Warfare on Ants
Ants infesting house timbers, which have not been previously impregnated with creosote, may sometimes be reached and killed by the abundant use of kerosene injected by means of a syringe or, where the timbers are accessible, by spraying or soaking them with kerosene. All timbers which have been mined and weakened should be replaced with timbers protected with creosote.

Lesson From Chinaman
In a Toronto court a Chinese who had been giving evidence through an interpreter was found to be quite fluent in English. It is a characteristic of the oriental mind not to reveal all it knows; and this is not a bad plan for any other division of the human race.—Toronto Globe.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

T. V. Dolan, First Aid Safety Field representative of the American Red Cross will be in Carrizozo during the week of April 6 to conduct a 15-hour instructors' course in first aid. All persons qualified to take this course are urged to arrange to attend this class and assist the Red Cross by instructing other classes when a certificate is received from Mr. Dolan. Anyone who has taken the standard and advanced courses, and is willing to assist in instructing classes, and is 20 years of age, is qualified to take the instructors' class. The first aid program in Lincoln County is seriously handicapped due to shortage of instructors, and anyone who will complete this course will be rendering a great service.
Frank Adams, Chairman.

BOY SCOUT CONTEST

A Boy Scout First Aid contest will be held at Capitan Saturday night by the different organizations over the county and Carrizozo people are urged to be present. Our local organization under the leadership of Scoutmaster G. H. Dorsett, has a strong chance of winning the contest, so be sure to attend and boost for our Boy Scouts.

THE STORY SO FAR: Janice Trent runs away from wedding Ned Paxton, rich, but a gay blade. Unbeknownst to Bruce Harcourt, a family friend, she becomes secretary of an Alaska camp of which he is chief engineer. Millicent Hale, wife of the man whom he succeeded, is also attracted to him. Bruce at first wants to send Janice back. On a trip to the city, she encounters Paxton and tells him she is married to Harcourt. The latter hears it and insists on a wedding that day. That night, after a wedding party arranged by the Samp sisters, elderly owners of the Waffle Shop, Mrs. Hale breaks in on the newlyweds with the cry that her husband had been shot dead. She also says: "If you only had waited, Bruce." Bruce spends the night investigating the murder. A Commissioner arrives to conduct an official probe. Jimmie Chester, Mrs. Hale's brother, who hated her husband, runs off in a plane. Bruce and the Commissioner set out to find him. Ned Paxton and his yacht arrive at the headquarters town.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XV

Ned Paxton looked stern. "What do you know of my scheme of living? I want a woman at the head of my house, for the mother of my children, who has an inflexible instinct for the fine and beautiful things of life and the courage to go after them. And I'm going to get her. You must have thought me an easy mark when we met at the hotel. I was dazzled by the news of your marriage. As the day wore on I grew suspicious. Asked a few questions. Discovered that you married Harcourt after you met me that morning. Why did you do it?"

Janice had almost liked him again, trusted him as he confided his ideal of family life. The savage contempt of his question hardened her heart.

"Continue sleuthing. Find out." "I have it on rather good authority that Harcourt was not in love with you. I suspect it was a case of knight-errantry on his part. Girl announces that she is married to him. What could he do but come across with the ring?"

"You will have to answer that question yourself, Ned. But, after all, how can you? What do you know of the ambitions, struggles, sacrifices, self-discipline which lie behind what you call knight-errantry? You see. You want. You buy."

His face was dark with anger. "You said that once before. I don't like it. I'll prove to you that I can earn one thing I want—that's you. Think I don't know that this marriage stuff is a bluff to save your face? He drew her close. She protested sharply.

"Ned! Let me go!" The kitchen door banged open. Tong dashed into the room. Head lowered, brush drooping, one corner of his lip curled to reveal a fang, baleful eyes watchful, he stood as motionless as a creature in bronze.

Paxton released Janice. His laugh showed a tinge of strain.

Pasco shuffled into the charged silence.

"Tatima in kitchen with deech. Mees Samp seesters send her." "Aren't they coming?" Janice's voice dripped disappointment. "Tell Tatima to come in, Pasco." Grant entered by the front door. "Tubby, I'm glad you have arrived to swell the list of those present. It looks as though my party might be a treat."

"Sayo you. How are you, Paxton? Where's Mrs. Hale? Well, what d'you know! See who's here!" Tatima had come in from the kitchen.

"Mees Samp seesters cond plate. They say, sorry they can't come to party."

"Tell them that I am terribly disappointed." The girl lingered, twisting her bracelets in conscious expectancy. "I never saw so much lovely silver jewelry. Something tells me you've had a present."

Tatima assumed indifference. "Who, me? Kadyama geeve to me. He geeve me much more. I marry on him. He chief's son. Some day I beeg cheef's aquaw."

There was a thread of excitement in Grant's laugh. "Kadyama's struck pay-dirt, has he? Where's his gold-mine?"

"He noding like gol' mine. Money owe him long time for card game. Yesterday man pay. Kadyama buy silver from Ouso."

"Who's the rich stranger? I'd like to get up a little game with him myself."

Tatima sniffed scorn. "Stranger! Pasco pay heeta. Pasco have beeg fat roll of money. Kadyama say."

Coming aboard Ned Paxton's boat had set old memories twanging unbearably. Janice reflected uneasily. Mary Samp's eyes were big with wonder. She perched on the edge of the seat like a plump pigeon on a ledge ready to take off at the slightest warning. Millicent Hale, in a deck chair, had removed her black hat. Her fair hair seemed fairer in contrast to her sombre frock.

Janice sniffed. Why had the fragile woman in black such power to hurt her?

Was Ned Paxton intrigued by her? Admitted that it was a glorious day, that fact did not explain her presence on this boat. Tubby Grant had been responsible. That was unfair. She alone was responsible for what she did. She was white, free and considerably over twenty-one, quite old enough to make her own decisions. Had it all been Tubby's insistence, or had she been glad of the chance to be away when Bruce returned? After supper last night, Tubby had held her up outside her Waffle Shop—had begged her to second his efforts to have Millicent Hale away from headquarters when the Commissioner and Harcourt arrived the next afternoon. From the fact that his name had not been mentioned in the radio message, there was every reason to believe they were bringing Jimmy Chester. He had asked Paxton to co-operate by inviting a party on his yacht for a nearer view of the erupting volcano.

