Capitan News

(By Mrs. Theophile Laramie)

This item of Church news of the Nazarene Church of Capitan was submitted to this reporter, by Mrs. M. Rex Roby. The Men's Quartette of the Church of the Nazarene, sang at the High School Assembly Wednesday morning. The Evangelist, Rev. Roy Higgins, who is conducting services each evening this week at the Church of the Nazarene, spoke briefly on "What is Your Life?" James 4:14. Quite a number of other churches, including their pastors, have been attending these evening services, where Rev. Higgins has been so very effectively explaining the plan of Salvation. Next Sunday is "Mom and Dad Day". There will be three gifts for them— one to the parents having the oldest son or daughter present, one to those having the youngest present, and one to the couple having the most children present. If you do not get to attend next Sunday, come the following Sunday. There are always good surprises in store for those who attend church on the Sabbath.

A fine new heating system will be installed shortly. Some minor repairs are being made all along, both to the Church and parsonage. The Missionary Society just finished a quilt for the guest room. Curtains have been made and a bedspread purchased. One quilt has been made for a retired Missionary home in California. Soon the Society will be working to give Christmas Cheer to needy homes in Capitan. If the reader knows of such who are likely to be overlooked, please get in touch with Mrs. Collins soon.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Collins are welcomed back to Capitan and to the Church by a host of friends, both young and old. May God Bless their Ministry among us.

The "Chuck and Chat Club" held their regular monthly meeting at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Latham. A delicious covered dish dinner was served buffet style to the guests who were seated at quartette tables. Following the dinner an array of lovely kitchen gifts were presented to the hostess. Yesterday morning at 9:00 o'clock last Territorial Governor, George W. Curry, died at the Veterans Hospital in Albuquerque, where he had gone three weeks ago for a minor operation and some special treatment.

News of his death came as a great shock to his Lincoln County friends where he has made his home for some time, as custodian of the Lincoln County branch of the Museum of New Mexico.

George Curry was a prominent and colorful figure of New Mexico and had been since early years. In spite of his 86 years he was active, enjoying a wide acquaintanceship throughout the state.

He spent his early youth in Colfax county, coming to Lincoln county about 1882.

He was an army Captain in the Spanish American war. Became Territorial Governor of New Mexico in 1907. Gov. Curry was responsible in a large degree for winning New Mexico's statehood. Having been a Rough Rider under President Theodore Roosevelt and as a personal friend of the President he was very influential in hastening the inevitable statehood.

A. H. Harvey

Mr. Albert Halleck Harvey, well known, prominent citizen of Lincoln county for 45 years, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith in Tinnie, November 10th, 1947.

He held many responsible positions in the county and in later years was elected county surveyor on both the democratic and republican tickets many times, until eventually he refused to accept the office.

He and his wife operated a service station here for a number of years. After the passed away he continued with the service station until 1945, when he sold out and moved to Tinnie where he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, who were most kind to him and did everything to make his life smooth and pleasant, until his death.

He was quiet, unassuming and thoughtful. His fondness for music and the delight he derived from his books were his chief source of enjoyment during the last years of his life. Mr. Harvey was a life long Mason and had lived a useful, upright life; he will be missed very much by his friends. He had no relatives and no survivors except his friends and they were legion.

Funeral services were held at Trinity Methodist Church in Carrizozo, Saturday November 22 at 3 p. m. Rev. Howard Pitts conducted the service and paid tribute to his fine life and lofty ideals. Rev. The FICTION Corner GHOST ON BROADWAY By ROBERT McLAIR

IN THINKING of it afterward, Nettie Brainard could never get rid of the feeling that the light actually did change. In her empty tea room, the telephone on the cashier's desk rang. Although it was nearly noon, all of Broadway near Union Square seemed to dim to a queer, eerie twilight.

"Is this Miss Nettie Brainard?" a man's voice inquired. "Yes," Nettie said into the instrument. "Are you the daughter of Benjamin Brainard, deceased, and Nettie Sharp?"

"Yes, Yes, I am." "Is your mother there?" "She's busy in the kitchen just now. She'll be busy for half an hour. Who is this, please?"

"This is Thomas Sharp. Your Uncle Tom." Nettie gasped. "Uncle Tom! But—but you are dead!"

"The man's laugh had a hollow sound. 'Not quite,' he said. 'But five years ago, up home in Maine, we got a registered package.' Nettie insisted, her voice shaking slightly.

"Well," said Nettie swallowing. "Now don't say anything to your mother. I want to speak to you alone. I'll be right over."

He hung up. The light seemed to flood back into the deserted tea room. Heavens above! Nettie said aloud. "Uncle Tom! Alive! Alive, after all! What ever shall I say to him? Why does he want to talk to me alone? Why, it's like having a visit from—a ghost!"

Across the street, her mortal enemies, the two quick lunch places, with their neon signs and their bargains in coffee and doughnuts, now became friends for once. They assured her that she was not in some timeless world of the spirit.

ter, Nettie, at a time when her fiance, Benjamin Brainard, was out of town on business. Nettie Sharp, then a girl of seventeen, had found Jerry Angus, the irresponsible wastrel, more enchanting than her businesslike and absent fiance. Her parents ended that romance, but not before Jerry Angus and Nettie Sharp pledged eternal devotion in a secret meeting arranged by the black sheep Tom Sharp. It was a heartbreaking farewell.

He laid a brown envelope in Nettie's palm. His hand, she noticed, had on its back a large strawberry birthmark.

Tom Sharp became an occasional rambling letter from some unknown Eastern place. Then, from Harbin, his passport and his legacy had come to his sister.

Now Tom Sharp was alive again and hurrying to see his sister's daughter.

