Guidance From Proverbs

Lesson for September 21, 1947

OUR study of Sunday's lesson centers about the idea of goodness, which is a rather trite-sounding theme, but very vital, I assure you, and quite interesting. The Scripture passages are all found in Proverbs, save one, and that from the very practical preacher of the New Testament, James, chapter 4, verse 17.

Dr. Newton

Perhaps you will find the passages from Proverbs as helpful and interesting as I did. It will require but two minutes to read them—Proverbs 3:5-7; 4:23; 6:10-19; 9:10; 14:34; 15:1; 16:18; 21:3; 22:1; 27:1, 2; 28:1; 29:18. And after you have devoted two minutes to the reading of these passages, you will have something to think about for the rest of the day, the week, all your life.

One Man's Experience

A VERY successful business man in Atlanta, whose manufacturer, was telling me his life story one day as we fished together at Homosassa, Fla. Finally, he said:

"Do you know the passage in the Bible that has meant most to me as a rule and guide for my faith and practice?"

I wondered what he would say. And then he quoted from Proverbs 3:5-7.

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes; fear the Lord, and depart from evil."

The Essence of Goodness

WHAT is goodness? We talk about good men and bad men, good times and bad times, good luck and bad luck. Just what is goodness?

Jesus himself once said to a young man:

"There is none good but One, that is, God." Mark 10:18.

Goodness then, permit me to suggest, is what happens when God lives in us. We can never know goodness apart from God, try as we may. The essence of goodness, therefore, is found in that heart, in that life, that sincerely prays, "Thy will be done."

The Essence of Badness

GUIDANCE from these great Proverbs identifies the things that we are to shun as well as the things we are to do—the essence of badness as well as the essence of goodness. Here are the seven things that God hates—the seven qualities of heart that constitute the essence of badness:

"Haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that deliberately plans wickedness, feet which are swift in running to mischief, a false witness who utters lies, and one who sows discord among brethren."

Analyze these seven qualities of heart, and you have the explanation of the woes of the world. Many clever modern books try with these deadly sins, trying to make them seem good, but no amount of decoration can atone for the heart that consistently entertains these cancers of hell.

The Individual and Society

I LIKE the impact of these Proverbs. They begin with the individual. They fruit in society. Individuals who "trust in the Lord with all thine heart," will "exalt a nation." It is not enough to put better food in peoples' stomachs, better clothes on their bodies, better roofs over their heads. These are essential as expressing the better life; but you have got to give people something to live for as well as something to live on.

Good business depends upon good business men. Good international relations depend upon good nations. Good race relations depend upon good races.

We have been greatly enheartened by the establishment of United Nations as a world idea and ideal. Will it succeed? The answer is found not in dollars and bullets, but in hearts that always "trust in the Lord."

"Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it: Except the Lord keep the city, the watchmen watch but in vain."
—Psalm 127:1

Self-Instruction on Speaking in Public

Everyone Can Learn To Speak in Public

Booklet No. 83

"I'D LIKE to say a few words," you begin. But do you say the few words clearly and convincingly or are they punctuated with grunted "uh's" and "er's"?

One thing about speaking in public, whether before a formal group or among friends, you must be poised and able to hold your audience's attention.

Our newest booklet No. 83 tells you how to overcome jittery and awkward conversations, discusses parliamentary procedure and gives sample speeches.

THE FICTION CORNER
OUT OF THE EMBERS
By NORMAN STANLEY BOETNER

"LET'S talk this thing out," Janice had said. "For good and all." And he had agreed. Not enthusiastically. He thought he knew what it would be like. She was going to be very calm, very noble, very much the long-suffering, patient wife who will go no farther. All right, my dear: If you want one more talk, I'm game. Just so it doesn't end in another row.

"Can't say I do." "You mean you don't want to. It was after our honeymoon. And you held MY arm." Her voice was low and uneven and somehow queer. "Oh," he said. "What's the matter? Getting a cold?"

"No. Not used to fresh air, I suppose. It'll be all right soon."

"In the Nevada climate, you mean?" She did not answer. Maybe she hadn't meant that. To speak of the advantages of Reno while he remained East would not fit her present mood.

"Quite. It's always in good order. No telling when someone might want to use it. There's some wood there, I'm sure. And you remember how that fireplace heats, Will?"

