Save Rubber

An urgent request for the public to save rubber was sounded Monday by W. W. Gallacher of the Lincoln County Rationing Board. Leon Henderson of the Office of Price Administration, has declared that scrap rubber will greatly augment the nation's supply and prevent a drain on new stocks.

Mr. Henderson is urging everyone, particularly farmers and ranchers who are holding tires so worn out or damaged as to be unfit for retreading or recapping, to turn them in immediately to a scrap or junk dealer or a local collecting charity. The scrap can be processed and reclaimed. A removal of restrictions on the sale of 1942 cars owned by draftees, volunteers or members of the armed forces also was announced Monday by Mr. Gallacher. Such new car owners, under a former regulation were given until March 9 to sell their autos, after which date they were to register them.

The deadline now has been lifted and that new car owners in the armed forces or about to enter them may sell their cars at any time to whom ever they choose.

To Experiment With Rubber Planting

Washington, March 16th. A huge new cash crop for New Mexico farmers and nurserymen was in prospect today as the Department of Agriculture moved into the state armed with authority to convert farm lands into rubber plantations.

Carlsbad, Las Cruces and Deming got quick nods from the Bureau of Plant Industry and Forest Service, agencies charged by agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard with setting in motion the vast Guayule planting program authorized by Congress, to put New Mexico out in front in the southwestern-wide experiments. Meanwhile, other areas in the state - including the state prison farm at Los Lunas, were receiving close scrutiny from agriculture field men as possible sites.

Only favorable parts of New Mexico thus far surveyed were in the southwestern portion of the State, Dr. Loren Pelham, senior agronomist, told Senator Chavez. However, Senator Chavez extracted a promise from the agriculture department that no part of New Mexico would be overlooked and that the state would share in the program to the extent of its ability.

"Largely the plantings this first year will be confined to nurseries for seeding purposes, but the government is so anxious to get the program underway that one-acre planting will be made immediately in those three areas," Senator Chavez said.

Save Your Anti-Freeze

Automobile owners should save their anti-freeze mixtures this spring instead of throwing them away as many did in previous years, the WPB recommends. The chemicals used in making anti-freeze compounds are needed to make explosives, and for army and navy tank and airplane operation. Car owners can therefore help the war effort, protect their cars and help their pocketbooks by draining and saving the anti-freeze now in their car radiators as soon as cold weather lifts. Car owners who usually have the anti-freeze drained at service stations are urged to provide their own containers.

KNOW YOUR BANK

What is the "dual system" of banking?

Our American banking system is often referred to as a "dual system" because it is composed both of Federal-chartered and state-chartered banks. The state and national systems are under separate controls, but each is operated for the best interests of the public. This principle of optional charter is in keeping with the American traditions of free enterprise. Our bank favors this dual system because of the friendly competition it promotes in the cause of better bank management, and because it tends to prevent the centralizing of banking control at any one all-powerful point.

Short Cruise on a U. S. Sub

Let's go for a bit of a cruise on one of Uncle Sam's submarines and see what it's like in these compact little vessels that pack such a big wallop. Watching the snappy efficiency of the crew makes even the landlubber forget to be scared on his first trip to Davey Jones' locker.

Picture Parade

This is how the bow of a submarine looks as the craft begins to submerge. There is no sensation of plunging, merely a tilting of the deck and an effort by the landlubber to adjust his balance to meet the pitch.

U. S. Gardeners Aid in Nation's 'Victory' Drive

Increased Number of Gardens This Year Vital For Balanced Diets.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) Uncle Sam's wartime food needs have put the all-but-forgotten family vegetable garden back on the map. Millions of Americans are now poring over seed catalogs, checking tools and eyeing likely planting sites.

Once the frost is gone, an army of gardeners recruited from farms, small towns and big cities will prepare the earth with spades and fertilizers. Then will come seeding, weeding and cultivating in a vast effort to produce plenty of fresh vegetables, F. O. B., the kitchen door.

This effort is part of a great national Victory Garden program. In the weeks since Pearl Harbor, officials of the U. S. department of agriculture have been consulting with gardening experts from every state. Organizations everywhere have pledged their aid—garden clubs, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, 4-H clubs. As the program develops, activities will follow two major lines:

1. Farmers and their families throughout the United States will co-operate by planting 5,760,000 vegetable gardens.
2. Small town and big city dwellers will sponsor community and school gardens, and wherever possible individual family Victory gardens.

This newest move in the war on the Axis is reminiscent in many ways of the stirring days of World War No. 1, when back-yard garden-

Miss Peg reaps the results of having a garden of her own. The green beans she is collecting will be delicious at the family's evening meal.

ers did their bit to make good the slogan: "Food Will Win the War." But there are wide differences, too, and it is hoped that many of the mistakes of the 1917-18 war garden program will be avoided this time. The last war demonstrated: that home gardening can contribute importantly to the food supply. In 1917 alone, 1,150,000 acres of city and town land were under cultivation. By 1918 there were 5,000,000 gardens

From industrial centers and other defense localities now working at top speed for the nation's Victory program, the excellent business conditions found there are overflowing into the more rural sections of the United States as the above map shows. As farm crops and rural production increases better business conditions will show in the "fair" areas of the U. S.

American Farmers Now Making Wartime Plans
Faced with the biggest demand for agricultural products in the history of the nation, American farmers today are planning—preparing—and working toward the single end of producing the crops, livestock, dairy products, fibers and other raw materials to meet wartime needs, writes L. G. Elliott, president of the LaSalle Extension university. More food will be required by our military forces. Demand from our allies is constantly growing.