Just then the front door opened. In stepped a bouncy, stocky, gray-haired man. "Well, Nettie," he said heartily, "come sit by your Uncle Tom. Yes, you've got your mother's bright brown eyes."

He led her to one of the yellow tables. "Yes, yes, my dear. No one likes to be visited by a ghost!" He roared with laughter. "It was poor Jerry Angus who played that joke on me. Left me with no passport and no money. The crazy fool!"

"But I mustn't waste time like this. I found you by phoning the doctor in the old home town. The same name, but the son of the one I used to know. That's how time flies! . . .

He told me about the operation your mother needs, which requires money. He told me more, Nettie. Something about himself. But that was confidential." Nettie's heart stopped beating. Was it some other girl? "What did he tell you?" she cried. "Never mind. But, look, Nettie. This cash came from smuggling arms in a good cause. Let it do some good!"

He laid a brown envelope in Nettie's palm. His hand, she noticed, was weathered, and had on its back a large strawberry birthmark. "But, Uncle Tom!" she protested. "Now, now!" He got up. "Of course you wouldn't take ten thousand dollars from just anybody.

You've too much pride for that, I hope. But blood's thicker than water, child. Besides, if you and your mother must have a tea room, this will let you have one back home. . . . Take the advice of a wanderer, Nettie. Marry. Settle down. Don't miss love when it comes by."

He kissed her roughly on the mouth. Then he was gone, leaving Nettie feeling that this visit, from one mourned as dead, simply could never have happened.

The kitchen door opened. Nettie's mother came in. "How can I begin to tell her?" Nettie thought. "I couldn't hear what that man was saying." Her mother was talking. "But his voice seemed to be one I had heard as a girl. I kept expecting you to call me, Nettie. I wondered if I would know anyone I hadn't seen for so long. Like your Uncle Tom; well, I suppose I would know him."

She sat down and picked up a fork. "As for Jerry Angus," she went on, "the boy who wanted to marry me, years ago, I would know him anywhere. He had a strawberry birthmark on the back of his left hand." She cut off a bit of lettuce. "Why are you suddenly looking so happy, Nettie? Do stop mooning, dear, and bring your mother her tea."

WATCH WHAT YOUR FACE SAYS. Probably it isn't right, but it certainly is human nature to pass judgment upon every stranger within a few seconds after you are introduced. Later you often-times have to reverse your judgment. That doesn't keep you from going ahead and judging everyone you meet.

Some of the men or women you meet win your heart immediately, even before they say a word. This they do by the expression on their faces. Others win you only after days or hours or weeks of association, which causes you to overlook their dad-gum expression and recognize their worth.

The faces, we like, the faces of personality, are beautifully described by Rosamond Lehmann in her novel, "The Weather in the Streets." One of Miss Lehmann's characters says to a friend: "I like what—what breaks out behind the features and is suddenly there and gone again. I like a face to warm up and expand, and collapse and be different every night and from every angle . . . and not be above looking ugly or comic sometimes."

DECEMBER 31 DEADLINE FOR REINSTATEMENT OF NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE

December 31, 1947 is the deadline date for reinstatement of National Service Life Insurance without a physical examination. Carl F. Krumm, Regional Insurance Officer of the Veterans Administration announced recently.

In explaining the advantages of converting the term policies to some permanent plan, Mr. Krumm pointed out that term insurance can be considered in the light of fire insurance, which pays off when a fire occurs. Similarly, term insurance pays benefits only in the event of the death of the insured, with the exception of those policies to which some disability income rider is attached. For this reason, the government could give extremely low rates during the periods of hostilities, when the danger was the greatest.

Six plans of permanent insurance are now available to National Service Life Insurance policy holders: Ordinary Life; 20-Payment Life; 30-Payment Life; 20-Year Endowment; Endowment at the age of 60; and Endowment at the age of 65.

The assumption by many people that service insurance can be converted to a civilian insurance policy is incorrect. National Service Life term insurance can only be converted to a permanent plan of National Service Life Insurance.

To reinstate or convert their insurance, veterans should go to their nearest Veterans Administration Contact Office or write the Regional Insurance Officer of the Veterans Administration in Albuquerque.

A Comparison of U.S. and Russian Farm Efficiency

The American mastery of modern farming techniques gives us a big edge in strength over any potential aggressor, according to Dr. Herrell DeGraft, outstanding Cornell University agricultural economist.

This is because farm productivity is an accurate measure of a country's industrial strength as well as the health of its population, he said.

Writing in Steelways Magazine, Dr. DeGraft said, "Russia, for instance, has yet to win the war of steel plows and the efficiency which they symbolize."

Comparing the agricultural systems of the two countries, he said, "America's basic advantage makes Russia look like a 14-year-old boy pitted against a brawny blacksmith in a weight lifting contest."

"We have to go back to shortly before the Civil War," he added, "to find when the American farmer's productivity was as low as the Russians' in 1938. American agriculture in prewar years turned out six times as much as each worker on the land in Russia."

The use of power figures was necessary, Dr. DeGraft explained, for the reason that the Soviets do not give out statistics now. He also said that "even if we had the information, it would hardly be safe to draw a comparison since Russia's agricultural production was far more disrupted by the war than ours was."

Although Russia is the largest nation in the world, containing one-sixth of the world's land area, and with a population one-third greater than that of the United States, agriculturally speaking, Dr. DeGraft pointed out, this nation's output of farm produce in the years for which we have a comparison exceeded Russia's by 60 per cent. Both countries had approximately the same harvested crop acreage, prewar.

"Except in a few operations, Russia's claim to have the most mechanized agriculture in the world is a gross exaggeration," Dr. DeGraft stated. "The bulk of Russian farm work is done by hand while the American farmer, using machinery made mostly of steel, supplied by an aggressive American industry, never ceased to expand the effectiveness of his work."