"That's right. I do remember." The worst of it was that he remembered too well, all at once. They had lived there—he and Jan— for a while after their honeymoon. The big-house was too big. Too many people around. Too many distractions from each other. So they had moved to the cabin. . . . They had changed a great deal since then. Not in looks. Ten years wasn't very long. In themselves, somehow.

But the cabin had not changed. It was precisely as it had been then. Seemed a bit smaller, but then time always does that to distances and dimensions. He busied himself with the kindling. There was only one big chunk of wood. Enough for a little while. The fire caught nicely.

Jan held her hands to the growing flames. "Feels good," she said. And when the chill had been taken from the room she sat on the sofa and asked him, with a restrained, almost fearful little gesture, to sit beside her. He did, and waited—again very nobly—for her to begin this last talk she wanted.

"The first day we came here you carried me through the doorway, Will."

At last she did. "This is where we started, Will," she said. "Here in this little two-by-four. Do you ever think about that time?"

"Thought of it just a moment ago," he admitted. "We were happy then, weren't we?"

HE SHRUGGED. "Suppose we were, Jan. But I'm afraid we haven't been very happy since."

"No, not very. . . . And why, Will? Do you know? How did we lose what we had then? Not that it makes any difference, of course. Here we are, and how we got here doesn't really matter, or even who's to blame. . . . Right, Will?"

"Right." He stared into the roaring fire and considered that she was being exceptionally calm. Better than he had hoped.

"The first day we came here you carried me through the doorway. Will. I remember thinking, while you held me in your arms, that no girl could have been happier than I was at that moment. No two people could have been more in love. We were—don't laugh, please—we were like that fire is now. Just one consuming blaze of love for each other."

He couldn't help smiling at that. Jan really was in a state, to talk like that. But it disappeared when he turned toward her. She was so close to tears.

"And now, Will, look at us. We've made a wretched mess of things, haven't we?"

"Damned if we haven't." He was nearly noble enough to admit, furthermore, that it had been almost entirely his own fault, but he didn't. She might have agreed with him, and then the row would start. He was quiet for a long while, and then he said: "But fires do go out eventually, and I guess ours has."

"Yes. And what's the use of blowing on cold ashes? . . . But that's why I brought you here to the cabin, Will. I had the wild idea that somehow we could patch it up. Try again. But we've done that too often, haven't we?"

"Too often, Jan."

The room was hushed, after that, for many minutes. Hushed, except for the crackling of the one big chunk and the rush of air through the chimney. And even that slowly decreased. The fire he had built and not replenished was burning out. Just like the fire Jan has spoken of. Burning out. It was a simple thing to throw more wood on a fire. But was it so simple to rekindle their own flame? He decided he was getting morbid.

There were only deep red embers between the andirons when she rose. "I told you last night that nothing would keep me from Reno," she said. "I meant it, then, but—Will, I'll stay if you want me. I'll do my best to make us happy. We were once. Maybe, in some way, we could be again." She waited. He did not move; did not raise his eyes. The embers glowed.

"Will, I said I'd stay—if you want me to."

Glowed. "Must I get down on my knees to you? Is that what you want?"

Glowed dully. "Too late, then. . . . All right, dear, I'll be packed and on my way in an hour. Would you—do you mind if I kiss you goodbye? Just for old time's sake. I—won't bother you any more."

He permitted it quite nobly, and when she had leaned and kissed him full on the lips he turned away from her and toward the fire once more. The door closed behind her.

AN HOUR, she had said. Well, he would wait that long before going back to the house. No use having more farewells.

He did not stir for a long while, frowning at the fireplace. The one big chunk had only a tiny bit of redness along one edge. The rest was cold gray ash, smoking fitfully and not pretty to look at. She had been right. They had been exactly like the fire, blazing up for a time and then cooling to drabness.

"I won't bother you any more." What had she meant by that? Never see him again? He realized suddenly that he WANTED to see her again. It wouldn't be right not to. You can't live with a person ten years and simply forget it, like that. Maybe they could even be good friends, after the divorce, and have some of the fun they missed before. Without the ties of marriage, or the restraints.

He knew he was being very foolish, thinking things like that. It was all over, and she would be strange and distant whenever—if ever—they met. Friends? Hardly. Jan was out of his life for good—that was settled.

The cabin was getting cold. He had no idea how long he had been sitting alone. Was the hour up? He rose to stir his aching legs and considered hunting more wood for the fire. With the tongs he probed at the ash big chunk and at his touch the wood which had seemed so cold—so lifeless—jumped into flames, warm, surprising, beautiful. A single touch had done that. HIS touch.

