Methodist Church

F. J. Johnston, Pastor

Once more it is time for me to announce my Sunday topic. The question is what shall I preach about? One fellow answered, "About twenty minutes, parson and then sit down". Easy, isn't it? But that answer doesn't solve my problem nor yours, gentle reader. There is a lot more to it than that would imply. At least thirty minutes is little enough to give a try to raise the dead. If he doesn't succeed it may not be his fault either.

Since the cold weather is on I have been praying the little boys pray; "O Lord, make it hot for grandma." With our three stoves going full blast there is a good chance that our prayer will be answered. And I am hoping that the men folks of Carrizozo will have a strong sense of mission in 1947 and really help the churches to make a success of their spiritual program.

Christmas and New Years celebrations being well past we are on our way to Easter. Jesus was on His way when He said: "Wish ye not that I must be about my Father's Business?" My sermon topic for Next Sunday: "What Really Is God's Business?"

All those not otherwise lined up are most cordially invited to worship with us. Thanks a lot.

Dental Office Open

Mrs. Era B. Smith
Carrizozo, New Mexico
My dear Mrs. Smith:

I feel certain you will recall me -- Louise Shelton. My father J. M. Shelton of Corona, forwards your paper to me and I read it with the greatest of interest.

I am writing this letter to you thinking the news of the wedding of my brother, Capt. Shelton will be of interest to his Carrizozo and Lincoln County friends. I have made a copy of the write-up which was in the Hillsboro, Ore., paper.

I am married to David C. Hughes, who was a lumberman in northern New Mexico until 1942, when he and his brother, who are partners, moved their business location to Northern California.

David and his brother operate a large sawmill. During the war, I worked with the U. S. Forest Service, and upon the return of the veterans I relinquished my position to them.

Best wishes to each of you.

Sincerely,
Louise Shelton Hughes

Help is a plea which has never gone unanswered in the civilized world. Next summer when POLIO strikes perhaps your daughter, son, sister, brother or friend may need help. The National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis will promptly furnish the funds to provide medical treatment, Doctors, Nurses, Physiotherapists, Hospitalization, Iron Lung and hundreds of other expensive pieces of equipment necessary to restore your loved one to a normal healthy life.

Right now, the Foundation needs more than $12,000,000 to wipe out a deficit incurred during the 1946 Polio Epidemic. A plea for your help to give what ever you can during the 1947 March of Dimes campaign cannot, and will not go unanswered.

Woman's first and last great duty is to care for the health and general welfare of her family. In response to this call, the Carrizozo Woman's Club was the first organization in Lincoln County to voluntarily give a generous contribution to the 1947 March of Dimes.

You may contact any of the following persons who are working to make sure that Lincoln County answers the call for help: L. Z. Correct Posture
Home management specialists report that 80 per cent more energy is required to stand than to sit, so the homemakers should be encouraged to sit while doing as many tasks as possible. Proper working height is of great importance in the drive against fatigue. Stopping over a working surface for 15 to 20 minutes may cause fatigue which will require two or three hours to overcome. Four and one-half times more energy is required to work at a table too low than at one of correct height.

HOT FLASHES?
Women in your "40's" Does this functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women cause you to suffer hot flashes, nervous, light-headed, weak feelings? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. It's famous for this purpose.
Taken regularly—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such attacks. Thousands have reported benefit! Also a very effective stomachic. Worth trying!

Repairing Sleeves
Usually one of the first parts of a man's suit to show wear is the sleeve edge. At first thought it may seem impossible to remedy; but if the sleeve has a good hem, there is a way to repair it. For slightly frayed edges, rip out the hem and remove any lint that is present. Turn the hem to the right side and run a stitching along the edge right next to the frayed part. Then, with small pointed scissors, cut open the tuck. Carefully press open the seam that is thus formed.

Strong Furniture
In a good piece of mahogany furniture, additional strength is attained by cutting the legs so that the grain of the wood runs exactly in the direction of the leg.

Washing Neckwear
Keep a sponge and a wide-mouthed, covered jar in the bathroom. When washing delicate neckwear, place it in the jar filled with suds and shake. This saves wear on fragile-lace and fabric. It saves soap, too, because of the small amount of water—and also because you can re-use the suds. Just pour some on the sponge to wipe finger marks off the woodwork.