Fresh Vegetables for the Family

Red beets . . . beans . . . lettuce . . . carrots . . . tomatoes . . . are just a few of the vegetables this young lady, busy in her garden, can look forward to during the coming months. During those months the family will not only have fresh vegetables that will keep them healthy and strong, but there will be plenty left over to can and preserve for consumption during the following winter.

These town and city gardeners are being cautioned that their gardens must be economical; that every seed, every pound of fertilizer and every implement counts; that there must be no waste. The members of these garden clubs will meet and discuss their problems together and obtain guidance from experts. Provisions are being made in many cities by the Civilian Defense organization for the establishment of community gardens in which plots are assigned to families that do not have fertile garden soil of their own. Schools and organizations are promoting the program.

How big a job is it to put in a garden and make it produce successfully? Simple to Garden. It's relatively simple, according to gardening experts. They point out that with modern knowledge of soils, plant foods, new tools and the improved vegetable varieties developed by plant breeders, it is possible to grow fresh vegetables for the family in a favorable location with only a few hours' light exercise each week.

The secret of effective gardening lies in the size of the plot. Too big Nutrition is watchword. Nutrition is the watchword of the present program. First of all, our soldiers must be well nourished. So must defense workers in fields and factories. Britain, Russia and our other allies must be kept supplied with food. But the program goes beyond that. A battle is being waged on the home front against malnutrition. Regardless of how long the World War lasts, the nutrition battle at home will go on until every American is receiving enough of the right kinds of food.

In considering the two main phases of the Victory Garden program, the farm effort will of course be the backbone. Every farmer who can possibly do so will have a garden where he can produce fresh vegetables and fruits for home use and have some surplus to market. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard summed up the movement's philosophy when he told delegates attending a recent conference in Washington:

"This situation is different from 1917. Then the effort was to save food to there would be plenty for our troops in France. Now the need is for a balanced diet. When the farm family grows its own vegetables, it eats more and thus improves the family's health. We hope for an increase of 1,200,000 farm vegetable gardens in 1942. The goal we have set is 5,760,000.

"Growing vegetables on the farm puts the food right where it is to be used; it doesn't take any freight cars or trucks to move food to these families. Home vegetable gardens release more commercial vegetables for other purposes. Commercially canned vegetables are packed in tin—and we are short of tin."

As a reinforcement to the farm garden movement, the work of small town and big city gardens will help swell Uncle Sam's food output. In communities large and small every family that has access to a favorably situated plot for producing part of its food supply is being asked to join a Victory Garden club.

While production has been increasing, the prices received by farmers for what they sell have also been rising. Average prices are now the highest in 13 years. Prices which the farmers pay have also been going up, but not quite so rapidly, and the ratio between prices received and prices paid is steadily becoming more favorable. It has already reached the goal of parity, and the policy of the government is to maintain prices at around that level. In that way, farm income will be kept at the average rate.

A Birthday Cake With Candles—Goody!
(See Recipes Below)

Happy Returns

Birthdays the children have are the ones which they usually cherish most even though they may have bigger cakes and more candles in later years. So with this in mind, I'm including a few suggestions.

Cake 'n' ice cream are tops, and a bit of candy to sweeten the tooth dictate the party. The cake can be simple, decorated with a ten-cent pastry tube. If you don't want to take the time to spell out the letters, you can buy these for a nominal sum, and have a professional looking cake right out of your own kitchen.

Have the children send out their own invitations, even make them up if they like—this will be grand fun for them. Twirling crepe paper for decorations and getting the chairs in place will place them no end, for these, though small, will give them a wonderful sense of "doing something."

For the cake I've chosen an inexpensive but fascinatingly red

Devil's Food Cake.

(Makes 2 1/2-inch layers)

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg, beaten
- 4 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 teaspoon red food coloring
- 2 tablespoons strong, hot coffee
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar until light. Blend in egg which has been beaten until foamy. Mix cocoa, coloring and hot coffee into a smooth paste, stir into mixture. Sift flour, measure, then sift again with soda and salt. Add to mixture alternately with buttermilk, folding and beating after each addition. Add vanilla. Turn into two greased, waxed paper lined tins and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Ice with the following:

- Magie Party Frosting.
- 2 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar
- 1/2 cup sweetened, condensed milk
- 2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- Dash of salt

Stir powdered sugar gradually into the sweetened, condensed milk.

Add vanilla and salt. Beat until smooth and creamy. Spread on cold cakes. A child's face to glamorize the cake, as shown in the picture, can be made with melted chocolate using a water-color paint brush.

Candy, not too rich, but honeyed and fruity, spell glamour for the children's party. Try substituting fruit and honey in candy to make it nutritious, but still good!

Fruit Candy.

- 1/4 cup dried prunes
- 1/4 cup dried apricots
- 1/4 cup dried figs
- 1/2 cup dates
- 1/4 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup honey

Let dried prunes and apricots stand in boiling water 5 minutes. Run all fruit through a food chopper, fine knife. Add honey. Butter hands and shape candy into balls. Roll in chopped nuts, coconut or coat with confectioners' chocolate.

Honeyed Orange Peel.