OUT OF THE EMBERS

By NORMAN STANLEY BORTNER

"LET'S talk this thing out," Janice had said. "For good and all." And he had agreed. Not enthusiastically. He thought he knew what it would be like. She was going to be very calm, very noble, very much the long-suffering, patient wife who will go no farther. All right, my dear. If you want one more talk, I'm game. Just so it doesn't end in another row.

He became slightly noble himself. Now that it was all over with them he was suddenly courteous. He spoke to her in a tone he might have used toward any good-looking woman not his wife: "Where would you like to sit while you pronounce sentence?"

She knew at once. She must have been thinking about that. "Not here," she said. "Would you mind if we went down to the cabin?"

The cabin. How long had it been since he had seen the inside of that two-roomed affair beside the river?

And what could have made her want to go there, of all places? "Not in the least," he said. "We'll need wraps."

They dressed for the raw December day and went out the west door. Crossing the lawn she took his arm. That was unexpected. And also a little uncalled for, he thought, under the circumstances. Why should she make a game out of spitting up? Thinking that she stiffened and she felt it. But she did not release his arm. "Remember the first time we came down here, together?" she asked.

"Can't say I do."

"You mean you don't want to. It was after our honeymoon. And you held MY arm." Her voice was low and uneven and somehow queer.

"Oh," he said. "What's the matter? Getting a cold?"

"In the Nevada climate, you mean?" She did not answer. Maybe she hadn't meant that. To speak of the advantages of Reno while he remained East would not sit her present mood. There had been times—plenty of them—when the important small niceties of conversation between them had been forgotten, giving way to bitterness and recrimination. But he admitted she had never been crude. To cover his own remark he said: "Has the cabin been kept clean?"

"Quite. It's always in good order. No telling when someone might want to use it. There's some wood there, I'm sure. And you remember how that fireplace heats, Will?"

cabin, Will. I had the wild idea that somehow we could patch it up. Try again. But we've done that too often, haven't we?"

"Too often, Jan."

The room was hushed, after that, for many minutes. Hushed, except for the crackling of the one big chunk and the rush of air through the chimney. And even that slowly decreased. The fire he had built and not replenished was burning out. Just like the fire Jan has spoken of. Burning out. It was a simple thing to throw more wood on a fire. But was it so simple to rekindle their own flame? He decided he was getting morbid.

There were only deep red embers between the andirons when she rose. "I told you last night that nothing would keep me from Reno," she said. "I meant, it, then, but—Will, I'll stay if you want me. I'll do my best to make us happy. We were once. Maybe, in some way, we could be again." She waited. He did not move; did not raise his eyes. The embers glowed.

"Will, I said I'd stay if you want me to."

Glowed.

"Must I get down on my knees to you? Is that what you want?"

Glowed dully.

"Too late, then. . . . All right, dear, I'll be packed and on my way in an hour. Would you—do you mind if I kiss you goodbye? Just for old time's sake. I—won't bother you any more."

He permitted it quite nobly, and when she had leaned and kissed him full on the lips he turned away from her and toward the fire once more. The door closed behind her.

AN HOUR, she had said. Well, he would wait that long before going back to the house. No use having more farewells.

He did not stir for a long while, frowning at the fireplace. The one big chunk had only a tiny bit of redness along one edge. The rest was cold gray ash, smoking fitfully and not pretty to look at. She had been right. They had been exactly like the fire, blazing up for a time and then cooling to drabness.

"I won't bother you any more." What had she meant by that? Never see him again? He realized suddenly that he WANTED to see her again. It wouldn't be right not to. You can't live with a person ten years and simply forget it, like that. Maybe they could even be good friends, after the divorce, and have some of the fun they missed before. Without the ties of marriage, or the restraints.

He knew he was being very foolish, thinking things like that. It was all over, and she would be strange and distant whenever—IF ever—they met. Friends? Hardly. Jan was out of his life for good—that was settled.

The cabin was getting cold. He had no idea how long he had been sitting alone. Was the hour up? He rose to stir his aching legs and considered hunting more wood for the fire. With the logs he probed at the ash by big chunk and at his touch the wood which had seemed so cold—so lifeless—jumped into flames, warm, surprising, beautiful.

A single touch had done that. HIS touch.

He gazed open-eyed. And then in quick, bounding leaps he ran up the hill and into the house. Up the stairs. Through a door he had not opened for so very long. The hour was not yet gone.

