Friendly, McSmith's Opinion

The following letter was received by the Snow family from William David McSmith of White's Store about two weeks ago:

Netherlands East Indies
Oct. 21, 1944

Dear Friends:

Now that I've caught up with my work for a few minutes, I'll try to write you a few lines, without being interrupted. I'm sorry I haven't written sooner, but sometimes it's pretty hard to find time to write to the folks even.

I've been on this island, a month and a half. At first it was really hard to get used to the climate, and the food, as well as some of the regulations they have over here. This is my second stop. The first stop I made was terrible, but this place is better and I like it fine in spite of waking up, and finding 8 inch centipedes playing hide and seek in my shoes. There are a lot of different kinds of what they call insects here, but some of them are almost as large as rats. They are the sort of things that exist only in night marcs until you get to this place. I could name many different things like that, but you might get the impression that I don't like this place; but really it isn't so bad, after you get used to it, but you wouldn't call it a picnic exactly either.

I'm a typist clerk in headquarters company here, and I like it fine. We have a swell bunch of officers, and enlisted men to work with. Every evening we are authorized to use a truck to go to the Lake for swimming, which is O. K. This, is of course, in lieu of bath tubs and hot showers, but it serves the purpose as well as the fun there is in it. Also, every few nights we are permitted to use a truck to go to the movies at some other organization. Maybe the show is three or four years old, but it still beats hanging around the tent wishing you were at home.

Where is Charles now, Do you hear from him?

Just the other day, I missed seeing my oldest brother by about two or three hours. He is in the Navy over here. His ship pulled out just before I got here. I still have a good chance of seeing him if he gets back to port here.

The natives of this place are something I'll never forget. I hope to get some pictures of them soon; their women wear grass skirts, true enough, but the guy who started that stuff about the beautiful sarong clad maidens of the South Sea Islands ought to be hung. We don't see white women here very often except in the hospitals, and I have my first opportunity yet to get to speak to one. Still I have no complaint coming, as there are guys here who have been here ever since the war started. I certainly hope this war will be over before any one else has to stay that long.

If I don't stop I will miss chow. I've gotten to where I can tell what we are going to have every meal—Spain, in some form or other. How about sending me some Welch rare-bit, for a change?

Answer soon. Your friend,
Pfc. William David McSmith

Fire at Corn Ranch

The ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Corn of Bingham, was razed by fire last Monday. The house and contents were totally destroyed.

Passed Away in Kansas

Mrs. Dan Elliott received a message last Wednesday afternoon notifying her of the death of her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Poole, age 86, which occurred at 1 p. m. on that date at the home of her son in Hope, Kans. Mrs. Poole had been very ill for more than a month. Mrs. Elliott visited her mother the week before Christmas, so felt unable to attend the funeral as she herself had been ill.

R. M. & Robert Meza, brother of Miss Adela Meza, and MOMM 2c Albert Sanchez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez met accidentally last Christmas Eve on the Island of New Guinea. They were glad to exchange news from home and on so momentous a date too.

Sgt. Bob Skinner left last Friday for Santa Ana, California where he will be stationed for some time. He returned recently from India where he had been for more than two years.

Sgt. Albert Roberts who has been on a vacation spent several days at home. Sgt. Roberts is stationed at Albuquerque.

Mrs. Elva Sherrill has been informed that Sgt. Joe Cooper has been transferred from Brun's General hospital, Santa Fe, to McCluskey's General hospital, at Temple, Texas.

Alfred Martinez S i e l a visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iyan Martinez for a few days.

Seaman 1c Bennie Barnett, who youthful as he is, is already a seasoned veteran of overseas warfare, arrived home Saturday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Barnett.

Cop. and Mrs. Joe Phillips of Warrensburg, Mo., have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Phillips.

Pvt. Hoyt Bivens who has been stationed in California is at home on furlough.

Mrs. Margarita Chavez, of Capitan received a letter from her brother Mike S. Peralca, who was a member of New Mexico's famous 200th Coast Artillery, and who is now a prisoner of the Japs. He stated that the package was very much appreciated though a year old.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS OPENS FOR PREVENTION OF POLIO.

As the 1945 drive for funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis opens, New Mexico leaders in the move against the disease enter a new phase of organization—county chapters to which are delegated a task that will search out victims requiring county or Foundation aid, recruits for training in the treatment of these stricken, and education of the public.

Clyde Tingley of Albuquerque, state chairman since the annual drives were inaugurated on a state-wide basis in New Mexico, notes with satisfaction the response with which the public is receiving visits from Mrs. Ethel C. Rockwood, appointed State Representative by the Foundation last October. Mrs. Rockwood has visited more than half of the county chapters and will contact the others as soon as possible.

The National Foundation urges that the money raised by the Fund-Raising Appeal (fifty per cent of which is kept by the county chapter) be spent in assisting local polio cases.

Each of the county chairmen in the women's division, headed by Mrs. J. P. White of Roswell, New Mexico, must weave the organization into a working unit for public benefaction. Mrs. Dorothy Yochem of Carrizozo, is chairman of Lincoln County. Since the national women's division itself is barely over a year old, formed by Mary Pickford, New Mexico's progress in that direction is remarkable.

