RICHARD T. NOE

It is with regret that we learn of the accident which resulted in the death of Richard T. Noe, age 32, at the Fort Stanton Marine hospital on Friday, February 16th, 1946. Young Noe, who was an employe of the R. B. Holloday Lumber Company was struck by a falling tree, resulting in a concussion of the brain from which he died. He joined the army in 1941 and had been in continuous service until in September 1945, when he was honorably discharged and returned to his Hollywood home near Ruidoso. When he started overseas he became a subscriber of the Lincoln County News, and each time we received a new APO number we promptly changed his address, hoping the paper would reach him. He served in Southern France, the Rhineland, Rome, Sicily, Arno. Before entering the Army he had been an employe of the Holloday Lumber Co., and upon his return home had resumed his position.

In addition to his widow he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Noe of Hollywood and by two sisters and three brothers, one of whom is now in Japan with the Occupation Forces.

Several of our young soldiers have passed through all the dismal, dark and constant dangers of the battle lines, returning to the comparative safety of their homes, only to lose their lives in some accident.

Funeral services and interment were at Roswell, February 18th.

Engagement Announced

Announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Betty Ruth Shafer and Mr. Joyce B. Howell, formerly of Dolores, Colorado, but now of El Paso to Navy Lieutenant James Irl Hemphill of Vaughn, New Mexico. The announcement party was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Gillis of El Paso who is an aunt of the bride-to-be. Miss Paduock is a senior at Austin high school in El Paso, and will be graduated in May. She is a past worthy advisor of the order of Rainbow for Girls, and has held offices in the Colorado grand assembly; at present she is grand representative to Kansas.

Lt. Hemphill is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hemphill, formerly of Newman, Texas, but now of Vaughn, N. Mex. He was educated in El Paso and New Mexico and is a graduate of Annapolis military academy, class of 1944. After his graduation he served on the USS Marshall in the South Pacific until last fall when he was transferred to the USS Beatty which is stationed at Pearl Harbor.

Rev. and Mrs. John J. Loudin went to Roswell yesterday. They were accompanied by Miss Hope Snow, who will attend the District Tournament.

Bobby Shafer who is on shore duty with the navy was here last week end from Yuma, Arizona to attend the party given by his parents in honor of his sister and her fiance.

Mrs. Anna Brazel and her daughter, Mrs. Buelah Hartley have gone to El Paso to spend a few days with the family of Mrs. Brazel's nephew while he goes to Oklahoma to look into the damage which his property suffered in the recent cyclone near Ardmore.

SHAFFER-HOWELL

The Valentine party announcing the engagement of Miss Betty Ruth Shafer and Mr. Joyce B. Howell, turned into a wedding party, as the couple slipped away from the crowd while the dancing was in progress and were married at the home of the Rev. John J. Loudin. Witnesses to the ceremony were the bride's brother, Bobby Shafer, and Miss Jane Gallacher. The wedding was to have been March 15th, but Mr. Howell received a message that his sister was seriously ill, and they decided to be married at once, so that Betty could accompany him to his sister's home in Fort Worth, Texas for which point they left last Sunday morning. They found the sister better and are now visiting at Brownwood, Texas.

The party was held at the Country Club, and decorations were beautiful and elaborate. A heart four feet in width, all padded and surrounded by a wide white ruffle had "Betty and Joyce" in white letters on the center. A string of red hearts extended all around the hall; the ceiling was covered in red and white crepe paper. Refreshments were served buffet style throughout the evening. The table attractively decorated and laden with dainty refreshments including several kinds of sandwiches, avocado salad, olives, pickles, cheese, potato chips and coffee.

One hundred and fifty guests were present and dancing was enjoyed most of the evening with Joe Morgan's 5-piece orchestra furnishing the music.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Shafer. She attended the Colorado Woman's College at Denver, and has been an employe of the Southern Pacific company for two years. She was a member of the Rainbow order, and the Carrizozo Woman's Club. She is very attractive and has a host of friends.

The groom, who has been in the Pacific war area for over two years, is just out of the army. Before the war he was engaged in ranching and the hotel business. He is well known here and very popular. Many friends wish for them a happy, prosperous life.

The District Basketball tournament is in progress at Roswell this week. Several of our local students are in attendance, among whom are Janet May Shafer, Hope Snow, and Kathleen Ward. Mrs. Mae Jordan and her daughter Elizabeth went over to witness the games.

TRUMAN A. SPENCER EIGHTH PRESIDENT OF CATTLE GROWERS ASSN.

We have now reached the able group of cattle men who have served as presidents of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, who are not only living, but who also are active in their own livestock businesses and in the affairs of the association, in the growth of which they have played so important a part. In dealing with these we are forced to re-strict both space and laudatory comment, which they so richly deserve. Cattlemen are traditionally and factually modest men. They do not like to have their virtues and good deeds paraded in public. So it is that in this and others to follow, we shall confine statements to brief facts, leaving praises for good deeds well done to a later period in their careers... and no doubt to a younger editor of The New Mexico Stockman.

This sketch has to do with Truman A. Spencer, eighth president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, who served the organization as its chief during dying days of the great boom of the 1920's and into the beginning of the great depression in 1930. His period as president was a contrast of lush prosperity and dire disaster for cattle growers. The state association, under Mr. Spencer's guidance, sounded warnings of the coming storm, and a majority of members heeded the warnings and furled their sails to weather the gale. The association head was one of those who not only survived the depression years, but who also emerged with ranch holdings intact, to go into prosperous times.

