Leaves For Army Air Training

Mr. Thornton of the T&G Grocery accompanied his son, Earl, to Santa Fe Wednesday. Earl will leave for San Antonio where he will attend the Army Air training school.

New Mexico Boy Lost in Germany

Las Vegas, N. M., June 15. New Mexico Highlands University today awaited word about the fate of William Kenneth Ford of Las Vegas, reported by the British to be one of the few pilots missing in the recent British raid of 1,250 planes on Cologne, Germany.

The raid, greatest air attack ever carried out, resulted in the loss of but 44 of the 1,250 planes.

Young Ford was believed to have been on one of the lost craft.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ford of Las Vegas, and he was serving with the RAF, which he joined last July.

On the 11th of October he left for England and became a member of the famed Eagle Squadron, composed of American volunteer airmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford have been advised that the RAF will communicate with them when definite word is received about their son.

Ford attended New Mexico Highlands University from the Fall of 1938 through the Fall of 1940.

Notice

Brother Herron, state secretary of the Baptist Sunday school work will be in Carrizozo tonight at 8 o'clock. With him will be outstanding leaders of the Southern Baptist work. Everyone is invited to be present.

Robert Ford Sherrill

On June 11, Robert Ford Sherrill, 72, another of our old and esteemed southwestern pioneers, passed away after a lingering illness.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Sherman of the Church of Christ, Roswell. The minister's sermon reviewed the life of Mr. Sherrill and paid tribute to his Christian character, uprightness and offered sympathy and hope to those he left behind. The pall bearers were, Tommy Harkness, W. D. Clayton, Levene Snodgrass, Ralph Petty, Tennis Smoot and Fay Harkey. The flower ladies were Mmes. Rolley Ward, Jesse Garrison, Albert Wood, Levene Snodgrass, Leonard Whitwell, J. H. Fulmer.

Miss Ruth Petty, vocal soloist sang two selections, "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" and "When the Roll is Called up Yonder."

Robert Ford Sherrill was born Feb. 9, 1870. On Jan. 15, 1890, he was married to Miss Emma Leigh, to which union, 5 children were born, 3 of whom survive, Elva of Oscura, Ralph of Spur, Texas and Lolce, of Carrizozo and one grandson, Keed Sherrill; 3 sisters, Mesdames J. B. Shelton, Weatherford, Tex., M. T. Patton, Rosedale, Okla., Verta Moreland, Midland, Texas.

In the year of 1886, Mr. Sherrill united with the Church of Christ and had been an active member of that religious body since that time.

Mr. Sherrill was in every respect, a model man. Uprightness, honesty, straightforwardness, being his watchwords. In spite of the so-called new types of religion he held to the faith of his fathers to the end. The survivors have the sympathy of our community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Petty were El Paso business visitors last Wednesday.

Mrs. Harold Coe and little daughter Sherrie spent part of the week with the Bowlin family. They returned to Ruidoso the last of the week.

Dick Bowlin left last week for Roswell and has accepted work at the air field.

Mr. Florencio Vega, was in town yesterday from his ranch.

Mattress Project Reopened

The mattress and comfort project, sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, has been reopened and is now operating in the Community Hall Building at Carrizozo.

The project provides free materials for making mattresses and comforters to low-income families. That is, families, who for the latest preceding calendar year, did not have a total net income of more than $500.00, plus $50.00 for each member of the family in excess of four persons.

Those interested should make their applications to the County Extension Agent. Only a limited amount of material is available, the first applications received will be given priority in issuing the remainder of the material.

Carl P. Radcliff, County Extension Agent

LIGHT PLANT PURCHASE APPROVED

The New Mexico Public Service Commission has now approved the purchase of the Lincoln County Utilities Electric Light Plant and Distribution System by the Village of Carrizozo.

In the course of its opinion and order the Commission stated: "The engineer employed by the municipality supplemented his previous testimony with further evidence of additional study of the properties made since the last hearing, and with a complete breakdown and inventory of all items of property which are the subject of sale, together with complete breakdown of depreciations allowed thereon. From an analysis of all the evidence introduced and of such complete inventory breakdown, it is evident (1) that upon present day prices and costs of construction the appraisal made is conservative; (2) that such appraisal necessarily results in higher values than those adopted by the company when the property was acquired by it in 1937 as reflecting the cost of the property and now carried in its books as such; and (3) that some important items of property are in fact carried in the books of the company at less than what they were actually worth when so recorded. . . Whether the utility should be purchased under the present economic conditions and prevailing high prices and values, is a matter of policy resting in the sound discretion of the municipal authorities. The only concern of the Commission in that respect is to ascertain whether the sale price fairly represents the present fair value of the property, and the Commission does not find the purchase price to be so high as to be justified in finding that it is inconsistent with the public interest.

The original Ordinance for the purchase of the utility provided that the Village could call the bonds for payment after ten years by paying a premium of 5 per cent. The Commission required that such premium be eliminated so that the bonds could be redeemed at the option of the Village without the payment of such premium. With the acquisition of this plant Carrizozo now owns all three of its principal utilities, that of electric light and power, water, and gas. It should be born in mind that the purchase price of the Electric Light Plant is payable only out of the revenues derived from the operation of the plant and that the holders of the bonds have no right to have any part of the moneys raised by taxation.

The J. A. O'Kelley family will move to El Paso this week, where they have purchased a nice home near Five Points. Mr. O'Kelley sold his home here to Mrs. Cora Frazier.

Mrs. Margaret English returned home last Monday from Tucumcari where she accompanied her mother, Mrs. Macgruder. Frank Charles remained for a longer visit with his grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Snow made a business trip to Artesia Tuesday. Arthur Dow assisted at the Mal Pais station while they were gone.

Born early Saturday morning June 13, 1942, a 6 1/2 pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Harkey of Ancho. She has been named Marilyn June.

1st Lt. Jimmie Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Taylor was injured last Friday at Marfa, Texas in the accidental overturning of an Army jeep. He is in Wm. Beaumont hospital, Fort Bliss.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Ships of the Destroyer type comprise the bulk of our fighting ships in the American Navy. Their average displacement is about 1600 tons, and they are fast, powerful, and hard hitting. They have been particularly effective in convoy duty and gave a good account of themselves in the Coral Sea engagement. They cost approximately $3,600,000 each.

Every Navy shipyard is turning out Destroyers in record time. They are essential for our two-ocean Navy. Purchase of more and more War Bonds will assure all-out production of these vital units for the Navy. Buy every pay day. If everybody invests at least ten percent of his income in War Bonds we can do the job. U. S. Treasury Department

BANKS AND THE WAR

"--- A Vital Force For VICTORY,"

A newspaper editorial recently stated: "In this war banks are doing more than provide financial services---they are a vital force for victory." The nation's banks are doing much to help win the war. They aid in financing, in war production, in keeping the economic machine running and other ways. Banks ask for no praise or special credit. We are proud to be of help, and anxious to be still more helpful in the future.

Household Hints

by Lynn Chambers

Fruit Plate Enhances the Bride's First Dinner
(See Recipes Below.)

Cooking for Two

Now that the honeymoon is over, the serious business of housekeeping begins. Most brides manage well with the general cleaning routines, but marketing and cooking presents some problems.

No bride need feel alarmed, however, about cooking or marketing for two, for it is often just as much of a problem to market and feed two people as it is a dozen. To help out this year's bride, I've formulated a few rules by which she can start guiding her culinary adventures.