Emphasized by the National Foundation and New Mexico county chapters is the availability of Foundation funds for physiotherapy training at reputable institutions. Inquiries concerning the scholarships may be directed to the Lincoln County Campaign Director, Felix Ramey, Carrizozo.

MR. ANDERSON APPOINTED TO WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE

In congratulating Congressman Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico on his appointment to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, Senator Carl A. Hatch said he considered it a most signal honor—not only to Mr. Anderson but to New Mexico as well.

"The Ways and Means Committee is probably the most important committee in either branch of the Congress," he said, "and membership on it is eagerly sought by all members of the House."

"I am told," the senator added, "that, with but two exceptions, the Rocky Mountain area has never been represented on the Ways and Means Committee, as this distinction ordinarily goes to states having large delegations."

"Congressman Francis G. Newland, of Nevada, served on this committee from 1899 to 1903. Charles B. Timberlake of Colorado, served on it from 1919 to 1933."

"The entire Rocky Mountain section, having had membership on this committee so seldom, will be gratified and pleased by Mr. Anderson's appointment," Senator Hatch stated. "It is a place where he can serve our state and the nation most effectively. Naturally, having observed his splendid and effective legislative efforts, I am personally very happy at this well-deserved recognition."

"It is, indeed, a splendid tribute to him and to our state."

Lucky Barnetts

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Barnett are enjoying the pleasures of an unbroken family this month. Their daughter, Ruth, of Tucuman, is at home for 21 days; their daughter, Hilda Ann, of Ventura, California is at home for 30 days and their son, Bennie S 1 c U S N is just back from the war zone for 30 days.

This is a remarkably pleasant circumstance for these war days.

NOTICE!

Mrs. Wayne A. Walther returned last Monday from Washington, where she had been to visit her husband, Sgt. Wayne Walther.

Mrs. C. O. Davis and granddaughter, Mrs. C. V. Cobb, were El Paso business visitors the past week end.

Mrs. Johnie Walker of the Alamogordo air base was a business visitor here last Monday.

NO COMPARISON

Two wars within a generation of each other have created tempting possibilities in the way of comparison that are constantly being held up to prove or disprove some point. Now we are beginning to be told that the greatest danger from inflationary price increases can be expected near the end or shortly after the present war. As usual, for conclusive proof, the record of the last war is cited.

The assumption that because prices went up drastically after the last war, they will automatically do the same thing this time if preventative measures are not taken, is open to serious question. At the time of the last war, the technique of mass production had not hit full stride. And, comparatively speaking, distribution was still living in the dark ages. Both industry and distribution operate upon an entirely different principle than they did a quarter of a century ago.

Today the manufacturer knows that to be successful, he must keep the price of his product down—Henry Ford taught him that lesson. The same is true of distribution. The good retailer knows that if he is to meet competition, he must sell a large volume of goods at a reasonable price—the chain store taught him that lesson. And so, from manufacturer to consumer, the principle of production and distribution is the opposite of a few years ago. The maxim of "charging all that the traffic will bear," has given way to the practice of charging as little as possible, while selling as much as possible. Science has taken the place of opportunism because, in the long run, it has proven more profitable.

If prices do go up it will not be due to the chicanery of producer or distributor. And the fact that they went up after the last war, has practically no bearing on the present. Mass production and mass distribution were little more than experiments in 1918.

Our boys must keep on fighting—we must keep on buying WAR BONDS until victory is won. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEDURE

Citizens of the United States are urged to watch the progress of the committee established by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 23 when it begins its deliberations in the next Congress. The resolution, which received unanimous acceptance in the Senate recently, was called, "possibly one of the most far-reaching legislative actions of the 78th Congress." Sponsored by Senator Mahoney (D-Conn.) and Representative Monroney (D-Okla.), it provides for a non-partisan joint committee to consider congressional procedure and staffing to bring Congress up to date and to permit more informed congressional consideration of pending legislation and the functioning of the executive branch of the government. The resolution carries no guarantee of positive results, but it does open the door to the kind of congressional action which can establish reasonable balance between the legislative and executive branches in Washington.—(New Mexico Tax Bulletin.)

Notes of a Newspaperman

Peter Donald forwards a story about three GIs just back from overseas who went into the automat and found that the only available table was one that was occupied by a spinsterish female. Wanting a little privacy, they decided to sit down, hoping by means of conversation to make her finish up and leave in a hurry. The first GI said: "Boy, life overseas sure was tough. I didn't have a bath in eight months."

"Think that's bad?" said the second. "I couldn't even wash my hands in four weeks."

"We were so busy," the third added, "I couldn't change my underwear in five months."

At that point, the old gal looked up and said: "Would one of you stinkers mind passing the salt?"

The government has stopped horse racing in America. We wish it were as easy to stop America's Trojan horses.