Mr. Spencer, who admits to 55 years, has lived in New Mexico for the past 31 years. He operates two large ranches; the famous "Three Rivers" ranch in Otero county, and the historic "Block" ranch near Carrizozo, Lincoln county. He has served as president of the Albuquerque Production Credit Association and continues as a member of the board of directors. He is a member of the advisory board in grazing district No. 4; is an alternate from New Mexico on the national advisory board, U. S. Grazing Service and has been active in the affairs of the American Livestock Association, although he has held no office in that organization. At present and for some years past Mr. Spencer has been chairman of the finance committee of the Cattle Growers Association.—New Mexico Stockman.

Why Do They Leave
The Family Farm?

AT LONG LAST, so your home town reporter believes, something may be done about getting at the basic and underlying reasons why American rural life is breaking up in these United States.

And immediately I can envision the raising of eyebrows from many individuals and leaders of farm organizations. "What do you mean, breaking up?" they will all ask, and then they start pointing . . . pointing to good roads; to 4-H clubs; Future Farmers organizations; . . . to farm bureaus and granges and farm unions, to co-ops, to consolidated schools, to rural electrification, to many, many newly won farm conveniences. They point to all these things, and more, and they are all good for farm life.

Members of the congress who represent the so-called farm bloc spend their time listening to these farm pressure groups and pushing through the legislative mills bills intended for the advantages of the farmers. I read their speeches. Congressman John W. Flannagan Jr. of Virginia, one of the outstanding battlers for agricultural legislation, made a speech before the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago and listed eight "musts" as necessary to place American post-war agriculture on a firm basis. But in no place in Mr. Flannagan's speech are there answers to the two factors which are breaking down rural life in America.

What's the Trouble?

Why, with all these things being done, is there a steadily diminishing rural population?

Why is there such a larger proportion of rural youth physically unfit than in other strata of our national life?

There have been attempts to make general answers to these two questions . . . technological development . . . power machinery . . . greater yields per acre, but there has been no basic research up to this point, in an attempt to find the real answer.

Farm leaders are concerned . . . economic, industrial and spiritual leaders are concerned . . . and as a result there has been in the process of formation during the past year the Foundation for American Agriculture. Its organization is now complete, its research under way in several fields and to steer its progress it has obtained the services of Charles Dana Bennett. That name . . . Charles Dana Bennett . . . conjures up a long line of writers, artists, publicists, correspondents, publishers — who have made history in America.

Food Processors Interested

Upon its board of directors, the foundation has the names of some of the "Big Business" leaders of the nation, leaders interested primarily in agriculture because their business is with agriculture . . . Quaker Oats, Swift & Co., Halston-Purina Co., Pillsbury Mills, Sears, Roebuck and Co., and others, but it also has representatives of the various farm organizations, co-operatives, milk associations and outstanding individual farmers and ranchers.

Its work will be educational, based upon research findings.

"The Foundation for American Agriculture is to serve as a place for men and women to think out their problems, rather than to fight them out. Its job is to create through the processes of education, a better understanding between the people in our cities and the people in our villages and on our farms . . . that education will bring this understanding and understanding will bring tolerance . . . out of tolerance comes peace and progress," Mr. Bennett explained.

Why does a farm boy or farm girl leave home? Is it because the house is unpainted, because there is no bathroom in the house, or is it the lure of better paid city jobs? Why do young people in the home towns move on to the larger cities? Why do the oldsters on the farm retire to the smaller nearby towns and let the farm go to tenancy? The answers to these questions are being sought in a foundation-backed project undertaken at Milford, Ind., a small rural town of about 700 population in Kosciusko county. Research has been started there under the direction of the Rev. Harry Graham, lecturer for the Indiana State Orange.

Better Educational Movies

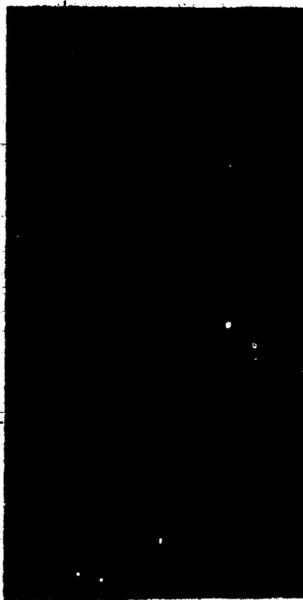

Another research program has created the Rural Film Foundation. Three important factors are being kept in mind in the production of these 16-mm films: (1) that they cannot be produced on a five and ten cent basis such as many cheap rural films have been heretofore; (2) that scenarios must have good Hollywood technique and the educational angles must be worked into the story; and (3) that they must cost less money and be more appealing to farm audiences.

