National Scrap Harvest

Governor Miles has issued a proclamation relating to the scrap metal drive and in this connection a series of ads will appear in the Lincoln County News concerning the collection of junk; as a climax to the whole thing a "junk rally" will be held at some future date. At present the main thing is to dig up all the odds and ends that are of no use and turn them over to the Salvage Committee.

The dates set for the intensive scrap, metal and rubber drive are from September 1st through December 31st. Don't delay. If you have quite a sizable amount, notify the Chairman, John E. Hall, at Phone 63 and he will advise what disposal to make of it, or to whom it shall be delivered.

Stuff to Salvage

Scrap iron and steel, other metals; old stoves, radiators, plumbing, tools, toys, beds, batteries, tire chains, furnace grates, pipes of all kinds, lighting fixtures—anything metal. Help make shells, guns; ships; tanks; armored cars; submarines—all machines of warfare.

Old rubber; old automobile and bicycle tires and tubes, boots, rubbers, galoshes, garden hose, toys, gloves, raincoats, bathing caps, crepe rubber soles, mats—anything rubber. Help make tires for trucks, jeeps and gun carriages; gas masks; barrage balloons; lifeboat rafts; pontoon bridges; surgical supplies.

Rags, manila rope, burlap bags; Castoff clothing and underwear, dust cloths, draperies, pillows, bed linen, mattresses, rugs, carpets and other articles. Manila rope, regardless of condition; old bags. Help make wiping rags for ships; paper; roofing and flooring material. Manila rope fiber makes insulating paper for copper wiring. Mr. Dempsey's Attitude Toward Schools-Education

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 18: Replying to a letter from R. J. Mullins, executive secretary of the New Mexico Educational Association, asking his position on various educational and school management policies advocated by the Association, John J. Dempsey, democratic candidate for Governor, repeated in writing the statements regarding education he has made from the platform repeatedly in his present campaign.

"No matter what unfortunate economic conditions are thrust upon us by the war," Dempsey wrote, "our school system must be maintained more efficiently than ever before," because of greater need for technical and specialized education in the readjustment of the youth of the state meet the difficult conditions Dempsey foresees as war's aftermath.

Dempsey wrote Mullins that he would seek Federal aid to supplement depleted school revenues; should such revenues decline; that every cent of school money not absolutely required for competent, economical educational supervision, should be applied to the use of the schools; that he favored staggered terms for members of the State Board of Education and the higher educational institutions; that teachers should be adequately paid and provision made for secure tenure of positions to those found competent.

"As Governor I shall seek the advice and counsel of trained and experienced educators on all matters affecting our school revenues and management," Dempsey wrote. "No political consideration will be permitted to influence my consideration of educational policy of personnel. No partisan politician will be permitted to put his hands on our school system, in so far as army power as Governor will prevent it. Education is one division of public service wherein politics has no place."

BANKS AND THE WAR

"... A Vital Force for Victory"

A NEWSPAPER editorial recently stated: "In this war banks are doing more than provide financial services, they are vital force for VICTORY. The nation's banks are doing much to help win the war. They aid in financing, in war production, in keeping the economic machine running and other ways. Banks ask for no praise or special credit. We are proud to be of help, and anxious to be still more helpful in the future."

RED RANGE

By EUGENE CUNNINGHAM
W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Forced to run from the law to save his life when he is suspected of being the notorious "Comanche King," Con Cameron is trying to prove his honesty. With his pal, Caramba Veez, he is working for Topoka Tenison, owner of the Broken Wheel ranch. Nevil Lowe, marshal of the neighboring town of Tiran, is after him but doesn't yet know that the "Twenty Johnson" of the Broken Wheel is the man he suspects of being Comanche King. Lowe's sister, Janet, is staying with the Tenisons. They are deeply attached to her, having lost their only child, a boy, when he was kidnapped many years before. On their way out to the ranch after persuading Tenison to give them the job, Con and Caramba meet Monk Irby, one of the Megeath crowd. Megeath and Doc Paramore, leader of another band of outlaws, take both Nevil Lowe and the Broken Wheel count. In the fight which followed their meeting with Irby, Con knocked out Irby. Then he and Caramba fought off more of Megeath's men to protect Janet. Lowe, Con and the Gracys, a family of "sage-brons," shot and suspects Monk Irby. Topoka sends him into town for a doctor, with instructions to tell the constable, JANET, and no one else, about his symptoms. Janet doesn't say much, but clearly implies that he doesn't want to have anything to do with it. He refuses to arrest Irby or even to tell where he is. Con decides to look for Irby himself and is attacked by the Latimers, who are also enemies of the Broken Wheel.

He rode a little forward, lifting his head.

few miles. Perch reined in before dusk and sat comfortably with leg around the saddle horn, to make a cigarette and beam paternally upon Skeets.

"Now, son," he said genially, "you-all will be safe. Just keep 'em a-going the way you seen me do. Some of them horses I seen come along as colts and branded and rode. Just follow 'em and remember they'll be doing what they think I'd want 'em to be doing."

"You take care of Old Folks," Skeets called as he whirled his horse. "Be seeing you!"

"Be seeing you!" Caramba echoed, grinning at Con. "You take care of yourself, boy!"

He spurred after Skeets and from the edge of a ridge his high yolk carried to Perch and Con:

"Ahhh-ahhh-aaaahhh! Yeeo-pah!" "Happy jigger," Perch commented, grinning. "Well, once I was a young sprout like that, full of vinegar; int'fessing to myself and other folks. Most cowboys don't get old—don't live long enough! But the ones that do, they ought to look ahead and figure on owning his own outfit, yes, sir! No use and no sense of ending up like me or old Step—"

"Who's Step?" Con asked idly.

