CARRIZOZO
WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club of Carrizozo met Friday Feb. 20th, in the Community Building with Mrs.
Nicholas presiding and Mrs. Turner acting secretary. The meeting was opened by singing "God Bless America" led by Mr. Clyde Brewster with Mrs. Burns at the piano. This was followed by salute to the flag. Two clarinet solos by Miss Jeanne Hall and a drum solo by Miss Ramona Holguin, with Mr. Brewster at the piano, were much appreciated by the club.

Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved.
Program for Americanization
Week was read by the secretary.
Report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Hall and election of officers was held. Officers for the coming year are:
President, Mrs. W. A. Nicholas;
First Vice President, Mrs. Clifton
Zumwalt; Second Vice President,
Mrs. W. J. Jenne; Secretary, Miss
Ruth Petty; Treasurer, Mrs. Roy Shafer; Parliamentarian, Mrs.
Paul Mayer.

Plans were perfected for the Mother-Daughter Banquet to be held Tuesday Feb. 24 at 7 p. m.
Mrs. Finley announced that the City Officials wish the co-operation of the club in a spring "clean up" of the town.

Mrs. Radcliff, chairman of art, is planning an exhibit of New Mexico talent in the near future

Mrs. Paul Mayer read an article relative to the new method of salute to the flag which has been adopted by Federated Clubs. Our club voted to adopt the plan.

Mr. John E. Hall gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "National and International Affairs."

Coffee and cherry pie a la mode
were served by the Hostesses;
Mesdames Burns, Degitz, Lemon, Rentfrow and R. A. Walker.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Saturday, February 21, representatives of the Ladies Auxiliary met the National President, Mrs.
Murrill, who stopped over for an hour enroute to California. The women entertained Mrs. Merrill with refreshments at the Southern Pacific Hotel. Activities and duties of the American Legion Auxiliary in time of war were discussed.

Extension Womens' Clubs Organized

A number of women in the An-cho and Corona communities met recently with Mrs. Helen D.
Crandall, State Extension Home
Agent, and organized an Extension Woman's Club in each community.

Each group has decided to assist with the Home Food Production Campaign, in addition to other projects that will be studied.
Kitchen Improvement and Foods were selected as the first major projects. Under these projects, discussions and demonstrations will be given on the following sub-topics: "The Whys and Hows of Kitchen Arrangement,"
"Storage, Spaces," "Walls, Floors,
and Curtains—color schemes,"
"Selection of Kitchen Equipment," "Farm Process Cheese," "Canning Combination," and
"The Use of Home Canned Foods in the Diet."

The clubs will meet once each month. Specialists from the State Extension Office will meet with the clubs at various meetings, and will assist the County Extension Agent in supplying information and assistance requested. Membership is open to all interested women in the communities.

Carl P. Radcliff,
County Extension Agent.

To Our Representatives
in Congress

(By Dan Conley)

With the curtailment of non-essential WPA projects, we find that a vast number of our people are confronted with the problem of finding gainful employment.
Many men, formerly employed on WPA projects, have shown remarkable aptitude for learning trades, through the opportunity provided by these construction projects, but who now find it impossible to continue with these various building trades, making it necessary for them to revert to common labor, which is adverse to their natural ambitions.

Many of these men are energetic, loyal and patriotic Americans, who with a little training in the various mechanical arts, would form a great reserve of man power, for our expanding defense factories, where skilled and semi-skilled labor seems to be our present problem; therefore, we wish to present for your consideration, the feasibility of our Government conducting training schools where these men may be afforded the opportunity to learn welding, riveting, and many other mechanical arts, necessary to the manufacture and assembling of our various instruments of war.

Since most of these men are married and have dependents, in order to make it possible for them to receive such training, we would suggest that they receive subsistance or compensation of say $5.00 per month for each dependent, during the period of training.
Due to the fact that CCC camps are located in almost every county, their housing facilities would make these camps ideal training centers. Upon completion of training, these men could then take their places on the assembly line and feel that they are doing their part, which would be far better, than being a burden on the community through unemployment and asking every day the same question that is on the lips of millions of Americans:
"Where can I go and what can I do to help."

Officials Move to Annex

The Sheriff, County Clerk,
County Treasurer, and County Health Department moved into their new quarters in the Court house annex this week. The officials are delighted with the newness and freshness of their new offices.

Vaults are in the basement and are not so easy of access, as in the old building, but that is an inconvenience to which they can gradually become accustomed. Rooms airy, have high ceilings and are sanitary. The jail in on the second floor and is connected with the court room by a long hall, so that prisoners will not have to be taken outside to enter the court room. The sheriff's living quarters and offices are nicely finished.
The County Assessor will move to his new office next week. Mrs.
Ola C. Jones, County Superintendent will have about the best of the bargain, for she will move in to the suite recently occupied by the treasurer's office. She will have ample space, adequate shelving and all the things needed for efficiency in the conduct of her office.

The Probate Judge and commissioners room is adjoining the clerk's office are in one suite. They have nicely lighted, beautifully finished rooms.

Yesterday the relief office moved into the room vacated by the health department.

Victory Book Campaign

The million books wanted for the men in the services. Let's give generously, books, more books, the right kind of books.
All you book lovers, attention!
Here's your chance to help Uncle Sam's provided library buildings, trained librarians and well-selected up-to-date books for camps with more than 5000 men.
But the supply of books is inadequate for the rapidly growing forces in Army and Navy posts, camps and stations. Remember our men in the services don't burn books. They want to read them.
Remember Uncle Sam doesn't prohibit reading. He wants all of us to read, to learn, to know, and to enjoy books.

Look over your book shelves.
Take down the books you think will interest young men. What does your son read? What do your brothers read? Contribute books men will like, men will read be eager to read. Give from your own live book shelves. Give new, fresh, alive, exciting books.

All books so donated may be left at the Lincoln County Rural School Library to be sent on to Santa Fe from there.

Rural School Notes

(By Ola C. Jones, Co. School Supt.)

The County Educational Office
will be moved in the near future, to the office formerly occupied by the Lincoln County Treasurer.
The County Board of Education is having these quarters renovated before occupying same.

All past records will be indexed
and filed according to fiscal years,
and made available to the public.

At the last meeting of the County Board, the employment of Mr. John Black as Rural Supervisor was approved. Mr.
Black holds a Master of Arts degree, majoring in supervision. He has had fourteen years experience in teaching and three and one half years experience as Rural Supervisor.