Raising House Flowers
To have lovely house flowers, they should be planted in dishes of moist pebbles and placed for two weeks in a dark closet. As roots develop, they can be brought into the light, and placed in a cool sunny window.

Production Leadership

"Operation Assembly Line" -- the 1946 production battle of the titans of the automotive industry has resulted in retention of its long-time volume leadership by Chevrolet, it was disclosed with the announcement by Nicholas Drystadt, general manager of this largest G. M. division, that 667,245 cars and trucks were built by Chevrolet in 1946.

The figure tops total output this year by any other single manufacturer, Mr. Drystadt asserted. Likewise, it gives Chevrolet clear lead over all other producers in total passenger car production and total truck output, Chevrolet's 1946 total was composed of 397,108 passenger cars; 270,187 trucks.

While production did not get underway until after the first quarter of the year, during which period its plants were strike bound the division registered steady gains throughout the final three quarters, with marked advances made in the closing months of the year. December output alone totaled 98,695 passenger cars and trucks, highest postwar production achieved by any manufacturer in a single month, the G. M. vice president said.

Although attaining less than half the volume of 1941, last prewar production year, Chevrolet noted two production milestones in 1946. On November 11, the division announced its 500,000th Chevrolet built in 1946, the first producer in the industry to attain that volume. Less than a month later, the 19,000,000th unit to be produced in the 35 years of Chevrolet's history came from the assembly line.

What Consumer Lending is and - does
Consumer credit has enabled American families to enjoy a higher standard of living by creating mass buying power and making possible mass production at lower costs. Mass production has made automobiles, home appliances and other durable goods available to the public at much lower prices than would have been possible if such goods were manufactured in small volume for only the cash buyers. To provide jobs maintain our national economy and provide sufficient income to service the national debt, a volume of $100 billion of consumer goods and services must be distributed. To accomplish this consumer credit must be widely utilized.

QUALITY IN A MEMORIAL

Quality is not something that can be argued into a monument promised into it. To begin, the material must have it. In the finish and the lettering, it must be placed there. 1945 Broke All Records

• We put in more telephones during 1946 than in the last four years before the war. During the war, a huge backlog of orders built up because materials were short. We still need a lot of switchboards, cable, wire, poles, dial equipment and even buildings. Progress is handicapped by continued material shortages and disturbed supply conditions but we're using substitutes and temporary shortcuts so as not to lose time.

• To bring you better telephone service than ever before, an estimated $111,000,000 will be required for gross construction in the Mountain States area during the next five years. Money to finance such a program must come from the savings of people who want a safe investment, and the earnings of this Company must be sufficient to attract such investors.

Veterans' Organizations Mighty Pressure Groups

VETERANS of Uncle Sam's military establishment are receiving benefits at the rate of $15,376,174,685 for the fiscal years 1946 and 1947, and what's more they can get whatever they want for the next fiscal year from this new 80th congress. One out of every four adult-Americans is a veteran, distributed in the same ratio throughout every congressional district in the country, so veterans and veterans' organizations constitute the top pressure groups in the country. They have a long legislative program mapped out for this congress. Main features of this program, which are likely to receive favorable consideration, include repeal of the on-the-job training pay ceiling and the time limit, cash terminal leave payments, increase in pensions and subsistence allowances and liberalization of government insurance policies.

Then there are such matters as housing, universal military training, liberalization of reemployment rights and other subjects of particular interest to veterans. The 79th congress, during its two-year session, passed most veterans' legislation on voice vote, the members not bothering with a roll call, except on measures where they wanted to get on record as having favored a specific proposal.

Closest record vote on a piece of veterans' legislation in the 79th congress was 225 to 39 in the house on a bill to give priorities to Veterans' administration for hospital equipment. In two years the senate of the 79th congress took only one record vote on a matter of sole concern to veterans, the measure introduced by Sen. Joseph Ball (Rep., Minn.) to subtract mustering-out pay from terminal leave payments. It was soundly defeated by a vote of 67 to 12.

Bigger, Better Benefits

Most items in the legislative programs of the four top veterans' organizations call for increasing benefits to be paid to members. Most fertile fields for this increase in cash benefits lie in pension and subsistence allowances, in changing technical definitions through which pension rates are set, or in reclassifying disability ratings. American Legion will push a measure to give an education allowance of $50 a month to orphans over 16, of veterans of the first and second world wars who died as a result of war service. VFW proposes that World War I veterans have the same pension rights as Civil and Spanish-American war veterans, who are presumed to be totally disabled at 65, thereby giving them full pensions. AMVETS wants a 15 per cent increase in subsistence allowances to veterans going to school under the G.I. bill and a measure which would pay disability compensation on the basis of cost of living.