"Ain't you seen him around the place? He keeps to hisself a lot. Got him a li'l' adobe alongside come of the Mor' help. Putters around. He's crippled in one leg account of some horse rolling on him, one time. 'Step' mostly, Gafford's his go-by. I wouldn't be surprised if old Step one time rode more high lines than he rode rango. But old as he is, I wouldn't say it loud!"

They ate the steak and eggs and fried-apple pies for supper and played a few hands of wild stud poker afterward. The next morning the doctor went back to Onopa. Con harnessed the doctor's heavy black horse to his buggy and asked about Mrs. Gracy and the boy.

"The kid's all right. Keep him in bed for a day or two and he'll be pawing the air to get out. But his mother—it's a matter of her constitution. If she should happen to take a turn for the worse, Mrs. Tenison will send one of you in for me. I'll come as soon as I can."

When the doctor's buggy had disappeared, Perch suggested that Con ride to White Rock Pasture for a routine look at the horses there. Con saddled the black he had ridden once before. As he shoved his carbine into the scabbard, Janet spoke behind him.

"If you'll catch me that corral," she said, "I'll ride you. I've just got to get out of the house for a while!"

The horses went nose-to-nose across the yard and Con opened a gate in the wire fence, let Janet pass and closed it behind them. Then they trotted out over rolling range with the hills far ahead of them. Con looked stonily before him.

"What's to be done about hunting down Gracy's murderer, do you know?" Janet asked him suddenly.

"Unless word was sent to your brother, and he does something—not a thing!"

"From what that amazing little boy said, you have an idea about the murderer; who they are."

"Monk Irby. Friend of Slash Oswald's. But nothing will be done from Onopa. Gracy and Constable Janton were on the outs. He's glad that somebody did what he didn't have the nerve to do. He told me so."

"I never have thanked you for what you did the other night," she told him abruptly, so that he twisted his head to stare. "You know how much I thank you for that other time, at our house, for saving me from Bud. That was the bravest thing! Nevil said the same."

"I never thought about it as being brave. It just seemed like one of those things that'll cause a lot of trouble, but—need to be done. That must be one of the manna's ahead."

The bay stallion and his harem were crossing a flat below them. He saw the riders and threw up his head defiantly.

"Are these the cowboys from the line, camp?" she asked.

"Don't think so," Con replied, staring at the tight little knot of men coming over a rise toward the mare. "I wish I had a pair of glasses."

He rode a little forward, lifting his head.

his hand. They saw him, but came on. One man got a carbine out. The others made significant motions toward their belts.

"Get back over the ridge!" he snapped at her. "I think I've got the best of this. Get back! Fast!"

He was hardly conscious of the sorrel's thundering hoofs behind him. The rifleman was bringing his saddle gun to bear and the other men brandished pistols. Con squeezed trigger and saw the bullet kick up dust beyond the horses a hundred yards away. Then he corrected his aim and fired three fast shots at the man with the rifle.

With the shots the other riders fired quickly at him and ducked, to dart to the side so that ten yards separated each from his neighbor. Their lead fell short. The rifleman had not loosed his slug. He dropped the carbine and awayed, holding his body with both hands as if cold—or suffering a stomach-ache. But he stayed with the horse and it slowed to a trot, then a walk. Con fired grimly at the others in turn. But they jerked on the reins and went farther right and left.

The rifleman was now clinging to the saddle horn. All sight seemed gone from him. He got the horse turned and spurred him to a run. Then the horse of the man nearest him came down with suddenness that catapulted his rider straight ahead. The cowboy seemed to twist purposefully in air and struck the ground on his feet. He ran two long paces forward before he stumbled.

Con was reloading as fast as his fingers could jerk shells from his belt and ram them into the loading gate. He took three long shots at the departing man and saw dust jump from one jumper. Then the three of them disappeared and he looked at the man on the ground, forty yards away. He was sitting, now, shaking his head violently.

"Dear me!" Con said aloud.

"First they wanted to play, then they wanted to go home. So they picked up their marbles and went away from here. Changeablest people, Blackie! Let's go down and look at this one."

The cowboy, a slender, dark youngster, had a nose bleed. But his head seemed to have cleared. Over the nose he held to his nose his narrow eyes regarded Con steadily.

"You damn fool!" he cried.

"What's the idea, whanging away at us? Can't nobody ride across this range of yours without you got to shoot off that Winchester at 'em?"

Two yards from him, Con halted the black horse and studied him.

"Chunk me that pretty, big pistol you're wearing," he ordered. "I just shoved some more persuaders into this."

Calmly, the cowboy took out his pistol and tossed it from him. Con's face hardened.

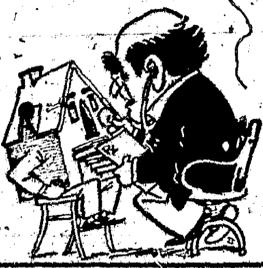

"Thought it was dandy picking, did you, when the wagon rolled off? All you had to do was stroll down and pick out what you wanted, huh? We've been waiting for you. If more than four of you had come, two of us would've been here."

He looked briefly at the Colt on the ground, then let his carbine rest across the saddle while he fished tobacco and papers from his pocket.

"Do 'n' what you're driving at," the cowboy drawled. "Me and my friends was heading for the Bug-on-a-Stuck west of here. Cigarette?"

He caught the sack and papers and tugged a cigarette while Con watched him. Then he got up stiffly, put his hand down in a natural motion as for a match and—it vanished behind him, to twitch back with a Colt, apparently drawn from the rear of his waistband.

