Carrizozo At Christmas Time

Carrizozo heralds Christmas 1946 with gaily colored lights and stately Pine trees adorning the business section. Local stores have attractive windows displaying a wide selection of gift suggestions for every shopper.

Local churches are offering special services for the Yuletide season.

Grade school pupils of the public schools presented the operetta "On Christmas Hill", at grade school Auditorium last night.

Many homes will be the scene of joyous reunions, for some the first in many years.

"Gifts for Yanks who Gave"

Mr. L. Z. Manire received a phone call from Charles H. Restow, State Adjutant of the American Legion from Albuquerque yesterday afternoon to the effect that an airplane will land at the local airport at about 10:00 Sunday morning to deliver Christmas gifts to the wounded veterans who are hospitalized at Fort Stanton.

The local American Legion has appointed a committee to receive and deliver the gifts to that point.

Cattle Growers to Hold Convention

Albuquerque, Dec. 19.—The Thirty-Third Annual Convention of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association will be held at Albuquerque on March 10 and 11, 1947, according to George A. Godfrey, Animas, President of the organization.

"It is expected that more than 2500 of the association's 3946 members will attend this convention", Godfrey said, "and all indications are that this meeting will be the largest gathering of livestock producers in history of the state. Members of the association own more than 90 per cent of all cattle in New Mexico".

In urging all stockmen of the state to make their hotel and auto court reservations early, Godfrey stated, that he was sure the livestock industry could depend upon Albuquerque Auto courts and Hotels to lend all possible cooperation in housing the meeting.

The convention program will include addresses by state and national leaders in agriculture and it is expected to attract attendance not only from New Mexico but from livestock producing areas throughout the west, Godfrey said.

Basketball Games

Last Friday night the Hondo Hi hoopsters met the local Grizzlies in the High School Gym. The game was fast and exciting. Two high point men for the Grizzlies were Dolan with 28 points and Chapman 21 points. Final score was Carrizozo 87, Hondo 27.

Saturday night Coach Heick took to the road with his Grizzlies and met the Tularosa quintet there. The teams were well matched and it was a nip and tuck game from start to finish. Chapman rang up 16 points for high scorer. Final score was Carrizozo 31, Tularosa 27.

The stands were well filled with Carrizozo supporters.

Both games this week end are here. Mountain Friday night and Saturday night Corona.

Highlight of "Three Wise Fools"

Coming to the Lyric Theatre, December 24, 25, and 26.

As gay as a pixie sliding down a moonbeam and as heartwarming as the smile of its little leading lady, Margaret O'Brian, in "Three Wise Fools", delightful story of a little girl who brings sunshine into the lives of three frosty old bachelors. Sharing top honors in the new M-G-M hit are Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Edward Arnold and Thomas Mitchell.

Little Margaret O'Brien comes to the new role from her recent success in "Bad Baseomb" and "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes".

As Sheila O'Monahan she has her first opportunity to play a role in keeping with her Irish heritage.

Heading the bachelor trio is Lionel Barrymore, the screen's most famous medico, cast in another doctor role as Dr. Richard Gaught, former suitor of Sheila's grandmother. It marks Barrymore's first appearance before the cameras since his role in "The Valley of Decision".

Second of the trio is Lewis Stone as Judge James Trumbell, another former suitor of Sheila's grandmother. This role follows a feature portrayal with William

Rebekahs Entertain at Supper Saturday Night

Last Saturday night the Rebekah lodge entertained the Oddfellows with a venison steak supper and all the trimmings at the Oddfellow hall.

The committee in charge were Mrs. Earlena Tubbs, Lucille Patterson, Joe Phillips.

There was a large number of both orders and their families present. After the repeat a social hour of games was enjoyed by some, others attended the American Legion Dance.

Mrs. Carlota Samora who has been very ill this week is now much improved.

Mr. Andy Padilla was an El Paso visitor last week.

Powell in "The Hoodlum Saint"

Third member of the triumvirate is Edward Arnold as Banker Theodora Finley, also a one-time suitor of Sheila's grandmother. As Terence O'Davern, counsellor to the orphaned Margaret, Thomas Mitchell has a role matching in poignancy his Muggins of "Adventure".

Heading the cast of the prologue is Cy Charisse, lovely star of the Ballet Russe, who made her screen debut in "Ziegfeld Follies of 1946" and scored in her first straight dramatic role in "The Harvey Girls". Others in the cast include Ray Collins, Jane Darwell, Charles Dingle, Harry Davenport, Henry O'Neil, Warner Anderson and Billy Curtis.

With a prologue set against a background of 1870 America and the remainder of the action in America of 1910, many interesting and colorful sets feature the half-fact, half-fantasy story. A startling screen innovation is the introduction of pixies and elves portrayed by full-grown actors in an amazing new make-up perfected by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayers' make-up expert, Jack Dawn.

Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District Items

Two acres of land for Dr. Bryan Haven in Gavilan Canyon was recently leveled by use of District equipment. This field was leveled in a novel manner by constructing dirt ramps between small benches to facilitate the use of machinery. A fish pond to be filled from his spring, was constructed and will be stocked next Spring.

The Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District's annual calendar has gone to press with hopes of an early distribution. The picture this year is a color reproduction of a painting by Peter Hurd. Cooperation of business men within the District made publication possible.

The District equipment recently cleaned and plated with clay the reservoir on the Alfred Nash farm near Ruidoso Junction. This reservoir, placed on a gravel formation, was leaking considerably. Mr. Nash also used the equipment to level 3 acres of land just below the reservoir and constructed a better system of irrigation.

Methodist Church

F. J. Johnston, Pastor

They say it pays to advertise. On that assumption I would like to place a big Christmas Tree with lights on the top of Nogal Peak or Carrizo. Maybe the best I'll get done is to put a tree on the top of my church. But I know that, the Christian Gospel goes all-out for Good Will and Brotherly-Love among all men. Let us put these attitudes in the highest place in our community. A Very Merry Christmas to you all.

I have announced a love offering for the orphans of our Methodist Home at Waco, Texas this year, for next Sunday. We have some 420 of them there. Please join me and a host of others in making these children safe and happy in the New Year.

Sunday School at 10 A. M. and The Worship Service At 11 A. M. 'Xmas Songs. Next Sunday night at 7 P. M. our church and S. S. will have their annual Christmas Tree and Program. Everybody Welcome. If your kiddies would like to speak a piece let us know before hand.

And once again to all our old and new friends and neighbors, Merry Christmas.

Man-Made Meteorite

Last Tuesday night a number of the local citizens witnessed the flight of the German V-2 rocket with carried aloft the artificial meteor from the White Sands Proving Grounds.

Watchers described the meteor as glowing like a ball of fire in the few seconds before it vanished.

Mr. Carl D. Jones of North Hollywood, Calif., spent Monday and Tuesday here with his sisters Mrs. Ray Sale and Miss Grace Jones. Mr. Jones informed us of his daughter Mrs. Dorothy Zamba's recent promotion to assistant film editor at Republic Studios.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Luke of San Diego, Calif. been have been visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Lensen Hennard, Mrs. Luke is Mr. Hennard's sister.

"The Best Present Of All—Your Presence"

With that slogan as a keynote, the National Safety Council announced today a nationwide campaign to check the huge annual Christmas holiday toll.