Janice waved to those on the boat.

Grant's plan had seemed sound. Now, on thinking back over the conversation, she wondered that he had not referred to Tatima's startling disclosure as to the source of the money which Kadyama had lavishly expended on silver jewelry. Where could Pasco get so much cash so suddenly? Was it part of that taken from Joe Hale when he was shot? It would account for Bruce's absence from the squaw-dance.

A ship's bell struck. She counted. Eight bells. Was it possible they had been sailing three hours? Tea time. She joined the group under the awning. Paxton rose.

"You stood so long staring over the rail, we decided that you were making up your mind for a swim."

"Not in this icy water. I was wondering if we could approach the volcano near enough to get a picture. I brought a movie camera."

"I'll talk with the Captain and the native pilots. We have two aboard. Meanwhile, will you show Miss Mary the interior of the boat? You know every crack and cranny of it, though you haven't seen it since I had it re-decorated—for you."

The last words were so low that Janice wondered if anyone but herself heard them. Miss Mary admitted:

"I'd like real well to see it."

Mary Samp's eyes shone, her cheeks reddened with excitement as they passed from one part of the boat to another. The silver and blue, black and rose and gold of the staterooms reduced her to a state of thrilled speechlessness. On the threshold of the main lounge she clasped ecstatic hands.

"Well, now! I suppose this is what folks call modernistic!"

Two Filipino boys were bringing the tea things when they returned to the lounge deck. Janice's lips twitched with laughter as she remembered Pasco's high-held tray. That reminded her, where had the Eskimo procured the money to pay Kadyama?

"Janice!" She looked up. Paxton was standing before her fastening a holster belt. "That's better. You were a hundred miles from here. I'll bet you couldn't tell whether you've had tea or not. You have. The sea is running smooth. If you want to get near enough to the volcano to take a picture, the Captain says that it will be perfectly safe for the native pilots to take you in the launch."

Janice's premonition nerves tingled. Darn her imagination. Here was the opportunity of a lifetime. Would she let her fear-complex rule? She would not.

"I'm all excited! Am I to go alone?"

"No. I'll go to make sure that you don't fall out of the boat in your excitement. The sky is not quite so clear as it was, we'd better get a move on. The yacht will follow. We will turn back the moment you say the word."

Seated in the launch, Janice waved to the two women and the Captain bending over the rail to watch them start. Miss Mary's eyes were troubled, Millicent Hale's inscrutable, the Captain's complacent as he listened to the purr of the motor, rhythmic as a kitten's breathing, observed the skill of the native pilots who had shed their coats and caps, gold braided with the yacht's insignia, and had stolidly wriggled into kamlaykas, which looked like waterproof overshirts with a hood. When at a proper distance, Janice focused the camera on the group on the deck. She cranked until the faces were dim. "There! I wonder what Tubby will say to that. He is teaching me the motion-picture art. I've even learned to develop films. When I return to civilization I will be equipped to go on the lecture platform."

"Then you expect to return to civilization?"

Apparently absorbed in the intricacies of the black box she held, she answered abstractedly:

"Return! Of course. Then some day we are going to South America to build a bridge."

Paxton laughed skeptically before he crunched down behind the engine to light a cigarette.

From whence had that iridescent bit of fabrication bubbled, Janice demanded of herself in dismay. From the rows and rows of Spanish books in the H house? Had those spelled South America to her subconscious?

The launch was running parallel with a green shore from which twin mountains lightly clothed with alders and willows, arid, with volcano ash, rose in a graceful sweep to taper into dazzling white cones. Beyond towered higher peaks like purple shadows. She could make out an abandoned Indian village, its tumble-down huts clinging weirdly white in the distance. Were those uprights carved totem poles? She turned eagerly to Paxton as he came aft.

"See that Indian village, Ned. I wish—"

The sentence died on her lips as a rain of tiny rocks showered upon the boat. They burned as they struck her hands, hised as they fell into the water to float away like dingy snow-flakes. Orange and scarlet flames fired curling vapor, belching smoke. All the sky seemed one frightful conflagration.

"Hol' tight! Hol' tight!"

Janice hadn't needed the hoarse shouts of the pilots as a warning. Instinctively she had gripped the side of the launch.

"Come about! Make for the yacht!" Paxton shouted.

Too late. With the roar as of all the thunder-bolts forged in Vulcan's workshops let loose, with a crash which rocked the world, the volcano blew up. Fascinated eyes on the spectacle, Janice saw what looked to be the back of a great sea monster rise to the surface. An island being born? Paxton caught her in one arm, clung tight with the other hand. A wave which seemed mountains high rolled toward the launch, caught it as though it had been a chip in a puddle, swept it shoreward with incredible speed. Sweat ran down the bronze face of the pilot as he strained at the wheel. The eyes of both bulged with terror. Overhead scathery, scolding clouds merged. The world which had been all sapphire, emerald and crystal went dreadnaught gray. Stinging white foam flew back in drenching spray. Smoke rolled and twisted like a boa-constrictor in the throes of acute indigestion. The boat climbed a huge roller, lunged sickeningly in the trough, staggered and shuddered when a fresh wave struck it. The sea snarled and hissed under a shower of hot stones. Spray blurred Janice's eyes as she strained them in an effort to see what lay ahead. Another mighty smash and shock of water, greater than its predecessor, lifted the boat like a toy and flung it on the shore.

For a dazed instant she sat with eyes tightly shut. She had thought that last plunge would end everything. Paxton touched her shoulder. "We're safe, Jan. Don't, don't go to pieces now that the danger is over."

"Go to pieces!" She blinked, forced a smile. "I was merely orienting myself, that's all."

The launch was stranded on a pebbly beach. The native pilots were huddled in the bow. Paxton, livid, tense, was standing over them. With a final word he came back to her. "We'll have to camp here until the yacht picks us up. The men say there is a hunter's shack somewhere on this shore. They are dumb with fright. That was all I could screw out of them. We'd better find it before another wave catches us."