Con had not picked up his carbine. But he had not let the hammer down, either. Now, he pulled trigger without raising it. He missed, but the bullet went so near to the cowboy that he flinched and his own slug buzzed waspishly past Con's head. Then Con fired with lifted carbine, flicked down the lever and fired again. Both shots were hits; both struck over the heart. The hideout dropped from the cowboy's fingers. He turned completely around and lifted one foot as if to walk off. But it seemed no more than reflex movement. He sagged, rather than fell, to the grass.

FIRST-AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

LEAKS IN LEADED GLASS WINDOWS DUE TO DEFECTIVE CEMENT

A WINDOW that is made up of small pieces of glass held together by strips of lead is likely to leak in a driving storm. It has little strength, and in bending under a wind, or because something presses against it, the leads may separate from the glass and allow leakage. Lead and glass should be held together with a cement that is somewhat flexible. Putty will not serve, for in drying out it becomes too brittle. One satisfactory cement is white lead paste softened, if necessary, by adding a little linseed oil. Using an awl or similar tool, the defective cement is scraped out from under the lead and replaced by the new. The leading must then be pressed back against the glass. For this the handles of two screwdrivers or similar tools can be used, with one in each hand. These tools are run up and down the leading, pressing it back into place. With one tool on each side, each one taken the pressure of the other, and the glass is thus prevented from being bent or distorted.

Waterproof Floors

Question: Our back porch has been enlarged and converted into a furnished room with an open deck on top. The carpenter has finished the deck with a slight pitch and says that the rain will run off. He says that all it needs is a coat of porch and deck paint. I cannot believe that this will keep water from soaking in and ruining the insulation and inside finish. What is your opinion?

Answer: I agree with you. The swelling and shrinking of the wood as the seasons change will crack the paint at the joints and edges of the boards. Your best move will be to have the porch floor covered with deck canvas, which is intended for just that use. Get a good quality and be sure that it is applied exactly according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Shrunken Door Panels

Question: Although we have a humidifier, the panels of our white Colonial doors have shrunken so that unpainted wood shows around them. The panels may swell when damp weather comes again. How can the appearance of the doors be improved?

Answer: Take out the panels by removing the strips of moulding that hold them in place, and smooth the edges with sandpaper. Then paint the edges white. A simpler method is to smooth the bare wood that is now exposed by light sandpapering, and then to apply two thin coats of white paint. The finish may not be quite so good with this second method, but even so, the appearance of the doors will be greatly improved.

Damp Floor in Entrance

Question: About six weeks ago I had a concrete floor, four inches thick, laid down in a new house. I now find that lots of moisture comes on top of it, especially when it rains. The contractor says that it will dry out in time, but I cannot put any livestock in a place under such conditions. No cinders or gravel were used under the concrete. How can I improve this condition?

Answer: To evaporate the moisture in a mass of concrete takes a long time, particularly at this time of year when evaporation is slow. If you are in a hurry to put in your livestock, you could build a temporary platform of wood until the concrete has dried.

Building Details

Question: I am planning to build a home of concrete blocks. How should I attach the joists to the top of the basement wall? How can I build the roof?

Answer: You will find these details explained in a book that has the title "Architectural Graphic Standards," published by John Wiley Sons, New York. You should find a copy of it in your local public library.

To Retain Heat in Water

Question: I have a 60-gallon water tank connected to my oil burner. Would you advise me to paint this with a heavy paint in order to retain heat in the water?

Answer: Paint will not be of much help. Cover the tank with an insulating jacket. Your plumber should be able to supply the material.

Attaching Curtain Rods

Question: How can curtain rods be attached to cement blocks in a basement rumpus room?

Answer: At a hardware store you can get fiber plugs to be forced into holes drilled into the concrete. A tool that comes with them. Driving the holes is not at all difficult.

BENCHES 10" LOWER THAN COUNTER

EVERYONE knows that quick meals in the kitchen save time, but it was both time and space that had to be saved in this kitchen where breakfasts were eaten on the run and the children had but a few minutes for lunch. The problem was solved by building a 10-inch-wide counter under a window and then making simple stools to be slipped under it when not in use. The dimensions and construction of the stools are shown here. A saw, a screw driver and a wood chisel are the only tools that were used.

Breakfast Time

Whether you wake to the crowing of the rooster or the jingle of an alarm clock, it's a signal to be up and about doing the day's work. But first! A hearty breakfast is in order so that the system can get started on its day's routine in the proper form. No matter whether it's for the head of the family going off to the defence plant, daughter on her way to the nurses' aid class, mother or the youngsters, no one should skip blithely over this meal of the day.

For years doctors and dietitians have looked on those who passed up a real up-and-at-them breakfast because it doesn't give the body a chance to start functioning early in the day. If you're fat, you need fruit-egg-toast-and-beverage breakfasts to start your metabolism working at top speed to start tearing down excess tissues. If you're thin, then you need just as much of a breakfast with a few more trimmings, to start building yourself. If you're normal, you still need the hearty breakfast so you can maintain your health and give your body its daily nutritional requirements. And one of the best recommendations for a real breakfast is the good way it starts you on your day's work. None of that drowsy, it's-hard-to-wake-up-in-the-morning feeling. No, Ma'am!

Hardest thing about breakfasts is that it's easy to get into a rut by serving the same foods morning after morning. This is rather strange, considering how much time and effort is spent on getting variety into the other two squares a day. Well, why not variety for breakfast? You can have this variety in fruit. Yes, I know you like juice pretty well, but you'll get out of the morning doldrums quickly enough if you punctuate the breakfast with favorite fruits-in-season, other fruit juices and come of these canned fruits you put up during the summer months.