The following schools have been visited by either the Superintendent or Supervisor in the past week: Ruidoso, Stetson, Fort Stanton, San Patricio, Tin-
nie, Pecos, Lincoln, Richardson and Noga.

When enough books are available the library will be open for public use.

Any more books will be greatly appreciated.

The official position of the war knitting activities of American women was clarified by R. R.
Guthrie, chief of the textiles branch of the war production board. Guthrie said: "The war production board does not want women to knit sweaters where absolutely needed by the armed forces and where the commanding officers ask for the supplies. On the whole, we don't want a broad wave of knitting that will consume millions of pounds of wool that is needed for more essential purposes. This is the system
we have set up with the Red Cross. When a commanding officer desires such additional equipment as sweaters, he will apply to the Red Cross. The Red Cross will then arrange for the sweaters to be needed."

Mrs. Carrie Ziegler

Tuesday morning at 7:20, Mrs.
Carrie Leon Ziegler, age 78, widow of the late Mr. Albert Ziegler, passed away at her home here after an illness of about four years.
Mrs. Ziegler was a semi-invalid, but took part in civic and social affairs until about a week before her death, when her condition became alarming. The Zieglers had been prominent in the business social life of this town since 1908
when they moved here from White Oaks, and prior to that they had lived in White Oaks since the early days, where Mr. Ziegler was a successful merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler had travelled extensively both in Europe and America, until of late years.
Mrs. Ziegler was an accomplished musician, and had attended the St. Louis conservatory of music.
She was a member of several music and social clubs. Religiously, she was affiliated with Temple
Mount Sinai of El Paso. She enjoyed the confidence, friendship and respect of a wide circle of friends who are grieved by her death.

Mrs. Ziegler is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John Guteknecht of Chicago, Mrs. Charles Coplin of Kansas City and by two grandsons, Robert Coplin, who is a senior at Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio; and Donald Coplin of Kansas City.

Funeral services were held at the home here Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the Rev.
John Klassen, pastor of the local Methodist church in charge. Rev.
Klassen spoke of Mrs. Ziegler's love for her home, her gracious hospitality, her charm, and other outstanding qualities. The service opened and closed with prayer. The Eastern Star of which she was an honored member, attended in a body. Floral offerings were especially beautiful, shedding their fragrance, and a brilliant color every where.

Interment was yesterday morning at 10:30, in mount Sinai cemetery in El Paso.

Scrap Iron

The American Legion will help the Boy Scouts of Troup 53 Carrizozo, with their program of gathering up scrap iron, by furnishing trucks to transport this scrap metal to their stock pile.
The Scouts will sell this metal, the proceeds from which will be used to buy National Defense Bonds Stamps. In this manner the Scouts propose to help our National Defense in to vital ways
the rounding up of this much needed metal and helping finance our war effort. Everyone is urged to co-operate with the boys in every way possible.

25th Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James La Ros arrived Monday night to spend the following day with the W. E.
Norman family. February 24 was the 25th Silver Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Norman, and was celebrated with a family dinner and reunion.

In order to conserve nickel, brass and copper, the WPA has drastically curtailed the amount of these metals that may be used in the production of "non-essential" incandescent lamps, such as Christmas tree lights, and lamps for advertising, decorative or display use.

Who Wouldn't Come to a Dinner Like This?
(See Recipes Below)

Accent on Dinner

Dinner is the master meal of the day and as such requires the most masterful stroke the homemaker can apply. With time unlimited, this master stroke is not so hard to bring into play, but with days like these which are filled to the utmost with activity of all kinds, time-saving hints and ideas for dinner are important.

Planning a meal which can all be baked in both time and money saving. If you're pinched for silver and aluminum for cooking and serving, you can use glassware for both the cooking and serving.

Today I'm discussing a dinner that is equally adaptable for either a family or company dinner. It's one of those meals that you won't forget because it's always bound to be successful from the point of view of appetite appeal, ease in serving and ease in cooking. Tuck these ideas where they won't gather dust, for they'll gather fame more easily.

*Lamb Roast. (Serves 8 to 10)

5 to 10 pound leg of lamb
Garlic clove or slice of onion
Salt and pepper

Have a leg of lamb boned and tied. Wipe with a damp cloth but do not remove fell, the parchment-like covering over the meat. Rub garlic or onion (or onion salt, if you have neither of those) over the meat, then rub salt and pepper. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven, allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. If a heat resistant glass platter is used, the lamb may be served from that.

*Franconia Potatoes. (Serves 8 to 10)

8 to 10 medium-sized potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and place in the oven around the meat to finish roasting, about 40 minutes. Pour melted butter and chopped parsley over potatoes when done. Arrange with whole, cooked carrots on platter and serve.

A hot bread on a cool evening adds plenty of staccato to the menu, and I would advise serving it often. This one is especially appropriate for the menu today because your oven will be hot and you can bake it before you put in the meat.

Lynn Says:

Trying to tackle the winter vegetable problem? Here's a parade of suggestions that will prop up your meals:

Baked squash with small white onions baked in the hollow. A bit of cream sauce added just before serving to the onions will also perk up this dish. Sprinkle with paprika for color.

Carrots? Glaze these with brown sugar and butter when baking. For cooked carrots add a bit of tartness with lemon juice. Serve canned or cooked lima beans with this smart mustard sauce: 4 tablespoons butter mixed with 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon ground mustard and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Beets like to be teamed up with a horiyard sauce. Thicken the beet liquid with cornstarch and add a bit of grated orange rind and juice for delightful variation.

Sprinkle cooked asparagus with grated Swiss cheese and brown under the broiler.

Parosips: paroli these, then dip in egg and bread crumbs. Fry until a golden brown.

Turnips: cook and mash. Season with butter, salt and pepper and a dash of nutmeg.

This Week's Menu

- Mixed Fruit Juices
- *Lamb Roast
- *Franconia Potatoes
- Carrots
- Fruit Salad
- Butter
- *Spice Bread
- *Caramel Crumb Custard
- *Recipe Given

*Spice Bread. (Makes 1 quart loaf pan)

- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1 cup currants
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup shortening

Sift flour before measuring. Then sift together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and ginger. Wash and drain currants; mix into dry ingredients. Add well beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening to dry ingredients. Stir only until just well combined. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about one hour.

Caramel flavoring flirts with custard in this dessert idea. But what's especially nice about this one is that you can bake it along with the bread since both require the same oven temperature. Custard's best baked in individual cups and the custard unmolded onto the dessert plates when ready to serve.