Remove peel in quarters from 6 oranges. Cover with water and boil

Suede Answers the Call for Pretty but Practical Fabrics

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE necessities of wartime economy have challenged women to make very selective choices in the way of timely and appropriate dress. In preparing the new collections, those entrusted with the responsibility of creating clothes to meet these demands are motivated by a desire to maintain charm and attractiveness while always keeping in mind, however, the urgent call for practical wearability. Particularly in the matter of materials women must buy now with an eye to the future.

In this search for practicality plus chic and charm, it is with the utmost enthusiasm that designers of note are turning to richly colorful suede as highly desirable for dresses, suits, coats, hats, shoes and accessories. Arguments in favor of suede rest not only on its attractiveness, its subtle softness and its ready adaptability, but from the utterly utilitarian viewpoint there is nothing to surpass suede and the various leathers now so successfully used in costume design.

To demonstrate that a complete wardrobe of apparel done in serviceable, colorful, ever-flattering suede can be made to serve for almost every occasion in a busy woman's life, we are illustrating here with a trio of coat, dress and sportswear fashions. Note, also, that this group of suede apparel convincingly demonstrates that smart clothes today reflect a tailored simplicity that is nevertheless unflinchingly feminine.

A graceful classic coat of suede is shown to the left in the above picture. It will prove an investment that will pay big dividends in style and will be good from one season to another. That's something to be considered in buying, now that so large a percentage of wool and other materials must be diverted into other channels to help win the war.

Centered in the group illustrated above is a beautifully fitted frock done in a lovely, dusty pink suede. Here again is reflected the charm of simple lines and detail. This dress has the new soft shoulder line and a trimming of brown suede for the belt and a touch of it at the neck. The hat and bag are made of the same rose shade. Brown suede shoes and gloves complete the outfit.

Leather for sportswear always carries a definite note of style and charm and at the same time has no peer when it comes to sturdy wearing qualities. The attractive sports costume shown to the right in the above picture is typical of the western ranch styles that are so popular this season. Here you see an ensemble done in three pieces, the skirt in gold-flecked tweed, the blouse in a plaid of the same gold with green and white, the leather waistcoat in green suede.

In the way of accessories, the tiny collars made of pastel suedes are combined with matching suede gloves. Just now the violet shades are being heralded as first in fashion for spring. For a springlike look, choose a pastel plaid suit with violet tones in its coloring. Wear with this one of the new violet suede soilers adorned with a generous cluster of violets.

Pine Cones

Of rayon fabric which packs easily, the all-purpose resort dress illustrated above uses Florida pine-cones and needles for its print motif. This winsome fashion comes in lily-white prints on lively blue, green and carotry tan grounds, or in the same attractive colors on a white ground. It has a smart peplum and fashionably collared low-cut V-neckline.

Wrap-Around Solves Fastener Problem

With the scarcity of metal because of priority rulings, the resourcefulness of designers has again been challenged to the point where necessity becomes the mother of invention. All of which, in the final analysis, reacts to the good fortune of fashion's followers. For it is certain that the current vogue for tie-it-yourself fastenings brings with it a new and fascinating styling.

There are the new skirts that drape to one side where they tie without aid of a slide fastener, hooks and eyes or button fastenings. A double duty dress is made in one piece for casual wear. For "dress-up" there is an extra apron effect that you can tie on in a jiffy. Many of the smartest coats are self-tied wrap-overs. Blouses are fashioned, also, with surprise fronts that tie to one side. Some jackets and many blouses tie in a series of little self fabric bows down the front.

Your Gloves Can't Be Too Colorful These Days

More color in gloves is the spring forecast. Which means we are going to wear gloves with our spring outfits in such audacious colors as Kelly green, bright red, purple, cerise, vivid blue and bright pink. Gloves also will be made of the same print as that in your blouse, dress or hat. The fact that novel materials will be used for gloves also adds to their interest.

Straw Ensemble

Novelty tie, belt and three-strand necklace ensembles, all crocheted by hand of synthetic straw, are made to be worn with a related sweater. Pretty snoods are also crocheted in a lacy, open mesh stitch, with special attention to matching the colors to the peasant skirts with which they are ensembled.

Binoculars Donated

To expedite the receipt of binoculars donated to the Navy by patriotic citizens, the Eleventh Naval District today asked that all persons desiring to turn their glasses over to the government forward them direct to the Naval Observatory, Washington D. C. A previous announcement had requested that owners bring the binoculars to the Stores Office at the Harbor Street Entrance of the Naval Supply Depot here, but this plan has been changed in favor of the speedier method of direct shipment to the Nation's capital. Authorities also reiterated that the Navy is able to accept only two types of glasses, Zeiss or Bausch & Lomb, and they must be either 8 by 30 or 7 by 50. Any glass of less than six power is of no value for naval purposes, it was pointed out.

Some individuals already have volunteered the use of such articles as lozenges and opera glasses which cannot be used. Owners of such items were asked not to risk their possible loss by sending them to Washington in the mistaken belief that they might be of some service. Inasmuch as the Navy cannot accept gifts or free loans, all binoculars furnished by the public and accepted for use, will be purchased for one dollar. During the first World War, after a similar appeal, 51,217 pairs of binoculars were received, of which some 31,000 were put to use in the fleet.

