With The Men In Service

Tinnie Man Slated to Sail Home

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Pvt. Opie J. Hope, rifleman of Tinnie, as a member of the retiring 85th "Custer" Division, is slated to sail from Italy to the United States during August and undergo a final screening to determine whether he will return to civilian life. Unless the army classifies him as essential and can find no one to replace him, he will be honorably discharged soon after his arrival in the United States.

He is scheduled for transfer to the personnel center nearest his home within 48 hours of the time of his arrival in the United States. Until he is transferred, he will be at a port or in a staging area, either of which is closed to the public.

The 85th, a Selective Service outfit that fought in the Italian campaign under Fifth Army, has been restaffed and is now composed entirely of men who have adjusted service rating scores of 35 or more and are eligible for release from the army, contingent only on the final screening. They served in the Italian campaign as members of the 84th "Red Bull" Division, the 91st "Powder River" Division, the 10th Mountain Infantry Division of some other Fifth Army Unit. Some of them were members of the 85th before it was restaffed.

The 85th was first activated in August, 1917, at Camp Custer, Michigan, and served in the World War on both the Western and Eastern fronts.

It was reactivated in May, 1942 was put through maneuvers in Louisiana in the spring of 1943 and moved to the Mediterranean theater in December of that year.

The 85th met the German enemy along the Gustav Line in Italy in April, 1944, as a unit of the Fifth Army and advanced from Minturno to join Allied beachhead forces after the breakout from Anzio. The Custer men fought through Rome to 50 miles beyond the Eternal City, then were drawn back for rest. They were put in reserve positions below the Arno River, later being moved to holding positions on the river. Crossing the Arno after Florence had fallen, the 85th battled through the Gothic Line, fighting over mountainous terrain in rain and mud against stiff enemy resistance. When Allied forces broke into the Po Valley the division played a leading role in the whirlwind spring finale that led to unconditional surrender of all enemy forces in Italy.

The division, commanded by Major General John B. Coulter, is the first Selective Service division to be inactivated.

Sgt. Ladd Embry and wife and baby are spending his 45-day furlough at Estancia with Sgt. Ladd's parents. They spent three days here with Mrs. Embry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Deger, and with her sisters, and their families Mr. and Mrs. Dee McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Glen King, Mrs. John Hein and her young sister and brother Frances and Eugene.

4-H Boy Wins Award

Bobby Peebles, a 4-H club member, of Nogal was recently awarded $75.00 by the New Mexico Wool Growers Association to be used to purchase ewes for his 4-H project. By adding the award money to his savings from his former 4-H swine project, Bobby was able to purchase one of the best pens of five registered Rambouillet ewes sold at the Annual New Mexico Ram Sale held recently in Albuquerque. Bobby also purchased a registered Rambouillet ram. All of the sheep are from the Robert Miller strain. Mr. Miller is one of the outstanding registered Rambouillet breeders in the state of California.

Cattle Growers Meet

Albuquerque, Aug. 27—Problems of utmost concern to cattlemen of New Mexico will be discussed and dealt with at the third Quarterly Executive Board Meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association to be held at Albuquerque on Sunday night, September 9th and Monday, September 10th, E. G. Hayward, Cimarron, President of the Association announced today. Advance hotel reservations indicate that approximately 150 cattlemen representing all parts of the state will attend the meeting.

At the present time the outlook for adequate protein feed for livestock in New Mexico this winter is very critical, Hayward said. This is due to the late crop of range grass general in the state which will make poor winter feed, and because the national production of protein feed such as cottonseed and soybean cake appears to be in short supply. New Mexico normally produces only about 10% of the protein winter livestock feed used in the state each year, Hayward added.

The Forest Service has proposed several new changes in their rules and regulations governing livestock grazing on the National Forest. Some of these proposed changes appear to be contrary to the judgment of livestock producers in the state and will necessitate considerable study on the part of forest range users and association members. Recommendations will be made to the Forest Service at the September meeting, Hayward said.

Government and livestock industry plans to remove the Federal subsidy payments from the meat industry before the middle of next year must be given careful consideration by livestock producers, Hayward said, if a serious breakdown in livestock prices is to be avoided next year.

The association office has approximately 250 applications for membership pending approval of the Executive Board. Approval of these members will bring the association's membership up to the 3000 mark.

Nizer Ex-Rays a Columnist

By LOUIS NIZER
Attorney, Author of "What to Do With Germany," "Thinking on Your Feet," Etc.
I am afraid to write this column because a columnist must have many talents.

1. He must be a humorist, whose column wears a pun-stripped suit. As for example: Alimony is the high cost of leaving.

2. A columnist must be a movie and theatrical critic who can create atomic bomb devastation with a phrase. As for example: It took the Curies 30 years to find radium; it took Sir William Ramsay 16 years to discover helium; it took this play only 2 hours to produce tedium.

3. A columnist must be a lexicographer who can invent new words which tickle the brain and surprise the eye. As for example: Bilboorish, Rank-in-justice, Teutonic Plague, guestimate, vindicated column, kilocyclopedia, Emperor Fearhito, infantuation, Petainced.

