The City "Takes Over"
This month the city will render the electric light bills for the first time. Every thing was checked to the municipality at the end of last month.
We are hoping that the city can make money and that the consumers can save money, due to the hopes for reduction in rate.

Robert (Bob) Valdez Candidate for Congress
There's only one issue—The War Effort.
I am in hearty agreement with President Roosevelt's War Policy. I intend to see that New Mexico's cotton, its oil, minerals, livestock, lumber and farm products are developed to the fullest extent to defeat the Axis powers, and that labor is available for that development.
As a candidate for nomination by the Democratic party to one of New Mexico's two seats in the House of Representatives, Valdez bases his campaign on an excellent record of consistent public service. He was elected Corporation Commissioner in 1934, and was chairman of the Commission during three of his first six years in office. Re-elected in 1940, he has continued to show unusual ability to serve the people of New Mexico in a field that is now more important than ever. Valdez is a strong champion of all measures which tend to make New Mexico a greater state through better development of its industries and natural resources.
Valdez has been a county school teacher, bookkeeper, translator for Sears, Roebuck. He earned his way through school stoking furnaces and still had time to become a star baseball player and athlete. He came to Santa Fe as an employe in the State Highway Department in 1932. His home town is La Union in Dona Ana county. Thousands of New Mexicans know him and like him because he is honest, sincere and open-handed, in spite of the fact that he will talk about fishing at the drop of a fancy fly or a plain worm.

Candidate for Attorney General
Mr. Don G. McCormick of Lea County was in Carrizozo Wednesday from his home in Hobbs. Mr. McCormick is candidate for Attorney General on the Democratic ticket. He is a member of the state legislature, and is chairman of the Judiciary Committee in the House of Representatives. He has been engaged in the practice of law for the past nine years in the counties of Lea and Eddy. He was formerly president of the Junior Bar Association.
He campaigned in the southern part of the state last week and next week he intends to present his candidacy in the Northern Counties.
He is married and has four children. He requests the consideration of the voters in the September primary and will appreciate your vote.

Robert Wynne Bowlin

In shocked surprise and gloom the citizens of Carrizozo heard of the sad and untimely death of Mr. R. W. (Pecos) Bowlin which occurred about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning August 26, 1942, on the El Paso highway just beyond the city limits, near what is known as the Peters railroad crossing. He was found near his car in a prone position with his pistol still in his hand.
A coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death by his own hand. Mr. Bowlin left a note in which he said "no one was to blame; his health was so bad he couldn't stay, so he would have to go."
Robert Wynne Bowlin was born in Glendon, Texas, July 10, 1894. He was married to Miss Joy Willoughby 24 years ago.

When just a boy, Mr. Bowlin came to New Mexico and was employed at the Block ranch. Later he moved to De Baca county, where he was a deputy sheriff. He returned to Lincoln county about 12 years ago. He was employed by Mr. Roy Shafer at the Ford Garage, then later he became deputy sheriff under Mr. Greison, serving in that capacity two years. He has been employed by the Cattle Sanitary Board for some time which position he held until last week.
He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joy W. Bowlin, by three daughters, Mrs. Harold Ose of Ruidoso and by Misses Etta Loy and Nell Joy Bowlin, twin daughters, and by one son, Richard, who is here. One son Robert, who belonged to the Army, died last Spring.
Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock, followed by interment in the White Oaks cemetery.

PHILIP HAYES KEMP
On August 13, 1942 occurred the death of the above named gentleman near Carlsbad, New Mexico, his demise being very sudden and tragic and the following is copied from a Carlsbad newspaper. "A Justice of the Peace jury investigating the death yesterday of Philip Hayes Kemp, 51, west Carlsbad, at the Union Mine of the International Minerals and Chemical Corporation today ruled that he was killed in an industrial accident while in the line of duty."
The Carlsbad newspaper further goes on to state that, "Justice of the Peace Walter McDonald who conducted the inquest this morning said that Mr. Kemp was crushed under a lift 990 feet down in the mine about 2:30 o'clock between a beam and the lift, thousands of pounds in weight. It was believed by workmen in testimony brought out by the coroner's jury that Mr. Kemp went under the lift to remove debris when it was in a raised position and when he did not answer workmen's calls, they investigated and he was found dead."