*Caramel Crumb Custard. (Serves 8)

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup boiling water
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 cup coarse dry bread crumbs (crusts removed)
- 1/4 cup caramel syrup

Make a caramel syrup by melting 1/2 cup sugar in a skillet, very slowly, and allowing to cook until a golden brown. Remove from heat and add boiling water slowly. Return to heat for 10 minutes or until completely dissolved. Separate eggs and beat yolks until lemon colored. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar, salt, syrup, milk and butter. Add bread crumbs and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into eight glass custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350-degree) about 40 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Speaking of planning menus that seem to fit both company and family, dinner occasions I thought you might like a few suggestions. Here are foods that fit each other because of their flavors blending together so smoothly, because of their balance and contrast in texture and flavor. They're easy to keep in mind and fix at a few hours' notice:

Menu I.

- Consomme With Lemon Slice
- Lamb Steaks With Gravy
- Spinach Ring With Browned Potato Balls
- Apricot and Cream Cheese Salad
- Orange Rolls
- Baked Alaska

Menu II.

- Cranberry Juice
- Pork Shoulder Roast
- Baked Squash
- Green Peas
- Perfection Salad
- Whole Wheat or Graham Bread
- Dutch Apple Cake With Hard Sauce

Menu III.

- Tomato Soup
- Baked Fish With Lemon Slice
- Scalloped Potatoes
- Grapefruit and Orange Salad
- Hot Biscuits
- Spiced Watermelon Rind
- Oatmeal Fruit
- Ice-Box Cookies

Price Control Affecting Millions

Preventing War-Time Inflation Is Reason

By CLIFF LANGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

CHICAGO, ILL.—Ever since the price control bill was signed by President Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public have been wondering how the family pocketbook will be effected.

They have been wondering about the possible increase in cost of foodstuffs. Will their rent go up? How much more will they have to pay for clothing for the family and themselves?

They've been doing a lot of thinking since that day in January when the price control bill became the law of the land. Never before have they run up against any such law which has such a far reaching effect, not only on themselves, but the United States and, gradually, the rest of the world.

But it is the "Missus"—Mrs. John Q. Public—who has, as usual, been giving the matter the most consideration because she does most of the buying and family "worrying."

It is she who pays the most attention to prices when she goes to the stores and asks questions of the clerk. It is she who watches the ads and prices in the local newspapers. For the most part, Mrs. John Q. Public constitutes the millions of housewives all over the United States who do the greater part of the purchasing for the household. She knows as well as, or even better than some economists, that a definite income by the wage-earners of the family will buy a certain amount of food.

She knows only too well that if prices go up, incomes remaining the same, less can be purchased. When prices go down more can be purchased, or, possibly, a better grade or brand of product can be bought instead.

Mrs. Public Is Realistic.

Mrs. John Q. Public isn't theoretical about costs, supply, demand—and all such similar, abstract terms. She, being a woman, is as realistic (and sometimes as tough, too!) as an army sergeant. She knows that the family can't be fed, clothed, and provided for in general on theory.

When President Roosevelt signed the price control bill he was fully conscious of, and advised about it. The primary purpose of the bill was to prevent rising costs that lead to inflation. Inflation which would cause more hardship in Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public's home than any possible increase in price, or prices, of consumers' goods. Even at that, the President noted in a press conference, the fight to prevent inflation had not, as yet, been completely won.

There are many provisions of this price control bill which are well worth remembering. The first to remember is that the price administrator—Leon Henderson—has the authority to fix a maximum price on commodities, regardless of the number, that are needed for the successful carrying on, and completion, of the war; or for civilian use and consumption.

What price in Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration, going to put as "tops" on commodities? Mrs. J. Q. P. asks. The answer to that is found in the bill itself. It states that the prices between the first of October, and the 15th of October, 1941, are to serve as the basis for fixing of maximum prices. Fishery and farm prices are the exceptions. Before a maximum would be placed on commodities, prices could go to 110 per cent of what they were during the 15 days in October, 1941, before the "lid" would be put on by OPA boss, Henderson. If prices during the period mentioned were not "representative" prices, the nearest to representative two week period will be used.

If the "Missus" remembers what she paid for articles during the two weeks in October, '41, she will be able, generally speaking, to get an idea of what she will pay even if the prices are allowed to go to the 110 per cent level, which is 10 per cent above the full price charged. It should be remembered, though, that the ceilings placed on commodities will be mostly on raw, unfinished materials.

Price Administrator Henderson, in a recent statement, said that the application of price ceilings all depended on just how all the Mrs. J. Q. Publics throughout the United States reacted to it. If they took the price control in an intelligent way (as he suspects they will) and didn't try to gobble up those commodities they thought were going to be scarce, there would be no need to put a top price on the article. Calm, cool and collected seems to be the attitude they should take.

U. S. Family and Price Control.

In May, 1939, the department of agriculture inaugurated the Federal Food Stamp plan to assist millions of families such as this one. Today, in '42, the federal government, through its price control bill, is again attempting to help this family and others by trying to prevent inflation during the war, and deflation when peace comes. Inflation, bringing about a skyrocketing of retail prices, invariably hits the working man (John Q. Public) and his family.

It should be remembered, though, that the ceilings placed on commodities will be mostly on raw, unfinished materials.

Price Administrator Henderson, in a recent statement, said that the application of price ceilings all depended on just how all the Mrs. J. Q. Publics throughout the United States reacted to it. If they took the price control in an intelligent way (as he suspects they will) and didn't try to gobble up those commodities they thought were going to be scarce, there would be no need to put a top price on the article. Calm, cool and collected seems to be the attitude they should take.

The bill also has a provision in it that checks a too-great rise in rents. This provision applies only to areas designated by the OPA as being in "defense housing" sections of the country, where a "boom" could have taken place. If you are living in one of such designated sections, rents since April 1, 1941, will be the guide for OPA officials to put the top permissible price. Over 230 surveys have been conducted in such "defense" areas by officials under Henderson to get the rental prices in those areas so that there won't be any undue hardship on renters.

Despite this being war-time in the United States, there will be—as always—those who will try to circumvent and chisel on the price control plan. Mrs. Public might call them war profiteers. To punish such who violate price ceilings the control bill carries some stiff provisions: imprisonment for two years and fines up to $5,000.

Purchasers Can Sue.

An individual who figures he or she has been charged more than what the price ceilings stipulated, can sue the person or persons from whom the purchases were made for either triple damages, or $50—depending on whatever might be larger.

