ALVINO GUEBARRO

Funeral services for Alvino Guebarro, who died in El Paso Monday, were held Wednesday from Santa Rita Church with interment at Capitan. The Rev. Fr. Salvatore Di Giovanni officiated.

One reason so many people shirk local politics is because very few want to take the time and effort required to plan a comprehensive and all-inclusive program for civic needs. In this state city officials draw no pay for their efforts and few people realize the responsibility and work required to keep a town progressive.

Carrizozo has just been lucky in getting good officials, that's all, and it is a headachey job. When officials have been successful in directing a town's affairs, why not let them continue at the helm until their plans are accomplished.

Mrs. C. O. Davis of Redlands, Calif. is visiting relatives here and in El Paso for two or three weeks. While Mrs. Davis was here Friday and Saturday, her granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Milton V. Cobb of Indianapolis, Indiana spent one day here. They were enroute to Redlands to visit Mrs. Cobb's brother and sister.

To the Voters of the Village of Carrizozo

Ladies, and Fellow Citizens of this Liberal and Progressive Community of Carrizozo:

It is a great honor for us to be counted among a neighborhood of people whose interest is the betterment of the condition of the inhabitants of this small, but strong and well unified village, it is as we already stated, indeed a pleasure to live among neighbors upon whom we can depend for help, comfort and assistance. We have been living here well united, well protected, and well guarded against any regulation, ordinance or bylaw which might be a menace to our property rights, and that is all we are interested in.

We have heretofore been living in a peaceful quiet manner without having to perhaps appeal to the courts of the state to enjoy our property rights which are a part of our citizenship guaranteed to us by our national constitution and not compelled to build houses of a determinate value as the new ordinance now pending provides. Now if you dear neighbor and fellow citizens are interested in the welfare of our village regardless of class, race or social condition, if you wish to enjoy your property with full liberty and assure our domestic tranquility let us vote for Willie Gallacher the true friend of our common man who assisted by the council who are now running with him will surely do away with such ordinance and will help us to protect our property which is now being threatened by this oppressive ordinance which we have already cited let us vote for Gallacher and the council running with him, we appeal to the intelligence and good will of this community.

To verify our statements before mentioned we have a court house which was built through the auspices of Willie Gallacher when he was chairman of the board of county commissioners, which we are all proud of.

New Mexico Highway 54 Association

By Dr. R. E. Blaney.

The first meeting of the Highway 54 Association, since Pearl Harbor, met at the Southern Pacific Hotel on March 14th. An excellent luncheon was served to the delegates at 12 o'clock, with Reverand Loudin returning thanks. 54 sat at table, and it was a Highway 54 meeting, a strange coincidence. The meeting was called to order by the President, Dr. Blaney, who gave the address of welcome. Short speeches were made by one or more delegates from each community represented, that is contiguous to, or the Highway passes through. Chris Fox, Herman Liebreich and Mr. Pooley of El Paso, and Fred Healy, State Highway Engineer, of Santa Fe were among the speakers. The resolutions committee then reported Resolved, that every thing within the power of this association be done to have the remaining unfinished sections of 54 black topped within the next two years, approximately 150 miles. The nominating committee then reported as follows. A Dr. Blaney has been Presiden for the last ten years, that h continue to hold the office, th Doctor declined, and was electe Honorary President. Dr. J: P. Turner was then nominated from the floor, and elected by acclamation. Dan King of Tularosa was elected Secretary Treasurer. The following Vice Presidents were elected, Roy Smith, Tucumcar; Boni Lucero, Santa Rosa; C. L. Bunnally, Vaughn; Corbin Heer, Corona; R. B. Moore, Carrizozo; W. E. Knott, Three Rivers; Allen Walker, Alamogordo.

The meeting was adjourned by Prayer, Reverend Oldham officiating.

Trinity Methodist Church

Each Thursday evening at 7:30 we will have services at the church running until Palm Sunday. Then through Holy week there will be each evening service ending on Easter Sunday morning.

Palm Sunday we will receive members in the church and have Baptismal service. We now have a number of youth and adults for membership.

The lessons for these meetings are found in the parables of Jesus and their inspiration for our day.

A parable is an incident, or story, intended to teach just one point and should never be interpreted as an allegory. We miss much if we do because one man's imagination is as good as another's and we get confused.

You are welcome to come and take part in this series of studies.

John J. Loudin.

Every incorporated town worth being incorporated has a zoning ordinance; a zoning ordinance is not an oppressive measure, but a protective measure, and a guarantee for the safety of individual property owners in many respects What surprises us is that the zoning proposition hasn't been agitated before; it is a necessity for growing towns.

REPORT ON THE RUSSIANS.....

by W. L. White

INSTALLMENT EIGHT

Considering only military effectives, the miracle is that any German soldier was able to set foot on Russian soil. They were able to penetrate to the suburbs of Moscow and Leningrad and range as far as the Caucasus (1,500 miles from Berlin) not only because of Russia's technical poverty and the disorganized state of her industrial development, but also because at the time the Red Army lacked experienced officers. Her initial air force, for instance, could not compare in quality with that of the Germans. Much of it was smashed in the first few weeks of fighting.

If the Russian air force is primitive, this is no reflection on the skill of Russian pilots, who rank among the world's best. But Russia lacks the skill to turn out good planes. Of all branches of any air force, long-range bombers such as the British Lancaster and the American Fortress and Liberator require the highest degree of industrial skill for production and operation in large numbers. They are almost totally absent in the Red Air Force.

Russian pilots ranked among world's best.

The men who plan the Red Air Force have skillfully designed it around the country's many shortages; they have concentrated on production of the Stormovik, a slow, low altitude strafing plane. Since this efficient little tank buster usually operates at treetop level, the Soviet fighters which protect it have no need for high altitude equipment.

Of the 10,000 planes which America has delivered to the Soviet Union the Russians like best the Bell Airacobra, which is a light, low altitude, ground co-operation plane, similar in function to the Stormovik. It is standard Red Air Force procedure immediately to remove all high altitude flying equipment from most American planes, replacing the weight with extra ammunition.

Lacking night fighters and radar, Soviet targets within range of the Luftwaffe are particularly vulnerable to night bombing, and the standard Russian method of defense is ground fire from anti-aircraft batteries, such as was used to protect Moscow. However, lacking radar to guide their fire, the gunners can shoot only at the sound, which is a rough indication not of where the bomber is, but where it was several seconds ago. Therefore, to be effective, batteries must be massed about the target, vomiting continuous fountains of fire during a raid, an expensive procedure.

Katyn Forest is near Smolensk and is the grave of some 10,000 Poles, mostly officers, who were shot in the back of the head. Whether this slaughter of helpless war prisoners was done by Russians or Germans, there is violent disagreement and evidence both ways.

To understand the complexity of the case, a little history is necessary. When in 1939, the Germans and Russians divided Poland, the Russian share of the loot included more than 180,000 prisoners of war, of whom 10,000 were officers. A few were generals. The most distinguished of these, including General Anders, were confined to Moscow's Lubianka prison. The rest of the 10,000 officers were sent to three prison camps in the Russian towns of Staroblelsk, Kozielsk, and Ostrakov. These camps housed twelve Polish generals, sixty-nine colonels, seventy-two lieutenant colonels and in all 8,131 regular army officers and 4,096 reserve officers. Few of the last had been captured in combat. Most of them had not yet been called up for duty, but, when Russia occupied her half of Poland, obeyed the Soviet summons to assemble.

The Polish officers were reasonably well treated at the three camps until April, 1940, when the Soviets began evacuating them, telling the men they might be sent back to their homes. They left in groups of from twenty to sixty every few days during April and early May. What became of them after that, the Poles have a few clues. Most of the 10,000 vanished from the earth except for 400 who were finally taken to a camp at Gryazovets.