Victory Book Campaign

The million books wanted for the men in the services. Let's give generously, books, more books, the right kind of books. All you book lovers, attention! Here's your chance to help. Uncle Sam has provided library buildings, trained librarians and well-selected up-to-date books for camps with more than 5000 men. But the supply of books is inadequate for the rapidly growing forces in Army and Navy posts, camps and stations. Remember our men in the services don't burn books. They want to read them. Remember Uncle Sam doesn't prohibit reading. He wants all of us to read, to learn, to know, and to enjoy books.

Look over your book shelves. Take down the books you think will interest young men. What does your son read? What do your brothers read? Contribute books men will like, men will read be eager to read. Give from your own live bookshelves. Give new, fresh, alive, exciting books.

All books so donated may be left at the Lincoln County Rural School Library to be sent on to Santa Fe from there.

Loan Assistance

The FSA supervisor wishes to remind readers of The Lincoln County News that loan assistance from the Farm Security Administration is available for the purchase of gardening equipment, seed, feed, cows, heifers, pigs, and chickens, and to rent workstock and equipment, repair livestock shelters, fences and machinery, and to meet other needs. Mr. Jones has been assured that this new Food for Victory program has been streamlined with simplified forms which have been worked out to make these loans quickly available. He said the new loan program for the low-income families not now participating in the FSA program may amount to as much as $500 for each family and extend from one to five years at 5 percent interest. Present FSA borrowers may get additional loans where needed to help them meet revised operating costs.

Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas

To all Banks in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District:

Recurring rumors that the Federal Government intends to confiscate all savings are being circulated in many parts of the country. The continued circulation of such rumors might lead to the withdrawal of saving deposits. In connection with these rumors, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently made the following statement:

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatever for such rumors. The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal involving the confiscation of the savings deposits of this country for any purpose. Furthermore, anyone circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the nation."

The importance of financing the war effort to the greatest possible extent from current income rather than from accumulated savings has been repeatedly emphasized by the Treasury Department. In furtherance of that policy, efforts are being made to encourage all employers to adopt a payroll allotment plan for the sale of Defense Bonds to their employees, because that is regarded as one of the essential steps in combating the development of inflammatory tendencies.

Digging the Longest Trench ever plowed by Man...

One of the big defense activities of the Bell Telephone System is the placing of the new 1600-mile Omaha-Sacramento underground-cable lines at a cost of twenty million dollars. They cross the Mountain States territory through Wyoming and Utah, with a spur from Cheyenne to Denver.

The 20-ton cable-laying telephone "tanks" used on the job travel almost as the crow flies and do their work in almost any kind of ground except soft swamps or solid rock. Driving steadily ahead, they are digging the deep trench for 1600 miles, laying two cables in it and filling in the earth, all in one continuous process.

It is a major defense project because when completed late this year it will provide for the first time a coast-to-coast all cable route free from most hazards, and it will materially increase the number of transcontinental telephone circuits as well.

To Spend More Than $21,000,000

Pacific Fruit Express, operator of the world's largest freight refrigerator car system, has been authorized to spend more than $21,000,000 for new cars, and for rebuilding and heavy repairs to equipment in 1942 and 1943, it was announced today by Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, joint owners of the company.

Orders for 2000 new cars of the latest design are expected to be placed shortly, and it is hoped that deliveries will start before the end of this year or not later than early in 1943.

In connection with the new construction program, PFE will completely rebuild 2500 of its cars during 1942 and 1943, such cars to be provided with entirely new bodies of the most improved type.

Authorization has also been given for heavy repairs to 3000 additional cars in the same period.

The new equipment, to be constructed with steel frames, sheathing, ends and roofs, will feature convertible bunkers which can be collapsed to increase loading space when bunker ice is not used. This is in line with the announcement last summer that all of PFE's new and rebuilt cars would thereafter include the new type bunkers. Completion of the company's present program will result in 4500 cars being so equipped.

Attention was called to the fact that that expenditures on PFE's 1942-43 improvements will bring to more than $67,000,000 the sums spent for the company on new, rebuilt and heavily repaired equipment since 1936. This huge outlay has been made, it was emphasized, to provide and improve refrigerator car equipment for proper protection of perishable agricultural products moving to distant markets from territories

Last Words

Last words of dying persons are like the mutterings in a delirium. Why then are they so treasured? asks Dr. J. Shelton Hoxley in an article in Hygeia Magazine. The melodramatic picture of relatives hovering over a deathbed is based on the wrong conception. Last words are of no value when they come from a mind benumbed by approaching death. It is better to remember the words spoken while the person was in a healthy mental and physical state.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—There was a skinny boy over on Coney Island who in one day spent $100 popping off ducks and clay pipes on the shooting gallery conveyor belts. He didn't go to college and if he had he probably would have been voted the least likely to succeed.

But, with young people, you can't be too sure what is monkey business or what isn't. This boy, as above, really had his mind on his work when he was banging away in the shooting gallery. He got himself a work bench and brought through the Garand rifle, which has increased our army small-arm firing power by two-fold, and which has brought to the 53-year-old John C. Garand special commendation from General MacArthur.

Mr. Garand is still a gunsmith at the Springfield armory, earning around $9,000 a year. He has had big commercial offers for his gun, but has refused them and has waited patiently for the army to make up its mind, during the years of controversy and many rigorous tests.

He is an erect, lean featured, mop-haired man, with alert, bespectacled blue eyes which focus sharply at about the distance of a gun-sight. He seems rather absent-minded about the medals he has won and the money he might have made and is puzzled that anyone should suggest that he ever had any thought other than handing his gun to the government. It was in 1923 that he offered the first rough model of his gun. The bureau of standards backed him, grooved him into the Springfield armory, and it was in 1939 that the war department provided funds for the manufacture of the rifle.