Toast? If you insist on toast, try using whole wheat, rye, raisin, cracked wheat, etc. Naturally, the bread should be enriched so you'll get the most out of toast. And then there are all sorts of hot breads that will send the family cheering off to work—blueberry muffins, pecan rolls, muffins, and flapjacks!

Eggs in all manner of ways are a good standby. Poached, fried, cold, baked, scrambled, a la goldenrod, or combined with ham, sizzling!

Lynn Says:
Tips for Breakfast Fruits: You're going to be a little short on sugar so do the most with what you have. A little salt in cooked fruit or sprinkled on such things as melons brings out true fruit flavor, requires less sugar. Lemon or lime juice with melon enhances the natural sweetness. Try it.
Orange juice, chilled before the fruit is squeezed, is an excellent pep-up. Let the sugar stand on grapefruit a while (while the coffee percolates) and the sugar will melt and go further. Try eating fruit or juice first, but saving half to finish off your breakfast—it will leave a fresh taste in your mouth.
Fruit stewed should have sugar added after it is stewed, with a pinch of salt. You won't need as much sweetening, this way.
Cook dried fruits with a slice of lemon or orange. These citrus fruits have an affinity with dried apricots, peaches, prunes and apples.

sausage or crisp brown bacon—there you have a week's ideas.

The Cereals.

At least one serving of cereals is the nutrition requirement for the day. This is most easily served at breakfast, with cream and sugar and perhaps a few slices of fresh fruit or berries. Ready-prepared cereals are delightful, especially in the warmer weather—they're crisp, light, and nutritious. Recently some of the prepared cereals have been scientifically restored so they have all the whole-grain richness and nutritive value in them.

Light as down flapjacks are a welcome sight at breakfast! Try these:

- *Feather Fluff Griddle Cakes. (Makes about 18 cakes)
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 2 cups rich sour milk or buttermilk
- 1 1/2 cups white flour
- 1/2 cup prepared pancake flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Sift dry ingredients thoroughly. Add milk to eggs. Gradually stir in dry ingredients. Stir just enough to make a smooth batter. Cook on ungreased griddle. Try out one cake and if batter is too thick, add a little more milk.

Fried eggs are good to serve with these griddle cakes. Fry them thus: Slip eggs into a pan 1/2 inch layer of moderately hot fat. Cook at moderate heat, dipping fat over eggs to cook to desired doneness. Turn, if desired. Serve at once on warmed platter.

Sunday Breakfast.

Place sausage links in a frying pan, add a small amount of water. Do not prick the skins. Cover and let steam 5 minutes, then drain. Cook over low heat, add 3 tablespoons of peach juice to 8 sausages and let brown. Serve with poached eggs on top of toasted English muffins. Red currant jelly or golden peach jam makes a delectable dish.

If you've never tried old-fashioned scrapple, you have a real treat coming to you:

Fork Sausage Scrapple.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 cups cornmeal
  - 4 cups boiling, salted water
  - 1 pound sausage, in bulk
- Cook cornmeal in rapidly boiling salted water, and add sausage to mixture. Blend thoroughly. Rinse a loaf pan with cold water and pack in hot scrapple. Let stand in ice-box overnight, covered with waxed paper. Dip in beaten egg and fry until golden brown. Serve with spiced applesauce, cranberry sauce or maple syrup.

A variation of the ham 'n' eggs theme is this:

Fricolettes With Ham.

(Serves 6)

- 6 hard-cooked eggs, remove yolks
  - 4 tablespoons grated cheese
  - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
  - Salt and pepper
  - Melted butter
- Mash yolks and mix with cheese, butter, seasonings. Refill whites. Press together. Pour a rich cream sauce over them and sprinkle buttered crumbs over them. Brown a few minutes in a hot oven. Serve on browned circles of ham.

Fabric-Conserving Fashions Possess a New Kind of Style

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LET no one think that specifications for conserving materials in wartime have put restrictions on attractiveness. On the contrary, the new order of things is ushering in a fashion cycle fraught with a newness in chic and charm that is excitingly interesting. Instead of finding them disappointing, you'll find that the new styles have exactly what every woman is looking for—neat silhouette and fine basic design, together with innumerable little details of detail which are flattering and lovely and expressive of all that is best in costume technique.

The manipulation of fabric so as to use less yardage simply fascinates with its artfulness and resourcefulness. Materials favored for the new "priority fashions" are those which lend themselves best to a delightfully feminine, draped and moded styling which achieves the utmost in figure flattery. For this purpose rayon crepes are proving ideal for the entire dress or used in combination with satin, falles or velvet. The working of two fabrics together is fashion news of outstanding importance for fall. In fact, the new black-on-black vogue which works black crepe or jersey with satin or tulle, or touches of black velvet is the fashion high spot of the immediate moment.

Another new trend which reacts to the good in response to the demand for curtailment in the use of metal fastenings is the amazingly clever way in which dresses and coats and blouses are made to close with self-fabric ties, or wrap-around devices or with plastic buttons which are as ornamental as they are useful. New to fashion is the wrap-around frock with surplice back closing. It's a style you'll adore, for it's slenderizing to the nth degree. See it pictured to the right in the accompanying illustration interpreted in smart black rayon sheer, a material which is ideal for summer-into-fall wear. Delicate touches of fine black rayon net at the neck, sleeves and hemline carry out the black-on-black idea now so important. A self-fabric sash ties softly at the buttoned back closing. Worn over a correctly fitted foundation garment, this suavely fitted frock has unusual grace and distinction.

Dressmaker tailoring distinguishes the charming two-piece suit frock to the left in the above illustration. Designed for now and later in handsome black rayon falles, this model features the slim long-torced silhouette accentuated by folds of the fabric at chest and hips of the fitted jacket top. The new "priority" suits with close, fitted jackets and slim skirts must be worn over carefully fitted under garments to achieve the smoothly streamlined effect so essential this season.

