They will be greatly missed in Carrizozo, where they were very useful and accomplished much good for the church. The field at Lordsburg will be larger and their membership is 150 or more. We join others wishing them joy and success.

BANKS AND THE WAR
Financing War Production

From all sides the cry is "More ships; More planes; More tanks!" But America has learned that the miracle of mass production is not accomplished over night. It requires planning, building, tooling up, and financing.

You haven't heard much about the financing and because it has been going smoothly. America's banks have been on the job every minute taking care of the credit needs in their communities, advancing the billions needed to get production rolling. This bank is on the alert for every opportunity to lend.

Because of the present jute shortage and the improbability of obtaining additional supplies from Calcutta, it is extremely unlikely that there will be any further allocation of jute yarns for floor coverings after this month, WPB officials in Washington have announced. The carpet industry has been asked to make an immediate study to determine what stocks of carpet wool now in this country could be diverted into more essential civilian uses, such as the manufacture of blankets and apparel.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Just as we were thinking we ought to get the Hound of the Baskervilles on our side in this war along comes the news that this is being attended to. Our national dogpower is being mobilized, the dogs are being trained for sentry duty and guard work for the army quartermaster corps, the navy and war industries—mostly sizable dogs so far, with deferred ratings for pekes and toys. They're good night-workers and the only slogan they need is "Sick 'em!"

It's a dream come true for Harry I. Caesar, the dog-fancying banker who for many years has been the four-square friend of the four-footers and who is now president of Dogs for Defense, Inc. More than 150 dog-conscious delegates from many states attended the organization meeting in New York recently, with Mr. Caesar presiding, and laid out plans for the elite guard of dogdom, with the kennel clubs and the American Theatre wing co-operating. Col. Clifford Smith of the quartermaster corps told the meeting that "One well-trained dog is the equivalent of six guards." The dogs also will serve in their traditional role as the lonely soldier's pal.

Mr. Caesar stems from a long line of Indian-fighting colonial ancestors, going back to around 1650 and dogs have always figured romantically in his family antecedents. His financial operations head up in New York, and he is a public-spirited citizen of Rumson, N. J., former councillor of that town and active in welfare and philanthropic enterprise.

From Brooklyn he went to Hill school, Princeton and Wall Street, landing in the latter narrow thoroughfare in 1913 and soon thereafter becoming a director of the banking house of H. I. Caesar & Co. In World War I, he served as a captain in France, prospered in business in the post-war years, and had plenty of time for dogs, friends, clubs, golf, tennis and amateur war strategy.

A REPORTER once asked the late Clarence Darrow to explain the basic success principle of his career. "Getting out of hard work," said "Digging Education Darrow. "I Proved Antidote didn't like pitching hay and looked around to see who made the most money with the least work. Naturally, I became a lawyer."

J. H. Kindelberger, president of North American Aviation, Inc., acted similarly, and successfully, from digging ditches. He heads one of the biggest aviation plants in the world and is now uniquely in the news as he hands back to the government $14,000,000 rather than take it as a profit. He says increased efficiency has cut plane costs 33 1/2 per cent, and the government, considering its present urgent needs, ought to get a cut in this technological gain.

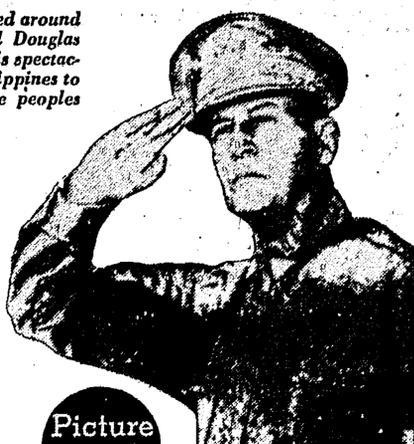

It was a six-months' stretch of ditch-digging on a fortification project at Norfolk, Va., which made young "Dutch" Kindelberger decide to forswear forever a pick-and-shovel career. He quit the army engineering corps and qualified for special engineering studies at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, in 1916 and 1917. Then he got a job as an apprentice engineer with the National Tube company at Wheeling. He became a draftsman and inspector, with, however, plenty of hard work, and that, of course, disposes of any cynical implications in his and Mr. Darrow's success story.

At 30, he was a draftsman with the Glenn L. Martin Airplane company, when Donald Douglas withdrew from that firm and founded his own company. Mr. Kindelberger went along as chief engineer of the Douglas Aircraft company—on his way up. He engineered some highly effective new planes and caught on in administration and finance, as well as in technical operations. He has been president of North American since 1934, with his home and business office at Los Angeles.

Born in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1895, he was a second lieutenant in the aviation corps in World War I. In 1910, he married Miss Thelma Knarr, at Wheeling. They have two children. He backslides a bit, digging in his flower garden. The government is no doubt happy to know that he quit ditch-digging. He has been frank about his run-out on ditch-digging, but his career shows that he doesn't mind work. And sharing the profits with the government is a sharp standout against the capitalization writeups of boom years.

Magnificent MacArthur

When word was flashed around the world that General Douglas MacArthur had made his spectacular dash from the Philippines to Australia in safety, free peoples everywhere rejoiced. The fighting general had won the confidence and admiration of the world. Australia had clamored for him. They wanted the benefit of his marvelous leadership to head off the Japs and carry the war to Japan. Upon his arrival there, MacArthur immediately assumed command of the United Nations' armed forces in the Southwest Pacific.

Picture Parade

General MacArthur and Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, who is now in Australia with MacArthur, talk things over. The Filipino leader arrived safely with his government and family after breaking through the blockade the same as MacArthur did. He awaits the day when MacArthur will free his island people from the Japs.

