School Notes

Many red grades (grades below 70%) went out on the report cards for the first six weeks. A few parents would say the teachers are just too hard on the students. It is true that teachers can make work easy enough that all can pass. In some of the grades standardized tests (tests that have been given to thousands of pupils) were given. More pupils went low on these Standard tests than on the work presented by the teachers. This would make it seem as though the teachers are not so strict as the average.

No parent would want a teacher to ask such simple questions as, "How much is 5 and 5?" just in order for the student to pass. Most parents want the teachers to give the work needed and then give as nearly as possible grade made. The latter is what your teachers are trying to do.

In the past it has been the general policy not to give any grades lower than 65%. Sometimes lower grades were given. This year some of the teachers believe that regardless of how low the grade went the parent should know it. Then, if the pupil's grade comes up high enough the next six weeks that this unusually low grade is all that keeps him from passing the semester, he will be given the opportunity to make it up.

Better Revelation

Lesson for October 5, 1947

WITH Sunday's lesson we turn into another field of Bible study for the concluding quarter of the year—messages from the Epistles, other than those of Paul.

This lesson, and the next two, are from the Epistle to the Hebrews—one of my favorite books in the Bible. The passages of study for this lesson are Hebrews 1-2; 8:6-13; with kindred passages in Matthew 3:16, 17 and John 14:5-11. Suggested devotional reading for the lesson is Psalms 40:1-8.

The title of the lesson has reference, of course, to Christ—the better revelation of the Son of God in his appearance to bring the father's plan of redemption nigh unto all men.

The Father's Son

"GOD, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds," chapter 1, verses 1 and 2.

"And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water; and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him; and a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased," Matthew 3:16, 17.

Could there be a more beautiful and impressive manifestation of God's acknowledgment of Jesus Christ as his son?

Love is the Key

IN THIS better revelation of Jesus Christ, we find that love is the key that opens the door into the brightly lighted room. "The father loved the son, and hath given all things into his hand," John 3:35. Love is the key. It is ever so with all the revelations which God makes of himself to his trusting children.

And this revelation of God in Jesus Christ carries the farther truth that "all things" have been placed in the hands of our blessed Saviour. We read elsewhere that "all things consist in him," which means that all things held together in him—the world itself. Jesus said, "All power hath been given unto me, in heaven and on earth."

It is not a picture of passive love, but a picture of perfect love in action, with all things committed to his administration. Again we can sing, "This is our father's world."

Christ Reveals God

NOT only does Christ reveal himself, but also the father, for they are one. Reading now into the second chapter of Hebrews, we find these words: "God also bearing them (angels) witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will."

It is God's own will that he be revealed, and he must do the revealing. Turn to John 14:5-11, where we read again that revealing incident when Jesus patiently reassured Thomas and Philip, declaring "He that hath seen me hath seen the father."

The better revelation of God in Jesus Christ brings us far beyond the revelations of God in the Old Testament, dramatic and impressive as they were.

A New Covenant

THE better revelation means "a more excellent ministry," because Jesus Christ has now become "the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises," Hebrews 8:6.

The first covenant was imperfect, because it was manifest through humanity. Only the perfect son of the perfect God could manifest the better covenant. Jeremiah foresaw the better covenant. See Jeremiah 31:31-34.

Now that the better revelation is our portion, what shall be our response? One cannot be excited today by claiming ignorance of God's proffered salvation unto all men. He has revealed his love in the death of his only begotten son on the cross. He has revealed his love in abounding and forbearing mercies.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

U.S. Farmer Will Beat Communism

American Food Can Halt Chaos Threatening Europe

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON. — The American farmer is going to lick communism!

That's what your worried capital is saying today. American representatives abroad and at home are submitting one report after another which register gains in the Soviet battle to build a Communist world out of chaos.

The reports come in from Prague, from Belgrade, from Sofia, from Budapest, showing how each day the iron grip of the Russian-dominated secret police is gradually choking off democracy in the little countries. Reports from Rome tell us of a planned coup of the Moscow-directed Communist party in Italy to overthrow the government there. The open record of the meetings of the United Nations reveals the consistent attempt of the Russian delegation to block the efforts of the struggling, still-free governments in Greece and France.

Some American political leaders still look askance at the huge program of aid to western Europe envisioned in the Marshall plan. Part of the country seems unympathetic, or at least indifferent, toward the effort to win the "cold war" against Russia with purely economic weapons, because it means sacrifices on the part of the American citizen. Some officials in the administration, supporters of the Marshall plan in congress, and a few diplomats at home and abroad, are frightened by this attitude.