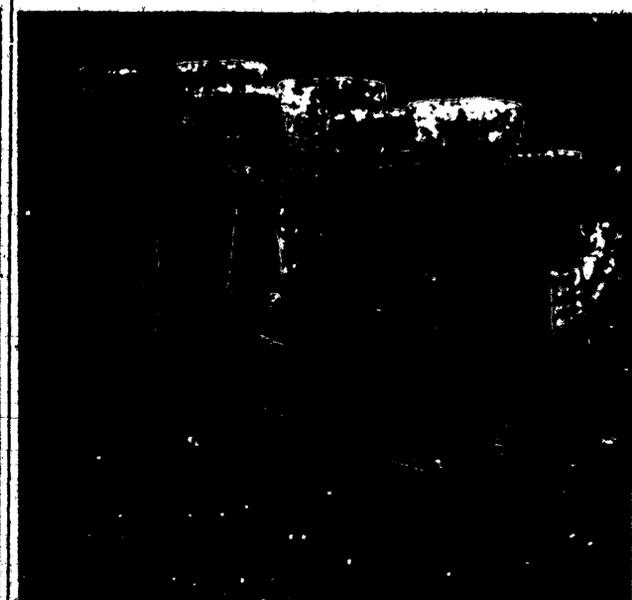

WINTER IN FLORIDA OR NEW HAMPSHIRE . . . Regardless of the weather, the younger generation finds plenty of amusement and body-building activities. At North Conway, N. H., the Eastern Slope Ski school, give more than 24,000 ski lessons annually to youngsters who contribute $2 annually and write a school composition on skiing. At a cabana club pool in Miami, Mary Jane Coswell, New York, goes overboard, while Kent Morkle, Washington, and Mary Jane's sister, Shirley, look on in their "doughnuts."

PARIS . . .

Look out your window in a modern Paris hotel and this is what you will see. Houses of crazy architecture and multitudinous chimney pots. George Alexander, Los Angeles, was so much in love with Paris that he reproduced it and brought it home in miniature. Entire streets and blocks of the picturesque quarters of the French capital are included in his collection. He had Paris in 1936 without the "baby" which, by underground routes, finally caught up with him in Los Angeles.

HANDY WRENCH . . . Weighing 265 pounds, this wrench has been declared surplus by the U. S. Army at the Leaning Tower (Ohio) ordnance plant. Ed Dolan of Warren, standing by the wrench, is six feet tall. Civilians may purchase such gadgets as these—to fix their watches.

MORE POWER TO THE DRAGON . . . China is to jump new life into the old dragon by building the biggest concrete dam, irrigation project and power plant ever known. Yangtze gorge project, with co-operation of the U. S. bureau of reclamation, builder of Boulder and Grand Coulee dams, is drafting overall plans. The mechanical lock facilities are shown above. They are capable of holding a loaded vessel of several thousand tons displacement capacity. John Lucian Savage is consulting engineer.

INTERNATIONAL COURT . . . Green E. Mackworth, 66, Chevy Chase, Md., has been elected one of 34 world judges by UNO. A native of Frankfort, Ky., Mackworth served at the Hague.

AMERICA'S OIL TWINS

WASHINGTON. — Many senators believe that the confirmation row over charming Ed Pauley as under secretary of the navy has taken on new significance now that Sec. Harold Ickes has offered Ralph Davies the job of under secretary of the interior.

It happens that Davies and Ed Pauley are bosom friends. Both are oil men. Both have followed the policy of "scratch-my-back-I'll-scratch-yours." This is important.

Recently, Secretary Ickes, who has a crusading record for guarding the nation's resources, recommended to President Truman that naval oil reserves be transferred from the navy to the interior department. It was just such a transfer by Albert K. Fall in the Harding administration that resulted in the teapot dome oil scandal.

No motive is attributed to the Ickes proposal except that of safeguarding oil. In fact, some people consider it significant that his proposal happened to coincide, by luck or otherwise, with the nomination of Oil-Man Pauley to be under secretary of the navy.

But what senators consider important is that, with Pauley's friend Ralph Davies offered the job of under secretary of the interior, the navy's oil lands, no matter where they are located — in interior or navy — will be partially under Pauley or a friend of his.

MEXICAN OIL DEAL

Relationship between Davies and Pauley has been extremely close. Davies was executive vice president of Standard Oil of California. Pauley sold him his own independent oil company. Later Pauley brought Davies to Washington, introduced him to Ickes, following which Davies became Ickes' deputy oil administrator. He did a good job.

However, state department officials say he continued to look out for Ed Pauley.

When Pauley was trying to lobby his high-octane Mexican gasoline plant through the government, it had to pass the hurdle of Secretary Ickes' petroleum administration. Davies okayed it — not only okayed it, but pushed it vigorously. At first Ickes also gave it his blessing. The state department, however, was vigorously opposed.

Showdown came in a secret session between Ickes, Davies, a Davies aid, and the Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The full story of this session was never really told at the senate hearing. Acheson opened by giving Ickes a very careful diagnosis of why the Mexican high-octane gasoline plant should not be built by Pauley. He took up point after point, his main argument being that the Mexican government would have to pay such a high price to Pauley that it would sour U. S.-Mexican relations.

After Acheson had finished, Ickes turned to Pauley's friend, Ralph Davies, and asked:

"Why didn't you tell me these things?"

"I didn't know them either," replied the red-faced Davies. Then, turning to his aid, he asked: "Why didn't you tell me these things?"

Ickes immediately reversed himself, threw his weight against Pauley. That is the real inside of how the Pauley octane plant for Mexico was stopped. Davies, of course, is an able, intelligent operator, too intelligent not to have known the main points of the Pauley plan. Pauley is equally able. He would be a good executive almost anywhere. But some senators want to think twice before putting these oil twins near the head of two departments controlling the oil reserves of the nation.

PRESIDENTIAL HUMOR

President Truman has been taking recent criticism in excellent humor. The other day he was talking with a group of friends and said:

"Apparently, no matter what I do I'm always in the middle. I say something about Palestine, and the Jews and the Arabs holler. Labor and capital get in a fight, and I am in the middle. The Russians and the British have an argument, and I am in the middle."