Above is a photo of General MacArthur and his aides, when he was commanding general in the Far Eastern army. He is shown accepting the command of the Philippine army troops in the induction ceremonies of the Philippine army air corps. Photo at the left shows General MacArthur as he stopped for a talk with Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright (left), who was ranking field commander when MacArthur was in the Philippines. Despite odds of 20 to 1, the Jap forces on Bataan peninsula were held off, and heavy casualties inflicted. Wainwright now holds U. S. Filipino line on Bataan.

Menu Inspiration—Strawberries in Season

(See Recipes Below)

Strawberry Doings

Once again this red, bright berry is coming into its own, as strawberries dot the markets in this spring unto summer season. For the lilt that it gives to foods in which you use it, for the harmony with which it combines with other foods, and for its own natural goodness, the strawberry rates a column by itself.

Honey Strawberry Jelly.
2 1/2 cups strawberry juice
1 cup honey
2 1/2 cups sugar
1 package dry pectin

Crush strawberries and drain through jelly bag without cooking. Measure juice, add pectin and place over hottest fire. Bring to a full rolling boil. Add honey and sugar and again bring to a full boil. Continue boiling for 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour into sterilized jelly glasses and seal.

You will be allowed extra sugar for canning in spite of the sugar rationing, so do not be concerned over the amount of sugar called for in this recipe.

Strawberry Marmalade.
(Makes 12 6-ounce glasses.)
1 quart strawberries
2 oranges
2 lemons
1/2 cup water
7 cups sugar
1/2 bottle fruit pectin

Remove peel from oranges and lemons and cut off white membrane. Put peels through a food chopper. Add water and bring to boiling. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Add orange and lemon pulp and juice. Simmer 20 minutes. Add crushed strawberries. You should have 4 cups of fruit. To this add the sugar. Bring to a boil, and boil 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in pectin. Let stand 5 minutes. Skim. Seal in hot sterilized glasses.

If you want to ride the crest of popularity with family or guests, then arm yourself with a few strawberries, a bit of sugar, an egg beater, and old faithful, the refrigerator, and in no time at all you will have a perfect dessert for lunch or dinner or afternoon refreshment:

Lynn Says:

Honey Hints: With increased use of honey in prospect you will want to learn to use it most economically. Honey is different chemically from sugar so follow all amounts given in recipes carefully for best results. They have been tested to give you the necessary correctness in cooking.

To measure honey, use a greased or a moist cup so it will pour out readily to the last drop. A greasing brush is an economical way to grease the cup. In measuring spoonfuls of honey, dip the spoon first into cooking oil, melted butter or liquid fat before dipping in honey.

Keep liquid honey in a warm place, about 75 degrees or over. Avoid damp places of storage. Comb honey is better kept at room temperature rather than in the refrigerator.

To liquefy honey that has granulated, place in a bowl of warm water, just warm enough for a hand, and leave in until all crystals have dissolved.

Cakes made with honey taste different from cakes made with sugar and seem less light and fluffy when baked. But the cakes will be moist, flavorful, and nice textured if you let them stand from a day to three days to age properly.

Place honey jar in warm water for about 10 minutes before using.

This Week's Menu

- *Baked Spareribs
- Browned Potatoes
- *Stewed Tomatoes
- Lettuce Salad with French Dressing
- Bread and Butter
- *Strawberry Shortcake
- *Recipes Given.

Strawberry Mousse.

(Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 cups crushed strawberries
- 1 cup thick cream, whipped
- 2 egg whites, well beaten
- Pinch of salt
- 1/2 cup sugar

Combine sugar and crushed fruit and stir until sugar is dissolved. Fold sweetened fruit into the whipped cream. Fold salt into beaten egg whites and mix with fruit and cream. Pour into a refrigerator tray or mold for freezing until firm.

No round-up of strawberry recipes is complete without a sauce to crown that dish of ice-cream or that cool vanilla pudding which you made this morning. This one will really turn your simple dessert into a party-mannered one, so cherish it as you would an heirloom:

Strawberry Sauce.
1 quart strawberries
Powdered sugar to taste
Grated rind of one orange
Few drops of lime juice
4 tablespoons currant jelly
1 cup whipping cream

Stem and wash strawberries. Slice them and sweeten to taste with powdered sugar. Sprinkle grated rind and lime juice over berries, and stir in the currant jelly beaten with a fork. Beat the cream and fold it in carefully to the strawberry mixture. Serve over ice cream or cold pudding.

Then there's shortcake! Nothing is so good as silvered or crushed strawberries spooned between hot biscuits, slit and buttered:

*Strawberry Shortcake.
(Serves 8)
2 cups flour
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons fat

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut fat into mixture, using two knives. Add milk gradually to make a soft dough. Toss on floured board, pat lightly to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut with a biscuit cutter and bake on un-buttered pan in a hot (425-degree) oven for 12 minutes until a light, golden brown. Split, butter and fill with crushed or silvered, sweetened fruit. Replace top and spoon more fruit on top. Be sure that you let the sugar stand on the fruit for a half an hour or so before using.

*Baked Spareribs.
(Serves 6)
Place 3 to 4 pounds of spareribs in a roasting pan. Pour over the following sauce and bake at 300 degrees for 2 to 3 hours, basting occasionally with the sauce.

Sauce: Combine 1/2 cup soy sauce, 1/2 cup honey, 1 level teaspoon prepared mustard, and 1 finely chopped onion.