Dr. DeGraft quoted figures to show that the Russian farmer worked 63 hours before the war to grow one acre of corn, while in this country American farmers worked only 16 hours and obtained double the yield.

Russians, according to the article, required 330 hours to raise and harvest an acre of cotton. American producers do the same in 91 hours. While the farmer in this country labored 9 hours to raise and harvest an acre of wheat, the Russian farmer took 47 hours and even then got less wheat. Sugar beets, potatoes, milk and poultry production all followed the same pattern.

"The great vitality and productivity of American agriculture has been the basis of the rising strength of the nation and the rising standard of living," Dr. DeGraft said. "We now see only one-sixth of the nation's productive effort to provide for this country and still ship 10 per cent of our farm produce overseas."

Production levels in the United States are ever increasing, Dr. DeGraft explained, because individuals have had freedom to work and enjoy the fruits of their labor. Under that system we have built an economic system that has stimulated production, individually and in the mass.

"The steel industry and other allied industries, making possible such machines of increasing efficiency, constantly reduce still further the manpower needed to produce food and thus release more men to devise and produce more ways to build higher the level of our civilization."

"Whatever else may be behind the Iron Curtain, we know it hides great weaknesses. Our strength is in plain sight. The steel coming from the mills, the machines from our factories and the production from our farms make it possible to get from each according to his ability in increasing measure, the stuff of life."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Ed Carey is Sky-High!

Ed Carey got his pilot's license Saturday—the first farmer in our town to fly his own plane.

But as Ed says, getting his license doesn't put him on his own. His plane is subject to a periodic inspection, just as Ed himself is subject to strict flying regulations. And if either plane or pilot violates the rules they're simply "grounded" immediately.

He was talking about it to Andy Botkin, who owns and runs the Garden Tavern. And as Andy says, it's the same with folks who sell beer. Getting a license doesn't put them on their own. The Brewers check to see that they and their taverns are a credit to the industry and the community.

So far I haven't heard of many tavern keepers being "grounded." And from where I sit, it's because of that program of "Self Regulation" by which the licensed tavern keeper, just like the licensed pilot, becomes part of a program of healthy control.

HUGE FIREWORKS DISPLAY FOR SUN CARNIVAL

A sensational display of fireworks will be uncorked from the slopes of Mount Franklin at El Paso, Texas, on the night of Dec. 30 as part of the street carnival program in the annual Southwestern Sun Carnival from Dec. 27 to January 1.

Carnival officials said the display would be visible from Fabens to Las Cruces and deep into the State of Chihuahua, Mexico.

The display will include over 500 brilliantly lighted sky explosions and has been specially designed by the fireworks firm for firing from Mount Franklin to fill the skies over El Paso and Juarez with a long succession of colorful, cascading sprays.

The explosive show will open with discharge of a gigantic shell 1000 feet in the air and formation of a 70-foot high Niagara Falls of silver-tinted fire.

A serpentine alligator shell will send hundreds of "sky serpents" darting back and forth. Over 50,000 stars will burst from another shell to form a vivid curtain of fire. Another shell will break over 100 feet in the air to give a realistic portrayal of lightning. A 15-inch shell will form a giant yellow poppy.

Other feature displays will simulate Niagara Falls, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Battle of Verdun, the Star of Bethlehem, and the flying fishes.

EL PASO TO HAVE GIANT BALLOON PARADE DEC. 10

A giant balloon parade, like those which feature the Christmas season in metropolitan cities, will pass through downtown El Paso, Texas, on December 10, J. M. Rejor Jr., chairman of the retail division El Paso Chamber of Commerce, announced.

No such parade has ever before been held in the southwest, but people of this area are familiar with the famed balloon marches in news reels of similar events in New York and Chicago, and other cities.

The El Paso parade will include scores of giant balloons, the most sensational of which will be the balloon tram which is 450 feet long, 15 feet high and 120 feet wide.

According to experts who have seen these parades, when Santa Claus rides on the cowcatcher of this tram, he cannot see its end. Besides the train there will be balloon dragons, elephants, horses, clowns, policemen, other characters and several bands of the Texas College of Mines.

It will get under way in the downtown area at 3 p. m. Wednesday, December 10. Thousands of persons are expected to see the giant balloons as they pass by.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO FARM LIFE?
Another of novelist-farmer Louis Bromfield's thought-provoking series on the future of small-town and rural America. Turn now to the Feature Pages

He's Looking into Your Future

The scientist in the agricultural laboratory is as truly a pioneer as our grandfathers who fought their way westward to the rich farmlands and the broad ranges of the west. He's looking into your future... seeing greater things! His findings, put to use by practical livestock men and farmers, are resulting in thrifter, faster-gaining cattle and lambs, grazing the Great Plains... higher yielding crops enriching the Corn Belt... new immunity from disease for your livestock. He is pioneering a better and more abundant life for you through new markets for your output, improved products for you to sell.

Miracles like hybrid corn seldom happen by chance. Into its development went more than 30 years of patient research. It cost federal and state governments about ten million dollars. Experiments on individual farms cost unknown amounts. But last year alone hybrid corn added more than $750,000,000 to farm income. Thanks to research, we now have such chemicals as DDT. Chemists searching for an insecticide to protect our armed forces from malarial mosquitoes found this potent bug killer. Already, DDT has made livestock producers many extra millions through increased production of meat and milk from fly-free herds. One ranch reports an extra ton of beef for every pound of DDT used. What a return on a half-dollar investment!