Statistics prove the Christmas-New Year's holiday season is the most hazardous single period of the year. More than three times as many deaths occur during the actual Christmas holidays than on the same days of the week the remainder of the year, according to the Council.

The normal winter hazards, such as bad weather, slippery roads, and longer period of darkness, are increased by heavier travel and the festive spirit of the holiday season.

The Council's campaign has been joined by more than 180 national organizations, city and state public officials and civic leaders. It seeks to create in the public mind an awareness of the special holiday hazards, and to enlist the voluntary cooperation on the part of every individual to hold accidents to a minimum this Christmas.

The Council emphasized that the campaign is the final effort of the year to bring the 1946 traffic death toll down nearer the 1945 total of 28,600. Such deaths, which increased alarmingly after V-J Day brought an end to driving restrictions, were running 30 per cent over last year at the end of the first nine months of 1946.

"The Christmas season, the time of reunion, of joy in one's children, of drawing even closer the most fundamental ties in our nation. It is truly a time of happiness.

A little forethought, a little extra care, will give your family "the best present of all—your presence."

HOW BIG a part does "instinct" play in sport? Glenn Davis Army's star all-around back, gave one answer against Pennsylvania in the third period.

In his day and time Davis has made his share of long runs, throw and caught his share of passes, while also ranking high among the blockers, tacklers and kickers. But on this play in particular Davis ran 40 yards and then, from a swirl of Red and Blue tacklers, completely surrounded, the Army back tossed a sudden lateral to

Glenn Davis Army back tossed a sudden lateral to Tavzel, a tackle. Tavzel then ran 40-odd yards for a touchdown.

After the game we asked Davis how he managed to find an opening on that bewildering lateral play. "What lateral play?" Davis asked. "I don't remember any lateral play."

"As a matter of fact," he continued, with a grin, "I don't remember anything that happened in that period. I caught a good cloud on the head and I haven't the slightest recollection of anything that took place after that."

"Don't you remember two long runs you made?" we asked.

"No, I don't," Davis said.

"The tackles you made—the passes you throw—the kicks you get away?"

"Not the slightest idea," he said. "I remember someone asked me what period it was and I thought the game had just started. I didn't remember anything that had happened before."

It Has Happened Before

So here was a back playing in a complete fog, yet working perfectly with the signals, picking his openings, running on the same strong, fast legs, able to hit his receivers, alert enough to throw a sudden and surprising lateral that ordinarily would have demanded the keenest type of reflex action.

Naturally, the Army coaching staff knew nothing of this mental blotting out, as Davis looked to be at his best. And even after his head had cleared later on there was still no memory of what took place in those 15 minutes.

We recall other cases along this same subconscious order. In one of his early California fights, Jack Dempsey was nailed on the chin in the first round.

"That was the last thing I remembered," Jack said later. "When I came to I thought I had been knocked out but was surprised to hear I'd won the decision. I could remember nothing after that punch."

Years ago Bat Nelson told me that Aurelio Herrera, the hard-hitting Mexican, once hit him with a full right. "I turned a complete somersault," Bat said, "and the lights went out. That happened in the 6th round. Around the 17th round my head cleared and later I knocked Herrera out. But I could not recall anything that happened in those 12 rounds."

We'll have to leave it to far greater brain experts as to what happens when a fellow in a complete mental fog still can go along boxing and punching, or obeying signals, throwing passes and laterals, that usually demands the highest type of mental poise.

Baseball Prospects

In the midst of all the football chatter, we were glad to stumble into a covey of baseball people, including both managers and players.

They were talking about the Yankees of 1947, and their chance to reach for the pennant after this year's sudden dip.

One respected veteran had this to say: "Don't forget that in Larry MacPhail, Bucky Harris and Charley Dressen, the Yankees have leadership that can match anything in either league. Smart, able, keen to move back up. And don't forget the Yankees still have a number of fine ball players who are sure to improve over their 1946 form, which developed one of the most remarkable team batting slumps I ever saw."

This is true, MacPhail, Harris and Dressen know what it is all about. And such former good hitters as Mirabeau, Riccio, Joe DiMaggio, Henrich and one or two others should be a good many points closer to 300 than they were this last fall.

"Few people realize," MacPhail said, "that our pitching staff allowed fewer yards than any team in either league, barring only the Cardinals. We had good enough pitching, and we'll have much better pitching next year."