For the very chic afternoon dress centered in the group sheer rayon crepe in deep, rich black is draped and molded along slim figure-revealing lines. A self-fabric spaghetti trim makes soft little bows at the flattering sweetheart neck and knots casually at the waistline above the skirt draping, which is concentrated at the front.

Tremendous play is being made on the working of black satin with dull-surfaced rayon crepe. Yokes, insets and bandings of the satin, as well as big, coil bows, give pleasing variation to fall frocks of contrasting fabric.

Color contrast is another featured theme. Designers are highlighting striking effects in no uncertain terms, using sleeves of one color and bodice top of another with the two colors appearing in the skirt. Coat dresses have panels of contrasting color to match the color of the plastic buttons.

Black Satin

Black satin suits are big news for fall. Carefully sleek for autumn wear is this stunning suit done in fashion's newest fabric favorite—satin! The little jacket of this New York creation features the new shorter length. It flares slightly, as does also the discretely gored skirt. The highly decorative plastic buttons are in-aqua coloring. Together with an aqua colored corsage, they add the prettily feminine touch. The stores are showing satin suits of this type in dark, rich jewel colors, too, but black is the favorite.

Bangles

Brading, passementerie, dangles of all kinds, sequin embroideries, beadwork, novelty buttons, plastic gadgets, much jet and crystal and a wide use of embroidery and applique give to fall fashions interesting variety.

Letter to the News

Editor of Lincoln County News:

In an article on the front page of your paper, August 7th issue, announcing Mr. Frenger's candidacy for re-election, you stated: "We are sure of his re-election." I, being a candidate for that office, hope you are wrong. It was expected by many that Mr. Frenger, having been given that high honor by the Democratic party for sixteen years, and being possessed of an independent fortune, would withdraw at the end of his term and allow some other democrat a chance at it. But he was not that generous.

Against your sureness of his re-election is this revealing fact; all the leading democrats of Dona Ana County are supporting me. That thought should give the voters of Lincoln County some idea of my fitness for the job. As for the manner in which he conducts his court, there is much complaint in this county. I heard dissatisfaction voiced in Lincoln and Otero counties on my visit there. I heard other adverse criticisms.

Dona Ana County, during Judge Frenger's present term of office, has had to pay $1400.00 to visiting judges to sit in his place and do his work in this county. To a man with a lot of money, fourteen hundred dollars may be "chicken feed," to me it is a lot of money.

Mr. Frenger doesn't need the salary of the office. But he can spend it. I want the salary, frankly, to clothe and educate my three daughters, and to put aside something for my two boys when they come back from the Army to make a start in life.

I am a Democrat. I have always fought for the party. I am deserving of the honor. And, if elected, I shall give the district a much better and cheaper service than it is now receiving.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for August

Washington, D. C., August 5.—While maintaining a tentative annual level of twelve billion dollars as its goal, the Treasury Department today fixed the August quotas for the sale of War Bonds at $215,000,000 as shown by the accompanying map by states.

In lowering the quota from a billion dollars in July to $215,000,000 in August, the Treasury has given recognition to certain factors which may be expected to result in variations in sales over the 12-month period, such as the seasonal character of farm income.

These factors have been taken into account in determining each state's share for the national quota for August and will be given consideration in fixing quotas for subsequent months.

In addition to the state quotas set out in the map there is a federal payroll allotment quota of $9,700,000 and territorial quotas as follows: Alaska, $700,000; Canal Zone, $211,000; Hawaii, $4,000,000; Puerto Rico, $600,000 and the Virgin Islands, $27,000.

JUNK
needed for War

In the barnyards and gullies of farms and in the basements and attics of homes is a lot of junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example.
Even in peacetime, scrap provided about 50% of the raw material for steel.
It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed, and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.
The production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined. But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical.
In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead and tin.

The junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?
First—collect all of your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Harold McCracken, explorer for the American Museum of Natural History, says Japanese in the Aleutians are just like Germans in Florida, and must be bayoneted out, not bombed.

This should qualify as expert testimony. Mr. McCracken knows the Aleutians. In July, 1920, heading the Stoll-McCracken expedition, he unearthed a carcophagus, on top of an almost inaccessible Aleutian rock islet, containing the mummies of three adults and a child.

As an archeologist and explorer, the author of a number of books, he has studiously pieced out the historic jig-saw puzzle of his various findings and taken due account of their bearing on war and peace and the present and future of mankind.

Mr. McCracken, a lean, gentle man with horn-rimmed spectacles, doesn't look like a man who has killed about 20 Kodiak grizzly bears, but he has, and such encounters are a minor detail of his desperate adventures in shipwrecks, blizzards and lonely treks in the frozen wilderness.

It was in 1918 that he first went to Alaska, heading an expedition for Ohio State university, his alma mater. In 1919 and 1920, he placarded pay dirt on the Alaska peninsula, and into 1922-23 headed up a moving picture expedition, again for Ohio State university, to film big game. This led him into the production of travel and documentary films.

ONE of our first stories, as a booging reporter in Chicago, was a rock and cock fight between some Jugoslavs and another Balkan group, down around the Hegowitch steel mills. The Jugoslavs were outnumbered but they won.

They were more versatile than the opposition, better in knee and elbow work, and could land a chunk of slag or a slug of pig-iron on an expected skull with skill and authority. Their own skulls seemed strangely resistant to such missiles.

As to the fight, they seemed to enjoy it, and when it was over set up a patriotic song which ranged far over the slag heaps and far into the night.

It would be nice to recall that the defeated challengers were Italians, but they weren't and that good news has been held for another day.