4. He must be a philosopher who disguises his wisdom in simplicity so that he does not appear-pretentious. As for example: It's better to give than to lend and it costs about the same. Suggested sign for a museum: "Touch as much as you like with your eyes, but don't see with your fingers."

5. He must be a religionist who realizes that religion is caught, not taught. As for example: An atheist is a man who has no invisible means of support. The best reply to an atheist is to give him a good dinner and ask him if he believes there is a cook.

6. He must be an ironist who does not hesitate to master the art of insult. As for example: She dresses like a bad photograph—underdeveloped and overexposed. His mind is like his farm, naturally barren and made worse by mistaken cultivation.

7. He must be an economist who knows that when a theory collides with a fact, there is a tragedy. As for example: Those who complain about rationing ought to remember that there was no sugar until the 13th Century, no coal until the 15th Century, no coffee until the 17th Century, no matches until the 16th Century and no gasoline until the 19th Century.

8. He must be an internationalist who keeps the conscience of the people boiling. As for example: A good motto for the war criminal trials is: "The prisoner, not the sentence, should be suspended." Don't relax. Germany has more intelligence per square head than any other nation.

9. He must be a historian with a human interest touch. As for example: The spelling backward craze goes back a long way. In 1833 there was a political fight over Jefferson's embargo. His political opponents ridiculed him in cartoons as "O Grab Me."

10. He must be a reporter who can reveal information kept secret even from any Government officials. Our Army found in a German chemical laboratory a new secret gas so powerful that a drop no larger than a pinhead would kill a human being. The Nazi laboratory chief revealed that Hitler lost his nerve. He was afraid to use this weapon because he had been informed that the Chemical Warfare Division of the United States Army had even more fearful gases and in much larger quantities.

Treated Lumber Boon To Farm Buildings

Chemically Treated Durable Wood Available

The nation's treated lumber industry, geared for wide scale production by war demands, is now ready to supply the postwar construction needs of American agriculture, estimated by federal agencies as high as 2 1/2 million homes and 7 million other buildings, including barns.

Census figures of 1940 show that as a class, farm buildings are the oldest of any group in the country, about three years older than the average age of buildings in other categories.

Ideal farm buildings.

Lumber, always the farm front's most popular and useful building material, will prove even more vital in postwar construction, through the successful application of chemicals to make it more durable and useful.

Experiments at the U. S. Forest Products laboratory, and elsewhere, have perfected treated wood that is fireproof, longer lasting, and termite and decay resistant. For instance, pressure treatment with Wolman salts makes wood impervious to termites and decay, and treatment with Minalth makes wood resistant to fire, even open flames.

Wolmanized lumber is being used for such installations in the termite-infested islands of the South Pacific, as it was in Africa. It was also used for the construction of hangars used by the U. S. navy for its sub-patrol blimps on all three seacoasts.

Postwar Machinery Beet Harvester

A one-man beet harvester that tops, lifts, cleans and windsrows in one operation is the John Deere new Integral beet harvester. Eight rows of beets are windrowed together, with the tops placed in two windrows of four rows each.

The tractor moves along in low gear, the harvester tops the beets in the ground, automatically lifting them.

Saving Nicotine Can Be Made by Practice

Insufficient nicotine will be available unless extreme care is taken in its conservation. The average farmer wastes about half of the nicotine he purchases.

The following are the reminders on how the saving may be brought about.

- Don't dust with nicotine when weather is cold.
Don't dust when wind is blowing.
Don't run the fan too fast.
Don't drive too fast.
Don't delay application.
Spot-dust with a hand-duster.
Treat the seed bed.
Dip plants before transplanting.
Keep plants growing vigorously.

Tipping Oil Barrel

This idea permits easy extraction of the last drop of oil in the barrel without heavy lifting. The rig is made of two stout poles and an old wagon tire cut in half.

Renovate Strawberries

The renovation of strawberry fields should begin immediately after harvest. The heavy mulch should be removed with a hay rake and the sparse mulch cut into the soil.

Before cultivating, apply a complete fertilizer at the rate of 500 to 800 pounds per acre. If the soil is acid, apply lime. Rows should be cultivated to 12 or 15 inches. If an open furrow is left, the roots will dry out rapidly.

Drastic Changes in Styling Give A 'New Look' to Suits and Coats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE'S talk that is "different" to tell about the new fall suits and coats. In fact, the style changes are so drastic the story is being unfolded early. Thus women may become familiar with the new order of things before they actually make their final selections.

The current suit and coat story hinges for the most part on sleeves. Before you buy, and out what all the present furor actually means. The new deep armhole sleeves that give such a "new look" to fall fashions, forecast a new cycle in suit and coat design. In addition to the new wing sleeves with their deep armholes, suits are coming "in" with bloused shirtwaist sleeves. Also sleeves with turn-back cuffs will be chic this fall.

