Particular About Details?

COME short while back, one of the leaders in college football asked your correspondent to name the 15 Will Save Orchards. leading coaches in the country. The only answer we could think of in a given time limit was this: "The 15 coaches who have the best material.

There is little questioning the fact that for the season of 1946, Red Blaik of Army deserved his award, due largely to the fact that Red and his staff carried Army three years write the story. I can say this. There is no bunch connected with sport that gives as much time, thought, worry and complate concentration as football coaches give. They brood by day and night. An ankle, a shoulder, a Rid Farm of Wild knee or a back can make all the difference in the world. Those in from time to time but the old grads thas proven an ideal time. It will scores. what they have.

There may be a better coach than Dick Harlow of Harvard-but who is he? Neyland of Tennessee can keep pace with anyone. Jock Sutherland was the coaches' coach in college until he came over to pro ranks. Spend a few days with Steve Owen and Greasy Neale, in or out of season, and you get part of the answer -fall, winter, spring and summerthey're always talking and thinking football, still playing over games they lost.

Lonnie Stagg at 54 was still in harness this last season, reluctant to retire. Lonnie was a star at Yale, 60 years ago. With all the tears they shed and all the mouning they give the world, it is almost impossible to shake them-loose without using a grenade.

Your correspondent more than once has ducked the opportunity of picking or trying to pick the 18 best coaches of all time. Locking back to something over 40 years we'd say that four of the best were Pop Warner, Knute Reckne, Hurry-up Yest and Percy Hanghion.

Pop Warner gave football more on the technical side than anyone else, including the single and double wing, a system still just as effective as the Haughton of Harvard today is greatly underrated coach. Cold. hard, austere, he was one of the greatest. A star tactician and technician, Haughton was probably the best of all in discipline. Anti-Frost Machine

Michigan Machine Will Raise Temperature

By W. J. DRYDEN

A new machine designed to protect farm crops, particularly semitropical orchard crops, has been perfected at Michigan State college. The machine heats the plant and soil by means of an oil burning

Heater costing about' $125, which sends out infra-red heat waves. Cost of operation is about 75 cents an hour. Severe frost damage has occurred in many fruit - growing areas and young trees have been severely affected. The new maprevent much of the loss.

The cause of frost damage is well known. Heat which is stored up in the soil and plants during the daylight hours is rapidly radiated into the atmosphere on still, cloudless nights. Lower layers of the atmosphere become chilled and on sloping ground, the chilled air, increasing in density, moves to the lowest situation. For this reason the new invention will prove of real value to orchard operators in many sections of the country.

Meat Packers' Risks

Meat is perishable. It cannot be held for prices to go up. Like all meat packers, Swift & Company must sell, within a few days, this perishable product for what it will bring—no matter what price we paid for it.

We take risks in both buying and selling. In buying livestock the meat packer must pay the price established by competitive bidding of over 26,000 slaughterers. If the meat packer, overestimates the quality of an animal, or the amount of meat the animal will produce, or the market demand for the meat, he will lose money. Hidden bruises, wounds, or other defects can create losses on any animal.

In selling, the meat packer must also follow the market trends established by those who buy the meats. He stands the risk that meat demand will fall off and prices decline between the day he buys the livestock and the day he sells the meat—also the risk of accidents and delays in transit which can wash out his profit. An average profit of less than 2% on sales is a small return for taking these substantial business risks.

Expect Little Immediate Change in Financial Policy

[X/ITH the holiday sesson over and official Washington winding up the most brilliant social season since before the war, replete with diplomatic receptions, White House functions, state dinners and various other social gatherings, the new 80th congress buckled down to the actual business of setting up a policy and adopting the legislation to make that policy function for the nation during the next two years.

Most of the bickering as to committee assignments and other problems attendant to the reorganization of congress under the new congressional reorganization act have been settled or at least bottled-up for the time being, with the new GOP leadership firmly in the saddle. And it would be nice to report that the spirit of the Christmas-season has left congress with a feeling of peace on earth to men of good will. However, that would not be objective reporting.

Whatever the reaction to the President's state of the union message, congress, Democrats and Ropublicans slike, can be sure that this messago, smilke some previous ones, represents the President's own thinking. His proposals reflect his own viewpoints and they are not the ideas and ideals of the New Deal-which President Truman inherited and with which he had to go along up until the time the people cast everboard this theory of government at the recent election.

The new congressional reorganiration act, if the GOP leadership follows the spirit and letter of the law, is providing some obstacles, apparently not foreseen by some of the newly elected or reelected congressmen, to the carrying out of their pet ideas. For instance, Rep. John Taber, New York, is bent upon arbitrarily slashing some nine billion dollars from the federal budget. At the same time, Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota is determined to bring about a 20 per cent reduction in individual income taxes as well corresponding cuts in corporation taxes and abolishment of the various exclee taxes.