Philip Kemp was born August 24, 1890 at Paint Rock, Texas and about the turn of the century removed with his parents to the then Territory of New Mexico where he grew to young manhood and will be long remembered by all old timers and to tell the real truth, and not exaggerate in the least, to know Philip was to like him very much. Nature having endowed him with a strong but winning personality. He was a World War 1 veteran and after its close he moved to Arizona where he resided with his family and followed the mining business until about five years ago when he moved back to New Mexico and became an employe at the Potash Mines near Carlsbad where he worked until his death. He was an honored, trusted and faithful employe and was truly held in high esteem by them as well as a large number of people of the Carlsbad vicinity.
He leaves to mourn his passing, his widow, Mrs. Rowena Morris Kemp, four children, Mrs. Jay Barrington, Mrs. Claude Sims and Thomas Kemp all of Ray, Arizona and Newton Kemp who was with Battery F, of the 200th Coast Artillery on Bataan, his mother, Mrs. Susan Kemp, widow of the late pioneer Newt Kemp, one sister Mrs. Charles Pepper, two nieces, one nephew

Letter to the News

Dear Mrs. Smith:—I enjoy the paper naturally, because your views on the war have been ours all along. We are Democrats, but I hope if we were Republicans we could still love our country more than we dislike the administration. It is a consolation to be doing something toward winning the war. We have had three separate groups of torpedo victims come into the hospital since I've been here, and if some of our sleeping Americans could only see these men, it MIGHT wake them up, but I am afraid some of them are asleep for life with regard to the danger to our country.
The above is an extract from a letter written by a friend who is now employed as nurse in a marine hospital somewhere in this country. She is witnessing at first hand, the agonies our brave men are suffering to protect us, who are at home, from the dangers that beset other countries, as well as our own.

Charlie MacGruder informed his folks of safe arrival in England.

Achievements as Educational Leader

1. As County Superintendent, larger and better schools were established in the County.
2. As County Superintendent, an efficient system of school supervision was instituted.
3. As County Superintendent, the length of school term was increased.
4. A County-wide testing program was installed. This gave a better measure of the school achievements of the boys and girls of the county.
5. A fine spirit of cooperation in school affairs was created among the people of the county.
6. As a member of the State Board of Education, she advocated placing the purchase and collection of text books in the hands of local superintendents and teachers. This is democratic. This gives opportunity for more efficient classroom instruction. This avoids waste of school funds by preventing the purchase of needless text-books.

Ilene Guthrie has a record of efficient and successful leadership of education in New Mexico and one grandson.

The floral offerings were most profuse, from friends there and also at Capitan where he was buried, Saturday August 15, 1942.

The pall bearers were selected from among old friends of the Kemp and Morris families and were, Messrs. Sam Hale, Hunt Hobbs, Mac Thorp, Jim Howard, Robert Kingston and Doc Hickman.

Rev. Hood conducted the funeral services.—Sam Bigger.

CLOSED SUMMER CABINS

THERE must be more to the closing of a summer cabin for the winter than shutting the doors. Three things to guard against are human marauders, small but destructive animals, and fire. Fire protection should consist of clearing the ground of underbrush and rubbish for a space around the cabin many feet wide, and if the cabin is on posts, clearing everything burnable out from underneath. Doors and windows should be heavily shuttered. All openings by which squirrels, chipmunks and field mice could get in should be closed, and one way to do this is to stretch wire insect screening around the house outside at the level of the floor. The top of the chimney should also be closed, which can be done with a wood box large enough to fit over it and heavy enough to be windproof. Even with these precautions, small animals may get in. Mattresses and bedding can be protected against them by hanging over heavy wires, stretched the length of the cabin, and out of contact with anything that might give access to them. As a final touch, several pounds of moth balls should be scattered in the rooms and on all furniture. This will be a deterrent to insects as well as small animals. Bottles containing freezeable liquids should be emptied. If a cabin has a pump or any system of water piping, these should be drained and left empty. Metals that might rust or tarnish, such as the cooking stove, should be coated with grease. Don't leave your dog or cat behind!

Noisy Walls

Question: My upper floor was recently modeled into an apartment, and another bedroom intended to be strictly separated from the apartment. The dividing wall was packed with rock wool for noise insulation. It had no effect. How can the wall be made sound-proof?

Answer: The sound is traveling through the wall by way of the studs; not through the hollows between the studs. For the wall to be entirely sound-proof, it should have been made in such a way that the two faces would not have been joined by anything solid. Without rebuilding the wall, the next best thing to do is to sheath each side of the wall with stiff insulating boards, furred out from the wall by an inch or so. For current results, the furring strips should not be nailed through the plaster to the studs, for nails would conduct sound; the furring strips should be attached to the plaster by some form of cement.