An unmistakable stamp of newness is seen in the soft rounded collar given to shoulders. In many instances, sleeves are cut in one with shoulder for the new soft effect. In addition to the new raglan cuts, emphasis is placed on new rounded shoulder yoke treatments that are quite unlike anything noted in suit and coat styling for years.

There's also important silhouette news in softly gathered waistlines, come with drawstring ties, others with casual soft tie belts in both coats and suits. You will be hearing of the whittled-in waistlines right along.

When it comes to dressy restaurant and cocktail suits, the big news is glitter accents done in most original ways. There's drama in the suit with ribbon-trimmed shoulders that suspend beadwork medallions resembling official insignia. Sometimes a striking motif of Chinese inspiration adorns one side of the jacket front. Most frequently seen is the gala suit with lapels, pockets or revers that are beautifully embroidered with jet or sequins in either multi-color or in a single tone.

In the illustration, the "new look" for fall is interpreted to a nicely in a trio of advance models from Chicago Fashion Industries. Note the sophisticated cordigan suit of ladylike gray wool crepe, which features the new deep-armhole sleeves. The moment you look at it, the sleeves tell you it's new. The triangular crystal buttons are ever so attractive, too. A good touch of figure flattery is seen in the artful delineation of the waistline by a seam that does not break the silhouette with a belt. Here's a suit that combines practicality with glamour. For it will be your day and night favorite.

Note to the left a black wool cocktail suit with ribbon-trimmed shoulders, proud as anything the diplomatic corps ever dressed up, with its beaded emblems. This costume is perfection for the many times when you want to make the most of your natural glamour without appearing overdressed. The silhouette is sharp and trim, nicely calculated to serve as a background for the shoulder drama.

The casual topcoat to the right, with its new short-length and belted-in waistline has the deep-armhole sleeves that give such a sensational fashion slant for fall. The sleeves are not only high style, but they are also the best design ever conceived to accommodate the new bulky-shouldered suits with action-type comfort. A coat of this type takes on a costume look when paired with a skirt of its own fabric—gray flannel.

Jersey Tunic Tops

This stunning Grecian-inspired cocktail gown by Adele Simpson shown in the 1945 fall and winter collections presents a charming interpretation of this season's soft styling technique. The tunic top is in "golden glow" rayon jersey and is belted with a jeweled belt over a black crepe skirt.

Tiny Tot Novelties Made of Bright Felt

For little folks, designers are turning out some unusually attractive novelty jackets, hat and bag sets and louncing booties, all made of bright felt. Mothers like the idea of the little sleeveless jackets because they are so practical and protective. A child doesn't have to be coaxed to wear these gay little novelties, for they love the bright colors. The news about this season's crop of felt whimsies is that many of them are being trimmed in a tailored way, the edges being finished off with contrast felt bindings. For instance, a bright red felt sleeveless mandarin jacket has edges bordered with an inch-wide black banding piped with yellow. To keep little feet warm about the house, you can get cunning louncing booties to match, the black felt binding highlighted with nail heads. A little matching bag is added to the delight of youngsters.

Gray Flannels and Tweeds Are High Style for Suits

The beauty of gray flannel for suits must be seen to be appreciated and dresses of gray flannel have just as subtle charm. These are made up with indescribable artistry, the emphasis being upon sophisticated simplicity that makes the dress or the suit conspicuous because of the utter absence of fuss or furbelows. They are just the sort that will show off your most important jewelry pieces to perfection. Gray with white hairline stripe makes up into the smartest suits ever.

Gorgeous Bustle-Bow Belts

Belts are gorgeous this year. One of the most excitingly new belts is of black suede sparkling with multi-colored sequin discs. Attached to this is a bespangled suede bow worn bustle style.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep cooked meat covered. Chopped and sliced cooked meats spoil more quickly than meat in the piece. Cut or chop just before using. Keep meat sandwiches and salads cold right up to time of serving.

Put a few pieces of charcoal into glass in which a hyacinth bulb is planted to keep the water sweet.

To exterminate white flies on house plants, cover with a newspaper canopy and have someone blow smoke under it.

To clean fireplace bricks, cover them with paste made of powdered pumice and household ammonia. Let dry for an hour, then scrub the bricks with warm, soapy water.

Wash burners on gas stove once a week in a solution made of one gallon water, two tablespoons washing soda and soap flakes. Rinse and dry well.

When threading a sewing machine needle, hold something white under the needle and it will thread more easily.

To keep a hem even, in a dress or other garment, after you have sewn an inch or two, insert a piece of cardboard the width of the hem and about six inches long and slip it along as you sew.

Wipe off the fruit you have bought with a clean, slightly damp cloth before putting it away. This will clean it and check any rot that may have gotten on it from other fruits.

Don't throw away lemon and orange skins. Bake them in a moderate oven until very crisp. When cold grate or grind them and store in a well corked bottle. A pinch in a pudding or cake makes a great improvement.

For Special Occasions. A FASHION favorite for fall—the two piece frock. This one buttoned down the back, ripped in smartly at the waist, makes you look your best on those extra special occasions.