There are similar thrilling stories being written in every phase of agriculture. Many of the new developments come from colleges and experiment stations (largely financed by taxes paid by individuals and business) or from laboratories supported by private industry. From them you get improved varieties of crops, better control of pests, parasites and diseases, and many another aid to production. The man who keeps abreast of scientific progress and applies it on his farm or ranch usually profits most. Your county agent, vocational agricultural teachers and farm and ranch publications are your helpers to keep you abreast of latest research information.

From the Editor's Notebook
Since the days of the Pilgrim fathers, Thanksgiving has been a heart-warming day for American families. This year we, more than any other nation, have cause to be thankful for an abundant harvest. In helping to feed America, we are thankful that we can add our efforts to those of the hard working farm and ranch families who produce our food.

If you plan to visit the International Livestock Show in Chicago, November 29 to December 6, plan also to visit us at Swift & Company. Compend guides will gladly show you along the Visitor's Route through our plant. All of us in the Agricultural Research Department cordially invite you to drop in for a chat. We'll be looking for you!

Producers who attend the International Livestock Show, particularly those who come in from distant points, will quickly realize why the livestock-meat industry needs nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company. Two-thirds of the nation's livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River, but two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi. This means that, on the average, there is a gap of more than 1,000 miles between major producing areas and major consuming centers. There has to be somebody to bring the producer and the consumer together. Helping to bridge that gap between the western range and the kitchen range efficiently and economically is one of the chief services performed by Swift.

Size of Business
by J. L. Tennant
Rhode Island State College

A farm business should be large enough to pay operating costs, interest on the investment, and family living expenses.

J. L. Tennant A southern New England dairy farm, for example, should have at least 18 cows per man; a poultry farm, 1,500 layers; a market-garden farm, 10 acres; a potato farm, 40 acres; and an apple farm, 20 acres.

Doing more business with the same capital investment is one way to lower costs and higher profits. With the larger business, the operator can spend more of his time at productive work. For example, workers on a dairy farm with 9 to 10 cows per man will be just as busy as on a farm with 15 to 18 cows per man. The gross sales and net income on the larger operation will be much higher because more of the time is used in producing milk. Reducing costs per unit puts the farm operator in a stronger competitive position.

If more crop land cannot be bought, perhaps it can be rented. Another plan is to check means by which crop production on present acreage can be increased. Ways to do this include: the use of lime and fertilizer; winter cover crops; higher yielding varieties; double cropping; drainage and terracing.

Another step toward efficiency is to install modern equipment which enables one person to produce more per hour. Overhead costs per unit of product can be lowered when each machine is used profitably for as many hours as possible.

Track Down the Facts
Old Ringtail, the raccoon, holes up in hollow trees. He's hard to track down without trained 'coon dogs... similarly, there are some hard-to-locate facts about any business. But no one needs any special "fact hunting" ability to get all the facts about what determines livestock prices.

A recent top price for beef steers on a midwest market was $36, with an average of near $30; best lambs, $23.50, average $23, and hogs were selling up to $30, with a $27 average. These prices for livestock are unusual but, in general, they are due to the demand for meats being greater than the supply. They reflect what the consumer is willing and able to pay for meats. All farmers and ranchers should remember these basic facts, whether prices are high or low. The price producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the packer can get for the meat and the by-products.

Martha Logan's Recipe for TURKEY A LA KING (With 6 Servings)

The present Bureau of Immigration has been in office only a short time, but notwithstanding this fact the results of its work are already being felt, credit for which is especially due to H. B. The Thanksgiving ball given at the school house last night, under the auspices of the local Rebekah lodge, was a success—socially, financially and numerically. Large crowds came from Carrizozo, Nogal, Bonito, Fort Stanton and surrounding country. It was a gay throng of merry maskers, the costumes and makeups representing the unique, comical, grotesque, ludicrous, and sublime. A palatable and substantial lunch was partaken of at midnight, after which dancing was resumed, and continued until early mass this morning.

The free-for-all race, scheduled for Carrizozo on Christmas day, we are informed, has been called off. Roosevelt prosperity has evidently struck that burg.

Despite the panic and the absence of the coin of the realm, the folk of Capitan had lots of things on their tables yesterday for which to return thanks. It is said that full stomachs make happy people, and this may account, partially, for the large crowd at the ball last night.

Named to Head
March of Dimes

Pearce C. Rodey

Pearce C. Rodey of Albuquerque, veteran New Mexico attorney and nationally known legal figure, has been appointed New Mexico state chairman of the 1948 March of Dimes campaign.

His appointment was announced today by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in disclosing plans for the 1948 drive, scheduled for Jan. 15-30.

Mr. O'Connor said that the 1948 March of Dimes would mark the tenth anniversary of the National Foundation, established by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to "lead, direct and unify" the fight against infantile paralysis. The National Foundation is supported solely by the March of Dimes each January.

Mr. Rodey has been active for more than 30 years in civic and professional life. He was born Nov. 8, 1889, and received his A.B. and law degrees from Harvard University. In 1915 he began his professional career with the firm of Rodey and Rodey, and in 1941 formed the firm of Rodey, Dickason & Sloan of Albuquerque.

He has served as counsel for Southwest regional conservation conferences, and in 1937 was a delegate to the Comparative Law Conference at The Hague, Holland. In 1933 he was Republican nominee for Congress. He is counsel and officer of numerous large corporations.

In announcing Mr. Rodey's appointment, Mr. O'Connor revealed that since 1943 infantile paralysis has stricken more than 72,000 Americans.

"Thousands," he warned, "continue to face a long fight for recovery. This summer, fortunately, we had a 'breathing spell' as polio incidence nationally did not approach the awful total of 1946.

"The cost of the 1946 epidemic alone will run to some $30,000,000, without taking into account the large sums necessary to care for those stricken this summer. We do not know what 1948 may bring, but we must be prepared."