An American citizen of German ancestry was walking down Powell Street, in San Francisco, when he was stopped by a soldier who asked: "Can you tell me the way to Chinatown?" ... He replied: "Yes, of course, it is two blocks over and two blocks to the left, but you don't want to go there because you are a Jap" ... The soldier replied: "And you are a German" ... The citizen said: "How did you know?" ... The soldier replied: "I know because I've killed a lot of them the last two months in Italy and I'm on my way home to Seattle" ... The citizen of German ancestry looked at the uniform of the soldier and saw on it a Presidential citation, the Purple Heart and a few other campaign ribbons.

Telling this story about himself, he said: "Boy, was I embarrassed! The soldier was of Japanese ancestry and a member of the famous 100th Infantry Battalion!"

Edward Stettinius, who is certainly the most modest and democratic of our Secretaries of State, used to visit the Broadway night clubs occasionally a few years ago. One night he went into the old Paradise with a male companion ... Headwaiter Albert Berryman scanned them with an appraising and unrecognizing eye.

"Hello, Albert," said Stettinius, "don't you remember me?"

"Oh, yes," fibbed Albert (trying to place the man), as he showed him to a none-too-good table.

The part I like is that Stettinius (who was then only chairman of U. S. Steel) knew headwaiter Albert, but Albert didn't know him!

Ernest Hemingway went to Chicago years ago after working in Kansas City. He had lived in Oak Park, Ill., and was an old schoolmate of Ted Tod's, now working for Warners' ... At the time, Ted was working for the Chicago Herald-Examiner as a reporter, and Hemingway hoped Ted would try to get him a job on the paper ... Ted went in to speak to Frank Carcon, the city editor. He told him all about Hemingway—what a good writer he was ... He said: "He hasn't worked in Chicago, but he knows it, knows names, etc." ... Carcon looked up and ho-hummed: "Does he know any Chicago copper?" ... "No," said Ted ... "Well, I don't care how good a writer he is," replied Carcon. "Our reporters have to know the Chicago coppers" ... So Hemingway didn't get the job. Instead he went to Canada—worked on a Toronto paper and from there started his climb.

If it hadn't been for his not knowing any Chicago policemen, Hemingway might still be working on the Chicago paper.

All this talk of what to do with Germany—and, of course, it is more than talk, it is a grave, great problem—reminds me of this tale ... An apostle of conciliation once asked the late Georges Clemenceau if his hatred of the Germans was based on knowledge. "Have you ever been to Germany?" he inquired.

"No, Monsieur," replied the Tiger. "I have not been to Germany. But twice in my lifetime the Germans have been to France."

This isn't as good as the "Westinghouse—I'm wasting" gag—but it's going the rounds among the lcky set—and makes me lick: "We're broom-mates. We sweep together. Dust us two."

It happened at an army training camp, reports Irving Hoffman. The sergeant had twenty recruits lined up for fatigue duty ... They were not as energetic as the sergeant thought they should be ... So he tried to cure them ... "I've got a nice easy job for the laziest man present," he barked. "Will the laziest man raise his right hand?" ... Nineteen men raised their right paws ... "Why don't you raise your hand?" inquired the sergeant of the 20th lad. "Too much trouble," he drawled.

Soybeans No Menace To Soil Improvement

Rotation and Proper Fertilization Solution

SOYBEANS were defended against the charge of being "a menace to soil improvement" by a group of Purdue university agronomists. "No other crop has had such a spectacular career in America as the soybean, which in little more than a decade has been catapulted into fourth place in value among crops grown for grain or seed in this country. No other crop in history has been so feared by farmers as a potential destroyer of fertility. Reviewing the results of an eight-year test, these experts drew the following conclusions: "Soybeans are no more soil-depleting in minerals than are corn, alfalfa or some other crops on an equivalent yield basis."

Pointing out that all crops when grown and removed from the land deplete the soil minerals, the agronomists recommend that extra amounts of phosphorus and potash fertilizers be used in any crop rotation that includes soybeans in order to replenish the plant food removed when beans and other grain are sold as a cash crop.

Concerning the danger of soil erosion when soybeans are grown, they declared: "The problem of erosion with soybeans is much the same as with corn. On rolling land, soybeans should be planted on the contour, preferably drilled solid and should

Inoculation also pays. be followed by a winter grain or cover crop. "On acid soils, limestone or marl is the prime need of soybeans. Without lime on such soils, fertilizers have little effect. These soils after liming usually gave marked response to phosphorus and potash fertilizer when plowed under for beans."

Considering the total of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash removed in the grain, soybeans are less soil depleting than corn, the agronomists reported. "In any soil improvement program," they added, "deep-rooted legumes, clovers and alfalfas should always be grown where soybeans are included in the rotation. Extra amounts of fertilizer containing phosphorus and potash should be used in the crop rotation to replenish the plant food removed when beans and other grain are sold as cash crops."

Agriculture In the News By W. J. DRYDEN

Submarginal Sunflower

Sunflowers may surpass the soybean which has proven America's wonder crop of the present generation.

Sunflower oil sells for about 15 cents a pound. The meal, with a protein content of 53 per cent might prove profitable, not only for its food value, but as a rich source for plastic products.

