Capitan Woman's Club

The Capitan Woman's club had a Traveling Supper, Tuesday evening, August 15th, for the purpose of raising money for another war bond; it was what we term a "howling success."

A crowd of sixty-seven gathered at the "gate of Mexico" (Buena Vista hotel) at 6:30 where they were met by Spanish señoritas who served them cocktails. From there they hopped over to Hawaii (the Hunt Hobbs home) where two beautiful Hawaiian girls in native costume—grass skirts and bare feet—decorated the women with flowers for their hair and the men with leis around their necks. A delicious pineapple salad was served to all, under a gorgeous Hawaiian moon. The two Shaw sisters toured with the crowd and sang appropriate songs for each country visited, playing accompaniments on the guitar.

The next stop was the good old U. S. A. where the main course was served. Here they were entertained by Maude Ellen McCouch, with piano numbers of popular American songs.

The last stop was Brazil, (the Walter Hackleman lawn) where all were served with most delicious individual lemon pie and coffee. Here they were entertained again by the Shaw sisters, and readings by Mrs. C. P. Reynolds, special number by the Hawaiian girls in a Hula Hula dance, danced to the singing of Mr. Funk; then two musical numbers by Bob Hobbs. The delightful evening of entertainment ended with the group singing "God Bless America" and "America."

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

Through a two-hour hail of shells and grenades on the Anzio beachhead, 20-year-old Pfc. Alton W. Knappenberger, Springfield, Pa., fought from an isolated knoll, disrupting a German counterattack. With his last ammunition taken from the body of a casualty he fought his way back to his Company. Buy War Bonds today for victory.

ELECTIONS DECIDED BY

A cynical commentator once declared that American elections were decided by the voters who stayed at home.

We know that party success in some recent contests was jeopardized by the neglect of citizens to come to the polls. When only a quarter of the voters exercise their rights—as was the case in a northern by-election—it is obvious that the full will of a majority of our people is not ascertained. In the particular instance noted, the Democratic Party was successful, but by so small a majority as gave the opposition opportunity to hail it as evidence of lukewarmness—or even hostility—to the party in power, when actually it was merely that thousands of our people in that district, being confident of victory, failed to take the trouble to vote.

This year we have an election of perhaps greater importance than any that has been held. Everywhere there are apparent evidences that the minority party is making the most elaborate and intensive campaign of which it is capable. The group eager for a return of the period of privilege is pouring out money in unexampled measure; it is perfecting its organizations, filling its newspapers with reckless assaults on the Democratic administration, having its orators proclaim the wickedness of bureaucrats whom they fail to identify, perhaps because so many of the bureaucrats are Republicans, assuming that by the term they mean the big figures drafted from the business world to fill the executive chiefships of the various war production units.

Cattle Growers Assn. Executive Board Meet.

Special to the Lincoln County News—Albuquerque, N. Mex., August 10, 1944.—The Third Quarterly Executive Board Meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association will be held at Albuquerque on September 25, with a brief preliminary meeting the evening of Sunday 21st at the Hilton Hotel, E. G. Hayward, Chairman, President, announced today.

As this meeting will come at the time of the New Mexico State Fair, it is expected that nearly five hundred ranchers representing all parts of New Mexico will be in attendance, Hayward said. The Association membership now totals nearly 3000 members, and is the most representative state livestock organization in the west.

In addition to the meeting of the State Cattle Growers Association, many other livestock groups will meet in Albuquerque during the Fair week, Hayward announced. These include the Albuquerque Production Credit Association, the New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board, the National Livestock Loan Corporation of Oklahoma City, the Sheep Sanitary Board and the New Mexico Hereford Breeders Association.

Many problems of grave concern will be before the livestock industry of New Mexico at the time of the September meeting. These include namely the heavy cattle shipping season in September, October and November and the prospects and outlook for supplemental livestock feed for the ensuing winter months, Hayward said.

VOTERS WHO STAY AT HOME

No charge is too monstrous for these propagandists to formulate. Recently a Republican lady orator informed her audience gravely that President Roosevelt could have ended the war in 1943. She gave no details but the implication was that our Commander-in-Chief was deliberately prolonging the horrific struggle to serve political purposes. The effects of such statements are, of course, negligible, but they illustrate the fervor and intensity of the minority party effort.

This answer must be demonstration at the polls by the Democrats. That applies as well to the primaries as to the main event. No citizen can pretend a decent interest in the affairs of this country, or in winning the war as speedily as it can be won, who fails to register and vote.

It is no excuse for a man or woman to think or feel that the victory is assured and that therefore an individual vote is unimportant. The peril imposed by even a remote possibility that the Government might be turned over to an unpracticed, inexperienced group is too vast to justify taking any chances. Not only are the immediate responsibilities of waging the war involved, but ahead lies the peace arrangements on which may depend whether we are going to have a world secure against the onslaught of another Hitler or risk another futile twenty-year truce which will compel the next generation to again fight a desperate war to maintain civilization.

Report Issued By Bureau of Mines

Socorro, Aug. 10.—Two new reports on aspects of New Mexico's mineral wealth have just been issued by the State Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources. It was announced today by John M. Kelly, Bureau director. Bulletin 19, "Manganiferous Iron-ore Deposits near Silver City, New Mexico," is by Lawson P. Entwistle, geologist with the American Smelting and Refining Company. The report describes the location, extent and future possibilities of the Iron-ore deposits near Silver City and Chloride Flat mining districts, which since 1900 have produced more than 700,000 tons of manganese-iron ore and 150,000 tons of silver ore. The report contains photographs, cross sections, mine plans and a geologic map in color.

Bulletin 20, "Stratigraphy of the Colorado Group, Upper Cretaceous, in Northern New Mexico," is by Charles H. Rankin, geologist for the Great Lakes Carbon Corporation. It describes a large part of the rocks present in the northern part of the State, and indicates how these rocks may be recognized at widely separated localities. The report will be of value to the many oil and gas operators who are showing increasing interest in the petroleum possibilities of the region.

HAVE A BOARD FOOT ON THE FOREST SERVICE

When given away, the timber must be used by the person who secured it. More than 6,000 New Mexico residents secured 11,922,000 board feet of timber valued at $17,116, free of charge from the state's national forests last year. The regional office of the Forest Service announced today. The timber was given to settlers, miners, prospectors, and other residents in or near the national forests for domestic uses, such as firewood, fence posts, corals, and bridges, permit for it. The amount of timber granted under this procedure is limited to $20 per person per year.

W. I. Smith

Mr. William Lee Smith passed away in the Turner hospital yesterday morning at a very early hour after a lingering illness.

Mr. Smith was a railroad man until he retired several years ago. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Horace Smith of White Oaks and Leo Smith who is overseas in government work.

Funeral arrangements are pending, awaiting a message from their son Leo.

Show for Bride

Several of the younger matrons joined hands Saturday night and were hostesses at a lovely party and shower, at the Community Center building honoring Mrs. John Hein nee Agnes Deguer, a recent bride.

This party was an exception to the usual party of this kind, as the men were invited also and while very much in the minority, they brought some really lovely gifts.

Dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Refreshments were doughnuts and fruit punch.

Killed In Action

It is with deepest regret that we record the death of Pfc. Joe Beltran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fortino Beltran. Last week we reported that he was missing in action, but this week the War Department notified his parents of his death which occurred in the Normandy Area. He was a promising young man, and his death in the line of duty, fighting for his country, makes the sad news no less a blow to his family and friends.

AMARILLO ARMY AIR FIELD, Amarillo, Texas. Pvt. Tom J. Burleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Burleson, Fort Stanton New Mexico, has completed his courses in basic training for Army Air Forces soldiers at the basic training center at Amarillo Army Air Field.