The Jugoslav guerrillas, 18 battalions of them, are chasing the Italians out of the former province of Dalmatia. At the time of the Axis attack on Jugoslavia, we recalled that Hegowitch battle and would have made a bet with any taker that something like that would happen. In the above and other encounters we have noted that in fighting the Jugoslavs seem to have their mind on their work more than any other combatants. And, again, they seem to enjoy it.

His glaring black mountaineer's mustache has become a guarantee of hope to those who want to believe that victory may be won by a stout heart and not necessarily by the biggest tanks. It is reported that 3,000 Italians have been captured or killed in the last two weeks and that the general's forces have now wrested 11,000 square miles from the Axis. They didn't try to make their second front a Jug-handled deal.

The rocky-faced General Mikhailovitch, a colonel of artillery several years before the war, came out of the First World War with a strong distaste for the German military clique.

When the blitzkrieg hit, he was invited to join officials and army leaders in a plane flight to Cairo. He said he had another engagement, went back to the mountains and emerged with a few hundred of his hard-rock boys, started savage forays and later worked them into carefully planned and operated military actions.

Feed Millions With Our Waste

Nutrition Experts Start Drive To Teach People Better Buying Habits.

WASHINGTON.—American housewives would be horrified if they were told their garbage pails are instruments of sabotage.

Yet this is in too many instances the truth, say government nutrition experts. They are intensifying a campaign to convince Americans that they waste much valuable food.

It has been established that food enough for 5,000,000 persons is consigned to garbage pails throughout the country every day.

This would be sufficient to feed the combined populations of Arizona, Colorado, Florida and Nebraska.

Actually, more edibles are thoughtlessly discarded by loyal Americans than could possibly be destroyed by enemy agents deliberately bent on that purpose.

To overcome this waste the new food requirements committee, headed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, has charted a course for American families to follow in order best to further the war effort.

The program will not cause any civilian to go hungry, but it will revise the buying and culinary habits of many families.

Wise Purchasing.

The slogan of the committee is "Waste not—want not."

To carry out this principle, bulletins are directed at the housewives on the home front. They emphasize these points for co-operation in winning the war: (1) wise purchasing; (2) no hoarding; (3) sensible cooking and (4) no waste.

If this advice is followed generally, enormous supplies of staples, concentrates and packed meats can be released to our armed forces and those of our Allies without denying the civil population any of the elements necessary for wholesome diet.

First, it is suggested that homemakers work out a family spending plan and never shop without their notes.

They should choose what is currently plentiful, fresh fruits and vegetables in season.

They should purchase large cuts of meats in preference to smaller cuts because they give better value and better flavor. They should shop around and compare prices.

They should make sure that the butcher puts in all the fat trimmings with a cut of meat. These can be used in cooking. Bones also should be included. They are excellent for soup.

Hoarding Unpatriotic.

As for the hoarding of food, the committee points out that it is both unpatriotic and unnecessary as there will be enough for all.

Further advice from the committee has to do with the preparation of foods. Much waste occurs when foods are being readied for cooking. There is loss when potatoes are peeled too thick, when outside leaves of lettuce or cabbage are thrown away, when grapefruit, lemons or oranges are only partly squeezed, when batter is not thoroughly scraped out of the mixing bowl, and when sour milk is not used for making cakes, biscuits or pancakes.

The fourth point stressed by Secretary Wickard's committee is highly important. It is the wise use of leftovers.

Stale bread can be employed in many ways.

Cooked cereals can be made into fritters or puddings and served with syrup or fruit sauce.

Many fats may be saved and utilized. Keep bacon fat and drippings for seasoning vegetables.

Leftover vegetables can be made to cook like something else again in scalloped dishes, in soups, stews and in salads.

Work and Don't Talk.

Wounded Men Tell U. S.

SEATTLE.—Urging citizens in the States to "work like hell and keep their mouths shut," another group of men who fought at Dutch Harbor, most of them wounded, arrived in Seattle.

"Just tell the people to work like hell and keep their mouths shut!" Pvt. Bob Milan of Chicago said.

"Tell them to keep producing war materials at top speed and get them to the men at the front. Don't say anything that will help them. Brother, they've got ears."

Milan said he and Corp. Bruce Richardson of Hot Springs, Ark., were hurled 30 feet by one bomb explosion when Japs raided the Aleutian area several weeks ago.

AAF Learns Art of Camouflage

AT FORT BELVOIR, VA., where the engineer board is training officers from all over the country in the gentle art of making things look like what they ain't, much knowledge is crammed into a two-week's course.

Three busloads of officers, ranging from second lieutenants to lieutenant colonels under the direction of two first lieutenants, set out each morning to a special sector three miles from the post. In a field of about five acres are Curtiss P-40 pursuits staked down amid a group of pines. No airplane, one concludes, could land in such rough terrain. However, these planes are carefully constructed dummies, made of plywood.

These "mock-ups" serve to misdirect the enemy while the real planes, hidden a short distance away, are camouflaged and safe.

One of the lieutenants says: "Captain Blank will take ten men with strong shoulders, pick a likely spot and get going. You'll find ample supplies over there—tools, brushhooks, pickaxes. Pull your plane to your spot, find drapes, and try to conceal it."

Officers, lieutenants and lieutenant colonels alike grab the 300-pound dummy plane and carefully haul it to the appointed spot. Chips fly, stumps are razed and the ground smoothed out. In no time at all the space is cleared. The plane is pulled into position, and the officers swarm over the ship like the Lilliputians over Gulliver.

When the job is done the students return to their instructor to report. He criticizes the job from every angle. They do the job over and over again until it is done right.

The following series of pictures show you the camoufleurs at work.