On June 22, 1941, Hitler attacked Russia. The Polish government in London immediately offered the hand of friendship to the Soviets, suggesting the formation from prisoners of war in Russian hands, of a Polish army. The Soviets accepted. General Anders was released from his prison cell, installed in a comfortable hotel room with apologies, and with Soviet co-operation began forming his army.

Poles, released from prison camps all over the Soviet Union, began flocking to his headquarters, but there were almost no officers.

General Anders was at first not alarmed, believing that they probably had been transferred to some far-away Arctic labor camp and presently would turn up. But as months went by and not one additional officer reported he became concerned.

November of 1941, Polish Ambassador Kot interviewed Stalin on this perplexing problem. The Marshal appeared genuinely astonished.

In Kot's presence, he rang up the NKVD and said the prisoners who had been in those three camps should be released at once.

A month passed, during which the Poles were collecting, from the 400 survivors of the three camps, a list of the names of their missing brother officers. On December 4, when Stalin received Generals Sikorski and Anders, they took with them an incomplete list of 4,500 names. This time Stalin expressed no surprise or indignation. The Poles felt he answered evasively, suggesting that the 10,000 officers might have returned to German occupied Poland or fled over the Manchurian border. Knowing how closely the NKVD supervises all travel in Russia, it was difficult for the two Polish generals to believe such a large number of officers could have accomplished this journey undetected. Picking up his telephone, Stalin called General Pamfilov at NKVD headquarters, again issuing orders to release all Poles who had ever been in the three camps.

More time passed but not an officer turned up.

A really disturbing rumor began to circulate. A few months before the German attack on Russia, the NKVD assembled several Polish staff officers, including a Colonel Berling, and suggested to them that possibly a Polish army might be organized to fight the Germans. At a conference with Russian NKVD officials, Beria and Merkulov, Colonel Berling agreed, provided it was organized "irrespective of political creeds," and then added that, at the three officers' prison camps, "we have excellent army cadres." Whereupon, Merkulov answered quickly, with some embarrassment, "No, not these men. We have made a great blunder in connection with them." Only rumors, perhaps, but they disturbed the Poles.

Then on April 13, 1943, the German radio announced that in Katyn Forest, near Smolensk, which they then held, they had discovered mass graves of about 10,000 Polish officers, each killed with a bullet through the back of his head. They said Russian peasants in the vicinity told them these prisoners of war were murdered by the NKVD in the spring of 1940, giving dates corresponding closely to the time the prison camps had been evacuated. The Germans also claimed that letters and papers found in the clothing, as well as the condition of the bodies, indicated that the men had been murdered in the spring of 1940.

Names announced over the German radio corresponded with those of Polish officers missing from the three camps.

Radio Moscow took cognizance of the German charges in a bitter broadcast saying "These German lies reveal the fate of Polish officers whom the Germans employed in construction work in that region." Russian news agency, Tass, issued a communique explaining that these Polish prisoners, who had been employed by the Russians on construction work west of Smolensk, had been captured by the Germans during the Soviet retreat in the summer of 1941.

This explanation did not satisfy all Poles. Their officers had been evacuated in April, 1940. Ever since the Russo-German break in June of 1941, the Polish government had been trying to get from the Russians some hint as to where they had been taken. Only after this German broadcast do they learn from the Soviet government that the officers had been taken to the Katyn Forest region, with the additional statement that in 1941 they were captured and murdered by the Germans.

On April 26, the Soviet government broke off relations with the Polish government in London, and set up in Moscow its own "Union of Polish Patriots" which, according to the London Polish government, was made up of Polish Communists unknown to the people of Poland.

The Red Army reoccupied Katyn, and on January 22, 1944, issued a communique saying that a Soviet investigating commission had been called to settle, once and for all, the Katyn Forest dispute.

The Russian Commission was a 100 per cent Soviet picnic. Their experts — distinguished Russian academicians—determined that the Germans, following their occupation of Smolensk, had carried out the mass shootings in the autumn of 1941, and in 1943, "calculating to set Russians and Poles at loggerheads, tried to ascribe this crime to the Soviet government." The Russians charged that in the spring of 1943 the Germans had even brought to Katyn Forest, Polish bodies from other districts, and had used 500 Russian prisoners of war in the work of removing from the Polish bodies all documents which would incriminate the Nazis and substituting documents which would tend to incriminate the Russians, after which the Germans had shot the Soviet war prisoners.

The evidence of German guilt, gathered by the Soviet Commission answers all questions but this one: if the Polish officers were still alive in the summer of 1941 and could be captured by the Germans, why were the Poles not told this at once? Why were important Polish government officials allowed to go wild-goose-chasing all over the Soviet Union for nearly two years in search of their army's officers, when the Russians knew the men were already in German hands?

An observant reporter noticed that one Polish body was clad in long, heavy underwear, and mentioned it to the Soviet doctor in charge. The doctor remarked that most of the bodies wore either heavy underwear, or overcoats, or both.

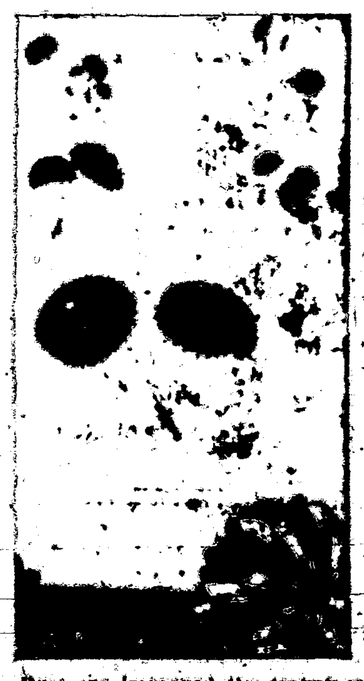
That pointed to the theory that these Poles must have been shot during April, 1940, as the Germans claimed, rather than in August and September, 1941, after the Germans moved in, as the Soviet government was contending.

When this point was raised with the Soviet conducting officers, there was considerable confusion and the Russians finally argued that the climate of Poland is uncertain, so that fur overcoats and long underwear might be worn in September.

If a reporter would write "I AM NOT A MEDICAL EXPERT BUT DOCTORS SAY the condition of these bodies proves they were murdered by the Germans," the censorship would strike out the qualifying phrase (capitalized), leaving only the bare charge.

Also stricken out were all phrases indicating any doubt in the correspondents' minds—such words as "in my opinion," "probably," or "evidence we were shown would tend to prove," with the result that the stories as received in America were as firmly damning of the Germans as Pravda's editorials.

In 1939, when the Anglo-French Military Mission was in Moscow trying to negotiate an alliance with the Soviet Union one of the Soviet demands was the right, under certain circumstances, to occupy the three Baltic States.



Russians improved the technique of paratroops that they created.

The British demurred. When I was in London in February of 1940, an intelligent young man in their foreign office gave me their position.

"Here we are," he said, "supposedly defending the rights of small European nations. We could hardly start by delivering three of them to the Russians as a price for their alliance. We have to consider opinion in the States. What would your people have said to that?"

"They would have been in favor of almost anything you had to do to win the war without their having to get in," I said, and I still think I was right.

Treat Frozen Combs Early to Stop Loss

Fertility Decreased If Males Are Victims

While prevention of frozen combs in the poultry flock is always the best cure, once this condition has been brought about every effort should be made to reduce its ill effects.

When roosters' combs are badly frozen their ability to fertilize eggs is either greatly decreased, or in some cases entirely lost. At any rate, until the comb is completely healed, high fertility cannot be expected.

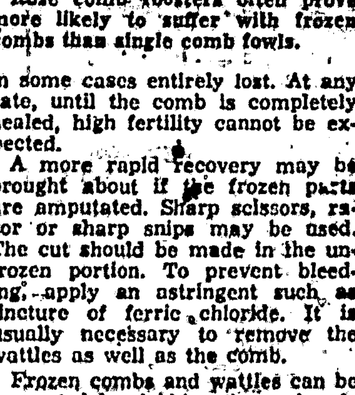
A more rapid recovery may be brought about if the frozen parts are amputated. Sharp scissors, razor or sharp snips may be used. The cut should be made in the unfrozen portion. To prevent bleeding, apply an astringent such as tincture of ferric chloride. It is usually necessary to remove the wattles as well as the comb.