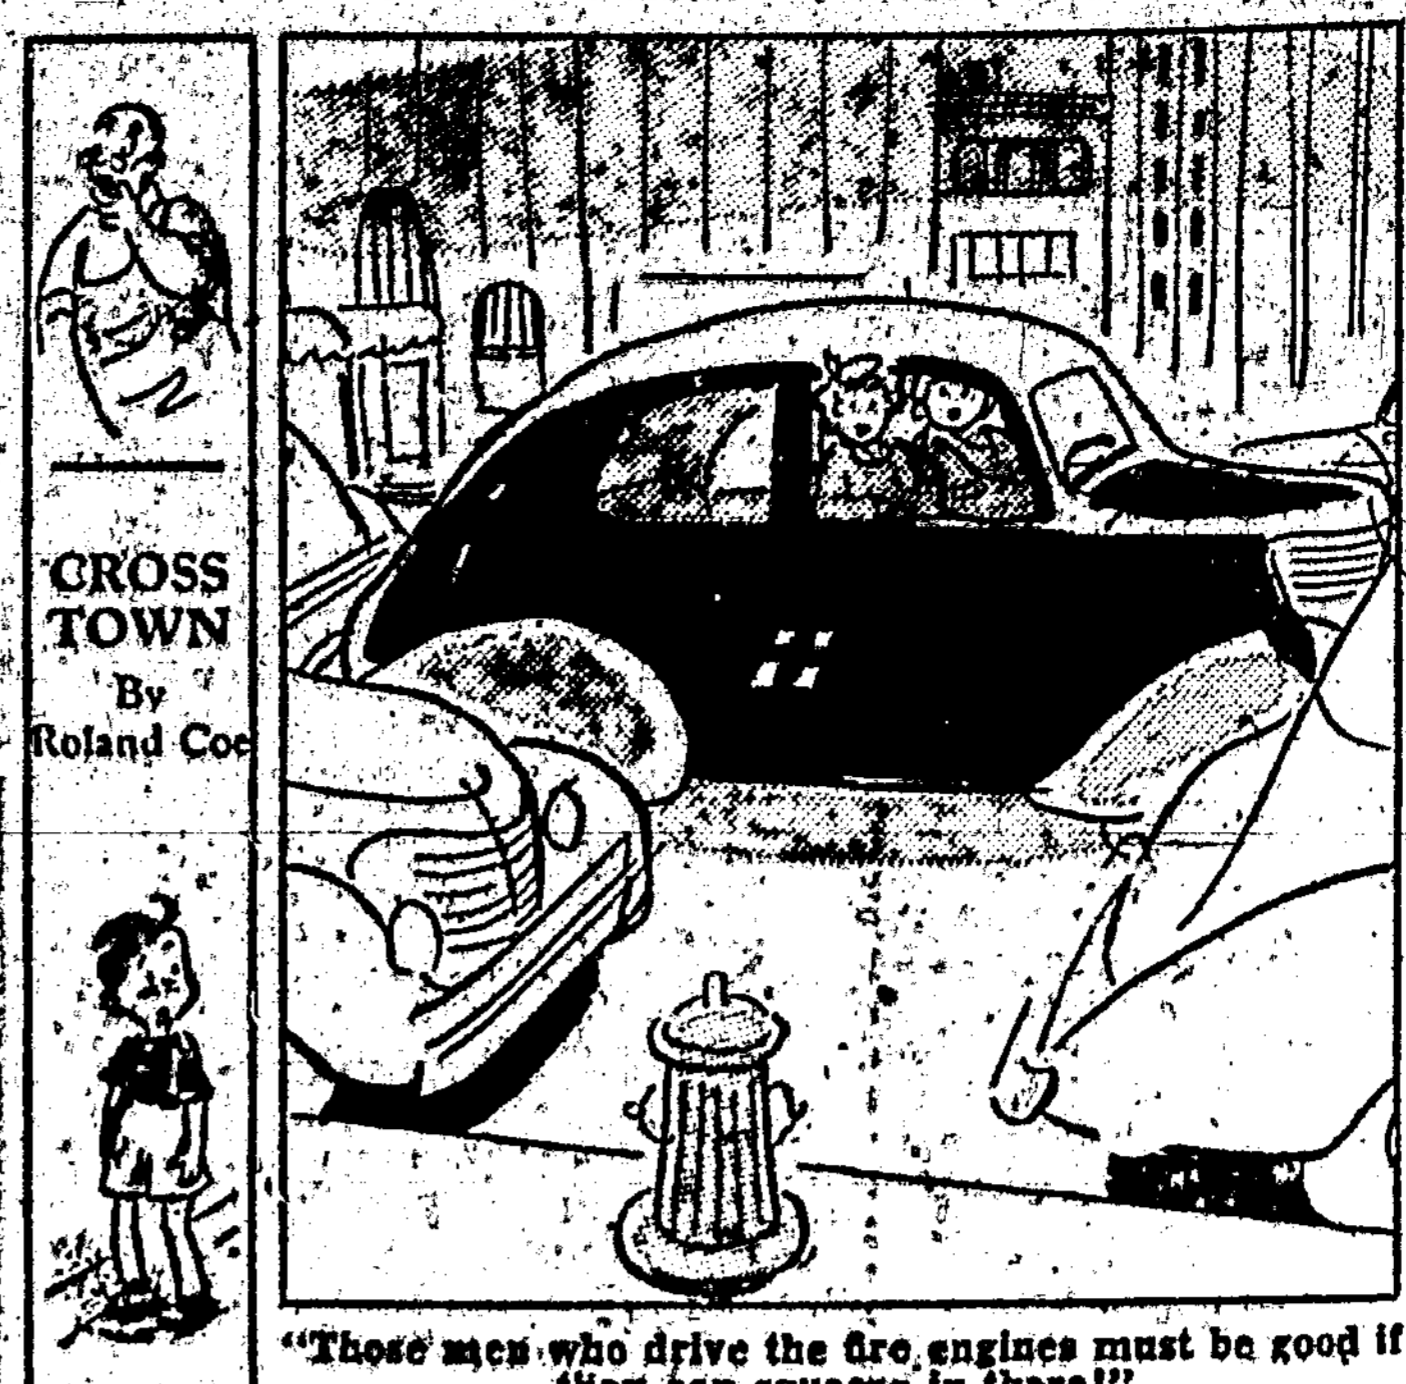

The Yankees, with Aaron Robert and some new talent, may have the best catching staff in the league. An infield that comprises Henrich, Riccio, DiMaggio and Young Brown, a third can return to its old form. So can DiMaggio and Charlie Keller.

Woman's World Avoid Last Minute Shopping; Sew Simple Gifts at Home

By Erta Halcy

Waist-Molding
ONE charming neighbor of ours always says, "Isn't it funny how you think your Christmas list is complete and you find at the last minute you've neglected someone I've never seen it to fall."
I think most of us have that experience nearly every year, and then we're in a dither trying to do last minute shopping when everything is picked over completely, and there just isn't enough time to select a proper gift.
There's a solution, however, which you'll find a lot easier to follow than trying to shop. Spend the time at home and see what you can make out of your sewing basket. There are lots of things that can be made out of bits of gay cloth or a ball of yarn which are welcome fill-in gifts.
I don't suppose any woman ever had enough pot holders, because they do get their share of wear, scorching, etc. You can really make attractive pot holders by using odd bits of colorful material, or even olecloth. Any neighbor or friend will be happy to receive a fresh pair of them among her gifts.
Another friend of mine who likes children always has plenty of things on hand to give the youngsters when they bring her cookies or do errands for her. She makes a hobby out of yarn dolls which are the most attractive things you've ever seen. Quick to make, too, they're ideal for the last minute gift.
String and Stocking Dolls
Use Odd Scraps of Material
To make string dolls, gather all the bits of odd string you can find. Wind the string, both coarse and thin pieces together, around a small piece of cardboard which has been cut two or three inches long. Tie at the top and cut at the bottom. Divide the thickness for arms, legs and body. Tie at the neck and waist, clip arms the proper length and tie. Then tie off feet for boy dolls. Color them by simmering in dye. Make some red, some green and perhaps others yellow.
If you want to make a glamor doll, use the sequins from an old

Quickie Gift Ideas
Rayon and cotton toweling make nice tray or luncheon sets. Cut dollies 12 inches by 18 inches and finish off by raveling the edges to make a fringe. The napkins can be made 12 inches by 12 inches and may also be raveled. A set of four, six or eight of these will make an especially nice gift for a busy homemaker.
Here's a tip for making some things of odd boxes. Use them for lingerie cases, handkerchief or hose containers. Cover them with cloth or wallpaper, and use a contrasting color or print for lining.
You haven't time to knit mittens? Well then, make them from old sweaters. Cut a pattern slightly larger than hand size and machine stitch around the pattern to outline the mitten pieces and prevent raveling. Use a whipstitch or buttonhole stitch in contrasting colored yarn for finishing the mitten.
Another idea for mittens is to make them out of an old suede jacket and then sew bits of fur around the cuffs, or use fur for lining.
Decorative head bands are nice for teen-agers and don't take long to make. Use embroidered felt in bright warm colors, sequins on a wire frame, or fur or feathers.

32-Pound Trout
The largest rainbow trout ever caught by an angler was taken from Pend Oreille Lake in Idaho on July 16, 1949. The official record of its weight is 32.5 pounds, or 13 times that of the average-sized rainbow.

County Farm Income Shows Large Increase

Nearly doubling their annual gross income in comparison with 1940 as reported by the U S Bureau of Census, Lincoln County farm families last year produced crops and livestock with the record value of more than $2,391,000.

This huge increase in farm revenue will undoubtedly result in heavy demand for general farm improvements and for home remodeling when materials become more plentiful, according to a study released by the Tile Council of America. Every industry in the state is anticipating greater business than before the war.

Volume of modernization throughout the country will be greatly stepped up as result of the present rapid extension of electrical service to rural areas, according to the study. Heaviest remodeling demand is anticipated for the installation of running water, tiling of bathrooms and improving kitchen layouts, Forest said.