"Jan," he said. "Jan. You're as slim as you ever were. I'll carry you over, again."

CHOICE is the keynote of today's career

Would you go to Europe, Japan or Korea? Or would you stay near home? Any man who has had prior service in the Armed Forces may elect to do any of these things if he enlists in the Army now for 3 years or more. He can choose to be assigned directly to duty in Europe or with one of five famous Infantry divisions in the Far East. Or he may choose to be stationed near home for the first full year of his enlistment (where there are vacancies). Men with or without prior service may choose one of the famous combat divisions in Japan or Korea.

Would you select a career in aviation? This you can do, and be guaranteed the training you choose before you enlist! Only requirements beyond regular physical and mental examinations are that you be a high school graduate, or that you are in the Air Force and can qualify. It's today's great opportunity to write your own ticket in the Air Force.

Would you want to learn to fly? If you are single, 20 to 26 1/2, and have had two or more years of college education or the equivalent, you can become an Aviation Cadet with the U. S. Air Force. Nowhere else can you get better training, for nowhere else is aviation advancing as fast or as far as in our own Air Force.

Would you go to a leadership school? If you have qualities of leadership, would you want to develop them to their fullest? U. S. Army Leadership Schools are now selecting likely candidates from servicemen to take these valuable courses.

The Army and Air Force are doing everything possible today to help each individual develop along the lines that he picks for himself. Army and Air Force training is thorough and take-home pay is better than most civilian jobs. Opportunities for advancement are wide open to every man in uniform. Make your choice today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Veterans Administration Information.

This is the third in a series of articles on the program of the Veterans Administration in assisting veterans. The series is written by Edward Kinsall, Contact Representative in Roswell. The maintenance and plant operation of the 124 VA hospitals, and domiciliary homes for aged veterans now in use require 13,600 employees. Equipment and supplies to keep these installations in operation amount to more than $105,000,000 annually. It is the system of the VA to produce these items and distribute them through supply depots, insuring economy and safety. There are 1,073 administrative offices in the U. S. and its possessions that carry VA services to veterans. An assistant Administrator in the Real Estate Division secures the facilities and supplies for these offices.

The office supervises all VA activities covering accounting and the making of every type of payment. About 350,000 checks are issued each business day. The Finance office also administers the GI loan program and payment of readjustment allowances. A veteran who served any time between September 16, 1940 and July 25, 1947 and who has a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable after 90 days service (or for service-incurred disability in less than 90 days) may qualify for a GI loan. Three types of loans are available, (1) to purchase construct or improve a home; (2) to buy a farm, stock, feed and seed, machinery and other farm supplies and equipment; and (3) to buy a business or otherwise to enable a veteran to undertake a legitimate business venture.

The VA does not lend money to the veteran. He makes his own arrangements for the loan through the usual financing channels. The VA then guarantees the lender against loss up to 50 per cent of the loan with a maximum guarantee of $4,000 on real estate and $2,000 on non-real estate loans. VA also pays the lender on the veteran's account, a sum equal to 4 per cent of the guaranteed portion of the loan. This is a gift to the veteran. Farm loans may be payable up to 40 years, other realty loans, up to 25 years, and non-realty loans up to 10 years.

The interest rate normally may not exceed 4 per cent a year on the unpaid balance. World War II veterans have through July 24, 1957 to apply for the loans. Veterans interested in applying for this benefit may obtain more information through the VA office in Room 203, City Hall, Roswell, from Mr. Kinsall Contact Representative.

Notice to Hunters

"Positively no transfers of elk or antelope hunting permits or refunds will be made after the permits have been issued", asserted Elliott S. Barker, State Game Warden. "Under the new law," said Barker, "the permits are set up just the same as hunting and fishing licenses; when a permit is obtained, it is yours for keeps and yours only. No license other than the permit is required for elk or antelope."

Barker warned hunters not to apply unless they expect personally to use the permit, if they get one. The final date for receiving applications for antelope permits is September 22nd at 10:00 a. m., while the final date for elk applications is Oct. 6th for the Pecos area, October 9th for the Wes Vermejo area, and November 28th the T. O. Ranch, Johnson Mesa area.

In applying for permits to hunt deer on any of the special deer hunting areas, the applicant must send in the number of his big game or big game combination license when he applies. Applications will not be accepted unless the license number is given.