His completion of basic training qualifies him for further Air Force training in technical specialists schools or for assignment to AAF installations or organizations for duty.

His instructions as a trainee at this basic training center included thorough courses in close order and extended order drill, defense against air and chemical warfare attacks, camouflage, military discipline and courtesy, first aid, marksmanship, marches and bivouacs, aircraft identification, orientation, and many other basic military subjects.

Before entering the service he was employed as a truck driver at Fort Stanton.

Jobie McPherson who joined the Navy last April came home on leave last week, but developed pneumonia and was taken to the Roswell Air Base hospital. On account of his serious illness his furlough has been extended.

BANKS AND THE WAR

ALWAYS IN MESH

Why is a bank that is free from government domination and control best for you? Because it is more responsive to your needs, more efficient, more progressive. Some reformers haven't yet learned that free enterprise is the greatest of all ways to service and accomplishment. A free, independent bank is always in mesh with its community. A government-dominated bank is responsive only to the source of domination. For the sake of our country's future let's preserve the American Way of banking.

Vanity Table From Few Odds and Ends

HAVE you a mirror from an old dresser? It doesn't make any difference about the size or shape or how "queer" the frame may be, because you may hang the mirror any old way you want to and cover three sides with curtains to make the adorable frilly vanity shown here.

Two orange crates or a pair of boxes, some odds and ends of lumber, a curtain rod, hooks and a little wire for hanging the mirror; ror; a pair of cup-hooks to hold the curtain tie-backs; a pair of hinges for the arms to which the swing-back skirt is fastened; screws and nails—that is all you need. You probably have it all around the house right now. The sketch gives all the details, and it won't make any difference how crude your carpentry may be. The curtains and skirt will cover a multitude of uneven edges and hammer dents.

NOTE: This dressing table idea is from BOOK 5 of the series of homemaking booklets offered with these articles. This book also shows how the dresser to match the mirror was combined with a fish bowl, an old portiere and a chromo from the attic to make an important piece of furniture for the living room. Copy of BOOK 5 will be mailed for 15 cents. Send your order to:

Few Amendments to Our Constitution Not Ratified

Besides two articles in the original Bill of Rights, only two other proposed amendments to the U. S. Constitution failed because they were not ratified by the necessary number of states.

The first, proposed in 1810, was to bar titles of nobility, while the second, proposed in 1861, was to prohibit interference with slavery.

The pending Child Labor amendment has been ratified by only 28 of the required 36 states since it was proposed 20 years ago.

Stripes in Versatile Mood Come To Enliven Midsummer Scene

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HERE IT is well-nigh midseason, that time betwixt and between when fall clothes look too advanced and summer clothes somehow do not seem to be quite in tune with the shifting scene. What to do?

Here's where fashion steps right to the front with a wardrobe rejuvenator that animates the style picture like magic. Told in a single word, it's stripes! It's a wonderful way-of-their-own that striped fabrics have of "stealing the show" when it comes to striking effects. They have a refreshing sprightliness about them that looks just right, in season and out of season. The big news about stripes is that they bid fair to hold their popularity and importance in the mode right through the coming fall and winter season.

You may expect to see stripes wherever you go during the months ahead, for not only do fashions for immediate wear exploit them in simple casual frocks, skirts and blouses, but stripes are playing a stellar role in way of luxury blouses and versatile accessories that will dramatize gala costumes, such as midday will be wearing during the forthcoming social season.

There's certainly high-fashion news in stripes, but if perchance you happen to be one who "has to be shown" the group illustration will bring you proof positive of their importance on the current style program. That attractive little frock to the left, which makes sophisticated simplicity its theme is a "darling" one-piece, made of white crepe striped in the newly featured wine shade, a color you will hear more about when the fall season sets in. With its clean-looking stripes and the cool look and the feel of its modish lowcut, squared and banded neck, this dainty practical frock is just "it" for immediate wear. A self belt ties in a bow over the full length fly front, closing with another bow at the front of the neck.

The cool-looking green and white

two-piece frock centered above in the group achieves a striped effect in green and white for the skirt. The matching green crepe jacket, fastened only at the waist, is embroidered with a white scroll motif.

For immediate wear clinging, cooling striped jersey is considered a fabric ideal. See this beloved jersey made up in a stunning dress, posed in the foreground to the left. Be assured that there's high style news told in this distinctively smart jersey spectator sports dress, which comes from Chicago Fashion Industries. The fact that both broad and narrow stripes contrasting navy and white are used in the styling of this gown adds greatly to its interest. The high round neck, the unique contrast of the yoke-like treatment and the brief sleeves, achieve a most intriguing effect.

Advance style collections stress important-looking restaurant suits and regal dinner gowns that tell the news of luxury-striped materials such as handsome rayon satin done in striking color contrast, used for bodice tops and the very new peplum blouses, worn either with street-length skirts or long slim formal types. The new deluxe stripes that occur in satins and crepes boldly contrast black with white or black with shocking pink or with aqua, blue or lime and many equally lovely color duets. There are also some exquisite stripes done in white and pastel colorings. The vogue for stripes has inspired the striking evening gown shown in the oval inset. Here you see a bodice top of aqua and black regency striped rayon satin with skirt of mossy rayon crepe, the smoothly fitted midrib section accented with a cummerbund of jet black rayon satin.

Batiste Dance Frock

Bewitching and beautiful is this pretty feminine party frock. It has that quaint loveliness about it which finest sheer batiste lavished with ribbons and lace always gives. This idea of sheerest lingerie cotton as fine as looms can possibly produce, for blouse or bodice tops to long sheer black evening skirts, is responsible for some of the most delectable party dresses brought out this year. Here the eyelet embroidered blouse reveals a perfect portrait of a slender line. The full black souffe skirt swishes fascinatingly when dancing.

'Weskit Dress' Makes Its Debut This Fall

A new type of dress is making its debut this fall, known in fashion parlance as the "weskit" dress. Which is to say that a weskit effect takes the place of the usual blouse. These trim little outfits top a narrow skirt with a neat fitting vest-like blouse that buttons up the front with pointed effect at the front hemline. This type is especially smart in fancy check or stripe wool and is especially good-looking made up with contrast sleeves. There is opportunity given in this weskit-and-skirt fashion for endless color contrasts. The weskit top may be of check, the skirt of monotone matched to the sleeves. The weskit, if sleeveless, buttons over a dainty lingerie blouse to advantage, the sheer crisp sleeves giving refreshing accent to the suit. There is no doubt but what the weskit dress will prove one of the big fashion successes of the fall season and for that matter it is ideal for present wear.

Peplum Dickey Transforms A Simple Frock in a Jiffy

If you ask at the neckwear counter to see a new-style peplum dickey, you will be shown lovely lacy types designed to wear over one's dress, belted in at the waistline just above a pert peplum flare of lace and net or any white sheer that is prettily lace-trimmed. The career girl will love this peplum novelty for after office hours, when she can fasten the dickey in place in a jiffy. These dickeys have a way of transforming the simplest frock into a dressy afternoon gown.

Cottager Decided He'd Be True to His Troth

The carpet sweeper salesman came upon a remote cottage, at the door of which stood an extremely rough-looking man. When he began his usual line of sales talk, the cottager interrupted him. "Don't waste your breath," he said; "I've got a carpet sweeper already." "Good! Then I can make you a splendid allowance for your old sweeper in part payment for this splendid new model." The cottager thought for a few moments; then he said: "No, I won't do a deal. After all, I took 'er for better or wuss, didn't I?"