*Stewed Tomatoes.
(Serves 6)

- 1 can tomatoes (No. 2 can)
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Salt and pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1 slice bread, cubed

Heat tomatoes, add salt, pepper, butter and sugar. Fold in cubed bread and as soon as all is heated thoroughly, serve immediately in small sauce dishes. Cracker crumbs may be used in place of bread crumbs.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

BRASS-PLATED STEEL HARDWARE QUICKLY LOSES POLISH

A HOUSEWIFE was much distressed at finding that the hardware on the front door of her new house could not be polished to its original brilliancy. Instead of the bright and glowing brass that she had in mind, the hardware was dull and lifeless in spite of her hard polishing. The trouble came because the hardware was not solid brass, but was made of brass-plated steel. The plating was so thin that a few polishings took it off. Her remedy was to replace the hardware with solid brass, which could either be cast, or formed of sheet brass. Any well-stocked hardware store carries brass doorknobs and plates, push-button plates, and other parts, with which the original hardware can easily be replaced. When new, brass-plated hardware looks just as attractive as solid brass, and is used only because it is lower in price. The difference can be told by applying a magnet, on which solid brass will have no effect. On brass-plated steel, however, the magnet will stick. The test is easy to make, and should be applied when going over a house before making a purchase.

Tree Roots

Question: Lombardy poplars in my back yard were cut down last spring, but shoots are now springing up all over. We pull them up each day, but others come up overnight. I fear that the roots will damage the house foundations and get into the sewer. What can we do?

Answer: Roots cannot live without growth above the ground. Pulling up the shoots will eventually have a killing effect. To speed things up, bore holes downward into the stumps, as many and as large as possible, and keep them filled with crude kerosene, which is inexpensive. The chemical will be liquefied and will have a killing effect on being absorbed. It will cause quick rotting of the wood.

Wallboard Cracks

Question: Our brick house is 60 years old and was never plastered. A number of years ago the walls and ceilings were covered with plasterboard, the joints having cloth pasted over them. The joints show, and come break open. How can we do them over so this will not happen? We do not like strips of moulding.

Answer: It may not be possible to make permanent fillings, for the joints are likely to open as the plasterboard is affected by changes in weather. You can do a fairly good job with patching plaster, to be had at a hardware store, covered with strips of open-mesh fabric intended for that purpose. These, of course, will be concealed by the decorations.

Loose Tiles

Question: In our bathroom eight of the wall tiles are loose. What kind of cement should I use to stick them back?

Answer: If your tiles are of the usual kind, scrape the old cement off the backs and soak the tiles in water for a few hours. Stick them back with a stiff mixture of 1 part portland cement and three parts clean building sand, spreading this evenly over the backs. Do not fill the joints between the tiles. This is done after the tiles are firmly in position, with a mixture of plaster of paris in water. Wipe it on and clean the faces of the tiles before it hardens.

Hot Water Heat

Question: In installing a hot water heating system, we are planning to use a 2-inch pipe for the main feed line, and a 1 1/2-inch pipe for the return. We are told that the return should be the same size as the feed. Is this true?

Answer: Yes; it is. There will be the same volume of water in both of them, and to have the return smaller than the main would have a throttling effect.

Cracked Plaster

Question: Plaster in our 40-year-old house is badly cracked. Can the cracks be filled so smoothly that they will not show through paint?

Answer: If the plaster is still tight on the lath, the cracks can be filled with patching plaster, to be had at a hardware store. Instructions for use are on the label. It should be possible to fill the cracks so smoothly that they will not show.

Hornets Nests

Question: For two summers hornets have built nests and combs under the eaves outside my kitchen window, making it dangerous for us to go out. I have broken down the nests and combs, but the insects come back and rebuild. How can I keep them away?

Answer: After breaking down the nests, brush the places where they were with kerosene.

Hats Are the Most Intriguing We've Had for Many a Season

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE most significant news about millinery fashions this season is that they are utterly, prettily feminine, versatile and flattering. Designed with a purpose they are hats that patriotically serve as gloom dispellers and spirit uplifters in these times so tense with war activities and anxieties.

That is why the new hats are so purposefully gay with color, so charmingly be-flowered and be-ribboned, so flatteringly be-veiled and so versatile in mood. The little flower fantasies with which the spring season is starting off are simply enchanting, but no more so than the new tremendously wide brims so softly and becomingly wrought into graceful lines.

Then there are the very diminutive sailors dashing right down over the brow or perched jauntily back of the pompadour, each and every one bewitchingly veiled. There are colors "ad infinitum," and they are set back of the pompadour, too, and the color-bright and debonair wide brimmed felts paired so dramatically with the new spring suits—not a dull moment in millinery realms anywhere!

The accompanying group illustration presents a series of outstanding millinery trends. Very feminine is the glamour hat shown in the upper left corner. It is just such little flowery fantasies which, together with a sprightly whiff of veil, will give flip to your suit or suit-dress on a sunny spring day. Dusty pink is its color theme, a color that brings out the fresh radiance of a young complexion. Candy straw is the medium and pink flowers are massed at the front.

Saucy sailors after the manner of the one pictured to the right, above, abound in the millinery picture. It's made of colorful plaid taffeta, has an upturned brim and plaid streamers. Too smart for words with your spring outfit!

A hat with a flattering, feminine brim is centered in the group. This "picture" model is of navy tony with red velvet ribbon and bunches of cherries.

In the lower left corner is a flowery confection that typifies what is and what is to be during the coming months in the way of becoming chapeaux to wear with your gay prints or your costly styled tailleur. And that brings up an important point; namely, it's fashionable to wear flowered headgear with suits nowadays. This has come about because suits are in such a vast majority. Because of the call for practical clothes, one's hat and accessories are drafted into the role of supplying the "prettifying" accents. The veil flouted by this dainty sailor of tuscany straw is green. So is the band of felt that encircles the crown. The wealth of wild flowers that adds glory to this winsome tailor are in a pretty confusion of multi-colors.