Suddenly the President paused, walked over to the door of his office, which connects with that of his secretary, Matthew Connelly, and called out:

"Hey, Matt, where can I buy a copy of Dale Carnegie's 'How to Win Friends and Influence People'?"

CAPITAL CHAFF

Assistant Sec. of State Spruille Braden is being muzzled by the cautious pink-tea diplomats regarding some sensational documents seized in Germany showing how certain Latin-American diplomats aided the Nazis during the war. . . . Forty-five small steel companies have now increased steel wages, thus sending more than 100,000 steel workers back to work. . . . Southern senators seem to like the filibuster method. Last week Senator Bible served notice he intends to use it against the British loan.

The Germans knew that we were working on the atomic bomb. They even planted a spy at Oak Ridge. . . . He was captured, although this has not been announced. The original plan was to drop 500 atomic bombs over Japan. When the scientists learned of it they protested to the army. . . . The army replied: "You go back and take care of your test tubes; we'll run the war!"

Uranium is now obsolete in the production of atomic bombs. . . . Lead, it appears, works just as well. . . . The U. S. knows that the Russians have the process, and we also know they are employing lead in the manufacture.

James Lee in his col'm, "The Main Stem," reports: "A daughter was born recently to Gloria De-Haven, and that must have made Walter Winchell feel a little older. In the first column he ever wrote, he announced the birth of Gloria herself."

Not older, James, just balded!

Chester Bowles, OP Administrator, has promised Mr. Truman that he will stay in that job until June 30th. He will resign to run for Gov. of Conn.

The President's next Page One picnic with Congress will be a panic. He will oppose any tax relief for corporations this year. Then he will amend that to deny any tax concessions to corporations that defy the Gov't. In other words, they won't be permitted to strike themselves into the lower tax brackets for rebate reasons. . . . The President is mulling three methods of fighting the reluctant steel industry (which he claims is trying to ruin the U. S. so that a handful can rule). Truman is asking the Justice Dept. to see if they can be prosecuted via the anti-trust act, wage hour law (or for violation of income tax statutes) because they won't show their books.

Routine negligence is given as the alleged reason for the meat packing strike, which could have been averted. . . . Both sides wanted Labor Sec'y Schwollenbach to intervene. But his telegram to Chicago for a Washington confab arrived an hour too late. . . . Schwollenbach knew the score for a week before the strike date was set. . . . (O, My Aching Schwollenbach!)

Fres. Truman's next report to the people will make his last one sound like a peep. He will name names (tying up Southern Demmys with Repubs) despite warnings from Bob Hanhagan that it's "bad politics." . . . Labor Sec. Vice Admiral Thomas Carlyle Giffen turned to Comdr. Storm and said: "Freddie, you like the ladies, don't you?" . . . Big Fred, no little worried about being killed, stammered: "Yezzis!"

Woman's World Men's Discarded Suits Provide Material for Jackets, Skirts

By Etta Haley

EVERY home has a clothes closet with a down-and-out suit that is not quite worn enough to throw out or a dress that has passed out of fashion. Every "rag bag" has a piece of material in it which, properly treated, would solve the problem of trimming a dress or making a smart hat or bag.

On the other side of the picture, there is no such thing as the woman or her daughter who has a large enough clothes budget to buy all the wearables which their hearts desire. However, armed with a pin and needle, sewing machine, perhaps, a dyeing dish, and a little ingenuity, every woman can make rapid strides toward creating the wardrobe she wants.

In many homes right now, there are a number of men's suits which are not suitable for wear just as they are. Big brother, who has been in the service, finds he has put on both inches and pounds and his old clothes do not fit. Or, dad wants something new and snappy in a suit, and decides the old blue serge suit will not do for another season. This suit, then, is fair game for remodeling.

Clean It First.

Before any actual cutting and sewing can be started, the garment should be washed or cleaned depending on the fabric. Woolens may be washed in warm, soapy suds and then dried in a warm place. If you fear shrinkage, dry cleaning is always safe. Then the seams should be carefully ripped, either with a small scissors or a razor. They may also be unraveled, but in any case, care should be taken to prevent pulling threads in the fabric or small holes which might make it unusable. Careful pressing is also important. If the suit is cleaned at home, it should be laid on the ironing board as smoothly as possible, then covered with a damp cloth—cheese cloth or muslin will do—and pressed with a fairly warm iron.

If You Have a Worn-Out Men's Suit . . .

This preparation might seem like unnecessary work, but it will preserve the lines of the material and will simplify recutting. The material will also be in long pieces and will be easier to piece together.

A boy's or man's suit can be clearly fashioned into a blazer jacket for daughter, and the pants may be used for a wrap-around skirt for mother or daughter. The jacket will probably need few alterations. In some cases it will be necessary to rip it apart to cut down for size, but this is easily done.

Contrasting Trimming.

Now, here's how the jacket is finished into a blazer. A tape of contrasting color is selected for trimming. This is piped around the collar and down the front. If there are pockets, these may also be trimmed with the tape.

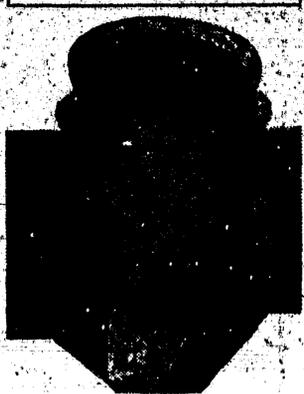

What about the color? If the suit is navy, brown or black, don't fuss; just use a bright colored trim. If it is any other color, take it out with color remover, and dye it navy, brown, dark or kelly green, or bright red.