All four organizations—Legion, VFW, AMVETS and AVC, are for taking the collar off on-the-job payments; three of the four—Legion, AMVETS and VFW—want cash terminal leave payments; Legion and VFW want universal military training, while AVC is against it and AMVETS has taken no stand.

All four organizations want increases in pensions and subsistence; three—Legion, AMVETS and AVC—want insurance liberalization, while VFW has taken no stand.

Want Leave Pay in Cash

These organizations have set up definite legislative committees and have registered lobbyists on the job and will spend money for the expediting of their cause. The records show, for instance, American Legion spent $49,000 for lobbying activities from January 1 to September 30, 1945, although Veterans of Foreign Wars had spent nothing, and the other two organizations had not yet filed their expenses as this survey was made.

Appropriations for the 1947 fiscal year for pensions was $1,005,000,000 and for 1948 it was $1,004,150,000. G.I. bill benefits which include subsistence and other benefits, exclusive of unemployment compensation, totaled $3,051,337,000 for 1947 and $295,000,000 for the 1948 fiscal year. Terminal leave pay appropriation for 1947 was $6,431,700,000. This was to be issued in two-year bonds. Now the veterans want their terminal leave in cash, and they likely will get it.

So in all probability the expenditures for our war veterans will take a decided hike for the 1948 fiscal year in the face of a promise and an expressed determination by the new Republican leadership to slash the cost of government. Congressman Dwight L. Rogers of Florida told your Home Town Reporter that he had reserved House Bill No. 3 at the coming session, as the second bill to be introduced into the house will be Congressman Rogers' bill to provide that terminal leave bonds may be cashed immediately by veterans if they so desire.

BIG FARMS VS. SMALL FARMS
WASHINGTON—Inside the fac behind the senate small business committee's release of the report of small-scale and large-scale farming is that the report had been suppressed for nearly two years by big California land interests.

The very fact that the bureau of agricultural economics dared make the study was one reason the last congress cut its research funds. The study so infuriated Representative Al Elliott, California Democrat and friend of the big farmers, that he has fought all appropriations for farm research ever since.

The study was begun in the summer of 1944, while Congressman Elliott was leading a fight to repeal the old law by which no one could own more than 160 acres of U. S. reclamation land. The study compared two towns in San Joaquin valley section of California's huge Central valley—one, Arvin, is composed mainly of workers on large industrialized farms; the other, Dinuba, is made up largely of people who own and work their own farms.

It was found that Dinuba, the small farm community, had two independent business establishments to every one in Arvin, the big farm community; that retail trade was 61 per cent greater in Dinuba; that 20 per cent more people were supported by the same dollar volume in agriculture in Dinuba than in Arvin; that the residents of Dinuba had a far higher standard of living—better streets, garbage disposal, schools, parks, public recreation, more churches, participation in local government, two newspapers to one.

The study was recognized by economists as of great importance, but the pressure of large farmers and landlords was too great. It lay buried until it was brought to the attention of fair-minded Sen. Jim Murray of Montana, chairman of the small business committee. He determined to publish it.

SURPLUS GRAY

The comedy of errors that led to discovery of more than two million gallons of high octane gasoline in surplus military planes sold to a Jefferson City, Mo., scrap dealer caused an epidemic of red faces at War Assets administration.

However, WAA chief Gen. Robert Littlejohn and his aides would have been even more embarrassed had the whole story leaked out. Besides the 5,549 planes with their $700,000 worth of gas sold to the Missouri dealer, WAA also sold about 15,000 other planes, also tanked up with high octane gas. This fact, however, didn't get out. In addition, dealers who bought the planes reaped a tidy windfall from costly radio equipment, motors and gears.

OIL SALESMAN LEWIS

In the coal and oil trade, John L. Lewis is sometimes called: "The greatest oil salesman in history." Here is the reason why: Railroad after railroad, unable to afford costly tie-ups from coal strikes, now is converting from coal to oil. There was a day when the railroads, deriving a tremendous revenue from hauling coal, aided with the coal operators and the miners in opposing oil. But not now.