As sunflowers can be grown on submarginal soil, where rainfall is scanty and nothing else of value is now raised, it promises an outlet for many farmers.

Sunflower seeds long ago proved their value as a poultry feed. While their protein content was not recognized by many poultrymen, it was known that they had a beneficial effect upon the bird's feathers.

Sunflower stocks, ground, prove satisfactory for silage as well as poultry house litter.

Disinfect All Tools

Careless handling of instruments used for detouring, vaccination and similar operations on cattle may spread the serious and often fatal disease, anaplasmosis, according to the U. S. department of agriculture scientists.

Inadequate disinfection of such instruments will produce what are classed as "man-made" cases of the animal disease. In many cases the loss through man-made disease can be entirely eliminated.

Editorial

Imagine the horror of trench-foot, a disease that any of our fighting men may contract from wearing their shoes too long in the mud and slush of German winter weather.

Imagine the desperation of our soldiers as they face the undreamed of blood and carnage in combat with enemies who like cornered wolves, are hopeless and desperate.

Imagine the sadness, the heartache and bitterness these young soldiers and sailors feel when compelled to go into battle without a letter from home, without a line of comfort from anywhere, and not knowing whether they will come through alive.

Imagine all of these things, if you can, then write letters, send messages, buy War Bonds, and pray without ceasing.

This war has held many surprises. In the beginning, for example, it was freely predicted that small business would be almost completely wiped out. It wasn't. In some instances it has expanded at the expense of larger business. In retail distribution the trend has definitely been in favor of the small independent merchant.

Chain food stores accounted for 35.5 per cent of food store sales in the first quarter of 1942. The first quarter of 1943 saw their share shrink to 30.5 and ease still further to 29.2 per cent in the same period of 1944. The low point was 29.9 per cent for the fourth quarter of 1943, according to Commerce Department figures.

Of course, the chains are not going to be put out of business by the independents any more than the chains could put the independents out of business. Given the opportunity, both forms of merchandising will prosper.

The principal point which the above figures emphasize is the danger of tampering with the free play of competition by legislation designed to give special benefits to groups presumed to be competitive underdogs, through levying special taxes against groups presumed to have a competitive edge. A few years ago attempts were made to penalize chain stores on the fallacious ground that they controlled the bulk of the retail business and were ruining the independent merchants, the same chain stores that today are playing such a vital part in holding down the general cost of living.

After the war is over every form of merchandising will be needed if our great production capacity is to be translated into higher living standards for consumers.

THE LIVESTOCK SITUATION.

LOS ANGELES UNION STOCK YARDS, January 9, 1945—Change follows change in this OPA-WFA governed meat industry. The latest change announced from Washington concerns the cut aside of beef for military needs. Effective January 7th packers are required to offer all of their three top grades of beef on government order. This means that more of this beef will be used to meet Army-Navy requirements. The Government will get 60 per cent before any of the graded beef is moved from the coolers of the packers.

As yet there has been no definite action in the proposal to establish price ceilings on live cattle but it is known that OPA has plans pretty clearly outlined and may pay little heed to protests that are being voiced against the proposed ceilings and readjustment of subsidy payments.

Market supplies of cattle the past week were cut quite sharply, arrivals at Los Angeles being only a little more than 50 per cent of the weekly total prior to the holidays. As a result of the light run many packers were caught short of their urgent requirements and forced to buy on an active, sharply higher market, particularly in the case of medium, common and cutter cows. The latter classes finished unevenly 50c to $1 higher than a week earlier. On steers the upturn was largely held to 25c while bull calves advanced 25c to 50c.

Best fed steers sold at $15.50 to $16.35, the latter price on two loads of 1100 lb. Northern fed steers. Offerings carried a fair showing of heifers, quite a few loads medium to good kinds registering $13.50 to $14.50 with two loads at $14.65. Good cows moved at $12 to $13, including quite a few top dairy breeds at $12 to $12.50. Common to medium cows bulked at $10 to $11.50 with cutters around $8.50 to $9.50 and canners largely $7 to $8, a few shells dropping to 65¢ and below. Odd good beer type bulls sold up to $12.75. Bulk medium to good bulls $10 to $11.50. Stockers and feeders scarce and the market strong. Top weaners sold at $15 to $15.35.

Hog receipts continued light and prices remained firm at ceiling levels. Good to choice 180 to 290 lb. butchers sold up to $13.75. Sows tended higher, good kinds working up to a $13.75 to $14 basis. Odd lots of feeder pigs brought $16 to $17.

Sheep and lambs held largely unchanged under very meager offerings. Good woolled lambs were quoted to $15 or higher. Desirable ewes were quotable $3.50 to $6.50.

EL PASO SOUTHWESTERN LIVESTOCK SHOW AND RODEO DATES CHANGED

El Paso, Texas, January 10—El Paso's Sixteenth Annual Southwestern Livestock Show and Eighth Annual Southwestern Championship Rodeo dates have been changed to April 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, 1945, according to an announcement made today by the Show Officials.

Both events were originally scheduled for one week earlier which is Holy Week and Easter Sunday.