Keeping Basement Clean

Question: I have moved into an old brownstone house with a large basement, and a coal-burning furnace. What are some of the things I can do in cleaning the basement and keeping it clean and in handling ashes?

Answer: Careful handling of ashes helps keep the basement clean. After shaking the grates, allow the ashes to cool, wet them down and remove while damp. Cement floors painted with the right type of paint will help keep the cellar clean.

Coal Dust for Concrete

Question: My coal bin has a dirt floor which of course is covered with coal dust. Could this be used instead of sand for making concrete?

Answer: Results would not be good, and I do not advise it. Grains of sand have sharp edges and corners that give good anchorage to the cement. But coal dust is not so effective.

Waterproof Glue

Question: I thought that casein glue was waterproof, but find by experience that it is not. What can I use?

Answer: Some varieties of casein glue are absolutely waterproof; much more so than the variety on common sale. Ask your hardware dealer about them.

Soil Analysis

Question: Where can I get information on the meanings of names for different soils, and whether the soils are good or bad for certain crops?

Answer: Inquire of your state agricultural school, or of the department of agriculture of your state.

Hair Dye Wash

Question: My wash basin is stained with hair dye. Nothing seems to take it out. What can I do?

Answer: Sponges the stain with iodine, which will change the color. Rinse with clear water and then sponge with household ammonia.

Back-to-School Clothes Made Of Smart, Practical Cottons

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SO FAR as the "clothes" program is concerned, exciting moments are ahead for teen-aged school girls and their collegiate sisters. The new styles fascinate with their refreshing originality, their bright and lovely colors and their altogether different outlook from that of past seasons.

There's just one thrill after another in promise for these assembling back-to-school wardrobes, one of the "thrillingest" of which is the acceptance of cotton as smart and wearable for fall and winter. It took wartime scarcity of other fibers to break down the tradition that cotton is just for warm-weather wear or for the workaday house-dress and, such. Actually cottons can be warm as well as cool.

Now that fashion has grown keenly cotton conscious, new uses of it are being played up which hold promise of surprises and exciting interest for everybody. A new order of experience is awaiting school-faring youngsters in that they are going to have the fun of selecting a complete wardrobe expressed in terms of cotton from start to finish. The new fall cottons are of such tremendous scope they take in every phase of school fashion as seen in coats, suits, dresses, accessories and lingerie. The cotton fabric list includes corduroys, velveteens, twills, whipcords, black poplins, gingham, honespuns and challis.

Not only are the new fall and winter cotton weaves breathtaking in their colors (especially the new velveteens and corduroys), but the new style developments are so outstandingly different in technique there isn't going to be a dull moment in the entire procedure of getting a smart and practical back-to-school wardrobe together.

Each of the fashions pictured in the above illustration serves as a prophecy of what is to be in the way of smart fall trends. Considering these styles from the viewpoint of the wearers themselves young Miss America shown to the left in the group is probably soliloquizing in this wise—"I hope I'll be as smart in courses as I am about clothes, because I really think I'd made the dean's list if my cotton whipcord bolero suit with braid outlining the jacket and cuffs and velveteen collar could count for credit! Well, I'm on my way to a lecture but I have a feeling I'm going to have a time of it keeping my mind from wandering off into thoughts of the jigger coat I've ordered made of one of the new priority fleeces woven on cotton backing and cunningly lined with bright quilted cotton suiting."

"Now what do I need for my next class (bright girl centered in the picture speaking)? My clothes ought to help the intelligent impression I'm going to make, because they are so right for the campus and show I used my head in choosing washable cottons. My jumper is green pinwale corduroy with a chic dirndl-like skirt and handy slash pockets, and my woolly cotton blouse is inspiringly cheerful in color. I'm so glad jumper dresses are 'the style' for with blouse changes a jumper dress is a whole wardrobe in one. I'm finding a lot of satisfaction in knowing that the plaid I'm wearing 'washes' just like now, and my pinwale corduroy skirt goes through a soap-and-water beauty treatment as nice as you please!"

"I'm starting my sophomore year," says Miss Collegiate to the right in the group, "and after two semesters in college I know what's what, what's done and what's worn, such as my peasant corduroy skirt clipped over—guess what? A cotton challis play suit for lounging around! I adore the slenderizing lines of this play suit cut princess bodice-and-ohorts fashion. Don't you think the challis has a cunning rose patterning? Be sure to notice the full-looking skirt with intriguing pockets which look as if it took yards and yards, but designers are clever these days about using not even an inch of material over the amount allowed under W.P.B. regulations. They've learned to get maximum fullness with minimum yardage."