Baukhage

Until recently this correspondent has been pretty much distressed, too. But I feel better after talking with certain officials whose names seldom appear in the news. These men are not cabinet officers, they are not diplomats, they are not the leaders in congress whose faces appear in the news pictures and whose adumbrations are quoted in the daily dispatches. They are just the men who do the work for which Uncle Sam "pays the wage."

They are paid for knowing about American farms and American farmers. Their consensus is embodied in the first line of this dispatch: The American farmer is going to lick communism. I believe the farmer will do it, not because he knows it will pay him in dollars now, but because he is going to be convinced before very long that it will pay America. The American farmer will do it by providing the food necessary to halt chaos in Europe just as he proved the verity of the slogan: "Food will win the war."

The history of Europe since the war is that every government falls when the bread ration is reduced. The men who know tell me that whatever the total amount in goods or dollars demanded by the Marshall plan, it is safe to say that two-thirds of it will be for food—either the food commodities themselves or the dollars with which to buy them.

American dollars are growing very scarce in Europe but there are three things which the European purchaser hesitates to quit buying—grain, coal and fat. You will notice that France, when it reduced its imports (as all European countries are doing as their dollars dwindle) tried to hold on to her grain, coal and edible fats as long as possible.

Even if the Marshall plan were not put into effect in time to provide extra dollars, for their grain purchases, there will be a lag of some months before the farmer is touched in his pocketbook. By that time, if nothing is done, the European countries starve.

Free World Is at Stake

Exports to Europe already have been cut down. That will affect first employment of people in this country in such export industries as radio, electrical appliances and like gadgets which can be spared. It is quite possible that there may be a sufficient increase meanwhile in employment in construction or other domestic industries which will absorb this unemployment and keep up the purchasing power of the consumer sufficiently to maintain present farm prices. In any case, there probably will be a six months lag before prices are greatly affected.

Eventually, the marginal surplus would be touched (if Europe is not stimulated) as it was in 1939. Then, you recall, grain prices dropped, although exports were still heavy. However, the demand at that time was not great enough to absorb the entire American output. It is this "marginal surplus" which decides the price at home. When the demand for the first bushel over and above the domestic surplus ends, it affects the whole price structure.

Before such a situation arises, it is firmly believed that the "realistic" side of the picture will be brought home forcibly to America. The average citizen, as well as the farmer and the exporter and others directly dependent on international trade as a whole, will realize that what is at stake is something far greater than the dollar—America's stake in the preservation of a free world—a world which will perish if Europe is underfed.

Russia has only about one-sixth of the amount of wheat which the United States is able to spare, according to current estimates. The United Nations food and agriculture organization estimated it as 70 million bushels against our 400 million bushels, as stated above.

Our own situation, we admit, is not too good. Nevertheless, we are in a much better position on a competitive basis, than Russia. There appears little doubt in the minds of the men most familiar with the facts that when the full force of this situation and what it means is realized in this country, Europe can be saved for democracy—and the American farmer will have at least two-thirds of the credit due him.

"Please, kid, don't EVER go collective on me."

What do the Russians think of "collective farming," communized agriculture under the Soviets? Well, I asked a friend of mine, Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun, who got this story from a Russian, a good Communist, whom he met in Moscow. After a few vodka and the Ruskys used to tell stories. This was one: Stalin and Roosevelt were driving through the countryside. A cow got into the road in front of them and wouldn't move. The driver tried to shove it away, but it wouldn't budge. Finally, Stalin got out, went up to the cow and whispered into its ear. The cow gave one frightened look, jumped over the fence and disappeared in the distance.

"What did you say to the cow to make it do that?" Roosevelt asked.

Stalin smiled. "Don't tell anybody, but I said to her: 'If you don't get out of here, but quick, I'll put you on a collective farm!'"

NO EXPLOSION POSSIBLE

Science Now 'Spalliates' Atoms

Scientists now can split the atoms of five more metals—lead, bismuth, thallium, platinum and tantalum—achievements destined to open new roads toward man's ultimate mastery of the atom.

However, there's no need to worry about the possibility that a "cheap" atomic bomb could be made by splitting the atoms of such a common metal as lead, according to Prof. Glenn T. Seaberg, University of California physicist, who played a dominant role in development of the first atom bomb.

The day has not yet come when atomic bombs could be made with common elements such as lead and bismuth, Dr. Seaberg said, emphasizing that the fission of such elements "opens no possibility for the production of self-sustaining chain reaction."