First, the marketing. How, exactly does one use the food dollar? It's done by fifth: one-fifth of the money should go for purchasing fruits and vegetables; the next fifth for milk and cheese, and the bride should remember to provide a pint of milk for her brand new husband and herself, every day, in drinking or cooking. Another fifth goes for meat, eggs and fish, and still another fifth provides the bread and cereals. The last fifth is used for purchasing fats like butter or enriched margarine, sugars and accessories.

The above yardstick will help the bride plan her well-balanced meals. Purchasing fruits, vegetables, milk, butter and cheese will be ample if she follows the guide.

The wise bride will buy carefully, planning menus in advance so there will be no waste and all leftovers will be used in menus.

Before she markets, she makes a list, looks through the advertisements to decide where she can get the most for her money. After making sure her list is complete, she goes to the grocers to do her buying. In this way she does not have to make too many trips and she can save her own time and that of her grocer. She knows there is a premium on time in wartime.

The bride also deplores waste, especially in buying meats. To aid her in making out the meat list for two, I have made out the following:

- Beef:
- 2 club steaks
 - 2 cube steaks
 - 1 T-Bone steak
 - 2 rib steaks
 - 1 pound round steak (for swiss steak)
 - 2 pounds pot roast
 - 1 flank steak (for stuffing)
 - 1 pound ground beef (for loaf)
 - 1/2 pound ground beef (for patties and casseroles)
 - 1/2 pound liver
 - 4 large frankfurters
- Pork:
- 2 chops (butterfly, loin or shoulder)
 - 1 1/2 pounds spareribs
 - 4 to 6 slices thin Canadian bacon
 - 1/4 pound ham slice
 - 2 pounds fresh loin roast
 - 2 pounds smoked butt (boned)
 - 1/4 pound back sausage or links
 - 1/4 pound bacon
 - 1/4 pound tenderloin
- Veal:
- 1 pound rolled rump roast
 - 2 loin chops

Lynn Says:

Here are the rules by which to substitute honey and corn syrup for sugar in your recipes. In using honey, substitute 3/4 to 1 cup of honey for each cup of granulated sugar, but reduce the liquid in the recipe 1/4 cup for each cup of honey used. In using corn syrup, substitute 2 cups of corn syrup for each cup of granulated sugar. Reduce the liquid in the recipe by one-fourth. If you wish to substitute corn syrup for only part of the sugar you may substitute 1 cup of corn syrup for each 1/2 cup of sugar and reduce your liquid one-eighth. Because of the difference in flavors of substitute products, be prepared to have a slight change of flavor in the food you prepare with them. Honey cakes and cookies, if allowed to ripen, will have better flavor.

- 1/2 to 3/4 pound steaks or cutlets
 - 2 rib or kidney chops
 - 1 sirloin steak
 - 1 1/2 pounds riblets
 - 1 pound breast or neck meat for steaks
 - 1/2 pound liver
- Lamb:
- 2 shoulder, loin, or rib chops
 - 2 lamb patties
 - 2 1/2 pounds shoulder roast
 - Small leg roast
 - 2 lamb shanks
 - 1 1/2 pounds riblets
 - 1/2 pounds cut up lamb for curry or casserole

Poultry:
One broiler usually serves two people. It is very often possible to buy certain pieces of fowl, especially chicken, and you can decide how much of each piece according to your appetite. For frying, a 3-pound chicken is just about right.

A simple dish for one of the bride's first dinners is this Swedish meat loaf. It's simple as first grade spelling to make, and certain to please the brand new husband. If there is comeleftover, the loaf is very delicious served cold in sandwiches or sliced with potato salad.

Swedish Meat Loaf.
(Serves 2)
1/2 cup twice-ground beef
1/2 cup twice-ground pork
1/2 cup grated potato
1 tablespoon grated onion
3 tablespoons milk
Salt and pepper

Mix meat thoroughly, add onion, potato, milk and salt and pepper. Blend thoroughly, and shape into loaf. Place in a buttered loaf pan and bake 3/4 of an hour in moderate (350-degree) oven. Baste at 15-minute intervals. To make gravy (after loaf has baked) take 2 tablespoons of the drippings, blend with 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a few grains of pepper, and then mix in slowly 1 cup of milk.

Asparagus.
Take 1/2 of a pound of asparagus, clean, add 2 1/2 cups boiling water with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Boil uncovered, 15 minutes, drain, and serve with melted butter.

Fruit Plate.
Make a circle of orange slices on a large individual platter. In the center of the wreath, place a lettuce cup, fill with avocado balls, a devilled egg and watercress. Use halved strawberries for one fruit mound at the side of the plate, raspberries and blackberries for the second berry patch, with a cluster of cherries for further variety. Select easy-to-peel Valencia oranges for slicing purposes. Bride's Biscuits are exquisitely simple to make if you use this recipe:

Bride's Biscuits.
(Makes 18 Biscuits)
2 cups enriched, sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
3/4 to 1 cup milk
3 tablespoons softened butter or margarine

Sift dry ingredients together, cut in shortening. Add milk to form a soft mixture. Turn on lightly floured board and knead 1/2 minute. Pat out to 1/2 inch thickness. Spread with 1 tablespoon butter. Fold over and spread top with remaining butter. Cut with a 2-inch cutter. Bake on a baking sheet in a hot (450-degree) oven 10 to 12 minutes.

Canal Zone Ready for All Comers

Panama Jungles Now a Huge Armed Camp.

By CHARLES A. SINGLER.
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

OUR canal zone is one of the hottest spots in the Western hemisphere, both meteorologically and strategically, and is becoming increasingly "hotter" as the war wears on and the possibilities of an enemy thrust by land or sea, or by both, become more imminent.

The Panama Canal is not only our proudest national possession, but a vital link in the U. S. chain of defense fortifications. Little wonder, then, that the eyes of Europe, Asia and all America are turned towards this narrow but important waterway which military forethought and engineering skill provided for our nation some twenty-seven years ago.

The Canal Zone is 50 miles long and about 10 miles wide. Approximately 95 square miles of this is under water. The canal itself is about 34 miles in length and 87 feet high. Deep jungle growths crowd densely upon all sides, furnishing ideal concealment for gun emplacements.

All is 'On the Alert.' In these lush, steaming jungles where there seems to be no life except that of the countless strange birds and jungle animals that live by the code of tooth and claw, there are many eyes watching; all on the alert. Here brave U. S. boys are waiting for the planes to come, and somehow or other hoping that maybe they will, to relieve the deadly monotony of life in the deep jungle. Here under the concealing drapery of leaves and branches great naval rifles point forever out to sea with their silent threat to all who may come that way, unbidden. These great 16-inch coastal defense rifles out-range the guns of most battle-ships. Practice is constantly going on, mostly with the use of dud loads, for Uncle Sam cannot afford to waste costly ammunition or the precious rifling of these big guns on a harmless sea.

And here under the same friendly foliage, "ack-ack" guns bristle towards the sky, a hidden challenge to any air armada or lone enemy bomber which may be rash enough to venture near the canal. Jungle foliage also conceals hideouts for gunners—caves in which long gleaming rows of shells, some of them inscribed with loving names for the enemy, await the day or night when the call for action comes. In these caves the "day" is 24 hours long. During all this time gun crews stand on the alert, ready to pour a hot welcome into the sullen jungle skies. During the "off" periods the men repair to more comfortable barracks, completely camouflaged, to gain the needed exercise and recreation.