Overseas Mailing
Postal Requirements
When you are making up a Christmas box—early, to meet overseas mailing requirements—for that man in Europe or in the Pacific, remember the women in voice, too.
Although thousands of WACS spent last December overseas, for many, aiding in the redeployment of troops and working with occupation forces, the coming Christmas will be their first on foreign soil. Remembrances from home will mean much to them.
In order to make sure that when your Wac overseas receives her Christmas package, it is just like you want her to have it—undamaged, on time follow the War Department's postal recommendations.
These four points are particularly important:
Wrap packages securely to withstand rough treatment
Address parcels legibly, using complete army address.
Mail packages between September 15 and October 15, only.
Choose gifts wisely; don't send impractical or unnecessary gifts.
For further information about overseas mailing, see your postman.

City Fat Saving Record Falls Under Town and Farm Push
Ever since our government asked town and farm women to save used fats, the record previously set by city women has taken a beating.
We must keep up the good work! This country is facing a shortage of 1 billion, 500 million pounds of fats in domestic supplies, alone. Tons of vital war and home-front supplies requiring fats are still needed. We in towns and rural districts are in a better position to save fats than most city folks, so the government is depending on us.
Save every drop, every scrap. Melt down solid fats. There's never too little to save! Butchers will give you up to 4¢ and 5¢ red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call your Home Demonstration or County Agent.

Assistance to Veterans
Veterans returning home from the wars will find that laws have been enacted for their benefit, and also agencies functioning through which they can obtain assistance with their problems.
A meeting was conducted in Carrizozo, Thursday, August 9, by representatives of the War Manpower Commission, Selective Service System, and Veterans Administration. The purpose of the meeting was to coordinate the efforts of the various agencies so each would understand the assistance that could be given to the veterans by each agency. Other persons attending the meeting were representatives of the American Legions, of Carrizozo and Captain; the American Legion Auxiliary, of Carrizozo; Extension Service; Local Selective Service Board; U. S. Employment Service; Welfare Department; and other interested individuals.
The meeting was conducted by Col. Hood and Capt. Hale, of the State Selective Service System. Mr. Tadlock, of the War Manpower Commission, of Albuquerque explained the procedure his agency followed in assisting veterans to find employment. He directed veterans to contact the U. S. Employment Office, at Alamogordo for further information.
Lt. Carter, of the Veterans Administration explained the G. I. Bill of Rights, which included a discussion on pensions, hospitalization, education, loans, and insurance.

EL PASO—International Mining Day will be celebrated November 2 and 3 in El Paso.

The mining committee of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the annual celebration, has decided to advance the date so as not to interfere with the opening of the hunting season in New Mexico.

The committee also began to poll mining machinery corporations throughout the country, asking whether they would care to participate in a mining exhibit which would be held in conjunction with International Mining Day.

Eugene M. Thomas, Dean of Engineering of the Texas College of Mines, is the general chairman for International Mining Day of 1945.

Nearly 600 registered for the 1944 celebration. International Mining Day is a get-together for mining men of New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Colorado and Mexico. Although the program is primarily social, culminating with the famous Sourdough Supper, one business meeting is held at which leaders in the mining industry speak. The El Paso Metals Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers also has a program in conjunction with International Mining Day.

The Carlsbad Section of the AIME is expected to participate in this year's program.

POSTWAR INFLATION CAN PROVE NATIONALLY RUINOUS

RUINOUS, UNCONTROLLED inflation can hit this country, as in the comparatively recent past it has hit other countries, when we have too much money to spend and not sufficient commodities with which to meet buyer demand. The danger of inflation will not have passed with the firing of the last shot on the battle fronts. It will not have passed until reconverted American industry is able to meet the tremendous peacetime demand created by four years of doing without and the purchasing power produced by excessive wartime earnings. That hoarded up purchasing power represents many billions of dollars.

To do such a job industry must have tools and materials. American industry cannot have these requisites if our first job is to be that of providing for the rehabilitation of Europe, as European nations are insisting we must do, and as we are attempting to do.

Lawrence Sullivan, in a detailed article in Nation's Business, points out that there remains of unexpended lend-lease appropriations a total of 21 1/2 billions of dollars. The law provides that lend-lease is applicable only to countries engaged in war against the Axis powers. Most nations that were at war with Germany and Italy were, theoretically, at war with Japan. Because of this token warfare, they are drawing on lend-lease. To France, for example, we are supplying vast quantities of, largely, non-military items with which she is rejuvenating her peacetime production in industry, transportation, mining and agriculture. These are items needed in our own country if we are to meet peacetime buyer demand. What is true of France is also true of Belgium, Holland and other European countries. Russia is asking for non-military materials to a value of three-quarters of a billion dollars. To England we are supplying, as one item only, prefabricated houses to a value of 60 million dollars, the prices based on 1941 costs.