Frozen combs and wattles can be prevented by dubbing the cockerels in the summer when from 6 to 12 weeks of age, when loss will be negligible.

Before placing a cockerel or rooster in the breeding pen, it should be first ascertained that his comb and wattles were not frozen the previous winter, or that he has completely recovered. In many cases, it may be a wise move to market all males with frozen combs and wattles.

Double-Blade Saw



Double-Blade Saw.

Two buck-saw blades are desirable on the farm, with one fine and one coarse blade. The combined tightener consists of two straight bars mortised loosely and bolted in the frame at one end, while at the other end they are movable in a groove on the inside of the frame.

Benefit of Artificial Insemination of Bees

Artificial insemination is not new. It has stood the test and is being successfully applied in animal husbandry. Its use with bees was delayed until recent work by the federal experiment stations pointed the way to artificial insemination to improve honey yield.

The advantages will be possible to improve stock to a high degree. The practice will not immediately be practiced by bee raisers but will be limited to experiment stations and specialists who are now in a position to furnish improved honeybee stock by this method of breeding. The necessity for increased bee population may be aided by this method. It is also important that farmers time their spraying so as not to kill off large numbers of bees, as has been the case in the past.

Use High Frequency in Sterilization of Eggs

By sterilizing the egg, killing the germ, better keeping quality is secured from market eggs when subjected to high frequency. The principle is somewhere between radio and diathermy.

Certain bacteria on the shell are also destroyed and the white of the egg is slightly stiffened, so that when broken in the frying pan the yolk stands out above it, producing a better cooking egg.

"That's swell," responded one of the authors. "You really found it refreshing?" . . . "Yes," said the reviewer, "I felt like a new man when I woke up!"

Critics usually have the last word and the last laugh. But there have been times when make-believers have flattened their belittlers. . . . John Moore: A bee was busily scolding a flower. . . . A child's definition: My memory is the thing I forget with. . . . P. Brito: How about calling it Hunter UNOversity? . . . Anon: Ignorance and Intelligence both start with I. . . . G. Drake: Of course time flies. You would, too, if someone was trying to kill you. . . . Anon: Experience makes a man wiser but leaves a woman a complete wreck.

The producer of a flop once button-holed Bob Benchley and demanded: "Who do you think you are?"

Benchley quietly replied: "I am a critic. Which means that like every man and woman I can express an opinion. The difference is that I express my opinions publicly and get paid for it."

Critic-baiting is an ancient sport. Rub a sensitive ego the wrong way and you're bound to ignite an explosion. . . . But few performers have been gifted with Paderewski's wisdom and tolerance. After the great pianist's first recital in this country, several critics panned him. An editor graciously opened the columns of his newspaper so that Paderewski could reply. But the eminent musician turned down the offer saying: "It is best that they write against me—and I play against them."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

GEORGE: "Yes, I certainly would like to hear why you call that an old fashioned idea, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Glad to tell you, George. Until recently, a person known as an alcoholic was generally treated as a social outcast. Little if anything was done to understand him or help him. But, during the past few years, medical research and study has developed that alcoholics are really sick people . . . that there is usually a deep-rooted physical, social or emotional reason behind their behavior. That's why today so much is being done to help them by finding out and correcting the condition that leads them to excess."

GEORGE: "How many folks are there like that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, according to scientific research, 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage of the sick people I'm talking about."

GEORGE: "That certainly gives me a clearer picture. It's the most sensible approach I've ever heard on the subject."

Short-Sighted Greed Imperils Our Future

"IN OUR relations abroad and in our economy at home, forces of selfishness and greed and intolerance are again at work . . . If certain interests were not so greedy for gold, there would be less pressure and lobbying to induce congress to allow the price control act to expire, or to keep down minimum wages or to permit further concentration of economic power . . . as among men, so among nations."—President Truman.

If you folks, who live in the home towns and the rural areas of the nation, could but sit in on one session of congress considering an important piece of legislation . . . if you could but watch briefly the operations of these lobbies . . . these interests "greedy for gold," here in Washington, you would understand fully the reason for the President's recent speech at Columbus, Ohio, and why he called for a "moral and spiritual awakening in the life of the individual and in the councils of the world" . . . why he declared that if we really believed in the brotherhood of man there would be no necessity for consideration of a fair employment practices act.

Unified During War

As a nation during the war, we were unified in a common cause against a common enemy to protect and preserve our liberty. Industry and labor and agriculture, indeed at tremendous profit, worked hand in hand for the common cause.

But the moment the shooting stopped, what happened? Although we are still at war, although no peace treaty has been signed, although we as a nation have made tremendous commitments to keep the world peace and police the conquered nations . . . although we emerged as the greatest humanitarian and political and military force in the world . . . we immediately started to throw our unity, our self-discipline, our humanitarianism, our military force, our political prestige to the winds . . . for what?

The greed for gold is the answer. Here in Washington, the answer is self-evident. The halls of congress are overflowing with lobbyists buttonholing members . . . money is pouring in by the thousands of dollars from power lobbies, business lobbies, agricultural lobbies, labor lobbies . . . congressmen are pulled and hauled one way or another, some willingly, some unwillingly, and the fact is there is not sufficient stamina in congress to withstand this pressure for special privileges.