Student officers from all parts of the country plot positions for camouflag and emergency fields on a relief map.

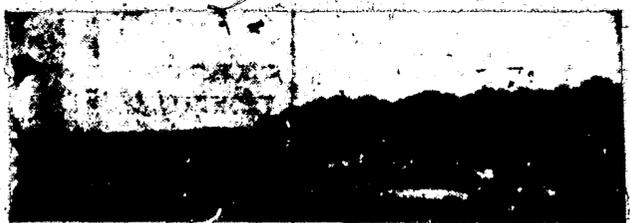

Students study land turtles, one of nature's best examples of camouflage.

Officers cover the plane with trees after hauling it to a wooded area.

A green netting is placed over the plane which blends with landscape.

These dummy planes look like the real thing from ground or air.

Rationing Chief Lauds Public for Cooperation

Most 'Kicks' Come From Pressure Groups, OPA Administrator Points Out.

By Leon Henderson
Administrator of the OPA

(Because the present rationing program is of paramount interest to every person, this paper presents an exclusive article written for members of the Western Newspaper Union by Leon Henderson, price control administrator. The views expressed are those of Mr. Henderson.)

There are still a lot of rough spots in rationing, but we know we're on the right track because most of the kicks we're getting are coming from the pressure groups, and comparatively few from the public.

And as more and more rationing becomes necessary, we're going to make more mistakes. But we're going to find them out, and cure them one at a time because that's the way progress is made.

While rationing on the modern scale is unprecedented, rationing itself is nothing new to Americans. As a matter of fact, it's older than our government itself because the Pilgrims used it at Plymouth Rock to weather the hardships of days of scarcity. Washington, of course, was the nation's first rationing administrator. Indomitable courage, and rationing, brought his men through Valley Forge. Rationing played a great part in the settling of the West because many of those hardy pioneers would never have made it across the desert if they hadn't pooled all their supplies and shared alike.

Fight for Life Itself.

Now that our nation faces a fight for life itself, we're using this valuable tool to insure the necessities of life to every American so that we can all pitch in on the one big job of winning the war. That's what rationing really amounts to. The public, I believe, is realizing that rationing is a protective measure for the individual and the country instead of an unnecessary restrictive device, and they are supporting it, by and large, as they are supporting our other necessary war measures. Most of the criticisms that come to us from the public are from people who really don't understand the purposes of rationing programs and why they are necessary, or those who have been misled by selfish interests seeking to destroy rationing, into the belief that it is not necessary, or that it is being done simply to make our people aware of the seriousness of the war.

Six Commodities Rationed.

In the first eight months of war for our country, we have had to ration six commodities: sugar, tires, autos, typewriters, bicycles, and in the East, gasoline.

Very briefly, here are the reasons:

We can't ship enough sugar into the United States to give everyone all he wants of it; therefore, we ration sugar so everyone can have a fair share.

Our principal source of rubber is cut off; we can't make enough tires for everyone; therefore, we ration tires to serve our country's most vital needs.

We need our auto factories for war production. No more autos. So we ration what autos we have on hand to serve the country's greatest needs.

We need all the typewriter factories for manufacture of shells, gun parts and other war supplies. Typewriter production stops, so we ration the typewriters we have on hand to meet our most essential needs.

We need the castals and rubber that go into bicycles, for war production. No more bicycles. So we ration the bicycles we have left to those who really need them.

In the East, we can't get enough gasoline because we haven't enough tankers or other facilities to transport all it takes to run all cars as usual without hampering our war effort. So we ration gasoline to give every essential user enough for his actual needs.

Each Problem a New One.

While the underlying purposes of these rationing programs can be stated that simply, the working out of the machinery to make them effective and fair to our 130 million people is quite another matter. Even if we had the benefit of long experience in such work, the launching of a new rationing program would still be a man-sized job. But to work out rationing systems for

Constructive Criticism Invited

The public has been wonderfully patient because most people know how difficult such a job must be. The constructive criticism of the large numbers of persons who have written to us, and of the loyal newspapers of the country have been a great aid in helping us plan soundly. We eagerly invite such constructive criticism.—Henderson.

130 million people is something new under the sun. Never before in history has it been done. Every problem that arises is a new problem. We can't call in the experts, because there are no experts. We have to work it out on what seems to be the soundest possible basis, and when we find we're wrong, and our plans don't work, we have to go back and change them. We're learning as we go.

But we have been beset on the other hand by another kind of criticism that has not been helpful. Our rationing programs have been subjected to criticisms and attacks from selfish and selfish interests whose sole purpose was to destroy public confidence in rationing; to wreck the system.

These enemy attacks were designed to hamper our war effort by spreading confusion and disaffection on the home front as one phase of the Axis propaganda activities in the United States. This of course emanated from the offices of the former Bund members and other enemy agents and is dealt with whenever the FBI breaks up the work of spies and saboteurs.

Downright Selfishness.

But the other is the result of downright selfishness as opposed to the higher interests of our war effort. There have been some—and fortunately the number is small considering the size of our country—who have sought to wreck our rationing programs because their own personal profits from the sale of the rationed commodities were reduced. They have sought to do this by citing misleading figures in attempts to prove that shortages do not exist in the rationed commodity in which they hold an interest, and that rationing therefore should be discarded.

OPA Administrator

LEON HENDERSON
"Never before in history has it been done..."

These people, whether they realize it or not, are committing an unpatriotic act. They are putting their dollar profits ahead of their country's interests, and are trying to bargain their hopes for future freedom for the quick financial gain that would come from frantic hoarding by a panic-stricken people.