As Mr. Sullivan points out in Nation's Business, lend-lease is but one source of funds through which to deplete American supplies. Through UNRRA we are pouring hundreds of millions of dollars worth of American peacetime products into Europe. Other appropriations bring the total available funds for supplying war and peacetime needs up to 33 billion dollars. To that vast sum can be added the cash and earmarked gold, belonging to foreign nations, now held in this country, and other foreign holdings, all available for the purchase of peacetime commodities. Altogether it represents a total of approximately 69 billion dollars with which to purchase American commodities, the products of American farms, factories, mines and forests.

We cannot meet any sizable portion of such a foreign demand, and, at the same time meet an unlimited and uncontrolled home demand. We are faced with the problem of:

- 1—Temporarily restricting the export of these commodities for which there is a home demand, until that home demand has been satisfied.
  - 2—Continue to control expenditures through rationing; control of wages; no reduction in individual income taxes, that demand may be prevented, or
  - 3—Face disastrous, uncontrolled inflation.
- The solution is a job that is up to congress, NOW.

ENGLAND FACES GRAVE POSTWAR POLITICAL CRISIS

THE CLOSE of the world conflict finds England economically "between the devil and the deep blue sea." The English people need homes and home furnishings, clothing, shoes and many other things. To produce these they must have tools and raw materials, which must be secured abroad. To get money for tools and materials, and to rebuild her factories, England must sell her manufactured products in foreign markets. She cannot do that and also meet the demand of the home market. Not to meet the home demand means political danger. Peace, to England, brings problems on a par with those of war. Long term credits for tools and materials is her greatest need.

TOO GREAT A VARIETY of his has much the same effect on the too often repeated cry of woe.

WHAT A HOME FRONT tragedy is the passing of the faithful old jalopy. For days and weeks and months it has wheezed and jerked and sputtered in its efforts to keep going that it might take us from here to there and back again.

It has been fed the best nourishment war times afforded, but with a final gasp it passed out. Now it has been trundled away to the jalopy cemetery, the junk pile. Its passing means we will wait for as long as it will take the automobile plants to provide for replacing.

DREW PEARSON

EMPEROR ONCE DEMOCRATIC

Twenty-three years ago, this writer, visiting in Japan, got considerable first-hand information about the emperor from a young Japanese Quaker, Hajiro Sawada, who had been picked to accompany Hirohito, then crown prince, on a trip to see the western world.

Why Sawada, educated in a Quaker school in Tokyo, was chosen to accompany the young prince on this history-making trip, I do not know, except that the Imperial council of education wanted a commoner of Hirohito's age who spoke English and French to travel with the future emperor.

Never before had a ruler of Japan left its shores. In the past scarcely was the emperor even seen by his subjects. Some idea of his isolation can be gained from the fact that the word "mika" means "awful"; the word "do" means "place"; and the name "Mikado" means "awful-place."

In the old days, priests came to worship at the "awful place," but they never saw the emperor whose other name even today is "Tenno," meaning "son of Heaven." The emperor is synonymous with the sun and from this comes the Japanese flag, with 16 spreading rays symbolic of the rising sun and the emperor.

In those days, the Mikado was the theoretical owner of all the land and all the people and their possessions. He was their God and protector. His lance and shield came from Ama, "the ancestral region." Thus arose the cult of Shintozism which actually means "rule of the superiors" or "way of the Gods." Even the word for government in Japan, "matsurigoto," means "charne visiting" or "religion."

Modernizing the Emperor.

Thus during most of Japanese history; in fact, up until just after the arrival of Commander Perry in 1852, the Mikado was an ethereal spiritual being, not a ruler; and it came as a definite check to many Japanese that their emperor-to-be should call off to England and France to absorb western culture.

In fact, some of the more intence patriots actually threw themselves on the railroad tracks in front of the train carrying Hirohito to Yokohama in protest against the departure.

Naturally Hirohito may have changed a lot during the 25 years since his trip. Naturally, also my friend Sawada was prejudiced in his favor. However, the story of that voyage was one of a young man anxious to mingle with his fellowmen, astound the emperor-worshippers by wrestling on the deck with his aides, get a bloody nose, and dance democratically with the servants of the Duke of Atholl in the same "barbaric" Scotland, which, according to Shinto priests, is made from the mud and seafoam left over after creation of the "heavenly isles" — Japan.

Hirohito even managed to deliver a public speech to the lord mayor of London; and no emperor in all the history of Japan had ever delivered a public speech before. In all Japanese history, furthermore, no emperor had purchased an article of any shape, size or form. In Paris, however, Hirohito insisted on going alone and buying a necktie, and later a pearl for his mother.

Hirohito Goes Underground.

His greatest ambition, however, was to ride on the Paris subway or "metro." Before leaving Tokyo, Hirohito's staff had been strictly forbidden to let the hair to the throne ride on any subway; but despite this, the crown prince belted most of his staff and ventured underground. He insisted on buying the tickets himself and handed them to the fat lady guarding the gate.