Underground Cities.
In the Panama Canal Zone are also secret island fortresses where underground cities, carved from sheer rock, offer a threat to the would-be invader. Switchboards have been installed, and when the time comes, if it should, tons of red hot trouble will pour from these fortresses to make the invader wish he had stayed closer to home.

Not only does the jungle shroud great naval and anti-aircraft guns, ready for instant action, but also hidden airdromes, full of planes poised for flight, ready to do their bit for

View of a ship in the locks showing in the foreground the restricted lock gate mechanism.

Small Boats to Dodge Subs by Intra-coastal Route

Repeated suggestions that the gasoline shortage in the eastern seaboard states might be partly met by use of barges in the Intra-coastal Waterway have brought this sheltered route into the news, especially so since the submarine menace. Intra-coastal Waterway is a 3,500-mile route, mostly land-protected, from Boston along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to the Rio Grande. From Boston to New York the depth of the waterway is ample,

For Protection of Panama Canal

Dr. Octavio Fabrega, foreign minister of the Republic of Panama, pictured (right) as he signed the agreement whereby Panama agreed to establishment of bases within the republic, for the protection of the canal by the United States. At left is Edwin C. Wilson, ambassador to Panama. The agreement, which was signed May 18, 1942, involves the use of some 40,000 acres in the republic by the U. S. armed forces.

Uncle Sam. It conceals keen-eyed watchers on the alert for surprise attacks and treachery. Pearl Harbor has not been forgotten.

Great forts stand at either ocean entrance to the canal, and swift naval vessels are constantly on guard. P-T boats, those swift messengers of death which accounted for more than one Jap warship in Manila bay and which got General MacArthur out of Batuan, are ready to lead their speed and their fighting power to the defense of the waterway. These deadly "mosquito boats," as they are called, carry an anti-aircraft gun that hurls a 20 mm. explosive shell which is bad medicine for attacking planes. P-To can also raise havoc amidst surface craft with their deadly torpedoes and blast a sub from the deep with depth charges.

Where 'Walls Have Ears.'
Unseen sentinels move about through the Panama jungle, as ubiquitous as all outdoors, popping up when least expected. No action escapes unnoted; no spoken word is unheard. Here is a place where, indeed, "the walls have ears." Land-mine units are on the qui vive, waiting to do their share in rendering enemy progress dangerous and slow.

Packed away in the jungle, too, there is infantry—the inevitable infantry—to which we must all pin our hopes to push the enemy back if he should succeed in gaining a foothold in this vital area. With the advent of the new trans-isthmian highway the speedy movement of troops from one end of the canal to the other—a 40-mile run—is an accomplished fact.

Dangers Facing Us.
These are some of the things that are awaiting those who have lost their respect for territorial rights.

And now, having had a glimpse of the canal's defenses, let us consider briefly from which direction and in what form any thrust at the canal may come.

As the most strategic spot in our hemisphere, and offering an opportunity of bottling up our fleet in either ocean, it can safely be assumed that our enemies will want to smash the canal at the earliest possible date, regardless of all hazards, and will leave nothing undone to attain this objective. Their plans might take shape in the form of small raiding parties or in vast armadas of bombers and fighter planes.

Then, too, we are faced with the menace of secret bases. We must not forget the lesson of the Jap-mandated Marshall Islands on which secret bases were built in open defiance of international treaties. The uninhabited jungles of nearby Central and South America might provide aerial hideouts for the treacherous Japs or the deceitful and ever-diligent Nazis.

With Franco "playing ball" continually with Adolf Hitler, islands such as the Spanish Canaries and the Portuguese Azores, or the many small isles that dot the Caribbean, might furnish springboards for hostile wings.

Danger From the Sea.

Airplane carriers, steaming ahead at full speed all night, or for several nights, as in the case of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, offer serious potential dangers. Once within 500 miles of the Canal Zone they could launch their planes in the gray of the dawn. They know full well that just one big "egg" dropped in the lock, would hatch loads of trouble for Uncle Sam. We must bear in mind that without the canal in operation a 50-mile trip becomes a 13,000-mile cruise "around the Horn," either way you take it, with its terrific loss of precious time and greatly increased operating costs.

The battleship Oregon made one such emergency trip during the Spanish-American war, and arrived on the scene in time to turn the tide of battle, but we have neither the time nor the inclination for this sort of thing in this war with the Axis. Nothing must happen to the Panama canal!

Friendly but Questionable Isles.
Let us look in another direction. One thousand miles to the southwest of the Canal Zone loom the shadowy shapes of the Galapagos Islands. These islands are owned by friendly Ecuador. These tiny islands, though in friendly hands, are anybody's guess these days, for Jap "fishing boats" have been known to have piled off their shores, and who knows what observations have been made and what soundings taken.

Then there is the menace of the nearby blue Caribbean, in which enemy subs are known to be prowling, and which have already taken heavy toll of our merchant shipping in these very waters, so dangerously close to the canal. Dealing with this menace is the Caribbean patrol of huge navy patrol bombers, 15-ton Consolidated flying boats with sound apparatus to detect subs, and two tons of bombs. These bombers roar out daily on dawn-to-dusk sweeps of the Caribbean and the Atlantic, and may be included as an important arm of the canal defense.

Espionage and sabotage, the long suit of the enemy, may also be listed on the debit side of the ledger in an accounting of the Canal Zone's danger potentials, and all must be dealt with in their own individual way.

An Historic Event.

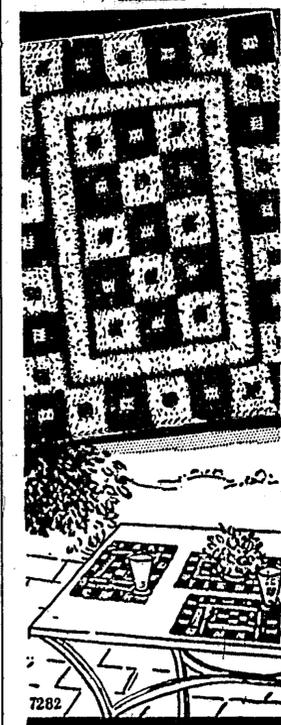

The most important event in the history of the canal occurred in January, 1933, when the U. S. fleet passed from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean, and even more dramatic was the return passage of a large portion of the fleet in early May of that year. Both transits were made without the appearance of haste, but in record time.

Contrary to the general belief, the canal does not run due east and west, but zig-zags irregularly across the isthmus. Its operation consists in helping ships, however big and bulky, to ascend three water-steps (locks) from one ocean into the huge man-made Lake Gatun, from which they descend three other water-steps into the ocean at the canal's other end. The locks are so constructed that two vessels proceeding in opposite directions may go through the canal at the same time. Big ships occupy a whole lock, and smaller ships are wedged in like sardines. Once in the locks the ship's crew is shoved aside and the canal crew takes over.

The United States has sovereignty over the entire Canal Zone. Two cities stand guard at either gateway of the canal—Balboa at the Atlantic end and Panama at the Pacific end.

The canal was constructed during Theodore Roosevelt's administration by the U. S. army, with General Goethals as engineering chief and General Gorges in charge of public health. It was opened to commercial traffic August 15, 1915, and was declared formally completed July 12, 1920, during President Wilson's administration.

