soil must be carefully prepared and heavily fertilized, the best fertilizer to use being cow manure. Composted manure is valuable, as are also well-rotted leaves and straw.

DEES FOR DEERHORN

Everyone is familiar with the use of deerhorn for knife handles, but not everyone knows that much gelatinous tissue can be obtained from the horns.

all-around box pleats below a deep hip yoke.

The costume shown to the right in the above illustration conveys the most welcome and highly important style news, that the bolero costume has returned in all its glory to the fashion picture. You will see boleros played up throughout the style program this season. In this case self-color eyelet embroidery elaborates the bolero jacket of a two-piece navy sheer costume. The bodice, softly draped at the top, is pink.

To the left above in the picture is shown a two-piece dress that uses a shantung weave, combining white, orange and brown in daring contrast. The separate skirt features box pleats from a hip yoke. Box pleats are really newer than side pleating. Eminent correct for a wartime "suit wedding" is the creamy beige sheer ensemble at the top right in the above illustration.

The full-length coat looks like a dress but is really a wide pleated skirt ceamed to a jacket top, with self-covered buttons down the front from neck to hemline. Finely pleated bow-tails trim the four coat pockets that adorn jacket and skirt. The dress worn under this coat repeats the pleated skirt of the coat, while gathered bodice fullness develops from a deep yoke.

Generally speaking, the favorite silhouette is the long torso effect with some sort of pleated skirt. Also, there is much interest in slim wrap-around skirts and those which have slenderizing harem drapes.

New Flounce

This dress has two very important style messages to convey. The one is the coming vogue for allover embroidery on wool, or rayons and cottons that look like wool. The other is the news that simple wool frocks will be finished off at the hemline with a flounce. Flounces are among the ways designers are contriving to add a pretty feminine note to simple daytime frocks. In the smartest dress collections you will see flounces conspicuously featured. The gown pictured in the above illustration is of soft beige wool with bright green embroidered diamond dots. It has a softly molded waistline, set-in belt and, of course, the flounce!

Style Show Reflects Lowly Fabrics' Use

A preview of spring and summer styles held in Chicago recently showed the 18,000 buyers from 17 states that they were going to carry home an array of chambrays, calicos and denims in women's and children's fashions. For these lowly fabrics have come into their own because of the influence of war.

Style and practicability are still the theme in these fashions, for the designers have kept their eye on both national defense needs, and the desires of millions of women purchasers in stores throughout the nation. Dresses, garden costumes, play clothes and work uniforms—all have been styled by the designers to reflect the signs of the times.

Until manufacturers run out of twills and such fabrics which are fashioned into foundation garments, girdles are here to stay, despite the rubber shortage.

Priorities on tin and other defense needs have caused tie fastenings instead of hooks and eyes, zippers, buttons and clasps to be substituted.

Everything in garments has taken on the practical atmosphere. Everything except the hostess coat which still remains silken and luxurious.

Now They Trim Your Hat To Match Your Blouse

There is going to be a great bit of frilly, frothy neckwear, and milliners are giving us something new in the way of hats that repeat the snowy lingerie accents. For instance, a wide brimmed straw or felt hat may be outlined with an organdy frill that repeats the frill used in the showy jabot. The jabot is one of the most important neck wear items featured this season.

Serve and Adorn

Besides serving industry, women will also adorn it. Trousered uniforms, made from denim and chambray, without trim or buttons, and with tight cuffs as accident preventives were noticed in a recent spring and summer style show.

Difference in Days

How much longer and shorter, respectively, are the longest and shortest days of the year than the days next to them, is asked.

According to the U. S. Naval Observatory, the difference in the length of day varies less than a minute from day to day in the weeks December 17-24, and June 17-24, in which the shortest and the longest day of the year occur. Therefore, the difference in the length of day is less than a minute between, for example, December 21 and December 22.

Sailor Discovers That Appearances Deceive

The naval recruit was getting on very well with the blue-eyed and sweetly fragile damsel at the dance. Naturally he suggested having a bite to eat. She readily accepted, and they strolled into the dining room.

Presently, the sailor noticed that one waiter was staring at his partner rather too intently. At last he tackled the man.

"Don't you know it's very rude to stare at ladies?" he snapped. "Sorry, sir," was the meek reply, "but it ain't rudeness—it's admiration, sir. This is the sixth time she's been down to supper tonight!"

Card Currency

Playing cards served as the first paper money ever issued in North America. When French troops in Canada mutilated in 1685 because their pay had not arrived, the governor wrote a money value on playing cards, signed them and paid off the men. This "pay-off" currency remained in circulation for almost a century.

Will Use Magic to Pack Church Pews

Handsome Performer Goes To Work for Christianity.

CHICAGO.—John Booth, a handsome youth who has lived off magic the last six years, transfers his tricks and fancy talk from night club floors to the church pulpit to "pack the pews" for Christianity.

He has promised to "rekindle enthusiasm for the church if I have to pull jackrabbits from the organ stops.

"I made a lot of money amusing crowds at theaters and night clubs from Canada to South America," he said, "and I'll pack the pews for Christianity, too."

Booth, 28, is a theology student at the University of Chicago. He said he decided to become a minister when he realized that "something constructive" should be done with his powers of entertainment.

For six years after his graduation in 1934 from McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., he pounded the footboards as a career conjurer, winning reviewers' plaudits from scores of metropolitan newspapers. A "fictional trade journal rates him" "one of the nine foremost magicians of the day," and, additionally, he has written three books of instruction in the art.

Tall, dark and mustached, Booth said he learned early that presentation—"gift of gab" he calls it—was "90 per cent" of any trick.

"If I could make presentation pay with mere tomfoolery I figured I could make it do big things for truth," he said.

Booth long had nurtured an ambition for the ministry because, it was as a child in Sunday School at Cleveland that he learned his first "magic" from Carl Germain, a prominent showman and a teacher in the church school.

"Of course I cannot hope to make the money I made on the stage," Booth said. "But I will have become useful to myself and to mankind."

He said he expects to bring magic and logic together in the pulpit "in a modern, sane setting." In ancient ritual, magic and religion were intertwined in ceremony, he said, to impress the congregations.

Tests Indicate 40-Knot Speed for Ocean Liners

Wallsend, England.—Liners which will cross the Atlantic at 40 knots—almost 10 knots faster than the Queen Mary—are foreshadowed by secret experiments now being conducted on Tyneside.

A firm of shipbuilders is testing a model of a streamlined hull of revolutionary design. It has proved too fast for the Teddington tank of the National Research Laboratory, and to enable it, to be tested at full speed, a special tank has had to be ordered.

If the tests are successful, the firm will place on the stocks an ocean-going yacht embodying the new principles.

Engineers believe that the next step will be to build a 40-knot Atlantic liner and destroyers doing up to almost 60 knots. A liner with that speed would cross the Atlantic in approximately three days, compared with the three days twenty-two hours fifty-seven minutes with which the Queen Mary won the record in August, 1930.