But he handed them to her in a bunch, instead of spreading them out fan shape, so that she could not punch them quickly. All of which brought forth a storm of abuse in metro French, heaped on the head of the future ruler of Japan.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The 1948 congressional elections probably will see the bitterest fight and the most money spent in years. Both sides are gearing for a show-down, partly as a result of the British elections. Conservatives are saying: "It can't happen here."

Truman was kept informed regarding all these incidents... tip-off that Japan was weakening came after Russia declared war, and the Japs did not declare war in return.

Congressman John J. O'Connor, victim of the Roosevelt purge and who has never forgotten it, is among those backstaging the Christian front campaign against Gen. William O'Dwyer. Another instigator is Father Edward Curran... O'Dwyer fought the Christian front when he was Brooklyn prosecutor.

The army is due to cutback on almost everything except hospitals. Several new ones will be built including a $30,000,000 army hospital in Puerto Rico by the L. W. Robert firm of Atlanta. He was secretary of the Democratic national committee.

A Bell for Adano

By John Hersey

FOREWORD
Major Victor Joppolo, U. S. A., was a good man. You will see that. It is the whole reason why I want you to know his story.

He was the Amgot officer of a small Italian town called Adano. He was more or less the American mayor after our invasion.

Amgot, as you know, stood for Allied Military Government Occupied Territory. The authorities decided, shortly after the happenings of this story, that the word Amgot had an ugly Germanic sound, and they heard that the two syllables of the word, when taken separately, were Turkish words unmentionable in translation. So they decided to call it A.M.G. and forget about the Occupied Territory.

That was later, though. When I knew him, Major Joppolo was Amgot officer of Adano, and he was good.

There were probably not any really bad men in Amgot, but there were some stupid ones (and still are, even though the Turkish embarrassment has been taken care of). You see, the theories about administering occupied territories all turned out to be just theories, and in fact the thing which determined whether we Americans would be successful in that toughest of all jobs was nothing more or less than the quality of the men who did the administering.

That is why I think it is important for you to know about Major Joppolo. He was a good man, though weak in certain respects, human ways, and what he did and what he was not able to do in Adano represented in miniature what America can and cannot do in Europe. Since he happened to be a good man, his works represented the best of the possibilities.

America is the international country. Major Joppolo was an Italian-American going to work in Italy. Our army has Yugoslavs and Frenchmen and Austrians and Czechs and Norwegians in it, and everywhere our army goes in Europe, a man can turn to the private beside him and say: "Hey, Mac, what's this furriner sayin'? How much does he want for that bunch of grapes?" And Mac will be able to translate.

CHAPTER I

Invasion had come to the town of Adano.

An American corporal ran tautly along the dirty Via Pavoni and at the corner he threw himself down. He made certain arrangements with his light machine gun and then turned and beckoned to his friends to come forward.

In the Via Calabria, in another part of town, a party of three crept forward like cats. An explosion, possibly of a mortar shell, at some distance to the north but apparently inside the town, caused them to fall flat with a splash of dust. They waited on their bellies to see what would happen.

An entire platoon ducked from grave to grave in the Capucin Cemetery high on the hill overlooking town. The entire platoon was scarce. They were out of touch with their unit. They did not know the situation. They were near their objective, which was the rocky crest not far off, but they wanted to find out what was going on in the town before they moved on.

All through the town of Adano, Americans were like this. They were not getting much resistance, but it was their first day of invasion, and they were tight in their muscles.

But at one of the sulphur loading jetties at the port a Major with a brief case under his arm stepped from the sliding gangway of LCI No. 443, and he seemed to be wholly calm.

"Borth," he said to the sergeant who followed him onto the jetty, "this is like coming home, how often I have dreamed this." And he bent over and touched the palm of his hand to the jetty, then dusted his palm off on his woolen pants.

This man was Major Victor Joppolo, who had been named senior civil affairs officer of the town of Adano, representing Amgot. He was a man of medium height, with the dark skin of his parents, who were Italians from near Florence. He had a mustache. His face was round and his cheeks seemed cheerful but his eyes were intense and serious. He was about thirty-five.

The sergeant with him was Leonard Borth, an M.P., who was to be in charge of matters of security in Adano; he was to help weed out the bad Italians and make use of the good ones. Borth had volunteered to be the first to go into the town with the Major. Borth had no fear; he cared about nothing. He was of Hungarian parentage, and he had lived many places—in Budapest, where he had taken pre-medical studies; in Rome, where he had been a correspondent for Pester Lloyd, in Vienna, where he had worked in a travel agency; in Marseille, where he had been secretary to a rich exporter; in Boston, where he had been a reporter for the Herald, and in San Francisco, where he sold radios. Still he was less than thirty. He was an American citizen and an enlisted man by choice. To him the whole war was a cynical joke, and he considered his job in the war to make people take themselves less seriously.

When the Major touched Italian soil, Borth said: "You are too sentimental."

The Major said: "Maybe, but you will be the same when you get to Hungary."

"Never, not me."

The Major looked toward the town and said: "Do you think it's safe now?"

Borth said: "Why not?"