Treat Constipation This Gentler Way!

Many folks say that almost as bad as constipation are harsh cathartics and purges. That's because many medicinal laxatives work this way: they either prod the intestines into action or draw moisture into them from other parts of the body.

Now comes news of a gentler and pleasanter way of treating constipation, for the millions of people with normal intestines whose trouble is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. This way is by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, delicious cereal, and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN, unlike many medicinal laxatives, acts principally on the contents of the colon and helps you to have easy, normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, better see your doctor.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of filtering the blood is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may notice frequent urination, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney trouble. The recognized proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. ACETYLENE BURNERS

"I HAVE a quantity of carbide residue from an acetylene welding outfit," writes a correspondent, "and have heard that I can make whitewash with it. How should I mix it?" Carbide residue is pure lime in a finely divided form, and can be used as a substitute for lime for many uses. As a whitewash it is excellent and can be substituted for hydrated lime in practically all of the formulas, using perhaps 50 per cent more. One excellent formula for weatherproof whitewash is made by mixing 60 pounds of carbide residue with water to form a cream. To this is added a solution of 1 pound of common salt and 1/2 pound of zinc sulphate in 1 gallon of boiling water, to which is added 1 gallon of skimmed milk. This solution is added to the carbide residue cream and stirred well.

Cracking Plaster

Question: In several houses that I have inspected lately, there are large cracks in the plaster walls or ceilings. How can I prevent this in building a new house with a cement block basement?

Answer: The usual cause of plaster cracking is settlement, which may be from the sinking of the foundations into the ground, or the shrinkage of the wood frame. Sinking of the foundation can be prevented by providing footings of a sufficient size to carry the weight. Settlement from the shrinkage of the timbers that might cause plaster cracking can be guarded against by the design of the framework. You can get information on this from the National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D. C.

Smelly Containers

Question: I have received a very handsome kitchen utensil set, but cannot use the containers because of the odor picked up by sugar, coffee, etc. Washing does no good, nor baking soda in warm water, or airing. What can you suggest?

Answer: Try the effect of enclosing in each container a can of charcoal, such as is made for deodorizing refrigerators. These can be had at dime and hardware stores. Charcoal is an excellent absorber of odors, and should work well.

Burning Wood

Question: We have steam heat. During the cool fall days, before the fire is started for the winter, will it be all right to burn wood in the furnace when heat is needed?

Answer: I do not advise it; for soot and other products of combustion might cause a serious clogging of the flues in a boiler and the chimney also. You would have to burn a great deal of wood to bring the water up to the boiling point. You will do much better to run a low coal fire.

Cleaning Drainboard

Question: How can I clean the drainboard of my kitchen sink? The dirt seems to stick in the grooves.

Answer: It may be that your drainboard is not acid-proof and that the enamel has been damaged by acidity or the incorrect use of a strong drain cleaner. Try bleaching with a mild solution of Javelle water or something similar, or apply a paste made of household ammonia and a scratchless cleaning powder, allowing it to stand for several hours.

Refinishing a Floor

Question: I have removed the varnish from my floor, but find that after using a bleach it remains spotted. What should I do now?

Answer: Your best move will be to have the floor gone over with an electric floor machine which will remove all the spotted wood and will expose new wood, which will be easy to refinish. The floor can then be refinished with any one of the new and effective floor seals, finished, if you desire, by waxing.

Leaded Glass

Question: Can you give me the name of anything better than putty for leaded glass? The putty falls out so frequently.

Answer: Plastic roofing cement stiffened with dry portland cement can be used. This is black. For a white cement, use a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and spar varnish, with a little japan drier, made into a stiff paste by the addition of powdered whiting. Or use white lead.

Storing Books

Question: Is it safe to store books in an attic that is hot in the summer-time? Is it safe to store books in a basement flat?

Answer: Summer heat will not do any great harm to books, but moisture will be most injurious. Storage of anything in a basement is never safe because the atmosphere is likely to be damp.

Summer 'Date' Dresses Made of Eyelet Batiste, Waffle Pique

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

brodered batiste of which it is fashioned is the sort you'll treasure the whole summer through. This frock is cut along lines that give a long-torso effect. It has a fluttering square neck and dainty woe ruffles.

THE stage of fashion is all set for a program that will dramatize beguiling "sweet simplicity" in party and other "date" dresses fashioned of very lovely fine lingerie cottons.

In the new summer collections you will see the endearing charm of sheer organdy revived in all its former glory, the soft grace of supple cotton voiles, the quaintness of flower-sprigged dimity, the prettiness of cotton laces. You will see dotted nets and avoines and the puritan simplicity of immaculate waffle pique.

Wise choices are being made now by young party-goers and by brides-to-be and their attendants. They are selecting dresses which will double as evening gowns. To them the dress to the right in the above picture will make an instantaneous appeal. It is of white waffle pique (an outstanding fabric this summer) trimmed with Irish crochet. The youthful formality of this gown is a delight to the eye with its floor-length skirt and its demurely buttoned bodice with the very new low neckline. The crochet lace trim on the girlish pique sash is very effective. Note, too, the cotton thread crocheted gloves. That dress, gloves, sash and all can be tubbed to perfection is certainly a persuasive argument in favor of this wincome costume.

The revival of exquisitely fine embroidered batiste is a matter of rejoicing. Important days and events deserve a "best" dress, and here you see it shown to the left in the above group. The eyelet em-

Special emphasis is given to the return of lovely batiste frocks. Women of discriminating taste are turning to them this season for wear to choicest events. They are embroidered and fascinatingly lace-trimmed and are sometimes so exquisitely hand wrought they should be handed down as heirlooms.

When it comes to sheer, fragile-looking prints, there is an endless array this season. These often carry border effects and, when made up, have an air of exclusiveness about them like that of the quaint party dress centered in the above illustration. If you have a way with the needle, here's a dramatic gown for you to whip up in short order in a stunning printed cotton. Its flounced skirt is in keeping with a new trend this season and the very popular square neckline adds charm to the snugly fitted bodice.

A story of many chapters could be written about the interesting things designers are doing with waffle pique. To give a touch of vivid color the bodice of a white pique dance frock may be trimmed with handings eyeleted in bright red. Then, too, very striking daytime dresses place appliques of gorgeous cutout florals on pique in wide border fashion around the full neckline, with corresponding touches on the sleeves. Unique and interesting piques for summer school wardrobes combine gingham with pique in cut out flower motifs of the gingham applied to the pique.

For Cycling

This cycling costume conforms with priority rulings. Blue denim goes into the pinafore-topped culottes. The divided skirt features the new above-the-knee length. Handy hip pockets with brown disk buttons of wood are smart details. The blouse of printed calico looks as if it might have been fashioned from Aunt Jemima's red bandana handkerchiefs. Red shoes, blue socks, a natural straw hat and a postman handbag complete this costume.

Show Novel Styles For At-Home Wear

Leading stores are giving much attention to apparel for at-home entertaining. This is being done in recognition of the fact that there will be considerably fewer long-distance motor trips being taken this season due to gas restrictions and tire conditions. There will be more garden parties and barbecue parties which will take on delightful informality. Contrasted with them will be the more important dinner-in-the-garden affairs.