A very important provision of the bill is that it exempts wages and salaries. No ceilings have been placed on them. It must be remembered though, that wages increase, to an extent, because the price of commodities rise. All who work for a salary, or a wage, want to be sure that what they earn will buy enough to live on according to a decent standard of living.

Also exempted were insurance and professional fees, railroads and utilities, newspapers and periodicals, radio, motion pictures and theaters. Even though nothing extraordinary-ry will be done by price control officials in extending the price ceiling over other commodities besides the 20 or so now covered, the placing of ceilings will continue little by little, putting one here and there on various commodities whenever an inflationary trend is noted. For example: Store owners selling typewriters or radios, or electric irons, having very little chance of getting more for sale in their stores, will naturally boost the prices on those they have on hand. It is such cases that will bring about a price control "top price" to be charged on that commodity.

Eventually all businesses operating under a price ceiling will have to get a license to do business. OPA officials have not decided on what type of license machinery to put into operation, as permitted by the price control bill. A seller of commodities, operating under such a license, can have his license revoked if he persists in defying the provisions of ceiling above permitted top prices. Of course, such a revoking of license comes through court procedure and only upon a second offense following a warning given upon a first offense.

As the list of commodities under the price control plan lengthens, your local newspapers, the radio, and periodicals will tell you what the recently added ones are. The complexity of the world has been the cause of such a far reaching bill on that of the price control being passed. But it should always be remembered that a successful completion of the war we are now in requires there be no inflation. And after the successful American completion of the war, there must be a minimum of post-war deflation so as to win the peace that follows.

Mules and Horses Making Comeback

War-time auto restrictions plus present, and impending future rationings, are the cause of horses and mules making a comeback.

As gasoline becomes more restricted, and tires can't be replaced or retreaded; as the full force of industrial America gets behind its Uncle Sam's war machine, you'll see more and more horses and mules going through their daily chores.

Recent reports coming from both the South and the West show such a revival in breeding, and in the sale of available horse and mule stocks.

Decline Began in 1920.

It was in 1920 that the decline in the number of horses and mules began to take place. That year there were over 25 million. From 1920 to 1940, the latest data available, the decline was over 45 per cent to a figure of a little better than 13 million. The decline might have been greater, but for the work of the Horse and Mule Association of America which organized in 1920 to check the drop.

Traders, today, are beginning to benefit by the increased demand for the animals for prices are advancing. In 1941 owners of stables experienced their worst year as far as sales were concerned. But since then both old and new customers have been coming around for a little first-class trading, swapping, or buying. So much so that many of the stable owners and auctioneers are planning on building new centers, or reopening old places.

Oldtimers, those who really know good horseflesh as far as being real workers, are getting interested once again.

But there is one difficulty which is handicapping horse breeders, and that is the lack of good breeding stock from Europe. The possibility of a permanent stoppage of Belgian male horses because of the Nazi occupation of Belgium is certain.

One writer, discussing the situation in a veterinary journal brought out the fact of a lack of European stock very well. It was noted, though, that all is not a dismal picture. For as many traders and breeders in the United States will sell—there are plenty of good stallions in this country.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes in their work—do not act as they should—fall in to become impotent that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging "back-aches, permanent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feeling of nervousness, anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disease are sometimes burning, scanty or frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

Written by HARRIET MAY WILSON

What to Do About Moths

There is probably no housewife in the United States who has not, at some time or other, brought some garment out of storage, only to find it rendered unfit for use by the depredations of the destructive clothes moth. At such a time she is likely to exclaim in despair, "What can I do? The place seems to be full of these things! I thought I had that garment put away safely."

As a matter of fact the clothes moth is nearly omnipresent. It is to be found in nearly all dwellings, its abundance being influenced by the temperature and humidity of the house, its furnishings and the thoroughness of the house cleaning.

The clothes moths that are most troublesome are very small, with a wing spread of perhaps a half inch. The webbing of clothes moth is uniformly yellowish; the case-bearing moth is of a similar color with indistinct dark spots on its wings. They like darkness and may be found flying about slowly in dark corners or just beyond the range of the lamp rays. If clothing or other objects are disturbed the moths will run or fly swiftly to conceal themselves in folds of clothing, or cracks, or any dark spot where they may hide. The parent moths do not eat clothing; it is the larvae which do the damage. The moths lay their eggs in clothing, rugs, upholstery, and similar places but the eggs are not attached to the fabrics. The eggs hatch in from four to eight days in summer; in from three to four weeks in colder weather.

MOTH CONTROL

If an entire dwelling is found to be overrun with the pest, then drastic measures such as fumigation or spraying will be necessary, but as a rule, local treatments assisted by careful and thorough house cleaning will suffice for riddance.

Fumigants such as hydrocyanic acid gas are dangerous to human life and should be made use of only by persons experienced in handling them—that is, by licensed pest-control operators, working under health department permits.

Sprays which are advertised for the control of moths and other insect pests are usually made of an odorless, stainless, kerosene oil combined with pyrethrum or derris extracts. These sprays are contact sprays—that is, they kill only the insects actually hit or made wet in the spraying process. They can be used to advantage to kill moths on clothing and upholstered furniture, in floor cracks, around baseboards, etc.

DRY CLEANING

Dry cleaning kills all forms of moths at the time of treatment; washing in a strong solution of neutral soap will also kill all moths present in the fabric washed, but neither process will prevent reinfestation.

After a garment has just been dry cleaned or washed, if it is wrapped in paper wide enough so that the ends can be deeply folded back and sealed in place, it will remain safe from moth attack.

Since the eggs of the clothes moth are very soft they are easily crushed or dislodged by brushing. In brushing, particular attention should be given to seams and pockets. The larvae can not endure hot sun and will drop to the ground from clothing left hanging in the sun, especially if it presents no folds where they may find shelter from the sun rays.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES

Meticulous housekeeping combined with careful attention to all woolen garments, upholstery and the like will go far to keep down the clothes moth menace. Woolen garments which are not packed away during the summer should be frequently brushed and sunned; rugs and upholstery should be kept well vacuumed; woolen rags or discarded woolen clothing should be disposed of—by storing, if necessary, in sealed cartons.

CLOTHING IN CLOSETS

Brush all clothing; clean the closet thoroughly; seal all cracks in plaster or about baseboards with crack filler; equip door-frames with rubber gaskets so that the doors may be shut tight at all points; place on the top shelf, or hang in muslin bags from hooks, one pound of flake naphthalene for each 100 cubic feet of closed space. The fumes given off by the slow evaporation of the crystals will stop the larvae from feeding and, if continued long enough, will eventually kill them.