Concluding the story of the group, the hat below to the right has one of the new dashing and debonair brims that are the "last word" in casual types to wear with everything from prints to tailored suits. It is made of powder blue ice cloth with an all-over stitching covering the brim. The enhancing veil is black splashed with blue dots. The softly styled blouse is made of a vividly colorful print patterned with enormous flowers. Many of the smartest blouses this season are just like that—gay as a tropical garden in full bloom.

Longer Shorts

Spring seaboard fashions are personified by this many purpose wardrobe essential. Gray flannel and deep pockets that would delight the heart of any little boy make these longer shorts ideal for the woman who wants the comfort of shorts without the need for wearing the more extreme versions. Popular for southern resort wear earlier this winter and spring, these will undoubtedly be favorites for summer wear all over the country.

Dress-Up Clothes Versus Functional

There is no doubt in the mind of anyone as to the outstanding importance of functional clothes for women busy in defense work and home activities. Everyone connected with apparel industries is doing a grand job in supplying these needs.

However, as they get more and more into the subject they find that the dress-up side of the question demands more than passing attention, for the feeling is growing that it is also a patriotic duty to be one's prettiest at the right time and at the right place. The entertaining of men home on furlough, or at camp in strange and new surroundings, has resolved into a continuous program of benefit and dance parties. So have your pretty party frocks ready, girls. It's your patriotic duty.

Morning, Noon and Night It's Cotton Everywhere!

It is going to be a banner year for cottons of every type, from utilitarian denims and gabardines to the most ethereal sheer weaves.

For evening wear there is a tendency to wear exquisitely sheer embroidered and lace-trimmed lingerie-type dresses and blouses. The sheerest of voiles and the crispest of organdies are being made up with endless ruffles in as dainty a manner as fancy can picture.

Shawls

Shawls with evening gowns and sports dresses made of self material for daytime costumes and of filmy chiffon or lace for evening will animate your appearance with a definitely new style touch.

Last Words

Last words of dying persons are like the mutterings in a delirium. Why then are they so treasured? asks Dr. J. Shelton Horsley in an article in Hygeia Magazine. The melodramatic picture of relatives hovering over a deathbed is based on the wrong conception. Last words are of no value when they come from a mind benumbed by approaching death. It is better to remember the words spoken while the person was in a healthy mental and physical state.

Double-Crossing

Doctor Vizeletty says that a New York boss in the early '30s testified before an investigating committee that when a constituent asked a favor he made a record of the name and fact that if he intended to grant the petition he marked a cross after the name. Sometimes he would change his mind, in which case he added a second cross. In his testimony he would say, "I crossed Smith; I double-crossed Jones." Possibly this is the origin of the expression "double-cross" as used today.

Lesson From Chinese

Careers in Engineering

By R. T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

WHO enriched our lives by the airplane, the modern refrigerator, the automobile, the radio? Who provided us with light at the flick of a switch? Who, indeed, has wrought more changes in our manner of life than the engineer? In conquering the forces of nature man learned engineering. The first lever used to pry a rock, the first wheel built to move burdens, the first wedge shaped to split a log were creations of prehistoric engineers. Over four thousand years ago, engineers built the dams on the Euphrates and erected the Egyptian pyramids. Two thousand years ago Roman engineers tied Europe together by highways, spurred the migration of older civilizations into unexplored countries. There the conquerors provided uncontaminated water supplies and shelter against the elements. So down through the ages, making life more secure and more satisfying, the work of engineers has gone forward. The work of engineers, often unrecognized, has provided for over-riding and continuous benefits to the human race, through control of nature's forces and materials. Today the youth of vision, interested in knowing more about our fast moving age may well consider engineering as one of the most utilitarian and fascinating professions. Engineering embodying a knowledge of mathematics, technological arts and sciences and the ability to direct and work with men offers worthwhile careers for youth of ability!

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

HOSS TRADIN'

MY FRIEND asked me if I would go with him to buy a horse. I went. We traipsed from one dealer's to another. One man asked us $300 for a horse. The next man had a horse which looked no better, but his price was $450. Before the afternoon was over we had seen horses ranging in price all the way from $150 to $14,000. Now, the $14,000 horse was a much better animal than the $150 horse. No use to deny that. But nowhere along the line did we find a stabilized market. Had we bought we would have been paying a price which the seller thought his horse was worth. There was no market authority we could consult which would tell my friend whether he was being overcharged or undercharged. That same evening I went out to buy a small household item—one which is advertised in all the newspapers. I knew what the market price would be: advertising had told me. With confidence I asked the clerk for what I wanted and put my 25 cents down on the counter. Had he said: "I am sorry, sir, but the price is 50 cents," I would have left and gone somewhere else. What assurance have I, as a consumer, that someone won't take advantage of me and overcharge me in this bold way? My only assurance is the advertiser which I read in the newspaper. That is my market and my buyer's guide. It tells me the prices I must expect to pay. Let the seller who tries to charge me more be aware. It also tells me what quality I may expect. Let the seller who tries to give me a poorer substitute beware. So you see that advertising stabilizes prices and enables me, no matter how inexperienced I am in business, to buy with the same expertness and assurance of a professional buyer who spends his life buying for a large concern. No one objects to paying the established price for something he wants. But all of us hate to be robbed by an unscrupulous man who, taking advantage of our ignorance, "soaks us good and plenty." The way to avoid being "soaked" in this complete way is to buy advertised goods from merchants who advertise. There was a time in America when there were no set prices. Each merchant charged what he thought "the traffic would bear." Advertising came to the rescue of the consumer. It led the way to the established prices you pay when you buy anything today — except, perhaps, horses. © Charles B. Roth.