Toasted Bunnies Parade for This Easter Dinner! (See Recipes Below)

Easter Time

As gay as red tulips with food as fresh and appealing as spring itself is the Easter dinner menu I have planned for you today. It's simple and economical as is in keeping with the times, but with spring-like accents that lurk in the fragrant mint leaves, spring lamb, green peas, crisp, bright salad and in the distinctive ice cream.

With Easter on the wing, winter is definitely on the way out, and our thoughts naturally turn to lighter foods and delicate, pastel table settings. For Easter brings out your loveliest white cloths or pastel yellows. As flowers jonquils make an inexpensive but effective centerpiece. Or, for something more dramatic, try red tulips in the center of the bowl banked on all sides by white snapdragons.

Leg of Lamb Roast.

The paper thin covering or "fell" on your leg of lamb does not affect the flavoring of the cut and need not be removed until just before serving. In fact, when left on, it keeps the roast in better shape, cooks more quickly and keeps the juices well within the meat.

Apricot Garnish.

Use canned halves of apricots or stewed halves, well chilled. Place a nugget of mint jelly in the center and serve around the leg of lamb roast.

A touch of red is a hard color to resist especially if it's in a crisp, testful salad as this one:

Cranberry Apple Salad.

1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1/2 of a pound can of cranberry sauce
1 apple
1/2 orange
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Dissolve the gelatin in boiling water and chill until thickened. Crush cranberry sauce.

Lynn Says:

The Easter dinner I planned for you is economical but doubly so because you can make good use of the leftovers.

Cut the remainder of the roast off the bone, grind it with a fine grinder, 1/2 onion, the potatoes and green peas. Place in a buttered dish, bake until heated. During the last seven minutes of baking break eggs whole on top of lamb mixture and serve as soon as eggs have cooked.

If you have just a little of the cranberry apple salad left, cut it into small cubes and serve as a relish. For salad, use leftover apricots from the roast garnish and fill the center with cream cheese and nuts and serve in lettuce cups with your favorite dressing.

If you have a few leftover green peas from dinner toss them together with a few carrots, shredded for a change. You can cream these, or mix them with a few bits of crumbled bacon. For variation you might try a few tiny boiled onions with the leftover peas to make enough for a vegetable dish.

Rolls though leftover go over well even the next day. You can slice, toast and butter them. If you like them whole, simply put in a covered casserole with a few drops of water and allow a few minutes to heat through.

Dessert? This is easy. Spoon the ice cream on vanilla wafers, top with another wafer, more ice cream until all is used. Chill for an hour or so and serve sliced with a dab of whipped cream if desired.

Easter Dinner

- Fruit Cup with Mint Leaves
- Leg of Lamb Roast with Apricot Garnish
- Creamed Potatoes Green Peas
- Cranberry Apple Salad
- Honey Rolls
- Almond Ice Cream with Easter Bunnies
- Recipes Given

Grind apple and orange, leaving skins on. Combine cranberry sauce with fruits and lemon juice. Add to gelatin. Pour into molds and chill until firm. Or, pour into a refrigerator tray and cut in squares when ready to serve. Serve on crisp lettuce with creamy mayonnaise.

Crusty, fragrant honey rolls are a gracious addition to your Easter dinner. No need to worry about food shortages when excellent rolls such as this are minus sugar and only a small amount of fat and one egg. Rolled and cut to look like a swirl, these Honey rolls may be baked in buttered muffin tins, or may be shaped into cloverleafs. Have them hot or cold as you prefer, they're good both ways.

Honey Rolls.

- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 cup fat
- 1 cake compressed yeast softened in 1/2 cup lukewarm water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 egg
- 4 cups flour

Sift milk, add fat and honey. Add yeast, salt and 2 cups flour. Then add beaten egg and remainder of flour to form a soft dough. Knead lightly until smooth. Let rise twice, then form into rolls. Let rise until light. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven about 20 minutes.

Creamed Potatoes.

Method I. Peel new potatoes and wash thoroughly. Cook them in boiling water for 10 minutes. Add enough rich milk not quite enough to cover, and finish cooking potatoes. Be careful not to burn potatoes, stirring often, or cook in double boiler. Add salt, pepper and butter to taste.

Method II. Boil new potatoes in their jackets. Cool and peel. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, and add 1 cup of milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thick. Add potatoes to this, season, and heat through.

Easter dinner with the traditional leg of lamb, peas and mint jelly touches demands a distinctive and at the same time a harmoniously flavored dessert. Almond flavoring is perfect foil, guaranteed to please, in this creamy, quickly prepared ice cream. No sugar required!

Almond Ice Cream.

- (Serves 6)
- 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons almond extract
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1/2 cup finely shredded almonds

Mix sweetened condensed milk, water and almond flavoring. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Freeze in a freezing unit until half frozen. Scrape from tray and beat until smooth but not melted. Add almonds. Replace in freezing unit until frozen.

For the Easter bunnies you may use day-old sliced white bread. Cut the bread with a bunny-shaped cookie cutter. Spread all sides of the cutouts with sweetened condensed milk, then roll in dry, shredded coconut, broken fine. Brown under broiler at low heat, watching very carefully, or toast over coals if you prefer by placing the bunnies on a fork. These taste like coconut frosted angel food.

Paid for Philippines

At the close of the War with Spain the United States agreed to pay Spain $20,000,000 for the Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico, Guam and Cuba; which was to be independent of Spain, although the United States did not actually take over Cuba, says Pathfinder. The terms were agreed upon under the treaty with Spain signed in Paris December 10, 1898, and ratified by the senate February 6, 1899, at which time the United States agreed to pay the sum within three months' time.

Kidneys Must Work Well
For You To Feel Well... 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood, they would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, stinging or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended by the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Household Hints

When you have many children's clothes to make, you can save time and effort if you use a sort of factory method. Cut out three or four dresses at a time (using different materials if you like). You can finish them in a variety of ways.

