Information About Malaria For Veterans

The Veterans Administration Contact Representative stated that relapsing vivax malaria is not a fatal disease, although any veteran who has a malaria relapse should call a doctor for proper diagnosis and treatment.

The effect of a relapse on the body is slight, provided it is properly and adequately treated and relapses will tend to become less severe in time until finally an immunity is developed. The mosquitos which spread malaria are present only in certain areas in the United States and there are not any in the Roswell area, according to local health officials, stated Kinsall. Veterans having attacks of malaria are invited to contact the Veterans Administration through Kinsall's office, room 208, City Hall, phone 1661, for advice on the proper action to take.

Quarterly Meeting Of Cattle Growers Association

Mrs. Georgia L. Lusk, United States Congressional representative of New Mexico will be one of the principal speakers at the quarterly meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association in Raton, Friday afternoon and Saturday, June 20 and 21st, according to George A. Godfrey, Animas, President.

Others scheduled to appear on the meeting program include: Dr. W. A. McDonald, El Paso Supervisor, Mexican Border Quarantine Project; Dr. F. L. Schneider, Bureau of Animal Industry, Albuquerque; John Morrow, President Southern Colorado Livestock Association, Cimarron; Rupert Asplund, Director, Taxpayers Association of New Mexico and Frank Gummi, President of the Raton Chamber of Commerce.

State Senator James Morrow of Raton, Vice President of the Association will serve as Chairman of the General Resolutions Committee, Godfrey continued. "Recent announcement that the War Department contemplates investing more than $10,000,000 in the White Sands Proving grounds and Alamogordo Bombing Range comes as a shock to livestock producers of Southern New Mexico," Godfrey continued. "In view of the fact that this experimental project seriously threatens the population of all cities throughout the state, El Paso and the Juarez Mexico area it seems that this proposed expenditure will be a foolish waste of funds which could more wisely be invested in some area outside of the United States where it might be maintained on a permanent basis."

Household Hints

Cook meat longer at a low, constant temperature if you want to avoid shrinkage. You'll get a golden brown surface on your roasts this way too.

If you have a job that keeps you on your feet all day, try placing a powder puff in the heel of your shoes.

When ripping snap fasteners from discarded clothing, keep the pairs together by punching a small hole in a card and snapping the fasteners in this.

To clean black or dark blue felt, use a teaspoonful of ammonia mixed with half a cup of cold tea.

Pin hankies on the line along the top of the sheets. They will dry faster, and the extra pins will help keep the sheet from blowing away. This also saves line room for other pieces of clothing.

In working with plywood it is well to remember that even the very best grades have defects on one side while the other side is nearly perfect.

The proper way to use a hammer is to grip the handle close to the end.

Keep tablecloths from wrinkling by folding them once and winding them on a large roll of newspaper.

Try waxing your bureau drawers. Scrub the drawers with soap and water first, however, to be sure no musty odors are left in them. When applying the wax, use a clean cloth, and apply as much as the wood will take without becoming sticky. The application of wax to bureau drawers will close the wood pores and give a hardwood finish to soft woods.

Baby Chick Need of Riboflavin Is Great

Curled Toe Paralysis Caused by Deficiency

Riboflavin, a crystalline yellow vitamin containing nitrogen and ribose, has proven necessary for growth of poultry. It is also important in connection with the formation of an enzyme responsible for utilization of feed within the cells of the body.

Riboflavin is widely distributed in feeding materials. It is present in greatest amounts in milk products, yeast, live meal, alfalfa, cereal grasses and byproducts of the fermenting and distilling industry. Only a few grams are required per ton of mixed feeds.

Many poultry authorities have stated there is an advantage in using natural riboflavin concentrates in preference to synthetic riboflavin. The natural concentrate generally supplies other important nutrients aside from riboflavin.

When chicks are fed a ration low in riboflavin, they start squatting and develop a condition known as curled-toe paralysis.

In the past the lack of riboflavin in feed ingredients has caused considerable economic loss. Baby chicks require greater quantities than older birds. Deficiency in laying flocks lowers egg production and results in inferior eggs of poor hatchability.

BURNING DESTROYS SOIL

When you burn straw, cornstalks and other crop residues on the field you lose valuable nitrogen and destroy organic matter vital to soil rebuilding and crop production. If the stalks of a 100-bushel corn crop go up in smoke 6,500 pounds of organic matter and 55 pounds of nitrogen are lost. When you light a match to a mature sweet clover crop, you lose about 150 pounds of nitrogen and three to four tons of organic matter. It takes more effort to plow these materials under than it does to burn them, but an extra 10 to 20 bushels of corn per acre and a more fertile soil should be worth the extra trouble.