For practical and authoritative methods of moth control with reference to clothing, carpets, furniture, rugs, trunks and boxes, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for a copy of Leaflet No. 145, Department of Agriculture.

Suit Designs Feature Bright Color and Dressmaker Lines

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BRIGHT colors, daring colors, clear colors will help the American woman express her confidence and courage. No matter how simple a suit may be, it's going to glorify color for all it's worth. The colors for suits are really quite breath-taking. Especially daring are the bright reds, the Kelly greens, light beige and golden yellow. Navy is highlighted with brass buttons, with snowy lingerie touches and with red-and-white accents.

And watch for violet shades! So many will be in evidence you will probably feel as if you are looking through violet colored glasses. There will be violet hats, violet boutonniere, violet gloves, suits of violet gabardine, wool mixtures and spun rayons. Just wait and see!

The use of soft styling, as well as the emphasis on daring use of color, was brought out forcefully at the style preview recently presented to capacity audiences at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Designers have apparently taken great care to stay away from anything "mannish," for women will be more eager than ever, this spring, to look their feminine best. Dressmaker styles feature softly draped lines without sacrificing any of their tailored simplicity.

Shown to the right in the above illustration is a costume suit that is practical, functional and distinctly feminine. This is one of the new tie-belt fashions of the soft dressmaker type for which a decided preference is shown. Made of a stunning plaid, it has large patch pockets for convenience as well as "looks." The back is belted in smart fashion. These lovely plaids come in blue and red, beige and brown, and also in beige, brown and green.

Soldier blue is a far flung color this season. You will see it in hats, gloves, and, of course, in suits. The fitted reefer shown to the left in the above picture is of colder blue. Smooth shoulders, comfortably cut armholes, loose sleeves and a high notched collar are smart style points. The novelty buttons are made of plastic overlaid with a gold design.

A chic dressmaker suit of all wool in a delectable pastel shade is shown in the center of the group pictured above. This suit has the set-in belt which distinguishes the majority of smart suits this spring. Note the detachable bengaline collar. Youthful collars of this type are predominant in casual neckwear fashions. A cut of this type invites all sorts of pretty accessories. It can be worn all day long, its "dressiness" depending on the accessories you wear. The blouse may be simple and casual, of the costume type, or of one of the lingerie types. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Tuxedo Front

Fashion decrees that women must maintain the charm of femininity, whether they wear uniforms, just plain workaday clothes, or more luxurious "off duty" apparel. Special emphasis is placed on coats to wear over new spring print frocks and the little one-piece classic dresses. The attractive model pictured above has the tuxedo revers destined for spring fashion triumphs. A feecy, handsome wool in a beige shade known as "King" is used for this coat. Beige is to be a leading color this spring.

Wood and Plastics Make Novel Jewelry

Casual jewelry to wear with daytime clothes is apt to be made of most anything these days.

The most fascinating necklaces, bracelets and lapel ornaments are being made of shells. These are often delicately flower-like and tinted in realistic colors.

Ceramics and plastics are handled with deft workmanship. Medallions of plastic bear clusters of flowers in relief.

Wooden jewelry is shown in profusion, some delicately wrought of wood as thin and pliable as papyrus. Others, especially the long necklace worn with slacks, are created of chunky nuggets of wood painted in blazing colors.

One studio is turning out exquisite pieces made of fish scales, each tiny scale wired (not pasted) to form wee boutonnières.

Favorite of the Young—Bright Printed Jerkins

Two-piece dresses stressing the long-torso line are favorites with the younger set. The jerkin idea is also popular for it is, after all, in the long-torso class. One of the most popular ideas is the pleated skirt of black or navy crepe which is topped with a long-torso blouse made of a bright print. The newest versions have the surplice fastening.

Jersey Dirndl

The teen-age youngsters are enamored of the new full, flounced dirndls that are made of bizarre printed jersey. Suspender bodices are new and popular. The straps are embrodered in gay peasant fashion. You will love the new fishy shawls that are crocheted in lacy, open mesh and self-fringed by hand.

Army Brides

Thousands of weddings now taking place must necessarily be informal owing to the stress of time and circumstance. Suits are already being displayed for the war bride who must do without the traditional wedding.

Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas

To all Banks in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District:

Recurring rumors that the Federal Government intends to confiscate all savings are being circulated in many parts of the country. The continued circulation of such rumors might lead to the withdrawal of saving deposits. In connection with these rumors, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently made the following statement:

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatever for such rumors. The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal involving the confiscation of the savings deposits of this country for any purpose. Furthermore, anyone circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the nation."

The importance of financing the war effort to the greatest possible extent from current income rather than from accumulated savings has been repeatedly emphasized by the Treasury Department. In furtherance of that policy, efforts are being made to encourage all employers to adopt a payroll allotment plan for the sale of Defense Bonds to their employees, because that is regarded as one of the essential steps in combating the development of inflammatory tendencies.

Keeping FIRST THINGS FIRST

The Bell Telephone System, along with other industries, is going through the busiest period in its history. Ready to meet the emergency was a trained army of nearly 400,000 telephone men and women equipped with the latest tools of their profession; research workers who had been planning how to substitute for scarce materials; management and staff experienced by years of service starting from the bottom of the ranks. They pledge that whatever telephone service the country needs for the war effort will be supplied in full measure.

Last Words

Last words of dying persons are like the mutterings in a delirium. Why then are they so treasured? asks Dr. J. Shelton Horley in an article in Hygeia Magazine. The melodramatic picture of relatives hovering over a deathbed is based on the wrong conception. Last words are of no value when they come from a mind benumbed by approaching death. It is better to remember the words spoken while the person was in a healthy mental and physical state.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—When we got into the First World War, Hank Gowdy, the ball player, walked into a recruiting station and asked "How the hell does a man get into this here war?" They let him in, right on the ground floor, as a private, and that was all there was to it. Eddie Grant of the Giants also walked in, just like that—and got killed at the Argonne. There's a plaque in his honor on the center field fence at the Polo Grounds.

This is beginning to look like a name war, as they might say on Broadway. Without disparagement to the existing celebrities of the theater, sports, and politics, one may note that many of them, innocently, no doubt, march to a fanfare of headlines and outbreaks of chevrons in rotogravure pictures. Conspicuous in contrast is Hugh Mulcahy, former Philadelphia pitcher, moving in with no chevrons and no hands.