Forest also pointed out the need for replacing much of the war-weary machinery on the 548 farms listed for this county in the 1945 census figures.

A Nation's Good
 Gentlemen of the Continental Congress, who years ago made some important decisions for us, today deserve a vote of confidence. We keep the form of government they outlined and set up for us or do we change to something like that in Britain, France or Russia? Let us make our decision on a basis of results. If we don't make it soon somebody will make it for us.

Selecting our course ourselves, doing so wisely and soon is extremely important. Small items of business can be bungled today and corrected tomorrow; but not this one. If the United States should once go collectivized completely, it would never be a republic again until people who live now are forgotten. There are no practice shots; we make this decision once, and that's how it will be.

A Nation's Brains
 In comparing the American system with any socialistic plan, one point must be held in mind constantly; Freedom to think. Nothing is more valuable than good ideas and everybody has them. Nobody has a corner on them. Where any person is free to get ideas and put them to work at his own risk, good ones come to light in a hurry and are put to work in a way that helps everybody; that's democracy.

Under any socialistic system of central planning, only a few are considered worthy to think. They have ideas occasionally, of course, but do not try them out at their own risk. They put them to work on a big scale of the nation's risk. By this system the whole people must suffer for the blunders of a few. That's collectivized, and the differences show up clearly in general prosperity.

A Nation's Wealth
 America is the most prosperous country on earth. At the last check, national income in the United States was equal to that of the six next highest countries; national income being the grand total of what everybody earns. Under the American system, incomes are different; some higher than others but all high. In socialist countries incomes are more alike, uniformly low.

America's national enemies cry out against capitalism in tones that make the word sound like a dread disease. At least, under the American system, accumulated wealth is used rather than hoarded. Savings in America are invested in machinery to help workers produce more and earn more. Where profits are unskilful, dividends are impossible, production and wages both low.

A Nation's Progress
 Let me illustrate what the American system is worth to the world. Take up King of Israel, and George Washington, the first President of the United States, lived about alike. They rode in horse-drawn vehicles, wore hand-knitted clothes, used a metal oil lamp and wood for fuel. They lived nearly 3,000 years apart. Think what you have now and remember that Washington died less than 129 years ago.

The system of private enterprise has many critics. Students in our own colleges and high schools are obliged to try to get out defects in America's manner of life. As they do, they are not to be discouraged. It is the way when the time comes to change a successful system, that one makes the change.

NEW MEXICO BOYS RANCH

Al Buck, Boys Ranch president, reporting on activities at the Flying E. Ranch home for boys in northern Socorro County, announced today that the organization's appeal for funds is now under way and that various groups as well as individuals plan to help raise the $100,000.00 needed to establish the program on a firm foundation.

Buck also reported that increasing interest among groups throughout the State is being manifested, the latest being the Las Cruces Chapter of the Future Farmers of America and the New Mexico Rabbit Breeders Association. Fred W. Davis, president, Raymond Worrell, leader, and a group of F. F. A. boys visited the ranch last week and brought some fine Duroc gilts with which to start a chain gilt program, also bringing with them three fine Holstein calves, the gift of McCarty and Romig, Las Cruces dairymen. The rabbit breeders, at their meeting last Tuesday night, announced that they would help the boys, build hutches and start them out with several does and a buck, the nucleus for a rabbit project.

Buck also stated that several Kiwanis clubs had made substantial contributions within the past week, the El Paso club sending in a second check for $500.00, the Roswell club one for $100.00, the Raton club contributing an exceptionally fine milk cow valued at $200.00, and $250.00 from the Albuquerque Kiwanis club, realized when a birthday cake was auctioned off at the Albuquerque club last week.

Buck also reported donations of quilts, towels, mattresses and other household articles from several women's groups in the state and said that the response of New Mexico women had been very gratifying.

The medical staff, consisting of specialists in various departments, has been contributing a good deal of time to careful examinations of applicants, Buck said, so that a boy who is received at the ranch will be free from infectious or communicable diseases.

The Flying E. R. celebrated its first Thanksgiving with turkey and all the trimmings. It was a festive occasion for the boys at the ranch and a significant date for the workers in the organization who saw in it the culmination of many months of hard work and preparation.

Buck asked that those who wished to make a Christmas contribution to send it either to the Treasurer, Glenn L. Emmons, at Gallup, or to the business office, whose mailing address is Box 261, Albuquerque.

"Plan your work and Work your plan"

Long winter evenings bring families together after chores are done. Then there's time for serious talks and good fun. In December there's opportunity, too, to review the results of the past year's work . . . to make plans that can be carried out efficiently in the year that lies ahead.

Proper planning uncovers new opportunities in any business. With experience, know-how, and plain "horse sense" to draw on, plan-making should not be difficult. You think back with pleasure on your good crops . . . on how well your livestock or poultry programs turned out. You remember little things that made them profitable, or caused a loss. With this in mind, you look ahead and decide on next year's crops and rotations. You think of ways to improve your livestock operations. You make provision for the purchase of breeding stock, seed, machinery, fencing and equipment. You consider your problems from all angles. That's the way a sound plan is made. Then you set your course and stick to it.

What's true of the individual farm or ranch is true of any business, small or large. We at Swift & Company will know that we, too, must plan our work and work our plan. Our business interests are many and varied. Without a plan and good business records, we would be almost certain to run into serious losses because our profit margin is small. But by planning carefully, diversifying and working efficiently, we—like you—hope to increase our earnings in the future.

To all our friends on America's farms and ranches, we at Swift & Company wish

a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

John Holmes, President

Things are NOT always as they seem

Which is the longer—the top line of the top figure, or the bottom line of the bottom figure? Well—measure them and see!

Similarly, in the livestock-meat industry, conclusions based on a quick glance at a situation are not always so. A case in point is the "spread" between prices paid for livestock and the price received by the meat packer for the meat. The fact is that this spread is narrow. Out of every dollar Swift gets from the sale of its products, 75 cents, on the average, is returned to producers.

Can you name another business that returns such a high percentage of its sales dollar to producers of raw materials? Can you name any other business that performs so many essential services with the twenty-five cents left from that sales dollar? The twenty-five cents pays all business costs. Livestock-buying expenses, slaughtering, refrigeration and processing. The cost of selling the meat and delivering it to thousands of markets all over America. Necessary supplies, such as salt, sugar, barrels, boxes, paper. Ever-present taxes, etc. After all these expenses are paid, Swift's share averages, over a period of years, less than 2¢ on each sales dollar. This amounts to a fraction of a cent a pound of product handled.

Martha Logan's Recipe for ROAST TURKEY

Place stuffed turkey on a rack in an open pan. Do not add water and do not cover. Roast in a preheated, slow oven (325°F.) according to following schedule:

|-----------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 8 lbs. stuffed weight..... | 15 minutes per pound or 2 1/2 hours |
| 12 lbs. stuffed weight..... | 15 minutes per pound or 3 hours |
| 14 lbs. stuffed weight..... | 14 minutes per pound or 3 1/4 hours |
| 15 lbs. stuffed weight..... | 13 minutes per pound or 3 1/2 hours |

Sausage Bread Stuffing

|----------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1 pound sausage meat | 2 tablespoons diced onion |
| 2 eggs | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup milk | 4 tablespoons chopped parsley |
| 7 cups bread crumbs | 1 cup diced celery |

For a 12 to 14 pound turkey
 Pan fry sausage until brown. Drain. Beat eggs slightly. Add hot milk. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over them the egg mixture.