The warm water fishing season will be closed in practically all waters of the state from April 16 to May 31 inclusive, it was announced at the State Game Department.

This forty five day period covers the greater part of the spawning season and it is good fish management to keep the waters closed during that time.

The only waters that will be open from April 16 to May 31 are the lower portion of Elephant Butte Lake, Bluewater Lake, the Drainage Canals from Cochiti Dam to Belen, the Rio Grande from the Taos Junction Bridge South and all waters in Dona Ana County.

The general trout season will open May 15 as usual, while Storie Lake will open on May 1.

Mass Decorations at Hickam Field

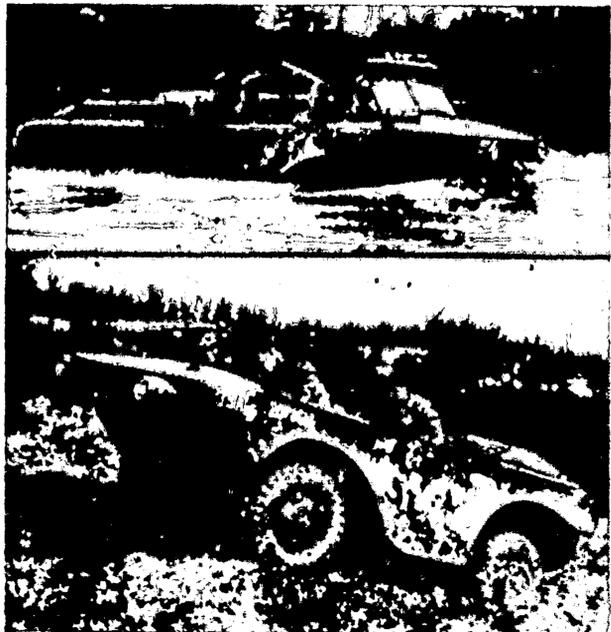

Here are two views of the decoration ceremonies at Hickam Field airbase, Hawaii, the largest mass decoration ceremony in U. S. army history. A total of 141 men received decorations—some of them the purple heart award—while bands played and fighter planes wheeled overhead in review. The men, many in wheel chairs, are assigned to duty at Hickam Field.

Jones Tells Congress About Rubber

Appearing before the Truman senate committee, investigating national defense production, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones painted a picture of the many practical difficulties in developing manufacture of synthetic rubber (irca, etc). 'Sea Jeep' Is Tested at Fort Knox

The amphibian personnel carrier, a purely experimental vehicle at this stage, is being tested by the armored force board at Fort Knox, Ky. This experimental water-wagon has been tested in the field, in the Ohio river, and on highways, where it has done a mile a minute. It carries eight men. Pictures show the "sea jeep" in and emerging from the Ohio river.

'Torpedoed' Doesn't Always Mean 'Sunk'

This American tanker can testify to the truth of the above headline. The craft, blasted in halves by an Axis sub off the Atlantic, is now in an eastern port, much the worse for wear, but suffering no ailment that skilled shipwrights cannot cure. She'll go to sea again in the not too distant future. This photograph was released by the navy department.

Impending Sugar Shortage Necessitates Government Rationing of U. S. Supply

Citizens Must Apply For Ration Books Early in May.

Sugar can't swim! Whether you take one lump or two, this is the primary reason why War Ration Book No. 1, to be issued by the Office of Price Administration, will cover sugar.

Sugar beet is cultivated in no less than 19 American states from Ohio to the Pacific coast. Cane sugar is produced in Florida and Louisiana. Yet, less than 29% of our sugar requirements were raised within the bounds of this country. More than 71% came to the United States from off-shore area.

Cuba is famed as the "sugar bowl" of the world. But in 1941 no more than one-third of our 7,989,000 ton deliveries came from that country.

Puerto Rico supplied us with about 10 per cent of our sugar last year. Hawaii and the Philippines each sent us nearly an equal percentage. The small balance came from the Virgin Islands, Peru and other miscellaneous and outlying sources.

War in the Pacific, Axis submarine action in Atlantic and Caribbean waters and necessarily curtailed shipping has interrupted the sugar supply column from these off-shore areas.

Register May 4, 5, 6 and 7.

So Mr. and Mrs. America will register for ration books at their local elementary schools May 4, 5, 6 and 7. Industrial concerns, wholesalers, retailers, grocers, restaurants and hotels already have registered. From April 20 until the second day after individual registration begins, all sugar sales have been suspended throughout the nation, OPA has announced.

Services of approximately 1,400,000 registrars and facilities of some 245,000 elementary schools will be employed in the rationing procedure. In addition, work of the registrars will be supplemented by more than 7,000 local rationing boards, with a membership of some 23,000.

A registration card and ration book containing 28 stamps will be issued for every man, woman and child in the country, with the exception of members of the armed forces, inmates of institutions, persons temporarily or permanently in hospitals, convalescent homes, etc., and persons with hoards so large to disqualify them.

Each household will be allowed to have on hand two pounds of sugar for each person at registration. Hoarders will be penalized, either by not getting a book at all or by having from one to eight stamps torn from their books before they receive them. Carry the book to your grocer. The stamp must be torn out in the store keeper's presence and detached stamps will not be accepted.

Stamps will be numbered for purchases in a specified period and when the time limit is reached the stamp will be voided. In this manner no one can save—or hoard—stamps for use at a later date.