Barbecue Dirndl

Now that backyard barbecues parties are so popular on the home-entertaining program, designers are creating fashions that are pictorially perfect for the occasion. This winsome outfit is of cotton percale in a quaint print. It has a square neckline, puffed sleeves and corset lacing up the blouse front. The dirndl skirt is protected by a cute apron with capacious pockets.

Felt Hats Crowned By Dizzy Heights

The most noticeable thing about the new felt hats is their crowns, which mount to dizzy heights. To add to their spectacular rise in the world they are manipulated into fantastic shapes which are breathtaking in their daring and their originality.

Designed to be worn with suits are small cloche-brims with tall tapering crowns, some with self-bow accents, others having their outlines softened with gracefully dangling tassels.

Feathers galore will also adorn the new hats. You can get all-plumage turbans, or, if it's a huge felt beref you are wearing, it has more than likely taken on a spectacular 'cog sweep in vivid coloring. Felt also are taking on intriguing crochet accents. Colors important in millinery displays include salito blue, commando tan, Australian green and a goodly showing of gray.

Tip to Toe

A costume formula that is in for a tremendous vogue calls for a suit made up of a velveteen skirt topped with a cardigan velvet jacket. Carry with this one of the new velveteen drawing pouch bags, and be sure that the velveteen bumper-belt you wear matches, too. You can carry the ensemble out in monotone color or contrast matching bag and hat with the suit.

An Important Date
On Your Calendar

These are terrifying days when we must think soundly, act decisively and move on to happier days. In the words of Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"Let us then march forward together, facing danger, sacrifice, competing only in the effort to share more fully in the great task laid upon us all." A divided people might now prove to be the difference between a long and a short struggle.

We must win the war. Let's not make the task more difficult. Let's uphold the hands of those who are fighting so courageously for the right.

One grave danger this year when we are all interested in activities to aid Uncle Sam is that we may neglect voting and getting out the vote. This was demonstrated in the primaries. To continue our unexcelled form of government, let's remember the right of suffrage.

Nov. 3 is an important date on your calendar. Be ready for it... The Hoosier Sentinel.

"Catch a Calf" Contest at State Fair

The New Mexico State Fair will inaugurate this year the "Catch and Have" calf contest which has proved to be so interesting a feature at recent National Western Stock shows in Denver.

In the "Catch and Have" contest all 4-H and Futuro Farmer boys entering animals in the Junior Livestock exhibits at this 1942 State Fair will have an opportunity to enter. The number of boys who can enter will be determined by the number of calves donated to the contest by sponsor cattle growers. However, all boys will have an equal opportunity to enter, as all will draw for entry numbers.

All the calves will be turned loose in the rodeo arena before the grandstand and two or more boys will be permitted to enter for each calf to be taken. The boy who first catches and places a halter on the calf and leads it to the judge stand, is its owner. The only obligation the new owner assumes is to write a letter each month to the sponsor of his calf as to the progress being made in its care and feeding, and that he exhibit the calf in the 1943 Junior Fat Calf Show and sale.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for August

Washington, D. C., August 5.—While maintaining a tentative annual level of twelve billion dollars as its goal, the Treasury Department today fixed the August quota for the sale of War Bonds at $245,000,000 as shown by the accompanying map by state.

In lowering the quota from a billion dollars in July to $245,000,000 in August, the Treasury has given recognition to certain factors which may be expected to result in variations in sales over the 12-month period, such as the seasonal character of large banks.

These factors have been taken into account in determining each state's share for the national quota for August and will be given consideration in fixing quotas for subsequent months.

In addition to the state quotas as set out in the map there is a federal quota allotment of $2,700,000,000 and territorial quotas as follows: Alaska, $700,000; Canal Zone, $215,000; Hawaii, $4,000,000; Puerto Rico, $400,000 and the Virgin Islands, $27,000.

Bomb 'em with JUNK

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

Scrap iron and steel, other metals, rubber and waste materials. It will all be used to make tanks, ships, planes and the fighting weapons our boys must have. It is needed at once.

Sell it to a Junk dealer—give it to a charity or collection agency—take it yourself to the nearest collection point—or consult the Local Salvage Committee... If you live on a farm, and have found no means of disposing of your Junk, get in touch with the County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features—WTRU Release.

NEW YORK.—It might be a good idea to turn Glenn L. Martin loose on this cargo plane job and let him see what he can do. We once saw him pull through a 'Clumsy Looking Kite' Opened Eyes Of Public in 1912 which wasn't nearly so good a short-rod bet as making cargo planes in a hurry.