This started out to be a piece about an actor of such eminence that we thought word of his enlistment as a private would make a story. When we telephoned him the other morning, he said: "I won't talk and I don't want you to use my name."

That sounded like big news, the same being "anything-new, strange or unexpected." We can't use his name, but he was persuaded to talk and here's his story:

"The minute I made a move to enlist, my press agent was on hand to shape up a story. I couldn't get it through his head that that wasn't the big idea. This war is grim, desperate, dirty business and it isn't going to be won by hoodlums, box-fighters, actors, swing-band leaders, ball players or tennis players who happen to have top-billing in their particular lines.

"They'll help win it, and more power to them, but when they get their usual professional build up, everything gets out of plumb. The big mob is going to get the idea that their favorite supermen will fix everything nicely at the end. That's one trouble with this country. We pay the price of admission and let the main cast of characters work out the plot.

"Showmanship is all right in its place, but in this case it distorts the picture, dangerously, I think. Just take a turn around the New York night spots if you want to get what I mean. They way they rate the boys by their rank, and the way the gossip columnist work, you'd think this war was being readied by Flo Ziegfeld.

"I am enlisting as a private and I expect to be overseas in a combat unit. I am dropping my stage name and using my own, so I expect to be something less than anonymous for a long time to come. If anybody fans up a story about me, it will be over my dead body. I'm no hero. I just want to help win this war."

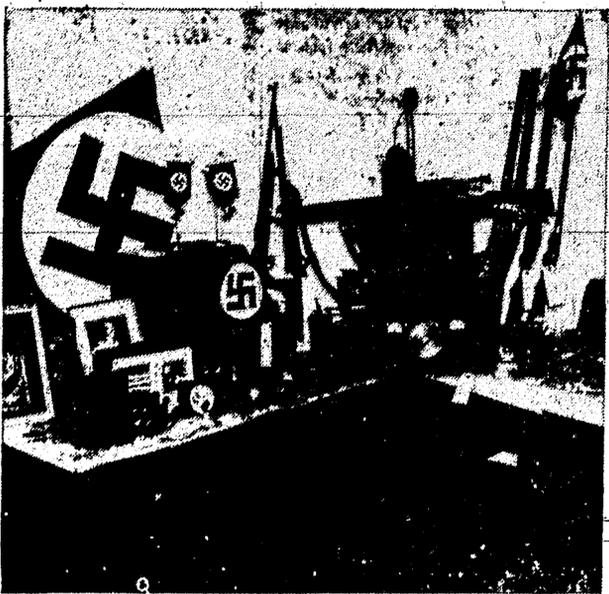

A DISTINGUISHED landscape architect visions the post-war landscape and sees a jungle that will take a lot of landscaping if we hope to live in it. He is Charles W. Elliot, grandson of the famous president of Harvard, director of the National Resources Planning board at Washington.

Mr. Elliot says we are not "going back to normalcy" and that the chaos following the Axis downfall may be "almost indistinguishable from war." He insists, however, that we will keep on "going forward," and that we "propose to plan ahead."

He began the practice of his profession at Boston, after his graduation from Harvard in 1920. From 1924 through 1926, he was city planner for Arlington, Mass. From 1926 to 1930, he was director of planning for Washington, D. C., and its environs, as a member of the National Park and Planning commission. He has been a member of the National Resources board since 1935.

Mr. Elliot has extended his planning to the wider outreach of social and economic design. As an observer at the League of Nations crisis in 1928, he would perhaps now admit he was standing at a false dawn when he insisted the league was putting reconciliants in place. The British Tommy in Kipling's poem did a lot of grousing about "irishman's the colonel's hedge" after a war. We're in for a much tougher job of planning, thinks Mr. Elliot. It seems to be any day and night speed work after this war.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Colored Concrete Attractive
A SUBURBAN house that was being built by a friend of mine has two concrete paths, one from the front to the back door, and the other leading to the garage. He did not like the glaring natural color of concrete and used a green top coat that made the paths much less obtrusive. Everyone who comes to the house admires the effect. As a matter of fact, it is simple enough to color concrete, which can be done with only slight increase in cost, and with but little additional labor. The important point is that the coloring matter, which is in powder form, must be of a kind that is not affected by the lime in the cement, and that will not fade. Such colors are to be had from dealers in mason materials, and at well-stocked paint stores. The color is only in the top coating. It is mixed with the cement in the proportion of not more than nine pounds to the sack of cement. The color is thoroughly mixed with the dry cement before adding the sand. If the mixing is not thorough the effect is likely to be streaky.

Wall Insulation
Question: I am remodeling a large frame house and want to insulate the kitchen and dining room walls. The plaster has been removed, but not the lath. In applying insulation, should the lath be completely removed, or only enough of the lath to allow insulation to be fitted in?

Answer: Your best move will be to take off all of the lath and to put in blanket or pad insulation, which should be protected on the room side by heavy building felt that will prevent the passage of water vapor. You can get these materials in sizes to fit between the studs and with flanges by which they can be nailed on. You could use rock wool pads, but if they are not protected you should stretch waterproof paper or felt over the studs on the sides facing the rooms to prevent the entrance of water vapor. In providing insulation, do not overlook the need for protecting the windows with metal weatherstrips and storm sash.

Varnish Remover
Question: We have a great many small wood desks, tables and chairs to be refinished. They all have several coats of varnish-stain and varnish, and are chipped and rough. I want to refinish them down to the wood. Regular paint remover works, but is quite expensive. What else can I use? How can I finish them either with dark mahogany or walnut?

Answer: You can make a good varnish remover by dissolving trisodium phosphate in water in the proportion of three pounds to the gallon. The chemical can usually be had at large paint stores under its own name or under the name of beet salt. When applied boiling hot the varnish will quickly soften and can be wiped and scraped off. Follow by rinsing with clear water; traces that remain would ruin the new finish. You can get the color that you want with oil stain or water stain, followed by varnishing.

Oil-Stained Floor
Question: The cement floor of my garage is stained by oil dripping from my car. How can I clean it off?

Answer: Scatter the stain thickly with trisodium phosphate or washing soda and sprinkle with enough water to dissolve it. This strong solution will destroy the oil, which will then come off with scrubbing with scouring powder and plenty of water.

Chromium Chairs
Question: How can I prevent chromium-plated steel chairs from making black marks on linoleum? I cannot use rubber caps, for they are not the kind with legs.

Answer: The parts in contact with the floor can be wrapped with surgeon's tape, or with two or three thicknesses of Scotch tape, which is transparent. With ordinary use either wrapping will last for considerable periods.