Reactionaries in Saddle

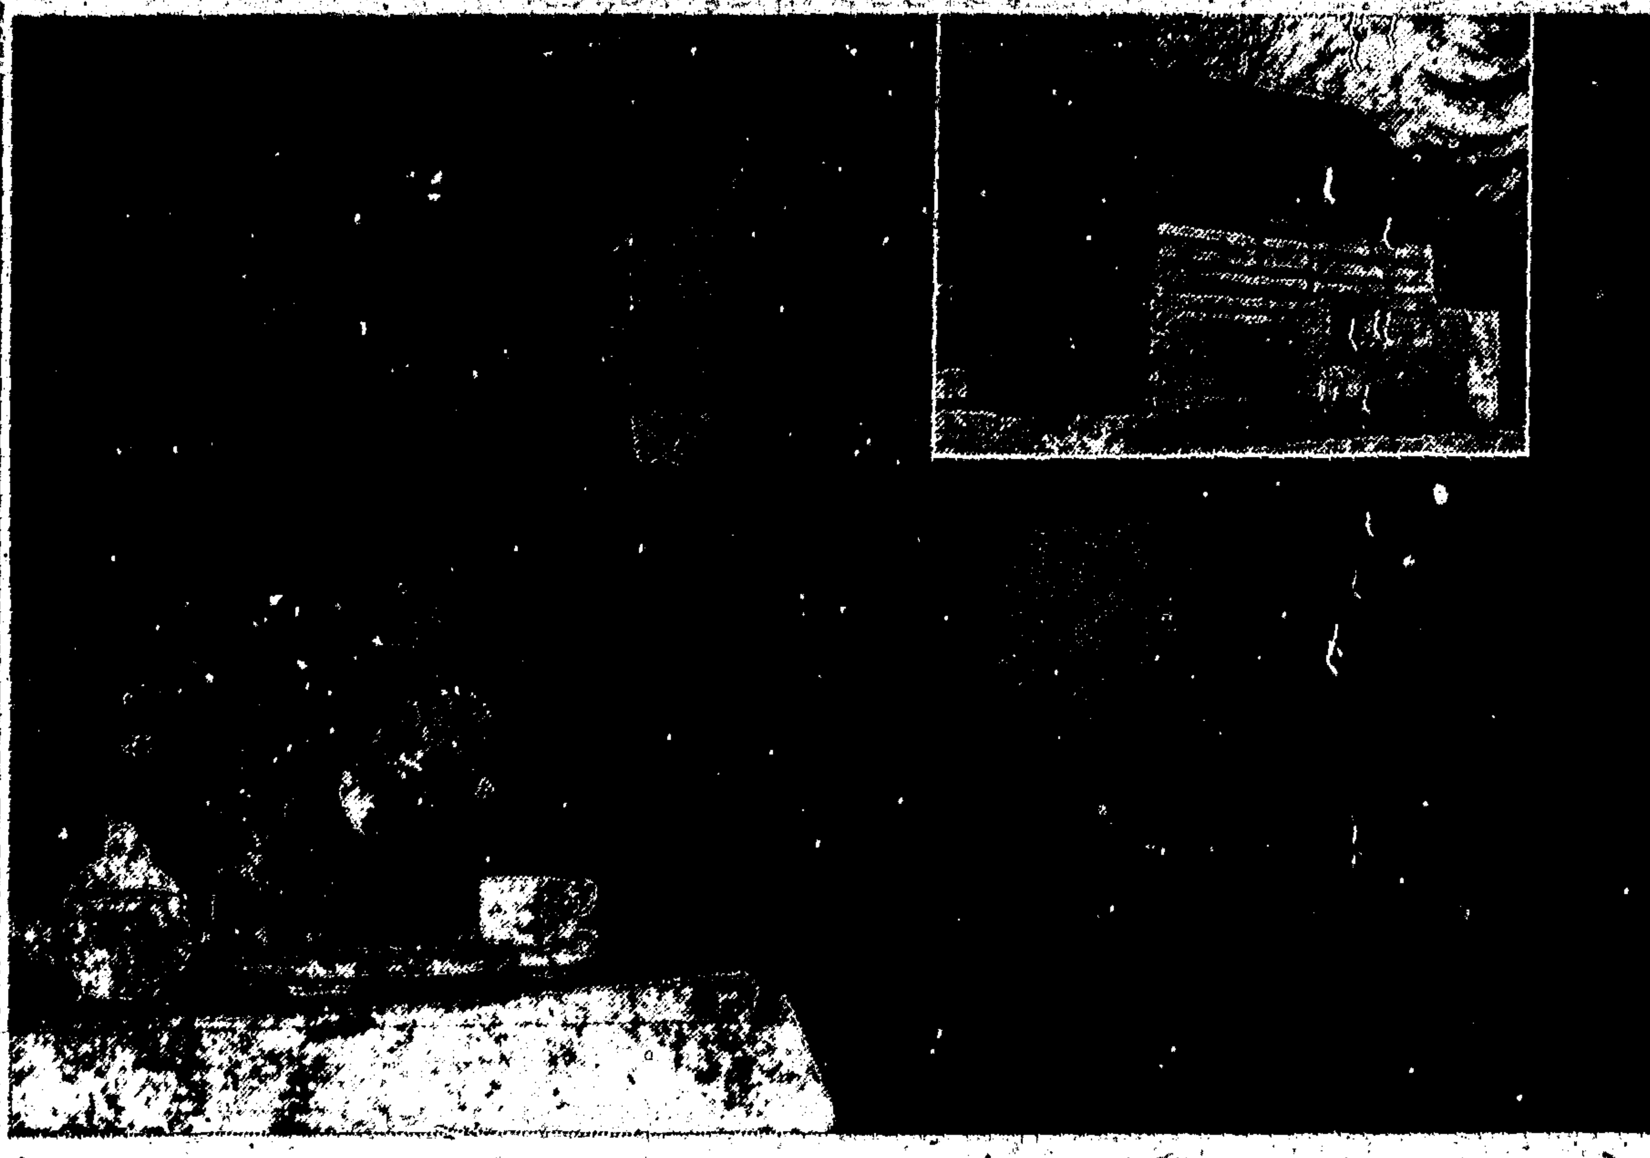
Measures instituted for the common good are emasculated, ripped to pieces by amendment, rendered ineffective and meaningless. Other measures are pigeon-holed because there is a lack of moral courage even to bring them into the open for debate and a vote; with congressional elections in the offing this fall an unholy coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans, who have no natural affinity, but who do have the common purpose of batting down every liberal and progressive movement which rears its head into their reactionary vision . . . this coalition controls legislation.

Whether the administration program of President Truman is for the good of the people or not, whether it would have brought about early reconversion, prevented inflation and made for the common welfare or not . . . we will probably never know, for it has not, nor will it be permitted to become the law of the land . . . so long as there is reactionary control of congress.

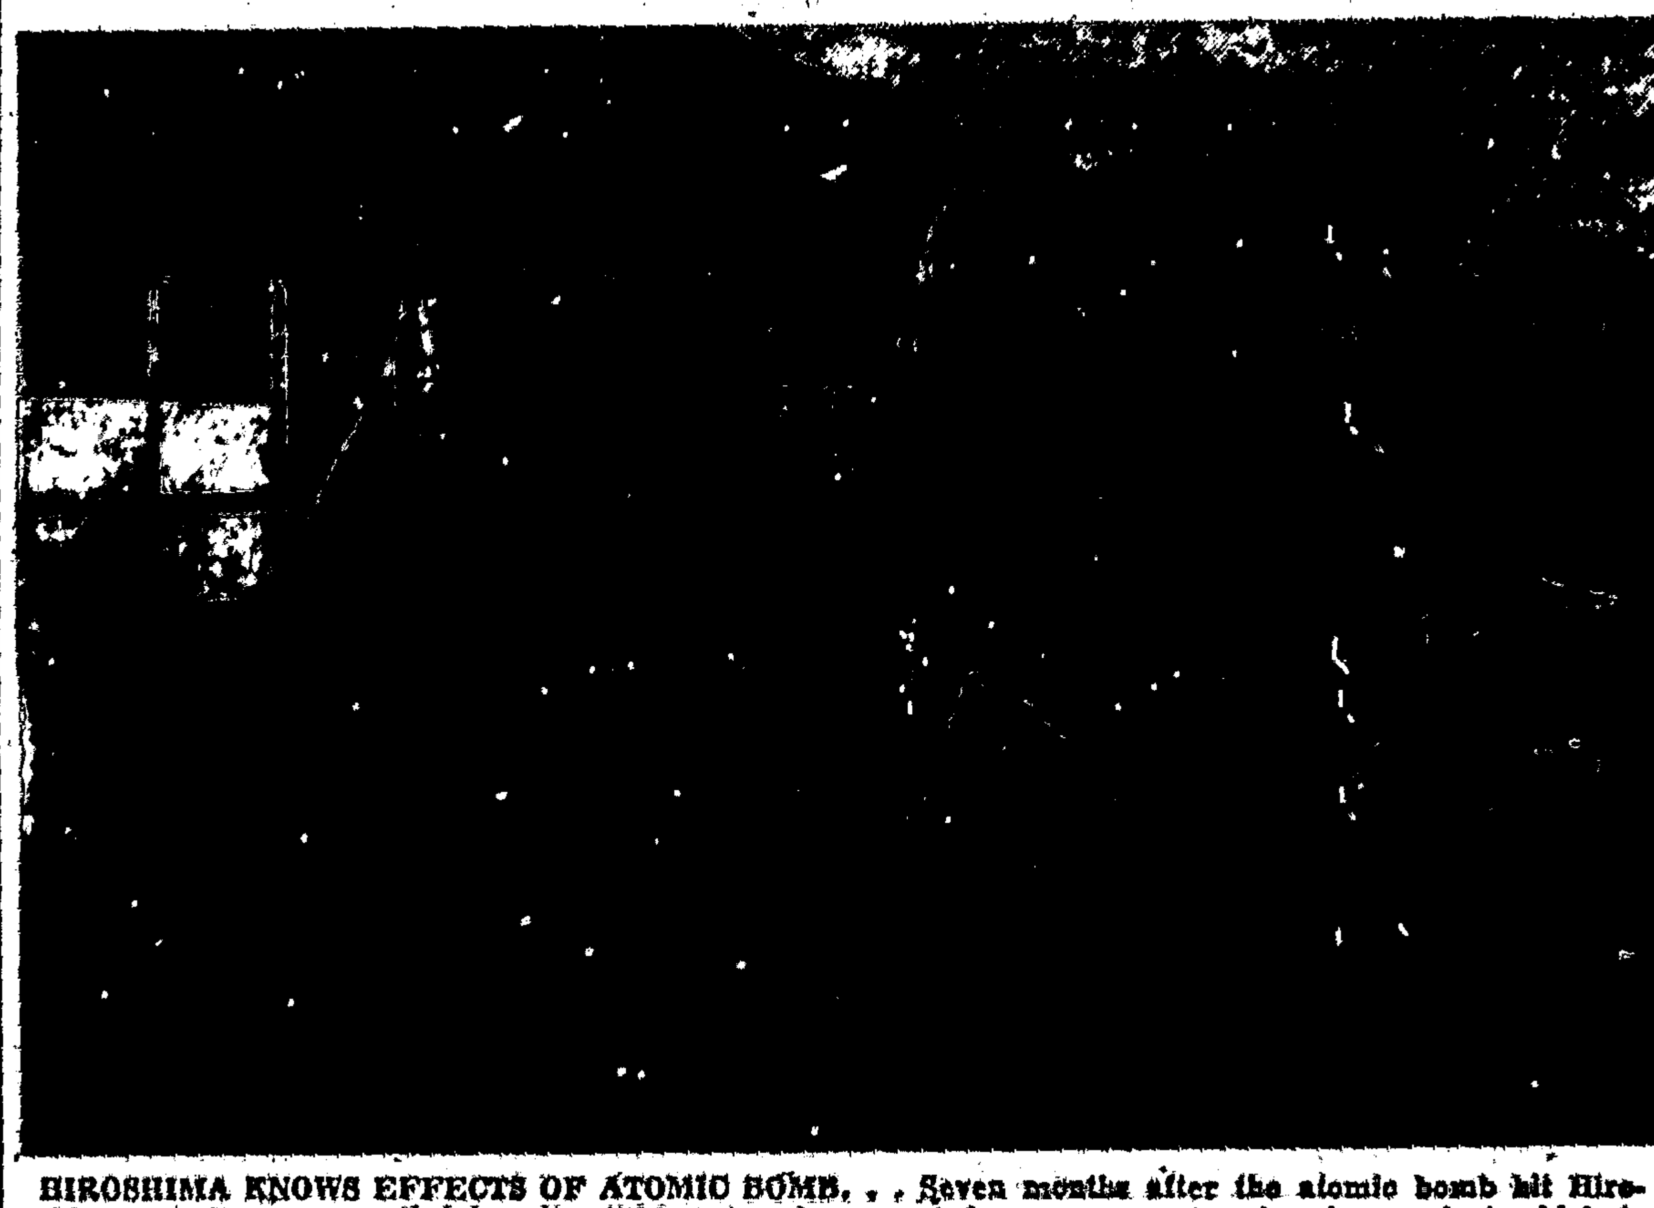
We are living under make-shift legislation, under the salvage system — with a part of one measure salvaged here, another there and with most of the core and heart chopped out.