Showdown Near in U.N.; Grain Exports Reduced

SHOWDOWN:

Russia's Choice

Secretary of State George Marshall sounded like a man who was getting a lot of things off his chest. What he said in an address before the U. N. general assembly of 55 nations amounted to a call for a showdown with Russia.

The Soviets, he intimated, have held to their stubborn, veto-bound course in the United Nations long enough.

To make the delinquents come to time, Marshall proposed a four-point plan of action to the general assembly:

1. He suggested creation of a new 1. assembly committee of 55 countries which would operate without veto and would remain constantly in session to consider world security questions and function as a board of appeals. Potentially, the committee would be a rival to the security council.
2. He announced that the U. S. was ready to relinquish, in all but the gravest cases, its veto privilege and implicitly challenged Russia to do likewise.
3. He blamed Russia for the U. S.-Soviet deadlock in Korea and said that America would submit the case to the general assembly for action.
4. He blamed Russia for using vetoes to protect Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria from being pronounced guilty of meddling in Greece. He said the U. S. would ask the assembly to vote guilty for the three satellites and to demand that they refrain from interfering in Greece.

PRICE BATTLE:

Exports Cut

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson had a "Horatio at the bridge" air about him as he announced that the government had made a drastic cut-back of grain and flour allocations for export in November.

The move generally was accounted for as another noble stand against the forces which are causing domestic food prices to spiral dizzy. This one, however, had the blessings of the grain trade as "a step in the right direction."

Reducing the export allocations for November was in line with the government's surprise revision of the nation's 1947 export goal from some 450 million bushels of grain down to 350 million.

(In a significant sidelight, Anderson scoffed at the prospect of returning to rationing by pointing out that such a program could not be put into effect before the need for it would be over.)

Next move, it was hinted, would be an attempt by Secretary Anderson to put through a sharp reduction of total food exports—not just grain—as the only practical way of pulling down prices.

The U. S. state department, however, committed to its "save Europe" program, no doubt would object vehemently to any such action.

Atom After-Effects

Although the atom bomb explosions in Japan have caused some sterility among the people, they have not affected the soil adversely and may even have brought about an improvement in the rice crop. Dr. Shields Warren, Harvard professor, recently returned from Japan where he studied after-effects of the bomb, said that its effects on human beings may carry into the third generation, producing freaks.

WHOSE FAULT?

Taft Talks

Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio), who had to crash a sign-toting picket line to get to his audience, told a Republican rally in Los Angeles that if President Truman had not jumped the gun in scrapping price controls the current inflation spiral might have been delayed a while longer.

Exactly how Taft arrived at that rather hazy conclusion was not immediately clear. The senator himself last year was denounced by Mr. Truman for his part in writing a price control extension bill which the President branded as being worse than no controls. Mr. Truman's subsequent veto of the bill allowed price controls to expire automatically.

Nailing down the first plank in what apparently is designed to be his campaign platform for the 1948 presidential nomination, Taft assailed the administration's record on taxes and spending.

The country must elect a Republican president next year if it is genuinely interested in reducing taxes and spending, Taft observed.

SPEED-UP:

Forrestal In

James V. Forrestal wasn't due to be sworn in as U. S. secretary of defense for another week, but President Truman manifestly alarmed over the trend of world events, ordered the former secretary of the navy to jump the gun in taking over his new job.

Mr. Truman observed that in view of conditions abroad, the nation should have its secretary of defense in office and functioning. The conditions, which he did not specify, probably were the current unrest in Trieste and the U. S.-Russian stalemate in the United Nations, topped off by Secretary of State Marshall's challenging speech before the general assembly.

Now presiding over the unified army, navy and air forces, Forrestal is the armed forces' only representative on the President's cabinet.

Quick Breads Take Little Mixing Time. (See recipes below.)

Tempting Breads

There is no aroma more appetizing than that tantalizing one which comes from the oven in which bread is baking. And what is more of a treat than eating the bread itself?

Piping hot muffins add interest to the simplest supper; hot coffee cake is a delight to both early and late risers; while thick and thin slices alike — as long as they are of homemade bread — make superb sandwiches for school lunches or late snacks.

Many homemakers don't bother to make homemade bread because they think it is a time-consuming procedure. Actually, it's far simpler than mixing a cake or even cooking a vegetable, and the pleasure of it is so great, it's more than worth the little effort.

Orange Oatmeal bread is good when sliced thin for sandwiches. Moist and tender, it keeps its flavor easily and slices readily. The flavor actually improves when the bread is kept for a day before being cut.