He was born in Montreal, was a sweeper in a textile mill in a small Connecticut town at the age of 12 and was working part time in a machine shop when he found his laboratory in the Coney Island shooting galleries.

ONE defect of a non-authoritarian society is that people usually don't consult authorities before making up their minds. We have heard many expressions of alarm based on something "right out of the feed-box," about the supposed general physical unfitness of our new army. It's just a cream-puff army if you listen to these croakers.

None of them took the trouble to telephone the man who knows—Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale university. He has studied the physical fitness of our recruits, after a lifetime as a specialist in such matters. He says: "Our draft army is probably the most physically and mentally competent large body of young men ever gathered together under any flag." Dr. Winslow's succinct finding is reported in the "Fitness-for-Freedom" issue of the Survey-Graphic magazine.

Since 1915, Dr. Winslow has been lecturer professor of public health at the New York Museum of Natural History, as director of the division of public health education in the New York state department of public health and has been associated with the Rockefeller foundation in public health research and education. He has written a wide shelf of books on subjects in his field, conducted innumerable surveys, contributed to countless forums and conferences.

Dr. Winslow was the founder of the American Hygiene movement. A 64-year-old Bostonian, he schooled for his life-long battle against physical unfitness at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale and New York university.

He has furthered wider participation among college students in health-building sports and he has been a pioneer in both "positive health" and preventive medicine.

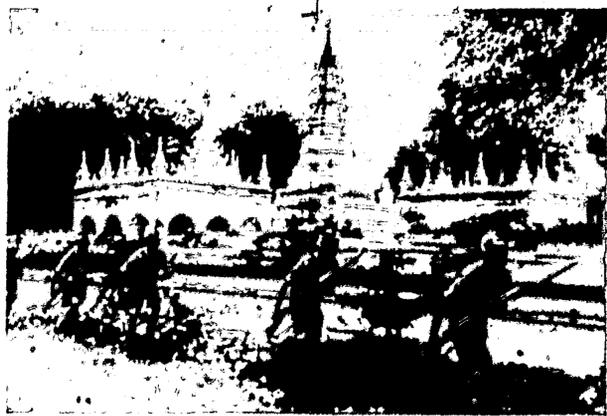

This department has noted a swelling tide of misinformation about the British stalling, the Russians getting ready for a fast double-cross, our war production a mess and our army a push-over. It is possible that somebody who doesn't like us is channelling this into dinner-table talk. It might be a good idea if every American newspaper would run a standing "get it straight" box, giving the names and addresses of trusted authorities in each field of war effort, and urging talkative citizens to look up with headquarters, or else keep still.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.
LINING CHIMNEY FLUES FOR GAS

A HOME owner who is considering putting in a gas burning furnace has been advised by the gas company to put a lining in his chimney flue. He is told that if he does not go to this expense of $40, the chimney brickwork may be injured, and he will be required to sign a waiver by which he accepts the responsibility. He asks about the necessity for a lining. There is a real necessity for it, because of probable damage to the mortar joints. In burning, gas forms vapors that will condense against the cool masonry. These vapors contain sulphur, and in combining with the water vapor that in present, a mild form of sulphuric acid results. In time, this will eat into the mortar joints and lead to destruction. A chimney that is properly built, with a fireclay flue lining, will not be harmed. But bare mortar joints will suffer. To protect them, a pipe can be inserted in the flue made of a material that is not affected by acid. It was evidently this that was suggested by the gas company. Another treatment is to spray the inside of the flue with a form of liquid asphalt, use being made of a special spraying outfit that can be let down the chimney. I have heard of so many cases of the deterioration of chimneys in burning gas that I strongly recommend that my correspondent go to the expense of lining the chimney.

Chimney Creosote.

Question: My old house, originally for one family, has been made over into three apartments. It has a peak roof with an inside chimney. Each apartment has a kitchen stove, burning range oil. In the top apartment a black liquid drips down the pipe on the stove and floor. How can this be stopped?

Answer: Apparently, the three kitchen stoves are connected to the same flue, which makes the draft poor for each one of them. If the top of the chimney is not at least two feet higher than the highest point of the peak roof, this also will affect the draft. As a result of poor draft, the vapors from the burning oil condense in the cool part of the chimney above the roof, and the liquid which forms runs into the smokepipe of the top apartment. Rebuilding the upper part of the chimney with thicker walls would help the situation, because that part of the chimney would be warmer then, and there would be less condensation. The chimney cap should be the full size of the flue; if it is smaller, it will reduce the draft.

Uneven Door Sill.

Question: My basement door is cut through an opening in a stone foundation. The lower stone surface is uneven, so that there is a space under the door of as much as an inch in places. This makes the basement cold. How can this space be filled?

Answer: Your best result would be to cut the sill smooth and level with a cold chisel. One way to fill the space would be with concrete, provided you leave the surface of the stone sufficiently rough for the concrete to take a hold. Another method would be to crew a strip of wood to the bottom edge of the door.

Basement Wall Finish.

Question: Basement walls are of cut stone, and were finished on the inside with cement. Much of this has fallen off and I plan to put on a new surface. Would you suggest cement, or something else?

Answer: Cement paint, which is intended for masonry, would be better than straight cement, for it contains a binder. It comes in white as well as in colors. Get it at a paint store. Directions on the label should be carefully followed.