For the latter, lovely no-stress gowns are being shown styled of rayon satins, gorgeous prints and many beautiful sheers in pastel tones. For the more informal parties, novel and amusing dresses are to be found, some charming with a rustic beauty, others of utterly utilitarian gingham or calico or gaily flowered chintz. Among the most popular of these dresses are apron dresses, slacks outfits and simple shirtwaist types, with emphasis on giddily colored dirndls for the younger set.

Flowers Drip Gaily From The Sides of Your Head

If you have been keeping up with new trends in flower trims and hats, you will have discovered that designers are handling them in new and unique ways. The graceful pendant flower trims are charming and ever so flattering. The flattery about them lies in the way the flowers are placed so as to trail down at one side. In some instances they fall pendant over each ear. Usually this method calls for graceful long stems. Sometimes the hat is a mere bandeau with flowers attached. The fashion is also carried to big brims. In that case the flowers trail from underneath the brim in artistic positioning.

Sargasso Sea

The Sargasso sea, a part of the North Atlantic which covers an area as large as that of the continental United States, is unique in that it is relatively motionless and that it far exceeds in size any other water or land area in the world devoted exclusively to the growth of a single species of plant, which is a floating seaweed, says Collier's.

Incidentally, this weed is also unique because it grows at the tips as it dies at the base.

Notice for Publication Suspension of Assessment Work on Mining Claims

United States Department of The Interior District Land Office Las Cruces, N. M.

Attention is called to the act of May 7, 1942, Public No. 542, providing for the suspension of annual assessment work on mining claims held by location in the United States, including the Territory of Alaska, which reads as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That the provision of section 2824 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which requires on each mining claim located, and until a patent has been issued therefor, not less than $100 worth of labor to be performed or improvements aggregating such amount to be made each year, be, and the same is hereby, suspended as to all mining claims in the United States, including the Territory of Alaska, during the years beginning at 12 o'clock meridian July 1, 1941, and ending at 12 o'clock meridian July 1, 1943; Provided, That every claimant of any such mining claim, in order to obtain the benefits of this Act, shall file, or cause to be filed, in the office where the location notice or certificate is recorded, on or before 12 o'clock meridian July 1, 1942, and July 1, 1943, a notice of his desire to hold said mining claim under this Act: Provided further, That such suspension of assessment work shall not apply to more than six lode-mining claims held by the same person, nor to more than twelve lode-mining claims held by the same partnership, association, or corporation."

The act applies to the continental United States and the Territory of Alaska, but only to mining claimants who file or cause to be filed on or before 12 o'clock noon July 1, 1942, and July 1, 1943, in the office where the location notice or certificate is recorded, a notice of their desire to hold the claims under the act, and the exemptions do not apply to more than six lode claims held by an individual, nor to more than twelve lode claims held by a partnership, association or corporation.

Scrap Rubber Drive Local and Personal

Our Washington office has advised us that Mr. Harold L. Ickes as well-coordinator, has requested the major oil companies to conduct a two week's drive, beginning June 15, for scrap rubber, through their dealer outlets, using their premises as receiving depots and paying the public one cent per pound for scrap rubber. This rubber will be sold by the oil companies in car load lots to the government under a buying plan that has been accepted by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It is believed that this effort is being made to forestall the rationing of gasoline, and the oil companies are expected to use a vast amount of publicity to promote the drive. This is a special effort which will not interfere with your present salvage program.

Please have your Dealer Liaison Committee contact your local oil and filling station operators, requesting their active support and promotion of this program. This move is especially important in New Mexico, as gasoline rationing would hinder our transportation facilities to a marked degree.

Have your Publicity Committee contact your local newspapers, giving them the contents of this memorandum in an effort to acquaint the public with the need for this vital war commodity.

In the event your local citizens desire to sell their salvage rubber to local salvage dealers, there is no objection to this procedure, as we are only concerned with getting scrap rubber into regular trade channels, regardless of whether it is sold through local gas stations or salvage dealers.

Home Nursing Course At Capitan

Twenty-one Lincoln County women have completed the Home Nursing course of the American Red Cross and are eligible for certificates, according to an announcement made by Mrs. John R. O'Malley, Chairman of the Home Nursing of Lincoln County.

The course occupied two classes weekly, for 12 weeks, and was followed by a written examination. Certificates will be issued from the St. Louis office as soon as the reports have been checked.

In commenting on the classes Mrs. O'Malley stated that a splendid spirit of cooperation was in evidence throughout the course and that the students all did excellent work.

At the last meeting of the classes Mrs. O'Malley was presented with a book of Defense Stamps by her students.

Roswell Cadet Married

Friday evening at the Post Chapel was performed the first wedding ceremony at the Roswell Army Flying School when Aviation Cadet Robert George Weinberg was married to Miss Blanche Vinseh.

The bride and the groom are both from Chicago, and Miss Vinseh and her bridesmaid arrived in Roswell today for the wedding.

Best man was Aviation Cadet Joseph Auddet; bridesmaid, Miss Martha Pakarek. Captain M. E. Parker, Commandant of Cadets gave the bride away.

A double-ring ceremony was used, with Chaplain Edgar H. Brimberry officiating. One hundred fellow Aviation Cadets were in attendance.

Mrs. G. E. Feagan of Lubbock, Texas, arrived Sunday to be a guest at the home of her daughter Mrs. Riggs Houston, and family.

A letter from Mrs. Clyde Adams of Lamesa, Texas states that it is rather dry there and the heat is intense. Of course after the summers in New Mexico it would seem doubly warm there. We welcome letters from our subscribers Mrs. Adams sends regards to Carrizozo and Nogal friends.

Mr. John R. O'Malley left last Saturday night for New Orleans, Louisiana where he was assigned to duty as third officer on a large merchant ship. People regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. O'Malley and sincerely hope they will find a pleasant and prosperous stay in their New Orleans home. Mrs. O'Malley is visiting her former home in Minnesota before going to New Orleans.

Mr. John Mackey of San Patricio was a Carrizozo business visitor last week.

Mr. Arthur Cortez of San Patricio was here last Friday advertising a free wedding dance which is to be held tomorrow night at Cortez Hall, San Patricio, N. M.

Help Scrap Rubber Campaign

America's all-out Scrap Rubber Salvage Campaign got underway at one minute past midnight this morning at each of the 1,816 corner filling stations in New Mexico.

Service station operators are paying one cent per pound for rubber scrap in the campaign of the American citizen to keep the tires of the nation rolling. Operators, in turn, are selling the scrap to their supplying oil companies at a penny a pound, and the oil industry will sell the stockpiles which will be accumulating soon to the federal government at $25.00 a ton.

There is no profit to anyone in the campaign, regional War production Board officials in Denver emphasized. Any difference between the cost and the selling price will be turned over by the oil industry to U. S. O., Navy Relief and the American Red Cross.

"This salvage campaign is so vital to the nation's war effort that we are calling for a mobilization of every man woman and child in getting out the scrap," Mr. Kysor said. "We must have a door-to-door and farm-to-farm canvass to bring out of hiding and into the war every ounce of scrap rubber."

The campaign will continue through midnight, June 30. Between now and then, citizens are asked by WPB and the oil industry to rout out of every attic, basement and shed all types of rubber scrap.

Wanted are old tires and sink stoppers, old rubber bathing suits, toys, balls, old galoshes and tennis shoes, rubber raincoats which have outlived their usefulness in wet weather.