New Disease of Sweet Potatoes in the South

A new and distinctive disease of sweet potatoes known as "internal cork" has been the subject of intensive studies by Dr. C. J. Nussbaum, South Carolina experiment station. Sweet potatoes affected with the disease are characterized by the occurrence of dark brown, corky spots of irregular shape and size. There are indications that it may be possible to develop resistant strains. The disease is caused by a virus but little else is known about it.

Farmers' Money Not All Increased Earnings

"What farmers do now with their liquid assets and credit will determine their financial position for the next two decades." It is imperative for farmers to recognize that much of their present money in fact is not increased profits. It represents the soil fertility sold off the farm, depreciation of buildings, fences and equipment. The money farmers now have, in large part, belongs back on their land—to restore soil—to modernize—"The Land."

Trapping Is Good Way To Control Moles

In the spring the activities of the common mole appear to be more noticeable. Unlike rodents, such as rats and mice, moles live chiefly on earthworms and insects. The mole is unpopular with farmers because his tell tale ridges and mounds disfigure the fields, ruin new seedbeds and damage gardens and lawns. Trapping appears to be the most satisfactory way yet found to control the mole.

JUDAH'S APPROACHING DOOM

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 38:2, 3, 28-31; II Kings 24:1-4.
MEMORY SELECTION—The fear of the Lord prolongeth days; but the years of the wicked shall be shortened.—Proverbs 10:27.

The decline of a nation—from strength and glory to weakness and shame is always a sad thing to contemplate. Still worse is the evident cause of such decay in the sinfulness of the people and their stubborn rejection of God's mercy and grace.

The religious reforms in Judah under Josiah were only temporary in their effect on the people; partly because of their own insincerity, and partly because Josiah was soon killed in battle. Yet God did not leave his wandering people without good counsel, for it was in those days that the great prophet Jeremiah ministered. He had been the helper of Josiah in his good purposes; now he continued to plead with Judah to submit themselves to God and to his will.

His efforts proved to be fruitless as far as Judah was concerned, for we see that

I. Judah Would Not Respond to God's Mercy (Jer. 38:2, 3).

God commanded his prophet to write down his words in order that the people might not only know the inevitable impending judgment, but especially be reminded of God's desire that they should turn from their evil ways and be forgiven.

One would have thought that they would have responded to such mercy with an immediate and grateful return to the Lord, but they did not.

Jeremiah, a unique man of great ability, was so tenderhearted that he has often been called the weeping prophet. Do not infer that he was a weak, emotional character, for he was strong in the Lord, and courageous in the face of rejection and persecution. He urged upon Judah the necessity of submitting to Babylon, to whom God had given power, and above all to the Lord, for a spiritual cleansing and revival.

Our second section brings before us the further sin of King Jehoiakim, who led his nation on to destruction. We see that

II. Judah Would Not Receive God's Word (Jer. 38:28-31).

At God's command Jeremiah and his scribe Baruch had prepared the scroll with God's Word upon it. One of the nation's leaders was moved by it, and through his urging, the scroll was brought to the attention of the king.

Jehoiakim, sitting before the fire, heard only part of it, and then in defiance of God he took a penknife and cut it up and burned it.

One cannot help but think of those in our day who call themselves modern thinkers, or liberals, who have also used their penknives on God's Word. They cut out of the Bible everything they do not like, and offer the hungry people the stone of their own philosophies in place of the Bread of Life. Think what their judgment will be!

God's Word is not so easily gotten out of the way! The prophet was commanded to rewrite the scroll, and in it to declare the awful judgment of God upon the one who mutilated his Word.

To try to destroy God's truth by fire and violence is as fruitless as to try to tear the stars from the heavens or to keep the sun from shining. The wicked leaders of a great nation have tried that—once more in recent years, and they now lie dead for their sins, with the nation a subject people, broken and all but destroyed.

One wonders why those who profess to serve the Lord will engage in such activity, even as one wonders at Judah, a favored people of God, refusing to receive his Word.

God is not willing to give up, and now tries chastisement. But we see that

III. Judah Would Not Recognize God's Providences (II Kings 24:1-4).

Jehoiakim had become the vassal of Babylon, but after three years he decided to try to throw off the yoke of his oppressor, Nebuchadnezzar. He was not able at the time to deal with the situation, and so he incited marauding bands from various other nations to harass Judah.