And this writer pointed out once before, in my humble opinion, the people in the hometown and rural areas are largely to blame. We have not lifted our voice in protest . . . we are too busy "getting ours" . . . too concerned with our individual and personal lives to bother about government here in Washington, but which if we stopped to consider, has more bearing and more influence on our personal lives than any other one factor.

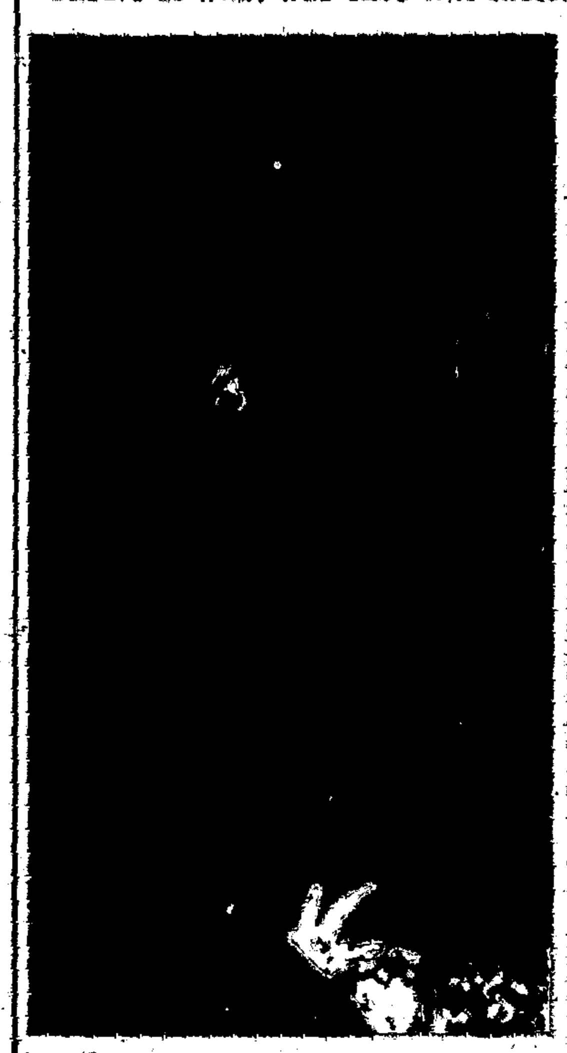
Shall our national life be shaped by the powerful minority lobby and pressure groups, or will it be determined by the rank and file of the American people? Will our foreign policy be returned to power politics and trade wars by this strong undertow which is pulling us back toward isolationism and nationalism? Or will we follow the chart of the United Nations charter, the reciprocal trade agreements, the Bretton Woods agreement? Will we make a credit loan to Britain, to France to Russia or shall we return to isolationism?