The trousers, when ripped, can be pieced together for a nice, trim skirt. This may be gored or plain in the back, and it will have an opening in the front to the side. The end of the skirt that will be wrapped on top is fringed by the simple process of unraveling an inch of the material. The skirt, of course, is set on a waistband which is an inch to an inch and a half in width. The wrapping may be secured with inside fasteners, or a giant safety, if daughter is going to use the skirt.

Dark Skirts Versatile.

The dark color of men's suits will be particularly adaptable to skirts, for a dark skirt can be worn with almost any colored blouse. If you want to dye it, remove the color first, and concentrate on dark colors such as dark red, green or navy when re-dyeing. The deep colors such as those you find in clan plaids are favorites for a skirt of this type. Vests are very popular for women this year. They may be worn with dresses, skirts or slacks. If the suit has a vest, it can be made smaller by ripping it apart, and then cutting down to fit. The vests from tweed suits need no re-dyeing as they will go beautifully with both skirts and slacks.

Darning the Garment.

In patching, cut on the straight of the goods. Sew the patch on so crosswise yarns meet the crosswise yarns in the garment, and its lengthwise yarns meet lengthwise yarns. Patch a faded garment with a faded piece from a hem or a pocket so that it will match the material.

Yarns are well adapted to mending woolen material, especially small holes, tears and worn spots. If possible, use yarn unraveled from the same cloth the garment was made from, or raveled from the inside of a straight-cut seam or hem.

Patching Pointers

Shrink new fabrics before using them to patch old garments. If this is not done, the patch may shrink and pucker later. Careful steam pressing makes patches seem less noticeable. If ironing on woolen patches, cover with a damp cloth before ironing to prevent shine.

When you are buying material for a dress buy a half yard extra and make a wrap-around furban for yourself. This will give you a hat to match the dress.

Keep a small whisk broom handy for brushing clothes thoroughly before and after wearing. A small stiff brush is excellent for suede bags and shoes, felt hats or suede gloves.

The legs from an old pair of pajamas are excellent for an ironing board cover. Cut off the pajama leg and slip it over the board. Cover with the second leg and sew them at the ends.

Jumpers can be made from any simple dress and are an excellent wardrobe pepper-upper. To convert them, just rip out the sleeves, reshape the armhole and neck and finish the seams. Jumpers may be tailored or dressy, depending upon the blouse you wear most becomingly, and they are worn summer and winter.

Split seams in gloves are mended in the way they were originally stitched—whip or running stitch. On lapped seams, sewed close by machine, if there is not enough room for a seam, make blanket stitches along the edges of the ripped seam to strengthen it. Draw the edges together by overhanding through the blanket stitches. Conceal all thread ends inside gloves.

Fashion Notes

Broad shoulders, deep armholes and set-in waistband give that much desired slim look in a soft gray plaid suit.

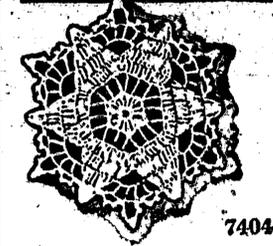

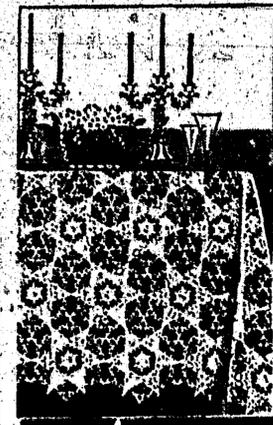

The latest idea in costume jewelry is to have some idea behind it. Crossed swords decorating a black suede bag have been seen, and a simple pin depicting a sheaf of wheat may adorn a black or navy dress.

Wide, round collars of pink or white pique make nice frosting for a simple, dark basic dress.

Pink print jackets are smart with solid black skirts for dress-up wear. This makes a nice ensemble for town wear.

Swirled print blouses are increasingly popular with the boisterous type suit. The blouse usually girdles at the waist and ties in a bow.

THE STAR medallion is crocheted, starred for its handsome design, its lovely effect when joined for cloths, spreads, small accessories.

Quickly memorized, this medallion will be your favorite crocheted join for small or large accessories. Pattern 7404 has directions.

Household Hints

Twelve used jar rings sewed together will make you a handy sink mat. Or, if you crochet around them, then join them together, you'll have pretty table mats.

Even an old fannel can be glamorous. Paint it to match your kitchen color scheme and hang it on the wall as a holder for a ball of twine.

Septic tanks require some attention every three or four years, but the work is lessened if you are located on sloping ground. This will permit a sudge drain that can be agitated through the use of an ordinary garden hose.

Basin's hair bows will keep their color better if you add a tablespoon of vinegar to the first rinse water when they are washed.

No squeaks if you make oiling your sewing machine a habit. To oil a sewing machine properly, put the oil on every place where one part rubs against or turns within another.

The envelope type of purse can be made of felt. This is a suggestion, especially for children's purses. They, too, may be decorated with yarn or with small figures or designs cut from felt of contrasting colors.

Birds, Mammals, Reptiles, Fish Live in Death Valley

While many people still believe that virtually no life exists in Death Valley because it is the hottest and most arid region in the United States, this desert is the permanent habitat of more than 15 species of birds, 40 species of mammals, 44 kinds of reptiles, 12 kinds of amphibians, 13 species of fishes and 545 varieties of flower plants and ferns.