"That is not necessary in the case of antelope and elk," said the Warden, but should remember there will positively be no transfers or refunds on antelope or elk permits this year.

Census figures estimate that 2,450,000 first graders have started their school career this fall. The U. S. Office of Education predicts 1,000,000 new teachers will be needed in the next ten years and about 350,000 new classrooms will have to be built.

Feedlots Are Food Factories

Now, with the approach of fall, the endless streams of cattle and lambs flow down out of the high summer pastures. Last spring's pigs soon will be on the way to market. The sorting lots and corrals will soon be busy.

In the valleys and plains the feedlots begin to fill. They dam back some of this fall flood of animals... You who feed livestock know well how important this is. You realize that it helps avoid periods of glut and scarcity, by stretching out, over months, the time of marketing. You know, too, how such year round marketing serves to lessen big "feast-or-famine" price fluctuations. And, who should understand better than you how the feedlots of America add millions of pounds to the nation's meat supply?

Feedlots save for the land much of the fertility which the selling of grain crops and hay would take out of the land. For example, you sell a steer that has gained 600 pounds in your feedlot. You are selling off your land only about 12½ pounds of nitrogen, 3 pounds of phosphorus, 1 pound of potash, which his body has absorbed out of your feeds. But suppose you were to sell as cash crops the grain and hay which you put into that steer. Then you would deplete your soil of about seven times as much nitrogen, four times as much phosphorus, and twenty times as much potash.

Keeping the soil fertile through use of manure from livestock is only one factor in judging whether "feeding" is likely to be a profitable venture. There are many others which are being constantly studied by individuals, colleges, and experiment stations. In every feeding area they are trying out new rations, watching costs, plugging "leaks," developing more efficient feeding techniques. So if you are feeding livestock, or are considering it, it may be worth your while to consult your county agent, vocational agriculture teacher, or state agricultural college. Ask them what they have that's new in up-to-the-minute feeding information... maybe you'll find some new wrinkle that will lower your costs, increase your profit possibilities.

OUR CITY COUSIN

Asks little cousin, city-born, "Do Indians use wigwags of corn?"

How many Meat Packers?

Here's an interesting thing to note. There is, on an average, more than 1,000 miles between the point where livestock is raised and the point where the meat products are eaten. Largely because of this 1,000-mile gap, national meat packers came into being. The small meat packers buy livestock locally, slaughter and sell meat in the territory surrounding their plants. In addition to this service, nationwide organizations are equipped to do another big job—and do it economically. They perform the service of moving dressed meat the long distances from areas of production to large consuming areas where relatively little livestock is produced. These areas of great meat consumption and small meat production depend upon nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company, for a large part of their meat products. Livestock-producing areas also depend on the large meat packers, as an outlet for the livestock their immediate market cannot consume. Most livestock producers market their livestock at only one market. So they come in contact with only a few livestock buyers. Dealing with such a small number of firms leads farmers and ranchers, naturally enough, to the thought that there is only a small number of meat packers in the United States. Actually, according to the latest figures available, there are approximately 4,000 meat packers and about 22,500 other commercial slaughterers of livestock. Some slaughter millions of head per year. Others kill thousands of head annually, and still others only hundreds.

New "Slant" Saves Pigs

Farrowing pens with sloping floors are the answer to clumsy sows that step or lie on baby pigs. The slant of the floor takes advantage of the natural tendency of sows to lie with their backs uphill, while the tiny baby pigs tumble downhill safely out of her way. Used extensively in Kentucky, sloping floors have cut baby pig losses to only one out of thirty, according to W. P. Garrigus of the University of Kentucky. He writes: "Crushing or crippling by brood sows is the chief cause of pig losses. Normally, one out of every five new-born pigs is doomed to be mashed or severely crippled by clumsy, awkward brood sows the first day or so after farrowing. This loss to the swine industry adds up to a staggering total. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, each pig killed at farrowing represents a loss of 140 pounds of the feed consumed by the sow during the gestation and suckling periods. Figuring two pigs killed to the litter, this loss in one year alone, 1944, cost hog men 75 million dollars. "Very little of this tremendous loss needs to be tolerated. Three years of experimentation and observation of herd tests in Kentucky show that sows farrowing on sloping floors raised from one to four pigs more than when they farrowed on level floors. On 49 Kentucky farms where records have been kept, with 385 litters, an average of only one pig out of 30 farrowed has been crushed on sloping floors."