Heart's Power

The average human heart weighs only 2 1/2 pounds, but in 12 hours it generates enough energy to lift a 63-ton weight one foot off the ground, scientists say.

Mediterranean Sea, Known As Being Tideless, Is Not. The Mediterranean is often known as the tideless sea, and it is true that in its western half tides are only a matter of a few inches. But farther east tides are obvious enough.

At Leghorn, on the Italian coast, there is a foot of tide; at Venice (Adriatic) there is as much as three feet. The strange thing is that in the Gulf of Syrta, on the Tunisian coast, quite large tides occur. The rise and fall amounts to six and a half feet, while on the shores of the island of Djerba, off Tunisia, there is actually a difference of nearly ten feet between high and low water.

Actually, the Baltic is far more tideless than the Mediterranean. Though it is 900 miles long and from 45 to 145 miles wide, there is nowhere a tide of much more than a foot.

The whirlpools of Scylla and Charybdis, in the Straits of Messina, which were so dreaded by the ancients, still exist, and are deep eddies dangerous to small boats but not to modern ships.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS

Here's a tip to facilitate mending large holes in sweaters. Place a piece of netting under the hole, then darn with matching wool. The netting serves as backing and makes a better darning job possible.

Hang a good-sized bag in the sewing room to receive scraps from sewing to be used for weekly mending.

Try keeping the peanut butter jar upside down on the pantry shelves between trips to the table. The alternate turning it receives this way helps keep the oil distributed through the entire jar.

When making feather mattresses and pillow ticks, dampen a bar of laundry soap and rub all over the inside of the ticking. This prevents the feathers from working out through the cover fabric.

Roads and Cities Were Built by Salt and Incense

Salt and incense were the chief economic and religious necessities of the ancient world, and most of its great commercial routes were established because of them. One of the oldest roads in Italy is the "Via Salaria." The salt route from Greece to the mouth of the Dnieper led to the same salt pans that supply the Far East today in normal times.

It can be said that London was built by salt, for the first settlement on the banks of the Thames owed its origin to the fact that there rested the pack-trains carrying salt from Cheshire en route to the shores of the channel for export to Gaul.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Millions of dollars will be saved by American purchasers of rubber tires in post-war days because of the availability of synthetic and the influence its cost will have on the price of natural rubber. Rubber authorities anticipate that hereafter synthetic rubber prices will serve as a culling over charges for the plantation product.

Special rubber pipe lines have been developed which troops tampering across rivers, ravines or gullies in battle areas to deliver fuel to motor equipment. The "pipes" yield to the force of concussion, but never break.

"80.6% of sufferers showed CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT after only 10-day treatment with SORETONE"

Power D. Sapell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined in two ways: 1. Scrapings were taken from the feet and examined by the bacteriologist. 2. Each subject was examined by a physician. We quote from the report: "After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control." Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says: "In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot'."

So if Athlete's Foot troubles you, don't postpone with this easy, certain, unobtrusive infection. Get Soretone McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.

The first crop of beans produced by members of the 4-H Victory Garden Club at Ruidoso was gathered last week. The P.T.A. is supervising the canning of the products grown, which will be used in the school lunch program.

The 4-H community garden is late due to a mid-summer hail; however, it is anticipated that there will be a good late crop of beans, turnips, and beets.

Under the G. I. Bill of Rights a war veteran whose education was interrupted by the war and who had at least 90 days of service is entitled to a year in college. He may become eligible for further education up to a total equal to his years in service; but, not more than four calendar years.

A war veteran will receive $50 per month for living expenses if he has no dependents; $75 per month if he has dependents. All cost of instruction and supplies will be paid by the Veterans Administration.

It took more than seven years research to gather the data for a recent bulletin compiled by W. E. Watkins, Nutrition Chemist, of the Experiment Station, of the New Mexico A & M College. The bulletin entitled "Composition of Range Grasses and Browse in Varying States of Maturity" should be of especial interest to stockmen. It contains analysis of the protein, phosphorus, and calcium content of 14 different species of range grasses and browse common to New Mexico ranges. There is also a discussion of carotene values of black grama and meadow drop seed grasses over a five year period.

Stockmen can get tips on supplemental mineral feeding by studying the results of Mr. Watkin's work. Any interested in this bulletin can get a copy by writing or calling at the office.

Only beef now rationed is steaks and roasts from commercial grade, and choice grades. All other beef is ration-free after a WFA food amendment removed all utility beef from rationing on August 18. Pork hams and foins went back on ration list on that date.

Farmers who need 300 board feet or less of lumber may now obtain the lumber directly at the lumber yard by signing an application supplied by the dealer. Any farmer who needs more than 300 board feet of lumber should apply to the county AAA Committee for a certificate.

FARM NEWS BRIEFS

Used garden tractors and tractor-mounted and semi-mounted "power take-off" mowers have been added to the list of used farm equipment subject to ceiling prices.

The volume of farm real estate sales during the 12 months ending in March was about a fifth higher than that of the previous year and the highest on record, surpassing the previous peak reached in 1919 by almost 10 per cent.

The issuance of special rations of gasoline for traveling to victory gardens will be discontinued after August 15.

HO HUM, ANOTHER RECORD

American farmers and ranchmen, who have a way of making "miracles" the rule, are apparently heading toward their eighth straight year of record-breaking food production. Analysts of the USDA, who do a mean job of prognosticating, estimate that the 1944 food production will be 38 per cent above the 1935-39 pre-war average, which the 1943 record production exceeded by 32 per cent.

FEED SITUATION LOOKS UP

Crop prospects and stocks on hand indicate that the 1944-45 supply of corn, oats, barley, and grain sorghums may total about 125,000,000 tons.

The USDA estimates that this would mean about a nine per cent larger supply of feed grains per animal unit during the 12 months beginning October 1 than was available during the 1943-44 feeding year.

HOW THOSE SUPPLIES OF GRAIN DO SHRINK

Stocks of grain on July 1 showed 49 per cent less wheat than July 1 of last, 28 per cent less corn, 20 per cent less oats, 37 per cent less barley, and 34 per cent less rye. Grains stored on and off the farms of the nation included 31,368,000 bushels of wheat, 606,895,000 bushels of corn, 210, 123,000 bushels of oats, 76,108,000 bushels of barley, and 31,033,000 bushels of rye.

FARMERS CAN GET MORE FERTILIZER

American farmers can have a record supply of fertilizer during the next twelve months, provided that at least 4,500,000 tons are delivered between now and December 31. This would be a million more tons than were delivered during the same period last year.

Milk Cans off List

Milk cans are off the ration list; but before a farmer can use milk cans for other purposes than handling milk or milk products, he must have the authorization of WFA's office of materials and facilities. Control has also been eliminated over manufacturers' distribution of all milk cans except those having a capacity of 20, 32, and 40 quarts.

CIVIL AIR PATROL

An enthusiastic interest in the Civil Air Patrol program in New Mexico was shown by Governor Dempsey yesterday as he pledged complete co-operation to a group of CAP leaders headed by Lt. Col. James L. Breese, commander of the New Mexico Wing.

The governor expressed his appreciation of the CAP's usefulness as an auxiliary of the Army air forces, its work on missions of an emergency nature in New Mexico, and its cadet training program, CAP officials said, and sent to the 800 members and cadets, his congratulations.

Search missions for the Army air force undertaken by the New Mexico CAP were described to the governor by Capt. Lewis W. Graham, Albuquerque, who mentioned also the wing's most recent assigned of searching for eight paratroopers. Present and future airport construction was outlined by Capt. Henry R. Lanman, who gave details of the several airports needed in the state in a Kelly added details to the description of the CAP program.

The governor expressed his desire to the group, which also included Elsbeth E. Freudenthal, publicity director of the CAP.