Internal Revenue Is Eternal Problem

Income Tax Spectre Haunts Next Session of Congress

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON.—It is a cloudy fall day, and the last tattered brown leaves are fluttering nervously on otherwise-bare branches, wondering whether it is better to make the plunge now or wait for more favorable breezes.

About the same thing is going on in an old colonial mansion on Connecticut avenue where, beneath those high ceilings and once-aristocratic surroundings, Republican national committee typewriters are clicking, mimeographing machines are whirring and sweet telephone bells jangle out of tune.

Party leaders, like the uncertain leaves are wondering whether the twice-vetted tax bill, carefully re-photostated and furnished with what they hope in non-bounceable equipment, will bring in the votes this time.

Down the block and across the street in an office-building where the plaster on the walls is hardly dry, sit their opposites, members of the Democratic national committee, in their brand-new quarters. They are hopefully predicting that any "effort to make this tax reduction bill a low when the world is trembling on the edge of disaster, will boom-orang.

Baukhage

Democrats say that if a tax reduction bill should pass in veto and the veto overridden, what it does for the folks with over $5,000 income a year will be balanced off by what it doesn't do for the folks below that income bracket.

You remember the original bill, (H.R. 1) the first bill into the house kopper January 3, 1947. At that time Democrats labeled it the 16-34-38 bill, claimed it would save the man with two dependents and $2,500 a year income only 50 cents a week, while it would save the man with a $100,000 yearly income $228 a week.

But that tax reduction bill and a later one substantially the same were squashed by presidential veto and congress upheld the veto. But now the possibility of something new (and very attractive) has been added—A community property tax provision for every taxpayer.

Briefly this means that a husband and wife may divide their income into two equal parts, computing the tax on each of those parts, and multiplying by two. This naturally cuts the total amount of tax to be paid. Under present tax schedules, for example, the tax on two joint incomes of $50,000 each comes to less than the tax on a $100,000 net income because of the steeply-graduated surtax rates.

GOP Confident Of Bill's Passage

Thirteen states — Oregon, Washington, California, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Nebraska, Michigan and Pennsylvania — already have community property tax provisions. So has Hawaii. The provision, if inserted in a federal tax bill, would put citizens of the other 33 states on the same basis.

The money savings under the community property tax clause would not benefit those married couples whose combined net income is less than $5,000 because the rates don't change up to that point. That is why opponents say this community property tax proposal, too, is aimed at saving money for the bigger taxpayers and doesn't help out the little fellows (although the tax advisor to the ways and means committee tells me that neither would any benefits accrue under this provision to the married couple whose combined income is $5,127,000 a year).

But the Republicans feel sure that this proposal would carry a tax-reducing bill through. They claim many Democrats living in states contiguous to the community property tax states would support it.

Here's the way Democrats view the situation:

They know that the last tax bill might have been passed over the veto; some say it certainly could have been passed, had it included the community property tax provision. They are not flippant about the Republicans' ability to muster the necessary two-thirds vote this time to override a veto.

But Democrats nourish this hope: That if tax debate is insisted upon before the question of lower prices and European aid (including the long-range Marshall plan as well as emergency aid) is settled, the public will say Republicans are dodging with politics while Europe burns and will repudiate those Republicans at the polls.

Even if a tax bill should surmount the veto-hurdle, Democrats still hope it will boom-orang on the smaller argument, mentioned earlier, that it gives uncommonly little to the common man and is balm of gilead for the high brackets.

Republicans counter with the assertion that tax relief is a crying need. They feel Americans will not be too angry if their financial load is lightened at the expense of Europe, provided that emergency relief is voted and perhaps a Marshall plan accepted in principle but considerably shaved down as to the total actually authorized.

You may have read the report "Taxes and the Budget: a Program for Prosperity in a Free Economy," a document issued by the non-partisan, non-profit Committee for Economic Development. This group employs a large staff of experts who study governmental problems and report on them at frequent intervals.

There is much in this latest report to give aid and comfort to the tax-reduction school, but it also contains the warning that "it is not necessary or desirable to make final decisions about 1948 tax policies at this time. It will be necessary early next year. At that time, it will be possible to get a clearer picture of the expenditure outlook ahead and of the degree of inflationary pressure which then exists."

But the question of "inflationary pressure" and how to ease it is already a highly political one. Both parties realize that they have to grab the reins if they are going to get credit for guiding the country out of a boom-bust cycle.

Bi-Partisanship Apple Cart Tipped

When President Truman revealed the fact that he intended to use the emergency session of congress convening November 17, not merely to consider aid to Europe, but also to ponder a program for lowered prices, it "upset the apple cart," as one Republican said to me. An agreement had been reached to give priority to aid to Europe. Senator Taft, boss of the Republican policy committee, immediately made the reassuring statement that he felt the question of emergency aid and possible preliminary legislation on the Marshall plan could and would be satisfactorily taken care of by December 19. He didn't say what else, if anything, he had in mind for the boys on the hill to handle. But he did assure them they would be home well before the Christmas holidays.

Then came the Truman announcement that efforts to check inflation would be considered on a par with the aid-to-Europe plan. He said the two were closely interwoven because if the dollar continued to shrink, the purchases of supplies couldn't be stretched to meet the need.

After that Taft lost little time in tossing any implied bi-partisan program for the congressional session to the winds. If Truman was to include consideration of a domestic economy program, all bets were off. "All of the policies of the present administration," said Senator Taft, were so bad he couldn't "go along with them."

And so the bi-partisan apple cart was upset.

What is going to happen is decidedly hazy at this writing.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

Curbs Off, Prices May Go Up

Government controls on the favored American practice of installment buying went off November 1, and from now on the purchase of that radio or refrigerator is strictly a matter between you and the dealer unless congress decides to step in again at the special session.