Toop-ranking contestants of the Cowboys' Turtle Association will ride, rope and bulldog the rugged rodeo stock of Don Nesbitt and Verne Elliott, world-famous rodeo producers and directors.

The Livestock Show of 1945 is inviting breeders of Registered Hereford, Aberdeen-Angus, and Short-horn cattle to exhibit here for the first time. A Division under the sponsorship of the local chapter of the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Association has also been added as a new feature. All classes of former shows—fat calves, swine, sheep, poultry, Quarter Horses and Palomino Horses—are again appearing in the Premium List.

NOTICE!

New Mexico employers were reminded today that unemployment compensation wage reports and tax contributions are now due and payable for the last quarter of 1944. Benjamin D. Luchini, chairman of the state's Employment Security Commission, in a statement urging employers to send in reports and contributions, pointed out that January 31st was the last day and that the law required the commission to collect interest on contributions sent in after that date; also, full federal credit for payment of state contributions, which is provided for under the federal unemployment tax Act, cannot be had on payments made after January 31.

Mr. Luchini said that some employers not previously liable under the Act will have completed thirteen weeks during which they employed two or more during 1944 or will have one or more employees whose wages amount to $450 or more in a calendar quarter, and these will come within the provisions which define coverage and liability. They will be required to file their first wage reports by January 31, he added.

More employers earned a lower rate under the experience rating provision of the Act, Luchini asserted, which reduced contributions 4 per cent under 1943. There was a sharp contrast in the figures for 1940, the last year unaffected by war influences, and those for 1944. In 1940, benefits were 93 per cent of current contributions, he declared, while in 1944, the amount paid out in weekly benefits was six-tenths per cent of contributions collected.

The Month of Dimes is from January 14 to January 31, 1945.

William H. Black, District OPA Rationing Official, followed this announcement by urging people to conserve their shoe stamps for use next spring and summer.

RATIONING MEETINGS HELD.

District OPA Rationing Officials this week held five meetings with restaurant proprietors, hotel managers and other institutional food users to explain the new rationing regulations.

It is planned to visit cities in the southern part of the state next week. Those on the trip were R. W. Harper, William H. Black, Frederick Hooper and Clyde Linthicum.

Next time you hear a Southern Pacific train whistle in the night, think of it as something more than a lonely, haunting sound. It is a reassuring sound—a promise that even while you sleep, the war trains are rolling. It's the confident voice of an industry that's doing the biggest job in its history, and will be in there pitching long after the war is over.

Wouldn't you like to know the language of the train whistles? Below we show you:

What S. P. train whistles mean

We haven't room to explain all the whistles, but here are the commonest ones. The "o" stands for a short sound, the dash means a longer sound.

■ ■ ■ Warning whistle when train is approaching a highway crossing.

○ ○ ○ When train is running, this means it will stop at next station, which is not a regular stop. If train is standing still, this signal warns that it is about to back up.

■ One long whistle is sounded a mile before train reaches stations, railroad crossings, drawbridges, etc.

■ ○ ○ ○ Signal for brakeman to protect rear of train. He must go down the track with necessary flagman's signals.

○ ○ ○ ■ Signal for brakeman to protect front of train.

■ ■ ■ ■ This signal orders brakeman to return from the west.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ This signal recalls brakeman from the east.

■ ○ ○ This tells other trains that a second section is following.

○ ○ This is the engineer's answer to most signals from other trains.

○ ○ ○ ○ ○ A succession of short sounds is a warning to persons or livestock on the track.

NOTICE!
S. P. Vidal, Collector of Internal Revenue, today reminded individual income taxpayers that Congress has changed from December 15, 1944, to January 15, 1945, the final date for filing Declarations of Estimated Income Tax, either original (as in the case of farmers), or amended, and paying of installments of estimated tax for the calendar year 1944.

Among the taxpayers affected by this change in dates are: farmers who exercised their right to defer filing declarations last April 15; others who have already filed 1944 declarations but desire to change their estimates by filing amended declarations; all persons who owe the final installment of 1944 estimated tax.

If a taxpayer who would otherwise be required to file an original or amended Declaration of Estimated tax by January 15, 1945, files his annual income tax return for 1944 (on Form 1040) and pays all taxes due by January 15, his return will serve as both a return and declaration and he need not file the 1944 declaration.

Also, if a taxpayer files his final 1944 return (on Form 1040) and pays the tax due on it by January 15, he need not pay the final installment which otherwise would be due on his estimated tax.

A bill from the Collector for the final installment of 1944 estimated tax may be ignored by a taxpayer who files his annual return (on Form 1040) and pays the tax due on it by January 15.

The New Mexico Collector stated that these changes will enable a taxpayer, if he desires to do so, to wind up all of his 1944 income tax obligations by January 15, but it does not affect the filing of his 1945 declaration which will be due March 15. Also, taxpayers who do not file their final 1944 returns by January 15 must do so by March 15.

BLOWING BUBBLES IN PERSHING SQUARE IN LOS ANGELES, like Trafalgar Square in London, is a soap boxer's Mecca.