In addition to active military missions such as searches for lost Army air force planes and target-towing, CAP has been assigned the job of enlisting in 1944, throughout the nation, 250,000 CAP cadets between the ages of 15 and 18, Breese explained. Plans for the New Mexico wing call for enrolling of 1,100 cadets in all. Examination headquarters for the Santa Fe unit are at the Post Office building, Room 219.

The Civil Air Patrol is contemplating a substantial expansion program and New Mexico is asked to enroll 1,100 young people of from 15 to 18 years of age prior to December 31, 1944, and give them training in pre-flight and military subjects to include a meteorology, navigation, drill, Morse code, aircraft mechanics, and physical fitness. This program is undertaken at the request of the Army, of which CAP is an auxiliary, with a view to giving these young people preliminary training which will fit them for work in the Air Corps.

New Ship Every Two Hours

Every two hours the American flag is run up on a mast and a new ship joins the gigantic United States Fleet. According to the Navy, the number of ships it will have afloat in 1945 will be 8,445. The mightiest Armada the world has ever known.—Ships.

"The total strength of our Navy in 1945—65,000,000 horsepower—will be greater than all the power generated by Boulder, Shasta and Coulee dams."

10 Little Octane Numbers that will help end the war sooner!

TODAY'S SUPER-FUEL is 100-Octane, as compared with 90-Octane for pre-war aviation gasoline. This difference of 10 octane numbers is definitely contributing toward hastening the day of victory, because these extra octane numbers represent extra fighting power... extra range and carrying capacity for our big bombers... extra speed for our fighter planes!
In thirty months, U.S. production of 100-Octane Aviation Gasoline has been multiplied ten times. Our facilities for producing this precious, fighting, super-fuel can now deliver 21,000,000 gallons daily. Think of it! This is a greater quantity of aviation gasoline alone than the combined total of all petroleum products available to Axis Europe.
Phillips Petroleum Company, among the first to take 100-Octane gasoline out of the laboratory and into mass production, is now one of the nation's five largest producers of 100-Octane, despite the fact that Phillips operates only in the Middle West. This production achievement suggests how competently and completely Phillips is devoting itself to the war effort, with similar special emphasis on butadiene for synthetic rubber.

Until that great day comes, when you can say "Fill 'er up with Phillips"... and the service man cranks into your tank a new and improved Phillips gasoline... remember that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasoline, lubricants, and fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

New Mexico Gains $370,053 From It's National Forests

Receipts collected from the seven National Forests in New Mexico for the last fiscal year totaled $370,053 22, an increase of about 58 per cent over the previous year, according to a report compiled by Reed H. Jensen, regional fiscal agent of the National Forest Service.

Fees from the grazing of cattle and sheep on forest ranges amounted to $195,685 21. Receipts from the cut timber hit a record of $164,160 11, and $8,700 97 came from lamp rentals. Miscellaneous receipts accounted for the balance of $1,197.98.

The Santa Fe National Forest led with total receipts of $61,306.87. The Gila second with $70,104.12.

Twenty five per cent will be returned to the state and be divided among the counties in which there are national forests. This money will go into the school funds. An additional ten per cent is returned to the Forest Service for the construction and maintenance of forest roads and trails within the national forests.

Ration Eased On Farm Machinery

When the 1945 farm machinery rationing went into effect last week, a dozen items went off the rationing list of farm equipment: corn and cotton planters, row-type sprayers, potato graders, stationary balers, field ensilage harvesters, portable elevators, windmills, listers, and listers with planting attachments.

Purchase certificates will be required on 19 rationed items; but there will be no county quotas on grain drills, potato planters, potato diggers, silo fillers, irrigation pumps, power sprayers, garden tractors, well-water systems, power pumps, and farm milk coolers. County quotas will be established on combines, corn binders, corn pickers, manure spreaders, mowers, side-delivery rakes, hay loaders, pick-up balers, and tractors.

The New Wartime style in food

Dan Miles allows he's swimming right in style these days. Dan's always made a point of finishing up whatever food was put before him. "Don't make sense to waste food just to be stylish," he says.

Now out comes an etiquette authority who says it's wartime fashion to take only what you're going to eat—and finish it up clean—because "Food Fights for Freedom."

As Doc Mitchell says, "Most folks eat too much anyway. Man and boy, I've watched this town for years, and 75% of us dig our own graves with our teeth."

From where I sit, this new style in eating may lead to moderation, and moderation has never hurt anybody.

In fact, you find moderation and tolerance go hand in hand... whether it's what you eat or what you think... Or whether one man prefers a moderate glass of beer when you yourself would rather have a soda.

As Doc Mitchell says, "Most folks eat too much anyway. Man and boy, I've watched this town

BUYER MEETS SELLER
IN OUR AD COLUMNS...

HOW AMERICA'S PROGRESS HAS CHANGED ECONOMY EVOLUTION, YES, AND AT A REVOLUTIONARY PACE, accomplished under the American system. All within the period of a lifetime we have seen startling advances in our standard of living, in our work and play hours, in the rates of pay for workers, in our quantity of production and in the variety of our products.

The town plutocrat of less than a lifetime ago, the man who lived in the big house on the hill, owned a horse and buggy. If he were an ultra plutocrat, he employed a driver, who also looked after the stable and did the gardening. The income of that man of wealth was but little more than $2,000 a year. In 1870 you could go a long way on $2,000.

In those years the average family income was under $400 a year. The section man on the railroad worked ten hours a day at a wage rate of nine cents an hour. The railroad brakeman could make as much as $40 a month. Conductors and engineers, then as now, the best paid workers, could make, by working long hours, from $60 to $70 a month. Good pay for printers in those days was from 15 to 20 cents an hour, though an hourly rate was seldom heard of, and from $10 to $15 a week of from 60 to 72 hours. All other workers were paid on much the same basis.

In those days of but a few years ago, much of the grain was harvested with a scythe, with another man following to bind it into sheaves. Ten acres of wheat was considered a fair sized field for any one farm on which a harvesting machine had not been installed.

Today the man who lives in the big house drives one or several automobiles and employs a chauffeur. His income has doubled and trebled and more. Today the family whose income is less than $1,500 to $2,000 is considered as poverty stricken. The section man on the railroad receives from $3 to $4 for each day of eight hours. The railroad brakeman draws a hundred or more dollars each month with many less working hours. Conductors and engineers receive as high as $250 a month and more. Printers in even the smaller cities receiving less than $40 a week for 48 hours of work are the exception.

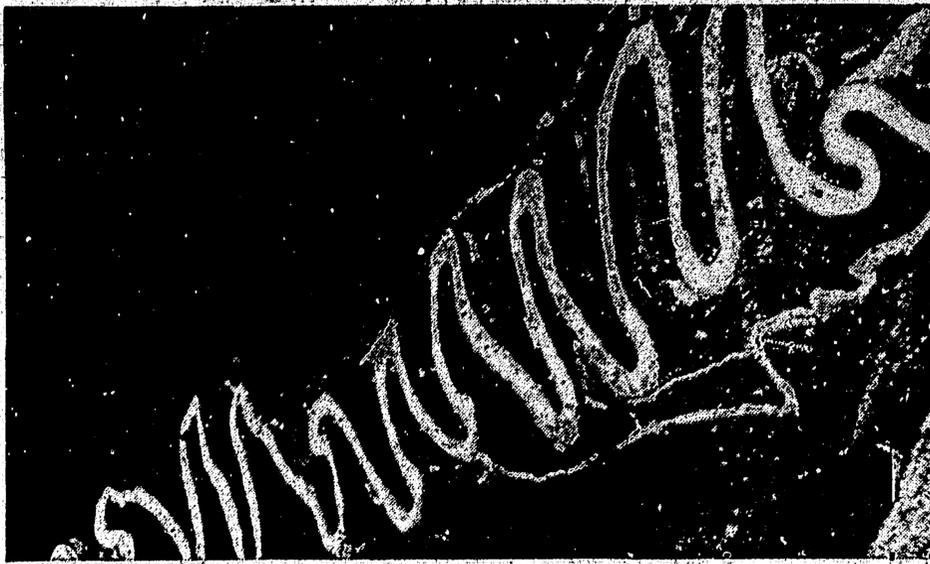

With the introduction of machinery the number of workers increased rather than decreased. There are far more working printers now than before the introduction of typesetting machines. Several times as many men were making automobiles before the war as were employed building carriages and wagons. The ten acres of wheat have increased to 40, 50 and 100 and more. Yes, it has been evolution accomplished in an orderly way, without making America over, at a revolutionary pace but not by revolution. Can our Washington theorists promise equal results under any form of planned economy or state socialism during the period of another lifetime?