Oil companies have announced they will pay for this rubber at the cent-a-pound rate for the gross weight of articles. Oil officials, however, said they have no authority to purchase tire beads which have been cut from tires. These should go to scrap dealers and junk men.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

WAR RESTRICTIONS — on — TELEPHONE SERVICE

The War Production Board recently issued an order further restricting the use by telephone companies of materials essential to the war effort.

The order generally forbids additions to our plant, except for service required in the war effort or for public health and safety. It directs that only a minimum of materials may be used in connecting new telephones with facilities now in place. It orders much wider use of party line service. Also restricted are new installations of residence extensions, and the order forbids the replacement of any equipment except when required for the efficient operation of the service.

The application of these restrictions will undoubtedly mean inconvenience for some people—part of the price of protecting our liberty—but we ask your fullest cooperation, for the restrictions will mean that more lead, iron, steel, zinc, copper and rubber used in telephone equipment will now go into arms.

We pledge our continuing effort to keep our service up to the highest possible standard.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features—WNU Features.

NEW YORK.—After the first World war, the war department picked Brig. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, as he was then, to "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" our war experience. This he did, as president of the army war college, and his documented and formulated findings of what our army learned in this short, preliminary bout have been worked into our military heritage and are now being used in the main event.

Major General Ely rates any casual, off-hand optimist when he says we're doing all right in this war, that we're getting plenty of fighting tools, and that officers and men have what it takes. One feels a bit offside if he gets too much this way or that, but in this corner we can't help being backed up when anyone of General Ely's professional detachment says we're coming through. He is 75 years old, having retired from active duty in November, 1931, when he reached the statutory retirement age. He didn't "shoulder his crutch and tell how battles were won." He continued as an instructor in the war college in Washington, lecturing on "the psychology of the battlefield." And it is interesting to find an old timer hoping instead of croaking, and telling how much better they used to do things in his day.

He is a huge man, supercharged with physical and mental energy, and hit his later years with a tremendous momentum. They call him "Ely of Cantigny." That goes back to 1918, when he commanded and led the 26th Infantry when it captured Cantigny in one of our most brilliantly executed victories of the war. This and other such exploits brought him the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal and five awards of the Croix de Guerre.

He was born in Independence, Iowa, and, after his graduation from West Point, taught military science at the University of Iowa. He was in the Philippines, fighting and hacking his way through the jungles with Gen. Frederick Funston, from 1903 to 1904, back again in 1907, to remain five years and make the first complete map of the Philippines. He is one of the nation's leading authorities on tactics and battle leadership—with a mind flexible enough to turn from tactics to the improvisations of strategy, if that is what is needed.

A LEAN and academic but tough bachelor of the science of education, in the army after winning scholastic laurels, is in command of our new parachute force, poised in Ireland for a leap to the mainland. He is Brig. Gen. William C. Lee, Colonel Lee until a few weeks ago, a native of North Carolina, born with an insatiable desire both to get and to impart information. He was an early special pleader and experimenter in parachute jumping, as well as mechanized preparedness in general.

The parachute army numbers about 8,000 men and one wonders how lads not long out of a classroom or a soft job on the ground, with no practice war for a workout, will take to this ultra-modern rough-and-tumble of sky and land.

General Lee figured all that. He formulated the science of physical, sensory emotional conditioning of human raw material, with a view to reducing nerve and reflex variables to a calculable minimum. To do this, he wanted to know more about communicating precise knowledge, so he knocked off from active service and, in 1936, after 19 years in the army, took his degree in the science of education, at the University of North Carolina. He works the theory of plastic endowment, the conditioning reflex, and the transmission of the social heritage into teaching rookies to take a dive, pull the rip-cord at the right split-second, unlumber their guns and score passing marks thereafter.

General Lee was born in 1863 and entered the army from the University of North Carolina in 1917. An incurable bookworm, but always craving action, he worked all available army courses, including the officers course of the infantry school, the full table d'hote of the tank school, from which he was graduated in 1930, the general staff school, and then back to Chapel Hill for coaching in telling what he knew. He was appointed to his present command last March "to formulate tactical and training doctrine for airborne troops."

After First Jump With Nylon 'Chute

Adeline Gray, 24-year-old girl parachutist, is shown being assisted by friends after she had made the first test jump with a nylon parachute at Hartford, Conn. Miss Gray jumped from 2,000 feet in the presence of army and navy observers, and representatives of the parachute company. The successful jump assured army and navy pilots of a constant supply of parachutes when the nation's stockpile of silk is exhausted.

Hope for Tires

There is now in large scale production an artificial rubber (thiokol) which promises to help carry the nation over its critical tire shortage. Above, John Lange is shown painting synthetic rubber on an old tire at the Thiokol plant at Trenton, N. J. Any number of coats of thiokol may be applied to a smooth surface tire. After the liquid has dried it will stand up well and give satisfactory mileage.

Rush Work on War Building

Mammoth New Structure to House Some 30,000 Men and Women.

WASHINGTON.—A new tenant of the mammoth war department office building near completion across the Potomac peered through the dust at it and remarked, "Big, isn't it?" Big is the word.

The pentagonal nest of buildings in Arlington county, Virginia, now about one-fifth finished, dwarfs the great pyramid of Cheops, which in its day was one of the world's wonders.

It covers as much ground as a good-sized farm.

It will have nearly 800,000 more square feet of floor space than New York's RGA building, listed in the World Almanac as the largest office edifice in existence.

To House 30,000 Workers. It will house some 30,000 men and women—a "population" about that of Bristol, Conn., or Hutchinson, Kan.

Some 150 members of the army's ordnance department have just moved into one 600,000 square-foot section, completed six months ahead of schedule. They will be followed gradually by hundreds and then thousands more. Another section of the same size is now ready for occupancy and by the year's end, the war department hopes, the entire structure will be finished.

Completion of the first section of the 'sprawling, three-story building was a history-making achievement without parallel outside the pages of the Arabian Nights' tales or the annals of Paul Bunyan.

The contract was awarded last September 11. The first ground was broken four days later by huge mechanical diggers crawling over the 320-acre site like machine-age dragons. In the 7½ months since, some 13,000 workmen, aided by their juggernauts, have moved 2,500,000 cubic yards of earth, poured 225,000 cubic yards of concrete, driven more than 40,000 concrete piles.

Exceed Peace Year's Work. Already the builders have accomplished as much as they normally could in two peacetime years.

The work has proceeded without interruption, raising clouds of red dust by day and continuing in the glare cast by great pillars of fire—i.e., floodlights atop high towers—at night.

The structure consists of two five-sided "rings" of buildings, one within the other, and will have a gross floor space of about 3,750,000 square feet, as compared with the RCA building's 2,924,030. Each of the five faces of the outer ring is 921 feet long, as compared with the 750-foot square base of the Pyramid of Cheops.

Communication from floor to floor is by stairways and ramps chiefly, although a few escalators will be installed. There will be only one passenger elevator.

When fully occupied the war department's new home will be a completely air-conditioned "city" with a gigantic cafeteria, now operating on a limited scale; a drugstore, a barber shop, a post office, a newsstand, an emergency medical station, a two-lane bus terminal with seven loading platforms on the ground floor, a taxicab stand, a network of access roads and parking space for 8,000 automobiles.

As a war department official put it: "It's a workshop, not a palace."

Driver Turns Tables; Cop Must Arrest Self

ST. LOUIS.—Patrolman Theodore Mathews had to arrest himself on charges of careless driving.