Only a few years later Upton Sinclair sought the governorship of California on a "Production for Use" platform, and came near being elected.

Just at the close of the last presidential campaign I listened, on a national radio hook-up, to the Socialist-Labor candidate for the presidency of the United States solicit the support of the voters for the program of "Production for Use."

It is a far cry from the soap boxer orator in Pershing Square to a candidate for the presidency appealing to America over a national radio hook-up.

I can get that part of the proposed program of the workers taking over and operating the factories, and the expulsion of all capital interest in industry.

Many, to me, unexplainable theories have been expounded by the soap boxers of Pershing Square.

That something for nothing idea has developed among the American people since 1929. For a time we tried to get it out of the stock market with the resulting explosion of 1929.

Washington, D. C. GREEN U. S. COMMANDERS BLAMED FOR SETBACK

Those in the know inside the Pentagon building say that if there is ever a thorough army probe it will show that U. S. intelligence fell down even more badly than former Chief of Staff Gen. Peyton March indicated regarding advance preparations for the German breakthrough.

Military experts also say, however, that other factors contributed to the serious setback, one of them being failure to have experienced colonels and lieutenant-colonels as field commanders.

106TH DIVISION CAVED FIRST Military experts point out that the division reported to have caved in first when the Germans counter-attacked was the 106th.

If a committee of congress should ever take the trouble to look up the officers of the 106th division it will find that just before it sailed all its older field officers were removed, and younger, but very green officers, put in their places.

Military experts say somewhat the same thing happened at Kasserine pass and Salerno. At Kasserine pass, green field commanders ignored the first rudiments of defense, namely that a halted regiment should dig in and prepare field fortifications in enemy territory.

Maj. Gen. Lloyd Fredendall was made the goat at Kasserine pass and transferred back to the U.S.A. just as Maj. Gen. Ernest Dawley was made the goat at Salerno. However, high-up officers, who have studied these battles, say the real fault was not theirs, but that all colonels of the 24th division which lost so heavily at Kasserine were replaced by green field commanders just before the division saw action.

Then in June 1942, General McNair, commanding the ground forces and an A-1 general in most respects, suddenly decided to copy the British. He found that British colonels were around 45 years of age, so gave verbal orders that no American colonel over 43 could serve with combat troops.

Army experts say that undoubtedly, some colonels and lieutenant-colonels needed to be weeded out for physical or other reasons. The army has been too lax with its physically unfit during soft and easy years of peace.

Fortunately a lot of the troops landing in Normandy were seasoned under fire in Italy. Gen. Mark Clark has done a great job there of baptizing troops. Others, such as General Patch's Seventh Army were seasoned at Guadalcanal, but obviously there were not enough seasoned troops to man the long front extending all the way from Holland to the Alps, and the Nazis kept probing one spot after another until they found the softest part of the front.

One of the last acts of the 78th senate was to cancel from the federal government's list of assets, money borrowed by four southern cities in 1901, just before the Civil War. These have been listed as "unavailable cash" since that date.

Ingenuos London Pillboxes Deceived Even the Native

London is now demolishing the many pillboxes erected in 1940 to defend the city against invasion says Collier's. Although concrete fortifications, they were never detected by the aerial cameras of the enemy, being ingeniously camouflaged as newsstands, informants' booths and similar small structures.

GIRL OVERBOARD GEORGE F. WORTS

THE STORY TRUE FOR: Zorie Corey, who later herself for being so meek, is railroaded into taking a job she does not want, helping Admiral Duncan write his memoirs. She is in love with Paul Dun-

CHAPTER XIII

Mr. Lanning's throaty voice said: "I have already anticipated this problem. My suggestion is that you and Pierre go to the listening post and secure JY-419. Once you have it, Pierre will tell you where and to whom it is to be delivered. Not that I don't trust you, Steve, but the present situation is too critical for taking chances."

"I understand," Steve said. "I hope this person you have in mind is prepared to get it off the island instantly. That will be no small job in itself. Under a navy ruling, all small boats have been ordered to remain in port. The logical, simple way would be for a rowboat to take it out and turn it over to the commander of a Jap submarine—if the Japs are to be allowed in this. A rowboat could slip out without being noticed and it could make contact with a Jap submarine previously notified by a short-wave station."

"The problem of getting JY-419 off this island," Mr. Lanning said with a touch of irritation, "has already been worked out. When do you and Pierre plan to leave here for the lookout?"

"As soon as possible after the guests leave."

"You said eleven. Shall we agree on that?"

"Very well," said Mr. Lanning. "Leaving here at eleven, taking into consideration the inevitable contingencies, you should be able to deliver it anywhere on this island within five hours. To be safe, say six hours. Therefore, plan to deliver the cabinet to the place that Pierre will designate at or before five o'clock."

"The money?" Steve asked. "The man to whom you will deliver JY-419 will have the money for you in thousand-dollar bills."

"I'm not doing this entirely for the money," Steve said. "I want Germany to have JY-419. I want to do all I can to help. Are you quite sure this man to whom we will deliver it will be able to get it off this island—and out of Hawaii?"