CONGRESS AND STATES
Collectively our 48 states constitute a great and powerful nation that can, and largely does, dominate the world. Separate them into 48 small nations and no one of them would be of any special consequence. Congress, members of the senate and house, are sent to Washington to legislate for 48 states, to represent a nation. Should congress consider the wishes or needs of individual states as paramount to interests of the nation we would soon pass as a dominant world power, and become but a group of wrangling small nations with advantage to none.

SALARIES HIGH—BEFORE UNCLE SAM GETS HIS
W. S. CARPENTER JR., is president of the Du Pont company. During 1943 the products of that company sold to its customers for a total of $385,481,521.00. It is one of the really big American corporations. To the president who directs its activities, the production and sale of its products, the company pays a salary, and no other compensation, of $150,000 a year. After Mr. Carpenter had paid his Federal income tax he had left of his salary all of $36,493, out of which he still had to pay local and state taxes. Big salaries are big only before the government takes its share.

A GRANDDAUGHTER, BEFORE SHE WAS 18 YEARS OF AGE, had a commercial pilot's license and was flying commercial planes. Before she was 19 she had a flier's commission in the army and as an army pilot was ferrying the big bombers from factories to air posts, and the public of today, applaud her and her sisters. When her grandmother at the age of 18 accepted a job in an office the people of her home town in Iowa were shocked. A girl's place was in the home. Women have traveled far in the past half century.

Burma Road Remains Important Military Object

This section of the Burma road in China was taken by a signal corps photographer. The China-Burma-India theater of war contains 24 switchbacks as shown in this photograph. Even before America entered the war, engineers from American military and civil life were cooperating with the Chinese in the improvement and development of this highway system. The road is essential to China. It serves as the only line of communication, outside of air, that serves a vast portion of the country. The road has been under air bombardment almost continually since the start of the Chinese-Japanese war.

America's Answer to Nazi—Rocket Projectiles

Rocket Armament of P-47

P-47 Thunderbolt has eight deadly .50-caliber machine guns in addition to the new rocket gun armament. Special training has been given the ground crew as well as members who operate the rocket guns.

America's answer to the Nazi flying bomb has been the further development of the new rocket gun armament on the huge P-47, which not only can do as much damage as the flying-bomb, but actually does many times as much, for the bombs can be accurately placed.

Loading Projectile

Yank shown loading a projectile into the rocket armament of the far wing of the P-47 Thunderbolt. Arrows indicate the rocket projectiles, one on each side of the Thunderbolt. Nazis complain that the new rocket is "unfair" and does not give them sufficient opportunity to get under cover. U. S. army officials report that its effect will be increased.

Clothing Survives Flying Bombs

English families are pictured salvaging some of the clothing and hosiery still intact, after a Nazi flying bomb had wrecked a big outfitter's store in southern England. The goods were said to have been scattered far and wide by the force of the blast. Some 5,000 of these bombs have fallen in England.

ADMIRAL KING SLAPS
Insiders now admit that friction between Secretary of the Navy Forrester and Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Ernie King is just as bad as it was between King and the late Frank Knox—or worse.

Knox and Admiral King rubbed each other raw. King used to go over the head of the secretary of the navy, even overruled him regarding the navy's new gray summer uniform, which Knox—and most navy men—opposed.

When Forrester became secretary of the navy, it was hoped that relations would be harmonious. Last week, however, Admiral King publicly gave his chief an adroit slap-down.

Forrester, Admiral King and fighting Admiral Halsey were holding a joint press conference. The secretary of the navy was asked if he had any comment on the fall of the Tojo cabinet. He replied that navy personnel, including himself, were not supposed to comment on politics.

Whereupon Admiral King interrupted and, almost as if the secretary of the navy were a little boy, corrected him.

"I will comment on that," he announced, despite Forrester's statement that political matters were not for comment by navy personnel. "Obviously, the cabinet would not have fallen unless there was dissatisfaction on the part of military leaders with the conduct of the war. The Japanese can be expected to continue to wage war with all the powers they possess."

Secretary Forrester took the admiral's remarks—interpreted by those present as an indirect slap-down—without saying a word.

VETERAN STRUGGLE

One of the most important behind-the-scenes struggles for postwar power is now being waged between the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Actually, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are in a better position than the Legion to get a head start on recruiting veterans of World War II. The VFW charter from congress permits recruiting men before they are discharged, while the Legion must wait until a man leaves the service before recruiting him.

Fact is the VFW has picked up more than 400,000 new members since Pearl Harbor, while the Legion's gains have been relatively paltry. At the start of the war, the Legion had more than one million members, the VFW only a quarter million. But today the VFW magazine has the largest overseas circulation of any non-governmental publication, is now read by 300,000 men monthly. As a result, VFW is picking up members at the rate of 5,000 a week, while Legion officials fret, plan their own recruiting drive later.

One reason for VFW success has been a policy of tacitly bucking the American Legion on key policy matters. VFW helped paint the Legion as "anti-labor," then turned around and attempted to arrange a deal whereby all CIO and AFL members in the service would join the VFW instead of the Legion when they left the service. More than two million union men are in the service.

However, labor has not fallen for the bait. Instead, trade-union chapters of the American Legion are being rapidly built up to help combat any anti-union feelings of returning servicemen.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars also made "hay" with a speech delivered by national Legion Commander Warren Atherton in the South Pacific area recently. Atherton debunked the idea that men in the front lines fighting the Japs want furloughs home. The VFW immediately took advantage of this statement, set up a terrific howl for overseas furloughs, soon found membership applications pouring in.

SITUATION IN GERMANY

Uncensored military and political dispatches reaching the diplomatic corps reveal that the German army is defeated and that fat Hermann Goering, father of the Luftwaffe, may soon rise as the German "man on horseback" to try to make peace with the Allies.

This dramatic turn of events catches Franklin Roosevelt plotting Pacific strategy while the biggest break of the war is coming 5,000 miles away in Europe. Whether Roosevelt does anything more about it or not, however, you can write it down that Hitler and company are through. It's just a question of how much Germany can salvage before the last shot is fired.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

The Berlin radio beamed to America tried a new propaganda trick the other night. An announcer, introducing a newscaster, said, "The views of this commentator do not necessarily reflect the views of this station."

Army air corps officials say that Jacques Cochran, head of the Wasps, barges into their offices, pounds on their desks, says, "I used to work in a factory, I know what the little people want," then delivers ultimatums about her lady fliers.

They Tried—and Failed

(By John Edgar Hoover, Director Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice.)