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., has detailed information on sloping floors for farrowing pens, instructions for building, etc.

Track Down the Facts

If you ever see tracks like this in the snow, dust, or mud, you'll know there's been a white-tailed deer around. An experienced hunter can tell from the tracks how long since they were made, the approximate size of the deer, and whether it was in full flight or quietly going about its business. Deer tracking is considerably out of our line here at Swift & Company. But we do have a staff of trained fact hunters. Their job is to track down the facts which control our business operations. They study the U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on livestock supplies. They "track down," too, the demand for meat... what weights and grades housewives everywhere are asking for... what cuts they prefer. Our "fact trackers" know full well that the price of livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and by-products.

Tiger or Giant Swallowtail (Papilio thoas) is the largest American butterfly. Lemon-yellow with velvety black. Wingspread to 5½ in. Caterpillar, called "Orange Puffy," feeds on citrus fruits.

The Crude Is The Answer To Phillips 66 Fine Motor Oils

Mother Nature couldn't be beaten the day she made the Tiger Swallowtail butterfly—and she was doing a mighty fine job when she produced the crudes that go into Phillips 66 Motor Oils, too!

Then, Phillips special refining processes, Phillips practical skill and know-how, turned these exceptionally fine crudes into fine lubricants... lubricants that have what it takes to do an honest-to-goodness job of protecting your engine. Ask for Phillips 66 Motor Oil or Phillips 66 Premium Motor Oil.

Phillips 66 Motor Oil has made thousands and thousands of friends... and has chalked up an enviable record covering billions of miles of satisfactory performance!

Phillips 66 Premium Motor Oil is brand new! It cleans! It prevents bearing corrosion! It resists high temperatures and high pressures! In short, this oil is made especially for motorists who want something extra-special in lubrication.

You'll like them both... Phillips 66 and Phillips 66 Premium!

We All Need Fun!

Nobody in Our Town is exactly lazy (even though Pete Swanson's maous claims he sleeps till seven A.M.). But the hardest working man of all is Doc Hollister—on call, merrily, noon and night.

Funny thing, Doc's favorite prescription to his patients is: You ought to have fun. The pace of modern living, even on the farm, demands some relaxation.

And as Doc says—fun is a personal thing. For the misses it may mean a movie or a good book; for Dad, a mellow and refreshing glass of beer; and for the kids, parcheesi or the radio. Doesn't mean everybody has to like the same thing—so long as they relax, have fun, together, in the home.

Doc doesn't have much time himself. After a hard day, he'll relax before the fire with a glass of beer—and wait for the phone to ring again. And from where I sit, Doc deserves each well-earned minute of that relaxation.

1907 Capitán News

The buildings for the railroad shops and roundhouse at Carrizozo have been completed. The roundhouse has fourteen stalls, brick being used in its construction, and is very conveniently arranged. The shop building is 170 x 180 feet, also built of brick. In addition to these two large structures there is a storeroom and oil house 30 x 60 feet. The machinery has not all been placed in position, but is on the ground and it is only a question of a short time when everything will be in readiness for all kinds of repair work. The pipe line which is to furnish water for the new shops and for the engines on the road, is being pushed along and the completion of such an undertaking means the expenditure of a large amount of money in this county. After completion, all these vast enterprises will add greatly to the taxable wealth of the country.

The Probate Clerk of Dona Ana county, who is a subscriber to the "Round-Up" is telling the following joke on himself. He recently presented his wife with a piano lamp upon receipt of which she said to him: "Dear, this is very thoughtful of you, for every time that I look at this lamp I will think of you." The probate clerk then asked his better half why the lamp would make her think of him, and received the following reply: "Well, dear, it has a great deal of brass about it; it is handsome to look at; it is not re-

Transform Vegetables Into Savory Dishes For Lunch or Supper

Asparagus takes on a pleasing look as well as extra flavor when green tips are tucked in between layers of cheese biscuit, topped with sauce and garnished with slices of hard-cooked eggs.

Remember when we just cooked vegetables in boiling, salted water and put them on the table without any thought as to subtle seasoning or attractive serving? Thank modern cookery experts for revealing the infinite possibilities of vegetables and for transforming vegetables into one of the glamor groups of cookery.

First of all, there are innumerable sauces you can use with "perfection cooked" vegetables to bring out all their hidden flavors. Then, if you want to forego the sauce, you can combine vegetables with other foods to make them palate-pleasing and tempting.