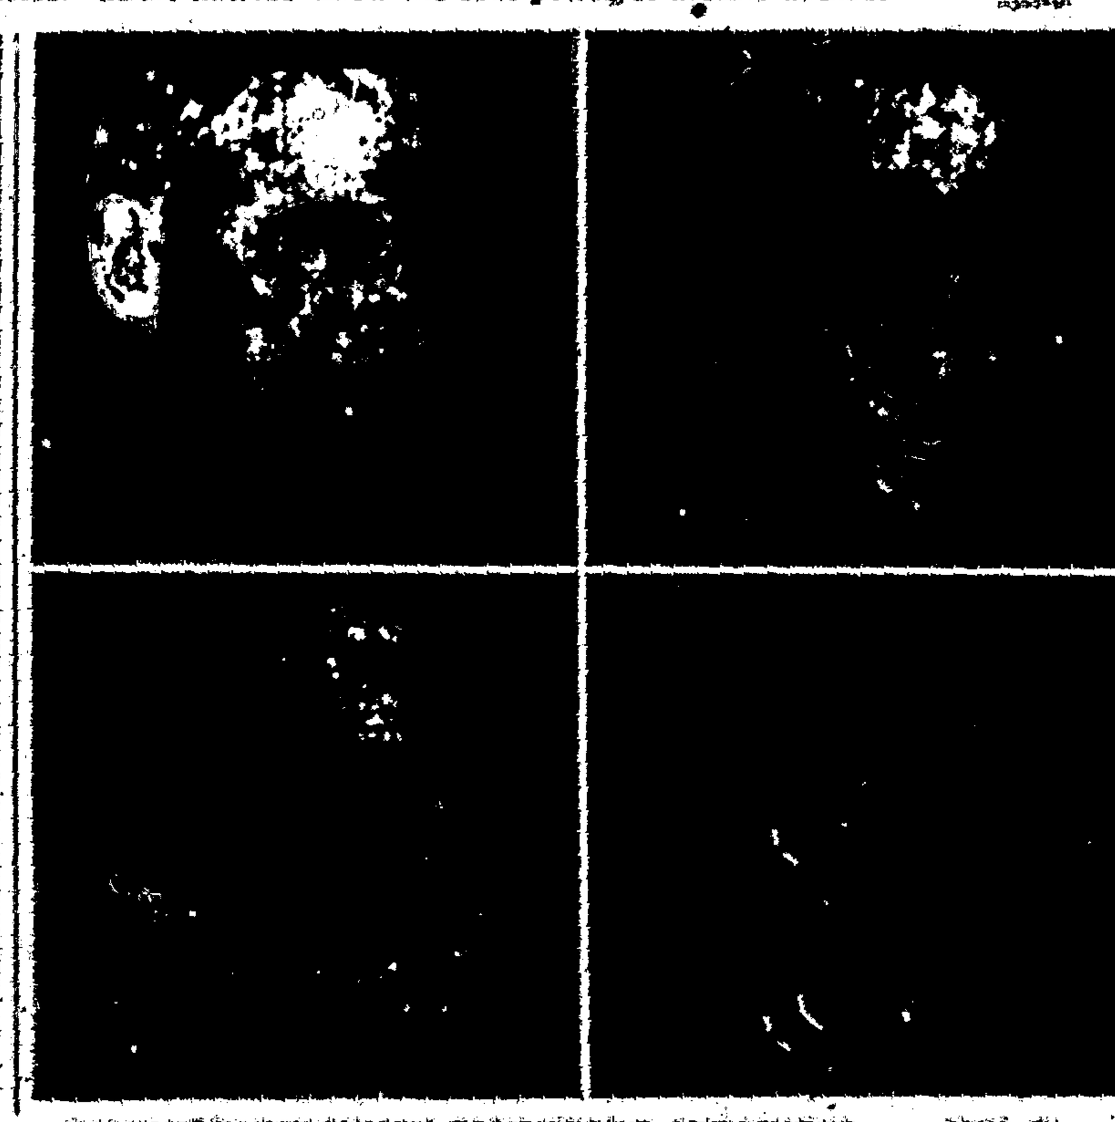
ON THEIR DIAMOND WEDDING DAY . . . Seventy-five years of wedded bliss, spent in the log cabin home which they constructed themselves when they were first married, is the proud record of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner, Viroqua, Wis. They were married by a Methodist circuit rider and have four married children who live in the surrounding countryside. Mr. Turner is 96 and his wife, Mary Jane, is 92 years old.



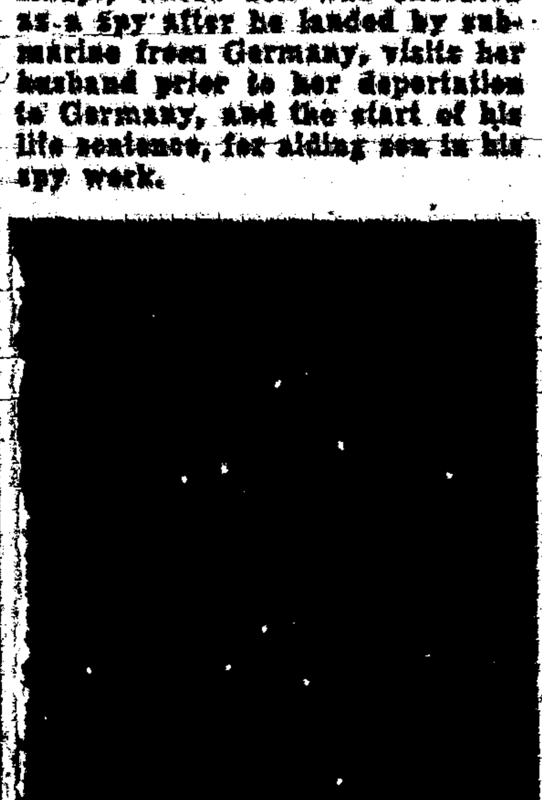
HIROSHIMA KNOWS EFFECTS OF ATOMIC BOMB. . . Seven months after the atomic bomb hit Hiroshima, what was once a thriving city still lays in ruins except for an emergency housing project which is attempting to provide shelter. Shown in the photo is one of the 600 homes which are arising from the rubble of what was once war factories. These natives know the real power of atomic bombs.



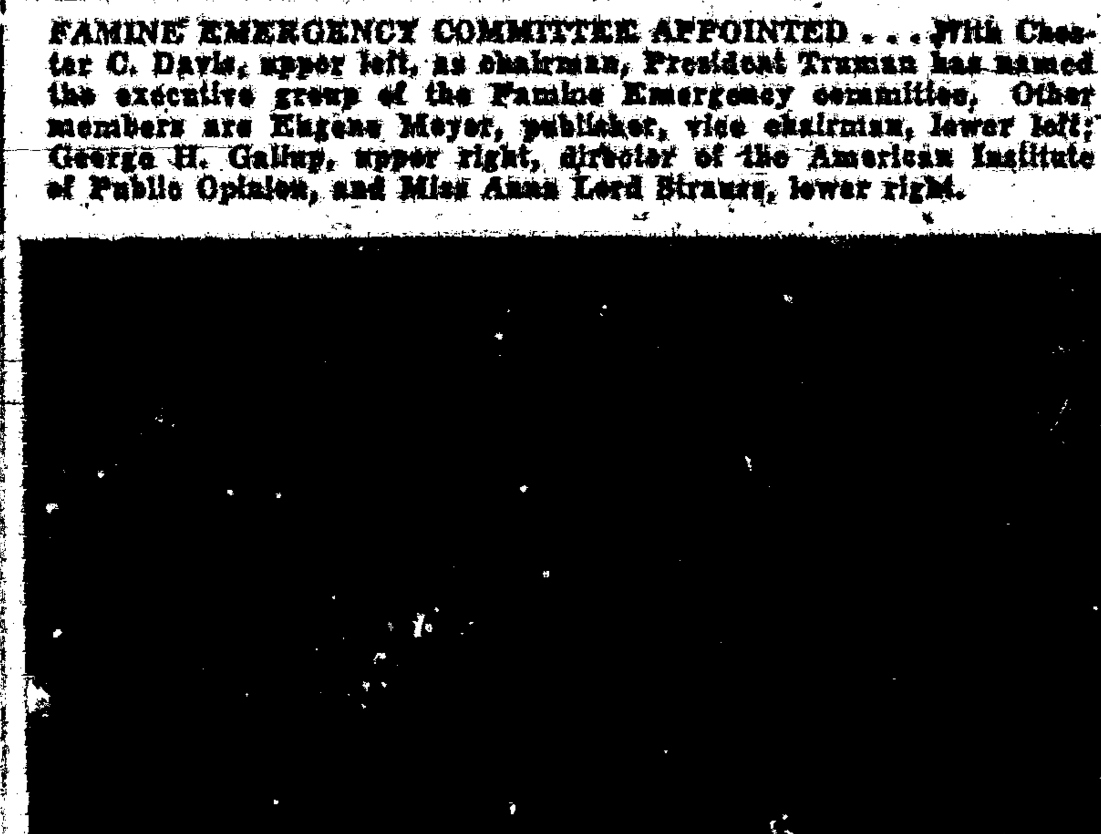
HER LAST VISIT . . . Mrs. Erna Haupt, whose son was executed as a spy after he landed by submarine from Germany, visits her husband prior to her deportation to Germany, and the start of his life sentence, for aiding son in his spy work.



FAMINE EMERGENCY COMMITTEE APPOINTED . . . With Chester C. Davis, upper left, as chairman, President Truman has named the executive group of the Famine Emergency committee. Other members are Eugene Meyer, publisher, vice chairman, lower left; George H. Gallup, upper right, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, and Miss Anna Lord Strauss, lower right.