"You need have no fear on that score," Lanning assured him. "What time have you now?"

"Exactly ten-thirty."

"Get your watch, Pierre," Lanning said. "At precisely eleven, you will meet Steve at the garage. Is that correct, Steve?"

"Yes."

Zorie had been trying to hold her breath. Then she tried breathing without making any noise. She felt desperately ill.

Paul was tugging at her wrist. He pulled her away.

When he was well beyond their hearing, he said: "Our hero! My wonderful big brother! Do you realize what that meant?"

Zorie tried to answer, but she was so stunned, so weak, she could not produce her voice.

"He's not only a Nazi sympathizer, he's selling out his own country; his own navy! JY-419! I think I've heard of it—come kind of radio gadget that can detect the approach of enemy planes. Something like the device the British've been using for night fighting, but good for fifteen hundred miles!"

She hardly heard him. Her brain was numb. Her knees were so weak she could hardly stand. It was horrible.

"The scandal this will mean to the family!" Paul was saying. "The blow it will be to the admiral!"

"Oh, yes," Zorie said weakly. "We've got to head it off," Paul said. He was so excited he was panting. "You realize, of course, we must be extremely careful. Those men are dangerous. Do you think, with a deal on like this, they'd hesitate to kill you—or me?"

To Zorie, it didn't seem important. It now occurred to her that any means they took to prevent these men from stealing JY-419 would jeopardize Steve's life. A corner of her brain jeered that death was a fate he deserved. Then it occurred to her that Paul was not qualified to deal with a situation so realistic, so dangerous as this.

No more than three minutes could have passed in the eternity since she and Paul had stolen away from the hedge.

"Where—what is Kokee?" "It isn't a place—it's the name of a region, or area, in the mountains above Waimea Canyon. Thick ohia woods with summer cabins scattered through them. On the highest hill is the navy listening post, placed there because this island is farthest west. We have our choice of notifying the listening post, or the F. B. I., or the provisional police. But perhaps there's a better way—a smarter way!"

She didn't trust him. "Paul, I want you to promise me!"

"I understand," Paul said, and he laughed softly. "You want to save him. You love the man. He's your hero. You adore him. But don't forget that I have a sentimental stake in this, too. Steve is my brother—my only brother! The big brother whom I've always envied and worshipped and feared! And he's a traitor to me and my family and my country. I've got to think of all those things. I'd like to save Steve, family and country, too."

The dinner guests were leaving. Zorie caught a queering glance from the admiral, and she didn't

She knew as well as he did that nothing of what he had said was true—that he had chosen to say just that because it would instantly destroy Winthrop Lanning's and Pierre Savoyard's trust in Steve.

It was Paul's way of handling a situation that he himself described as dynamic. He had done it deliberately, and she realized that he would claim, no matter what the consequences were, that his motives had been purely patriotic.

Zorie slipped out of the curtained door and found herself running before she was aware that she had commanded her legs to carry her as fast as they could. Steve had said he would meet Pierre at the garage at exactly eleven. There was time to spare, but she must reach him and tell him what had happened. What he chose to do about it did not concern her. Paul had deliberately jeopardized Steve's life by what he had said, and Zorie felt that it was her simple duty to warn him. If Savoyard and Lanning really believed that he had all this time been double-crossing them, they would certainly kill him without hesitation. Certainly, they had given a sufficient demonstration of their ruthlessness.

She recalled the look Pierre had given her before he ran from the lanai, and she ran faster, holding up her out-pleated star-sapphire dress so that she would not trip on it.

She ran past the tiny far-paced blue lights that marked the path to the garage. The garage, when she reached it, was dark and empty.

"Steve!" she called. "Steve!"

He did not answer her. She looked at her watch again. It said ten forty-five. Steve might not be here for fifteen minutes. He might be in his room at the house.

She started breathlessly along the path toward the house. And as she started, she heard, off to her right, in the jungle-like garden, a familiar, terrifying whisper.

"Ah-nah! It said. 'Ah-nah!'"

There were sounds in that direction, as if someone were struggling or shouting about in the dense growth. Then she heard a soft thump—a sound that might have been made by a body falling.

She flinched herself against a tree. The man passed within four feet of her, walking rapidly toward the garage.

The man was Pierre.

When he reached a turn in the path, Zorie left the tree and walked to the dark opening out of which he had come. Had he already found and killed Steve?

Zorie pushed her way through soft, damp growing things. It was so dark she could see nothing. But her feet had found another path. It was the path on which she had been standing this morning when Steve and the admiral had passed on their way to the garage, when Steve had said, "I don't give a damn who comes, so long as you get Basil Stromberg."

She paused and called softly, "Steve! Steve!"

There was no answer. She took a step toward the house. Her toe touched something soft, yielding. She became aware of the sudden spiciness of ginger flowers. It seemed to be all about her.

She bent down. Her groping fingers found, first, a pasteboard pack of matches lying on the ground. Then she touched flowers and a woman's soft, abundant hair. The flowers were still moist, as if they had been freshly plucked.