CATTLE GROWERS TO MEET

Albuquerque, N. M.—More than 1500 state cattlemen are expected to attend the 33rd Annual Convention of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association at Albuquerque, March 19 and 20, according to L. G. Hayward, Chairman, President of the organization.

The convention will be held at the Albuquerque Hotel. The program will include a report on the state of the livestock industry, a discussion of the various problems facing the industry, and the election of new officers and directors for the year 1946.

During the past month Albuquerque hotels and auto courts have been receiving a steady stream of reservation requests during the convention season. Reservations are being handled in an orderly manner and through the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce it is expected that all delegates will be accommodated.

INQUIRY HELD

Judge J. L. Lawson and District Attorney, Scroggen, and other members of our District Court spent a busy day in Carrizozo last Friday. Among the many matters taken up, was an inquiry into the accusations contained in numerous copies of unsigned hand bills circulated about the county concerning the sum of $600.00 received by our local Municipal School Board from the sale of the Oscura School House.

We all know how difficult it is to induce unselfish and civic minded residents of our community to serve on our School Boards. They give up their valuable time and serve wholly without compensation.

Kind Thoughts Appreciated

When I look at the mailing list and see what a lot of our people have moved to El Paso in recent months, I wish we could manage to keep them at home.

A Progress Report on Filling Orders for Telephone Service

We're glad to be able to report that the huge backlog of orders built up during the period of wartime material shortages is being reduced considerably. Speedy reconversion of telephone manufacturing plants to civilian production has made telephones available again.

Service is being provided in the order in which applications were received. In some communities all applications can't be filled until more equipment can be installed in the telephone office. That takes considerably more time than installing telephones in homes, but we're going to get the work done just as fast as we know how.

As we move ahead on the big job of catching up, we want to say again to those who have waited for service that your patience and understanding are sincerely appreciated.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

HENRY: "I've heard that some thing several times lately... that alcoholics are really sick people. It was news to me. Do you agree with that statement, Judge?" OLD JUDGE: "Yes, it's true, Henry. It's no notion of mine... It's a statement made by scientists who have studied the subject." HENRY: "What did they find out, Judge?" OLD JUDGE: "Well, as a result of their medical research, they found out that approximately 96% of the people who drink, drink sensibly, 8% do so occasionally, at times.

Included in that 5% is the small percentage known as alcoholics." HENRY: "But why are they called sick people?" OLD JUDGE: "Because it has been discovered that, in many cases, excessive drinking is a symptom of some physical or emotional maladjustment... not the cause of it." HENRY: "Now I understand it, Judge. I am glad to hear of the modern approach to this problem and that so much is really being done to help these folks."

REPORT ON THE RUSSIANS.....

INSTALLMENT THREE

But now for the Stormovik factory itself. It is, first of all, poorly lit and unbelievably dirty. It has no production line in the American sense but rather a series of connected piles between bottlenecks, with women waiting idle at their machines for the line to start moving again.

It is jammed full of the best American machine tools, but seems to lack proper organization. At one point, the assembly belt is a makeshift canvas affair. The floors throughout are uneven with holes in the concrete. Piles of metal shavings are everywhere. No one bothers to clean up. Many of the girls wear gunny sacks tied around their feet. Others have crude wooden sandals with a nail sticking up between the great and second toes. In these, they scramble around in the dim light. Here they are moving (by wheel-barrow) a load of unfinished parts which spill at a bump on the floor. The girls must stop to pick them up.

There is an elaborate banquet in the director's dining room at the end of the inspection. There again are the red wine, white wine, champagne, and vodka glasses, the tremendous array of cold hors d'oeuvres, starting with caviar and pastry. Standing behind the table, I see a familiar face. It is the smiling steward who presided over the banquet at the Tschalkovsky Theater.

He was, it developed, the chief caterer for Intourist, and everywhere we were entertained we were to find his beaming smile whether the scene was a factory, a railway diner, or a picnic near abandoned German trenches on the Karelian Isthmus.

Between toasts Johnston whispers to me: "That director's a good man. He could hold an important job in the States. Maybe not quite the job he has here, not president of the company."

"And you'll notice that on all such policy questions, this guy didn't know. Obviously, the Kremlin decides. Like any plant manager he does the best he can with what they give him."

"We're talking to production men. The planning brains of this thing are in the Kremlin, not in the factories."

The Russians around the table are familiar—serious, orthodox, industrious young men anxious to get on in the world—the same type you might find at a junior executives' lunch in an American factory. There they would be registered Republicans without having given it too much thought, but because the boss was a Republican and because it was the party of respectability and its hallmark would be helpful to a young man anxious to get on in the world.

Here their prototypes are Communists for the same reason. These men would average thirty-two years old. In 1917, when Communism was a revolutionary party in Russia (sometimes it still is abroad, but only when it is helpful to Russian foreign policy), these men were boys of five. When Lenin died they were twelve years old.

The Revolution was over and those young men most likely to succeed followed the Communist Party because it represented authority, power, and wealth, as has the Republican party to a lesser extent in America.

The next morning Kirilov arrives to take us to another factory, one of the most important in Russia. For here they make the Soviet Union's automobiles. In America a dozen major companies turn out a hundred models. In this classless society one company makes one model, and its entire output goes to its single privileged class—the top communists, factory directors, and government officials.

It looks rather like a 1935 model sedan of American manufacture with the difference that it is a sloppy engineering job. Its name, pronounced "Zeez" in English, comes from three Russian words meaning "Factory in the name of Stalin."