A DOLLAR SAVED IS A DOLLAR EARNED

This true old saying has been an important guide in the business philosophy of Swift & Company right from the beginning of our history. And it always will be, because that is the only way anyone can make money in the meat packing business.

In no other business that I know of is there such a narrow margin of possible profit. In the purchase of livestock, for instance, our buyers compete with buyers representing 3,500 meat packing plants and 22,500 other commercial slaughterers. Then, we sell our products in competition with the same 20,000 slaughterers with whom we compete when purchasing the livestock. Because of this constant competitive pressure from both sides, our profit margins are very narrow.

Thus, to make money we have to save money. Yes—we, too, have to "plan our work and work our plan." That's why we are forever checking our operations to increase efficiency . . . to eliminate waste . . . to do our job better. That job is to process and distribute more than six and one-half billion pounds of meats and other products each year. Only on such a volume of business can tiny savings per pound add up to the profit which keeps us in business.

Baptist Church
 Rev. O. L. Oldham, Pastor

Miss Martha Ellis, who served a few years as a Missioner to the Spanish speaking people of South America, under the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Boards and is now serving as superintendent of Baptist mission, among the Spanish of New Mexico, came to our home Monday Dec. 9th. With Miss Ellis was the Rev. Benito Vallarreal pastor of First Spanish Baptist Church in Albuquerque. Rev. Benito, is also a member of our Spanish mission Board.

These workers with Mrs. Oldham and I, attended the district meeting of the Lincoln Baptist Association, which was held at Alamogordo on Wednesday. From there we drove through the Spanish settlements in the Rio Grande and Hondo valley.

The visit of these missionaries was climaxed by a real Spiritual service at our church Wednesday night, which was attended by both Anglo and Spanish.

Miss Ellis thinks it will be possible to locate a Spanish speaking missionary in Lincoln County within six months.

Veterans News

Gene A. Robens, acting manager, New Mexico state VA office, reminds World War II veterans of the approaching deadlines of two important benefits to which they are entitled. The first affects all alien veterans throughout New Mexico who served in the U.S. armed forces after September 1, 1939 and who are thus eligible to become American citizens immediately upon application before December 31, 1946.

The second deadline affects virtually all veterans who have let their GI term insurance lapse. They may reinstate this insurance on or before Feb. 1, 1947, without a physical examination by signing a statement that their health is as good now as when their policies lapsed and by paying premiums for only two months.

Deadlines for several other benefits will be set automatically when the President or Congress officially declares World War II ended. They are:

LOANS

Home, farm or business loans may be guaranteed or insured by VA up to ten years after the war's end.

EDUCATION

Or on the job training may be started up to four years after the end of the war and completed within nine years.

REHABILITATION

Disabled veterans eligible for education and training under Public Law 16 face no entry deadline but they must complete their training within nine years after the end of the war.

READJUSTMENT ALLOWANCES

Veterans are eligible for unemployment or self-employment allowances for two years after they are discharged or after the end of the war, whichever is later.

DISABILITY PENSIONS

While there is no limit on the time for making application for a disability pension, an appeal from the decision of a rating board must be filed within one year after the date of notification of the decision.

Veterans so severely disabled that no course of training will restore them to employability in four years may take more than the usual four years of training under the vocational rehabilitation act (Public Law 16) to reach their occupational objectives. This new regulation applies to disabled veterans who lose time in their courses because their health prevents completion of training within the designated time.

Applicants who wish to file their intention to take the examination for the positions of vocational advisor and vocational guidance supervisor in the VA, must notify the executive secretary, board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, VA, Branch 13, Denver, before Dec. 17. The various positions are located in Washington, D. C., and throughout the VA Branch 13 area, comprising the states of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. The examination will consist of questions on counseling techniques, vocational psychology and information about occupations

Minter-Barber Rite Held

Miss Lorraine E. Minter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Minter of Ft. Stanton, N. Mex., became the bride of Joe L. Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Barber of Capitan, N. Mex., in a double ring ceremony held Thursday December 5, 1946 at 6 P. M. in the Nazarene church. The Rev. J. L. Hood officiated.

Pink and white roses provided a floral background for the candlelight ceremony.

Mrs. F. W. Pfogaten sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because" accompanied by Mrs. F. H. Hall, Jr.

Mr. Minter gave his daughter in marriage. Annie and Jimmie lit the altar candles. Judy Minter was flower girl and Paul Wildman was ring bearer. Anne Barber, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Peggy Wigley was bridesmaid.

Albert Barber was best man and Billie Hale was groomsmen.

The bride's wedding gown was of heavy white satin with yoke of illusion and fashioned with long sleeves tapering to points at the wrists. Her veil was of finger tip length. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

A reception held at the high school, was attended by close friends.

Your Ford Dealer Says Thank You...

We want to say "Merry Christmas" to everyone in our area. And along with it we want to say "Thank You."

We think you know the Ford factory is making new cars for all the good people who have placed orders with us, making them just as fast as it can. We are getting our share... and we are still setting aside one out of every four for a veteran. The minute your car arrives, you'll hear from us. Meanwhile, we appreciate your patience and understanding.

We appreciate, too, your loyalty in bringing your present Ford "Back Home" to us when it needed servicing. Your continued patronage is evidence that you like our service.

Yes, we believe any businessman whose "inventory" includes such customers should be thankful. And we are.

So to all of you, a Merry Christmas... and may the New Year bring you many good things—including that new Ford.

LIVESTOCK SITUATION

Los Angeles Union Stock Yard Company December 16, 1946.—Cattle receipts at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards for the week were somewhat lighter than the preceding week and corresponding period a year ago which tended to stimulate a strong, active inquiry for all slaughter material and force an upward revision in the price list. Fat steers were strong to 25c, occasionally 50c higher, while cows and heifers worked fully 50c higher, with extremes up more. Calves advanced $1.00 to $1.50, highest levels of the month. Bulls also shared in the upward movement, price gains of 25 to 50c being recorded. Demand for stockers and feeders was only mildly influenced by the higher price of fat cattle, prices holding steady to 25c higher compared with previous week.

Beef steers formed a fair proportion of the week's offering, medium to good short fed kinds predominating. Bulk of these sold in a spread of $19.50 to $23, with several loads earning $23.50 to 24. Plain kinds down to $18 and a few common descriptions at $15.50 to $16.50. Good young cows ranged up to $17.50. Bulk of medium to good cows cleared at $13 to $15.50, including good dairy types up to $14. Culler to common cows held largely at $10 to $12, while canners bulked at $8.75 to $9.50, odd shelly sorts down to $8 and below. Several loads of medium to low good heifers brought $18.50 to $19.75, with odd packages upward to $20 and $21. A few best bulls touched $17 to $17.50 with most bologna and sausage offerings going at $13 to $15.50, a few common down to $11 and under.

Calves worked to a top of $21, with bulk of medium to good kinds ranging $17 to $19.50. A few common calves $12 to $15.50. Good stockers and feeders sold at $16.75 to $17.40, with medium grades largely $15 to $16.50.