Leaking Roof.

Question: A dormer roof is covered with cedar shingles, and as it has little pitch, it develops many leaks. I do not want to remove the shingles because of the expense. What can I cover them with?

Answer: You can use composition shingles over heavy roofing felt.

Mildew Spots.

Question: What will remove mildew spots from broadcloth shirts?

Answer: Javelle water or similar liquid bleach will take them out. Use a weak solution and alternate with clear water, for long exposure may damage the fibers. Repeated launderings will usually do the trick.

Making a Lawn.

Question: How can I grow a lawn on sandy soil around my house?

Answer: For best results, you should cover the sand with about a foot of top soil. Get the advice of a good seed store, where the local conditions are known.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To save frequent dusting, a dust-cloth that does a thorough job is a household necessity. Put one tablespoon of furniture polish of good quality into a quart glass fruit jar, and shake the jar until the polish coats the sides. Put a yard of clean cheesecloth into the jar and cover it. Let the cloth remain in the jar several days before using. Refill the jar with another cloth and another measure of polish after each dusting.

A piece of charcoal kept on one of the shelves will remove all odor from your refrigerator.

Shabby leather upholstery may be revived by washing with a cloth wrung out in warm water, to which a little vinegar has been added. Polish can be restored after washing by rubbing with a mixture of the whites of two eggs beaten up with a dash of turpentine.

If you wish to serve your guests individual cakes, bake your cake in a loaf. When baked, cut it in squares, frost them on four sides and decorate the tops with walnuts.

Don't run lamp cords under the rug. They wear out more quickly from being walked on, and present a fire hazard.

Avoid handling electrical apparatus with wet hands. Always turn off the main switch before trying to repair outlets or lights. Disconnect cords before working on them.

Spiced beet slices or pickled carrots make pleasant garnishes for the cold-meat platter. A few of each will do, along with a few sprigs of parsley.

Do You Bake at Home?

If you do, send for a grand cook book—crammed with recipes for all kinds of yeast-raised breads and cakes. It's absolutely free. Just drop a postcard with your name and address to Standard Brands Inc., 691 Washington St., New York City.—Adv.

SYNOPSIS
THE STORY SO FAR: Janice Trent runs away from wedding Ned Paxton, rich, but a gay blade. Unbeknownst to Bruce Harcourt, a family friend, she becomes secretary of an Alaska camp of which he is chief engineer. Millicent Hale, wife of the man whom he succeeded, is also attracted to him. Bruce at first wants to send Janice back. On a trip to the city, she encounters Paxton and tells him she is married to Harcourt. The latter hears it and insists on a wedding that day. After a wedding party arranged by the Samp sisters, who run the Waffle Shop, Bruce and Janice go home, only to be disturbed shortly by Millicent who tells them her husband, Joe Hale, has been shot dead. "If you had only waited," she exclaims to Bruce, and crumples. Bruce spends the night in investigation. The commissioner arrives, and a probe is on. Jimmie Chester, Millicent's brother, who hated Joe, seizes a plane, in the meantime and hops off.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIII

The Commissioner's eyes were sharp but reassuringly friendly as he took command of the situation. "Mrs. Hale, did you quarrel with your husband before you went to the dance last evening, did he object to your leaving him?"

"Was it only last evening?" She shivered. "He didn't want me to go."

"But you went?"

"Yes. For a short time."

"Did he threaten you?"

"Not more than usual."

"Mm. I see. Had he quarreled with anyone at headquarters?"

"With Mr. Harcourt. You can't suspect him, you can't! Bruce never quarreled with him. He was at the Waffle Shop every moment till he walked home with me and then he didn't come in."

"But the shooting was done with his revolver."

"How do you know?" The question was a strained whisper.

"It was found on the shore."

She looked up with agonized eyes at Harcourt standing by the mantel. "Bruce! Bruce!"

"You and your brother were in the H-house helping decorate it. Did you notice whether the gun was there?"

"I—I didn't notice."

"Anyone there besides you and your brother?"

"Kadyama brought in the greens. Miss Mary was unpacking some things in one of the bedrooms."

Mrs. Hale, describe what you found when you entered the cabin."

"Joe was lying face down on the rug. Wheel-chair overturned. I don't know how long I stood staring at him. I felt something tugging at my skirt. It was my little dog begging to be taken up. That broke the spell of horror. I raised Joe's head and shoulders, realized what had happened and rushed for Mr. Harcourt."

The Commissioner fitted spatula finger-tips together with pice precision. "Any theory as to the motive for the attack on your husband, Mrs. Hale?"

Her thin fingers tightened. "No. Unless—unless it was robbery. Joe always carried a lot of cash."

"Why did you go for Mr. Harcourt instead of your brother?"

"Go for Jimmy? Why he hated Joe and—" she stifled a cry with one hand. "You're not trying to make out that Jimmy did it, are you? Bruce! Bruce! You know Jimmy. You know that he's incapable of a thing like that."

"Did he tell you then that he was going away?"

"Away! Where?" She was on her feet, swaying as she stood. Harcourt pressed her back into the chair.

"Take it easy, Millicent. Jimmy went off in a plane."

"Where, Bruce, where?"

"In just one hour he will be on his way to find out. We won't trouble you any more now, Mrs. Hale. Good afternoon. See you in the morning. Come on, Harcourt."

Out of earshot of the Samp cabin, the Commissioner stopped.