Disconnect electric iron as soon as you have finished with it, thus preventing fires and the burning out of iron.

Rusty or dusty furnace pipes lose heat more quickly than pipes which have been painted with aluminum of other paints.

When choosing pot holders have them large enough to protect the hands and get flexible ones that will fit around a utensil easily. Hang them near the stove or keep them in a drawer near it. Of course they should be of washable material.

Use your vacuum cleaner on your draperies and slip covers before laundering them; it will make for less washing and rinsing and thus save wear on the articles.

Be sure to leave sufficient space between the walls of the refrigerator and between the dishes on the shelves to allow free circulation of cold air. It is the continual circulation of cold air through an electric refrigerator that preserves your food.

RECONCRETING OLD SURFACES

AN UNEVEN concrete floor cannot be smoothed by the simple process of spreading new concrete on top, for the reason that concrete is not sticky and that the new will not adhere to the old surface. The usual process is to hack and gouge the old surface with a pointed hammer or cold chisel to provide roughness around which the new concrete can harden, and so form a bond. This may be a long and tedious job. One of my correspondents describes a method that he has used with success and that simplifies matters. He treats the old concrete with a mixture of 1 part muriatic acid and 4 parts of water. After a few minutes the acid will eat into the old concrete and roughen the surface sufficiently to permit the new concrete to bond to the old. He says that this works even when the edges of the new concrete are as thin as feathers. The process must be used with great care, however, because of the corrosive qualities of the acid. In the first place, rubber boots, rubber gloves and old clothes should be worn. In making the mixture the acid should be poured slowly into the water with constant stirring, for otherwise it would spatter. It is left in contact with the old concrete for only a few minutes, and is then flushed off with plenty of water. A very thin layer of cement is scattered on the wet concrete, followed by a mixture of one part cement and 1 to 2½ parts of sand. The new surface should be kept wet for three or four days in order to gain hardness and full density. In applying the acid solution the greatest care should be taken to protect the skin, and anything else that might be injured by it.

Paint on Bricks.

Question: In my home there is a very old fireplace, and back of it a brick oven. The bricks are the soft pink variety, but previous owners have given them several coats of paint. Most of this I have taken off with a paint remover and putty knife, with turpentine and muriatic acid. The gray first coat remains in the indentations of the bricks. How can I get it out?
Answer: One way would be to use a gasoline blowtorch, which would turn the remaining paint into a powder with no strength. A stiff brush should take it out of the indentations. If there is nearby woodwork, the blowtorch, of course, must be used with very great care.

One-Flue Chimney.

Question: My chimney is built of blocks, with a terra cotta lining. I have a hot air furnace in the cellar and would like to have a stove in my kitchen. Would a hole in the chimney for a stovepipe be a fire hazard? The kitchen is finished with plasterboard. Is this more inflammable than lath and plaster?
Answer: If there is only one flue in the chimney, connecting a second fire to it would impair the draft and neither your furnace nor your kitchen stove would burn properly. Every fire should have its own flue. Plasterboard is considered to be less inflammable than plaster on wood lath.

Sticking Door.

Question: My heavy front door cannot be tightly closed without slamming, which is hard on the ears. As a result of the slamming one of the panels is cracked. How about a quiet closing?
Answer: The door frame is out of square with the door, possibly from the settlement of the house, in which case the edges of the door that rub against the frame should be planed to fit. Possibly the top hinge is loose, so that the door sags. Tightening the screws should help this. When properly fitted a door should be closed tightly without any of the edges striking the frame.

Roots in Sewer.

Question: Please repeat what you said some time ago on clearing tree roots out of sewer pipes.
Answer: The surest method is with an electric pipe-cleaner. All localities now have operators owning a machine of this kind, which cuts the roots so that they are carried through to the end. Tree roots in a sewer can be killed by dissolving a half-pound or more of copper sulphate—blue vitriol—in a plumbing fixture and letting it drain into the pipe.

Cracks in Walls.

Question: There are cracks in the tongue-and-groove board walls of our enclosed porch. Putty put in them lasts only a short time. Could plasterboard be nailed on? Would it stand the weather?
Answer: In an enclosed porch the plasterboard would not be exposed to extremes of weather, and should give good service, especially if painted.

Ingenious New Prints Are as Refreshing as Spring Itself

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AS GLORIOUSLY fresh as spring-time itself are the lovely print styles in frocks and costumes now being shown for wear in the Easter parade and on through the season. There is no shortage of beauty in their styling, colors or fabrics. A noticeable trend toward emphasis on good lines and restraint in trimming adds extra grace to these new offerings to winter-weary wardrobes.

According to those engaged in fashion industries we are definitely on our way toward an era of femininity in dress. Not extravagant, frivolous garb, mind you, but winsome, becoming clothes such as our men in war service want us to wear when they come home on leave, or seek diversion in recreation centers that offset the grimness of war.

It is just such charm that is expressed in the pretty dresses and hats pictured in the above illustration. An ideal an Easter costume as ever ventured forth on a sun-drenched spring morning is the very good-looking jacket costume of fine rayon print crepe shown to the right, below, in the above picture. To wear this slender one-piece frock and trimly fitted jacket effectively a proper foundation garment, smooth of line through hips and midriff is imperative. Then, too, snowy white accents to give the final endearing touch of femininity must be added, just as you see them pictured here. Try to find anything more ladylike, more expressive of good taste, to wear on a fair Easter morn.

If there is one thing that is contributing more than another to the glory of the new fashions, it is the ingenuity with which designers are combining prints with plain fabrics. The current handling of cutout print designs applied on a monotone fabric is developing into a technique of high artistry and amazing originality. Print and plain are artfully combined in the stunning frock shown to the left in the above picture. Here a pretentious apple design is ingeniously applied to sooty black smooth-draping rayon crepe at one side of the softly flared skirt and on the opposite shoulder. The attractive motif is repeated on the wide patent leather belt.

Special attention is called to the matching icy woven pyroxilin hat and bag twosome. The entry of plastics into millinery design is one of the important fashion highlights this season. Here is a very convincing demonstration of the emphasis that is being placed on fetching accessories.