The director of the Zeez plant, Ivan Likhatchov, is a stumpy, serious little man of forty-eight who carefully cultivates a slight resemblance to Stalin. He wears a cap, grows a soup-strainer mustache, and receives us in riding trousers and high black Russian boots.

First, he gives us an over-all picture of the plant. It employs 40,000 workers, and has 12,000 more youngsters in its factory school. Formerly, it made trucks (the Soviet Union, with over 300,000,000 people, needs 300,000 motor vehicles per year at the peak compared with America's 184 production of 1,800,000 for its 130,000,000 people). Now it produces trucks, half-tracks and munitions for the Red Army.

The Kuznetsov (young communists) in the factory school started making toy guns for the Red Army when the Germans were only 20 kilometers from Moscow, and went into production in only three weeks.

The Zeez plant now has four daughter plants turning out army trucks and munitions in the Urals. Their directors were formerly shop chiefs in this plant.

Automobile production started here in 1924, the car being designed around a Soviet adaptation of the famous American Hercules Engine made in Canton, Ohio.

The director tells us with quiet pride that he has visited American factories at Detroit, Flint, Buffalo, Saginaw, Pittsburgh and Chicago, and he is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

A worker who is ill, he tells us, goes to the plant doctor to get a leave of absence. If the case is serious, in this plant his social insurance would pay 90 per cent of his wages for three months. If he is still not recovered, he gets either a temporary invalid's status or maybe lighter work. A pregnant woman gets several weeks' leave of absence before her baby, and after it. The average family, he tells us, is five children for the city worker and about eight for farmers.

But Eric wants to know about the problem of absenteeism. The director seems amazed that such a question should even be asked, because he says, of course, they have no such cases here. Lazy or tardy workers are rebuked by the wall newspaper or denounced over the shop public address system. If it happens two or three times the matter is taken up with him by the union. We gather it is a grim proceeding.

It is hard for our capitalist minds to grasp the idea that under socialism, possibly the factory belongs to the workers but certainly the worker belongs to his factory; without it he has nothing to eat and no place to sleep.

Now we tour the plant. Again it seems to have no smooth-running assembly line but a series of linked bottlenecks and connected piles. The workers look up, but they seem to have no fear of the bosses. They look him straight in the eye as an American worker would.

The Zeez trucks and half-tracks look sturdy by American peacetime standards, but they can't compare with the rugged giants which Detroit pours out for our armies and those of our allies. The workers are about half women, and the rest very old men or boys in their middle teens.

Wages here, including the director's salary, are exactly what they were at the other plant—and at most of the others we are to visit. We go in to the usual banquet at about four in the afternoon.

The next day we are herded into our Zeez and tear across town to another dingy square, flanked by barracks-like concrete workers' apartment houses, where flapping Red banners and huge portraits of Marx, Lenin, Engels and Stalin announce the entrance to the ball-bearing works.

It is crammed full of the newest and best American machinery but its floor again is cluttered and the lighting bad. However, the product seems to be a good, precision-made job, although we guess that by American standards, production per worker must be low.

At the regular afternoon banquet there are many toasts to Soviet-American friendship and the second front. Then Eric tries to find out something about business competition in the Soviet Union. The director of the factory insists that there is great competition—particularly to get raw materials. But who gets the most? The plant with the highest production record.

We pile back into our cars to be taken to what Kirilov describes as a rubber factory, actually it produces not rubber but tires. From rubber made (usually from alcohol) in the Soviet Union, whose scientists pioneered in this important field.

Its director, introduced as Vladimir Chudakov, is a pleasant young man of thirty-three and under him are about 1,500 workers. In answer to our questions he explains that he gets the basic monthly salary of 3,000 roubles ($240) without the usual production bonuses because the plant isn't yet operating. They started building it only in December and began setting the machinery only six weeks ago.

Back in the director's office, Eric wants to know what percentage of their wages Soviet workers give to the war. Chudakov tells us proudly that Soviet Union workers sometimes give as much as two or three months' salary.

We attended a performance of Tschalkovsky's "Nut Cracker Ballet" at the Bolshoi Theater, the Grand Opera house of Moscow. It is a magnificent old czarist building decorated with a restrained lavishness rare in Russia under any regime. And the performance is beautiful beyond anything I have seen on any stage in any country—dancing, costumes, acting and scenery are done with sweeping imagination. These people have a genius for the theater.

The theater is the only thing in the Soviet Union which can boast of an uninterrupted growth and tradition. The Bolsheviks were proud of the ballet and in both Moscow and Leningrad they kept going continuously all during the revolution. The Bolsheviks did not liquidate their actors, stage designers, directors and artists as they did most of the upper classes in 1917 and in the ensuing Civil War.

Today, a visit to a motor factory which used to make tractor engines. Both factory and product have been redesigned and the plant now turns out die bomber motors largely for the Stormovik—a 1700-horsepower job.

Its director is only thirty-four years old and seated next to him at the table is a dark-haired woman of forty who is assistant director, and who has charge of wages, working conditions, health and vacations.

He tells us he has 15,000 workers and most of them eat their meals in one building. The food is cheap and good because the factory owns and operates two farms. There are permanent operating staffs on each, but the factory workers rotate to furnish most of the labor.

We glance into a workers' lunch room. The meal consists of a porridge with kasha (buckwheat), black bread and borsch—a rich meat and beet soup. It looks and smells good.