"That woman knows more than she's telling, a whole lot more. We'll let her think we're as dumb as she thinks we are, while we go after Chester."

The Commissioner said Bruce knew every field where a plane could land. Harcourt admitted it.

"I do. We have three large camps stocked with provisions for two years. They have good fields. Unless Chester had an accident, he must have come down in one of those. He wouldn't go to a city or town of any size. If he is running away, he would know that you would have his description broadcast."

"We'll start in an hour. Leave someone in charge with instructions to let Mrs. Hale have her head. Get 'em all feeling secure, that's the idea. Going to eat at the Waffle Shop?"

"No. At my cabin. I want to talk with Pasca, my house-boy, and leave Grant in charge."

Tubby Grant was strumming a mournful ditty on his ukulele as Harcourt entered his cabin and left instructions.

"Keep your eye on Janice, will you?"

"What a heck of a honeymoon!"

"By the way, Millicent suggested robbery as the motive of the attack on Joe. No money was found on him or in the cabin, you remember. Kadyama will bear watching."

Smoke rose from the chimney,

Out of earshot of the Samp cabin, the Commissioner stopped.

drifted lazily into the pink afterglow, as Harcourt entered his cabin. He stopped on the threshold.

Was that really an embroidered cloth and shining silver on the small table laid for two, or was he seeing things? The plates and tumblers of the warranted-to-withstand-wear-and-tear variety were his—he would swear to that. Who was humming to the accompaniment of an egg-beater? He flung open the kitchen door.

"Janice!"

The girl in her gay smock, furiously beating eggs in a bowl, bobbed a dancing-school curtsy.

"What are you doing here?"

"Here! Didn't I send word by Miss Martha that if I did not return to the H house pronto he would come for me?"

"I didn't send for you because I wanted a cook."

"Don't bite. Miss Martha intimated that as a chef Pasca left something to be desired. 'I seen my duty on' I done it. Look at that asparagus with sauce vinaigrette. I found a basket of gulls' eggs. I'm making an omelette, a plump, yellow omelette, not one of those thin things with a soap-sudsy filling. Something tells me that I have mortally offended your house-boy. He cares so awfully for himself as a cook."

Harcourt looked gravely at Janice seated across the small table.

"For the first time in my life I understand why my father always said grace at his own table. Mother was something for which to give daily thanks if he had nothing else."

He cleared his voice. "Where did all this elegance come from?" He touched the beautiful cloth with a shining silver spoon.

"I told you that I had not realized quite into what I was adventuring. Thought I might have an occasional afternoon tea."

"And you drew this. It is all wrong, Jan, but we won't go back to that now." He looked at the clock. "I am taking off in just thirty minutes."

"Where?"

"After Jimmy Chester."

"Oh, not nice Jimmy Chester! Does the Commissioner think he did it?"

He told her of the interview with Millicent Hale, while Pasca served the simple supper. As the Eskimo set cups of coffee on the table, Harcourt smiled at the girl.

"This has the restaurant at which we dined beaten a mile. Feed Tong, Pasca. Fuel the Tanager. I will be at the field in ten minutes."

As the door closed behind the man and dog, Janice asked:

"Why are you taking that particular plane?"

"Because I can take off after a run of less than three hundred feet, and come to a complete stop one hundred feet from the spot where the plane first touches the ground. As I don't know where I may have to come down, it's the best bet."

He looked at her steadily. "Do I need to tell you that Millicent's intimation that it would matter to her if she were free is a figment of her crazed imagination?"

Janice was intent on the pattern she was etching on the cloth with the tip of a silver spoon.

"Imagination! It sounded like the real thing to me."

He caught her shoulders. "You know better. You know that I—Good Lord, is that the Commissioner knocking? Can't he allow me a minute with—with my family?"

He opened the door. The smiling, impeccably dressed man facing him said suavely:

"I was told that I would find—"

"Ned!"

The choked exclamation came from Janice. Harcourt glanced at the clock. Five minutes before he was due at the flying field. Only five minutes. He looked straight at Paxton, whose eyes were on the girl.

"Come in, Jan, here is a friend from the outside world." As she took a step forward he glanced unseeingly at his wrist-watch. "Sorry that I have to leave headquarters just as you arrive, Paxton, but Janice and Grant will show you the wonders of this north country."

He caught the girl in his arms. "It's like tearing my heart out to leave you, Beautiful!" He kissed her eyes, her throat, her mouth. She struggled for an instant before she relaxed against him. He pressed his lips to her hair. "Dearest!"

"Ha-ar-court!"

The Commissioner's shout outside crashed into his husky voice. Janice caught the back of the chair as he released her. Her long lashes were a dark fringe against her colorless skin. Paxton was staring out of the window, a fighting set to his shoulders.

Harcourt picked up jumpers, helmet, rifle. His blood raced. He had intended to kiss Janice lightly, a mere gesture to impress the late fiancée with the reality of their relationship. The feel of her in his arms had set him aflame. He had kissed her as though he were starved for her—as he was. Would she forgive him?

She followed him to the door in true wifely solicitude. Said in a voice disconcertingly steady:

"Good luck to you, Bruce."

As he stepped to the board walk she leaned forward to whisper furiously:

"Your technique is superb. You must have had heaps of practice. But why martyr yourself to impress Ned?"

He caught her hand. She twisted it free. Stepped back.

The door closed.