Covering Wallpaper
Question: Plasterboard in our home is wallpapered. Could we use paint or plaster over it?

Answer: You cannot use plaster. But if the paper is on firmly, you can paint it with oil paint or casein paint. Do the job on a dry day and with plenty of ventilation, so that the quick drying of the paint liquids will check the possible softening of the wallpaper paste.

SYNOPSIS

THE STORY SO FAR: Janice Trent came away from wedding Ned Paxton, rich but a ray blind. Unknown to Bruce Harcourt, a family friend, she became secretary of an Alaska camp of which he is chief engineer. Millicent Hale, wife of the man whom he succeeded, also attracted to him. Bruce at first wants to send Janice back on a trip to the city, she encounters Paxton and tells him she is married to Harcourt. The latter hears and insists on a wedding that day. At the camp to which they return by evening, the Samp sisters, aided by Tubby Grant, Harcourt's assistant, arranged a wedding party.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER X

Harcourt picked up the belt and holster which he had dropped to the desk when he came in. The shoulder holster which held its twin was empty.

"Pascal!"
No answer to his call. The boy was doubtless helping the Samp girls in their preparations.

Plump Miss Mary in a dove-gray taffeta, its balloon sleeves proclaiming it of the vintage of '04, its rose-point bodice suggesting a grandmother of parts, greeted him as he entered the Samp living-room.

"Well, now! Well, now! Janice is dressing, Mr. Bruce. Mary and I begged her to wear one of her lovely evening dresses for our party. She let us choose it from a trunk in the storehouse." She patted his sleeve. "Don't you look nice."

"That goes for you too, Miss Mary. You almost knocked my eyes out with your pretty dress." He bent his head and kissed her rosy, wrinkled cheek. "Thank you for arranging Jan's room. When did you hear the news?"

"You're the most heart-warming person, Mr. Bruce. I feel as though I'd been sitting in the sun after I've been with you." She smiled through tears, dabbed at her eyes. "Mr. Tubby radioed the news before he left the city. Such a surprise."

Janice was lovelier even than he had thought her. Her pale blue gown, silvery as the edges of a cloud, suggested a fairy loom. Slippers which matched her gown had bows of sparkling stones which were repeated in the clasp of a bag of antique brocade. She laid a mandarin coat, heavily embroidered with mauve and purple iris, carefully over the back of a chair.

He picked up the mandarin coat. "Taking this?"

"Yes. I'll use it as a wrap. Isn't it gorgeous? I found it in my room here. Tubby must have bought it for a wedding present when he went back to the city. He knew that I was mad about it. I suspect that it was frightfully expensive. It is taking goods under false pretenses for me to accept it. I ought to give it back, but I love it. Can he afford to buy a thing like this?"

"Probably not every day, but weddings do not occur every day at headquarters. Why hurt the donor by returning his gift? Let's go."

An orchestra, consisting of fiddle, flute and saxophone, agonized into the Wedding March from Lohengrin, as they appeared in the doorway of the Waffle Shop.

Janice laughed and parried questions, played her part brilliantly. No one could suspect from her manner that she was not the most gorgeous happy bride in the world. Harcourt told himself with a tinge of bitterness. Her radiance vanished like sunshine blotted by a cloud as Millicent Hale approached.

"Dear Mrs. Harcourt, how sweet of you to provide an occasion for civilized clothes. I am consumed with curiosity to know how you accomplished it. I've heard Bruce declare, repeatedly that never, while he was in Alaska, would he marry. What brand of coercion did you use?"

The malice of the attack rendered Harcourt speechless. Was the little woman whom he had considered pathetically helpless like that? Was Janice as amazed as he? He glanced at her in concern. She was looking straight into the eyes watching her with cat-like intentness.

"It was a method quite my own, Mrs. Hale. You couldn't possibly be it." Harcourt came out of his trance of surprise, laid his hand on her bare arm. She shook it off, turned to extend her hand to Chester. Challenged gently:

"Why the gloomy brow? Cheerio! This is a party, not a memorial service."

Before he could answer Tubby Grant seized him.

"Want you, Jimmy. Going to stake an old-timer. The Samp girls are stepping out in a quadrille."

"Salute Partners!" Miss Martha spread her plum-color taffeta skirts with work-worn hands and curtsied to the floor, recovered, made a deep obeisance in response to a shouted, "Salute Partners."

Her beautiful dignity set the keynote for the dance. The others kept watchful eyes on the sisters, who sailed through the figures with the grace of an angular and a chubby woman.

"Change Partners!" Millicent Hale was first to give out. She turned to Bruce:

"I haven't danced so much nor so hard since the winter I came out. Do take me home, Bruce. Jimmy has disappeared. Joe will be furious if I don't come home."

"You can't lose what you never had, Millicent."

For the fraction of a second Harcourt hesitated. Why pick on him? Better to humor her. She might make a scene. Anything was credible after her hateful attack on Janice.

"Of course I didn't need an escort this short distance, Bruce, but I had to consult you about Jimmy."

"Jimmy! What's the matter with Jimmy?"

"That's what I want to know. Today when I entered our cabin, he was threatening Joe with a pistol."

An empty shoulder holster hanging against a log wall flashed on the screen of Harcourt's mind and was gone.

"As I entered," said Millicent, "Jimmy was saying:

"Send for her again and I'll shoot you. You've messed up my sister's life, that's enough. Get me!" I couldn't believe it was Joe huddled in his chair, livid, afraid. Joe afraid! As I looked at him I thought what a poor fool I had been all these years, not to stand up to him, not to threaten him. He is a bully and a coward, Bruce, and I've never before found it out."

"If you have lost your fear of him, it is a lot gained, Millicent. For whom did Joe send, do you know?"

"No. Unless—unless Jimmy found out about Tatima. Joe has made a fool of her with flattery. Nothing worse, I'm sure, but she follows him about like a dog."

"I'll speak to Jimmy. He will have to turn over his gun to me, if that is the use he is making of it."

"Talk with him, Bruce. Poor boy, he has never forgotten his experiences overseas. You will have more influence than anyone else." She laid her hand on his arm. "We all dump our worries on your shoulders, don't we? I shan't dare do it now that you are married. I feel as though I had lost you."

Under pretense of producing his cigarette case Harcourt stepped back.

"You can't lose what you never had, Millicent. Good-night!"

He heard her little gasp as he turned on his heel.