We see, however, that this came about at the commandment of God (vv. 2, 3). Evidently he was now using the distressing experiences of life to turn Judah back to him; but once again it proved to be in vain.

God does deal with men through what we call his providences, and these may include not only his mercies, but his chastisement. Trouble and sorrow may be God's means of leading us to the place of repentance and blessing.

What folly it is to disregard the hand of God in our daily lives, or to become embittered at the circumstances which are intended to bring us to God's place of blessing. Happy is the man or woman who, being reproved in this way, profits by the Lord's admonition (Heb. 12:11).

Grapefruit Sponge—a Refreshing Dessert (See recipe below.)

Fruit Magic

When lazy warm weather comes upon us and foods don't tempt the appetite, Mrs. Homemaker is hard pressed to provide her family with enough nourishing food to sustain them. Families seem to prefer the lightest of food, and it sometimes is hard to build up the calorie count on salads and cold meats.

But fruit and rich milk or cream can come easily to the rescue when other means fail.

There are so many delectable refrigerator desserts made of fruit and berries and cream that it will take more than a season to try them all.

First of all there's the shortcake variety. Bake your biscuits golden brown, split and butter them and then drizzle luscious crushed and sweetened fruit or berries between the biscuits. Drown them in cream, either plain or whipped, and watch them disappear.

Then, too, there's an amazing variety of frozen desserts which take their share of fruit and cream. These take but a few minutes to make and keep well for several days in the refrigerator.

If you're shy on sugar use preserves or fruit sauces, and you won't have to dip into the sugar bowl at all.

TRY SOME of these recipes and your warm weather problem will be solved:

Apricot Sherbet. (Makes 1 quart)
1 cup evaporated milk thoroughly chilled
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup apricot preserves
Whip chilled milk very stiff. Beat in lemon juice, then fold in preserves. Pour at once into cold freezing tray and chill for several hours.
Variations: Strawberry, cherry or peach preserves or marmalade may be substituted for apricot preserves.

Apple Sherbet. (Makes 1 quart)
1 cup evaporated milk thoroughly chilled
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups sweetened applesauce, chilled
Dash of nutmeg
Whip chilled milk very stiff. Beat in lemon juice. Fold in applesauce and nutmeg. Pour at once into cold freezing tray and chill well.

Orange Ice Cream. (Serves 8)
28 marshmallows
1 cup orange juice
Grated rind of 2 oranges
Juice of 1 lemon
½ pint whipping cream
Add 2 tablespoons of water to the marshmallows and place them in the top part of a double boiler. Stir constantly until the marshmallows are half dissolved. Remove from heat and stir until creamy. Cool, add orange juice, rind and lemon juice. Whip cream until thick and add to the mixture. Place in tray and freeze, stirring often, until firm.

Good Housekeeping Secrets
When cooking cabbage or onions, the objectionable odor may be eliminated if the vegetables are cooked in half milk and half water. Use any excess liquid for making cream sauces or soups.
If you like crisp skins on baked potatoes, scrub clean and then rub with a metal sponge and bake.
To retain color in green vegetables, cook in an open pan with a minimum of water and watch cooking time carefully.

Veteran News

Almost 230,000 disabled veterans of World War II now are in training under the provisions of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16). Approximately 56 percent of those in training, or 128,877 were enrolled in recognized colleges, universities and other educational institutions. The others were taking on the job training in business and industrial establishments. Since the beginning of the vocational rehabilitation program in March, 1943, about 8,500 disabled veterans have been declared rehabilitated. A disabled veteran is declared rehabilitated when he has completed the prescribed course of training outlined in his training program, or when he has accepted employment in the occupation for which he was being trained.

Graduate nurses are urgently needed at VA hospitals in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. Salaries begin at $2,644, and there is an opportunity for professional training and advancement with VA's greatly expanding hospital program. Complete information can be obtained by visiting or writing the nearest VA hospital or the regional office at Albuquerque, Denver, Cheyenne or Salt Lake City.

You bet we are - and in everything else connected with farms, because we've got a big job to do in the rural communities we serve.

The job is going well. We're adding better than 1,000 rural telephones a month. However, catching up with accumulated orders for rural telephone service means that a lot more wire must be strung - often new buildings must be built and central office equipment installed.

There's still a short supply of such things as lead, copper, cotton yarn and steel. But we know how much the telephone means to farm families, and we're getting those telephones in just as fast as we can.