Nazis in America have been taking a drubbing like the Nazis facing the Yanks in Normandy, the British at Caen, and the Russians in their victorious sweep through Poland.

The much-vaunted methodical planning and scheming of the Nazis have contributed to their own downfall. They tried, but failed, to swing their Fifth Column into action in America. It suffered setbacks before Pearl Harbor, but its back was broken once we were freed of peace-time restraints.

Since Pearl Harbor, over 15,750 suspected Fifth Columnists have been arrested. The more dangerous were interned, others paroled, and others released when it was certain they would do no harm.

The German High Command admitted the ineffectiveness of their Fifth Column when they dispatched the eight saboteurs to America by submarine two years ago. We have learned that other saboteurs were trained to take their places. But so far they have not put in their appearance.

The Nazi rats must not be underestimated. Try cornering a rat and see how he bares his teeth and strikes back. We can expect the same from the Germans until the last vestige of Nazilism is crushed by our Armed Forces.

America has a perfect score in combatting the experts in doom and destruction. No act of enemy-directed sabotage has yet occurred in the United States.

I am sorry to say that even native-born Americans have tried; I am happy to say that they, too, have failed. One 23-year-old worker in an aircraft plant cut 21 wires in two bombers just to see how the FBI handled a sabotage investigation. He found out.

The "Blunder Bund," which once scoffed at American faith in human nature, was set back when its chief espionage ring was penetrated by the FBI. We built a radio station with their funds, gave them misleading information, sold them fictitious plans, and at the conclusion of the case turned over a profit of $17,000 to the U. S. Treasury to buy bullets to shoot back at the "super race."

Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, convicted leader of the German-American Bund, fled to Mexico. He was tripped up when the alert Mexican military authorities became suspicious after he stacked a 25-foot fishing boat with 200 pounds of food, 450 liters of drinking water, and 50 packages of cigarettes.

Ernst Fritz Lehmitz was caught as the result of some of his newsy letters designed to conceal reports in secret writing on convoy movements. He wrote that his dog was sick, he was busy with a victory garden and as an air raid warden. These jig-saw bits of information were pieced together and after some additional hard work he and his associate, Erwin Harry De Spreiter, were arrested.

Before Pearl Harbor, the Nazi Embassy in Washington had detailed plans to foment strikes and incite domestic strife.

An important Nazi official in this country was discarded by his fiancée when she learned of his scheming against the United States. Another Nazi official offered to pay $500 for documentary proof of the canard and lie that Benjamin Franklin was anti-Semitic. The Germans built up a dollar balance of over $21,000,000 by selling Ruckwunder marks in this country prior to the war to be redeemed in Germany. Practically all the German consulates in the United States were active in promoting the German-American Bund.

Nazi brazenness reached its height when Baron von Spiegel, the German Consul in New Orleans, boasted that the United States would be repaid when the Reich completed its conquest in Europe. A midwest consular attache was greatly embarrassed when he was caught making pictures in a factory area.

The Nazi spy, Heinz August Luning, arrested and executed in Cuba, kept canaries in his room to conceal the noise of his short wave radio transmitter.

Heavily populated prisoner of war camps in the United States hold thousands of frustrated Germans. Occasionally, some try to get away. Sometimes they succeed for a time. But no prisoner has yet been able to get back to Germany, and their periods of freedom generally are limited to a few hours.

DUDE WOMAN

By PETER B. KYNE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Mary Sutherland, an Eastern girl, is lured to Arizona by the advertisements of the Wagon Wheel dude ranch operated by Ma and Pa Burdan. She is met at the station by Len Henley, rodeo rider, who tells her that the Wagon Wheel has gone out of business. While at Phoenix Len enters the rodeo, drawing a bronze known as Ma Hatter. Mary learns that Len loves her and that his father disapproves the match. She wagers ten thousand to three thousand that Len will ride Ma Hatter. He succeeds, but is injured. Mary buys the Burdan equity in Wagon Wheel, subsidizing Ham Henley. Ham, feeling the ranch is his, offers it to his son.

CHAPTER X

A long silence. Then, "And, of course, Mary, there is your family to consider."

"I have a feeling the champion cowboy of the world would not strike their fancy as hard as he struck mine." She came back to the bedside, took his hand and held it. "I suppose you and your father have seen enough exhibits A in blue overalls, cowboy boots and big hats to support his thesis?"

He nodded lugubriously, "Len, do you really and truly love me?"

"So much I think I shall never get over wanting you. What I feel for you is something I have never felt for any woman—and I have had my little romances and dreamed a few silly dreams that faded long before I got back to the inspiration for them. But you were different. I have never before met—a girl like you! You're the first specimen of your world that I have ever known—it's the grand passion, I suppose. It is said to come once to every man." He looked up at her and she saw misery in his eyes. "Your going will leave a scar," he whispered. "You think I ought to go, Don Leonardo?"

"It would be safer to retreat. Mine is a small world, yours a large one—you have many opportunities to forget. . . . love isn't enough for a happy life, my dear one. You would have to have congenial surroundings and congenial friends—I—I wouldn't be enough for you."

"I'll not put you up against such a grim decision," she promised.

Two minutes later his father walked into the room. "Passed your dude girl friend down in the lower hall," he announced. "She didn't see me. She was cryin'. You two been puttin' on the gloves, son?"

"We will not be seeing each other again, sir."

"Maybe that's just as well, Len. Mind tellin' the old man what the ruckus was about?"

"There was no ruckus. We're both civilized. It was a mistake—we both recognized it—and faced it. I'd been thinking about what you said and decided you were right, so when she came in here about five minutes ago I let her have it. There was no sparring. I had to get it off my chest."

"That took guts," his father murmured. "At your age I lacked 'em."

"Don't bother buying the Wagon Wheel for me, father," his son went on wearily. "I had a day dream about it once—and the dream faded—I wouldn't be too happy there now, so forget it." He reached out a hand groping for his father's.

"When I get well you might give me a job, pappy. I know you better than I used to."

"All right, we'll forget the Wagon Wheel," his father said, happy because there existed now no reason why they should ever mention it again. Apparently she hadn't told him and she wouldn't now.

"I reckon maybe you'd like to be alone just now," he said, and went out.

In the privacy of her room Mary distilled her cargo of woe in tears which did not last long, for hers was a resilient nature and she had a normal, healthy contempt for women who wept unless their honest emotions have been sacrificed. And there was a question before her now—she had to find an answer to it. If she returned to New York it would be to a home deserted save for their butler and his wife, the cook—and there would be Joe Blanding, ready to pounce on her. She had fled to Arizona to escape Joe Blanding and his constant pleading with her to marry him. She despised Joe Blanding, although her mother had done all in her power to forward a marriage between them. He was the typical rich man's son—idle, selfish, prodigal where his own comfort was concerned, but parsimonious otherwise; a play-boy who, not knowing how to live, drank to conceal his boredom. How she shrank from seeing Joe Blanding again—and of course she wouldn't be back in town a week before he would know it and come whining around! The man was impervious to rebuffs; a dozen times she had refused to marry him, but still he persisted, apparently in the belief that he would, eventually, wear down her resistance. And he was such a whinnying weakling about it. He had no compunction about descending to the unutterable vulgarity of tears in his efforts to impress her with the depth of his love. He seemed to think the profundity of his passion was a rare and holy thing with which no sane woman would fail to be impressed.

Why not spend the next three months on the Wagon Wheel, she thought. She had a feeling that solitude might be good for her in her present mood. The Burdons, she knew, planned to return to the ranch in a day or two to gather up a few personal belongings—and they had no plans for the future. It might be possible to engage them to live at the Wagon Wheel with her. Ma could cook and keep house for her and Pa could furnish protection. She would buy a cheap horse and ride around the country, look it over and wonder how she'd like to live in it. Margaret Maxwell might like to make her a visit there.