Harcourt was still stubbornly clinging to the conviction of Jimmy Chester's innocence when on the third day of the search he left the northernmost camp. Not one of the three he had visited had yielded a clue. The Commissioner was irritated and air-worn. He had ordered a return to headquarters, had radioed Grant to expect them that afternoon. As Harcourt climbed to cruising altitude the first uneasiness as to Chester's safety seized him.

Once he thought he heard the vibration of an engine ahead. It couldn't be the Commissioner, must be a sound mirage. He sent the plane up again and came out into the sun. The altimeter registered a mile.

He kept above the clouds till he came into clear sky. Descended to get his bearings. Was that a camp below? Men, looking no bigger than beetles, moving. Digging? Probably archaeologists in search of the first Americans. He looked at the compass. His heart stood still. It had gone dead. Some electric current in that prickling rain storm had done the trick. Where was he?

A buzz in his ear warned him that he must have more forward speed instantly or the plane would stall and spin out of control. As he climbed swiftly he looked round the horizon to get his bearings. Toward the south the sky was black with smoke. Old Katmal tuning up. Now he knew the direction in which to fly.

He mounted into the clouds. They were moving south. They would serve as compass. The drone of an engine? Was he really hearing it? The effect was weird. Suddenly fog caught him.

To his astonishment he came out into brilliant sunlight. What an infernally queer world! The berg-dotted sea was over his right wing. In his relief he laughed. The plane had flopped on its side. He righted it and took his bearings.

How long had he been flying aimlessly in the storm? He glanced at his wrist-watch. Noon. He yawned at the gas gauge. Couldn't do much more experimenting with that supply. He peered over the side of the ship. An ice-floe. Big as an able-bodied island with acres of plateau. He wing-slipped nearer, wires humming. Dots! Three of them! Two moving. One inert. A plane on its side! The phantom of the clouds cracked-up? Could one of the dots be Chester? No, Jimmy went alone.

Engine shut off, he side-slipped down. Landed, bumped and skidded over the rough surface to a stop. The foe stretched away illimitably, not a collection of cakes but acres of grinding, heaving ice-fields, their smoothness broken by an occasional crevice choked with loose fragments, by swiftly running rills. He pushed back his helmet. The crippled plane! Good Lord, what a wreck! Propeller smashed, one wing gashed into fringe by the ice. Where was the pilot?

Pershing Had but Gentle Rebuke for Doughboy

From time to time there have been complaints about lack of discipline in the U. S. army. It is true that the American soldier always has been somewhat "difficult," but he is a good, courageous fighter—and it sometimes pays best not to be too regimental. This leads up to a story of one dark night in France during the last war when a doughboy stopped an officer and asked for a cigarette. As he lit up, he recognized the officer, and gasped: "General Pershing!"

The general smiled grimly. "Say, son, you took an awful chance," he said. "I might have been a second lieutenant."

A RESOLUTION

To The Honorable Members Of
-Congress From New Mexico.

WHEREAS, The United States of America is at war with several nations; who are designated as the Axis powers, and,

WHEREAS, In order to combat successfully these nations, it is essential that we employ all the men, all the materials, and all the money necessary to accomplish these things in the shortest time possible, and,

WHEREAS, In the interest of the worker, the employer, and the public, we believe, that continued emphasis should be given to merit rating which provides incentive for job security, and,

WHEREAS, For their own selfish interests members of special interest groups are using human misery and sacrifice to further their political ambitions, and,

WHEREAS, From press reports and personal contacts, we find that the majority of Americans are willing to continue to make further personal sacrifices, so long as these sacrifices will help to bring victory to the Allied nations
We also find that these Americans are opposed to the use of moneys, saved from these sacrifices, for personal gain and pet hobbies.
and,

WHEREAS, To win this WAR
all patriotic citizens of this country, should lay aside personal ambitions, personal gains at the expense of others, and personal aggrandizement for the duration of this war, Therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, That we respectively request that you use your influence in the United States Congress in curtailing all unnecessary expense that does not directly aid our war efforts, and in the elimination of "The National Youth Administration"
"The Civilian Conservation Corps" Of the closed shop. Of all appropriations for so called "special interest groups, of government bureau-created to meet a depression that is ended, Of the criminal gangs that control employment and allocation of men or women who work on any and all war projects. Of overlapping bureaus, Also drastic curtailment or complete elimination of farm subsidies. That appropriations for the WPA be held to an absolute minimum. That all new social experiments be discontinued for the duration. That the bickering between Capital and Labor be stopped as it has become a national disgrace. Suspend the 40 hour week to whatever extent may be necessary, at once, with no overtime, and extend factory hours to 168 hours per week, Stop racketeering in Labor Union as we have prima facie evidence that the unions are charging $20.00 to $50.00 to join the union, and forcing all newly hired workers to join and pay up before the Union will allow them to work on any war projects. Stop all strikes in war industries, or at least force arbitration between Labor and Capital without stoppage of work. This can be done by passing a law regulating stoppage of work in war industries. Limit profits in war industries to a fair return.
And last but not least, to avoid inflation with the consequent ruin of all industry, a fair and equitable ceiling should be placed immediately upon all wages, profits, rents, farm and commodity prices with a provision for adjustment,
and.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,
That the members of the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce pledge themselves to not ask for any contributions or seek any special privileges or large unless it has a direct connection with winning the war, and,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,
That our Congressmen write us in detail their attitude and intent regarding these matters.