Hog prices turned downward the first two days of the week but later firmed up, closing little changed with the extreme close of last week, though some heavies and sows were still around 50c lower in the final rounds. Practical top rested at $25, with bulk of good truck in butchers clearing at $24 to 24.50. Some heavy weights moved at $23 to $23.50. Sows dropped to a $21 to $22 basis with some common sorts down to $19. A few extreme light feeder pigs sold at $30. Heavier weights largely $20 to $25.

Sheep and lambs held on a generally unchanged schedule. Low good lambs sold at $20 but choice kinds were quotable to $22. A few good ewes sold at $8 to $8.50, with common and culls down to $3.

Duff May went to Socorro Monday and drove a new Ford truck back for the Carrizozo Auto Company.

LOCALS

Messrs. Albert Snow and C. E. Degner went duck hunting at Artesia Thursday of last week. They were accompanied as far as Roswell by Mayor Frank English. Sam Dow who is with the State Highway Department at Roswell was over last weekend.

Archie Meadows, engineer on Highway 54 project was here on Monday attending to business affairs.

Arthur Dow son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dow, Sr. left Monday for El Paso. Mr. Hollis Gregory of Douglas Arizona, arrived last Saturday to temporarily fill the Roadmaster position for Southern Pacific Railroad.

Roadmaster C. O. Hoagland for Southern Pacific Railroad here, moved with his family to Deming where he has assumed the Roadmasters duties at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Boettcher arrived from Santa Fe last Sunday. Mr. Boettcher is an engineer with the State Highway department and has started work on two bridges on Highway 54 just west of town which will complete the oiled highway to Oscura.

Mr. Albert Snow of Camp Mal Pais is driving a new Ford V-8 truck this week.

Veterans Benefit

With nearly 12,000,000 persons separated from the U. S. armed forces to date, more than 3,900,000—or about one out of every three veterans—have filed for unemployment benefits. Of that number, according to the Veteran Administration, 700,000 withdrew their requests before receiving first checks. Less than 15,000 veterans have used up the full amount to which they may be entitled.

It is estimated that six weeks is the average duration of veterans' unemployment benefits.

Mr. Granville Richardson of Arabela was a Carrizozo business visitor the latter part of last week.

Judge Fortino Beltran of Lincoln is here this week.

Sheriff Nick Vega took a prisoner to Las Cruces last week where district court is now in session.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thornton were business visitors in El Paso last Monday.

A Report to Our Telephone Customers in New Mexico...

THE PAST YEAR has been the busiest we've ever known. During that twelve-month period we gained 9922 telephones in New Mexico—over twice as many as in any twelve-month period before in our history!

At the first of this year there were 5250 New Mexico families whose orders for service had not been filled. 3947 of those applicants now have service.

In spite of every effort we have been unable to catch up with demand, however, for as old orders are cleared new orders for service pile up. We want the 6255 families who are now waiting, to know that we are doing our best to serve them soon.

Not only are there more telephones in use, but people are using them more. Local calls in New Mexico are running at the rate of 342,000 daily. That's an increase of 31% over last year, which had been our busiest year. Long Distance calls too are at an all-time high.

As your telephone needs have increased, we have increased our forces to take care of those needs and we now have more employees than ever before. In 1940 there were 547; today there are 933. They have been resourceful and competent in meeting unprecedented demands for service. There has been no time when what we call the "Spirit of Service" was more important.

We are carrying out the largest construction program in New Mexico in our history this year. Despite material shortages, our gross construction program in this state in 1946 will amount to approximately $1,672,000.

All of us in the telephone business look forward to the day when there will be no one waiting for telephones; better, faster service for local and long distance calls; fewer people on party lines; and greatly improved service in rural communities. We are making steady progress toward that goal.

'Co-Operation' of Truman, Republicans Can't Last

PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman has offered the olive branch of co-operation and Chairman Reese of the Republican national committee has accepted and proffered his own co-operation on behalf of the Republican leadership in the 80th congress.

There are a few here in Washington who believe that such a state of Utopia can be reached, particularly with reference to the bi-partisan agreement on our foreign policy.

Human nature being what it is, there is a question even as to whether or not the Republican leadership itself can be brought into harmonious agreement with the 1948 presidential nomination within the possible grasp of one of the top five GOP leaders.

In the senate itself, there are both Senators Taft and Bricker of Ohio, who have been stepping aside for each other in their bid for the presidential nomination during the last two GOP national conventions.

Dewey, Stassen Hopeful

Too, there is Governor Dewey of New York, who emerges from the GOP landslide again as the No. 1 man in the Republican party because of his smashing victory in New York state.

Change in Foreign Policy

Close observers here declare that even our foreign policy is in jeopardy from the split leadership in government . . . that the traditional high tariff stand of the Republican party threatens the reciprocal trade agreements and the low tariff policies of the state department.

Congressmen Harold Knutson and Joe Marler are both predicting a 30 per cent cut in individual income taxes next year.

Vote Will Be Sustained

With the veto his only weapon, the President may use it sparingly, but a count of noses indicates that he likely will have sufficient support in both houses despite the GOP majority to sustain his veto.

PROGRESS OF COAL STRIKE . . . Stanley Jartzabek's smile turned to a more serious expression as the coal strike continued. As seen in these two views of the New Kensington miner, the first, left, taken as he left the Harmar mine at Harmarville, Pa. At right, after he had been out on strike for several days and things didn't look so bright.

CHRISTMAS IN ARIZONA . . . Decorating giant Saguaro cacti in the famed "Valley of the Sun," these cowgirls make the cast do Christmas tree duty.

NATURAL GAS VS. LEWIS WASHINGTON.—It has now been more than a year since it was suggested in this column that the only way to counteract John L. Lewis was to convert our two war-built, government-owned pipelines to natural gas.

In the interim also millions of cubic feet of Texas and Louisiana natural gas have gone up in smoke and will never be recovered. Most people don't realize that this is one of our most valuable natural resources.

Reason for the government's failure to convert the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines to gas is not entirely red tape, nor the secret opposition of John L. Lewis.

Illustrative of this wire-pulling is a natural gas pipeline only 10 miles from Washington, D. C., which brings gas from West Virginia. Originally the pipeline was constructed to feed the nation's capital, but the coal industry and the railroads blocked the entrance of natural gas into Washington.

So for 10 years West Virginia natural gas flowed to within sight of the nation's capital but was never permitted to come into the city. Only during the war was this finally changed.

Most amusing sight on the merry-go-round scene today is the frantic scramble of the socialites, the lobbyists and the local power politicians to get religion in a hurry. In this case, religion is better known as the GOP.

SCAN LABOR HORIZON

One veteran senator and one newcomer are destined to play leading roles in GOP labor relations in the next congress. The veteran is aggressive, square-shooting Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine.

It was Ives who fathered the bipartisan committee on labor legislation in the New York legislature, and steps now are being taken privately to set up a similar committee in congress.

Chief behind-the-scenes plugger for this plan is Brewster. Already he has had some confidential chats with labor spokesmen, has warned that unless they play ball, drastic legislation scuttling the Wagner act is sure to be enacted.

Brewster's idea is to negotiate a covenant for labor-peace between congress and labor, which could, if successful, obviate the need of rough, legislative crack-downs. Such a peace pact might take the form of a strike moratorium or an agreement to arbitrate major disputes.