Beyond is the foremen's dining room: They get the same dishes plus black pressed caviar. Farther on is the engineers' dining room. They eat like the foremen except they may have white bread as well as black, butter, and their caviar is the more expensive, loose, unsalted kind.

Now we proceed to the director's dining room, where I jot down the menu's main items: vodka, red wine, white wine, champagne, caviar, butter, smoked sturgeon, salted cucumbers (which are delicious), caviar, cold veal, sausage, smoked beef tongue and for dessert, pastry, and fine-textured chocolate layer cake.

We learn (not from our Russian hosts) the caste system we have seen in the dining rooms goes all through their factories. They have developed enormous white-collar clerical and engineering staffs. Once a man becomes an engineer, he loses face and prestige should he slip into a suit of coveralls, as American engineers do, and go down to a factory bench to show workers how it should be done.

Until the 1917 Revolution, Russia for a thousand years was a caste-ridden feudal state. Twenty-five years can no more wipe this out than it can abolish Russian food habits or Russian verbs. So this new socialist bureaucracy, raised up out of the proletariat, instinctively stratifies itself into castes.

Slowly I am beginning to understand this place and its people. Suppose you had been born and spent all your life in a moderately well run penitentiary, which kept you working hard and provided a bunk to sleep in, three daily meals and enough clothes to keep you warm.

Suppose it was explained that the warden and the guards were there largely to protect you from the malevolent outside world. Needless to say, if anyone tried to release you or menace you with a parole, you would fight like a tiger.

There is, however, one marked difference between inmates of the Soviet Union and of the Kansas State penitentiary at Lansing, where I have often visited an old friend. Food and clothing in both places are about the same, maybe a little better in Lansing. But should my Kansas friend decide his penitentiary was not well run, and express the hope that there might be a change of warden, he would run no danger of being shot were he overheard by a stool pigeon. I concede, however, that in Russia a jailbird inmate can work his way up to be warden, which would be impossible in Lansing.

Ammonium Nitrate or Nitrogen for Hay

Proper Application to Increase Tonnage Urged

Farmers can increase their hay production from three-quarters to one and one-half tons per acre by applying ammonium nitrate or other nitrogen fertilizers as a top dressing in April or early May, according to Prof. C. J. Chapman of the soils department of the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Chapman recommended the use of 150 to 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate on timothy and other grassland meadows. In addition, to increased yield, the fertilizer treatment improves the protein content and feeding value of the hay, he added. Professor Chapman declared that ammonium nitrate is excellent as a treatment for grassland pastures, since it greatly increases milk production and provides a week's earlier grazing.

The value of ammonium nitrate and other nitrogenous fertilizers as a top dressing for pastures and hay fields was demonstrated.

Most of the treatments were at the rate of 200 pounds per acre, with a few at 150 pounds and one at 400 pounds. The average profit for all the demonstrations, over and above the cost of the fertilizer was $16.82 per acre.

Professor Chapman pointed out, however, that the continuous use, year after year of ammonium nitrate or any other straight nitrogen fertilizer will eventually result in the depletion of the available reserves of lime, phosphate and potash in the soil.

"It is therefore recommended," he said, "that the mineral reserves of the soil be maintained through the application of lime, phosphate and potash fertilizers, together with the systematic use of stable manure."

Improved Machinery Harvester Control

Combine can be made into a one-man machine by the installation of an electric harvester control placed on the market by the Gleaner Harvester corporation, Independence, Mo.

The moving part of the lift consists of a lead screw which is turned by the electric motor. As this screw turns in either direction, a large nut follows it up or down, thus raising or lowering the harvester unit.

Fish and Wildlife Service and the Wildlife Research Laboratory. The poison is sodium fluoroacetate. It has been proven to be the most deadly stuff ever tried out on rats. But it will also kill any other animal. It is now available for release.

Ever Try Making Cough Syrup In Your Kitchen?

Quick Relief. No Cooking. Easy! If you've never tried mixing your own cough medicine, you've missed a lot. It's no trouble—needs no cooking—and gives you about four times as much cough syrup for your money. You'll say it beats anything you ever tried for coughs due to colds. And here's how it's done:

Make a plain syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until it is dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from your drugist. Put this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—a family supply. Tastes fine and never spoils. Children love it. And as for results, you've never seen anything better. It goes right to work on the cough, loosening the phlegm, soothing the irritation, and helping clear the air passages. You will like it for its results, and not merely for the money it saves. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritation. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Advt.

THREE pretty blouses to add a touch of glamour to your wardrobe. You can have a youthful round neck with gathered or cap sleeves, or a flattering V neck with short or three quarter sleeves. All button down the back. Choose the prettiest fabrics you can find and trim with ruffling or your favorite jewelry.

Pattern No. 8964 is for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 14, gathered sleeves, 1 1/2 yards of 36 or 38-inch cap sleeves, 1 1/2 yards; short sleeves, 1 1/2 yards.

Dad Henpecked? Well, This Should Change His Mind!

The next time Dad complains about being henpecked, remind him that greater men than he have endured worse. Take Abe Lincoln, for instance, his wife often drove him out of the house with a broom for napping on the hall sofa, and the tongue-lashings she administered in public were the talk of the country.

Xanthippe, wife of Socrates, was a shrew. Her husband's indifference to money matters sometimes drove her into a rage. When this happened, she gave vent to her feelings by dousing a bucket of water over her husband's head.

One historian puts Diarrail's wife, Catherine of France, and Henrietta, wife of Charles I, in the same category. The latter went a bit far and in a fit of religious zeal had her husband's head cut off.