Why Throw Minutes Away
 The other day, we heard about an interesting experiment a checking account depositor had made. He had fourteen bills to pay. So he paid each one in person with cash, and kept track of how long it took. He walked to the stores. At some places he had to wait in line; at others he had to wait for change. When he had completed his rounds, he walked home. It had taken him over two hours to do the job. The following month he had sixteen bills to pay. This time he sat at his desk, wrote a check for each one, addressed envelopes and mailed them at the nearest post box. It took him 34 minutes—exactly one-fourth of the time it took him to pay with cash.
 And that is only one of many reasons why a checking account at our bank can be useful to you.

Photographer Burns Up
 That traveling photographer was annoyed ("burned up" he said) when he had to get a license in our town. Said he thought this was a free country, where any one was entitled to work for a living.
 From where I sit, it's a free country, all right—but freedom entails responsibility. And that license signifies a person's right not only to ply his trade, but his right to protection against undesirable competition, unfair practices, or shady methods.
 That's why tavern keepers are licensed, like photographers, or one who runs a service to the public. That license is their protection. And it also means that they're part of a group who subscribe to law and order under the Brewer's program of Self-Regulation.
 The Brewer's keep tabs on places selling beer. When one gets out of line, they warn it and often revoke its license if it doesn't play square. That's your protection!

4 H Field Crop Awards
 Nine counties in New Mexico named medal winners in the 1946 National 4-H Field Crops awards program, as compared with six in the preceding year. The nation-wide total last year was 880 counties in 43 states, as compared with 738 in 42 states in 1945. Forty-four states are taking part in the program this year, G. L. Noble, director, National Committee on Boys and Girls Club work, has announced.
 "These gains reflect the growing interest among farm youth in learning efficient crop production methods," Noble stated. "By taking part in the 4-H field crops program, they also receive special training in selection of seed and the most proficient use of available farm machinery."
 In addition to county recognition of superior records in 4-H crop production, awards are provided by International Harvester on state and national levels. The state winner receives an educational trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Four state winners are selected for national honors, each receiving a $200.00 Fowler McCormick scholarship.

Controls Necessary in Food Crisis

Export-Import Regulations Vital for Curing World Ills

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The sudden descent upon Columbia's shoulders of the mantle of world leadership has forced the President to add all sorts of odd jobs to his other extra-constitutional functions. Traveling salesman is one of them. Almost before he learned his way around the White House, he had the United Nations assignment at San Francisco. Hardly was he back from the Golden Gate when he was ordered to Potsdam. He already has become our "flyingest" chief executive. The Mexican trip was scarcely over when he was called to the wearying vigil at his mother's bedside.

Baukhage

Meanwhile he has conducted White House business without encountering too much criticism for being absent without leave. In fact, his popularity with the public has grown.

But at this writing some of his followers are growing a little restive about what they call his apparent neglect of certain issues which ought to be brought emphatically before the public. What was considered a crisis in world affairs was met successfully by overwhelming congressional support for the post-UNRRA relief and Greek-Turkish aid bills. Although at times it has balanced upon a rather thin edge, the solidarity of bi-partisan foreign policy has been maintained. But there is another matter which those most concerned declare has not been brought home to the public—the world food situation.

There are two important facts: 1. Two years have passed since the end of the war and the world food situation is no better. 2. Although congress (the people) has been willing to vote huge funds for relief, it appears unwilling to continue certain controls on business, without which the machinery for helping the stricken countries to their feet will break down.

The first job is to bring home the seriousness of point one. The second job (which has been dumped into the President's lap) is to convince congress of the importance of point two. Press and radio have been asked to help with the first job. They are trying. Here's one small contribution: In terms of dollars the destruction caused by World War II was seven times that of World War I. Recovery is, therefore, at least seven times as hard. Economic difficulties are multiplied more than sevenfold because of political difficulties.

Humanity Is at the Crossroads

Two reports in the news recently caused some interesting comments in Washington on the international situation. Charles Reese, extension apiarist of University of Ohio, recently reported that because of the late season and resultant scarcity of pollen on which bees feed, many of the drones (who do not work and are preserved for social purposes only) have been pushed out of the hives by the workers. Picket lines have been formed and the drones are not allowed to re-enter. They die in the damp and cold.

"Their (the bees) is not a very pleasant society," says apiarist Reese. "Hive activity is communicative and utterly ruthless."

A statement by Andre Visson, French writer who syndicates a column in American newspapers, was the second inspiration for unofficial comment. Visson said:

"The world has indeed entered into a contest between Americanism and Communism."