"Then how do we go?"

Borth unfolded a map case deliberately. He put a freckled finger on the celluloid cover and said:

"Here, by the Via Barrino as far as the Via of October Twenty-eight, and the Piazza is at the top of the Via of October Twenty-eight."

"October Twenty-eight," the Major said, "what is that, October Twenty-eight?"

"That's the date of Mussolini's march on Rome, in 1923," Borth said. "It is the day when Mussolini thinks he began to be a big shot." Borth was very good at memory.

They started walking. The Major said: "I have lost all count, so what is today?"

"July tenth."

"We will call it the Via of July Ten."

"So you're renaming the streets already. Next you'll be raising monuments, Major Joppolo, first to an unknown soldier, then to yourself. I don't trust you men who are so

They came in time to the town's main square, which was called Piazza Progresso. And on that square they saw the building they were looking for.

There was a clock tower on the left hand front corner. On top of the tower there was a metal frame which must have been designed to hold a bell. It was baroque and looked very old. But there was no bell.

On the side of the clock tower big white letters said: "Il Popolo Italiano ha creato col suo sangue l'Impero, lo feconda col suo lavoro e lo difendera contra chiunque colle sue armi."

The Major pointed and said: "See, Borth, even after our invasion it says: 'The Italian people built the Empire with their blood, will make it fruitful with their work and will defend it against anyone with their arms.'"

Borth said: "I know you can read Italian. So can I. Don't translate for Borth."

The Major said: "I know, but think of how that sounds today."

Borth said: "It sounds silly, sure."

The Major said: "If they had seen any fruit of their work, they would have fought with their arms. I bet you could teach them to want to defend what they have. I want to do so much here, Borth."

Borth said: "That sounds silly too. Remember the alley, clean up the alleyway, sir, it is the alley that you ought to concentrate on."

The Major walked across the Piazza up to the big black door of the Palazzo, put his brief case down, took a piece of chalk out of his pocket, and wrote on a panel of the door: "VICTOR JOPPOLO, MAJOR, U.S.A., AMGOT, Town of Adano."

Then both men went inside and up some marble stairs, looking all around them as they climbed. They took a turn and went through a door marked Podesta. The office on the other side of that door took Victor Joppolo's breath away.

In the first place, it was so very big. It must have been seventy feet long and thirty feet wide. The ceiling was high, and the floor was marble.

"Gay," said Major Joppolo, "this is okay."

"Looks like that office of Mussolini's," Borth said. "Come to think of it, you look quite a lot like Mussolini, sir, except the mustache. Will it be okay with you to be a Mussolini?"

"Cut the kidding," the Major said. "Let's look around."

They went out through the white door at the end of the room and walked through several offices, all of which were crowded with desks and files and bookcases. The files had not been emptied or even disturbed. "Good," said Borth, "lists of names, every one registered and all their records. It'll be easy for us here."

The Major said: "What a difference between my office and these others. It is shameful."

All Borth said was: "Your office?"

When the two went back into the big office there was an Italian there. He had evidently been hiding in the building. He was a small man, with a shiny linen office coat on, with his collar buttoned but no tie.

The small Italian gave the Fascist salute and with an eager face said in Italian: "Welcome to the Americans! Live Roosevelt! How glad I am that you have arrived. For many years I have hated the Fascists."

The Major said in Italian: "Who are you?"

The little man said: "Zito Giuseppe. I have been well known as anti-Fascist."

Major Joppolo said: "What do you do?"

Zito said: "I greet the Americans."

Borth said in an Italian which was heavily accented: "Idiot, what was your job before the disembarkation?"

Zito said: "Zito Giovanni, usher in the Palazzo di Citta, native of Adano."

Major Joppolo said: "You were the usher here?"

"Every day from eight to eight."

"Why did you work for the Fascists if you hated them?"

"I have hated them many years, I am well known as anti-Fascist. I have lived under a great suspicion."

The Major said: "Usher, I love the truth, you will find that out. If you lie to me, you will be in very serious trouble. Do not lie to me. If you were a Fascist, you were a Fascist. There is no need to lie."

Zito said: "One had to eat, one had to earn a living. I have six children."

Major Joppolo said: "So you were a Fascist. Now you will have to learn to live in a democracy. You will be my usher."

The little Zito was delighted. The Major said: "Do not salute me that way."

Zito bowed and said: "The fascist salute, no sir."

Zito bowed and said: "The fascist salute, no sir."

THIS matter we are about to tackle may be a trifle over our head, but we'll take a shot at it just the same. It concerns concentration, reflexes and instinct, which at least work together, although entirely different. But they are the main foundations of any winning effort.

Reflex action, as you probably know, is co-ordinated response of eye, brain and muscle to some situation. For example, in boxing the eye sees an opening as brain and muscle respond in a split second.

There's no wasted delay. But as one gets older reflex action gets slower. The eye will see the opening but the muscle usually arrives a trifle too late.