As he entered the Waffle Shop Miss Martha and Miss Mary, crimson faced from the exertions of the dance, with mammoth white aprons over their creaking taffetas, were serving the ice-cream which Grant had brought hundreds of miles in a plane. As he approached Janice he heard Jimmy Chester say harshly:

"He'll never send for you again." Had Joe Hale sent for Janice? The suspicion tightened Harcourt's lips. The girl looked up at him. There was a hint of resentment in her voice.

"Oh, you have come back. Jimmy and I had decided that you didn't like the party, hadn't we, Jimmy?"

It was evident that she had seen him go out with Millicent. He answered evenly:

"I'm crazy about the party. Did you think I would leave before I had danced with my bride? The musicians have finished their gorge and are tuning up. By the way, Chester, be ready with a track-laying gang to go up the inlet at reveille. You have all the specifications. Short notice, but you can make it. Want to push the work while this weather holds." He held out his hand. "My dance—Mrs. Harcourt."

He was conscious of Jimmy Chester's pale, frowning regard as they moved away in rhythmic step to the music. He watched him until he left the room. Janice looked up.

"Sorry I was catty, Bruce."

He held her the fraction of a degree closer. "Were you catty? Millicent was raw to you, Jan, but don't lay it up against her. This last year has set her nerves on edge."

"I wonder if a year here will do that to mine."

"You won't have a chance to find out."

"Won't I? Perhaps you will be having me here so much you'll beg me to stay."

His arm tightened. "Dance well together, don't we?"

There was a hint of strain in her laugh. "The fighting line again. Tubby wants me here if you don't. Yes, we are good. We might make a dancing team, if engineering fails."

"That's a thought. Sorry, but it is time the festivities broke up. All of us must be sons of toil again tomorrow. We, being the guests of honor, should make a move. That correct? I suspect Tubby of a theatrical climax. We will dance round to the door, vanish and escape."

As they stole surreptitiously from the Waffle Shop, the heavens still held a trace of the glory of the sunset. Above the broken crater spread a coppery glow.

Janice drew a long uneven breath. "It is more gorgeous than I had imagined." As they turned toward the H house, she said lightly: "Ever since I arrived as Jimmy Delevan, I have been consumed by curiosity to—see the inside of your cabin."

He answered by throwing open the door. As they crossed the threshold a shower of confetti pelted them. It powdered their hair, lay like colored snow on their shoulders, one adventurous particle clung to Janice's eyelashes. She laughed unsteadily as she brushed it away.

"The trail of the resourceful Mr. Grant. Doubtless he expected you to carry your bride over the threshold, as big strong men do in the movies and points south."

Harcourt laid his hands lightly on her shoulders. "We will postpone that ceremony. Take off your wrap. The room is hot. Pucca keeps these fires roaring."

She slipped off the heavily embroidered mandarin coat. He laid it on the couch, crossed to the fireplace and lighted a cigarette. Arm on the mantel, he watched her eyes travel from the Indian blankets on the log walls to the Russian samovar, saw them glow with admiration, as they rested on the Chinese pewter tea-service, linger on the rich pelts on the floor. They met his.

"Like it?"

"Love it. How did these rare things get into this wilderness?"

"Small trading vessels stop for any one of a dozen reasons. The captain or mate usually has something choice he will dispose of for a consideration."

"I'm mad about that Chinese pewter. We'll have tea every afternoon."

"Everything I have is yours, Jan." The huskiness of his voice sent the color to her face. That wouldn't do. He opened a door, snapped on a light, said grandiloquently, "Behold the kitchenette!"

She stepped to the threshold. "Pale green, and a gray-and-white linoleum on the floor. My word, but you are modern!"

"I told you that I lost my head over the H house. After we had finished the chimneys, they just naturally required bedrooms to utilize their other sides; bedrooms required baths; a house this size needed a kitchen. I have never regretted it. Planning and ordering kept Archie Harper busy and happy. He worked up to almost the last moment of his life, and now I have it for you." He nodded toward a lighted room. "Your things are in there. If you are not too tired I should like to talk a while, Jan."

"Except for the fact that my feet are shredded to ribbons—that wasn't a dance, it was a riot—I am not in the least tired. I will change my slippers and come back."

"I'll get your sandals." He pulled the fan-back chair a bit nearer the fire. "Sit here." As she hesitated he added, "Please."

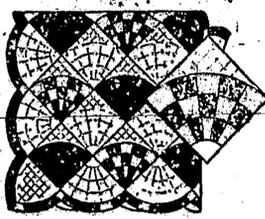

He dropped to one knee in front of her. "Stick out your foot." He gently removed the high-heeled blue slipper with its sparkling bow, put on the sandal. "That better?" She nodded. "The other." He held the slender foot in his hand after it was shod. "Jan, you understand, don't you—Who the dickens is pounding like that? Is Tubby trying to be funny?"

"Someone is beating with both fists. Go! Quick!"

Harcourt pulled open the door. Millicent Hale stumbled into the room. "Bruce!" Her terrified eyes widened as Janice took a step toward her. She shut them. Sobbed. With arms outflung she braced herself against the log wall. Brilliantly swinging from her ears, on her green frock, quivered with light. She shuddered. Gagged for control. Harcourt caught her shoulder.

First Flight Across U. S.

Calbraith P. Rodgers set his plane down at Pasadena, Calif., November 6, 1911, after the first airplane flight across the United States. The flight, begun September 17 at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., was accomplished over a period of 49 days, but only 82 hours flying time.

Anyway, Jonah Had Been Taken In by the Whale!

The nervous curate had arranged to preach on Jonah and the whale.

"And for three days and three nights," he began, "Jonah was in the—"

He blushed, stammered, stopped, and then started again:

"For three days and three nights Jonah was in the—"

Once more he was covered with confusion, and once more he stopped, and mopped his face.

Then he gathered his courage in both hands, and with a mighty effort he finished triumphantly:

"And for three days and three nights Jonah was in the society of the whale."

Loan Assistance

The FSA supervisor wishes to remind readers of The Lincoln County News that loan assistance from the Farm Security Administration is available for the purchase of gardening equipment, seed, feed, cows, heifers, pigs, and chickens, and to rent workstock and equipment, repair livestock shelters, fences and machinery, and to meet other needs.

Mr. Jones has been assured that this new Food for Victory program has been streamlined with simplified forms which have been worked out to make these loans quickly available. He said the new loan program for the low-income families not now participating in the FSA program may amount to as much as $500 for each family and extend from one to five years at 5 percent interest. Present FSA borrowers may get additional loans where needed to help them meet revised operating costs.