Her exploring fingers next found a face, a chin, then the texture of silk and soft, warm flesh under it. She straightened up. She wanted to scream, but she could only whimper.

It was Amber! Amber—with fresh ginger flowers in her hair!

Zorie knelt down in the path beside her. She placed her ear against Amber's breast. There was no sound of a heart beating. In Amber's body there was nothing but stillness.

Pierre had killed her. Rising from her knees, trying to collect herself, Zorie realized that Amber might have been killed because of those white ginger flowers in her hair! Zorie could not recall that Amber ever wore flowers in her hair. She had come here tonight and picked these flowers and put them in her hair. Why? Because she admired their effect in Zorie's hair? Because she was envious?

What she did know—what she could arrive at by the simplest and most logical of deductions—was that Pierre had killed Amber by mistake. He had intended to kill Zorie! She recalled his glance just before he left the lanai. He must have come upon Amber just as she had picked the white fragrant flowers and put them in her hair. He must have run to the garage to find Steve and, in back-tracking, had seen Amber striking matches to pick the flowers. He hadn't seen her clearly enough.

It now occurred to the terrified girl that Pierre was still hunting for Steve. She must find him first!

She did not hear footfalls in the path. She heard nothing until the beam of a flashlight, its lens covered with blue cellophane flashed in her face, then was lowered to the dead girl lying in the path, and Winthrop Lanning's amazed voice said, "Miss Corey! Why did you do this?"

She knew as well as he did that nothing of what he had said was true—that he had chosen to say just that because it would instantly destroy Winthrop Lanning's and Pierre Savoyard's trust in Steve.

It was Paul's way of handling a situation that he himself described as dynamic. He had done it deliberately, and she realized that he would claim, no matter what the consequences were, that his motives had been purely patriotic.

Zorie slipped out of the curtained door and found herself running before she was aware that she had commanded her legs to carry her as fast as they could. Steve had said he would meet Pierre at the garage at exactly eleven. There was time to spare, but she must reach him and tell him what had happened. What he chose to do about it did not concern her. Paul had deliberately jeopardized Steve's life by what he had said, and Zorie felt that it was her simple duty to warn him. If Savoyard and Lanning really believed that he had all this time been double-crossing them, they would certainly kill him without hesitation. Certainly, they had given a sufficient demonstration of their ruthlessness.

She recalled the look Pierre had given her before he ran from the lanai, and she ran faster, holding up her out-pleated star-sapphire dress so that she would not trip on it.

She ran past the tiny far-paced blue lights that marked the path to the garage. The garage, when she reached it, was dark and empty.

"Steve!" she called. "Steve!"

He did not answer her. She looked at her watch again. It said ten forty-five. Steve might not be here for fifteen minutes. He might be in his room at the house.

She started breathlessly along the path toward the house. And as she started, she heard, off to her right, in the jungle-like garden, a familiar, terrifying whisper.

"Ah-nah! It said. 'Ah-nah!'"

There were sounds in that direction, as if someone were struggling or shouting about in the dense growth. Then she heard a soft thump—a sound that might have been made by a body falling.

She flinched herself against a tree. The man passed within four feet of her, walking rapidly toward the garage.

The man was Pierre.

When he reached a turn in the path, Zorie left the tree and walked to the dark opening out of which he had come. Had he already found and killed Steve?

Farmers who plead for prices that will allow a fair profit on the things they produce, while at the same time boating organizations that limit or destroy any possibility of profit for others, are, to put it mildly, shortsighted. An excellent example of this conflict can be seen in the two types of cooperatives: the consumer or purchasing cooperative and the marketing or selling cooperative. In the former a group of consumers band together to buy and sell goods at cost. Normal business profits, by which we all must live, are eliminated. In the latter, a group, usually farmers, band together to form an effective marketing organization in order to insure themselves a fair price—and a reasonable profit in a competitive market. The two are as incompatible as night and day. One destroys business, the other helps to build business.

Production Credit Association Buys War Bonds

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 10:—The five production credit associations of New Mexico bought $16,000 worth of War Bonds during the sixth war loan drive, bringing their total bond purchase for the year to $134,500. D. L. Mullendore, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Wichita, announced today.

In making the announcement, Mr. Mullendore said, "This investment in War Bonds by production credit associations is evidence that while association members are working overtime to produce food for the men at the battlefronts, they are willing to invest their money in the same cause."

"NEW MEXICO IN WARTIME"

New Mexico's War Price and Rationing Board members and other volunteers this week were praised by Price Administrator Chester Bowles for their superb contribution to the war effort. Mr. Bowles called upon members of the boards and other volunteers in New Mexico and in other states to stay on the job until victory over Germany and Japan is finally won.

New Mexico now has 467 price control panel assistants; 535 board panel members, 2658 educational volunteers and 150 clerical volunteers. The last named do much clerical work at the board offices to help the paid staff. All these volunteers are giving their time without pay. More volunteers are needed, however, and Mrs. Eleanor Wald, District OPA volunteer specialist, is now on a tour of the state to recruit and train more volunteers for store survey work.