Come what may, some labor curbs, including revision of the Wagner act, seem certain to be voted, but Brewster believes these curbs can be tempered in direct proportion to labor's ability to control its own mavericks.

For some strange reason, Secretary of State Byrnes has become awfully jittery about having a senate committee probe what's going on in Germany. He is putting all sorts of obstacles in the path of the old Truman committee's investigation of the reported breakdown of American morale in Germany.

POLITICAL CHAFF

President Truman has no illusions about his ability to get along with the new GOP congress. He knows Bob Taft too well. Despite Truman's conciliatory message to the nation, he believes it will be a constant battle with the Republicans once the honeymoon is over.

Murder in Plain Sight

by GERALD BROWN

W.N.U. FEATURE

Duke McCale, private detective, has established an enviable reputation in Boston in a short time by solving some difficult cases. He is consequently surprised and surprised when Miss Adelaide Bigelow, extremely wealthy and aristocratic old money, engages him to guard the streets during the festivities surrounding her niece's wedding. McCale accepts the commission only because he senses that Miss Bigelow is afraid of something, and that she wants a competent detective around the house in case of some outbreak. "If something were stolen, it something did happen, you'd have to investigate, wouldn't you?" McCale says. Miss Bigelow, meaningfully, McCale grasps the obvious hint.

CHAPTER II

A nursemaid's job to a lot of iced-tea spoons. "Phooey!" The big young man hitched his long legs over an arm of the chair and snorted in irritation. "Holy Mike! What are we broke? I thought we were definitely out for the big stuff—no more small time. I run my legs off getting dope on this Vallaincourt guy—and what for? What has the bridegroom got to do with seeing that the friends of the family don't snitch all the silver plate? I suppose you expect him to run around the corner to the hock shop with the punchbowl between the ceremony and the reception."

Ann Marriot came in on the last part of the harangue. She set a coffee percolator on the desk, and busied herself with cups and saucers.

"Keep your shirt on, Tiny," she said to the big fellow. "Duke has a hunch. Why not let him do the talking? We only work here."

Rocky made appropriate noises, adding, "So this is a conference?"

"What did you think it was—the wedding breakfast?"

"All right, all right. So Duke has a hunch. Go ahead, master-mind. Go into your trance and tell us all."

McCale helped himself to a sandwich. Rocky, the old lady Bigelow, aunt of the bride, comes in here to hire special service—that of guarding the wedding gifts. That's her story. But look here. She doesn't want half a dozen men planted here. She's after only one inconspicuous man; not for the day of the wedding, but starting now—for the duration. That in itself is screwy. Besides that, she doesn't want the police—and she's turned down operators from all the big agencies. To top it off, she acts as though the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse were tracking her down."

Rocky's eyes narrowed. "Skipping the mythology, maestro, I think I do see a glimmer of light. In other words, she doesn't give a hang if the wedding feast is lousy with kleptomaniacs. She's got other troubles."

"Exactly."

"Go to the head of the class," said Ann.

"Well, where do we come in?"

McCale accepted coffee from Ann and lit a cigarette. He spoke into the first puff of smoke.

"You've got me there. I'm not sure the lady knows herself, but it's certain she wants someone around. We're elected, anyway. So my first move is in a file on the family and the dashing bridegroom, just in case. What did you get on Curt Vallaincourt?"

Mystery Surrounds Vallaincourt

"Not much, I'm afraid." Rocky flipped open a notebook. "Showed up around these parts about a year ago. He's from New York City, or so he says. Definitely not Harvard nor Blue Book. Seems to have plenty of dough. Lives in a swank apartment on the Biverway. Doesn't work. Goes everywhere with the society crowd. The gals all do cartwheels whenever he shows up anywhere. Anyway, he's marrying twenty million dollars next week. Make anything mysterious out of that?"

McCale shrugged. "Plenty if I wanted to let it run away with me."

He turned to Ann. "Did you line up the Bigelows for me?"

"Well," she began, "the Perkinses and the Bigelows go right back—long before the Tea Party—if that's the sort of thing you want."

"Skip that. Bring us up to date."

"Okay. The money all comes from cotton mills in Lowell, and clipper ships and the Oriental trade before that. The Perkinses and the Bigelows intermarried, and so on. Adelaide Bigelow, our client, and her brother, Joel, are and were, respectively, the last of the line. Adelaide never married. Joel married twice. His first wife is dead. Is that clear?"

"Perfectly."

"Joel's second wife, Sybil, is apparently not of the royal purple. Her family only seems to go back a generation or two. Probably she was considered fast or nouveau riche or something, as she was a widow when he married her. She's a lot younger than he, too."

"Where did you get the nouveau riche stuff?"

"Oh, I didn't. Just surmise. In fact, I don't know whether she has any money of her own, or not. He was seventy when he died, five years ago, and she was forty-three then. She had two children by her first marriage, a son, Stephen, and a daughter, Victoria. Their name was Bennett, but he adopted them, and they changed to the Bigelow surname."

"Then Veronica, the bride, is a daughter of this second marriage?"

"No. The first Mrs. Bigelow died in childbirth—that is, in giving birth to Veronica. The old gentleman married Sybil Bennett three years after. Am I bawling this up?"

"No, indeed. It's very clear. Go on."

"There's not much more. Stephen was married two years ago. He didn't go to Harvard or Groton, like the rest of the Bigelows. M.I.T., I believe. He's an airplane designer at present. He married a girl from St. Louis—Swedish descent, but social and all that. A Karen Cristoferson. Not much fuss around here about it."

"What's that?" He picked up a folded square of paper that had fluttered from her lap to the floor.

"Oh, I nearly forgot that. It's a rotogravure cut of Veronica Bigelow from the Sunday Herald of a few weeks ago."

McCale unfolded it and spread it flat on the top of the desk. The likeness of a very pretty girl looked up at him. It was a carefully lighted study of the photographer's conception of how a well-groomed, quiet, aristocratic young woman should pose.

"That really doesn't do her justice, I should say," mused Ann. "I understand she has gorgeous red hair and a beautiful figure."

"Well, we shall see," said Duke, handing it back to her. "Tuck it away with the rest of the data and transcribe Rocky's notes for a file on Vallaincourt. I'm due at the ancestral mansion for tea with Miss Adelaide at five—or thereabouts."

"Wheel!" It was Rocky. "No, please oblige and old pewter mugs."

"Quiet, stooge. You and Ann hold the fort here. I don't even know whether our client expects me to take over twenty-four hours duty or not. I'm darn sure she's not really worried about the wedding presents. If by any chance she is, you may have to put on crepe soles and pussyfoot around there through the wee small hours. I'll call you."

McCale Senses That Something's Amiss

The Bigelow house was on that mound of Beacon street that slopes gently to Charles street and the Gardens. It was almost in the shadow of the State House dome and you could have thrown a pebble easily from the front stoop onto the paths of the old Common. Four stories high, its narrow dusky brick facade gave the lie to the roominess and depth within.

Adelaide Bigelow was waiting for McCale in the drawing room on the second floor. A butler, old and quiet and unobtrusive, had answered his knock and led him through a dim hallway, preceding him up dark, thickly carpeted stairs.