It was at Avalon Bay, Los Angeles, in 1912, when aviation was fascinating outdoor vaudeville, with its hall mark of world destiny still hidden. Bleriot, the French flyer, had out-antented our lads by a flight over the English channel.

On this golden day in 1912 there appeared at the water's edge a clumsy looking kite, precariously poised on a single wooden pontoon. Word got around that this Martin, who-over he might be, was actually going to fly this thing over to Catalina Island, 20 miles away.

Young Martin had been ramming around with barnstorming troops, with home-made planes, known to fliers as a daring innovator, but with the public in general not quite sure of even his first name. Lincoln Boachey, Art Smith, El Christoferson, Bob Fowler and others had found in the California skies a clear field of operations and Martin was one among many there, having a good time in what seemed their sport, rather than a business. At any rate, bankers of the day so regarded it.

He had built his Catalina Clipper in an abandoned church, with such material as he might come by, without benefit of bankers. We recall that it had a quaint, homocypin look. It seemed that it might do almost anything except fly. Getting ready for the take-off, young Martin wasn't paying any attention to the skeptical crowd. He tightened up some bolts, put an inflated rubber tube around his neck, and strapped a compass around his leg. Then, to state it precisely, he flew to Catalina.

Just in passing, when he reached the financial, as apart from the technical, stage of his operations, he wore most elegantly tailored black flying suits, and no more messing around in dungarees. His flying mates called him "Dudo Martin," but this get-up achieved an effect of safe and sane conservatism and it was not surprising that he got backing from the bankers.

THE last time we saw Waldo Frank was in the summer of 1939, on our terrace in the country. It was a month or two before the war started and Mr. Frank was deeply troubled. It was a dead-end conversation, every way we turned. War was coming—of that Mr. Frank felt sure. We would be pulled in, and we wouldn't be ready, either with arms or understanding.

The mood of the conversation is more clearly recalled than just what Mr. Frank said. However, we do remember that he was sad because continental America had not shaken loose from a dying Mediterranean civilization and built a proud and safe and cohesive civilization of its own.

A short, stocky man, with a loose tweed suit and a neat black mustache, he moved down a trail in the dusk to a dark cave of interlocking forest trees. The dark trail led to Buenos Aires where he lies today, a casualty of a war of ideas which he has been waging for more than 20 years.

Six Fascist thugs beat him with the butt of a revolver, after the Axis-inclined Argentinian government had found him persona non grata.

His book, "Our America," published in 1919, was both an exalted declaration of faith and a disquieting appraisal of our complacent and slovenly failure to realize what the gods had bestowed on us, and to measure up to this endowment. In this and many later books and magazine articles, he preached a somewhat mystic philosophy of "The Whole," with such earnest faith and plodding persistence that it is not surprising that he carried his challenge to the dangerous political front of Argentina.

During the decades in which he wrote nearly 40 books—he is one of the most prolific of American writers—Mr. Frank was profoundly interested in South America, in his conviction that North and South were interdependent, in their cultural and economic destiny. When he first was in Argentina in 1920, the president provided him an airplane for his tour of the country. It was in that year that he visited the principal cities of South America, on a lecture tour, appealing for continental solidarity.

Human Guinea Pig Club

The guinea pig, which is domesticated in most parts of the world, has been widely used in bacteriological experiments. This experimental use of the guinea pig has become so general that the mere mention of this creature's name suggests the idea of "try it out on Rover."

The "Human Guinea Pig club" is the unofficial caption of the U. S. army subsistence research laboratory at the Chicago quartermaster depot. Here samples of the foods manufactured by various firms are submitted for analysis, tested for vitamin content and other nutritional values. It is here that the containers are subjected to tests simulating tropical and arctic conditions. Here also are evolved the emergency rations designed for aviators, paratroopers and commandos.

The Guinea Pig club is comprehensive in its membership. Generals, lieutenants, famed scientists, stenographers, civilians and enlisted men all partake of food prepared under various formulas. It is they who decide whether the rations are palatable, digestible and nutritious. Every noon the club meets for this purpose, and its members risk their digestions in the name of patriotism, so that the soldier may eat the proper food. And we all know how very important it is that the soldier gets the proper food to sustain him in his grueling routine from day to day. It has often been said that food will win the war. Certainly there is no denying the importance of the part it plays.