The Boston and Maine, which, next to the Maine Central, pays more per ton for coal than any other railroad, is switching to diesel engines as quickly as possible. The Jersey Central, which taps the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, also is going over to diesels. And the Pennsylvania, which runs straight through the best bituminous coal fields in the East, is laying in some diesel switch engines.

But the most interesting conversions are taking place on the Union Pacific. That road has long burned oil to some extent, but it also happens to be the sixth largest coal producer in the world, with a production of 6,500,000 tons annually.

The towns of Rock Springs and Hanna, Wyo., are almost entirely dependent on coal mined for the Union Pacific. Today, however, these towns may become like the skeleton mining cities of the gold-rush days.

For, in addition to 600 oil-burning locomotives, the Union Pacific now is converting all mainline passenger trains to oil. In addition, their "Big Boy" freight locomotives, the world's heaviest, are converting, together with 115 switchers and 46 diesel units.

The Santa Fe also has just ordered new diesel units.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Gen. Mark W. Clark will be withdrawn as Allied commander in Austria immediately after the Moscow conference. He then will receive a new army post in the United States. . . . Ex-congressman Wesley Dickey of Oklahoma, who lost out in the Democratic primary two years ago against Sen. "Cotton Ed" Thomas, will try again in two years. He may face a primary fight from Gov. Bob Kerr. . . . Assistant Postmaster General Guel Sulzberg has been offered the presidency of Air Corps.

Murder in Plain Sight by GERALD BROWN

Duke McCale, private detective, is guarding the wedding guests at the Bigelow mansion...

CHAPTER VII

Comes in all decked out for the night life. Soup and fish. Gave me the once-over and had a few quick straight ones without more than a glance at me sitting there with my tongue hanging out...

look after the house during the week of the wedding. "I'm sorry, but that is not the truth. Never once have I believed you came to my office with that in mind. I knew you were in trouble, even though you withheld your confidence. Even now you will not admit it, even to yourself. I have gone on that premise from the first—that you wanted me to find out things without even the responsibility on your part of telling me what."

"Oh, no!" The words, half muffled in the heavy atmosphere, magnified themselves in the vastness of the room. "The fire cracked fiercely for a long minute, while the essence of fear hung in the air like a strong accent."

He stood behind her looking over her shoulder while he talked. He nodded. "There was, for instance," he answered, drawing a parallel, "the case of France, with its vigor, its impregnable defenses, its immortal and imperturbable morale. But the enemy bored from within, sabotaging that morale, and when the battle came, the heart was as rotten as an overripe cheese."

She sought his eyes again, and the queer secret duel that they had all the while been fighting underneath the smooth surface was ended suddenly and completely. Adelaide Bigelow was giving in. McCale could tell. It was in her eyes, all the pent-up gnawing worry of something horrible and unclear. She wasn't going to hold out on him any more, and now maybe he could help.

"I will tell you," she said simply, "Veronica's father, my brother," she began, motioning him to sit. "There was his adopted son, Stephen," McCale put in quickly, "Yes," she hesitated, "but not his own flesh and blood. But there was certainly Stephen." She edged over to the window again.

"You see, Sybil and I have to agree on Veronica's choice." "Rather hard on Veronica," he thought. "Oh, yes." She was trying hard to explain it as she saw it. "But he thought—" The old voice rose now, an hysterical note in it. "He wished a man to have control of it. Veronica's husband going control of it to do with as he will."

A Strange Will Complicates Things

"I know that a certain young man of undeniable physical attraction is marrying thirty million dollars next week. I know that in your subconscious mind, you believe him to be an adventurer. I know that you should have investigated him months ago—that you are also bothered by the fact that your entire family seems jealous of his marriage to your niece. Not jealous, mind, of his perhaps having the benefits of a great fortune, but jealous in a more personal way, as if secretly they were all in love with him and wanted him for themselves."

Tragedy Strikes Suddenly

"We can still expose this fellow-me-lad. It's quite possible that I can dig up something in a few days." She joined him in the bay window, shaking her head in a quick gesture of distaste. "Impossible," she murmured. "Then why, in all justice to yourself, did you call me in at all?" he wanted to know.