This pearl of wisdom laid beside the dispatch from Columbus moved a certain engineer-economist-philosopher to the observations which follow: For the first time, this pundit pointed out, the human race is really at the crossroads. Life has followed two paths, one taken by the animals, another by those who have in them something that distinguishes them from the beast. One path has been clearly visible to materialistic philosophers, Nietzsche, Hegel, Marx and the monster who was created out of their theories, Hitler. The other is the one illumined by the thought and action of those who from cot or castle, from work-bench or cloistered hall, lived in the belief that the activities of the state, or the individual, should be measured against something other than material forces.

It is impossible to estimate the "destruction" in terms of what has happened to social and political values. As to point two, that becomes a concrete issue which ought to be in debate before these lines are printed; namely, the question of extending certain wartime controls over exports and imports. Briefly, if export controls go off, foreign nations can bid against each other for food. Wheat, for example, that will send the price of wheat skyrocketing. What does that mean? In the first place it means the country with the most money gets the most wheat, regardless of its need. Others go hungry. It means the American taxpayer will have to pay a fancy price for the wheat the government buys. It means extra American dollars which could be used to buy other American products, which would encourage production, will be sucked out of foreign pockets and world trade will be stultified by just that much. That is one argument for extending controls on exports.

Fortunately there are also a lot of "selfish-interest" reasons for controlling some exports. It's this way: The man who extracts oil from soy beans, although he is quite willing to have his oil exported, probably can sell it here anyway. But he doesn't want beans from which he gets the oil sent out of the country. The man who refines the oil doesn't mind having his refined product exported but he doesn't want the oil which he has to buy, exported; the man who uses that refined oil to make margarine doesn't want to compete with foreigners for it, although he's quite willing to have foreigners buy his margarine. These mixed motives don't add up to a very good argument for congress, because the only controls desired are for the other fellow. It doesn't generate too much pressure because there are enough "agins" to balance the "furs."

But when it comes to imports, it's a different story. Take fertilizer. Britain and the United States, straining to increase production, now are using twice as much fertilizer as in pre-war years. That is all right. But the destitute European countries with their very tired soil need every ounce they can get—and if there were no import controls they would get less—the rich buyers would get more. The pressure on congress is all against limiting importation of fertilizer. Some imports into America are, of course, highly desirable—to get those American dollars abroad in order that foreign nations may buy raw materials and other things. But if we are to keep the rest of the markets alive until they can feed themselves, what we give out and what we take in will have to be made to fit the needs of the situation, not the desires of the American businessman who doesn't realize that if he is given too free a hand he'll be cutting off his own nose with it.

Slashing more than 383 million dollars from the amount asked by President Truman, the committee opened the floodgates for a deluge of protests from Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, and Democratic congressmen, who claimed they would fight the action right up to next year's elections, if necessary. Declaring that the reduction "directly a sharp cut at the interests of the American farm-family-and-the-general-welfare," Anderson said that the "greatest harm" would be to the soil conservation program, the farm price support program and programs designed to help veterans and low income families become better established. The 32 per cent cut would eliminate the Agriculture Adjustment Administration by July 1, 1949. Currently, the AAA is carrying on its basic program of promoting soil conservation on 3,600,000 cooperating farms by paying farmers for following practices intended to increase soil fertility and, hence, to increase production. The proposed fund slash would mean that farmers this year would be paid about 50 per cent of what they previously had been promised. In answering the criticism, the house appropriations committee said that its recommended cuts are "selective" and reasonable—based on actual farm needs.

LIVING BARRIER PROTECTS CHILDREN . . . Whether the danger comes from tigers or autos, mothers always are ready to protect their young. When a narrow residential street in Columbus, Ohio, became a speedway for motorists, aroused neighborhood mothers formed a living barrier to traffic to permit their children to cross the street from the school bus in safety.

NEWS REVIEW

Farm Budget Cuts Hit; Train Fares Increased

FARM FUROR:

Stormy Weather

Possibly the most violent storm of the year, according to the economic and political barometer, is the one which was raised when the house appropriations committee recommended a 32 per cent cut in department of agriculture funds for the coming year.

Slashing more than 383 million dollars from the amount asked by President Truman, the committee opened the floodgates for a deluge of protests from Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, and Democratic congressmen, who claimed they would fight the action right up to next year's elections, if necessary.

Declaring that the reduction "directly a sharp cut at the interests of the American farm-family-and-the-general-welfare," Anderson said that the "greatest harm" would be to the soil conservation program, the farm price support program and programs designed to help veterans and low income families become better established. The 32 per cent cut would eliminate the Agriculture Adjustment Administration by July 1, 1949. Currently, the AAA is carrying on its basic program of promoting soil conservation on 3,600,000 cooperating farms by paying farmers for following practices intended to increase soil fertility and, hence, to increase production. The proposed fund slash would mean that farmers this year would be paid about 50 per cent of what they previously had been promised. In answering the criticism, the house appropriations committee said that its recommended cuts are "selective" and reasonable—based on actual farm needs.