One adult must register for each family unit, although the head of the family may register for all family members. Servants, lodgers and others who may live in a household, must register individually. Generally speaking, a family unit consists of persons related by blood or marriage and living and eating under the same roof.

She's a young 'n, all right. But she knows how to top down the sugar cane. In her spare time she also likes to chew on some of the stalks, for they make good tasting "sugar sticks."

Vitamins Won't Give You 'New Eyes for Your Old'

Warning against the false hope that a box of vitamin pills will provide "new eyes for old" was sounded recently by M. J. Julian, president of the Better Vision Institute. The average person following normal eating habits, he says, obtains adequate amounts of vitamins for eye health, adding that dosage with vitamins usually is disappointing as a "cure all" for common visual defects.

After the first registration, latecomers may obtain their ration books from local rationing boards after a two-week period following the May 4-7 registration. Those away from home may register in the nearest elementary school if they know the number of their local rationing board.

Provisions for Preserving, Canning. Special provisions will be made to provide householders with sugar for home preserving and canning, certain persons who have it for medicinal reasons, and for farmers, ranchers, etc., who customarily buy sugar in bulk for use over prolonged periods.

One thing is certain. Rationing is necessary, but a sugar shortage is all a matter of what country you live in. Prospective per capita United States consumption (including industrial use) may run as high as 77 pounds. Compare this with normal, peacetime per capita consumption in all other lands during the 1937-38 season. It was less than 31 pounds per capita.

There are many drains upon America's sugar supplies. Cuba also must supply our Allies, countries which formerly drew heavily upon the Ukraine and Java—sources which are not now productively available to them. Russia, which counted on a good share of the 1942 Philippine crop, now must rely upon some Cuban supplies arriving by way of Archangel, if possible.

In addition, a large amount of Cuban sugar will be required this year for the manufacture of high-test molasses from which alcohol can be made for war needs. In 1941 the equivalent of more than 1,300,000 tons of Cuban sugar was used for this purpose. A slightly larger amount may be needed for this use during 1942, particularly for exploon a 24-hour per day basis. Because of blackouts, night operations are unlikely this year. Retention of all relatively clear shipping lanes during the period preliminary to the marshalling of our full, peak resources for the maximum offensive effort also is a controversial point. All these factors call for careful husbanding—but not hoarding—of sugar supplies.

In 1941, some 5,641,000 tons of sugar used in this country came from off-shore areas. This year, possibly a maximum of 3,316,000 tons will show up from such points.

One must picture this sugar problem in terms of shipping and the competitive need for space on the boats for other materials, in either the raw or finished form.

When War Broke Out.

When the war broke out in September, 1939, there were 63,440,000 gross tons of world merchant ship-sives and for other war requirements.

Best posted sugar trade and Washington quarters recently added up the "tote" for the 1942 sugar barrel. The result was an estimate of some 5,515,000 short tons available from all points or roughly one-third less than the amount used last year.

In 1941 our mainland sugar producers (beet and cane combined) managed to account for 2,240,000 short tons. We can count on only 2,200,000 short tons from them this year. It certainly is not that producers here lack price incentive—since the OPA ceiling level for raw sugar—3.74 cents per pound New York, cost and freight duty paid—is the most attractive that has prevailed since 1923.

Beet Sugar Shortage.

However, distribution of beet sugar from domestic areas will fall short of the 1941 figure as there are smaller inventories to draw on than existed a year ago. Sugar beet processing starts in the fall. While farmers will co-operate to the utmost with the U. S. department of agriculture "all-out" supply program, there are definite limitations on the quantity of new crop sugar that can be delivered to users before year-end.

Admittedly, our domestic sugar supply arm may be improved materially in 1943. As an offset, however, the calculations have taken into account such non-recurring supply items as frozen stocks, as well as 600,000 tons estimated to come through from Hawaii. Effects of the war on shipping, labor and harvesting will make their imprint. Ordinarily, Hawaiian sugar is ground (vessels of 100 tons and over). At the end of 1939, vessels of 2,000 tons and over (representing most of the sea-going bottoms) totaled 51,900,000 gross tons.

The United States total was 7,600,000 tons. However, only 2,034,000 tons of the American merchant marine were used for foreign commerce, the remainder working in coastal and intercoastal shipping and on the Great Lakes. Some of these ships doubtless have been pressed into service on longer hauls, where possible. Furthermore, new merchant marine construction is perking up and, according to best estimates available, by the end of 1942 construction of new shipping is expected to exceed at the annual rate of nearly 2,500,000 gross tons.

Translated into terms of sugar, shipping is a most important factor. The general freighter working the Cuban run averages some 4,000 tons and can carry about 4,000 tons of sugar as its cargo. It can make about nine trips per year. In other words, each average freighter can account for roughly 36,000 tons of sugar—providing it carries nothing else in its homeward bound cargo.

To carry the 1,265,000 tons indicated for Cuban shipments to the United States in raw sugar form, therefore, would require the services of 36 ships, of 144,000 tons total. Add about 120,000 tons in shipping tonnage needed to bring in the Puerto Rican crop and—without any other off-shore points—we would tie up more than 10 per cent of our entire ocean-hauling merchant marine (based on 1939 tonnage estimate) for sugar needs alone.

This estimate is predicated on the theory that shipping losses thus far largely have offset the amount of new ships already launched for sea-going hauls. Naturally, as new seems likely—should the rate of shipbuilding increase faster than war time losses, and if more vessels are taken from intercoastal and Great Lakes runs onto longer hauls, then the shipping situation may very well show improvement. Actually, it probably has done so already to some extent.