She telephoned the Burdons and outlined her proposition. Both, regarding her as the new and, presumably, active owner of the ranch, had been hugging the hope she would engage them, for they found it heart-breaking to separate themselves from a spot ground immeasurably dear to them.

"Cook?" Ma shrieked. "Miss Sutherland, I don't lay down my skill to nobody. I'm one o' these here old-time home-cookin' bodies an' I'm here to tell you the big mistake we made in our dude business was me not doin' the cookin'." But we got the notion dudes on a real cow outfit wanted life the way the cowboys lived it so we had 'em eat with the help an' a round-up cook prepared the grub and served it. You give us seventy-five a month an' one o' them dude cottages to live in an' I'll cook and Pa'll putter."

"Len, do you really and truly love me?"

"Let's go out tomorrow," Mary suggested. "Have your room for my two trunks, a suit-case and a bag in your station wagon?"

"Certainly have," Ma replied happily. "but we got to lay in some grub before we start. The commissary was low when we left."

When the Burdan station wagon crossed the bridge over the Hassayampa River, Mary cast a swift glance down on the sand-bar where she had knelt to learn the wishes of the Spirit. That had been a delightful little fiction then, but today she wasn't so certain, for she was sensible of more than a visitor's interest in Arizona! They stopped at Congress Junction, which she knew would be her postoffice address, and Ma went in for the mail; then they rolled on west to Sighuaro, following a narrow gravelly road through the desert. They crossed a dry wash at the bottom of a canyon and climbed out of the wash to a mesa. A coyote loped across the road in front of them and the red-crested Gambrel's quail appeared in small flocks in the open. And here, for the first time, Mary saw cattle wearing the Wagon Wheel brand, which wasn't really a wagon wheel, but a circle equally divided into eight parts. They came to a crest presently and Ma stopped and pointed.

"There she is, Miss Sutherland. There's your Wagon Wheel headquarters." Ma threw the distant scene a kiss. "Honey," she said with deep feeling, "I certainly never expected to get back to you again."

In a valley a few hundred feet below them a cluster of buildings stood, surrounded by trees. Stretching southwest from these buildings a white boulder-strewn wash about a hundred yards wide wound away out of sight. This wash was the Santa Maria River, although in summer it shrank to a mere trickle and a few pools among the boulders. Far beyond, a flat-topped mountain probably six or seven thousand feet high towered against the cerulean sky. West and north low hills stretched away into infinity; they were gray close at hand and a deepening blue as they receded. A silence lay upon the land and Mary thought she had never beheld a scene of greater solitude and loneliness.

"Ain't it beautiful?" Ma asked huskily.

The Wagon Wheel, Mary thought, was beautiful in the sense that a snarling tiger is beautiful; it had a quality she found sinister under the harsh noon light; all around her was the armed desert growth, with little open spaces between. She didn't fancy a cow should find edible, et, to her amazement, the cattle they passed looked sleek.

"You'll love it," Ma assured her. "It may take time but you'll love it. At first maybe it'll frighten you but in a while you'll begin to get used to the skin. It's just that Arizona's different an' sort o' shocks an' warmer when he meets her in a state o' nature, like a gal caught in the bathtub."

Ma let in the clutch. "Come to think of it, I got a settin' hen due to hatch today or tomorrow. Glory be, I'll be home in time."

She rolled down the grade, sounding the siren, pulled into the ranch yard and shrieked, "Whoop-e-e-e!" She climbed out and hurried into the house of which she was still, at heart, the mistress. "You got five bedrooms in this ranch-house, to choose from, Miss Mary," she announced, "an' don't go into the patio until I scout it first. There was a rattlesnake hummin' his love song there the mornin' I left. We used to have a she cat here that kept the place free o' rattlers—she'd jump around 'em an' tease 'em to strike at her an' miss, an' when they got tired an' slowed up she'd sneak on 'em from the rear an' ketch 'em by the back o' the neck an' then her an' her kittens of the brute. But she got old an' slowed up herself an' one day she didn't jump fast enough an' the snake got her. Now we'll be more or less snake-ridden around headquarters until Pa can break in a new she. She's in the best because a she's always out to protect her young an' rustle 'em up some grub."

Mary left her setting about the preparation of luncheon in a nice large kitchen, modern in every respect. Beyond the kitchen was a butler's pantry that accommodated a small bar. The dining room was beyond that and opened on a large living room that stretched across the front of the building. The living room, in turn, gave to a gun and trophy room. The building was in the form of a U, with the open end facing southeast, and five bedrooms, with baths formed the other side of it with French windows opening on a large patio. A half-hearted effort had been made once to plant a garden here, but evidently Pa had gotten tired or disgusted. There was a fountain in the center, surmounted by a very good bronzo of a bronco-buster on a bucking horse and a scarlet fly-catcher sat on the buster's outflung arm.

Mary liked the furniture. It was all unstained oak and custom-made and the mattresses were excellent, the bedding of the best. The floors were laid with Navajo rugs and the light fixtures were of hammered bronze. She saw the Wagon Wheel had its own little independent lighting plant. There was a huge fireplace in the living room and a smaller one in the gun room and each bedroom; lithographs of paintings by Frederick Remington and Charles Russell adorned the walls; on each side of the living room fireplace there were built-in bookcases containing reprint editions of western novels. A cheap piano that could be played manually or mechanically gave an air of elegance and there was a combination radio and phonograph. To Mary's amazement the house furnishings proclaimed comfort and good taste. Every room had doors that could be opened on both sides and Mary was to learn that this was to provide a cooling draft during the hot summer.

This main ranch-house was of adobe brick with a wide colonnade around the outside of it; the roof was of red tile, and Virginia creeper and Cape jasmine ran up the pillars of the colonnade and crept over the roof of it. The floor of this colonnade was of large square red tiles and there were benches set at intervals. Surrounding the main house, but at some little distance from it, were four small guest cottages, also of adobe, and furnished for housekeeping in the event a dude preferred his own cooking and greater privacy. A neglected lawn of Dutch clover surrounded all the living quarters; west of them was the bunkhouse, help's mess hall and kitchen, the blacksmith shop, garage, a large barn and a corral in which about twenty nondescript horses, some mules and two Guernsey cows stood listlessly.

Large pecan trees gave a promise of shade in the summer and there was a grove of grapefruit trees, some avocados and an open patch of ground that evidently would be a vegetable garden in the spring. There was a wooden tower with a small tank on it, over a well from which the water was lifted by a small windmill. A friendly sheep herd dog and two cats followed the new owner on her tour of inspection of the grounds.

PEAKING OF SPORTS

By Bob McShane

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

FIGURES from the nation's race tracks are sufficient evidence that horse racing has lost none of its popularity.

With the season about half gone (so many of the major tracks, betting totals are high enough to indicate that just about every record will be broken in 1944. The present betting spree is unprecedented in American thoroughbred history.

Just seven years ago the parimutuel tracks totaled a fancy $266,000,000. That amount was even greater than many an enthusiast had predicted, but the follow-up has been little short of phenomenal.

Each year, since 1938, the betting handle has increased. In 1939, it amounted to $291,000,000, and in 1940 climbed to $408,000,000. Racing officials thought that the 1943 mark of $703,000,000 would stand for quite some time, but with the 1944 season slightly more than six months old, it is obvious that all records are to be shattered thoroughly.

Heavy Gains Reported

The country's biggest tracks are operating on a colossal basis. New York, Chicago, New England, California and Detroit all report heavy gains. More than a billion dollars will have been wagered by bettors before the season's end.