The room was at the front of the house. Heavy red draperies at the wide high windows were already drawn. Frail Miss Bigelow stood in its exact center, small and patrician, against the background of a huge black marble mantel.

He bowed slightly, and as she sank onto a Victorian sofa, he made a half-hearted gesture of fumbling for a cigarette. A clock on the mantel ticked a long minute as he hesitated to light it.

"Please do smoke," Miss Adelaide said in her soft, troubled voice. "This room is rather overpowering, isn't it? It has never been changed since the days of my grandparents. It takes the children to cheer it up. They should be along soon. There was a rehearsal at the church this afternoon." She sighed.

McCale struck a match, thinking that there was something wicked about hereditary possessions and what it could do to people's lives.

"If you'd like to mix yourself a drink, Mr. McCale, there's a variety of liquor on that table." He shook his head.

"I'll wait, I think."

He was obsessed with the thought that although her voice was calm, unhurried, there was something empty and trembling in her. She seemed to be watching, too, watching the way the firelight flickered across his lean, hard jaw, and reaching out to him in some uncertain way for strength.

Letting the smoke out of his lungs, he said slowly, his voice low, "Perhaps you have something to tell me before the others arrive."

She looked up quickly, one fist tightly clenched in her lap. "Oh, no."

"Damnation," thought McCale. "What is the matter with this woman? Or is it me? Am I getting out of practice? I can usually catch something significant in my own subtle way, but this baffles me. I'll stake my life that there is something seriously wrong in this room, in this house. Something is going to happen. The Irish in me tells me so. It's crawling up the very small of my back. I've got to have something to go on."

She rose and walked past him, to the door, her dress rustling like dry leaves. "I want you to, see the wedding gifts," was all she said, closing the door of her mind sharply in his face.

A quick black anger flared up in him. His impulse was to stalk from the house, but reason held him, reason and the disturbing unrest that had remained in his brain and nerves ever since her visit to his office that morning. He followed her downstairs.

Heavy double doors intricately carved in designs of fruit opened off the lower hall into an immense dining room. There was faded scenic paper on the walls and huge sideboards against opposite sides of the room. Two exquisite crystal chandeliers, wired now for electricity, hung over a long narrow table. Along the dado which outlined the room, a dozen or more Adam chairs arched their dignified backs. Table and sideboards were loaded with silver, lamps, expensive glassware; rare, beautiful, odd, pretentious gifts for the bride and groom.

McCale walked around the display slowly, nodding at Miss Bigelow's remarks: "Very valuable; an heirloom; priceless," and so on. He marveled at the value placed on some simple piece, shuddering at the ostentatiousness of others. He was ready to grant the necessity of protection for this collection, was beginning to push away the odd hunch he had been playing all day, when he felt, rather than saw, a sudden change in his client.

A quiver rippled over her frail shoulders. Her hands fluttered helplessly as she came to a sudden frozen stop. They had reached the far end of the table. He heard "osp and looked down to see the rest of it all.

It was a model, to scale, of a small modernistic house, set in miniature landscaped grounds. Complete with casement windows, sun deck, glass-walled patio, it was an architect's dream of the plus ultra in a civilized dwelling place. There was even a tiny roadster on the curved highway, a swimming pool in the rear, a statue in the small, geometrically plotted garden. The model had evidently been on display somewhere, for an engraved card attached to one corner of the base read:

Model of 1942 House—The Nest
Crystal Cove, Nahant
Architect—Christopher Storm

Beside McCale, Miss Bigelow swayed. Her face blanched. With eyes half-closed, she reached for and held up in her trembling fingers a long legal envelope that had been lying beside the model. "From it," she took a folded document, opened it slowly. Over her shoulder, Duke saw it was a deed, ceding the property and buildings of Christopher Storm at Crystal Cove, Nahant, Massachusetts, to Curt Vallaincourt.

Beautiful Blonde Enters the Scene

Wordlessly, as McCale bit his lip to keep silent, Adelaide Bigelow replaced the deed in its envelope. She turned slowly, motioning him to leave the room with her.

The bright brilliance of "The Firebird" rippled through the gloom of the upper-hall on a shaft of yellow light from the open drawing room door. Someone was playing the Stravinsky and playing it well. McCale, following Miss Bigelow inside, saw that the room was now occupied by three women and a man.

As his client drew him forward, his glance was irresistibly drawn to the woman at the piano. She was exceedingly beautiful in an almost cinematic way. Her body was long and thin and exquisitely draped in a white jersey tea-gown, the wide sleeves of which swung rhythmically as she played. The high cheekbones of her face shadowed the faintest of hollows. You could have swept the floor with her lashes, but she which glowed humorous blue eyes. Her mouth was sensuous, an arch with vermilion lipstick. As if all this were not enough, hair the color of flax hung in a long bob a her shoulders.

By BERTHA MAE INBODY

Young Dr. Janet Rhodes pulled the brown suede hat closer over her eyes. She couldn't look up—to see the exchange of Santa Claus glances between beaming mothers and little boys. Once—was it but one Christmas ago?—a little hand had held tightly to hers.

She was jostled by the merry rush. Children with bundles, mothers and fathers—and little boys! He, too, had carried packages that seemed too large for him, last Christmas Eve. "Mumsie, what's in this one?" he had asked, excitedly. "It's so-o-o fat!" So clearly now his question came to her, that she answered half aloud, "Oh, Billy, you just wait—until morning!"

A dry sob, catching at her throat, seemed to steady her. She must pull herself out of it. At sixty-three her "Children's Hour" must be on the air. "Fairy Godmother," the children had named her.

Thousands of little figures, crowding close to the loud speaker, listened breathlessly. "Little soldiers," she called these little pain-weary bodies.

The Fairy Godmother shut her eyes. In imagination, her arms held her own little crippled soldier, who fought so bravely against infantile paralysis. But promises of Santa Claus must go out to them. Unconsciously she ended with the words: "But you just wait—until morning!"

Unrecognized by her, it was bitterness that kept her from reading the scrawled, childish messages that came to her. Tonight the basket seemed to mock her. A tipsy little envelope, sliding from the top, seemed to block her way out. She stared at it, scooped, picked it up. It clung to her hand, pleading. From it she drew a soiled card and deciphered the words:

"Dear fairy godmother, there is bugles with horses on them ain't there. Nick in the bed next to mine sez no, won't you please tell Santa to bring me one. My leg's gettin better. Merrie Crisnum Jimmy Dean, children's hospital."

Janet pushed through the crowds. Smiling eyes looked directly into other smiling eyes. She was to buy

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Lesson In Conservation

We were sitting on Bill Webster's perch the other night, chatting over a glass of beer--when the talk turns to forest preservation, soil erosion, and other things that affect a farming community.

Judge Cunningham speaks up: "It's all right to worry about conserving our natural resources," he says, "but there's a far bigger problem when it comes to conservation--and that's preserving our democratic way of life, our sense of personal freedom, our respect for one another's rights."

From where I sit, the Judge is right. All America's great resources, our abundant natural wealth, are fast the minute we lose the right to work them as free people in a free land!

Whenever you see or hear of an encroachment on our rights--whether it's the right to free speech, or the right to vote as we see fit, or the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in licensed, law-abiding places... watch out!