THE STORY SO FAR: Rung away from marriage to Ned Paxton, rich but a gay blade, Janice Trent becomes secretary in an Alaska wilderness camp over the protest of Bruce Harcourt, a long time friend. Bruce is chief engineer, succeeding Joe Hale, deposed for negligence. Millicent Hale, his wife, is also attracted to Bruce. Janice tells Ned Paxton she is married to Harcourt. The latter overhears her and insists on immediate marriage. The newlyweds are interrupted at home that night by Mrs. Hale who says her husband has been shot dead. She exclaims: "If you had only waited Bruce." Bruce spends the night investigating the murder. When Jimmie Chester, Millicent's brother, runs off in a plane Bruce brings him back. In the meantime, Ned Paxton invites the women to his yacht. Janice and he, and two natives, leave in a launch to view a volcano closer. Suddenly it erupts. The boat is stranded on a lonely beach. The two natives run off with the launch. Paxton and Janice spend a fearful night. Their fire keeps the wolves away. Bruce comes to the rescue finally. Now continue with the story.

The Indian bared yellow teeth in a wolfish smile.

CHAPTER XVIII

Harcourt's voice shook. "Nothing up my sleeve, dear, but eats in the cockpit."
"And smokes?" Her voice spoke betrayingly. "Ned has suffered untold tortures since his last cigarette. He has been wonderful, Bruce, but he is so exhausted I was frightened. Thank God, you've come. You're so—so staunch, so brown, so—so heart-warming."

Bruce Harcourt tapped on the door of Janice's room. No answer. He glanced at his wrist-watch. Ten o'clock. He tapped again. Dead to the world probably, tired child. Immediately upon landing on the flying field soon after dawn, she had gone to the H house, two of the men had rowed Paxton out to his yacht. He hated to waken her, but the Commissioner wanted to push the investigation. Chester was up, bandaged, grim-lipped, aghast. They needed Jan to take stenographic notes. He lifted the latch, entered the room. She lay on in a rosy cloud, bare arm outspread as if she had flung herself face down in utter exhaustion. Her hair which waved to the shoulders of her orchid pajama blouse still showed damp traces of a shampoo. Her hands were scratched and burned. On one a circlet of diamonds emitted tiny sparks. His ring.

With a sudden surge of love and longing he pressed his lips to her bare arm. He spoke softly twice before she stirred. She opened the one visible eye, gazed up at him unceasingly, as though her spirit were struggling back from a far country, out up with a start. A delicate flush spread to the little damp curls at her temples.

"Bruce! What are you doing here?"
He felt his color mount to match hers. "I knocked and knocked. You didn't answer—so—I walked in. The Commissioner wants you to take notes. Feel equal to it?"

She was pulling on a satin coat colored like a Persian amethyst. "Equal to it! I? The gilly season must be on when you ask me such a question. I'll be with you in just ten minutes." As he lingered at the foot of the bed, she added crisply, "that is, unless I'm detained by callers."

He laughed. "I'm going."
As he strode along the board walk he relived the few moments before the charred shack, when he had held Janice in his arms. Did her emotion at seeing him come from any deeper feeling than relief at being rescued?

The question lay like an undertone in his mind as he conferred with the Commissioner and his deputy in the Samp living-room. Jimmy Chester appeared unconscious of the black-robed woman beside him who clutched at his hand with its dark seal-ring. The Commissioner glanced her appealing loveliness if Jimmy didn't, Bruce Harcourt told himself, as he noted the official's furtive glances in her direction. The eyes of Martha Samp were on the same business, as she sat stiff-jointed as a marionette in the wing-back chair. Miss Mary, in a low rocker, was darned a sock. She looked up as Janice entered in a navy blue frock with collar and cuffs of exquisite fineness.

"My dear! My dear! I lived centuries last night. I didn't know how you had grown into my heart—until—until—" she wiped her eyes. "Martha was right when she said where you were was home for her and me."

Janice left a kiss on her soft gray hair before she took the chair with a broad arm which the deputy fustily placed for her.

The Commissioner looked up from his notes. "Bring in the Indian girl."

Miss Mary padded out of the room breathlessly, her usually serene face crinkled with anxiety.

Tatiana swayed in on the heels of the younger Samp sister. Her brilliant work-dress was a maze of brilliant color, her blue beads were her only ornament. Her great dark eyes smoldered, she tossed her superb head as she met the Commissioner's grilling eyes.

"Hear you've had a present lately?"

"Who, me?"

"Yes, you. Who gave you that silver jewelry you were swaggering round in?"

"Who told you I—w'at you say, swagger?"

"Answer my question. Who gave you the silver?"

"Kadyama."

"Is that true?" He turned to the lowering Indian, who stood awkwardly twisting a soft hat in his hand.

"Yes. I gevee it. She marry on me."

"Cost a lot of money, didn't it? Where'd you get the cash?"

Kadyama glanced the inquisitor a murderous glance before he motioned with his thumb.

"Pasca pay money he owe."

Harcourt stared incredulously at his house-boy. Pasca with money!

"Is this true? Did you pay Kadyama money?"

Pasca looked furtively at Chester. Did he answer with a slight nod or was it a figment of his own hectic imagination, Harcourt wondered.

"Yes sirree. Kadyama much money. Lettle game we had. I lost. He want long time I pay."

"Where'd you get it?"

"He gevee it me." All eyes followed his nod toward the couch.

"Mr. You say that Mr. Chester gave it to you. Know where he got it?"

"How I know where he get it? He mak much money p'raps. All engineers mak much money."

"Why did he give it to you?"

"Meester Chester, he say to me, 'I gevee you two hund dollar—you help me.' He nice fella. I say 'Sure.'"