As a concrete illustration consider Mel Hein in football. Year after year Mel had a quick flash of what was happening and he was usually on top of the play. He can still see what is taking place in a half-flash, but naturally after so many seasons of wear and tear his legs may not quite get there in time, although it is still amazing how many times big Mel is on hand at the right second.

Instinct and reflexes are something that can't be taught. You have them or you don't have them. Eddie Arcaro and Ted Atkinson will tell you that in any close spot it is instinct that directs the next move, for it must be done in less than a breath.

The instinct and the reflexes of such ball players as Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and other leaders worked perfectly on a rule. They did the right thing subconsciously without any direct conscious thought attached. They rarely did the wrong thing. Jack Dempsey will tell you in his two closing fights with Gene Tunney that he could see openings which he could have used effectively in his earlier years. But he was no longer the Dempsey of Toledo, especially against the cleverness of a Tunney.

Mental Discipline
But concentration is another affair. It doesn't call for the split-second, the powder-dare speed of the other two ingredients demand. Concentration demands the discipline of the mind or brain that in turn controls muscular movement. It is one of the rarest of all the competitive species, since it goes with mental punishment. It is something that must be forced and watched. It can never be taken for granted as it may slip from your hold like a greased eel.

To begin with, any extended concentration means punishment. "One of the reasons I quit tournament golf," Bobby Jones told me, "was that I got tired of taking the beating I had to take through 72 holes of play, where I knew I couldn't afford to take my mind off the job."

Jones was one of the best of all concentrators. "I find I can hit the ball as well as ever," Gene Sarazen says, "but I can't keep concentrating as I used to. I can't keep thinking through every shot to be played. My mind begins to wander."

Tunney was one of the best concentrators in all sport. Gene worked as hard on directing his mind as he ever worked on his legs or arms. A few hours before facing Dempsey in Chicago, Tunney read some book—I've forgotten the name. But he could tell you everything he had read in that book. That means the top of mind control—with a million dollars at stake—and Jack Dempsey's punch just on ahead.

Few would believe the number of hours Tunney forced himself to practice this combination. "And it wasn't any fun," he added. "It was the hardest sort of work."

Walter Hagen could kid with you and laugh with you one minute, and a second later concentrate entirely on the shot to be played. Few are that lucky.

Think of Next Play
Few football players know the value of concentration as Mel Hein knew it. While the opposing team had the ball, he continually faced the possibilities of a pass, a hidden ball, a line thrust, a spinner or an end run. A good defensive back or a defensive lineman must have complete control of his thinking apparatus through every playing second. Hamburg of Navy belonged in this class. Blanchard and Davis of Army have this ability.

Most Notre Dame teams have been keen, alert, able concentrators on the next play. "I want your bodies physically relaxed — your minds always alert," Knute Rockne told and taught them.

Jack Johnson's concentration was almost entirely on defense—Jack Dempsey's on attack. Ty Cobb used to map out certain plays weeks in advance, and then be ready to use them when the right time arrived. He rarely overlooked the right time.

Without concentration you might not be able to use such natural gifts as reflexes or instinct.

USS MISSOURI TO BE SCENE OF HISTORIC JAP SURRENDER

The United States Navy's mighty 1945, in Tokyo Bay, when she serves as the scene of the historic unconditional surrender of Japan to the United States in a blaze of glory, Aug. 31, United Nations. Proudly bearing the name of the home state of President Harry S. Truman, the fighting USS MISSOURI has been named by General of the Army, Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, as the locale of the formal ending of the war in the Pacific. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet and Pacific Ocean Area, will sign for the United States, General of the Army, MacArthur, for the Allied forces which fought in the Pacific. The USS MISSOURI was launched January 29, 1944. Construction was ordered June 12, 1945. Her keel was laid on Jan. 6, 1941, at the New York Navy Yard.

On Wednesday older heads covered and began to think about the needs of a peacetime economy. WPA, OPA and other war agencies—on skeleton staffs by Presidential proclamation—quickly relaxed some wartime controls.

A round-up of opinion at the various agencies, as to what will happen in the coming six months or so brings the following conclusions:

1. The U. S. will strive for a post-war standard of living 50 per cent higher than any other nation in the world.
2. Most production controls will be gone by today or tomorrow.
3. Cancellation of over 50,000,000, 000 in war contracts before September.
4. 5,000,000 unemployed within 60 days.
5. Quiet passage of new unemployment compensation bill by Congress.
6. More and unrationed meat, clothing, shoes, tires, and other civilian items within 60 days.
7. 2,500,000 radios, plenty of refrigerators and electric stoves by Christmas—but automobiles and housing will be scarce for more than a year.

Army and Navy men, as well as many other observers are not happy over Japan's attitude in defeat. There are, they say, unmistakable signs that the Nipponese consider this only a temporary setback and are already planning the next war. The Japs say they weren't fully prepared but will be next time.

As a result of this attitude, controls over the island empire will be even tighter than anticipated. MacArthur is expected to give them no chance to make any war products or anything resembling arms. He probably won't even permit fire-crackers, say those who know him.