Orange Oatmeal Loaf.

(Makes 4-by-7-inch loaf)

- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1 cup quick-cooking oats
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 2 tablespoons shortening, melted

Mix milk, orange juice and grated peel and add to oats. Let this mixture stand for an hour. Sift flour, salt, baking powder, soda and sugar. Add chopped nuts. Beat egg into oatmeal mixture. Add molasses and beat thoroughly. Stir in melted shortening. Add four mixture and stir just to blend. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about 60 minutes, or until done.

Pecan Wheat Muffins.

(Makes 12 to 16 muffins)

- 1 cup sifted whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup sifted white flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Sift first four ingredients twice, returning bran in sifter to sifted mixture. Beat egg, add brown sugar, milk and water. Stir until mixture is dissolved, then add shortening. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients. With the last few stirs, add chopped nuts. Four batter immediately into greased muffin tins. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven about 20 minutes.

Flavor's the Thing in Sandwiches.

For a tasty as well as a nourishing sandwich, spread sliced luncheon meat with cream cheese mixed with chives. This tastes very special on rye bread.

For a well-seasoned sandwich spread that you can keep in the refrigerator, warm butter and mix with one of the following: sweet pickle relish, horseradish, onion juice or mustard.

Fill greased muffin pans half full. Let rise in warm place until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 18 to 20 minutes. Date and Pecan Ring is an attractive as well as novel bread.

- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup brown sugar

- 1/2 cup pecans, coarsely chopped
- 1 1/2 cups rich milk
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 tablespoons shortening, melted

Grease an 8-inch ring mold thoroughly. To prepare decorative topping, alternate halves of dates and pecans on bottom of mold and drizzle with honey. In a mixing bowl, sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Add whole wheat flour, brown sugar, dates, nuts and mix thoroughly. Combine milk and vinegar. Add shortening, then add beaten eggs. Stir in dry ingredients. Mix just until flour disappears. Pour into prepared ring mold and bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 15 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate (350-degree) and continue baking for 20 to 25 minutes.

Swedish Pancakes With Berry Sauce.

(Serves 4)

- 1 cup sifted enriched flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon melted shortening
- Sweetened berries or jam

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg, milk and melted shortening. Mix well. Add to flour mixture. Mix smooth. Using 2 tablespoons of batter for each cake, bake on hot griddle or skillet. Spread each cake with butter, then with berries or jam.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For a different egg salad, add a few capers to the chopped egg and a few herbs to the dressing used for moistening the mixture.

Leftover weiners can be chopped or ground with pickle relish to be used as sandwich filling. Add a bit of mayonnaise or sandwich spread, if desired.

When you can't slice cooked tongue any longer, cut off the meaty pieces and mix with chopped hard-cooked egg and boiled dressing for a very good sandwich filler.

FOXHOLE DREAMS COME TRUE

Marine Club Serves Living While Honoring War Dead

WNU Features

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Many a foxhole dream comes true as marines and former marines gather in the congenial and swank atmosphere of the Marine Memorial club, which was established here a year ago as the only living memorial to the gallantry of all marines.

The lush surroundings of the Memorial club, located in a former swank hotel at Sutter and Mason streets in the heart of downtown San Francisco, are a far cry from the 5th and deprivations of foxhole living, which was the lot of so many marines.

But it was the unappetizing PX rations, the warm beer and the generally stale candy bars munched in foxholes which are responsible for the Marine Memorial club. Profit accruing from these sales went to the post exchange fund, but in reality belongs to the marines who spent it. Usually such money is used to buy recreational equipment that Uncle Sam doesn't furnish. This time, however, marine headquarters in Washington felt that the money should be used in a way that would honor marines who died in combat by serving those who fought and lived.

The solution is the Marine Memorial club, where all members meet on an equal footing; where name, rank and serial number pull no weight; where the famed "esprit de corps" of the service enters into civilian living.

San Francisco was selected as the location for the club because so many marines passed through the Golden Gate on their way to the Pacific, felt at home here and wanted to return.

The man behind this club is the man who was behind the 21st regiment of the 3rd division in the battle for Hellzapoppin bridge on Bougainville Island—Brig. Gen. Evan Orchard Ames (retired). The club is his baby. A fighting man himself, he has helped to make many a foxhole dream a reality by creating a club where marines can take it easy, have the shave and steam bath they once longed for, in an exclusive town club atmosphere.