HOUSING:

Unfounded Hope

Popular belief that any substantial reductions in the cost of new housing will occur in the near future is not founded on realities. That assertion was made by James C. Downs Jr., president of the Real Estate Research Corporation, who explained that besides being geared to a high national debt, housing costs, like prices of other hard goods, are directly affected by the large demand for American capital and production by other countries.

"The housing shortage today is worse than a year ago," he said, "and it will continue to grow progressively worse for some time." He pointed out that increased earning power has put a greater number in the market for new homes, but at the same time builders are afraid to start new construction because of high costs. The theory that prices would drop kept many persons from buying or building homes last year, Downs said.

TRAVEL PAY:

Train Fares Up

To offset increased operating costs, Interstate Commerce commission authorized an approximate 10 per cent increase in basic passenger fares for 60 railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

The change will boost one-way passenger rates from 2.3 to 2.5 cents a mile in coaches and from 3.3 to 3.5 cents a mile in sleeping and parlor cars. There will be an increase of about 15 per cent in coach round-trip rates and about four per cent in Pullman round-trip fares.

In granting the increase, ICC noted that those railroads which requested the new rates incurred a deficit of 54 million dollars from passenger train operations last year.

IT'S WONDERFUL:

Long Time Peace

Announcing the immediate abolition of capital punishment in Russia, Soviet authorities explained the move on the grounds that it was made possible by Russia's growing strength, the people's patriotism and the certainty of peace "for a long time." Said the Moscow radio: "The international situation during the time after Germany's capitulation and Japan's capitulation shows that the cause of peace can be considered secure for a long time in spite of attempts by aggressive elements to provoke war."

Meanwhile, Herbert Hoover looked on the other side of the mask to charge Russia with attempting to bleed the United States through relief chagneys and blaming her for the economic paralysis of Japan and Germany.

He declared that further relief will remain necessary as long as the Soviets continue their obstructionist tactics and demands for reparations, thus blocking peace treaties with the two countries and keeping their economies paralyzed.

French Honor

Vincent Auriol, president of France, decorates opera singer Lily Pons with the order of the Legion of Honor. The French-born artist has been making a concert tour of France.

RETURN . . . Back in Germany after a wartime stay in Mexico, authoress Anna Seghers speaks on "Free Book Day" from same spot where her own book, "The Seventh Cross," was burned by Nazis 14 years ago.

HOSPITALITY . . . Lewis Douglas, new United States ambassador to England, received warm welcome from Mrs. Elisabeth Griffin, a miner's wife, when he visited the Denaby main colliery at South Yorkshire.

SENTENCED . . . Kenneth Romney, former house sergeant-at-arms, was found guilty of a charge that he made false reports to the government to cover loss of house bank funds in personal real estate speculation.

IMMIGRANT . . . An Australian kangaroo, "Blincy" arrived at the Oakland, Calif., airport and immediately claimed the distinction of being the first of his kind to cross the Pacific in four hops. Helping to take care of "Blincy" on the journey was Mary Simons of Sydney, pictured here.

NEW AMBASSADOR . . . Emmet O'Neal, former Democratic congressman from Kentucky, has been nominated by President Truman as ambassador to the Philippine republic. He succeeds Paul V. McNutt in that post.

THE HURRICANE CANDLE

By EDWIN RUTT

THE landlord was very old. He moved with slow, tentative steps as if afraid that his legs might buckle and collapse under the weight of his great, shrunken body.

His hair was the color of bleached silver; the backs of his hands were mottled and the veins stood out, starkly blue. But his face had the somber dignity that the sea stamps upon those who follow her.

Hurlow and I were on our way to Narsett Banks for some fishing and the old inn had appealed to me.

We had a creditable dinner, cooked and served by a Portuguese woman.

"She's a white Portygee," Mr. Hendrickson, the landlord, explained. "Couldn't get along without her. She comes early and goes late."

We were the only guests. Indeed, I gathered that people staying the night there were few and far between. After dinner we sat in a low, beamed-ceilinged room that overlooked the sea.

Presently the old man got up and went out. He returned shortly carrying a lighted candle. I'd never seen an arrangement just like it before.

The candle was set in a candlestick, but the flame itself was protected by a high chimney blown in the shape of a gigantic drinking glass. The purpose of this was obvious.