Outgo Fied to Income

This would be fairly easy under the old procedure which has been in effect since about 1865. The house ways and means and the house appropriations committee osimply would meet and, with the overwhelming GOP majority, would just vote the cut through. Not so, however, under the new act. It is based ! on a scientific study of government and not on the basis of levying taxes without regard to appropriations, or vice versa. The new law provides that the house appropriations and the house ways and means committee, together with the senate finance and appropriations committees, shall meet jointly at the beginning of the session . . that they shall consider the President's budget ! recommendations and report a "legislative budget for the ensuing hecal year, including the estimated everall federal receipts and expendilures for such year . . . that such a report shall contain a recommendation for a maximum amount to be apprepriated and an amount to be reserved for deficiencies . . . that if the report estimates the proposed expenditures will be less than the estimated government tax recolpis, then there shall be a recom-

public debi ... ibai ible repert shall be made by February 15 . . . that the report from the joint commilies shall be accompanied by a concurrent resolution adopting such municam oil gains but to had amount to be appropriated for expenditure . . that if the report shows that estimated expenditures shall be greater than receipts, the Apricurrent resolution "chall ineludo" z zeslioù zubelanilally az follewet That it is the nence of congress that the public debt shall be mercased in an amount count to the amount by which the estimated exnenditures for the entains accur year exceed the estimated receipts, auch amount being ?....

DISPLAY HISTORIC DOCUMENTS WASHINGTON .- Attorney General Tom Clark is hatching a unique plan for selling civil libertles to the American people. He will send a special train through the 48 states carrying some of the priceless treasures of American freedom.

It was Clark, working quietly behind the scenes, who had more than anyone else to do with organizing the president's special committee on civil liberties, which will study southern lynchings and race prob-

Accordingly he has evolved the idea of sending a special train across the United States containing the most sacred documents, of American history which guarantee our freedom.

At first Clark proposed equipping two special cars with showcases which would display the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, the Emancipation Proclamation, the Constitution and so on.

However, he found that the Procismation of Emancipation by which Lincoln freed the slaves was in the hands of Abraham Rosenbach of Philadelphia, famous collector of old manuscripts. Clark, therefore, called Rosenbach to tell him about his plan and ask for the loan of the proclamation.

Rosenbach agreed to cooperate. and suggested an entire train instead of two cars. 'He offered to help raise the extra money and, as a result, it now is planned to equip an entire special train with showcases in which will be displayed the most cherished documents of American history. Soldiers will guard the train, just as guards stand watch continually over these documents in the Library of Congress: In addition, as the train arrives at each state border, an extra car will be added displaying the historic documents and civil rights mementoes of the state.

Finally, Clark plans to have largesize duplicates of the freedom documents "blown-up" as permanent exhibits to be left behind in the high schools of each city through which the train passes.

Dairymen's Favorite Orchard grass combined with adino clover as a pasture crop is rapidly becoming a dairymen's favorite. The two plants make an ideal pasture and soil conservation team. Orchard grass is a perennial bunchgrass having rather rapid recovery after grazing and responds in growth and yield to high levels of nitrogen usually found under ladino clover growth.

Keep Pree Fresh An Xmas treamy, be kept fresh if you set it up in a pan of water. Cut off the base of the tree at an angle at least one inch above the original cut and keep it standing in water during the entire period that the tree is in the house, adding water to the jar or tub in which the tree stands at intervals to keep the water level always above the cut. This method when used with fresh trees reduces the flammability as effectively as any fireproofing chemicals. Chemicals may cause the tree to turn brown or yellow or to lose its needles. The place you select for your tree should be well away from stoves. radiators and other sources of heat. When you smoke, keep away from the tree.

Atomie Morae

Bake McCale, private detective, is guarding the wadding presents at the Birelow mansion. He souses that old Miss Adelaide Bigelow is afraid of something more serious than their. He meets the bride and groom-to-by, Veresica and Curt Vallaincourt, and Varonica's mother. Syhll, and her brother and sister, Stophen and Victoria. While at a night einh McCale spots Valiaincourt in company of the club's singer, Sharl Lynn, Ho talks to Jerry Tate, a nowspaper man, and learns that Vallaincourt is a big spender and gambler, and that he was the heart interest of Mrs. Stephen Rigelow for a short time, according to rumor. As soon as he met Veronica, he concentrated on her.

CHAPTER VI

"For almost nothing, but thanks anyway."

He left the Club and trudged through the midnight city, a sullen gloom curtaining his thoughts.

The lights of an all-night lunchroom winking through the murk drew Duke inside. It was a dismal enough place, peopled with a few the old days." down-at-heels stragglers.