An exotic ocea island pattern printed on fine textured rayon crepe makes the attractive daytime frock centered in the above group. Soft draping through the bodice front and an all-around pleated skirt combine to create an effect of ease and grace. Note the wide brim of the hat. The wide brims are going to breath-taking dimensions, according to the new millinery for spring and summer.

Contrasting with the wide-brim vogue are the prettily feminine little hats that are as capricious as perky ribbon bows and color-bright flowers and whimsical veils can make them. Such a hat is the lovely pink rose-laden one shown in the inset above. Wee sailors, not much bigger than the palm of your hand, are chic this season, their style vying for supremacy with sailors of enormous brim.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Suit Hats

Fashion is placing great emphasis this spring on perky little headgear, which milliners call "suit" hats. As the name implies, these chic headpieces are designed to wear with suits and with casual tailored town jacket dresses. Typical are the two models pictured in the above illustration. The little sailor done in the "suit" hat manner is very popular. As the picture at the top shows, the rolled coilure, is particularly adaptable for the girl who favors the sailor type. The other hat is a clever new tricorn of black felt faced with mustard yellow bagheera. This spring, more than ever, you can change your suit by changing your accessories, especially your hat.

Colors Are Matched For Busy Shoppers

The calendar has us thinking about our spring wardrobes again, but this year we Americans are putting more serious thought into this subject than we ever have before. We are thinking earnestly in terms of efficiency in planning new clothes and right here is where the new color-related fashions fit in. The plan is one whereby you can have a complete wardrobe, everything from your dress or suit to your lipstick in beautiful basic colors which match and mix perfectly. Any of us who want or need color-combination advice, or who must be strict with our budgets, or who have only a lunch hour to shop for a complete outfit, will find everything available in the same place in the new color-related fashions now being shown in leading stores.

Play Shoes Are Colorful With Mexican Embroidery

Play shoes are a riot of color and design, with bright red shoes among the favorites. There are also many red and navy combinations, and there are interesting novelty shoes fashioned of natural colored or multicolored straw. The fancy suedes are enlivened with colorful Mexican embroidery.

Navy-and-White

There will be an overwhelming number of navy blue suits, coats and ensembles making their debut this spring. Especially in the spotlight are sheer navy bolero costumes that are bewitchingly frilled with snowy white accents.

Necklaces

Coffee beans, shellacked cereal, watermelon seeds, painted and unpainted nuts, corks, leather peach-pits or what-have-you are strung into the most eye-catching necklaces imaginable. Smart with sport clothes!

Victory Book Campaign

The million books wanted for the men in the services. Let's give generously, books, more books, the right kind of books. All you book lovers, attention! Here's your chance to help. Uncle Sam has provided library buildings, trained librarians and well-selected up-to-date books for camps with more than 5000 men. But the supply of books is inadequate for the rapidly growing forces in Army and Navy posts, camps and stations. Remember our men in the services don't burn books. They want to read them. Remember Uncle Sam doesn't prohibit reading. He wants all of us to read, to learn, to know, and to enjoy books.

Look over your book shelves. Take down the books you think will interest young men. What does your son read? What do your brothers read? Contribute books men will like, men will read be eager to read. Give from your own live book shelves. Give new, fresh, alive, exciting books.

All books so donated may be left at the Lincoln County Rural School Library to be sent on to Santa Fe from there.

J. P. Sears, Chairman, Victory Book Campaign, Lincoln County, Capitan, New Mexico.

Loan Assistance

The FSA supervisor wishes to remind readers of The Lincoln County News that loan assistance from the Farm Security Administration is available for the purchase of gardening equipment, seed, feed, cows, heifers, pigs, and chickens, and to rent workstock and equipment, repair livestock shelters, fences and machinery, and to meet other needs.

Mr. Jones has been assured that this new Food for Victory program has been streamlined with simplified forms which have been worked out to make these loans quickly available. He said the new loan program for the low-income families not now participating in the FSA program may amount to as much as $600 for each family and extend from one to five years at 5 percent interest. Present FSA borrowers may get additional loans where needed to help them meet revised operating costs.

Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas

To all Banks in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District:

Recurring rumors that the Federal Government intends to confiscate all savings are being circulated in many parts of the country. The continued circulation of such rumors might lead to the withdrawal of saving deposits. In connection with these rumors, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently made the following statement:

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatever for such rumors. The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal involving the confiscation of the savings deposits of this country for any purpose. Furthermore, anyone circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the nation."

The importance of financing the war effort to the greatest possible extent from current income rather than from accumulated savings has been repeatedly emphasized by the Treasury Department. In furtherance of that policy, efforts are being made to encourage all employers to adopt a payroll allotment plan for the sale of Defense Bonds to their employees, because that is regarded as one of the essential steps in combating the development of inflammatory tendencies.

Expressive Gestures

Highly emotional people frequently express themselves by gestures. Primitive man used gestures to make himself understood, as languages were simple and did not express the full meaning he wanted to convey. Gesturing as an accompaniment to speech seems to be more natural and inherent in the Latin races, and may be termed a racial characteristic.

Any Posts In Lincoln County?

Because of many requests for additional time to prepare manuscripts, the American Post-Laureate Committee this week announced that the "Poet-Laureate Search" contest closing date has been extended to May 1.

Contest is open to amateur and professional poets and any number of entries may be submitted. Ten cents should be enclosed for postage and handling costs.

Contest objective is to select the nation's outstanding 1942 poem and the best verse from each state, according to Claude B. Coldren, contest chairman.

Mail entries to H. M. Hudson, Secretary, American Post-Laureate Committee, Broadway Building, San Diego, California.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—We have mislaid the name of the philosopher who said all adult nations were "time-binders"—that they had an alert sense of historicity, looking studiously, if not pensive-ly, backward as well as forward. Brig. Gen. William H. Bisbee, taking a bow this day as the oldest man in the new Who's Who in America, suggests this salutary exercise. He was 102 last January 20. He fought in four wars, and the story of what he and his country have been through gives a hint that perhaps somebody smuggled a rabbit's foot into that arcanum of the national archives at Washington.