The large chimney would protect the flame against being snuffed out by wind.

ten, twenty—Tom's thirty-five now if he's a day. He ain't been home for seven years. Something like a sign sounded. "But he'll come. The Hendricksons always come back. He'll take the inn here when I'm gone. He'll marry and have sons. And like as not he'll burn the candle for 'em when they grow up and go away to sea."

"It's a nice custom," I said inadequately. "Custom?" said the old man. "Yes, that's what it is. A custom. Always done it. And I expect we'll go on doing it. Until we don't own this old inn any more or, maybe, until all the Hendricksons are gone. I don't know." His voice trailed. "I don't know."

The old man was still in his chair—but his head seemed to have dropped further on one side.

"Have you any other sons?" inquired Hurlow.

"No. No more sons and no daughters at all. Just the one. Just Tom."

Outside the sea was banging the cliff with more force. Ponderous, smacking blows. There was a whine in the wind.

"It's getting rough out there," Hurlow said.

I looked at the old man. He had fallen asleep in his chair.

"He's pretty ancient," I said. Hurlow was walking around.

"This is an eerie place," he said. All at once the candle flickered.

"That candle's getting low," I remarked. "Think we ought to wake him?"

"Why?" "I don't know. But he mightn't want it to go out."

room. The old man never stirred. The candle flame wavered again. "Let's take that candle away from the window," I said. "The wind must be getting at it through the chinks."

"How can it with that glass dingus?" said Hurlow. "Ah ha, here's a news commentator."

The news commentator came on crisply. A strike in Minneapolis. I listened without much interest. Suddenly, unexpectedly, the news commentator's voice rose higher.

"Port of Spain, Trinidad. A violent hurricane struck Trinidad this afternoon, destroying property valued at half a million dollars. But so far as can be learned only one life was lost and the man, unfortunately, was an American. Able Bodied Seaman Thomas Hendrickson was swept to his death from the tanker Pocohontas when the gale struck Port of Spain harbor."

"The words seemed to crash like a stray lightning into the room. For a second we stared at one another in stunned silence. Then Hurlow gasped, 'Hendrickson' and snapped off the radio.

I wheeled around then. The old man was still in his chair. But his head seemed to have dropped further on one side and he had slumped down.

Suddenly Hurlow darted across the room and took hold of his wrist. But he straightened up presently and turned to me, a puzzled, half-frightened expression on his face.

"Something's wrong, Jimmy," he said. "I—I can't find his pulse. And he—he isn't breathing."

I leaped to my feet, but stopped before I could take a stride. A queer, gray shadow seemed to steal across the room. There was a faint flicker of light, a faint hiss. The hurricane candle guttered and went out.

KEEP A GOAL IN SIGHT In one of the largest cities in the United States there is a doctor who has had considerable success in putting distraught and unhappy people back on the right track to happiness and success. His method is beautifully simple.

Whenever a person, feeling he needs a doctor's advice, comes to this doctor, the doctor puts pieces of plain white paper and a sharpened pencil in front of the patient.

"Before we start with your case," he suggests, "I want you to write down on that paper your goal in life. When we get it down in black and white I believe we can really go somewhere."

Nine persons out of ten cannot define their goal at all, much less write it. In other words, nine out of ten men and women lead purposeless, goalless lives. The doctor believes they can't find happiness until their goal is clear and in full view.

"If your goal in life is clear, you will adjust yourself to the goal, but if your goal isn't clear or if it's an unworthy goal, how can you expect to be very effective or attractive to others?" he asks.

I realize that what I have said here might sound a little bit theoretical and academic to you. I assure you, however, that it is neither. Setting the goal and keeping it in sight is one of the big secrets of attaining the kind of personally and happiness that you most want.

Suppose your goal is the general goal of a business and social success. That's a very common goal. All right. It's worthy. Write down exactly what you want to get out of life—write down your goal boldly.

To attain that goal you've just written down, you know that you have to make yourself acceptable to certain persons—perhaps to customers in your business or to the kind of men and women you want to associate with in society.

To be acceptable to them your personality must be the kind which they will approve. It must include certain traits—generosity, charm, graciousness, magnetism, or other positive qualities.

The next thing you have to do is spend an honest half hour in self-inventory, trying to decide what, in the final analysis, you have to do to attain the goal which you set for yourself.

MECCA FOR TRAVELERS

Mysteries of Underground World Beckon Adventurous

Caves have fascinated man from the dawn of antiquity to the present day. Stories of them abound in history, folklore and mythology, yet these mysterious underground worlds still beckon the adventurous and the weird scenes to be discovered there fire imaginations.