Whichever way you prefer to serve your vegetables, always remember that the overcooked vegetable can never be guaranteed to make friends or influence eaters to come back for seconds, as they should. Cook vegetables so there is still a bit of their garden crispness left. If cooked to this point and served immediately, you will also lose less of their lovely colors.

Golden Cauliflower (Serves 6)
 1 medium head cauliflower
 1 cup raw carrots, sliced
 1/4 cup onions, chopped
 Salt
Paprika
 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 1 cup rich milk
 1 cup Wisconsin Natural American Cheese, grated

Break cauliflower into flowerets. Arrange cauliflower and carrots in buttered casserole. Cover with onion, seasonings and butter. Pour milk over contents. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, removing cover the last 15 minutes.

Red Cabbage and Apples (Serves 8 to 10)
 2 quarts red cabbage, shredded
 1 cup apples, pared and chopped
 1 teaspoon salt
 2/4 cup butter
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/2 cup vinegar
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 Buttered crumbs

Cook cabbage with apples 10 minutes in salted water, drain (save water). Melt butter, add flour, mix. Add 1/2 cup drained water, vinegar, and brown sugar, stir until thickened. Add apples and cabbage. Bake in buttered casserole in hot oven (400 degrees) until crumbs are brown.

Sweet Potato Casserole (Serves 8 to 10)
 3 pounds sweet potatoes
 1/2 cup butter
 Salt
 Pepper
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg or mace
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 to 1 cup apple cider

Mash cooked sweet potatoes. Add 1/2 cup butter, seasonings, and cider, mix well. Put in buttered baking dish, dot with remaining butter. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 to 40 minutes, until top is brown.

 If you want a really delicious sauce for your fish, melt butter, add flour, and in place of milk, blend in sour cream. Add to this a bit of salt and pepper and chopped chives.

A blade of mace and a few cloves heated with the liquid when making orange or lemon jelly will give it added spice. Strain the liquid to remove spices.

Stuffed Eggplant

Cut a lid from one large eggplant lengthwise, scoop out pulp and cook in boiling salted water until tender, drain and chop fine. Sauté one small minced onion in butter until soft, not brown, add eggplant, one half cup of bread crumbs, one half cup of chopped pecans, one half cup of well-beaten eggs. Mix well with seasonings. Lastly add enough water in which the eggplant was cooked to make the mixture quite thin. Fill shell and sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter and bake about twenty minutes.

Spinach Balls

Wash one peck of spinach in several waters, then cover tightly and steam with just the drippings from the washing for about fifteen minutes. Squeeze as dry as possible. Chop and press through a coarse sieve. Into this puree mix two slightly beaten egg yolks, one tablespoon of grated onion, one tablespoon of olive oil, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and form into balls, dip in beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs, and fry in hot fat to a golden brown.

Asparagus-Cheese Sertake (Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 No. 2 can asparagus tips
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced for garnish

Melt butter in saucepan; add minced onion and cook slowly for 3 minutes or until tender. Add flour and seasonings and blend. Gradually add milk, while stirring; cook over low heat until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly.

Cheese Biscuits

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 1 cup milk

Add grated cheese to biscuit mix and blend. Add milk with fork. Roll out to 1/4 to 1/2 inch thickness on floured board and, out into squares or circles. Bake on a greased pan in a hot oven (450 degrees) 12 minutes. Split and place hot asparagus tips between biscuits. Pour hot cream sauce over the top and garnish with hard-cooked egg slices.

A vegetable bowl of snowy, white cauliflower surrounded with green peas is hard to resist.

Tasty butter sauce variations will add sparkle to humdrum vegetable dishes. Here are two possibilities:

Lemon-Butter Sauce

- 1/2 cup butter
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 3 tablespoons parsley (if you prefer)

Melt butter, add lemon juice and blend thoroughly. Add parsley and serve hot with vegetables. An extra dash of the lemon-butter sauce may be served on the side.

Brown-Butter Sauce

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- Salt
- Pepper
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Melt butter in a frying pan and stir until a golden brown. Add chopped parsley, lemon juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot on vegetables or fish.

EUREKA! IT'S PUMPKIN TIME . . . Fields of golden pumpkins are ripening near Eureka, Ill., pumpkin center of the world, which will stage its 26th annual Pumpkin Festival September 26 and 27.