The restaurant door banged and a tall, wasted figure in a bedraggled coat and list slouched to the counter. There was something familiar about that back. Instinctively, Mc-Cale half rose to his feet to see, but his movement was too late. Joe Leach saw him as she turned, tray in hand. He shuffled over and sat

"Hi, shamus," he said. "Well, all turned out in tails, I see. Excuse me, but you look as though you'd just been thrown out of the Ritz. What are you disguised as-a magiciant"

McCale grunted noncommittally. "Won't talk, huh? It just happens I'm a bit of a dick myself, bud, so I'll dig down in my bag of tricks and pull out the fact that you've been hobnobbing with the elite-the. Bigelow tribe to be exact. What have they been having-a solrect's "Good God. Have you had a fail on me?" "Deduction, shamus. No. To be honest, every agency in town knows you've knocked off the Bigelow job. How'd you do it? What's tt'all about?"

"What'd you give to know?" "Oh, Lord. I'm just curious."

"It might be worth your while," "Look. I won't argue with you. Either you tell me or tell it to the marines. I'm indifferent now. What does it matter?" He made a slight movement as if he were about to get up and go.

"All right, all right. I just thought I might seak you for a five. I lost Do I get the fin?" my pants in a game tonight. The truth is, Stephen Bigelow called our office to get the inw-down on you, late this afternoon."

"Called your office? To get dope on me?" Duke gave a raucous, derisive howl. "That's too darned funny. What's the connection—between your outfit and Stephen Bigelow, I mean?"

"We did some work for him

once." "You did?"

"Uh. th." "What kind of work—the usual?" "Sure."

"Who was the dame?" "His wife."

He hoped his sudden interest did on another dreary morning, He took what's the word on Christopher not show too much on his face,

Five Dollars' Worth Of Information

"You may not think it's worth the five, but here it is. About six months ago this Stephen Bigelow came in to see Watkins. Wanted a. tail put on his wife. He didn't say much, but the boss figured it was the old divorce routine. I got the Thinks Rocky night job-following her around to the nightclubs. She went out a lot alone. I trailed along for a couple of weeks. She'd stop in at a lounge bar now and then, always met pedple she knew, but never seemed to gather in anyone particular. Then one night I followed her as far as A studio building in Copley Square. A dumb elevator boy couldn't place her or tell me where in the building he took her. I'd wait and in a few hours she'd come out-slone. This happened two or three times a week until one night, late, she came out with a middle-aged guy. They went to a quiet little restaurant around the corner. I tagged along. It looked like the old, old story to me."

"You found out who the man W25? "Sure. Well, here's where the drama falls apart. Hmm, I see where I don't get paid off. He was a piano teacher, name of Parecini. Not an old foxy grandpa with a weakness for blondes, after all. We turned the news over to Stevey boy. and damned if he didn't seem relieved. He came in a week or so we his wife had once shown great talent for the plane, but had lost the use of an arm from nervous shock or arthritis or something, the was guiling back her old wallop again, slowly. "They probably had a nice oldfashioned heart-to-heart talk and patched it up. My guess would be that she wanted to continue her studies with the idea of going on the stage, or something of the sort, but Stephen put his foot down. The family probably wouldn't stand for

"Yeah. Funny, isn't it? Not that either of them seem socially conscious."

"Your insight is amazing. They are both good family, but not quite -- as you say."

"Well, whether you know it or not. Stevey was quite-a gay dog once. Used to do a bit of chasing in

"Did she look good to you?" "Oh, yeah, if you like the placid type. She had two visitors, Guess?" "I'll buy it. Don't play guessing games with me so early in the morning."

"Well, the present and the past Glamour Boy Number One, and good old dog - like, ever lovin' Chris."

He impressed you that way? Christopher Storm, I mean?' "Remember, I only got a short gander at the past and present crown princes, as they entered and left. He was the second one, by the way. Mr. Big came first."

"Go on." "Well, I'd just got settled in the silver and crockery department, when Johnny Weismuller comes swinging from tree to tree calling for his mate. Such a flutter they get into over him, don't they? The butier scuttled around after him as if he'd just brought the fatted calf. Then the bride-to-be comes down the stairs in a flurry. But a flurry, I said. And he just tells her he's off to dinner with some friends. She looks at him with the trust of a bird fascinated by a python. glasses." Rocky had already sattled for himself the fact that Veronica Bigelow was both beautiful and dumb. McCale leaned back in his chair and smiled, for Rocky was a good guy, mostly amusing.

Searching for the coffee pot, Duke's eyes slanted up quizzically at Rocky as be said, "Well, boy, Storm, now that you've dusted everyone else off?