Three great cave systems in the United States have been established as national parks—Mammoth cave in Kentucky, Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico and Wind cave in South Dakota. In 1946 these three national parks were visited by more than half a million people.

Mammoth cave has been world famous for more than a century. It is believed to have been discovered in 1799 by a pioneer named Houchin who followed a wounded bear into the cave entrance.

Four years later salt pots taken from the cave was used in the manufacture of gunpowder for American troops in the War of 1812, and not long after that the great passageway and domed chambers of Mammoth cave became an international mecca for travelers.

There are now more than 150 miles of explored passageways in Mammoth cave and the visitor is offered a choice of several tours which vary in length from 2 1/2 to 7 1/2 hours.

On the all-day trip one has lunch at the Snowball Dining Room, 267 feet below the surface. An indication of what one may expect to see is given by the names of some of the formations in the cave: Bottomless Pit, Fat Man's Misery, Ruins of Karnak, Frozen Niagara, Violet City, Jenny Lind's Armchair and Martha Washington's Statue.

Long under private ownership, Mammoth cave became a national park in 1931 largely through the foresight and generosity of the people of the State of Kentucky, who through personal contributions made possible purchase of the cave property and its donation to the federal government.

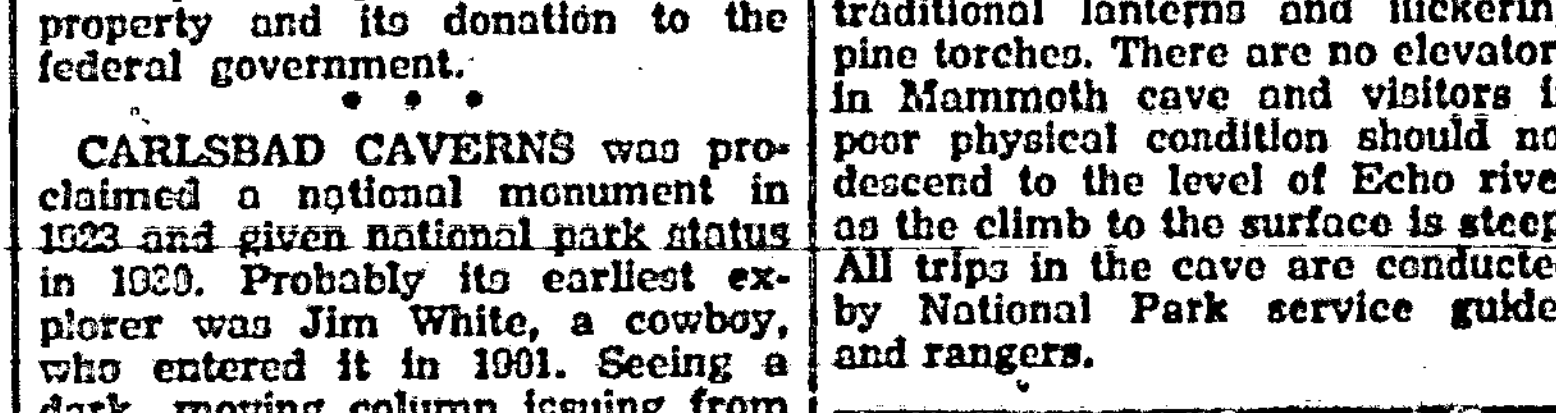

CARLSBAD CAVERNS was proclaimed a national monument in 1923 and given national park status in 1933. Probably its earliest explorer was Jim White, a cowboy, who entered it in 1891. Seeing a dark, moving column issuing from the top of a mountain, White investigated and found a natural opening in the earth which led him down to the caverns.

The dark, smoky column proved to be alive, a moving stream of bats from down in the darkness of the caves. This spectacular flight of bats, may be seen every afternoon at dusk during the warm months of the year.

The descent into Carlsbad caverns from the natural entrance is an unforgettable experience. From a point well below the surface one may look back through the semi-gloom to see an endless procession of people zig-zagging downward amid huge boulders and grotesque rock formations.

The scene reminds one of descriptions from Dante's "Inferno." Elevators are available for those who do not wish to descend or ascend on foot.

Everything in Carlsbad caverns is on a vast scale. The rooms are huge and the stalactites and stalagmites are larger than in any other known cave. Some of the stalagmites have the shape and size of church spires. The dominant colors in Carlsbad are varying shades of SCENE FROM 'INFERNO' . . . Like a scene from Dante's "Inferno," giant stalagmites and grotesque rock formations abound in Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico.