It is not sufficient for good Americans simply to ignore the attacks made by these selfish interests. We should all be vocal in our denunciation of such propaganda and demand that every person making such unwarranted statements designed to wreck our rationing programs, back those statements with facts to prove them.

End False Rumor.

This does not mean that American citizens should be denied the right to express their opinions on rationing, or any other subject. I am simply asking that Americans who know the importance of assuring fair, orderly distribution of commodities that become scarce during our war effort, place every selfish critic of rationing in the position of having to prove everything he says. We can thus bring to an end much of the false rumor and insidious propaganda that has beset our efforts to do a necessary job.

Paint Scarcity Looms, Home Economist Gives Hints on Its Best Use

College Station, Texas.—Before long, points of many types are going to become scarce.

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the A. and M. college extension service, says shortages will be felt especially in paints, varnishes, and enamels for interiors. The reason is, these require natural or synthetic resins.

For some time synthetic resins have been earmarked for exclusive war use, and lately the War Production board has ordered a 50 per cent cut in the amount of natural resins manufactured for civilian purposes.

Here are some of the specialist's suggestions for choosing and using interior paints to the best advantage. Semi-gloss paint, which washes well and is not too harsh in appearance, is suitable for kitchens and bathrooms.

Flat paint gives a "soft" appearance and is best for large areas such as walls and ceilings. It dries less quickly than gloss paint, but it will not stand up so well under washing.

Calcimine is the cheapest wall paint available. Though it cannot be cleaned, it can be washed off entirely and a new coat applied.

The specialist cautions:

"Don't use calcimine on smooth woodwork or on walls which have been covered with oil paint." The coating eventually will chip off and make later re-painting far harder.

Enamel should be used only on very smooth surfaces, for it makes holes, chips, and scars more noticeable.

Homemakers who want to avoid the trouble of sandpapering and planing uneven surfaces, should use a gloss or semi-gloss paint instead of enamel.

With other specialties looming, homemakers have been requested by many universities' extension specialists and government officials to file clippings which describe how such material can be efficiently used.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

All wild meat should be soaked clean of blood. An onion roasted with the meat improves the flavor.

Knitted garments should be laid flat to dry, shaped to the outline drawn before the garment was washed.

Don't twist, bend or tie the so-called cord attached to your electric iron. It is not a cord, but two bundles of wires.

Put a small piece of hard soap in the sewing basket to rub over yarn or thread so it can be put through the eye of a needle with less difficulty.

Peroxide will remove perfume stains from linen bureau scarf. Keep a blotting pad under scarf to protect dressing table or bureau top when perfume is spilled on it.

To prevent pitting and discoloration, food should not be left in aluminum ware any longer than is necessary.

Three sprigs of parsley, one bay leaf, six whole cloves and a bit of thyme tied loosely together in a cheesecloth make an aromatic spice bag for cooking with soups and stews.

Wash beans before soaking. Then they can be popped or baked in the water in which they were soaked, with a small onion added.

NUTRITIONIST TELLS HOW TO GET BOUYANT HEALTH

Urbana, Ill.—Folks can't help but know when they possess that much sought after prize—buoyant health, according to Mrs. Nettie Esselbaugh, home economist, nutritionist, University of Illinois.

The fact is they feel wonderful. They feel capable of tackling most any job. They're pleasantly tired at the end of a full day but have a satisfied, happy feeling of having done a job well.

And they're all set to begin again the next morning.

There's no tired, dragged-out feeling, no languid appetite, headache, nervousness, irritability, constipation and other annoying ailments which can be traced back to the fact that they are not getting the right food in the right amounts.

Many ailments are so common and generally accepted by everybody that it never occurs to some folks that they can help themselves to health by eating more of the vital "protective" foods, rich in vitamins, minerals and proteins, the nutritionist suggested. These liabilities usually do not receive the attention of the doctor, but quietly undermine health and stamina.

Health of the teeth, sharpness of eyesight, mental alertness, bone formation and maintenance, as well as digestive disorders, are influenced by what people choose to eat—or rather not to eat.

Santa Fe, Aug. 21.—Brig. Gen. Charlton, State Director of Selective Service, issued a warning that appeals from classification under the Selective Service Act must be filed within 10 days after receipt of notice of classification or reclassification.

"But in all cases the appeal must be made within the 10-day period following classification or reclassification," Brig. Gen. Charlton said.

Many other pieces of worthwhile legislation. Never sponsored a bill that was declared unconstitutional.

I WILL

Co-operate with all members of Congress and all government officials who are sponsoring any legislation, that becomes necessary to our war efforts for an all out victory, as I fully realize our price for success must be paid by the life and blood of our heroes, as well as billions of dollars from tax payers.

I have always tried to be fair to organized labor and hope to continue in that spirit. But, since the labor racketeers are apparently dictating to labor, causing strikes and unrest, loss of millions of man hours so necessary to production, I am in favor of any rigid anti-strike legislation necessary to keep our factories going 100 percent capacity. And, if we are to favor any group of people, with a blanket raise of 15 percent on account of increased living cost, let's favor all our population of 130,000,000 people who are all entitled to the same consideration.

Ranchers and farmers have been called upon to produce more beef, mutton and pork. They are doing their best although prices on this commodity are frozen. Merchants prices are frozen; so let's go one step farther and freeze wages, profits, and all kinds of commodities for the duration. This is no time for a favored few.

Our boys on the firing line and those in camps preparing, are giving all their service. Let us give ours and outlaw all strikes.

I FAVOR

2. I will favor any pension plan, that will give our aged and dependent, security for all-time.
3. I will favor legislation to protect interest of agriculture and livestock.
4. I will work for the development of our state, protection of our water rights, improvement of our irrigation system, and our grazing land, now owned by the Federal government.