One result of the removal of installment buying curbs is very likely to be an increase in the already badly swollen prices of consumer goods.

Under the law, now out of effect, a down payment of one-third of the purchase price was required of anyone buying on the installment

Big 4 Harmony Remote; Grain Men Ask Hearing

BIG FOUR:

Pessimism

With the imminence of the most vital international occurrence of recent months—the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in London on November 26—the mood surrounding the coming conference was predominantly one of pessimism.

That there was much justification for such pessimism, no one doubted. When the chief representatives of the U. S., Great Britain, France and Russia come together they will tackle the tough, deadlocked problems of writing peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Deputy foreign ministers, in London to disperse with preliminaries before Marshall, Molotov, Bevin and Bidault put their heads together, said the powers were as badly split as ever on major issues.

If the conference fails, as it is very likely to do, the U. S. will have to face the question of whether or not it wants to conclude a separate peace with that portion of Germany outside the Russian-occupied zone. Such a treaty, not involving the Soviets, probably would precipitate a final split between this nation and Russia.

Nevertheless, sentiment has been rising in the U. S. favoring such an action if the Soviets refuse to cooperate in straightening out the problems of Germany. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, advocated that course, as have other responsible officials.

The corollary to that proposition is that the U. S. then must follow through by keeping itself strong militarily and economically, proving to the rest of the world that it has embarked on a definite policy course and that that course is the right one.

INVITATION:

Grain Battle

Three of the nation's major grain exchanges, smarting under President Truman's accusation that their "speculation" is responsible for prevailing high prices of cereals, have carried the attack into the enemy camp by requesting a special congressional investigation by the joint committee on the economic report.

The request was made by the Chicago Board of Trade, Kansas City board of trade and the Minneapolis grain exchange in a letter to Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., O.) and Rep. Jesse P. Wolkott (Rep., Mich.), co-chairmen of the committee. Taft responded immediately with a promise of further hearings.

Countering Mr. Truman's repeated charges that gambling and speculation by grain exchanges have boosted food prices higher, the exchange officials contended that the real cause of the rise in grain prices is the administration's "extraordinary and ever increasing purchases of grain and flour exports." Administration "bungling and lack of planning" also were cited by the grain officials.

Wherever the truth may lie—and it probably is somewhere midway between the government and grain exchange viewpoints—it should be recognized that a force akin to a minor economic law is operating in this particular controversy:

Normal government reaction, whenever grain prices shoot above what is considered a safe level, is to lay the blame on the grain exchanges, charging them with manipulating prices through speculation. That has occurred often enough in U. S. history to bear out the theory. Grain dealers, of course, invariably blame the situation on over-exporting.

From that standpoint, at least, an investigation at this time should shed some new light on the long-standing controversy. It might even provide some real information on why prices are so high.

RED CZECHS:

Go Communist

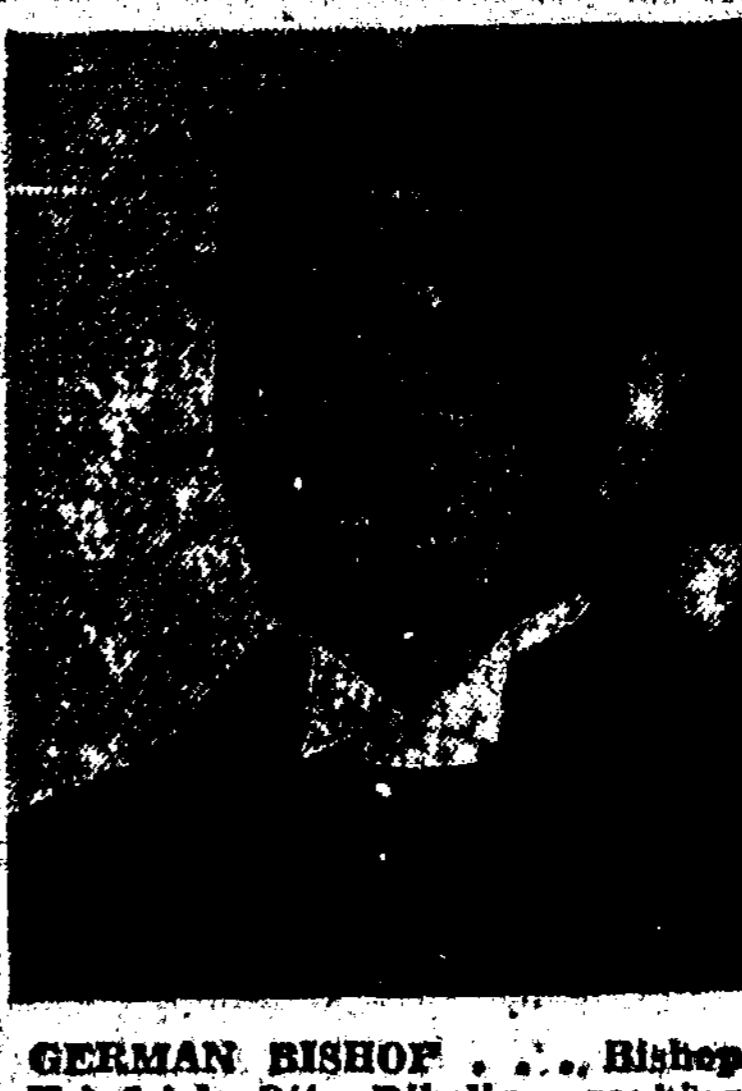

Add Czechoslovakia to the list of Communist-dominated nations in Eastern Europe.

A man named Klement Gottwald, Communist premier of Czechoslovakia, has emerged as a new strong man, possessing complete authority from the national cabinet to rebuild the government of semi-autonomous Slovakia.