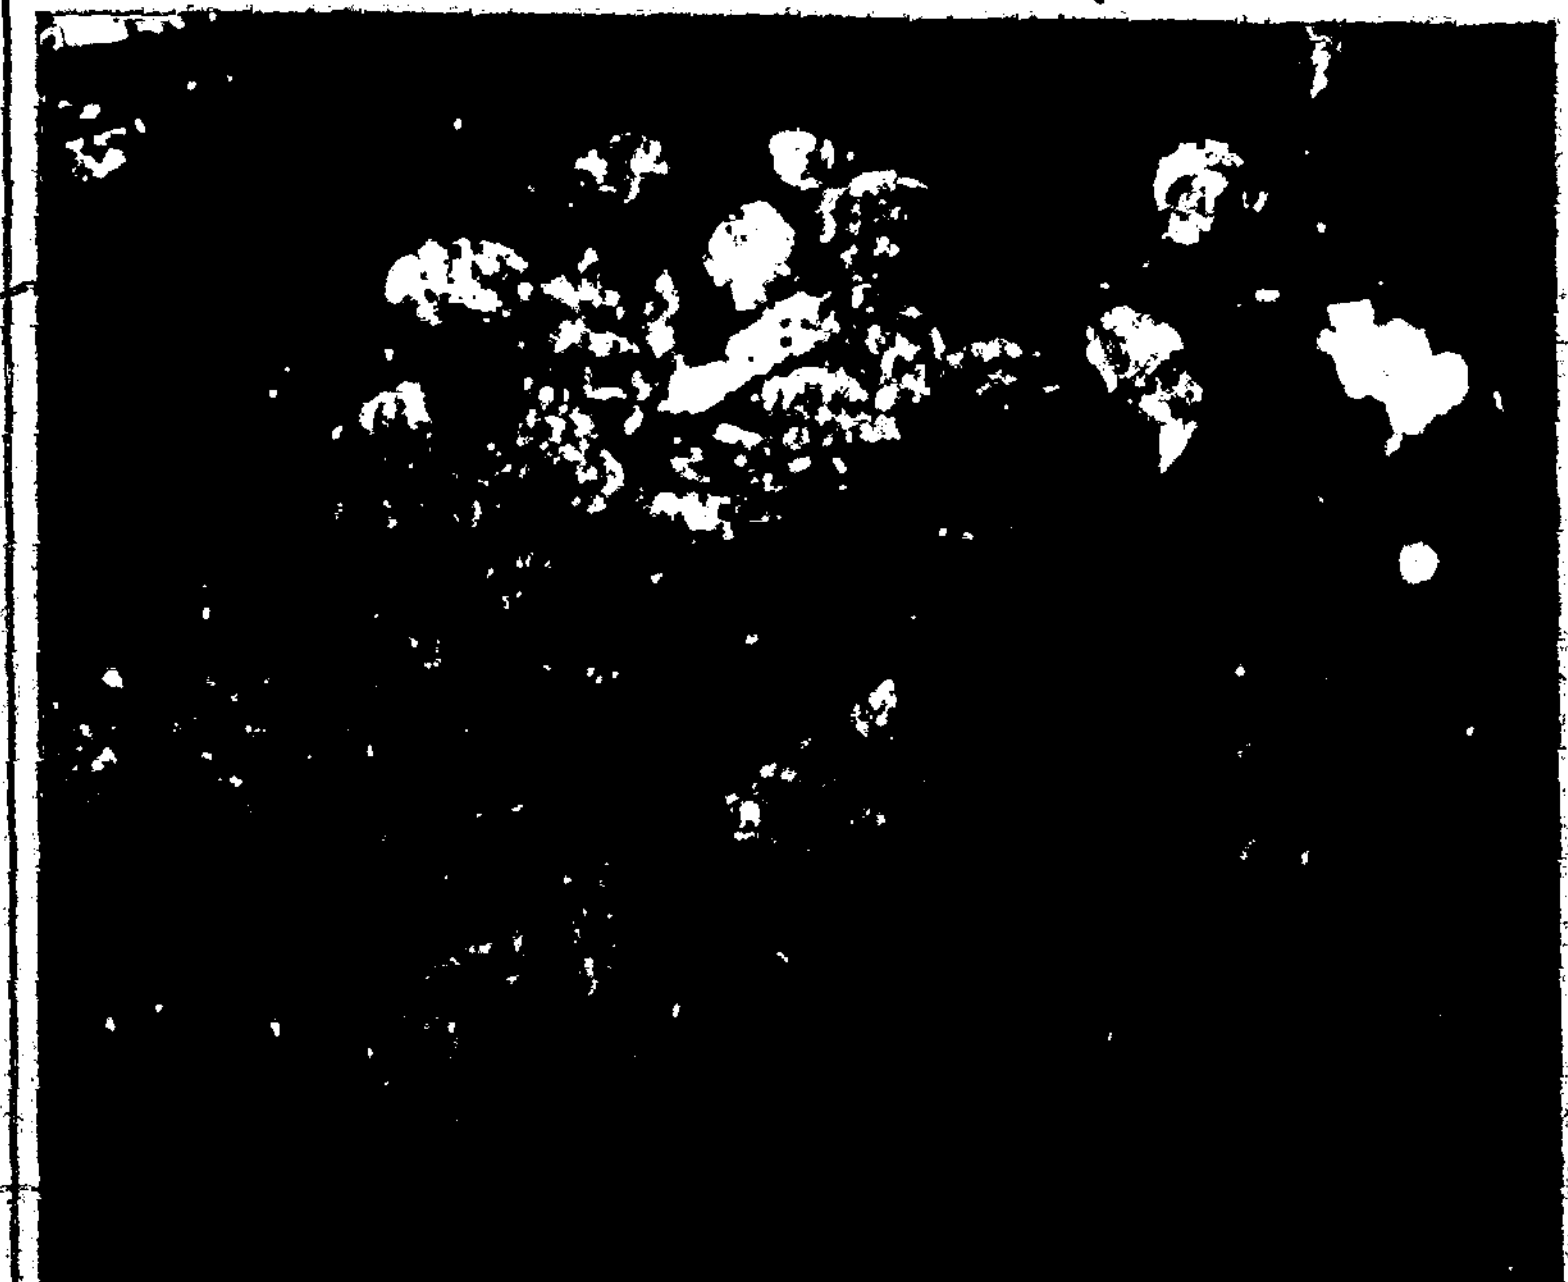

The following series of pictures gives you an opportunity to take a peek at America's most unique club.

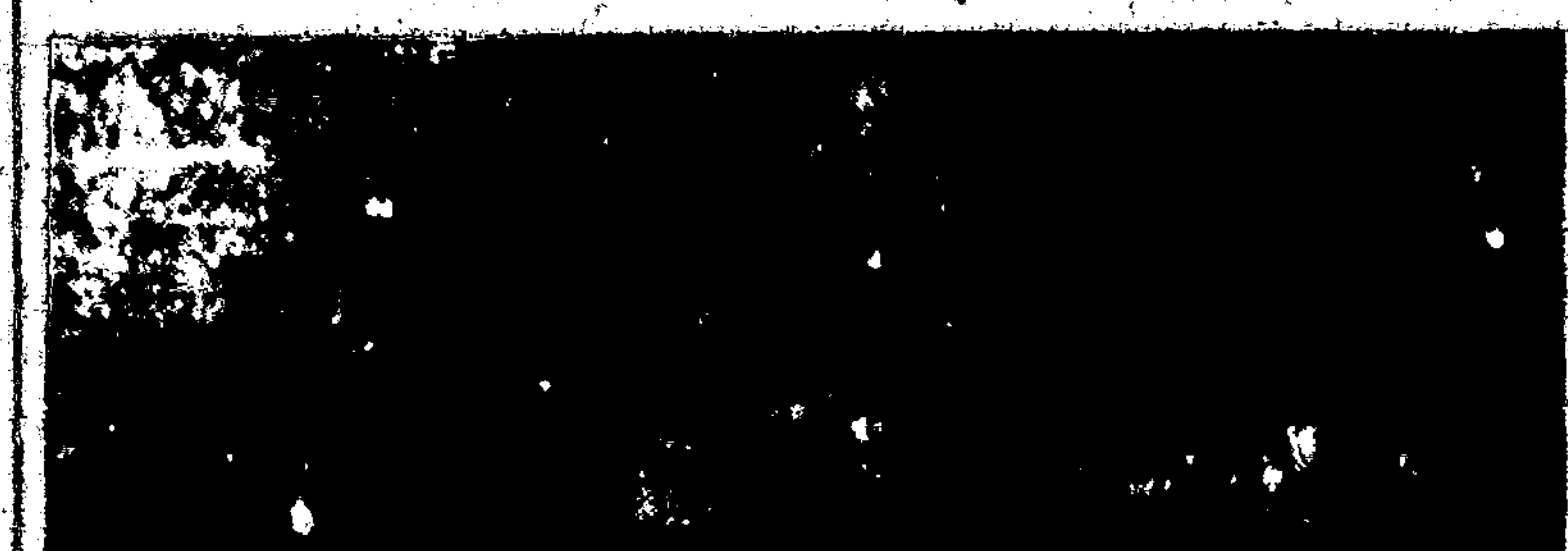

Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Barzyski, commanding general of the Chicago Quartermaster depot, at end of table, presides over the famous "Human Guinea Pig club." The ham served at this particular meal was eleven years old, and the eggs used in the dessert were four years old. (U. S. Signal Corps photos.)