"Filthy days of war," the general once wrote, "walking through creeks barelegged to save our tattered clothes."

He enlisted in the Civil war after Bull Run, when Washington was somewhat less orderly and rational than a squirrel-cage. He knew not only mud, rags and tatters, but the stark horrors of blood and hunger, weariness and desperation, and the maddening disorder of bureaucracy and graft in Washington.

For 25 years, after 1865, he fought Indians, along the trails out from Leavenworth and pulled 100 arrows from the body of his fallen friend—99 for torture and one for a vital spot—an old Indian custom. In the Pangasinan province in the Philippines, he trailed guerrillas through jungle slime, and caught and hanged 30 of them. That rounded out his four wars—Civil, Indian, Spanish-American and Philippine Insurrection.

In 1900 President Theodore Roosevelt made him a brigadier general, and he retired the next year, to coast along through serene and sunny years in his native New England, at Brookline, Mass. He is a handsome, white-bearded, coldly old gentleman, honored on each birthday by a representation from the war department at his party.

He was born and reared in Woonsocket, R. I., and was a young merchant of Delaware, Ohio, when he answered Lincoln's call. In addition to Lincoln, his army commissions were signed by Presidents Johnson, Cleveland, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

HUGO GROTIUS, the Dutchman who laid the foundation for what is now somewhat apologetically known as international law, backed down a lot on hard and fast principles, in his later books, but he never quit trying. That was early in the Seventeenth century. The Dutch carried on from where he left off and pretty much put their trade mark on international law.

Premier Peter Gerbrandy, of the Netherlands government in exile, expounded and amplified Grotius, as professor of international law at the University of Amsterdam. He now says the Dutch not only will keep on writing law but will keep on fighting the lawless, in their lowland home or in the Pacific island jungles. He is a devout Christian who professes an unshakable belief that the word, bravely defended, becomes flesh.

The professor was never conspicuous in affairs of state until a year or two before the Nazis came. He sounded many warnings of trouble ahead and when it came, disclosed amazing capacity for quick and effective action, always a jump ahead of the supposedly practical men. He pulled together the all-inclusive coalition government and became the head of ten ministries, representing five closely-knit parties. He was the big surprise which had times so often bring forth.

He is no ascetic, but, instead drinks good Holland gin and smokes good cigars, being a connoisseur of such commodities and a foe of sumptuary legislation. He is a plump, agile, rosy, roly-poly little man, who likes to argue and philosophize and have a good time at one and the same time.

A pipe addict was reproved by a critic. "Smoking a pipe will destroy your memory, turn you to mediation rather than action, and make you altogether useless," he said.

"Can you imagine Adolf Hitler smoking a pipe, fading the house in a crap game, or fetching a long swipe in the German equivalent of Sweet Adeline?" asked the pipe-smoker. "No, you can't. No sea-seamed pipe-smoker ever started a war and none ever will. Grim, mediaeval necrotic like Hitler start wars because they never had a good time and want to get even."

Buddies Hit the Coal Pile in Ireland

The nights in Ireland are a little dampish and chilly at this season of the year, and Uncle Sam's doughboys'll be wanting a bit of a fire to take the chill off the place. This photograph, taken somewhere in Northern Ireland, shows U. S. soldiers at the coal pile awaiting their turn to fill up their buckets.

U. S. Army's Most Modern Field Piece

This soundphoto shows tractors dragging a string of 155-mm. field rifles through a pine woods on the way to target practice, at Fort Bragg, N. C. The gun and tractor weigh 30 tons together. The 155's mobility and 17-mile range make it the biggest field gun in the U. S. army's locker.

Watchdogs on the Spanish Main

These two pictures are typical scenes along the coasts and in the interior of Puerto Rico, where the United States has established a base to guard the approaches to the Caribbean sea and the Panama canal. At the top a coast defense gun points its snout over a sandbagged emplacement. Below a sentry paces his post in the interior.

U. S. Battle Dress—in Any Climate

Ready to fight anywhere in the wide world, these U. S. soldiers are dressed in the uniforms adopted by the army for action under various conditions. The uniforms are, left to right: snow shoes troops; summer or tropical field; winter field; armored force; ski troops; paratrooper and summer mounted.

'Highboy'

Tires were rationed and gas was hard to get, but Gilbert Roney, shown above, is sitting pretty. He goes to his job at an aircraft plant in Santa Monica, Calif., on his "unicycle." When Gilbert was 15 he was one of three partners in a bicycle store, and built the strange vehicle out of spare parts when he had time on his hands.

Vows to Smash Japs

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now supreme United Nations commander in the Australian offensive, and who reached that continent with his family after a harrowing seven-day trip by sea and air.

While Men Fight

These "quotation girls" in the employ of the New York curb exchange are working at the board with chalk and eraser, filling the shoes of young men who have gone forth to fight the Japs. This is just another instance of how women are taking over men's work.

Awarded D.S.M.

President Roosevelt pins Distinguished Service medal on Rear Admiral William Standley, on eve of his departure for Moscow as U. S. ambassador. The award was for "meritorious service."

Relation of Forest And Flood

It is not to be assumed that to reforest the areas, which have previously been denuded by the lumberman's axe or by destructive fires will prevent disastrous floods in years to come; in order to safeguard ourselves from the tremendous volumes of water which sudden thaws or long-continued rains cast upon the earth, levees, reservoirs, and diversion dams must still be built. Nevertheless, the sodding of grazed areas, the reforesting of watersheds, and the intelligent terracing of cultivated fields will do much, not only to hold back destructive floods but also to prevent the leaching and erosion of farm lands.

It may appear to the individual farmer that anything he can do, on his comparatively small stretch of land, will have no appreciable effect on national flood or erosion losses, and this conclusion has, of course, a basis in fact. Nevertheless, no one of us lives in himself, and every land owner is under a moral responsibility to do what he can to preserve the forest cover.