For the men and women of the corps who did return, the club is unique in its exclusiveness, for only marines and civilian marines may belong. Their families, wives, parents (including Gold Star parents) and children over 21 are eligible for guest memberships. Old friends in other services once attached to a marine unit may have an associate membership. Marine identification serves as both dues and initiation fee.

In the Skytop room prodding the clouds, in the swimming pool 12 stories below and on all the floors in between, marines and former marines can relax and enjoy club life. All the facilities of a first-rate hotel are available for a very low tariff.

For travelers, there's a choice of 250 rooms fully equipped with all hotel facilities; for those who just want to relax after a hard day at the office or exercise before breakfast, there is the tiled swimming pool with water blue as the Mediterranean and not nearly as cold.

Three dining rooms, three cocktail lounges, a steam room, barber shop, library and writing room, and a ballroom provide all the facilities of a swank hotel. But, although it's a million dollar layout, a man can spend a little instead of a lot. The club is operated on the policy of many spending a little rather than a few spending a lot.

Dog Completes School With Perfect Record

McKEESPORT, PA.—Although aged and nearly blind, Spotty, a woolly black and white dog, left an almost unmatchable record behind when he was graduated from grammar school into retirement.

Providing a climax for the graduation exercises, Principal H. E. Remaley called Spotty to the stage after diplomas had been presented to all the pupils. Gingerly, the dog trotted up the steps to receive a real diploma and a certificate of perfect attendance.

The dog trailed to school behind members of the Stanko family for 10 years. First he followed John, then Roselle and finally young Robert Stanko, who was graduated just a few minutes ahead of his master.

Country Doctor Remains Active At Age of 90

BURLINGAME, KAN.—One of the last of Kansas' horse-and-buggy doctors, 90-year-old Dr. F. E. Schenck holds modern medical techniques and the latest drugs but sadly recalls "the good old days."

When the venerable old doctor was in his early years of practice here, his use of horses often spared him some physical strain in an almost 24-hour daily schedule. His team, he recalls, could be trusted to take him home without guidance.

"That's one advantage we had over the present-day doctors," he maintains. "The team would just head for home and I could sleep during the ride."

Despite the weather, the hour or his advanced age, Dr. Schenck still will answer a call from any of the townsfolk. He has reduced his practice considerably and should cut it down more, but he says it's just habit for him to minister to the medical needs of the people of Burlingame.

The habit is so firmly entrenched, in fact, that Dr. Schenck has become an institution in this small Kansas town.

Some of the people he has brought into the world are babies nursing in their mother's arms. Others are more than 60 years old. Dr. Schenck doesn't have any idea how many births he's assisted.

"I do know," he says, "that I have brought the third generation of some families around here into the world."

A large man with good posture and firm voice, Dr. Schenck is partly bald but has a thick gray mustache. He keeps well posted on all new developments in the medical profession, his medical library being considered one of the largest in the country.

Advancements in medical techniques and development of new drugs will be responsible for an ever-increasing rise in the nation's health standards, he believes.

Evicted Takes House Along

HAGERSTOWN, MD.—When Jesse Young, a carpenter, received an eviction notice, he was not downcast. Instead, he went down to his basement and built himself a new house out of army surplus trunk crates.

In two months the story and a half dwelling was completed. Modeled after an English cottage, the house has two rooms and a bath downstairs with enough space to make rooms upstairs.

When moving day came, Young and a son, Frank, who is a mechanic, loaded the floors, walls and other parts of the new house onto a truck. It took two hours to put the house together, six more hours to apply the finishing touches.

Capitan Methodist Church

Rev. F. J. Johnston, Pastor.

The Bible in recording the life of Moses says "When he came to years that is, maturity, he chose." It is a good thing that he did come to responsible years. Some people never do. If Moses hadn't come to years the Israelites would have missed a great liberator and the world a great law-giver. Of Jesus' development the record says that "he increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and Man." Should not this be a standard for every life?

Now we come to a Sunday School lesson, international series, on Grown-Up Christians To my way of thinking such a topic is over due. Would it be too much to say that in the church there are a lot of Christians who have never grown up? In calendar years they are past their majority but in spiritual attainments and attitudes they are seven year-olds. Such members are no asset to any church. Their influence as Christians is practically nil and as a working force they are N.G.

Paul said of his own development "When I became a man I put away childish things." I pray for myself and for all who may read these lines that we may do likewise and become magnanimous adult Christians.

Sermon Topic: "Thank God A Spirit Can Grow." Everybody cordially welcome.