It should be remembered, too, that this total is the legalized betting at the tracks. It has been estimated that at least an equal amount is wagered with illegal handbooks throughout the nation.

When New York's season passed the halfway mark as the Saratoga 30-day meet opened, indications were that by mid-November at least $400,000,000 will have been wagered, and the state treasury enriched by some $27,000,000.

The New York estimate is based on the assumption that the second half of the season will be comparable to the first. When the Empire season ended, marking the halfway point, the total betting for 96 days (97 were originally scheduled but races were cancelled on D-Day) came to $208,038,623. If the second half of the campaign equals the first, the total would reach $416,077,246. And there is every reason to believe that betting won't fall off at any of the major tracks.

New York Average

However, New York continues to stay ahead in matters of horse racing. During the racing at Jamaica, it was figured that the fans averaged $72 a day. When the New York races were shifted to Belmont, the average jumped between $92 and $100 a person.

Race track operators are quick to realize that such huge figures may in time work against them in the form of increased taxes. They have attempted to solve this problem by making huge contributions to war relief agencies.

During 1943 these war relief contributions totaled $8,518,486.85.

According to John N. Sabo, Detroit turf editor, more than $100,000,000 is invested in race tracks, horses and big breeding farms. The estimated value of the horses racing in the United States today is $55,000,000.

"Actually," Sabo writes, "under present-day high prices of thoroughbreds, the total is greater. Horses which cost $1,500 two or three years ago now are unobtainable at twice that figure."

The 'Racing Sky'

It wasn't so long ago that racing officials were having more than their share of trouble. The sport was being condemned quite widely as a wartime luxury—something that could be eliminated from the national scene without loss to morale. The tracks were making big money. And they were a bit slow about contributing their share to war relief organizations.

The contributions made by the tracks have been impressive, but not out of proportion. Racing is big business—and extremely profitable. The sport not only can afford to be generous, it must be generous. It is too dependent upon the public's good will to be anything else.

SPORTS SHORTS

Cleveland sport fans have donated $15,000 to a fund to provide playing equipment and free medical care to sandlot ballplayers in the city.

The president of the newly formed Pacific Coast professional football league, J. Rufus Klawns, got his start playing under A. A. Staggs at the University of Chicago in 1909.

The first no-hit, no-run game in the American Association this season was hurled by Walter Brown of Toledo, to defeat Milwaukee, 1-0. Brown walked four men.

Farm Topics

Lack of Machinery Calls for Sharing

Million of Workers Needed for '44 Harvest

With the harvest season well under way in most farming areas, the problem of getting enough labor and machinery to do the job at the right time is again present.

With little or no prospect of more large combines and labor-saving equipment for haying this season, the War Food administration is urging small grain producers to make the greatest possible use of existing machinery. Owners of combines suitable for custom work will have to help their neighbors to insure harvest of the crop. Sharing of all types of equipment will be necessary, says WFA, but the production schedules have run far behind on heavy machinery.

Custom use of large combines and the more expensive types of haying machines would be necessary even if manufacturers had completed their production schedules on time, it is pointed out, as a result of curtailed manufacture since the beginning of the war and the failure of some old machines to carry through. Production of corn pickers was reported as lagging in late spring, but there were prospects of a step-up before the harvest. Shortages of manpower for manufacturing plants, and of component parts for the machines are reported as largely responsible for production delays.

Emphasis is also being given to the need for keeping old machines in tip-top condition. While most farmers will have checked over their equipment before harvest time, to avoid breakdowns after the beginning of the work season, frequent check-ups during the period of operation are also essential to efficient use.

It is anticipated that some four million volunteer urban workers will be required to complete the harvest, as farm population is at a 30-year low and those remaining on farms need every bit of help they can get. Farm labor requirements are based on farm production goals, set at another record-breaking level for 1944.

Requirements for volunteer farm labor are for two million men, 1,200,000 boys and girls, and 800,000 women. In addition to increased use of women and part-time workers, and intensive local community recruiting drives, labor recruitments include more imported labor from Mexico, Jamaica, the Bahamas and other nearby countries, and a number of available prisoners of war.

Processing plants handling large quantities of the food produced by America's farmers are also in need of some 750,000 part-time workers before the end of the year.

Farm Income Moving Toward a New High

After reaching a record high figure in 1943, farm cash income has continued to show expansion in 1944, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Although government benefit payments during the first quarter dropped to $224,000,000 this year from $271,000,000 last year, this decrease was more than offset by a gain in receipts from marketings.

Total farm income in the first quarter this year amounted to $4,511,000,000 as against $3,968,000,000 in the same period last year, an increase of 13.7 per cent. The increase in receipts from sales was due partly to a 5.3 per cent higher price level for farm products and partly to a gain of 10.1 per cent in the quantity sold.

The price level of goods which the farmers bought was 8.0 per cent higher than a year ago in the first quarter. This was more than offset by the gain in income and, consequently, the farmers' purchasing power showed a 5.2 per cent rise. This gain in purchasing power, however, was made in the first two months. In March, the farmers' purchasing power was slightly smaller than a year ago, thus providing support to the present expectation that the farmers' purchasing power for the year as a whole will be smaller than in 1943 despite a record high income in 1944.

The farmers' cash income in 1944 is now estimated at $20,011,000,000 as compared with the previous high record of $19,764,000,000 in 1943. The increase which is now indicated will not be sufficient to offset the prospective higher price level of goods bought by the farmers. Consequently, the outlook is that the farmers' purchasing power in 1944 will be 3.4 per cent smaller than in 1943.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. If kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fall to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise when such signs appear. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped many friends for more than thirty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Get the best. Buy genuine Doan's Kidney Pills. The trademark is a man with a hammer.

MINING DAY PAGEANT NAME CONTEST

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 14—A pageant to depict the history of the Southwest will be held in conjunction with International Mining Day on November 10 and 11.

The Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the pageant, announced a contest today to find a name for the pageant. About 1000 performers will participate in the pageant, which will depict the history of the Southwest from Indian Days through the present war. The mining theme, however, will dominate, as the pageant is being staged as a tribute to the mining industry.

Contestants should submit their suggestions for the pageant name by Oct. 1 to the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. One name will be selected by the Chamber's special events committee, and the winner will receive a $25 War Bond as a prize.

It is expected that the American Institute of Mining Engineers will hold its meeting in conjunction with International Mining Day. Invitations are going out to mining men in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Mexico.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

The Democratic Party has contributed to this nation four of its greatest documents—the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the Monroe Doctrine.

Democratic Administrations have contributed nearly all the territorial acquisitions within the present boundaries of the continental United States:

1. The Louisiana Purchase, under Jefferson, insured the physical greatness of the Nation.
2. The purchase of Florida, under Monroe.
3. The annexation of Texas, under Tyler.
4. The acquisition of Oregon (now Washington and Oregon,) under Polk.
5. The acquisition of California, under Polk.
6. The Gadsden Purchase, under Pierce—Senator Harley M. Kilgore. (Dem., W. Va.)

As a part of a program in conserving truck tires a system of tire inspection has been set up. One group of stations will be designated to inspect truck and passenger tires, another group will inspect passenger tires only. H. I. Galles, Jim Harper, Roy Wood, and George Christper toured the State last week explaining the new system and making suggestions to help prevent breakdown of trucks due to shortage of tires.

The issues of war, reconstruction are not only issues. But they will be resolved by a Congress elected on party lines. In choosing that Congress the people dare not forget that it was the Republican party which repudiated international cooperation in 1919. To prove his fitness for a seat in the next Congress, a Republican candidate must prove independence of narrow nationalized. Chicago Sun (Ind).