TERRIFIC FORCE OF EROSION

Anyone who has ever watered a lawn or garden has seen in miniature how water carries away loose top soil. When water is poured upon a grassed area, each blade of grass tends to keep the water from rushing away, and each clump of grass roots helps to prevent the tearing loose of the soil; the same stream of water, let loose upon an area of bare soil, flows swiftly, gathering force as it proceeds, picking up sand and gravel on its way to act as a further abrasive. A test made by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment station showed that during six years erosion had removed soil at the rate of 203 tons per acre from bare uncultivated land, as compared with less than two tons per acre from similar land covered with bluegrass sod. In other words, erosion from bare land is 122 times as great as it is from a sodded area.

EXAMPLES OF EROSION.

In 1913 the brush cover on a small branch of the Los Angeles river in the mountains of southern California, was destroyed by fire. Careful study of the results, the following year, showed that 100,000 cubic yards of soil had been washed from an area 1.2 square miles in size.

Soil washed from a burned hillside of 200 acres in San Diego county, California, buried a 12-acre alfalfa field so deeply that no signs of cultivation remained.

A flood in a deforested canyon in California carried from 20 to 40 times as much sediment as the corresponding freshet in an adjoining forested canyon.

EROSION ON FARM LANDS

An economic loss of staggering magnitude is going on in many parts of America. In Kentucky, Tennessee, northeastern Kansas, and other hilly regions, the best soil has already been carried away, with corresponding wastage of life-giving plant foods. The cure of this dangerous condition is to be found in terracing, contour plowing, careful pasturing, the improvement of farm woodlands, and the planting of steep, bare slopes to trees or grass. Some soils should never be cleared at all, since they simply "melt" when exposed to rain and melting snows. The slopes of all easily-eroded soils should be kept permanently in pasture or forest.

CO-OPERATION IN REFORESTATION

The farms of the Mississippi basin, where some of our most destructive floods have had their origin, contain a tremendous amount of poor, rough, or steep land, as well as denuded areas which should be replanted. To assist in this needed project, the Clark-McNary act authorized federal co-operation with the states in growing and distributing planting stock to farmers. Thirty-two states are co-operating in this enterprise and are producing about 60,000,000 trees a year, practically half of which are set out on farms. It is interesting and encouraging to note, however, that forest areas, unless completely denuded, and burned out, will improve rapidly without artificial planting if given a chance. For this reason the Clark-McNary act emphasized fire protection as the most important means of encouraging forest restoration.

In replanting of woodlands, in proper methods of cultivation, and in fire protection, every land owner has a definite obligation.

For further information, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Circular No. 19, "Forests and Floods."

THE STORAGE OF APPLES

The same conditions which are required for keeping potatoes will answer for apples, but apples should not be stored in the same place with potatoes or with other root crops. Apples have a tendency to absorb unpleasant flavors, from such association.

Better That the Candidate Spoke Direct From Heart

When Bill O'Dwyer was running for district attorney in Brooklyn he usually appeared on the platform with a piece of paper in his hand ostensibly covered with notes of the address he was about to make. He would look around the audience, say "Hello, Joe," to one listener, "Howya, Harry," to another. Then he'd smile and tell the audience: "I didn't know I would have so many friends here tonight. I don't need notes to talk to you people," and he'd throw away the paper. "To you I'll speak from here," indicating his heart. A curious reporter one night picked up the discarded paper. It was an old laundry bill.

MacArthur's Australian Campaign Heightens Spirit of All America

General Douglas MacArthur

A fighting General for fighting mad people is he . . .

Now you are going to see some real fighting. That is what thousands of persons said, some of whom might have said it to you, when word was flashed from Australia that General Douglas MacArthur was down there to assume the supreme United Nations command in that region.

Ever since the war in the Pacific region began, the story of the ground warfare has been continually, and dishearteningly the same but with one exception.

Newspaper and radio accounts have related of continual retreats and, finally, surrenders by the Allied armies. But the brilliant exception to all this defensive warfare is and was the activity of General MacArthur, his aides, and his native and American troops fighting on the Bataan peninsula.

Not only did MacArthur stop the Japs—and thereby causing the commander, Gen. MacArthur Homma, to commit hara kiri—but he also put through two brilliant, strategical offensives which prevented further enemy advances at the time.

Reason for Australians' Respect. Such immediate background of this brilliant general, this Number One officer of the United Nations, was the cause for the increasing clamor of the Australians to have MacArthur come down there and help them, with American, British, Australian, and native soldiers, resist the Japs in the last Pacific region stand. So, after receiving orders on Washington's birthday from the President to go to Australia, MacArthur made plans with his successor, Maj. Gen. Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, a brilliant tactician, for further defense at Bataan. "Mac's the Man."

When a "roving reporter" for one of the outstanding Midwest newspapers went out to interview pedestrians as to how they felt about the new shakeup in military control in the Pacific region whereby General MacArthur was given complete military control, the consensus of opinion was, "Mac's the Man."

One fellow said that it was the best news he heard since the U. S. entered the war. A housewife said

Since General MacArthur has taken his new command in Australia to stop, and then push back, the Japanese drive, Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright (left), shows talking with Gen. MacArthur, has been appointed to the command of the forces that outthought, despite 20 to 1 odds, the Jap forces on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippine Islands.

Like Father, Like Son

General Douglas MacArthur, and his deceased father, Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, experienced military lives exceedingly interesting because of their striking similarity as available information proves.

Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, like his son, Douglas, was advanced over the heads of many older officers to more important posts.

Both father and son, Arthur and Douglas MacArthur, showed great strategical talent. One of the father's Civil war tactics of battle eventually became a war department standard officer examination. The son's strategy in the Philippines is well known to all newspaper readers, who have been following his brilliant leadership.

Future General??

Little four-year-old Arthur MacArthur, son of General and Mrs. MacArthur, is starting early in a possible war career. Besides having a famous general as a father, Arthur's grandfather, a Civil war veteran after whom he is named; commanded a Manila brigade in 1898 when U. S. forces captured that city.