"How did he want you to help him?"

"He say he must mak quick get-away in plane the fella you cen' for finger-print man go in. I help your man, honest lak, then Meester Chester pull them out hard. I help Meester Chester get off, den look up your man. Meester Chester pay me two hund dollar. I pay Kadyama. Yes sirree."

"Is this true, Chester?"

"Yes."

"Where'd you get that money? Hale's roll?"

A contemptuous smile touched the corners of Jimmy Chester's blanched lips. "No. I've never needed to steal from my brother-in-law."

"Then where—"

"Just a minute, Commissioner. I wish next you'd ask Kadyama why he wasn't at the squaw-dance the night Joe Hale was shot. Why he was hanging round the back door of the Hale cabin." Grant's voice caught in a gulp, his green eyes blazed with excitement. Kadyama started to bolt. Grant caught him.

"Come across, Kadyama."

The Commissioner sat forward in his seat.

"Yes, Kadyama—come across."

A speck of foam bubbled at the corners of the Indian's lips, his eyes burned deep ruby lights.

"Aw right, I tell. I went to Hale cabin—good chance—one, two dance goin', everybody there, he alone, to tell heem Tatima my squaw."

"Did you tell him?"

"Never had no chance. I go in back door. Look roun' screen, Meester Hale sit in wheel-chair countin' roll of money. I tink, now's my time. I step out—not quick enough—front door open, slow—slow—"

"Go on! Who came in that door?"

Kadyama pointed to the couch.

"Chester! I thought so. What did Hale do when he came in?"

Kadyama sniffed contempt. "You tink you pretty smart fella, catch me, huh? Not Meester Chester come in. She, Mees Hale." He pointed to the woman who sat, fair head bent, clutching her brother's hand.

Millicent! She had said that she had found Hale! dead! Harcourt crushed back dismay, to listen.

"Mrs. Hale. Are you sure?"

"Let me speak."

"Sit down, Chester, your turn will come. Go on, Kadyama, what happened next?"

"Meester Hale, he begin to talk loud an' hard. Vera fast. Mees Hale say nothin'. She open table drawer, tak out somethin'." She laugh, she say:

"See this revolver, Joe? I borrowed it. Bully in you skulk when Jimmy t'reaten you. I try it. If you say one word more, I fire. He curse, jump for her, he catch revolver way from her han', it fire, he fall. I go."

The occupants of the room sat as still as though under the spell of a necromancer.

Millicent Hale rose, caught, the mantel shelf to steady herself.

"Kadyama is telling the truth. I had seen my husband cringe before my brother's threat. I thought, 'Perhaps I've been too easy, perhaps Joe will have more respect for me if I defy him.' I had been frightfully unhappy. It seemed as though I couldn't go on another day. I was crazed with despair." Her voice, which had been broken, steadied. She straightened, cast off confusion, fear, like a princess discarding a tattered cloak. "Believe me or not, I had not the slightest intention of shooting my husband. I didn't even know the revolver was loaded. I had never had one in my hand before I took Mr. Harcourt's down from the wall and hid it in our cabin. Before I could make my grandstand play of aiming it, Joe had caught it. It went off. He fell. Terrified, I tried to lift him. Horrified, I realized what had happened. I would be accused of shooting him, I who never in my life had hurt anything. What should I do? A roll of money lay at his feet. I tucked it into the bosom of my gown. Crazed, I picked up the revolver, stole down to the shore, flung it into the water. I raced and stumbled to the H house to tell Bruce Harcourt what had happened. He would advise me what to do. When he opened the door—I remembered that—that—he was married—I called out something, then the room went black." She dropped to the couch. Her brother put his bandaged arm about her.

The Commissioner's eyes were points of steel as he regarded them.

"If that's true—" he held up his hand as Millicent Hale opened her lips. "I believe you. Only a fool would doubt your story—why in the devil did you make your get-away, Chester?"

"It was a dumb move. When Harcourt told me that his revolver had been stolen, the remembrance of my sister's laugh after I had threatened her husband flashed through my mind. I remembered the questions she had asked, the interest she had shown in the holster on the H house wall the afternoon we were decorating for the party. I was certain that she had shot him. I felt responsible. I had put the fool idea into her head. I didn't realize it was an accident. I thought if I got away you would think I did it. It would give us time to figure out the best thing to be done."

The Commissioner glared at Kadyama. "Why haven't you told what you saw?"

The Indian bared yellow teeth in a wolfish smile. "Why I tell? Much obliged to Mees Hale. She save me much trouble—p'raps prison. I help her. When you say I shoot heem den plenty time to tell."

"It didn't occur to you that coming across with the truth was the best thing to be done, I suppose, Chester?"

"Sakes alive, Mr. Commissioner, it occurred to me." Martha Samp's agate eyes sparkled.

"You—you—suspected the truth all this time?" The Commissioner's diction suggested a skipping motor-engine.

"I did. I told you I heard her and her husband quarreling. I didn't try to hear what they said. I slipped away as I told you, thinkin' that while ice-cream might be coolin' to the tongue, 'twouldn't do much to tempers. That night when I went to the H house an' found her skirts all wet and dragged, I suspected; when I found this tucked in her bodice—I knew."

She drew a roll of bills from her pocket, tossed it to the table. Color darkened the Commissioner's face. His fingers twitched with anger.

"You've let us sweat blood over this when all the time you knew! Why didn't you tell, woman?"

Martha Samp rose in impressive dignity. "You came here like a lord. Just thought I'd see how a real live official handled a case. I've got my knowledge from the papers, an' I'll say right now, reports are much more interesting than the real thing as conducted by you."