IN THESE UNITED STATES

10,000 Free Pies Lure Visitors To Eureka's Pumpkin Festival

WNO Features.
 EUREKA, ILL.—Luscious, golden brown pumpkin pies "just like mother used to bake"—more than 10,000 of them, in fact—will be given away to visitors as one of the major attractions of the fifth annual Eureka Pumpkin Festival, September 26 and 27.

The free pies and other features of the celebration will be aimed to assure visitors that Eureka is the pumpkin center of the world. No city, town, or hamlet in the world can as much fancy pumpkin as Eureka, the town's canneries proudly boast.

The canneries packed a sizable portion of the 4,324,675 cases which comprised last year's commercial pack of pumpkin in the United States.

The spirit of a century-old celebration pervades the annual Pumpkin Festival, timed to coincide with the peak of the pumpkin harvest. During the early 1830s, the small community of Walnut Grove held an all-day picnic called "Burgoo." For more than a century the affair had lapsed, but in 1939 the nearly forgotten picnic was revived in Eureka, its modern counterpart being termed the Pumpkin Festival.

Although the 1939 picnic called for only a small local celebration, the affair expanded rapidly into a two-day program. It has been maintained annually since then with exception of the war years. Revived in 1946, the festival attracted more than 50,000 visitors.

Inaugurating the 1947 festival will be the first bowl football game ever held in the state of Illinois. Appropriately dubbed the "Pumpkin Bowl Game," the contest will pit Eureka college fiddlers against the Kirksville, Mo., state teachers under the floodlights of Eureka stadium.

Honor guest of the celebration will be the screen star, Ronald Reagan, Eureka's "home town boy," and his wife, Jane Wyman, also of the films. Illinois state officials also will participate in the official programs. Reagan, an alumnus of Eureka schools, will take part in dedicatory ceremonies for a new school of speech building on the Eureka campus.

Proving that pumpkins represent the major interest not only for farmers and canneries, housewives of Eureka and vicinity will show their skill at making pumpkin pies by competing in a pie-baking contest while younger fry will vie in the traditional pie-eating contest.

Selection of the Pumpkin Queen will be another festival attraction. Miss Patricia Stevens, modeling agency head, will be among the judges.

A parade featuring decorated floats, band concerts and other musical entertainment will help to round out a full program of events for the two-day festival.

Newlyweds Evade In-Law Difficulties

TULSA, OKLA.—When Jeannie Madsen became Mrs. Lee Odum, she could anticipate a minimum of mother-in-law trouble.

Her marriage made her mother, Mrs. Charles Madsen Odum, her mother-in-law. The mother, a widow, previously had married Lee Odum's father, J. T. Odum.

Now, young Odum is the son-in-law of his stepmother and a stepson-in-law of his father.

The bride is the step-daughter-in-law of her own mother and her former stepbrother is her husband.

Historic Iron Mines Are Reopened

RINGWOOD, N. J.—Idle for 16 years, the historic Ringwood iron mines, which produced the cannon of "Old Ironsides" and the Hudson river defense chain in Revolutionary war days, have been reopened.

The 377-acre property between the Hope and Whaleback mountains was purchased by Ringwood Mines, Inc., from War Assets administration for $1,274,500.

When digging was resumed, inhabitants of this 200-year-old mining community returned happily from their "exile" in the factories of New York. Eventually, it is expected, the mines will employ 600 men.

Most memorable casting from the old mines was the immense chain which was hung across the Hudson river below West Point during the Revolutionary war to prevent British ships from sailing up the river to bombard towns and forts.

Double Smoking Joy!

Prince Albert's rich-tasting tobacco is specially treated to insure against tongue bite. P.A. is the world's largest-selling tobacco!

A Joy in Pipes . . .

THERE'S NO OTHER TOBACCO LIKE PRINCE ALBERT FOR TONGUE-EASY PIPE COMFORT AND TASTY SMOKING!

"I've smoked Prince Albert in my pipe for years," says J. W. Dole. "The full, rich tobacco flavor of P.A. comes through mild and mellow. Crimp cut P.A. packs right and burns right."

John W. Dole

CRIMP CUT PRINCE ALBERT IS GREAT FOR 'MAKIN'S' SMOKES. P.A. ROLLS UP EASIER, FASTER—TASTES RICH AND MELLOW

"I enjoy the small cigarettes I get with Prince Albert," says W. F. O'Neal. "P.A. rolls up fast and easy, shapes up firm and neat. And P.A. has a grand-tasting rich flavor too!"