When war broke out in the Philippines little Arthur and his mother, the former Miss Jean Faircloth of Murfreesboro, Tenn., were reported safe on the island. The next word that came through as to their whereabouts was when their arrival in Australia with the general and his staff was announced.

mission in 1905-'06. On three different occasions he saw extended army service in the Philippines. In 1935 he went to Manila as the commonwealth's president, Manuel Quezon's military adviser.

That his advisory capacity to President Quezon was of a successful nature is now seen in the successful manner in which American troops, Philippine scout professionals, and Filipino reservists, under his command, fought.

So, at the age of 50, after many years of active service, it looked as though General MacArthur's military life was at an end. It seemed that he was then destined for obscurity after being chief of staff for five years. But, it has often been stated, that it is the seemingly little incidents in a person's life which eventually develop into significant, extremely important matters. What would have happened had MacArthur, upon being "retired," not been sent to the Philippines to shape up a military force there is impossible to say.

Once again, MacArthur's life is showing that fact is oftentimes more interesting than fiction. Here, in MacArthur, you see a story book soldier, cool, even tempered, poised, admired by his staff and men, preparing to do a titanic job despite heavy odds against it.

Mrs. Douglas MacArthur

Even the general's air-flight of 2,000 miles to Australia had a touch of the dramatic to it. For the zone over which he and his officers and aides flew in two planes, has been conceded as being the "hot spot" of the southwest Pacific. This is the zone where both enemy and Allied planes are continually on the alert. Fighters, bombers, and interceptors, always ready for battle. When you look at a map and see the territory you will fully realize that MacArthur has not lost any of his boldness. It is such daring, skill, and calm that has put all the confidence of the Allied nations' people directly on his shoulders. The Yanks, and Aussies, being what they are in temperament, and disposition as to being ready for a fight at all times, now have a man as their leader they know will not fail them.

Congressmen Behind Him, Too.

That this attitude even goes for officials and congressmen in the nation's capital is noted in the comment of various congressmen on the day that MacArthur's safe arrival was announced in a special official war department communique. Sen. Millard E. Tydings, (D., Md.) said that Australia now has real leadership . . . that he was very happy to know that MacArthur was down there where a man such as he is needed.

Rep. Joseph J. Mansfield, (D., Texas) put in a comment which all Americans fully understand. He said that MacArthur is sure going to "raise hell" with the Japs providing we can keep him supplied with a continuous line of supplies and men.

House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin (R., Mass.), said he was happy to hear of the famous soldier's appointment. He further added that such an appointment will add to the confidence of the American people.

The day that MacArthur's appointment, and successful flight to Australia was announced, the President in his press conference also had words of encouragement for the American people. He said that the purpose of the transfer was not to develop further defensive measures, but primarily, and definitely to "win the war." President Roosevelt said at that conference that he felt, too, that every American man and woman held the same admiration for the fighting, brilliant general that he held.

Finds Rival's Love Notes, Then Kills Fickle Sweetheart

British Soldier, Suitor for Seven Years, Charged With Murder.

LONDON.—After finding letters from a corporal on his sweetheart's dressing table, an army private, it was claimed by the prosecution, shot her dead.

"You have not been true to me," he is alleged to have told the girl. "I do not intend you to have another man to fool like you have me."

The soldier, Driver Edward George Beesley, 29 years old, of Oxford, England, British army private, was charged at Oxford with the murder of Miss Irene Sherry, 26 years old, whose real name was Irene Winifred Edwards, of Crayen Arms, Shropshire, a domestic servant at Oxford, by shooting her with his service rifle.

Prosecutor E. G. Robey said Miss Sherry had been friendly with Beesley for a number of years, and it was obvious that he wanted to marry her.

In July of this year she became acquainted with Corporal James Fuller of Totnes road, Reading, and apparently they made up their minds to become engaged.

Rejected Admirer Calls.

On September 16 Beesley went to Oxford because he was anxious about Miss Sherry, not having heard from her for some time. He went to the girl's lodgings and waited in her room until she returned at 10:30 p. m. Shortly afterwards the fatal shot was heard.

Beesley, while waiting, had seen some letters which were written by Corporal Fuller. They were obviously love letters and they showed that Fuller and the girl were hoping to marry.

After reading the letters, alleged Robey, Beesley discharged his rifle, with the result that the girl was shot through the heart at close range while sitting in an armchair. Counsel alleged that in a statement Beesley said:

"I waited until Miss Sherry came in. She seemed surprised to see me. I asked her why she had not written to me for nearly a month, and told her I knew the reason why."

"I asked her who Corporal James Fuller was, and she said she did not know. I produced some letters which I had found on her dressing table and she tried to grab them from me, but I pulled them back and put them in my pocket."

Treats It as a Joke.

"I said to her: 'You have not been true to me while I was in the army. It is about time you made up your mind after going with me for seven years. I do not intend you to have another man to fool like you have me.'"

"She then said she would please herself what she did, and laughed and treated it as a joke."

"I picked up my gun and pointed it at her as she sat in the chair. The next thing I heard was a shot. I thought I had missed her, and left the room and the house by the front door."

"I walked up Richmond road to the corner of Walton street and just wandered about. In the end I gave myself up at the Central police station."

Prosecutor Robey said that when at the station Beesley asked if the girl was dead. When told she was, he said he did not care what happened; he did not mean to kill her. Beesley was committed for trial at Oxford Assizes.

Ruidoso is beginning to bustle with new building projects and repairs to take the place of the damaged houses and summer cabins which were washed away in the big flood which occurred on the 29th of last September. The new ruling to permit only $500 worth of building and repairs to each person will be a disappointment to some who were planning extensive repairs.

Mmes Leonard Whitwell, Jack Cleghorn and J. H. Fulmer were pre Easter shoppers here from White Oaks yesterday.

Mrs. John McCourt of Ruidoso accompanied Mrs. J. V. Hobbie to Carrizozo last Friday. Mrs. McCourt was a guest of Mrs. R. E. Blaney during her stay and Mrs. Hobbie visited her sister, Mrs. Espy. When the ladies returned to Ruidoso last Sunday they were accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Smith and Mrs. Maggie Espy who stayed in the mountain village until Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Garner of Ancho were in town on business yesterday.