HIS BOLOMETER SEES IN DARK . . . The ability to see objects in the dark as far away as 15 miles, without being seen in return, is made possible by the invention of the bolometer by Dr. Donald H. Andrews of Baltimore. [illegible] range from fire alarm to secret weapon.



BRINGING G.M. STRIKE TO AN END . . . Weary and exhausted at the end of the 113-day General Motors strike, federal conciliator James Dewey, with strike terms in his hand, reads the terms which send the workers back to work. Millions of dollars in wages and profits were lost while the strike was being conducted. In addition to an increase of 18½ cents an hour, other benefits were secured by the union members.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

LEWIS IN REAL ESTATE

WASHINGTON.—Just how vigorously John L. Lewis plans to enter his battle to recapture the CIO came out at the AFL executive board meeting in Miami, where the bushy-browed labor thespian joined his former enemies in a holy war against his former friends, Phil Murray and the CIO.

One of Lewis' first moves was to persuade the AFL to move out of its shabby 30-year-old headquarters to a modern streamlined building near the White House.

Lewis was named chairman of an AFL committee to acquire the new building. Some years ago John paid a quarter of a million for the University club, once the home of Washington elite, and made it his United Mine Workers headquarters.

'VOTED AGAINST VETERANS'

Veterans are considering a new symbol which may become as famous as the label "Made by Union Labor." It will probably take the form of the initials "VAV."

When these initials are used immediately following a congressman's name, it will indicate that he "voted against veterans."

Congressmen, already sensitive about this year's elections, are worried sick about the recent vote on housing for veterans, especially the vote on subsidies which would have permitted low-cost homes at a price-range which veterans could afford.

This worry was why congress ducked a roll-call vote. If each congressman had been forced to stand up and be counted, it would have been political suicide for some.

The Democrats, despite a plea from President Truman himself, plus telegrams from Bob Hannegan, split ranks. Here are the Democrats who in the future will be labeled "VAVH" (voted against veterans' housing) in this important test vote: Barden, N. C.; Brown, Ga.; Camp, Ga.; Colmer, Miss.; Cox, Ga.; Cravens, Ark.; Doughton, N. C.; Durham, N. C.; Earthman, Tenn.; Ervin, N. C.; Gathings, Ark.; Gibson, Ga.; Hare, S. C.; Lanham, Texas; McMillan, S. C.; Manasco, Ala.; May, Ky.; Mills, Ark.; Murdock, Ariz.; Murray, Tenn.; Peace, Ga.; Page, Texas; Riley, S. C.; Roe, Md.; Russell, Texas; Slaughter, Mo.; Smith, Va.; Sumners, Texas; Tarver, Ga.; Vinson, Ga.; Whitten, Miss.; Whittington, Miss.

NYE'S RESIDENCE

Ex-Senator Gerald Nye took a set-back in his first attempt to return to his old senate seat. People in North Dakota didn't like the fact that Nye continued his residence in Maryland, though running in North Dakota, and he didn't get far in the first Republican primaries.

STEEL HEADACHE

One of the biggest reconversion headaches is lack of steel. Hundreds of smaller firms, including Henry Kaiser's new auto company, can't get steel, while strike-struck General Motors was gorged with it. Recently General Motors officials traveled to Washington, wangled a promise from OPAdministrator Jack Small that he would not confiscate the thousands of tons of strategic materials which General Motors is hoarding. Small has cracked down on smaller companies hoarding nylons, but General Motors appears too big to touch.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Democrats were wrangling last week about the right of Chicago's Representative Sabath to be heard as much as Mississippi's Representative John Rankin. Meanwhile, GOP Leader Joe Martin went over to Democrat Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and said: "Mike, the next time you Democrats get into a scrap like this and it comes to a vote, we're just going to vote 'present' and let you Democrats fight it out yourselves." . . . Atlanta's new congresswoman, Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, has been assiduously cultivated by the Georgia delegation—with long visits on the floor of the house even from the two Georgia senators—George and Russel. But the first chance she got she voted against Rankin. . . . North Carolina's Chairman Bob Doughton of the house ways and means committee not only believes that people should continue paying the wartime excess-tax rates on luxuries such as furs, but also that children should continue paying the wartime tax on movie tickets. "After all," says Doughton, "kids don't have to go to the movies—they're a luxury."

VIGOROUS LOBBYING

Capitol Hill today is more besieged by lobbyists than at any time in years. Big utility lobbyists are working against any increase of federal power, even passing out nylons to congressmen's wives to win votes. The American Legion is buttonholing senators in favor of military conscription, and the railroad lobbyists are pulling wires in favor of the Bulwinkle bill which exempt the railroads from anti-trust suits.

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

SOME earnest and able compiler of facts and figures has estimated there are over 30 million citizens, young and old, male and female, who are directly or indirectly interested in baseball.

Grantland Rice

I believe these figures are on the short side. We have 22 million high school kids for a starter, and most of these follow baseball, in one way or another. The range is from 8 to 80 years, and this includes those who play at the game, see the games, follow the box scores and the standings in the daily newspapers or hear games over the radio. My estimate would be 40 million, including the fanatics and the only mildly interested.

This is only a guess. But that many through newspaper and radio must follow a world series.

Many or most of the regulars have their favorite ball players. They may dig back into the past, or they may pick a few from the modern library. The leading favorite in the game's long history has been Babe Ruth.

Proof here is simple. Babe has gone into such cities as Philadelphia and Boston when they were trailing and drawing less than thousand at home games. But when the Babe came to town they had to call police reserves to the scene.

Next to Ruth we'd have Ty Cobb and after Ty Cobb there would be Honus Wagner. Among those of more recent date, there are four who belong among the rafters of the roof—Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Bob Feller. And you can't leave out Hank Greenberg.

Pepper Martin, one of the greatest hustlers baseball ever knew, was everybody's favorite, wherever he played. You got the idea that he was willing and ready to break a neck or a leg to get where he was headed for, and you were usually right.

The 1946 Favorites

Who will carry most of the public favor from city to city through 1946? In Boston the leading candidates at this spot are Ted Williams and Dave Ferriss. Among the Yankees you will find Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon—with Phil Rizzuto close up. Stirnweiss will be another. Terry Moore and Marty Marion will lead the Cardinals, who have several other candidates.

Hank Greenberg and Al Newhouser will head the cast for the Tiger zoo. For the Giants you'll find Mel Ott and Johnny Mize in front when the season opens.

What about the Dodgers? In this dizzy land of Bumdom they change with startling rapidity from day to day. Dixie Walker has been the civic nomination, or the peepul's choice, for some years. Whether Dixie will retain the affections of the nation's most turbulent and tempestuous baseball crowds remains to be seen. If anything happens to Dixie, or if it happens to be untrue what they say about Dixie, an early nomination is Pewee Reese.

The Cleveland situation is simple. The Indian's contribution to the favorite class will be one Robert Feller who will lure out the multitudes in fancy numbers at each start. What about the Cubs? Andy Pafko will be one of them and so will Phil Cavarretta and Hank Borowy. The able veteran Stan Hack will also get some votes.

At times it is hard to tell just what qualities are needed to make some ball player the crowd's favorite. Hustle is always one of the main points. The populace likes to see the athlete giving all he has. Home-run hitters always have a strong call. So do strike-out pitchers. Good people who are there in the clutch or pinch also harvest their share of fanville's affection.

The All-Time Best

Who have been my ten favorite ball players? It doesn't matter much, but here they go — Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Hans Wagner, Dizzy Dean, Pepper Martin, Rube Waddell, Christy Mathewson, Pete Alexander. Plus Walter Johnson. Old Barney's pitching motion and the ball you couldn't follow were still something to look at. Carl Hubbell also belongs in this group. So does Bill Dickey. Ten isn't enough. As an artist Hal Chase has no equal.

Just what favorite crop the new season will give us is in the so-called laps of the gods. There is time enough later on to take this up.