His automobile collided with a truck driven by Cornelius Teer, 50, and Mathews took Teer to the station, booked him on careless driving, failure to give a proper signal and resisting arrest. Then Teer wanted to make a cross-charge against Mathews.

As he was the only police officer at the accident, Mathews had to arrest himself on careless driving charges so Teer could make his complaint.

One-Armed Aviator of RAF Shoots Down Plane

LONDON.—Squadron Leader J. A. F. MacLachlan, the Royal Air Force's one-armed fighter pilot, shot down his first enemy plane since he was equipped with an artificial arm specially devised for handling Hurricane controls.

MacLachlan's left arm was amputated above the elbow after he was wounded by a Messerschmitt cannon shell over Malta in March, 1941. Prior to the amputation he had a mixed bag of 2 German and Italian aircraft.

Hens Boost Their Output in Big Victory Setdown

WASHINGTON.—They are just a bunch of hens—the whole 354,061,000 of 'em—but they are pitching for victory.

First given the goal of surpassing their 1941 egg output by 13 per cent they've already laid 16 per cent more the first quarter of 1942 than they did in that time in 1941.

Kept happy, experts said, a hen will lay an egg a day. Maybe they're out to set a record.

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Con Cameron, an honest cowboy with no desire to shoot, is forced by circumstances to turn outlaw and join the Paramore gang, headed by one "Dud" Paramore. He had come into Wild Horse with the 28-Bar outfit and had immediately gotten into trouble with the town boss, Asa Brock, and his friends by defending another cattle man, Nevil Lowe, against Brock, Dynamite Downes and "El Mochacho." On the trail again he had met Lee Welsh and the Raniers, and when Con rode into Tivan, where Lowe is the new marshal, he was taken into custody as a murderer and robbery suspect because of his association with the Raniers. He had thought Lowe was his friend, but public sentiment was against him, and Lowe had apparently forgotten about the Wild Horse incident. Con persuaded Lowe to write Buzz Upperman, his old trail boss, and Caramba Year at Wild Horse, but neither man could be located. Knowing that he hadn't a chance of escaping any other way, Con broke jail with Jeff Allison and has now gone with him to join the Paramores.

Now continue with the story.

"He is outside in the darkness; he will kill you."

CHAPTER VII

Nearly a quarter-mile from San Marcos, Dud Paramore called a halt. He sent Gonzales ahead to scout the village and, while they waited, he talked to Con about the Raniers as he had been talking at the cabin. Apparently, his informers in Tivan knew all about official suspicion that Con Cameron and Comanche Linn were the same.

"Got no idea, huh, about what was on them Raniers' mind?" he asked for the tenth time. "Can't figure which way they'd head after they downed Welsh?"

"Nary idea," Con answered, a little wearily. "To hear 'em talk, you'd think nobody in the Territory stacked up ankle-high to a short snake. They are the hefty buccarderos, to hear 'em tell it. You and Ellis—just country boys."

The last he put in artfully, but maliciously. Dud's vanity was plain to be seen and it amused Con to prod him.

Gonzales came back at the gallop, a half-hour later. No officers were known to be around San Marcos, but Quill Hogan lay in one of the houses, terribly beaten by a stranger.

"Huh?" Dud cried incredulously. "Quill was whipped? Who's this done it?"

Gonzales shrugged and shook his head. He had seen the man, a big swaggerer, cock of the walk in the saloon. Turk was the name he went by. He had been in San Marcos when Quill Hogan rode in. Quill had picked a row and Turk had drawn his gun. But instead of killing Quill, Turk had merely pistol-whipped him up and down the plaza, then knocked him senseless.

"Come on!" Dud yelled to his followers.

He hooked his horse into a rocketing gallop and the others jumped their mounts after him. Into San Marcos they charged, to slide to a dust-wreathed halt before a long adobe. Dud was out of the saddle before his horse came down upon four feet, and darted through the door. Big Yager lumbered after him with Gonzales catlike at his heels. Catfish Coyle and Kinky Odom swung down more deliberately and Jeff and Con were last. So when they stepped into the long, dusky room, the others were already at the bar.

Dud stood beside a dark, beard-stubbed man who reminded Con of a gorilla, for thickness of body and length of arms. The Mexican drinking at the pine counter gave Dud and this one room, and watched narrowly. But Dud only pushed a bottle to Turk.

Within twenty minutes the two had five drinks. Then Dud moved the bottle hospitably and when Turk's eyes went to it, Dud's right hand flashed to the white bone handle of Turk's Colt. He whipped it out, stepped quickly back and tossed it from right hand to left in legerdemain almost too fast for the eye to follow. Then, with high, shrill laugh, he stepped in again and replaced it in Turk's holster.

"Take your drink, fellow!" he drawled. "You—need it!" He spat deliberately upon Turk's boots and turned his back. Turk's arm jerked. He drew fast and Dud turned back deliberately. Con scowled.

Then, instead of the roar he waited stiffly for, there was only a hollow click! and another as Turk recoiled the Colt. It was Dud's pistol that bellowed as it snapped from the holster and flipped up. Three bullets, in all, Dud drove into the other's body. He leaned to knock the Colt from Turk's hand and slid back, head on one side, watching. Turk leaned heavily upon the bar, left hand upon the bloody front of his shirt. Then he crumpled and began to sag to the floor. Dud laughed shrilly.

"That's what always happens to folks that come a-hunting Dud Paramore! Hey, Nicolas! Take care of this beef. We have got some dancing to do, us Paramores!"

In another big house the dance was going when the Paramores came in. There were more women than men and eight or nine, heavily powdered, overdressed girls looked expectantly at the newcomers and giggled.

Dud yelled shrilly. Big Yager and Catfish and Kinky and Jeff joined the wolfish chorus. They swept down, Con trailing, upon the girls. Automatically, Con selected one who seemed a little younger, less perfumed and powdered. He put out his hands to her and she smiled sidelong up at him. Then Gonzales snarled in his ear and caught the girl's sleeve.

"Es mio! She is mine! You take another—"

"You are his girl?" Con asked in halting Spanish, holding her wrist. "I am yours, if you want me—and you can keep me!" she said.

Con whirled her deftly away from Gonzales and out among the dancers. She pressed close against him and looked wisely into his face.

Dance after dance Con kept her. Then Gonzales disappeared. He sat with her after the eighth or ninth dance, beyond the little bar. Jeff and his girl joined them for a drink and cigarette. The two girls chattered—chiefly about Gonzales' fury. Then a shabby Mexican appeared at Con's side out of the crowd. Con found his face vaguely familiar and tried to place him.

"I am your friend," the man whispered. "You gave back my money. Now, I pay: Gonzales will kill you! He is outside in the darkness. He will kill you, he has said to men at the door. So I slipped away to give you this word."

"I'll fix him!" he grunted. "I'll give him all the trouble he can pack!"

He shook his head at Jeff, who was getting up from between the two girls.

"Stay out of it," he said grimly. "This is my war."

He went with Jeff trailing across the end of the big room and to the side door. Someone muttered out there—a nervous sound. Then, from the right, away from the lounging group, there was the roar of a shot and a blast of flame. A bullet twitched Con's hair like a finger.

Automatically he drew his Colt, just as he had done a thousand times in practice. As it came level, pointing at the spot where that flame had blossomed, he let down the hammer, thumbed it back and loosed a second shot. Then he twisted inside the room.