Rebuilding the government of the semi-autonomous nation will mean simply that Gottwald and his Communists will change Czechoslovakia from a nation whose people had at least a part measure of self-government to a nation under totalitarian rule.

Although the Slovak Democrats, predominantly conservative, are the majority party in the country, the Communists were able to place Gottwald, a former blacksmith, in complete power.

Thus Czechoslovakia has shifted from a position as a Soviet satellite with some will of its own to a lower position as a Russian dominated state with literally no self-determination. It has become another unit in the string of Soviet buffer states to the south and west.

Thanksgiving Tips

As the days bring with them that cooler-than-fall feeling, as the frost gathers lightly on the pumpkin, we instinctively know it's time to talk of turkey and Thanksgiving.

If families gather at this season, as is the time-honored custom, you'll want a regal bird that's done to perfection, besides being golden brown and juicy. Around the bird, you'll want to assemble those foods that complement it best—snow-white onions with a bland cream sauce to mask their sharpness, crisp green brussels sprouts, savory with stock and bread crumbs, and sweet potatoes, of course!

To prepare the bird, follow these three steps to achieving the feast: Stuffing, trussing and roasting.

Prune Dressing.
(For 12-pound turkey)
3 cups cooked prunes
1 small grated onion
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 1/2 cups fried bread crumbs
1 cup prune juice
1/2 cup chopped pecans, if desired
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Salt and pepper

Wash and soak the prunes. Cook them in water in which they were soaked, until tender. Cool, remove pits and chop. Fry onion and celery in two tablespoons of fat until soft. Mix thoroughly with fried bread crumbs, prunes, prune juice, pecans and seasonings.

Season the neck and body cavity of the bird lightly. Fill neck with dressing and clobber the neck skin to the back. Bring wing tips onto back. Fill body cavity with dressing, but do not pack it tightly. Skewer or fasten opening to hold in the dressing. Tie leg ends down to the tail.

To roast the bird first grease the skin with melted or softened fat.

Place the bird on a rack, breast down, in a shallow pan which is open. If the bird does not have a generous layer of fat, cover with a fat-moistened cloth that is large enough to go over the top and sides.

Roast in preheated oven set at proper temperature.

An 8 to 10 pound bird is set in a 325 degree oven for 3 to 3 1/2 hours.

A turkey four pounds heavier requires the same temperature oven but is allowed four hours longer to cook. For birds larger than 14 pounds use a 250 degree oven and add 1/2 hour of cooking time for each four pounds. A 20-pound bird, for example, will take five to six hours to roast.

Do not add water or cover pan while roasting. If drippings burn, the oven is too hot. If the cloth covering the bird dries during cooking, remoisten from fat at bottom of pan. Turn bird breast up when about 3/4 done. Remove cloth if more browning is desired.

Test for doneness when meat feels soft. This is done by pressing the thickest part of the drumstick with fingers. The leg joint also should move readily when turkey is done.

Try These Tips for Cold Weather Cooking

Ever use gingerbread as bread? It makes the perfect bread for dried fruit sandwiches. Try cream cheese for the spread in place of butter if you want a special treat.

Those apple pies you can't resist will be more so if you roll some cheese into the crust. And don't forget to brush the tops of the crust with milk if you want that special golden brown color.

A VOICE FROM THE COUNTRY

Agricultural Revolution Dooms Old-Fashioned General Farm

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

Lately there has arisen in the mind of the writer doubts concerning two patterns of American life in which all of us have taken great pride in the past. These are unwelcome doubts but observation and study of the patterns in relation to the highly integrated industrialized world in which we live make them unavoidable. They are:

1. That the old-fashioned pioneer pattern of self-sufficient general farm is doomed.
2. That our present complicated, complex economic civilization cannot afford countless small enterprises save under very exceptional circumstances.

Both doubts are certain to arouse protest and even abuse; but both deserve the consideration of every thoughtful citizen.

The general farm, producing a little of everything, is an American pattern growing out of life upon isolated frontiers and no longer fits into a highly complex national economy. A few acres of corn or oats or wheat or hay cannot support a corn picker, a combine or a hay baler. Therefore the general farmer is at once at a great disadvantage, in competing with the corn farmer, the wheat farmer or the specialist grass farmer or the fruit farmer, all of whom are doing efficient jobs along specialist lines with the high degree of mechanization which any specialist enterprise can support.

Because the general farm cannot support a high degree of mechan-

"Because the general farm cannot support a high degree of mechanization, the general farmer must work long hours, do things in an old-fashioned, slow and inefficient way."

zation, the general farmer must work long hours, do things in an old-fashioned, slow and inefficient way. His gross income is almost certain to be only a fraction of that of the specialist in dairying, grass farming, corn and hogs, fruit, potatoes or any other undertaking where a man is doing one or two things efficiently and well, instead of 10 or 15 things inefficiently, slowly and painfully.

I know of one specialist farm of 150 acres, raising apples, raspberries and hybrid seed corn which last year grossed $33,000. It is highly mechanized. Alfalfa is grown not to feed cattle but to mulch orchards and raspberries. The labor schedule is balanced the year round with no peaks and no slack periods. All attention is focused upon the three specialties and high production yields per acre rather than gambling upon high prices to survive in the basis of all operations. The income is high and the hours short because the farmer is operating efficiently.

The same acreage, operating as a general farm with a few chickens, a few cows, a few hogs, a few acres of wheat, oats, corn or hay, could have produced a maximum gross income, even in these times of high prices, of only about $4,000 or $7,000, with a net of not more than $3,000.

The farmer would be at the mercy of a custom baler, corn picker, combine or hay baler, and would be forced to do things the hard, old-fashioned way and frequently suffer losses because the machinery was not available when his crops were ready. Bad weather or sudden decline in prices can ruin him or reduce him to subsistence level.