Bow and Arrow Records

Every record improves in sport and archery has made a big advance since the days of the Sioux and the Apaches, the Iroquois and the Mohicans. Their range was rarely beyond 300 yards. But in 1941 Curtis Hill of Dayton, Ohio, set a new mark a 514 yards, 8 inches—a new record for what is known as "free flight shooting." Hill's record for the regular flight shooting, according to Frank Menke's book, is 517 yards, one foot.

Seek Secrets of North Country

Snowmobile Caravan Travels to Arctic Circle to Study Problems.

WASHINGTON. — Despite many years of exploration Canada's vast northlands still hold far too many mysteries to suit military men.

Having in mind the importance of the great winter battles fought in Russia during the war just ended, and also the strategic importance of the north country in modern aviation, Canada's army and air force are about to begin a spectacular joint expedition to solve some of these still puzzling Arctic problems.

A moving force of 45 army personnel is traveling in 12 newly designed snowmobiles over a 3,100-mile semi-circle from the southern shore of Hudson bay north to far above the arctic circle and within a few miles of the north magnetic pole, westward through the northwest territories toward the Yukon and finally south through British Columbia and Alberta to Edmonton.

In 80 days they will pass through three seasons, winter, spring and early summer, hit temperatures of 60 degrees below zero, and travel across territory where white man never has ventured before without heavy loss of life. It is to be called "Exercise Muskox," named after an animal found in the north country, says the Chicago Tribune.

Operate From 13 Bases.

The moving force will operate from 13 bases along the route which will be supplied and manned by the royal Canadian air force. The airmen will put base personnel on the ground in leap-frog fashion ahead of the moving ground force, and will stand ready to aid the moving force in event of emergency along the way.

Although the moving force with its armored snowmobiles will number only 45 men, another 250 men will take part, including army base personnel and a total ground and air force of another 145 men.

In addition, because of the intense non-Canadian interest in the experiment, four United States army technical experts will be along and one British arctic specialist.

The army, disturbed at some interpretations which were put on the expedition when it was first announced and which suggested it was a defense exercise, stresses that the expedition is "non-tactical, with no troops taking part who are not specialists and no weapons larger than rifles being carried."

May Aid Civilians.

The army and the air force hope that the lessons learned will aid civilians as much as the military. Meteorologists are to be benefited not only with data brought back from the expedition itself, but by lessons learned in supplying northern bases which the meteorologists want to establish in increasing numbers.

In particular, the army says, it is hoped the expedition will demonstrate:

1. The new snowmobiles developed for invading Norway.
2. The technique of large scale air supply.
3. New and improved methods of navigating and surveying near the north magnetic pole where magnetic compasses are useless.
4. The latest arctic clothing made of textiles, so that the killing of caribou for fur clothes is unnecessary.

U. S. Shipbuilding Firm Armed 4 Huge Troopships

NEW YORK. — The Allies' four largest troop transports—the Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mary, the Aquitania and Mauretania —were armed and converted in New York harbor, the shipbuilding division of Bethlehem Steel company revealed.

The company disclosed for the first time it handled 37,775 ships during the war years, totalling 302,224,000 tons, more than five times greater than the world's prewar merchant fleet and more than 25 times larger than the American merchant marine in 1939. The ships included almost every type of warship in addition to merchantmen.

The Queen ships alone were reported to have moved 800,000 American troops to Europe.

Musk Ox Arctic Force Moves 6 Miles an Hour

CHURCHILL, MANITOBA. — The Canadian army's motorized musk ox force has set a six-mile an hour pace on the first leg of its 3,100 mile arctic tour. A radio report filed six hours after the 12 snow vehicles started from here said the party was 36 miles north of Churchill. The journey will take the force near the magnetic pole.

French Sign Pact Giving Autonomy to Cambodia

PARIS. — Autonomy in administration was granted to the French colony of Cambodia in Indo-China, according to a treaty signed recently by the King of Cambodia and Thierry d'Argenlieu, French High commissioner. The treaty specified that administration will be transferred to native hands and that only a skeleton staff of French officials will be retained in the capacity of advisers.

ORGANIZED RACKETS MAY RETURN TO UNITED STATES

I LIVED IN CHICAGO during those years when the city was infested with racketeers and gangsters. They preyed without hindrance on the small business people. One such was a small, one-man, repair, cleaning and pressing shop for men's clothing. It was but practically a hole in the wall, with a front shop, and one room in the back in which the operator lived. He had no family. He had no pick-up and delivery for his customers. He was but one lonely old man of some 65 years.

The gangsters insisted he must join their so-called organization, or else. To join he must pay monthly dues or they would close his shop, with a bomb, if that were needed. He paid that mob $20 a month that he might be privileged to earn a living with his hands, and the city authorities countenanced such a hold-up.

Today organized labor is copying the methods of the Chicago gangsters of a few years ago. Organized labor is insisting that the owners of small city and town stores, those small business places that employ not more than one to three people, and in which there is frequently no help other than the owner, with possibly a son or daughter as assistant, sign a labor contract. They must pay tribute for the privilege of keeping their stores open.

Failure to sign means that they cannot receive shipments of merchandise. Teamsters and truck drivers, belonging to other unions, will not cross picket lines to make deliveries. They can either sign an agreement to pay tribute or lock their doors. It is organized labor, considered one of our great social movements, carrying the petty grafting of city gangsters into rural America.

It is happening throughout many sections of America. Along with it is the effort to organize farm labor, to force Farmer Jones and his son John, to pay tribute if they are to be allowed to sow and reap. These things are inferentially sanctioned by the federal government under the collective bargaining statutes.

CONTROL RESTS WITH INDIVIDUAL STATES

The prevention of such petty graft is not a federal government problem, but it is a job for the states. Interstate commerce is not involved. The stores and the farms are locally owned and operated. The state can reach such gangsters by legislation, and some states have laws that make a criminal offense of those of a union not on strike assisting in the enforcement of conditions detrimental to the public interest, as would be the refusal to deliver merchandise. California is one of the states in which these petty gangsters are operating.

In permitting or encouraging such methods labor leaders are not serving the interests of the cause of labor. They are sacrificing the prestige and standing of organized labor. Success of such an effort can result only in the garnering of some extra dollars to further swell the already swollen union treasuries. The small shops employing one, two or three people are not the legitimate field of organized labor. Any attempt to prey on them will injure the cause of organized labor as a whole.

FREE ENTERPRISE GONE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

AT THE BEHEST OF RUSSIA, and, it is reported with the approval of the United States, Czechoslovakia has turned definitely to state socialism. The government has seized and confiscated all transportation facilities, all utilities, the banks, all of the larger industries, much of the farm land. The government now fixes wages that are to be paid in industry, the quantity and the quality of the work to be done by each employee, the number of hours to be worked, and the place of employment. A Czech bureaucracy determines what commodities will be produced in the factories, and what will be raised on government land. It says where, and at what price, the commodities may be sold. There is no longer free enterprise in Czechoslovakia, and individual ambition is dead. What has happened in that little country, with what is reported as American approval, is just what those who are proposing to "make America over" would have for this country. They are surreptitiously working for that result.

There are published in the United States more than 8,000 country weekly newspapers. Those papers are read in more than nine million homes. For them the subscribers pay better than $18,000,000 each year. Advertisers buy space in their columns to an amount in excess of $60,000,000 each year. Any $60,000,000 a year industry is not considered peanuts in the business world.

A FINAL CATASTROPHE would be a strike of ball players.

India Has but 9 Radio Stations; 200,000 Sets

America now has 950 radio stations and 60,000,000 receiving sets, but India with three times our population has only 9 stations and 200,000 sets, reports Collier's. Chief obstacles in India are that its people speak 225 languages or dialects and that their average family income is $20 a year.

Even a recent attempt to bring music, through free community sets, to the 300,000,000 individuals who live in 700,000 Indian villages resulted in the installation of less than 15,000 of these receivers, as only that number of villages have electric service.