BALANCE IN RED INK

Instead of those excessive profits from which labor bosses claim increased wages can be paid, many of America's corporations are writing their balance sheet figures in red ink. One with which everybody is familiar, Western Union Telegraph company, had an actual net loss of 12 million dollars for 1946. Between 1938 and 1946 Western Union's wage costs increased 25 1/2 per cent, with but one 10 per cent increase in rates. Increased rates do not in all cases mean a corresponding increase in receipts. It means a decrease in use on the part of the public. It is time that something more tangible than a figure pulled out of a hat by a labor boss be used in determining wage increases.

PRESIDENTIAL PRECEDENT

It is possible, but hardly probable, that President Truman "may not choose" to try for another four years of occupancy of the White House. So far as I remember my history no instance is recorded of a President of the United States definitely declining nomination for a second term, even though his first term came as a result of the death of a chief. In one or two cases, notably that of Andrew Johnson, who succeeded to the presidency following the death of Lincoln, no definite personal effort was made to secure a nomination. At the Republican convention Johnson's name was not mentioned as a candidate, and no delegate voted for him.

Duke McCale

"Mr. McCale," there was a light touch of hauteur in her tone in spite of herself, "you are presuming too much. I called you in to look after the house during the week of the wedding."

GRASSROOTS by WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

FARMER'S SUCCESS STORY TYPICAL OF U. S. SYSTEM

The Naellsons, father and two sons, own 320 of the black, fertile acres of Red River valley, some 30 miles out of Fargo, N. D. That valuable and profitable farm is a product of the American economic system, and the opportunity it offers the individual.

The elder Naellson, with his bride, emigrated to America from Norway about 50 years ago. They had but little more than their steerage passage money. A land company sold the young couple 160 acres of farm land in Red River valley. On that land they built a sod house and began the climb to the affluence they now enjoy. It was not an easy climb, neither was the life they had left in Norway an easy one, nor did it offer opportunity.

During those earlier years two sons and a daughter were born. All received an advanced education. The daughter, at 22 years of age, taught in a nearby town school until she married. Through the years the two sons have stayed with the farm. At the end of 18 years an adjoining 160 acres was purchased, and largely paid for at the time of purchase. Today there are two homes on that 320 acres. One is occupied by the father and mother and an unmarried son; the other by a married son and his family.

There are thousands, hundreds of thousands of similar incidents depicting farm success. They are found in every section, in every state and county. Back of such successes is the American economic profit system. Such farms represent the profit their energetic and ambitious owners have made. In their accomplishment the nation has prospered. These farmers not only have advanced their own interest, but also have added to the national wealth. In no other nation, under no other economic system, could such success be achieved.

Faithful Model of Sir Drake's Ship Inch Long

Among the outstanding exhibits of glass-case ship models is the Hampshire collection in the Institute of Marine Engineers in London, says Collier's. The life work of one man, it consists of 13 miniature reproductions of famous vessels built on a scale of 1 inch to 64 feet, or about one-eighth of the usual size of decorative ship models. Most unusual of them all is a faithful reproduction of Sir Francis Drake's three-masted Golden Hind, which is one inch in overall length, or so small that it can be hidden behind a half dollar.

Planes for Instruction And Research Purposes

You can have a B 17 Flying Fortress for $350 if you promise not to fly it, says the War Assets Administration. Or a small type airplane can be had for as low as $50, other larger models up to $200.

WAA made a last call to educational institutions and city, county and state governments who may be interested in obtaining aircraft and aeronautical property for non flight purposes. Schools, colleges and similar institutions may obtain a plane which cost Uncle Sam well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars for ground instruction, research and experimentation.

The city, county or state government agency which would like to embellish a war memorial in the public parks with an airplane that he'd win the war can have a good number for around $100.

The War Assets Administration at Denver can supply a limited number of aircraft for these purposes and solicits inquiries from schools or local government agencies.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Write Goes to School at 23

Everybody's joshing Willie Wells about going back to school. They remember when Willie would hide out in the woodshed—scared to bring his report card home to Pa. But under the G.I. Bill of Rights, Willie (who has a wife and baby) is getting a free education at the Agricultural College. And Uncle Sam is giving him a fine report: "Department, excellent; Progress, above average."

That goes for all those undergraduate veterans. Like Willie, they appreciate an education more than ever now. They're industrious and well-behaved—their favorite beverage is milk, or a temperate glass of beer. For them the "three R's" mean: Responsibility, Resources, Restraint.

From where I sit, cynical folks who thought veterans wouldn't want to return to school—wouldn't stick to steady habits of work and moderation—have their answer in "undergraduates" like Willie.