I suspect that in another generation the old-fashioned general farm will have become a curiosity except in poor agricultural areas where a few farms cling to the old ways. Anyone with an observant eye driving through agricultural country can see for himself the waning of the old pattern.

The well painted barns and houses, the new automobiles, the landscaped grounds around the farm house, the good fences — all of these one sees on dairy farms, fruit farms or potato farms. The farms that appear to be falling apart are almost always practicing agriculture in the old pioneer pattern. A good many of them are closing down each year or shifting over to specialization in order to improve income and living standards or even to survive.

It is all part of the vast agricultural revolution now in progress and it is the result of pressures from our highly integrated, mechanized industrialized civilization. The farm is no longer a frontier outpost in the defense against Indian attack when it was necessary to produce nearly everything that was consumed.

In most productive areas of the U. S. today, a farmer is an integral part of our social, mechanical, economic structure using electricity, gasoline, machinery, prepared feeds and other things which bind him into the whole structure so that he must integrate himself and his farm into the structure in order to survive.

The farmer of the future will not be a hunter-trapper-farmer, but a businessman, a scientist and a specialist. All of us will benefit by the change in terms of prices lowered through efficiency, in terms of health and in terms of taxes, which no longer will be needed to subsidize farms living by a pattern which has become obsolete and which, in the past, has cost us dearly in many ways.

The passing of the general farm does not mean the passing of the family-sized farm. It is not a question of the amount of land but of how it is used and what the farm plan is. A specialized farm of 100 acres operated under an efficient plan produces 5 to 10 times as much income with much less labor than the same acreage operated under the old system of "egg money" for the wife. Sentimentally, the pangs is sad but I'm afraid it is inevitable.

"The farmer of the future will not be a hunter-trapper-farmer, but a businessman, a scientist and a specialist."

Black Flags Spur Army Safety Plan

FORT LEWIS, WASH.—Designed to keep army personnel "accident conscious," a new safety program has been launched by Fort Lewis officials.

Separate unit headquarters are issued white flags, to be flown from the roofs of headquarters buildings. In case of an accident resulting in hospitalization or death of unit personnel, the white flag is taken down and replaced with a black flag.

Never Too Old

ALBANY, N. Y. — You can teach an old dog new tricks, insists State Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, chairman of a legislative group investigating problems of the aged. As proof, he offers evidence that one old-timer "over 65" listed himself as an "apprentice" on a questionnaire.

Lord's Acre Nets $30,000 for Needy

BYRON, N. Y. — Residents of this farming community harvested a $30,000 crop on Lord's Acre, with all proceeds destined to go for domestic and foreign relief.

An auction sale, offering merchandise collected through co-operative community effort as well as the output from fields in the adjacent territory, attracted 7,000 buyers to Lord's Acre, a pleasant plot of land just inside the village limits.

The auction climaxed a project commenced a year ago when residents of the village decided to do something to relieve worldwide suffering and to promote human understanding.

Three charitable institutions, National Catholic Welfare association, Protestant Restoration fund and United Jewish appeal, will share in the proceeds. Nine needy families in foreign countries will be aided.

Methodist Church

Rev. Howard S. Pitts, Pastor

Sunday night at 8:30, members of the Baptist church will be our guests at a Pot-Luck Supper at the church Youth Fellowship and Intermediate Fellowship members will attend in place of their own meetings. In place of Bible discussion, that group's study will be included in a brief devotional given by Mr. Clyde Shults at the supper close.

This is a day of gratitude. Last Sunday, the people of our church expressed themselves in a way that makes this pastor deeply grateful for their support. They asked the District Superintendent, Dr. I. L. Morgan of Albuquerque to request families. They are now making of Bishop Angie Smith of Oklahoma City that he reconsider the cabinets decision to transfer their minister. The request was granted, and, some how, we feel a little closer drawn together, and better prepared to do our Lord's work.

Yesterday, in the Community Thanksgiving Day Service, Baptist, Methodists, and others worshiped together in thanksgiving to God for His gifts of love. The combined choir sang "He Crowned the Year" and "Love Divine". Mr. V. M. Radford, Baptist Sunday School Superintendent, presided.

During the past weeks, the organizations of the church have been working to make Thanksgiving mean more. The Primary Class, directed by Mrs. Beanie Hodgins and Mrs. E. R. Wellington, took two baskets of food to deserving families. They are now making Christmas gifts for the hospital. The Intermediates, taught by Hope Snow, collected food for local distribution and money to feed hungry children overseas. They also enjoyed a Thanksgiving party. Their evening fellowship group, led by Mrs. J. E. Thornton, sent a Christmas box to a little girl overseas.

The Woman's Society of Christian service, under the leadership of Mrs. Clyde Brewster, who was assisted by the outgoing president Mrs. Clara Snow, the incoming president Mrs. L. Z. Manfre, and other members of the society, did a remarkable work in gathering clothing, part of which has already been given to ten families. They also collected food and money and prepared and distributed Thanksgiving baskets to six deserving families (three of which had five or more children). The Woman's Society was aided by members of the Youth Fellowship in the collection: Ann Baker, Betty Brewster, Veda Lou Branum, and Hope Snow.

It is also noteworthy that the Oscura Sunday School has given twenty-five dollars to be sent to the Methodist Children's Home in Waco, Texas. A like amount was given to the Baptist orphanage in Portales.

Sunday morning, Holy Communion will be served. The sermon: "Lead Us Not Into Temptation." The children's sermon: "Purity Is Dearer Than Life." The Choir will sing "My Prayer".

A thought for today: "Sorrow makes us bitter or better." It depends on whether we keep it or consecrate it to God.