In this laboratory, the army technicians break down the food to determine the vitamin content and its nutritiousness.

Under supervision of the Quartermaster Corps, the concentrated food for use of troops in the field is packed by a chewing gum manufacturer who has converted his production line to the packing of emergency rations.

Army's New 15-Place Commando Glider

These pictures just released by the army air forces, show the first of the new 15-place troop-carrying gliders, the CG-4A, now in quantity production. The glider can carry 15 fully equipped men, including pilot and co-pilot. It has a wing span of 83 feet, 8 inches, and a length of 48 feet, 3 inches. At the top we get a good idea of the glider's size by comparing it with the size of the men. Below is an interior view showing pilot and co-pilot at the controls.

Farm Security Loans Available for Needy Families

Authority to immediately resume receiving applications from low-income and needy farm families in Lincoln County for loans with which to carry on their farm and home operations was received here yesterday by the Farm Security Administration.

The information that loan funds for the FSA's supervised lending program for the current fiscal year are immediately available was received from Jesse B. Gilmer, Regional Director, with headquarters at Amarillo, Texas. The Farm Security lending program, it was learned, will continue its policy of making small Food for Freedom loans to farm owners, tenants, and part-time farmers. These loans are designed to assist families to produce food for home consumption. Production of food for sale will continue to be of secondary importance.

Food for freedom loans are limited to $500 for each family. Borrowers may use the funds for the purchase of dairy animals, feed, seed, small farming and gardening implements, canning supplies, repairs for livestock and poultry housing facilities, food storage space, medical and dental care and so forth.

In addition to the small Food for Freedom loans for fall crops and gardens and other immediate needs, the Farm Security Administration, will continue making its regular rural rehabilitation, and community co-operative service loans.

Farm owners, tenants and part time farmers in Lincoln County who need to borrow funds for fall and winter operations or to meet their farm and home needs next spring should make applications at the F. S. A. office in the Court House at Carrizozo.

Nichols Says He Wants to Work and Knows How

In serving the public for thirty seven years as an employe of a great railroad organization, have learned how to work for and with the people," said W. W. [Billy] Nichols, veteran railroader and Democratic leader of Clovis visiting at Las Vegas' briefly last week in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as one of the two New Mexico representatives in Congress.

"I don't expect to set the world on fire if nominated and elected, but I do expect to give the people an honest representation among those who make the federal laws," he said.

VOTERS OF NEW MEXICO

Check the Record and History of His Experience in Public Life!

JOHN J. DEMPSEY
 DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR Governor

Give yourself an honest answer to a few practical questions and your vote on September 18 will be cast for John J. Dempsey for Governor of New Mexico.

Does his record in public life, his practical business experience and successful endeavors qualify him as an executive? Has he been a sincere servant of the people of New Mexico and directed his attention to their good? Do the facts of his more recent record indicate that he is conscious of the serious war picture and recognizes the realization that more critical days are ahead and that the solution of our problems will demand extraordinary methods of procedure in public life?

Dempsey's record of accomplishment, covering his six year period in the Congress of the United States, his service on the Maritime Commission and Undersecretary of the Interior, would fill a book. Its every page would be a record of some important project secured for the people of New Mexico; his service to individual problems reach into the lives of people in every remote corner of the state. You need only to look about you, recall the public projects, ask your neighbors, in any part of the state and you will discover a job which has been done by Jack Dempsey. Unflinching devotion to the highest ideals of public service has characterized the career of Jack Dempsey.

Many months before Pearl Harbor Dempsey recognized the gathering war clouds and directed his every effort towards the defense of our country. In the nation's capitol he has been continuously close to the war picture in its relation to the future. His foresight has developed the war problems in relation to the future needs of New Mexico and the extreme importance of Federal aid in the days ahead in order to maintain our schools, roads and all public projects at maximum efficiency and fit the needs of individuals into the changing times.

DEMPSEY SERVED YOU FAITHFULLY BEFORE... NOW IN CRITICAL TIMES HE IS ESPECIALLY QUALIFIED TO DO AN EVEN GREATER JOB FOR NEW MEXICO!