The music stopped. The dancers cried out excitedly.

Then someone outside yelled that Gonzales was dead.

Con watched them carry Gonzales in. There was something about the sagging figure that reminded him of a dead rattler. A hand tugged at his sleeve. He turned to face Jeff—and take the tin cup Jeff held out. He lifted it and gulped down the drink, coughed and wiped his eyes.

"Thanks!" he gasped. "Well—well, I feel better!"

"You hit him both times," Jeff said admiringly.

Dud shrugged; shook his head. "Nothing to stop our dancing!" he cried, and Con could not tell, from his high singsong, what he really felt. "Let's go!"

Amelia took his arm and looked up at him with a kind of savage adoration. He shook his head.

"No more for tonight, querida. I will sit by the bar for a time. You go with Jeff or another."

She nodded and left him. He found himself a place in a dusky corner and watched almost without seeing while the dance continued as if Gonzales had not died. Then, about midnight, a boy came yelling for Dud and the music and stamping stopped short.

"It is Nevil Lowe and a posse!" the boy reported shrilly. "They come quietly."

Con followed Dud outside. The intermittent moonlight presently showed two men supporting a third, helping him onto a horse. This, Con learned by the talk, was the battered Quill Hogan. Dud yelled for the others.

"Come on, you nitwits! First thing you know that shooting posse'll be making red dollrags out of you—all!"

Catfish Coyle reappeared and mounted. But Big Yager and Kinky Odom were missing.

"Hightail!" Dud commanded shrilly. "Hear them horses? That's Nevil Lowe and his damn posse! We can't wait for 'em! They'll just get us all killed. Hightail!"

"Come on, Con!" Jeff urged him.

"We can't buck that many!"

Con whirled Pancho with a furious snarl, snatching at his carbine. He hooked the sorrel into a gallop and went racing to a house on the edge of San Marcos. In the pale moonlight he saw a dark mass of horsemen, not fifty yards away.

"Get back!" he yelled at them, sliding the Winchester out. "We've got you surrounded! Back, you nitwits! Back!"

As he began to shoot, holding low at the horses' legs, Jeff's voice lifted in a bellow, picking up the phrase Con had used. The mass of riders seemed fairly to blow apart as the carbine rattled. But a horse went down, and another. Scattered return shots came from the sides of the road.

"Come on," Jeff called to him. "Big and Kinky's gone!"

He spun Pancho, and together they thundered away, with other horses pounding ahead of them. Out of San Marcos they galloped, with lead whining waspishly about them but not too close. They overhauled Big Yager and Kinky Odom; passed them with an encouraging yell. But a mile of alternate darkness and moonlight had been covered before Con saw Dud, Quill Hogan, and Catfish skylined.

Jeff and Con overtook them. Dud and Catfish seemed to have better horses than any of the others—including Hogan. Or, Con thought, perhaps the beaten man was not in condition to get the most out of his mount. He lagged farther behind and made some indistinct answer when Dud yelled at him to keep up. The four spurred away from him, then became three when Catfish's horse slowed. As a trio, they slackened pace to a walk in the foothills of the Lobos and listened and let the blown animals get breath.

"Well, sir!" Dud drawled cheerfully. "Nevil Lowe, he will be a disappointed young sheriff, tonight. Who was that shooting, after we left town? Big and Kinky?"

"Like hell!" Jeff answered before Con could speak. "That was Con, stopping the posse."

"Listen!" Con grunted suddenly. "They're not so far behind right now. What do we do?"

"Why, I reckon the smart thing is to set right here and see about things," Dud answered.

They sat minute after minute, smoking, listening to the flat rattle of shots until the sound died and only the small night-noises of the hills could be heard. Dud grunted impatiently and moved his horse. Con checked him with a word.

"Wait! Somebody's coming. It might be our bunch."

"Just one horse," Jeff announced. It was Catfish and he was panting as if he, not the horse, had been running, when he came up to them. Dud called a sharp question.

"Rubbed out! Whole bunch!" Catfish answered. "That damn Nevil Lowe! Knocked Quill out of the hull—right at my elbow. Swear I heard four slugs hit Quill's back. Then it was Big. Me and Kinky kept ahead—awhile. Lowe stopped again. Opened up. Got Kinky through the head."

"We'll make that son pay for it, boy!" Dud assured him fiercely. "Don't you never think we won't make Nevil Lowe remember tonight. Come on, now! No use crying about it."

They rode in silence by twisting trails to the cabin. Nobody was in talking mood when they reached the place. They rolled into their blankets, but Catfish took his to the point used as lookout. He said that he was not sleepy; he would stand guard.

They were up early, with the grim events of the night very heavy upon them all. Dud alone was cheerful—or pretended to be. He looked at them and swore that they were the sourest set of cowboys he had ever put eyes upon. From some hiding place, he produced a jug of whisky and uncorked it.

The liquor brought no lightening of Con's disgust with this company. Instead, he thought of the misfortune which had put him here, as if in a trap.

EVERY kind of cotton goods from dainty chintz to bold plaid gingham is being used for bedspreads. Most of these materials are about 38 inches wide and you will need 1 1/2 yards for a bed 54 inches wide. See diagrams for cutting dimensions.

Cut the center portions first; then the 18-inch side sections for the pillow cover; then the 10-inch strips for the pillow cover and spread. This leaves a 26-inch-wide strip for the side ruffles of the spread. If you make your own seam welting, cover cord with bias strips basted, as at A, and stitched with the cording foot, as at B.

NOTE: This bedspread is from BOOK 1 of the series of booklets which Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers. This book also gives step-by-step directions for making all covers, dressing table skirts and 12 different styles of curtains including a simple rigging for draw curtains. Matter of Habit

The man who makes it the habit of his life to go to bed at nine o'clock, usually gets rich and is always reliable. Of course, going to bed does not make him rich—I merely mean that such a man will in all probability be up early in the morning and do a big day's work, so his weary bones put him to bed early.

Rogues do their work at night. Honest men work by day. It's all a matter of habit, and good habits in America make any man rich. Wealth is largely a result of habit. —John Jacob Astor.

In Obedience

The body of all true religion consists, to be sure, in obedience to the will of the Sovereign of the world, in a confidence in His declarations, and in imitation of His perfections.—Burke.

The War isn't fought in Fox Holes alone

IT'S fought in the mind. It's fought with a will to win. It's fought with a belief in a cause worth dying for.

That will, that belief, is known as morale.

Our enemies have had years of indoctrination. They have been conditioned to believe themselves part of a "new order" . . . to which the contribution of their lives is small but all-important. They believe themselves cogs in a vast machine.

Our soldiers do not fight that way—because they do not live that way. There is the belief in the sanctity of the individual.

To maintain their morale in the American way, the USO has devoted all its time and energy since practically the beginning of conscription.

It has done this by staffing and maintaining club houses near all training camps and in our outlying possessions from Alaska to the Caribbean.

Today its work is far greater than ever, its need for funds to carry on more than doubled.

The USO needs your help more than ever before!

High government and military officials—including General MacArthur—have praised the work done by the USO and recognized its importance in the war effort.

But it needs recognition from you—recognition in the way of dollars and cents. For the six national agencies which comprise the USO are publicly supported.

Now above all times, to make your dollars count, give to the USO!

Send your contribution to your local USO Committee or to National Headquarters, USO, Empire State Building, New York, N. Y.
